From all reports, the Cisco Livestock Show held Friday and Saturday was a complete success. Understand they sold out of barbecue at the Friday night supper. And stock show-goers asked "Where is the barbecue?" Saturday at noon. The brisket for the Friday night meal was smoked by Grandpa's Smokehouse, and parents of 4-Hers and FFA members donated the other food.

Texas Governor William P. Clements has declared February as Community College Month, honoring the higher education efforts of the state's 49 public community college districts.

The annual proclamation, signed in Austin, recognized the high-quality instruction and reasonable costs offered by community colleges, as well as their broad array of educational services, such as transfer programs, two-year degree programs, basic skills education, career development, job search assistance, counseling and development education.

More than 350,000 Texans now attend community colleges, which enroll 48 percent of all students in public Texas colleges and 63 percent of all first-time college students in the state.

In addition, community colleges enroll 53 percent of all minority students attending Texas colleges.

A subscription renewal from Sandra Mitchell of Mineral Wells came in the mail and she wrote "I do so enjoy keeping up with all the happenings there. I guess though we've been gone since 1958, Cisco will always be home. I know that some of the dearest, sweetest people in the world live in and around Cisco, Texas. Keep up the good work and keep that paper coming." And it was signed, "Thanks, Sandra Mitchell."

Helen Gaeta, secretary at the Chamber of Commerce, reports that she gets four or five telephone calls a week requesting information on hunting leases in this area. If you have any lease property, either for day lease or season lease, let her know and she'll refer the information to the callers. You can reach her at the CoC office, 442-2537.

County Livestock Show To Run Through Saturday

The annual Eastland County Livestock Show is this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the showgrounds on Hwy. 3101 northwest of Eastland.

Students, instructors and extension agents have been busy grooming the many show animals which the 4-H and FFA Club boys and girls will show. And adult volunteers have been playing a part as the show is organized and the grounds are prepared.

With the show having been moved up to February from March this year, everyone is probably busier than usual.

All animals are required to arrive at the grounds and to be in their places on Wednesday. Wednesday from 1 until 8 p.m. is also the scheduled time for weighing market animals.

The Eastland Schools will have a holiday on Thursday and Friday. The Cisco Schools will excuse qualified participating students on Thursday and have a holiday on Friday, and the Ranger Schools will excuse qualified participating students on Thursday and Friday.

A new requirement which we are hearing is that students must be passing all of their classes in school in order to show animals.

The show will open on Thursday with rabbit judging in the morning followed by dairy goats after lunch. Swine judging will take the rest of the day with market pigs in the evening.

First dairy cattle and then broilers will be shown Friday morning. Angora goats and sheep will be judged in the afternoon, then the market lambs will occupy the evening hours.

Beef cattle and then market steers will be shown Saturday morning.

The removal of the non-sale animals will begin at 12 noon on Saturday. A market animal auction and the presentation of special awards is to begin at 7 p.m. on Saturday.

A petting zoo is again planned, and there will be judging of some 4-H non-animal projects, which will be entered on Friday morning and will be on exhibit that day only. Natalie Stevens and the 4-H parents and adult leaders will also operate the concessions at the show. There will be no horse show this year.

The Eastland Ag Boosters are selling tickets to a barbecue supper on the grounds Saturday before the auction with proceeds to be used to purchase animals from students county-wide.

Chamber Coffee 7 A.M. Thursday At Double Vision

A coffee will be held at 7 a.m. Thursday, Feb. 15, at Double Vision Restaurant, for all Chamber of Commerce members and non-members.

An open discussion will be held on plans and ideas to help Cisco. Everyone is invited to attend.

Anyone with any information that saw the victim that evening or any additional information is to contact Crime Stoppers or one of these law enforcement agencies. County Will Continue Support Of Ambulance Eastland County Commissioners Monday had a tie vote on whether to continue to support the county's part of Ambulance Service in Eastland County.

