HIPPO ON THE ROCKS — It was never like this on tropical Lake Tanganyika, grumbles Gertrude the hippo as she churns like an icebreaker across a frosty pond at the Vancouver, B.C., Game Farm. In her eight years in Canada, the 5,000-pound "river horse" has learned some lessons from her neighbor, a polar bear who delights in the arctic temperatures. Gertrude, despite her African origin, is well protected by a thick layer of fat. (AP Laserphoto)

Rising Prices Jolt Nation's Consumers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices climbed 1.2 percent in December, pushing inflation for all of last year to 13.3 percent, the worst annual increase in 33 years, the Labor Department reported today.

What cost consumers $1 in the 1967 base year cost them nearly $2.30 as 1979 ended.

The rise in energy costs last year was the largest on record since the Labor Department began monitoring energy prices in 1967. The rise in housing prices also was the largest on record.

Over the year, workers' real spendable earnings were down 5.3 percent as a result of higher taxes and other rising costs. While average wages before taxes rose 8 percent, they were offset by a slight decrease in hours worked and a very high inflation rate.

The acceleration last year was caused primarily by housing and energy-fueled transportation costs, which rose relentlessly and accounted for about three-fourths of the entire increase in the Consumer Price Index in 1979.

Through the inflation-ravaged year, the price of a gallon of gasoline rose an average of 35.7 cents, while home heating oil jumped an average of 33.8 cents a gallon, the department said.

All energy costs rose 34.7 percent.

Last year also saw:

—Home financing costs skyrocket 34.7 percent.

—House prices shoot up 15.8 percent.

—Food and beverages rise 10 percent.

—All transportation costs, including automobile prices, jump 18.2 percent.

—Medical care climb 10.1 percent.

December's 1.2 percent rise — the biggest since a similar increase in February 1979 — offered little prospect of relief to inflation-weary Americans, for it was somewhat higher than the average monthly increase through November.

The final CPI for 1979 is especially important because it affects the wages and benefits of more than 90 million Americans and the spending of billions of federal dollars.

That's because the index is used to calculate cost of living raises for more than 9 million union and non-union workers; benefit increases for more than 34 million Social Security recipients, and adjustments for 16 million food stamp recipients, 28 million children and elderly persons receiving meal subsidies.

Economists estimate the government spends $1 billion to $2 billion for each percentage point rise in the CPI. The index is a survey of the average changes in retail prices for a fixed list of goods and services ranging from food, housing and energy to shoes, tobacco and vacation travel.

As a result of rising consumer prices throughout the year, the average gross weekly earnings of Americans fell 5.3 percent, the Labor Department reported.

An 8 percent increase in average hourly earnings — slightly above the figure prescribed by President Carter's voluntary wage guidelines — was offset by a slight decrease in hours worked and the high inflation rate.

Front Brings Threat Of Rain, Snow

A-J News Services

A ponderous, slow-moving cold front continued to move southward through the Midwest toward Texas this morning, threatening to bring much colder weather and a slight chance of rain or snow to the South Plains for the next several days.

"This is a very sluggish front," said a forecaster for the National Weather Service here. "It's taking a long time to move in and it's going to take a while to move out."

What that means is that Lubbock area residents can expect wintry temperatures and possibly some rain or snow from Saturday night at least through Tuesday.

Temperatures were expected to climb to near 60 today, but that should be the last mild weather for several days.

On Saturday, forecasters are looking for a high in the mid-40s, followed by even lower readings — possibly with highs only in the 30s — by the first of next week.

Tonight's low is predicted to be in the upper 20s, but minimums in the teens may follow as the cold air tightens its grip on the region.

As of this morning, most of the precipitation was expected to be confined to the Panhandle and extreme northern portions of the South Plains. However, forecasters here were not ruling out the possibility some moisture might spill farther south.

"Right now, it could be just about anything," the NWS spokesman said.

Hijacked Airliner In Cuba

ATLANTA (AP) — Two hijackers believed armed and claiming to be Black Muslims commandeered a Delta Air Lines jet carrying 65 persons from Atlanta to New York early today. They forced the plane to fly to Havana, where they demanded another plane to take them to Iran.

State Department spokesman David Passage said in Washington that the hijackers asked Cuban authorities to provide them with a plane to Tehran, but the Cubans refused. Delta said the hijacked plane, a wide-bodied L-1011, was not equipped to cross the ocean.

Authorities said there were no reports of injuries. Passage said the only person allowed off was a diabetic passenger who was taken to a Havana hospital.

CBS reported late in the morning that the hijackers had agreed to release the passengers and Delta had agreed to provide the hijackers with a plane capable of flying them to Iran.

Delta spokesman Bill Berry, asked in Atlanta about the CBS report, said, "Delta will not confirm or deny the accuracy of statements pertaining to an exchange of aircraft negotiations or agreement at this time with the hijackers in Havana."

Nearly nine hours after Flight 1116 landed at Havana's Jose Marti Airport at 4:03 a.m., an air traffic control supervisor there told The Associated Press by telephone that the hijackers were negotiating for a second U.S. aircraft to be flown in to take them to Iran.

"At first they refused to take another U.S. plane," Supervisor Luis Fernandez said. "Now they look rather confused. They are starting to make all kinds of propositions."

Fernandez said the negotiations were in progress by radio with "someone in the U.S."

Cuban immigration officers and guards surrounded the plane, Fernandez said. "But they don't want to trigger any action," he said. "It's kind of a static situation."

Fernandez said he had not seen the hijackers and did not know how many there were. He said they apparently have pistols "or some kind of gun."

Fernandez said the passengers have been served a snack and would have lunch. He said the food was placed atop a portable staircase of the type used for boarding airliners. This was rolled to the jet, the door was opened a crack and the food taken aboard.

FBI agent Welton Merry in Miami said "At least two of the passengers have been identified as hijackers. They claim to be Black Muslims and they want to go to Tehran."

Dates, Jacket Confuse Dancy Trial Witness

By KAY BELL

Avalanche-Journal Staff

Maurice Eugene Dancy's former roommate this morning shocked prosecutors when he told the jury hearing evidence in Dancy's murder trial that he had seen the defendant's high school letter jacket the afternoon Claude Ventry Bridges' beaten body was found.

Matt Ferguson told the panel Dancy came into their apartment at 2826 24th St., rear, about 2:30 a.m. Aug. 21 and got the Coronado High School letter jacket. The 20-year-old witness then added he saw Dancy's jacket that same afternoon on the couch of their small apartment.

Dancy is accused of beating and stomping to death the 31-year-old Bridges. Bridges, a graduate student at Texas Tech University, was found dead in his home, less than a block from Dancy's apartment about noon Aug. 21.

Testimony Thursday indicated a Coronado High School letter jacket was found beneath a broken window of Bridges' 2824 23rd St. residence.

Several police officers told the 99th District Court panel Thursday they arrested the 19-year-old Dancy the night of Aug. 22 after speaking with the defendant and believing him to be the owner of the jacket found at the Bridges house.

Following Ferguson's startling revelation this morning, lead prosecutor Jim Bob Darnell immediately asked to approach the bench. After a brief conference among Darnell, co-prosecutor John T. Montford and defense attorneys Mary Anne Wiley and Tom Cannon, Judge Thomas Clinton asked the jury to leave the courtroom.

With the jury gone, Darnell asked the judge's permission to treat Ferguson as a hostile witness. Darnell pointed out that the young man had given statements earlier to police and the criminal district attorney's office that contradicted his witness stand testimony.

"Do you wish to change your testimony?" Clinton asked Ferguson. "Is what you're saying here correct or are you confused?"

"I'm just confused about the dates and times," the young man told the judge. Ferguson added that his statement to police was correct, and near noon today Darnell was developing Ferguson's testimony outside of the jury's hearing.

Also this morning, another high school classmate of Dancy's testified that he was with the defendant when they saw the letter jacket on local television news.

"Maurice said that was his coat," Tim Brown told the seven-man, five-woman jury. Brown added that Dancy said he

Hance Planning Re-Election Bid

By KIM COBB

Avalanche-Journal Staff

U.S. Rep. Kent Hance announced his plans to seek re-election here this morning, fielding questions on the national problems which have ballooned during his first term as congressman for the 19th District.

Hance made the announcement at an airport news conference, on his way back to Washington, D.C., after speaking to an area business organization. He made a brief statement announcing his intentions to run again and opened the floor for questions.

The biggest national problem facing this country now is the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan, Hance said. The involvement in Afghanistan will be permanent, Hance said, as has been the Soviet occupation of Czechoslovakia.

He predicted a major conflict — a war — if the Soviets move even farther, into Pakistan or Iran.

"I think the American people should know this.

"If Soviet troops make a move into Iran, all bets are off and we'll be in a war," he told members of the Texas Association of Business earlier today. He fully supports the registration for the draft, saying without it, it would take six to eight months to get the draft going during a time of crisis.

"I will not vote to include women," Hance told members of the media. "There are those who feel they should be registered, but I do not."

"If they want to volunteer, that's fine."

Hance said it is imperative that the registration be started within 60 days. He also said that Congress should pass pending legislation to develop the MX missile, but he said that the plains area is not at the top of the location priority list.

The Defense Department has indicated that the desert region of Utah and Nevada is the first choice for the MX launch site. Officials said recently that the project will employ more construction workers than the Alaska pipeline did.

College Board Proposes Boost In State Tuition

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas College Coordinating Board today recommended that the 1981 Legislature increase state college tuition, but shied away from presenting a specific amount.

Only board member Marshall Formby of Plainview dissented.

"I kind of glory in the fact that we have low tuition, where poor boys and girls can go to school," Formby said.

The board submitted to the legislature a series of options for tuition increases and urged that none of the additional revenue be used for construction, but that some of it be applied to merit salary increases for college teachers.

(The board deferred until its April meeting action on approval of a $2.4 million music classroom building for Texas Tech University.)

Tom Rhodes of Dallas, board vice chairman and Gov. Bill Clements' former budget officer, said he believed the board had a duty to recommend a specific tuition increase, but his suggestion never came to a vote. Rhodes said he strongly favored doubling tuition for Texas residents and increasing it by 50 percent for nonresidents.

Texas residents now pay $4 per semester credit hour with a $50 per semester minimum. The non-resident rate is $40 per semester credit hour.

Community junior college districts establish their own tuition rates, but are prohibited by state law from charging less than the minimum tuition for four-year colleges.

Arrests Follow Crime Line Tip

A tip to Crime Line has resulted in the arrest of two men on suspicion of burglary and felony theft and the recovery of an estimated $20,000 to $25,000 in merchandise.

The suspects, now in Lubbock County jail, were arrested about 1 p.m. Thursday at Roscoe, near Sweetwater.

Near noon today, officers were still conducting an inventory of the recovered property.

Crime Line, a crime-fighting plan totally supported by private donations, is off to a good start for the New Year. Through last weekend, seven arrests in five felony cases had been made since Jan. 1 as a result of tips to Crime Line.

SERVICES HELD FOR ELDERLY COUPLE

Murder-Suicide Puzzles Town

FORT SUMNER, N.M. (UPI) — A note with a red cloth attached to it hung unnoticed on the door of the Rennels home for a week.

A minister who finally dropped by to check on 73-year-old Robert R. and Troy Venus Rennels found the letter, which said to contact DeBaca County Sheriff John McBride.

What McBride discovered when he entered the home were the bodies of the couple, apparent victims of a murder-suicide undertaken because Rennels feared he and his wife of more than 52 years had gotten too old to care for themselves.

About 80 residents of this small ranching community attended the funeral services Thursday, most of them shaking their heads in dismay and wonderment because the couple never had seemed in dire need of physical or financial care.

"People are just wondering why it happened," McBride said. "They are wondering what they could have done to prevent it. It's really hard to say."

The Rev. Bill Sessom said he went to the Rennels' home Monday because they had not been feeling well and he had not seen them recently. Sessom said when he arrived, he found a note which said "someone call Big John (McBride's nickname)."

McBride found the woman's body in bed and Rennels' body in the bathtub. Both had been shot in the head with a .22 caliber gun that was found on Rennels' body.

In the home McBride also found a note addressed to him and one addressed to Rennels' son, Jack R. Rennels of Muleshoe.

"He asked me to contact the son," McBride said. "He said he was sorry he had to do it, that they both were getting too old to take care of each other."

McBride, who said he knew the Rennels as "real pleasant" people who "always waved," said he did not know whether Mrs. Rennels voluntarily entered into the death pact with her husband.

McBride said there were programs in the community that could have helped the Rennels with their problems.

"I really didn't think they needed a lot of help," he said. "I think the church and neighbors checked on them and as far as I know, they didn't have any financial burden. I guess like the note said, they just felt they were just too old to take care of each other."

Singer Freed For Deportation

TOKYO (AP) — Paul McCartney was freed from jail today and taken to Tokyo's Narita International Airport to be deported after the prosecutor's office decided the ex-Beatle had "been punished enough" for allegedly attempting to smuggle marijuana into Japan 10 days ago.

It was not immediately known where the 37-year-old British rock singer-composer would be sent or when he would leave. Immigration officers were "conducting the necessary processes" for his deportation, officials said.

McCartney's American wife, Linda, and their four children rushed to join him at the airport on the outskirts of Tokyo.

"Of course, Linda is delighted," said Haruko Minakami, a spokeswoman for Mrs. McCartney. She "left her hotel in such a hurry she didn't even pack."

McCartney was arrested at Narita on Jan. 16 when he arrived with his band Wings for an 11-concert tour. Customs officials said they found 7.7 ounces of marijuana in McCartney's luggage.

The concert tour was canceled and members of the band flew to the United States last weekend, while McCartney was held for 10 days in a private cell at a Tokyo jail. He was questioned repeatedly by police as authorities debated whether to file charges against him. A conviction for violating Japan's drug smuggling laws could have brought a seven-year prison term. The prosecutor's office decided not to file charges because McCartney admitted bringing the marijuana into the country "purely for his own use," said an official who declined to be identified.

Since he did not intend to sell the drug during his stay and he only planned a short visit, it was decided he should be released, the official said, adding, "He's been punished enough."

He said another point in McCartney's favor was that he had "shown signs of repentance and apologized."

Japanese newspapers had speculated from the time he was arrested that McCartney would be deported rather than brought to trial. That is the usual punishment for foreigners caught bringing in marijuana for their own use only. But there was considerable criticism of McCartney since he had been denied a Japanese visa in 1975 because of two previous marijuana convictions in Europe.

Dissidents Sentenced In South Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — A military tribunal today sentenced former President Posun Yun, 83, to two years in jail, and imposed prison terms on 17 other dissidents for staging a political rally calling for the direct election of the president.

The three-member court convicted the group of violating martial law decrees banning public assembly imposed after the Oct. 26 assassination of President Park Chung-hee.

Yun, who was president from 1960-61, was sentenced to two years along with two former ruling party lawmakers, Park Jong-tae and Yang Sun-jik. Civic leader Ham Suk-hun, 78, was given a one-year term.

The other defendants drew terms ranging from two years to four years.

The sentences can be appealed to a higher military court within 10 days and then can be presented to the Supreme Court.

The military tribunal ruled that Yun, Ham and another elderly defendant be allowed to remain free until their sentences are confirmed by the commander of the Capital Garrison Command who handled the case. The confirmation is required by law.

Tito Resumes Some Leadership Duties

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Josip Broz Tito is recovering so rapidly from last weekend's amputation of his left leg that he has resumed "some of his duties," the official Tanjug news agency said today.

The 87-year-old Yugoslav leader was "further improving and feels well," the news agency said in a report from Ljubljana, the northern city where Tito underwent the amputation last weekend after doctors were unable to clear up a circulatory problem in his leg.

"President Tito is being informed on most important questions of our country and the world and is beginning to perform some of his regular duties," Tanjug said.

The agency gave no details on Tito's activities. The report appeared aimed at showing that the man who has led Yugoslavia since the end of World War II remains in control.

Yugoslav newspapers published a new picture of Tito today, showing him sitting in a chair beside his bed in the Ljubljana medical center.

Sunday Services
10:45 a.m. 6:30 p.m.

Their first break came in 1940, when Roy Acuff saw the youngsters perform and brought them to the Grand Ole Opry. They stayed on the Opry for six months but finally had to leave because of their youth and the show's late hours. Their star was still rising, though and in 1948 they went on to become regulars for 3 years on "The Louisiana Hayride", a popular country show out of Shreveport. They worked on the Webb Pierce Show, and on center stage of the Grand Ole Opry. National and non-country recognition came from their appearance on such shows as Arthur Godfrey, American Bandstand, etc. Today THE WILBUR BROTHERS are one of Country Music's most honored acts. They have recorded 26 albums for Decca-MCA and their second gospel album for Calvary Records is underway. THE WILBUR BROTHERS are one of the 62 permanent acts of Grand Ole Opry. From the sidewalks of Arkansas to the star studded walkway of the Country Music Hall of Fame, through the hopes and the dreams the good times and the bad - THE WILBUR BROTHERS sum up what country music is all about.

Senator Seeking Prayer Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., has asked members of the National Religious Broadcasters to support a new legislative effort to allow voluntary prayer in the nation's public schools.

Last year, Helms succeeded in gaining Senate approval of an amendment he sponsored to allow voluntary prayer.

But, he said in a talk to the religious broadcasters Wednesday, the bill to which the amendment was attached has been bottled up in the House Judiciary Committee, Helms said, and Rep. Philip Crane, R-Ill., has filed a discharge petition to force the bill onto the House floor. "If we can get 218 representatives to sign the petition, the amendment will be pushed out on the House floor," Helms said. "I'm convinced that if we ever get it out on the floor for a vote, it will be passed."

The word of God grew and multiplied. Acts 12:24

The Almanac TODAY IN HISTORY

By United Press International
 Today is Friday, Jan. 25, the 25th day of 1980 with 341 to follow.
 The moon is in its first quarter.
 The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.
 The evening stars are Mercury and Venus.
 Those born on this date are under the sign of Aquarius.
 Scottish poet Robert Burns was born Jan. 25, 1759.
 On this day in history:
 In 1890, young Nellie Bly completed a trip around the world in the astounding time of 72 days, six hours and 11 minutes.

In 1913, transcontinental telephone service was inaugurated in a hookup between New York and San Francisco.
 In 1971, Charles Manson and three women were found guilty in the murders of actress Sharon Tate and six other people.
 In 1972, President Nixon said North Vietnam had ignored a peace bid which included withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Vietnam in six months.
 A thought for the day:

Dentist Faces Attempted Rape Charge

NEW YORK (UPI) — A dentist faces charges he tried to rape an undercover policewoman who he had put to sleep in his office with pain-killing gas.
 Authorities said this week detectives videotaped Dr. Aaron Jacobowitz trying to molest the woman, who ostensibly had gone to the dentist's office for treatment of an exposed nerve.
 Jacobowitz, 45, of Brooklyn, was arrested following the incident this week. If convicted of the charge of attempted rape, he could receive a 15-year jail term.
 Gold said detectives found Jacobowitz with his pants around his ankles and the woman's blouse in disarray.
 District Attorney Eugene Gold said the arrest and indictment came after a seven-month investigation based on the complaints of several women and a 10-year-old girl.
 "A court order allowed the installation of recording devices and videotape in the office," Gold said.
 Gold said detectives monitored the equipment from the basement of the building where Jacobowitz has his offices.
 Detectives, who saw the dentist administer nitrous oxide — laughing gas — to the woman, used a crowbar to break into the office as Jacobowitz was allegedly preparing to attack the woman.

ALLOCATIONS CUT
 BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (UPI) — Phillips Petroleum Co. has reduced gasoline allocations for its wholesale customers by about 28 percent because of a refinery fire and explosion Sunday at a Borger plant, a company spokesman said today. The allocation rate previously had been set at 70 percent of the January 1978 base and was reduced to 50 percent, the company said.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:
FTC Plague Spreading

THE U.S. economy is suffocating under a complex web of federal regulation which is increasing consumer costs dramatically and stifling the productivity advances necessary to sustain the American way of life.
This is one of the themes Jay Van Andel has been carrying around the country from his platform as chairman of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.
His company, Amway, co-founded 20 years ago by Van Andel and Richard DeVos, spent a reported $4 million defending its way of doing business, i.e., direct selling, against FTC harassment.
The result is that the FTC has concluded that Amway is "a vigorous new competitive presence" in the marketplace.

VAN ANDEL STILL likes to think the rest of us could do the same, but he has become increasingly skeptical as he has watched the almost plague-like spread of regulation.
In terms of dollars and cents, the growth of regulation is staggering, and cost U.S. consumers an estimated $122 billion in 1979, according to research findings published by the Center for the Study of American Business at Washington University in St. Louis.
There are other costs as well. Industry must spend so much time doing defensive studies—filling out endless reports and paperwork, in many cases duplicating studies for different agencies—that basic research and development is ignored.

Figures from just one important industry, the producers of farm chemicals, tell the story.
IT NOW TAKES on the average approximately 10 years and an investment of $20 million or more for a single new product to reach the market.
According to the National Agricultural Chemicals Association, the odds against a new discovery ever reaching the market are now greater than 15,000 to 1 due largely to "tightening governmental regulations and a demand for more testing."
The answer is to require all government regulation rulemakers to demonstrate that the benefits of proposed regulations are "reasonably related" to the costs of compliance.
Jackson Browning, speaking for the American Industrial Health Council, told Senate Governmental Affairs Committee members that the most cost effective alternative should be followed in every case.
This is good common sense to which Jay Van Andel and most of the rest of us will say "Amen."

President Made Of Solid Mush

WASHINGTON—The British publication The Economist has hit the nail on the head in its assessment of the situation in Afghanistan: "Who invited 40,000 Russian soldiers complete with their Quisling into Afghanistan?"
Answer: President Carter, the American Congress and American opinion—and those American allies who have dared not to believe, and have done little to remedy or reverse, the crumbling of America's willingness to exercise its power. Afghanistan was lost by the failing deterrence of America.
Let's review the reaction of the Carter administration to the April 1978 coup in Afghanistan that overthrew President Daud and brought two newly united, pro-Soviet Marxist-Leninist groups to power.

APRIL 27, 1978: State Department spokesman Hodding Carter III is asked at the daily press briefing what's going on in Afghanistan. He says he knows "very little," that the fast-breaking situation is "unclear."
APRIL 28, 1978: The coup in Afghanistan came as a surprise to the State Department, which believed that the overthrown President Daud "had his act together" and that Defense Minister Rasuli was "in complete control of the armed forces."
MAY 1, 1978: Asked about U.S. recognition of the new government in Afghanistan, State Department spokesman Carter answers:
"We do not know the nature of the policies of the government as yet. We are aware of the fact that the secretary general of the Communist Party has now emerged as the president of Afghanistan."

Question: Was there any Soviet involvement in the coup?
Carter: "I've seen no reports to that end."
MAY 2, 1978: Hodding Carter says the situation is still being studied. Is there any concern about the strategic aspects of Afghanistan? Any concern that the new government there is close to the Soviets? This is being studied, Carter says.
MAY 4, 1978: Carter is asked if there are any clues yet regarding the orientation of the new Afghan government. He replies:
"We do know that a number of members of the Communist Party in Afghanistan have been named to top government positions, including that of president. We do not, however, yet know what policies the new government will follow, and I would not be able to characterize the government until we do know more about those policies."
MAY 5, 1978: Hodding Carter says he has nothing new on U.S.-Afghanistan relations.
MAY 6, 1978: The U.S. tells Afghanistan diplomats that relations with their country will continue.

THE SPRING 1979 issue of Orbis, the foreign policy quarterly, carries an article by a Hannah Negaran, a pseudonym for an author born in Afghanistan who received a Ph.D. in the U.S.
Writing prior to the December invasion of Afghanistan, Negaran notes that as far back as 1966, the man who replaced the overthrown Daud, Nur Mohammed Taraki, was the publisher of a leftist newspaper called Kbalq. Negaran says:
"Khalq's articles, and Taraki's books, followed

Halfway Measures

THE GEORGIA state senate voted, 32-23, this week against ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment. Supporters thought about demanding another vote, but decided there had been no mistake.

Mexico, the New York Times reported, is acting as a go-between to resolve U.S.-Iranian problems. Getting our State Department, Mexico, the New York Times and the Ayatollah Khomeini together to solve a problem is about like getting a rooster, a rhinoceros, a hippopotamus and a snake together to produce an egg.

From the Quote Wrack: "I believe deeply in the injustices, the inequities, that exist in our society at the present time."—Transcript of Sen. Ted Kennedy's remarks Sunday on Issues and Answers.

MARSHALL FORMBY, looking hale and hearty after a long spell of illness, dropped down from Plainview the other day to sing a few praises.

The folks at the Texas Tech School of Medicine and the Health Sciences Center Hospital here, he said, "are as good as you'll find anywhere—and I mean anywhere."

In and out of hospitals for the last year, Formby said he "just about died" before his physicians at HSCH got him back on his feet.

"Ya'll oughta say some nice things about that hospital and the medical school," the former Tech regent and current member of the state Coordinating Board emphasized.

JOSEPH SOBRAN:

Thou Shalt Not... Terminate

WASHINGTON—Sometimes you know without seeing. For instance, a federal judge in Brooklyn has just handed down a 642-page opinion which I haven't read, but which I know doesn't once use the word "kill."

Judge John Dooling took 642 pages to rule that the Hyde Amendment, limiting the use of federal funds for abortion, is unconstitutional. What he said, in effect, is that the Constitution somehow requires us to pay taxes to kill unborn human fetuses.

But an unwritten etiquette causes many people to avoid the word "kill" when it comes to abortion. Why? Before abortion, the unwanted thing is alive and growing, afterward, dead.

There is nothing imprecise about saying abortion has killed it. That's the whole point of abortion: You "want" it killed.

IF ABORTION ADVOCATES really thought it was all right to kill human fetuses, they would surely use the word frankly. Instead they talk of "terminations" and "procedures."

I once saw a Planned Parenthood handbook on abortion, which spoke of contraceptives that "kill" sperm, but spoke of abortion as "terminating a pregnancy."

How odd to say that sperm—which don't grow—can be killed, while shrinking from saying that living fetuses can.

The fact is that abortion advocates don't want to face, or remind us, what abortion does.

In his famous essay "Politics and the English Language," George Orwell wrote powerfully of the dishonest euphemisms that have come to dominate modern political discourse.

VILLAGES ARE BOMBED: this is called "pacification." Peasants are force-marched by the millions from their farms: this is called "transfer of population" or "rectification of frontiers."

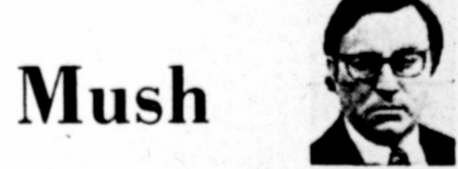

People are shot or sent to work in Arctic labor camps: this is called "elimination of unreliable elements."

"Such phraseology is needed," Orwell observed, "if one wants to name things without calling up mental pictures of them." It is safe to say that Judge Dooling's 642 pages are long on such phraseology, short on mental pictures.

Here is a sample of his prose from the press accounts of his ruling: "To deny necessary medical assistance for the lawful and medically necessary procedure of abortion is to violate the pregnant woman's First and Fifth Amendment rights."

He writes of "a woman's conscientious decision, in consultation with her physician, to terminate her pregnancy because that is medically necessary to her health."

