

Sam Wohlford Drafted For Representative

Grass roots democracy turned up a farmer-rancher candidate for the Texas Legislature recently when Sam Wohlford of Stratford, yielded to pleas of men in all walks of life and consented to make the race.

Few men are fitted to better speak the sentiments of the Texas Panhandle than Wohlford. Farmer, rancher, gas lease and royalty owner who fought his way up from the tough job of wrangling horses on the other fellows spread, Wohlford's life is typical of the North Plains pioneer.

When the 95th Legislative District was created, men from Sherman, Moore, Dallam, Hansford and Oldham counties turned steadily to Wohlford in a grass roots draft that he finally could not ignore.

Sam E. Wohlford was born in Indiana in 1892 and came to Texas and Sherman County in 1905. He worked on North Panhandle ranches largely as a horse wrangler for years, and in 1912, at Guymon, Oklahoma, was married to Miss Olive L. Smith.

Wohlford's life since then, has been only one of a steady servant of his home community and county. He was a Sherman County Commissioner for four years. When Sherman county gas and royalty holdings became valuable, he organized the Sherman County Gas and Royalty Owners Association and is its president.

He worked hard to obtain rural electric service for his friends and neighbors and is a director in the Rita Blanca R.E.A. setup.

He is a charter member of the Stratford Lions Club, has served it in many capacities and his neighboring Lions Club, as Zone Chairman.

He serves as county committeeman in the Sherman County Production and Marketing Association.

In 1948 he went out into the night and into the teeth of one of the worst blizzards this county has ever known, to rescue a stranded party in a blinding snow storm and howling gale, and stayed with his people until he had them safely in the shelter. For this he received the Carnegie Award for bravery.

Wohlford states he had no thought of political aspirations when his friends came to him. In fact, he and Mrs. Wohlford had made plans for some travel trips next year that would have to be reluctantly abandoned.

Mr. and Mrs. Wohlford live on their farm and ranch some nine miles south of Stratford and are substantial Sherman County taxpayers.

4-H Members To Attend Round-Up June 9-10-11

Feliz Ramon, Letha Gail Fedric, and Lynn Hanson of Stratford, and Vincent Myers of Texhoma have been selected as the delegates to represent Sherman County at the 4-H Round-Up which will be held at College Station June 9-10-11. Mrs. Newton Crabtree, adult leader for the senior 4-H Club, will also attend the 4-H Round-Up as an adult leader.

The group will go to Amarillo Sunday and take the bus at 3:00 P. M. Seventy-seven 4-H boys, girls, adult leaders and the District Agents Knox Parr and Miss Doris Leggit will go down together on two chartered Trans-Continental buses. They will spend Sunday night in Wichita Falls, Texas and will arrive at College Station Monday between 3:00 and 4:00 P. M.

While at the Round-Up they will attend a party, attend group meetings, tour the campus, attend a banquet and other functions.

These boys and girls were selected on the merits of their work. Boys and girls were also selected that had never gone as a delegate before. Various organizations and firms are sponsoring the trips of the 4-H club boys, girls and adult leader. Those sponsoring trips are: Consumers Co., Inc., Stratford Lions Club, Sherman County Farm Bureau, Sherman County Home Demonstration Council, Texhoma Elevator Co., and Jess Riffe.

Need Combines And Trucks For Harvest

The last monthly summer meeting of the Sherman County Farm Bureau was held Tuesday afternoon in the court house in Stratford. At the meeting the board members made definite plans to have an employment man stationed at the Garrison Motor Company, starting about June 15, whose duties will be to help secure and distribute help throughout the county for the harvest season. This work will be carried out through the cooperation of the State Employment Agency.

It is estimated that there are 200,000 acres of wheat in the county to be harvested, and the farmers of the county will need approximately 300 additional combines in order to harvest the crop quickly and efficiently. In addition to the trucks that will invade the country with combines, it was estimated that from 75 to 100 additional trucks would be needed to get the wheat to the elevator storage. Single men will be needed, not only with the approach of harvest, but after harvest is over.

Farmers are advised that when wheat is stored locally, the bins should be thoroughly cleaned and treated. This year, more than any other year, emphasis is being made to have clean wheat, no excessive dirt or weevil damage, no rot or wheat spoilage, so as to have the best wheat for milling purposes. There will be a difference made in the future, and a lot of wheat will be sold for feed, probably at a lower price, as compared to clean and well kept wheat for the flour mills.

The farm storage bins should be thoroughly cleaned and carefully treated before filling with wheat this summer. The bin walls, floor and ceiling should be cleaned and all corners cleaned out, then inspected for possible cracks and holes where rats and birds may enter or where moisture might penetrate and cause damage or spoilage of wheat. Any such holes or cracks or leaky roofs in bins should be carefully repaired for storage of grain. Spray the inside walls, floors, and ceiling thoroughly with 5% DDT and give the bin time to dry out before storing grain. Remember grain stored on the farm should be as dry or drier than wheat the elevator won't accept. If the elevator won't accept the wheat due to excessive moisture, don't store it on the farm because it will probably go out of condition and you may have to sell it for feed at a lower price.

Circle One Meets With Mrs. Billington

Circle One of the Christian Woman's Fellowship met in the home of Mrs. Joe Billington Wednesday afternoon for a regular meeting. There were six members present. Mrs. Ora Bomer led in prayer.

Mrs. L. L. Lyon, leader, presented a lesson on South America. Several topics were discussed. Those taking part were Mrs. Bernard Dovel, Mrs. Joe Billington, and Mrs. A. L. Sutton. The meeting was dismissed with the Fellowship benediction.

The hostess served delicious refreshments of strawberry short cake, with ice cream and coffee.

Wedding Vows Exchanged Sunday

In the sanctuary of the First Methodist Church of Stratford on Sunday afternoon, Jenelle Reynolds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Reynolds of Stratford and Conlen, became the bride of Melvin Harold Brock, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Brock of Plainview, Texas.

Before an altar banked with huge fans of greenery flanked with horizontal candelabra and edged with graduated candelabra filled with white cathedral tapers, Rev. R. A. Nichols, pastor, read the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Hose Flores, organist, played pre-nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches were used.

To the soft playing of "Because" by D'Hardelot, Royce and Gary Blankenship, cousins of the groom, lighted the tapers. Miss Betty Cantrell sang "Through The Years" and at the close of the service as a prayer she sang "The Lord's Prayer" while the bride and groom knelt at the altar.

