'Federal Officers All Killed By Convicts'

CHIEF BITTER OVER PAROLED MEN'S HISTORY

WASHINGTON, April 17 (UP)—Director J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation today described the capture of Alfred Power and Robert Suhay as "a grand piece of work by local officers."
 Baggage left in a hotel room by Power and Suhay was located in Kansas City. Officers found $6,940.
 Power and Suhay were arrested Friday night in Plattsmouth, Nebraska, after they had shot their way out of a trap at Topeka, Kansas.
 "The capture of these men shows what can be done by unselfish cooperation between federal and local officers," Hoover declared.
 Hoover said the condition of Wayne Baker, youthful G-man, shot when he attempted to arrest the men at Topeka, still is critical. He said federal agents are taking Suhay and Power to Kansas City where charges will be filed.
 Hoover was bitter over the fact that the assassins of Baker were paroled convicts.
 "Every federal agent killed or wounded has been the victim of guns by paroled convicts," he said. FBI headquarters said approximately $5,000 was found on the men when arrested. It was not immediately determined whether the money was part of the $18,402 taken in the robbery of a bank at Katonah, New York last March 12, for which the men were sought.

GMC STRIKES IN CANADA IS ON WAY TO END

TORONTO, April 17 (UP)—Negotiations pointed toward settlement of the General Motors of Canada strike at Oshawa were delayed again today.
 Premier Mitchell Hepburn announced that a conference scheduled with representatives of General Motors and the United Automobile Workers Union may not be held. He declined to explain what was holding up the procedure.
 Another rift came in the form of a statement from Homer Martin, U. A. W. president. He announced at Oshawa that General Motors "must live up to" the agreement signed with his union in Detroit, which settled the strike there.

HOTEL STRIKE IS SETTLED TODAY

CINCINNATI, April 17 (UP)—A two-hour strike of 700 service employees of Cincinnati's largest hotel, the Netherland Plaza, was settled today at a conference between the management and strike leaders.

SWIFT ACTION TO BE TAKEN ON S.U.C. ACT

AUSTIN, April 17 (UP)—Prompt action on a constitutional amendment to bolster the State Unemployment Compensation Act will be sought, state officials indicated today.
 Validity of the act under the present state constitution was attacked in two suits filed Friday by the Dr. Pepper Company and Circle A. Gingenale Company, Colorado Corporations, with headquarters in Dallas.
 The present act was rushed through the last session of the legislature so that Texas might qualify to participate in the national plan. Validity of the act was questioned then, but it was doubted that any suit would be filed. Numerous firms have paid the assessment under protest.
 Attorney General William McCraw was advised today that the suits were formal actions to protect the right of the plaintiffs and would not be pushed pending a decision by the U. S. Supreme Court on the federal acts.

 One major recommendation, Newpardon and parole bill resulted in an act passing the legislature. It differed so greatly from the Governor's plan that it was vetoed. Others have been killed or delayed.

Historical Truth—If True

From a current biography of George Washington, one learns such things as these, among many eye-openers:
That Patrick Henry never said, "If this be treason, make the most of it."
That Ethan Allen never ordered the British garrison to surrender Fort Mifflin in the name of the Great Jehovah and the Continental Congress.
That Washington and other statesmen of his time gambled.

That the well known picture of Washington crossing the Delaware is all wet in its detail—particularly the standing pose of Washington and the flag itself, which was not devised until some time after that event.

That it was not Betsy Ross, but Francis Hopkinson, who originated that flag.

Such revelations shock some Americans. Yet perhaps a great nation, now somewhat used to shocks both military and literary, can bear up under them. Most of this generation have tough enough hides and sturdy enough patriotism not to think their universe is falling to pieces around them when a few accented traditions of early American history are criticized. The thing that matters in the long run, in history or any other field that pretends to accuracy, is truth. It is no use getting mad at an author who challenges accepted versions of historic personages and events. The thing for any objecting reader to do is calmly to challenge the author's new facts. He has authentic documentary evidence for them? If so, what can honest men and women do but revise their historical ideas? The consoling thing in most cases of this sort brought to the attention of the public is that there is seldom anything really important lost in such revision. Our leading heroes still stand as heroic figures, admired and respected for what they were and what they did, and perhaps loved more because they were not altogether perfect and superhuman.