Thus the mother isn't killing her child; the "woman" is "terminating her pregnancy." But only when "medically necessary," of course. Now

We've been saying 'em all along, of course. What we need now is for the Tech board, the Coordinating Board, the Legislature and the Governor to do what they need to do financially to make the teaching hospital as healthy as it made Formby.

Together with other hospitals here, the medical school makes first-class care available to all West Texans. It's a tremendous asset to the entire region.

Sure the Russkies want peace. A piece of Afghanistan, a piece of Yugoslavia, a piece of Iran, a piece of Pakistan...

President Jimmy sent aging B-52 bombers over Soviet ships in the Arabian Sea in a "show of force." The Russkies would have been more impressed by new B-1 bombers, which the President didn't let get built.

COWBOY BOOTS and having a lot of money are back in favor these days, which suggests that the era of wearing sandals and saying "Peace, brother" to every passing stranger may be on the way out.

A national survey of college freshmen found that the Class of '83 thinks highly of money, grades, recognition, raising a family and being successful.

In fact, 63 percent of those surveyed rated "being very well off financially" as one of their top goals in life. In 1967, only 44 percent thought money so important.

Of this year's crop, 65 percent rate raising a family as a top goal and 37 percent want to be bosses. I don't know what the correlation is, but the fashion world reports that cowboy boots have joined faded blue jeans and T-shirts as top sellers, even in such places as New York City.

Maybe it means that if you're going to have a lot of money, you have to have both feet on the ground and be able to fill some big britches.

Two California neurosurgeons say a person emits a negative brain wave when something doesn't make sense to him.

It helps explain why nothing positive has gotten through to Washington for years.

Canada expelled three Soviet Embassy employees for spying on the United States. That'll teach the Russkies. Next time, they'll do their spying in Washington, where they'll be safe.

CITY HALL IS going to "meet the citizens halfway" by parking brush trucks at four locations. La-ti-da and dum-de-dum dum.

Instead of making a trip to the dumpgrounds, you can haul your brush, water heaters, boxes, furniture or other items to one of these trucks.

Which is fine, but I have one question: Where is My Neighbor Twice Removed going to find a truck to use to haul the stuff to the City truck?

Halfway solutions are a mos' wunnerful invention. About like making nine women pregnant to produce a baby in one month.

"Necessity, the tyrant's plea," wrote John Milton. But this isn't an age of Miltons, or even of Orwells.

It is an age of Doolings, who are prepared to assume medical "necessity" behind every desire to kill an unborn child—or, as we now say, "terminate a pregnancy."

Sylvia Porter:

Don't Look Like Rube When You're On Tube

WASHINGTON—Back in April 1977, a major TV network asked an oil company executive to speak for several minutes on behalf of the industry in response to President Carter's first energy speech, declaring the crisis "the moral equivalent of war."
Carter spoke longer than had been expected. So did several senators who also had been asked to react to the speech. The executive was warned that his allotted time had dwindled to 45 seconds.
But when the reporter asked for his reaction to the President, the oil executive began:
"First, you have to understand the history of the oil business."
His on-air time ran out almost at once, turning his TV debut into a minor debacle.

THIS TRUE TALE underlines two points:
(1) With economic and energy stories headlining the news, reporters are seeking interviews with knowledgeable business people more than ever before. And,
(2) Few business executives understand how to give an effective interview, particularly on TV—and thus, they are uncomfortable, often scared and frequently botch it.

What should you, as a business spokesman or anyone else, do to prepare yourself for a TV appearance?
The following list of hints was drawn up for this column on the request of my associate, Brooke Shearer, by Walter J. Pfister, a former vice president of ABC news and co-founder of a new communications consulting firm, Executive TV Workshop.

(1) ARRIVE AT THE TV studio early so you can check out the environment. Talk to the studio staff, find out whether the show is live or taped, how long the interview will run, who will be asking the questions.

If you've never appeared on TV before, try to arrange to see yourself on camera before the interview.

"There's no reason," says Pfister, "why you can't see yourself on the studio's floor monitor to find out if you look better with your jacket open or closed or if your collar is mistakenly turned up or whether anything is unnecessarily wrong."

(2) Assume that anything you mention during a pre-interview chat will be used on the air, so don't discuss anything informally that you're not prepared to respond to publicly.

(3) WEAR A LIGHT weight suit because of the hot lights on a TV set. Men should wear long...

So They Say...
A curmudgeon says that 50 years ago you could help the unemployed by buying an apple. Today you have to buy an automobile.

Overheard: "My wife doesn't like to be called a back-seat driver so I refer to her as the chairperson of the steering committee."

A lot of investors are saying they wouldn't mind returning to the good old days when the stock market was criticized for not going anywhere.

Campaign To Buy Portraits Falls Short

BOSTON (UPI) — When all the coins and dollars were added up, the much-publicized campaign to raise $5 million to keep George and Martha in Boston fell far short of the mark.

The Washingtons Belong in Boston Committee announced recently it had collected just over $1 million short of the amount needed to match the offer from the National Portrait Gallery, which wants to move the famous portraits of the nation's first president and his wife to Washington.

"We are obviously disappointed in the final figure, as it is quite short of our goal of $5 million," said retired Army Gen. James M. Gavin, honorary committee chairman.

"We can, however, take pride in the fact that so many people, not only in Massachusetts and New England but across the country, came to our aid with donations."

The famous Gilbert Stuart portraits are owned by the Boston Athenaeum, which disclosed last May that it planned to sell the original portraits to the National Portrait Gallery for $5 million.

The Athenaeum, a private library of rare books and historical documents, said it needed the money to keep operating, but agreed to postpone the sale to give Bostonians time to match the offer.

Rep. Margaret Heckler, R-Mass., has asked the General Accounting Office recently to investigate the legality of the sale.

Mrs. Heckler said there are "serious legal questions" as to whether the National Portrait Gallery has the authority to "guarantee" payment of $5 million for the paintings, and whether the Athenaeum has the right to sell them.

She noted the paintings were originally purchased in 1831 with money raised by public subscription and asked the GAO to determine whether "the Athenaeum, therefore, lacks title to the portraits which would permit their sale."

The committee, which set a January deadline for its fundraising drive, said it collected about $264,000 in cash and $251,000 in pledges. The Boston Museum of Fine Arts, which has displayed the paintings for the past 103 years, matched the amount with $515,000, for a total of $1,030,000.

The committee, which used extensive advertising with celebrities such as comedian Bob Hope, said 70,000 people contributed money or signed pledges. Earlier this week, Athenaeum trustees took no action at their monthly meeting on whether to accept the National Portrait Gallery's $5 million offer.

Farmers To Plant More Corn

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A survey in which farmers said they intend to increase 1980 corn acreage by about 4 percent over last year was taken prior to the embargo of grain to Russia, but officials say the results are still valuable.

Released recently, the survey was virtually completed by Jan. 4, when President Carter announced an embargo of 17 million tons of grain and 1 million tons of soybeans in retaliation for the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

Although farmers may alter intentions as a result of the embargo, agriculture policymakers considered the survey an indication of whether a probable crop might be so large that farmers should be paid not to plant a portion of their feed grains crop this spring.

In addition, policymakers are studying reports that indicate domestic demand for grain.

Farmers indicated they would plant about the same amount of soybean acreage as last year, the Agriculture Department said.

Farmers intended to increase durum wheat acreage by 20 percent and other spring wheat by about 1 percent, following discontinuation of set-aside programs. A December survey showed that winter wheat seedings increased 9 percent.

The report showed that farmers planned the same amount of cotton acreage as last year.

The preliminary January report surveyed 20,000 farmers in 34 states where more than 95 percent of crops are grown. A survey of planting intentions in the 48 contiguous states will be made in April.

The report showed farmers intended to plant 81.6 million acres of corn in the 34 states.

Total planting of all livestock feed grains — corn, sorghum, barley and oats — was put at 119 million acres, up 3 percent from last year.

Soybean acreage was projected at 70.7 million acres.

Durum wheat acreage is expected to be 4.85 million acres and other spring wheat acreage, 15.7 million acres.

Farmers indicated they would plant upland cotton on 13.8 million acres.

For other crops, the report showed these planting intentions compared with 1979:

- Grain sorghum, 15.9 million acres, up 5 percent.
- Oats, 13.3 million acres, down 5 percent.
- Barley, 8.43 million acres, up 11 percent.
- Flaxseed, 1.05 million acres, down 2 percent.
- Sugarbeets, 1.07 million acres, down 3 percent.
- Rice, 2.96 million acres, down 1 percent.
- Sunflowers, 4.99 million acres, down 10 percent.

Soviets Find Iran More Inviting

By WILLIAM R. HOLSTEIN
ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — Iran suddenly seems a far more inviting target for Soviet forces in Afghanistan than Pakistan.

Diplomats from around the world are pouring into Pakistan to help rally its defenses against an estimated 85,000 Soviet troops in Afghanistan. Iran has missed the boat.

"It seems Iran is a much riper plum than Pakistan," said a Western diplomat in the Pakistani capital.

Chinese Foreign Minister Huang Hua has just completed an official visit to Pakistan, and President Carter reported-planes, presumably military aircraft, the Kabul diplomats say. There already is a 7,000-foot runway at Shindand.

An all-out Soviet attack to secure Iran's oilfields would almost certainly mean war with the United States, some diplomats believe. Instead, they think Moscow may attempt to come in the back door.

The worst-possible scenario for Western diplomats would be Khomeini's death, which would likely trigger a convulsive power struggle in Iran. The mere presence of Soviet troops on the Iranian borders could enhance the position of leftists.

"Some of those in power in Tehran have leftist connections," a diplomat in Kabul said. "What really worries me is that some of these leftists might be in contact with the Soviets and invite them in. Another Afghanistan. The divisions would roll across at the request of a so-called legitimate government."

The Soviet forces along the Iran-Afghanistan border also will be in a position to provide weapons and assistance to any of a variety of minority groups inside Iran agitating for autonomy, the Baluchis in particular.

An important side-effect of the strong Soviet military position is that an American military operation in Iran now would be far more dangerous than before.

The air bases along the Iranian border would allow the Soviets to mount an airlift operation to the Iranian oil fields within about three hours, the Kabul diplomats believe. Although there is a strong U.S. naval contingent in the waters near Iran, the diplomats say it would take the United States as long as 24 hours to get troops to Iran. The Soviets have outmaneuvered the Americans in this sense.

All of this does not rule out the possibility of Soviet action against Pakistan, whether direct or indirect. But at least for the moment, that danger appears muted.

ly is sending a special envoy. Diplomats from at least 33 Islamic countries also are arriving for an emergency parley.

Increased military cooperation between Pakistan and China is expected to emerge as a result of the Huang visit, and the Carter administration is considering at least $400 million in additional aid.

The Islamic countries likely will issue a symbolic but important statement critical of the Soviet invasion.

In contrast, Iran cannot rely on either Washington or Peking. It has become a maverick in the Islamic movement and is cut off from the international community.

There are other reasons why Carter and other world leaders are saying the Soviet presence in Afghanistan is "an arrow" pointed directly at Iran.

The 400,000-man Pakistani army, though equipped with aging weaponry, could present at least a token resistance to the Soviet military machine. In contrast, Iran has intentionally begun dismantling its army and building a revolutionary guard. Neither Iranian force is ready for a major fight.

Pakistan president Mohammad Zia ul-Haq commands the loyalty — however tenuous — of his country's disparate people. But Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini is confronted by open, armed revolts from the Kurds, Azerbaijanis, Baluchis and other minorities.

There are no signs the Soviet Union will move against either Iran or Pakistan in the immediate future. The consensus among diplomats in Afghanistan, Pakistan and India is that the Soviets will attempt to consolidate their position in Afghanistan before undertaking any new adventures.

But when the Soviets feel comfortable in Afghanistan — and perhaps earlier if a sudden opportunity such as Khomeini's death presented itself — they are ideally situated to resume their historic drive toward warm water. Today, that also means oil.

Diplomats in the Afghan capital of Kabul say the deployment of Soviet troops in Afghanistan already suggests Moscow is aware that greater opportunity lies to the west.

They say two divisions of Soviet troops, comprising about 20,000 men, have moved toward the Iranian border from the Afghan cities of Herat and Shindand. That is roughly a quarter of the 85,000-man Soviet force in the country.

Iranian Foreign Minister Sadeq Ghotbzadeh has protested the presence of Soviet troops 18 miles from his border.

In contrast, there is no sign that Soviet troops in Jallabad and Kandahar, the Afghan cities closest to the Pakistan border, have moved in significant numbers toward that frontier.

In addition, the Soviets are extending the runway at Herat to enable that airport to accommodate more sophisticated

U.S. Discusses Launching Of China Satellite

PEKING (UPI) — The United States may launch a communications satellite for China in three to four years, President Carter's science adviser said Thursday.

Dr. Frank Press told a news conference China and the United States shared an interest in predicting earthquakes, and that American scientists are taking a closer look at Chinese techniques of observing animal behavior to forecast tremors.

"We are discussing the launching of a broadcast and communications satellite for China," Press said. "I think the Chinese soon may be talking to American manufacturers about this."

Press is co-chairman of the U.S.-China Joint Commission on Scientific and Technological Cooperation, which concluded a three-day meeting Thursday.

Press said agreements on joint research and cooperation in several areas were signed Thursday at a ceremony attended by Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping.

Single-Family Houses Expected To Get Smaller

By JOHN CUNNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — Taking its cue from the automobile, the single-family house might soon grow smaller, reversing a trend to bigness that had gradually asserted itself over the past two decades.

That's merely an opinion, but it comes from the financial side of the building industry, and financial restraints are expected to overrule aesthetic and other considerations in the 1980s.

It's the opinion of Jerome Y. Halperin, lawyer, accountant and partner in Coopers & Lybrand, one of the largest accounting firms, who works closely with builders, borrowers, lenders and operators.

Costs will dictate, he says, and that means smaller living quarters, smaller lots and more attached housing. Nothing, he believes, we can't adjust to. People in highly competitive; styling might play an even larger role than it does now.

There will, however, be adjustments to make. Because of a trend to row housing and apartments, exemplified by the condominium and cooperative style of ownership, social and legal problems might grow.

"People will realize that they cannot call the shots in such housing; they cannot always have their own way, and they may feel they've lost a bit of their freedom," says Halperin.

The new living style might require further delineation of individual and collective rights. "Some law will develop in the area," says Halperin, who holds a doctorate from Harvard. "The legal profession is going to find it must make specific rules."

Is a person's home likely to remain a good buy? Halperin thinks so. And he believes that investment real estate, for renting or leasing to others, should also continue to pay, high costs notwithstanding.

He does not believe, however, that small investors should attempt to compete head-on with large investors, who these days tend to be cash-rich domestic institutions and foreigners seeking a haven for funds.

"The best areas for investment will be in the smaller cities," he states, his reason being that the big money concentrates in larger cities. Besides, he feels, smaller cities are more stable.

"If I were Equitable (Life Assurance Company), with $50 million or $100 million to invest I would be attracted to the Seagram Building" (on Manhattan's Park Avenue), he said. "I talk with foreign investors and the cities they name are always the big ones."

"As a small investor, I would look in Grand Rapids or Hartford — places like that that an investor from Germany might never have heard of. Also, the rate of return is better. If you go into areas of great demand the seller expects a much higher price."

Halperin, an investor himself when to be so doesn't conflict with his professional obligations, doesn't share the belief that, because of energy and transportation problems, people will recongregate downtown.

In his estimation, suburban communities and the single-family house with a picket fence will survive. He feels business will continue to move to where the people are; he wonders if the central cities can attract good people.

But the suburbs will have problems, such as the tendency toward fewer but bigger shopping centers — three- and four-story centers designed to save on heating bills, but with the potential for creating even larger traffic jams in communities that already have enough of them.

All in all, not a bad picture from the money side. "I feel fairly positive," said Halperin.

Carter Tries To Maintain Balance

By HELEN THOMAS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter has thrown down the gauntlet to the Soviet Union. But a top administration official says the nation should avoid "an excessively emotional crisis atmosphere."

Although Carter himself has moved rapidly to wipe out the vestiges of detente in retaliation for the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, including the prized SALT II treaty, the official told reporters.

"We should avoid generating the impression that we are on the brink of some massive military confrontation," said the official, who asked not to be identified.

It is necessary, he added, to keep "a balance."

Furthermore, he said the United States should continue seeking "positive aspects of our relationships" with the Soviets. "There is a tendency in our public opinion to shift from one extreme to the other."

"The fact of the matter is," he said, "the Cold War was never over and detente is not dead either, and we are now in a period of intensified tensions."

The official said these intensified tensions require "prolonged, sustained but measured response, but not a wave of hysteria, and not bugle calls for massive, all-out national mobilization for the creation of a situation of total confrontation."

It will be up to Carter to maintain this balancing act, which will be made a lot tougher in an election year.

With his big increases in the defense budget, and his bid for new American air and naval facilities in the Persian Gulf, Carter himself will face hard decisions as the days go by. Inevitably, there will also be a call for a resumption of the draft.

The new dimension of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan has dramatically changed the attitude of the White House and the nation and has shocked foreign policy experts.

But they might find even more hair-raising the brutal appraisal of the U.S. posture by a long-time Soviet diplomat who has served in his Washington embassy for more than 20 years.

The unidentified Russian envoy was interviewed by Thomas Kielinger, Washington correspondent for the German newspaper Die Welt.

Concerning the invasion of Afghanistan and the murder of Afghan President Hafizullah Amin, the diplomat said:

"Naturally, we were asked for help by the Amin forces. This is no lie. This is true. But Amin failed to take into consideration that we had to eliminate him. He failed to cope with the rebels."

On U.S. reactions — "We cannot accept the American propaganda; its wild tone of outrage. It has a 'Forward-based system' in Turkey and the Eastern Mediterranean from where we are being watched and militarily threatened. Why the hell do these Americans get so excited, anyway? We are setting up in Afghanistan our own 'Forward-based system' against the West."

With those views being studied as a benchmark, one might say that the world should fasten its seat belt.

Radioactive Water Leaks From Tank After Quake

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP) — Radioactive water trickled from a storage tank at a nuclear weapons lab today, following a Northern California earthquake that cracked buildings and roads and injured dozens of persons. Authorities said the leak posed no health hazard. The leak of water laced with radioactive tritium at the Lawrence Livermore lab began Thursday at the rate of a quart a minute and dwindled today to several gallons per hour, according to spokesman Michael Ross.

The tank, on a base of impermeable asphalt, was cordoned off as officials monitored the leak. Ross said the leak might continue for several days.

The seepage was apparently caused by Thursday morning's quake, which measured 5.5 on the Richter scale and was described by one person as a "gentle, rolling motion, not the usual jolts."

Ross said the radioactive tritium content of the water was about half the concentration permitted to be discharged into sewers under federal regulations.

Earlier, most of the lab's 7,200 employees were evacuated when officials discovered leaking gas.

Ross said the 640-acre facility, one of two nuclear weapons labs in the nation, suffered only minor structural damage. He said there was no radiation leakage from the plant's nuclear reactor.

In Livermore, at least two dozen persons were treated for minor injuries and released, and Margy Odell, spokeswoman for a local hospital, said six persons were admitted for additional treatment.

Band Members Injured In Apartment Fire

By JACK DOUGLAS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Fire gutted a four-bedroom Lubbock apartment early this morning, injuring two musicians from Oklahoma City.

Billy Curtis, 26, and J.D. Wiggins, 24, members of "The Contagious Brothers" band were taken to Health Sciences Center Hospital after being injured in the blaze at the Lubbock Square Apartments, 4602 50th St., about 3:30 a.m.

Both were reported in satisfactory condition at HSC with first and second degree burns.

The four other members of the band, and a 24-year-old Tulsa, Okla., woman escaped the burning apartment without injury.

The fire, which was contained by city firemen shortly after 4 a.m., engulfed the plush apartment and the loss was estimated to be heavy.

Lubbock Assistant Fire Marshal John Anthony said this morning he had not determined a cause for the blaze, but Curtis said the eruption occurred when he threw a small amount of gasoline in a lighted fireplace.

"I had poured a little bit of gasoline on the open fire, and when I did, it blew up and caught my clothes on fire," said Curtis, a drummer in the band. "Man, it just blazed away," he added.

The six musicians and Theresa Matthews, 24, of Tulsa, had gone to their leased apartment after leaving the 3838 restaurant-club on 50th Street, where they had been performing since Monday. Their last day to work at the nightclub was to be Saturday.

Curtis, who suffered burns on his hands and left leg, said that after his clothes caught fire he ran into the kitchen and fell to the floor. "One of the other guys smothered me out with a blanket or towel or whatever it was," Curtis said from his hospital room this morning.

Wiggins, the keyboard and guitar player, was on the second floor of the apartment when the blaze erupted. "I heard some commotion downstairs and heard someone say something about fire," Wiggins said from his hospital room.

"I came downstairs and the hall to the apartment was on fire, blocking the exit. I just more or less stuck my hand in there (the fire), opened the door and got out," he said. "My hand, face and whole left side of my body got burned."

Said Curtis, "It all happened so fast. All of us started trying to put it out and then we just started grabbing possessions and trying to get out."

The other members of the band are Kim Shultz, 26, Larry Tanner, 30, Jerry Tanner, 28, and Kenny Dickerson, 24, all of the Oklahoma City area.

In a separate fire this morning, a work shed at 3515 21st St. was destroyed when it was engulfed by flames about 4:50 a.m.

The owner, Gene Applegate, said his loss would exceed $5,000. A cause for the fire, which was contained at 5:18 a.m., remained under investigation.

Hance To Address Stockholders

U. S. Congressman Kent Hance will address the group and a new board director will be elected Saturday at the 46th annual Production Credit Association meeting of stockholders, according to Alton Strickland, president.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center and the meeting will start at 10 a.m. A meal will be served following the meeting.

Owned by farmers and ranchers, the Lubbock PCA serves Cochran, Crosby, Gaines, Garza, Hockley, Lubbock, Lynn, Terry and Yoakum counties.

Strickland said about 14,000 area agriculturists are stockholders in the association. Total loans through the association were up by about $4 million in fiscal year 1979 over the total in 1978. About $121 million was loaned in final year 1979 which ended Sept. 30.

A new director will be chosen to fill the expiring term of T. A. Elmore of Tokio. The nominating committee has placed Elmore's name on the ballot for re-election along with Lewis Chambliss of Gaines County. Additional nominees may be made from the floor at the meeting.

Suit Filed In Lozano's Death

HOUSTON (UPI) — The League of United Latin American Citizens, claiming the death of Larry Lozano in an Odessa jail occurred because of civil rights violations, has filed a federal lawsuit against U.S. Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti, the Justice Department and others.

LULAC attorney Ruben Sandoval announced Thursday that the suit was filed Tuesday in federal court in Washington, D.C.

Sandoval said the suit names a total of 47 defendants, including the federal government and the Ector County Commissioner's Court.

Lozano, 27, died in the Ector County Jail in Odessa on Jan. 22, 1978. He was arrested Jan. 10 after his pickup slid from a roadway in Odessa. Police said he resisted arrest.

A special inquest jury ruled that a handcuffed Lozano died accidentally during a struggle in his cell with Ector County deputies. The deputies entered his padded cell because Lozano reportedly had been beating his head against a thick glass in the door.

Harris County Medical Examiner Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk testified during the inquest into Lozano's death that it resulted from an "accidental, unintentional" injury. He said Lozano died of a traumatic neck injury.

El Paso Medical Examiner Dr. Frederick Bornstein, retained by Lozano's family to perform an autopsy, said Lozano "was killed by another human being."

Lozano's death became a symbol in the Mexican-American community, which has shown its outrage in marches and protests over the deaths of Hispanics in police custody.

Dog Getting Junk Mail

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Leo, the sad-faced Basset hound, an unofficial member of the University of Hartford's class of 1982, is being hounded by junk mail.

Leo was briefly enrolled as Leo D. Canine in the university's College of Engineering freshman class by student pranks in the summer of 1978. He apparently was placed on mailing lists and has been receiving several pieces of junk mail a week ever since, the school says.

George LaMere Jr., school director of mail services, said most mail addressed to Leo is discarded, but a letter from Moscow which arrived earlier this month was saved. The letter, bearing Russian stamps, concerned the 1980 Summer Olympics, LaMere said.

Leo's days as an undergraduate were cut short when the registrar tried to find a zip code for the prospective student, whose application gave a fictitious address of 4 Puppy Lane, Canine Corner, Mass.

Leo actually lives in West Hartford, a short jaunt from the suburban campus, where he regularly visits to socialize and mooch food.

FAA Says Faulty Maintenance Caused DC-10 Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration says the engine pylons on DC-10 jets are safe enough to last 25 years and that faulty maintenance procedures led to the crash of one of the big jets in Chicago last year.

The FAA released the results of the six-month study this week and said it is proposing mandatory minor modifications to prevent future disasters like the crash last May, which killed 272 persons.

The federal study found that "the DC-

10 wing pylon is of sound design, material, specification, construction and performance and, as such, meets all the applicable criteria and certification requirements set forth in the federal aviation regulations."

The pylon is a 2,000-pound mount that connects the engine to the wing. The FAA said the problem arose when, during maintenance, both the pylon and the engine were removed from the wing in one piece. It said the two pieces should be taken off separately.

The investigation into the Chicago crash revealed that the pylon bulkhead had cracked two months before the accident when the engine and pylon were removed as a unit for maintenance.

Senate Refuses To Subsidize Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has rejected a proposal that would have given some employers subsidies for training Vietnam veterans after hearing warnings the program might lead to abuses.

The plan offered by Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., would have authorized $220 million over four years for job training and employer subsidies for Vietnam veterans. Pressler, himself a veteran of the war in Vietnam, said the nation has an obligation to those who served in Southeast Asia.

But his proposal was rejected, 56-37, after Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., charged it would benefit employers more than veterans. Cranston, who is sponsoring legislation to improve veterans benefits, said some employers might fire Vietnam veterans and then rehire them in order to claim federal subsidies of up to $370 a month.

"There is a lack of data to show who would benefit," Cranston said.

Exxon's '79 Profits Show Sharp Boost

NEW YORK (AP) — Exxon Corp., the nation's largest oil company, today reported a 60 percent earnings gain for the fourth quarter and a 55 percent increase for 1979 from 1978 results. It became the first industrial company ever to earn more than $4 billion in a year.

The report followed announcements by several other major oil companies that the 1979 world oil price explosion resulted in sharply higher profits, with much of the earnings gains coming from operations overseas.

Exxon said its profits for the year totaled $4.295 billion, or $9.74 a share, up from $2.763 billion or $6.20 a share in 1978. Revenues rose 30 percent to $84.350 billion.

For the fourth quarter, Exxon said its profits totaled $1.365 billion, or $3.10 a share, up from $853 million or $1.92 a share in the same period of 1978.

Exxon's fourth-quarter gains were moderated by the impact of December's announcement of a 33 percent increase in the price of Saudi Arabian oil, retroactive to last Nov. 1.

The retroactive increase cut refining profit margins and cost Exxon about $100 million in earnings, Controller Ulysses LeGrange estimated in a recent interview.

Exxon has announced it will boost spending for oil and gas exploration and other major projects by about $1 billion to $7.5 billion this year, and has said in advertisements its "profits should be judged by the need to generate capital for large investments."

The company said it earned a return of 16.3 percent on the total capital invested, and 20.1 percent on shareholders' equity. The figures were up from 14.0 percent and 12.5 percent, respectively.

On Thursday, Texaco Inc., the third-largest oil company, and Gulf Oil Corp., ranked fifth, said their 1979 gains came after several years of lackluster performance.

