

Khomeini Lashes Soviet Intervention

By The Associated Press
Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini today strongly condemned the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan and pledged "unconditional" support for the Moslem rebels in Iran's eastern neighbor.

In his first comment on the Soviet move into Afghanistan in late December, Khomeini said it is the duty of Moslems everywhere to oppose aggression around the world.

"We strongly condemn the military invasion of Afghanistan," the 79-year-old religious leader said in a message delivered by his son to tens of thousands of Iranians gathered to celebrate the birthday of the Prophet Mohammed.

"We are Moslems and for Moslems there is no East or West, it is our duty to condemn any aggression, that is an Islamic ritual," the ailing head of Iran's revolutionary government said.

Khomeini remained in a Tehran hospital where he is recovering from a mild heart attack while a huge throng met at Tehran's main cemetery to listen to his message as well as a speech from President-elect Abolhassan Bani Sadr.

Bani Sadr, who already has pledged Iranian aid to the Afghan Moslems, delivered a similar message pledging support for "our Moslem brothers in Afghanistan, Palestine and the Philippines."

Bani Sadr is to be sworn in before Khomeini today.

Bani Sadr appealed for calm several times, but many persons were injured as the large crowd jammed together to get a better view of the partially covered speakers' platform.

The president-elect acknowledged that the revolution has taken its toll on the country's economy and culture. Iran's relations are strained on the foreign scene as well, he said.

Meanwhile, the Iranian government agreed to an international commission to consider its charges against Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and said it "will be effective in solving the hostage crisis."

"The international investigation commission will consider the shah's crimes, his violation of human rights and the return of his wealth to Iran," Khomeini's ruling Revolutionary Council announced over the weekend.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Nassiro-sadat Salami said the commission "will be effective in solving the hostage crisis." However, Bani Sadr in an interview indicated that the U.S. government must help Iran get the shah back for trial before the hostages will be freed.

"If the U.S. government gets away from its past policy of intervention in internal affairs," he said, "and if it accepts the right of the Iranian government to follow the criminals to your country and to follow the people who have plundered our wealth and to accept in practical terms to help us in that matter, that would be grounds for deliberations on the hostages."

Salami said the members of the investigation commission will be chosen by U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim. He said it will include foreign and Iranian representatives, and Waldheim will decide whether Americans are included.

Salami did not say when the commission would come to Iran or when the hearings would begin.

Waldheim proposed an investigating commission during a visit to Iran early in January, and since then has proposed the hostages be turned over to the Red Cross or some other neutral third party in Iran while the commission conducts its probe.

The militants holding the approximately 50 Americans since Nov. 4 had no comment on the council's decision, but they announced Saturday that they had invited a special American delegation to Tehran this week to hear Iran's grievances against the shah and the U.S. government.

The embassy captors had called for a massive rally in front of the Embassy today. But on Sunday they announced they were canceling the demonstration "to avoid a clash" with a rally planned by Bani Sadr at Tehran's main cemetery. Tehran Radio reported.

Death Toll Rises To 35 At Prison

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Fires still burned in the New Mexico State Prison today as 1,100 prisoners huddled in tents outside the compound and stories unfolded of hellish murder, torture and mutilations in a riot that left at least 35 persons dead and 15 others missing.

State police Sgt. George Ulibarri said three more bodies were found today.

bringing the total number of known dead to 35.

Gov. Bruce King told a news conference that at least seven died of drug overdoses, others died of smoke inhalation and some were murdered. The governor said a total of 50 prisoners were unaccounted for, including the dead.

State police said more bodies were found today in the gymnasium which had still been burning during the morning. "They're inside looking for more right now," Ulibarri said. "That's where the biggest fire was."

"It's one hell of a bloody mess in there," said Corrections Commission Chairman Bud Richards. "There are a hell of a lot of bodies in there."

"National Guardsmen are throwing up all over."

State Police Capt. Frank Young said authorities were waiting until the fires are extinguished to "do a real thorough search."

The 36 hours of carnage at the prison, recaptured by National Guard and state police Sunday afternoon, was the most serious since the 1971 Attica riot in upstate New York left 43 persons dead.

Rep. Manny Aragon, who met with the inmates during the siege, said that based on what prisoners told him, the toll could be 75 or more. One television station, KOAT in Albuquerque, reported 49 were killed.

State officials said it may cost as much as $50 million to replace the state's only maximum-security prison, which was built to house 850 and was holding 1,136 when the riot erupted early Saturday. In the meantime, Gov. Bruce King appealed today to neighboring states to take some of the prisoners, who spent the night in tents guarded by 250 National Guardsmen and about 30 policemen.

While some predicted the death toll would soar as the remaining fires were put out, particularly in the gymnasium, officials were appalled at what they saw when they entered the compound.

A headless corpse was propped up in a courtyard. One prisoner had his eyes gouged out. Another apparently had his arm chopped off before being hurled from atop a building. A blowtorch was turned on the face of another.

The rioters, who ransacked prison offices and found confidential records, turned on informers with savage revenge, officials said. Many were attacked with meat cleavers and burned.

Bribe Story 'Leak' Target Of Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — One U.S. senator angrily rebuffed undercover FBI agents willing to pay bribes as part of a political corruption investigation that has implicated eight other members of Congress, a source close to the case said.

This source said the senator, Larry Pressler, R-S.D., was the only member of Congress caught up in the probe who retused to go along with the dishonest dealings discussed by undercover investigators.

Two sources said Pressler was not a subject of the FBI investigation and thus was not among the 20 public officials and 10 businessmen and lawyers visited by the FBI Saturday and Sunday. The FBI completed notifying the 30 subjects of the investigation of their rights on Sunday, one source said.

For 14 months, FBI men had posed as representatives of a wealthy Arab sheik seeking investments, a casino gambling license in Atlantic City, N.J., and legislation to allow him to stay in this country if he were forced from his homeland.

During this time, they paid almost $500,000 in cash to public officials for favors or the promise of them, a source familiar with the investigation said. This source added that fewer than 10 of the 20 public officials took money. "Some arranged meetings or did other favors," this source said.

The Justice Department said today it will make "an intensive investigation" of how news organizations learned of the FBI probe.

Spokesman Robert M. Smith said the department's Office of Professional Responsibility, which polices activity by department officials, and the Criminal Division "will initiate an intensive investigation to see whether deliberate disclosures have been made by federal employees. The disclosures made by the media are regrettable because they may injure the reputation of innocent people."

Smith added that the department will have no public comment about the FBI political corruption investigation until it is concluded.

Meanwhile, House Ethics Committee Chairman Charles E. Bennett, D-Fla., said his panel would expand an investigation already under way to include the FBI allegations.

Candidates Face Deadline Today

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff
With the official filing deadline still a few hours away and a possibility of a flurry of last-minute entries, voters already face the prospect of a lengthy list of candidates vying for state and county offices here.

A number of races are likely to turn into tough matches by the time the November general election rolls around. However, three races on the county level also will be hotly contested during the May 3 party primaries.

One of the contests likely to draw a major portion of the spotlight during the primary elections is the Lubbock County sheriff's race, which already has drawn five candidates. For the first time in more than a decade, both Democrats and Republicans have filed in that race.

U.S. Rep. Kent Hance of Lubbock is one of the few local office holders who had not drawn an opponent by noon today. A Democrat, Hance serves as representative for the 19th Congressional District, which includes Lubbock County.

Hance won the congressional seat long held by George Mahon in 1978, after defeating Republican George Bush of Midland. He filed for re-election in January.

The state legislative races on both sides of the city will be contested in the general election. District 75-A, which encompasses most of the western half of Lubbock, will see a match between incumbent State Rep. Nolan "Buzz" Robnett, a Republican, and City Councilwoman Carolyn Jordan, who has filed as a Democrat.

In District 75-B, which covers the city's eastside, Democratic incumbent Froy Salinas will face McKinley Shepard, who is attempting to become the first black Republican elected to the Texas Legislature since Reconstruction.

As of shortly before noon today, Democratic incumbent James E. "Pete" Laney was the only candidate running in state legislative District 76, which covers

Local Jurists Split On Joint Custody Law

By NANCY ALLEN
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A recent Texas law designed to take away some of divorce's trauma from children of separating parents has drawn mixed reaction within the legal community of Lubbock.

The law, signed into effect last August, provides for both parents to retain co-managing conservatorship — joint custody — of their children in a divorce.

In a co-parenting situation, each parent continues to have an equal voice in raising the children after the divorce. The court awards custody to both together — not to one parent with visitation rights going to the other. Living arrangements also are stipulated by the court.

During recent years the concept has drawn support nationwide from divorcing parents who do not want to relinquish a place in their children's lives in exchange for court-set visitation. More important, they believe the shared custody arrangement is, in legal jargon, "in the best interests of the child."

Proponents of co-parenting argue the impact of a divorce on children is less severe when both parents continue to raise them.

One study cited by authors Mel Roman and William Haddad in their book "The Disposable Parent" concluded, "The greater the involvement of the non-custodial parent, the better the child's adjustment to a divorce.

"It seemed," continued the authors, "that the children in joint custody situations were thriving and had much less of post-divorce struggles and difficulties than we see in children with conventional arrangements."

According to another author, co-parenting is as good for divorced parents as it is for their children.

Instead of placing 100 percent of the burden of child-rearing on one custodial parent — usually the mother — co-parenting allows both the divorced mother and father to share time with their children and participate equally in major decisions. Thus each is permitted a relationship with the children and a life of his own, argues Miriam Galper in her book "Co-Parenting."

Lubbock district court judges, who decide the bulk of family code cases here, were divided in their opinions of the concept made legal by the August statute.

Because joint custody has been petitioned for in only two Lubbock divorce cases, (it was awarded in one) most judges had not encountered it in their courts.

District Judge William Shaver, who recently appointed two divorcing parents co-managing conservators of their children, said he had no problem granting the request, which was made by both parents together.

"It's new," conceded Shaver of the concept. He predicted co-parenting will be a "very effective" alternative to the traditional method of assigning one custodial parent.

Noting the law does not permit him biases, Shaver said the joint custody arrangement is not for all divorcing parents. He mentioned "unusual circumstances," and specified the parents would have to continue living in the same city.

For all judges the overriding concern was acting in the child's behalf. "We're

Wilbur Mills Trying To Stay Sober

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) — Wilbur Mills, once one of the most powerful men in Congress, says his top goal in life is staying sober — and employers can help others do the same.

MILLS

The former chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, who retired from Congress after a liaison with a stripper which he blamed on alcoholism, visited the Center for Addictive Illnesses at Morristown Hospital on Sunday to talk with some patients.

"Doing this helps keep me sober," Mills said. "The most important objective in my life is to be sober today."

"Alcoholics can have more pressure exerted by employers in the direction of getting him motivated than any person or anything else," he said. "If an employer says you either go through this program and try to get yourself back on your feet or else we're going to fire you, he'll do it. An alcoholic may be insane but he's not crazy."

Party Honors Studio 54 Owners

NEW YORK (AP) — The owners of Studio 54 are headed for prison but that didn't stop the popular disco from giving them a flashy going away party attended by about 3,000 people.

Steve Rubell and Ian Schrager, who were sentenced Jan. 17 to 3½ years in prison and $20,000 in fines, were ordered to surrender today to a federal prison farm near Williamsport, Pa.

The two pleaded guilty Nov. 2 to a count of corporate tax evasion and a count of personal tax evasion. Both agreed with the Internal Revenue Service to repay all taxes due plus a 50 percent penalty.

As they parted Saturday night, the New York Daily News reported the State Liquor Authority had made new charges against the club that could lead to revocation of its liquor license and block any possible sale of the property.

The authority has charged that on seven different occasions brawls broke out in the club that were either caused by the owners or that the owners did not stop.

Insect Lobby Makes Its Mark

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The insect lobby has made its mark on this year's Missouri General Assembly.

