Spitting on the Walls

Thirty years ago a beautiful new marble federal building in one of our largest cosmopolitan cities, had this sign conspicuously displayed in the corridors: "Do not spit on the walls. Cuspidors are provided for that purpose."
The janitor was not trying to be funny. He was not implying that he had a specially constructed cuspidor that would expectorate on the walls so it would not be necessary for the public to do so. The janitor knew that the citizenry of that locality would just as soon squirt tobacco juice on a beautiful marble wainscoting as anywhere else.

JILL BY MARY RAYMOND

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JILL WENTWORTH, heroine, attractive debutante.
ALEX JEFFERY, hero, rising young artist.
BARRY WENTWORTH, Jill's stepbrother.
JACK WENTWORTH, Jill's brother.
SYLVIA SUTTON, old hetress.

A man leaped from the car. He could see he carried someone in Tommy's car.

Yesterday Mrs. Wentworth lays her plans for Barry and Sylvia and plans too that Jill will marry one of the banker Montanoses.
CHAPTER III
THE summer lodge was perfect in its sylvan setting. Great trees towered above it. A blue lake, curving with the sky, washed lightly against green banks, close by.

Jill's eyes were wide and blue and appealing. She was small and slender and beautifully molded. She should be labeled: "Handle with Care," Jill mused.
POOR Sylvia. She would probably find life a bit rough, if she married Barry. They were well suited in other respects. Barry, with his saturnine darkness, was a perfect foil for Sylvia's delicate blondness. There was something extremely devilish, at least devil-may-care about Barry, which contrasted sharply with Sylvia's angelic qualities.

STATE HI-WAY MARKERS WILL BE REMOVED

Motorists traveling United States designated highways in Texas no longer will be puzzled by a multitude of highway markers in thickly populated areas, according to instructions just issued by the Texas Highway Commission through Julian Montgomery, State Highway Engineer, ordering state markers taken down on such routes.
"An exhaustive study of this whole matter of highway markings we have found that by simply using U. S. route markers it is much easier for the traveling public to follow such highways," said Mr. Montgomery. With the trend toward simplicity and elimination of confusion caused by duplicate markers some thirty-five states are using U. S. markers exclusively to the satisfaction of all concerned.

According to the present marking, many places in the state and especially the business districts of cities, require so many markers on each post that the traveler is forced to stop traffic while studying these markings, thus creating a safety hazard.
State highway officials state that the original purpose in assigning U. S. route numbers was to simplify the markings of highways enabling the traveling public to follow the route, to or through other states.

These U. S. route numbers are designated by the executive committee of the American Association of State Highway Officials after a careful consideration of the needs for such designation as submitted by the states.
According to Mr. Montgomery, the elimination of state markers from U. S. routes will result in a considerable saving to the department. He further said that state markers would remain in place on state highways which have not been designated as U. S. routes and which do not carry standard U. S. shield markers.

About Our Friends—

about the victory before they had heard the score.
But we rejoice with those organizations. We should rejoice with the team when they rejoice and weep with them when they weep, but we are frank to say we much prefer the rejoicing to the weeping.
We have had much of the weeping since 1934 that our tear glands are about run dry. . . we much prefer the shouts of victory we heard Friday night. . . Every member of the team deserves a word of congratulation and we wish that we could recount the good playing of each individual. . . But congratulations, team, and the same to all pep and band members who aided in the spirit. . . Since we have started, team, let's just see what we can do.

Red Cross Submits New London Report

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 22 (UP)—The American Red Cross has begun distributing to Texas chapters its official report of the gas explosion last March which destroyed the school at New London, Tex. Thus, so far as relief work is concerned, the curtain has been drawn on the nation's most frightful school catastrophe of recent years.
The printed report shows that $52,067 was expended by the Red Cross. Of the total, $21,620 was contributed by individuals and other organizations.
Medical and nursing costs amounted to $21,390, while burial expenses assumed by the relief agency totaled $14,720. Rescue, transportation, mass shelter, food, clothing and maintenance were other major items of cost listed by the Red Cross.
Of more than 100 persons injured, the Red Cross cared for 77 cases. Follow-up work has included some plastic surgery and provision of an artificial leg for the only victim permanently crippled by the explosion.
In addition, Red Cross nurses have made 451 home visits.

