Homicide, robbery top crime here

Lubbock's 11th homicide was recorded this week when Curtis Robinson, 26, of 2405 Colgate St., Apt. A, was shot to death Saturday night.

Police early this week were still searching for a 41-year-old Lubbock man who has been charged in the shooting death of Robinson. The suspect, Jerry Dean Ingram, lives at 2808 Juniper Ave., No. 2, the residence where Robinson reportedly was shot shortly after 9 p.m. Saturday.

Robinson died in West Texas Hospital while undergoing surgery for a bullet wound to the spleen.

A witness told police that he, the victim and Ingram had been drinking beer at the suspect's house. He said he left to get more beer, and when he returned Robinson and Ingram were arguing.

The witness told police that he took a knife away from Ingram, but that the suspect got a .22-caliber rifle and shot Robinson.

Police said they recovered the rifle at a nearby residence of a man who witnessed the shooting.

IN OTHER police news this week, a gunman robbed a Lubbock pharmacy Monday evening of about $100 in cash and drugs, police said.

The armed robbery occurred at about 6 p.m. at the Twin Oaks Pharmacy, 3405 34th St.

The robber was armed with a pistol. Five persons were in the store, all employees. One woman fainted during the robbery.

Employees described the robber as a white male, between 25 and 35 years old. They said the man was about 6-foot-3 and weighed between 225 and 250 pounds.

The robber had long, black hair and was wearing a "loud" shirt, blue jeans and tennis shoes.

On Monday, a Lubbock woman said two men took turns raping her early in the morning on the floor of a garage apartment.

The 18-year-old waitress said she was driving home from a club about 2 a.m. Monday when the pair jumped into her car as she stopped at a stop sign on Avenue S.

The suspects were described as young white men, one with brown hair and the other with blond. She said one of the men was clad in a blue jean vest, jeans, blue and white shirt and brown boots, while the other was wearing a red and white shirt, jeans and tennis shoes.

Reports showed that one of the men forced his way behind the woman's steering wheel, then drove to the apartment in an alley near the downtown area.

The woman told police the driver pulled a gun and forced her into the apartment. She said each man raped her once while his companion held her on the floor. She said when the men left the room she ran out of the apartment and drove off.

Police learned of the incident when they stopped the woman on 39th Street for having expired license plates on her car. The waitress was treated at Health Sciences Center Hospital.

A 45-year-old Lubbock man told police Monday he and his wife were robbed of $260 late Sunday by a man with a pistol. Modesto Blanco of 3001 E. Broadway said a Mexican-American man and woman walked up to his car while it was parked in front of an East Broadway club, and that the man pulled a pistol and demanded money.

Your help can cut crime rate

By Jeff McCallin
Update Staff Writer

Lubbock has one of the leading crime rates in the state of Texas and residents are being asked to help law officers cut that rate down.

Several months ago the Lubbock County Crime Prevention Council was formed to help curb crime before it was committed.

Lubbock County Criminal District Attorney John T. Montford, one of the LCCPC's chief organizers, was elected to his post after promising citizens he would crack down on crime, impose stiffer penalties on those convicted of crimes and begin an all-out effort to stop crime before it starts.

AND HE IS living up to at least one of his campaign promises this week as Operation Identification gets under way to convince homeowners to mark their valuable items.

The purpose is twofold. First, if valuable items stolen in house burglaries were marked it would make it easier for police to identify the owner and get it returned to them as quickly as possible.

Second, if a valuable item is marked with the owner's driver's license number, that item can be used as evidence in court and result in speedier convictions for persons accused of taking valuable items from the household.

Operation Identification is a county-wide effort to make people aware of the importance in helping the DA's office and police department make it harder on the criminal to fence stolen property.

VOLUNTEERS, armed with electric marking devices, chemical pens, brochures and window and door stickers will be canvassing neighborhoods over the next several months to allow homeowners to participate in the program.

Volunteers will display ID cards from the DA's office but have been advised not to enter private residences. They have been instructed to demonstrate to homeowners how to use the marking devices and leave one electrical device and a chemical pen with the homeowner, along with an instruction sheet of what items to mark, where to mark them and an inventory card to keep a record of items marked.

Homeowners will not be charged to use the devices but must sign a receipt promising to pay the LCCPC $8.00 if they lose or damage the devices beyond repair.

THE VOLUNTEERS will return the next day to pick up the marking devices. They'll give homeowners stickers with the LCCPC logo on them to display in windows and doors of their homes.

The logos inform the would-be burglar that the valuable items in this house are marked with numbers readily identifiable by any law enforcement agency in the country.

The electric marking devices are designed to permanently engrave numbers on metal surfaces and should be used to mark such items as stereos, firearms, televisions, cars, typewriters and sewing machines.

The chemical pens uses an indelible substance to mark such items as clothing and jewelry.

ITEMS THAT ARE too small to accommodate the entire driver's license number should be engraved with the person's initials. Credit cards, stamp collections and other items which the owner feels may be defaced by marking should be serialized and recorded on the inventory sheet. These items also should be photographed.

The council also suggests that homeowners not mark their valuables in prominent places. They should be marked inconspicuously so law enforcement agencies can locate the marks but criminals can't obliterate them.

Items of clothing should be marked on the inside or liner of the garment with the chemical pen. On paintings, use the electric marking devices to mark the lower corner on the frame. Do not use the chemical pens on the canvas because the chemical might transfer through to the viewing side. Wash your hands after using the chemical pens.

HOMEOWNERS are warned not to use the markers for china, glass or crystal. Initials on these items can be etched in by the owner using a metal stylus pen, as long as the owner is willing to risk breakage.

You should consult your jeweler before marking watches and clocks since vibrations may damage the working mechanism.

The instruction sheet advises homeowners participating in Operation Identification to mark one room of the house at a time, then move to garages and tool sheds.

Persons wanting more information about Operation Identification or wish to serve as a volunteer in your neighborhood should call the LCCPC Crime Abatement Program phone number at the Sheriff's office (763-1133) or the DA's office (747-0111).

HAL HENSLEY, chief administrator for the DA's office, is coordinating the volunteer drive. He said volunteers will begin combing about 200 to 250 neighborhoods within the next couple of weeks.

However, he added it would take almost a year to complete the project because of the large coverage area.

Stock price forecast

(c) 1978 Frederick G. Gahagan

For this week's survey we interviewed 45 security analysts who specialize in railroads. They were with such important firms as the Chase Investor's Management, Thompson McKinnon, Bankers Trust, Citizen's Fidelity Bank & Trust, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Dreyfus Corporation and Bache. Each security analyst was asked how high and how low he thought each stock would go in the next six months.

Top five stocks

Security analysts forecast the largest rise in the price for Chicago and North Western Transportation, an average of 4 percent within the next six months. Soo Line Railroad Company was forecast to rise by 27 percent; Seaboard Coast Line Ind., by 19 percent; the Norfolk and Western Railroad by 17 percent, and Rio Grand Industries by 16 percent.

On the other hand, analysts were ambivalent about Rio Grand Industries, expecting it to drop by more than it would rise, 19 percent. Analysts thought the Norfolk and Western and Seaboard Coast Line Railroads would each drop by 14 percent, and the Soo Line by 11 percent. They also forecast a drop of 15 percent for Chicago and Northwestern Transportation. However, Chicago and Northwestern Transportation had the largest net rise in price, 26 percent, meaning that analysts thought it had the best chance for a net gain.

The Chicago and Northwestern Transportation line was liked by analysts because of its recent service tie with the Union Pacific. The Soo Line was expected to benefit from an increase in grain shipments. Seaboard Coast Lines were liked because of the possible merger with the Chessie System, Inc. Norfolk and Western was expected to have increasing revenues from coal areas. Some analysts also saw Rio Grand Industries as a possible merger candidate.

Next five stocks

Analysts expected Santa Fe Industries to rise by 15 percent and drop by 17 percent. They also expected to Chessie System to rise by 15 percent while dropping by 13 percent. Western Pacific Railroad was expected to drop by more than it would rise, 22 percent vs. 14 percent. Southern Railway and Missouri Pacific were both expected to rise by about as much as they would fall, a net gain of only 3 percent and 1

Bittersweet story

Here's a little tale filled with joy, despair and, as often happens in life, only a partly satisfactory ending. Things are positively yummy for 2 1/2-year-old Jennifer Cairns at the Lubbock Arts Festival as mother Paula introduces her to a scrumptious piece of ice cream covered with nuts and chocolate. All is still going swimmingly in second photo as Jennifer pauses to meditate on the deliciousness of it all. But then, alas, disaster strikes as Jennifer's dessert, like many fond hopes, falls with a sudden thwap. But weep not, Jennifer, daddy Steve is quick to the rescue — but, yuk, who'd want to eat it now? Oh, well, if this ending is not totally satisfying, it can only be hoped that Jennifer got another piece of dessert and lived happily ever after.