Among the more than 1,300 bills introduced in the Legislature this session is one that seeks to glorify the ladybug as the official state insect.

Lighter Side
Of Today's News

Rep. Mark Youngdahl, D-St. Joseph, introduced the bill in response to a request from Helen Harr of St. Joseph, publisher of the Bushwacker's Annual Calendar, a compendium of Missouri facts and history. Youngdahl's measure also would designate the mule as the state's official animal.

"Most of the insects get a lot of bad press because they eat each other or sting or do other bad things," said Miss Harr, a former librarian.

The ladybug, however, eats about 50 crop-destroying aphids a day on its long menu of other bugs that are harmful to man, she said.

As for the mule, it has long been a state symbol, epitomized in the saying "stubborn as a Missouri mule." The mule once was high on the state's list of leading export products.

Kennedy Refuses To Predict New England Victories

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says he likes the "tone" of his reborn presidential campaign, but neither he nor his aides are predicting any victories later this month in important contests in Maine or New Hampshire.

"We've got a good campaign, good enthusiasm, good volunteers, and increasingly effective organization" since the "major policy" address a week ago that redefined his reasons for running, Kennedy said Sunday.

As a result of the speech, he said in an interview with The Associated Press. "I think clearly the important lines of difference (with President Carter) have been established. I'm very heartened by that."

Kennedy made his remarks near the end of three days of solid campaigning through Maine's cities and small towns in search of support in the state's Feb. 10 caucuses. Maine and New Hampshire, which will hold its Democratic presidential primary election Feb. 26, provide the next important tests between Kennedy and Carter, vying for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I think we'll do well" in Maine, Kennedy said when asked for a prediction. "But I couldn't project percentages."

Maine Gov. Joseph Brennan, who spent most of the last three days traveling with Kennedy, told reporters he believes the senator "can win."

Kennedy's aides say they face a difficult time in the state, and many observers believe Carter is now a heavy favorite to win the majority of the state's 22 delegates to next summer's Democratic National Convention.

In New Hampshire, where 19 delegates are at stake, Kennedy has trailed Carter in recent public opinion surveys, and one aide said the situation looks "very tough."

After completing his swing through Maine, Kennedy made two brief campaign appearances in Salem, N.H., Sunday evening before flying to his family home in Hyannis, Mass., for the night. He was scheduled to resume campaigning in northern New England late this afternoon.

In his speech a week ago, Kennedy sharply criticized Carter's handling of foreign policy. And on domestic issues, he called for immediate gasoline rationing, and for a six-month wage-price freeze to be followed by mandatory economic controls for as long as necessary to slow inflation.

The speech followed the senator's 2-1 defeat at Carter's hands in the Iowa caucuses. Kennedy, asked whether he believes he has halted Carter's campaign momentum, responded, "What is important are the final results and I'm sure there are going to be swings one way and the other over the next several months."

In the week since the speech, Kennedy said he has seen an increase in campaign contributions and has been heartened by the number of volunteers signing up for his campaign.

Pressed for specifics about improvements, he said, "I think it's a tone, you get a tone in the campaign, a feel in the campaign."

The Massachusetts senator also said he believes that while Carter may be following the "politically wise" course for himself by refusing to debate, "I think he's going to have to come out and debate" because the public will demand it.

The senator has repeatedly challenged Carter to begin personal campaigning for re-election and to debate him on the campaign issues thus far. Carter has not left the White House to campaign, saying he will not devote time to partisan political activities while he tries to deal with foreign policy problems in Iran and Afghanistan.

"I can understand why he listens to political advisers," Kennedy said. "But I don't think it's going to hold. I don't think the American people are going to put up with it."

When Carter does emerge from the White House, Kennedy said, "then I think the real campaign starts" and Carter will be forced to defend in person his record on issues such as the economy and energy policy.

Year Of Decision

Week Of Festivities Under Way To Celebrate Reagan's Birthday

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ronald Reagan looked at the U.S. map on his birthday cake and headed his knife straight for New Hampshire.

"New Hampshire waits and we don't want to miss it," the GOP presidential candidate said as he gulped down a piece of the sweet.

It was the start of a week of festivities heralding the arrival of Reagan's 69th year. On Wednesday, he will celebrate what he describes as "the 30th anniversary of my 39th birthday."

And his top strategists have decided that the occasion is nothing to hide. They are taking the attitude that somebody's going to bring the subject up, and it might as well be them.

Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin headlined a fete at the Shrine Auditorium Sunday to launch the California campaign and also to honor Reagan's 69th, but they only belted out one song — "Happy Birthday."

Other stars kicking off the California campaign and the birthday greetings were singer Tony Martin, country singers Rex Allen and Marty Robbins, actors Robert Stack, Cesar Romero and Marie Windsor, former pro football coach George Allen, comic Morey Amsterdam, Lt. Gov. Mike Curb and Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, who joined Sinatra and Martin in leading the birthday melody.

More than 5,000 supporters paid $7.50 each to watch the GOP show and about 500 paid $100 to watch Reagan cut the cake.

If elected, Reagan would be the oldest president to enter the White House — turning 70 his first month in office.

Asked if all the hoopla wasn't an attempt to defuse the age issue, Charles Black, Reagan's political director said, "Oh, well, sure."

"You know his birthday was not going to go unreported, so you might as well put a positive light on it," he said.

While Reagan insists age is not an issue and contends his campaign schedule will lay to rest any doubts about his ability to withstand a presidential pace, he obviously is sensitive to the problem.

On late-night trips on the campaign plane, he makes it a point to wander down the aisle to let reporters know he is awake and working and jokes over the intercom that there will be a "four-hour disco party when we land."

Reagan also has these answers to age-related questions:

— "Chronological age is the number of years between birth and death. Physiological age is how well an individual maintains his physical and mental faculties, and on physiological age I'm satisfied that I am healthy. We don't elect a president to run foot races. We elect one to display some maturity, experience and good judgment, and I think all those things come with addedyears."

— "How many presidents were many years past the level of longevity when they became president back in the years, not too many years ago, when the average life span was in its 40's and we had 50- and 55-year-old presidents? They were 15 years past the life span of the time."

Baker Says Ex-Governor Still Leading Candidate

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Sen. Howard Baker says former California Gov. Ronald Reagan is still the front-runner in the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

"Governor Reagan is still the No. 1 candidate, no matter what other people believe," Baker said Sunday, after Arkansas selected its first 12 delegates to the Republican National Convention.

Reagan received commitments from six delegates in district committee meetings Saturday. Baker won four delegates while George Bush, who campaigned hard in Arkansas, came away with only one. The twelfth delegate selected Saturday was uncommitted.

Arkansas is the first state to select delegates to the party's national convention in Detroit this summer. The state's Republicans will be represented by a total of 19 delegates.

Reagan's state campaign co-chairman, Harlan "Bo" Holleman, said he expects Reagan to pick up additional delegate support when the state's GOP committee meets Feb. 16.

Holleman also said Reagan's following would have been even stronger had he visited the state more frequently. The candidate had not campaigned in Arkansas since November.

"Our goal is three delegates," Len Blaylock, Baker's state co-chairman, said of the upcoming state meeting, adding, "We are a whole lot happier to be second than we would have been in third place."

Selection of two delegates committed to Baker is being challenged by Marion Hartz, an Arkansas campaign official for former Texas Gov. John Connally, who won no delegates in Saturday's voting. Hartz contends an ineligible vote or votes were cast, a challenge that also will be taken up at the state committee meeting.

No Arkansas campaign spokesmen for Bush could be reached Sunday night for comment on the Saturday selections. Bush had been a surprise winner in the nonbinding straw polls at Iowa's Republican caucuses Jan. 21, outpolling Reagan by 31.5 percent to 29.4 percent while Baker finished third at 15.7 percent.

Bush had hoped to blunt Reagan's southern strength in Arkansas and get an early lead in gathering the 998 delegates needed to earn the GOP nomination. The former CIA director and United Nations ambassador had predicted he would win at least three delegates.

Crime Line Helps City Police Arrest 134 Suspects

Since its inception 10 months ago, tips to Crime Line have led to 134 arrests in 113 felony cases.

In practical terms, 13 alleged criminals per month have been removed from Lubbock streets since Crime Line began operation. Stolen property valued at $233,350 has been recovered.

Crime line is supported totally by private donations. Anyone wishing to make a tax-free contribution to the Crime Line reward fund should mail the donations to Crime Line, P.O. Box 2000, Lubbock, 79457.

This week, Crime Line is offering rewards totaling $2,200 in seven felony cases.

A $500 reward is offered in the Jan. 29 robbery of the Shamrock service station, 3324 4th St.

An employee told police a man walked in the station and, indicating he had a gun in his pocket, demanded money. After taking nearly $400 cash, the man fled north on foot.

The bandit was described as a Mexican-American about 25 years old, 5 feet 9, wearing a denim coat, plaid shirt and blue pants.

A $500 reward is offered for information leading to the arrest of a man suspected in a rape and attempted rape, which occurred the same day.

A 17-year-old Lubbock woman told police she was walking in the vicinity of 300 Elkhart about 7 a.m. Jan. 28 when a man forced her into his car at knife-point.

She was driven to a dirt road in the vicinity of North Chicago Avenue and Amherst Place. There the man struck her in the face and attempted to rape her, the woman told police. She managed to escape after kicking the assailant.

In the second incident, a 21-year-old woman reported a man forced her to his car about noon Jan. 28 and drove to a house in the 2000-block of 22nd Street, where he raped her.

The woman said she then passed out and awoke the next day. She said the house had no furniture in it.

In both instances, the man was described as black, 30-40 years old, about 6 feet 2, with black hair and brown eyes, light complexioned and balding in front. The man apparently drives a mid-size black car with white side-strips, police said.

A $300 reward is offered for information leading to the arrest of Rudolpho Mata, who has been charged with murder.

Mata is described as a Mexican-American, 27 years old, 5 feet 10, weighing 165 pounds, with black hair, brown eyes and tattoos on both arms and his body.

A $300 reward is offered in the Jan. 26 burglary at 5039 37th St., in which goods valued at $10,720 were taken.

The missing items include 41 paintings by Charles Face, 15 shirts, eight pairs of pants, three suits, a leather jacket, three pairs of Florsheim shoes, a ski suit, gold teeth bridges, two gold chains, 50 record albums, a Marantz 6300 turntable, an Akai 3300 reel-to-reel tape deck, a diamond ring and two sweaters with leather fronts.

A $300 reward is offered in an incident in which a man on crutches was knocked by a hit-and-run driver into a lake in the 2300-block of Quirt Avenue. The incident occurred about 6 p.m. Dec. 29, 1979.

The victim told police he was walking north on Quirt Avenue when he was struck from the rear by a white car and knocked over the rail into the water.

A $300 reward is offered in the Jan. 28 burglary of a residence at 5018 42nd St. in which guns and photographic equipment valued at $3,910 were stolen.

The stolen items include, a Colt AR-15 semi-automatic .223-caliber rifle, a Colt scope, a Browning over-under 12-gauge shotgun, a Winchester Model 94 30-30-caliber rifle, a Remington 870 12-gauge pump shotgun, a World War II Japanese rifle, a Colt Python .357-magnum pistol, a Ruger Bearcat .22-caliber revolver, a Smith and Wesson Model 59 9mm automatic pistol, a Remington Model 94 30-30-caliber rifle, a Remington 16-gauge Model 1100 automatic shotgun, a Minolta XG7 camera, a 100-200mm zoom lens and assorted lens filters.

Tech Dean Says U.S. Needs To Spend Less

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

There are two things to do with income: spend it or save it.

The trouble is, "Our economy is in dire need of less consumption and more savings," a Texas Tech University professor testified in Washington this past week.