DOMES TO HOLD 200-INCH LENS NEARLY READY

By ARTHUR N. SUVERKRUP
United Press Staff Correspondent
MT. PALOMAR, Calif., Oct. 22 (UP)—The huge revolving dome which will house the world's largest telescope, in the $6,000,000 California Institution of Technology observatory atop this 6,000-foot mountain, will be completed by Christmas eve, engineers said today.
Over the $1,000,000 "highway to the stars," huge trucks roar daily up the grades carrying tons of steel plates which will form the 135-foot dome.
These plates, weighing one ton each, are 7 feet in width and 21 feet in length. In all, a total of 850 plates, or 850 tons of steel, will be represented in the completed dome.
Already the base structure of the observatory has been completed, and the circular track on which the dome will revolve is in place, after having been ground to mirror-smoothness by engineers who labored throughout last winter unkindly of rain, sleet and snow.
Search for Peak Began in 1930
It was just seven years ago Capt. Clyde McDowell, U.S.N., retired, supervising engineer, recalled that scientists first began the search for a mountain-top suitable for location of the observatory which will be 70 per cent complete before the first of 1938.
Today in the optical shop on the Tech campus at Pasadena, 200-yards from the astrophysical laboratory, skilled workers are grinding the 200-inch mirror, free of which 2 inches of pyrex has been painstakingly whittled in 18 months even numbers of the observatory council were excluded from the cork-lined thermostat controlled grinding room where the 20-ton piece of glass is being ground—it was explained that even the smallest particle of hard dust might ruin the mirror.
Through a thick window, from a corridor, scientists may look at the grinding process of the $1,000,000 mirror, which Dr. George Ellery Hale, known as the father of the 200-inch mirror, said may settle for all time the question of whether the universe is in the process of exploding.
Science believes it will be on the threshold of a new era of discovery when the mirror finally is in place and the observatory ready for operation in 1940.
Universe May Yield Secret
Among the questions science hopes the giant telescope will answer is that of whether the universe is limited by the curvature of space. The new telescope, will enable science to bring to light for the first time objects so many light years distant from the earth that they are beyond

Blindness Race Takes Students

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Richard Harvey is battling against time and the inevitable blindness it will bring.
The 22-year-old orphan is racing to complete a musical education before blindness robs him of other means of livelihood.
Harvey wants to learn to sing well enough to support himself before his sight is gone. Sylvan Levin, voice teacher at the Curtis Institute of Music here, says he has a chance to reach that goal.
Levin said the youth has a fine baritone voice and "should be able to earn his living with it—if his sight can be maintained long enough for him to complete a thorough course of training."
Harvey is under the care of the Philadelphia Committee for the Prevention of Blindness, which is conducting a drive for $10,000 so Harvey and others like him can be helped before it is too late.
Chief Capatlian, voice instructor with the Metropolitan Opera company, heard Richard sing and since that time has been giving the youth lessons several times weekly.
Harvey was crippled at 16 and was able to care for himself until his vision weakened. Since then he has had several jobs, including clerical work with the National Youth Administration at $25 a month.

The Equinox Does Not Bring Storms

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—The equinox does not bring violent storms, appearance of mushrooms and toadstools doesn't mean rain, and most of the weather maxims are just superstitions.

Those are the opinions at least of Frank Cole, Mobile meteorologist.

"Any storm in late September or early October is called an equinoctial storm, but that reckoning is 15 days off," the weather prophet said.

"The belief in Indian summer and the equinoctial storms are to a certain extent, superstitions. These winter type storms may come at any time of the year. The hurricane season is worst in September, but hurricanes are not equinoctial," Cole then listed the maxims which he said are worthless.

"Mushrooms and toadstools are numerous before rain. A bee is never caught in a shower. Lazy spiders bring rain. When fish bite readily and keep near the surface, expect rain. When birds no longer sing, look out for rain. When a parrot whistles, expect rain. In good weather, a cat washes its face, but in bad weather, it sits with its tail to the fire.