Mrs. Van Boston read, preceding the bridal party entrance, "How Do I Love Thee," by Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

Miss Janice Reynolds, niece of the bride, flower girl was dressed in a white imported swiss organdy full length gown over blue taffeta, wearing an aqua blue tiara of illusion and carrying an old fashioned basket of blue shirred illusion, dropped daisy petals along the aisle.

Miss Jean Reynolds, sister of the bride attended her sister as maid of honor. Mrs. Bradford Beedy, of Lubbock, Texas, and Miss Wendolyn Flores, were bridesmaids. They were attired in identical floor length gowns of aqua taffeta, with wide neckline, capped sleeves, tightly fitted bodice with full flowing skirt, wearing a tiara of blue shirred illusion and carrying an improvised basket spilling over with white daisies interspersed with greenery.

Attending the groom as best man was Jimmie Mason of Plainview, Texas, and acting as ushers were Bill R. Cooper of Crowell, Texas and Don Hart of Eastland, Texas.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father the bride was attired in a floor length gown of white Swiss imported organdy, designed with a soft pointed collar, short sleeves, tightly fitted bodice, a row of tiny self-covered buttons reaching from the open throat line to the waist, a chain of white embroidered wild roses centered with seed pearls forming a cameo neck yoke. A chain of embroidered roses in a panel formation adorned the princess skirt from the waist to the hemline. Her fingertip veil of white imported illusion cascaded from a crown of shirred illusion and she wore white organdy mitts. She carried a white Bible topped with white shasta daisies from which showered fluer de amour tied to white-satin ribbon. Her only jewels were single pearl earring belonging to Mrs. Beedy and having been a must with all brides from this circle of friends of Stratford High School.

Mrs. Reynolds, mother of the bride, wore a navy sheer crepe afternoon dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Brock, mother of the groom wore a dress of navy silk shantung, with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony the bridal party was honored with a reception in the parlor of the church. The brides table was laid with an ecrú lace cloth over aqua, crystal appointments centered with an oval bouquet of white shasta daisies. On the four tiered brides cake topped with a bell in white were a miniature bride and groom. It was served by Mrs. Harry Reynolds, sister-in-law of the bride. The punch was served by Miss Mary Ruth Shannon of Plainview, Texas. Miss Dorothy Nell Harding registered the guests.

For traveling the bride wore a full-skirted one-piece coated dress of mint green imported Irish linen with white accessories and wore a corsage of white shasta daisies.

After a short honeymoon the couple will be at home in Albuquerque, New Mexico where Mr. Brock will be associated with the Sandia Corporation.

Rev. Nichols Returned To Stratford Church

Rev. H. A. Nichols was reassigned to the pastorate of the Stratford First Methodist Church for his seventh year of service at the meeting of the annual conference in Lubbock, Texas. The conference closed Sunday evening when 250 pastors were assigned to their charges. Out of 25 charges in the Perryton district, 10 pastors were changed.

The nine districts which constitute the Northwest Texas conference were redistributed. Stratford and all churches west, and those directly to the south, are in the Amarillo District. The new Pampa District includes the remainder of the Perryton District east of Stratford. The district superintendent of Amarillo is Dr. Earl Hamlet. Rev. Kirby, district superintendent of Perryton for the past year, is the superintendent of the Pampa district.

Reports at the conference acclaimed perhaps the greatest achievements of the church in membership gain, construction of new buildings, and in the raising of funds for missions, hospitals, colleges, orphanages, and homes for the aged and young mothers, it is history.

Conference will convene next year at St. Paul's Church in Abilene, Texas.

Mrs. Earl Bond Has Major Operation

Mrs. Earl Bond underwent a major operation in Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo Thursday of last week. She is reported to be getting along nicely.

CARD OF THANKS

Dear Friends: I wish to express my sincere appreciation for the beautiful flowers, cards, and letters sent to me during my illness and convalescing. It made my illness seem much shorter to have my friends remember me in this way. May God bless each one of you. Mrs. Guy Sweny

County Delegates Return From 4-H Camp

The delegates, adult leaders, and agents who represented Sherman County at the District Camp at Canyon May 26 to 29, returned home Thursday of last week.

The theme of the camp was safety. Registration was held Monday evening between 3:00 and 4:00 P. M. Miss Lou Ella Patterson had charge of the recreation. General assembly was held at 4:30 P. M.

A. H. Karcher, Jr., assistant 4-H club leader, acted as camp chairman. When the group registered they were divided into eight groups. Each group was given a name such as Sharpshooters, Deep Sea Divers, etc. The groups each elected a chairman.

The first night a party was held on the tennis court. Ed McElroy, county agent of Castro County, J. D. Brazzil, county agent of Castro County, and Vann, home demonstration agent of Castro County, and Corinne Stinson, home demonstration agent of Dallam County, had charge of the parties.

The second day E. C. Martin, state agricultural leader of the Extension Service of College Station, made a talk on safety, and then showed a film on safety. The groups then met and planned a skit on safety. The groups then went to various committee groups. One group visited the museum, another group went to a lecture on safety with fire and electricity, and the remainder went to a photo clinic. In the afternoon the group went to the West Texas State College Farm on a Hazard Hunt.

Each evening there was a Flag Ceremony and a vesper service and ceremonial prepared by some group. A party was held the second night in the ballroom at Cousins Hall. It was called a rainbow party.

The third day a fourth activity was added "Tractor Safety." The groups visited the museum, lecture, photo clinic, and tractor safety. In the afternoon they went to the canyons. Hiking and riflery were held. An exhibition on riflery was held by a representative of the Remington Manufacturing Company.

A party and talent show climaxed the camp. Jean Spurlock and Ealon Davis of Sherman County took part in the talent show.

Those attending District 4-H Camp were: Delma Dee Schafer and Luther Evans of Texhoma, Ealon Davis, Jean Spurlock, Raymond Kirkwood, Cecil Borth, Mrs. Arthur Judd, adult leader, Earnest Goule, county agent and Miss Lucile King, home demonstration agent.

Funeral Services Held Sunday For Mrs. Wilson

Funeral services for Mrs. Deria Ruth Wilson, 40 year old, were conducted at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the First Baptist Church of Boise City by Rev. Dodd, pastor.

Mrs. Wilson, wife of Walton Wilson who formerly lived in Stratford and now operates a funeral home in Boise City, died Friday afternoon of injuries suffered earlier in the day in an automobile accident near Guymon, Oklahoma.