Voter 'apathy' is a bum rap

PERHAPS NO organization has expressed its concern over American voting participation more forcefully than has the Washington-based Committee for the Study of the American Electorate, a private policy group of vague political persuasion.

Advocating the position that decreasing participation by the electorate is merely symptomatic of a more widespread institutional decline, the committee argues:

"Attributing this decline to 'apathy' is not an acceptable explanation. Doubt, disgust and anger cannot be dismissed as 'ennui'. The election process is perhaps the tip of the iceberg in a story of institutional decline."

The remedies offered for this sad state of affairs vary from one advocate to the next.

THE POINT of departure for any analysis of American voting statistics is to distinguish between an "eligible" and a "potential" voter, a distinction the committee and others either refuse or neglect to make.

An eligible voter is an individual who has registered to vote in a given state and is alive and physically and legally able to vote on election day.

On the other hand, potential voters are all those persons, irrespective of status or citizenship, considered by the Census Bureau to be over 18 years of age in the states in question, i.e., the voting age population.

There is a built-in difficulty with using the potential voter figures. It stands to reason that some percentage of the potential voters would never register because they are either aliens, in-transit, incarcerated, in the military, or infirm due to age.

Political scientist Ronald Moe, a specialist in American national government for the Library of Congress, estimates that in California alone there are more than 1.1 million legal aliens over 18 years of age.

THE IMPORTANCE of this distinction is evident when the statement is made by the committee that in the 1976 election "despite registration drives, postcard registration, liberalization of requirements for voting, the percentage of eligible voters who went to the polls declined."

There is a wide variation among the states with regard to the percent of registered voters who actually turn out to vote, says Moe. Each state has a different method for "purging" its rolls. In Maine, for instance, there is no statewide system for registration or purging of the rolls.

Low voter turnout statistics are highly misleading and offer us an overly pessimistic interpretation of voter participation trends.

Americans take their citizenship responsibilities seriously. Statistics that spring from inaccuracy and misinterpretation constitute a bum rap case for the American electorate.

Husband and wife team alternate cooking, 'KP'

By Jeanne Lively
Update Staff Writer

Believing the adage that too many cooks in the kitchen at the same time can ruin a good meal, Carolyn and Don Cox of Lubbock alternate cooking, with the other automatically assigned to "KP".

The way the couple met is a miracle in itself, because Mrs. Cox is a native of Louisiana and Cox, a Missourian. But, when Mrs. Cox came to Barnes Hospital (St. Louis) for a dietetic internship, she met Cox (then an assistant director of food service), and despite the fact there was a difference in status — Cox was Carolyn's supervisor — the couple began to date. Obviously, each felt an affinity for the other and shared interests, among them a light-hearted approach to cooking in leisure time. They have been cooking "together" now for eight years.

The Coxes spent the first six years of married life in Illinois. Although happy and satisfied, they eventually began to think of finding new challenges elsewhere. Admittedly, also, Mrs. Cox especially liked the idea of a warmer climate, unlike "cold" Illinois.

In retrospect, Cox recalled, "I had three job interviews — all prestigious medical facilities — one in Lubbock, Baltimore and Chicago. After the first interview in Lubbock, I didn't even bother to interview at the others. So, I called Carolyn to pack."

The Coxes enthusiastically endorse Lubbock — everything. They especially like the new home they've established and the neighborhood.

"We love it here," Cox said. But, I think both Carolyn and I rate 'people' over other considerations. We have found everyone to be unusually friendly, something that is a 'lost art' in metropolitan areas.

"Interesting and fulfilling employment is important to us, also. My 'niche' is serving as director of food services at Methodist Hospital."

Mrs. Cox says she feels extremely lucky in finding her present position at St. Mary of the Plains Hospital. She said, "As a clinical dietitian (registered dietitian), I visit with patients in the hospital about dietary considerations, helping patients to understand the reasons for — as an example — their physician prescribing a dietary restriction. I also find satisfaction in instructing patients regarding how to continue following a special diet (again if prescribed by doctor), once they are released from the hospital."

Both Coxes emphasized, "We're not competitive hospital-wise, recognizing that many health professionals are needed to serve the large West Texas area."

The couple mentions that their cooking is limited primarily to weekends, due to busy schedules otherwise. They admit being partial to dishes featuring Carolyn's Cajun heritage. They warn, "Cajun cooks may build from similar ingredients, but after adding a little of this and a little of that, the results may be totally unique to that particular cook. Three favorite recipes follow:

SHRIMP STEW — MAMA'S WAY

Mother's Day at the Zoo

Baby pygmy hippo: "I was only 2 days old when this picture of Mom and me was taken. We like to stay in the water more than big hippos. We have to keep our skin wet or it cracks. Who wants rough, dry skin?"

SAN DIEGO, CALIF. — The San Diego Zoo is one of the best zoos in the country.

The people who run the zoo are very proud of the many babies born there each year.

It is instinct that causes most zoo mothers to look after their babies.

We really can't say animals love their babies like your mother loves you.

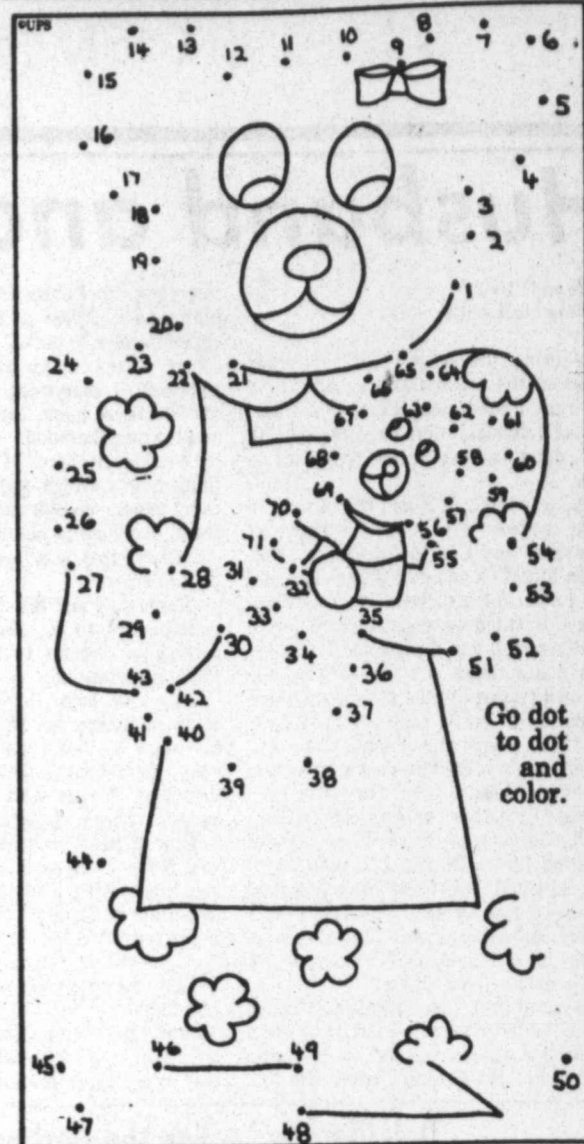

But we can certainly look at their pictures and imagine that they do.

Especially around Mother's Day. It's coming up on May 13.

To celebrate, we have some make-believe baby interviews.

Baby flamingo: "My mom just has a single baby at a time. Dad helped sit on my egg."

Baby giraffe: "My mom gives me a lick. She licked me all over when I was born. That's a lot of licking. I was 6 feet tall at birth. Mother giraffes have their babies standing up, so I dropped about 5 feet to the ground. I know that sounds like a tall tale, but it's true."

Baby gorilla: "My name is Binti. I am hanging on to my mom Dolly's back. Not all animals know or use instinct to take care of babies. My mom had to take lessons. She had one baby before me and didn't know what to do. Then the zoo people showed her movies of gorilla mothers and gave her a gorilla doll. A trainer praised her when she treated the doll well. She has been a model mother ever since I was born."

Baby Douc langur: "I have other females (or aunts) here in my monkey home who cuddle and groom me just as well as my mom. She doesn't mind at all. That's her in the picture."

Watch Mom and Me Up in a Tree on TV

"Isn't this a good Mother's Day picture of Mom and me? I cling to her front or hang onto her back. I will stay with her for about a year. We are sitting in an eucalyptus tree. This is the only place we live because it has the only food we eat."

SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA — "Aren't I just adorable? Don't you just love koalas, especially babies?"