Judge Scott Bailey broke the tie by voting to approve the motion. So support of Emergency Medical Services will continue.

Before the vote was taken there was a lengthy discussion on the Ambulance Services out of the Cisco and Eastland Hospitals. There were also questions from citizens who said they were dissatisfied with charges and with some of the services.

The motion which led to continuance was made by Richard Robinson, Commissioner of Pct. 1, who stated it this way: "The motion to discontinue financial support (for E.M.S.) be withdrawn, as long as it (the Service) stays within the money budgeted."

Billy Bacon, Commissioner of Pct. 4, seconded the motion. He said that as long as the County's part of the Ambulance Service stayed within the budget ($2,000 per month for each of the four Precincts) he would like to continue. L. T. Owen, Commissioner of Pct. 3, said: "My Precinct has never collected a penny on this. I would have to be against it."

Norman Christian, Commissioner of Pct. 2, said that his Precinct hadn't collected anything yet-but hoped in the future to use some of the money.

"But I think people ought to get to vote on whether or not they want the County to furnish this kind of service - not let just a few people decide," the Commissioner said.

Eastland City Manager Paul Catoe asked to speak to Court.

"I would like to emphasize the situation we were in - before beginning this service last summer," he said. "From one year to the next we didn't know if we would have an ambulance."

"The Hospitals have taken on the Emergency Medical Service obligations and problems....Marsha Carr (Eastland Memorial Hospital Administrator) has indicated she wants to find solutions to the problems."

"I understand there are few complaints for the amount of people using the service. I support the Hospitals in their efforts, and hope and pray they may continue."

When Judge Bailey called for a vote, Robinson and Bacon vote for the motion, and Christian and Owen against. Bailey then cast his vote, and announced that the motion had passed.

The members of REDEEMER LUTHERAN CHURCH extend an invitation to the community to join us in the observance of a Holy Lent. We will gather together at 12 noon for a brief Service entitled "Overheard Conversations by the Cross," which will last approximately 20 minutes. Following the Service a light lunch will be served.

are led by the Spirit to renew and strengthen our spiritual lives, what better invitation than that found in the 1976 Book of Common Prayer: "I invite you, therefore, in the name of the Church, to the observance of a Holy Lent, by self-examination and repentance; by prayer, fasting, and self-denial; and by reading and meditating on God's Holy Word." Please, come join us in our Lenten preparation - as we eagerly anticipate the Joyous Celebration of Easter - God's Life changing Event for all people, for all time! - Rev. Loren DuBois, Pastor.

STATE CAPITAL

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Polls are fine, but the televised debates probably told us more about how the candidates see themselves at this point.

Remember, the candidate's realistic objective is to gain a run-off election. Thus, he/she must come down the stage stairs more gubernatorially than going up.

First, an afterthought. Who would have foreseen the two parties would switch styles? The Republicans discussed a wide range of social issues while the Democrats focused on budget, crime, taxes and new revenues.

Both parties, obviously wooing the independent voter, have stolen several pages from the other side's playbook.

The cast, in alphabetical order: ■ Republican Kent Hance led the four-man assault to stop Clayton Williams from winning outright and stuck to his Reagan revolution guns to keep out of third place.

■ Republican Tom Luce, facing an "all brain, no charisma" rap, was personable, then tough, when he said he has "stood toe-to-toe with the Ayatollah Khomeini," over Americans held in Iran.

■ Democrat Jim Mattox tempered his bulldog image, hung his hat on a no new taxes pledge. He painted the other two Democrats as can't-help-it spenders who will undoubtedly raise taxes.

■ Republican Jack Rains continued his preemption strike for GOP women by saying "yes" to pro-choice, and wooed Hispanic Republicans by saying "no" to official English. Both stances indicate a moderate voice-of-reason plan to overtake Hance.

■ Democrat Ann Richards disarmed with corn-pone, then attacked as a "good 'ol girl" standing up to the "good 'ol boys." Then took on Mattox to overcome a stalled front-runner image, but committed the only gaffe.