Dr. Carl Stem, dean of the College of Business Administration, was one of numerous witnesses but one of only two professors who testified before the Ways and Means Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives which held two days of public hearings on tax incentives for savings.

Stem spoke in support of a measure, House Resolution 654 and section 202 of H.R. 5665, which would defer income taxes on dividends invested by stockholders as long as the stockholder continued to reinvest in the newly issued stock of the corporation.

He said it would interest more people in buying stocks, which would in turn, provide more capital for businesses to invest in advanced technology, which he said would contribute to increased productivity.

Although Stem said labor unions argue that technology can lead to layoffs of workers, Stem said, "Growth and technology spawn jobs."

Conversely, if industry does not have the capital to update its equipment, he said that plants may close and workers lose jobs.

Stem, who has worked as an economist for the Federal Reserve System, the Treasury Department, the Commerce Department and the Central Intelligence Agency, testified that, "An economy's growth, viability and competitiveness are linked to its rate of investment. The rate of investment directly impacts an economy's rate of growth—the higher the rate of investment, typically, the greater the growth rate of the economy."

He explained that basically savings may be categorized into two types: savings invested into real assets such as gold and other precious metals or property and savings invested in financial assets such as stocks.

The first category, he said, profits individuals but not the economy as a whole. But investing savings in financial assets, Stem said, means "turning the savings over to the capital markets and financial intermediaries to be used to support business investment in new plants and equipment."

While he agrees that savings of all types is important he stressed the need for "savings which take the form of business investment to generate greater increases in productivity."

He specifically noted that utility companies—and in the long run, consumers—would benefit from such a tax incentive.

"It would increase the attractiveness to savers of financial assets which would provide capital to a vitally important sector of our economy that is having a difficult time raising capital in these inflationary times—the utility industry."

He explained that, "The viability of our economy is these times of radical readjustment to the changing supply of and relative price of petroleum and gas-based energy is heavily dependent on our energy-producing utilities being able to respond to these changes with capital expansion and improvements."

If materials prices rise, but productivity does too, Stem said companies don't have to pass on higher prices to customers, but if materials prices rise and productivity declines, the consumer bears the burden of the cost.

Stem criticized the "double taxation of dividends" explaining that the same dollar is taxed twice, once, "The firm pays taxes on dividends on stock and so does the stockholder."

A treasury department spokesman testified against changing the double taxation, saying that the federal government could lose as much as $10 billion in revenue if the proposal passed.

But Stem said United States Chamber of Commerce spokesmen argued that after three years taxes on the increased earnings of businesses and stockholders would provide the same amount as the government earned through double taxation of stocks.

If the solutions offered by Stem and other witnesses are so simple, why haven't they already been passed?"

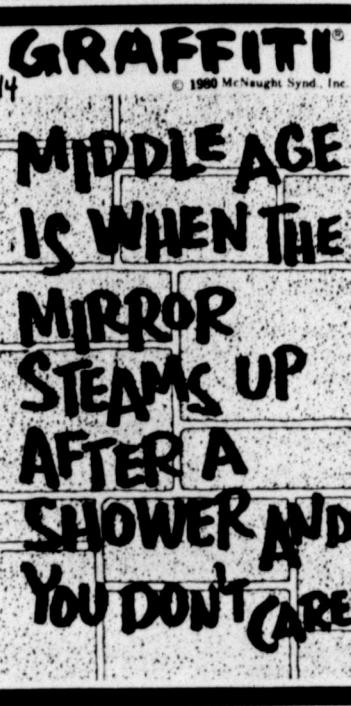

"There's a lot of sentiment against big business," he said, although he added that the proposals before Congress "wouldn't let the big boys escape taxes."

California Scientist Set To Lecture On Campus

Dr. Heinz Heinemann, senior staff scientist, Lawrence Laboratory, University of California, will deliver the Robert A. Welch Foundation Lecture in Chemistry at Texas Tech University at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Room 5, Chemistry Building.

His topic will be "A History of Industrial Catalysis During the Last 40 Years." The lecture, open to the public at no charge, is funded by the Welch Foundation, which in 1968 provided $1 million for the establishment and support of the Welch Chair in Chemistry at Texas Tech. The foundation also provides funds for research projects in chemistry, biology and physics at the university.

In 1938 Dr. Heinemann began a career in industrial research with emphasis on catalysis research that was to extend for 40 years. During that period he assumed positions of responsibility with such major companies as Houdry Process Corp. from 1948-57, the M.W. Kellogg Co.,

1957-69, and Mobil Research and Development Corp., 1969-78. Two years ago he moved to Berkeley, Calif., to join the Lawrence Laboratory.

Heinemann's work in catalysis has resulted in more than 120 publications and patents. He has served since its inception as editor of "Catalysis Reviews," published by Marcel Dekker Inc. He has received the E.V. Murphee Award in Industrial and Engineering Chemistry of the American Chemical Society, the Houdry Award in Applied Catalysis of the Catalysis Society and the Philadelphia Catalysis Society Award.

The lecturer's research has covered a wide spectrum of topics, including catalytic cracking and reforming, isomerization and dehydrogenation, coal gasification and use of zeolites as catalysts.

Born in Berlin and educated in Germany and Switzerland, Heinemann received his doctoral degree from the University of Basel in 1937.

Art Films To Be Shown At University Museum

Admission is free for the films which deal with famous glassblowers, photographer Edward Weston, sculptors Con-

Voter Workshop Called Success

Organizers of a workshop designed to educate Lubbock minorities on how they can better use their voting power termed the program a success.

"We had an excellent turnout and set up a good foundation for the oncoming elections," said Imam Shakir H. Muhyee, a Muslim leader and co-chairman of the Conference of Organizations.

About 150 attended the workshop Saturday which featured as speakers Ruben Bonilla, national director of the League of United Latin American Citizens; Ernest McGowan, a black member of the Houston City Council; Jose Angel Gutierrez, founder of the Raza Unida Party and Zavala County judge; and Imam Ibrahim Kamalud-Din, a regional Muslim leader.

The Conference of Organizations was formed to help minority groups in Lubbock work together in electing political candidates.

stanti Brancusi and Henry Moore and painter Henri Matisse.

The series is sponsored by the Fine Arts Committee of the Women's Council of the West Texas Museum Association, and it is supported by a grant from the Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities and the National Endowment for the Arts.

"Hot Glass" will be shown at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday. This production includes the work of leading glassblowers of Ireland, Sweden, England, Italy and the Rhode Island School of Design. Commentary accompanies the film.

"The Photographer," revealing Weston's technique in nature photography and his attitude toward his subject, will be shown at 3 p.m. March 2 and 11:30 a.m. March 4. Chairman James A. Broderick of the Department of Art will comment following the March 2 showing.

"The Rumanian Brancusi" and the brief "Henry Moore at the Tate Gallery" will both be shown at 3 p.m. March 30 and 11:30 a.m. April 1. The first illustrates the influence of Brancusi's Rumanian peasant heritage on his perceptions and artistic values. The second guides the viewer through the 1968 Tate retrospective exhibition of Moore's work. Providing the commentary March 30 on Brancusi and the important modern sculptor, Moore, will be Dr. Eugene Alesch, associate professor of art.

"Matisse — A Sort of Paradise" is a film that uses the paintings shown in a 1968 exhibition and explores the development of Matisse's exuberant use of color. It will be shown at 3 p.m. May 4 and 11:30 a.m. May 6. Edna Glenn, associate professor of art, will lead the May 4 discussion.

El Paso Bar Shooting Leaves Five Dead, Three Wounded

EL PASO (AP) — One bar customer grabbed the gunman, another hit him with a pool cue and a third stepped into the path of a bullet to spare a woman's life, police said. But five people died before the shooting, the worst in El Paso history, was over.

Three other persons were wounded in the gunfire, which broke out early Sunday in the crowded Starburst Lounge.

Police Lt. Ed Agan said the suspect, identified as Barry Chvarak, 21, of El Paso, was subdued and held for police by two bar patrons. He was jailed under $1 million bond, $200,000 on each of five counts of murder, set by Peace Justice Fred Chavez.

One of those killed was identified as Randy Wayne Steele, 20, of El Paso.

"There are three heroes in this," Agan said. "Steele, I understand, when the shooting started pushed a young woman out of the way and stepped in front of her and took a bullet that I guess would have gotten her."

"Another man, a patron named John M. Harris, he jumped the suspect after the shooting had started... and was able to take the rifle away after another patron Roger Dean Miller, came to his aid.

He (Miller) clobbered this guy with a pool cue."

Agan said there appeared to be no motive for the shooting.

"The guy was with his brother... there was no fight," he said.

Two 19-year-old men were treated for minor gunshot wounds, and a 20-year-old woman was hospitalized in stable condition with two gunshot wounds.

He identified the other victims as Kathleen Lynn Austin, 32, Marianne Laweka, 53, and Jana L. Carpenter, 29, all of El Paso, and Fredrick Bergford, 28, a soldier at Fort Bliss.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

You Have Role In Goals

MOST OF US who have moved to or remained in Lubbock have done so because it is the kind of community in which we like to live.

We now have the opportunity to help chart Goals for the '80s that will preserve what we like, correct what we don't like, and make Lubbock an even better place for ourselves and our children during the next 10 years.

Tomorrow night, nine neighborhood meetings will be held simultaneously at schools in every part of the city. A tenth session will be held Thursday night for those who can't attend at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Broad participation by responsible, informed citizens is needed.

LIKE THE GOALS for the '70s before them, the new goals will form a broad outline of what the people of Lubbock want to see accomplished here during the 1980s.

Committee 80, composed of citizens from all parts of the community and from all walks of life, already has drawn up tentative goals that were published in Sunday's Avalanche-Journal.

Reaction and additional input by every segment of the community at this week's public discussion meetings will lead to adoption of a final set of goals to be issued this spring, according to Committee 80 Chairman Harold Harriger.

If the goals program is successful, it will give all of us a sense of direction so that we can pull together for the common good.

This means that we must start out with a blueprint that truly reflects a consensus of our dreams, hopes and commitment for the future.

NOTHING WORTHWHILE ever is accomplished without, first, the idea being born, tested, modified and supported before implementation is attempted.

In earlier years, that process was an informal one in Lubbock. But as the city has grown, the Chamber of Commerce-sponsored Goals Program has become the formalized mechanism for an expression of the Spirit of Lubbock.

It is a never-ending process, but once every 10 years—at the beginning of each new decade—it is appropriate to take stock of where we've been, where we are and where we are going as a community.

We like what has been accomplished here so far, but as Lubbock approaches a population of 200,000 and becomes more of an urban center, we need to take special care that its growth and progress are in the right direction.

To have your say, attend the Committee 80 meeting in your neighborhood tomorrow night!

James J. Kilpatrick:

Registration Enough...For Now

WASHINGTON—In the Golden Age of Rome, Gibbon tells us, the successful emperors had a winning formula: They preserved the peace by constantly preparing for war.

Jimmy Carter has belatedly joined the camp of the Antonines.

By calling upon Congress to provide funds for a national registration of young people, the President took a sensible, prudent, wholly justifiable action in the national interest.

Carter left the details unclear, but the wise course would be to register both men and women in the 18-26 age bracket. If we are to prepare for reasonably foreseeable possibilities, we ought to do a thorough job of it.

THE WHITE HOUSE has taken pains in the past few days to emphasize that the President has not proposed a resumption of the draft.

The situation does not demand so drastic an imposition upon personal freedom.

All that is now proposed is simple, straightforward registration. This is no imposition upon anyone's freedom.

future draft that "would kill our dreams before they ever started."

Such voices apparently constitute a minority. Most of the young people interviewed in the Washington area saw no objection to registration.

My guess, for whatever it may be worth, is that national reaction will follow this same pattern.

IT IS IRRELEVANT to the larger issues, but Carter will gain politically from this action just as he gained politically, even in Iowa, from his embargo on grain to the Soviet Union.

