ROBERT "BO" REIN Feared Killed In Crash

Mystery Shrouds Coach's Flight, Crash

CAPE CHARLES, Va. (AP) - Louisiana State University football coach Robert E. "Bo" Rein was presumed killed today in the crash of a private plane that wandered 1,000 miles off course in a storm and plunged into the Atlantic Ocean, offi-

An Air Force jet pilot, who was following the plane on its erratic flight, reported he saw it dive 41,000 feet straight into the dark water off the Virginia coast about midnight. He said an oil slick formed in the water.

In Baton Rouge, La., LSU officials said the Coast Guard reported no signs of life at the site. "He is presumed dead," said Paul Manasseh, the school's sports information director. Rein was named head coach at LSU on Nov. 30.

1979, replacing Coach Charlie McClendon, whose contract was not renewed. Previously he had been head coach at North Carolina State.

There was no explanation for the long flight so rect flight from Shreveport to Baton Rouge.

Edmond Johnson at the Air Force Rescue Center in Ft. Worth said the pilot radioed he had run into bad weather and asked for a routing to the east. The shift was approved at 21,000 feet, but radar showed the plane stayed above 25,000, Johnson

He said further attempts to raise the plane on radio failed, but it was tracked by radar from station to station over the 1,000-mile flight to the sea.

Sgt. Paul Munt of the Air Force Rescue Center in St. Louis speculated that those aboard lost consciousness — perhaps because of depressurization — and then the automatic pilot carried it until it ran out of gas. However, he stressed it was speculation and the cause would not be known until the flight recorder was recovered from the plane.

Walton said the last radio contact with the plane was about 10:30 p.m. with the control center in Ft. Worth. Officials at Ft. Worth said they had not checked the tapes of the call, but indications were the pilot reported trying to fly around bad weather.

Dr. Lauro F. Cavazos, 53, a medical school dean from Boston, was interviewed by Texas Tech University regents and members of the faculty presidential selection committee for more than an hour this morning in a closed meeting.

A check with local airlines uncovered no other out-of-town presidential candidates who may have arrived either Thursday or today. By midday, it was not clear whether other finalists would be interviewed in Lubbock or if Cavazos is the prime contender.

It is possible, however, that other candidates may have arrived by private transportation.

Nebraska chancellor Roy Young, though, is not in town. A spokesman in his office this morning said Young was in Lincoln and had no plans to leave the city today or Saturday.

Regents plan a closed meeting tonight and may meet again Saturday. Board chairman Robert Pfluger said only that "the board will possibly meet Saturday morning at 9 a.m. Agenda for that meeting would include an executive session, perhaps to be followed by an open session for consideration of naming a presihim when he died at 8:55 p.m. CST. Death was attributed to cardiac arrest.

President Carter called Meany "an American institution" and "a patriot." "He changed the shape of our nation about $300 a month in rental costs.

EMS officials are currently negotiating with the City of Lubbock to locate a substation at the old firehouse at 30th Street and Texas Avenue, which will of-fer a direct avenue to Northeast and East Lubbock upon completion of the Texas Avenue underpass near Fourth Street.

If EMS can work out an agreement to move to the old fire station, the substation currently housed at West Texas Hospital will be closed. EMS will still run calls out of its central location at Health Sciences Center Hospital, which serves the north and western sectors of the city. All the moves and planned relocations are efforts to keep within the preferred five-minute response time for emergency calls, Enabnit said.

The EMS director also reported to the committee that agreements have been re-negotiated with surrounding communities in Lubbock County which maintain district-owned EMS units. All communities agree, under contract, to provide emergency ambulance service 24 hours a day, seven days a week Shallowater EMS personnel remain the only group who have not been able to provide the 24-hour service. But the crew speculates they will be able to fulfill the contract in about nine weeks when several members of their EMT association fulfills paramedic training.

Enabnit told the LCHD group that work was still being done on the EMS ambulance damaged in a Dec. 22 wreck, which also injured two EMS personnel. The other party involved in the accident is insured, and the district does not anticipate having to shoulder the burden of repairing or replacing the unit.

property be left as it is."

More than 100 acres already have been set aside for the wildlife refuge. Fawks said the state fish and wildlife service wants to acquire the property being considered for rezoning as well as 80 acres nearby.

In 1976, Illinois school children collected $36,000 for the Oak Valley project. Other contributors include the National Wildlife Federation, the Illinois Audubon Society and the John Deere Foundation.

As the river freezes, the eagles hunt fish in open water near Lock and Dam 14. Fawks said they circle the river during the day and nest in deep ravines on the bluff area at night.

Al DeCap, a member of the county's public works committee, said he believes the eagles would flourish even with a motel 300 feet away.

Stewart Winstein, vice chairman of the Illinois Democratic Central Committee, said conservationists are trying to seize the land of a local landowner, denying his right to sell it to whom he wishes.

The new system is known as "closed captioning" because captiond television programs will be available only to individuals who purchase the adapters or special television sets. This contrasts with an "open captioning" system in which a specific program is captioned and seen by all viewers.

The adapter units are currently featured in the spring-summer edition of the Sears Roebuck catalog, and the company will begin filling orders in mid-March. The adapters, which cost $249.95 each, can be attached to any television set.

Later this year, Sears also will sell a special 19-inch color television with the caption decoding equipment built in. The set will retail for around $500, said Jane Miller of the National Captioning Institute, a non-profit organization that developed the caption system for the televi-

Gas Conservation Tough Problem For U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) - In trying to get the states to come up with effective energy conservation plans, President Carter again will learn it's a lot harder to save gasoline in the United States than elsewhere in the world.

It was done during World War II, but only at the cost of shutting down automobile production, delaying growth of the infant airlines and imposing a tight coupon rationing that limited most ordinary motorists to about 100 miles a week.

In peacetime, the huge domestic petroleum production makes conservation more difficult psychologically.

Also, Americans have dismantled the vast public passenger transportation system that was still very busy and in good shape during World War II. True, it has been replaced to some extent by a big airline network, but the airplane is no good for short-haul transport.

To rebuild the public transportation network now would be extremely difficult, expensive and time consuming because distances have been stretched by the flight of population and industry from the cities to the countryside and the shift of vast segments of the nation to the Sunbelt and the West Coast.

The rest of the industrialized world has not followed the American example, although it may look that way to the American tourist.

A table of annual per capita gasoline consumption in the developed countries prepared by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development reveals that Canada is the only nation that comes remotely near using as much motor fuel as Americans. Australia is next.

These are both countries like the United States with vast geographic distances. But the Soviet Union has even vaster geographic distances and its per capita consumption of gasoline has been kept very low and its public transportation network has been steadily expanded and improved. The OCED figures are for 1977, the latest available year, and they show the U.S. was consuming 513.7 gallons of gasoline per capita annually. Canada's consumption was 395.6 gallons and Australia's 265.1. The highest consumption in Europe was Sweden's 150.2 gallons; the lowest Greece's 45.3.

countries' consumption was France's 113.3 gallons. France is not a small country, but, by American standards its distances are short. Accordingly, the French still are a nation to whom the automobile is in the main a luxury, not a necessity.

THE NUCLEAR controversy has been only part of the problem. A long and once very close relationship had been deteriorating for some time. Pakistan, for example, was a charter and enthusiastic member of the U.S.sponsored Central Treaty Organization.

Labor turmoil thrives in heavily unionized communities. That's one reason industries are moving out of the Snow Belt to the Sun Belt.

I think about that night now because it is a source of comfort and confidence.

It contradicts the evidence that the world is about to go to Iran or some other hell in a handbasket, the 30-and-under crowd drinking booze and smoking pot and totally oblivious to the dangers of the trip.

Gathered in that apartment with the young officer and his family were others, mostly civilians, from in and around Lawton.

Their common bond is an embryonic church around which they are building friendships, social life and a future rooted in faith and a dedication to Christian and American traditions.

They gathered early in the evening, sang hymns, played a word game, ate, and drank nary a drop of liquor. At the stroke of midnight, Son-in-law offered up a prayer that somehow seemed more fitting for a Happy New Year than do the drunken orgies many attend on such nights.

Far across the sea, the distant drums of war were beating in Afghanistan. An aggressive power, the Soviet Union, was on the move.

Before this new decade comes to an end, some of those in this room on one of America's military bases might hear the drums roll closer.

IF THEY DO. God forbid, I would rather place our nation's future in the hands of the likes of these than with those pleasure-seekers who profess to be out to make the world better by marching in the streets and posturing about "rights" allegedly denied them.

The 1980s may turn out to be an era of unprecedented peace and prosperity, or the inevitable march of time may turn them into years of economic, political and military horrors.

Either way, America's hope rests with the likes of those young people who build homes and families and careers and who get their kicks by gathering 'round in a circle and singing praises to God

ATLANT

In t

WASHINGTON-Christmas came this year at a bad time for this Judeo-Christian nation. For one thing, the Yule season saw Moslems and Communists drawing closer to an anti-American coalition if not alliance.

For another, the Senate and House, sighing like schoolboys for vacation, were breaking up their pencils with a lot of work left undone. It is an accepted fact that Soviet organizers called the tune and led the preliminary war dance around the U.S. embassy at Tehran which is nothing at all if it isn't a taunt to President Carter. The President does nothing that will very much offend Iran and the Islam nations and masses that could be counted upon to close ranks against the peace-loving Yanks.

NO MATTER WHICH of several Ayatollahs comes out ahead in Iran, he is sure to be against the USA and sure to have the covert or overt support of the USSR.

As usual, a home-sick Congress legislated in haste and thereby left loopholes for itching fingers. Congress is cranking up for a crash program in rearmament to accommodate the '81 defense budget and the Rapid Deployment Forces which the Carter administration has called for.

More important than the hundreds of billions which Congress will be asked to raise is the mindchange which has come over the American peo ple, and therefore over its legislators and chief ex-

Defense Sec. Harold Brown has warned against two misleading assumptions. One, he said, is the notion that the Iranian crisis hit the U.S. public like a Pearl Harbor shock.

SECOND THOUGHTS BEGAN to dawn on previously cancelled or phased-down arms programs like the Trident submarine and missile, the B-1 or some other heavy bomber and a shipbuilding plan.

Rather than a sudden decision that the country needed to rearm and to live in a state of readiness. the Secretary said the polls showed a steady and well-considered mounting of this awareness. Brown sounded a follow-up warning against a violent swing in the opposite direction. He does not desire a jingoistic eagerness to settle international differences by air and sea strikes or up-the-beach Nonetheless, he had much to say about the Rapid Deployment Forces, under a three star general officer, which could take the size of anything from a battalion to an army corps.

With the exception of troops and units already assigned to South Korea or NATO, the whole military power of the nation will be available for sudden emergencies.

Both the military press and the military-minded members of Congress are skeptical about the seeming deathbed conversion of President Carter. A unilateral disarmament addict until a few weeks ago, he seemed to resemble a fire-snorting warlord. Iran certainly played some part in this born-again appearance More sagacious, however, is the opinion that these doings are more antics than tactics. Carter will go through any number of flip-flops in order to get Senate ratification for SALT II. But the wise money says that once he placates the Russians, once he has SALT II in place, Jimmy Carter will be quite himself again-a term that few persons near the Pentagon regard as a compliment to the Commander-In-Chief.

Hedging Is Safest Bet In Commodity Futures

000 bushels of soybeans, or 38,000 pounds of pork bellies, or 1,000,000 Swiss francs? Does this seem more exotic and "far out" to you than buying, say, American Telephone & Telegraph shares or even high-yielding shares in a money market fund?

If the thought of trading such provocative items does appeal to you: you merely would be joining mounting millions of other Americans in all income and age brackets, at all levels of education, men and women, married and single, living in areas scattered throughout the U.S. who in the 1970s discovered and became active in the commodity futures markets.

Futures trading boomed during the 1970s and the explosive growth shows no signs of slowing. much less ending.

COMMODITY TRADERS FALL into one of two broad categories-hedgers and speculatorsand both groups began their spectacular expansion at the start of the 1970s.

Hedgers are individuals or corporations who use the futures markets in the course of their business operations to protect themselves against adverse price fluctuations. Commodity prices can and do fluctuate dramatically, and these changes can have a significant impact on profit margins.

When producers and users of commodities can free themselves from worry in this sphere, they can concentrate on running their businesses more efficiently, and this increased efficiency is of general public benefit.

Stripped of all hopped-up hoopla, this probably is the most important reason for the existence of futures exchanges.

THE NUMBER OF hedgers has increased sharply for two important reasons: (1) the heightened volatility of commodity prices during the 1970s made hedge protection especially desirable and, in some industries, virtually indispensable: (2) more and more businessmen have learned both the mechanics and the benefits of hedging.

The speculator category is loaded with individuals (qualified or utterly unqualified) who trade commodities because they hope to make money by so doing. Doctors, lawyers, businessmen, accountants and just about every other occupational group are among the swelling ranks of futures speculators. Why have so many millions turned on to futures trading in recent years? Among the most powerful forces behind the commodity boom:

(A) THE COMBINED impact of accelerated inflation and intermittent worldwide shortages of a wide variety of agricultural and industrial items have sparked substantial price moves in many commodities.

These increasingly volatile price changes have been widely publicized, alerting more and more people to the profit opportunities open to those who can accurately forecast commodity prices. (b) Commodity trading is done on relatively small margin requirements. As a general rule, a speculator must post only about 5 to 20 percent of the value of the commodity traded. This substantial leverage allows huge sums to be made (or lost) very quickly. It is not at all unusual this trading capital within a few weeks. (c) Futures contracts can be sold short in exactly the same manner as they are bought. Thus it makes no difference whether prices are rising or falling-a trader who can predict correctly how prices will change can profit with equal ease in both bull and bear markets.

(d) The number and variety of futures contracts has multiplied dramatically in recent years.

If you have a firmly held opinion in any economic arena you probably can find a futures contract that will allow you to put your ideas to the toughest test: risking your whole nest egg.

(e) Commodity market information is easy to obtain. Securities traders have trouble finding upto-the-minute news on any but the most active of the more than 3,000 companies listed on the New York and American exchanges alone. Commodity traders have no such trouble.

Only about 35 commodities have active futures contracts, and current information on all of them is readily available.

(F) COMMISSION COSTS for futures transactions are very low-usually amounting to much less than 1 percent of the value of the underlying commodity. What's more, these charges apply only when a position is closed out, not when it is ini-

Intriguing, isn't it? If you like action and have a few thousand dollars or more with which to play, then the commodity futures markets could be for

But futures trading can be a bewildering and costly experience if you try it without at least a basic concept of what makes it tick. Don't even try: You'll be licked before you start!

The Celts ruled great parts of Europe from 700 B.C. until about 100 A.D. They had a secret written language, "OGAM," which was actually a cipher because they used a symbol in place of each letter. Since OGAM was based on the Roman alphabet of 20 letters, it's been modernized for today's 26letter alphabet.

In the picture you'll see your key. To write your cipher message. draw a horizontal line (side to side) across the paper. Now for each letter of your clear text (the message) add the right little verticle (up and down) lines to your horizontal line. As you can see, some of the little lines are above, and others across that long horizontal line. About half are straight up and down, the rest lean forward or back

Mrs. Belcourt, 62, says she considers the ACLU "a Marxist organization" that 'made me mad" when it tried to prevent students in Sioux City, S.D., public schools from singing religious songs in a Christmas program in 1978.

Mrs. Belcourt says she went looking for an issue and unearthed the forgotten Ten Commandments law. Last spring she pushed and prodded the Grand Forks School District into displaying the docu-ment, as required by the law, "in a conspicuous place in every schoolroom."

Mrs. Belcourt, a Roman Catholic and self-described "born-again Christian," says the Ten Commandments have a "psychological benefit" for schoolchild-

Another result of her constant camigning and community work was the Legislature's passage last year of a law requiring students to learn the national anthem before completing sixth grade.

one of them, that prefers one religion over another and tends to disparage some religions Vogel says "it is simply not true" that English and American laws are based on the Ten Commandments, which the Bible says were given by God to the Hebrew leader Moses on Mount Sinai. But Assistant Attorney General Murray Sagsveen argues that the Ten Commandments have a secular impact on our whole legal and social system. "The Ten Commandments are the earliest and first expression of the law, and how the people of the world felt toward the Ten Commandments has influenced all of our development since Our national heritage has primarily evolved out of a Christian environment. By displaying the Ten Commandments, we're merely recognizing this." Sagsveen says only one other state, Kentucky, has a similar Ten Commandments statute. Kentucky's law, rather than requiring the document to be posted, permits its display in such public places as classrooms. Just why the North Dakota law was passed is sketchy, but Sagsveen thinks it was probably intended to improve students' morals. One 1927 legislator said the bill may result in "less war and more Benjamin Ring, the suit's chief plain-

LONDON (UPI) - A Soviet plan to divert the flow of major Siberian rivers south, away from the Arctic Ocean and towards new agricultural lands, may have an impact on the climate of the northern hemisphere.

The Climate Research unit of the University of East Anglia, with a grant from the U.S. Office of Naval Research, is examining the vast Soviet project as part of a study into the possibility of predicting climatic changes.

An article in New Scientist relates the work to the crop failures of the early 1970s when panic Soviet buying doubled the world wheat price. That crop disaster underlined the fact that world food reserves are adequate only to cover a month or so, and would not be sufficient if there were poor harvests for a year on a global scale. The article said the Soviets are making great efforts to overcome this problem, as far as their own needs and commitments to Eastern Europe are concerned, by tripling grain production in Kazakhstan and Central Asia with the aid of largescale irrigation.

In the next five years the Soviets plan to spend 40 billion roubles -officially about $60 billion - to drain and irrigate 25 million acres of land.

By the mid-1980s there will be 37 million acres under the plough, producing more than one-third of the total agricultural output of the USSR.

But such grand schemes bring probic history of the Earth for the past few million years.'

lems of a comparable scale," the article

Irrigation demands on Asian rivers have seriously depleted the Aral Sea, which may disappear unless alternative water sources are found. The level of the Caspian Sea also is falling because of the drain of water from the Volga.

To counter this, Soviet planners envision diverting three great rivers - the Ob, the Yenisei and the Pechora - to replenish the seas. One factor in the plan is a 1,600-mile canal 700 to 1,000 feet wide.

'Clearly such schemes have important environmental repercussions," article said. "The key factor in the role of the Siberian rivers, and especially the Ob and the Yenisei, is in maintaining the ice cove of the Arctic Ocean. The presence of an ice-covered polar sea is, many climatologists believe, a key factor in maintaining the pattern of ice ages and interglacials which has dominated the climat-

Stressing that the Ob and the Yenesei are among the greatest rivers on Earth, the research team said atmospheric data at least hints that diminishing their flow may decrease rainfall in the very regions

In addition there are other far-reaching implications in the Soviet plan which may not yet have occurred to them, the article said. Ice from the Kara Sea rifts into the open Arctic and eventually into the North Atlantic via theEast Greenland current. The extent of the ice is considered important forclimatic conditions over the Eurasin continent. The article said the Soviets certainly are concerned about the potential environmental impact but an independent assessment outside the Soviet Union, such as the Climate Research Unit study, definitely was needed.

Trees Once Believed Extinct Now Thrive In United States

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) - A 75-foot tall tree towers over the administration building at Bonneville Dam on the Columbia River, where its species was once believed to have died out more than 10

The tree, of course, did not grow from the fossils of its ancestors, but came instead from seeds gathered halfway around the world where the species metasequoia or Dawn Redwood - survived in a remote valley of China. Since the discovery of the living trees in Szechuan Province in 1944, the seeds have been distributed to areas in the Western Hemisphere where Dawn Redwood fossils have been found. A number of them are thriving, reaching heights of 70 to 80 feet in 20 years. In China, the trees are found as high as 150 to 200 feet.

Fossils of the metasequoia were found in the Clarno area of Central Oregon and in the Latah formation near Spokane, Wash., as early as 1871, but they were misidentified as yew. In 1941, fossils of the tree were found in Japan by botanist Shigeru Miki, who gave the species the name metasequoia. News of his find did not get outside Japan until after World War II.

Meanwhile, a Chinese forester found the living trees at the village of Mataochi, where travelers seldom ventured. He thought the trees were water pine or fir, but took branches, needles and cones to the Division of Forestry of the Ministry of Agriculture in Nanking.

After World War II ended, Dr. C.T. Hwa of Fan Memorial College at Nanking sent specimens of the tree to Dr. E.D. Merrill at the Arnold Arboretum at Harvard University. Merrill identified them as the fossilized species discovered

Merrill immediately sent Hwa $250 to pay for a seed-gathering expedition, which found more than 1,000 of the trees in the valley of Shuisa-pa south of Mataochi, at a 4,000-foot elevation protected from winter cold and dry summer winds, and in Hupeh Province.