■ Democrat Mark White expected to be attacked for the record taxes and fees he advocated in his first term, and when the issue was served up, he swung to knock the cover off the ball, saying he would do it again if necessary.

■ Republican Clayton Williams was ready to be gang-tackled as the front-runner. He countered with an ear-to-ear grin which told the voters, "Hey, it's great being ahead."

Debate Moderators

Usually debate moderators are plain vanilla, but these groomed stars, both gubernatorial possibilities early on, were excellent symbols of their party's strength and a promise of the future. Both performed well.

For the GOP, George Bush Jr., the president's son, was a reminder of the Texans in the White House. Perhaps a harbinger of a kinder, gentler state after a rough recession. His substantial backing is on reserve for now; a loss would only have diminished the family's top power position.

The Democrats called on former San Antonio mayor Henry Cisneros, the popular, polished leader of Texas Hispanics. The Hispanics have arrived, and he, more than any other, can deliver the minority's majority. He was the front-runner himself until private marital problems became public.

The Richards' Gaffe

Not a major one for those who know Ann Richards, she nevertheless committed a gaffe by answering the state should not decide whether a "white woman" can have an abortion.

No right-minded person actually believes Richards is a racist, but it opened her to criticism.

But, political observers, including some of her supporters, are questioning the way she and her staff reacted to the slip-of-the-tongue.

Mattox, who claims majority support of the Mexican American Democrats and the Coalition of Black Democrats, harshly demanded that Richards apologize to black and Hispanic women.

White couldn't resist a more temperate jab, saying she needs to explain what her slip, actually meant.

The silver lining for Richards? She got a weekend of free press to boost her name ID and her pro-choice stance, which could remain a plus long after the topic has died.

Hobby's Education Plan

Lame duck Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, remaining on stage as a voice of reason while the special session nears, said reforming school finance won't be enough to improve the state's educational product.

He disagrees with fellow lame duck Gov. Bill Clement's hard-line approach, which is to equalize funding with no new taxes to satisfy the courts and leave major reform to the Legislature's regular session next January.

Right now, Hobby's Democrats control the Legislature; Clements and others are banking on a closer margin after the elections.

Among Hobby's proposals last week:

- Lengthening the school year;
- Tougher achievement tests;
- Better pay for teachers;
- Tax credits for businesses that support education; and
- Reward school systems with superior achievement records.

Other Highlights

■ The Texas Secretary of State's office distributed voter registration cards in convenience stores in some cities. Absentee voting is from Feb. 21 to March 9; the primaries are March 13.

■ U.S. Rep. Pete Geren, D-Fort Worth, spent close to $1 million to win his special election victory to replace former U.S. Rep. Jim Wright, according to the Federal Election Commission.

The National Society of Professional Engineers, which celebrates its 56th Anniversary this year, is an organization of more than 80,000 professional engineers throughout the United States. Unlike other engineering organizations, NSPE was established to address the professional concerns of engineers across all technical disciplines. It is organized as a three-level association with membership at the local, state, and national levels and provides input from the engineering profession on scores of technology-related issues of concern to the profession and the general public.

Rising 190 feet above the river bed, Morris Sheppard is distinguished as the highest flat slab buttress dam in the nation. Over 390 similarly-constructed dams are located throughout North America and around the world. Designed by Ambursen Engineering Company, the dam was constructed by Lytle-Johnson Construction Company between 1938 and 1941 at a cost of $12 million. The project was financed by the Works Progress Administration, Brazos River Authority revenue bonds, and State tax remissions.

The dam impounds Possum Kingdom Lake, located about 75 miles northwest of Fort Worth. With a capacity of 570,000 acre-feet, it is one of the State's largest reservoirs. The lake is especially popular among north and west Texas residents for fishing and boating. A substantial recreation-related business community has developed along its shores. In addition, about 2,000 homes are located around the shores of the lake.