When chickens wallow in the dust, look for rain. The moon with a circle, brings water in her beak. If stars do not twinkle, rain will sprinkle. When the stars begin to huddle, the earth will soon become a puddle.

Triplets and Named 'Dion'

Too sleepy to pay any attention to the photographer, the Dion triplets, above, born to Mrs. J. Elin Dion, wife of a Hollywood bond salesman, prove the name must mean something so far as babies in multiple lots are concerned. Combined weight of the triplets, reported in excellent condition, was 15 pounds five ounces, almost two pounds more than the weight at birth of the famous Dionne quintuplets, whose name is pronounced the same.

veto or permit to become a law without his signature.

Lieut. Gov. Walter Woodul did not neglect an opportunity to take a crack at Speaker Bob Calvert of the House, who will be one of his rivals next summer in the race for Attorney General.

A point of order was raised in the Senate on the admissibility of a resolution to liberalize old age assistance.

"I might call on the Attorney General for an opinion," Woodul told the Senate, "but I am not going to do so. I am going to rule, myself."

A few days previously, Calvert had asked the Attorney General's opinion on six bills offered in the House, admissibility of which was questioned under the Governor's call for the session. Included was the Senate bill to reduce appropriations.

Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston planned to reply on the air to Governor Allred's radio address of last Saturday night. He said he was unable to obtain an allotment of time until too late to make it worthwhile.

Instead, he replied in the Senate in the most blistering of his numerous criticisms of the Governor. A mild quotation: "x x The people are being beaten over the head with the jawbone of an ass."

Holbrook said Allred's state tax is $7.02.

When the state senate subcommittee did not recommend a sales tax, the wind was taken out of a number of protests that had been prepared in advance. One speaker before the Senate state affairs com-

Wallace C. Reilly, executive secretary of the Texas Federation of Labor, decided that there still was a possibility that a sales tax might be proposed. He issued a prepared protest against it.

"Texas labor is on record," the statement said, "as being militantly opposed to any form of the sales tax. It is equally strong in favor of increased natural resource taxes to carry out the social security program voted by the people."

The travel trail between Austin and Washington was kept hot this week. A conference of unemployment compensation administrators at the national capital took quite a group from Austin.

The travelers were Orville Carpenter, chairman-director of the state unemployment compensation commission; Joe K. Wells, its state field supervisor; Herbert J. Prensley, its chief auditor; and Director Byron Mitchell, W. L. Crawford and Ed Brindston of the state unemployment service.

MYRA NORTH, Special Nurse—By Thompson and Coll

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, Oct. 23 (AP)—Governor James V. Allred sent a message to the House of Representatives this week declining to submit the topic of economy re-appropriations as requested by a large House majority.

Had he sent, instead, the message he really wanted to transmit, he would have said:

"For purely political motives, I am submitting this topic."

In fact, he dictated that sentence jokingly to newsmen as he pretended to read to them the message he was sending the House.

Politically that probably would have been a smart move. It would have done much to relieve him of the criticism of governmental extravagance, which now appears likely to become one of the principal issues in the political campaign next summer.

On the other hand, it might have forced a third called session of the legislature. Calling a session always leaves a governor open to new attacks. If this session levies sufficient taxes to relieve the immediate pressure for old age assistance increase and provide a start on aid to destitute children and blind people, the Governor probably will be "sitting pretty."

Reports filtering into Austin from other parts of the state do not indicate that the Governor has lost much strength with the people.

Reconstructionist Jess Jones helped the situation greatly in Houston when he asserted that business must accept the situation and prepare to carry the cost of social security.

Rep. G. C. Morris of Greenville is a consistent dry. Yet he found himself this week in the anomalous position of having his name appear as author of a bill to legalize the sale of liquor by the drink.

He was author of a House revenue bill that was used as the framework for the omnibus tax bill that was passed by the House and sent to the Senate.

The House omnibus tax bill, still bearing Morris' name as author, was used as a vehicle upon which to load the liquor-by-the-drink bill, as an amendment. The measure still bears Morris' name.

