Picketing Continues in Hollywood Strikes

TEN STUDIOS AFFECTED BY CRAFT STRIKE

HOLLYWOOD, May 5 (UP)—A series of minor disturbances occurred today when picketing was resumed at ten major motion picture studios, by striking members of the federation of motion picture crafts who have accepted support of the Committee for Industrial Organization.
At the MGM studio, two laborers, James Farlow, 22 and Robert Miller, 22, were arrested on charges of disturbing the peace. Culver City officers said the men became angry at the jeers of the pickets and started challenging them to fight.
Charles Lessing, strike leader, said that the offer of the CIO to send steel, automobile and rubber workers into the picket lines around the studios had been accepted. The EMPC is linked with the American Federation of Labor.

Pet Pig Eats Way To Short Existence

WEST FALMOUTH, Mass. (UP)—Mrs. Charles Burke's pet pig has eaten itself into its own doom.
Mrs. Burke raised Chester, the pig, from a baby and it grew as tame as a kitten.
After its regular morning meal, Chester would stroll into his mistress' pantry, push up the bread box cover and help himself to the contents.
Now Chester weighs 300 pounds, so off to market he will go—much sooner than his less voracious brothers and sisters.

A Shelter Belt Birthday OKLAHOMA STRIP THRIVING IN THIRD YEAR

Thriving magnificently in its third year in spite of drought, this shelter belt section in Oklahoma is just one of many which have been or will be planted in a swath 100 miles wide from Canada to the Texas Panhandle. The trees are planted in strips 100 yards in breadth across the belt, wherever experts think it necessary to diminish dust storms and retard face drainage. Between the strips, farming is carried on as usual.

LIONS HEAR PROGRAM; DISCUSS BAND TRIP TO OKLAHOMA MEET

Two recipient of high school and other honors were introduced at the Lions luncheon program today followed by a discussion of the band trip to Oklahoma City sponsored by the Lions club as a sequel to honors won by the Loboes at the band tournament at Lubbock.

Otis Lomax, Cisco representative to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Brownwood, gave his declamation on "My Home Town" that won him the right to speak for Cisco next Monday.
All available information was sifted following the program, as to best methods of transportation and ways and means of sponsoring this trip scheduled for the national music assembly May 14-15. After discussion, President Grantham asked for a meeting of directors and special members to further discuss the matter following adjournment of the lunch program.
The club voted to send Mothers Day letters to Mothers of Lion as per the usual custom. Lion Joe Lea Moore was in charge of the program.

NEW COUNCIL TAKES CHARGE IN UPRISING

PERPIGNAN, French-Spanish Frontier, May 5 (UP)—A new provisional four-man Catalan "directory" government took charge today at Barcelona, Spain, in an effort to settle an anarchist uprising in which hundreds were killed or wounded, dispatches from Barcelona said.
In the new government, Luis Companys was retained as president of the autonomous Catalan state against which anarchist elements revolted.
The "directory" took office immediately and declared an intention to maintain law and order.
Unofficial estimates at Barcelona reported 250 killed and wounded, but said the new government had the "situation in hand."
The composition of the new government does not necessitate the withdrawal of 12,000 Catalan troops from the Saragossa front in the Spanish civil war dispatches indicated.
Barcelona radio stations were heard here appealing for doctors to hasten to hospitals where hundreds of wounded lay unattended. Appeals also were broadcast for volunteers to give blood transfusions.

WOMEN AND CLUB GIRLS PLANT ORCHARDS

County home demonstration agent reports that many home demonstration club members and 4-H club girls are providing for the future by setting out fruit trees, grape vines, and berry plants.
A farm fruit plot cooperator of the Grandview 4-H girls club of Johnson county, Ruth Foster, has stratified 200 peach seed, 300 plum seed, and 100 apricot seed. The seed are already sprouting, and will be set out in an orchard plot. In addition, Ruth took berry vines scattered over the farm and planted them in rows where she can cultivate them.
"I made a cutting bed and started five fig and 15 grape cuttings," reported Edna Mae Wells of the Rose Hill 4-H club in Dallas county. Edna Mae has 25 berry vines and has stratified pecan and peach seed which will be set out in her orchard next year.
"Peach and plum trees have shallow root systems," said Jeanne Mae Doss of the Rockdale 4-8 club in Miami county. For this reason, Jeanne Mae recommended to the club members that their orchards be cultivated with disc, spring tooth, or spike harrows to prevent cutting the feeder roots.
Vegetables have not been forgotten. Mrs. Ray Hickey, president of the East Breckenridge home demonstration club, has installed 30 feet of subirrigation tile in her small house garden. She grows a row of tomatoes on each side of the tile and small vegetables such as radishes, dwarf English peas, bush beans, and lettuce on top of the tile.