The first seeds to arrive in the United States were received in December 1946 by the Missouri Botanical Garden, Richard A. Howard, of the Arnold Arboretum, said. The lot paid for by the arboretum did not arrive until January 1947.

The seeds were distributed to areas where the Dawn Redwood was known to have grown in prehistoric times.

They grow there now - in Seattle's Iniversity of Washington Arboretum, Portland's Hoyt Arboretum, the Finch Arboretum in Spokane, Wash., and near Bonneville Dam, where excavation for a second powerhouse uncovered 1,000 fossils of the tree in recent years. Some also are reported growing in Tennessee.

Fossils have been found indicating the tree grew as far north as the Arctic Circle 40 million to 60 million years ago, then expanded southward into Oregon and northern California 30 million to 40 million years ago and into Nevada 15 million years ago. It also was found in Rus-

Retail Sales Of U.S.-Built Trucks Down

DETROIT (AP) - Retail sales of U.S.-built trucks were down 17.3 percent from the year before in 1979, but an industry association says the figures were the third-highest ever despite the slump.

Sales of light-duty trucks accounted for much of the drop from 1978's record, the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Asso-

Figures are preliminary and included light-duty foreign trucks sold under do-mestic nameplates, the MVMA said. A listing without foreign-produced trucks was not available.

U.S. manufacturers sold 3,235,634 trucks in 1979, compared with 3,913,902 in 1978, said the organization. Sales of heavy-duty trucks were put at

223,275, a record and 10.2 percent above the 202,640 sold in 1978. Sales of medium-duty models totaled 151,615, a 7.6 percent slip from the 164,-107 sold last year, the association said.

For light-duty models, sales totaled
2,860,744 including imports, a 19.4 percent drop from the 3,547,155 sold in 1978.

In December, domestic makers sold 207,250 models, a 26.5 percent slide from the 282,138 of same month last year. The MVMA breakdown of sales for December, by model, was: 185,630 light-duty, including imports with domestic nameplates, a drop of 26.8 percent from the 253,756 sold in December 1978; 8,282 medium-duty, a 34.8 percent drop from the 12,699 trucks sold last year; 13,338 heavy-duty, down 15 percent from the 15,683 last year.

The 12 members of the MVMA represent more than 99 percent of the domestic market, the group said.

City Price Hike Puts Regular Gas Just Under $1

Avalanche-Journal Staff

Even though a wholesale gasoline price boost has raised service station prices in Lubbock, consumers of regular grade here can still buy fuel for less than $1 a gallon — if they pump it themselves.

Shell Oil Co. raised its wholesale gasoline prices 5 cents a gallon on Wednesday and was joined Thursday by Exxon USA. Chevron USA, Texaco Inc. and Phillips Petroleum Co., who hiked their wholesale prices by 3 cents a gallon-

Retail gasoline dealers in Lubbock report the increase either has already been passed on to the consumer in the same amount as the wholesale increase, or will be raised when the the next gasoline supply arrives, probably within the next few

Phillips dealers here also are just now passing on a one-cent marginal increase approved by the Department of Energy Jan. 2, which was made available only to independent service station dealers. Therefore, local Phillips prices are going up 4 cents a gallon when Thursday's i crease is added.

Self-service regular gasoline from the five companies now ranges from around 98.9 cents to 99.9 cents a gallon in Lubbock, with self-service unleaded going from about 101.9 cents to 105.8 cents.

Buyers of unleaded gasoline, however, can say goodbye to the days when they could buy fuel for less than $1 a galion. A random sampling in Lubbock shows all five oil companies are selling the unleaded grade for more than $1 a gallon, with Texaco the highest at 114 8 for full service at one station.

pump the regular grade into their cars will also be paying more than $1 a gallon. Full-service regular prices of the five companies ranged from 100.9 cents to 110.4 in the local survey.

Of the various stations polled, only one dealer said he might not go up in price, because of local competition.

The latest price increases can be reflected at the pumps almost immediately after a wholesale increase is announced because the Energy Department permits dealers to pass their wholesale buying costs directly along to the motorist.

Exxon and Phillips also boosted home heating oil prices by 3 cents a gallon, along with Shell, which raised its cost between 5 and 6 cents a gallon, depending Shell also raised its aviation turbine fuel by 5 cents a gallon.

As with gasoline, heating oil bills also will reflect the newest hike soon because home heating oil no longer falls under government price controls.

The U.S. oil industry last raised gasoline prices by between 3 and 6 cents a gallon and increased home heating oil prices by an average 3 cents a gallon in mid-December as a result of crude oil price boosts by Saudi Arabia and three other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

OPEC failed to agree on a uniform oil price at its Dec. 18-21 meeting in Caracas, and most other cartel members raised their oil prices - some retroactively to Nov. 1 or Dec. 1.

Exxon, Chevron, Texaco, Phillips and Shell blamed the latest increase on foreign crude-oil price increases.

Program Apparently Ends Home Burglaries

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS Avalanche-Journal Staff

Residents of a southwestern section of Lubbock County believe their neighborhood anti-crime program has made burglars think twice about striking in that part of the county.

Neighbors in that rural area decided about four months ago to organize themselves into a vigilante-style group to put an end to a rash of house burglaries. Before the group organized, the rural community located just southwest of Lubbock had been hit by 11 house burglaries in a two-week period, according to T.W. Kirkpatrick, a resident of the area.

Emmett Rogers, one of the group's organizers, said publicity about the recently formed protection program appar ently has served as a warning to wouldbe thieves to steer clear of the area. Since our first meeting, we have not had a single house burglary in our part of the county," Rogers told The Avalanche-had been burglarized. If he and other Crime Prevention Council started a propnearby neighbors had been more observant, Rogers said, that break-in possibly could have been stopped.

Keeping a watchful eye on a neighbor's property is one of the chief tenets of the protection program, Rogers noted.

He encourages residents to be observant of what's going on at their neighbors' houses and the surrounding area. If they see a strange car in the area, they should jot down the license plate and the time of day the vehicle was spotted, Rog-

Dispute May Reduce City Airline Service

By JOHNNY HOLMES Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock air travelers could see their chances of catching a flight out of the city cut in half next week unless Southwest Airlines can resolve a contract dispute with the International Association of Machinists by Sunday.

The airline, which flies more than 700 persons per day from Lubbock - more than all other airlines serving Lubbock combined - could be shut down completely if the union, which represents some 106 mechanics and clerks, opts to strike early Sunday. "There's no real progress to report," said Southwest spokesman Camille Keith late Thursday of an all-day meeting that appeared to be a last ditch effort to reach As I understand it, if a strike occurs. Southwest will cut down its service to Lubbock and other cities by about half," said Lubbock aviation director Marvin Coffee. "If the strike drags on, they'll

Mrs. Keith said any decision to shut down the airline or continue operations on a limited basis "will be made only after we're sure there's going to be a strike. That will come at 12:01 Sunday morning unless we work something out.

They seem to be holding pretty fast, so I wouldn't expect any sort of settlement very soon. But it's possible." The airline and the union have been

'Second Opinions' Often Conflic DETROIT (UPI) - Two "second opinion" programs designed to cut medical costs have shown that consulting physicians disagreed with another doctor's original recommendation for elective surgery in up to 39 percent of the cases reviewed

Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Michigan compiled the information from two programs that provide area autoworkers and their families and Medicare recipients with free second opinions on non-emergency surgery.

BC-BS officials said, however, it is too early" to tell how many patients who received the optional second opinions decided not to have the surgery, and what kind of health care savings might

Such follow-up data won't be available for up to three years, BC-BS officials said. They also cautioned against trying to translate the information into an estimate of the prevalence of unnecessary basis for assuming surgery is unnecessarsaid Dr. Louis F. Haves, Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Michigan vice president for professional affairs. "In fact, surgery may later be confirmed as the treatment. Still, indications are that second opinion programs avoid enough surgery to make them cost effective," he said. Among the autoworkers, surgery was not confirmed as the next treatment step in 30.9 percent of the second opinions, or 198 of 649 cases over a two-year period ending last June 30, the BC-BS said.

In second opinions provided the Medicare recipients, surgery was not confirmed as the next treatment step in 43 of year period ending last July 31.

Hayes said the results appear to be in line with those reported in similar programs elsewhere in the nation.

Although data is not yet available on the programs' effect on the actual incidence of surgery, Hayes said other studies have shown that about 50 percent of patients who receive a second opinion usually follow it.

"Second opinion programs cause the physician to consider more carefully the equences of his recommendation." he said. "It also provides the patient with additional information on which to make

Hayes said he was disappointed with participation in the program. Only about I percent of those eligible for the free second opinions have sought them. Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Michigan had hoped for 10 percent participation.

"The participation is lower than anticipated and I think it is because of a lack of awareness of the availability of the program," Hayes said. "It takes quite a lot of 'promotion' to get it to the individual person's level.

New Test Gives Early Warning Of Skin Diseases In Unborn

BOSTON (AP) — A tiny patch of skin taken from a fetus in its mother's womb will give parents an early warning if their unborn child has a serious skin disease, researchers say.

For the first time, doctors have a long needle called a fetoscope to test the skin of a fetus suspected of carrying a rare, often fatal skin ailment.

The experimental exam may add another tool to the growing practice of checking babies' health before they are

In this case, doctors used the test to see whether a mother with a skin disorder had passed the disease on to her unborn child. Because of the disease, her body was covered with scaly skin.

"The patient and her husband had had no children for 11 years because of her fear of bearing an affected child and the disorder," the researchers wrote. The test revealed that the fetus had the disease, called epidermolytic huperkeratosis, and as a result, the mother decided to have an abortion.

"The psychological impact of having this kind of skin disorder can be immense," Dr. Thomas D. Gindhart, one of the researchers, said in an interview. Far be it from me to tell some mother that just because she's had 25 years of grief with this skin problem that she is not entitled to have a normal child." The work was conducted at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco and published in this week's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

"Fetoscopy has opened a new plane in prenatal diagnosis and will continue to broaden the ability to study the fetus," the researchers wrote.

Gindhart said the new test may be used to determine whether babies will have albino skin as well as other more unusual skin disorders. Inherited skin diseases cannot be diagnosed in the unborn with amniocentesis, a widely used test in which doctors examine amniotic fluid taken from the mother's worth

Brown declined Secret Service protection four years ago when he also was seeking the Democratic nomination.

The Secret Service already is guarding President Carter, as the incumbent president, and Sen. Edward Kennedy and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Kennedy, a Democrat, and Reagan, a Republican, made special requests for protection last fall.

Under a law passed after the assassi-nation of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in 1968, most major candidates are entitled to Secret Service protection as of Jan. 11 of the election year unless they decline it.

The final decision is made by the Treasury secretary on the advice of an advisory committee. But it pretty much follows a formula, based primarily on financial reports which show candidates have enough in campaign contributions to demonstrate a serious national follow-

The poll, taken this week, shows Reagan is preferred by 26 percent of Iowa Republicans for their party's presidential nomination. He was perferred by 50 percent in the last poll.

Reagan still leads Howard Baker with 18 percent, George Bush with 17 and John Connally with 10.

Grain Embargo Sparks Hot Campaign Debate

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP) -The partial U.S. grain embargo against the Soviet Union is dominating the headlines in Iowa and touching off the most acrimonious controversy of the 1980 presidential campaign.

Two old friends, Sen. Edward M.

Kennedy and Vice President Walter F. Mondale, clashed Thursday over the embargo issue, which Kennedy clearly hopes will give him an edge in this farmbelt state's precinct caucus Jan. 21.

Most Republican candidates also are criticizing Carter for the embargo - to the consternation of four conservative political organizations.

Campaigning in Iowa on behalf of President Carter and himself, Mondale said that by opposing the embargo, Kennedy was pursuing "the politics of the moment." Mondale said presidential candidates had to choose between the politically safe course and the patriotic

Kennedy's first response, in Springfield, Ill., was low-key. Asked about Mondale's remarks, Kennedy said, "I would certainly reject that suggestion."

But when he landed at the airport in

Kennedy recalled the days when he and Mondale served in the Senate together and were among the opponents to U.S. involvement in Vietnam

"As one who took strong dissent to the war in Vietnam and was joined by the vice president in that dissent, I'm used to the suggestion that unless we conform to administration policy one might make the point that someone is somehow unpatriotic," he said.

In campaign appearances in every section of Iowa this week, Kennedy has concentrated his fire on the grain embargo, calling it a decision that will hurt American farmers and taxpayers more than the Soviet Union. California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., another Carter

But as they ponder these uncertainies, farmers are busy preparing land for he planting season and taking care of ivestock, the Texas Agricultural Extenion Service of the Texas A&M Universisystem noted in its weekly report.

Livestock is holding up well in most sections of Texas, thanks to generally mild weather. But feeding has been heavy in many sections because of poor range conditions caused by dry weather last fall. Wheat and oat pastures are beginning to furnish some green grazing over the eastern half of the state, and cattle are grazing some irrigated wheat in the plains, the extension service re-

Soil moisture conditions vary over the state from generally adequate over the eastern half to short in southern and western areas.

Harvesting of 1979 crops generally is complete except for pecans, a few scattered fields of cotton in the plains and for vegetables, citrus and sugar cane in the Rio Grande Valley.

While most of the cotton has been harvested, ginning will continue for some time because cotton is field-stored in modules in western areas and the plains, the extension service said.

Lettuce and cabbage still are being gathered in the Valley, while the citrus harvest remains in full swing.

KELLEY, Iowa (AP) - In the gnawing cold outside Dan Froning's grain warehouse, there is nothing abstract about the issues raised by President Carter's embargo of shipments to the Soviet Union.

They are as real as the snow-dusted mounds of corn heaped on the pavement because the grain elevator is full; as real as the 30 railroad cars waiting to be loaded with corn that may go nowhere.

To the presidential candidates seeking support in Iowa's leadoff contest of the 1980 campaign, the embargo is a subject for one-sided debate: Almost to a man, they have assailed the president's

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is telling crowds of farmers that all Carter has done is penalize them and the taxpayers, without really hurting the Russians.

Campaigning for Carter, Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland counters that it had to be done, that Soviet troops might not have stopped with Afghanistan had the United States failed to take a firm stand against Russian expansion-

Bergland says that would have been a catastrophe, and tells the farmers the government will cushion the blow. He insists government grain purchases will keep corn prices at about the level the crop would have brought without the em-

He never calls it an embargo, he calls it a suspension.

Whatever it's called, Dan Froning doesn't like it. We're sick," he said.

He has about 300,000 bushels of corn his elevator and in makeshift bins by the railroad tracks, 30 miles north of Des Moines. He figures much of it would have wound up in the Soviet Union. "We started loading railroad cars and then we quit," he said. "We've got the supply, but the demand is gone.

Bergland said prices may drop for a while, as they did when grain markets reopened Wednesday, but maintains that administration purchase programs will get the price back to where it would have been without the embargo.

That doesn't convince Froning. "It's our money," he said. "We're just stirring it. That's inflationary, isn't it?"

In Des Moines, at breakfast with 30 farmers, Bergland said Carter did what had to be done when the Russians moved into Afghanistan. "They didn't think the president had the guts to suspend grain sales with the Iowa caucuses coming," Bergland said.

Jim Middleswart, a farmer from Indianola, told Bergland he supports the president's action. "Could we put some more salesmen on the road and sell this corn to other countries?" he asked.

Bergland said what can be sold will be, abroad and for gasohol production in the United States.

But there was no rush among the farmers to sign the forms the Carter

The embargo certainly is a liability for Carter in the first contest of the 1980 presidential campaign, although Bergland says farmers will understand the action and won't oppose him for it.

Iowa is the No. 1 corn state, and most of the embargoed grain is corn. That crop is grown on 108,000 lowa farms. And 7 in 10 Iowans have farm-related

The process is less volatile than an ordinary election, and less likely to be altered by protest votes.

Bergland said the embargo will indeed punish the Russians. He said no one will starve for lack of the 17 million metric tons of grain, but the U.S. move could lead to rationing, austerity and meat lines because there won't be enough feed for the livestock.

'Anyone who goes to the Olympics in Moscow, I'd advise them to take along their lunch," he said.

Interest In Gold, Silver Soars

By KRISTIN GOFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Gold's amazing price spiral to a peak of nearly $675 an ounce and an accompanying burst in the price of silver to about $40 an ounce has renewed interest in precious metals by many small investors

Not only have people been buying such items as gold coins or certificates, but some jewelers report an increase in the number of people bringing in old cuff links, rings, bracelets and silver serving sets to cash in on the market price increases in both gold and silver.

Both gold and silver backed off their peak levels earlier this week and analysts are divided on the outlook. In the gold market, trading has become so volatile that the price has moved up or down by as much as $50 an ounce in a single day, and prices of both gold and silver have fallen from their peaks.

James Sinclair, an analyst whose New York investment firm bears his name, characterizes gold as "a barometer of international anxiety" whose price has been driven up recently by turmoil in Iran. Afghanistan and nearby countries.

Americans are generally not believed to be a such an important source of buying interest as oil-rich Middle Easterners or Europeans, where gold has a long tradition as a refuge against political and, economic upheaval

Still, there are more ways than ever for small investors to trade in gold, if they choose to, because of increased interest by Americans since a ban on gold ownership was lifted in January, 1975.

Jewelry is generally not recommended as a good way to invest in gold if that is the primary motive for buying it, since relatively more of its costs are due to craftmanship and style rather than gold

Still, if you own gold jewelry which you no longer use, at today's high prices finding ways to use it may be wise

Selling gold jewelry "is nothing that we urge people to go out and do. But if they're pressed for cash and not using it, well why not?" said Morton Sarett, president of the Jewelry Industry Council.

As an alternative, he suggests that people consider having unused jewelry redesigned into something they like, rather than selling.

Retail stores often aren't interested in buying used jewelry or other items which lack antique value, according to Sarett. But refiners and some wholesale jewelers do buy for "scrap metal" which is recycled

Prices won't come close to those in the bullion markets however since 14 karat gold jewelry is an alloy which is only about 58 percent gold.

For those interested in investing in gold, there are more ways for small investors to participate than ever.

Among the most popular are gold coins but gold of investment quality is also available in medallions, ingots or small bars of gold. Once sold primarily through coin dealers, some banks and brokerage houses and jewelers now offer them as well. While some coins, like the U.S $20 gold piece sell at a premium because of collector's value, the South African krugerrand and the newer Canadian Maple Leaf, are both popular primarily for their gold one-ounce content alone.

Dealers charge commissions on such sales. On the krugerrand, for instance, it commonly amounts to 5 to 8 percent, but may be less in lots of 10 coins or more. Some gold items also may be subject to assay fees to guarantee the gold content

Gold certificates, delivery orders and passbook accounts - loosely referred to as paper gold - can solve problems of safe storage and avoid assay costs, if the buyer doesn't take delivery. There are a variety of such investments available from banks, brokerage houses and others. In general, the certificate represents an amount of gold which the seller holds for the purchaser and is commonly stored in location, such as Switzerland or Delaware, where it is not subject to sales

Most Students Oppose Reinstating Draft

By ANTHONY R. WOOD United Press International

TAUMER

Yesterday's

There has been talk recently of reinstating the draft - but most college students don't want to hear it.

There is hardly the anti-draft passion of the Vietnam-era, and some students said they would submit to conscription if the crises in Iran an Afghanistan result in U.S. military involvement

But the majority of those surveyed find the draft about as appealing as final exams and term papers. "I'm absolutely opposed to the draft," said John Kerlin of the University

"I don't think it's a very good idea."

Ford Will Not Run In State Primary

BOSTON (AP) - Former President Gerald Ford has withdrawn from the March 4 Massachusetts presidential primary, election officials say.

Marcia Molay, state elections director, said a letter was received Wednesday from Ford saying. "I do not desire my name to be printed on the Massachusetts said Ashby Hilsman, 23, of Columbia University. "The U.S. doesn't have to meet the Soviet Union militarily - this is a political thing - particularly in the nuclear age when soldiers aren't very important.

Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman John Stennis earlier this week called for reinstatement of the draft which ended Jan. 27, 1983 - saying the voluntary system has proven inadequate.

And in light of the protracted hostage situation in Iran and the Soviet incursion in Afghanistan, President Carter said Wednesday the United States must add even more muscle to its beefed-up military presence in the region.

Bruce Rosenblum, 20, a University of Pennsylvania junior, says he is willing to be realistic.

Personally I'm against it (the draft)," he said, "but as a realist though, I would have to say if events keep going as they are, it will have to be reinstated in the next two years.'

On the issue of student deferments, those surveyed were divided. "I think they're elitist," said Lynn Gazis, a Stanford student.

Northeastern University sophomore Peter Jordan said he favored student deferments but said they "should be kept to a three-year maximum because everyone should serve. It's what you pay for all the freedoms granted to you by the Constitution.