"My name is 'Koobor.' That is the way some Australians would say 'koala boy.'"

"People flock to the zoo just to see me and my mom, 'Matilda,' and five other koalas. You see, we are the only koalas outside Australia."

"Since we live in treetops and sleep during the day, the camera is the best way to get a glimpse into my family life. The TV is closed-circuit. We are only 'on' if you stand right outside our home at the zoo."

"I was itty-bitsy when I was born. I was about the size of a walnut and weighed 1/4 of an ounce. I crawled right from my mother's womb into her pouch (the inside route). She has a pouch just like a mother kangaroo does."

"I nursed inside the pouch for six whole months and then out I popped, looking just like her."

"Don't you know my mom was proud."

Kentucky Derby is May 5

The first Saturday in May is always a big day for horse racing. It's Kentucky Derby Day.

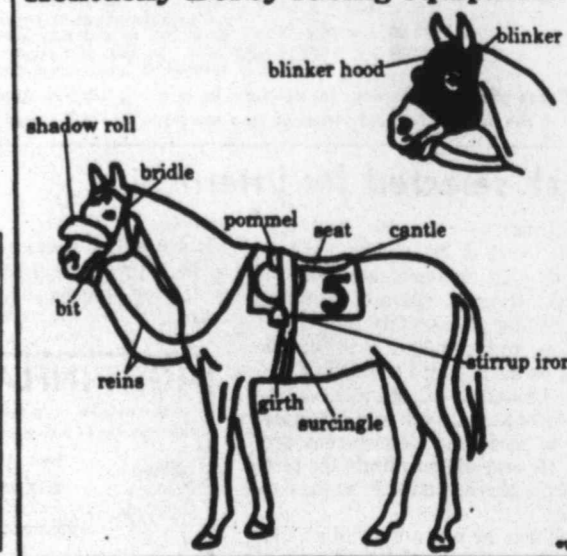

Churchill Downs racetrack in Louisville, Kentucky, is the home of the Derby. This race takes about two minutes.

Nobody really knows who will win a Derby. This year's favorite is Spectacular Bid. His rider will probably be another wiz kid like Steve Cauthen. This 18-year-old's name is Ronnie Franklin.

Spectacular Bid is a gray horse. Many people think it is good luck to bet on the gray.

Meet Joan Embery . . . the hostess for the San Diego Zoo

Did you know that a baby elephant's trunk hangs limp? He has to learn how to use it.

Joan knows animals well. When she was little, she collected as many as she could.

At one time, she wanted to become a veterinarian. While she was in college in San Diego, she had a job as a keeper at the Children's Zoo.

Joan gives a baby giraffe a bottle. His mom probably didn't give him enough milk. Mother giraffes sometimes don't look after their babies as well as they should.

She learned to train elephants, horses, cats, birds, wolves and apes. Then she appeared on several TV shows.

Joan was so good that the zoo decided to make her its hostess.

She gets to travel and to train animals. She also gets to mother and raise them.

Guess what she was keeping in her bathtub at home when The Mini Page talked with her?

A baby white pig!

The Meyers: lives less active, not less full

By Nancy Allen
Update Staff Writer

Dorice Meyers is a very frank woman. "This is a large room, and we are hard of hearing," she says, ushering in the reporter. "Now if you will just sit in this chair here..." She also is a self-avowed "organizer," and a talkative compliment to her somewhat retiring husband of 54 years, D'Alton. "Now I don't want to take command of this interview," she states, "but I do have an idea of what things we might talk about." Foremost on her mind, of course, is the book — entitled "None's Been Fun" — which she and her husband recently co-authored.

If a man named Tom Braden could write about the fun of having eight children, ("Eight is Enough") reasoned the Meyers, then they certainly could write a book about their long, full life together as nonparents. And that is exactly what they did. Though very much in love, the Meyers' decided at the onset of their marriage not to have any children. As with most things, they were in complete agreement: "D'Alton wanted me with or without children," recalls Dorice. Explaining further, she says, "I was teaching at Texas Women's University when we were married, and had received my master's degree. After all that work, I wanted to use my education!" (She also is a very emphatic woman).

Since all the mothers she knew at the time "were full-time mothers," Dorice could see only two choices — to be a mother or not to be a mother. She (and D'Alton) chose the latter, and later found fate was on their side. After anguishing many times over false pregnancy alarms, she was found to have been infertile all along. On a more reflective note, Dorice reveals her fear of bringing children into the Meyers family, where, as she observed through her nieces and nephews, "they are not loved." "Child-free," as they prefer to describe themselves, the Meyers' life together centered around travel, careers and education.

Both in person and in their book, the couple takes obvious pleasure in recalling the many joys their lifestyle afforded them. Free to sniff out the best opportunities, and follow their noses straight to them, the Meyers' have made their home in many cities throughout the United States and in Mexico, and have traveled the world around. Through it all they were guided by judgment and aided by what Dorice calls "our great good luck."

Prudence, for example, kept them from boarding a ship bound for Europe in 1939 — no time for a Grand Tour, — but it was luck which prevented them from sailing for Mexico December 6, 1944 — on a Japanese vessel. "It would have turned around and sailed straight for Japan the next day," says Dorice, "and we'd have been incarcerated for the duration of the war." As D'Alton's mother was wont to say

"those two always land on their feet." Born of such circumstances is their free-wheeling attitude, "it doesn't bother us at all to have plans and watch them go bust. We just make some more." Then more pensively — "if you think of it, the things you haven't been able to do in your life probably have been for the best."

D'Alton has been a small businessman, a college professor, a bureaucrat, a "gadfly," and now an author. Dorice has been a professor, teacher and public relations specialist at various times — and neither of them would change a minute of it.

Presently the couple has settled at John Knox Village of West Texas, their home of three years.

Their own paintings decorate the walls behind them as they reminisce about the life they lived and the book they wrote to tell the tale.

"No regrets, no pangs whatsoever" over having no children. "I'm just glad we never had any children to make responsible for us," Dorice says. "We wouldn't want to have to bother our family for favors." Though they originally had hoped to have the book ghost-written, "no ghosts appeared," and they took on the year-long project themselves.

Much to the Meyers' surprise, writing the book became fun, more fun than the fun we were writing about.

Dorice confided, "actually we fell madly in love all over again." Now well settled in the retirement village, and well pleased with themselves, their plans are more modest than they have been in past years. They enjoy reading and studying, watching public television and gathering material for magazine articles which they laughingly admit they have not gotten around to writing.

Dorice's 97-year-old mother lives in the same complex they do at John Knox Village, and they devote much of their time to keeping her company.

Perhaps less active, with no plans for further travel, but no less full, the Meyers' would probably say of their life in Lubbock.

Garden pest management: a matter of timing

By Tom Griess
Update Staff Writer

Greenhorn gardeners stick out like a sore thumb. They tend to their plants as either overwrought mothers or abandoning fathers when what the young gardens need most is caring but restrained parental supervision. Ask any green thumb, that most esteemed title for an experienced tiller of the soil. The veteran knows when to labor, when to watch and how to modestly explain his great success.

THE NOVICE anticipates the satisfaction of a plentiful crop, but unless he troubles himself to learn the finer points of the craft, the results may be lean. According to a U.S. Government Printing Office publication entitled "Pest Management Is a Matter of Timing" FRANK AND ERNEST ing," the prospective gardener must first decide he is serious.

The analogy of a garden to a baby pertains to more than young, fresh life. Human life created may stem from a whim, but the raising involves sacrifice and responsibility; so, too, with organic life.

Next the newcomer must admit his deficiencies and gather information from whatever sources available. The pamphlet suggests consulting federal and state agricultural department bulletins and also cooperative extension service offices.

Lubbock residents are blessed with a regional office of the Texas Department of Agriculture, the Texas A&M agriculture experiment station, the Texas Tech University college of agricultural sciences and the county agent.

ONCE THE garden is planted, the lubbock consumer update

"paperwork" is not finished, either. Keeping dated records of the varieties planted, the pest control measures used, their success or failure, and the weather conditions prevailing will help production in future years, according to the booklet.

Dr. Roland Roberts, an area vegetable specialist with the Texas Agriculture Experiment Station in Lubbock, says tomatoes are the most popular vegetable grown in Lubbock area gardens.

This being the case, new gardeners may be interested to learn that a mature tomato horn worm can consume the entire foliage of a two-foot-high plant in one night.

Such is the warning provided by Dr. Jim Leser, an area entomologist with the Texas Agriculture Experiment Station, who calls the worm one of the most obvious of vegetable prey because "it grows so rapidly and once it gets large it consumes so much of the leaves that it is easy to find."