Children Years Ahead

A survey of children in the northern states gives surprising results. The boys and girls are said to be maturing mentally three years earlier than their parents did, and physically three and one-half years. The survey covered only children on public playgrounds, but is thought to be characteristic of children in general. If so, it means that the boy of today is as "smart" at 12 as his father was at 15, and as grownup at 12 as his father was at the age of 15 years and six months. The reasons given to explain so great a development are these:

- Better fresh air;
- Better balanced foods, with green vegetables and fresh fruits in winter as well as summer;
- Better schools;
- Better play;
- Warmer homes, giving the northern children the equivalent of a better growing climate. It is well known that children in tropical and sub-tropical countries mature earlier

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Witnesses appearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee in opposition to the President's judicial plan have warned the country against accepting a reform which might open the way either to the German type of non-parliamentary Fascist government—or the English system of parliamentary government.

Some of the clearest thinkers on the other side agree with them as to the latter possibility, without admitting that adoption of the Roosevelt proposal would in any way bring the country nearer a dictatorship.

Successively within the next decade, certain New Deal strategies would like to see:

Adoption of the Roosevelt plan in the near future—followed by a decline in the prestige and power of the court as an institution.

Ten or 15-year terms for Supreme Court justices, instead of life tenure as at present.

A constitutional amendment such as has been proposed by Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, permitting Congress to override Supreme Court negatives of its legislation.

Eventual removal of the court's power to declare laws unconstitutional.

Theoretically, that would leave Congress supreme in the field of government aside from the executive branch and its veto power. It would result in a parliamentary form of government more similar to the English than the present system. No English court can declare an act of Parliament invalid.

Such predictions are all the more interesting because of the fact that you can find leaders on both sides who agree that the principle of the Wheeler amendment will eventually get into the Constitution. Most conservatives oppose that principle, although some may pretend to favor it as a means of diverting support from the President's plan. Some liberals fear it, believing congressional discretion is not a sufficient safeguard against appropriations of civil and religious liberties.

RECENTLY this writer mentioned the case of an unnamed senator who was understood to be ready to deliver his own vote and that of his colleague from the same state for the President's plan if he were given a certain circuit court judgeship for himself.

Some of Senator Wheeler's political enemies in Montana are said to have whispered the story that the senator described was Wheeler. That rumor is untrue and absurd.

If Wheeler has any personal ambitions in the court fight—say concerning the presidency of the United States—certainly no one can say they have motivated his course. For one thing, Wheeler's record as a fighting liberal stands out over a long period of years. And, for another, Wheeler probably isn't improving any 1940 chances by assuming leadership in the battle against the Roosevelt plan.

Some critics of Wheeler have whispered that he harbored jealousy and dislike of Roosevelt. But the Montana senator denied that vigorously when he appeared before the Judiciary Committee to attack the plan. He pointed out that he was the first senator to come out for Roosevelt's first nomination and had preserved "an exceedingly friendly relationship" with him.

OUT OUR WAY

THE SMALL ITEM.

Here is something more worth thinking about than some of the political issues we think so important. There is nothing in this world more important than children's development. And apparently we're doing better with our children than most of us have realized. The survey, however, should be carried farther. Everybody will want to know whether the children of the South are improving similarly.

'Baby Brother, an Expert Nuisance'

EDITOR'S NOTE—Essay that was first placed at Breckenridge Saturday for Cisco Grammar School by Margaret Ann McDonald.

'Baby Brother, an Expert Nuisance'
My baby brother is an EXPERT nuisance! He bears off the heads of my paper dolls, he hides my papers, and tears up the evening papers.
Donnie is a little roly-poly boy of three. His hair is in red-gold curls and it seems as though every one that passes him has to tumble those curls! His eyes are big and brown, he has a little rosebud mouth. He really LOOKS like an angel—sleep!

He delights in taking my paper dolls and tearing off their heads. He holds up the doll, says "How do you little lady," and off comes her head!