The reservoir is used for hydropower production, water supply, irrigation and recreation. Located downstream are thousands of residents, hundreds of businesses, the Worth Boy Scout Ranch, the City of Granbury, and other substantial economic developments. The structure carries the classification of "high hazard" due to its size and the magnitude of consequences predicted in the event of failure.

During the 1987 5-year inspection conducted for the Authority of Freese and Nichols, it was determined that a portion of the dam was slowly moving downstream due to progressive failure of the foundation shales deep below the structure. This condition was reported to the Authority's Board which immediately ordered the lake level to be lowered eight feet to restore a reasonable factor of safety to the structure. An additional five-foot lowering of the lake level to elevation 987 feet was subsequently ordered by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, which licenses the hydroelectric generating facilities at the project. Lowering of the lake began on April 3 and was completed on April 24, 1987. The gates at the dam were raised in April 1988, when the repairs had progressed sufficiently to allow the process of refilling the lake to elevation 995 to begin. The lake reached elevation 995 in the middle of May 1989 and was restored to elevation 1000, the maximum normal pool elevation, in June 1989.

An around-the-clock repair and rehabilitation program was begun with installation of a network of piezometers, extensometers and inclinometers and a precision field survey system to precisely monitor any continuing movement of the structure and water pressures in the foundation. Piezometers indicated water pressures with uplift pressures equivalent to 65 percent of the lake head. Observation of structural distress such as cracks in the footings of the mostly hollow spillway, and the hydrostatic pressure in the foundation confirmed there were serious problems with the dam.

Access to the inside of the dam was required to install relief wells to reduce hydrostatic pressure as well as to add ballast to further stabilize the sliding structure.

"Construction of the needed access passageways into the enclosed spillway bays was not easy," said Hoge. "It involved drilling an 8-foot diameter opening through each of twenty-four, nine-foot thick concrete buttresses." In all, an aggregate of 220 linear feet of concrete was penetrated. "In addition to allowing access," Hoge said, "the openings will play an integral role in helping stabilize the structure by allowing water to flow between critical spillway buttresses to eliminate buoyancy effects during high tailwater conditions."

After access to the interior of the dam was established, 18,000 cubic yards of mud and other material left in the bays during the 1938-1941 period of construction had to be removed. "It took about one week to clean each bay," Hoge said. "In some bays, divers had to use a suction dredge under as much as 30 feet of water to remove the muck." Next, 66,000 cubic yards of 3-inch crushed rock to add weight and serve as a work platform was placed in the bays using a telescoping conveyor. A new electrical system, safety equipment and ventilation system were provided, and an extensive monitoring system was put in place.

A plan for a series of six-inch diameter relief wells spaced every 13 feet was developed. However, once drilling commenced, some wells encountered pressurized flows of up to 450 gallons per minute. These unexpected and excessive flows called for additional wells in some bays. A total of 147 wells, some as large as 12 inches in diameter, were installed in an attempt to reduce the encountered flows and ultimately lower the hydrostatic pressures causing the foundation uplift.

Discharges from the relief wells indicated relatively direct contact from the lake to the numerous fissures and geologic anomalies causing flow paths through the shale foundation. A program of core drilling confirmed that a longitudinal crack along the top of the upstream cutoff was allowing the lake to pressurize this system of fissures and cause uplift in the foundation. A program of grouting using sodium silicate grout accelerated by cement successfully closed off the breaks.

"Approximately $12 million was expended on the emergency work accomplished to date," Hoge said. Essentially, this phase of the project was successfully concluded in March 1989. Work has now begun on the second part, which will cost an estimated $20 million and includes adding more ballast to the dam, correction of erosion problems down stream of the spillway, major rehabilitation of existing spillway gates, installation of new release and monitoring facilities, general upgrading of project electrical and control systems and construction of a new emergency spillway. Overall completion of all work on the project is scheduled for November 1991.