Somebody has to support the country," said Chris Wanczyk, a Pennsylvania State University freshman. "I would go if drafted.'

"It's the only way they're gonna get anybody into the Army," said Columbia graduate student Tim Hannon, 27, "The I.Q. of most of the people in there now is, well, limited to say the most."

Hannon, however, doesn't think he should be the one to contribute to Army intelligence. If drafted, he said, "I would leave the country, go to Canada or Eu-

Some students are organizing or reactivating anti-draft organizations.

If the draft is reinstituted we would probably aid a resistance movement or urge resistance." said John O'Donnell, a medical student at the University of West Virginia and spokesman for the recently formed group called the Committee against Registration and the Draft.

The Selective Service Act is still in effect and it allows the president to reinstate the draft any time he wishes," he said. "We want to strip him of that power and tear apart the remaining draft ap-"It's not the president who is fight-

Safe To Stop Pill?

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm 51 years old and have been on the pill for 12 ears and I'm still having my menstrual periods. My doctor said as long as I'm on the pill, I will have my period. He said I could go off the pill and wouldn't have to worry about getting pregnant. What do you say? Does the pill make you have your period? Could I become pregnant if I went off

DEAR READER - Actually, the pill causes you to have an artificial period. It provides female hormones and the bleeding occurs because the pill is stopped.

This is a completely artificial mechanism and so naturally it continues even after the ovaries have quit functioning and a woman has completed the menopause. That's why a woman who is through the menopause will continue to have artificial menstrual periods each month when he stops the pill.

I have no way of knowing whether you would or would not get pregnant when you stop the pill. That depends entirely on whether you have completed the menopause or not. Your doctor may know something about your case that's not included in your letter but you are young enough to still be in the childbearing years. Women have been known to get pregnant up to age 57.

If you were to stop the pill and then didn't have any evidence of ovulation for a period of two years, then you would probably be pretty safe in saying you wouldn't get pregnant. Otherwise, I feel that you would need to take some precautions after stopping the pill until you find out whether you are still ovulating and still capable of getting prégnant.

Since you are in the age group and would have an interest in it, I'm sending you The Health Letter number 5-12, Menopause. It also explains the normal hormonal cycle for women for you. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Would you please tell me the early symptoms of pregnancy? I know I could find out from my local doctor but I see no need to use up his time.

DEAR READER — Perhaps the most common early symptom is failure to have a menstrual period for a woman in the childbearing age. About a month to six weeks into the pregnancy a variety of symptoms may or may not be observed. Fatigue is one of them, but many women have no fatigue at all. Morning sickness is a classic symptom. However, women can be nauseated other than in the morning. But then, other women who are pregnant have no such difficulties at

Usually there is an increase in appetite and there may be some tenderness in the breasts with a beginning of some increase in size. That may be about all there is to note in the very early stages of pregnancy. This explains why pregnancy tests are often absolutely essential to make an early diagnosis of pregnancy. Of course, as the pregnancy advances, the symptoms and signs of the pregnancy become more marked and rather easily identified.

Analysts say that sluggish car sales will have resulted in the temporary or permanent layoff of some 200,000 autoworkers by next week. The figure includes employees on strike at Volkswagen operations in Pennsylvania.

Statistics in the December report incorporate revisions through 1975 that reflect new seasonal adjustment data, Bregger pointed out. The most noticable elements were downward revisions of unemployment rates for August and Oc-

Most economists agree that unemployment did not rise much this year because the economy continued to be

In recent weeks, conditions have been changing. Sluggish auto and home sales have resulted in a number of layoffs in those industries and in closely related businesses, such as steel. Many economists had expected the

Savage Storm Hammers Across Upper Midwest

Raging winds and bitter cold took the upper Midwest by storm today, producing near-blizzard conditions, closing schools and causing massive power out

The storm system - which was spawned early in the week in the Pacific Northwest and left usually snow-free areas of the Northwest buried in huge snowdrifts — pushed rapidly eastward across the Rockies and onto the Plains.

The bitter cold was accompanied by savage winds gusting to more than 100 mph as the storm swept over the Colorado Rockies and prompted avalanche warnings. It ended a brief, mid-winter run of record warm weather in Minnesota. Temperatures plunged 40 degrees in a few hours and savage winds kicked up

The temperature stood at record high 43 degrees in Minneapolis at 1 a.m. Three hours later, a blizzard moved in, packing heavy snow and riding winds in excess of 40 mph. As the sun rose, the mercury hovered at the 3-degree mark.

Dozens of schools closed or delayed opening by two hours.

The storm raged across much of Minnesota, with winds reaching 58 mph at Rochester, Minn. An unofficial clocking at Willmar, Minn., set gusts at 68 mph.

A winter storm warning also was posted for northwestern Minnesota and travelers advisories were listed for northeastern Minnesota.

The storm battered Colorado with hurricane force winds.

Winds gusting to more than 100 mph felled power lines and trees, blew out windows in homes, businesses and vehicles and kicked up ground blizzards that closed northern Colorado highways.

The greatest damage appeared to be in Boulder County, where the sheriff's office spent the night taking minor damage reports. No injuries were reported. The heaviest snow fell in the southern parts of Colorado. Crested Butte, Colo., reported 10 inches of new snow, the Purgatory Ski Area had 18 inches and Telluride, Colo., got 7 inches. Avalanche warnings were issued for all mountain areas of Colorado due to high winds and periodic heavy snowfalls. In Wyoming, thunder and lightning

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) - Comedian Jimmy Durante has been admitted to St. John's Hospital, where the 86year-old show business veteran is being treated for a form of pneumonia.

Hospital spokeswoman Chris Thomas said this week Durante is listed in satisfactory condition. Durante, dubbed "Schnozzola" because of his well-pronounced nose, has been in failing health since suffering a stroke in 1972 that left him partially paralyzed.

Durante's career spanned honky-tonk speak-easies and modern television. His last regular show was ABC-TV's "Jimmy Durante Presents the Lennon Sisters," a musical variety series introduced in the fall of 1969. Before that, he starred in several series of his own.

The cool spell is expected to be shortlived, however, - with a warming trend predicted through Sunday. The high today was expected to be on-

The commission said in an interim report that seven of its nine members feel Congress should not roll back the steep

The other two members favor a rollback, possibly by paying for Medicare out of general revenues instead of the payroll tax.

That was the method proposed last month by another blue-ribbon panel, the Advisory Council on Social Security, which said the payroll tax could be cut to 5.6 percent if Medicare were paid for out of income and corporate taxes. The payroll tax is 6.15 percent now and jumps to 6.65 percent next year.

Currently, the 6.13 percent tax is allocated this way: 4.33 percent to pay old age and survivors benefits, 0.75 for disability and 1.05 for Medicare.

The commission recommended shifting 0.125 percent of the disability tax to the old age funds in 1981 to 1984, 0.2 per-

1990 on.

Social Security benefits increase automatically when the Consumer Price Index exceeds 6 percent a year. It is rising at more than double that rate now. At the same time, if the recession puts more people out of work and fewer taxes are paid in, the system may have cash flow problems in a few years. Congress already knows about this problem. There might not be enough money in the trust funds at the start of a month to pay a full month's benefits, although the funds would be replenished later in the month as taxes came in.

After 1985, the higher taxes already scheduled will start building up the trust funds so the cash-flow problems disappear, the report said.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Tennessee Valley Authority has decided to develop low-level nuclear waste repositories at its reactor sites, in a move that may herald a further spread of atomic waste dumps across the country.

The TVA decision Thursday came in response to a growing dilemma over where to store vast volumes of mildly contaminated equipment, which steadily accumulates at the nation's nuclear reactors, hospitals and research laboratories.

South Carolina, Washington and Nevada - states that have the country's only three licensed commercial low-level radiation dumps - are determined to force the remaining 47 states to share the burden of nuclear waste disposal.

The waste disposal problem nearly forced some hospitals to discontinue vital radiological medicine last year when Washington and Nevada temporarily closed their sites because of sloppily shipped waste.

South Carolina Gov. Richard Riley. who says his state should not be the at omic waste dumping ground for much of the nation, is gradually choking off shipments to Barnwell, which once accepted 200,000 cubic feet of nuclear waste each month. TVA made its decision to develop a semipermanent, low-level waste dump at its three-reactor Brown's Ferry, Ala., site when the huge commercial Barnwell facility last week suddenly cut in half the utility's storage allowances.

TVA executive Ben Rogers said the latest cutback affected all facilities using Barnwell and cut TVA's allocation in half, raising a potential threat to continued operation of the reactors.

'The feedback I've gotten from other utilities is they are all looking for some kind of temporary, almost permanent, facility at their reactors," Rogers said. On Wednesday, Virginia Gov. John

Dalton sought $600,000 in the new state budget to find a low-level waste storage facility in his state.

But most other states remain hostile to the idea of permitting waste storage on their territory.

And Alabama "is a little uneasy" about TVA's Brown's Ferry plans, said state Assistant Attorney General Mark Caught in the cross-fire are utilities

By JON HALVORSEN SACO, Maine (AP) — On the 16th day of 1979, voters in this little Maine city eagerly passed a property tax limit styled after California's Proposition 13.

On the last day of 1979, Saco defaulted on a $2.1 million tax anticipation loan. Residents were shocked. Officials scrambled to pay the bills. Few argue that the tax limitation directly caused the default. But one year later, residents are sharply divided over the merits of the referendum and the direction their city should take.

The municipal default climaxed a troubled year for Saco: Scores of public employees were fired, city and school programs suffered deep cuts and the City Council weathered almost a complete turnover of members. Over it all rang unending, often bitter public debate.

Former City Councilor Robert Cassette, who led the tax revolt, blames past mismanagement" for Saco's default.

"It was certainly not the tax limita-tion," Cassette said. "Thank God we had put a limit on what they (City Hall) can

School Committee Chairwoman Glen Roth felt differently: "By clamping that tax cap on, it brought all the underlying problems - mismanagement and lack of revenue - to the surface" more quickly.

And, she added, the prohibition on raising taxes will make it harder now for this town of 13,000 to solve its financial

This thin, partly ripened honey is stored in open cells in the bee hive. The bees fan their wings in front of the cells to evaporate excess water.

'It's done, and my objective now is to cure the problem," said Tripp, who on Tuesday signed an emergency $200,000 loan agreement to tide Saco over for two weeks and allow the city to pay its emThornton Academy, which serves as Saco's high school and gets city funds, dis-

As for whether the tax ceiling should be lifted, Tripp said, "It depends on the level of services the city wants.

The tax limitation, which stemmed from a controversial re-evaluation in 1978 in which some property doubled or tri-pled in assessed valuation, limited local property tax revenue last year to $3 million. In 1978, it had been $3.6 million.

The ceiling, which can be lifted only through another referendum, allowed for an inflation increase of just 2 percent in 1980 and each succeeding year.

Shortly after the referendum was passed, city and school officials began cutting their combined budgets.

Police Chief Alberick Martin lost four members of his 28-person department. Serious crime in the city jumped almost 25 percent last year and vandalism, classified as a minor crime, shot up 44 percent, he said.

"Just to maintain patrol, we need an additional three people," Martin said. Police morale also has been affected, he said - two veterans have resigned and "half a dozen or more" are looking for

Martin blamed the crime increase partly on the staff cuts in the police department, which forced elimination of a crime prevention program, as well as cuts in school programs and in the parks and recreation department. The director of the parks department also resigned.

The most controversial cuts came in the schools - "heart-wrenching cuts that crippled our school system," said Mrs. Roth, a mother of three.

There are parents who will look us in the eye and say, 'I voted for the tax cap,' and look you in the other eye and say, 'You're hurting my child.''

District Attorney Admits Wrong Man Convicted

DALLAS (AP) - The Dallas County District Attorney's office sent the wrong man to prison two years ago, learned of the possible mistake 18 months ago, but is just now getting around to having him freed.

"I'd like to think it's the only time this has ever happened," District Attorney Henry Wade told the Dallas Times Herald in a copyright story, "but we'll never know that. I hope it's the only one we ever have. I've read about it happening elsewhere, but never here. We're doing the only thing we can do, dis-

Two years ago 21-year-old Billy Stiff, a convicted burglar, vainly protested his innocence as he was tried, convicted and sentenced to 50 years in prison for the armed robbery of a pancake house

Eighteen months ago, after Stiff was already in prison, Brad Finch confessed to the robbery. Although prosecutors heard Finch's confession, they did not admit the injustice until Thursday. Wade and State District Judge James Zimmerman, who presided over Stiff's trial, joined the man's defense lawyer, Melvyn Bruder in asking the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals to return the case to Zimmerman's court. There the judge says he will set aside the jury's conviction and cancel the prison sentence. The action comes after two years of legal motions, lie detector tests, further state investigation of the crime and a review of the trial testimony, the Times

A transcript of the trial testimony shows that one of Wade's prosecutors, former Assistant District Attorney Jan Potts, had to coach both the victim and the lone eyewitness to the robery before they could identify Stiff from the witness stand.

The state based its case solely on the testimony of Gloria Crowder, 19, the waitress on duty when the robbery occurred, and Gus Ayers, a lumber salesman from Nacogdoches who witnessed the robbery from a booth 15 feet away. When Miss Crowder and Ayers were called upon to identify Stiff at his trial, neither was able to do so without coaching from the prosecutor.

Here are excerpts of testimony Miss Crowder gave while the jury was out of Prosecutor: Huh?

Crowder: I believe it is.

Prosecutor: Okay. But when the jurors filed back into the courtroom, they heard none of Miss Crowder's earlier doubts. Both she and Ayers were able to point out Stiff with-

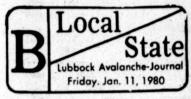

Stiff, who dropped out of shool in junior high, is the son of a policeman. In 1974, at age 17, he was sentenced to five years in prison for a string of burglaries, the Times Herald said.

Paroled in 1976, he was arrested for three armed robberies in June 1977, three weeks after the pancake house robbery.

Stiff admitted to three holdups, but adamantly denied the other robbery. He agreed to plead guilty to the three robberies in return for five years in prison, but the district attorney's office insisted on prosecuting him for the

After being told during the punishment phase of five prior burglary convictions, the jurors sentenced Stiff to 50 years in prison.

Prosecutors had suggested a 75-year term.

City Council Approves Expenditure

After nearly 10 years of talk about linking Lubbock Power and Light with another electric utility, the City Council approved a $1.5 million expenditure to make an interconnect with Southwestern Public Service a reality Since privately owned SPS provided emergency power to LP&L after the tornado, there has been talk of a permanent tie-in between the two utilities. In March, the LP&L Study Committee recommended an interconnect be pursued to give the municipally owned utility time to develop another power source. It is estimated LP&L will need another source of power by 1982.

Although building the interconnect with SPS is less costly than constructing a new generating plant, the $1.5 million price tag isn't cheap either.

Most costly is nearly $900,000 to construct a transformer substation, followed by nearly $280,000 for construction of a three-mile line linking SPS' Jones Station and LP&L's Holly Avenue plant. Funds to finance the interconnect construction will come from interest earned on electric revenue bonds sold in 1973, from debt service funds and from other interest earnings from LP&L in-

The Planning and Zoning Commission Thursday denied a case it formerly had approved twice, but which had been denied both times by the City Council because of strong neighborhood opposition.

Lewis Garnett, representing Alamo Square Inc., asked commission members to approve for a third time a zone change from single family R-1) to two family (R-2), to allow construction of duplexes on property at 2002 58th St. Garnett's most recent request, however, only included two lots instead of the five included in requests presented to the commission in October and in Although Garnett told commission members that neighborhood reistance would not be as strong because of the location of the two lots remaining in the request, commission member Harry Stokley said, "The people-who live there have said three times now. 'We don't want this.' and the council has said, 'We don't want this.' I think it is clear now what the council's position is. There is enough opposition to this, that if I was proposing this case, I

5. The cutbacks in oil will accelerate the move on the part of our airlines to cut out thse routes that have been least used. This means planes benceforth will be more crowded. At the same time.

ALTERNATIVE BREAKFAST

Sandwiches don't just have to be lunchtime fare. A hard-cooked egg or meat sandwich along with a glass of milk and a good source of vitamin C in the form of a whole orange, a slice of cantaloupe or a bowl of strawberries, makes a nutritious morning meal. This may be appealing to some family members, and, if so, encourage their break from tradition.

prices of air transportation in the face of higher oil costs inevitably will continue to mount even higher than they are to-

6. Centain luxury products that long have been associated in our minds with Iran - caviar, for example, and pistachio nuts - in time will be taken off the U.S. market. If we want them, we will look elsewhere - are probably pay even more

7. Rugs are a special case. With the Iranian revolution that brought in Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the Persian rugs that over the years have been synonymous with beauty and opulence already have come into small supply. As a result, the Persian rugs available have continued to shoot up in price. Truth is, there just isn't anything quite like a Persian rug and the genuine article will become a scare and much sought-after item.

8. Many of the thousands of Iranian students now in this country reluctant to go back to their native land and the primitive conditions to which it has revertden on philanthropies interested in caring for them - for example, Christian and Jewish charities concerned with the welfare of their co-religionists.

9. If the dollar weakens as a result of continued international uncertainty, this may well touch off even higher interest rates, with further woes for those eager to borrow so they can buy a home.

10. On the positive side, there is a widespread feeling the Iranian crisis has unified the nation as we have not been unified since Pearl Harbor at the start of World War II. This unity, if it remains, can be translated into such wholesome traits as being more interested in buying U.S. made products, in taking pride in domestic workanship, in curbing some of quarters

Dear Abby.

DEAR ABBY: I was disappointed in your non-answer to the grandmother who refused to babysit for free except in cases of emergency. She asked how YOU handled the babysitting problem, and you said, "I have no sitting problems because my grandchildren live 2,000 miles away. But if they lived in the same town, I'd have to draw straws with the other grandmother because she loves to sit. Bless her."

That's easy for you to say, Abby. Living 2,000 miles away, you're not likely to be called upon to babysit.

Instead of making her feel guilty, you should have told NO SITTER that she had every right to refuse to be an unpaid sitter.

LET DOWN IN DENVER

Dear Let Down: I plead not guilty to laying a guilt trip on NO SITTER, but judging from the hate mail I received, you weren't the only one who misunderstood me. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Nuts to you with your answer to the grandmother who told her daughter-in-law not to count on her to sit for free while Mom and Dad went off

I raised my children, and I expect them to raise theirs. Oh, I'd help out in an emergency, but they know they can't just ring me up to come over and mind the kids, or dump them on me anytime they have a notion to.

When my children were little, my husband and I went only to places we could take the kids or we stayed home. My chidren were MY responsibility to raise not my mother's.

JUNE IN STRONGSVILLE, OHIO

DEAR ABBY: Who are you trying to kid? You say you would love to babysit with your grandchildren but they live 2,-000 miles away. Boy, are you ever safe! Somehow you just don't strike me as a babysitting kind of grandmother. With all the work you have to do writing your column and running around the country making speeches, when would you have

CYNICAL IN SENECA, OHIO

DEAR ABBY: I'm the mother of four children under 10, and here's the way I feel about asking my mother to babysit. I think she owes it to me. Yes, that's what I said. I was the oldest of seven kids, and I missed out on plenty of fun because my mother made me stay home and take care of my little brothers and sisters. (She used to tell everyone she had a "free, built-in babysitter.")

My moither was hardly ever home when I was in my teens. She didn't have to be gone, she was mostly just out having a good time. Mom has arthritis now and can't dance anymore. It's hard for her to get around, so she's available for sitting when I need her, which makes it nice for me. I really don't feel one bit guilty asking Mom to stay with my kids. I sure stayed with hers enough.

MY TURN IN MEMPHIS

DEAR ABBY: I raised my five children without any sitters because we couldn't afford them. Now that they have children of their own and can afford to hire sitters, that's what they do.

I don't want a babysitting job, with or without pay. I've tended enough babies for a lifetime and I've earned a rest.

I sympathize with NO SITTER for refusing to be dumped on.

TIRED OF KIDS IN SEATTLE

DEAR ABBY: I have nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren, and if any of their parents ever offered me money to stay with them I'd be insulted. consider it an honor and a privilege to look after the little ones. I feel complimented that their parents trust me with their most precious possessions!
HONORED IN OXNARD

DEAR ABBY: The grandmothers of today did not have it so easy when they were raising their children. I say, leave the grandmothers alone - hire a babysitter. And if they can't pay a babysitter, stay home like THEIR grandmothers

Whether declaring or defending, it is important to remember who holds what. This hand from a side game at the ACBL Fall North American Championships in Cincinnati proves just how important it can be.

