About Our Friends

By STEP A. LONG

How that school is out what in the world is a poor editor going to find for news? Since the boys touch practically every family in Cisco, no theme is of greater interest or importance than things national. We like to give our teachers who find pleasure in their work and whose praises are often unsung.

Teachers are now going away to summer training schools or to snatch moments of rest from the strain and tension of the past nine months, and those teachers have been at school. Without throwing bouquets at anyone, it is the general consensus of opinion that this has been the most successful of any term in many years. Teachers have on their toes and students have been engrossed in their work. Intensely that principals and others tell us discipline has not been a problem at all. This is always true. When it becomes necessary for a school to spend its energies in keeping order, there is nothing radically wrong with the thing force. Of course new teachers may sometimes find that previous training has made problems for them to overcome. But when children are kept busy from proper teaching and lesson assignments, they have no inclination to use trouble.

Now we are not sure whether the school should go to the school board superintendent, principals, teachers, parents or parents, but in a term as successful as the past one, perhaps it is credit enough for all and we will line you all up in our way and give you all a medal of honor.

Of course some of the male members of the faculty will be out fishing and we expect the usual stories of the big ones that got away and the small ones brought home. It is teachers, we wish you a happy vacation, whether it be work or play. Since you are all to come back, we greet you again this September.

There goes Duff now, possibly one of those little fish.

FOREIGN VETS RECEIVE NINE NEW MEMBERS

The Veterans of Foreign Wars entertained with a barbecue Wednesday evening on the occasion of adding seven new members from the Rising Star, Eastland, Gorman and Carbon. J. H. Mitchell was elected with a cap and gold button.

The drill team from Abilene gave an obligation to G. W. Walker, Rising Star; C. A. Timmons, Eastland; Joseph Timmons, Eastland; T. Bow, Gorman; E. T. Perrette, Cisco; D. C. Martin, Carbon; C. B. Stout, Gorman.

H. Mitchell was awarded the cap and gold button for securing new members to the organization this year. The following were chosen delegates to the state encampment at Beaumont, June 20-24: E. Personette, J. H. Mitchell, L. Vaughn, and C. A. Timmons. Visitors from Brownwood attended.

Brownwood Woman And Husband Shot

BROWNWOOD, June 3 (U.P.)--Domicile troubles were blamed today for a shooting yesterday ten miles north of Brownwood, in which Mrs. Whit England, 38, was killed and her husband, 42, was wounded seriously.

In Frontier Fiesta Sweetheart Contest

Any one of these four beautiful girls might become Texas Sweetheart No. 1 in another week, after the state-wide contest Saturday night. They are: Top, Miss Clara June Kimble, left, representing Eastland, and Miss Helen House, Cisco; bottom, Miss Tommy Wesley, Olney, and Miss Mary Alice Pryor, Austin.

THREE SOFT BALL GAMES WILL FEATURE THIS WEEK'S SPORTS

The Oil Belt Soft Ball league will have its opening game for Cisco Saturday night at 8:30; when Ranger plays Cisco on the local lighted soft ball field. The game scheduled for Ranger last night was rained out, said Director W. E. Cooper, Cisco Coach. All of these games will run nine innings.

Eastland's crack team of girls soft ballers will invade Cisco Friday night to again test the strength of the local girls. The first game between these teams was very one-sided for Eastland, but the Cisco girls have been having regular practice since that time and a better showing is expected.

The city league game tonight will be between Nance Motor company and Scranton. This is expected to be a hard fought game and many thrills will dot the card. Good pitching, good batting and expert fielding will be features of the match.

Frick Continues Dean Suspension

NEW YORK, June 3 (U.P.)--Dizzy Dean's suspension from the National League was continued today by President Ford Frick after a 2-hour conference by Dean, Frick and Manager Frank Frisch of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Dean was suspended yesterday for "conduct detrimental to the best interest of baseball." Specifically he was supposed to have made remarks derogatory to Frick and Umpire George Barr.