Research at East Tennessee State University links heart attacks to low magnesium levels. Shortages allow muscle cells (including the heart's) to keep contracting when they should stop, leading to muscle twitches, cramps, irregular heartbeat -- and maybe heart attacks.

Tests at Cochlin Hospital in Paris indicate that cyclosporine -- the drug used to prevent the rejection of heart transplants -- may halt rheumatoid arthritis.

In a study of the infection that causes traveler's diarrhea, volunteers at the University of Maryland School of Medicine took vaccine made from the milk of cows immunized against E. coli, the usual culprit. Researchers reported complete protection from the germ.

New no-estrogen contraceptive has been recommended for FDA approval and is already in use in 12 countries. Implanted rods release continuous dose of progestin levonorgestrel for five years, but can be removed if the woman wants to become pregnant.

Fishing Outdoors

by Terry L. Wilson

Leon's Bass Are Biting Well

Nine members of the Eastland County Bass Club met at scenic Possum Kingdom Lake this past Sunday. Only four anglers were able to land a 14 1/4 inch or longer fish during a splendid day to be out enjoying mother nature.

At the four p.m. weigh in the results were as follows: 1st 4 fish, 6.72 pounds, Chuck Burgess; 2nd 2 fish 3.87, Tony Wells and 3rd Gary Horton, 1 fish, 1.89. Big Bass of the day went to Chuck Burgess with a nice P. K. lunger weighing 2.20.

Don't forget March 1, 1990 will be the next meeting of the E. C. B. C. Meeting time will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Eastland National Bank Bld. For more information contact Tom Maynard at 629-3550.

Expansion of facilities and programs by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department will give the state's outdoor resources a boost in the 1990's, according to Chuck Nash of San Marcos, Chairman of the Parks and Wildlife Commission.

Speaking at the annual conference of the Texas Outdoor Writers Association in Athens last week, Nash told the writers that new fish hatchery facilities, a new training facility and park for the department at Lake Bastrop, expansion of Type II hunting lands outside East Texas, expansion of the technical guidance program for landowners and opening of a portion of Big Bend Ranch to hunting and other uses will be highlights of the early 1990's.

"We hope to announce a second saltwater hatchery on the Texas coast by April," Nash said. The department already operates the GCCA-CPL Marine Development Center at Corpus Christi, a facility that has produced more than 50 million red drum fingerlings since 1983.

Ground will be broke during 1990 on the departments renovation and expansion project at the Huntsville State Fish Hatchery. Nash told the group the Huntsville hatchery will have many of the modern features now incorporated in the state-of-the-art A. E. Wood production facility at the San Marcos Hatchery.

Nash said a recent agreement with the Lower Colorado River authority will eventually provide a conservation training center for the department, an upgraded state park on the shores of Lake Bastrop and possibly a bass fishery with special limits aimed at production of trophy-sized largemouths in the 1,000-acre reservoir.

Assistance to landowners in managing wildlife habitat will receive new emphasis in the future, Nash said, since most of the state's wildlife habitat is on private lands.

Our backyard Lake Leon really heated up this past week both in water temp and the bass fishing. A few limits were taken on crankbaits and spinner baits. Both of these had to be worked slowly, with the bait stopping quiet often beside cover. White spinner with gold blades seemed to work best. And shad and crawfish pattern crankbaits seemed to be preferred.

Twinn Buttes has been producing a large number of fish in the 5 to 10 pound range on spinner baits in shallow water.

The lakes are warmer to 56 degrees, but this weeks expected cold snap will be a big set back. But the time is coming for some excellent "Fishing Outdoors."

'She Devil' To Show At Majestic Theatre

A rollicking new comedy called "She Devil" will show at the Majestic Theatre in Eastland Friday, Feb. 16 through Monday, Feb. 19. The Theatre will open at 7 each evening, with the picture beginning at 7:30 p.m. Tickets will be $3 each at the box office.