"Whatever we have earned is not unreasonable or obscene," Gulf Chairman Jerry McAfee said. "Because we deal in big numbers, they are subject to misinterpretation."

Return on shareholders' equity for Gulf was 16.3 percent in 1979, while Texaco's was 17.7 percent. The average U.S. manufacturing company earned 16.7 percent on shareholders' equity in the first nine months of 1979, according to the Federal Trade Commission.

The two were the latest oil companies to announce profit increases for 1979, a year when the companies say a world oil price explosion resulted in sharply higher profits, with much of the earnings gains coming from operations overseas.

Both Texaco and Gulf said their 1979 gains came after several years of lackluster performance — and both stressed the need to generate funds to pay for increased petroleum exploration.

"If the company is to play its part in satisfying future energy demand, it must have earnings high enough to support its enormous requirements for capital investment," which amounted to $2 billion in 1979, said Texaco Chairman Maurice Granville.

Texaco's fourth-quarter earnings rose 62.6 percent to $533.9 million, or $1.97 per share, compared to $328.3 million, or $1.21 a share, a year before. Earnings for 1979 were $1.8 billion, or $6.48 a share, against $852.5 million, or $3.14 a share, in 1978.

Revenues for the quarter rose from $8.3 billion to $12 billion, and annual revenues were $39.1 billion against $29.1 billion in 1978.

Changes in the way in which the company and its 50 percent-owned subsidiary Caltex Petroleum account for crude oil inventories reduced Texaco's net income by $488.2 million for the year.

Fourth-quarter earnings at Gulf were up by 54.4 percent at $386 million, or $1.88 a share, compared to $237 million, or $1.22 a share, a year before. Revenues climbed to $7.7 billion from $5.4 billion.

Earnings for Gulf in 1979 were $1.32 billion, or $6.78 a share, up from $785 million, or $4.03 a share, in 1978. Revenues jumped to $26.1 billion from $20.1 billion.

In other developments, Ashland Oil Inc. tallied earnings for the quarter ended Dec. 31, the first quarter of its current fiscal year, of $75.9 million, or $2.44 a share, up 49.7 percent from $50.7 million, or $1.33 a share. Revenues for the company, ranked 15th, rose to $1.99 billion from $1.48 billion.

Hijackers Seek Flight To Iran

boro, N.C., at about 12:51 a.m. CST, said Delta spokesman Jim Ewing.

Dennis Feldman, a spokesman for the FAA in Washington, said the plane apparently was being refueled in Havana and was to return to Miami. Aviation officials in Miami said they had not received a flight plan from Havana.

Delta spokesman Gordon Barrington said in Atlanta that the plane carried 51 adult passengers, two infants and a crew of 12.

Feldman said before the plane landed in Havana "our information is that there is a man in the cockpit with a gun."

The flight began Thursday in Los Angeles and stopped in Dallas before arriving in Atlanta, taking off from there at 1 a.m. for Kennedy International Airport in New York.

The last hijacking of a U.S. airliner to Cuba occurred June 11, 1979, when a jumbo man took over a Delta jet en route from New York to Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The passengers and crew were allowed to return to the United States.

Skyjacking reached a peak of 33 in 1969, then began to taper off through the 1970s as security measures were implemented. Between 1961 and 1973, when the U.S. and Cuba signed a treaty for the extradition and prosecution of hijackers, 87 U.S. planes were diverted to Cuba.

Last August a man wielding a bottle demanded a Miami-bound Eastern Airlines jet take him to Cuba. The flight was diverted, but passengers and crew overpowered the hijacker and bound him with neckties. The plane landed safely in Miami.

In Atlanta, a Delta Air Lines spokesman said that the 12 crew members aboard hijacked Delta Flight 1116 were based in either Chicago or the Dallas-Fort Worth region.

Flight 1116 originated in Los Angeles and had stops in Dallas-Fort Worth and Atlanta enroute to New York.

Captain D. L. Vickers, First Officer C.F. Denwalt and Second Officer A.R. Kroil, all based at Dallas-Fort Worth.

Flight attendants Sara Qualls, Gail Gross, Fred Kelly, Connie Del Barba, Kay Adams, Micki McCormack, Cindy Holzworth, Pam Myslinski, Mary Jane McKee, all based in Chicago.

5-Year-Old Shoots Younger Brother

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A 5-year-old boy who found a loaded gun in a dresser drawer accidentally shot and killed his 3-year-old brother, police said.

The children were alone in the house this week at the time of the shooting, authorities said. Their mother, Mona Martin, 22, was booked on a charge of negligent homicide for leaving the boys alone.

Police said Timothy Martin took the gun from a dresser drawer and accidentally fired it. The bullet struck his brother, Terrell, in the chest.

The child was pronounced dead at the scene.

the legislature show that doubling resident tuition would increase revenue for higher education by $28.4 million a year and a 50 percent increase in nonresident tuition would raise an additional $5.7 million.

Clements is in favor of raising tuition, which has not increased since 1971. A special committee headed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby will be making state college finance recommendations to the 1981 Legislature and is expected to deal with the question of a tuition increase.

On Thursday, the board's finance committee recommended a whopping 22 percent increase in 1982 funding for the state's colleges.

The committee also voted Thursday to recommend that 1983 funding be raised 12.1 percent above the 1982 level.

That action will be the subject of public hearings before it goes to the next session of the Legislature.

"I share with you the shock you must feel at my recommendation," said Commissioner Kenneth Ashworth. "But I've never had to bring recommendations to you in a year when we faced 12.6 percent inflation."

The board today overrode its chairman and most of Clements' appointees by approving the funding formulas approved by the committee. If adopted, the formulas would raise state spending on higher education by $141 million in 1982 and another $93.5 million in 1983.

The formulas still face legislative action and could be reduced.

Chairman Buryl Milburn of Austin, a Clements appointee, attempted to push through a reduced formula level, but failed 7-8. Six of the seven Clements appointees voted for Mrs. Milburn's proposal to hold faculty salaries to 12.6 percent a year and increases in all other college items set by formula to 9.5 percent.

Only Dr. Mario Ramirez of Rio Grande City broke ranks with the Clements appointees and, as it happened, cast the deciding vote to defeat Mrs. Milburn's recommendations.

Mrs. Milburn said the formulas "were not in touch with reality. I don't think the people of Texas will stand for that amount."

Afghan Guerrilla Leader Seeks Foreign Aid For New Republic

By United Press International

An Afghan anti-government guerrilla leader proclaimed a "free Islamic republic" in four provinces of Afghanistan today and appealed for foreign military assistance to fight invading Soviet troops.

Zia Khan Nassry, 33, chairman of the Afghan Islamic and Nationalist Revolutionary Council, told reporters in the Pakistani capital of Islamabad that his forces were in control of the four provinces except for a handful of cities occupied by Russian troops.

The Pakistan government, sensitive to giving the appearance of supporting the Afghan rebels, served an order on Nassry as he spoke to reporters in a private home demanding he leave the country within 24 hours. He was appealing the order.

"This is not a government in exile," the U.S.-educated Nassry said. "This is a government of liberated Afghanistan."

Western diplomats were skeptical of Nassry's statements, noting that none of at least six other rival guerrilla groups had agreed to join his so-called government.

Nassry's proclamation appeared timed to coincide with the weekend opening of an emergency Islamic conference on the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan. Several rival leaders were planning to attend as well.

The guerrilla leaders are anxious to receive foreign military help, but have been told by Saudi Arabia, the major target of their appeals, to unite before any assistance will be given.

The free Islamic Republic of Afghanistan has been proclaimed in Pak-ista, Ghazni and Lowgar provinces in eastern Afghanistan, Nassry said.

He said that with more than 3 feet of snow in the mountainous area, little fighting was taking place between Soviet troops and forces loyal to him.

The Soviets, he said, are pouring in supplies to provincial cities such as Gardez and Khost, which they still control.

"The Soviet Union is securing itself in urban areas and if we strengthen ourselves then we can resist," Nassry said.

When the snow melts, however, he acknowledged that the Mujahideen, or guerrillas, could be in real trouble.

"If help does not arrive in time, they will exterminate people whether by firepower or whether they starve us to death," he said. "It is a critical situation."

The reports of intensified activity in eastern Afghanistan come from the Jalalabad area, which is in a valley and hence is not snowed in.

Nassry said the rebels needed four types of military assistance: Missiles to knock out the dreaded Soviets' MI-24 helicopter gunships, anti-tank weapons, communication equipment and light weapons.

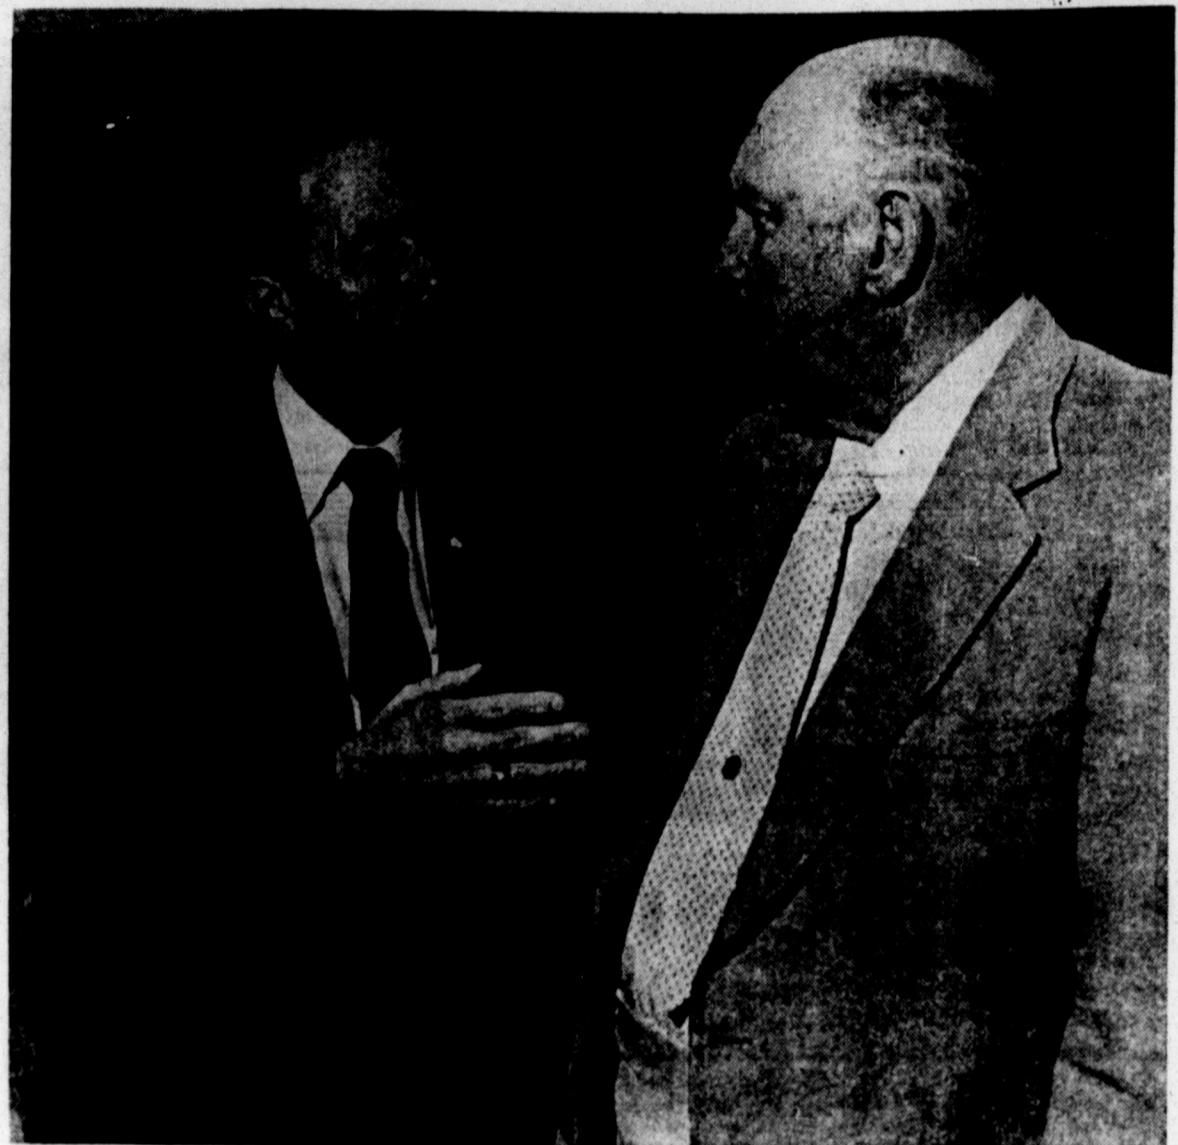

election day there were no reports of incidents.

Definitive election results are not expected until Monday.

"My illness must not hamper anyone from effective participation in the election," said a recorded message from Khomeini broadcast Thursday to get the vote out.

"The people must protect order and refrain from practices that may give the impression that we are not able to decide our fate or we are not abiding by rules of Islam," the message said. "Once the president is elected, the people must back him."

There was no apparent reason why anyone might not vote because of Khomeini's illness. But there have been reports that some of the ethnic minorities who make up more than half of the nation's population were planning to boycott the vote because of Khomeini's refusal to grant them autonomy.

HANCE ANNOUNCES — U.S. Rep. Kent Hance announced his candidacy for re-election this morning after stopping in Lubbock to speak to the South Plains Chapter of the Texas Association of Business. Hance Says New Soviet Attack Will Start War ion, Hance said. "Well, he's waited pretty long." But he added that it is easy to be a "Monday morning quarterback" in this situation. The attempts at alliance with the Soviets did not work out, he said, adding, "We have tried."

Relations with China should be strengthened, he said, adding that the Chinese have always been skeptical of the Soviets.

"I think it's to our advantage to improve our relations with China," he said. "But we have to remember they're a communist country, too."

"The world has changed. You're looking at minutes and seconds. You have to have improved relations with everyone you can."

The congressman said he supports boycotting the Moscow Olympics, calling it a "move in the right direction." He predicted further economic sanctions against the Soviet Union and increases in defense spending.

His comments to the Texas Association of Business members this morning were aimed, for the most part, at the embargo on grain shipments to the Soviets. He said he supports the president's actions, but added that the agricultural economy should not, by itself, bear the full brunt of the embargo.

Hance will push for loan increases for farmers, he said, as well as payments for farmers to set aside a certain portion of their crops to maintain the market price. Diversion payments are not popular, he said, but without them a bumper crop would send prices through the floor.

"The next ten days are critical," he warned, referring to the embargo. Farmers should not allow themselves to be lured into a situation without diversion payments, he said.

No opposition has yet surfaced to Hance's bid for a second term. He replaced veteran Congressman George Mahon by narrowly defeating Republican George Bush Jr. in the 1978 elections.

Witch's Lawyer Loses Decision

PLAINVIEW — Despite harsh objections from defense attorney Travis Shelton, the prosecution claimed a major victory this morning when 64th District Court Judge John T. Boyd cleared the way for the admission of several controversial pieces of evidence, including the alleged murder weapon, into the murder trial of self-professed witch Loy Stone.

Stone is accused of the Halloween night 1977 shotgun slaying of Roxanne Casas, a 15-year-old Dimmitt schoolgirl who died after being shot in the head as she rode in a pickup near Stone's rural Castro County residence. His wife, Louise, also is charged, but her trial has yet to be scheduled.

The ruling, a major victory for prosecutor Jimmy Davis, came this morning after two days of strenuous argument over many exhibits, including a shotgun Davis contends is the murder weapon, as well as several new and spent shotgun shells, and about 50 photographs of the pickup and the Stones' residence.

Despite the setback, Shelton again grilled Castro County Sheriff Granville Martin over the fact that he did not tag the gun, record its serial number or place any identifying mark on it when he confiscated it from Stone the night of the shooting. In his attempts to keep the gun out of court, Shelton leaned heavily on the sheriff's "lack of proper identification," and other discrepancies in his investigation.

Shelton produced an envelope in which Martin testified he placed three spent shotgun shells the day of the shooting. But Shelton pointed out that the envelope was dated "9 a.m., Oct. 31, 1977."

"Did you find those shells at 9 a.m. or 9 p.m.?" Shelton asked.

"I found them at night," Martin said.

Pointing to the time notation, Shelton asked, "Is that a mistake?"

"It could be," the sheriff said. "I make a lot of them."

"Even if that was 9 p.m., it would have been before you obtained consent to search the grounds and long before you obtained a search warrant?" Shelton asked.

"I did not search the grounds without permission," the sheriff said.

"Let's look at that consent to search paper," Shelton said. "What time does it say you got permission?"

"Eleven p.m.," the sheriff said.

In another repeat performance before the jury, former Dimmitt Chief of Police Joe Ben Mitchell testified he removed a piece of plastic, a piece of wadding and some slivers of lead from the cab and bed of a red pickup the morning after Miss Casas died. Mitchell also told the court he took several photographs of "skid marks" at the Stones' residence that same day.

Dancy Trial Hits Snag had lost the jacket about two days before the Aug. 22 newscast.

The 19-year-old witness added that he was with Dancy when the defendant called the police station and gave the officers an address and that Dancy "was real confused."

The red vinyl-sleeved jacket bearing a gold "C" was found beneath an east window of Bridges' home about noon Aug. 21, 1979. Only moments before the jacket was spotted, one of Bridges' professors had discovered the Texas Tech University graduate student's nude, beaten body inside the residence.

Dancy is accused of beating and stomping Bridges to death, and authorities said the jacket was a key element leading to the 19-year-old defendant's arrest the night after Bridges' body was found.

Several police officers testified Thursday afternoon they "had reason to believe" Dancy, who lived in a small apartment behind 2826 24th St. and less than a block from Bridges, was the owner of the jacket. However, none of the officers elaborated for the 99th District Court jury why they reached that conclusion after talking with Dancy at police headquarters the night of Aug. 22.

Senators Approve Veterans' Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a bill aimed at giving some Vietnam veterans another chance to apply for benefits to pay for on-the-job training or a high school education.

The measure also assures veterans with drug or alcohol problems that they will not be disqualified from seeking the benefits.

Khomeini Leads Trek To Polls

Khomeini did not indicate support for any of the eight candidates, but said it would be better for those without much chance of election to rally behind the front-runners. If no candidate gets a majority today, the two with the biggest votes will meet in a runoff Feb. 8.

An estimated 22 million Iranians over the age of 16 were eligible to vote for the president, who will be little more than a ceremonial head of state unless Khomeini dies. The new constitution vests virtually limitless powers in him for life, including the right to approve presidential candidates and dismiss the elected president. He headed out 92 of the original 100 candidates, leaving eight who are considered strong supporters of him and the religious theocracy.

The man regarded as the front-runner is Education and Culture Minister Hassan Habibi, a member of the ruling Revolutionary Council. His chances improved markedly last weekend when the orthodox Islamic clergy closest to Khomeini announced its support for him.

The previous favorite was Finance Minister Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, another member of the council. He was ousted as foreign minister two months ago when he took a moderate line favoring release of the approximately 50 Americans held hostage at the U.S. Embassy since Nov. 4.

Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, who succeeded Bani-Sadr as foreign minister, is another favored candidate. He insists the hostages will be held until Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi is returned for trial.

The other candidates are Adm. Ahmad Madani, the former navy commander and governor of oil-rich Khuzestan province; Sadegh Tabatabai, head of the cabinet office and a former deputy premier; Kazem Sami, former health minister; Darius Furuhr, a minister of state, and Mohammad Mokri, the ambassador to Moscow.

Ali Willing To Fight Now

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Muhammad Ali, stripped of his boxing title when he refused induction for the Vietnam War, says he would be willing to fight against Soviet forces in Afghanistan because "that would be a just war."

The now-retired heavyweight champion told reporters here today that "I am threatened, my family is threatened, the peace of the world is threatened" by the Soviet presence in Afghanistan.

Ali also repeated his strong support of President Carter's call for a possible boycott of the Moscow Olympics.

"If we don't show some kind of resistance and unity against ... communism, I am very sure they (Soviets) will take Afghanistan and later go farther," said Ali, who went on to regain his championship twice after the courts restored it. "When do we draw the line?"

Ali, here for exhibition bouts and to make a film about India, later met with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi in her home.

Alf Landon Doing Fine

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Republican Alf Landon is "doing fine" and receiving visitors and phone calls as he undergoes medical tests.

Landon, 92, was hospitalized Wednesday for dizziness a day earlier. He was in satisfactory condition Thursday at Stormont-Vail Regional Medical Center.

Hospital officials said they were awaiting test results to determine when Landon, the 1936 GOP presidential nominee, would be discharged.

Snow Dance Brings White Stuff

CARRABASSETT VALLEY, Maine (AP) — It was only a rehearsal, but an Indian snow dance was followed 24 hours later by the best skiing of the season at Maine's largest ski area.

And Sugarloaf Mountain is looking for an even bigger snowfall after a group of Penobscot Indians performs its ritual dance Saturday afternoon around a bonfire outside the base lodge.

Sugarloaf spokesman Chip Carey noted that the Indians rehearsed their prayers and dances Monday night at their reservation at Old Town. "Sure enough, it snowed Tuesday night — 6 inches," he said, bringing the best conditions of a dismal ski season.

Was the dance responsible for the long-awaited snow? "We'll believe anything," said Carey.

South Dakota Considering Tax On Gold From Homestead Mine

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — As gold prices skyrocketed and state revenues declined, South Dakota lawmakers set out to snatch some of the profits from America's largest gold mine.

They are considering an ore severance tax which would bring in an estimated $14.7 million a year based on $600-an-ounce gold. The metal closed recently at $660 an ounce on the New York Commodity Exchange.

That would be more than a 20-fold tax increase for the Homestake Mining Co. in Lead, the only gold mine in South Dakota. The mine last year paid about $650,000 on a 4 percent net income tax.

Faced with a Legislature determined to get a piece of the mine's sudden wealth, Homestake officials say they would prefer a much heavier net income tax than the severance tax.

The choice here on a severance tax reminds me of the choice in Utah on the death penalty," said one lobbyist for the mine. "You can be hanged or you can be shot."

Forcing the choice is a gloomy revenue outlook, brought on by a repealed state personal property tax, declining tourist trade due to the gasoline shortage, and a transportation crisis which has kept much of the state's grain stored in elevators and out of the market.

Old ore tax bills were dusted off when the Legislature convened two weeks ago, but a committee settled for Gov. Bill Janklow's escalating tax which could take away as much as 30 percent if gold prices ever hit about $1,200 an ounce.

"It's discriminatory," said Homestake Manager Al Winters. "If one of the other industries makes money, are we going to tax them at a higher rate than someone else? It's detrimental to inducing industry to come to South Dakota."

The governor said the mine should share its wealth because the state repealed the previous 4 percent ore tax during lean years when the U.S. Treasury set the price of gold at $35 an ounce.

Winters said the state was lucky Homestake kept 1,700 people on its payroll during those years when production costs far outweighed profits.

Homestake produced 244,610 ounces of gold in 1979. The company's gross receipts totaled $76 million for the year before expenses, taxes and capital expenditures.

Election Law Overturned

EL PASO (AP) — A federal judge has struck down several "invidiously discriminatory" provisions of Texas election law that could open new political doors to many officeholders in the state.

U.S. District Judge Harry Lee Hudspeth, in a lawsuit filed here by four elected officials, ruled Thursday that provisions of the state election law are unconstitutional.

The provisions required some elected officials to resign before running for another office and forbid other officeholders from campaigning for the Legislature even if they do resign.

"This prohibition affects mayors and city councilmen, whose terms typically end in April of a non-election year, as well as many judges and other officials serving four-year terms. No reciprocal prohibition, however, is placed upon a legislator seeking to run for mayor or judge," Hudspeth said in his ruling.

Hudspeth said no trial was necessary and he issued a summary judgment in favor of County Court-at-Law Judge John Fashing, two justices of the peace and a constable.

According to the suit, County Court Judge John Fashing would consider running for the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals if the law were different.

Court officials said the ruling does away with the two provisions unless it is appealed by the Texas attorney general.

The state Attorney General's office had argued the law was necessary to prevent public officials from abusing powers and neglecting old jobs while campaigning for new ones.

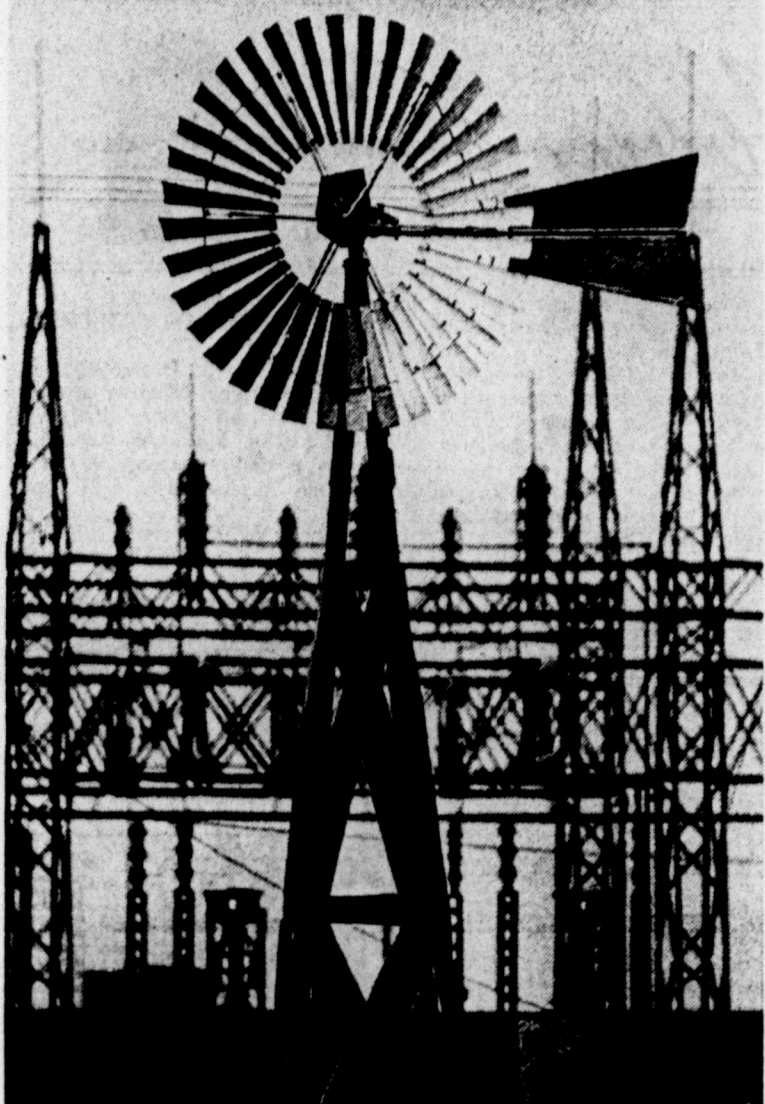

The state also contended the laws were not restrictive because they only applied if an officeholder had more than a year of a term remaining. Hudspeth noted the law did not cover all officials.

"Can a classification be upheld which allows a municipal court judge ... to run for district judge without resigning his office, while a justice of the peace cannot," Hudspeth said in the ruling.

Hudspeth said the law forbidding office holders to run for the legislature violates the constitutional guarantee for equal protection.

Fashing, who contended the lawsuit was the first to challenge the law, said he had received about a dozen telephone calls, mostly from judges who want to run for higher offices in major Texas cities.