Seven clubs is the optimum contract, and it is cold against any defense. But the vagaries of duplicate scoring led many pairs to try the grand slam in no trump. Against that contract the iack of hearts was the normal lead, and with careful play that contract should have rolled home. R. L. Graham and R. E. L. Bailey of Charleston, W. Va., not only bid the grand slam in no trump, but proceeded to justify their auction in the

Declarer won the opening lead in dummy, discarding a diamond, and immediately cashed three rounds of diamonds, discarding two spades from dummy. Had that suit behaved in a friendly manner, declarer would have been able to claim. Unfortunately, the 4-2 split was expected, and declarer mentally tucked away the fact that West held the last diamond.

Next came five rounds of clubs. West could not afford to sluff more than two hearts, and he had to keep a diamond, so he was forced to discard the queen of spades. East was under no pressure, parting with three spades, and declarer also let go a spade. The two high hearts were cashed. Both defenders followed as declarer disdiamonds.

Declarer led a spade from dummy. Should he finesse or play to drop the king in the West hand?

If you remember little things, you can't go wrong. From the opening lead, West is marked with the ten of hearts as one of his remaining two cards. And you know that he holds a diamond for the other-your sequence of plays did not give him a chance to discard that card. So do what declarer didfinesse the jack of spades and score your grand slam!

Tub Installation Creates Space

Associated Press Writer

Q. - We moved into a very old house recently. The back rim of the bathtub is separated from the ceramic tile on the wall, not much but enough to be noticeable. What caused this, and is there anything that can be done about it?

A. - According to American Standard Association specifications, tub hangers or special installation hooks must be used in certain types of tub installations. When such hangers are not used - and they were not required many years ago drying out of the floor joists causes the tub to settle just a bit, creating the space you mentioned. The fault, therefore, lies in the tub installation and has nothing to do with the tiles. Dig out all the caulking or cracked grout between the tub and tiles and start afresh. Make sure the joint is thoroughly cleaned and dry, then/recaulk. Many good, non-shrinkable new caulks are on the market and are available in caulking tubes.

Q. - What does the designation closed coat" mean on the label around a package of sandpaper?

A. - Close-coated sandpaper means the mineral particles on the backing are close together. This type of paper is used for most general sanding. An open coating means the particles on the backing are spaced far apart. This allows the sanded material to fall free without clogging the sandpaper which can therefore be used for removing paint or working on old finishes or gummy surfaces.

 Q. — I used a wood filler on some oak furniture a few years ago and got a good result, but I can't remember now whether I used a sealer before putting on the varnish. Is a sealer necessary?

A. — Yes. It prevents the possibility of the finishing material, varnish or anything else, dislodging the filler from the wood pores. The sealer can be shellac or any other sealer recommended by your dealer after you explain to him exactly how it is to be used. It is vital that the filler be 100 percent dry before applying the sealer. To be certain of this, allow at least twice as much time for the drying as recommended. Thus, if the label on the can of paste filler says it is the 12hour drying type, wait 24 hours before putting on the sealer. When the sealer is dry, sand it with a very fine grade of sandpaper, using a light touch.

Film Processing Can Be Relatively Inexpensive

Associated Press Writer

It seems a shame that of the great number of people who take pictures today, relatively few have discovered the fun of doing their own processing and Perhaps they feel it is too complicated, too expensive, or that they need a formal darkroom. None of these is true.

My son was doing his own processing and printing when he was 8. The cost of equipment and supplies needed can be less than the cost of most 35mm cameras

Start first with a daylight loading tank. This is nothing more than a small tank that holds one or more reels onto which your film is wound. There are a variety of these on the market today, most relatively inexpensive and some easier to load with film than others. Any good camera-store salesperson should be able to show you the various types and perhaps let you try loading a roll of film to see which is easiest for you.

For 35mm film you'll need a bottlecap opener to snap open the film cassette. You don't need a formal arkroom. Any closet will do. Close the door, seal up any cracks with a towel and wait a few minutes to make sure that no light is leaking into the room.

Then snap off the cap from the film cassette, pull out the film and wind it on the reel. Place the reel in the tank and put on the light-tight cover. Now you can do the rest in the kitchen, bathroom, or any lighted place where you have running water.

There are tanks that take 110 film but it would be much easier to work with larger 35mm or 120 film. Before you go for broke, practice loading the reels in the light a few times until you can do it with your eyes closed.

Once your reel or reels are loaded and in the tank you're ready to process the film. For this you'll need a graduate in which to measure the chemicals you'll use, a thermometer to check the temperature and a few quart or gallon sized jugs to hold your chemistry.

Start off with black and white film and, if you like, go on to color films later. The chemicals you'll need come in both powder and liquid concentrate form. For black and white film you'll need a developer and fixer. Again, your local camera salesperson should be able to recommend one to start with. You'll find directions for mixing plus time and temperatures for developing and fixing your film in the package.

Mix your developer and fixer and have them ready to go in the storage bottles. Fill your tub or sink to a point about half way up the bottles, bringing the water temperature to the temperature required for developing your film. Leave the bottles in the water until their contents are also at that temperature. If the water starts to cool off just keep adding a

All this should be done before you load your tank, so when you return everything is ready to go. Now, just follow the directions on the package.

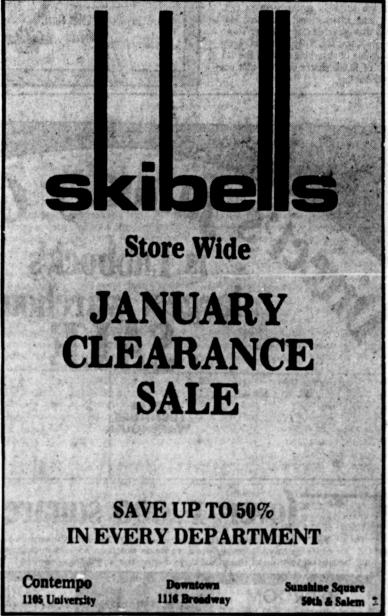

Pour the developer into the light-tight opening on top of the tank. When it's full put the cap on this opening and tap the can gently a couple of times to dislodge bubbles that might have formed. Start timing the processing as soon as you've poured in the developer. Agitate the film about once a minute by gently inverting the developing tank and then turning it back right side up.

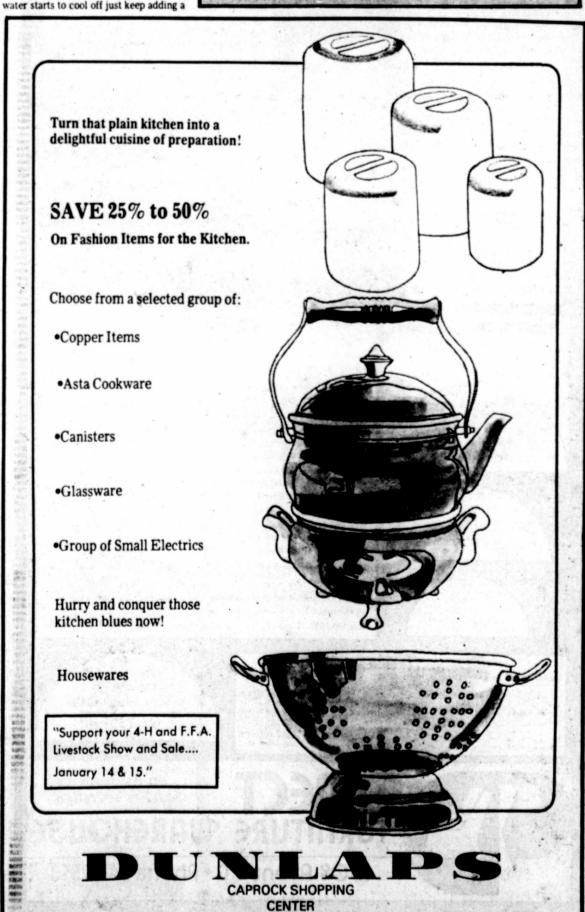

When your time is up, take the cap off the light-tight opening on top of the tank and pour the developer back into the shot of hot water once in a while to keep storage bottle or discard it. Now fill the tank with fixer, put the cap back on and invert the tank a couple of times. Then let it sit for the recommended fixing time and then pour the fixer back into the storage bottle.

Remove the top from the developing tank and place it under a spigot and wash the film in running water for about 10 minutes. Try to keep the water temperature as close as possible to the one used to develop the film.

When you have finished washing the film, pour the water out of the tank and pour in a wetting agent; like Photo Flow, that will help prevent water droplets from forming on the film. After a couple of minutes in this unwind the film from the reel and hang it up to dry.

Analysts Explain Mart Rally

NEW YORK (AP) - Another eruption of stock prices rocked Wall Street this week, forcing analysts and commentators to go fishing in their grab-bag of reasons why. Never be at a loss for words is their motto.

Among the explanations they chose were these

It was a reaction to an almost certain rise in defense spending; it was the new year rally a bit delayed; it resulted from a Commerce Department report that the recession had not yet arrived.

Homosexuals Enter Police Academy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - Sixteen homosexuals are boldly venturing where no admitted gay has gone before: the San Francisco Police Academy

The seven lesbians and nine homosexual men are among the 200 police candidates entering the academy during an eight-month period that began in November. They represent the first "up front" gays on the force in a city where homosexuals comprise an estimated 20 percent of the population.

Day to day, th city's police officers and its homosexual communities coexist in harmony and even play an annual softball game. But violence between them has erupted and often harshly, as during the City Hall rioting last May when patrol cars were burned and police retaliated in a gay neighborhood resulting in sev-

13 percent inflation or 15 percent interest rates. And when the public saw how rugged and determined it was they just knew they had a real battler out there and they threw in their support.

That's what "the public" did? Really? Why you cannot even get "the public" defined on Wall Street. It is, you might say, as fuzzy a concept as "Wall Street," which can stand for sellers or buyers or speculators or stock exchanges or bankers or the power structure.

Wall Street likes to think it represents Main Street. It loves to refer to the "buying public," which in turn suggests a cross-section of America, of individual buyers, sellers and decision-makers. The public" is something the public thinks it understands.

The public that people think they understand, however, may have less to do with stock prices than many in the brokerage community like to admit. Individual ownership is down in the past decade: institutional ownership is up.

That switch probably explains more about this week's market than the attitudes of middle America or the threat of war or the perception of stocks as undervalued. Institutions must invest or get buried in cash.

Cash, of course, isn't healthy today for a very good reason: So long as inflation persists - and the forecasts are that it will - the value of cash automatically falls. That is, unless it earns an extrordinary rate of interest. The temptation is always there to invest in stocks

It is especially true for pension funds, which have the enormous burden of wisely investing the millions and billions of dollars that pour in on them. Pension funds are huge and constantly growing.

ESCAPE INJURY

BELLEVILLE, Mich. (AP) - A balloonist and his family escaped injury Thursday when propane tanks apparently exploded in a garage, triggering a fire that gutted their Van Buren Township home. All institutions - pension funds, mutual funds, bank-administered trusts, and insurance companies - are set up to invest big blocks of stocks, and they do so almost as a matter of course. The big decision is not so much whether to invest as when to invest. It is a decision of timing.

Since they invest in large amounts at a time, and since they must demonstrate to regulators that they are prudent investors, their list of possibilities is reduced. Reduced to a select number of companies - some say 50, others 100, and some 200 - that are large enough to absorb their purchases and solid enough to justify the choice.

There is another characteristic of institutions: They have a tendency to roam in packs. They stick together. They look over each other's shoulder. When one acts the other is likely to do so rather than be left in the lurch. And that can happen; institutional-size blocks of stock can often move prices higher or lower in short order.

Institutional activity does much to explain the surge in stocks such as U.S. Steel and International Business Machines that occurred last Tuesday. These companies are big. They are solid. They are capable of absorbing some of the 715 trades of 10,000 shares or more that occurred that day.

retary Harold Brown issued a veiled warning to the Soviet Union today after touring a small Chinese submarine at a shipyard on the Yangtze River.

Asked the possible Soviet reaction to the first visit of an American defense secretary to a Chinese submarine, Brown jokingly told U.S. reporters, "I don't think they expect to see me on a Chinese submarine surface in the Moscow Riv-

Then he added: "Chinese-American cooperation is not aimed at anyone. It is intended to maintain peace and stability But I suppose those who don't want peace and stability could be concerned."

An American official traveling with Brown said Moscow obviously is concerned over Brown's visit to China and to installations such as the closed-door shipyard in Wuhan. He said the closer U.S .-Chinese military cooperation this represents is something which cannot be over-

Brown began his visit to China a week ago as tens of thousands of Soviet troops continued spreading through Afghanistan in an effort to crush a Moslem rebellion against the pro-Kremlin regime in Kabul.

The submarine Brown toured was moored at a dock in this industrial complex in central China. It was not, one of the members of his party observed jokingly "the large economy size."

Brown, dressed in a white hard hat and white gloves, had some difficulty squeezing through the small hatchways in the blue-gray vessel whose interior was jammed with piping, electric cables and computers.

Texas Clings To Faint Hopes For Terminal

HOUSTON (AP) - Bob Casey had threatened to quit, but says he will not do so as long as there is a "glimmer of hope" Texas can build an offshore crude oil terminal for use by supertankers.

The project, said the chairman of the Texas Deepwater Port Authority, is too important to the state's economy for the 2.5 million barrels a day facility to be abandoned

Casey's remarks prompted no debate Thursday and directors of the authority quickly voted unanimously to continue its feasibility studies even though indicated oil commpany support has been far below expectations. The state agency now will explore the possibility of building the terminal 26 miles south of Freeport in stages, but without changing the ultimate daily capacity goal. After hearing Casev's recommenda-

Casey said the efforts should continue 'as long as there is a little light.'

COCU To Convene Jan. 22

CINCINNATI (Special) - A special session, the first of that nature, of the Consultation on Church Union (COCU) will convene here Jan. 22. Action anticipated to be taken at this meeting could be the initial step to the 10 divergent American denominations involved in CO-CU establishing a common ministry.

The special session follows by 10 months the regular COCU plenary and is expected to bring final agreement by the 10 delegates from each denomination on the kind of ministry a united church should have.

An agreement would then be sent out to the individual denominations for study and approval. Approval would enable the churches to recognize each others' ministries and eventually develop a common ministry, one of the steps to full organic

Action at this meeting would be a significant landmark in the movement that began in 1960 when United Presbyterian leader, Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, proposed in an historic sermon that his church and three others unite.

COCU struggled through the first decade to develop a plan of union, then, harkening to resistence from church people on the proposed structure, began involving local churches in a variety of union experiments as well as dealing with various sociological barriers to union.

The kind of ministry a united church would have has been one of the thorny issues. Now it appears that theological agreement is near on a ministry that would emphaisze the role of the laity and encompass an ordained ministry of deacons. presbyters (pastors) and bishops.

When discussion and action on the theological understanding of the ministry comes to the floor, a revised draft will be brought by Dean Lewis Mudge of McCormick Theological Seminary of Chicago, who heads a commission which brought an earlier draft to COCU last March.

The COCU churches already have taken action separately to recognize each other's memberships.

Dr. Rachel Henderlite of Austin, a seminary professor, is the two-term president of COCU who will be at the helm during the session.

Dr. Blake will be present for a tribute from Dr. James I. McCord, president of Princeton Theological Seminary and another early leader of the movement.

McCord will review the COCU beginnings at the outset of the session and the Rt. Rev. John M. Krum, Episcopal church bishop of southern Ohio, will provide a perspective on the future. Dr. Paul A. Crow Jr. of Indianapolis, a representative of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), will speak on COCU's efforts of the past decade.

Dr. Gerald F. Moede of Princeton, general secretary of COCU, will preach at the closing Eucharist and the Rev. John E. Brandon, associate general secretary, will lead the opening worship.

Special tribute will be paid to Bishop Frederick D. Jordan of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, immediate past president of COCU who died recent-

Churches participating in the Consultation on Church Union are the African Methodist Episcopal Church, African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, Episcopal Church, National Council of Community Churches, Presbyterian Church U.S., United Church of Christ, United Methodist Church and the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

1980 Lenten Booklet Issued

PRINCETON, N.J. (Special) - A 1980 Lenten booklet is being issued by three black denominations and two ecumenical organizations "to urge church persons to pray and work for total liberation of oppressed persons.

The Lenten booklet, which is sponsored by the African Methodist Episcopal Church, Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, National Conference of Black Churchmen and the 10-denomination Consultation on Church Union, focuses on the meaning of Lent within the black religious experience and the black churches concern for unity and libera-

According to Dr. John E. Brandon. associate general secretary of COCU in issuing the booklet, "The daily meditations are written to convey to the laity the distinctive emphases of contemporary theological reflection in the black Christian community and serve thereby as inspiration for individuals and family meditation during the Lenten season and as a resource for Christian education by nt statements from the black denominations and ecumenical agencies Liberation cannot be won without a spiritual center and the meditations are a spiritual system for church union and liberation," Brandon said.

It was agreed at a communications workshop convened by COCU that the black executive of COCU would serve as the editor. Concurrence with these minimal plans was secured from the three denominational executives of Christian education and subsequently from the CO-CU executive committee.

The series of booklets was first proposed in 1975 by the NCBC and first appeared for Lent of 1976. Subsequent booklets have been published each year.

Methodists End Discussions

NEW ORLEANS (Special) -The latest round in seven years of discussions between United Methodist missions officials and the "Good News" evangelical caucus ended here Dec. 17 "maybe a half-step ahead of where we started," in the view of one participant.

At issue in the dialogue was the Good News" six-point policy statement released during 1979 and challenged by missions officials as an attack on the connectional polity of the denomination because it established the evangelical group as an agency which can screen missionaries and appeal for funds to finance them. A "Good News" leader responded here that "we sincerely fear that unless the General Conference makes some drastic changes, the future of the overseas mission in the United Methodist Church is doomed.

The session here was convened by the Council of Bishops Relational Concerns Committee.

Among the speakers at the meeting will be Texas Tech University quarterback. Ron Reeves: Barry Wood, former college pastor of First Baptist Church and now a full-time evangelist; and 34 Tech students who will lead small

The purpose of the conference, Mooney said, is "to sharpen up skills in sharing the faith.

Two thrusts of the program will be growing in faith and the logistics of FCA organizations, he said.

Coach Bill Yung of West Texas State University will be the featured speaker at Friday night's banquet. Either Tom Landry or Bob Breunig will address the Saturday night session. Several other wellknown sports figures will participate.

Lubbock will make a bid to be host for the 1981 meeting, Mooney said.

Church officials insisted the aid was reaching the decimated, often starving people despite major transportation difficulties. "The food is getting to the people who most need it," says Ove R. Nielsen of Lutheran World Relief, citing information from an on-the-scene team.

The Rev. W. Stanley Mooneyham, president of the evangelical aid agency, World Vision International, returning from a trip to Cambodia to check on the matter, says "every available means of delivery is being used, including barges, tractors and trucks."

He disputed U.S. administration charges that the Vietnam-backed government is deliberately withholding food from the people.

Noting that the country is struggling to overcome the devastations of civil war, he says, "There are enough valid reasons for the slow distribution of food supplies without looking for some conspiracy theory." He met with Cambodia's President Heng Samrin about it.

The International Red Cross and a U.N. agency, through which international and U.S. aid is channeled, have complained that food shipments have piled up at Kompong Som seaport, undistri-

Apparently one reason for the differing assessments by Red Cross-intergovernmental officials and religious agencies is that the latter seem to have the trust of Presient Samrin, and have staff members in Phnom Penh to expedite relief distribution.

United Methodist Bishop Wayne Clymer of Minnesota, who led a Church World Service delegation that met recently with Samrin, said he was "very positive" about the church agency's work, but when the U.N. and Red Cross were mentioned, "he gave us a lecture on the two faces of these organizations who are feeding the enemy'

They were protesting a supposed petition by atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair to abolish religious broadcasting from the airwaves, although no such petition was ever filed.

What apparently has stemmed the tide of letters, says FCC Consumer assistance specialist Zora Brown, was answering some of them plus a special informational mailing to some 30,000 religious

Fund Drive

NEW YORK (AP) - Posters proclaiming "Help Feed Cambodian Victims" and canisters for contributed coins were set up on check-out lines in 231 'Stop & Shop" supermarkets and clothing stores across the northeast Jan. 9 in an unusual ecumenical drive to aid starvation-threatened Cambodia.

Funds collected will go to the Interfaith Hunger Appeal, a coalition of Catholic Relief Services, the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee and Church World Service, the interdenominational Protestant-Eastern Orthodox relief agency.

erican Lutheran Church's division for World Mission and Inter-Church Cooperation has asked the denomination to rid itself of all stocks it holds in companies doing business in South Africa in opposition to its "iniquitous and brutal system of apartheid."

New Tax Office

WASHINGTON (AP) - The education office of the U. S. Catholic Conference has set up a new agency, the Tax Credit Office, to promote the idea of eduational tax credits for parents of youngsters attending private elementary and secondary schools Named director of the office is Perry Edward Antony, former associate coordinator of education in the Florida Catholic Conference.