Her 7-year old son, Richard Lee Wilson, escaped with minor injuries in the accident which occurred when the car driven by Mrs. Wilson ran off the right side of the highway, swerved out of control and turned over in the bar ditch.

Mrs. Wilson is survived by her husband and son; five sisters, Mrs. A. P. Gardner, Mrs. Opal Shields, and Mrs. Charlie Presley, all of Guymon, Mrs. Carmen Nall and Mrs. Milton Bland, both of Albuquerque, New Mexico; a brother, Harmon Lively, Hutchinson, Kansas; and her father, O. R. Lively of Guymon.

Burial was made in Elmhurst Cemetery in Guymon under the supervision of Sam Miller, funeral director of Liberal, Kansas, and Dick Starkey, Guymon funeral director.

M/Sgt. Holt Has Operation In Amarillo

M/Sgt. Jewel A. Holt, stationed with the U. S. Air Force in Amarillo, underwent a major operation in the Amarillo Osteopathic Hospital Tuesday afternoon.

Foreign Group Study Panhandle Rainfall Project

Nine Europeans and one Argentinian who are in this country studying the application of aircraft to agricultural purposes, and related subjects, were briefed on cloud seeding Friday night by the Water Resources Development Corporation of Denver, Colorado at a meeting in the Hotel Dale in Guymon, Oklahoma.

The foreign technicians are in the United States under the Point Four program of the Marshall plan. They are making a six-weeks tour of the country, from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts.

Norman J. McDonald, meteorologist and forecaster for the WRDC discussed the cloud seeding process and answered questions by the guests. A color film, "Operation Weather Control," was also shown, and the group viewed a silver iodide generator.

Others Reply

Also speaking and answering questions were Neale Sullivan, area representative of the WRDC, Don Dale, executive secretary of the Oklahoma-Texas-Kansas Weather Improvement Association, and Marcus L. Alexander and William Eiting, representing rank and file members of the O-T-K.

The Europeans were Walter

Back, and Oskar Hohenbruck of Austria, Viggo Sylvest Jensen of Denmark, Henri De Malherbe and Robert Menard of France, Karl Bode of Germany, Giuseppe Jannone of Italy, Louis Reihner Lucassen and Willem Jan Maan of the Netherlands, and R. C. Della Coste of Argentina.

Menard told McDonald that some new methods of moisture generation had been used in France and said he would be able to give him other information on the subject.

Express Appreciation

Following dinner in the small banquet room of Hotel Dale Bode expressed the appreciation of the delegation to Guymon and the WRDC for its hospitality. The technicians were escorted to and from Municipal Airport by the Chamber of Commerce.

The group left Washington May 18, after a short indoctrination period. They will return there June 26.

From Washington they went to Beaumont, Texas to see rice farms in operation, to College Station, to see Texas A. and M.'s experiment station, emphasizing cotton cultivation, then to Kerrville, Lubbock, Fort Worth, Texas, Oklahoma City, and Stillwater Oklahoma.

The foreign technicians also visited Wichita, Kansas, Manhattan, Kansas and Hays, Kansas, and came to Guymon from Woodward, Oklahoma.

After the group left Oklahoma they went to Salt Lake City, Utah, Sacramento, California, Portland and Corvallis, Oregon, Seattle, Washington, Bogman, Montana, St. Louis, Missouri, and other midwestern points, winding up at Seabrook Farms in New Jersey.

First To Visit

J. Dewey Long, agriculture engineer from the United States Department of Agriculture, who said he was "chaperoning" the group, explained this was the first crew of its kind to come to the United States.

Long said the men are specialists in aircraft operation in agricultural work. They are here to get technical information and to modify it and adapt it for use in their homelands.

"There is of course the 'selling' of America to these people," Long said. "Many of them are amazed at the lack of restrictions here. Several of them have asked me whether they could take pictures or not. On one occasion one of them wanted to give me a roll of film to censor, after he had exposed it."

Three of the men are agricultural scientists, three are airplane engineers and the others commercial airplane operators. Senor Della Coste joined the group in Washington, when he found out they were making the same itinerary as he. The Latin American is a salesman for Dupont weedicides in South America.

Long said the Frenchmen paid their own way. The others were sent here by their countries and the foreign nations paying their passage.

Menard, from Carcassone, France, operates with DeMalherbe in spraying from planes, said in Madagascar this year his operation resulted in $1,500,000 profit to the island.

Here's Results

"Before, the people were not able to work due to the destruction resulting from locusts in the rice fields and in other croplands," the sprayer said.

"We then used methods developed in America and were able to kill the locusts in flight. We have had great success with this operation in rice and sugar cane fields there. We killed three square miles of locusts in six months.

"I came to the United States and bought planes in 1947. We have planes operating in France, Tunisia, Algeria and Madagascar and DeMalherbe has light planes in operation in Morocco.

Menard and DeMalherbe use Piper Cubs and Stearman, mainly.

DeMarherbe said that if the cloud seeding could be adapted to the needs of Morocco and other parts of North Africa it would do a great deal of good. He said the farms there are large similar to the United States.

DeMalherbe added that he has enjoyed his trip so far, but he would like to stay a little longer in each place.

"We go one place, hear a talk, take notes and then have to go back to the hotel and study our notes before going some place else," he said. But the Morocco resident added he is learning a great deal about methods of killing pests in the States.

Size Hits Him

Bode, from Stuttgart, Germany said he was greatly impressed with the size of the United States. "Back home, we didn't realize how big this country really was when we looked in our geography books and saw it on a map." He stated he had been able to learn a great deal about the country in his trip.

Scout Emblem

Jensen, from Denmark was wearing an unusual red and yellow emblem in his lapel. Asked what it was he said it denoted membership in the St. George's guild, an organization of "Old Scouts," former Boy Scouts and Scouters.

The group was founded in Denmark recently. Now there are members of the organization all over Europe. He estimated the membership of 10,000. "Before long you will have such a group in the United States," Jensen said.

Jensen operates his own spraying organization but does a great amount of his work and aerial photography.

Jannone, from Genoa, Italy, formerly of near Bari, is director of plant quarantine and the extension service for entomology in the provinces of Genoa and LaSpezia. He inspects agricultural products entering Genoa harbour. This is his second trip to the United States.

Jannone said there are 21 laboratories scattered along the Italian coastline and at its borders. He said he was particularly interested in research for new insecticides, such as DDT.

Jannone has spent several years recently in the former Italian East Africa and Eritres.