SHE-DEVIL

Mary Fisher (MERYL STREEP), Bob Patchett (ED BEGLEY, JR.), and Roseanne Barr (ROSEANNE BARR)

The story is basically about a conflict which develops when two women care for the same man.

Mary Fisher (Meryl Streep) lives in a palace by the sea. She is pretty and rich and famous and thin, the author of 32 passionate best sellers, drawn from her own romantic research. Ruth Patchett (Roseanne Barr) lives in a tract house in suburbia. She is awkward, well-meaning and overweight. Her life centers around her husband, Bob, an ambitious young accountant with a roving eye. Mary and Ruth meet over a drink...a spilled drink...at a literary party. When Ruth splashes wine on Mary's gown, Bob takes the opportunity to drive the novelist home-and drive home his theories of business management.

He's rewarded with a night of erotic abandon worthy of one of Mary's heroines and a promise of a very influential new client. Soon he becomes her new lover as well, leaving Ruth and the kids with the stinging retort: "You're bad mother, a lousy wife and a terrible cook. In fact, I don't think you're a woman at all. You're a she-devil." So be it.

Letter To The Editor

Letter to the Editor:

Since December 1988, I have made numerous calls, met with the commissioners court and talked to a lot of people concerning the Staff Road, so it really feels great to be able to drive down this road now with the peace of mind and not fear. The level of the causeway has been raised and it now has guard rails. I don't know if the election coming up and Mr. Christan having an opponent had anything to do with the job finally being completed or not; whatever the cause, I really am glad and truly appreciate the nice work done on the Staff Road.

Georgia Hunter

Ed Begley, Jr., Sylvia Miles and Linda Hunt. The Orion Pictures release was directed by Susan Seidelman, produced by Jonathan Breit and Seidelman, and co-produced by G. Mac Brown. Mark R. Burns and Barry Strugatz wrote the screenplay, based on Fay Weldon's novel, "The Life and Loves of a She-Devil."

Don't miss this movie if you need an evening of sheer laughs and entertainment. The picture is rated PG-13.

How Great Thou Art by Bob Harbin

When the morning star disappears
Another Day is almost here
The birds are singing everywhere
How great Thou art.

Another day thou hast given
To be blessed among the living

Lets stop, smell the roses
Along the way
And count the blessing
Thou hast given us this day.

When sorrow and trouble
Comes our way
And as temptation comes to stay

We go to our knees to you to pray
How great thou art.

When our job on earth is over

And the victory has been won

We will go to our Heavenly Father

And hear Him say "Well done."

WORD of GOD

For the word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart.

Ruth Stewart, M.Ed.

Q. As a parent I am wanting to teach my children to be "winners". Are there some ideas that I might share with them in their formative years?

A. Yes, just recently a list of characteristics of winners and losers came to my box. It is entitled "How to be a winner, not a loser!"

1. A WINNER finds ways of getting things done and on time, while a LOSER finds excuses as to why things can't be done and on time.
2. A WINNER finds constructive ways to resolve problems of difficulties, while a LOSER quits when the going is rough.
3. A WINNER listens carefully and with an open mind, while a LOSER doesn't listen well except to hear what he/she wants to hear.
4. A WINNER asks meaningful questions to get information, while a LOSER has all the answers already because they haven't asked the right questions.
5. A WINNER says "Let's Find Out"; a LOSER says, "Nobody knows."
6. A WINNER makes a mistake and says, "I was wrong"; when a LOSER makes a mistake, he says, "It wasn't my fault."
7. A WINNER knows how and when to say "Yes" and "No"; a LOSER says "Yes, but" and "Perhaps not" at the wrong times, for the wrong reasons.
8. A WINNER isn't nearly as afraid of losing as a LOSER is secretly afraid of winning.
9. A WINNER works harder than a LOSER and have more time; a LOSER is always "too busy" to do what is necessary.
10. A WINNER goes through a problem; a LOSER goes around it and never gets past it.