Israel Defended

NEW YORK (AP) - Vice President Walter F. Mondale told a recent meeting of the American Jewish Congress that the United States will not negotiate with or recognize the Palestine Liberation Organization "until it first recognizes the right of Israel to exist.'

"Israel is our friend, our partner and our conscience," he said. "Its well-being is in our strategic interest. We will never, never shrink from that commitment."

One hears complaint about the secularism and materialism of our day. The world as we know it seems enshrouded in a web of selfish concern.

In our lifetime scientific exploration into space has opened the door to the Universe . . . a world that is far more than "the world as we know it." This newest world doesn't have to be like its predecessor. Some earnest astronauts have felt it to be a religious environment.

We ought to be preparing our children spiritually for this newest world. Whatever may be its dimensions, whatever excursions it may offer adventurous souls . . . the need for faith and commitment will be greater than ever.

Today in Christian churches and Christian homes there are men and women being trained who will make theirs a better world than we have known.

lympic Boycott Called Doubtful Albertsons

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration has concluded that it does not have the power to enforce an American boycott of the Olympics, casting doubt on U.S. ability to employ that sanction against the Soviet Union.

The most President Carter could do would be to ask for a voluntary boycott by athletes and spectators on grounds the Games should not be held in Moscow while Soviet troops are in Afghanistan, officials said Thursday.

Speaking on the condition that they not be named, the officials acknowledged that Carter would be unlikely to ask for such a boycott unless there was certainty his call would be heeded.

With such support appearing unlikely at the moment, the administration has decided to adopt a low-key policy of keeping the idea of a boycott alive and and elsewhere affect public attitudes, the officials said.

We are opposed to the infusion of politics, national or international, into he worldwide Olympic movement," United States Olympic Committee spokesman Bob Paul said Thursday.

Individual athletes have voiced simi-

"A boycott seems to have no value at all," said Al Oerter, four-time Olympic discus champion, who is making a comback this year in hopes of winning a fifth gold medal at age 44.

Even if American athletes and officials supported a voluntary boycott, the Carter administration would want to be assured of support from other Western nations before proposing it, officials said. It would be a propaganda victory for

Mondale's idea would have to be approved by the International Olympic Committee, which has already voiced its intent to go ahead with the Games in

Meanwhile, the State Department insisted Thursday that it is "very pleased" with the response of American allies to President Carter's campaign to use economic sanctions in retaliation for the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said Western European allies, Canada and Australia have given assurances that they will not try to sell the Soviets grain to make up for the 17 million tons the United States is withholding.

Cubans In Dilemma Over Soviet Action

ban government, the Soviet-sponsored coup in Afghanistan has produced what difficult foreign policy dilemmas in the history of the Cuban revolution.

Cuba has been one of the Soviet Union's most trusted allies but has yet to endorse the Soviet action in Afghanistan.

While virtually all of Moscow's other close allies - East Germany, Czechoslovakia and Vietnam - have expressed enthusiastic support for the Soviet intervention, Cuba has remained silent.

Only three months ago, when Cuba was hosting a summit meeting of the 95member non-aligned movement, Cuba made a concerted effort to have the group formally declare itself to be the natural ally" of the Soviet Union. That effort did not succeed, but the content of the final document approved by the summit was heavily anti-Ameri-within the movement.

As host for the summit, Cuba earned American officials say is one of the most the right to preside over the non-aligned movement until the next summit, three years from now. Cuban President Fidel Castro promised Cuba would not use its chairmanship to impose its will on the movement, but instead would try to reflect majority sentiment.

American officials, who asked not to be identified, said Cuba's silence on the Afghanistan question can be attributed to its interest in not causing a major split within the non-aligned movement.

The officials said they can only speculate about Castro's feelings on Soviet pol-icies in Afghanistan. Cuban officials reportedly have refused to discuss their views on the Afghanistan situation with American diplomats.

But the officials believe Castro may have serious reservations about the Soviet course. Castro was one of the first leaders to endorse the Soviets' use of force in Czechoslovakia in 1968 but, unlike Czechoslovakia, Afghanistan is a member of the non-aligned movement and traditionally has been a neutral buff-because of the Afghan invasion.

In addition, a fundamental tenet of Castro's foreign policy has been that the only big power which uses force against smaller countries and which opposes 'national liberation movements" in the Third World is the United States.

With the Soviets resorting to the kind of tactics Castro has condemned for so long, "there may a real difference between Fidel and the Soviets this time," one official said.

He added, however, that it is inconceivable Castro would actually condemn Soviet involvement, given Cuba's heavy reliance on the Soviets for economic and military aid. According to the most recent U.S. estimates, such aid amounts to about $3 billion a year.

The Afghanistan situation already has proved costly to Cuba in its quest for a place on the United Nations Security Council.

Cuba and Colombia had campaigned for the seat for months with neither able to muster the requisite two-thirds major-

Cuba generally had been able to maintain a 20-vote lead over Colombia, but support for Cuba began to diminish after the Soviet move into Afghanistan.

When Colombia managed for the first time to move into the lead in General Assembly balloting last week, Cuba quickly dropped out of the race.

U.N. observers said many countries withdrew their support for Cuba as a way of demonstrating their opposition to the policies of Cuba's close ally, the Soviet

Moslems ( ondemn Intervention

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) -Delegates from 17 Moslem nations today unanimously condemned the "dastardly Soviet intervention in Afghanistan as Moslem demonstrators held anti-Soviet protests in Bangkok and Kuala Lumpur.

About 1,000 Moslems burned an effigy of Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev and shouted "Death to the U.S.S.R." in a rally outside the Soviet Embassy in the Thai capital.

More than 100 Thai policemen guarded the sprawling embassy compound as the demonstrators, members of Thailand's Moslem minority, took part in the noisy rally. They were protesting Russia's deployment of an estimated 100,000 troops to Afghanistan to fight anti-communist Moslem rebels battling to topple that country's Marxist regime.

Some 4,000 Moslems burned a Soviet flag in a similar protest at a university in the Malaysian capital. No disturbances were reported in either protest.

The delegates to the Southeast Asian and Pacific regional conference on Islam, now underway in Kuala Lumpur, voted unanimously to condemn "the dastardly crime by the Soviet Union against the Afghan people.'

Their resolution called for the "immediate, total and unconditional withdrawal of all Soviet troops from Afghanistan to enable the free Afghan people to exercise their own political, economic and social system free from outside intervention and coercion.

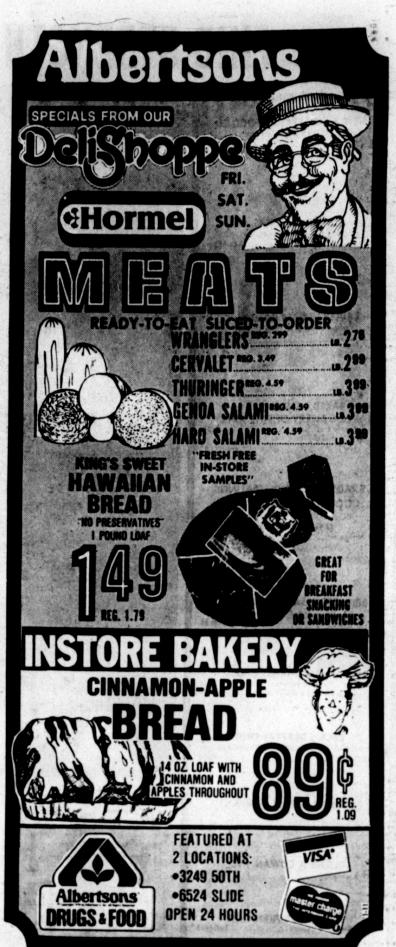

In a reference to the Moslem insurgency, the delegates said they supported the Afghan people in their Jihad (Holy War) against the foreign force and their stooges and called upon the international munity, in particular the Islamic states, not to extend recognition to any puppet regime that may be installed in Afghanistan as a result of the armed in-

Ministers Plan To Visit Iran

black ministers from Houston, visas in hand, was ready today to fly to Iran in an effort to meet with Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and secure the release of American hostages.

G. Michael Cooper, counsel for the International Clergy Council for Human Progess, said he and five ministers planned to leave late today.

The trip was delayed one day, until they were able to obtain their visas

Cooper said the only remaining factors that could hinder today's departure were the group's health and other housekeeping" arrangements.

The Rev. Bobby Mills said earlier in the week that the ministers decided they might have a chance to free the hostages after hearing Khomeini comment that black hostages were released as a sign of support for the international black strug-

The ballroom walls are hung with posters of Khomeini and quotes from his speeches. State television crews have been video-taping the sessions, which get prominent play on the nightly news.

The delgates, including two women, have at least one thing in common. They want to change the world, quickly and radically. One delegate said the aims of the unprecedented gathering are to expose American imperialism, to understand Iran's revolution, to exchange ideas on running liberation movements and to present a united front for oppressed peo-

The meeting appeared to hit a snag Thursday when the convention's deputy chairman, Walid Wazir, a top commander in Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization, prepared to read the final communique.

One delegate objected, demanding open debate on the document. Wazir reminded the delegates they were to have an audience with Khomeini WASHINGTON (AP) - A group of in the Holy City of Qom in a few hours, but he agreed to read the communique.

The eight-point statement, which is expected to be made public today, is prefaced with a quote from Khomeini: "All Our Sufferings Are From America."

It condemned alleged American imperialism, accused the United States of imposing cultural, political and economic pressure on the world, strongly condemned military invasions, denounced the American-sponsored Camp David peace accords between Israel and Egypt, and called for Israeli withdrawal from Palestine. It also expressed total sypport for Khomeini's revolution and demanded the extradition and trial of deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, who is living in exile in Panama.

The Afghans are likely to demand an additional condemnation of Soviet military intervention in their country, while the group from the Persian Gulf sheikdom of Oman, which is backed by pro-Soviet South Yemen, is expected to oppose such a move.

A showdown on the Afghan issue could drive a wedge between the revolu-tionary groups fighting Soviet-backed governments and those who get Soviet aid, the sources said.

DENTON (AP) - An attempt to reinstate salaries of Denton County's four volunteer constables has been axed by three county commissioners and a county

Ten years ago, county commissioners voted to remove salaries and to place most of the constables responsibilities mainly serving legal papers - with the sheriff's department to reduce "duplication of services.

"I'm for reinstating the salary, setting it in the range of what a deputy sheriff is paid (so) we can attract persons who are serious about the job," said County Commissioner B.E. Switzer, who led the drive on behalf of the constables.

sacrosanct from providing answers - answers the voters find plausible. All will have to take a stand.

Public scrutiny and instant communication, plus sharper reporting, will put everyone on the spot, including Carter, in the campaign. Carter will become more vulnerable to a restive society if the Iranian militants continue to hold 50 American hostages. His options, short of a military response, have always been limited. But there are signs that there is growing frustration with the policy of patience.

Nevertheless, none of his opponents have yet advocated the stronger, more obvious, methods of retaliation, knowing the price will be extremely high for all concerned, not to mention allies dependent on Iranian oil.

Carter and his top aides are champing at the bit to get out on the campaign trail, and still could do that if the crises become more and more a way of life. But so far, the president has found it good politics to remain at the helm, above the battle.

And his choices at the moment are far more dependent on the actions of the Iranians and the Russians, than his political

Board Considers Low-Income Housing Proposals

By LISA PAIKOWSKI Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock Housing Authority board members Thursday heard presentations from four developers on the proposed design and construction of 132 low-income housing units in west and southwest Lub-

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has recommended development of the housing and allocated funding for the project which will be implemented pending HUD approval of a development proposal

The Housing Authority board will evaluate the proposals and send its recommendations to the regional HUD office in Dallas but the government agency will have final approval.

Most of the proposals provide for scattered sites of housing rather than a single location. Director D.C. Fair said HUD recommends breaking up the units into several locations to prevent an impacted area of such federal housing. He added that the Housing Authority also prefers that system of locating units.

Firms presenting their proposals were SCB Corporation out of Georgetown, Hunt Building Corporation from El Paso, Vivienda Development Corporation of El Paso and Old Glory Corporation of Lubbock (as a joint venture) and Temple Management, based in Temple.

SCB spokesmen suggested three separate sites at 56th Street and Chicago Avenue, 70th Street and Avenue P (south of Lowrey Field) and Frankford Avenue and 16th Street.

All three sites, which total 21 acres, already are zoned for apartments, the corporation spokesmen said.

Hunt Building Corporation proposed one site west of 19th Street and Loop 289 at Iola Avenue that would contain all the units along with four other sites that enue and 16th Street, LaSalle Avenue and 34th Street, 40th Street between Frankfurt Avenue and Englewood Avenue and 34th Street and Bangor Avenue.

Local developer Ken Flagg who represents Vivienda and Old Glory, said that the firm's proposals include locations at Fourth Street and Elkhart Avenue, 34th Steet between Milwaukee and LaSalle avenues and Avenue X and 74th Street.

Temple Management, as represented by the Lubbock-based architectural firm of Whitaker and Hall, proposed a site for all units at 24th Street and Frankford Avenue with alternate locations at 53rd Street and Chicago and at an area between 51st and 52nd streets and between Avenues L and M that could be combined with just one half of the site at 24th and Frankford.

gested by Hunt, to $6 million estimated by Temple The units would include one, two three and four bedroom apartments or duplexes. Most proposals include play areas and basketball courts.

Several developers also provided for porches for each unit, while Hunt proposed a picnic area as well. Vivienda and Old Glory designed a carport for each Provisions were made in the plans for modifications for the handicapped in some units should the board or HUD decide to make such features available. Several developers said the cost of such conversions would be minimal.

Fair and architectural advisor to the board Ed Stiles told members that the main consideration should be site location and architectural features rather

ing projects have numerous vacancies.

Fair said the other projects are not at capacity because of the continued modernization program which has prevented some occupancy and because of the location of the units.

"You're not going to get Anglos and Chicanos in the projects on this side of town," Fair said.

The director cited Greenfair Manor as tation as a high crime area. But security has been beefed up at that location and maintenance and upkeep has improved.

"I feel... as soon as we get some of the stigma off Greenfair we feel certain we'll be able to lease up there," Fair said. He added that as rents, particularly in East Lubbock, continue to rise, more residents will look to Greenfair for housing.

At an afternoon public hearing on how $3.3 million in Community Development funds should be used next year. East Lubbock citizens convinced the council to fund an access road on the south side of Canyon Lake 6.

The largest of the Canyon Lakes became the target of controversy when the council voted late last year to name it after slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr.

Councilman Bud Aderton said derogatory comments made about the lake when the council was considering ways to honor King contributed to the council's tentative decision to drop the lake access road from the list of CD projects.

However, Oscar Jones urged the council not to mix the two issues and to proceed with development of the lake. The council also approved full fund-

George Meany overcame his father's objections and became a plumber's apprentice in his teens, showing the determination that later enabled him to forge a powerful labor federation and leave his mark on the American social fabric.

Known as Mr. Labor, he headed the AFL-CIO for nearly a quarter of a century, retiring in November after his health began failing.

Outspoken, aggressive, pugnacious, honest and gruff, Meany never changed the style he learned as a youth in the Bronx, even when counseling eight presidents in the plush surroundings of the White House. Meany knew how to master organizations, the key to his success in both his union and political life. He guided the merger of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations in 1955, holding it together by dint of his forceful person-

He used his position to put together deals over labor's role in the economic plans of presidents and lent the AFL-ClO's influence to legislation and foreign policy decisions. As a result, he became one of the most powerful men outside of

During the 1960s, he was criticized for failing to persuade craft unions to open their ranks to minorities, but he later played a key role in passage of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. The act forced unions to end racial segregation.

Meany was unpredictable. He could be ferocious and grumpy one minute, witty and charming the next. His barbs were legendary, and they excluded no

In his later years, he was criticized for letting AFL-CIO membership fall, paying too little attention to the needs of women workers and giving the labor movement a stodgy image.

He ignored the criticism. He stayed on top because of his success at holding the AFL-CIO together and his influence with Congress. He also held a nearly matchless record of dealing with presidents from Franklin Roosevelt to Jimmy

His mind and memory retained their sharpness as he entered his 80s but his physical health deteriorated rapidly following the death of his wife, Eugenia, last March. They had been married 59 years and had three daughters. His colleagues were not surprised when he announced this past September that he would not seek a 13th two-year term as president of the AFL-CIO. A few said privately that Meany was losing his clout with Congress and the White

In 1978, the labor movement suffered a setback in Congress by failing to win passage of a labor law "reform" bill that would have given unions new organizing

Labor's relations with the White House were at a low; he and President Carter, who Meany had helped elect in 1976, squabbled over economic policy.

Meany never felt bound to party labels or ideology, although throughout his life he remained staunchly anti-communist, even to the point of opposing former President Richard M. Nixon's policy of detente with the Soviet Union.

Meany was born Aug. 16, 1894 in the Harlem section of the New York City, the second of 10 children in a family of devout Irish Catholics.

The family moved to the Bronx when George was a youngster. His father was a plumber but opposed his son's ambitions to follow in his footsteps. Eventually, he won over his father and became a plumber's apprentice. In 1915, he completed his five-year training period and became a full-fledged union member.

He became the plumbers local's fulltime business agent at age 28. Twelve years later, he became president of the New York Federation of Labor.

In 1939, Meany became secretary-treasurer of the AFL in Washington. He was elected president of the AFL in November 1952 following the death of federation head William Green. Three years later, on Dec. 5, 1955, Meany's AFL and Walter Reuther's CIO merged to form the AFL-CIO and Meany became its first

WASHINGTON (AP) Throughout his long career, George Meany was rarely without a colorful barb or ready retort.

Some samples: Showing a union president's young son his office, only a block from the White House, Meany pointed out his window to the executive mansion

"Do you know why my office is here?" he asked. "Because the people of this country need me to watch whoever is living there.'

To Jimmy Carter, when he was preparing to debate Gerald Ford during the 1976 presidential campaign:

"Governor, when you debate him tonight, don't think of him as the president of the United States. Think of him as just a congress-man from Grand Rapids. That's all he is and that's all he'll ever be."

In 1971. President Nixon's labor secretary, James D. Hodgson, said Meany was "out of step" with American workers in criticizing Nixon's wage-prize freeze.

Meany's response: "I don't pay much attention to the secretary of labor. After all, when you have a problem with the landlord, you don't discuss it with the janitor.

When the Ford administration complained about American longsharemen boycotting shipments of grain to the Soviet Union in 1975, Meany told reporters, "foreign policy is too damn important to be off to the secretary of state.

The reaction was even more personal for some of those closest to Meany over the years.

"I feel like I've lost my grandfather," said Allen Zack, who succeeds his father, Albert, today as chief spokesman for the AFL-C10. It was a dramatic coincidence that the elder Zack, who had been Meany's spokesman for 22 years, retired today.

In the time of midgets in public life, he was a giant," Allen Zack said. "He was one of the best known and most beloved public figures you could find."

A Cotton Council economist said that farmers benefit from size economies when they operate more than 1,000 acres.

Dr. Kendall Keith, agricultural economist at the council in Memphis, reported his studies were based on typical farm budgets for cotton growers in the Mid-South, Texas High Plains and Arizona. Each hypothetical farm was assumed to produce one other major crop common to the area.

Larger farmers simply have more flexibility and a greater number of options in selecting a combination of resources that minimize costs," Keith said. He called attention to "the current debate" on the structure of so-called family farms.

Most agricultural economists seem to agree that significant size economies do exist, at least up to some point. The study attempts to demonstrate the fairly substantial size economies that are possible for various regions of the Cotton Belt," he said.

Keith noted that one of the most critical factors in efficient cotton productions is how well farm operators use their harvesting equipment.

Per-unit costs tend to decline rapidly up to the capacity of harvesting units. But even beyond this level of production, there are significant size economics to be building for preparation and storage of parent sorghum seed has been completed and is in operation adjacent to the sorghum breeding headquarters of Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., at Plainview, Dr. Gene Dalton, sorghum research director, has announced.

The facility is located in the Pioneer complex north of Plainview, where the Southwestern Division of Pioneer is also based. Parent seed produced by the sorghum breeding department is then used by several Pioneer divisions and associates, including the Southwestern Division, to produce the hybrid sorghum seed that is marketed to farmers.

The new building was completed just in time for the fall harvest of foundation stock, acording to David Stephenson, parent seed manager. Stephenon said the building was designed to be operated by two or three men in a simple, but effi-

"Two special considerations were required in designing this building," said Stephenson, who planned the layout of the facility. "It had to be simply operated and easily cleaned. Our department deals in small quantities of seed, but many different lots. The lots must be kept completely separted to ensure the purity of the parent seed stock, so the building must be thoroughly cleaned after each lot has been prepared for plant-

New equipment, including a gravity table and a polisher, has been installed in the seed preparation section of the building. And Stephenson said this new equipment will enable Pioneer to improve the physical quality of its parent seed.

