RAYMOND HENRY IS RELEASED ON BOND

LEFT JAIL AS $2,500 BOND IS ACCEPTED

EASTLAND, April 22.—Raymond Henry, charged with murder in connection with the May, 1933, death of H. L. McBee, was released from county jail following posting of $2,500 bond, the sheriff's office reported today.

Henry, confined in the jail since his conviction over a year ago in 28th district court, was permitted to make bond after the Court of Criminal Appeals at Austin reversed and remanded the case in which he was given 30 years. The trial has not been re-set.

Henry was tried and convicted in April, 1936, for the ice-pick slaying of H. L. McBee, highway worker, at Rising Star, and has been confined in the Eastland jail since that date. The state charged that Henry stabbed McBee, that his body was buried, exhumed about three weeks later, and hung from a tree to give appearance of suicide. McBee disappeared from his home and family in May 1933, and was not found until in December, 1934. The skeleton hung from a tree, with tattered clothing still clinging to it. It was later identified by a highway worker's badge which lay on the ground beneath the skeleton.

The former wife of the murdered man was tried for murder also. The state charged that McBee was murdered by Henry because of the love he bore McBee's wife, and pointed to the marriage between Mrs. McBee and Henry within a year after the disappearance of McBee as convincing evidence.

Henry was given a sentence of 30 years in the penitentiary, and the jury could not agree in the case of Mrs. Henry, but stood at three to nine in favor of conviction.

Attorneys participating in the case were Criminal District Attorney Grady Owen and Allen Dabney for the prosecution, R. E. Grantham and J. Frank Sparks.

Labor Controversies Develop Over Nation

TROOPS SENT TO MAINE FOR RIOT BREAKING

AUBURN, Maine, April 22 (UP)—Militiamen armed with bayonet-tipped rifles patrolled Auburn streets in an April snow storm today as local police arrested six CIO shoe strike leaders and charged them with inciting a riot yesterday.

Officers of the Main National Guard said the 450 troops sent here would aid local police.

Powers Hapgood, 37, Harvard graduate and New England CIO secretary, and five other defendants were held on $200 bail each for the grand jury.

The six were arrested as the general shoe strike in Lewiston and Auburn entered its 28th day. All 19 factories opened on schedule today, although union officials said 5,000 of the 6,000 workers were on strike.

Labor controversies developed throughout the nation.

Rioting was threatened at Stockton, California, where canning factories were closed at the height of the vegetable canning season. Fifteen hundred deputized citizens offered to assist canners to operate in defiance of 1,000 strikers.

In Oshawa, Ontario, announcement of a new basis of settling the strike at General Motors Company was expected momentarily. It reportedly would call for repudiation of the CIO by the workers.

Three New York justices convicted 17 strikers on charges of conducting a sitdown strike in the Brooklyn Jewish hospital in defiance of an old law, making it a crime to endanger life of property by refusing to work.

The newly formed American Labor League pledged to oppose sitdown strikes began to working to gain membership throughout the country as a competitor to the CIO.

In Washington the American Federation of Labor's Executive Council met secretly to consider expulsion of unions affiliated with the CIO.

This game which will be staged between two divisions of the squad is a climax to spring training which has been in full swing since track events have released all boys for practice. A good game is expected, said Coach Cooper, since the boys all look good and are tough enough to stand punishment.

Yarbrough, quarter line is Stewart, Center; Walls and Cone, guards; Cullen Harrison and Parks Bailey, tackles; ends, Marcell Harrison and Tom Jones.

Last year the program was one of self-activities, the students themselves furnishing all the numbers without an outside speaker. ### About Our Friends

By STEP A. LONG

THE GUN IN THE HOUSE

MANY cases do you know where burglars have been shot robbing houses? The chances you don't know one. Burglars are punctured while plying nefarious trade. In the first the burglar usually operates nobody is at home; and if the are at home they don't hear and if they do hear him they are so scared to get out of bed; if they do get out of bed they selves are liable to be shot.