Business Outlook For Cisco

The outlook for Cisco during the summer and autumn months looms very bright from an employment standpoint, and the circulation of more government money. Nearly $25,000 for fish hatchery improvements, employing 67 men for a period of eight months, the immediate construction of the football stadium at a cost of around $12,000, also giving employment to much labor, the looming of work on the east end of the highway change through Cisco, that is expected to be followed immediately by the overpass construction, all mean prosperity.

Employment and money spent to circulate among business concerns of a town are things that enliven any community commercial life. People need employment, and money brought in from the outside adds to the good feeling and prosperity of that citizenship.

FISH HATCHERY

The fish hatchery project will add to the efficiency of that portion to Cisco's recreational facilities by making the plant capable of supplying the vicinity with possible fishing efficiency. The employment of labor and spending of outside money helps the business pulse to beat faster and more optimistically.

FOOTBALL STADIUM

The building of the football stadium adds to Cisco's sports possibilities and emphasize them in the district in which we play. The employment and outside funds, result in a better atmosphere in the community life.

EAST CISCO HIGHWAY

The highway building will do all of these things and allay unrest among business along the proposed route and the route to be abandoned. It will add to the stability of business by this mental certainty of where the route will be established, permanently.

OVERPASS

The overpass will do away with the long outgrown wood affair, too narrow for automobiles, bringing a construction of beauty and permanence to that part of the city. The financial end of the matter fits in with other projects that release new money within our borders to circulate and rejuvenate our waning business life.

Verily, this should end a very prosperous year for business concerns who are alive to their own interests and a dghater that which surrounds them.

'Torture Rock' of Indians Unearthed; Shattered Skulls of Victims Nearby

By GEORGE R. MORRIS, JR., United Press Staff Correspondent
ETCINGTON, Conn., May 5 (AP)—A "torture rock" upon which were placed English captives and enemy warriors sentenced by the ferocious Pequot Indians to be brained with clubs has been discovered on the farm of John L. Davis, who divides his days between farming and gathering relics of the Vanishing American.

The discovery, together with the excavation near the rock of many teeth, jaw bones and fragments of shattered skulls, is considered proof of the contentions of early American historians that the Pequots were the most ruthless and barbarous of Indians. Davis, an archaeologist, found the rock near what was formerly a village of wigwams.

The Davis collection of Indian relics, considered the second best in New England, contains more than 400 arrowheads which once imperiled the air as the Pequots, always seeking territorial expansion, clashed with the Narragansett Indians in April, 1632. Bows and battle axes have been found. The war arrowheads are distinguished by design from those used for hunting. The former were so shaped that once they sank into enemy flesh only the shaft was removable but the arrowhead used for hunting could be pulled out for use again.

Two complete skeletons, in sitting positions in graves of oyster shells, were excavated on the farm. Prof. Norris Bull, Hartford, says these are the only Indian burial skeletons ever uncovered. The dishes were buried with the warriors for use at their first meals in the "happy hunting grounds."

The skeletons were estimated to be 400 years old. Davis permitted photographs of the Indians in their graves to be taken. He gave Prof. Bull one of the dishes. Then he had the graves with their dead covered, leaving them exactly as they were.

The Davis collection contain pottery, 26 swordfish vertebrae used by Indians as beads; tomahawks, Indian tools of crude construction; a yellow jasper scraper with deer-foot design on the back; a soapstone pipe; gouge for scraping arrow shafts; flint knife, black graphitic and red paint stones, used by braves for war paint and by princesses for beauty enhancement, and many other curios.

INDIANS TO OPEN DUDE RANCH

Plans under way for operation of several dude ranches over the large Indian territory this summer.

AFRAID to LOVE

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOAN BARRETT, heroine, secretary to John Hendry.
JOHN HENDRY, mining investment head.
BOB HENDRY, Hendry's junior partner and Joan's fiance.
CHARLEY NORTON, associate John Hendry's niece and Joan's rival in love.
PHILIP HENDRY, Bob's brother.
DOROTHY STARRKE, Joan's childhood friend.
CHARLEY NORTON, California mining promoter.

HE was still chuckling to himself this morning as he came in through Joan's office. "So you're running off on Saturday," he said, for the 20th time. "Think you can get all that work cleared up first? I doubt it. Not with your mind in the clouds the way it is. . . . Heaven help you, young lady, if you get my investments all muddled. I'll take it out of your husband's pocket, so help me, I will."