Animal Adoption Fees Increased

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff
An animal ordinance passed by the City Council Thursday will make it more expensive to adopt a pet at the city animal shelter, but shelter officials believe the new policy ultimately may curb the growing dog population in Lubbock.

Under the new ordinance, anyone wishing to adopt an animal at the shelter will be required to pay a $25 deposit, which will be used toward payment of spaying and neutering charges by a veterinarian.

In addition, the prospective pet owner will have to pay a $2.50 administrative charge, a $7 rabies vaccination charge and a $2 license fee. All those charges come to $36.50 for adopting a pet at the shelter.

"Basically, what it does is discourage anyone from getting an animal from the animal shelter," noted Councilwoman Carolyn Jordan.

But according to City Animal Control Supervisor Thomas Trombley, discouraging some would-be pet owners isn't such a bad idea.

"We don't want just anybody buying dogs," Trombley said. "We want someone who comes in and thinks about the animal he is buying. We don't want people buying animals on a whim."

Trombley said that during the past three years, the shelter has seen a 60 percent increase in the number of people bringing unwanted animals to the shelter. He said the city is destroying between 9,000 and 13,000 dogs a year.

Too many individuals are willing to pay a small price to adopt a cute puppy at the animal shelter, Trombley said. But when the puppy grows up, the individual often either abandons the dog or returns it to the shelter to be destroyed, he added.

"Right now, the city is selling dogs," Trombley said. "Under the new policy, the city won't be selling dogs."

Trombley said he views the new adoption policy as a step in the right direction. "The city is saying, 'We're not going to contribute to the animal population problem,'" he said.

The new ordinance also will require that all dogs and cats be vaccinated for rabies by four months of age. Vaccination of cats is mandated by a new state law that went into effect Jan. 1.

In a canvass of the votes from Saturday's special election on firemen's pay raises and collective bargaining rights, the council was told there had been counting errors during ballot processing.

City Secretary Evelyn Gaffga reported the official vote tally for the election was 18,518 — 41 ballots less than originally reported.

According to Mrs. Gaffga, there were "innumerable clerical errors" in the vote count. One of the problems, she said, was the central counting station included mutilated ballots in the vote count.

"There was less than quality work on the part of the central counting station," Mrs. Gaffga said.

In other action Thursday, the council lifted a nine-month moratorium placed on two older homes owned by the First Baptist Church in the Overton South Addition.

The church had planned to have the houses removed from its property last spring to provide more church parking lots. But questions were raised about the historical importance of the homes, and the Urban Design Commission placed a

Med Hunt Files For School Board Position

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Local realtor Med Hunt, 42, has become the first candidate to file for a place on the April 5 school board election ballot.

Hunt is running for Place 5, the spot being vacated by trustee Harold Harri-ger. The southwest Lubbock businessman said he has entered the school board race "to continue the great job that has been done" with Lubbock public schools, adding that he has "no axes to grind."

Hunt said he had never considered a trustee position until this past summer when several residents approached him about vying for the spot left vacant by the death of board president Charles Waters.

Hunt said he has three children in Lubbock public schools and he also attended the city school system. "If people like me aren't willing to serve the schools, who will?" he asked.

The Lubbock native said he has been involved in a number of youth activities, but he feels that serving on the board might be "a more meaningful way" of serving the community.

Hunt said he believes the school system should offer a "well-rounded program that is not slanted one way or the other." He is a firm believer in encouraging students to become active in extracurricular activities.

He said that students who participate in activities outside the academic realm "are prepared to go into the world and earn a living."

Hunt said he is "delighted the school system offers so many programs," adding that LEAP (exemplary academic program at Lubbock High School) and the magnet program at Dunbar-Struggs appear to have particularly inspired students to become interested in school.

While Hunt supports providing students with a number of different programs, he acknowledged that such projects necessitate funding. "You can only spend the money that you've got," he said.

He added that the task of the school board is to "spend the money that is going to give the greatest benefit to the most people."

He believes the "biggest waste in spending is the busing of the kids." He said he does not oppose the actual transporting of students across town, but the use of school dollars to accomplish the busing. "It can be spent productively in other ways."

McLin Sentenced To 10 Years

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Jurors deliberating the fate of Lawrence V. McLin Jr. took less than an hour Thursday afternoon to sentence the 32-year-old man to 10 years in prison for the shooting death last fall of a Fort Sill, Okla., soldier.

Earlier Thursday afternoon, the 140th District Court panel deliberated about 2 hours, 45 minutes before finding McLin guilty of voluntary manslaughter in connection with Billy Joe Scott's Aug. 25, 1979 death.

Scott, 23, was wounded by a .38-caliber bullet outside of Chilly's club, 1701 Parkway Drive. The bullet struck him in the chest, piercing part of his heart before exiting, and Scott died about 6½ hours later at Health Sciences Center Hospital.

McLin, of 2506 E. Bates St., originally was charged with murder, a first degree felony, in connection with the soldier's death. The three-man, nine-woman panel, however, returned the lesser conviction of voluntary manslaughter against McLin, indicating they believed he shot at Scott that early morning out of "sudden passion arising from an adequate cause."

Testimony during the four-day trial indicated that Scott, several of his relatives and McLin and his companions had been involved in a fight just before gunfire erupted in the club's back parking lot.

The manslaughter conviction carries a maximum 20-year prison term and a minimum sentence of 2 years. Prosecutors

Target Names Store Manager

Donald Voorhees has been named manager of the new Target Store in Lubbock, according to Bruce Allbright, president of the Minneapolis-based Target Stores.

Voorhees joined Target in 1976 and most recently was manager of the Norman, Okla., Target Store.

The new 100,000-square-foot Lubbock store, scheduled to open in March, is located at University Avenue and South Loop 289. The store will employ about 200 full- and part-time personnel with an annual payroll approaching $1 million.

Target, the largest division of Dayton Hudson Corp., currently operates 80 discount stores in 11 states.

Also joining the management team of the Lubbock Target Store are four persons with management experience with the firm.

John Bryant, receiving manager, also held that position at an Oklahoma City Target Store. John Walker, hardlines merchandise manager, had been operations manager at the Fondren Target Store in Houston. Marlene Ring, softlines merchandise manager, held that position at an Oklahoma City store. John DePatie, operations manager, served in that capacity, also in Oklahoma City.

Mid-Life Seems Trying Age

By GHITA LEVINE
Women's News Service

Tell me how you handled your mid-life crisis and I'll tell you how you'll cope with retirement, some social scientists might say today.

Armed with the knowledge of how one handles the assault of middle age, many experts use it to predict "coping mechanisms" in old age. A smooth glide over that rough state and you'll do all right, they say. A rocky run and, chances are you'll have a difficult adjustment later on.

But theories of middle age have changed rapidly. What were considered normal mid-life stresses have altered in the past 10 years. Lillian Toll, chief of psychology at University College, Rutgers University, packages three recent versions into three Greek myths.

First came Cassandra the Trojan Princess of Doom — Middle age was seen as a time of increased worry and pressure. Children not settled well, husbands teetering on the brink of heart attacks, aging parents depending solely on you — these were the stresses that marked the middle years.

Next was the Tantalus version — the punished son of Zeus always straining to reach his sustenance. A product of the Women's Movement, women were told to fulfill themselves in their middle years. "You've got to self-actualize, you've got to be creative." And this put enormous pressure on middle-aged women to do something significant — just another source of stress," Dr. Troll notes.

And the third is the Procrustes version — Like the old Greek robber, it artificially contrives to make people fit. Everyone must match prescribed stages of life, this theory says. "At 40 you've got to be this way, at 50 that way ... you've got to fit whether you like it or not."

No sooner have we absorbed the latest in middle-age trends than words come down from the scientific heights that, according to many, there's probably no such thing as a normal middle age, let alone a mid-life crisis.

"Anything resembling a mid-life crisis is socially induced," says Ruth Weg, noted psychologist and gerontologist of the University of California at Los Angeles. "There is remarkable little psychologically for that period in your life to be in crisis," she maintains.

Menopause, the traditional marker of middle age, is not a definite point but a gradual process. It starts in the third decade of life and lasts until age 60. Dr. Weg maintains. How you handle it has to do with "your sense of self," she says, and not with your body. Dr. Weg says that there is no single age one can identify as the mid-period in one's life.

Dr. Troll, a specialist in "lifespan development," concurs. "I don't think there is a middle age. I think it is more in terms of duration of what you're into. If you've been something new at the age of 50, you're at youth again."

Life is not one simple progression from youth to age. "You may be very youthful in one domain and then very old in another," Dr. Troll notes. People move from one "age" to another, from very old to youthful again. "Even when you're physically incapacitated, you may enter into the youth of a new cycle in terms of an interest you never had before," she adds.

Middle age is not a chronological event, coming at a certain birthday, but an attitude, an experience, these experts say. What makes it painful is not having a sense of challenge. Dr. Weg maintains. But this can be resolved.

"There are all kinds of challenges at every level," she insists. "How you meet them, and when, is up to you."

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

In my fantasy, I always have long, fat hair.

It cascades down my back, catches in my collar, and falls in my eyes. It hangs down over the bed, blows in the faces of people near me, and bounces with every step I take.

Sometimes I tuck it under a yellow construction hard hat, but it fools no one. When I take off the hat, my hair tumbles down and men are unable to keep their footing.

Jaelyn Smith asks me what shampoo I use. It annoys me. I fiddle with my hair constantly, impatiently running my fingers through it, trying to give it some direction. It only becomes more sensuous and breathlessly provocative. It's like trying to housebreak a raccoon. It remains as wild and as free as the spirit that wears it.

When I return to reality, I run my fingers through my own wash-and-wear hair that's as practical as arch supports and as sensuous as a bowl brush.

When you think about it, what's so terrific about fat hair?

It's not practical, you know. Babies pull it, combs can't get through it, it takes five years to dry after you wash it, and it anyone finds a 62-inch hair in ANYTHING, you get blamed for it.

It's hot on your neck in the summer, has enough static electricity in the winter to fly you to Pittsburgh, and when you have an upset stomach, it gets in your way.

I guess that's why for the last decade, short hair has been in, and long hair has been out.

You have to feel sorry for Farrah Fawcett. If she had had short hair she'd probably have sold six million posters instead of five. Poor Cheryl Tiegs might have made the cover of Business Week instead of the other 30 major magazines.

Pity Dolly Parton. Don't tell me her long hair hasn't caused back pains. Not to mention poor, misguided Mario Thomas and Loni Anderson.

And just think about the out-of-step Charles' Angels. I read the other day where the producers spend $80,000 a year just to keep all of their tresses long, shining, and flowing. That breaks down to $26,667 each a year — or $11,000 a pound.

I say to myself, "Is it worth it?" and I answer myself, "Yes."

Dear Abby,

DEAR READERS: Every week I received more newly published books than I can lift, much less read. But one little paperback caught my eye: "Parenthood Without Hassles — Well, Almost," by Dr. Kevin Leman.

It was dedicated to "My high school counselor, who told me, 'Leman, with your disciplinary record and grades in this school, I couldn't get you into reform school." Being one who appreciates humor, I read on and found it to be well worth reading. With the author's permission, I quote:

"A CHILD'S TEN COMMANDEMENTS TO PARENTS"

1) My hands are small, please don't expect perfection whenever I make a bed, draw a picture or throw a ball. My legs are short; please slow down so that I can keep up with you.

2) My eyes have not seen the world as yours have; please let me explore safely; don't restrict me unnecessarily.

3) Housework will always be there. I'm only little for such a short time — please take time to explain things to me about this wonderful world, and do so willingly.

4) My feelings are tender; please be sensitive to my needs; don't nag me all day long. (You wouldn't want to be nagged for your inquisitiveness.) Treat me as you would like to be treated.

5) I am a special gift from God; please treasure me as God intended you to do, holding me accountable for my actions, giving me guidelines to live by and disciplining me in a loving manner.

6) I need your encouragement, but not your praise, to grow. Please go easy on the criticism; remember, you can criticize the things I do without criticizing me.

7) Please give me the freedom to make decisions concerning myself. Permit me to fail, so that I can learn from my mistakes. Than someday I'll be prepared to make the kind of decisions life requires of me.

8) Please don't do things over for me. Somehow that makes me feel that my efforts didn't quite measure up to your expectations. I know it's hard, but please don't try to compare me with my brother or my sister.

9) Please don't be afraid to leave for a weekend together. Kids need vacations from parents, just as parents need vacations from kids. Besides, it's a great way to show us kids that your marriage is very special.

10) Please take me to Sunday school and church regularly, setting a good example for me to follow. I enjoy learning more about God.

DEAR ABBY: I recently visited our daughter who has a 2-month-old baby girl. I took some pictures of the baby; one showed the mother bathing the baby.

After returning home I took the pictures to a longtime friend and neighbor woman who has never had any children. She looked at the picture of the baby being bathed and said, "You should not be showing this around. It is pornography!"

Abby, I was shocked, and told her so. How can a picture of a naked baby be pornography? An innocent little baby's body is a beautiful sight, and there is nothing dirty or pornographic about it.

Am I wrong? Or could such a picture really be considered pornographic?

SHOCKED AND CONFUSED

DEAR SHOCKED: Pornography is the depiction of erotic behavior, intending to cause sexual excitement. If a picture of a 2-month-old baby being bathed created that kind of response in your friend, the "pornography" is in her mind.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-things ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Course Teaches How To Mother

NEW YORK (AP) — A new program to teach "the art of mothering" is under way at the State University Hospital of Downstate Medical Center, State University of New York. Called The Parent Education Program of Brooklyn, it aims to give answers, reassurances and a pat on the back to new mothers.

Before they take their babies home from the hospital, mothers are visited by one of a group consisting of Laurel Whitaker, chairman of the program; Dr. Sara L. Weiss, its director and an instructor in pediatrics; and their trained volunteer workers in the program.

Once she is home with the baby, the mother is invited to call "her own" volunteer paraprofessional for help, advice or just support.

At the end of six weeks, mothers and their babies meet together at the hospital once a week for eight weeks. There they can, ask questions, exchange experiences, and find out how others are dealing with various problems. At each meeting experts in different areas of child care lead discussions on various topics.

The keystone to the success of the program, Dr. Weiss says, is the corps of thoroughly trained volunteer workers, who stay in contact with the mothers. The program is sponsored by Downstate Medical Center, the Junior League of Brooklyn, the United Hospital Fund and private donors.

hand. If East rises with the ace, declarer wins a heart trick by force and makes his contract, so East must duck. However, when West wins the first heart, he cannot lead a trump without giving up his side's trump trick, so declarer now cannot be prevented from scoring a heart ruff for his tenth trick.

A search of the hand records failed to turn up the hand, and it was suggested that it might have been played at some other tournament. Our colleague decided to ask the great one himself. It would have been easy enough for Belladonna to say yes, he had played it somewhere or other, and another Belladonna classic would have entered the records. But Belladonna is too proud of his achievements to want credit for something he did not do. He denied ever having seen the hand before. Ironically, some bridge treasures, when writing about Giorgio, cite this hand.

We will miss you, maestro. You gave us great joy!

Foster Parents House Homeless

Mayor Dirk West has proclaimed this week as "Foster Parent Week," recognizing the city's 80 foster parents who provide temporary homes for abused and neglected children.

The proclamation comes in conjunction with an effort by Texas Department of Human Resources (TDHR) to recruit more foster homes in which to temporarily place abused and neglected children who must be removed from their own homes for their safety. Currently, the Lubbock area does not have enough foster homes to meet the needs of the city's abused and neglected children, according to Lucretia Dennis-Small, foster care supervisor for TDHR.

"Almost anyone can be a foster parent," Dennis-Small explained. "There are foster parents who are still raising families, who are retired couples, or even who are single. The main requirement is big heart and a loving home. The state provides for the financial, medical and dental needs of the children. While the children are in foster care, we're working with the parents, trying to resolve the problems that led to abuse and/or neglect, so that the children can return to their homes and families."

In 1979, 2,000 incidents of abuse and neglect occurred in the Lubbock area. Last year, 210 children were placed in foster homes in Lubbock. There are currently 44 foster homes in the area, and an estimated 20 additional homes are needed, Dennis-Small said. She emphasized that homes for teenagers and the handicapped are needed.

Anyone interested in becoming a foster parent may contact the Texas Department of Human Resources at 762-8922.

Film Hike Hurts Photographers

By SANDY COLTON
Associated Press Writer

The skyrocketing price of silver, from a base of $4.85 an ounce to more than $40 an ounce as this is being written, is going to hit photo enthusiasts where it hurts most—in the pocketbook.

It will also, hopefully, speed up efforts to find a non-silver substitute for photographic products.

Kodak recently informed all dealers that there would be substantial increases in the price of film, paper and graphic arts materials that contain silver, effective the end of January.

Black and white films will increase by 7.5 percent, color films by 8.5 percent, photo papers by 25 percent and some graphic arts materials by as much as 35 percent.

Kodak increased its prices on films twice last year, the latest increase in October, and that was the first time in my memory that there have been two increases in one year.

You can expect more of the same this year if silver keeps running away, not only from Kodak but from other film and paper manufacturers as well.

How will major users cope with the price increases? One major newspaper I talked to is dropping two photographer jobs through attrition as well as cutting back on assignments in general.

I think you'll see more of this as well as increased interest in silver recovery systems that recover silver from photographic chemistry as well as film and paper that might otherwise have been thrown away.

Some camera dealers are concerned that the increases might eventually price photography out of reach of most people, hurting their business considerably.

What are the alternatives? Rumor has it that Kodak does have silver substitutes on the shelf but that they're now more expensive than silver. You can be sure that research and development efforts to find an economical substitute will be speeded up.

One of the most promising substitutes, a complete departure from the photography we know today, appears to be at least five or more years away but the silver situation might just spur this thought to more speedy development.

I'm speaking of the electronic camera, very similar to some of today's TV cameras, that will use a CCD (charged coupled device).

Most of the technology needed to produce such a camera is here now.

While such cameras are able to produce quality sufficient for TV, they are not yet able to produce the quality necessary for still photography without being tied into a very expensive computer system like the one being used by JPL in California to produce the photos taken by our explorer satellites.

You won't normally realize this when you watch TV but take a good look at a freeze-frame the next time they stop action at a football game and it will become very evident.

The primary nut that needs cracking is to provide a memory small enough to fit into a manageable camera yet capable of retaining millions of pieces of information.

The best current CCDs can hold, for example, one million pieces of information. Pictures now being transmitted by The Associated Press on its Laserphoto network—the same AP photos you see in your newspaper—contain more than two million pieces of information. That means, in effect, that the current CCD could produce and store only one picture with only a fraction of the quality you see in a print made the conventional way.

There are a number of alternatives. Perhaps a CCD will be developed which will store much more information. Or a number of CCDs might be used in tandem for storage. Perhaps bubble memory is the answer. It seems to have the potential for holding more memory than CCDs. Or perhaps a tape recording device will be tied into either of these memories so that the memory can be re-recorded and then released to capture another picture.

All this and more is being worked on today. The National Geographic has been using an electronic camera to shoot color photos at the bottom of the sea. Some of the newer cameras are capable of ASAs running into the thousands and, while today's TV cameras shoot around a 30th of a second, research scientists say there is no problem in shooting at higher speeds. Think of it: A camera that shoots at 25,000 ASA with a shutter speed of 1/2000th of a second!

Before this decade is out you can expect to see it hopefully developed to a point where you walk into a computer center with your camera or tape, dump the memory into a machine and walk out with a print done up to your exact specifications. In one sense, the AP is already doing that much in New York with its electronic darkroom.

Floral Masterpiece Created By Art Of Stringing Yarn

To the people of earlier centuries, flowers were more than decorative objects. Besides acting as a source of medicine, plants and flowers were a symbol of the natural forces that made up man's daily struggle for survival and thus became religiously significant.

As time passed, the significance of flowers as religious symbols waned. But their importance in art remained constant. Up until the Eighteenth Century, artists used flowers in paintings as visual metaphors representing the wealth of emotions and concerns known to man. For example, the evergreen ivy was a symbol of immortality.

To include the new species and varieties introduced yearly, the Victorians developed a new language for flowers. And many of the symbolic meanings we associate with flowers today originated from that period—such as red roses as a sign of love.

Besides the decorative and symbolic aspect of flowers in paintings, artists have found painting flowers an excellent exercise in learning the control of light and placement of color.

Why not join the ranks of the great and create a floral masterpiece of your own? If you're too timid to tackle a blank canvas with paint and brush, you can experiment with another medium such as the wide range of craft kits and designs available in floral motifs.

To get you started, here's an earth-toned floral arrangement you can create by the art of stringing soft yarn. And everything you'll need to make this 16 by 20-inch floral "painting" is available in an easy-to-use kit.

For yarn blossoms, order kit No. 11379 for $13.99 plus $1.95 for postage and handling. For yarn blossoms with frame, order kit No. 11380 for $27.49 plus $1.95 for postage and handling.

Soaring Gold Price Reviving Prospecting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wild movements in the price of gold in recent weeks have spurred renewed interest in prospecting, and the experts say there's still some gold out there to be found.

"Panning in those old streams has always been of interest for recreation, but now there's more incentive," remarked Bill Prinz of the U.S. Geological Survey.

Prinz warned that prospectors need to be cautious about trespassing on private land. But, asked if there is still gold to be found in public areas, he responded, "Oh, yeah."

He said both corporations and weekend prospectors have shown renewed interest in searching for gold over the past few months, a spurt that usually occurs in the summer when vacationers decide to do a little panning.

Survey experts do warn, however, that fewer than one in a thousand people who go prospecting in the western states can expect to find anything.

Most of the major deposits were found by the pioneers. In the more than a century since then the country has been extensively reworked by prospectors. The most recent major surge came during the depression of the 1930s.

The amateur gold seeker should be prepared to undergo a certain amount of hardship and will need camping gear and a car able to traverse rough and steep roads.

Moscow. The new stamps feature different sports as seen within a "kupala" — the onion-shaped minarets that dot the Moscow skyline.

The 10 cents shows a javelin thrower, 25 cents track competition, $1 pole vaulting and $2 hurdling. Each stamp also bears the Olympic 5-ring symbol in the upper left corner and the inscription "1980 Olympics-Moscow" at the bottom of the stamp.

An unusual U.S. pictorial cancellation on a commemorative cover will appeal to stamp specialists and general hobbyists alike. The cover will be released in conjunction with the 43rd convention of the Hobby Industry of America at Disneyland, Calif.

Disneyland's famous "Sleeping Beauty Castle" dominates the jumbo-size 24-inch long cancellation. A flowing scroll behind it carries a simulated postage stamp border. Inserted is the special post office franking mark of "Hobby Station 80" — Anaheim, Calif.

Also depicted are various Disneyland attractions that represent some of the hobbies exhibited at the convention.

The commemorative covers, available at $1 each, cancelled on the first day of issue (Jan. 27) may be obtained from: Stamp Division, Hobby Industry of America, 319 E. 54th St., Elmwood Park, N.J. 07407.

Prominent American Mint Set Released

By SYD KRONISH
Associated Press Writer

U.S. collectors will jump at the opportunity to get the new hard-cover Prominent American Mint Set just released by the U.S. Postal Service.

Unlike any previous offerings by the USPS, the Prominent American Mint Set is the first to feature regular stamp issues rather than commemoratives. Twenty-four of the 27 stamps in the Prominent American regular stamp series are included.

The blue, case-bound set contains profiles, photographs, quotations and signatures of the Americans honored. The 36-page set also provides protected space for displaying the mint stamps included.

Featured on the Prominent American Series stamps issued between 1965 and 1975 are Thomas Jefferson, Albert Gallatin, Frank Lloyd Wright, Francis Parkman, Abraham Lincoln, George Washington, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Dwight D. Eisenhower, Benjamin Franklin, Albert Einstein, Andrew Jackson, Henry Ford, John F. Kennedy, Fiorello LaGuardia, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Ernie Pyle, Elizabeth Blackwell, George Marshall, Amadeo Giannini, Frederick Douglass, John Dewey, Thomas Paine, Lucy Stone, Eugene O'Neill, and John Bassett Moore.

The face value of the 24 stamps is $9.28.

Only 56,000 copies of the mint set were printed because of the limitation imposed by the number of some Prominent American stamps in the USPS inventory. The set may be purchased at each of the 270 Postal Service Philatelic Centers or by mail order from "The Philatelic Sales Branch, Washington, D.C. 20265." The price is $12 per copy plus a 50-cent handling charge.

There will be no further printings of the book, says the USPS.

As the amateur athletes of the world prepare for the upcoming Olympic Games, Antigua pays philatelic tribute to its own performers who will be participating in the summer events to be held in up a bedroom. The finished size of the square pillow is 14 inches by 15 1/4 inches and the butterfly pillow is 19 inches by 15 inches.

For a great new fashion look, create the reversible vest available in three sizes. Beautiful designs such as rainbows, flowers and hearts can be stitched into a lovely quilted pattern.

Three different clutch purses, an eyeglass case, a patchwork purse or pillow and a wall hanging are also included.

All you need to make any of the above

Kennedy Vows To Continue Campaign Efforts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen Edward M. Kennedy, his presidential campaign sagging and nearly broke, stood before several hundred union supporters and

By word and by deed, Kennedy and his aides moved to emphasize Thursday that he has no intention of giving up his faltering candidacy.

The Massachusetts senator abruptly cancelled a weekend campaign trip to New England to clear his schedule for what aides said would be a "major policy" address next Monday.

But as for dropping out, press secretary Tom Southwick said, "He just ain't."

Southwick denied that the idea even had been discussed in the lengthy strategy sessions that began the day after Kennedy's 59 percent to 31 percent thrashing in Iowa by President Carter.

Kennedy also acted like a man very much a candidate:

—His evening appearance before the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks included a denunciation of Carter's economic policies in words tailored to his audience.

—The Carter administration doesn't know the first thing about how to run the economy or a railroad. They put our economy on the skids and the Kennedy administration will put our economy back on the track.

—He spent nearly an hour in his office meeting with four construction union leaders. One source said Kennedy was trying to head off plans that two of them — president Angelo Fosco of the Laborers International and Charles Tillard of the Brotherhood of the Electrical Workers Union — have of endorsing the president.

—He visited his campaign headquarters, where dozens of aides are working without pay, and assured them he intends to remain in the race.

Morris Dees, Kennedy's chief fundraiser, said a well-publicized campaign cash squeeze was not the reason for the trip cancellation. "We're going to raise the money and have the money to carry the campaign through New Hampshire," Dees said.

shouted defiantly into the microphone: "Of course I intend to go on. "Thirty-one percent of the people in Iowa can't be wrong." It was a self-deprecating reference to his landslide defeat at President Carter's hands in the Iowa caucuses, but Kennedy made his point.

Southern Republican Leaders Meeting

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A Mississippi riverboat cruise was an appropriate diversion for the southern Republican leaders gathered for the prelude to a high stakes showdown between Ronald Reagan and John Connally for the hearts of Dixie. The highlights of today's schedule of the Southern Republican Leadership Conference were a speech by Reagan, followed in the evening by a cruise up the river for delegates with Connally and representatives of other presidential candidates.

Connally is to address the conference of 1,000 GOP activists from 13 southern states on Saturday.

In between hearing from presidential candidates — George Bush and Howard Baker are not attending — the delegates will discuss campaign issues such as inflation and foreign policy.

But the significance of the meeting is in its timing and the fact that the states represented here select almost one-fourth of the 1993 Republican National Convention delegates.