THE other hand how many cases do you know where innocents have been slain by fire-intended for home protection? You have a good memory and you lived any length of time, you check off a long list of such cities which have come under personal observation and you name a newspaper page full of cases that you have heard about; home protection guns have killed thousands and thousands of the folks themselves for every invader they have slain.

HERE are persons who have no business with firearms. They are too nervous, too erratic, too irresponsible, too rattlebrained. Think of family man's shooting, with investigation, through the door of his bedroom, just because he has the knob rattle in the night.

A Regenerative Influence

Some time ago some benighted individual with a vicious turn of mind took red paint and daubed on the white stone front of a beautiful temple of worship these words: "God is a fake."

If God is a fake what a lot of good a belief in that fake can do. Did you ever see a community that did not believe in God? Probably you never did, for there are few such in this country. However, in a remote part of a certain middle western state there was such a settlement. It contained not one Bible. The children looked blank when the book was mentioned; they had never heard of it. They were thoroughly familiar with the words of God, Christ, Jesus; they used those words fluently in their conversation; they could not talk without swearing.

The town was a sorry thing. Its buildings were ramshackle, unpainted, filthy was everywhere, physical and mental; vice was rampant; women without husbands had flocks of dirty, sore-eyed, foul-mouthed offspring; rubbish lined the streets; papers and rags stopped up holes where window panes had been; sooty cobwebs festooned walls and ceilings; dirt begrimed the floors; people worked little and stole much. Killings were common. One father, becoming peeved with his eighteen-year-old daughter, kicked her in the stomach until she died. He was not even arrested.

The locality had a school, but nobody took much interest in it. One day a new school teacher came to that school, a diminutive girl five feet high. The children went to school out of curiosity to see the new teacher. After that they went because they liked her. Every morning she opened school with prayer and read from the Bible, a novel procedure. The school board sent a peremptory order to cut out the religion. The teacher replied that the board could get another teacher, but that while she remained she would open the school with prayer and read the Bible to the children. The board backed off and the teacher stayed on.

The teacher decided to organize a Sunday school. She called at every house. She went into places where she felt she was taking her life in her hands. The people cooperated with her. The children and some of the grown folks came to Sunday school. The life of the whole community began to change. The inhabitants tidied up the place and themselves; they fixed the buildings and painted them; they put window panes in the sashes and washed the panes; they scrubbed the floors and swept down the walls and ceilings; they cursed less, they killed less, they stole less, and worked more; there was a general decline in devilment.

If God is a fake, what a lot of good a belief in that fake did for that community.

OUT OUR WAY

'Cowboys are Coming' Is Heard at School

By TOMMY LA MORE

The "Cowboys are coming" This was the cry heard at the high school this morning when it was announced that the Hardin-Simmons Cowboy band was to make an appearance here Friday.

This well-known band has been seen as well as heard in two continents and has gone around the world eleven times. It is the world's most picturesque band and, as the New York Sun said, "This organization is to be seen as well as heard." This band is the best-known band in the world due to its brilliant performance of music as well as stunts that keep any audience in an up-rear. Marion B. McClure is conductor of the band and he is known for his excellent leadership of the cowboys. Featured with the band is John Regan, former cowboy soldier big game hunter vaudeville, circus and rodeo star. Regan is now an exclusive feature of every entertainment of the Cowboy Band. This group was featured at Madison Square Garden and a capacity crowd came out to hear the cowboys from the wild and woolly west.

After the performance of the band in London, the papers shouted that this was a "stunning program" and many were trying to get the band to play in other sections of the country as a program like this has been so little seen or heard in England.

The band is under the supervision of G. B. Sandifer of Abilene home town of the Hardin-Simmons University. The Junior class of the high school is sponsoring the program and a small admission will be charged. Proceeds will go to helping the Juniors in giving the seniors a banquet.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—The way this Supreme Court battle is being fought out, especially with respect to propaganda, bears many resemblances to the election campaign of last summer and fall.