Among our people, young eagles outnumber young cowbirds.

The key word is preparedness, but the word has meaning only in conjunction with a threshold question: Preparing for what?

If the prospect is for a nuclear Armageddon, we can forget about a draft in any conventional sense.

Such a war is of course conceivable—Hiroshima and Nagasaki offer proof positive that nuclear war is conceivable—but we have to proceed on assumptions less cataclysmic.

THE ANSWER ONE gets from experienced military planners is that the nation ought prudently to prepare for the deployment of our armed forces in more or less conventional ways—for example, in support of Pakistan's own troops on land, and in the enforcement of a blockade at sea.

Are we now prepared for such assignments in Carter's "region of the Persian Gulf"? The answer I get, much simplified, is "yes and no."

Yes, in the sense that we do indeed have fully trained and equipped battalions that could be plunged promptly into combat.

No, in the sense that we could long sustain such a deployment.

The concept of an all-volunteer force, instituted in 1973, has worked—but only to a point. The system has provided manpower sufficient to maintain total armed services at about 2,056,000 persons.

The Defense Department says this is 99 percent of the current target. But the current target is 20 percent under the 2.5 million level recommended by the President's commission on an all-volunteer force in its report 10 years ago.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Kenneth May

Shh, Man, Goats!

MY NEIGHBOR Twice Removed says there are three sides to every question: For, against and undy.

Senator Ted said Friday that the only way to counter Soviet aggression in the Persian Gulf area is to raise the price of gasoline or ration it in the United States.

Yes, sure, that'd make them Russkies retreat.

President Jimmy sent Muhammad Ali on a "sensitive mission" to Africa to get support for a boycott of the Olympic Summer Games in Moscow.

"No, Muhammad," he instructed him, "you don't tell them 'If you go to Moscow, I'm going to squash you like a bug.'"

FINDING FOR THE defendant in a Georgia civil case, The Atlanta Journal reported, a DeKalb Superior Court jury vented its anger over capricious cases that are clogging the courts.

The jury began its verdict in this fashion: "It is the opinion of the jury that this case should never have gotten to court. It is nothing more than a typical example of immaturity and stubbornness on the part of two supposedly adult individuals."

"We would ask the attorneys on record and all attorneys who may read this transcript to be more selective in their cases and use a little more common sense when they are asked for or give advice to others so as to consider the many individuals whose loss of productivity are affected by having to endure a trial of this nature!"

Egad! A jury with the gall to think that the courts belong to the people instead of to the lawyers?

Adding its own "fervent amen," the Atlanta Journal expressed "our appreciation to the jury for its initiative and courage."

FROM THE Quote Wrack: "Our courts are loaded with cases that have no arguable merit. Griffin Bell, speaking at the University of Georgia on Jan. 28.

The legislative sponsor of Georgia Gov. George Busbee's handgun control bill withdrew it, angrily denouncing lobbyists who had threatened to find opposition candidates against those who voted for the bill.

It's a wonder he didn't get a handgun after those lobbyists!

FROM ALL REPORTS, that "sales blitz" to Austin last week is going to pay off in thousands of convention visitors to Lubbock.

About 200 of the 350 state associations with headquarters in the capital were visited by Lubbockites. Several of them already have indicated they'll bring their state meetings to Lubbock during the next couple of years.

Holmes Alexander:

Speak No Ill Of Ronald Reagan

WASHINGTON—Among the road gang of Republicans in pursuit of the GOP nomination here is something that might be called the 12th Commandment.

It follows immediately behind No. 11 which was given by Gov. Ronald Reagan when he dwelt on his Sinai of party popularity. "Speak no ill of another Republican." The 12th Commandment is like unto it. "Speak no ill of Ronald Reagan."

It was composed earlier this season when Reagan had what appeared to be a shoo-in win for the Detroit Convention.

David Keene, who is George Bush's chief factotum in this city, says he expects all Republicans except John Connally to adhere. The reason until recently was that Reagan seemed to have a "floor" of 30-plus percent of GOP support below which he could not fall.

BUT REAGAN HAD no "ceiling" and would not become a certain winner until he attained one. What behooved Bush, Baker, Crane, Dole and, to a lesser extent Anderson, was to be in the former California governor's good books if the dam burst. The secondary GOP candidate who got most of Reagan's leavings was likely to come home on top.

Keene's Law—or Reagan's leavings—or adherence to the 12th Commandment—becomes of growing importance with the approach of the spring primaries.

Had Big John Connally not taken so many unkind swipes at his fellow former-governor, the torch of conservatism might well have passed into the hand of the tough-talking Texan.

ALL THE REPUBLICANS except Reagan and Connally somehow manage to fall off the conservative chalkmark. Connally, when he's in full swing, is Reagan Resurrected from the 1960s, and considerably more.

Connally made his millions on the fighting fields of the law courts, and has a certain military glow from having been a Navy combatant and a Navy Secretary. It is altogether believable that Connally, if he became President, would be the leader for which the country hungers.

But if Reagan's support really does fall apart and come up for grabs, Connally is the least likely Republican to become heir to the legacy. He alone has repeatedly broken the 12th Commandment by needling the Californian about his age, his absence from the hustings and his 3 x 5 memory cards.

Off-bitten media commentators are less likely this year than usual to reach premature judgments. Front runners like Rockefeller, Romney, Muskie have left their skulls along the trail and the dust of Jimmy Carter's out-of-nowhere win still lies in the nostrils of journalists.

Reagan remains the sentimental favorite, and could still take it all. If he turns kingmaker, however unwillingly, his blessing seems more apt to go to George Bush if for no other reason than that his transplanted-in-Texas New England Yankee seems to possess the keenest appetite for the presidential fare.

The pathos of Reagan's slippage is that so many true-blue conservatives have come to believe that his hour has passed. One of these is the former Nixon-Ford speech writer, Peter Witonski, who can give his heart but not his head to the California veteran.

In a sympathetic article for the current issue of "Politics Today," Witonski calls up a comparison between Pope John Paul II, a theologian, and Reagan, a mere salesman of the conservative creed. But Witonski, as it should be with all of Reagan's one-time army of followers, cannot leave him without a word of courtesy.

"He helped to sell conservatism to the multitudes, and he sold it without ever resorting to demagoguery or humbuggery."

It is well said.

Sylvia Porter:

Don't Be Dead Wrong In Planning Of Estate

WASHINGTON—Which description fits you? A person with enough wealth to require estate planning? Or a person who has not acquired enough wealth to be concerned about estate planning? If you opt for either description you're dead wrong!

Your fundamental mistake: believing that only wealthy persons with a certain degree of wealth need to consider this subject.

The term "estate" means "whatever you own." In an era of surging inflation, if you own your own residence—whether a single family dwelling, a duplex, or a condominium—this alone means you have a substantial estate.

And even if you don't own your residence, you probably own other assets which make up an estate: your life insurance (whether provided by your employer, or purchased on your own), an auto, unimproved land, or even a potential legacy of major size.

insurance policies or employe benefit plans, so that the owner's true wishes are often impossible to carry out and double death taxes are frequently incurred.

* Assuming that your spouse, or other close relative, is the best and most logical person to be your executor or trustee.

* Neglecting or refusing to be informed about this aspect of your affairs, which easily can leave a negative gift of unnecessary costs and complex problems for your loved ones.

At the same time, failing to provide a priceless benefit for yourself inherent in your own peace of mind that you have acted properly.

THE MISTAKES, MYTHS and misconceptions outlined above merely touch the surface of the problem, says San Francisco attorney Peter E. Lippett in "Estate Planning—What Anyone Who Owns ANYTHING Must Know." (Reston Publishing Co., $14.95).

There is much, much more that you must know about the basic background, tax laws, techniques.

As an ordinary citizen, you neglect this warning at your own and your family's peril. As a non-lawyer professional, you downgrade it to the disadvantage of your customer/client and your own business reputation.

ESTATE PLANNING BASICALLY concerns the orderly planning of whatever you own. Accordingly, wise planning, while you are alive, translates into valuable tax and legal benefits for millions of you.

Sure, these benefits may not call for the sophisticated tax analyses needed by the truly wealthy, but there is much more to estate planning than just tax savings.

Even if you recognize that you can benefit from estate planning, common errors are widespread—and the odds are that you will be a victim of one or more inadvertent errors.

While one person's mistake may be the next person's proper plan, here's where things can go wrong:

* NEGLECTING TO MAKE a will at all. Some estimates are that more than 50 percent of you, with both small and large nest eggs, have "never gotten around to formal estate planning." This failure can be very expensive for your heirs.

* Holding title to real estate, stocks, bank accounts or any other property in joint tenancy, particularly between spouses. Joint tenancy may not always be a mistake, but in an amazing number of instances, it is.

* No awareness by either a customer/client or a professional of estate planning mistakes resulting from the estate paperwork of well-intentioned but technically uninformed bank clerks, real estate brokers, title insurance personnel, stockbrokers, insurance salespersons, many others.

* Believing that avoiding probate avoids death taxes.

Survivor Says Inmates 'Turned Into Animals'

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — An inmate who called himself fortunate to have survived the horrifying 36-hour ordeal at the New Mexico State Penitentiary, said he was repeatedly raped and beaten by the ringleaders of the siege.

"I'm in shock," said Robert Mosley, 21. "When this thing started, people just turned into animals. I'm lucky to be here."

day morning by the clamor of a group of inmates who seized two guards during a routine bed check. A short time later, he said, the ringleaders came to his floor and dragged him and his cellmates from their cell.

"They put hoods over my head and bound my arms with strips of cloth," he said. "They tied me in a fetal position."

Mosley said at least 10 inmates sexually assaulted him and he also suffered a sprained knee and cuts during the attacks by ringleaders of the uprising.

The wife of another, Capt. Gregorio Roybal, hung up on a reporter who attempted to talk to her husband.

A volunteer fireman told UPI the brutality "was worse than anything I ever saw during my combat years in Vietnam." He said there were many bodies in the prison's corridors, "but I could not tell for sure (how many) because they were so mutilated. Arms, legs and heads chopped off."

The stories were grisly. — A state policeman reported Saturday he saw two inmates hold another convict in front of a window, then direct a burning blowtorch into the man's face.

— Early in the ordeal, an inmate was hanged. — There were unconfirmed reports of castration.

SWAT Team Recalls Sights Of Brutality

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Fifteen members of a Special Weapons and Tactics team helped authorities regain control of the New Mexico State Penitentiary after inmates took over and rioted. They didn't fire a shot, but they saw death at its ugliest.

Others had slash wounds across their chests, and one appeared to have had all his fingers broken, he said.

Several inmates, said detective David Leyba, "seemed to be beaten to death." Another, he said, had a rope around his neck and apparently was either hanged or strangled.

Authorities confirmed the deaths of 32 inmates in the two-day siege, and said the toll could go higher.

State officials who negotiated with inmates over release of hostages during the takeover said a decapitated body had been placed near the penitentiary's front gate. When militants were in custody, they taunted inmates who earlier had surrendered.

"You see that dead thing without a head," one shouted. "That was one of your confidential informants."

Corrections Commission Chairman Bud Richards said the rebellious prisoners broke into confidential records in the administration building and found the names of prison informers.

State police Maj. Charlie Anaya said the brutality was the inmates' way of "getting all the snitches."

Meanwhile, as the SWAT officers spoke to reporters, smoke billowed from broken windows throughout the penitentiary and water seeped out of the cellblocks from broken toilets and sinks. In some places, the water was ankle deep.

"Everything is just gutted," Leyba said. "The cellblocks and everything."

"There's nothing in there worth salvaging," added Dalton.

Montoya said the team had expected resistance from inmates

Families Of Prisoners Express Anger

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Dozens of persons lingered outside New Mexico State Penitentiary, hoping for word of sons and brothers from within the smoldering facility. Soon, their fear gave way to anger.