"Previously we had only a cleaner and a treater," he said. "The new gravity table makes it possible to handle seed lots with germiation problems by separating seed according to weight. The polisher takes the glumes off the seeds, improving plantability and appearance.

Of course, this extra care doesn't provide an immediate benefit to farmers who plant Pioneer brand sorghums. But

GOOD CITRUS CROP

The forecast, particularly for oranges, indicates a crop of 15.2 million tons, with the Florida orange crop expected to be 22 percent ahead of last hopefully, if we provide a higher quality product to the Pioneer production departments, they'll be able to do a better job of producing the seed that farmers will plant.

Preparation of the parent seed is done in a three-story section of the building. The equipment can handle as much as 100 bushels per hour, with very little manpower needed. After the parent seed is bagged, it is stored in a climate-con-needed by Pioneer divisions. The warehouse has a capacity of 20,000 bushels. Stephenson said Three men are presently engaged in the operation of the new facility. One man has been assigned to work in the building throughout the year, while the other two will spend about six months of each year supervising parent seed production in the field.

New Policy Statement Draws Mixed Reaction

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's recent unveiling of a new "Small Community and Rural Development Policy generally has been received well, but some rural advocates are mixing a bit of skepticism with their praise.

The 42-page policy statement, dis-closed Dec. 20, was chock full of problem definitions, action plans and objectives to help make the countryside and small towns better places in which to live

However, as one official of a n group told a reporter, "it didn't give much indication that Carter is willing to spend much more money" on federal programs intended to help'rural people. The official, who asked not to be identified, praised Carter for "recognizing, at last, the unique problems" of rural America. He added that previous administrations paid lip service to those problems but failed to seek massive actions to solve them.

In his policy statement, Carter established principles recognizing "the need for strong partnership between the public and private sectors" and all levels of government

He also listed an "action agenda" of more than 100 specific actions to be taken to help meet pressing rural needs. Many of these involve modifications of existing or proposed programs related to housing, energy, credit institutions, health care and community services.

Regarded as a fresh and potentially creative proposal is one to establish a working group at the White House level to help coordinate and oversee rural development.

Another is a proposal to Congress for a new position of undersecretary of agriculture for small community and rural development

Among those who praised the Carter policy was the National Association of

Towns and Townships. Its executive American Ag Movement Bares Plans

director, Barton D. Russell, said Carter recognizes the importance of the nation's small locales" and their local prob-

"This recognition of such a vital segment of American society should put politicians and regulators on notice that they can expect to hear much more from America's heartland in the coming decade," said another association official. George Miller.

But the association also noted that while some initiatives are specified in President Carter's announcement, the real test of the program will come in subsequent policy decisions" this year and in

For example, it said, the administration's intentions still are not clear about general revenue sharing for small towns. possible cuts in the upcoming 1980-81 federal budget for spending on rural programs and chances the administration will follow through on cutting red tape and paperwork involved in federal grants to small communities

Another group, Rural America, also praised Carter's rural policy statement as something we have waited for for a long, long time.

But there appears to be a basic contradiction between many of the stated goals in the policy and the measures that are to be undertaken to reach these goals," said David Raphael, executive of Rural America.

We regret that the budget constraints under which the president has operated since he first took office prevent a dramatic, or even a reasonable, implementation of the policy at this Rural America is a nonprofit membership organization that describes itself as "set up to give people in rural areas and small towns a stronger voice in Washington.

In a current newsletter, Rural America - without mentioning Carters rural policy statement - said the coming year's budget for some important programs of the Farmers Home Administration may be cut sharply

The FmHA, as the Agriculture Department agency calls itself, tried to get more money for the fiscal year that will begin next Oct. 1 but was thwarted by budget watchers in Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland's office and in the Office of Management and Budget in the White House, it said.

One cut involved rural housing grants for low-income rural people, the newsletter said. The FmHA asked for $25 million for next fiscal year but was held to only $2 million by Bergland's office, with approval of the White House group, it said.

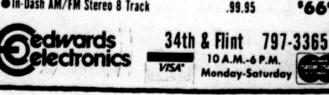

home ownership assistance programs operated by the agency, and in public housing assistance offered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the Rural America publication said.

Thus, it appears Rural America and other rural development advocates will be watching closely to see if the administration's budget proposals for 1980-81 — due to be made to Congress later this

CORN CANNOT BE SOLD BY THE U. S. Department of Agriculture at less than $3.15 per bushel if the government takes physical delivery of the grain in assuming the contracts on suspended shipments to the U.S.S.R.

This was announced Thursday by Howard Hjort, the USDA's chief economist, who said another possibility would be to sell the contracts to other firms that have the opportunity to use the grain for a destination other than the Sovi-

If the contracts are sold to other firms, he said, the corn would not move back into the market unless the price is above the close last Friday of $2.40 a

The wheat embargoed for shipment to the U.S.S.R. will be used as part of the 4 million metric tons earmarked for emergency food reserves, he said.

Hjort said the $3.15 a bushel for corn works out to 150 percent of the new loan rate. A provision in the 1977 farm act mandates that whenever a farmerowned grain reserve is in effect the government's Commodity Credit Corp. cannot resell grain it owns at less than 150 percent of the then-current loan rate.

THE CONTRACT IS LIKELY TO BE ASSUMED by another firm if the market price is above the price specified in the deal for the delivery date, Hjort

"If the market price is not higher than last Friday, we will take delivery and then sell it at not less than $3.15," he said. "The only way to get it (the corn) back on the market would be if prices are higher than Friday."

Before the suspension on grain sales to the U.S.S.R., Hjort said, the USDA had been projecting that corn prices would continue to rise. He said the USDA now would "do everything we can to make sure that does happen." The delivery period in the contracts will determine the time when the USDA has to decide whether to accept delivery of the corn or to move it back into the market he said Hiort said the USDA has not yet assumed any contracts on grain previously destined for the Soviet Union. He said the department still is developing the plans on how to assume the contracts and what price to pay. The USDA official said he had no word from the White House on whether President Carter is going to ask the International Longshoremen's Association to halt the boycott against all Soviet cargo.

THE USDA IS ANALYZING THE IMPACT of the union action, Hjort said. He noted that ILA president Thomas Gleason had said the dock workers would honor any requests from the White House made in the national interest in connection with the boycott.

Hjort expressed concern over the sharp downward reaction of the grain

We have a commitment to isolate from the market the difference between the full 25 million metric tons (of grain that previously had been allowed to the U.S.S.R.) and whatever is shipped," he said.

About 5 million metric tons of grain already have been shipped to the U.S.S.R. in the current fiscal year ending Sept. 30 and an additional 3 million metric tons would be allowed to be shipped under Carter's order.

The 3 million tons would clear out the congestion at the ports, barges, rail traffic and so on," Hjort said. "The rest of the grain (embargoed for shipment to the U.S.S.R.) is at terminal or country elevators.

J. Dawson Ahalt, another USDA economist, said it would be unlikely for the government to take delivery on any of the soybeans embargoed to the U.S.S.R.

COTTON PRODUCTION IN THE HIGH PLAINS crop reporting districts of 1-North and 1-South is estimated by the USDA at 3 million bales, down 40,000 bales from the December projection.

The new estimate, adjusted for geographical differences, would translate into a 25-county crop of 3,074,100 bales, up from the previous year's output of 2,- 049,100 bales. This would be the region's second largest crop on record, ranking next to the all-time high of 3,215,400 bales in 1977. A pre-report guess, not based on the usual monthly private survey information, had indicated the 1979 crop would total about 2.915.500 bales. The USDA hiked its estimate for the southern Low Plains by a surprising 110.000 bales, putting the January prediction at 660,000 bales. With production in the northern district expected to total 575,000 bales, the USDA has the Low

Plains crop estimated at a record 1,235,000 bales. Acreage for harvest on the High Plains is estimated at 3,850,000, down 80,000 from the December report. The average yield is pegged at 374 pounds per acre, compared with 371 a month earlier.

THE TEXAS ESTIMATE SHOWED an unexpected increase of 100,000 bales, rising to 5.7 million. A cut of 100,000 to 150,000 bales had been ext This contributed to a surprising 345,900-bale increase in the national estimate, with the all-cotton total now set at 14,872,900 bales. State estimates were boosted 100,000 bales in California (to 3,380,000), 50,000 in Arizona (1,350,000), 50,000 in Mississippi (1,450,000), 25,000 in Lousiana (690,-000), 10,000 in Arkansas (610,000), and 7,000 in Tennessee (172,000).

Traders and analysts said the national estimate, released after the market closed Thursday, was bearish. Some brokers said the market is likely to open down 100 points to the 200-point limit today, although others were dubious about this and said continued strong export demand could serve to restrain

The U.S. increase from the December estimate is said to be the largest baleage boost in the USDA production report for this period since World War II.

LATE-SESSION SELLING BY A MAJOR commission house took cotton futures down sharply near the close Thursday, with final prices in nearbys ranging from 41 points higher to 8 points lower.

Brokers said the market had shown gains of as much as 111 points during afternoon trading on the strength of local and speculative buying before the late selloff. Prices in the old-crop months reached or exceeded previous contract highs on the runup.

The late selling, brokers said, may have been prompted by rumors that the USDA's January crop report would be higher than expected earlier. Estimated

The market opened basically unchanged and moved 31 to 40 points higher in nearbys on speculative buying in early moderate activity. The new-crop months closed 20 to 60 points lower.

Trading on Telcot set a new record high daily volume at 41,423 bales. The average price was 52.56 cents and the average over the loan was 1,060 points. Prices were up 75 points much of the day but backed off to 50 points higher by Buying didn't appear to be quite as strong on Telcot after the crop report was released, particularly for some qualities, although there still were those who were bidding actively.

U. S. COTTON EXPORT SALES WERE SLOW during the week ended Dec. 30, the USDA reported after the close.

Sales increased by a net of only 11,200 running bales during that holiday week. China, rumored to have been back in the market in recent days, canceled purchases of 37,900 running bales and bought 18,200 metric tons of corn. The corn was involved in destination changes.

Cotton exports of 250,200 running bales set a new weekly record, with 9 percent going to Europe and 90 percent to Asia, including 137,200 bales to China. U. S. ginnings prior to Jan. I totaled 12,732,581 running bales, the Census Bureau reported, compared with 9,316,913 a year earlier and 13,513,320 two years ago. Ginnings in Texas were 4,369,888 running bales, up from 2,960,071 a year earlier but down from 5,208,812 two years ago.

grains and soybeans in overseas markets stimulated active trade Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade but still left wheat, corn and oats futures prices sharply lower because of the grain embargo against the Soviet Union.

Brokers said prices apparently fell enough to interest foreign customers and traders who did not have enough grain and soybeans to cover prior contract

Before the late rally, trading was limited after wheat, corn and oats futures plunged at the opening by the daily maximum allowed by trading regulations.

The limit in Chicago allows daily prices to fluctuate up or down to a maximum of 20 cents a bushel for wheat, 10 cents for corn and 30 cents for soybeans. The decline may hurt many farmers who have held crops off the market, hoping to get more for their grain. They also face higher grain storage costs because larger supplies will strain facilities.

In other developments: -Maurice J. William, the executive director of the United Nations World Food Council, said in Rome that Russians may pay more for their food and the embargo could "adversely affect the quality of their diet but is not likely to

Housing Loans Due Renewal By USDA

WASHINGTON (Special) - The U.S. Department of Agriculture will resume making housing loans and grants, Alex Mercure, assistant secretary of agriculture for rural development, announced.

Farmers Home Administration, the credit arm of USDA, had suspended certain new housing loans and grants because legislative authority had expired Dec. 1. New authorization became effective after Congress passed the Housing and Community Development Act and President Carter signed it into law in Decem-Programs affected were the section 502 low to moderate income home ownership, section 515 rural rental housing and the section 523 technical assistance grants and self help site loans. These programs represent most of FmHA's rural housing lending authority.

Consequently, officials said, "poultry and other birds now are free to move from Puerto Rico to the U.S. mainland without restrictions."

Lubbock County Show Planned Next Week

Nine Future Farmers of America and 13 4-H chapters with more than 500 members will participate in the Lubbock County stock show Monday and Tuesday at the Panhandle South Plains fairgrounds. Swine judging will open the show Monday at 8 a.m. followed by the steer show. Lambs will be judged at 8 a.m. and the premium sale for all animals will be at 6 p.m. Tuesday. Joe Wise, Dawson County extension agent, will place the lambs and Sid Conner, Garza County extension agent, will judge the steers. Joe Tarter of Littlefield will place the swine.

Jere Mimms of Acuff is the general superintendent and Max Thomas of Lubbock is his assistant. Steer superintendent is Gib Ragland of Acuff, Milton Daniel of Lorenzo is swine superintendent and Bobby Pletcher of Wolfforth will supervise the lambs.

Ken Aldridge, show president, and Bill Biddy, finance chairman, are in charge of the premium sale. Beth Arnold is the general secretary and treasurer and Johnny Wells is the publicity chairman.

rain Cutoff Called Serious Blow To Soviets

By United Press International Following is a sample of what the naton's newspapers have been saying this

Los Angeles Times:

None of the measures announced by President Carter will force the Soviet Union to withdraw its troops from Afghanistan. But...they will put the Russians on notice that they cannot behave like international thugs without paying a

What worries Carter and other world leaders is, as he put it, that the Soviet Union might use Afghanistan as a stepping stone through Iran and Pakistan to gain "control over much of the world's

If that happened, he warned, "the stable, strategic and peaceful balance of the world will be changed. The Russians are less likely to go that very dangerous route if they are made to see now that the Western democracies are determined to defend their interests.

As Henry Kissinger warned...it is extremely important that grand but empty gestures be avoided, that countermoves chosen that can be sustained. We believe that the president's plan of action generally meets that criterion - provided he gets the requisite support from the American people and other major trading nations

...suspend(ing) plans for...new consulates in the United States and the Soviet Union, and...canceling or postponing...economic, cultural and scientific exchange programs...are mostly symbolic. But freez(ing) the export of 17 million tons of grain already ordered by the Soviet Union is a different matter.

The clampdown...will cause some financial loss to U.S. farmers...But if Carter has the courage to stick by his guns in an election year, and if Canada and Australa abide by promises not to pick up the sales for themselves, Russia's plans for building up its beef and dairy herds will suffer a serious blow.

Boycott Considered

Should the United States boycott the Olympic Games in Moscow this summer. protest of Soviet aggression in

The idea is gaining popularity in this country and has an unquestioned appeal...But second thoughts cast doubt on the wisdom and efficacy of such a move, at least at this time...

A threat to boycott the games would be looked upon as a weak substitute for "real" action...An actual boycott...would only isolate the United States as a "spoilsport" taking petty revenge.

The Olympic games are, theoretically, at least, competitions between individual athletes, not national teams. That is the idealistic stand we have always taken, if we have not always lived be it. A boycott would deny this concept of the games and confirm the worst fears of those who have long decried their corruption into extensions of foreign policy, as weapons in a cold war of national egos and ambi-In which case, there should be no

Olympic games at all.

More Than Medals

Scripps-Howard Newspapers:

(Boycotting the Olympics) is an excellent idea. Such a dramatic, yet nonviolent, nonthreatening measure would impress the Kremlin more than any number of warnings about possible economic or military retaliation.

.The Kremlin has invested a lot of rubles and a lot of prestige in the 1980 Olympics. Moscow, the games, and all the events surrounding them are intended to be a showcase to the world of the superiority" of the Communist system.

What a jolt it would be if the major democratic nations - and their all-important television entourages - refused to attend. What an embarrassment for the Kremlin, which could not conceal the fact from the Russian people. We realize that a boycott of the Olym-

Three Men Kidnap Girl

ROME (UPI) - Bandits have aducted the daughter of high fashion designer Bruno Piattelli in Italy's first reported kidnapping of the year.

Kidnappers in Italy abducted 61 persons during 1979.

Police said Barbara Piattelli, 27, accompanied by her mother Vittoria. parked her small car in a public garage in central Rome Thursday night, when three men accosted them.

They said one kidnapper held a gun to Mrs. Piattelli's head while the other two put an ether-soaked rag across her daughter's mouth and hustled the young woman into a waiting car. The kidnappers drove off, and Mrs. Piattelli telephoned police.

Bruno Piattelli, one of Italy's most noted designers, heads a fashion house famed for menswear fashions favored by Italian movie stars.

Reception Organized By State Officials

AUSTIN (AP) - State officials, headed by Attorney General Mark White and members of the Public Safety Commission, are organizing a Jan. 15 reception for former Department of Public Safety Director Wilson Speir.

The establishment of an educational fund in Speir's honor will be announced at the reception, according to a Tuesday news release. The Wilson E. Speir foundation will be administered by Speir and former PSC members.

The money will be used for children of DPS employees.

The reception is set for Austin Munical Auditorium. Speir retired at the end of 1979 after years with the department.

pics would directly affect hundreds of athletes, who have been dreaming of and working toward this day for the past four years. But there is no reason Western Europe and the United States and any other countries that wished to join them could not hold an alternate Olympics somewhere this summer.

New records and winners wouldn't be recognized by the International Olympic Committee, but some things are more important than gold medals.

U.S. Pushover

Jacksonville Daily Progress:

The Soviets can hardly be overly concerned about the slap on the wrist from the United States for the Russian Christmas invasion of Afghanistan.

The Soviets see the United States as a weakening world power beset by problems with hostages held in Iran that seemingly can't be freed, an energy crisis aggravated by dependence on foreign producers, and a reduced military manpower that, a volunteer army fails to keep up to strength.

The Soviets, with a pending SALT pact notwithstanding, see the current Iranian crisis as an ideal smokescreen for its continued aggressive actions. But if they look upon the United States as a pushovourselves too soon.

Testing Approved New Orleans Times-Picayune:

The Food and Drug Administration has finally approved the testing of Laetrile on humans..."reluctantly.

expert testing...is long overdue. Failure to prove the effectiveness or ineffectiveness of Laetrile has led to unnecessary controversies...

The FDA has been steadfast in maintaining...that Laetrile has no effect on cancer. But the proponents of Lae-trile...claim that 50,000 to 75,000 Americans have used Laetrile and 20 states have legalized its use within their borders. But the FDA has banned interstate shipments of Laetrile and is fighting an affidavit import system set up by a federal judge in Oklahoma in 1977.

In such a situation, the average person, especially one who is suffering with cancer, does not know whom to believe. And although many advances have been made in cancer treatment, victims of that most dread disease are often easily convinced to try any cure.

We hope the tests prove conclusive, so that we may either rejoice that a new and effective cancer drug has been found or accept the fact that we will have to depend upon conventional treatment and future scientific advances.

IRS To Get More

The Dallas Morning News:

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce starts the calendar off right with the report that the Internal Revenue Service will collect about $35 billion more in 1980 from you and you and all the other individual taxpayers. That's about 400 extra dollars each to add to the toll from your Christmas bills.

And that news, we believe, ought to be enough to finish off any lingering happy-new-year cheerfulness and snap everybody back into reality.

Budget Blasted

Knoxville (Tenn.) News Sentinel: Scratch another of President Carter's goals. There won't be a balanced budget for fiscal 1981, which begins Oct. 1. .The word is out the president's budget to be proposed to Congress will contain a $15 billion deficit.

We'll be lucky if the deficit isn't bigger. In addition to the reluctance to cut off anyone's federal tap in an election year, it's possible the administration will support a general tax cut as the political season wears on...(because) there is nothing better than a tax cut to put voters in a good frame of mind before they go to the polls. The more 1980 looks like a Republican year, the more chance of the Democrate President and the Democratic Congress approving a tax cut. They may go for one anyway, just to make

What makes increased spending so easy and a tax cut possible is the annual boost in federal revenues caused by inflation...inflation bumps taxpayers into ever-higher tax brackets and gives the politicians more money to use.

Without inflation inflating the U.S. Treasury, that $15 billion deficit projected for fiscal 1981 would be a lot higher.

Another distressing element is the attitude expressed by a budget analyst who said..."A deficit of $15 billion is not bad...I would consider it almost a bal-

What hope is there for the taxpayer...when the people in charge consider a $15 billion deficit as balance?

Soviet Dance Troupe Cancels U.S. Tour

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) - A Soviet dance troupe that was scheduled to perform here Sunday has canceled a 54city tour of the United States in response to President Carter's sanctions against the Soviet Union, a promoter says.