He laughed, continuing on into his own office. At the door he hesitated, and called back: "I'm expecting a Mr. Norton—Charley Norton—from Sacramento. Show him right in, will you?"

Remembering what Bob had said, Joan pondered over Mr. Norton. A close friend of Mr. Hendry's, yet this matter of the Bella Terra mine might be a little shady. Since Bob's return, he had said little about it, and she had not asked, probably because they were so completely involved with their own personal plans.

Norton arrived shortly after 10 o'clock. As he entered her office, she looked up in sudden surprise. She caught her breath sharply, remembering an old woman's words: "A tall, dark man. And Death."

Charles Norton was unquestionably the tallest, darkest man she had ever seen. He must have stood every bit of six feet four—a powerfully built giant of a man. He had a heavy mass of black hair, and his eyes were dark and piercing. As he looked at you, they seemed to burn deep into your mind, as if they could read one's most secret thoughts.

Joan ushered him into Mr. Hendry's office and the two men greeted each other heartily. She shut the door and returned to her desk. For a moment she stood there, thinking, against her will: "A tall, dark man. And Death."

She forced herself, presently, to get to work. She was being ridiculous. Utterly ridiculous. It was the man himself, she decided, whose personality haunted her.

AN hour or so later, Mr. Hendry's buzzer over her desk sounded. She picked up her notebook and went into his office. Norton got up graciously and offered her his chair.

"We'd like to draw up an agreement," Mr. Hendry stated, "a sort of tentative option on the Bella Terra mine. Oh, this is Mr. Norton, Miss Barrett. . . . There's a chair for you, Charley. Bring it over."

To Joan, he remarked, jovially, "You wouldn't think, would you, that Charley Norton and I projected together 40 years ago? No,

I tell you, there's nothing like living in the open mountains to keep a fellow young. . . . Now, about this option—"

He dictated for several minutes, interrupting himself occasionally to discuss some point more fully with Norton. Joan took the notes quietly.

"I, . . . and he it further agreed that Jacob Small, sole owner of the Bella Terra mine, shall be paid—"

He broke off abruptly. "Say, Charley, I still don't see why he has to have 40 thousand in cash. That's no way to do business."

Norton shrugged his enormous shoulders eloquently. "I've tried to talk to the old fellow about that," he said. "But he's set. One of the old-timers, stubborn and ignorant. All he can understand is so many pieces of gold in his poke. If he could get the entire amount in silver dollars, he'd rather have it so. You know the type, John. They can't read or write to any extent, and a certified check is just a bit of paper to them. They want cold cash."

"I know, Bob told me. Well, if that's the way it is, I guess we'll have to agree. Forty thousand dollars—even in cash—is dirt cheap for the property." To Joan, he said: "Fix that up for us immediately, will you? We want the lawyers to go over it this afternoon."

SHE took the notes back to her desk and began typing them. For half an hour or so she worked steadily. Finally she took the completed sheets into Mr. Hendry's office.

The two men were talking quietly as she entered. ". . . there'll never be another partner like Jeremiah Jordan," Norton was saying, reminiscently. "Jeremiah Jordan! The name burned itself into Joan's memory."

"What happened to the fellow who did it?" Vaguely she heard Mr. Hendry ask the question. "Oh, they got him, all right," Norton went on, complacently. "Convicted him on a clear-cut case. He was finally hanged at San Quentin. . . . That must be all of 10 years ago."

Somehow, Joan managed to place the papers on Mr. Hendry's desk and get out of the office unobserved. Back at her own desk, the room spun crazily, and terror once more held her in its icy, relentless fingers.

Jeremiah Jordan was the man for whose death her father was hanged at San Quentin, 10 years ago!

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, May 5 (AP)—A rise in the posted prices of crude oil is expected confidently early in May. If it materializes promptly it will be a "way out" for legislators who are trying to find an answer to the state tax problem.

The state oil tax is levied in such a way that the state revenue goes up whenever oil prices advance above a $1 a barrel. The tax rate is pegged so the tax cannot go below the dollar rate by a switch from a percentage of value to a flat levy of 2 1/2 cents a barrel when oil sells for less than $1 a barrel.

A sharp rise in oil prices would bring a corresponding increase in state revenue from oil production. Oil, gas and sulphur seem to be selected pretty definitely as the sources for whatever additional taxes are found to be necessary. Gypsum is mentioned frequently on the Senate floor but that is principally for the purpose of nagging Sen. Ben O'Neal, who is in the embarrassing position of supporting Governor V. Allred's natural resource levies and having large gypsum interests in his senatorial district.