"This is our last big meeting before the July convention," said Alabama state GOP chairman Bill Harris. "It's an opportunity for the candidates to talk to the southern leaders before the primaries start."

Reagan, the long-time hero of conservatives everywhere, is presumed to retain his strength in the South. But after his aura of invincibility was shattered by Bush in the Iowa caucuses on Monday, the critical question for him is whether he can hold his Sun Belt base.

If the March round of primaries in South Carolina, Florida, Georgia and Alabama are critical for Reagan, they are a matter of life and death to Connally, the former governor of Texas, who, like many here, was born and raised a Democrat.

Vitamin C Won't Help

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR LAMB — Is vitamin C a cold preventive? I have heard pros and cons on this topic. I generally get a bad cold in winter and would appreciate your advice. I understand massive doses could be harmful. If you approve of vitamin C as a cold preventive, what strength and dose should one take?

DEAR READER — I'm afraid I do not approve of vitamin C as a means of preventing colds. There are some very good studies that have been done that show that it does not decrease your chances of having a cold and will not decrease the duration of a cold. There are no good studies that prove the contrary.

To give you more information on vitamin C I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-3, Vitamin C (Ascorbic Acid). Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Vitamin C is very important to your health and may have benefits when taken in reasonable amounts.

There really is very little evidence to suggest that very many people would have any significant complications from taking rather large doses of vitamin C. That's the one good thing that has come out of all the research. Of course, there is an occasional person who is sensitive to vitamin C and very large doses can be irritating to the digestive tract in others.

In general, for normal healthy people I don't see any reason for them to take more than 100 milligrams of vitamin C a day. That's about twice the recommended daily allowance.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a female, age 28, and for the past year I've noticed the veins on my chest are quite noticeable. I am wondering if taking a lot of vitamins could have caused this. I used to take multiple vitamins and an iron pill every day. I quit doing this after reading more about vitamins and I only take a multiple vitamin once a day.

When I get up in the morning the veins are not quite so bad but by nighttime my chest looks like a roadmap. This has ruined my swimming because I'm too embarrassed to go out in a swimsuit the way I look.

DEAR READER — There are some people who just have unduly prominent veins. In that case, there's not much you can or should do about them.

In other cases, veins on the surface of the body become enlarged because of obstruction of deep veins inside the body. These superficial veins enlarge to reroute the blood. A classic example of this is the caput medusae which is made up of large dilated veins around the umbilicus. They can occur because of obstruction of veins in the abdomen.

It's true that veins over the chest can become enlarged if there's some obstruction of deep veins in the chest. Sometimes this is associated with other findings, including swelling of the arm if it involves only one side, or both arms if both sides are involved.

I doubt very much that you have a serious problem but it wouldn't hurt to see a physician and let him see how prominent the veins are and determine whether or not they're indicative of any underlying significant obstruction of some of the great veins.

Military Incapable Of Backing Carter Pledge

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States faces serious military handicaps in backing President Carter's pledge to repel any Soviet drive to gain control of the oil-producing Persian Gulf region.
 The Carter administration is moving to overcome these handicaps.
 But it could take five years or longer to correct major deficiencies in U.S. ability to send large Army and Marine forces and their heavy equipment to remote areas and to sustain them with supplies and reinforcements in extended fighting.

 Meanwhile, American strategists are counting on long-range nuclear missiles and bombers to deter the Soviets from any move that would endanger vital U.S. interests. Carter made it clear a Russian grab for control of the Persian Gulf would be so regarded.
 Assuming both sides refrained from firing nuclear weapons at each other, these are some of the biggest problems which the Carter administration must cure to enforce its new Persian Gulf doctrine.

 — "We have an alarming shortfall in airlift capability," said Gen. Lew Allen, Air Force chief of staff.
 — The Navy's fleet is "stretched thinner than at any time since the end of World War II," said Adm. Thomas Hayward, chief of naval operations. The Navy has had to strip aircraft carriers from both the Pacific and Mediterranean to maintain a crisis force in the Arabian Sea.

— Army National Guard and Reserve units, which are supposed to be ready to mobilize and deploy in an emergency, are about 145,000 short in strength. The Army's Individual Ready Reserve manpower pool, from which battle casualties would be replaced, has dropped by nearly 550,000 since the draft ended.
 — With the loss of Iran as an ally, the United States lacks any assured place to land troops, build up supplies and to mount counter-attacks against Soviet forces in a Persian Gulf-Arabian Sea war.

sian Gulf, while the United States is thousands of miles away.
 This means the Russians can easily support an invasion overland or by air from home territory, as they did in Afghanistan, while the United States must rely on very long air and sea lines of supply, which could be vulnerable.

Linowitz To Meet With Mideast Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special negotiator Sol M. Linowitz says Egypt and Israel can beat the May target date for a Palestinian autonomy plan "if they have the will and determination to do it."
 Setting out for talks with Mideast leaders, Linowitz said there already is "very significant agreement" between Egypt and Israel and he has hopes of drawing Palestinians into the talks.
 In an interview before leaving for London Thursday evening, the U.S. negotiator said turmoil over the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan hovers over the negotiations.

 "If anything, it underlines the importance of moving forward, of finding a resolution," he said.
 And yet he rejected any suggestion of pressuring Israel for concessions in order to rally Arab countries against the Soviet Union.
 "It does not mean I come pressuring, pushing, doing anything that I would not be doing otherwise in trying to move the parties forward," he said.
 In London, Linowitz plans to meet

King Hussein of Jordan, who has condemned the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty and has refused to join the autonomy negotiations.
 "I have not heard him express his concerns," Linowitz said. "I want to hear first hand what troubles him, what is it that he wanted to accomplish at Camp David and to see if, indeed, we are that far apart."
 Linowitz flies to Cairo Sunday for a meeting with President Anwar Sadat, to Israel Tuesday to see Prime Minister Menachem Begin and then to Riyadh Friday for talks with Saudi Arabian leaders.

 He also will stop in Morocco next week for a meeting with King Hassan on the way home.
 Along the way, Linowitz said, he intends to talk with Palestinian Arabs from the Israeli-held West Bank of the Jordan River and Gaza district.
 They have joined with Hussein in boycotting the negotiations over an autonomy plan. But Linowitz appeared somewhat optimistic they could be persuaded to participate, despite objections from the Palestine Liberation Organization, which remains committed to Israel's destruction.
 "I am told by people who have had relations with them," he said, "that should a suitable plan be put forward which promises what Palestinians regard as tantamount to full autonomy, they would find it very hard not to become involved."

Israel Completes Withdrawal From Vast Sinai Peninsula

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The Israeli flag was lowered and the Egyptian flag raised today over a 5,800-square-mile section of the Sinai Peninsula, clearing the way for normalization of relations between the two former enemies.
 Israel Radio reported that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat telephoned Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin to mark the occasion. The two leaders talked for 15 minutes, and Sadat pledged Egypt would honor its agreements with Israel, the state radio said.
 The Israeli withdrawal, the last of a five-stage Sinai pullback over nine months, left two-thirds of the vast peninsula in Egyptian hands. Israel is to evacuate the rest of the peninsula in 1982.
 In a brief change-of-command ceremony at Rafidim, once a major Israeli air base, Brig. Gen. Dan Shomron said the Israeli pullback was an "expression of our earnestness to reach peace."

 The zone evacuated includes the Mitla and Gidi passes, which Israeli forces took in the 1956 and 1967 Middle East wars. The passes, still littered with rusting military wreckage, are the main approaches from the western Sinai close to the Suez Canal to the level desert plain that abuts Israel's Negev Desert.
 Israel's withdrawal also marked the end of the United Nations Emergency Force, which had up to 4,000 men monitoring the Sinai buffer zone created after the 1973 Middle East war. Egyptian forces now control the former buffer.
 The Egyptian-Israeli treaty had envisioned an armed U.N. force to man the new buffer zones between Israel and Egypt, but the Soviet Union, with its veto power in the U.N. Security Council, blocked the plan.

 Egyptian rule now returns to a line from Ras Muhammad on the Red Sea at the southern tip of the peninsula to El Arish on the Mediterranean. Ras Muhammad is about 200 miles to the south.
 Israel continues to hold a 50-mile wide portion of eastern Sinai until March 1982, with a narrow buffer zone separating the two countries' armies. Egypt and Israel agreed to a system of joint patrols of the buffer during a visit by Defense Minister Ezer Weizman to Egypt earlier this week.
 A U.S.-manned monitoring station will help patrol the 25,000-square-mile peninsula with electronic equipment and overflights.

Russians Will Not Charge Sakharov

MOSCOW (AP) — Andrei Sakharov, banished to the city of Gorky in a Kremlin bid to silence its most outspoken critic, will not face criminal charges, a senior Soviet official said today.
 Vitali Kobyshev, chief of the U.S. section of the International Department of the Communist Party Central Committee told The Associated Press that Sakharov, a nuclear physicist who helped develop the Soviet hydrogen bomb, also would be free to continue his scientific work.
 The patriarch of the human rights movement in the Soviet Union, Sakharov was banished Tuesday to the Volga port city, 250 miles east of Moscow, which is closed to foreigners.

 There was speculation he might be put on trial after the government newspaper Izvestia accused him Wednesday of "blurring out" state secrets to Westerners. The paper stopped just short of calling him a traitor.
 Kobyshev said in an interview that "proceeding from humane notions and taking into account his previous merits, he (Sakharov) will not be charged."
 Since he (Sakharov) is an academician, he will be able to continue his work," the official added.
 Just before he was shipped off to Gorky, Sakharov was stripped of his state awards, although he remains a member of the prestigious Soviet Academy of Sciences.

Soviet Defector Says Repression Prompted Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — Disgust over Soviet policies of "aggression, expansion and enslavement of other people" led a top Soviet official at the United Nations to defect, he told Congress today.
 The privileges of my high position brought neither ease nor contentment, for there is a kind of pain which grows in the mind as one begins to become aware that he is part of a cruel and dangerous society, Arkady Shevchenko testified.
 Shevchenko, a U.N. undersecretary before he defected in April 1978, said in a statement that repression in his homeland is growing.
 Tragically for the Soviet people, there are clear and unmistakable signs that Stalinist measures are being revived in order to curtail the growing discontent of the people," he told a House Intelligence subcommittee.
 The role and power of the KGB now is growing similar to that exercised in the darkest days of Stalin's rule, when millions of innocent people became the victims of terrible crimes.
 There are not enough material goods, there is no freedom of privacy, and respect for elementary human rights does not exist," Shevchenko said.

Late Leader To Have First Public Memorial

PEKING (AP) — The late, disgraced former Chinese President Liu Shao-chi, who gradually is being restored to respectability, is to have his first public memorial Saturday at a poetry recitation.

Liu has been defended in the magazine Red Flag, but there has been no official government action so far to exonerate him of charges by Communist Party radicals.

KIDS-ONLY CLUB

Carnival Slang Used By Kids

By SHARI LEWIS

In the world of show business the word "carny" stands for a carnival, an outdoor show like a circus. And carnies is the name of a slang that's used on carnival lots when one member of the troupe has to say something important in front of "townies," the people from the town where they're playing. I can't imagine how it became a street language for kids, but it did.

You use the first vowel of each word as you do with Pig Latin, but this time you add the two sounds of "ee-ess" before that vowel. For example, let's use the word book. Start with the sound of "b" ("beh"), add the sounds "ee-ess," and then pronounce the rest of the word, resulting in "bee-ess-ook."

Here are some other examples: street is stree-ess-reet, wall is wee-ess-all, store is stee-ess-ore. It's really confusing when you mix Carny with regular English, using Carny for just the important words. Suppose you wanted to say, "I'm going to see John's mother about going to the show." By mixing the two languages and leaving out a couple of unimportant words you have the following very confusing sounds:

"I'm going to Jee-ess-ohs mee-ess-ohs about the she-ess-oh."

Yesterday's Brain Twister: Who is the father of corn?

Answer: Popcorn.

Today's Brain Twisters: How many words can you think of that are sounds of some kind (like "boom" and "pop")? (Look for the answer in Sunday's Kids-Only Club column.)

(Mail to Shari should be addressed to Kids-Only Club, care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1111, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.)

Thai Airline Slates First Flight To U.S.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thai Airways International, Thailand's national carrier, will begin service to the United States with an inaugural flight on March 30, a company spokesman said recently.

Thai Airways Vice President Nikorn Maneelert said the line planned three flights a week from Bangkok to Seattle and Los Angeles.

The inaugural flight was moved up from April 1 after the airline learned it would be taking early delivery of new aircraft.

Air Siam ran flights on the Thai-U.S. route until 1977 when the government closed down the privately-owned airline because of financial problems.

Wounded Woman Dies After Siege

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A woman critically wounded during a 39-hour hostage siege in which two of her children were killed has died at Mercy Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said Arlene Ware, 22, died Wednesday of complications from injuries suffered Jan. 11. She and her two children had been held hostage by Samuel Andrews, 27, who claimed to be a Moslem prophet. Police said Andrews shot and killed Mrs. Ware's two children, Kimberly, 4, and Fred, 2, before wounding Miss Ware and shooting himself to death.

Presbytery Meets In Snyder Church

Palo Duro Union Presbytery will meet today and Saturday in the First Presbyterian Church of Snyder. The Rev. Tom Pass of Post is the moderator of the presbytery.

The Rev. Carl Kinnard of St. Louis will lead a seminar on prayer renewal today before the presbytery meeting convenes.

Special speakers for the Snyder meeting will be the Rev. Charles Ross, a missionary on furlough from Zaire, and the Rev. Ed Hart of Seymour who has recently returned from a trip to the Middle East. Hart formerly served as a missionary in Lebanon.

The election of a new moderator for the presbytery and the election of commissioners to the General Assemblies of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. and the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. will be among items of business transacted by the pastors and elders attending the presbytery meeting.

Palo Duro Union Presbytery is a judicatory of both major Presbyterian denominations and includes 68 churches in the areas of Wichita Falls, Amarillo, Lubbock and Abilene. The Rev. Paul D. Young of Lubbock is general presbyter.

Church Workers Conference Set

Redeemer Lutheran Church, 2221 Ave. W., is hosting a Professional Church Workers Conference for the Texas District of the Lutheran Church — Missouri Synod — this week.

The conference participants will include 75 pastors, teachers and ministers of education from the northwestern quarter of Texas. The host pastor is the Rev. Francis W. Mennenga. The Rev. Richard Rist, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church of Wilson and circuit counselor for the Lubbock area, will be the chairman of the conference.

A major part of the program of the conference is a presentation by representatives of Lutheran Social Services of Texas on the topic of "Working with Troubled Families." Moderator of the presentation will be Leroy Haverlah of Austin, an LSST staff member.

Others serving as leaders for the conference include the Rev. Albert Loeschmann, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church of Vernon and the Rev. Carroll Kohl, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church of Big Spring.

Lovern To Be In Lubbock

J. Chess Lovern of San Antonio, United Methodist bishop of the Rio Grande Conference, will be in Lubbock this weekend to meet with pastors of Spanish-speaking United Methodist churches.

Saturday evening the bishop will be the special guest of area pastors and their wives at a dinner.

Sunday, Lovern will preach at the 11 a.m. service of the Emanuel United Methodist Church, 2617 Cornell Ave. At 2:30 p.m. Sunday, the bishop will officiate at the dedication of the parsonage for the Central District superintendent.

Lovern is a former pastor of Lubbock's First United Methodist Church.

Ford To Address Group

Frank Ford of Hereford will be the guest speaker for today's 7 p.m. banquet of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship. The meeting will be held in Room 107 of the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

Ford is currently chairman of the board of Arrowhead Mills of Hereford, a company of which he is the founder and former president.

He is president of the Hereford Community Action Program and chairman of the Tierra Blanco District of the Boy Scouts.

Afghan Refugees Get Aid

WASHINGTON (Special) — Meeting here Jan. 11-12 to commemorate its 40th year, the United Methodist Committee on Relief responded to the newest crisis on the globe by voting $50,000 to help charter a plane to take 87,000 pounds of blankets and warm clothing to Afghan refugees who have fled to Pakistan.

The contribution goes toward an appeal for $175,000 issued by the Church World Service, the relief and development arm of the National Council of Churches. The plane left Baltimore Jan. 19, and a second shipment of cholera and polio vaccine is due to depart shortly.

In the meantime, it has been announced that United Methodist churches and individuals have contributed upwards of a million dollars for relief of starvation in Cambodia. A report dated Jan. 8 accounted for $850,000 and additional contributions still are en route to the United Methodist agency.

Dedication Service Planned

Bishop Alsie Carlton of Albuquerque, N.M., bishop of the Northwest Texas-New Mexico Conference of the United Methodist Church, will preach Sunday at the Oakwood Methodist Church. The bishop will be in Lubbock to officiate at the dedication of a debt-free building planned by the Oakwood congregation.

Dr. William Fleming, Lubbock district superintendent, will assist in the dedication service.

Following the special 10:30 a.m. dedication service, the church will have a covered dish luncheon.

Reassignment Criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ordered silenced in his advocacy of women's ordination, a Jesuit priest, the Rev. William Callahan, has been reassigned to the Jesuit School of Theology in Chicago — but head of that archdiocese apparently doesn't want him there.

Chicago's Cardinal John Cody reportedly raised objections, and although the Jesuits have authority to staff their own institutions without approval of local bishops, the transfer is being reconsidered in view of Cody's protests.

Callahan, founder of the Quixote Center, a justice group, and of Priests for Equality, which advocates women's ordination, was ordered transferred by his regional Jesuit superior, the Rev. Edward O'Flaherty of Boston, after earlier being silenced by the Rev. Pedro Arupe, the Jesuit superior general in Rome.

Wherever he winds up, Callahan said the Quixote Center would continue under co-directors and Priests for Equality through volunteers.

Survey Results Aired

NEW YORK (AP) — Most members and pastors of the 3-million-member Lutheran Church in America want to see racial minorities and women assume more leadership in the church, according to a survey of clergy and laity.

Abortions Called Scandal

NEW YORK (AP) — Marking the seventh anniversary of the Jan. 22, 1973, Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion, Cardinal Terence Cooke termed the more than a million abortions now occurring yearly a "national scandal."

Cardinal Cooke, archbishop of New York and chairman of the U.S. bishops' committee for pro-life activities, issued a statement saying each abortion destroys "a child, made in the image and likeness of God."

He added, "We once again ... call upon the members of the government and all our brothers and sisters to reverse the

Theologian Says China Antagonistic To Religion

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
United Press International Writer

The end of the era of Mao Tse-tung and a slow shift toward a more liberal government in the Peoples Republic of China has given rise to new hope among Western Christians that Christianity may have a new day on the mainland.

But those very Christians should exercise a strong sense of caution, according to Dr. Arne Sovik of the Lutheran World Federation.

In a long analysis of the current situation in China, especially in regard to religion, Sovik saw some hope for an increased vitality in Chinese Christianity, but also warned that the change from the era of Mao would not open the floodgates to new Christian mission activity.

"There is nothing so hard to predict as the future," Sovik said. "But one thing seems reasonably sure and that is that China will remain a socialist state."

He said the "pragmatism" of the current government should not be seen as a rejection of Marxism and that that means "there will remain a basic antagonism to religion as a fact to be recognized."

He also said that in China there is a "tendency to oscillation" between a hard and soft line on religion and other elements that are part of the current liberalism of the present government.

"Recent indications are that the limit has been reached in freedom of expression, and we can expect a certain definition of the line of acceptable dissent, criticism and aberration from socialist norms, or even the drawing of tighter lines," Sovik said.

"The religious believers seem to be operating well within those limits at the present time," he added.

At the same time, however, he said government officials seem to recognize that religion "is in fact an element to be reckoned with in Chinese life."

He said that "the present atmosphere has made it possible for religious believers, including Christians, to exhibit their faith more openly."

"Worship is seen to take place in Buddhist temples, Christians declare themselves to overseas visitors," he said. "Local worship is apparently more open, as is listening to foreign religious, as well as other broadcasts."

Sovik said there were some indications that some churches may be opened again.

Noting that some Western Christians are speaking almost euphorically about sending foreign missionaries back into China, Sovik said there already were "a small number of Westerners (and Chinese of overseas background) who occupy, with a sense of Christian vocation, teaching positions in Chinese schools."

"Indications are that this form of Christian service may well develop considerably, as may the chance to serve China in other professions," Sovik said.

"But the experience in other socialist countries and the character of the Chinese society may make it seem highly unlikely that foreigners would be permitted to enter China as professional evangelists," he added.

"And it is questionable if that would in fact be the best way to bring Christian witness in modern China," he said.

Church News Iran Crisis Called Religious Issue

DALLAS (Special) — The Texas Baptist Christian Life Commission has called on the religious community of America to see the Iran crisis as a religious issue and to avoid one-sided emphases.

"While others speak freely of vengeance and hatred," Christians speak differently," says a resolution adopted by the 15-member commission at their quarterly meeting.

Stating that one-sided emphases "drive us ever further from the safe release of the hostages," the commission acknowledged "the Islamic revolution in Iran as a religiously motivated peoples' revolution."

"We emphasize both the futility of political negotiations devoid of religious understanding in dealing with the revolution's leaders and the ineffectiveness of economic sanctions and force against those who seek martyrdom," it added.

The commission said it joins "all responsible peoples in condemning every use of kidnapping and terrorism to secure political and retributive ends."

But at the same time it said, "We prayerfully uphold and sympathize with the many thousands of Iranians and their families who have brutally suffered and died at the hands of SAVAK (the secret police of the deposed Shah of Iran)."

The resolution also struck at the "prejudicial and wholesale hatred of Iranians in the United States."

It said, particularly, we join Dr. William Tanner of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board in calling on all Christians to minister to bring the spirit of Christ to a bitter and hostile climate."

It encourages Christians "never to succumb to weariness as the captivity prolongs and to continue in prayer and fellow suffering with the hostages and their families."

Also it implores "the captors to remember their Islamic traditions of mercy and freedom and to release the hostages. Because the Iranian revolution, which serves as the ground of the hostage situation, is so thoroughly religious in nature, it is the special calling of the churches and their leadership to respond

FIND STRENGTH FOR YOUR LIFE — ATTEND CHURCH

Guarded Treasure

What infinite pains we take to guard our valuable possessions! Yet not all our possessions can be given protection in a safe. What about that priceless treasure which each of us possesses — our eternal happiness?

To safeguard this great treasure, where can we go?

The answer lies in the Church. It gives us the combination that opens the door to our spiritual riches — the combination of faith and good works. The Church guards and guides us along the way that leads to the treasure — the way led by Jesus, our Savior. It invites everyone to join in service to God and to our fellowmen. In this way, we inherit new riches of the spirit that no man or circumstance can steal or destroy.

Ballistics Tests Clear Suspect

An involuntary manslaughter charge filed last October against an Abernathy man officially was dismissed Thursday because of "insufficient evidence to sustain a conviction."

In the dismissal order signed by 72nd District Court Judge Deniz Bevers and filed Thursday with the District Clerk, prosecutors said recently completed ballistics tests have cleared Joe Angel Garcia as a suspect in the shooting death of Ralph Baragat Perez.

Perez, 33, of Littlefield was killed by a single gunshot wound Aug. 19, 1979, as he stood at the doorway of El Tropical Club. The 50-year-old Garcia, a security guard at the 292 Municipal Drive night-spot, also was wounded in the wrist during the incident.

Witnesses told police immediately after the shooting that Garcia and Perez were standing in the open doorway of the club when a dark-colored car parked briefly outside the building and someone in the vehicle fired shots through the door.

However, the witnesses provided conflicting reports as to whether Garcia pulled his pistol, which was not found at the scene, and returned the gunfire.

On Oct. 5, 1979, police arrested Garcia after receiving information of his possible involvement in the shooting. They had theorized at that time Garcia did return the gunfire and it was one of his bullets that proved fatal to Perez.

Prosecutors, however, say that "ballistics tests now confirm that Perez was killed by a rifle bullet fired by a third party and not by Garcia."

MEDICINAL USE
Tobacco, first cultivated by Indians of North and South America, was first generally supposed by Indians to possess medicinal properties and was the chief reason for its early use in Europe.

City Man Loses $200 To Robber

A 22-year-old Lubbock man, who reportedly told police he had been out all night drinking after getting paid at work, said he was robbed of $200 cash about 5:30 a.m. today behind a convenience store at Eighth Street and Avenue Q.

The man said he was confronted by the bandit demanding money moments after he had parked his vehicle behind the store. The robber then drove away in a 1969 yellow pickup truck after taking the loot, the complainant said.

The suspect was described as a young black man, who was tall and heavy set. He was described as wearing a black coat and black pants.

In other activity, a 22-year-old Lubbock man was arrested about 9:30 p.m. Thursday after police officer Jerome Chaney caught him allegedly burglarizing a house in the 5400-block of 95th Street.

Chaney, in his report, stated he arrived on the scene to find several windows broken out and a light on inside Jeffrey Kent Thompson's 5422 95th St. residence. Thompson was away from home at the time.

Chaney said he also saw the suspect's car parked behind the house in an alley. Reports indicate the officer hid behind a fence and when the alleged burglar walked out Chaney confronted him and yelled, "Halt, police!"

However, the man reportedly continued to walk towards his car with stereo equipment and Chaney fired a warning shot from his service revolver. The man then stopped and dropped his loot, police said.

The man was taken to the county jail and booked on suspicion of burglary. Chaney had been called to the scene by several persons who said they saw the man park behind Thompson's residence.

The witnesses said they also had been recent victims of a burglary.

A Lubbock man, who had been seen parked across Monterey High School, 3211 47th St., wielding a sawed-off shotgun, was arrested shortly after 4 p.m. Thursday in front of a service station at 50th Street and Elgin Avenue.

Ironically, the man taken into custody was the one who had called police. The man was holding an 18-year-old Monterey student and another teen-ager at gunpoint when police arrived, according to reports.

The man, who was ordered by police to place his weapon back in his pickup truck, said the student and his companion had thrown a rock at his vehicle. He added that he displayed the shotgun after a number of teen-agers in about 10 cars surrounded him.

However, the student said the man had recently been on the school's campus attempting to pick a fight and that he was seen across from the school with the shotgun. Witnesses said that before the suspect's vehicle was damaged, the armed man had thrown rocks at the student's late-model sports car.

The suspect also allegedly struck the student in the neck with the barrel of his weapon. Along with the shotgun, police said the man was carrying a "black jack" club.

The man was taken to the county jail and booked on suspicion of aggravated assault and unlawfully carrying a weapon.

Amarillo DA Says No To Re-Election

AMARILLO (AP) — Announcing he will not seek re-election, Potter County District Attorney Tom Curtis says he "just wanted to walk away a winner" from the office he has served for more than a decade.

Curtis announced his decision at a news conference Thursday.

Lubbock police were told about 1:15 a.m. today that a man had sexually assaulted his 11-year-old daughter.

The 44-year-old suspect's wife said she came home and saw her husband walking out of their daughter's bedroom. He reportedly told her he was making sure the girl was asleep.

However, the mother said she saw her child putting on her clothes after the man had walked out of the room. The youth told her mother, and later police, that her father had been fondling her just before her mother came home.

A bank bag, containing checks and more than $1,500, was reported stolen from a restaurant in the 6200-block of Slide Road. The manager said he suspects an employee was responsible for the theft.

A woman called the restaurant Thursday afternoon and said she had found the business's empty bank bag in her front yard. The top of the bag had been cut open, according to reports.