Today Dean denied having made the statements attributed to him and refused an apology for them, and also refused to sign a statement that he had been misquoted.

Miss Louise Statham is visiting relatives in Dallas this weekend.

REPEALISTS TAKE FIRST ROUND TODAY

AUSTIN, June 3 (U.P.)--By vote of 18 ayes to 13 nays the senate accepted the Brabury house race repeal bill. The bill which passed the house Tuesday must go back there for final passage.

AUSTIN, June 3 (U.P.)--Race parliament repealists won the first test in the Texas senate today as 16 of 31 senators voted to sustain Lieutenant-Governor Walter Woodul in holding out of order a bill included coalition of bookmaking, dog racing and other forms of gambling.

Woodul previously had held that the repeal bill by Senator G. H. Nelson of Lubbock was within the Governor's call. Nelson offered the bill by Representative Bryan Brabury of Abilene, already passed by the house.

Apparently having sensed that a senate fight would be made to legislate on all gambling at one time, Governor Allred personally brought to the senate a message. In it he "officially" promised to submit bookmaking and dog racing "after the parliamentary repeal law is passed."

DUST BOWL IS MASS OF MUD AFTER RAINS

The great midwestern dust bowl was a wallowing expanse of mud Thursday.

A flood rolled eastward from the Rocky Mountains, gathering new force from general downpours.

A new federal co-ordinator appointed to direct the work of pre-government agencies spending $5,000,000 a month to rehabilitate the country, found the dust bowl eliminated, at least until the sun dries out the soil again.

The rains gaged as high as 8 inches in one northwestern Texas cloudburst and driving rains were general over the five states of the dust bowl. The damage to highways, railroad tracks, bridges and farm buildings was estimated at more than $250,000.

Trains were re-routed today and highway traffic detoured around several inundated sectors.

The new federal co-ordinator was Roy Kimmel of Amarillo.

SUPREME COURT DECISION VITAL TO OIL OPERATORS

Cisco oil producers and lease owners are affected by a decision just announced by the Supreme Court of the United States which sustains the right of an operator to assign specific oil to the lease-holders and exclude the income from this oil from his income tax return.

The case was an appeal of W. A. Thomas, internal revenue collector for the Dallas district, against J. J. Perkins of Wichita Falls, oil producer. The Supreme Court upheld the decision of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals which in turn had reversed Judge William Hawley Atwell of the Federal District Court at Dallas. In the Circuit Court the revenue bureau had lost its attempt to assess additional taxes against Perkins and his wife, Thomas then appealing.

Started in East Texas The new method of paying for lease, which the Circuit Court held and may be followed by other oil operators in the future, was evolved by Perkins and his associate, W. J.

MONTE, France, June 3 (U.P.)--A plea, almost a prayer, for happiness, peace and privacy was voiced today by the Duke of Windsor after his marriage to Mrs. Wallis Warfield, for whom he gave up the British throne, defied his church and went into exile.

The man who was king for 326 unhappy days, was married in the flower-banked Chateau de Candé. There was a civil ceremony by the mayor, Dr. Charles Mercier, and services of the Church of England by Rev. Robert Anderson Jardine, rural Yorkshire clergyman, who defied high church authority.

A few hours after the wedding the duke and his bride departed, smiling and happy, for their honeymoon in Austria. They left by automobile to board the Express from Paris.

Before starting on the honeymoon the duke issued two statements, one describing the happiness of himself and his bride, and the other pleading for consideration, understanding and privacy.

One statement was read to reporters by Herman Rogers, who gave the bride away. It said:

"The duchess and I wish to thank all those who so kindly sent us presents and good wishes.

"After the trying time we have been through, we now look forward to a happy and useful private life, and to that measure of peace that we hope will be granted to us."

The world-wide interest in the wedding was evidenced in the announcement by Rogers that the duke and duchess had received more than 2,000 telegrams of congratulations.