The administration political machine and the Democratic publicity machine under Charlie Michelson, are functioning for the President much as they did then.

The national committee staff has been skeletonized and operates, of course, on a much smaller scale.

The publicity machine, with Michelson at its head and Eddie Roddan and Farmer Murphy at his side, publicizes the cause under the name of "Public Information Committee." The personnel and the Farley organization work in co-operation with the local and county Democratic organizations, the Young Democrats and similar groups.

Instead of the scores of political pamphlets produced last fall they have thus far issued two. The first was a series of questions and answers on the court issue. The second, entitled "Who said THAT about the Supreme Court?" is a compilation of past criticisms of the court by big men from whom you might least expect it.

The man who ran the Democratic radio division in the campaign is still on the job, and the God Neighbor League, under Stanley High, which did good work for Roosevelt among peace church and Negro groups last fall, is at least partly on the job.

Also, that valuable campaign auxiliary, Labor's Non-Partisan League, sends to its key members every two or three days a new issue of the "Supreme Court Calendar," which analyzes court opinions affecting labor, takes shots at opponents of the Roosevelt plan, and supplies material for labor speakers. Recently the League sent to each of 32,000 workers, who were active in the campaign, a handbook for speakers and writers on the court plan.

OFFICIALLY, the Republicans are keeping out of the fight. No propaganda issues from their national headquarters here, and their 19 senators and 89 congressmen, all solidly against the Roosevelt plan, have kept mum on the theory it would be a mistake to enable the President to present the case as a partisan issue.

Actually, anyone with political sense must know that Chairman John D. M. Hamilton and his few but capable aides have been busy behind the scenes recently.

One Republican local organization mailed circulars urging citizens to "write to the following men"—then named 29 "undecided" Democratic senators and George Norris, Nebraska Independent and Henrik Shipstead, Minnesota Farmer-Laborite.

THE big source of opposition propaganda—aside from the Wheeler-Burke-Van Nuyss junta, which organizes witnesses before the judiciary committee and the radio programs, with Secretary Ben Siern in Van Nuyss' office serving as a sort of clearing house—is Frank E. Gannett's National Committee to Uphold Constitutional Government.

The NCUCG recruits citizens to telegraph or write Congress, organize local committees, distribute literature, organize protest meetings and contribute funds. Early in March Treasurer Sumner Gerard of Gannett's committee, reported 600,000 petitions and 400,000 "progress reports" had been mailed out. Petitions had been placed in the hands of 170,000 clergymen.

Etching Stolen
And Abandoned

CORVALLIS, Ore. (U.P.)—Corvallis
State College students and faculty members are breathing easier now.
A genuine, priceless etching
"The Little Nude Figure," by Whistler, was back in a traveling art exhibit cabinet after having been stolen recently.
Apparently frightened by his act, the thief, after cutting the etching from a frame while on exhibition in Kiddr Hall, abandoned it on a spot on the campus
where it was recovered.

Hills Inn was in prog-Every person—young or old—was of any social value
in Hills was at the Inn, the
him and debonair in spotless
and tux, the women glam-
and luxurious in gleaming
and glittering metal cloths.
Green Hills was one of the suburbs within the met-
New York area, and the dancing at the Inn was undoubtedly the gala event of the season.
The party was
away, and the stag line,
by just the proper num-Scotch and sodas, was per-in splendid form. The of Green Hills were proud
men. Perhaps a little later would be those who might —some to seek rest for feet in the smoking room chairs, some to fall into the unconsciousness which one any Scotch induces. But as the evening was unspoiled.
Stewart's orchestra, imfrom a three weeks' en-ment on Broadway, swung
the lively strains of "A Fine Tune." The older women took they preferred these faster
The quick rhythm stirred blood; it proved that they step around just as lively as the year-old girls, despite the children at home.
MILLIE SANDERS, frisking by
in the arms of Jerry John-glanced over her shoulder at his wife, Laura.
"Who's that lovely blond with Andrews?" she asked Laura slyly, slowing Jerry down so she might catch the answer.
"That's Henry's secretary, I'm Laura replied. "I've never her before."
"Isn't she lovely? Jerry, don't think she's lovely? Look, that girl dancing with Bob..."
Jerry looked. He saw a slim, fair-haired girl, and even to untrained masculine eye it did fitting that she should be in rich black velvet, unapproved save for the gardenias at her shoulder. Her eyes were bright, clear blue, and the depth of their color contrasted vividly with the fairness of her skin. She looked to Jerry like a girl who had just stepped out of some rare painting, too delicate for this whirl of dancing.
She's a beauty, all right," he said Millie enthusiastically.
"I wish I had a heart to break
the faithful old heart, Millie, I think I'll park you over here by myself and cut in on her myself."
Millie laughed good-naturedly.
"You're not the only one thinking that. Every eye on the stag line is following her, but Bob has stepped out of the way. You haven't chance, Jerry. Better be contented with me for a while."
Millie was right. Every time Bob Andrews approached the end of the room, where the girls were gathered, a dozen pair throat whenever she struggled to hold her feelings in control.