Latest summary of appropriation bills indicates an increase of $8,000,000 in the state's two-year running expense. The increased taxes put on oil, gas and sulphur will make their tax payment for 1937 $4,000,000 more than 1936, according to estimates of John T. Smith of the Texas Tax Journal. An increased price for oil would be another argument against additional taxes.

The indication of a balanced budget, without tax increase, does not provide either for reduction of the state deficit nor for enlarged participation in the national social security program. Governor Allred asserted this week that his tax statement had distorted in debate. He issued a reminder that he had said new taxes would not be needed for ordinary purposes but had called for new taxes to reduce the deficit and carry on all phases of social security.

President Roosevelt's proposed cruise in the Gulf of Mexico has brought to mind several Texans who resemble the president. Charles P. Petet, secretary of the Texas Railroad commission, was mistaken for the president while visiting in California. Charles E. Holloman, manager of the traffic bureau of the Houston Chamber of Commerce, recently was pictured as ha "double" for the president. While both Petet and Holloman bear a strong resemblance to Mr. Roosevelt, it is remarkable that they do not look at all like each other. This is because Petet looks like the president from a full-face view. Holloman's resemblance is in profile.

Secretary of State Edward Clark recently tendered a dollar bill for a souvenir program at Mrs. Martin Johnson's exhibition of jungle pictures at the University of Texas. The programs were 25 cents each.

"You owe me six bits," Clark said as he handed the usher the bill.

"What's six bits?" asked the puzzled program seller, returning the 75 cents.

Condition of the state capitol, begun in 1882 and completed in 1888, was described as "awful" to the Texas Senate in an effort to get $750,000 appropriated to repair it. The departmental appropriation bill carried $51,000 for various repairs, including strengthening the 311 foot dome, installing a sprinkler system in the basement and replacing some wooden floors.

Those who had thought the big granite walls were good for ages had a surprise. Sen. Joe Hill, Henderson, chairman of an investigating committee revealed that the granite has a highly combustible sediment in it and that the walls would crumble under intense heat. He revealed also that the limestone rock upon which the capitol walls rest is disintegrating. The southeast corner, he said, is most affected.

Legislators are most fearful of the ceilings. Both House and Senate chambers have glass ceilings. The glass is two inches thick and each section weighs about 700 pounds. One fell several years ago in the Senate chamber. Others need constant watching because 200 reported leaks in the Capitol roof let moisture reach the metal frames in which the huge glasses rest. A night meeting of the senate recently was interrupted by a hail and rain storm. Members rushed from their seats to stand under the galleries.

Rep J. E. Winfree, Sr., Houston, mixes business and pleasure. A strong advocate of horse racing, he established a stable near Houston. Naturally, he fought repeal of the horse race gambling statute, proposed by Rep. Bryan Bradbury, Abilene.

He named the next colt foaled in his stable, "Bryan Bradbury." This week he fought long but unsuccessfully to override Governor Allred's veto of Harris county flood control tax remission. "The next colt is going to be named either 'Veto' or 'Flood Control' Winfree announced less than an hour after the adverse vote was taken. House members added: "He'll do it, too."

Sen. Grady Woodruff, Decatur, thinks the Texas Legislature sometimes is inconsistent. He pointed to a vote to increase an appropriation to combat predatory animals while at the same time there is a bill pending to establish the Big Bend state park and create a haven for the wild beasts.

FFCCS—E. M. Prewitt will represent FFCCS in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce for 1937-38. He has been nominated director in the regional organization by the local Chamber of Commerce and will be elected at the annual WTCC convention in Brownwood May 10-12.

Virginia Dare's 350th Birthday to Be Commemorated; Historic Fort Raleigh Reconstructed for Celebration

MANTEO, N. C., May 5 (UP)—A six-weeks celebration commemorating the 350th birthday of Virginia Dare, first white child born on American soil, will be held here this summer on the scene of the famed Roanoke Island "Lost Colony."

For more than a year, residents of Roanoke Island have been laying plans and making preparations for the celebration, which is expected to attract many tourists and out-of-state visitors. Invitations to attend have been extended to President Roosevelt, King George VI of England, ambassadors of all foreign countries, and other prominent persons.

Fort Raleigh, built originally by members of the first English colony in America, has been restored, accurate in every detail, with its stockade enclosure. Historical items of interest, including the home of Gov. John White, executive of the ill-fated colony, will be on exhibit.