It was an impressive marriage ceremony, with an under current of emotion. The fifty odd guests could not help but think of the sacrifices which Edward had made.

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K. SHEARER
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 AUSTIN, June 3 (UPI)—Strategy of Gov. James V. Allred is convening in the Texas legislature on Thursday has been ferreted out at last.

By starting on May 27, the 30 days allowed for a special session of the legislature will expire on Friday, June 25. Scheduling the start and consequent finish, this way, instead of the usual beginning of a session at the opening of a week provides two more days on which the legislature will be required to give preference to a house bill, which the horse race repeal bill will be.

There would have been as many 'house bill days' under a call for a session starting Monday or Tuesday, but the first two would have been useless because a house bill could not be expected to reach the senate immediately.

Wednesdays and Thursdays from time immemorial have been set aside for house bills in the senate, and for senate bills in the house. Joint rules for many past sessions have so provided. The same provision was in the joint rules adopted for this session but Governor Allred's veto of the rules left the special session of the legislature, as well as the regular session, without new rules. Parliamentarians say that as a result the house and senate are operating under the joint rules of the 44th legislature because the 45th legislature adopted them temporarily.

Regardless of the joint rules separate house and senate rules make the same specifications in regard to considering bills.

The importance of gaining two effective house bill days in the senate is apparent upon reviewing the successful fight against race repeal during the regular session. Opponents of race repeal first were caught off guard by having repeal offered as an amendment to a seemingly innocuous bill to regulate track employment. After that, the entire opposition battle was to prevent the bill again getting before the senate in preferential position on house bill days.

Similar strategy appears likely for the special session. Allred has planned to make the way easier for the repeal bill and harder for its opponents by withholding other topics so other matters cannot be given a preferred position. The bill will be driven through the house as quickly as possible in order to reach the senate in time for house days next week.

The opposing move is to seek a long public hearing, delaying the bill's progress to the senate. By this means the bill might be kept from the senate for the first half of the session. Another committee hearing could be called in the senate, with further delay.

Success or failure of the bill seems to hinge on whether the senate or the governor will waken first under public pressure. Senators report they have had no appreciable public demand for action on the repeal bill since the governor asked constituents to communicate their wishes. One senate member said he had three requests for race repeal, ten to let racing alone. Another said he had a number of requests for race repeal at the state of the regular session, one for the special session.

The pressure that the governor will have to resist is the demand for submission of other topics. Individual members will seek the right to pass local bills. Demand for a private motor carrier act to supplant a resolution of doubtful validity is continuing. Some other legislation also will be needed to justify the cost of the special session. Allred himself has put the session's cost at $200,000. To that may be added $500,000 annual revenue loss if race track pari-mutuels are abolished.

If elimination of gambling is to be made effective, there also will have to be passed bills to prevent dog racing with pari-mutuels and also laws against bookie shops. The San Antonio Express this week printed as a casual news item a notice to bookie shops that they must not operate in suburban areas and that, downtown, they must be either upstairs or in basements.

State colleges this year won their fight for lump sum appropriations, although technically the appropriations are itemized.

The same result was accomplished in a roundabout way. First an agreement was reached with committees that appropriations should be $175 for each freshman and sophomore, and $225 for each junior and senior, with additional allowance for cost of technical courses and an allowance to colleges with smaller attendance to offset their greater overhead per pupil. Totals were computed on this basis. Then each college president was handed the figure and told to itemize the college appropriation within the total. When it was decided the totals were too big, they were scaled down and the college officials directed to re-itemize.

Senate committeemen frankly favored outright lump-sum appropriations but feared the house would not accept them. Itemizing was retained in name but left to the college heads.

MALES, CO-EDS WOULD ANSWER CALL TO ARMS

MINNEAPOLIS, June 3—If the United States were attacked and threatened with invasion tomorrow 94 per cent of able-bodied men students would answer the call to arms by enlisting to repel the invaders, and 93 per cent of the co-eds would cheer them on, according to a study covering 2,550 students at four principal universities.