The crowds shouted insults at Gov.

Bruce King when he expressed his sympathy and told them he did not know how long it would be before officials identified those who died in the weekend's bloody inmate rampage.

"They said they'd let us in to see them in an hour. Now they say tomorrow afternoon. What kind of game are they playing?" said Mary Montano, whose stepfather is incarcerated.

Miss Montano directed some of her anger at King, who she said had not kept his word to the families.

"If he's going to say something, why doesn't he live up to it? This isn't politics. This is life. It's inhumane," she said.

Many of the relatives had been at the prison since late Saturday night. Their eyes were red from fatigue and weeping. But those who said they were afraid earlier, said frustration had wiped some of the fear away.

Floyd Martinez, whose brother Frankie had not been accounted for, said, "I don't know why they don't let the parents see them. I was scared, but my

Chapel Still Intact After Prison Violence

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — Prison inmates who raped, mutilated and killed each other in a 36-hour takeover of the New Mexico State Penitentiary destroyed 80 percent of the institution but left the prison chapel untouched.

"I've never seen anything so terrible in all my life. Everything is destroyed except our chapel," said Archbishop Robert Sanchez, who toured the prison within hours after it was retaken Sunday.

"It tells me these men still have a very strong belief in their God."

Penitentiary Damages May Take Tax Rebates

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — A weekend of rioting at the New Mexico State Penitentiary may have cost New Mexico taxpayers their 1980-81 tax rebates, a state legislator says.

Rep. Fred Mondragon, D-Bernalillo, said Sunday that damage to the prison was so extensive it may have to be replaced. He said that would cost at least $40 million.

The prison was described as a burned-out shell by reporters and legislators who were allowed inside during negotiations and after National Guardsmen and police moved in to take control of the facility.

Mondragon, who was allowed inside as a representative of the House Appropriations and Finance Committee, said the riot would have a significant impact on the state's fiscal position.

"As far as I'm concerned, medical facilities and museums go out the window," Mondragon said. "As far as I'm concerned tax rebates do to."

Gov. Bruce King has asked the Legislature for $60 million in tax relief in the form of rebates to be paid in 1980-81.

Newsmen Compares New Mexico Riot To Tragedy At Attica

By ALLAN R. BRUCE
United Press International Writer

A husky man knelt beside a little boy. Both wept. "God took daddy away," the man gently told his nephew. Inside the church, funeral services were about to begin for the boy's father, a prison guard killed in the Attica riot.

The man hugged his nephew, then lifted him into his arms and the two disappeared through the church entrance.

Forty-three prison employees and inmates died in the Sept. 13, 1971, riot at New York state's maximum security prison. A shocked nation — spurred on by outraged reformists — vowed there never would be another Attica.

Yet it happened again this weekend, hundreds of miles away.

There are striking similarities between what occurred in the rural village of Attica, N.Y., and at the New Mexico State Penitentiary near Santa Fe. But there also are some key differences — decisions and events that may, in themselves, be responsible for sparing the lives of the guards taken hostage in the latest uprising.

The principle issues involved at both prisons were the same — overcrowding and general harsh treatment of prisoners by guards. More than 2,200 convicts were crammed into living spaces built for 1,200 in Attica. In New Mexico, 1,200 jammed cells were intended for 800.

Both prisons were in turmoil for days preceding the uprisings. New York Corrections Commissioner Russell G. Oswald canceled a meeting with inmates a few days before the Attica riot because his wife took ill. There had been mess hall brawls and Oswald's session was designed to air inmates' grievances.

Two months before the New Mexico outbreak, there was a mass escape. Eleven of the 12 escapees later were caught, but the incident spurred complaints about overall conditions at the facility.

As the rioting started, both sets of inmates seized prison employees as hostages. Fires were set.

Both issued a long list of demands for better treatment. At both institutions, there were rumors of atrocities committed by convicts upon other convicts. Some stories were true.

Inmates at both prisons demanded face-to-face confrontations with the governor. New York's Nelson Rockefeller refused to go to Attica. New Mexico's Bruce King went to the prison but did not meet with the convicts.

New Mexico prisoners wielded meat cleavers and homemade knives when they seized the penitentiary. The day the Attica siege ended, reporters were shown huge boxes of confiscated weapons — meat cleavers, homemade knives, spears, guns and even a rocket-launcher.

There are other similarities between the two riots, but it may be that what did happen in New York and what did not happen in New Mexico is responsible for the fact that all the hostages in the latest riot escaped with their lives.

There was a catalyst in the Attica riot — an event that so abruptly changed the mood of both sides that two days before officials ordered the retaking of the prison, death in massive numbers seemed inevitable.

That was the death of guard William Quinn. Quinn was critically injured at the start of the riot — dumped from a second story window. There were rumors Quinn was used as a battering ram by inmates to force a cellblock door open. He suffered severe head injuries.

Outside the prison, grim-faced guards cursed as news of Quinn's death spread. Inside, frightened convicts openly expressed fear of reprisals.

Ultimatums were issued by Oswald. Give up, or else. Both sides hardened their positions.

Ominously, the day it all ended, rioting inmates hauled their hostages onto a concrete area known as "Time Square," a one-story-high structure that divides the prison yard into four sections.

Bergland Outlines Standard For Farm Research

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland has outlined a new standard barring spending federal money for agricultural research that benefits a small group of farmers or businesses.

He said all research would be evaluated on a case-by-case basis by a new task force, whose co-chairman will be Susan Sechler, a department official who helped write a book a few years ago attacking the focus of agricultural research and the land-grant system.

Bergland revealed the standard as he clarified his refusal to permit spending of federal money for agricultural research to replace an adequate and willing farm labor force with machines.

He said federally financed research should not be permitted to benefit a small number of people who could "gain control of the farm to market structure, monopolize the sources of finance at every step and increase their profits by selling what may well be an inferior product at a price that is insulated from competition."

In the past, research was judged by how much it helped to raise agricultural productivity. Now criteria should be "whether the research truly serves the national interest or merely increases the profits of a small group of citizens or businesses," Bergland said.

The agriculture secretary became involved in a flap over mechanization research at a Dec. 13 hearing in Fresno, Calif. The hearing was one of a series on the future of the family farm. On that occasion, Bergland said federal money should not pay for research that cuts out farm labor.

In a speech recently to Agriculture Department research officials, Bergland said his statement was misinterpreted by people who thought he wanted to cut off federal money for all mechanization research.

His complete position, he said, is that he has no objection to research on machines that lighten a person's workload, that are needed because of lack of labor in an area or that help a farmer without displacing lots of workers.

Bergland said mechanization research that displaces farm laborers should be paid for by states or by private industry.

Although the policy does not rule out all federal funds for mechanization research, it does jeopardize some federal funds that go to the University of Calif-nia at Davis.

Bergland estimated that about $1 million in federal money is being spent this fiscal year on mechanization research he opposes.

Of that total, about $400,000 is directed to states who spend it on 15 to 20 projects. The remainder finances six to 12 projects under the department's research program.

Bergland said no one knows how many other research projects "involve the dubious use of federal money."

Bergland's new research task force will set criteria by which federal spending research must meet "changing national priorities."

Bergland's appointee as co-chairman of the task force — Miss Sechler, the department's deputy director of economic policy analysis and budget — is on record as a strong critic of the traditional focus of agricultural research.

More research must be geared to needs of small farmers, he said.

Aide Shares Southern Roots With President

By WESLEY G. PIPPERT
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Alonzo McDonald was speaking about President Carter:

"He's a very unselfish, almost shy person, who is driven by a conviction he must do all within his talent and power to do the right thing..."

"In very complicated matters, he'll turn to a Cabinet member and say, 'But what's the right thing to do?' Right to him is not a narrowly defined word — it is intellectual, correct and moral in nature..."

"One almost has to have religious convictions — a certain set of moral and ethical standards — to appreciate what he does sometimes..."

Those perceptions came from one who shares Carter's southern and religious roots. They also came from the man presidential chief of staff Hamilton Jordan chose to be his deputy, whom someone called "the blue chip White House meekane."

Last October, Billy Graham called the White House to say a year-long commitment would prevent him from coming to a reception for Pope John Paul II, but he greatly appreciated the invitation. McDonald took the call. Graham asked him to mention to the president that he was concerned at not being able to accept. A day or so later, he mentioned to Carter that Graham had called.

"He likes to know those things," McDonald said.

McDonald is 51, tall, gracious, dressed like the corporation efficiency expert he once was. His grandfather was a preacher and his father a lay Baptist preacher and an insurance man in Atlanta.

He had been with McKinsey & Co. 17 years, a decade of it overseas, when presidential troubleshooter Robert Strauss asked him in 1977 to be his deputy for the Geneva trade talks. After the Camp David "domestic summit" last July, Jordan summoned.

McDonald was interviewed in his office strategically located midway in the West Wing between Jordan's corner office and the Oval Office. As one might guess, his desk table was almost bare of papers.

"Everyone has become more and more aware that the president doesn't enjoy being bothered by minor things, which are sort of irritating," McDonald said. As a result, he said, aides "turn to Hamilton or me for a first try." Carter's top staff gathers each morning for a meeting listed on the president's schedule as "Mr. Frank Moore, congressional liaison."

Afterwards, McDonald and Jordan may take a minute or two with Carter and rapidly go down a list of the items that staff members may have asked them about.

Washington Window

"Do you feel strongly about this?" they ask. "Yes," Carter may say.

Or, McDonald said, Carter may reply, "No, you handle that."

It doesn't mean that Carter is concerned only with matters of cosmic importance, McDonald said. "He means that he does care that it's handled well and orderly but he doesn't want to study it or get involved in the details."

"If it involves long-time friends, or religious leaders he's known a long time or persons he's identified with in some way, he'll want to know," McDonald said.

McDonald stated one objective: "To make sure the president has the advantage of the full organization, whatever we can do, and to make sure the voices are heard..."

"The president likes to work from something he can see, specifically, more so than conversations," McDonald said. So he has changed the rules of access to the Oval Office.

Farrell and will write a monthly column of book criticism beginning with the June issue.

"All of the presidential assistants have direct access to the president on any major item of substance in which they have strong views. There's been no attempt to close them off in any way," he said.

Appointments secretary Phil Wise and staff secretary Rick Hutcheson, both Georgians in their 20s, do the first screenings of memos and calls. McDonald gets involved only if there is potential conflict or it affects several persons.

"I avoid getting embroiled in the argument rarely on," he said, "because I lose the opportunity to pull the group together if I become an advocate. At the end of the day, when everyone has had a say so, I frequently then say, 'Here's what I think.'"

Massacre Of Afghan Village Reported

BOSTON (UPI) — Afghan troops, acting under Soviet orders, last year slaughtered more than 1,000 Afghan villagers in one of the worst massacres in recent history, the Christian Science Monitor reported today.

In a copyrighted story, the Monitor quoted survivors who said some 200 Afghan soldiers and policemen, together with 20 Soviet advisers, machine-gunned almost the entire male population of the small town of Kerala on April 20, 1979.

"They forced all the men to line up in crouching positions in the field just outside the town and then opened up with their machine guns from behind," Abdul Latif, an Afghan traffic policeman now living in Pakistan, was quoted as saying.

"Then they spread out through the town, gunning down all the remaining men they could find."

The shooting in the small town in eastern Afghanistan's Kunar province was the first reported case of a mass military reprisal against the civilian population since fighting began almost two years ago, the Monitor said.

The massacre took place on an Islamic Holy Friday before the Soviets invaded Afghanistan in force at the end of 1979, the newspaper said.

The Monitor said Afghan soldiers accused the townspeople of collaborating with anti-government Moslem "Mujahideen" fighters hidden in the surrounding mountains.