The Roanoke colony, from England, settled on the North Carolina coastal island, on Aug. 18, 1587. Virginia Dare was born, the first white child of the new world. She was the daughter of Ananias Dare and Eleanor White Dare. Her mother was a sister of Gov. White.

Virginia, Gov. White was called back to England because of trouble there with Spain. His intended return to the American colony which he had governed, was delayed several times by various affairs, and when he returned years later, no trace of the colonists, including Virginia Dare and her parents, remained.

Only visible evidence that they had been there was the ruins of Fort Raleigh, which contained their homes, and the word "Croatan" carved on the trunk of a tree near the fort.

The mystery of the disappearance of the little group never has been solved. Conflicting theories have been advanced, but none has been supported by conclusive evidence as to the fate of the colonies and Virginia Dare.

Present-day Roanoke Islanders are looking forward to the celebration with added interest since word has been received that Paul Green, native North Carolina playwright whose works have been Broadway successes, plans to present a new explanation of the word "Croatan" carved in the tree in a pageant he is writing for the celebration.

a major part in preparations for the 350th anniversary celebration. They have been employed almost exclusively in the work of restoring Fort Raleigh and the other historical buildings and according to those supervising the work, have displayed unusual talents for the job. In addition, many will take parts in the pageant with members of the University of North Carolina Play-makers.

The pageant, depicting what is known of the life of the lost colony, will be presented for nearly six weeks, beginning on July 4, with the climax on Aug. 18, the actual birthday anniversary of Virginia Dare. An open-air amphitheater built to seat 5,000 persons has been constructed by native workers for the show.

Money to finance the celebration was raised in part through sale of 25,000 Sir Walter Raleigh-Virginia Dare half-dollars issued by the U. S. Mint. A donation also was made by Dare county, named for the little girl born.

Settle Down for Spring Drilling

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UP)—Syracuse University's football candidates have settled down to serious work in the current spring drills under the direction of Coach Ossie Solem.

Solem beginning his first season as head coach at Syracuse, is being assisted by Clarence Munn, former Albright College head coach; Bill Boelter, Solem's right-hand man at Iowa and Drake and Charles (Bud) Wilkinson, quarterback for Minnesota last fall.

After a short period indoors in March, Solem has moved his squad outdoors where he plans extensive drills calling for considerable scrimmage. Solem plans to install the Minnesota system of play.

Working with a squad that suffered heavily by graduation after winning only one game last season, the new Orange mentor is faced with a real task.

TATTOO MARK EVIDENCE - YAKIMA, Wash. (UP)—Age tattooed on an arm of a youth, accused of perjury when he attempted to obtain a liquor permit helped the county prosecute its case against him. The tattoo mark showed he was 20 years old instead of 21.

More Wives Enter Non-Support Charge

CHICAGO (UP)—Domestic Relations Judge George B. Weiss notes that improved business has sent a record number of wives in pursuit of husbands for non-support.

When a broadened business picture started an increased flow of funds into the pockets of errant husbands, forgotten wives who had seen non-support cases crumble in the dust of the depression renewed agitation for support, Judge Weiss said.

He estimated renewal of these forgotten cases has increased work of the social service department 21 per cent.

About Our Friends

THE elder brother buried the elder and forgot about the land. But all of a sudden somebody punctured a gusher just beyond his line, and he sold the sand his brother had left him for $150,000. Not every one who stands by a kinsman and cordially invited him to come and make his home with him.

THE elder brother came and he wept copiously and declared that he didn't deserve such kindness. But the younger brother only laughed and clapped the elder brother on the shoulder and told him to forget it and cheer up, that blood was thicker than water. So the younger brother and his wife took care of the elder brother as long as he lived, which wasn't long. When the elder brother came to die, he said to the younger: "I haven't any way to repay you and your wife for your goodness to me. All I have in the world is a few acres of sandy land out in the poorest part of Texas. It isn't worth a hoot, but I'm going to leave it to you anyway."

But all of a sudden somebody punctured a gusher just beyond his line, and he sold the sand his brother had left him for $150,000. Not every one who stands by a kinsman is going to come into possession of $150,000 worth of crude petroleum, but all the same, kinsfolk are folk to stand by and to stand in with. If a man fails to value his blood relations, he is overlooking something good.

KINSMEN should mean more to folk than any other kind of folk. That is a spiritual law. Relatives may fuss and fight among themselves, but all the same ties are there which cannot be broken. There are obligations there which cannot be ignored or set aside.