The Italian said he believed cloud seeding had a good future in the southern part of his country, and in the islands of Sicily and Sardinia. He was told by Sullivan that WRDC will begin projects in Italy soon, as well as in Spain and Israel.

"Oklahoma" is a Choctaw Indian word for "red people."

Some 1,800 4-H club members, adult leaders and extension agents are expected to attend the 4-H Roundup, scheduled for June 9-11 at Texas A. & M. College.

Quality . . . . . Simplicity . . . . . Performance . . . . .

Stratford Tractor Co.

JOHNNY BLAKE was tough. Plenty tough. Long weeks in solitary didn't break him. Neither did his periodic sessions at the whipping-post.

But these things were nothing. Mere routine. This today was different. Today, as he stared stonily at that ominous door across the room, Johnny's heart turned to water.

Gas! . . . They were going to use gas!

He shifted nervously in his chair, then turning to the guard at his side he asked: "What time is it?" The man glanced at his watch and answered quietly, soothingly: "You've still got ten minutes. There's a man ahead of you."

And now, suddenly, a soft whirring sound penetrated from the other room. "Ventilating fans," murmured Johnny knowingly. Then turning again to the guard he asked: "Will it hurt, d'you think?" "Naw, nothing to it. One or two whiffs an' you're out. Never know what hit you. Easy!"

HE SLUMPED in his chair and with a low groan bowed his head in his cupped hands. He smelled something. Was that the gas he smelled? Was it seeping out despite the tightly closed door? Icy beads of perspiration stood out on his forehead as his body twitched, squirmed, straightened up, then slumped again. Finally he whined: "Can I smoke?" "Sure."

Extracting a small sack of tobacco from his shirt pocket and a paper from the book attached to the bag, he tried to roll a cigaret. No use. The paper tore in his trembling fingers and the tobacco spilled on the floor. Without comment the guard drew a cigaret from his own pack and offered him one.

He accepted the cigaret and the light with a mumbled word of thanks and inhaled deeply, happily.

Then he drawled: "Well, I got one consolation. At least I won't still be in this dirty hole tomorrow."

"Got any idea where you will be?"

"Yeah, I got a idea."

"Well, wherever y'are, I'm glad you won't be here. That's my farewell message to you, brother."

Johnny smiled. "Sure made you earn your money, didn't I?" "You sure did."

Suddenly now the door opposite them opened and a guard on its threshold beckoned to them. "All right, boys, This way," he called briskly.

AS HE LOOKED, Johnny saw that behind the guard stood someone in the crisp white uniform of the prison doctor, and for a long moment his heart slowed to a dead stop. He gasped, fighting for breath against this blind terror. The guard was trying to pull him to his feet, and from somewhere far off he heard someone saying: "This is it, Johnny. Let's go!"

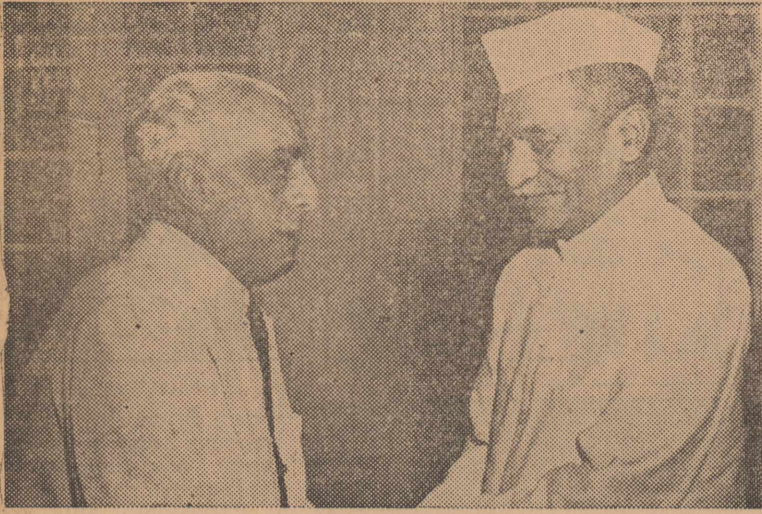

Trembling, he arose and let them propel him to the door. Then suddenly, as he saw the terrible chair, its straps dangling from its arms, he tried weakly to draw back.

"Look at 'em, Doc!" jeered the elder guard. "He's scared silly!" "Oh, yeah?" rasped the victim.

Then with a final vigorous wrench that broke the guard's hold on him, he drew himself together and, with head now defiantly high, marched toward the waiting chair.

With a grin at the doctor the guard returned to the ante-room and closed the door. "Funny, isn't it?" he commented to the younger guard. "Funny?"

"Yeah. I mean how a tough guy like Johnny goes all to pieces when he's got to have a tooth pulled." "Yeah, an' he coulda waited. He gets out tomorrow; but I 'spose it hurt so bad he couldn't wait."

SPEAK SOFTLY, SON.

.....BY ORLAN JONES.....

"HE'S NOT CRAZY, why does he carry that big stick?" Wyatt asked.

"I don't know," Phyllis stammered. "Grandfather is eccentric, but he's not crazy."

They were standing in the center of an oversized living room. Between them was a large oak table that dated back to the War of 1812. Upstairs was Grandfather, who dated back almost as far.

"But we've got to talk about it, Phyl," Wyatt said. "It seems to be what's standing in the way of our happiness."

Suddenly, events seemed to close in on Phyllis. Without any thought of what she was doing, she moved quickly around the table and fell into Wyatt's arms.

After what seemed like hours, her sobs reduced themselves to whimpers, and then Wyatt delivered his ultimatum.

"Seeing you cry doesn't make this any easier," Wyatt said, "but I've made up my mind. It's either me or your grandfather."

Phyllis said quietly. "You've known me since I was five years old, and you know that I won't leave Grandfather."

Wyatt wanted to stalk out of the house. He had known that Phyllis would never leave her grandfather. The town didn't know why, but Wyatt Harrison knew.

Grandfather had come down from his hermitage in the attic of this great colonial home to take over the raising of his granddaughter after her parents were killed in an automobile accident. It wasn't an easy thing that Grandfather did. He was old even then, and he had turned his back on the world and gone into retirement in the attic of his ill-fated home.

There was always talk, because, when Grandfather came out of the attic, he brought the big stick with him. He always carried that stick, and people had long since branded him crazy.

Wyatt used to think he understood the man, but now the old man was standing in the way of his getting married, and he was beginning to think the old man was as crazy as everybody said.