In the corner of the library is a low shelf where Donnie's books are kept. One afternoon he strolled in the library and pulled out his books to read. (He usually reads up-side-down.) After he read awhile, he left the books where they were. As a rule he restores them to their proper places, but that day he was rather rebellious. Mother asked him to put up the books, but he replied "Donnie won't!" He was busily engaged in catching flies. He would say "Fay! fay! Does you want to go to Heben? De dece den!" and down would come the rosy forefinger crushing the fly to death. Mother made him stop and again suggested he put up the books. "Donnie won't!" said the rebel. Mother took up one of the bits of velvet that served for Donnie's hand and bestowed a spat on it. "Donnie will 'es'! Him will!" and away he flew to pick up the books.

One day last summer we were surprised by a splashing sound in the fish pond. I knew Donnie was asleep, but my curiosity was aroused. I ran to the pond, only to find Donnie! He had taken off his clothes and was splashing about as though he were swimming. Mother told me to bring him in, so I brought him in, dried him off, and put him back in bed.

"I wanted to swim wit de feeshes," he explained, "so I tooked off mine clothes and went in."

Wouldn't you call a baby brother like THAT a nuisance?

TRAILER ADVENTURE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Failing with the help of GERRY NEAL, to locate her composition, BETTY HAYNES, abducted by JACK SPEDDON, MARION BRITAIN starts north from San Francisco up the west coast. And suddenly she finds, even though she loves Neal, that he is implicated in Betty's disappearance. So at a small California town she has him arrested.

Next, in Portland, Martha learns that a JOHNNY LINZNIK, scientific underworld character, is involved in the case. Police hint that Betty may have been murdered. Martha goes on to Seattle and there is abducted by Speddon who tricks her into meeting him at a trader camp. When Martha awakens she finds herself in an abandoned warehouse. Her captor, who she identifies as Speddon, shows up and takes Martha to LinzNIK's cabin. There Martha learns that she and Betty have become innocent victims of a gigantic dog ring whose leaders wanted to try out a new trader as a narcotic conveyor and used the girls to make the test.

Martha offers to take Speddon on the grounds that if she doesn't, he will mean inevitable death for both she and Betty. But Martha is adamant. Angered at this defiance, Speddon calls in a stinking Oriental. Horzied, Martha sees this fellow man approach even as LinzNIK prepares to leave the cabin.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXII

WHAT fearful order LinzNIK had issued to the Oriental, she never really knew—and she was never really to guess. For at that moment there was a terrific detonation over the water. The Chinese stopped in his tracks, turned questioning to Johnny Ciznik. The latter's face had drained of its color.

"Ling!" he roared. "Get above!" Standing there, Martha felt the swing of the ship as it altered its course. Bells tinkled somewhere below, and slowly the throb of the engines increased, vibrating the floor plates beneath her feet. She stood there for a moment, too frightened to move—too frightened even to realize that in their hurried exit, Ciznik and Ling had left the cabin door swinging wide. As the ship turned, the door swung heavily, clanged against the wall. It was then that Martha regained her senses, and rushed to the open doorway.

The passage was empty, but above her she could hear men shouting against the wind. Expecting every moment to run headlong into an adversary, Martha walked hurriedly along. Desperately she hoped to gain the deck above, perhaps hide herself during the confusion. Then, as she passed one of the doors which stretched along the passageway, she heard her name called clearly. And it was Betty's voice!

Martha stopped as one stunned. Almost afraid to answer, she answered softly. "Yes . . . it's Martha."

"You can turn the latch from the outside," Betty said. In one sudden movement Martha was inside the stateroom; and so great was her joy at finding Betty that she almost let the door swing tight again. "Wait!" Betty said, clutching the knob. She turned the lock so that the door would not close flush with the wall. "If you'd been in here as long as I have you wouldn't miss a chance like this, sister!"

MARTHA wanted to cry for joy at the familiar, jocular tone. But when Betty turned to her she saw in the blond girl's eyes the unmistakable effects of days of fear and weariness.

"Tell me," Martha pleaded. "Are you—all right?" Betty nodded. "Sure, I'm all right. Handsome Mr. Ciznik has been a little unpleasant once or twice, but I've managed him so far. Have you met Mr. Ciznik, by any chance?"