HE waited until Jim Neil came abreast of him again, then he stepped forward and apped him on the shoulder. With a casual "Hello, Phil," Neil surrendered his partner. Philip guided his sister's steps into the center of the floor without speaking. With light mockery in his tone, he sang softly the words of the orchestra's
selection:
"A fine romance, with no kisses—
A fine romance, I think this is..."
"Keep still!" Sybil snapped abruptly.
Her brother laughed.
"Nice of me, wasn't it, to give you a chance to be yourself?"
He whirled her past Bob Andrews and Joan Barrett, smiling graciously at Joan as he did so.
"If you have to be jealous, Sybil," he murmured, "why must you look the part, for every cat in Green Hills to find it out?"
"That little upstart!" she whispered through clenched teeth. "I don't see why Bob hasn't better taste than to bring the office help out here."
"I'm afraid it goes deeper than that, Sybil," Philip said, not unkindly.
He felt her arm, resting lightly
on his, go tense.
"It can't!" she said defiantly. "I won't let it!"
Philip said nothing. He felt a little sorry for Sybil. He knew, as no one else had ever guessed, how desperately—and how futilely—
she had loved Bob ever since that first evening, five years before,
when their uncle had brought the young man home to dinner. "The best bond salesman the company
ever had," Uncle John told them
then; now, five years later, Bob Andrews was a junior partner, with every prospect of heading the Hendry organization eventually.
He was as striking in appearance as Sybil; he had the same dark, blue-black hair, the same straight classic features, the same flashing smile. But there the likeness ended. Where Sybil's eyes were mysteriously cold, no matter how gayly she smiled, Bob's were warm and twinkling. Where she was superficially gay and charming and calculating, with a quick smile to serve her purpose,
he was naturally and sincerely
friendly, with as hearty a grin
for the bootblack who shined his shoes as he had for his wealthiest customer.
For five long years, Sybil had loved him. Because of his association with her uncle, they were constant companions; he was a thoughtful and attentive escort.
Yet, despite every effort she had put forth to deepen their relationship, he was still as unattainable, as impersonal, as he had been on the occasion of their first meeting.
He was the one thing in life which she craved above all else; his love was the only thing of which she had ever been deprived.
And now, it seemed, he was ready to throw it away on some designing, throll-faced stenographer.