Wyatt was trying to weigh these thoughts as he spoke.

"Well, I guess we'd best break up now. My family doesn't want me going with you because of what everyone says about your grandfather."

Grandfather had come down the stairs quietly, which was unusual. It was as if he had been standing outside the door listening. Most of the time, you could hear him use his stick like a cane with that tell-tale clump.

"Where you headed, son?" Grandfather asked.

"I'm leaving, Mr. Johnson."

"And what might the reason be?" She refuses to leave you; a then there's all the talk about you being crazy. By the way, why do you always carry that stick?"

"Have you ever noticed that this stick has a flat side down toward the bottom?"

"What's it for?"

"This!" Grandfather said, and he raised the stick high and brought it down hard on the seat of Mr. Harrison's pants.

"Now you get over there and take hold of that girl's hand and listen to me," Grandfather said softly.

"There's a place called Cuba where a long time ago I fought with a man named Teddy Roosevelt. Later, when he was very famous, he once said, 'Speak softly, but carry a big stick.'"

The stick went high in the air once again, and when it had reached its destination there was a little yelp from Phyllis.

"Maybe I should have done that some time ago," Grandfather said.

"In case you're interested, I've been achin' to get back up to that attic for about 20 years."

"Can we visit you in the attic?" Wyatt asked.

"I guess so," Grandfather said. "But remember—speak softly, boy."

Liquid Fertilizers — YOU HAVE HEARD CLAIMS

BUT THIS GUARANTEE Means WHAT IT Says . . .

GUARANTEE

American Farm Chemical Co. guarantees full refund to any purchaser of BIGROW LIQUID FERTILIZER or BIGROW SEED STIMULANT if results obtained, when used according to directions, are not superior to those obtained with any other liquid fertilizer of equal strength and price when used in equal formulation and amount. Providing:

- Purchaser makes attached planting report within 30 days of each application.
- Purchaser agrees that request for refund must be accompanied by letter listing bona fide reasons for refund within 1 year of purchase.
- Purchaser agrees that if any soil or any local conditions prevail during growing season (disease, insects, drought, etc.) that significantly lower normal yields, no refund will be allowed. Local County Agents or other recognized authorities reports to be used as basis of refund determination.

Look for this GUARANTEE on all BIGROW Guaranteed Liquid Fertilizer Containers

BIGROW Guaranteed LIQUID FERTILIZER — EASY TO USE (Read carefully)

Apply at rate of 1 to 3 gallons per acre diluted with 5 to 20 gallons of water, depending on type of sprayer equipment available, for fast or foliage absorption. Also through overhead sprinkler system or as side dressing along sides of rows with converted cultivator attachment.

U. S. ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION, January, 1952, "Atomic Energy in Plant Science" reports results of use by college researchers of "tagged" liquid fertilizer atoms in proving that foliage spraying of plant nutrients is an efficient, economical and rapid method of applying a portion of all of the plants' nutrient requirements. Foliage spraying can be incorporated in with insecticidal and fungicidal spraying, thus two tasks are performed at the same time. Foliage spraying of liquid fertilizers is readily adaptable to aerial applications.

Advantages of BIGROW Guaranteed LIQUID FERTILIZER

- For use on corn, small grains, forage crops, legume crops, cotton, peanuts, sugar beets, potatoes and vine crops, etc.
- Applied to the foliage, enters the sap stream immediately to supply the plant with a complete balanced plant fertilizer . . . Plant response is fast.
- Is more economical because it produces more, influences earlier emergence, better quality, higher yield and shortens the growing season . . . Can be used on any kind of crop requiring fertilizer.
- All of Bigrow Guaranteed Liquid Fertilizer is immediately available to plant life.
- Is easy and convenient to handle . . . Eliminates hard, wasted labor as in handling 800 lbs. of useless filler in each 1,000 lbs. of dry fertilizer.
- Cannot be lost by leaching or be blown away or remain in soil, unused.
- Cannot burn or otherwise harm plant life, used as recommended.
- Reduces mortality of young plants—helps them resist blight.
- Can be mixed and applied with 2-4-D, or bug dope.
- Contains trace elements of manganese, copper, zinc, iron and boron, in a balanced, soluble mixture.

Rains Fell Over Area Saturday

Rains varying in amounts from one-half inch to more than an inch fell over most of the trade territory Saturday night. At Stratford one inch of rain was recorded.

Many producers are of the opinion that they received a sufficient amount of moisture to enable growing wheat in their fields to fill. Still other are of the opinion that if they had been fortunate enough to have received the rain about two weeks earlier the yield would have been increased three to five bushels an acre.

Estimated production of producers ranges from 20 bushels to the acre to as high as 40. Most producers however, would be satisfied with a 20 bushel average from their seeded acreage.

Patent Ideas Protected

Many people have good ideas about new or improved machines or gadgets, but never do anything about them because they don't know how to protect their rights while perfecting such items and going through the necessary patenting procedure. Here's what you can do to protect your invention before you have it patented.

Under the patent laws of the United States the person who first conceives of a new and novel patentable idea is entitled to it. Therefore, if conflicting claims arrive as to who is entitled to a patent, it is necessary to establish who first had the idea, not who filed the first application for patent.

Of course, it is always advisable to make application for patent as soon as possible in such cases. But don't forget to protect yourself while you are completing your final drawings and ultimate plans and making such tests as may be needed to perfect your patent. To do this, you should, as soon as you conceive the idea, make a written record of the facts, dating the same, including a general statement of the nature of your invention, and a rough drawing if possible. This should be witnessed by two persons who could be called on later to certify that they witnessed the same on the dates set out in the instrument you have drawn.

Some inventors place such witnessed statements and drawing in an envelop. This they seal and mail to themselves by Registered Mail. Their post office stamps each seam of the envelop in such a way that any opening of same can be detected. Upon receiving the registered envelope and its contents, the inventor merely files it away in a safe place unopened. Then, if a contest should later develop, postal records will lend additional support to the testimony of his witnesses.

By taking the above precautions, you will establish a preliminary date showing the time when your original idea was conceived. After that you can continue with your work, perfect your idea, and after the same is perfected, make application for a patent, if you feel that you have a patentable idea.

One should not just make a preliminary sketch and put it away and think that is sufficient to protect his rights. That is just one additional bit of evidence to help him establish his right to the patent. The patent should be sought as soon as one possibly can after conceiving his patentable idea and working out details of the same.