Stephen Pierson, pastor of the Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church at 2202 Southeast Drive, said a burglary at the church between 7 p.m. Tuesday and 7 p.m. Thursday resulted in the loss of a $3,000 organ.

Police Thursday were told burglars entered another church and made off with a $3,000 organ and $2,000 speaker.

A 15-year-old junior high school student told police that he was assaulted by five other youths Thursday afternoon.

The youth told officers that he and a friend were attacked by the group in the 3200 block of Avenue P, about 1:15 p.m. for apparently no reason.

Reports indicate one of the assailants used a long blade knife to cut the 15-year-old on the left hand. The youth's friend told investigating officers that one of the suspects struck him with a piece of lumber about 2 1/2 feet long.

In other activity, the owner of a truck company told police someone stole a two-ton truck and a flatbed trailer from his 50th Street business.

John Butcher, owner of Western Truck Co. at 2117 E. 50th St., told officers that an unknown man called Tuesday afternoon wanting to know if Butcher wanted to sell the 1971 red truck and the flatbed trailer.

Reports indicate the man asked Butcher if he would leave the truck's keys in the vehicle so that he might take it for a test drive. Butcher reportedly told the man there would be someone around the shop to show the truck and trailer.

Butcher said the truck and trailer, valued at $3,625, were stolen between 4 p.m. and 8 a.m. Wednesday. A security guard employed by Johnson Manufacturing Co. at 1802 E. 50th St. told Butcher he saw the truck and trailer being driven away about 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Mayors Rally To Push Key Economic Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's mayors, heeding a White House call for help, said today they are launching a joint offensive with the administration to get key economic programs through Congress.

A delegation of mayors planned to meet with President Carter to help map the strategy. White House officials had called on the mayors Thursday for help in the lobbying effort. At a news conference closing the annual winter meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, Mayor Richard E. Carver of Peoria, Ill., said the 200 mayors attending had agreed on a program to meet economic problems pressing the cities. "We're going to lobby hard for it, on Capitol Hill and in the White House, during the coming weeks," said Carver, who is national president of the group. "We have no choice," Carver said. "The economic and social health of our cities in the 1980s depends on our winning these battles." Said Carver: "In our opinion the country is already in a recession, right now." Carver said the country will have to find ways to solve its domestic economic problems while it prepares diplomatically and militarily to meet threats abroad. "We have to do both," Carver said. "We have to find ways to do both. National defense is very important but conversely, if we were simply to walk away from the cities, we are not fighting the battle at home." Mayor Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind., vice president of the conference, said

Middle East crises may cause domestic matters to be overlooked, to the peril of critical urban and economic programs facing action in Congress. Carver said the mayors would concentrate on getting a program of anti-recession aid through Congress, renewal of the expiring revenue-sharing program, help with mounting energy problems and an end to cumbersome federal restrictions. Treasury Secretary E. William Miller and White House domestic adviser Stuart Eizenstat urged the mayors Thursday to join the administration in lobbying for House passage of the Targeted Fiscal Assistance Program, which is expected to reach the floor next week.

Hundreds Evacuated Following Derailment

ACWORTH, Ga. (AP) — Four cars of a Louisville and Nashville freight train, all carrying hazardous materials, derailed early today in downtown Acworth and about 700 persons were evacuated, police said.

Two cars carrying styrene overturned and two cars, one carrying LP gas and another carrying the flammable gas butadiene, were upright but derailed. He said styrene, a liquid used in manufacturing synthetic rubber and plastics, is flammable and its vapors are irritating to eyes and mucous membranes. Police Chief Ken Copeland said that at present, there was no leakage. Copeland said 700 persons were evacuated within a half-mile radius of the derailment. Earlier police estimates placed the number of evacuees as high as 1,000.

Acworth, about 25 miles northwest of Atlanta, has a population of about 3,000 persons. Copeland said the Salvation Army and other agencies set up two centers in Acworth to take care of the persons evacuated.

Police Kill Three Gunmen

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Police today stormed a suburban bank and killed three black gunmen who seized 25 hostages in a bid to win the release of political prisoners, police said.

It was reported that there were casualties among the hostages, but the number was not immediately known. After the attack, a policeman ran out of the building with blood on his hands screaming, "My wife has been shot!" Witnesses earlier reported that police had opened fire on the three-story building in Silverton, just east of this capital city, but there were conflicting reports on what precipitated the gunfire. Negotiations had been said to be under way.

The gunmen were reported armed with automatic rifles and hand grenades. Such a bold assault by blacks is a rare thing in this tightly controlled, white minority-ruled nation. It was the first time black militants had taken hostages in South Africa to try to win the release of political prisoners.

A security source said the trio had demanded freedom for a number of prisoners, including Nelson Mandela, regarded as the father of black nationalism in South Africa. They demanded that they and the prisoners then be flown to Angola, the source said.

Police had confirmed only that the release of a prominent political prisoner was demanded. Mandela, 61, was convicted of trying to overthrow the white government and has been held for 17 years at the Robben Island prison in Cape Town's Table Bay, on the southwest coast.

A spokesman for the Volkskas Bank was quoted as saying the blacks entered the bank's Silverton building at about 1 p.m. with handbags "which probably contained hidden firearms." Many of those inside were able to flee.

An eyewitness said the hostages had been lying on the floor of the bank, the South African Broadcasting Corp. reported.

Police Dispatcher Walter Johnson said the L&N freight derailed about 12:45 a.m. EST.

Beckman said detection devices used on the cars reported only a slight vaporization near the tops of the cars. He said the tanks are designed to release excess pressure when it builds up. "When they derail, they usually slosh around and some of the material gets up near the top," he said.

"Everything is under control right now," Copeland said. "We're waiting for equipment to put the cars back on the track."

Cobb County Civil Defense Director James Ray said the evacuation went smoothly, and said the residents would be allowed to return home when the cars were removed, probably in mid-afternoon.

Johnson said the derailment knocked down power and telephone lines, and some of the lines fell across the derailed cars.

"We had to shut down power to those lines in a hurry in case of sparks," he said. Much of the town was without power after the accident.

Beckman said wrecking cranes were en route from Atlanta and Etowah, Tenn. He said L&N officials were at the scene and others were en route from headquarters in Louisville, Ky.

Prosecutors Told To Replace Papers

ATLANTA (AP) — The judge in the trial of former federal budget director Bert Lance has ordered prosecutors to replace thousands of illegible photocopies with the original loan documents.

U.S. District Judge Charles A. Moyer Jr. halted the trial Thursday, saying he was willing to take unusual steps to make sure a retrial of the complicated bank fraud case would not be necessary.

"This is a long case. To the best of my ability I'm going to try it once," Moyer said. "I'm not going to fail to dot an 'i' or cross a 't'."

The order to subpoena the original records from the 41 banks involved in the case, which is the bulk of the government's documentary evidence against Lance, threatened to delay the trial, which has gotten off to a slow start.

Edwin Tomko, one of the government attorneys, said he was not sure any evidence would be available by Monday morning, when the trial is scheduled to resume.

Lance and three associates are charged with conspiracy, misuse of bank funds, false statements to banks and false entries in bank records in connection with $20 million in loans from 41 banks to themselves, their families and friends.

The prosecution had planned to start its case Thursday by introducing as evidence thousands of photocopies of bank records, along with the testimony of 60 "custodial witnesses" who maintain records at the various banks.

Questioning of the six persons who testified Thursday focused on the legibility of printed portions of the loan papers. Prosecutors argued that the relevant portions — the words written or typed onto the forms — were fully legible.

Jury selection and opening statements consumed the first two weeks of the trial. It now appears that the trial may last much longer than the original estimate of eight to 10 weeks.

Lance's co-defendants are former bank president Richard Carr, contractor Thomas Mitchell and former pharmacy owner Jack Mullins.

Lance was director of the U.S. Office of Management and Budget for eight months in 1977, acting as a close adviser to President Carter.

Ford Attorneys Bargain To Admit Key Evidence

WINAMAC, Ind. (AP) — After three weeks of testimony in the reckless homicide trial of Ford Motor Co., prosecutors still are battling to admit evidence they say will show Ford knew about safety problems with its Pinto model but did nothing about it.

Chief prosecutor Michael A. Cosentino drew a little closer to introducing information from internal Ford documents Thursday when the Pulaski Circuit Court judge ruled a prosecution witness could discuss some of that information.

But Cosentino and Ford attorney James F. Neal are continuing private negotiations over the state's efforts to introduce the documents in entirety. Ford has agreed to authenticate some of the subpoenaed documents in exchange for unspecified concessions from the prosecution.

The automaker is charged with three counts of reckless homicide in the August 1978 deaths of three teen-agers whose 1973 Pinto burst into flames when struck from behind.

Ford contends its Pinto model was comparable in design to other subcompacts and performed as well in rear-end impact tests.

Judge Harold R. Staffeldt ruled Thursday to allow an automotive expert's testimony to include information from Ford documents, which previously were excluded as evidence pending proof of their authenticity.

The prosecution wants to set the stage for submitting as evidence crash tests performed on 1971 and 1972 Pintos. Cosentino said those models are basically the same as the 1973 car.

Remark Almost Scuttles Trial

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A careful case of circumstantial evidence being built up against Theodore Bundy in the kidnap-murder of a 12-year-old girl has come close to being scuttled by a chance remark.

Capt. C.S. Hooker, chief investigator for Florida State University, was testifying Thursday about items found in a van the state says Bundy used in the kidnapping of Kimberly Leach, when he mentioned his involvement "in the investigation of the Chi Omega murders."

Bundy lawyers moved for a mistrial during a conference with Circuit Judge

Wallace Jopling, but the judge rejected the move, saying the remark was inadvertent and didn't mention the defendant. But he admonished lawyers to caution witnesses to stick to their case.

Bundy was convicted in Miami and sentenced to death in July for the bludgeoning deaths of Florida State sorority sisters Margaret Bowman and Lisa Levy. The defense has contended that the 33-year-old ex-law student from Tacoma, Wash., is not getting a fair trial in this case because of widespread publicity surrounding those killings.

Youths Expected To Accept Draft Registration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carter administration officials say they don't anticipate any serious resistance from young people who will be ordered to register for the draft a few months from now.

But for the time being, they are remaining noncommittal on the question most directly affecting half of those young people. Whether the 16 million women between age 18 and 26 will be subject to registration like their 16 million male contemporaries.

Without referring to either gender, one high official, who asked to remain nameless, said: "They're not being conscripted for some highly unpopular war. They're not being conscripted at all, and I don't think we should assume young people are any less patriotic than their parents."

Nonetheless, officials of the U.S. National Student Association and a coalition of 42 peace, civil rights, religious and student groups pledged Thursday to picket, protest, demonstrate and hold campus teach-ins to register their opposition to President Carter's call to readiness.

As if on cue, students at Stanford University in California burned a facsimile of a draft card Thursday at a rally.

Gerald R. Ford.

To institute an actual draft that would order people into the armed forces, however, would require special legislation that the official conceded would be "highly controversial."

What one White House official called the "open question" of whether to require women to register can be expected to cause some controversy — regardless of what Carter decides.

Carter would have to ask Congress for authority to register women, but his long-time support of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution and sexual integration of the armed forces suggests he may be ready to ask for that authority.

HY GARDNER HAS THE ANSWER:

Glad You Asked That!

Q: Is it true that when Joan Blondell, the late, great movie star, married her former boss, entrepreneur Mike Todd, she made him sign a pre-marital agreement where he promised to be home every night by 7:30? If so, why? — Eleanor Breadner, New York.

A: It's true, because the showtime spent so much time playing poker and gin, etc., with the boys at the Friar's Club, she seldom saw him. Also, frequently she had to pay his losses. They married (after she divorced Dick Powell in 1936) and stayed wed until 1947. The blonde beauty, previously became disenchanted with Powell complaining that he "kept his office in our home — the phones kept ringing and we had no privacy." One of her early successes (professionally) was performing on the Broadway stage with another "unknown" in Penny Arcade. The unknown was named James Cagney!

Q: Now that he's quit football to become a full-time movie star and producer, is O.J. Simpson single or has he a new wife? — Emma D., Staten Island, N.Y.

A: The Juice is running alone at this stage of the game after dissolving his 11-year marriage to Marguerite and parenting three children. One child died last September (baby daughter Aarene). However, from what O.J. inferred to Ron Kiser (a Jet feature writer) the torch is still lit. Though he's no celibate, No. 32 said, "I am going to have another kid, one way or another... Maybe I can talk Marguerite into giving me another kid!" Sentimentally, one of the greatest athletes of our time promised that Marguerite and the children will continue to stay at the couple's lavish Brentwood (LA) area house "because that is where my awards and the things that are most dear to me are and will stay. When the children grow up they will see and have these things!"

For the Come-What-May Dept.: Talk is that Marine guards Wesley Williams and William Quarles will sue Iran for holding them as hostages in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran for more than two weeks and falsely imprisoning them during the seizure of the embassy. The suit, filed in the U.S. Court in Washington, seeks $60 million in damages.

Q: Any way of researching how long it took Handel to compose "The Messiah"? — Charles Clyne, Philadelphia.

A: Yes 23 days.

TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN RESOURCES
PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO TITLE 20 SOCIAL SERVICES PLAN

Public Comment Invited

Title 20 of the Social Security Act provides funds for social services such as day care for children, family planning, protective services to children, emergency family services, alternate care for aged, blind, or disabled persons, and employment services. Each year the Department of Human Resources publishes the Title 20 Comprehensive Annual Services Program Plan (CASPP) which describes how funds will be used to provide these services. The following are proposed amendments to the Title 20 CASPP published September 30, 1979. These amendments would be effective April 1, 1980.

REVISED ELIGIBILITY IN THE ALTERNATE CARE FOR AGED, BLIND, AND DISABLED (ACABD) PROGRAM
A simplified eligibility system is proposed, to serve clients with the most need. The system should expand ACABD's capability for providing services to aged, blind, or disabled persons.

DELETION OF TWO SERVICES IN THE ACABD PROGRAM
It is proposed that the health assessments service and the congregate meals component of the Congregate and Home-Delivered Meals Services be deleted because of low levels of need. Funds allocated to these services will be used to serve ACABD clients who need other ACABD services, such as Family Care Services.

DELETION OF MH-MR COMMUNITY SERVICES
It is proposed that community services be deleted as a service provided through interagency agreements (state contracts) if Congress does not increase the federal Title 20 ceiling to $2.9 billion. A major portion of the resources for these services is used to provide protective services for children and adults through contracts with community mental health and mental retardation centers across the state.

COMMENTS
Written comments on the proposed amendments are encouraged and should be sent to the Title 20 Information Center, Texas Department of Human Resources, 706 Banister Lane, Austin, Texas 78704. Comments must be received by 5 p.m., February 25, 1980.

GETTING COPIES OF THE AMENDMENT
The proposed amendment may be read or reviewed in the DHR offices listed below or obtained at no cost by writing to the Title 20 Information Center at the above address.

A public hearing on the proposed amendments will be held at 9 a.m., Tuesday, February 12, 1980, in the Nueces Room of the Sheraton Crest Inn, 111 E. 1st, in Austin.

Addresses are for DHR offices. Where there are no offices, the address of the county judge is given.

DEPARTAMENTO DE RECURSOS HUMANOS DE TEJAS
TITULO 20
ENMIENDAS PROPUESTAS AL PLAN DE SERVICIOS SOCIALES

Se Solicitan Comentarios del Público

El Titulo 20 del Acta de Seguro Social provee fondos para servicios sociales como cuidado de día para niños, planear familia, servicios protectorios para niños, servicios familiares de emergencia, cuidado alternativo para personas ancianas, ciegas o incapacitadas, y servicios de empleo. Cada año el Departamento de Recursos Humanos publica un Plan Comprehensivo Anual Del Programa de Servicios (CASPP) que describe cómo serán empleados los fondos para proveer estos servicios. Las siguientes son enmiendas propuestas al Plan de Servicios del Titulo 20 publicado el 30 de Septiembre, 1979. Estas enmiendas serían efectivas el 1 de Abril, 1980.

REVISION DE ELEGIBILIDAD PARA EL PROGRAMA DE CUIDADO ALTERNATIVO PARA PERSONAS ANCIANAS, CIEGAS E INCAPACITADAS (ACABD)

TERMINACION DE DOS SERVICIOS DEL PROGRAMA DE CUIDADO ALTERNATIVO
Puesto que hay pocas personas que las necesitan, se propone la eliminación de las evaluaciones de salud y las comidas en grupo que forman parte de los Servicios de Comidas en Grupo y Comidas Entregadas a Casa. Los fondos destinados a estos servicios se emplearán para servir clientes ancianos, ciegos, o incapacitados que necesitan otros servicios—como, por ejemplo, servicios de Cuidado Familiar—del Programa de Cuidado Alternativo.

TERMINACION DE SERVICIOS DE SALUD MENTAL-RETRASO MENTAL DE LA COMUNIDAD
Si el Congreso no aumenta a $2.9 billones el máximo de fondos federales para el Titulo 20, se propone que los servicios en la comunidad ya no sean provistos por acuerdos entre agencias (contratos del estado). La mayor porción de los recursos para estos servicios se emplean para proveer servicios protectorios a niños y adultos por medio de contratos con los centros de salud mental y retraso mental de comunidades en todo el estado.

COMENTARIOS
Se solicitan comentarios del público por escrito. Se deben enviar a Title 20 Information Center, Texas Department of Human Resources, 706 Banister Lane, Austin, Texas 78704. Todo comentario tiene que recibirse antes de las 5 p.m. del 25 de Febrero, 1980.

PARA CONSEGUIR COPIAS DE ESTAS ENMIENDAS
Copias de las propuestas enmiendas se pueden ver en las oficinas del Departamento nombradas abajo, o se pueden obtener, gratis, escribiendo al Title 20 Information Center (vea la dirección en el párrafo anterior).

Habrà una audiencia pública sobre las enmiendas propuestas a las 9 a.m., el martes, 12 de Febrero, 1980, en la sala Nueces Room, del Sheraton Crest Inn, 111 E. 1st, Austin.

Las direcciones son de las oficinas de Recursos Humanos. Cuando no hay oficina, se da la dirección del juez del condado.

moratorium on both houses in April. Arnold Maeker, representing First Baptist, told the council that the church has agreed to give the 2 1/2-story White-Mast home to the Lubbock Heritage Society if the society plans to move the structure. He said the society plans to move the house to Broadway and Avenue W.

Ron Beard, heritage society president, said his group will seek a Design-Historic designation for the old home on the new site.

The fate of the other home, a rock structure called the Cox house, is still unknown. Maeker noted that the house was sold to a Lubbock man, who had originally planned to move it to another site last summer. But Maeker said he is unsure whether the owner still plans to relocate the home.

The lifting of the moratorium enables the church to have its property cleared. However, First Baptist must seek approval from the Zoning Board of Adjustment to allow construction of the proposed parking lot.

Two other older homes also received the council's attention Thursday.

The council approved a request by Marion Key to allow apartment-medical zoning for two lots at 3501 19th St. The house on the property was owned by the late Clifford B. Jones, the first president of Texas Tech.

Methodist Hospital hopes to build a parking facility at that site, but the house is being considered for a landmark designation by the Urban Design Commission.

Thursday's zoning decision by the council will not necessarily pave the way for the hospital to locate parking facilities on the property. The Urban Design Commission must first decide whether the house will be designated as a landmark and whether it must remain on the site to have that designation.

Also Thursday, the council granted a request for landmark designation for an older home at 5202 Fourth St. The house is a reproduction of the Tara plantation home featured in the movie, "Gone With the Wind."

The council also granted a request by the Civic Centers Board to hire an additional staff member for the civic center. The new staff member will fill the position of a service coordinator and will deal chiefly with public relations work, according to board chairman Joan Baker.

were happening in the twinkling of an eye and all feared for their lives." Under those circumstances, Brown argued, anyone might have fired the fatal shot and testimony from prosecution witnesses identifying McLin as Scott's killer might simply be "assimilated assumptions."

Brown also blasted the police department's investigation of the shooting, pointing out that officers confiscated only McLin's gun for ballistics testing. He added that McLin had offered to turn the weapon over to police after his arrest the evening of Aug. 25.

Lead prosecutor Ware, however, told the panel the police had no reason to pursue the investigation after McLin's arrest because the defendant was the only person matching witness descriptions of the killer.

"What is important is that somebody out there (at Chilly's) knew him," Ware said, pointing at the defendant.

"This killing was a matter of pride," Ware continued. "This big man gets thrown to the ground by someone else in front of his peers and what does he do but go get a gun from his car and shoot that man."

Ware also argued that all witnesses,

Energy-Saving Costs Provide Tax Breaks

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 12th in a series of tip articles provided by the Lubbock Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants.)

A lot has been said lately about tax savings for individuals who installed energy-saving equipment in their home. Here's what the law says.

Tax credits for 1979 on residential energy expenditures are available for expenses incurred Jan. 1, 1979 through Dec. 31, 1979.

Qualifying energy conservation materials can gain you up to $300 tax credit, provided by the Energy Tax Act of 1978. In addition, a separate credit not to exceed $2,200 is available for installation of certain renewable energy source expenditures.

Qualifying energy conservation materials include insulation, storm doors and windows, caulking, weather-stripping and certain heating system modifications designed to conserve energy. Renewable energy source expenditures include those which use or transmit solar wind or geothermal energy to heat, cool or provide hot water for a residence.

Energy tax credits can only be claimed on Form 1040, Form 5695, Energy Credits, should be used to compute the credits and attached to the tax return.

If you should have any questions regarding credit eligibility, contact your local IRS office.

These and other questions concerning your 1979 tax return will be answered in the Taxpayer Education program. This public service course, jointly sponsored by the Lubbock Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants and the Internal Revenue Service will be offered Feb. 12 and 14, 7-10 p.m.

More than 30 CPAs will volunteer their time to assist taxpayers during a two-night informal program, which provides both instruction and question-and-answer sessions. The course is available to the public at a charge of $1 per person to cover administrative costs.

To register for the Taxpayer Education program, simply fill out the registration form below. Money and registration form must be mailed by Jan. 28, 1980.

Classes in Lubbock will be held at Lubbock High School, Atkins Junior High School, Evans Junior High School, Smiley Wilson Junior High School and O.L. Slaton Junior High School.

Energy Credits Can Pay Off For U.S. Taxpayers

By GLENN RITT
WASHINGTON (AP) — Last year, nearly six million taxpayers claimed $600 million in tax breaks for such energy conservation schemes as installing storm windows and building windmills.

With oil prices still climbing and the Middle East a perpetual powder keg, these energy credits appear even sweeter this year.

And Congress could expand the conservation incentives by the time taxpayers sit down to prepare their 1979 forms.

At the moment, there are two distinct energy breaks:

You can reduce your taxes by up to $300 for household improvements such as replacing your thermostat or weather stripping your doors.

You can also claim a tax credit of up to $2,000 for more ambitious endeavors — installing what the law calls "renewable energy sources." These include devices that transmit some solar, wind, or geothermal energy to heat, cool or provide hot water for a residence.

That must be your "principal" residence, the IRS cautions.

Household improvements

These include

—Insulation for floors, ceilings, roofs, hot water heaters and pipes

—Exterior storm, or thermal, window and doors

—Caulking or weather stripping for exterior windows and doors

—A furnace replacement burner that reduces the amount of fuel used —A device to make flue openings for a heating system more efficient

—An electrical or mechanical furnace ignition system that replaces a gas pilot light

—An automatic, energy-saving thermostat

—A meter that displays the cost of energy usage

A taxpayer can claim 15 percent of the first $2,000 spent on these energy-saving moves, or a maximum of $300, the IRS says.

A credit is subtracted from your total taxes, not your total income.

Last In A Series

Here's an example:

Your tax bill is $5,000, but you spent $1,000 to install storm windows last February. You can claim 15 percent of that expense as an energy credit of $150 and pay total taxes of $4,850.

There's a bit of fine print attached to this credit:

—You can't claim it for installing carpets, drapes, wood paneling or exterior siding, even if they do help save energy.

—Nor can you qualify for installing a heat pump, fluorescent lights, wood- or peat-burning stoves, or replacement furnaces and boilers.

—The maximum $300 credit applies to the entire period you own your home, not to each year you live there. If you take a $100 credit one year, you can qualify only for $200 in subsequent years.

—You must be the first person to use the energy conservation item and it must be expected to last at least three years.

—You cannot claim less than a $10 credit at any one time.

The credits do apply to owners of condominiums or cooperatives.

Renewable energy sources:

This credit is computed by taking 30 percent of the first $2,000 and 20 percent of the next $8,000 spent for solar, geothermal and wind devices.

As with energy conservation expenses, the full $10,000 limit can be spread over several tax years. A new $10,000 limit applies for each principal residence you occupy.

These larger projects must be expected to last at least five years.

This credit does not apply to solar devices such as extra-thick walls, windows, skylights, greenhouses and roof overhangs.

Congress is considering expanding these credits to include heat pumps and other solar schemes, the IRS advises.

Taxpayers may also be able to take some deductions for home heating expenses.

If such changes are made by Congress, the IRS will distribute a separate form, in addition to the already-published 1040 form.

There's one other way the government is inducing energy conservation.

No longer can taxpayers deduct state and local gasoline taxes. That will further increase the cost of driving, on top of record-high gasoline prices.

THE WHITE HOUSE

Prankster Angers Powell

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter's Georgians harbor searing memories of the War Between the States. And Union Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman's scorched-earth march through Georgia is, even now, a cause celebre.

This became evident after a fellow White House habitue tried to play a prank on press secretary Jody Powell.

Displayed prominently near Powell's desk is a framed montage of portraits of "Leaders of the Rebellion," headed by the president of the confederacy, Jefferson Davis.

The prankster found a head-and-shoulders likeness of the hated Sherman and surreptitiously pasted it over the visage of the sainted Davis.

Two days later, Powell discovered the alteration, ripped down the offensive picture of Sherman and, cussing mightily, consigned it to the roaring flames in his office fireplace.

What's more, Powell announced he would keep his office locked during future absences so there could be no further acts of desecration.

'Twelve More Years'

On the morning after Carter's big win in Iowa, presidential consultant Gerald Rafshoon was greeted at the White House by an acquaintance who shouted resigned President Richard M. Nixon's 1972 campaign slogan, "Four More Years."

Al Eisele, press secretary to Vice President Walter F. Mondale, interrupted with a shout of "Twelve More Years."

Continuing Crisis

Want to know the headlines you'll be reading in March?

Although most of us might be hesitant to predict such things, the White House last week announced that Helmut Schmidt, the chancellor of West Germany, will visit Carter on March 5 to discuss, among other things, "the continuing crisis in Iran."

Soon afterward, Jerrold Schecter, who is press secretary for the National Security Council staff, sought out reporters and urged them to disregard the reference to Iran.

A substitute announcement later was prepared and distributed.

Forgotten Event

Obviously, gremlins get into the prose-producing machinery at the White House from time to time. Another example:

When Carter sent Congress a written State of the Union message Monday, the document referred to the Camp David, Md., Israeli-Egyptian summit of August 1978.

Although the summit was one of the landmark events of Carter's presidency, the prose machine had him forgetting the proper date. It was September 1978.