The Krasnayarsk Dance Company did not arrive for its opening performance in New York on Jan. 5, Samuel Niefeld, an executive with Columbia Artists Management in New York, said Wednesday,

There certainly is an indication around the western world that (Soviet) artists are not traveling to their appointed destinations as freely as they did before the Afghanistan incursion," Niefeld

A South Lubbock residence was burglarized shortly before noon Thursday of cash and other items totaling $3,550, according to Lubbock police. A 29-year-old woman told police she discovered her home had been burglarized after seeing a car leave the residence just before she arrived. When the woman entered the home, she found that several items, including a color television, a guitar, a stereo and several pieces of furniture, had been stolen, police said. The woman also reported $1,000 cash was missing. Police questioned the owner of the car seen leaving the residence, but no charges had been filed late Thursday. In other activity, Patricia Ann Hospick of 4620-B 35th St. told police someone had apparently attempted to set her 1972 Volkswagen afire between 6 p.m.

Wednesday and 8:30 a.m. Thursday. A Christmas tree covered with gum of turpentine had been placed against the car, and an attempt to set the tree afire had been made, police said. The tree was partially burned, but the car was not damaged, reports indicate.

Stereo equipment valued at $1.139 was stolen from the home of William Charles Smith, 4312 17th St., during the Christmas holidays, police said.

Items stolen in the break-in included an AM-FM receiver, a cassette deck, a turntable and several cassette tapes, smith told police. The theft occurred beween 3:30 p.m. Dec. 14 and 10 a.m.

Tires and wheels valued at $872 were stolen from a Chevrolet Camaro parked tween 9 p.m. Wednesday and 7 a.m. Thursday, police said.

Residents Of Slaton To Discuss Need For New, Modern Hospital

By GERRY BURTON

Avalanche-Journal Staff SLATON - A half-century ago, the Sisters of Mercy, Province of St. Louis, built Mercy Hospital to care for the ill of the Slaton community. Today the community, which received the hospital as a debt-free gift in 1972, gathers to voice its opinion on the need for a modern facility to replace the aging structure.

A 7 p.m. town meeting in the junior high school, called for the sole purpose of feeling the public pulse, is a necessary first step.

"We are going to lay plans for a new building. . . and try to keep a hospital in William Sewell, a director of the Slaton, Slaton Hospital Memorial Foundation board, said He described the four-story, concrete and brick Slaton landmark as antiquated. with all the problems that could be expected in a 50-year-old building.

"I doubt if we can maintain accreditation very long with the old building." No tax money is involved. Hospital governors maintain that a new energy efficient, single-story building could be paid for out of savings from present operating expenses. It would have 30 beds instead of the 40 in the existing building.

To obtain a Farmers Home Adminis tration loan for the $600,000 estimated cost, the board must establish a need for the new structure based on public opinion. The proposed building would be 10,- Payback, scaled at $5.17 per $1,000, would be $3,120, a figure below the projected monthly saving of $1,500 and more in repairs, $700 in utilities and $1,200 in employee salaries.

Any increased patient load drawn by the new facility would be a bonus. "If they are against it, we will just have to run on what we have until we have to close," hospital administrator Bob Manley said in assessing the situa-What the hospital has to run on, Man-devices necessary. Patient care, according to board member Bill Alspaugh, is excellent and hospital equipment so modern that it will be moved into the new building if it is approved by the community. Kitchen facilities already are in a single-story addition to the original building. So far, the longtime board member stated, there has been only good comment from the community, although fears have been expressed that the old hospital will be destroyed.

Three of the four doctors in Slaton do not use Mercy Hospital and have expressed little interest in a new one. According to Alspaugh, one of the physicians, who came to Slaton soon after World War II, put few patients in Mercy from the very beginning and now uses Lubbock hospitals exclusively.

The other two, along with a third who moved away, were the results of board efforts to attract doctors by means of a subsidy program. Policy involved setting a doctor up, providing him an office and guaranteeing an income for a year.

The new hospital will attract physicians who will need no subsidy. Alspaugh and the rest of the hospital governing board believe

Ford Closes Assembly Plant; 1,670 Employees Lose Jobs

DETROIT (AP) - Ford Motor Co. is joining troubled Chrysler Corp. in shedding an assembly plant as layoffs among U.S. automakers pass 200,000 for the first time in the 10-month sales drought.

Ford said Thursday it would close its assembly plant at Pico Rivera, Calif., near Los Angeles because of slumping demand for big cars.

Chrysler produced its last car at its fa-"Dodge Main" plant in Hamtramck, Mich., a week ago today.

Ford said it regretted the move, but "based on present and foreseeable demand," it has enough capacity at other at the United Auto Workers union, said the union was "indignant at the extremely short notice" it was given. A spokesman said the UAW was told "only hours" before the closing was announced.

Bannon said the UAW would do evervthing it could to help the employees. The closing of Pico Rivera is yet another tragic symptom of the ailment besetting our nation's economy, including the unduly high proportion of imported vehicles which endangers the stability of the U.S. auto industry," Bannon added.

Ford will be left with 25 assembly plants in the United States and Canada. The company last closed an assembly plant in 1970 in Dallas.

Ford expects to report a loss of $1 billion on North American car and truck operations for 1979 - which is about what Chrysler will lose as a whole - though worldwide Ford will profit. Ford's 1979 U.S. car sales were down 17 percent from 1978, the same as Chrysler's.

General Motors announced Thursday that it will close the Cadillac plant in Detroit for a week for the first time since the week before the OPEC oil embargo was lifted in March 1974.

Brewster Claims Respect For Frogs

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

The TCU basketball team is about as likely to drum up terror as is Don Knotts stalking Main Street with a six-gun strapped to his hip.

With a total of three Southwest Conference wins over the last three seasons and an 0-3 league mark this year, the Horned Frogs don't exactly inspire women to yank their children off the streets when they come to town.

But don't try and tell that to Texas Tech's Ralph Brewster. When he speaks of the Frogs, it's with respect in his voice and he's not just funnin' you either.

"It's going to be a tough game," warns Brewster of Tech's Saturday afternoon clash in Fort Worth. "TCU is a tough team, they've been losing but not by much. They played A&M tough and they played Arkansas tough."

Ah, come on Brew, we're talking about T-C-U, not U-C-L-A.

"It's important for us to win as many as we can," he insisted. "I feel as though we can be contenders for the conference

Last year, the Raiders went out and lost to the Rice Owls in a game that no

"That game taught us something," he admits, "it taught us to go out and play everybody - play everybody hard. We've already lost five games this season, so we

The Raiders are 8-5 to date and 2-1 in SWC play, but Brewster isn't entirely pleased — at least not with his own play.

"I've had my ups and downs," he admits. "I'm satisfied with our position in the conference but with my own play... well I'm not satisfied at all

"I don't know what's been wrong," he added. "It seemed like I had my confidence at the beginning of the year and as the season progressed... I don't know."

Brewster scored 14 points and pulled down five rebounds against Texas A&M Tuesday night when the Raiders dropped named Male Athlete of the Year for 1979 by The Associated Press, says the honor would not have been possible without his "Family," the rest of the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates. "I'm really grateful and very pleased." Stargell said, "but if it was not for the other 24 guys who I break bread with and do so many things with all summer, this wouldn't be possible.

Stargell said the magnitude of the award was especially important to him.

"Any time you talk about picking one guy out of the literally thousands of fine athletes from all over the world, well, I'd be lying to tell you I don't get goose bumps to hear this," he said.

Stargell received 4812 votes in nationwide balloting by more than 200 sports writers and broadcasters. Sugar Ray Leonard, who won the World Boxing Council welterweight championship in November, finished second with 28 votes and English track star Sebastian Coe, who set three world distance records in 42 days last summer, was third with 24.

Earlier, tennis star Tracy Austin was named Female Athlete of the Year.

Stargell learned of the AP award Thursday at a press conference at which team's theme song. They felt it fit the rehe was named sales manager for a new lationship the players felt for each other.

wouldn't blush today, but you're making me blush," he said.

For Stargell, the honor capped a fistful of awards that he won after he led the Pirates to baseball's world champion-

During the regular season, it was Stargell who became the leader of the team, on the field and off. At age 38, he enjoyed one of his most productive seasons, bat-ting 281 with a club-high 32 home runs and 81 runs batted in. Just as important as his production on the field was his leadership off it. As the club's captain and senior citizen, Stargell supplied the Pirates with a father figure, a man they could rally around. He provided the team with the togetherness that carried Pittsburgh to the top of the National League East Division.

First, he introduced Stargell's stars, tiny gold paste-ons that he awarded to teammates at appropriate moments. They became proud symbols on the club and players wore them on their caps like

Then he and some of the other discofans on the club adopted the popular Sister Sledge tune, "We Are Family," as the own play thus far has been erratic. Against Texas, in the SWC opener, Brewster scored only four points and two rebounds while spending a great deal of time on the bench. At other times, he has been a dominant force for the Raiders. Agains Houston, for instance, he had 13 rebounds and scored 14 points.

"All I want to do is this:" he says. "I'm just going to try and do the things that I can do to help us win. If I can't do that, then I'm sorry.

"I don't feel like I've got to score a lot of points for us to win," he added. "But I've got to get open and take the right shots. And I've got to get the rebounds and block out on the boards.

Right now, Brewster is frustrated. And he'll be the first to tell you as much. He started every game as a sophomore last year averaging 11.3 and 7.6 rebounds a game. And he saw considerable action in his freshman year after coming out of El Paso's Bowie High School.

This year was supposed to be entirely Brewster's. This was the season he would take charge of the Raiders inside attack. He is, after all, Tech's tallest starter - flanked by a pair of 6-6 forwards, Ben Hill and David Little.

But things haven't gone entirely according to plan.

"I don't know what's wrong," said Brewster, "maybe I'm just trying to hard. Like aainst A&M, I thought I could get us an easy two points and it backfired

Brewster's reference is to a costly offensive rebounding call that cost the Raiders two points in the crucial stretch run against the Aggies

"I just misjudged the ball, but that play is over and done with," he added, I'm not going to worry about it any-

In a way, that play sums up Brewster's frustrations. Against the Aggies he played one of his better games of the year. Most importantly he cut down on his turnover rate that had hampered him at times.

Brewster isn't ducking any charges, but he doesn't necessarily like them ei-

But Tech coach Gerald Myers has plenty of confidence in Brewster's ability to turn things around. "All he needs," says Myers, "is a good solid game. That'll get him back on the right track. Ralph has played enough basketball and had enough success to know what he has to do.

"He'll get over it," added Myers, 'and he'll help us down the road."

And now you know why Brewster isn't taking the Horned Frogs lightly. He wants a big game. "I'm going to play my game," he said,

"and try my best. That's all I can do."

Golf Classic In Three-Way Tie

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) - Realistically, rookie Bob Proben isn't even thinking about winning the $304,500 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic.

But Jerry Pate is. "I just want to have a good time and see where it takes me," said Proben, 25, whose 4-under-par 68 Thursday gave him a share of the rain-delayed first-round lead with the dangerous Pate and Keith

'I'd certainly like to win. It would start the year off right," said Pate, "I didn't win a tournament last year. It's the first year since I've been a pro that I've gone through a year without winning. I had 10 chances towin. I think it's

Mustang Coach Ponders Losses

By JIM FERGUSON

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff It's not a terminal case of dandruff that keeps Barry Arnwine scratching his noggin for hours on end these days.

He just wishes Selsun Blue could cure that nagging itch and wash the problem down the bathroon drain.

Arnwine, the head coach of the Coronado Mustangs, is looking for the answer to a question that's been gnawing at him for the past two weeks. He really doesn't know why the Ponies have lost five of their last six games. Remember. this is the same team that won six-of-seven decisions earlier in the year.

"I'm really not sure what the problem is." said Arnwine. "I think the loses to Clovis and Borger had a lot to do with it. They have two of the finest teams around and we were in a position to beat them. But we let them off the hook.

"I think that disappointed the kids, a lot, and it carried over. We lost our confi-

A MATTER OF MANNER - Two best tennis players in the United States are both left-handed, fiercely competitive, volatile, and controversial. # Borg Edges Connors In Close Sets

Hammond called it "classic tennis," and as befits a classic, there was no real loser in the latest confrontation between tennis greats Bjorn Borg and Jimmy Con-

Borg won the 2 hour, 37 minute thriller 3-6, 6-3, 7-6 Thursday night to clinch a berth in the semifinals of the $400,000 Grand Prix Masters. Borg took the thirdset tie-breaker 7-4, a fitting, pulsating cli-max for a match that had the crowd of 16.753 at Madison Square Garden screaming on every point.

But I'm not out of this thing yet," said Connors. "I'm not going to roll over and die. You may see me back here in the finals Sunday.

Connors must beat Roscoe Tanner today to stay alive in the chase for a$100,-000 first prize and the championship of the Grand Prix circuit. Both have 1-1 records in the round-robin portion of the tournament. Borg is 2-0 and assured of a semifinal berth even if he loses today's match against winless Jose Higueras.

In the other four-man bracket, topseeded John McEnroe raised his record to 2-0 and clinched a spot in the semifinals by beating Guillermo Vilas 6-2, 6-3. Even if he loses to Vitas Gerulaitis tonight, he'll qualify for the semis under the tie-breaking formula being used in

Gerulaitis evened his record at 1-1 by beating winless Harold Solomon 6-1, 7-6 Thursday. Vilas, also 1-1, plays Solomon

McEnroe may be the No.1 seed in the rankings, compiled from performances in 1979 Grand Prix events, but throughout the late 1970s Borg and Connors were the heavyweights of men's tennis, with a rivalry to match that of boxers Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier. And the Borg-Connors match was by far the best of the tensity, in drama and in caliber of play. "It was a great match," said Borg, who has now beaten Connors the last seven times they've met and who holds a 13-10 edge in their classic rivalry that dates back to 1973. "The drama was there, just like in our Wimbledon final of 1977, when Jimmy came back from 4-0 in the fifth set to tie it at 4-4. "We've had the greatest matches of the last four, five years. Every time we go out we both give 100 percent. We play great points and great matches."

Thursday's clash was a fitting way to take the rivalry into the 1980s. "There definitely was a little excitement there,' said Connors with a smile, savoring the

Connors, the favorite of about threefourths of the boisterous crowd, provided the excitement in the first set, hitting his powerful shots just inches above the net and attacking at every opportunity. Connors broke service in the fifth game, then clinched the set with a break in the ninth

"But I played a lousy game to start the second set," said Connors, and that was enough to get Borg rolling. Staying at the baseline and relying on his brilliant ground strokes, the Swede broke service four times in the second set to tie the match and rode the momentum of that charge to a 5-2 lead in the third set.

Connors, however, was not about to "roll over and die." He held his service, then scored a break when Borg committed four unforced errors. Connors held again, and suddenly it was tied 5-5.

It was at that point that the spectre of the "New York jinx" crept into Borg's mind. The four-time Wimbledon champion has never won a major event in New York, including repeated failures at the U.S. Open, and it has been "I was thinking then, 'Hey, it's happened before. I haven't played my best tennis in New York," admitted Borg. "Then I just thought, Take it easy, don't rush, don't think about 5-2 (and blowing the lead), just keep going.

Borg recovered to hold service, fighting off a pair of break points in a thrilling game that went to deuce three times. Connors also held, setting up the tiebreaker - tennis' version of sudden death.

"In a tie-breaker you've got to be very lucky and get off to a fast start," said

And that he did, winning the first three points and then building a 6-2 advantage. Connors won the first two match points with volleys, then hit a forehand wide to end the match.

As the crowd stood for one last, long, loud ovation, the gladiators met at the net and shook hands. But that was not enough, so Connors reached out and grasped Borg behind the net in a halfhug, a gesture that reflected the feeling between these two men.

We've played some good matches in the past," Connors said, understating the impact the rivalry has had in the last half-decade. "This was a pretty good think he has great respect for me," said Borg. "To beat him indoors, on this fast surface, here in New York, is a great win for me.

Can he win the tournament? "I feel very confident now," he relied. "I've still a long way to go, but this is a very good start.' Thursday's other three matches went according to form, with favorites McEnroe, Gerulaitis and Tanner winning in straight sets. The only one who had trouble was McEnroe, and that was of his own doing.

He became entangled in the net during a rally in the final game of his match against Vilas and took a nasty head-first tumble. Although he seemed dazed momentarily, McEnroe quickly resumed play and said afterward that he had not

Coronado's Carter Hangs Up Racket

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Jim Carter is a family man - and he credits a "family type atmosphere" as the key to his amazing record at Coronado High School where he's been the tennis coach the past 11 years.

But now, says Carter, its time to give up coaching and spend more time with the family - and not the one on 34th Street.

This will be Carter's last spring to run the CHS tennis program. He announced earlier this week that he will resign the post when his contract ends on June 26th

Even with all the success, all the fun," he said, "it was time to put my family first. So I'm going to give it up.

Tve just been spending too much time away from my family," he added: "I wanted to have some time with them before they grew up. Carter has a daughter Stacy in the seventh grade and a son Gil in

As far as opposing coaches are concerned, there's really no reason that the Carter youngsters should hurry up that growing up process either. Because, with Carter at the helm, Coronado has been almost unbeatable in the last decade

In the earlier days, tennis programs at each high school had just one team - the boys and girls combined. Then, in 1975 the boys and girls teams were separated, and in the 11 years that Carter has been at CHS his teams have won either a team, boys or girls district championship or both. Every year, they've brought home a trophy. In 1975, Carter's boys and girls won district crowns, in '76 both teams also captured the honors and in '77 his boys finished first and the girls were second. But for the past two years, it has been business as usual, with the Mustangs capturing both titles. I really have to credit the family-type atmosphere that we've had here at Coronado for our success," Carter said. "Although it's largely an individual sport our kids have always pulled for each other and

On Dec. 21, Carter called his family together - the tennis one, that is - and told them that this would be his last spring as the CHS coach.

They were pretty shocked," he admitted, "I don't think anybody was expecting it. But I think its given us some added incentive going into the spring season.

The Mustangs posted a dual meet record of seven wins and one tie this fall and, according to Carter, they are the challengers this year. That (7-0-1) record is a little misleading," he says, "because the Monterey boys beat us 6-3. My girls won 6-3 so we tied the match. But Monterey is ahead in (fall) points with 33, we've got 29. But we're going to get after it this spring.

High school tennis action opens on Feb. 16-17 with a district team tournament and dual matches follow. Team totals will be determined from both the tourney and the matches to decide the champion.

In April the regional tourney will decide the representaives to the state meet. And Carter wouldn't mind one more trip to the state tour-

"We've been to the state tournament four times," he said, "we made it to the semifinals once, the quarterfinals twice and then won it

Winning that state doubles championship in '75 with Doug Davis and Charles Key was one of the highlights," he admitted. "As far as accomplishments go, that was our biggest one.

Carter hasn't had time to get nostalgic or misty about all those hot alternoons spent squinting on the court just yet, but he's sure that he's going to miss it

I haven't even thought about it yet," he said, "I hope I can stay on at Coronado (he's the head of the Physical Education department) but I don't know. I may get reassigned.

Anyhow. Carter's got plenty on his mind right now - like beating Monterey one last time. Then he can sit back and get nostalgic

Taiwan Athletes Plan To Carry Chinese Flag

NEWYORK (AP) - A group of athetes from Taiwan plans to march under the flag and banner of the Republic of China at next month's Winter Olympics in Lake Placid unless forcibly restrained from doing so.

"We're just going to show up at the Olympic Village and I fail to see how the American people will let us down." Thoms Hsueh said Thursday. Hsueh, an engineering consultant and an American itizen who lives and works on Taiwan, is an Olympic yachtsman and part of a group seeking to keep the island country's separate identity in international sports.

According to the International Olympic Committee. Taiwan may not use the name Republic of China, march under the ROC flag or play its national anthem. Under an arrangement worked out with the People's Republic of China in October. Peking will compete only if Taiwan participates as the Taiwan Olympic Com-

Injury Causes Concern

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) - Profes- night at the Hartford Civic Center in the sional boxer Charles W. Newell remains in critical condition today following what boxing officials call the first serious ring injury in recent Connecticut history and an unavoidable "unfortunate thing."

But Consumer Protection Commisioner Mary Heslin said she would investigate and report to the legislature and governor - although she said her initial feeling is. "It was strictly an accident that couldn't be prevented

'I think it's the nature of any kind of contact sport ... You're going to have ac-

A state lawmaker proposed Thursday that boxers be required to wear protective head gear.

Newell, a 26-year-old Enfield Correctional Center inmate, serving a six-to-12year prison sentence for first-degree robbery, was unconscious following brain surgery, officials said.

His condition is still grave. He's still on the respirator, still-comatose," said Connie Wilks, a spokeswoman for the Connecticut Correction Department Newell was knocked out Wednesday seventh round of a scheduled eight-round welterweight bout with Marlon Starling of Hartford.