A MAN may scrap with his people, but when he gets into trouble it is those same people who will come to his help when no one else will. They will step into the breach and say "Here am I" or words to that effect. Kinfolk should be valued; they should be cherished. A man who has none of his own can tell you exactly how much you should think of yours, if you have any.

AGUA CALIENTE TO OPEN MAY 8 ON NEW BASIS

By ARTHUR N. SUVERKRUP
United Press Staff Correspondent
AGUA CALIENTE, Baja, Cal. (UP)
Racing with its accompanying pari-mutuel betting is returning to Agua Caliente after an absence of nearly two years.

In the stables which until a few weeks ago were inhabited only by lizards, spiders and the shades of the great horses of turf history—Fhar Lap, Victorian and Sun Beam—Fiel flesh and blood animals—stock sleek and carefully groomed today.

On May 8 the bugle will summon the horses to the post at the $3,000,000 Agua Caliente turf club for the first time since that July day in 1935 when President Cardenas' ban on gambling resulted in a wholesale evacuation of this once swank resort.

Games of Chance Barred

But when the horses parade to the post here again, and the Mexican sun reflects from brilliant racing silks and the gowns of beautiful women there will be no accompaniment of the rattle of dice, of the click of ivory ball in a roulette wheel.

Although President Cardenas has granted permission for pari-mutuel betting—without which it is always said horse racing cannot exist—he has not reined in his decision to ban other games of chance.

Rumor after rumor that Caliente was to re-open followed the Cardenas ban on gambling but it was not until early this year that Gen. Normie, prominent California turfman and one-time manager of Jack Dempsey, actually obtained official permission to resume racing here.

Labor Issue Arises

After he acting for a syndicate, had obtained that permission from the Mexican government it was necessary for Normie to complete negotiations with the Mexican labor union, known as CROM which had obtained possession of the track and buildings in litigation over wage claims.

Six hundred horses are quartered in the stables. The weed overgrown lawn of the club house has almost miraculously, it seems, retained its former verdure. The rain marked mud rutted racing strip has been restored to its former nearly perfect condition. The great club house overrun with spiders and insects and its fixtures buried under deep layers of desert dust has been renovated and repaired.

Normie will operate his opening meet on a four-day-week basis with maximum purses of $5,000 for handicap events. The track will operate on that basis until July 3 when it will suspend racing, except on Sundays, during the meeting at Del Mar, Calif., where Bing Crosby, of the radio and screen is head man.

May Have 100 Days of Racing

After Del Mar closes July 31 Normie hopes again to open on a four-day-week basis and run until 100 days of authorized racing has been exercised.

But with the return to life of the jockey club the $10,000,000 hotel and spa adjoining the track still remained closed. Giant gates shut off the now cracked, weed-choked concrete highway leading to the beautiful buildings, patio and swimming pool.

Despite recurrent rumors to the contrary, there is no indication of returning life there—for there is no indication President Cardenas will relent in his ban against gambling which closed the once ornate "gold room" and swank casino of the hotel which the astute Baron Long constructed.

Behind the buildings of the jockey club the championship golf course, where the largest purses in the history of the ancient game were the prizes which lured world's greatest stylists, is overgrown with weeds.

The once soft and verdant putting greens are withered and baked; the golf shop with its wide, cool porches has been turned into a mercantile shop, and the pro-shop is closed, its lockers cobwebbed festooned, its windows glazed with dust; the fairways are overgrown and the sand-traps cracked and drying mud-holes.

SHARING URGED OF AAA AID BY TENANT, OWNER

DALLAS, May 9 (UP)—A two-fold attack on the problem of farm tenancy in the South is recommended by Dr. J. T. Sanders, assistant director of the Resettlement Administration in Texas and Oklahoma.

To swing the trend from tenancy toward farm ownership, he urged improvements in the type of tenancy while making purchase of farms easier.

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration should guarantee tenants an equitable share in all government payments, Dr. Sanders said, and should demand fair treatment of tenants by landlords before permitting rented farms to participate in AAA programs.

"The deplorable defective, short-term credit system of the South must be replaced at a reasonable interest rate," he said, "such credit should be safeguarded by a more balanced type of farm organization in which cash crops are replaced by stable livestock enterprises."

High Interest attacked

"One thing is certain, that annual rates of interest ranging from 20 to 50 per cent for store credit and from 10 to 20 per cent for other credit cannot characterize other credit in the South, as has been the case in the past if we are to promote ownership."