Fried Chicken

Now that friers are listed on the plentiful food list we need to serve them often for economy, says Lucile King, Home Demonstration Agent. The recipe for the week is:

- 1 frying chicken (disjointed)
- Fat for frying
- Salt and pepper
- Flour

- SAUCE:
- 2 tablespoons melted fat.
  - 2 tablespoons flour
  - 1 teaspoon salt.
  - 1 cup chicken bullion
  - 1 1/2 teaspoons curry powder.

Melt fat in skillet—have melted fat about 1/4 inch deep. Fry chicken slowly until brown on all sides—add more fat if necessary. Cover skillet, cook chicken over low heat for about 20 minutes or until tender.

To make sauce, melt fat, stir in flour. Slowly add chicken bullion and curry powder. Cook stirring constantly until sauce is smooth and thickened—about 10 minutes to blend the flavors. Season with salt to taste.

Arrange chicken on platter with rice cooked with white raisins. Serve with curry sauce.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station has announced that planting seed of Texas 15W, a new white corn hybrid, will be available in 1953.

Milton Morris Is District Lion's Governor

Milton Morris (Buff) Morris of Canyon, Texas is the new District 2-T-1 Lion's Club Governor. He was elected to the post at the recently held Lion's convention in El Paso, Texas.

Governor Morris made a late entrance into the top race last year. His fine showing in that race, together with his impressive record as a Lion, won him the contest this year without opposition.

As a Lion the new Governor is a charter member and organizer of the Canyon Lions Club. He is a master key member, three times a Lion Boss, zone chairman in 1941 and deputy governor in 1950-51. He has initiated organization of numerous clubs, and has attended Lion Meetings from the local to the international levels.

As a citizen Morris is a graduate of West Texas State and Texas Tech. He is an active member of Llano Estacado Boy Scout Council, a member of the Randall County Junior Livestock Show Association, a member of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce, the Canyon Equalization Board, and the First Methodist Church.

At present he is also executive secretary of the West Texas State Ex-Students Association.

Governor Morris is 42 year old, married to the former Cathryn Peterson, and they have one child, Cathryn Ann, age 11.

COMMUNIST MEDICINE

In a recent editorial the Washington Post said, "In considering the various proposals before Congress to give government medicine to various segments of the population, we have to keep in mind where such laws lead. Our Federal planners are jumping the British stage and moving straight to Federally financed medicine, a la Russia."

The Post then described the experience of a doctor who worked in the Soviet Union for 17 years and is now in the United States. In the average Russian community, he said, patients have no choice of physicians, a bureau controls all medical practice and people are assigned to a given clinic. The clinics are further divided into districts each of which has a doctor and a nurse who are supposed to serve 2,000 to 3,000 inhabitants. During office hours the doctor is able to give about five minutes to each patient, because of the crowd. On house calls he can spare about ten minutes. Hospitals are jammed. One result of this kind of political medical care is that the tuberculosis death rate in Russia is six times higher than in the United States.

You can say that conditions would be entirely different here, even under the Administration's compulsory Federal health insurance scheme. But the fact is, and history has demonstrated it over and over again, that a little bit of socialism, a little bit of dictatorship, always leads to more and more. There's one thing the typical bureaucrat can't get enough of, and that is power over the people.

No major nation enjoys health standards as high as the United States. In none is better or more comprehensive medical care available to the masses of people. This is the achievement of free medicine working in a free country. Will we be blind enough to let the politicians force socialized medicine down our throats?

Timely Information

It will pay you to use the proper containers and wrappings when you freeze foods. Miss Lucile King, Home Demonstration Agent, says these should be moisture-vapor proof.

This type of wrapping or container will keep the product from losing its flavor, color, food value and from changing in texture. Double cellophane bags, heavily waxed cartons, plastic cartons, glass freezer jars, aluminum foil and pilofilm are wrappings that may be used for packaging foods.

The point is to prevent evaporation if you want to retain the highest quality in your frozen foods. Remember freeze only the best products because what is put in the freezer is what will come out. Freezing does not improve quality or flavor.

1,800 Expected For Texas 4-H Roundup

COLLEGE STATION—Recognition for achievement and entertainment are the primary objectives of the 1952 Texas 4-H Roundup. The 1,800 4-H club members, local adult leaders and extension agents who are expected to attend will find all planned programs and activities aimed at achieving the two objectives.

According to A. H. Walker, chairman of the Roundup program, the first planned activities are scheduled for Monday afternoon, June 9 and include visits to spots of interest on the campus of Texas A. & M. College. The Monday night program will feature an outdoor party for all 4-H members at the "Grove" and at the same time Chancellor and Mrs. Gibb Gilchrist will honor all 4-H leaders with a reception at their home on the A. & M. Campus.

Tuesday is the big day. Sixteen judging and demonstration contests will be held to pick the state winners in as many different 4-H fields of work. The delegates to the Roundup and the leaders will participate in the program which formally opens the 1952 state meeting and they will hear Dr. G. C. Baker, Jr., chaplain, Southern Methodist University, discuss "Tomorrow's Honors." Periods devoted to group discussions and recreation for the 4-H members will follow the general meeting while the 4-H leaders will confer on "How to be a Better 4-H Leader."

The afternoon session will feature Captain Don Lawrence, Department of Public Safety, with a special program on firearms. Beginning at 2 p. m., a tour of the A. & M. College Campus and the new agricultural facilities will be made. A tea honoring all 4-H members who have won state and national awards is scheduled for 4:30 p. m., Social Room, Memorial Student Center.

The winners, teams and individuals, will be presented in a series of meetings to be held in the MSC between 6 and 7 p. m.

The State 4-H Recognition Banquet is scheduled for Sblsa Hall at 7 p. m. The Sears-Roebuck Foundation is sponsoring the banquet and the state winners and local leaders will share the spotlight. An outstanding entertainment program has been arranged by Mr. C. T. Johnson, southwestern area director for the Foundation.

The Roundup will be officially over after breakfast on June 11.

Devotional Gems

(By N. D. Carter)
Our Gem of thought for today is found in the letter to the Church at Colosse. The Apostle recorded these words, "Set your affections on things above, not on things on the earth." (Col. 3:2). This is only one of the times that the Lord admonishes his people to love and think upon things that are heavenly and everlasting. This teaching is found throughout the Bible. The prophets in the Old Testament preached it, Christ himself taught it, and the Apostles after him plead with his people to practice it. Then, who are we to say that we should first look after temporal welfare and to say further that it is the will of the Lord. It is yet to be revealed in God's word these things, which we say and so often practice, are to be taught. It does teach that we are to work honestly for food and rament to care for our families but this can be accomplished and still have our minds upon heavenly things. As it is written, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and these other things will be added unto you."