In spite of widely publicized demonstrations of opposition on various college campuses, 74 per cent out of the total of 1,600 male students polled at New York, Minnesota, Washington and Oregon Universities are in favor of military instruction at universities and colleges; so are 77 per cent of the women students. Compulsory drill is favored by 44 per cent of the men and the remaining 30 per cent of those favoring such instruction believe that it should be on a voluntary basis.

The best guarantee of peace for the United States, 57 per cent of the male students believe, is a military and naval establishment strong enough to repel any invader; 39 per cent of the coeds feel the same, while 2 1-2 per cent of the men and women would put their trust in a powerful air force. Another 37 per cent of the men and 54 per cent of the women, however, believe our best insurance against war is "progressive disarmament jointly with other leading nations" but only 23 per cent of the men and 32 per cent of the co-eds favor disarmament by the United States regardless of the policy of other nations.

The survey was carried on with unsigned ballots, so distributed as to secure a representative cross-section of students in various departments of the four widely scattered universities—New York, Minnesota,

Washington, and Oregon. An almost equal division was obtained among freshman, sophomores, juniors and seniors. Every effort was made in the company's investigation to secure unbiased opinions of the students, free from the influence of either preparedness parades or peace demonstrations such as have been widely publicized on various campuses.

Only 11 per cent of the male students would feel it their duty to enlist un-servedly in any war that might be declared by Congress; another 5.6 per cent would be ready to enlist in any war which the United States might declare in concert with other nations, against an aggressor. The largest group, 77.3 per cent, would consider it their duty to enlist if the United States were attacked and threatened with invasion—and only 7 per cent of the coeds support this viewpoint.

Engine Famed in Wreck of 'Old 97' Now Runs As Local on Branch Line

RALEIGH, N. C., June 3 (UPI)—Like a gallant but worn-out race horse, the engine that pulled "Old 97" to its famed wreck near Danville, Va. in 1903 is now a "local" of the Southern Railway, officials disclosed here today.

The engine, which retains the number of its palmy days, 1196, hauls the passenger train on the Marion to Rocky Hill branch of the railroad.

"No, she doesn't round the curves any more at ninety miles an hour," Jack Crow, engineer, said. "But you still have to hold her back when she gets going good. Yep, she's a great old engine."

"Old 1196" used to haul crack train No. 97, the pride of the South, from Washington, to Atlanta, to Birmingham. Though it was a solid mail train, it attained a reputation and glamour unsurpassed in railroad annals.

The wreck of "Old Ninety-Seven," epitomizing the Danville wreck, has become an American epic.

Today "1196" as it makes its ackadansical run through North Carolina, is decidedly massive. The engine stands 14 feet from tracks a smokestack. Its six wheels have a diameter of 72 inches.

The old-fashioned cow catcher, all headlight and wooden pilot on the 40-year-old engine have been replaced by more modern equipment.

The famous disaster occurred in 1903 as 1196 headed for the huge five-deck trestle across the Dan river. Failing to make the curve at the trestle, the mail train jumped the tracks and hurtled into the river.

The fireman, engineer and 12 mail clerks were killed as the engine pulled all its coaches into the abyss below.

Cure-Barker Nuptials Are Held Tuesday

A group of Cisco young ladies, two of whom were attendants, were present at the wedding ceremony of Miss Marguerite Barker, daughter of Judge and Mrs. J. D. Barker at Sweetwater, Tuesday afternoon when the former Cisco girl was given in marriage to Mr. Elmo Ebin Cure, of Munday Texas, in the ring ceremony, in which Dr. Thomas W. Brahm, president of McMurry college officiated.