Dr. Sanders reported in this connection that the South now tends toward an over-production of corn, replacing the cash crop—cotton. The South had 10 per cent more acres planted in corn during 1935 than were planted in cotton. While he commended the practice of growing feed for work stock, Dr. Sanders

A new million-dollar array of buildings will be in use this summer when the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta opens, "bigger and better than ever," on June 26. In the picture appear the Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum seating 6,000 (on left); Trail Drivers Tower, 208 feet high, and right; Municipal Auditorium, seating 2,500. The handsome structures are only a few hundred yards from Casa Matana where Director-General Billy Rose will present a magnificent, new revue.

Scotland Yard Seeks Women Police Again

LONDON, (UP)—Scotland Yard once more is advertising for women police.

Although applications have been pouring in from all types of women, including university graduates, most of these have been discouraged by the stiff requirements.

A woman candidate for the Metropolitan Police Force must be a paragon of virtue intellect and beauty.

The qualities she must possess include a sound heart and lungs, good sight, hearing and speech, fine teeth, clear complexion, free from all physical defects, an alert mind, grace of character and disposition, with emphasis on cleanliness, tolerance and sense of humor, and the ability to wear well any type of clothes from rough country tweed to the most elaborate evening dresses.

Legislation to permit tenants to keep improvements made on the farms they operate, when such improvements are made with consent of the landlord.

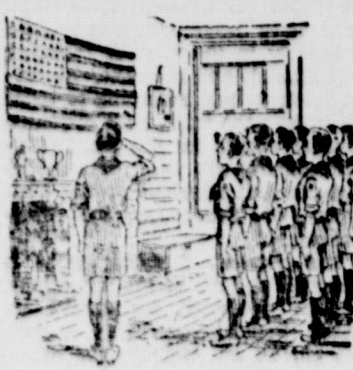

A tax on farms re-sold soon after a previous sale—to curb speculation in farms.

Resettlement Sees Second Birthday

Within the past several days two new Troops have been organized in this Council. The first application for Charter to arrive came from Marion Smith, Scoutmaster of the new Troop No. 21 in Comanche Trail Council, Scoutmaster of the new Troop No. 21 in Comanche Trail Council, Scoutmaster Harry M. Cawley; Troop Committee-men: Eiland Fagan, Sammie Waisman and J. H. Arthur.

The application for Charter from Troop No. 32 includes the names of the following officers: Scoutmaster Charles Rutherford; Troop Committee-men L. C. Cash, R. W. Lawrence and L. A. Henning.

This marks the end of the second year of the Resettlement Administration, which, in Eastland county, has made $75 loans to farmers for a total of $199,354.

George I. Lane, county supervisor, announced that during this two-year period the Resettlement Administration has also made 974 non-repayable grants in the county for a total of $17,543, in addition to the loans.

The supervisor said when Resettlement Administration was set up two years ago, its first job was to take over farm families formerly on relief, and to make these families again self-supporting. Details of farm and home management worked out with each family backed by loans for the supplies, livestock and equipment.

"More than 18 per cent of farmers have incomes ranging $100 down to less than the typical member of this group," the supervisor said, "spends on average only $1 a month for medical care." He pointed out these families can develop power, if properly financed, to provide.

Many farmers included Resettlement program last year before known what to grow a garden or to own chickens," the supervisor said of them had no team or settlement plan worked year enabled such families to buy 25,590 horses and 7,932 milk cows. There were planted 19,762 gardens and more than five million dried meat and vegetables, as more than three and a half million cans. A total of $7,500,000 worth of supplies were made during the past two years of the Resettlement Administration. The number of payable grants was 163,900.

AT YOUR FRIENDLY MAGNOLIA DEALER

Carolinian, 94, Looks Back on Life As Pioneer, Soldier, Postman, Farmer

DUGAR GROVE, N. C., May 5 (AP)—Wauatuga County's oldest resident, 94-year-old Newt Banner, divides his life into five sections all filled with excitement, he says. The sections are:

1. Pioneering.

2. Fighting with the Union Army during the Civil War.

3. Farming and carrying the U. S. mail.

4. Living in the far West.

5. Farming again at Banner's Elk where he has resided nearly 50 years.

Father of six children, Banner has 27 living grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Born at Germantown on Oct. 8, 1842, Banner helped his family clear the Banner's Elk section of the state, which derived its name from his family and the great number of elk roaming the neighboring mountains in these days.

Banner served during the Civil War near Nashville, Tenn., and in Louisiana and Alabama.

He weighed only 74 pounds when asked to join the Union Army. He refused me, but I got in by telling them I would go back and get the rebels if they refused me," he said.