In disgust, he announced that he would ask the House to strike his name from the bill on its return to that branch of the legislature.

The Senate procedure also placed the Governor in a peculiar position. If he opposes the "cocktail bar" measure, he must veto the taxes he convinced the legislators to levy. It was sewn into the omnibus tax bill so that to veto it, he would have to veto all. He cannot strike out single items, as a Governor is permitted to do with an appropriation bill.

This procedure gives the Governor an excuse for permitting sales of liquor by the drink without actually giving such a measure the stamp of his approval.

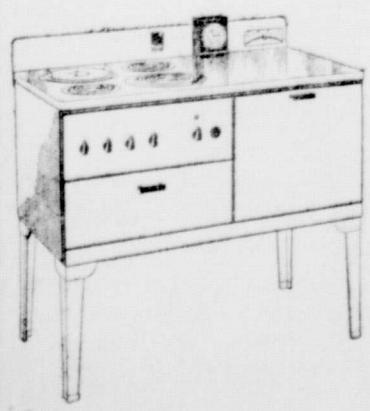

Such a measure standing alone he either would have to approve,

Hint to Duchess' U. S. Costumes

Giving an advance hint, perhaps, to part of the extensive and self-designed wardrobe which she is purchasing in Paris for her coming visit to the United States with her royal husband, the Duchess of Windsor is pictured here on the steps of the American Pavilion of the Paris Exposition. The unusual wool ensemble she was wearing includes a slim dress and figure-molding, collarless coat with scroll work of braid down the front. The braid also forms fasteners at the waistline. The dress, too, is collarless and has a stripe of white material down the front. The stripe divides at the bosom and becomes facing of the narrowest of necklines. The ensemble is worn with an off-the-face hat and sables.

The high points of the game may be summed up as follows:

A hard charging, rough Lobo line that completely bottled up a strong Lion running attack that was able to score two touchdowns on Abilene.

Hard driving Curtis Yancy, after carrying three and four tacklers hanging on to him.

Nice punting and hard tackling by Yancy.

A spectacular pass defense in the last half with the Lobo line breaking through to smear the passer and rush him so fast his passes were inaccurately placed, and an alert secondary that completely covered every pass receiver.

Hard tackling and blocking by the Lobos.

Outstanding tackle play by Dunham and Wade, stopped all plays directed at their positions.

Great defense by Marcell Harrison at end.

Fast running and hard driving by Stever.

Smart, heads-up football by a fighting Cisco team that made the break and took advantage of them.

A total gain of 108 yards, from scrimmage by the Lobos.

A big loss in penalties and the ever anxious Cisco team.

A strong defense by the Cisco line that held the heavy Lions within the 20 yard line 3 times. One on the 7 yard line and again at 14 yards.

A smooth clicking of the Lobo double wing back offense. Backs consistently ripping through the Brownwood line by short gains.

ST. PAUL (AP) — Hunters who flock to Minnesota for the fall pheasant hunting are headed for disappointment, according to the game reports.

NEW PATROL TO TAKE ROAD FOR WINNING BOOTS

AUSTIN, Oct. 23 (AP) — New state highway patrolmen will take the road this week, 125 being assigned to supplement the veterans of the service.

They have been sent far from their homes to win their boots. Until they have served six months satisfactorily, the new patrolmen will wear puttees. After six months they graduate to boots and a permanent place on the patrol. As they have to purchase the boots, the safety department specifies puttees until the patrolman is sure of his job.

Few are expected to fail after surviving their grueling training at Camp Mabry, new headquarters of the state safety department near Austin.

Eight have been detailed for duty at the drivers' school at Austin. Other assignments are:

The Norwegian Ms. Taronga of the Wilhelmson Line, one of the largest dry cargo vessels ever to call at this port, is shown above loading cotton here. She will load about 31,000 bales of cotton here and in Houston, one of the largest cotton cargoes to go from Texas in recent years.

The vessel, in several of her dimensions the largest dry cargo ship ever to call here, is regularly in the Scandinavian-Australian trade but has been placed in the gulf service because of the unusually heavy demand for cotton space. She is loading about 18,000 bales here.