SHE started, and, for one brief instant, he read the answer in her eyes. Then his arms were about her, his lips seeking hers.
At first she struggled against him,
then slowly, in resignation to a force stronger than her will, she gave herself up to the full ecstasy
of his embrace, and his heart quicken to this chance of being alone.
Joan raised her eyebrows in mild surprise. "Why?" she asked, smiling up at him. "Don't your neighbors like me?"
"Like you!" They walked over to the porch railing. Below them on the terrace, the evergreens, festooned with gay red and green
and yellow lanterns, gleamed brightly, and the reflection of the lights lent a glow of colorful enchantment to the porch.
"Like you?" Bob repeated, linking her arm more tightly in his.
"Every man in the place is ready to eat me alive for keeping you to myself this way."
Still looking down at her, he caught the beauty of that moment
mirrored in her wide blue eyes.
"Joan, darling," he said with infinite tenderness, "do you know that you're the loveliest girl in all the world?"
"No. But I know that I'm the happiest—tonight." She smiled wistfully.
"Won't you share it, my dear?"
"Joan dropped her eyes under his intense gaze.
"I could be the happiest man in the world tonight," he went on.
"You could make me, Joan."
When she did look up, there were tears glistening on her eyelashes.
"Bob, my dear! It's so impossible—so utterly—
"Impossible to love me?"
The music stopped abruptly. For a brief second there was a breath-

EASTLAND, April 22 — A full schedule for the remaining semester faces 60 members of the Eastland high school senior class, who are due to receive diplomas Friday, May 1, at graduation exercises.

DREAM OF GLORY SHATTERED
TOKYO (AP)—A 19-year-old former office boy with ambitions to become a champion ski performer took a short cut by having three gold cups made and engraved with the inscription, "Winner of the Japan Ski Championship." Police spoiled the lad's enjoyment, however, by arresting him and charging him with theft of the gold.

of a man's seeing a figure on the veranda outside of his bedroom and firing without finding out something about it. One fellow did that not long ago and killed his wife who had stepped out for a breath of air.

LOADED guns are left here and there. Little children and big children get hold of them and kill themselves or others. Somebody starts to clean a gun, or load it or unload it, and shoots somebody else as dead as a mackerel. A man pulls a shirt out of a bureau drawer and a pistol tangled up in the garment falls to the floor, explodes, and kills his mother-in-law. Some folks might not consider that so bad, but there are many men who love their mother-in-laws.

"Little Dutch" Meyer will sign a Chicago Cub contract as soon as he receives his diploma May 31. The second is that Sam Baugh will get a $7,000 professional offer. Which offer, if it should materialize, will most certainly pull him away from his 1937-38 job as Frog freshman coach. The third rumor is that T. C. U. is about to sign a contract with a "Big Shot" Pacific Coast football eleven for a game out there in 1940.

Sam Baugh, who has put the Horned Frogs into more newspaper headlines than any other athlete in the history of the school, has finally been elected to captaincy.

His diamond mates have named him baseball captain. Sam will have nine varsity "Ts" at the end of the current school year—three in football, three in basketball and three in baseball.

NATIONAL AWAKENING URGED TO CRIME TREND OF YOUTH; MOST LAWLESS AGES 15 TO 25

By THOMAS J. COURTNEY
Cook County State's Attorney

(Copyright, 1937, by United Press)
CHICAGO, April 22 (U.P.)—No more important problem confronts us today than the serious problem of youth in crime.

The cost of crime in the United States has reached gigantic figures in dollars. If we attempt to compute the cost in human values, in the wreckage of lives, in innocent victims, in the blighted future of felons, in human material lost and wasted we will find it impossible to state the cost to the individual to the family or to society.

A tragic development of our day is reflected in the fact that more than half the inmates of reformatories and prisons are between the ages of 15 and 25. Dividing our prison population into two-year age groups, the largest of all is that of young men and women 19 and 20.

On the calloused professional criminal on trial in the criminal court, none would waste sympathy. A different reaction occurs to the picture, sorrowful and pitiful, of the youthful offender at the bar of justice to the tragic scenes of boys and girls who go through my office as state's attorney every day in the criminal court building of Cook County to be started on their way to jail.

Calls Picture Appalling
Automobile thieves, robbers, burglars, rapists, felons, murderers, before they are old enough to vote—an appalling picture to contemplate.

The "young punk" as the police calls the youthful offender, is not only a sad and tragic phenomenon of our time, but is such a serious problem that attention must be focused upon him without delay. He is a product of the broken home, the poverty stricken family, the lack of moral training, the indifference and selfishness of parents.