Martha flushed angrily. "Just now." She took Betty's arm. "Come on, let's get out of here."

"Easy, Mart. There's not a chance. We'd run right smack into them. I tried it once—but this boat seems to have a knack of getting away from the revenue cutters."

"Is that what all the excitement is?" Betty nodded. "You heard a revenue cutter firing a warning shot. After a— She stopped suddenly as the stateroom plunged into darkness. "There go the lights! Ciznik will run without lights, and keep away from their searchlight beam if he can."

"How—how long have you been on the boat?"

"Maybe a week. It seems more like a year—and it may be longer than a week for all I know. They don't want to let go of me, and they don't quite know what to do with me."

"But how did you get up into the Northwest? They told me at the California border that Speddon had driven through alone."

BETTY smiled ruefully. "Oh, no! Little Orphan Annie was lying in the closed rumble seat—and Mr. Speddon's gun was pointed down between the cushions of the front seat with one hand while he handed the dumb officer his license with the other. It seemed to me like we drove 100 miles before he let me back into the front!"

"What made him take you in the first place?"

"It was because of a crazy remark I made. You remember we went back to the service station to ask the attendant if he'd seen Neal? Well, just to make conversation I said I wasn't surprised to have Neal disappear, because the whole job looked suspicious and I wouldn't be surprised if we were working for rumrunners or dope smugglers. Out of a million insane remarks—and I can make 'em all—I had to say that! Speddon wouldn't believe I was joking. He told me I knew too much and that in three days I'd be talking to Ciznik. He tore out of town like mad—and never stopped except for gas and oil and sandwiches."

"You didn't send me any telegrams then?"

"No. That was Speddon. I think he'd have gone back after you, but he was afraid. So he thought if he could keep you happy until you got to Seattle he'd be all right. I did manage to slip you a note—did you get it?"

Martha nodded. "At Portland."

"I don't suppose you could read much of it. I just had half a minute to scrawl it out and slip it to a gas station attendant. I was trying to warn you about Ciznik and Speddon. But . . . Betty's voice grew suspiciously husky in the darkness, "but I don't suppose anything could have kept you from walking into this, anyhow."

"I've found you safe, that's all that matters."

"Safe . . ." Betty repeated the word quietly. "Have you any idea what will happen to us if that government boat should overtake this one?"

"But they'll be too busy to think about us."

"I wish I could believe it," Betty answered. "But when Ciznik recalls what we could tell the police I'm afraid he'll remember, all right."

THEY fell silent at the sudden sound of heavy footfalls in the passageway. They grew nearer, went on down past the door. "That's Ciznik!" Betty whispered. "Betty! He's gone back to his stateroom to find me! We've got to make a break for it. Maybe if we can get up on deck we'll have a chance."

They plunged into the dark corridor, feeling their way along the wall. At the far end they heard Ciznik's swift curses as he realized Ling had left the door open for Martha's escape. "Hurry!" Betty breathed desperately. "He'll turn a flashlight down the hall!"

his parents for a few days. . . . Ohio is a member of a prominent law firm in Dallas.

A pixie prowling around on earth one day was attracted to a pretty human baby asleep and unguarded. He stole the infant and carried it to Pixie Land.

When the pixie queen learned what he had done she summoned the baby-thief to her and said, "you know our laws are strict against troubling human beings. Now I shall punish you by sending you to earth as a human baby." Whereupon, the pixie fell onto his knees and loud were his lamentations.

"Oh, our queen," he pleaded, "don't turn me into a human baby! Make me anything but a human baby! There is no creature so neglected, mistreated and mismanaged as the human baby! That is the way the story runs."

The pixie evidently had prowled to a considerable extent on earth. He had peeked into mothers' hearts and seen angry rebellion because a baby was coming. He had seen babies unloved after their arrival. He had seen them turned over to ignorant nurse girls with vile minds and diseased bodies. He had seen them fed dirty milk from unclean bottles. He had seen them lying helpless in their cribs and carriages.

DRILLING HAS NEW START IN STATES OIL

EASTLAND, April 17.—Rigging up was the report from States Oil Corporation No. 2 G. T. Parrack SW-4 section 7, H. & T. C. R. R. company survey, block 4, seven miles north of Eastland, the county's only new starter for the week.