Angry Lobbyist

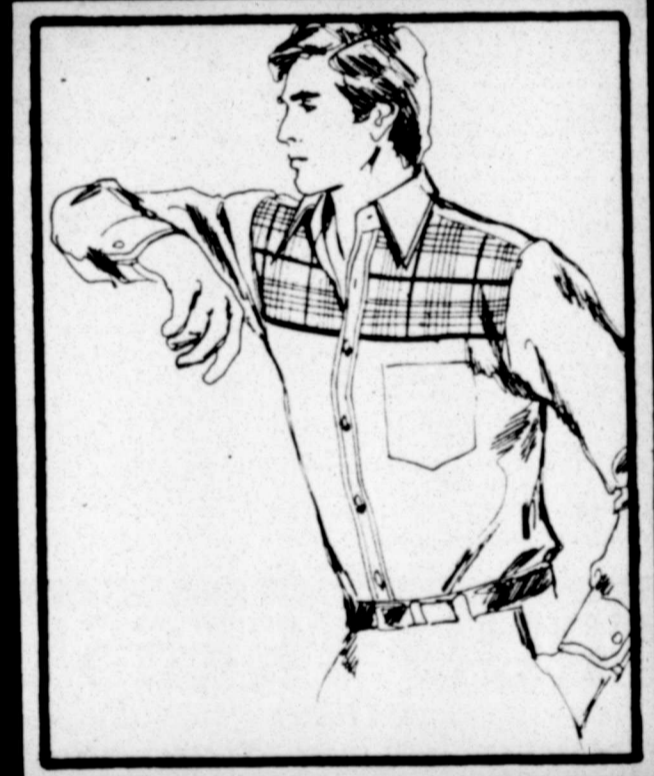

Frank Moore, the president's chief lobbyist with Congress, is back at work — and angry — after a week-long "vacation" spent campaigning in Oklahoma.

Moore complained about an item in this space last week that reported, correctly, that his name appeared on Carter's daily list of appointments even during Moore's absence.

"Two of my deputies were there (meeting with Carter)," insisted Moore, as if that explained everything.

NATO Allies, Japan Announce Anti-Soviet Steps

LONDON (AP) — Two NATO allies of the United States, Britain and Portugal, announced punitive actions against the Soviet Union because of its military intervention in Afghanistan. Japan's prime minister said his government would take "appropriate measures" even if they involved sacrifices.

Lord Carrington, the British foreign secretary, announced Thursday that Britain was suspending "for the time being" high-level contacts with the Soviet Union and would not renew its trade agreement with the Kremlin. The agreement expiring Feb. 16 grants the Soviets extensive credit, and Carrington said its terms were too favorable.

During a speech in the House of Commons, Carrington also announced the cancellation of military and cultural exchanges with the Soviet Union and an increase in the number of Russian-language broadcasts beamed into the Soviet Union and Afghanistan.

The Soviet decision to send troops into Afghanistan was "a vivid demonstration of the Soviet drive to gain wider influence wherever possible, by propaganda, by subversion, and where necessary by force," Carrington said.

He also urged that the summer Olympics be moved from Moscow, declaring that allowing them to be held there "would appear to condone Soviet aggression abroad and repression at home." And he said the arrest and banishment of Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov represented "cynical disregard of world opinion."

Government sources in London said Britain earlier had extended invitations to Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexi N. Kosygin to visit, but that the invitations but were "not suitable" now.

In Lisbon, Portugal's new center-right government said all "official, political" meetings and visits with the Kremlin would be held up for review, and it renounced the cultural and scientific cooperation agreement between the two countries.

Premier Francisco Sa Carneiro's three-week-old government also said negotiations on a fishing accord between the two countries would not be completed.

The announcement came a day after Portugal's parliament passed resolutions condemning the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan and the arrest and banishment of Sakharov.

In Tokyo, Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira today termed the Soviet intervention "unjustifiable on any account," and said his government intended to take "appropriate measures" against the Kremlin even "if they may involve sacrifices on our own part."

The measures he cited were: tightening controls on Japanese exports to Russia; participating in international economic aid to Pakistan and other Afghan

backing efforts by the United States and its European allies to resolve "this serious situation."

Absence Of Khomeini Would Cause Chaos

By ALVIN B. WEBB
BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The ailing Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, hospitalized from fatigue and overwork, is the only force of unity in Iran and without him the fledgling Islamic republic would be flung into chaos.

For good or ill, the 79-year-old bearded Imam controls the nation with an iron grip and his departure could shatter the nation and threaten the world with a major conflict.

Also at stake are the lives of 50 American hostages, who today spent their 83rd day as captives of Moslem militants who take their orders from Khomeini alone.

The religious leader is the unquestioned power in the land now, commanding the unwavering devotion of the population. But he has made no apparent provision for his succession — even if he could in an inherently fragmented society. A power vacuum could prove disastrous.

Two — Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh and his predecessor, Abolhassan Bani-Sadr — are leading candidates in today's elections for the first president of Islamic Iran.

Two holymen also are forces to be recognized — Mohammed Beheshti, a key Khomeini aide, and Kazem Shariat-Madari, Khomeini's main rival.

But none has anything approaching the sway of the almost mystical Khomeini who rose from exile to topple Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi one year ago.

Rather, the myriad competing forces that Khomeini's presence has held in check — internal feuding in Tehran, dissent in the remote provinces of Baluchistan, Kurdistan and Azerbaijan, the militant fervor of "students" — likely would be loosed at his death.

The Islamic Revolutionary Council in Tehran theoretically runs the country, but it gets its directions from Khomeini. The militants holding the U.S. Embassy listen only to him.

Neither group likes the other and without Khomeini, conflict between them seems certain.

An Iran without Khomeini could mean a struggle for power in Tehran and provincial unrest. With Iran's military toothless — it has perhaps a dozen usable aircraft — outside intervention could prove irresistible.

An Iran in chaos could be an open invitation to the Soviets to "restore order" — particularly if Washington should vacillate on its own response.

The chances of a strong and united post-Khomeini leadership are not promising.

Bani-Sadr, 47, has been embarrassed both by the militants, who refuse to take his brand of moderation seriously, and by Khomeini himself.

Area Town Sending Card To Ayatollah

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A box full of dead daisies was expected to be on its way to Iran today from an estimated 1,000 Morton area residents who see it as a reverse get-well message to the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini who reportedly is hospitalized in Tehran.

"I've just been getting madder as every day goes by," explained Joyce Silhan, a florist, who originated the idea. "This is the only way I've got to protest."

When Mrs. Silhan awoke Thursday morning, President Carter's state of the union message was still on her mind. She tuned in the local radio station KRAN and grew more upset listening to the continuing saga of a stalemate between the U.S. and Iran.

Impulsively, she phoned the station and suggested sending dead flowers to Khomeini. "They're always looking for something to start the day," she said of the morning talk show.

An avalanche of calls flooded the station after Mrs. Silhan's idea was aired. Radio station manager Ed Couzens said 200 listeners called the 500-watt station in the first two hours of the campaign.

By 4 p.m., the cut-off time for taking calls in support of the idea, Couzens estimated that 1,000 persons from West Texas and Eastern New Mexico had added their names to the support list.

He explained that the 4 p.m. deadline was critical because, "We had to get the order in by 5 p.m. today (Thursday) to get the flowers there tomorrow."

Although dandelions were the first choice of flowers, Couzens said a parcel of dead daisies would be more appropriate because, "It's kind of like 'He loves me, He loves me not. I can't make up my mind.' He (the Ayatollah) can't seem to make up his mind about the hostages."

Radio Iran reported that Khomeini was hospitalized Thursday with a heart ailment and was in good condition.

In floral symbology, white represents purity and good thoughts, Mrs. Silhan said, adding that the dead daisies will be black and foul-smelling by the time they arrive.

"They'll be pure white before they enter Iran, let's put it that way," she said. "I wouldn't send that sucker yellow daisies because yellow means love."

Couzens said there has been little negative reaction to the idea, although some listeners opposed the flower shipment because they feared it might worsen tense relations between the two countries.

Mrs. Silhan doesn't know how many flowers she can cram into the package, but said, "I'll get all I can into the box," which she described as a 20 by 24 inch container. Even before the flowers wilt and die, Mrs. Silhan said, "Those white pom pom daisies, they're stinkers."

The Morton woman said she sent more than 25 Christmas cards to American hostages in Iran, but added, "It seems like they've been forgotten since Christmas."

Mrs. Silhan, mother of two sons who would be of draft age if the selective service is revived, said she has another idea she plans to start a week from today.

"I've decided to give a red corsage once a week to the mother of a boy in the service," she said, vowing that she will offer the free weekly corsage "until the hostages are released."

Plans call for listeners to mail names of mothers of military offspring to the radio station with a weekly Friday drawing producing the winner.

U.S. Delays Economic Sanctions Against Iran

WASHINGTON (AP) — Before moving ahead with more economic sanctions, the Carter administration plans to give friendly Moslem nations another chance to persuade Iran to release its American hostages.

Administration officials said Thursday the planned sanctions would eliminate all trade between the United States and Iran except for food and medicine.

The sanctions would be imposed despite the belief of some administration officials that they will not hurt Iran enough to lead to release of the hostages and may even provide an inducement to continue holding them.

First, however, the administration will await the outcome of two events. One is today's Iranian presidential election, which officials hope will give Iran a leader capable of facing down the "students" who have held the United States embassy and 50 hostages since Nov. 4.

The second is the Islamic nations' summit conference which starts tomorrow in Islamabad, Pakistan.

Friendly governments in the Middle East have told the United States they hope to persuade the summit that the Islamic world must focus on the threat posed by the Soviet Union. They plan to urge the Iranians that to meet the threat, they must first release the hostages.

Those governments have advised the State Department that more sanctions against Iran at this time would only serve to divert attention from the Soviet threat.

Since the United States would like the same outcome, with Iran releasing the hostages and rebuilding relations with the United States, the administration has decided to wait, the officials said.

Whatever happens, there is much doubt within the administration that sanctions will work.

Trade with Iran has already dwindled to small amounts. Exports went from an average of more than $150 million per month prior to the fall of the shah to about $97 million per month before the embassy seizure. After the seizure, November exports fell to $45 million. Figures for December have not been compiled.

But the trade figures are liable to be even lower now, officials said. With oil imports cut off, U.S. purchases from Iran are now negligible. And officials say Iran has developed channels for using other currencies to work around the freeze of its assets in American banks.

Some officials say further trade restrictions will hurt the Iranians by completely cutting off certain key items like oil-drilling equipment.

But others, citing intelligence supplied by friendly embassies, say the sanctions to date have cut into the Iranian economy just enough to allow bazaar merchants to raise their prices and profits, but not enough to create severe shortages. The merchants may want the seige of the embassy to continue if it means higher profits, they said.

These officials also predicted that tighter U.S. sanctions will enable those holding the embassy to keep the focus of public anger on the United States.

Record Raisin Sales Reported

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — Record amounts of raisins were sold during December; more than one-fifth of United States households bought a total of more than 20 million pounds of the dried grapes.

Figures released by the California Raisin Advisory Board indicate 15.8 million households — 20.6 percent — bought raisins last month. The 10,000-tons sold breaks the previous record set in November.

Balanced Raiders Battle Mustangs

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

DALLAS — A quick look at the latest Southwest Conference statistics does not reveal many Red Raiders up near the top of the heap. The SMU Mustangs, on the other hand, boast the league's top rebounder and No. 5 scorer in Brad Branson and the top assist man in Billy Allen.

But Raider coach Gerald Myers is plenty satisfied with the way his guys stack up in the stats anyway — but thanks for the thought.

Texas Tech and SMU will square off at 7:30 Saturday night here in Moody Coliseum in a key SWC battle for both teams.

And a funny thing about those statistics — in the team ones, the Raiders are 5-1 in SWC play while the Mustangs are 2-5 and still reeling from a televised loss to TCU last Saturday.

"We don't have to worry about one or two guys scoring a lot of points for us," Myers explained. "We don't have any one guy that the pressure is really on."

"All of our starters are capable of having a big scoring night," he added, "but I don't want them looking for it (the big night) — I just want it to be something that happens."

So while SMU's Branson is fifth in SWC scoring with a 17.1 per game average and is hauling down 10.1 rebounds an outing, the Raiders top scorer is sophomore David Little — No. 9 in the conference with a 15.3 average.

The difference between Tech and Texas Tech Cagers

Change Schedule
Tip-off times for two Texas Tech home basketball games have been changed. The Tech-Arkansas game Monday night and the Tech-A&M tilt Feb. 4 both will start at 8 p.m. instead of the previously announced 7:30.

No-show tickets for the Arkansas game will be available at the door Monday night beginning at 7:30. A free Tech ticket will be given to the first 50 persons in each of six lines who might be unable to purchase a ticket Monday.

Michalka Baffles Arnwine

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Barry Arnwine is getting "sick and tired" of listening to Joe Michalka's rendition of the blues.

That's fine for Muddy Waters and the like, but a basketball coach should know better, Arnwine said.

"I'm sick and tired of hearing that stuff (from Michalka)," commented Arnwine, the Coronado head basketball coach. "If he can't talk sensible, I wish he wouldn't talk at all."

Obviously, something is amiss. Let's explore. For the past two weeks, Michalka has told everyone within earshot that the Monterey Plainsmen, a team with a 19-5 season record and 2-0 District 4-AAAA mark, should be "considered the dark horse" in the league race.

And Wednesday, Michalka continued the verbiage by adding, "They (Coronado) are in the driver's seat, right now. I hope we can stay close to them."

The Plainsmen and Mustangs meet tonight at 7:30 in the Coronado High School gym.

Maybe Michalka's comments were just your basic pre-game let's-not-make-anybody-mad quotes, but Arnwine didn't seem to take them that way. Just the opposite, as a matter of fact.

"He (Michalka) has an excellent team," noted Arnwine. "And I think we have a fine team, too. But look at the reports. They're 19-5. You don't have that kind of record unless you're good. And he says we're in the driver's seat. That's crazy."

In an attempt to explain his position, Michalka went to the slide rule.

"It's just a matter of mathematics. We've got two starters out (Ian Hyslop and Greg Thomason). And they've got three starters returning (off of last year's team). They beat Dunbar and we lost to them (Dunbar)."

"You have to realize that they've got so much more experience than we do," figured Michalka.

The numbers do support Michalka's argument. But still, Arnwine isn't totally sold on Michalka's fancy theories.

"They beat a fine Hereford team (58-49) the other night without them (Hyslop and Thomason)," Arnwine added.

Hyslop and Thomason are both listed as questionable for tonight's contest. The 6-6 Hyslop twisted an ankle in Monterey's first conference win (a 70-50 victory over Lubbock) last week. Thomason has the chicken pox.

But MHS center Trav Clardy, who scored 33 points in the win over Hereford, is ready to go. Clardy is the area's leading scorer with a 22.5 average. He is also pulling in an average of 10.5 rebounds, which is second only to Plainview's Kenneth Storey.

While Clardy gains the majority of his points from the 5-10 foot range, Williams is primarily an outside shooter who isn't afraid to put the ball up from the city limits.

"I'll guarantee you one thing," declared Arnwine. "We're going to play better than we did last year."

On its way to winning the conference title for a second consecutive season last year, Monterey — which has won 19 straight district games now — defeated Coronado twice. And both times rather handily.

Also on tap tonight, the Monterey girls will try to clinch the first half District 4-AAAA when they meet Coronado at 6 p.m. The Plainsmen enter the contest with a perfect 3-0 district slate. Coronado is 1-2.

"I have a feeling that Coronado is going to be up for this one," said MHS coach Tim Tasker. "It's an important game, the biggest of the year for us."

Both Lubbock High teams will travel to Hereford for 6 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. contests. The Lubbock boys are 0-1 in district play, and the girls 0-3.

"I've got a feeling we're going to win this one," said boys' head coach Craig Wells. "I really feel confident. We've been working too hard to be denied any longer."

Strong Borger Invades Estacado

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

"Our kids always just seem to play better in the big games," Estacado basketball coach J.J. Wood said the other day. "It doesn't matter if it's football or track or baseball or basketball. That's just the kind of kids we have."

Wood will get a chance to back up his words with action tonight as Borger comes down to test Estacado in a big, big District 1-AAA basketball game.

Neither coach will say the district's first-half title rests on this hand, but it's obvious that there are a lot of blue chips on the table. Both teams post 2-0 district records, and with only three games left in the first half of the loop season, well...

"I think the winner will definitely take a big step towards winning it," said Wood. "But Levelland is playing good basketball (1-1 with a loss to Borger) and I don't care if Dunbar hasn't won a game all year, when we go over there they'll be up for us."

"Whoever loses will have one loss and be back there with everybody else. I think it'll take a lot of the pressure off the winner."

Coach Duane Hunt at Borger agrees. "Well, both of us are 2-0 so it's definitely an important game. But you've got to remember we're in an awful strong district. I guess it's naturally a critical ball game though."

Overall Borger stands 22-2. Estacado, on the other hand, is 15-8 but has won eight of its last nine games. The teams have played once before, in the Canyon Reef tournament in Snyder. Borger won that one 54-53.

"That was one of our better games," Wood said. "We should have won it. We had a three-point lead with 40 seconds left and threw the ball away twice."

"They scored on both of those but we had the ball again with 10 seconds left and a chance to win it and threw the danged thing away again."

Don't expect the same type of game tonight though.

ers 6-2 John Jones (averaging 15.5 points a game), 6-4 Tim Williams (13.9) and 5-11 Preston Davis (14.7). The Mats' other main players include 6-1 Tim Hereford, 6-1 James Rose, 6-2 Jerry Gray and 5-10 Kenneth Cade.

In another city boys' game, Dunbar (10-11 and 0-2) will travel to Dumas (11-7 and 0-2).

"I'd like to think this is a pride game," said coach Joe McWilliams of the struggling Panthers. "I just hope our kids feel the need to get untracked. I hope they don't wait until the second half of the season to get that done."

In the other boys' District 1-AAA game, Canyon (16-8 and 1-1) travels to Levelland (7-10 and 1-1).

In girls' action, district powerhouse Dumas hosts Dunbar. State-ranked Dumas is 20-1 overall and 4-0 in district. The Panthers are 10-11 and 2-2.

Can Dunbar win this one? "Well, (perennial girls' power) South Oak Cliff beat them," laughed coach Barbara Elliot. "Really, they've got a good team. We're going to have to play our very best to stay close to them."

"They're the kind of team that if you make a mistake, you're going to pay. And they're not going to beat themselves."

Estacado (10-9 and 1-3) travels to Borger (6-15 and 0-4) and Canyon (7-7 and 3-1) goes to Levelland (13-10 and 2-2) in other girls' games.

Chaparrals Clip Greyhounds In Familiar Fashion

By ERIC GALE

Avalanche-Journal Staff
Call it clutch, last-ditch or rising to the moment. Call it whatever you like. It's still called winning. And the Lubbock Christian College Chaparrals are getting pretty good at it.

The Chaps, for the third straight game, did not allow careless ballhandling to give way to panic, and pulled away from Eastern New Mexico University 80-69 Thursday night in the fieldhouse.

LCC which squared its bankbook at 12-12, led by 10 points, 58-48, with 11 13 left in the game, and by seven, 68-61, with 5:43 to go, only to fall victim to turnovers — the Chaps lead was 70-68 with less than a minute remaining. But pinpoint free-throw shooting — four by Bruce Carver and a pair by Rick Murdock — in the final :52 spelled out the deceptively comfortable 11-point difference.

STAVER BUYS DIAMONDS

DALLAS (AP) — Michael Staver, a Dallas commercial real estate investments executive, is the new owner of the Dallas Diamonds of the Women's Basketball League, a league official said early today. Dave Almstead, executive vice president of the WBL, said Staver will assume operating costs of the Dallas franchise immediately, but his ownership of the team must still be ratified by league directors.

"I sure wish we were capable of pulling away earlier," said LCC coach Larry Hays, who has weathered similar shock treatments in the Chaps' two recent Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association victories over Tarleton State and Trinity University.

In those games, the Chaparrals either trailed or led by thin margins before last-minute explosions laid their respective foes to rest.

"It was those free throws that did it," Hays said. "If we'd missed 'em, they (ENMU) would've gotten back on us in a hurry."

"It seems like we always play give-and-take. But it's better to be taking at the end, and that's what we've been doing."

The Chaps trailed 35-32 at the end of a tight first half that was pulverized, at times, by haphazard ballhandling and turnovers.

In fact, both the Greyhounds and LCC were responsible for three give-aways apiece during the first six possessions of the contest.

For the game, LCC lost the ball either to a turnover or ENMU steal on 28 occasions. ENMU was found guilty 30 times.

Still, the Chaps did a good job of penetrating the Greyhounds' too-generous 3-2 zone defense during the first half as forward Keith Gardner danced inside for 14 of his game-high 29 points.

On the other end of the floor, the Chaps' match-up zone effectively contained 6-5 forward Al Massenburg, who scored only 11 points, more than 13 below his high-flying season's average, and was seldom able to receive a pass under good working conditions around the lane.

"Al had a poor night," said ENMU coach Larry Riley. "And when that happens, we're in trouble."

"I don't think it was that he was covered any better than usual; he just didn't shoot the ball like he usually does."

Massenburg connected on only 5 of 14 field goal attempts and one of four free throws.

ENMU tightened its zone in the second half and better controlled LCC's penetration, but that left the baseline areas unattended. Guards Bill McGee and Carver made the most of ENMU's shift in defensive emphasis and splashed in two 20-footers apiece in the first six minutes of the period to open up a 52-43 LCC lead.

That margin teetered in the vicinity of six to eight points for the next 10 minutes, or until guard Royce Blackshear nailed a 20-foot shot and Austin Henderson dropped a tip-in to cut the lead to 70-68 with 3:51 left.

LCC, which had entered a spread offense with seven minutes to play, then froze almost two minutes off the clock before a turnover returned the ball to the Greyhounds.

With exactly 1:58 left, Massenburg leaped free of the Chaps' defense and fired up a five-footer which skimmed the iron and was rebounded by Gardner.

One opportunity squashed... And then Blackshear, following still another LCC ballhandling miscue, flung up a 20-foot airball with one minute to play.

A second opportunity snuffed... "I can point to the shot Al missed with about two minutes left as a key," Riley said. "We had the ball in the hands of the man we wanted, but we had our problems with poor shooting at times, and poor ballhandling in crucial situations."

The Chaps then iced the contest in the final minute on their six free throws and an additional lay-in by Carver during a hectic span of 33 seconds. ENMU, which was led by Henderson's 18 points and nine rebounds, dropped to 4-10.

House Opts For Olympic Pullout

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is expected to follow the House in supporting President Carter's stand on the Moscow Olympics, but not before next week. There were only 12 dissenters — as opposed to 386 in favor — when the House approved a resolution Thursday supporting a possible U.S. withdrawal from the summer Games.

But quick Senate concurrence was stymied when the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee ignored a White House appeal for full congressional approval before this weekend.

Instead, said Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, his Foreign Relations Committee will stick to its plan to hold hearings on the resolution next week.

The resolution urges the U.S. Olympic Committee to honor Carter's request and seek to have the Olympics moved from Moscow or canceled if Soviet troops are not out of Afghanistan by Feb. 20.

It would urge athletes from the United States and other nations to boycott the Olympics if they are held in Moscow while Soviet troops stay in Afghanistan.

The White House had asked congressional leaders to complete approval of the resolution before the USOC's executive board meets on Carter's request this weekend in Colorado.

Church, while predicting Senate approval, stuck to his plan for hearings next week. He said, "It is my strong belief — and I anticipate that of the Foreign Relations Committee — that the Soviet Union has made itself unfit to host the Olympic Games."

A possible boycott also won support Thursday from AFL-CIO president Lane

ABC Regains Summer Olympics For 1984

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC didn't like having to split the rings with NBC this year, so it has bought both 1984 Games to claim the title as the real Olympic network.

ABC reached an agreement with the Sarajevo Olympic Organizing Committee Thursday for the rights to the 1984 Winter Games in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, adding that broadcasting jewel to its Los Angeles Games that summer. The two broadcasts will give ABC a total of 12 Olympics.

Prestige, prime-time promotion and profit — in that order — motivated ABC. The network plans more than 60 hours of coverage, most of it in prime time. "We expect to realize a profit," said Jim Spence, senior vice president of ABC Sports.

Final approval must be given by the International Olympic Committee, which is scheduled to meet next month in Lake Placid. But once the organizers are satisfied, IOC consent is considered a mere formality.

ABC will pay $225 million for the Los Angeles Games and something much less for Sarajevo. That price tag was not immediately known, but best estimates were that the initial bidding was around $50 million.

NBC will not air the Games this year if there is a boycott by the U.S. team, but insurance will cover 90 percent of the network's investment.

Beleaguered Calfee Leads San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — This is a year of decision for Bill Calfee.

Based on his performance, he'll decide whether to give up the PGA tour and pursue another line of work.

"I'm just not going to stay out here as a Monday qualifier," the 30-year-old Calfee said Thursday. "You can't play out here indefinitely winning $15,000 or $20,000 (less than expenses).

"Becoming an exempt player — maybe not winning but making the top 60 (money-winners) — is my goal right now."

Calfee, who has experienced little but frustration in three previous years on the tour, took a major step in the right direction Thursday with a no-bogey, 7-under-par 65 that gave him a 1-stroke lead after the first round of the $250,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open golf tournament.

"Last year was a very disappointing season for me," said Calfee, who won only $15,402. "The first two years I considered learning experience. But last year was very disappointing.

"I think I have the talent. But I haven't proved it. It is time I showed more promise. I think this is going to be my year. Maybe not winning. But playing better. If I don't do it, I'll have to consider leaving the tour."

A single shot back of him at 66 were D.A. Weibring, who scored his first pro victory last season in the Quad Cities

Open, and Bobby Walzel. A group of 67 included Bobby Wadkins, who scored eagle-3 on the 18th hole; Joe Inman, Terry Mauney and Keith Ferguson.

"It's not a bad way to start the year," Watson said. "I had a chance to shoot 66, but I let it slip away at the end."

Lubbock's Jeff Mitchell, who won the Phoenix Open tournament Sunday, is in a 17-player logjam with a score of 70, five strokes off the pace.

Kirkland, who charged that the USOC was arrogant in opposing Carter's proposal. "The committee has become big business, with financial interests rather than human concerns," Kirkland said. He accused the committee of "prostitution of Olympic ideals in order to gain corporate sponsorships."

Before the House vote, Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said the U.S. action jeopardizes Moscow's estimated $3 billion investment to hold the Games starting next July.

"The removal of the Games from Moscow is the single most important non-military sanction that can be taken to convince the Soviet Union it should remove its forces from Afghanistan," Zablocki said.

But Rep. William F. Goodling, R-Pa., told the House it was acting with emotion "and not thought."

Goodling said Carter and Congress should let the USOC quietly try to work with committees of other nations to move the Olympics from Moscow.

And Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., called the House action "a hysterical response." He said the United States should try to take politics out of the Olympics rather than make them more political.

USOC officials have made it clear they want the U.S. to take part in the Moscow Games. But Robert J. Kane, the committee's president, has said repeatedly he is sure Carter's and Congress' request will be honored.

One proposal before the executive board this weekend, Kane testified Wednesday, would seek delay of the Summer Olympics until 1981 so they could be moved from Moscow.

The 86-member executive board will hear from its Athletes Advisory Council on their feelings.

The council has 47 members and 20 of 32 contacted by the Associated Press said they want the United States to compete in Moscow. Six supported Carter, four were undecided and two declined to comment.

Bowie Kuhn Admits To Possibility Of Baseball Strike, Lockout

BOSTON (AP) — Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn says he doesn't rule out the possibility of a major league baseball strike or lockout this spring.