Miss Barker left Cisco as a junior in the high school, but spent most of her early school days here. After graduating at Sweetwater public school, she attended McMurry college where she met Mr. Cure. They will both attend the summer school where Mr. Cure is a law student.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. Randolph Lee Clark of Cisco, former piano and voice teacher of the bride. The bride's attendants were Miss Lurline Poe and Maxine Burkett, Cisco. The flower girl was Miss Carolyn Jordan of Texas City, Texas, niece of the bride. The bridesmaid was Miss Francis Conley of McMurry, Abilene, and best man was Mr. Paul Williams, also of McMurry. Miss Joyce Arey, of Abilene, gave a vocal solo.

The altar was adorned with lattice work at each side of a white prayer rug. The lattice-work was topped by twelve candelabra which were lighted at the beginning of the ceremony. White smilax covered the mantle, a pillar at the back of the altar, and was arranged in urns about the room.

The bride's gown was a pastel blue organdie printed with misty white flowers. Her bridal bouquet was pink roses and baby breath. The other gowns worn in the ceremony were pink organdie with blue trimmings, and blue phlox with fern-like corsages for each. Punch was served to about fifty guests after the ceremony.

Those from Cisco who signed in the bride's book were: Mmes. John Shterzer, Randolph Lee Clark, E. J. Poe, and Misses Lurline Poe, Maxine Burkett, Mary Louise Poe and Doris Surlis. Sisters of the bride who were present were Mrs. J. Jordan of Texas City, and Mrs. B. N. Roberts and son, Ted, of Wichita Falls. Many other friends of the bride and groom were present from surrounding towns.

Motorists Appreciate 'R-1' Goodyear Tires

Amplly demonstrated last week was the fact that Cisco motorists appreciate the courageous action of the world's largest rubber company in its effort to combat steadily increasing prices on consumer goods, according to J. W. McKinney, local dealer for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company.

"Goodyear several months ago accepted the challenge of rising prices by directing its development engineers to produce a tire that would provide the motorists with top quality at a price he is accustomed to pay," Mr. McKinney continued. "The result was the sensational new Goodyear R-1, made available to car owners a week ago."

"The R-1 was an immediate success, as any quality product that fills a definite need is bound to be. And with summer, the heavy driving season, at hand, the R-1 filled a very definite need for many local car owners, as well as for car owners in every section of the United States, according to information I have received from Goodyear's home office in Akron, Ohio.

"With vacation and holiday trips in the offing, safety should be uppermost in the mind of every car owner—and old, worn, smooth tires certainly do not come under the heading of safe equipment. The burning heat of summer highways is bad medicine for tires worn thin by thousands of miles of travel. Motorists realize that thin tires are susceptible to blowouts and that smooth tires offer no protection against skids.

"The R-1 enables car owners to equip their automobiles with tires having top quality construction features formerly found only in higher priced casings. Important among its stand-out advantages are wider, flatter tread, 12 per cent more rubber in the tread, higher shoulders, center traction, Supertwist Cord carcass construction and handsome streamlined sidewalls for smart, modern appearance. These features mean just one thing: quality.

"Goodyear's answer to rising prices is being received with enthusiasm."

Mrs. Clifford Yeager left Wednesday to attend summer school at Hardin-Simmons at Abilene.

Hard Luck Follows Desdemona's Test

So far, bad luck has followed the Gallagher and Lawson test at Desdemona.

First it was necessary to skid the rig east after tools were lost, and then to top the bad luck, lightning struck operators on the test well one-half mile south of Desdemona ruefully reflected Wednesday.

Mrs. W. C. Bedford, Desdemona correspondent for this paper, described the lightning occurrence—"The lightning Sunday struck the gin-pole on the top of the rig of the Gallagher and Lawson et al No. 1 Bobbie Terry well and ran down the corner of the rig until it reached the guy wire and went into the rig. All of the light globes on the rig were shattered and the wiring destroyed."

Last week it was necessary to skid location for the 5,500-foot test several feet east after the bit was lost at 110 feet.