Oil production from the 2,000-foot level is sought in the operation, the first on the Parrack land for seven years, according to oil men. The well is located northwest of the J. W. Henderson land on which the Dorothy Oil Company No. 3 obtained gas production estimated at 6,000,000 feet recently.

The No. 8 Parrack is located 330 feet from the east line, 250 feet from the south line of SW-4 of section 7.

With the 6 3/8-inch pipe still set at 2,088 feet the Hoffman & Page No. 1 J. S. Dodd, six miles southeast of Eastland, was drilling below 2,240 feet without sign of oil production. Gas production tested at 6,000,000 feet had diminished somewhat, but was still emitting from 3,198-3,132 feet.

The well was planned as a south-east extension from the Garvin D. Chastain No. 1 Brashear test which resulted in pay figured initially over 500 barrels daily. The Dodd is 2,000 feet southeast of the No. 1 Brashear drilled by Chastain.

An abandonment at 1,180 feet was reported from H. H. Schwarz et al No. 1 Hearn, three and a half miles north east of Carbon, Section 8, H. & T. C. survey, block 2. Troubled by bad luck since the start, the Hearn recently had been skidded 40 feet east when the hole was lost.

States Oil Corporation No. 1 H. S. Schmick halted recently at 1,618 feet, had not resumed. It is one mile north of Eastland, section 1, H. & T. C. survey, block 4.

L. L. Welborn No. 2 W. U. Fox, southeast of Eastland and southwest of Ranger was drilling around 600 feet in leagues 3 & 4. McLennan county school land, block 4.

Cox No. 1 O'Rear, four and a half miles east of Rising Star, J. W. Clifton, again was receiving stimulation, according to report. This time it was with acid, the last report on the staling activities had progressed to 2,825 feet. Recently it was shot with 20 quarts in the line, 2,801, 2,818 feet.

Denhardt Ready in Murder Trial

Defense preparations completed, Brig-Gen. Henry R. Denhardt, above, was ready to go to trial in Louisville April 20 on a charge of killing his fiancée, Mrs. Verna Carr Taylor, Denhardt's attorneys announced. The defense contends the attractive, socially prominent widow committed suicide.

140 feet, Anderson-Drewery No. 1 Kate Grist, section 36, Lavaca county school land, block NW 1-4, 14 miles southwest of Cisco was drilling past 1,900 feet.

Still Shutdown was F. J. Estes No. 1 Gentry-Popejoy, west of the Durocher pool and southeast of Ranger. Last report on this well indicated it had been drilled past 2,975 feet.

Magnolia Cashes in On Expert Copy

Magnolia dealers in Cisco, headed by J. B. Pratt, agent, are telling the gasoline and oil users of their section of the quality of the product they sell in a quarter-page ad in today's issue. The ad is a paraphrased reproduction of a double page in a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post by their parent company. The wording is clear, concise and attractive. These men will doubtless be commended by the higher-ups on their enterprise in tying in with this valuable copy, written by experts in advertising fields.

Appeal Taken From Local Option Case

First Grade

EASTLAND, April 17.—Here Friday in the Eleventh Court of Civil Appeals was submitted the case of S. C. Coffee and others against Henry Lieb—an appeal from 42nd district court's March 5 order which held void the January 9 justice precinct 4 local option election in Shackelford county.

In the oral arguments appeared Thomas L. Blanton, Jr., attorney for the appellant, S. C. Coffee, nominal defendant because of his perfunctory duties as Shackelford county attorney in the district court contest proceedings, and G. B. King, attorney for Henry Lieb and others, who questioned validity of the election, appellees in the court action here.

Upon joint motion of both parties, the appellate court here two weeks ago granted advancement upon its docket.

According to statement of faces Lieb and four other residents of precinct 4 of Shackelford county contested results of the local option election.

In the district court proceeding the election was found void on two grounds: (1) For the reason that no proper order was entered by the commissioners' court to call said election and (2) that the notice as given was not for the time required by the law and was not substantial compliance with the statutes of the state.