"The soldiers on both sides," Banner related, "were good friends generally. We would often slip off at night when the armies were close together and exchange coffee for tobacco and swap yarns."

After the war he returned to farming for two years, then took a mail job which lasted six years. He returned to farming a short time, then sold his Banner's Elk home and headed west, arriving finally in Oregon with 50 cents.

There he lived six years cutting down trees. He returned to Banner's Elk, settled down to steady farming.

In 1879 the west again called and Banner tried farming in Washington. But, he says, the "hot winds" ruined his crops, so he returned to North Carolina.

Scrap Metal Theft Rises; Prices Go Up

EL CENTRO, Cal. (AP)—Europe's and Japan's intensive armaments building program is alleged to be having very definite repercussions on the increase in crime in America.

Sheriff R. W. Ware charges that the increased thefts of farm machinery, brass, cast iron and pipe fittings is due to the increased price which foreign governments are now paying for scrap metal of all kinds.

PETERSBURG—Petersburg Chamber of Commerce has named Joe Mayo as this city's speaker in the My Home Town speaking contest to be held at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in Brownwood May 10-12.

WOMAN LUSITANIA SURVIVOR LEARNS YEARS LATER THAT MAN WHO GAVE LIFEBELT TO HER WAS VANDERBILT

FERNDALE, Mich., May 5 (AP)—A woman passenger on the ill-fated S. S. Lusitania recalled on the 22 anniversary of the great wartime tragedy May 8, how she owed her life to Alfred G. Vanderbilt, New York socialite who died in the disaster.

For years, Mrs. George McDougall, wife of a Ford Motor Company employe, had no idea of the identity of the passenger who took off his own life preserver and handed it to her just before the vessel listed and sank.

Recently, Mrs. McDougall read a magazine article by one of the Lusitania survivors which related that Vanderbilt had given his life belt to an hysterical woman passenger.

"I was the only woman on the deck at the time," she recalled. "He came up to me, took off his life belt and handed it over. I remember that a steward shouted to Mr. Vanderbilt that there wasn't much time."

Mrs. McDougall said she had been in the ship's dining room when the first of two German torpedoes struck the Lusitania. She went on deck to witness scenes of almost indescribable terror. Mothers were wrapping their children in blankets, tying life preservers around them and throwing the children overboard.

Mrs. McDougall recalled that a great wave washed Vanderbilt overboard shortly after she had received his life belt. She herself toppled into the sea when another wave broke over the promenade deck.

She lost consciousness and drifted for almost five hours in heavy seas. Unconscious, Mrs. McDougall was picked up for dead by sailors of the British cruiser Juno and taken to a morgue.

A man seeking the body of his nephew in the morgue pulled the sheet away from Mrs. McDougall's face. He noticed a muscular twitch in her hand and advised physicians. Mrs. McDougall was taken to a Queenstown hospital, where she recovered.

The most harrowing part of her experience, she related, occurred when the great vessel sank beneath the waves.

"The ship went down nose first and the suction drew me toward it," Mrs. McDougall said. "It drew

Junior Carnival to Add Attractions

By TOMMY LA MORE

With the ducking stool and a large size show as added attractions the Junior carnival is being rapidly rounded into form for their big street showing on the night of May 7.

This ducking stool has been secured and is expected to draw much attention. Male members of the faculty are to sit on this stool while persons throw a baseball at a peg that releases the chair and dumps the sitter in to a large tub of water. With the large side show "More Fun" the students hope to draw more people to this enjoyable entertainment. All schools will have a part on this program and the rhythm band of the West Ward school and the Cotton Pickers band of the high school will also have a part in this attraction. Many booths and stands will be a part of the program. Home-made pies and cakes will be sold along with home made candy and pop. Stores of the city will arrange their own booths and entertainment.

The country store is another feature of the show and many bargains will be offered to those buying tickets.

Proceeds from this show will be used to help the Juniors in giving the Seniors their annual banquet.

High School News Items

At the chapel period this morning at the high school plans and arrangements for the Junior Carnival were told to the student body who were in favor of this undertaking by the junior class. All students were urged to bring contributions for the country store as this part of the program promises to be one of outstanding part.

Friday Program
All students were urged at the chapel period to have their parents present for the All-Community program that will be held on Chesley field. Students and parents are to bring their lunches and lemons and spread them for the dinner meal. With the lemons donated there will be served barrels of lemonade made to go with the dinner. Following the eating and speech-making there will be a baseball game between the Cisco high squad and the Putnam high team.

Baseball
The football training season has closed for this spring and the only spot that is holding the attention of the students is the playing of