"They knew very well that we had been secretly giving the Mujahideen food, ammunition, shelter, and money," Khalil Ullah, a teacher who managed to escape, was quoted as saying.

"They were particularly angry because the governor of Kunar had previously called on us all to take up arms against the rebels, but we flatly refused," Abdul Hadi, another teacher, said to the Monitor.

Survivors and witnesses said a column of 30 tanks and a number of armored personnel carriers from nearby military garrisons rolled into town the day after heavy fighting between rebels and government forces.

The vehicles took up position around Kerala with their guns aimed towards the center of town. The men were then ordered to come to a meeting to discuss rebel fighting in the area.

The shooting was reportedly ordered by a Russian officer who wore an Afghan uniform without rank insignia.

"You can be sure that next year's potato crop will be a good one," a senior Soviet military advisor was quoted as saying as the town's women struggled to push past soldiers to the bodies of their husbands, brothers and sons.

The total number killed, while not precisely recorded, was more than the population of Lidice, Czechoslovakia, which was slaughtered during World War II by the Nazis.

Soviet Plane Grounded In NY

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Soviet airliner that officials tried to divert to Washington was sitting instead at Kennedy Airport today where ticket agents, mechanics and ground crewmen are refusing to handle Russian flights.

What would happen to the approximately 80 passengers who planned to depart for Moscow late Sunday on the flight, which is one of two every week to the Soviet Union, was unclear.

The Aeroflot plane put down at Kennedy Sunday afternoon, two days after the Port Authority of New York-New Jersey asked the airline to divert the arrival to Dulles Airport in Washington.

The Teamsters Union, which represents ticket agents, and the Transport Workers Union, which represents mechanics and ground crewmen, have refused to handle Soviet flights at Kennedy to protest the Russian invasion of Afghanistan.

Newsmen Located In Afghanistan

MOSCOW (AP) — Three foreign correspondents reported missing in northern Afghanistan have made contact to report they are safe and sound, the British news agency, Reuters, said today.

The Reuters office in Kabul, the Afghan capital, sent a message to its Moscow bureau saying the three reported they got snowed-in in the town of Mazdar Sharif and that they expected to return to Kabul today.

The three left Kabul on a bus Friday to travel to northern Afghanistan and were to return to Kabul that night. However, northern Afghanistan was buffeted by snow and high winds and telephone communications had been cut off.

The three correspondents are Marcus Eliason of The Associated Press, Richard Balmforth of Reuters and Elizabeth Thurgood of the Guardian. All three are Britons.

Eliason has been reporting from Afghanistan for about a month. His home base is Paris.

Gallegos Family Braces For Long Wait For Son

PUEBLO, Colo. (UPI) — Dick Gallegos measures the three months of the Iranian crisis by interviews, telephone calls from the U.S. State Department and inquest messages from his son, Marine Cpl. Billy Gallegos.

The younger Gallegos is one of the 50 hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

The elder Gallegos and his family talked with a steady stream of reporters during the first month of the embassy takeover, when the days were dominated by new information.

"We have been told from the beginning it was going to take a long time," said Gallegos as the hostages began their fourth month of captivity. Gallegos said the waiting has become routine.

He said messages from his son, unexpected and welcome, have helped assure the family. The longest was a television interview and the most recent was a note delivered by Russell Means, a leader in the American Indian Movement.

He said he was doing fine. He said the hostages had now been allowed to talk with each other. He said for us to hang tough. He said he was hanging tough. It was encouraging," said Gallegos.

Gallegos said his life has changed significantly with the biweekly phone calls from the State Department providing updated information on the hostages, requests for interviews and messages of encouragement from people around the country.

"The routine has certainly changed. I don't think things will get back to normal for us until the hostage situation is over," he said.

Former Marine Volunteers To Be Hostage

ESCONDIDO, Calif. (AP) — Fred Quick, a 59-year-old former prisoner of war, is looking for 49 good men to join him. He wants to exchange himself for one of the 50 American hostages in Iran.

And the former Marine is convinced other members of his former Texas unit "would volunteer in a minute."

Quick was one of 315 survivors when the 1,020-man heavy cruiser Houston was sunk by the Japanese in March 1942 between Sumatra and Java. He spent four years as a POW.

"I've had a good life, and I'd like to see those hostages returned to their families," said Quick. "Besides, after what some of us went through as prisoners of the Japanese, this wouldn't be bad at all."

The Escondido man said he wrote the U.S. State Department with the offer "but I've not heard from them."

Divorced and living with his 16-year-old daughter, Quick said he's willing "to pay my own way" to Iran if he could take the place of one hostage. He said his daughter could live on his disability and social security payments.

"I know that if I could get the word out, there is a National Guard unit in Texas — the 2nd Battalion, 131st Field Artillery of the Texas Guard — who also were POWs with me, and would volunteer in a minute," he said.

A state department spokesman called it "a very noble gesture, but I doubt it's very practical. Those militants want the shah, not hostages."

Clergy Consider Iran Exchange

CLEVELAND (AP) — The National Council of Churches is considering an exchange program between American Christian clergymen and Moslem religious leaders from Iran, says the council's president.

The Rev. M. William Howard Jr. said the program will probably be approved by the council's governing board later this month. Howard, 33, a Baptist minister from Princeton, N.J., was the principal speaker Sunday at the annual convention of the Ohio Episcopal Diocese.

He was one of three American clergymen to visit the American hostages held at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by Iranian militants at Christmas.

The exchange program "will foster greater understanding between the two nations and prepare the way for easing tensions," he said.

The council already has proposed the exchange program to Iranian religious leaders and political officials, Howard said.

Soviet Bloc Leaders Mostly Elderly Men

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Communist Eastern Europe faces prospects that all of its leaders will be replaced in the new decade by politics, old age or death.

There are few signs of who the new leaders will be or what brand of communism they will practice. No leader in the Soviet bloc is younger than 61-year-old Nicolae Ceausescu of Romania, his country's Communist Party chief since 1965.

Poland's Edward Gierk and Czechoslovakia's Gustav Husak are both 66. East Germany's Erich Honecker and Hungary's Janos Kadar 67, and Bulgaria's Todor Zhivkov 68.

Outside the Soviet bloc, Enver Hoxha, Albania's party leader ever since 1941, is 71.

The most elderly leader of all is Yugoslavia's Josip Broz Tito, who will be 88 this coming May. He has been trying to prepare his country for his demise — without allowing any one figure to emerge as a likely successor.

There seems little chance that Eastern Europe's next leaders, except for any successors to Tito and Hoxha, would be much younger than the men now in power.

One recent Western study showed that in the past decade Soviet bloc politicians in Eastern Europe had all grown older except for Bulgaria, where the average age fell from 61.2 to 59.7 years.

East Germany's politburo, younger than Bulgaria's in 1969 at 60.9 years, had grown to be the oldest at 61.7 by 1979.

Prediction Not Cause For Panic

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An earthquake prediction is not likely to produce the dire economic consequences that some fear could turn a bustling city into a panic-stricken ghost town, several researchers contend.

In fact, social scientists said recently at an earthquake prediction conference that it may be difficult to get officials and the public to take reasonable precautions if a prediction is made.

"I don't think people are going to run in panic to sell their houses," said Dennis S. Mileti of Colorado State University.

Several studies give "little indication that people will overreact to earthquake warnings. The problem with earthquake warning systems will be getting people to respond at all." The session was sponsored by the U.S. Geological Survey, the city of Los Angeles and other state and federal agencies. It was held in Los Angeles, about 300 miles south of the area hit by a series of earthquakes.

"People tend to deny and diminish a threat," he said. "That is the mechanism that lets us get on an airplane even though we know that airplanes sometimes crash."

The mechanism can work on public officials just as it does with the public, he said, adding that people often choose to believe only the information that reinforces their preconceptions of the danger.

The distribution of accurate and complete information therefore becomes critical if attempts to reduce the potential damage are to match the actual danger from a predicted quake.

Economist Harold Cochrane of Colorado State University sounded a note of warning, however. Although the initial response to a firm, long-term prediction may be business as usual, he said, "there will be very subtle things happening to the regional economy."

"The danger in terms of public policy is to believe that when a prediction does not yield any immediate impacts that things are now safe," he said.

If the predicted quake is a few years away, he said, such things as demand for new homes in the target area may slowly decrease. That would produce a decline in construction leading to unemployment and similar effects.

Although the economy may seem outwardly sound, it could be teetering on the edge and, if ultimately pushed over, "there could be a precipitous collapse... that is very dramatic and very quick."

One way to help prevent such a sudden crash is to provide earthquake insurance for the target area. Cochrane contends insurance could be sold profitably since even a major quake will produce only pockets of severe damage and most single-family homes should escape without major losses.

Law Officer Recalls Life Of Adventure

BONHAM (AP) — It is not known how many men Rufus Van Zandt killed during his 50-year career as a law officer.

"My brother got to figuring it once, and when he reached 15, I told him to quit," says Van Zandt, 84. He has been a Texas Ranger, a prohibition agent for the Justice Department, a soldier and a private security guard.

Today he lives in this quiet East Texas town and walks with a cane. But he remembers well the days when he lived by a simple code:

"I never shot anybody that didn't need shooting."

Van Zandt, born in Tennessee and reared in Fort Worth, said he left home at age 18 and worked as a cattle guard on a Mexican ranch. He said that's when he killed his first man, a Mexican soldier trying to steal a cow. But he found himself in deep trouble because of it.

"I had two choices then. Join the Mexican army or be arrested and shot," he said. He joined the army, but escaped by stealing a colonel's horse and riding for 32 nights — sleeping days — crossing back into Texas just east of El Paso.

He was wounded in France in World War I and, after recovering, became one of 33 Texas Rangers, earning $90 a month and providing his own horse and guns. Van Zandt's territory stretched from San Antonio to El Paso.

In the late 1920s, Van Zandt joined the Justice Department as a prohibition agent.

Lubbock Man Stabbed In Struggle With Teen

A struggle Sunday night ended with a 20-year-old Lubbock man being taken to Health Sciences Center Hospital, where he was treated for two stab wounds, then released.

Police questioned a 17-year-old female suspect in connection with the 10:45 p.m. incident in the 2400-block of East 28th Street. However, she was not immediately taken into custody because the man allegedly was intoxicated and had assaulted the teen-ager just before he was stabbed in the arm and upper back.

The victim, whose name was not released, was found by police lying on the floor at a private residence. Reports allege that the man was too intoxicated to be questioned at the scene.

The woman said the man had been drinking with her brother earlier in the day and had fallen asleep at the house. She said she woke the man and was driving him home when he opened her car door and refused to shut it.

The teen-ager drove back to the East 28th Street residence where a fight erupted in the front yard, reports indicate. She said she attacked the man with the knife after he had struck her several times in the face.

A 38-year-old woman told police she was cut on the hand when she tried to stop the fight. Police confiscated the knife at the scene.

In other activity, a 22-year-old Lubbock man was arrested about 1 a.m. today after police spotted him leaning under the hood of a car parked on a dealer's lot at 19th Street and Avenue M.

The suspect reportedly told the approaching officers, "I'm not stealing this battery. I just need to boost my car."

Police said they found a switchblade knife in the suspect's coat pocket, along with a wrench and screwdriver.

The man briefly struggled with the two policemen before being handcuffed and booked into the county jail on suspicion of theft, unlawfully carrying a weapon and resisting arrest.

David Burton Johnson, 45-year-old attendant at the Town and Country Food Store at 2025 Clovis Road, told police he was threatened by a knife-wielding youth and his two companions about 11:15 p.m. Sunday after the trio disputed the price they were told to pay for gasoline.

Johnson said that after he was finally paid for the gasoline, the suspects threatened to beat him and that one of the trio waved a 4-inch knife in front of him.