TO COMBAT the horn worm, which Leser says reaches up to three inches in length and leaves chewed-up foliage and droppings at the base of the plant as evidence of its presence, the gardener must be observant.

"Finding the insect is not as easy as detecting the damage," says Leser. "If the pest becomes easy enough to detect, generally the damage is great enough to threaten the life of the plant or delay its yield or the time of fruiting."

Biological bacteria — one popular brand being Dipel — is the best means to fight the horn worm, according to the entomologist.

HE SAYS the bacteria has no adverse environmental effects on other plants, beneficial insects in the garden or the pet dog. Furthermore, the bacteria can be washed off the plant, unlike "some of the harsher chemicals, where you must wait several days before consumption."

The bacteria works in a rather gruesome way. Ingested by the worms, the bacteria continues to live and grow, causing a rupture and death in about three days. Once consumed, the worms will cease eating foliage in about 24 hours, according to Leser.

The flea beetle is another insect that Leser says could pose a problem to tomatoes this spring and summer.

Tiny bugs, only about 1/16 of an inch in length, the flea beetles leave a patchwork of small holes in the leaves as their tell-tale sign, he says.

THE PESTICIDE Sevin effectively controls them, but Leser cautions against flagrant spraying — it also is deadly to bees, he explains, which are necessary for the pollination of certain vegetables and fruits, squash included.

And squash just happens to be one of the more popular vegetables grown by Lubbock gardeners, Dr. Roberts says.

The pesticide Sevin also is an effective spray for controlling the squash bug, which, appropriately enough, is the "one major pest" of squash, according to Leser.

He says the bugs inhabit the underside of leaves and suck the sap out of the plant, causing the plant to wilt and droop. He estimates that 80 percent of the bugs live near the base of the squash plants, thus providing an easy strategy for their control.

"MOST PEOPLE spray from the top, but the bugs are underneath and you can't kill them unless they walk across the substance or come in contact with it," Leser says. He recommends concentrating the spraying at the bottom of the plant, with some attention also given to the undersides of the higher leaves.

As for avoiding killing the essential bees, Leser says, "Put the Sevin down as late as possible. I like to put it down when the sun is going down and the bees are leaving."

White's making transition to name-brand merchandise

By Ray Westbrook
Update Staff Writer

Two dynamic young men from Gruver head the White's Home and Auto retail operation in Lubbock.

In less than five years, Andy Hoel, an alumnus of Panhandle State University and Texas Tech University with a major in accounting, has moved from a part-time warehouse-sales floor position to manager of White's store in Caprock Shopping Center.

His positions since beginning with the company in November, 1974, have included co-manager and operations manager.

Similarly, J. P. TeBeest, manager of the company's store at 1115 13th St., has risen from warehouse duties to an executive position with the firm. He joined the company in October, 1975, at the downtown store.

After subsequent posts in the credit department, sales floor duties, TBA department manager, and overseeing the furniture and appliance departments, he transferred to the Caprock store as co-manager. On April 1, he was named manager of the downtown store.

The White's company itself has enjoyed a steady growth through the years since an unlikely beginning at the outset of the depression in 1930.

The firm's initial store, located at Clinton, Okla., currently has grown into a chain of 102 company-owned stores plus a number of independently-owned dealerships handling White's merchandise.

Stores such as the White's at Shallowater and Slaton are typical of the franchise operations.

The company also maintains a large warehouse at Shallowater to supply company stores and dealerships in the Lubbock area, northern Texas, eastern New Mexico and Oklahoma.

Another warehouse is located at White's home office in Wichita Falls, and a third at Macon, Ga.

White's downtown store contains approximately 24,000 square feet of floor space, compared to the 18,500 square feet in the Caprock unit.

TeBeest said the store's strongest item at the present time is evaporative coolers. The firm carries a good cooler line, and has a certified associate to work with customers in installation of the equipment, he added.

The downtown store manager also indicated White's label-brand paint is of outstanding quality in terms of durability. "We can mix paint also," he said.

The manufacturer of White's coolers builds the units specifically for the company, and consequently, "we can sell them at a lower price than other places, and they are very good coolers — very well made," TeBeest said.

The stores carry primarily hardlines, which include small and major appliances, furniture, power equipment, automotive items and sporting goods.

Included in the power equipment department are lawn mowers, edgers, tillers and garden accessories.

The company is presently making a transition to include name-brand merchandise, such as RCA, Sylvania, Tappan, Magic Chef, Craig and Emerson.

Furniture handled by Whites is manufactured by Bassett, Hickory Lane, and others.

Hoel said the company started out as an auto supply store, then became Whites Stores Inc., and now has expanded its scope to include furniture as White's Home and Auto.

"Furniture has been really good for us," Hoel said. He said furniture sales are at a peak during the first two months of the year.

The company's major emphasis in its business operations is in the area of service. "We sell all quality merchandise, and we do have reasonable prices," according to Hoel.

He said, "We beat most major stores, and we beat a lot of discount houses on our prices."

White's has a shop for servicing automobiles, with tires, batteries and accessories plus tune-ups and minor repairs among the services offered.

Some merchandise is seasonal at White's. During Christmas, power equipment and gardening supplies are put away, and toys introduced.

Air conditioners are emphasized during the spring and summer months.

The Lubbock stores are part of the Amarillo District. White's opened the downtown store (at its present location) in April, 1946. An extensive remodeling project was completed after the 1970 tornado.