Both sides have raised the possibility of a strike by players or a lockout by team owners before or during spring training if no settlement is reached in the basic needs agreement between clubs and players.

"I don't rule out the possibility of a strike or a lockout," Kuhn said at a news conference Thursday prior to the annual Boston Baseball Writers dinner.

Kuhn conceded that the clubs have raised a strike fund in the "millions of dollars." He would not give a specific dollar figure for the owners' kitty.

The commissioner insisted that teams need a better system of compensation for the loss of free agents who sign on the open market with wealthy clubs. He added that although final figures are not available yet for the 1979 season, teams in 1978 did not, in general, fare well financially.

Meanwhile, special dinner guest manager Earl Weaver promised his Baltimore Orioles would be playing in the World Series in October, again.

The Orioles blew a 3-1 game advantage and lost to the Pittsburgh Pirates in seven games last fall. "We ran out of runs in the last three games, but we think we have some ball club and have something to work for this year," said Weaver, who was presented with the Judge Emil Fuch memorial award for long and meritorious service to baseball.

Manager Dick Williams, whose Montreal Expos were beaten by Pittsburgh for the National League East title on the final day of the regular season, said, "We have a lot to look forward to this year."

"We had something like 20 double-headers in the last month of the season, and that took wear and tear on our bats, not our pitching," Williams said about the Expos' surprising run at the East Division flag.

Williams, who led the Red Sox to a pennant at 100-1 odds as a rookie manager in 1967, was honored as the National League's manager of the year.

Other awards went to Rick Burleson, who received the Thomas A. Yawkey memorial trophy as the Red Sox most valuable player in 1979; Carl Yastrzemski, the Jake Liston memorial award for reaching the 3,000-hit, 400-homer plateau; Fred Lynn, for winning the American League batting championship, and Dennis Eckersley, as Boston's most valuable pitcher.

Now you can live in luxury for less and enjoy the care-free lifestyle of your own new townhome in a choice of distinctive, innovative architecture and floor plans for a most reasonable price. Fascinating features await your viewing and consideration at 5217 73rd Saturday and Sunday from 11 to 5 p.m. Priced from low "titles"! Exclusive presentation by Landmark Realtors.

Oakland's Raiders, A's May Both Fail To Move

OAKLAND (AP) — Oakland Raider boss Al Davis says that before he decides whether to move his football team to Los Angeles he wants to see the lease offer from the Oakland Coliseum in writing.

"I want to make sure we're talking the same language on paper as we are verbally," Davis said Thursday.

"(A decision) could be made anywhere from Wednesday of next week through Tuesday of the following week."

At the same time, Denver oilman Marvin Davis said that his attempts to buy the Oakland A's — a sale which many believed is linked to efforts to keep the Raiders here — had fallen through again.

In pondering whether to move, Al Davis told the San Francisco Chronicle that if money alone were the criteria, the Raiders would be headed south.

"The differences are very big, obviously in the financial reward," Davis said. "People may not believe this, but the biggest thing Oakland has going for it is the fans and the loyalty. We do have some strong feeling for this community. I've lived here for 17 years."

"I'm not in any way minimizing what they're (Oakland) trying to do, because all I ever wanted from them was some meaningful effort."

Late last week, Mayor Lionel Wilson and Kaiser Aluminum chairman Cornell Maier presented a package reportedly worth $8 million in improvements in the Oakland Coliseum in an effort to keep the National Football League team.

The Los Angeles Coliseum has reportedly offered a total of $17 million in improvements and moving money to lure the Raiders into the stadium abandoned by the Los Angeles Rams, who will play next season in Anaheim.

Doubleday Buys Mets

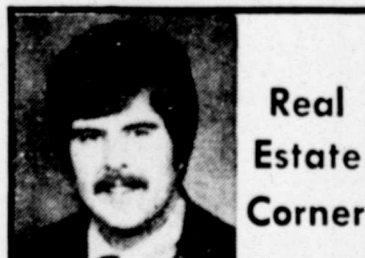

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets, last-place finishers in the National League East the past three years, have been sold to a group headed by the huge New York publishing firm of Doubleday & Co. for a reported $211 million, a record price for a baseball team.

In a five-paragraph announcement Thursday that ended a two-month bidding war among as many as 21 bidders, Doubleday said it had purchased controlling interest in the Mets from the family of Charles Shipman Payson, the team's principal owner since the franchise was awarded by the National League in 1960. The Mets began play two years later.

The key men in the deal are Nelson Doubleday, president of the publishing company and a great-grandnephew of Abner Doubleday, credited in some quarters with inventing baseball in 1839, and John O. Pickett Jr., chairman of the board of the New York Islanders of the National Hockey League.

The sale must be approved by baseball's National League but that is expected to be a formality.

The reported sale price of $211 million far exceeded the $12 million paid last year in the sales of both the Baltimore Orioles and Houston Astros. Former New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, spokesman for a group that included the Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp., said it was "incredible that anyone would pay that much."

INTEREST DOWN-

COST UP
Are you waiting until interest rates drop before you buy a home? Do you think that this will save you money? The home you have your eye on will cost you more in monthly payments two years from now even if the interest drops two percent.

For example, take a home that costs $80,000. With a 20% down payment and financed with a 30 year, 12-7.8% mortgage, the monthly debt service would be $701.72. But two years from now, if prices keep rising at as low as 10% per year, the now $80,000 home would likely cost $96,800. If the interest rate decreased to 10-7.8% not only would the down payment be $3,400 more, but the monthly payment would increase to $729.80.

So, it's obvious that the overall value of the home—not the interest rate—makes the biggest impact on your monthly payment. The exciting aspect of investing in Lubbock real estate is that our housing cost is still about 20% under the rest of the state. Common sense tells us this is only temporary—buy now or pay more later.

OETINGER'S LAW: NEVER SEND AN ARMY TO DO A BOY'S JOB.

Mother Convicted Of Teaching Toddler To Smoke Marijuana

NEW PORT RICHEY, Fla. (AP) — A 4-year-old boy showed a policeman how he could roll a marijuana cigarette, put it in a holder, take a deep drag and pass it around, a deputy testified in court.

That testimony came in the trial of a 28-year-old mother convicted of teaching her young son how to smoke marijuana.

A Pasco County jury of four women and two men deliberated just six minutes Wednesday before convicting Barbara Martin of contributing to the delinquency of her son, Billy.

Judge Dan Rasmussen sent Mrs. Martin to the county jail to await sentencing Feb. 13. She could receive up to six months in jail and a $500 fine.

She was accused of letting Billy use paraphernalia such as medical forceps, referred to as a "roach clip," teaching him how to roll a marijuana "joint," and of actually giving him pot while she had custody of him on weekends.

The boy's father, Arthur Martin, was awarded permanent custody when they were divorced, court testimony indicated.

Youth counselors and deputies testified that Mrs. Martin readily admitted giving her son marijuana saying "she would rather he learned it at home than at school."

Deputy Tom Hendricksen said Mrs. Martin was asked after her arrest Oct. 9 if she had given the child pot to smoke and she replied: "Yes. So what?"

Klan Leader Plans To Visit Idabel

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Ku Klux Klan leader Bill Wilkinson says he will visit the racially torn community of Idabel despite pleas from city officials that he stay away and let them work out their problems alone.

Wilkinson, Imperial Wizard of the Invisible Empire Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, arrived here Wednesday to begin a recruiting drive. But he was greeted with boos and hisses at one high school, and anti-Klan rallies were held in two cities Thursday.

The Klan leader said he will go Saturday to Idabel, a small southeastern Oklahoma city of 10,000, where weekend rioting followed the death of a black teenager left two others dead and caused an estimated $100,000 in damage. He also told reporters at the state Capitol he is trying to set up a weekend cross-burning ceremony "at a small town between here

Young Boy Identifies Neighbor As Attacker

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — A 6-year-old boy hospitalized with stab wounds identified a photograph of a neighbor, leading police to arrest three men in the strangling deaths of his mother and half-brother, authorities say.

Travis Wagner "broke the case wide open for us," Shawnee County District Attorney Gene Olander said after the suspects were charged Thursday with two counts each of first-degree murder and one count each of aggravated battery and rape.

Olander said the boy identified a photograph of 19-year-old Mike Simmons, Simmons, Tony Hobbs, 20, and a 16-year-old boy, were charged in the strangling deaths of Karen Crook, 28, and her 3-year-old son, Brandon.

Bond for Simmons and Hobbs was set at $100,000 each. No bond was set for the juvenile, who was being held in juvenile detention.

County Coroner Dr. Antonio Huaman said autopsies on the victims indicated they were strangled and died of suffocation. They also had been stabbed, Olander said.

The slayings, which apparently occurred Tuesday evening, were discovered Wednesday when Travis walked to school with a collic at his heels and told Principal Bill Wagaman he had witnessed the slaying of his mother and brother.

Travis had been stabbed in the chest, and Olander said no one knew why the child remained alone in the house with his dead family for so long.

"The survivor apparently was asphyxiated enough with a pillow to pass out, and then apparently was stabbed," he said.

Olander said Travis probably recovered consciousness sometime in the night, and the next morning managed "to get up and get dressed and go to school."

Police said Travis was in satisfactory condition today as he rested under guard.

WILLIAMS

ALTUS (Special) - The newly elected chairman of the Cotton Board called for "unity and harmony" among all segments of the industry in support of the cotton research and promotion program.

WILLIAMS

WILLIAMS: "I hope we can get by with just four meetings, but I'm afraid it's going to take more than that. We've already started on the 1981 budget, getting the figures, and we're going to meet again soon to go over the budget point by point."

WILLIAMS

WILLIAMS: "The primary purpose is to allow for more input by the Cotton Board. Also, we want to have more detailed information from the Secretary of Agriculture and the Cotton Board on how the producer's money is being invested."

A 10 OR 15 PERCENT PAID DIVERSION program for wheat and feed grains is being considered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

For feed grains, payment rates under review range from 10 to 25 cents a bushel on the planted acres, USDA officials said Thursday.

For wheat, the department is looking at payments ranging from 65 cents to $1.50 a bushel on the diverted acres, officials said.

The officials said some farmers may have to plow up winter wheat that already has been planted if a paid diversion program is adopted and they want to participate in it.

A decision on the paid diversion program could come as early as next week, some officials said, and definitely will be made within the next two or three weeks.

Officials said a 10 percent paid diversion program for wheat could get participation of an estimated 35 to 40 percent of the farmers and a 15 percent program would result in participation of 50 to 60 percent, both depending on payment rates.

THE USDA IS LOOKING AT COMBINING the 10 percent diversion with the lower payment rates and the 15 percent diversion with the higher payment rates, officials said, both for wheat and feed grains.

A paid diversion program has been under review as one way to compensate farmers for the suspension of grain shipments to the U.S.S.R. and to get production in line with anticipated demand.

Meanwhile, widely known agricultural economist Tom Hieronymus said this week the Commodity Credit Corp. probably won't purchase more than 300 million bushels of corn to blunt the impact of the grain embargo. This, he said, is because the government is not likely to spend the necessary money.

The University of Illinois told a meeting of grain dealers that he doubts the government intends to purchase enough corn to support prices at pre-embargo levels. Although full details of the government purchase plan are not yet known, he said the plan is "complex beyond belief."

Nevertheless, Hieronymus said, 500 million bushels now in the reserve plus a predicted 400 million to be entered this year and possible CCC purchases of corn will take 1.2 billion bushels of the projected 1.961 billion bushels of 1979-80 ending stocks out of free supplies.

THE RECENTLY BOOSTED $2.10 PER BUSHEL corn loan rate, Hieronymus predicted, will not be the floor to market prices. He also said he does not think the $2.63 reserve release will be reached.

Hieronymus said the top of the market will be reached when the market feels there will be a layout program.

He said he strongly suspects there will be a layout program in 1980 but added that it will be deliberately organized not to attract much land and therefore will not be effective.

If corn yields average 110 bushels per acre, a layout program would balance supplies, Hieronymus said. But he questioned the desirability of a layout program if corn yields drop as low as 90 bushels, the average yield in the 1975-78 period.

Hieronymus said he doesn't believe the USDA will allow farmers to enter corn in the reserve if they did not participate in the 1979 corn program.

WILLIAMS: "I feel I could do more by serving on the Cotton Board. As you know, Cotton Inc. answers directly to the Cotton Board and the Cotton Board answers to the Department of Agriculture. So I felt I could do more for the cotton industry by serving on the Cotton Board."

Q: The Cotton Board recently passed a series of recommendations in answer to the USDA audit report. Let's discuss some of these recommendations. First, you agreed to meet four times a year with Cotton Inc. to go over budgets and review programs.

WILLIAMS: "I hope we can get by with just four meetings, but I'm afraid it's going to take more than that. We've already started on the 1981 budget, getting the figures, and we're going to meet again soon to go over the budget point by point."

Q: What is the purpose of this recommendation?

WILLIAMS: "The primary purpose is to allow for more input by the Cotton Board. Also, we want to have more detailed information from the Secretary of Agriculture and the Cotton Board on how the producer's money is being invested."

Q: Why would you accept the responsibilities that face the new Cotton Board chairman?

WILLIAMS: "For the cotton industry. Cotton is my living. I want to see cotton be number one. If I can help cotton regain some of its markets, then I don't mind working hard to accomplish this. I want to do what is best for the cotton industry as a whole. And, right now, I think our greatest need is unity; we've got to pull together to make the research and promotion program an even bigger success."

Cattle Futures Close Higher Via Live Spillover Buying

By Reuters
CHICAGO — Cattle futures closed 27 to 92 points higher on 33,922 lots Thursday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. April paced the advance with only February less than 70 higher.

Prices were up most of the day on firm beef and steady to higher live cattle. There was also shortcovering on Mideast tension.

There have been 333 deliveries thus far. Wholesale beef was unchanged at 96 1/4 to 99 1/4 cents a pound, f.o.b. river points. Cash cattle were steady to up 50 cents with the best top $66.50 per hundredweight. Slaughter was 118,000 head. About 2,950 head are expected today at the major markets.

Feeder cattle futures closed 80 to 130 higher led by November. Volume was 4,083 cars.

Spillover buying from the live cattle pit and steady beef demand lifted prices. Some shortcovering was also noted on Mideast tension.

Deliveries total 378 thus far. Cash feeders were up $4 to off $2 with the best top $120 per hundredweight at Oklahoma City. Receipts at the major terminals today are expected to total 1,220 head.

Hog futures closed 95 lower to 60 higher on 7,208 contracts. Distant April paced the decline with October up the most.

The market was on both sides of Wednesday's close with early buying reflecting higher live markets. Profit taking and other selling after midday brought losses in mostly local trade.

Wholesale hams were off 1 to up 1 at 64 to 66 cents a pound, f.o.b. river. Cash hogs were steady to up $1 with the best top $39 per hundredweight at Indianapolis. Kill was 329,000 head. The major markets are expecting about 28,500 head. Pork belly (bacon) futures closed 72 to 95 higher on sales of 11,159 cars. May paced the advance.

The market ran up the 200 limit, basis

August, in early trade. Higher cash hogs and bellies brought support. Late profit taking and other selling around midday forced prices to new daily lows at the close.

Wholesale bacon was up 1 to 3 at 32 to 38 1/2 cents a pound, f.o.b. river.

Federal Support For Research Lagging, Says A&M President

SAN FRANCISCO (Special) — Federal support for agricultural research is seriously lagging, and the problem is compounded by governmental over-regulation which is forcing both the public and private sectors into "defensive research," the president of Texas A&M University charged this month.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Dr. Jarvis E. Miller said federal funding for research in the food and agricultural sciences fails even to keep pace with inflation — inflation caused by governmental policies.

Miller said the federal government's role in agricultural research includes planning, funding, coordination and evaluation. He agreed that all those functions are important but said the "crying" need is for additional funding.

"Rather than taking the lead to see that this need is met, the federal government has failed even to maintain its reasonable share of the effort underway," he said.

Approximately 40 percent of publicly supported food and agricultural research in the United States is performed by in-house agencies of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and 60 percent by the various state agricultural experiment stations (SAES), Miller explained. He said less than 20 percent of the experiment stations' funds come from federal sources.

"During recent years, state funding for the SAES has continued to increase in real terms," noted Miller who formerly headed the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and continues to oversee it. "Federal funding, however, both to the SAES and to the USDA in-house research agencies, has declined. In fact, it has not even kept pace with increasing costs."

He said it is difficult to determine what has happened to private sector funding for agricultural research but observed that "informed opinion suggests that it has more than kept pace with inflation."

Miller said the lead-time is estimated to be 13 years between the discovery of new technology in food and agricultural research and its adoption and utilization for a new function.

"It behooves us to get going now," he emphasized. "In my view, the USDA has a lead role."

"Why public funding?" he asked. "The payoff is so great that the public gains a handsome return on its investment."

"The principal beneficiary of the increased returns is the general public," he said.

Seminar On Farm Structure Slated By Cotton Council

NEW ORLEANS (Special) — A current events seminar focusing on farm structure will kick off the National Cotton Council's 42nd annual meeting here Jan. 27 at the Hyatt Regency.

The seminar, scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday, will be moderated by Herman Probst, chairman of the council's Producer Steering Committee. Probst is a Texas cotton grower from Anson.

Participating in the discussion will be Dr. J. B. Penn, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's deputy administrator for economics, Washington, D.C.; Dr. Dale Stansberry, chief economist for the Senate Agriculture Committee, Washington; B. F. Smith, executive vice president of the Delta Council, Stoneville, Miss.; and Charles Bragg, council staff representative for the Producer Steering Committee, Memphis.

The session in the Regency ballroom will be followed by delegate interest caucuses to elect the council's board of directors for the coming year.

PCA Stockholders To Hear Address By Rep. Hance

U. S. Congressman Kent Hance will address the group and a new board director will be elected Saturday at the 46th annual Production Credit Association meeting of stockholders, according to Alton Strickland, president.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center and the meeting will start at 10 a.m. A meal will be served following the meeting.

Owned by farmers and ranchers, the Lubbock PCA serves Cochran, Crosby, Gaines, Garza, Hockley, Lubbock, Lynn, Terry and Yoakum counties.

Strickland said about 14,000 area agriculturists are stockholders in the association. Total loans through the association were up by about $4 million in fiscal year 1979 over the total in FY 1978. About $121 million was loaned in FY 1979 which ended Sept. 30.

A new director will be chosen to fill the expiring term of T. A. Elmore of Tokio. The nominating committee has placed Elmore's name on the ballot for re-election along with Lewis Chambliss of Gaines County. Additional nominees may be made from the floor at the meeting.

Hance will speak to the stockholders at about 11 a.m., Strickland said.

Other members of the board of directors are Cleve Littlepage of Tahoka, Dewey Wells Jr. of Ralls, Keith Young of Seagraves and Dalton Redman of Morton.

The association has a central office in Lubbock and field offices in Levelland, Brownfield, Seminole, Tahoka and Ralls.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Persistence, not impulsiveness, is required tomorrow in a matter which you desire to finalize. Be patient and you'll achieve the result you hope for.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your first thoughts are not likely to be your best ones tomorrow, so take ample time to weigh important decisions. A second look will spot the flaws.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't involve yourself in anything financially tomorrow that you don't fully understand. Betting on unknowns could prove hazardous.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Normally you are a decisive person but tomorrow you could be a bit wishy-washy. Once you decide upon something you believe to be right, stick to it!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The quality of the work of helpers tomorrow may not meet your high standards. Instead of delegating important tasks, attend to them yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A sticky situation could arise tomorrow between an old friend and a new acquaintance which you may be called upon to resolve. Don't let down a pal of long standing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be content with progress which is slow but steady tomorrow, instead of experimenting with shortcuts. Tested methods are your best bet.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Weigh your words with extreme care tomorrow if you're involved in a serious discussion. Blurring out unkind things could hurt another's feelings.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Follow your practical instincts in commercial dealings tomorrow. Warning from your inner voice should not be taken lightly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Partnership arrangements should prove fortunate tomorrow, provided you don't attempt to dominate the show. Be a team player, not a prima donna.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Major achievements are possible tomorrow if you don't let yourself get sidetracked by irrelevant issues. Keep your eye on the doughnut, not the hole.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It may be necessary tomorrow to step in and straighten out a situation which a friend has messed up. Take charge if conditions warrant it.

China May Get Military Gear

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's "get tough" stance with the Soviet Union is entering a new phase with the announcement of possible sales of military equipment to China and congressional approval of special trade relations with the world's most populous nation.

The two moves came only one day after Carter publicly warned Russia, in a nationally televised State of the Union address, to stay out of the oil-rich Persian Gulf area.

In addition, the House voted 386-12 on Thursday to back Carter's call for a possible boycott of the Summer Olympics.

These actions demonstrated that administration resolve to halt further Soviet intrusions is backed by congressional support for at least some steps to punish Russia for its occupation of Afghanistan.

Carter has urged U.S. athletes to boycott the Games unless they are moved from Moscow, postponed or canceled in the event that Soviet troops are not withdrawn from Afghanistan by Feb. 20.

Pentagon officials revealed, meanwhile, that Chinese officials had been told the United States is willing to sell them military equipment — but not weapons.

The U.S. officials, who asked not to be identified, said Defense Secretary Harold Brown told the Chinese during his recent visit to Peking that the United States is "prepared to consider on a case-by-case basis" such sales.

The Chinese share a long border with the Soviet Union.

Although no decision has been made on what specific military goods might be sold, Defense Department spokesman Thomas B. Ross said the equipment could include trucks, communications gear and "certain types of early warning radar."

A Pentagon official called the new sales policy an "incremental change" of position and a continuation of closer relations between the two countries.

He added, "You cannot, however, take it out of the context of the world situation. The Soviet occupation of Afghanistan sped up or catalyzed the decision."

References to the Afghan situation were laced through the debate in both the House and Senate on the resolution giving most-favored-nation trade status to China, a government this country once refused even to acknowledge.

Several references were made on China's potential role as an American ally in curbing Soviet aggression.

Until last fall, U.S. officials had been talking of maintaining an even-handed policy in granting most-favored-nation trade status to China and the Soviet Union.

However, in early October, the State Department said it would go ahead and propose granting the special status to China while continuing to try to work out differences with the Soviets.

Excitement Missing In NBC's 'Martian Chronicles'

By PETER J. BOYER
 LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ray Bradbury doesn't like NBC's version of his "Martian Chronicles." This could be because Bradbury is a contrary fellow in the matter of adaptations of his work. Or, because Bradbury saw NBC's adaptation.

The latter seems more likely. NBC's "Martian Chronicles," a six-hour miniseries beginning Sunday, is a lovely thing to look at — craggy, rust-colored landscapes, spacey cities and such; but the excitement of a fanciful space adventure is missing. That would have been all right had greater care been given to the story's satire on man's corruptive influence on his surroundings. That theme is present here, but it is hammered away at, rather than subtly suggested.

Rock Hudson, Bernie Casey, Darren McGavin and others are American astronauts sent to explore Mars.

Khomeini Used To Promote 55 Mph Driving

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Residents of northern New Jersey no longer have to wait for the evening news to shake their fists at Iranian strongman Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini — his face is now on 300 billboards.

The stern look of the bearded leader is being used as part of a campaign to get drivers to conserve gasoline by adhering to the 55 mph speed limit. Next to his face in white lettering against a black background is written: "Fight Back ... Drive 55."

State Energy Commissioner Joel Jacobson said recently he hopes the "juxtaposition of the ayatollah's face and the speed limit bring home the point that gasoline conservation achieved through lower highway speeds will help reduce our dependence on imported oil."

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Stock Mart Suffers Declines

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly today in the face of adverse inflation news and rising interest rates. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped 5.63 to 874.32 by noon.

You like basketball?

Losers outnumbered gainers by more than a 2-1 spread among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. The government reported this morning that the consumer price index rose a seasonally adjusted 1.2 percent in December, bringing its rise for all of 1979 to 13.3 percent for the year.

That marked the biggest increase since it jumped 18.2 percent in 1946. New York's Citibank, meanwhile, raised its prime lending rate from 15 to 15 1/2 percent, joining most other major banks at that level.

Some key interest rates in the bond market rose to record highs Thursday. Among actively traded financial and utility issues which are normally sensitive to interest rate trends, Federal National Mortgage lost 1/4 to 14 1/2; American Telephone and Telegraph 1/4 to 51 1/2; and First Charter Financial 1/4 to 44.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .29 to 65.03. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index dropped .80 to 265.80. Volume on the Big Board came to 19.87 million shares at noon, down from 28.95 million at the same point Thursday.

NEW YORK (AP) — The dollar was ending the week on a firm note today, closing slightly higher in Tokyo and holding its own in quiet trading on European foreign exchanges. Gold prices opened slightly above $700 an ounce but by mid-morning had slid below that level in both London and Zurich.

The U.S. currency closed in Tokyo at 239.30 yen, up from 238.35 Thursday. Dealers said the dollar opened strong at 239.90 yen and soon peaked at 240. The low for the day was 238.90. Spot transactions totaled $725 million. Morning dollar rates in Europe compared with Thursday's late rates: Frankfurt, 1.7305 West German marks, up from 1.7300.

Gas Price Violations Rare Here

A recent check of Shell Oil Co. independent service station operators by the Department of Energy turned up only three out of 25 stations in violation of price increases in the West Texas and New Mexico area.

Independent dealers faced with wholesale price increases are allowed to pass along the increase to the consumer in accordance with the price rise reflected on the invoice from their next gas shipment, said Wayne Tucker of the DOE Dallas office.

The same increase can be put into effect at the pumps only if the dealer has obtained his last three shipments from the same wholesaler which issued the last invoice. Tucker added, otherwise the increase must be assessed on a weighted average cost basis.

Tucker said price ceilings in the department are done on a random basis on various oil company independent dealers, citing no specific reason why Shell Oil was selected for the most recent survey, which took place Monday and Tuesday in the district-wide area of Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Exxon Corp. independent stations also were checked in some areas. If an independent is found to be in violation of the price-setting measures, the DOE can assess a penalty and ask the dealer to set back his prices to compensate for the over-pricing, Tucker said.

The average penalty, providing the station has not been in violation for a long period of time, is from $200 to $500, he said. Tucker noted that although the DOE does not have the authority to close the station should the penalty not be paid, the matter can be taken to federal court, although this is usually not the case.

Tucker said maximum court fines can reach $2,500 if the dealer unwillingly violates the law and $10,000 if he willfully does so.

Tucker said he did not know if any of the three violators in the recent check were operating stations in Lubbock, and added that the department does not release names of the violators until 10 days after the audit.

Tucker said that nationwide since last August, more than 20,000 stations have been checked by the DOE.

Citibank Increases Prime Interest Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Citibank, the nation's second-largest commercial bank, today raised the interest rate it charges its best corporate borrowers from 15 percent to 15 1/2 percent, the rate most major banks have been at for more than a month.

Citibank, First National Bank of Chicago and Bankers Trust of New York had broken ranks with most of the industry a few weeks ago and lowered their prime lending rates from 15 1/2 percent to 15 percent. Bankers Trust now is the only major bank still at 15 percent. First National of Chicago went back to 15 1/2 percent last Friday.

The prime rate is significant to businesses because most corporate borrowing is based on it — that is the rate a company pays on a loan is pegged to the prime rate and moves up or down with it. Because of this, the prime rate is an indicator of the cost and availability of credit to companies.

It does not directly affect consumer interest rates, but is seen as an indication of credit conditions in general.