Newell's mother. Mattie Newell of Hartford, said she feared her son's condition was worsening

'His blood pressure is even lower." Mrs. Newell said minutes after leaving her son's bedside Thursday

I'm trying to stay strong, and hope and pray ... but to see him lying there Mrs. Newell said softly

"I spent the day at the hospital I just can't concentrate. I just can't concentrate on anything right now. I'm sorry. "I had talked to him just before Christmas. He looked forward to this fight. He enjoyed boxing," Mrs. Newell State officials appeared in agreement that Newell's injury probably couldn't have been avoided. We took all the precautionary measures. It's a very unfortunate thing," said former world featherweight boxing champion Willie Pep, a state boxing dent occurred said Newell's injury was the most serious incident in recent state boxing history.

This is the first time anything like this has ever happened." he added.

Dave Musco, athletic director at the Enfield and Somers State Prisons, and Newell's trainer, said the fighter was in excellent physical condition. Newell was 4-3 in seven professional bouts, and had won his last two matches.

Correction Commissioner John R. Manson said there was no plan to suspend the prison boxing program unless Mrs. Heslin ordered it.

Our fighters are better trained than those outside of prisons," Manson said. Hugh Devlin, who is retiring as execu-

Dallas To Get NBA Franchise

DALLAS (AP) - A delighted Mayor Bob Folsom said he plans to be in Washington Feb. 2 when the National Basketball Association officially makes Dallas the 23rd team in the league.

The NBA expansion committee announced Thursday in New York it will recommend that a franchise be awarded to a Dallas group headed by Norm Sonju, formerly associated with the Buffalo Braves franchise.

The committee stressed that the franchise for the 1980-81 year should be awarded only if certain conditions are met by a local group bidding for the team prior to the Feb. 2 meeting of the NBA Board of Governors in Washington, D.C., at the time of the NBA all-star game.

But the committee did ot say what the conditions are.

'I'm excited and delighted. It looks like Dallas has finally gotten an-NBA tem," said Folsom, who has worked actively for years to bring professional basketball to Dallas.

"I did hear from Norm Sonju. He called me late this afternoon to say we had made it, subject to certain conditions," Folsom said.

"It's something he's been working for and I've been looking forward to. We're anxious to have the ball club, and I anticipate going to Washington the first of February when the franchise is to be

Dallas made a bid for a franchise last. year, but would have had to play its games in Moody Coliseum on the Southern Methodist campus or in Dallas Memorial Auditorium, whose capacities were below NBA standards.

Sonju could not be reached late Thursday. He was flying back to Dallas from New York, where he made a presentation to the expansion committee Thursday afternoon.

"I talked to him for about a minute before he left, and he said he had been instructed not to make any comment about it. But yes, I would say he was excited. He was very positive and grateful this step had been made," said Mrs. Sonju from their north Dallas home.

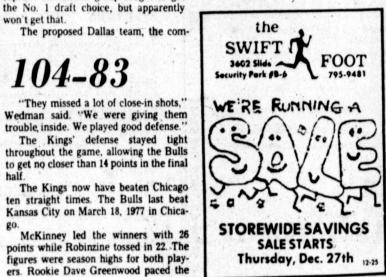

Sonju heads a group of 24 investors who have put in $585,000 each to come up with the $12 million price tag for the franchise, plus $2 million for operating capital. The Dallas group sought to get the No. 1 draft choice, but apparently mittee suggested, should have the 11th selection in each round of the 1980.college draft. The committee also will propose that an expansion draft be held with each existing team protecting seven players and the Dallas club selecting one player from each team's unprotected list.

Other expansion sites were considered, the league said, but it was concluded that none of them met league requirements at the present time.

The meeting of the committee, held in the league's New York office, was chaired by Larry Weinberg of Portland. Others in attendance were NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien, and club executives Irv Levin of San Diego, Stan Kasten of Atlanta, Harry Mangurian of Boston and Zollie Volchok of Seattle.

Michigan State's Rogers Rumored For ASU Job

DETROIT (AP) - Michigan State coach Darryl Rogers, who successfully rebuilt the Spartans football team during its NCAA probation, may become head coach at troubled Arizona State University, according to a Detroit newspaper.

Rogers is one of several candidates for the job at Arizona State and will accept the post if it is offered, the Detroit Free Press said in today's editions.

Rogers, in Hawaii on a recruiting trip, refused to comment on the report Thurs-

'I don't want to talk about it now. I don't want to make any official statement about it," he told the Free Press.

Several times in the past, Rogers has issued hasty denials when it was rumored he was leaving Michigan State.

When telephoned at their East Lansing home Thursday night, Mrs. Rogers said she knew nothing of a possible move, adding her husband had not mentioned a word about it.

Michigan State athletic director Joe

Kearny said Arizona State officials contacted him last weekend to ask permis-Spartans during their three-year suspension for recruiting violations from 1976 to

But Kearny added that it isn't unusual for for schools to ask to talk with Rogers, and that a dozen schools have requested such permission since Rogers came to Michigan State in 1976.

We intend to expose anyone, including the president and the regents," said Henry Jaramillo, president of the UNM regents. "I'm deadly serious about that. But we will not be pushed into a three-ring circus.

The regents, at a meeting Thursday, approved a contract giving Franklin Jones, an Albuquerque tax attorney, unlimited authority to investigate UNM's athletic program. Jones' law firm will be paid $70 an hour for an unspeci-

"I hope we don't mislead the public," Houston said. "He has a great many restrictions placed on him. He's a coordinator, not an investigator. The word investigator is not even used in his contract."

Jones lacks subpoena power and will have trouble finding the facts, Houston said. .

Former UNM head basketball coach Norm Ellenberger and assistant Manny Goldstein were suspended, and a Lobo basketball player was declared ineligible after the FBI released a transcript, contained in a sworn affidavit in U.S. District Court, of a wiretapped telephone conversation between Ellenberger and Goldstein.

The document alleged that Goldstein had the junior college transcript of a UNM basketball player, who was later declared ineligible, doctored.

Six more UNM basketball players were declared ineligi-ble in early December when the players said they had not enrolled in or attended a course by Ottawa University of Kansas for which they had received credit.

It later was learned that three UNM football players also received Ottawa University credits without attending classes. They also were declared ineligible

LINM forfeited six 1979 football triumphs and a basketball victory over West Texas State this season because the ineligible players participated in the games.

Stingley's Lawyer Wants Tatum Banned Because Of Admissions

NEW YORK (AP) - The lawyer for paralyzed wide receiver Darryl Stingley is asking the National Football League to ban Jack Tatum because of admissions of on-field violence made by the Oakland Raiders' defensive back in his new book, They Call Me Assassin.

In its Friday editions, The New York Daily News reported that Jack Sands, Stingley's lawyer, has drafted a letter to NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle asking him to "immediately suspend Jack Tatum indefinitely. His admission of his conduct strikes at the foundation of the integrity of the game. # No. 3 Buckeyes Down Iowa

By The Associated Press

Ohio State Coach Eldon Miller put his nalftime talk to good use.

"I told the players we had to be more selective in our shooting," Miller said Thursday night. The third-ranked Buckeyes then scored a 77-71 victory over Iowa in a Big Ten Game.

The Buckeyes trailed, 41-33, at the half and it was no surprise to Miller.

We were coming down the floor in the first half and taking the shot at the first opportunity and not getting any chances for free throws," he said.

Herb Williams scored 21 points and grabbed 12 rebounds for Ohio State, 10-1 overall and 3-0 in the league.

Oakland Teams Near Deadlines

OAKLAND (AP) - Deadlines are approaching for the Oakland A's and Oakland Raiders, the major league sports tranchises which could be operating elsewhere this year.

We're not giving up right away," said Lee MacPhail, president of baseball's American League, after officials of the Oakland Coliseum tabled a $4 million proposal to release the A's from their stadium lease.

The action on the proposal, which was presented by A's owner Charles O. Finley, came Wednesday.

We hope that perhaps when the dust settles, they will take another look,

MacPhail said. But in little more than a month, the dust will be flying in spring training camps and it probably will be too late Finley wants to sell the A's to oilman Marvin Davis, who would move the team to Denver. MacPhail and Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn have both made personal appeals to Oakland officials, hoping that the team can be freed from the eight years' remaining on its lease.

"We were very disappointed," Mac-Phail said of the latest setback. "I've talked with Finley and Davis and the commissioner and they're all disappoint

The A's offices at the Oakland Coliseum have been closed since last week. The phone still rings, but no one is there to answer it.

The Raiders, one of the National Football League's most successful teams in the 1970s, have played out the years of their latest Oakland Coliseum lease. The Raiders are talking with representatives of the Los Angeles Coliseum, seeking an NFL tenant to succeed the departed Los Angeles Rams, and also with Oakland Coliseum officials.

T've set a deadline to make up my mind on this," said Al Davis, the Raiders' managing general partner, before leaving Mobile, Ala., where he was looking at college players practicing for the Senior Bowl game.

But he did not say what his deadline is. Next week, Super Bowl week in Los Angeles, the Raiders-Los Angeles situation may be a hotter topic of conversation than the Super Bowl game itself.

The NFL constitution prohibits franchises from moving unless they get aproyal from 21 of th

Referees Halt Cage Contest

NACOGDOCHES (AP) - Referees halted the game with 2:15 remaining, booted the second Louisiana College coach from the game and awarded Stephen F. Austin a 55-41 victory in a basketball game Thursday night.

Head coach Billy Allgood was ejected with 12:01 left by official Jim McDaniel of Duncanville, who went to the Louisiana College bench during a time out and

"You're out of here. I'm tired of all your smiling and chuckling."

He ordered the outraged Allgood from the gymnasium, awarded SFA four free shots on the technicals and silenced assistant coach Eugene Rushing, when he joined the debate, with the warning, You want to go too?

With 2:01 left, Rushing commented on a call he disagreed with, and McDaniel gave him two technical fouls. When Rushing protested, McDaniel gave him two more technicals, saying, "That's four on you," and Rushing responded, "Why don't we make it a world record?"

McDaniel blew his whistle and terminated the game.

Elsewhere, No. 7 Oregon State took Arizona, 77-72, No. 8 Notre Dame stopped Tulane, 7959, No. 9 Purdue beat Illinois, 74-66, Indiana defeated Michigan, 63-61, in overtime, and Weber State downed Montana State, 77-60.

Oregon State withstood a 26point perna in a Pac-10 game. OSU, 14-1, converted 10 straight free throws over the final 1:44 to preserve the victory.

Rich Branning scored 18 points as Notre Dame beat Tulane in a "home" game at Shreveport, La. Irish Coach Digger Phelps fulfilled a recruiting promise to forward Orlando Woolridge to play in his home state during his college career.

Drake Morris hit 9-of-10 free throws in the final 2:12 as Purdue stopped Illinois in a Big Ten game. Joe Barry Carroll was ejected for hanging on the rim.

"I wasn't aware the technicals would mean ejection," said Purdue Coach Lee Rose. "I'm going to start calling it the Joe Barry dunk rule.

Ray Tolbert fired in 18 points, including 5 of the last 6 Hoosier points in overtime to give Indiana its first Big Ten victory this season.

Bruce Collins scored 23 points as Weber State blew by Montana State. The victory was the 14th in a row for Weber State, tying a school and Big Sky Conference mark.

Flaws include a plot with a plausibility factor of zero and characters which don't quite make it to two dimensions.

But the movie refuses to take itself and its shortcomings seriously, and that's

The story starts with Miss Blakely made up to look as plain as possible being deserted by her husband. This guy is the superhero of all louses. Miss Blakely comes home from her job as a veterinarian's helper - she forsook her own higher education to support hubby through law school - to find him in their bed with another woman.

Also, he has swiped the bankbook to buy himself a new car.

Then he tells her she's boring

Miss Blakely thereupon quits her job with vet John Rubinstein, whose curly hair and beard make you want to scratch him behind the ear, and goes to work for real estate shark O'Neal.

Pretty soon she's so good, she's running her own office in a series of stunning costumes. But she has sold her soul on commission.

The plot goes rambling on to a totally predictable conclusion, but along the way the scenery is worth watching, and so is O'Neal as a charming semicrook who could sell Three Mile Island to a resort chain.

ABC has more beautiful scenery to offer on Saturday, when it airs "Winter Olympics 80 — The World Comes to America." It's an introduction to the

In a program as timely as today's news stories, the documentary tells about of some of the more than 200 alleged Nazi war criminals in the United States - some recruited and protected by the U.S. government.

The film illustrating the crimes of which these men are accused explains why the scandal deserves the spotlight.

In "Swan Lake," the corps de ballet was impressive. But the women weren't swans and Ronald Perry wasn't a prince but a dancer, looking best in his solo variations. Lydia Abarca, as the swan queen, was a ballerina who did some things wrong and isn't smoothly lyrical. She also is a woman who looks good most of the time she is dancing anyway. NBC would spend lots of money to buy the Olympics, use the event as a promotional tool for its 1980 fall schedule, and parlay its investment to the No. 1 position in the ratings race. It worked for ABC in 1976 and, given Fred Silverman's torical imperatives were not figured into the scenario. Russia gets this occasional urge to visit the sea. Iran, Afghanistan and Pakistan sit between the Soviet Union and the Arabian Sea. Russia went into Afghanistan.

This complicates things for NBC. President Carter has threatened to boycott the Moscow Olympics and has urged

But the value of the Moscow Olym-Culture pics as a promotional tool is incalculable. Under Silverman, the network has learned to appreciate the value of on-air promotion. The hope was that viewers glued to Summer Games would become

HY GARDNER HAS THE ANSWER:

Glad You Asked That!

Flashback: There've been scores of Dolly Parton jokes since she emerged as an outstanding star - but the one the wags missed is one of the oldest. It concerned a quiz question: What is the difference between Dolly Parton (or in other days, Mae West) and the the state of Montana? The answer is: Montana has only one Butte!

Q: Is the blond bombshell in Steve Martin's films, "The Jerk," Steve's steady new date, or another sexpot? - P.L., New York City, N.Y.

A: She's another and her name is Sharon Johansen. Maybe she's Jackie Mason's date!

Q: Is Alexis Smith, who plays the feisty Madame of Texas' famed brothel, "The Chicken Ranch," the same glamorous gal who appeared in over 40 movies opposite such leading men as Errol Flynn, Bogart, Cary Grant, Gable, William Holden, etc., or a newcomer? - B.D., Miami.

A: Alexis is one and the same. Beautiful then beautiful

Q: About what is the average amount of gasoline we use per day in the U.S.? - J.G., Omaha. A: 311 million gallons.

Q: During the rosy era of radio, how many "Uncles" and "Aunts" had their own shows? - Mrs. G. Pollack, Buffalo.

A: At least 10: Uncle Don (Carney); Uncle Charlie's Tent Show (Charles Winninger); Uncle Abe and David (Arthur Allen and Parker Fennelly); Uncle Remus (Freed Jeske); Uncle Jim's Question Bee (Jim McWilliams and Bill Slater); Uncle Ezra (Pat Barrett); Uncle Wiggily (Al Goris); Aunt Jemima (Harriet Widner); Aunt Jenny (Edith Spencer and Agnes Young) and Aunt Mary (Jane Morgan).

Send your questions to Hy Gardner, "Glad You Asked That," care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 19620, Irvine, Calif., 92714. Marilyn and Hy Gardner will answer as many questions as they can in their column, but the volume of mail makes personal replies impossible.

Diane Ladd To Become New Waitress On 'Alice'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - Diane Ladd won an Oscar nomination in 1974 as sharp-tongued Flo, the sassy waitress in 'Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore, then she stood by to watch Polly Holliday become a TV star in the role.

Now Polly is spinning off in her own series, "Flo," after four years of hollering her catch phrase "kiss my grits."

Diane replaces Polly on the highly rated "Alice" series, joining the show's star, Linda Lavin, and Beth Howlan as the third waitress in Mel's Diner.

Flo was an independent Southern gal of middle years with an eye for eligible bachelors when Diane played her in the movie. This time around Diane will portray another magnolia blossom.

Her name in the series is Belle, a Mississippi blonde of indeterminate years, who worked for Mel (Vic Tayback) in the dim, distant past. According to Diane, who has yet to see a script, Belle is honest, witty, verbose and entertaining.

"Belle knows a good man is hard to find." Diane said. "She is waiting for a good man to ring her bell." Diane was having lunch in the Warner Anymore." She is in the process of get-ting to know Lavin and Howland. It will be a week or two before the first episode including Diane is filmed

When it was decided Holliday would spin off on her own four months ago, Alan Shayne, Warner Bros. TV chief, asked Diane to have a chat with Linda about the possibility of joining the cast.

Linda and Diane had lunch together. It was, according to Diane, a pleasant and relaxed meeting. An enthusiastic Linda — who is also a very secure actress encouraged the Oscar nominee to come aboard.

"Linda helped me make my decision," Diane said. "She pointed out the advantages of a steady job, great pay, a happy company, relatively easy schedule and three months off a year for other

"She also convinced me of the advantages of joining a hit show. But coming into an established series is a 50-50 proposition. The advantage, of course, is having an immediate audience of 40 million viewers and high ratings.

"But, even though I'm creating a new character, there's the disadvantage of ble right now. I'm walking a fine line beto expressing my own ideas about Belle and how she fits in.

"I'm sure it would be a lot easier personally to be starting out fresh with a whole new cast in a series, as far as exchanging ideas and creativity is concerned. You know, we'd all be in the same boat.

In no way does Diane feel she's returned home by joining "Alice." The half-hour sitcom is a far cry from the two-hour movie.

The film was light years more sophisticated. It won a best actress Oscar for Ellen Burstyn in the title role. Diane lost the award for best supporting actress to Ingrid Bergman's performnce in "Murder On The Orient Express."

Diane is a divorcee. Formerly married to actor Bruce Dern and businessman Willam Shea Jr., she and Laura, her 13-year-old daughter by Dern, live in the San Fernando Valley, not far from War-

Diane will not be seen as Belle until March 2, replacing Holliday exactly one week after Flo leaves Mel's Diner to become a hostess in a southern roadhouse. Diane was asked why she did not go straight from "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore" to the TV series four years

"I don't even know if they wanted me for the TV show," she said.

Grand Sale Planned On Birthday

The retail trade development committee of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce met Thursday with a group of Lubbock businessmen to launch plans for the staging of the largest Washington's Birthday sale ever held in Lubbock.

The sale, which will begin Friday, Feb. 22, and continue through the following day, will be geared exclusively to the commemoration of Washington's birth.

Leland Duckworth, chairman of the committee, said retailers, shopping center promotional managers, grocery store personnel, automobile salesmen and restaurant and cafeteria managers will join forces with the Lubbock media in arranging the event.

Duckworth said the organization has asked merchants to buy their merchandise now in preparation for the sale.

Every restaurant in Lubbock has been asked to feature a Washington Birthday special lunch on those two days, with cherry pie as an indispensable adjunct. Duckworth said there also will be

"cherry" specials in automobile and home sales, as well. The group is asking real estate people to make a special effort to offer homes at lower prices for sale on that day. All liquor store managers have been asked to work toward the promotion, and to submit their advertising copy to the Avalanche-Journal for arrangement in advertisements to run on those days. The city will conduct research aimed at providing data on the city for use in the advertising. Statistics relating to the number of doctors, lawyers, hospitals, schools, apartments and other features of the city will be used to complete space in

Duckworth and the group of retailers hope to enlist 100 percent of Lubbock's merchants, as well as the media, in supporting the sale.

Pair Appointed To Campaign

The John Connally for President Committee has named Col. Joe Hickox and Margaret Shook as campaign cochairmen for Lubbock County.

The appointments were announced by Raymond S. Tapp, district chairman for the 19th Congressional District. We are extremely pleased that Col. Hickox and Mrs. Shook have agreed to accept the co-chairmanship for Lubbock County. We are going to rely heavily on them to carry this county for John Connally in the May presidential primary. Tapp said. The first task will be to organize Lubbock County and conduct a petition drive to secure the number of names necessary to place the governor on the primary ballot in Texas. Hickox, a retired Air Force officer, was a candidate for Congress in 1978. He was active in the Tower, Bush and Clements campaigns. Mrs. Shook, a longtime resident of Lubbock, has been active in civic affairs in the community, and worked actively in the Ford and Tower campaigns Anyone desiring to work in the Connally campaign should call Hickox at 873-3584 or Mrs. Shook at 795-3409, Tapp

Texas Tech Slates 'University Day'

Texas Tech will sponsor its fifth annual University Day for high school students Feb. 29. Day-long activities include entertainment, campus tours, advisement sessions with faculty and counselors, and departmental and college visits:

University Day is designed for prospective students of higher education who want to get acquainted with the university before making a final choice of where he or she will attend college. For additional information regarding

Texas Tech University Day, students should contact their high school counselors or John Edwards, Office of New Student Relations, Room 133 Doak Hall, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, 79409 (806) 742-1480.