Now in seeking the answer to the subject in mind, we find this to be true, that faith and love must be in our heart which is a gift of God and show that faith, love and hope must be cultivated in our minds which is the fruits of seeking heavenly or spiritual treasure. All our earthly goods shall perish with using, they shall decay and come to be without value. Thieves break through and steal, taking them away from our possession. But our heavenly things are eternal and shall not be corrupted, decayed, nor stolen because God is the keeper of them. He keeps them that we may have abundant treasures in heaven. If we seek worldly treasure, then our heart is earthly and even so our affections. If we set our affections on things above, then will our heart and treasure be found in heaven. Speak of a story with a happy ending, this is it and the wonderful thing about it, it is the truest of them all.

The Tideland Veto

The veto of the tidelands bill by the President came as no surprise. The veto message reached the Senate at two o'clock on May 29. At the time I was sitting in the Senate Chamber along with Congressmen Poage, Kard, Pickett, and Teague. We received some of the first copies of the message after it was delivered to the Senate. The reason that the message went back to the Senate rather than the House of Representatives is because the bill that was finally passed was a Senate bill, S. J. Res. 20. The Senate will vote on the question of overriding the veto some time between June 5 and June

10 under present plans. Should the Senate override the veto, the matter will then come to the House of Representatives, where there is no question about overriding the veto. That is, if the Senate overrides the veto, the tidelands question will finally be settled right. Should the Senate fail to override the veto, the matter will not come back to the House of Representatives and the tidelands legislation will have suffered another setback. I say "another setback" for the reason that a failure on the part of the Senate to override the veto does not mean that the issue is settled. This fight will never be relaxed until this matter is settled right and these lands returned to their rightful owners. Much has been said about the present President of the United States being set in his ways and obstinate. Some say this is a basic Missouri trait. Be that as it may, I can tell the President of the United States and all other interested parties that they don't know the meaning of the phrase "set in their ways" or the word "obstinate" until they try to run over a bunch of Texans. That is exactly what they have done and they can get ready to take their medicine. If they think for one minute that we as Texans have ever entertained the idea of submitting to this rank and flagrant misuse of property rights and this legalized larceny on the part of the Federal Government, they are in for the saddest awakening of their questionable careers. The President's veto message clearly exhibits that the infamous greed that prompted this attempted theft in the first instance is still the only grounds upon which they stand in their sordid attempt to justify an act that has no parallel in the criminal annals of this nation. The tidelands steal that began with the reversal of position by Harold Ickes will go down in the history of this country as the greatest crime that was ever perpetrated by a government upon its patriotic and law-abiding citizenry. Nothing can ever erase the black mark caused by the warped philosophy that prompted centralized government scoundrels to make this raid. It can, however, be dimmed by a full restoration of the property stolen, the acknowledgment that a wrong has been committed, a confession by these wrong-doers that they have violated the spirit and the word of the Constitution and the written law of this great land, and a humble request by each of them that they be allowed to re-dedicate their lives to the basic philosophy of truth, honesty, and Americanism. The House of Representatives stands ready and willing to meet its responsibilities to the people of the coastal states who have been subjected to this un-

May we invite you to drive and test the best and most worth-owning engine on the road today? (Chrysler's magnificent new 180 H.P. FirePower V-8.) May we invite you to handle the easiest and safest steering wheel in existence at the moment? (Chrysler's full-time Power Steering.)

May we invite you to try out brakes which require as little as one-third the usual foot-pressure, and still stop you in many feet less than other cars do? (Chrysler Power Brakes.)

May we invite you to sit on the most comfortable seat cushions, and enjoy the fullest window vision you can find? May we invite you to ride on the rough-road miracle of the Oriflow shock absorbers which only Chrysler-built cars have? May we invite you to drive a Chrysler Imperial . . . and learn how much you'd ethical and ignominious treatment at the hand of the Federal Government. I only hope and pray that the Senate of the United States will permit the light of Truth to shine upon its chambers and measure up to the glorious traditions of fairness and justice so necessary for the survival of our union.

In my news letter last week I told you of some incidents concerning the tidelands question that indicate the complete lack of knowledge of the true issues involved. The President's veto message reflects either a total lack of knowledge of the basic principles involved or a deliberate attempt to write around these basic principles and to justify an admitted wrong by question-begging tactics. That the entire tidelands steal was prompted and prosecuted by greed is revealed in the following paragraph contained in the veto message:

"Until recent years little or no attention was paid to the question of who owned these lands under the open sea since they were for all practical purposes without value. But about twenty years ago oil began to be produced in substantial quantities from the submerged lands off the coast of California. Then, for the first time, the legal question of ownership became important and was given serious consideration."

Yes, the Federal Government never claimed title to these lands, and in fact denied that the Federal Government had title to these lands, until long after potential oil development became apparent. The states were permitted to make leases on these lands that were not questioned by the Federal Government, and all of the written law fully supported the state ownership. It was when the vast riches in these lands began to be realized long after the first oil production, that the scheming and conniving minds of a small group of men, prompted by greed and spurred on by a lust for power, conceived the trickery and chicanery that finally resulted in the Supreme Court of the United States pulling out of the hat an unheard of real property law and sovereign power that cast a cloud upon the title to every piece of privately owned property in the United States and its possessions.

Lesson for June 8, 1952

STEALING can be done in more ways than one. The essence of it is keeping some one from having what he should rightfully have, and what he would have if you did the right thing by him. This "some one" may be a railroad company, or it may be yourself.

If you pass your little girl off for ten years old when you buy a ticket when she is really twelve, you are stealing from the railroad. If you waste good money while you are making good money, and never learn to save, so that you become a pauper in your old age, then you are stealing from an old man—yourself in fact.

Money Should Be Good for Something Good
JESUS never bothered to tell people stealing is wrong. They know it. As Billy Sunday used to say so often: "When a man starts to tell you that stealing's no sin, don't argue with him. Search him!"

Jesus said a great deal about property, but most of what he said was positive, not negative; about the right use of property, not its abuse. One of his most difficult parables is the one in Luke 16 known as the parable of the "unjust steward."