Allergic To Bee Stings? Avoid 'Africanized' Bees

Perhaps as early as March, the first arrivals of the so-called "killer" bees are expected to cross the Rio Grande into Texas. But according to the Texas Department of Health (TDH), their migration to the U.S. will probably be much less dramatic than some media and fiction writers have depicted.

Bobby Davis, an entomologist and director of the TDH General Sanitation Division, explained that the insects may pose an increased danger to individuals who are highly allergic to bee stings, but should not be considered a hazard to most people.

"We want the public to know what makes the AHB (Africanized honeybee) different from other bees. We also want to caution people who are allergic to insect stings that bee stings can be fatal," Davis said. Two or three Texans, stung by common honeybees, die each year.

Davis explained that the AHB is a hybrid species, a cross-breed between common European honeybees and a more aggressive African species. The African bees were accidentally released in Brazil about 30 years ago. Even to scientists, the hybrids look almost identical to common honeybees, but their behavior can be drastically different.

"What concerns us most about AHB is that it is more likely than other bees to attack and sting in large numbers if anyone threatens its colony or swarm. Although the venom of Africanized bees is no more toxic than that of other honeybees, the number of stings a person might suffer may be much greater. If the person is already allergic to bee stings, or if he is stung by large numbers of bees in a swarm, it can be fatal." Hence the name, "killer" bees.

Davis said he thinks the name "killer" bee is a misnomer. "They are hard-working honeybees, and if you don't disturb their colonies, chances are they won't bother you."

As many as 10 deaths in Mexico may have resulted from AHB stings in the past four years. Other Central and South American countries have recorded increased bee sting deaths as the AHB swarms have spread northward from Brazil.

Another characteristic of AHB is its tendency to abscond—to separate into new swarms to start new colonies. "Whereas most common honeybees are content in beekeepers' hives, the AHB swarms sometimes seek more unlikely places to hide, such as old barrels, vacant buildings—nearly anything that offers shelter. That creates the danger that someone might stumble upon them," Davis said.

Davis said that the most likely persons to have serious problems with the Africanized bees are beekeepers and farmers, particularly in the Valley, where nearly all crops are dependent upon bee pollination. "Beekeepers are going to have who may be lax in wearing protective clothing are going to have to be more careful. Farm workers are going to have to watch for wild swarms, and take care not to provoke them."

Davis added that young children and the elderly, who might not be able to move quickly, especially should avoid these bees. "We advise that anyone who finds a wild bee colony should contact the local health authority or an experienced beekeeper to make sure they are removed or destroyed safely."

Safe Driving Tips from Rhonda

Effects of drugs on driving: Statistics prove that amphetamine users are four times more likely to be involved in an accident. One study gave startling facts regarding the high rate of collisions experienced by truck drivers who took pills to stay awake. The article reported that dreaming is essential to health, and whether we realize it or not, we all dream. Something strange happened to the truck drivers who went for long periods of time without sleep. With eyes wide open, their bodies suddenly began to dream. What a nightmare! Amphetamines are extremely dangerous when mixed with driving.

A Thought For The Day....

Old virtues such as duty, patriotism and service to one's country sometimes today meet with a certain cynicism. So it's good to remember the birthday of George Washington... "first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countymen." Washington was born February 22, 1732, in Westmoreland County, Virginia... one of five children of a family which had for three generations lived in America. Because his father, a well-to-do planter, died when he was twelve, he wasn't sent to England like his older brothers for an education... He became a surveyor and took his place in the militia when his brother became ill. As a major, he was sent on two expeditions against and French, and on the second was defeated. On a third, led by General Braddock, the British and Americans were again defeated. But apart from this start and these lessons, Washington rose to become the commander in later years of American forces in the hard-fought revolution against Britain. He then became the new nation's first president. For fifteen years seven in war and eight as president, Washington founded and guided a new nation to manhood and, as the father of our country, bequeathed a unique and precious heritage to all Americans.