He is a product, if not a victim of heredity and environment. The development of character in the youth of our country is fundamentally the responsibility of the home, the school, the church.

Young criminals, the "punks," learn too late that the supposed glamour and romance in crime are wholly false—they learn too late that there is more excitement and adventure in clean games and sports.

Cases Follow Same Pattern
What happens before a boy or girl is brought into court charged with a serious crime? Most of their histories are monotonously the same.

First there is a small robbery or a misdemeanor. Nothing happens to them and they try something else, only something to give them extra pocket money. Gradually they join others in more serious crimes. Finally, they are caught and it is too late to save them. When they come from prison, in spite of every effort they may be hardened criminals.

Last year 8,115 persons were committed to the Cook County jail. Nearly 4,000 of these were under 30. More than 1,600 were under 21. A regrettably large percentage were between 17 and 23.

Were it possible, I would bring every third and fourth year male high school student into court once or twice a year during the progress of a criminal trial. There would be demonstrated to them the cost of crime—not in dollars and cents—but in human suffering and wrecked lives.

Answers Parental Objections
Some parents may rebel at the thought of their sons and daughters being potential criminals, and might be resentful if they were invited to attend criminal trials. These parents might well be confronted with criminal statistics which disclose that many criminals come from good homes—homes where they have had the advantage of loving parental care, comfort, education and ample spending money.

We have demonstrated in Chicago that the predatory youthful gangs can be broken up; and that the "Fagin" who would teach our youth the steps in crime can be jailed where they cannot carry on their nefarious activities.

I am firmly of the opinion that with the vigorous leadership of our law enforcing officials, plus the cooperation of a citizenry aroused to the seriousness of this problem, the crime of youth can be minimized and the "young punk" eliminated.

The Well-Dressed Pantry Shelf 'Wears' Home-Made Strawberry Jams and Jellies

WHAT will the well-dressed woman wear this season? Well, brighter colors, it appears, and deeper-crowned hats. But equally urgent at this moment, now that the strawberry season is at its height, is what the well-dressed pantry shelf will be wearing! Plenty of home-made strawberry jam and jelly is a certainty... and then a generous number of glasses of other delicious spreads made from fruits as they appear throughout the season.

The time is ripe—and so are the strawberries and rhubarb. A short season, a limited crop, makes every minute count just now... And the minutes spent over the jelly kettle are so ridiculously few—with results so swift and so certain when these recipes are followed minutely.

Strawberry Jelly

4 cups (2 lbs.) berry juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
8 cups (3 1/2 lbs.) sugar
1 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare juice, crush thoroughly or grind about 3 quarts fully ripe berries. Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Squeeze and strain juice from 1 medium lemon.

Measure sugar and fruit juices into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1/2 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 12 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Rhubarb and Strawberry Jam

3 cups (1 1/2 lbs.) prepared fruit
4 1/2 cups (2 lbs.) sugar
2 boxes Sure-Jell

To prepare fruit, trim and slice fine (do not peel) about 1/2 pound small red-stalked rhubarb. Grind about 1 quart fully ripe strawberries, or crush completely one layer at a time so that each berry is reduced to a pulp. Combine fruits.

Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a 5- to 6-quart kettle, filling up last cup or fraction of cup with water if necessary; place over hottest fire. Add Sure-Jell, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. (To reduce foaming, 1/4 teaspoon butter may be added.) Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 7 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

AGRICULTURE BILL RAISES HOUSE TEST

WASHINGTON, April 22 (UP)—Consideration of the $927,000,000 agricultural supply bill today raised the first direct house test of President Roosevelt's new economy program.

Representative Clarence Cannon of Missouri, chairman of the subcommittee, said the appropriation confirmed with white house plans. He pointed out that the bill carried $5,000,000 less than budget bureau estimates.

Echoes of the economy drive were heard in the senate where Senator Carter Glass of Virginia charged that the administration over-estimated the nation's unemployed, so "the department can get as much money as they can and distribute it as widely as they can."