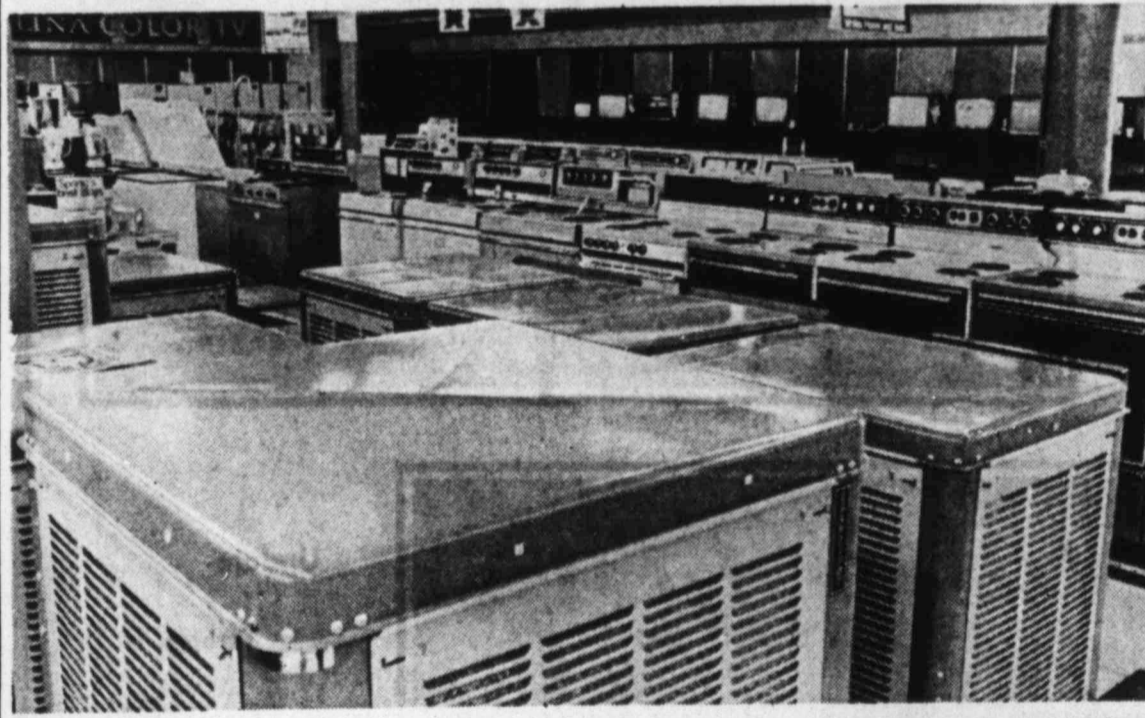

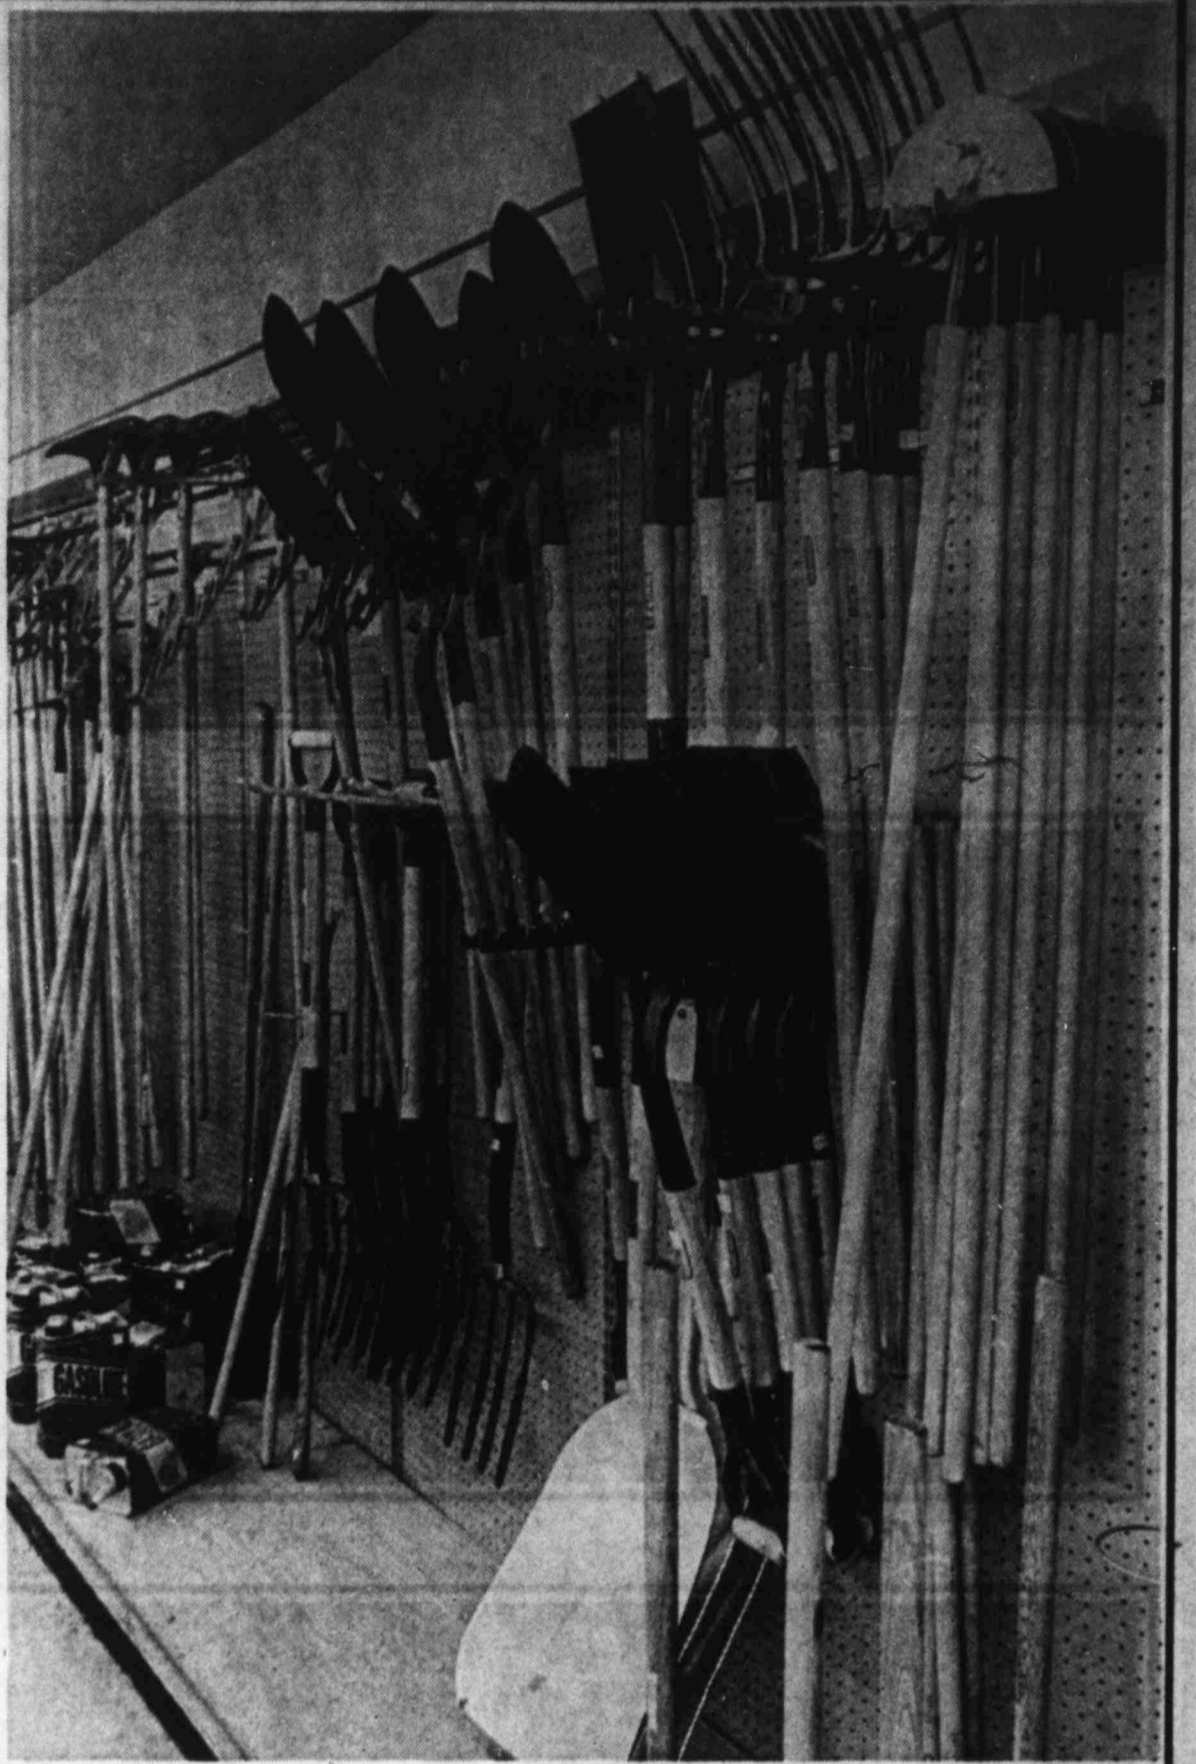

In October, 1960, the firm opened the store at Caprock Shopping Center.

Lubbock Arts Festival
A Celebration of the Arts

Art for everyone

Lubbock's first Arts Festival, declared a smashing success by its organizers, provided something to appeal to everyone, regardless of age or tastes, as shown in these photos of the event at Memorial Civic Center. Clockwise, starting from lower left: Sculptress Glenna Goodacre, a former Lubbockite now of Boulder, Colo., deftly fashions clay into a bust of Donna Armstrong of Lubbock. Above, Mrs. A.L. Henderson poses proudly with one of her quilts, a sample of numerous of the more homespun crafts on display. At top, 10-year-old Levinia Acuna of Wilson Elementary School is engrossed in the "graffiti wall," one of the most popular features with youngsters attending the show. At top right, Pearl's Kitchen Klatter Band makes up in enthusiasm what it lacks in finesse. Below, Ann Lawthon and 5-year-old son Lane find a performance of a children's play totally absorbing. In the next photo, Susie Walker lends an exotic touch to the festival with a performance of a Middle Eastern dance. And, at bottom right, Sylvia LeDoux, a 17-year-old Coronado High School senior, gives some colorful touches to the hand of Alan Milligan, a Martin Elementary fourth grader, at the body painting booth.

views and opinions

By Jeanne Lively
Update Staff Writer

Update visited the Senior Citizens' Center at 515 North Zenith Ave. and asked, "What do you like best about being a Senior Citizen?"

Jewel Johnson said, "I can think of lots of things. One thing, I like to come to the Senior Citizens' Center and be with all my friends. I like the food here, but I enjoy most getting to come and be with everybody. And, I like the director, Sam Dancy. I come to the center every chance I get."

Susie Williams said, "I thoroughly enjoy being a Senior Citizen. I get up in the morning and get ready to come to the center. I like the director and the people who work at the center are nice, too."

Ike Bell had a birthday recently — he is 99 now! He said, "I enjoy being retired very much, because I get to do what I want to now. Four years ago, a friend brought me to the center for the first time, and I've been coming ever since."

Fred Ross said, "I like it all. I come to the center every time anyone comes after me. What I like best is getting to eat and talk."

Manuel Guerro has been retired for several years, but since he lost his wife in 1977 has been coming regularly to the center. He said, "I cook for myself two meals a day and like having lunch at the center for a change. And, I like visiting with everybody."

Granville Wallace said he retired because of poor health. He praises his doctor for trying to help him. Wallace commented, "Sometimes being sick as a Senior Citizen helps, since people make every effort to make you more comfortable. I still suffer dizzy spells and cannot always come to the center now, but when I'm feeling better will resume coming. When you're retired, I think it is best not to isolate yourself. I've also found that if people are good to you, then you forget being sick, along with other troubles."