According to history of the case on December 28, 1936 a petition was presented the Shackelford commissioners court, signed by 49 residents of the territory, asking an election for decision upon legalization of malt and vinous alcoholic beverages not in excess of four per cent, 14 per cent malt and vinous beverages and all liquors.

The order was passed setting the election date for January 9. It is alleged the county judge in his written order failed to include the recitation that the motion calling the election failed to include the motion was made by Commissioner Burnes and seconded by Commissioner McKelvey.

Also alleged is that the order was filed with the county clerk and no notice issued by the clerk until Jan.

6. Notices of the election purportedly did not include a copy of the order as posted in three school buildings. Also charged is the allegation that the notices were not posted six days prior to the vote but on Jan. 6.

The election, canvassed and certified Jan. 11, provided for legalization of all propositions. The four per cent item carried 71 to 56, the second item 70 to 54 and the third 69 to 53.

In the district contest proceeding it is stated only two witnesses produced by the contestant. They had no knowledge of the election was to be held forth is that numerous for the contestees they knew no one except Mrs. R. Vandertore, who knew the election was to be held.

Preferential consideration, an early decision is expected by the appeals court.

Contrary to a quite prevalent opinion the reconstruction of these skeletons is not done by guesswork by a general knowledge of anatomical structure. Although skulls of the above animal have been found, only minor details were made in the original specimen.

SCRANTON WINS BALL GAME ON 24 TO 10 SCORE

The Jaycees played their first inter-community good will soft ball game Friday afternoon at Scranton and took a thorough "cleaning" at the hands of the Scranton boys who proved too much for the city boys when it came to wielding the big stick. The score was 24 to 10 for Scranton.

Edward Lee, president of the Cisco Junior Chamber of Commerce, says there was no alibi for the Cisco boys. There was just too much hitting and the Cisco Jaycees couldn't find them quick enough.

This was the first of a series of baseball games to be played between Cisco and other communities and between communities themselves, some of which Cisco hopes to play on the Cisco field from time to time.

The game was called at 6 o'clock Friday afternoon and this gave ample time for the game before dark. It is hoped to have a double-header played under the lights in Cisco soon, between some adjacent community teams, said President Lee. He also suggests a pie or sandwich supper at the game with the community furnishing the eats and Cisco boys buying them. A splendid idea.

Cisco batteries: Condeley, Boyd, Stamey, pitchers; Carlton Holder, catcher; Scranton batteries: Shrader, Belew.

Cisco players were: Gordon Sherman, Dr. Hubert Seale, Bill Hanson, Horace Condeley, Carlton Holder, George Boyd, Neil Lane, James McCracken, C. C. Duff and O. L. Stamey.

Scranton players were: Shrader, Belew, Bailey, Bush, Hughes, Harris, Speegle, Ledbetter, Reynolds, Black, Cozart, Bailey and Sawyer.

Amarillo Man is Part of Coincidence

DALHART, April 17 (UP)—J. S. Pitman of Amarillo, temporary director of the Dalhart Maverick Club, was part of an unusual coincidence when he first moved to Amarillo.

He told the following story vouching for its truth: Two years ago, he (J. S. Pitman) went to Amarillo as field director for an extension university. He met a man there named William H. Pitman, employee of a laundry. Both noted that the other spelled "Pitman" with a single "t" where most persons of the name used two. Comparisons brought out that they were amazingly similar in appearance and experiences.

The two Pitmans roomed at the same house in Amarillo. When they came to know the same people, they were often mistaken for each other. Both have light brown hair (thin at the same spots) and a red-tinted beard. Both are 5 feet 10 1/2 inches tall and weigh about 185 pounds. Both wear size seven and one-eighth hats and nine and a half shoes.

Although J. S. Pitman was born in Texas and William H. Pitman in Michigan, their lives have paralleled uniquely. Apparently, they are no relation.

Both were born Jan. 27, 1886. Both were married Jan. 17, 1906—U. S. in Texas and William H. in Michigan. Each has a son named Bill and a sister named Mattie. Both worked their way through college as printers' assistants.

Friends of William H. Pitman in Amarillo often stop J. S. and inquire "Are you Pitman?"

Although the identity is mistaken as often as not, the reply always is: "Yes."