The attendant went to call police, but by the time officers arrived the suspects were gone. They were described as Mexican-American teen-agers in a blue 1973 El Camino.

A 16-year-old Lubbock boy told police his brother was stabbed and beaten about 10 p.m. Saturday near Seventh Street and Avenue U.

But when officers questioned the 17-year-old youth Sunday, he told them he did not want to file charges and would "get" his three assailants at a later time.

Olivia Moreno of 2813 Ave. K told police the sides of her car was kicked in and a window smashed late Sunday or early this morning while the vehicle was parked outside a club in the 1700-block of Fourth Street.

The woman estimated about $1,100 in damage and named three young Mexican-American women as possible suspects.

Vandals in the past week struck a house owned by the Lubbock Housing Authority and did about $2,500 in damage, according to Fulton Berry Jr., the authority's security director.

Berry said the vacant 3307 East Baylor St. house had windows knocked out, holes punched in the walls, siding ripped off and the backyard fence knocked down.

An 18-year-old motorist was apprehended about 3:45 p.m. Sunday just minutes after he allegedly collided with a car at University Avenue and Broadway and then left the scene.

Reports indicate the driver of the second vehicle, Debra Lynn Zakovec, a 19-year-old Texas Tech coed, and her two passengers suffered minor injuries in the collision and were treated at Health Sciences Center Hospital.

The male suspect was arrested minutes later at 10th Street and Avenue W and booked into the county jail on suspicion of failing to stop and render aid.

Erlinda T. Gonzales of 2107 Ave. O told police his house was burglarized between 2:30 p.m. and 11 p.m. Sunday and $1,150 in property stolen, including stereo equipment, a television set and a watch.

Jimmie C. Sutton, 25, of 400 Idealou Road was arrested and released at Health Sciences Center Hospital for a stab wound to the leg he suffered Saturday night.

A witness told police he saw the suspect stagger into the Lubbock Motor Lodge complex and said the victim had asked him for $10 and passed out. The witness said he realized the man had been stabbed, took him to a room and called EMS.

The victim said the suspect was a black female, 36 to 45 and heavy-set.

A man, armed with a 30-30 caliber rifle, reportedly took about $30 from the attendant at the Seven-Eleven store, 313 N. Detroit Ave., about 4 a.m. Sunday.

Store attendant Bobby Don Nabors, 17, told police he was standing in the south part of the store when the suspect entered, cocked his rifle and told the victim to move to the check out stand.

Nabors said that when he went to the register, the suspect said, "Don't do anything funny or I'll shoot you. Empty the register." The victim said he placed the bills into a paper sack and gave it to the suspect, who left the store on foot.

Nabors said the suspect was Mexican-American, 18 to 25, thin and of medium height. He said the man was wearing a stocking over his head, a heavy dark blue coat and blue jeans.

A 19-year-old Lubbock man was arrested for public intoxication Saturday outside a skating rink at 1510 50th St. after an officer found that the man and his two companions smelled strongly of paint fumes. His two companions, one 15 and the other 16, were taken to the juvenile division.

Reports show that an officer pulled up to the car that the three boys were standing against and found them to be intoxicated and smelling of paint fumes. When the officer identified himself, reports indicate that two of the youths threw down the cans they were holding and began walking away.

The officer arrested the youths and told them to get in his police car. When the officer stepped from his car to summon a security guard, the policeman reportedly saw the 16-year-old boy pull out a knife. When the policeman yelled at the security guard for help, the boy reportedly folded up his knife and the officer grabbed it from him. The officer also discovered that the 15-year-old boy was attempting to hide his knife.

A man reportedly exposed himself to three girls, ages 12, 13 and 15, outside the South Plains Mall Saturday afternoon.

The girls said the suspect came up to them, told them to look down and exposed himself. The victims began running and the suspect pursued them, catching the 13-year-old by the shoulder. The 13-year-old freed herself and the victims said the suspect ran to an old lime green car on the parking lot.

The victims said the man was white, 25 to 35, tall and heavy, with black hair and brown eyes. They said he was wearing a red baseball cap, red and black flannel shirt and faded blue jeans.

Judge Refuses To Bar Media From Three Mile Island Trial

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — A judge today rejected a plea by the operator of Three Mile Island to bar reporters from a court hearing about articles on last year's nuclear accident, over claims that sensitive security information would be disclosed.

Dauphin County Judge John C. Dowling allowed the news media access to a hearing in which Metropolitan Edison Co. sought to stop publication of articles about alleged lax security at the crippled nuclear power plant.

The articles, set for publication Tuesday, were written by a reporter for a local weekly, The Guide, who breached security at the plant by getting a job as a guard and sneaking a camera inside.

Met-Ed lawyer William Reynolds said publication of the articles could threaten plant security and that news coverage of the hearing would reveal the same information even if the article is suppressed.

But Dowling told the utility's lawyers, "Thirty to forty years of court decisions say you can't do it. You have a good dozen cases against you."

Reynolds replied, "We are talking about a national security matter. Disclosure of that information could have dire consequences."

Joseph Rhoda, a lawyer for The Guide, cited a section of the Pennsylvania

Constitution that says "all courts must be open."

Dowling said the most important case involving prior restraint was the Pentagon Papers case involving the New York Times. Dowling noted that four U.S. Supreme Court justices ruled that prior restraint is not permissible under any circumstances.

The First Amendment also was touched off by Friday's disclosure that Guide reporter Robert Kapler, in his first assignment out of journalism school, succeeded in getting hired as a guard to patrol reactor Unit No. 2, site of the nation's worst nuclear accident. He worked there between Jan. 3-19.

Met-Ed claims publication of his articles on security at Three Mile Island could endanger the welfare of the public if the information got into the hands of saboteurs.

Friday, Dowling denied Met-Ed's request for immediate injunction of the Guide's stories, saying news could not be restrained "except in extraordinary situations."

The Guide's editor, Richard Halverson, said the articles were intended to expose, in the public interest, the "shabby state of security that exists at Three Mile Island."

The fact that a cub reporter could get in there and walk around for two weeks speaks of the security problems at Three Mile Island, said Halverson.

Met-Ed spokesman Sandy Polon acknowledged last week The Guide's reporter was able to obtain employment at Three Mile Island without the knowledge of plant security officials.

He also admitted Kapler succeeded in violating the company's security rule by sneaking a camera onto the plant and taking photographs.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission said it was investigating Kapler's firing and that Met-Ed could be fined if the security lapse.

Met-Ed's case against The Guide is like last year's celebrated prior restraint case against a Wisconsin newspaper, The Progressive.

UTEP Faculty To Perform LCC Recital

Three music faculty members from the University of Texas at El Paso will present a recital of operatic duets and songs for tenor and baritone at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Lubbock Christian College chorus room in the Music Building.

The recital program will feature duets from "La Boheme," "The Blue Bird," "Don Carlo" and "La Finta Soubrette."

They also will perform solo songs from "Zaza," "Lucia," "Andrea Chénier," "Pagliacci" and "La Forza del Destino."

Participating include: Steve Cardon, tenor, who has taught at UTEP since 1963. He is the head of the opera and also has directed the University Chorus and developed the Master of Music and Music on the Border courses which were founded by the National Association for the Humanities.

Arny Frank, a baritone, is head of UTEP since 1976. He participated also in the university's affiliated State College of Texas, and is a frequent performer in the university's musical theater program.

The program is sponsored by the UTEP Music Department and the UTEP Chorus. The recital is open to the public at no cost.

Seventh Body Discovered At Ship Collision Site

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — The body of a seventh man killed in the ship collision in Tampa Bay last week floated to the surface just before midnight Sunday, the Coast Guard said today.

The body, which was not immediately identified, was the first found since last Tuesday, the day after the busy tender Blackthorn sank 3 minutes after colliding with the 200-foot tanker S.S. Capricorn.

There were still 16 Coast Guardmen missing in the service of a possible rescue. All were officially listed as dead Sunday.

A Coast Guard spokesman at St. Petersburg said the body floated to the surface at 11:55 p.m. while divers were trying to place a flotation collar around some of the submerged wreckage.

Announcement of the recovery came as an inquiry into the cause of the collision resumed at 10:00 a.m. Force Five in Tampa.

The inquiry, the second Sunday while still underway, is being conducted by the Coast Guard's Marine Board of Investigation and the National Transportation Safety Board's division of investigation, members of the Capricorn's crew.

Tear Gas Explosion Injures Area Youth

A 15-year-old Shalwater youth was in intensive hospital care Sunday after being injured by a tear gas explosion when a small tear gas container blew up in his hand Sunday afternoon.

Lubbock County Sheriff's Office said that Raymond Baker reportedly had taken out the tear gas container and was attempting to reassemble it when the container exploded. The incident occurred about 3:15 p.m. at a coffee pit on Sherman Street, north of Shalwater.

The youth reportedly found the container at the site.

Rossellini Film Trilogy Opening Set Wednesday

A trilogy of three Roberto Rossellini films, "Age of Medici," is being offered to the public by the Texas Tech University Division of Architecture on three successive nights, Wednesday through Friday at 8 p.m. in the Biology Auditorium at no charge.

"New York Times" critic Vincent Canby has pointed out that the films, shot in the environs of Florence, are neither difficult nor grandiose.

Written and directed by Rossellini, the films demonstrate his special interest in "teaching" films, to which he turned in the last years of his life. They express his concern with the educational power of film to answer a need for humanistically conceived education.

In Canby's words this meant "A kind of continuing, all-around education by which modern man would be freed from the terrible dangers of specializations," which Rossellini saw "as another form of ignorance."

The "Age of Medici" presents, in chronological order, "Cosimo de Medici," "The Power of Cosimo," and "Leon Battista Alberti: Humanism."

The three films consume four hours of screening time but will be presented separately and in chronological order on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

The trilogy documents the influence of the Medici family upon politics, economic patterns and the social life of the 15th century in Florence, but its great theme is the explosion of the arts and sciences in the Renaissance. Though it takes its name from the Medici family of bankers, statesmen and patrons, the most important figure is Alberti.

Red Cross Chapter Sets First Aid, CPR Classes

The local chapter of the American Red Cross has announced that several first aid classes and cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) classes have been scheduled for this month.

Multi-media first aid instruction will be available Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday for eight hours each day, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., in three different classes. The classes will be conducted at the Lubbock Fire Training Center on Municipal Drive, located north of Meadow Golf Course.

Multi-media first aid classes will also run Feb. 20 and Feb. 21 for four hours a day from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. at the Red Cross office.

An all-day multi-media first aid course is scheduled for Feb. 28 at the Red Cross, as well.

A multi-media first aid instructor course will be Feb. 27 and Feb. 29 from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. at the Red Cross office.

The organization has scheduled CPR-module courses for two different times this month. Feb. 12 and Feb. 13, the classes will meet from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. at the Red Cross office. Or participants may join the Feb. 25 class and work from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

A CPR-basic lifesaving instructors course is planned for Feb. 16 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Red Cross office.

Anyone interested in attending the courses should contact the American Red Cross office at 765-8534 as soon as possible for enrollment. Classes are free, but books and course materials require a fee.

Special classes in addition to the above schedule can be arranged for groups or organizations, upon request.

Suspect Held In Murder

Accused of committing the city's most recent murder, a 43-year-old Lubbock man remained in the county jail today after being arrested about 2 a.m. Sunday at a nightclub.

The suspect in the Saturday stabbing death of Bonnie Jewel Cox, 55, had not been formally charged by noon.

Cox, of 2642 E. Bates St., was pronounced dead at 1:30 a.m. Saturday at an East Lubbock shoeshine parlor. Police said Cox was stabbed through the heart with a knife witnesses said was about 20 inches long.

Det. Lt. Billy Knox said the stabbing occurred after Cox reportedly poked the suspect with his finger.

Witnesses said the altercation erupted after the suspect warned Cox not to poke him again. The victim suffered a single stab wound in the left side of his back.