Bessie Johnson said, "I like it all and enjoy coming to the center — doing things, and eating with everybody."

Odessa Harris said, "I like coming to the center, because it gets me out of the house — I don't have to look at those four walls. And, I enjoy the games. I come to the center every chance I get."

The director, Sam Dancy, invites all Senior Citizens to either come by the center at 515 N. Zenith Ave. or call 744-3222 for information.

Traffic Update: repairs

(Editor's note: The following article is presented by the Citizens Traffic Commission in cooperation with Update, to help keep the public better informed on traffic-related matters.)

CONSTRUCTION has begun to widen Slide Road from Loop 289 south to just past 82nd Street, according to James King, District Administrative Engineer for the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. King said that Kerr Construction Company has 130 working days to complete the project, which will provide two lanes of traffic in each direction, and a center, continuous two way left turn lane.

During the construction period, motorists should be alert for workmen and equipment in the area, and for times when traffic may be restricted.

Construction of the west side of Slide Road will begin first, while drivers continue using the existing roadway. When the west side has progressed to the "black base" stage, traffic will be diverted to that side. The existing roadway will then be torn up and reconstructed.

TEMPORARY barricades will be placed on Flint Avenue at 23rd and 25th Streets and on Gary Avenue north of 25th Streets and south of 23rd Street, as a result of Lubbock City Council action last week. The action came after a deluge of complaints from residents in the area of Tech Terrace Park about excessive and hazardous traffic in the area.

City Manager Larry Cunningham said that the barricades would be in place for 90 days on a test basis until such time as it can be determined whether or not it is a good solution.

The barricades will be modified with railroad spikes and wire at a cost of $650 to the city to prevent their removal.

Presently police officers are manning the barricades at a cost of $1,300 per weekend.

If Council members decided after the 90 day period that the barricades are marring the traffic problems, they will consider purchasing permanent barricades.

The City Council also approved an ordinance designating the alley behind Parsons Elementary School a one-way alley, with traffic directed east from Elgin Avenue to Canton Avenue. The alley will be paved, with the cost being divided between the school district and the city.

THIS WEEK IS National Motorcycle Awareness Week and there are a couple of points of which both motorists and motorcyclists should be reminded.

In most motorcycle accidents, severe injury and death are the result of head wounds. The safest habit a motorcyclist can have is to wear his crash helmet whenever he rides.

It isn't unusual for a cycle to be hidden in a driver's blind spot or be screened by another car. Safety-conscious cyclists should keep their headlights on even in daylight, to warn drivers of their presence.

take your pick

By William D. Kerns
Update Entertainment Editor

First things first: last week's first Lubbock Arts Festival must be termed a rousing success, with over 65,000 people wandering through the Civic Center during the three-day event. Photos from the festival are printed elsewhere in today's Update. But with the festival a thing of the past, it's back to the movies and music which usually permeate the Lubbock entertainment scene.

The Bad Company concert at the Lubbock Coliseum tonight is still expected to draw a good crowd, and we've been told that both Ray Charles and Jerry Reed will make appearances within the next month.

Several movies have opened up this weekend, including Woody Allen's lauded "Manhattan," a new horror flick called "Phantasm" and a thriller titled "Last Embrace."

Once again, if anyone is not yet included in the Take Your Pick listings and would like to be, that person or organization should call 762-8844 before 5 p.m. the prior Monday or write Update, Box 491, Lubbock, Texas 79408. We both need and appreciate your support — and your cooperation in meeting our deadlines.

Chelsea Street Pub (South Plains Mall) — Totally Hot will try to make their rock music just that tonight and Saturday. There is never a cover charge at Chelsea's.

Cold Water Country (7301 University) — The Dovey Quilter Band will be playing country and western music tonight, Saturday and Tuesday through Thursday. The cover tonight and Saturday is $2 for men, with women admitted free. There is no cover on weekdays.

Country Squire Dinner Theater (2 1/2 miles outside Loop 289 on Brownfield Highway) — The current attraction is "My Daughter's Rated X," a lightweight comedy which sees weak material overcome to some extent by stars Pamela McCormick and James Slaughter. The play is preceded by dinner each night: lasagna on Tuesdays, seafood on Wednesdays and the usual roast beef buffet Thursdays through Saturdays. Tickets are priced at $7.95 on Tuesdays, $9.95 on Wednesdays and Thursdays and $11.95 on Fridays and Saturdays. Students may purchase tickets at the reduced rate of $7.95 on Thursdays and Fridays.

Deput (1801 Avenue G) — Bad Jammin' will play progressive jazz music tonight and Saturday. There is no cover charge.

El Sereno Restaurant (5003 Avenue Q) — Don White plays country music from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. every Wednesday, from 8 p.m. to midnight every Thursday and from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. each Friday and Saturday. Travis Williams plays from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. each Tuesday. And Bill Blackwell is the featured entertainer from 6 to 8 p.m. Monday, Thursday and Friday. Also, Spanish music is provided in the dining area by the Los Nortones Trio from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday. There is no cover charge.

Fat Dawg's (2408 4th Street) — Jay Boy Adams, a lot more lively on the concert stage than he was in the studio recording his two fine albums on the Atlantic label, will be playing before expected capacity audiences tonight and Saturday. The cover charge is $2.50. Acoustic music will be provided Sunday by illusions, with no cover charge.

Hilton Inn (505 Avenue Q) — Bill Gammill will be playing easy listening music tonight and Monday through Thursday in this hotel's Garden Pub. There is no cover charge.

Holiday Inn (6624 Avenue H) — Alderson and Williams will be playing progressive jazz tonight and Saturday in the Holiday Inn Lounge. There is no cover charge.

Honky Tonk (4815 Avenue H) — Honky Tonk Heroes will provide the country entertainment here tonight, Saturday and Monday through Thursday. The cover tonight and Saturday is $2. No cover is collected Monday through Thursday.

Johnson House Motel (4801 Avenue Q) — Starriders will play a mixture of country, disco and rock tonight and Saturday at this motel's Jiggers Up Club. There is no cover charge.

Langham Club (3417 Avenue A) — The Eddy and Judy Jackson Show will be the featured entertainment tonight and Saturday. The cover charge is $3 for couples and $2 for men arriving stag, with unescorted women admitted free.

Lubbock Coliseum (6th & Boston) — Bad Company will be featured in concert at 8 p.m. tonight, with Coliseum officials stating earlier in the week that "tickets are really starting to move fast." This rock band drew a near-capacity audience the last time it played the Coliseum (on the 1977 "Burning Sky" tour), and no one is expecting anything different this time around. Bad Company is currently riding the crest of an album called "Desolation Angels" and a hot single titled "Rock and Roll Fantasy." Carillo has been designated the front act. General admission tickets were boosted in price to $9 today; they can be purchased this morning at B&B Records, Al's Music Machine and both Flipside Records locations and tonight at the Coliseum box office.

Red Raider Inn (6025 Avenue A) — Talk about unique theater. The banquet room on the second floor of the Red Raider is now being used for "Follies Of Henry VIII," a dinner theater concept which sees the audience taken to a 16th century pub and entertained with dinner and, well, royal performers. It's patterned after the successful concept restaurants where a member of the audience may grab a turkey leg with one hand and a wench with the other. Dan Donahue will play Henry VIII, Toni Cobb is Rosie and the wenches include Toby Probasco, Heather Hollingsworth and Diane Hoseney. The event is staged each Thursday through Saturday, with the admission prices set at $9.95 on Thursdays, $11.95 on Fridays and $12.95 on Saturdays. Not reviewed at press time. Call the Red Raider for advance reservations, as seating is limited.

Red Raider Nightclub (6025 Avenue A) — Chuck Cusimano will be featured playing country music tonight and Saturday, and The Maines Brothers will be on stage Sunday. The cover has been set at $2 tonight and Saturday and $1 on Sunday.

Rodeway Inn (2401 4th Street) — Lloyd Watts will play country music tonight and Saturday at this motel's Plaid Door. There is no cover charge. The club also holds an open jam session every Wednesday night, with the crowds lured by both the music and the promise of "free tacos."

Rox (2211 4th Street) — Local rockers Axze and Skinet Back will both play tonight and Saturday, with the cover charge set at $2. There is no cover to hear Dallas play Monday night. Skinet Back will be back on stage Tuesday and Wednesday, with no cover. Tuesday and men asked to pay $2 on Wednesday. And Big D Stuff will be on stage Thursday, the cover set at $2.

Shade Western (5023 34th Street) — Chickenlips will be playing rock music tonight, and disco will be provided by Anthony Cook Saturday and Sunday. There is no cover charge.