On first reading it looks as if Jesus, or the rich man in the story, were praising a man for being dishonest. But we know Jesus would not do this. Dr. A. B. Bruce suggests that what Jesus was driving at was something like this: the employer of the "unjust steward" was not praising his dishonesty but his shrewdness in making the most of his opportunities.

We can all admire the smartness or a rascal even while we are condemning his rascality. We can wish that so much smartness were used for a better purpose.

"The children of this world are wiser . . . than the children of light" suggests that good people are not as smart as they ought to be. Jesus goes on to say, "Make friends by means of the mammon of unrighteousness." That is to say, although money in itself is neither good nor bad, and although money is often used for bad ends, it can be used for good purposes.

The real value of money is the good that can be done with it. Money lost by gambling (for instance) does no good; it is picked up by another gambler who will lose it in his turn. Money spent on an education, on the other hand, or sent to support a foreign missionary, is money invested in a brighter future.

The Pocket-Book Nerve
DR. J. G. PATTON says it's very doubtful whether a man is a true Christian unless he dedicates to God not only himself but what he has. It is easy to say to God, "Take my soul," because (as most people suppose) they have no special use for their souls right now; but it is much harder to say, "Take my money," because most people can think of plenty of uses for their money.

And yet it is never possible to give money to God, of course. He has no pockets, he has no bank account, he does not need to buy anything. When we speak of dedicating our possessions to God what we mean is devoting them to the cause and the service and the purposes of God.

The story of Zacchaeus is a case in point. This wealthy (and none too honest) businessman never did say right out, "I believe in Christ," or, "I want to go to heaven," or even, "I repent of my sins." So far as the story goes he was not even baptized.

Yet Jesus—and who should know better than he?—said, "Salvation is come to this house." Long before this Jesus had said, "By their fruits ye shall know them." And what Zacchaeus said he was going to do with his money was a very good sign of his conversion. When a man's pocket-book has been converted, the man usually goes with it!

Stealing in Church
THE STORY of Jesus and the money-changers brings out something else. Right there in the Temple stealing was going on, and respectable people had done nothing to stop it before Jesus came on the scene.

Stealing can still be done in church. When a congregation underpays the minister or the janitor, they are stealing; or if the minister and the janitor are lazy and no-account, they are stealing from the congregation. No one is free from the temptation.

Presidential Position

No one knows who the next President will be. But whatever his name and party label, he is in for a rugged time.

United States News and World Report recently dealt with what the new President will face in a brief but comprehensive feature article. As is observed, the job offers many unique assets and prerogatives. The Chief Executive lives in one of the most magnificent homes on earth. Legions of assistants and servants are at his beck and call. He is treated with the utmost deference by everyone. Hardly a wish goes unfulfilled. He is paid a large salary and receives a $50,000 a year tax-free expense fund in addition.

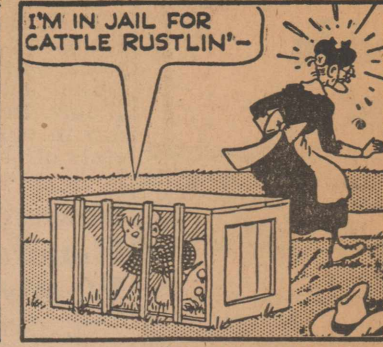

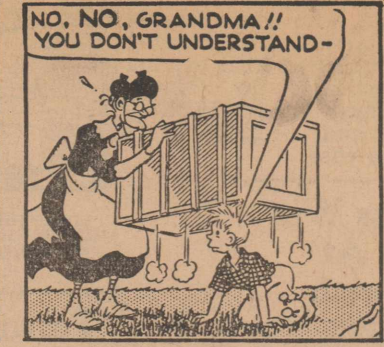

But all these material benefits lost much of their lustre in the light of the enormous problems with which the President must deal, and of the fateful decisions he, and he alone, must make.

The U. S. News article is called "Troubles Ahead For Next President." Here, in capsule form, is the gist of what the magazine anticipates for him:

Debt

Soon the national debt will touch the $275,000,000,000 legal ceiling. The President will have to choose between asking Congress to raise the ceiling or cut the spending. Either way, he will make political enemies.

War

It seems certain that the Korean War will still be going when he takes office, even though it may be relatively passive. This is a stalemate, totally unpopular war. What will he advocate to end it?

Business

Many economists think that the boom is running down. Next year, it is forecast, there will be a substantial decline in industrial expansion. There will probably be a drop in profits, and that will bring a drop in tax collections, making the budget problem still more difficult. The ranks of the unemployed will be swelled. All this may happen very soon after the next Presidential moves into the White House.

Agriculture

Some farm commodities are in a surplus state now. Other surpluses are anticipated. So, as U. S. News put it, "The next President is to be caught between the pressure of city people interested in cheaper food and a farm population insisting that government support farm prices against substantial decline."

Bureaucracy

The President is the titular boss of 6,200,000 people, 2,500,000 civilians and 3,700,000 military. This huge payroll is one of the primary causes of our outside Federal budgets. And here gain the next President must make a difficult decision. In the view of U. S. News, "If he does not cut the payroll and the functions of the government bureaucracy, his financial troubles will grow. If he does cut the payroll, some people will be out of jobs, raising political fuss, and if he cuts functions some group or region will lose a good thing and also will raise a political fuss."

These aren't all of the problems the beleaguered President will face, not by long shot. And great problems we can't even anticipate today may also be his. But they serve to indicate the enormous and unavoidable burdens that are part and parcel of what is accurately described as the biggest job in the world.

Mud Stains

At last it has rained, for which we are very thankful. But up pops a problem, mud stains on clothing. These should be removed at once according to Miss Lucile King, Home Demonstration Agent, who gives suggestions for removing mud:

From clothes: brush off all dry loose mud at once, then wash the stained garment in cool water to get out all particles of mud lodged in the fabric. When no more comes out rinse in warm soap suds. Use several rinse waters if necessary.

From shoes: Get mud off shoes and other leather articles as soon as possible. If mud is allowed to dry on leather there may be stains left which are almost impossible to remove. After mud is scraped off, wipe with a moist cloth until all residue is removed. Stuff the shoes with newspapers or other absorbent paper to help hold the shape, dry slowly and polish immediately.

That brings us to rugs. The agent says scrape off all the mud you can with the dull edge of a knife. Allow the rest to dry then brush it off. Sometimes a stain remains which may be removed by sponging with a damp cloth. The Pentagon covers over 32 acres of space.