South Park Inn (3201 South Loop 289) — The Boos Brothers will play nightly, except Sundays, through May 19. The band plays a mixture of contemporary songs, disco and golden oldies. The South Park Inn's upstairs showroom has a weekend cover charge of $2, but no cover is collected Monday through Thursday.

Steak & Ale (4646 50th Street) — Charles Boling will play acoustical sets from 7:30 to 10 p.m. today and Saturday. There is no cover charge.

3838 Restaurant (3838 50th Street) — The New Folk Trio will continue playing folk selections tonight and Saturday. There is no cover charge.

Ville Club (5401 Avenue Q) — Jim Brown and Vintage Wine will play country music tonight and Saturday. There is a $1 cover charge.

Waterhole Number Seven (918 50th Street) — Larry Kinzie and Country Revue will be on stage tonight through Monday, Wednesday and Thursday. The cover is $2 tonight and Saturday, and $1 on Sunday. No cover is collected on weekdays.

Westerns (4805 Avenue G) — Wilburn Roach will be on stage tonight, Saturday and Wednesday. Tiny Lynn will supply the country music Tuesday and Thursday. The cover charge each night is $2.

on screen

Backstage I — "Debbie Does Dallas." Yes, this is the X-rated feature that caused such an uproar in the Dallas and Fort Worth courtrooms. Seems the Dallas Cowboys Cheerleaders organization didn't like the references and innuendoes. In any case, "Debbie Does Dallas" is now enjoying a second week of doing Lubbock.

Backstage II — "Hardcore." George C. Scott gives a rugged, powerful performance as a Midwestern businessman who seeks his runaway 16-year-old daughter amidst the seedy, sick porn parlors of southern California. But though the movie may match the intensity at times, it does not match the consistency of director Paul Schrader's previous effort, "Blue Collar." His "Hardcore" is a tough story with an unacceptable soft ending, a conclusion which just doesn't live up to any semblance of reality. All in all, it remains a movie worth seeing, a movie with an impact — but a movie with definite script problems, all the same.

Cinematheque — There will be no more Cinematheque classics screened until Texas Tech University resumes classes in the fall.

Cinema West — "Firepower." Well, the movie certainly lives up to its title, though I doubt that it will entertain any but the bloodthirsty. Seems like there's someone dying by gun or flame or garrote or bulldozer or car crash every ten minutes or so; it's hard to keep count, but then it's also hard to keep up with this sloppy plot about international killers and double identities. James Coburn is the cool killer working for the better Bad Guys, if you catch my drift. Sophia Loren is cast solely for visual effects. For action fans only.

Fine Arts Drive-In — "Bedroom Magic" and "Angela, The Young Vixen." X-rated material.

Fox I — "Manhattan." Woody Allen's latest film, which earned a lot of recent coverage in Time and Newsweek, is said to be a combination of the humor of "Annie Hall" and the serious nature of "Interiors." Some have called it his best film to date. It co-stars Mariel Hemingway, Diane Keaton and Michael Murphy. Filmed in black and white. Not screened at press time.

Fox II — "Young Frankenstein." In my opinion, this is Mel Brooks' finest film, an hysterical and yet reverent ode to the old black and white horror films. Gene Wilder is Dr. Frankenstein, initially trying to live down his grandfather's infamous past. Peter Boyle is the monster and Marty Feldman steals the show as Igor ("that's Eye-gore"). But one cannot forget Gene Hackman's cameo as the blind man who welcomes the monster's company, offering Boyle a hot dinner and a cigar. The irony is first rate, the respect for the old masters well evident. This is a comic masterpiece.

Fox III — "Richard Pryor: Live In Concert." The title tells it all in this film. Pryor, one of our best stand-up comedians, is filmed during a 1978 concert in Long Beach, Calif., and that concert is what we're given — with no censorship whatsoever. The language is extremely raw (the producers even deem it "vulgar") but, if the language is not a personal or moral roadblock to enjoyment, you may even find this comic a black Lenny Bruce. Yet another who knows how to talk dirty and influence people. In any case, it's a funny, funny movie.

Fox IV — "The China Syndrome." Starring Jack Lemmon, Jane Fonda and Michael Douglas (and certain to win the former two Academy Award nominations next year), this film manages to be both exciting and topical. It is, without a doubt, the most important film yet released in 1979. The plot concerns itself with an accident at a nuclear power plant, but even those who don't care for the political implications (which are indeed hard to ignore after the recent nuclear dangers in Pennsylvania) will be kept on the edge of their seats by this thriller's tension. The entire cast is superb, but Jack Lemmon stands out more than any other as the power plant employee who must come to grips with his own conscience. Though the filmmakers insist it was not intentional, there is also a highway murder scene which brings to mind the Karen Silkwood case.

Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, Front Screen — "Star Crash" and "Damnation Alley." The former would appear at first glance to be a poor man's "Star Wars," with Christopher Plummer featured as the major star. We'll have to reserve judgment on quality until viewing the picture. But there's no need to wait on "Damnation Alley;" it's a horribly disappointing film about a group trying to cross the radiation belt to safety after a nuclear holocaust, fighting off armor-plated cockroaches at least one stop during the trip. George Peppard and Jan-Michael Vincent star and probably still wish they hadn't.

Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, Back Screen — "Every Which Way But Loose" and "Joe Kidd." Clint Eastwood stars with an orangutan named Clyde in the former picture, but only Clyde has an excuse for making this nauseating piece of trash. After all, he (it?) couldn't read the script. Laced with country music, this picture is an insult to liberals, conservatives, rednecks, music lovers, animal lovers and anybody who prefers movies offering entertainment. As for "Joe Kidd," it merely serves as proof that Eastwood can also screw up a western. It's a bore.

Home Box Office — This pay television station offers movies and specials not presently on Lubbock's big screens. Premieres are held on HBO each weekend evening and then repeated throughout the month. Tonight will see HBO premiere the Walt Disney comedy "The Love Bug" (which, incidentally, is on a Lubbock screen this week also), followed by a special on Humphrey Bogart. On Saturday, a family picture called "Summerdog" will be followed by a taped Martin Mull concert. And on Sunday, the rather disappointing thriller "The Eyes Of Laura Mars," starring Faye Dunaway and Tommy Lee Jones, will be screened. Later this month, HBO will offer Burt Reynolds' "The End" and Gary Cooper's "The Hanging Tree." And June selections on HBO will include both "An Unmarried Woman" and Mel Brooks' "High Anxiety."

May 10-12, Big D Stuff — A hard rock band out of Dallas, Big D Stuff will show its stuff during a weekend engagement at Rox. The cover charge on Thursday will be $2, and the Friday and Saturday shows will see the cover boosted to $3.

May 15, "The Sound Of Music" — Certainly an ambitious undertaking for theater-in-the-round, this popular musical will open at the Country Squire Dinner Theater. Paul Preece is directing. Martin McDonald has been cast as Captain Von Trapp and Leslie Thurman will play Maria. Tickets each night will be $1 higher than the normal rates. (Present prices are listed under Nightlife.)

May 18-19, Delbert McClinton — With his career certainly on the rise, Texas blues-rock singer Delbert McClinton will take a break from touring with The Allmann Brothers long enough to perform two solo nights at Rox. The cover charge will be $3 both nights.

May 27, Ray Charles and Rick & Neal — Ray Charles will be the headliner in a concert slated for 8 p.m. in the Civic Center exhibition hall. Also slated to appear are the duo of Rick Menick and Neil Ford, formerly Lubbock entertainers and now club owner-entertainers in Dallas. A novelty act called Gary Laramar & Delaware The Dog will open the show. General admission tickets are priced at $3.50, and are now on sale at Furr's Family Center, Hemphill-Wells at South Plains Mall and both Flipside Records locations.

June 1, Jerry Reed — This popular country music entertainer, who had quite a bit of success on screen as well (you'll remember him as Burt Reynolds' partner in "Smokey And The Bandit") will be featured in concert at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center exhibition hall. All seats will be reserved, with mail orders accepted. Tickets are not slated to go on sale until May 11, and prices were not known at press time.

Showplace I — "Buck Rogers In The 25th Century." This may be the funniest B-movie released this year. Despite an obvious tendency to rip off shows like "Star Wars" and "Battlestar Galactica," the tongue-in-cheek humor and comic book situations still have us slapping our thighs with mirth while watching Buck save Earth from the Draconian Empire. The kids are bound to love this one, and adults with a broad sense of humor may also get a kick out of it.

Showplace II — "Phantasm." The dead refuse to stay dead — or buried — in this new horror flick which has been scaring audiences across the country. All I've seen is a television preview for the film, and even that left me jumpy. So I'd have to say this flick has possibilities. Not screened at press time.

Showplace III — "Last Embrace." Roy Scheider, so impressive in "Sorcerer" and remembered for his work in "The French Connection" and "Marathon Man," stars with Janet Margolin in this new mystery-thriller. Not screened at press time.

Showplace VI — "Coming Home." Winner of three Academy Awards for best performances by an actor and actress, and best original screenplay. No doubt one of the most important films released in 1978, this movie takes a look not at the politics of Vietnam, but at the physical and mental scars administered to the men and women caught up in the war fought there. Jon Voight gives the best, the most sensitive performance of his career, and very much deserved his Oscar for his portrayal of paraplegic veteran Luke Martin. Bruce Dern offers his usual strong performance, and might have won a Supporting Actor's Oscar any other year; no one could compete with Chris Walken (in "The Deer Hunter") in 1978. And Jane Fonda is often moving as the Marine's wife caught up in love and the aftermath of the conflict. The film won eight Oscar nominations.

Showplace V — "Star Crash." See comments under Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, Front Screen.

Showplace VI — "Love At First Bite." This spoof on the old Bela Lugosi "Dracula" films stars George Hamilton as the legendary count, and has earned some bloody fine reviews. It's said to be extremely funny. Not screened at press time.

South Plains Cinema I, Mall — "The Deer Hunter." Winner of five Academy Awards (the most won by any 1978 film) for Best Picture, best supporting actor, best direction, best editing and best sound. One of the most devastating films ever put on the screen. "The Deer Hunter" is bound to leave every single viewer weak-kneed and slack-jawed as he leaves the theater. The picture deals with the friendship of three men (Robert DeNiro, Christopher Walken and John Savage) in a small steel town in Pennsylvania, and the effect Vietnam had on each of these three individuals. Michael Cimino's direction is superb, and the film indeed earned each of its nine Oscar nominations. There is never any doubt that Walken, playing the disturbed Nick, would win for his dramatic performance. Three hours long, "The Deer Hunter" is a slightly flawed, unforgettable gem whose routine scenes alone will leave a lingering feeling of depression and an ache for many nights to come. Not to be missed.

South Plains Cinema II, Mall — "The Promise." Definitely a candidate for Worst Movie of the Year. This picture is a corny, very stupid love story about a man and woman who promise never to leave one another, only to be split up by a car accident and a mother trying to be more evil than the Wicked Witch of the West. Full of plot errors, silly dialogue and junky music, this one's a yawner. At one point in the film, the man tells his mother, "That's the biggest load of crap anybody's ever laid on me." We leave the theater feeling much the same way.

South Plains Cinema III, Mall — "Norma Rae." This picture ranks right up there with "The China Syndrome" as one of the most important films released this year. Certainly it is the best picture dealing with a contemporary, working woman since "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore." (It can't help but be more universally relevant than the over-rated "An Unmarried Woman.") Sally Field has the title role in "Norma Rae," and is nothing short of dynamic as the young widowed mill worker who decides she has both courage and a conscience. Her performance is definitely Oscar caliber, and should not be forgotten when next year's Academy Award nominations are passed out. Excellent support is also turned in by Beau Bridges, Pat Hingle and especially Ron Leibman.

South Plains Cinema IV, Mall — "Same Time, Next Year." Playwright turned screenwriter Bernard Slade has refused to open up his tepid little Neil Simon clone for the screen and, as a result, the cinema version of his hit stageplay is predictable to the point of being yawning. The whole thing is just too stage-y — but luckily for Slade (and us), the performances are strong enough to keep us from walking out. Alan Alda and Ellen Burstyn work wonderfully together; one only wishes they'd held out for stronger screen material.

Village — "The Love Bug." Walt Disney's fantastic introduction to Herbie, the Volkswagen with a mind of his own. Though this original is a delicious family comedy, it remains sad that the two sequels were such sloppy and exploitative films. Dean Jones stars with Buddy Hackett in this version, though, and they both manage to supply plenty of laughs.

Winchester — "The Champ." The tearjerker to end all tearjerkers, this film is Franco Zeffirelli's remake of King Vidor's classic 1931 box office smash which starred Wallace Beery and young Jackie Cooper. The stars in this updated version are Jon Voight and 8-year-old Ricky Schroder, and the two work wonderfully together as they vank at our heartstrings. There's no denying director Zeffirelli is being manipulative; there's no denying the film is hard to believe at times and overly sentimental throughout. But the fact remains: it works. The film works. I haven't cried so much at a movie in years — and if even this hard-hearted critic can be reduced to tears, think what it's going to do to all you romantics.

Advance Previews — The South Plains Cinema will offer an advance peek at George Romero's "Dawn Of The Dead," the brutal and terrifying sequel to "Night Of The Living Dead," at midnight Saturday night. It is not recommended for the squeamish. The film will be screened in its entirety, and will then start its regular engagement at the theater on May 11.

Morning Shows — Showplace Six will screen "The Thief Of Bagdad" at 10 a.m. Saturday. Admission charge is either a Rainbow Bread wrapper, a Dr. Pepper bottle or $1 in cold cash. (No kidding.)

Midnight Shows — The Fox Theater will offer midnight screenings tonight and Saturday of "Reefer Madness," with a Three Stooges short and a cartoon also on the program. Showplace will offer late showings tonight and Saturday of "Buck Rogers In The 25th Century," "Phantasm," "Love At First Bite," "Star Crash" and "Last Embrace." Check the movie listings in today's Avalanche-Journal for exact feature times.

June 23, Doc Severinsen & Summer Pops — The Lubbock Symphony Orchestra will stage its annual Summer Pops concert in the Civic Center exhibition hall. The featured guest will be Doc Severinsen, renowned trumpet player and conductor on NBC's "The Tonight Show." Tickets for both dinner and show will cost $12.50, and those wishing to skip the meal can purchase reserved seats for $7.50 or general admission seats for $4. The buffet dinner will be served from 7 to 8 p.m., with the concert slated to start at 8:30 p.m. There will also be a cash bar. Telephone reservations will be accepted May 21, and early reservations are advised.

June 28-July 13, Tech Repertory Theater — The Texas Tech University Theater will stage four plays on alternating nights. The plays are "Vanities," directed by Richard Weaver; "The Shadow Box," directed by Ronald Schulz; the musical "Company," directed by Nancy Vunovich of the University of Tulsa; and the musical "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown," co-sponsored by the Texas Tech Music Theater and directed by John Gillias (who recently helmed the sterling "La Perichole"). Tickets go on sale May 14. "Vanities" and "The Shadow Box" will be priced at $3.50 for the general public, while tickets for the musicals will cost $4.50. Tech students, however, may purchase tickets for any of the four plays for $2.

July 1, "Any Wednesday" — Yet another comedy will open a one-month run at the Country Squire Dinner Theater. See the theater's listing under Nightlife for ticket prices. Call the theater box office for reservations.

August 1, "I Do, I Do" — This popular musical version of "The Fourposter" will open another one-month run at the Country Squire Dinner Theater. See the theater's listing under Nightlife for ticket prices. Call the theater box office for reservations.

eyes and answers

By Dr. Weston A. Pettey

Dear Dr. Pettey: My mother has what is called "low vision" and she was sent to the University of Houston College of Optometry Clinic by her eye doctor to be fitted with a special seeing aid. I thought all eye doctors should be able to work on any visual problems.

Just as in other health care professions, optometry has its specialties. The care of low vision patients is one. There are a number of optometrists, and others, who have taken special training in low vision management and can take care of nearly all low vision cases. Some patients, however, can have seemingly nothing done for them because of greatly advanced eye deterioration. Perhaps your mother fell into that category and her doctor felt compelled to send her to the clinic where something more might be done. The teaching staff and the graduating seniors at the University of Houston College of Optometry have at their disposal extensive facilities and instrumentation. They deal with more such cases than a general practitioner. The U. of H. Clinic is, in my opinion, the most complete facility for the teaching of Low Vision Management in the Southwest; we are fortunate in having it there. I venture that your mother was well taken care of.

Readers with other questions about eye care may address Dr. Pettey in care of the Texas Optometric Association, P.O. Box 2242, Austin, Texas 78768.

What the Best-Dressed SHOPLIFTER is wearing...

Handcuffs — they may not look very costly, but they're more expensive than you'd imagine! And as any shoplifter knows, they're not returnable! Shoplifting is not a lark, not a prank and not taken lightly. It's a crime that will blot your record and may even put you behind bars. And at holiday time, shoplifting is even more of a temptation. Next time someone tries to sell you a bill of goods about shoplifting, don't buy it. All you may get is a new set of bracelets...and a lot of time on your hands.