The death was the city's second homicide of the year.

Air Force Initiates Plan To Curb Pilot Shortage

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — The Air Training Command has begun a program to ensure that by 1983 the Air Force would be training as many pilots as it loses.

Maj. Gen. William Usher, director of personnel plans in Washington, said that by Oct. 1 the Air Force would have 2,100 fewer pilots than it needed at a time President Carter was talking about toughening the nation's defenses.

Usher said if the trend continued, the shortage would reach 3,500 pilots by October, 1981.

But Gen. Bennie L. Davis, commander of the Air Training Command headquartered at Randolph AFB, said over the weekend the Air Force already had initiated a program to increase pilot training. He said the ATC will train 1,600 pilots this year, 1,800 next year and 2,000 in 1983.

Extra pilot instructors were being trained at Randolph for the expansion, Davis said.

"The loss rate increased faster than we predicted—it's not really a new phenomenon," Davis said.

(A spokesman for Reese Air Force Base said the number of pilots trained annually here jumped from about 300 approximately two years ago to 450 this year. He said the base has the capacity to train about 450 per year.)

Usher and other Air Force officials said the main problem was that military pay and benefits had fallen substantially below civilian levels, and the problem was especially acute among pilots because airlines were hiring at much higher salaries.

A typical Air Force captain with six years' services is paid about $22,000 a year, while an airline pilot could quickly move into the $30,000 bracket, and salaries with some seniority ranged from "the high $40,000s to the mid $50,000s," Usher said.

Davis said most of the pilots who leave the Air Force will join the Reserve or National Guard, so they still would be available for an emergency. The Air Force has about 22,500 total pilots.

"We haven't reduced our training standards. We are still getting plenty of applicants," Davis said.

The commander said the Air Force was trying to reduce "internal irritants" to help keep pilots in the service, but said as far as pay went, "Congress will have to help us there."

There are two bills before Congress to boost military pay by 3.4 percent and the White House is considering a proposal to double flight pay, last adjusted in 1974 to give pilots a maximum of $245 extra a month.

Media Members Testify About Robbery Publicity

Media representatives were testifying this morning in a venue change hearing concerning the amount of coverage given Cecilia Munoz Richardson's alleged participation in a September 1979 aggravated robbery.

Mrs. Richardson is accused of helping Valton Donnell Lewis hold up the 7-Eleven store at 802 Ave. Q the early morning of Sept. 3, 1979. The alleged bandits were photographed by a "Crime Eye" hidden camera.

Last November, the photographs were key evidence in Lewis' trial. The 22-year-old defendant was convicted of the aggravated robbery and assessed a life prison sentence.

Chuck Lanehart and Byron Chappel, attorneys for the 25-year-old Mrs. Richardson, contend that the publicity given the hidden camera photographs and Lewis' trial will prevent the empanelment of an impartial jury in Mrs. Richardson's case.

Testifying this morning were Avalanche-Journal reporter Kay Bell and Cliff Avery, managing editor of KAMC-TV news.

Both acknowledged the robbery and subsequent photographs created more than usual publicity in connection with that type of offense. They also noted Mayor Dirk West's news conference to publicize the pictures was a unique occurrence.

However, both told 137th District Court Judge Robert C. Wright, who is expected to rule on the venue change this afternoon, they did not think the coverage was excessive compared to that given other first degree felony offenses, such as murder. Both also told the court they believe Mrs. Richardson can receive a fair trial in Lubbock County.

Opposing the trial move are assistant district attorneys Hollis Browning and Travis Ware. If Wright denies the venue change, a jury will be selected this afternoon.

Auto Accident Takes Life Of Levelland Man

LEVELLAND (Special) — Dwayne Allan Castle, 30, of Levelland was killed Sunday morning when he apparently lost control of his pickup truck and overturned two times. Castle was reportedly thrown from his pickup truck. The accident occurred at 2 a.m.

Services for Castle will be at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in the George C. Price chapel with the Rev. Steve Byrne, pastor of the Lord of Life Lutheran Church in Odessa, officiating.

Burial will be in City of Levelland cemetery under supervision of George C. Price Funeral Directors.

The Levelland native was a 1968 graduate of Levelland High School and had attended South Plains College. He was a field salesman for Reed Rock Bit Co. Castle was a member of St. Paul Lutheran Church.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Choice Castle of Levelland; and his grandparents, Mrs. E.C. Seifert Sr. of Levelland and Mr. and Mrs. O.H. Castle of Bonham.

Palbearers will be Nick McCulloch, Ted Latham, Delton Young, Dickie Bailey, Mike Raymond and James "Skeeter" Fite.

Death Of Infant Ruled Homicide

The death Saturday of a 19-month-old Lubbock County infant has been ruled homicide by Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy.

Authorities were told a car had fallen on the head of the child, Brandon Fansler, shortly after 11 a.m. Saturday at a trailer park just west of the city. The tot died after 1 1/2 hours later at Methodist Hospital.

However, LeCroy ordered an autopsy performed in Amarillo, and after receiving results of the tests, returned the homicide ruling.

No arrests had been made by noon today, but officers said investigation was continuing.

GM Offering Rebate To Reduce Inventory

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. has announced a $500 rebate program to help clean out its inventories of 1979 cars.

People buying certain model cars between Feb. 4 and March 10 will receive $500 from GM after the car is delivered, the company said.

GM spokesman Ed Lechtzin said the company is trying to sell about 75,000 1979 vehicles scattered around the country at 17,000 dealerships.

House Passes Bill On Family Violence

By STAN HASTEY
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives passed and sent to the Senate a bill designed to curb the growing problem of physical abuse and violence within American families.

Passed 292-106, the measure calls for coordination of all federal programs that deal with domestic violence by a new inter-agency council composed of representatives from federal agencies, state and local government, and members who have themselves been victims of or worked with victims of such violence.

In addition, the bill authorizes the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to distribute 75 percent of the funds appropriated by the measure to the states for distribution at the local level.

The bill will cost $15 million for fiscal year 1981, $20 million for 1982 and $30 million for 1983, when it expires.

Another 15 percent of the funds will be spent in the states to administer programs relating to domestic violence, develop a media campaign on the subject, encourage citizen participation in projects, make annual reports to HEW and state legislatures, and provide technical assistance at the local level. The other 10 percent will go to HEW for program development and coordination.

An estimated two million American couples have used a lethal weapon against one another and husband-wife violence is estimated to include at least half of all American families. Testimony before the committee on education and labor said that during 1975, one-fourth of all persons murdered in the United States were killed by a family member and half of such victims were killed by a spouse.

Rep. Paul Simon, D-Ill., a prime sponsor and floor manager of the bill, told Baptist Press after its passage that "Violence is, unfortunately, very much a part of the American scene."

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

People on diets are not the same sweethearts people remember when they are pigging out.

Jolliness turns to irritability, shortness of temper, and a general falling apart. Little things get on their nerves, like discovering the answers to the crossword puzzle are printed upside down, the dog belching without so much as an "Excuse me," and someone putting new toilet tissue on the spindle with the paper unrolling from UNDER the roll.

If there's anything that tucks me off on a diet, it's recipes for diet foods with clever names. I'm an adult, for crying out loud. I can take it.

Don't promise me a bowl of "popcorn" before I go to bed each night if the "popcorn" is nothing more than a bowl full of carrots, celery and radishes. I'm not stupid. I'm bound to find out and I'll hate you for it.

Do you know what all that cuteness does to dieters? It makes them suspicious and it makes them mean. I don't trust any food anymore with quotation marks around it. "Chocolate" Eclairs for the dieter (Oh, yeah). Beef "Gravy" (Sure). Grow Thin "Pizza" (Uh-huh). "Hollandaise Surprise Sauce" (Ha ha).

Don't give me your "Adam and Eve on a Raft." Tell me it's an imitation egg dropped in a dietary piece of bread with a hole in the middle resting in a skillet that has been sprayed by a substitute oil and has the appeal of lunch at the eye bank.

Spare me your "almost" lasagna. Give it to me straight. Dare to reveal that you've put a lasagna pattern over peeled cucumbers and cut out something that resembles pasta, buried them with a sauce substitute, topped by a skim cheese with less calories than your fingernails.

You're looking at a woman who has gone down the road before that has been paved with promises and a lot of "Prune Dandy," "Pretend Pate," "Creative Ice Cream," "Virtuous Shortcake," "Gonietti Consomme," and "Party Liver." I'm a pro. All I have to do is look at the bottom of the recipe and see those nine little letters UNLIMITED and I know I've been had.

A friend of mine who is also a disciple in the church of latter-day dieters scanned the menu in a restaurant the other night and against her judgment ordered, "Waistline Chocolate Kabobs." She had an entire kabob in her mouth before she realized it was liver.

She used to be such a sweetheart.

JALAPENO PEPPERS
Since jalapeno peppers have a tough skin, prick the skin with a fork or ice pick or slash with a knife prior to canning so that the vinegar solution can penetrate the center of the pepper, suggests Mary K. Sweeten, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Can peppers in a pressure canner if they are not pickled, she advises.

What action do you take?
A.—Actually, East's intervention has made the bidding easier for you. You can afford to pass and let partner clarify whether his jump shift was based on a one-suited hand or whether he has heart support for you. Your pass is 100 percent forcing since partner's jump shift created a game force.

A.—Consider the tactics of the situation. You are vulnerable and the opponents are not. Partner has made a takeout double, showing support for the unbid suits, and your right-hand opponent has responded in your best suit. Something is surely rotten in Denmark, and the only sure way of exposing East's chicanery is to make a penalty double.

EXTENSION CORDS

Eliminate the use of extension cords in your home to avoid the serious injury or death of a young child, urges Nancy Granovsky, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Small children often suck and bite on extension cords during play, she says. Water, saliva and even wet diapers "don't mix" with electricity, the specialist adds.

Pat Walker's presents: the Splendor of being Slender

'I lost 51 pounds while eating the foods I love'

-Debbie Hamilton

Her Headaches Are Gone, Too

You can succeed Too....
Fortunately, there's a solution that allows you to dine deliciously even while you are trimming off pounds and inches. Pat Walker's proven program for weight reduction helps you achieve your goal without rigid dieting or strenuous exercises.

Debbie Hamilton, the lovely young woman pictured here. She writes:
"Before I started the program, I weighed 180 pounds and was wearing a very tight 14. My doctor told me to lose weight because I had high blood pressure that was causing me to have headaches. ... Now I understand about my body and how to take care of it through proper nutrition and with the help of the Sym-metricron.
I have lost 51 pounds and 49 1/2 inches and am now wearing a size 9. The headaches are gone, the weight is off and I have never felt better in my life..."

Club Notables

By CONNIE CHAPMAN
Family News Staff

This is the big week for the hard-working members of ARCS. The organization is counting on the community to support Friday's night auction so that a sizeable scholarship fund will be available to science scholars at LCC and Tech. The auction will be at the Lubbock Country Club; for more details, see yesterday's Family News section.

Other club activities scheduled for this week:

Anita Bass, local talk show hostess, will be guest speaker for Tuesday's meeting of the Lubbock Christian Women's Club. The 11:30 luncheon will be at the Lubbock Women's Club, and has a Valentine theme.

Carol Bramlett, Library services consultant for the public schools, will speak at Thursday's meeting of Zeta Omicron Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, on "Women Educators: Architects of the Future."

With the intriguing title, "It's a small world, after all," the program for Bed to Blossom Garden Club's meeting Thursday will feature — what else? — bonsai.

Members of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees, Chapter 144, will receive valuable information on protecting their homes from burglary from Bill Cox, of the Lubbock Police Department, Thursday noon at the Precinct 1 Clubhouse.

Doesn't the topic, "Roses are forever," make you feel like spring is just around the corner? That's the theme for Tuesday's meeting of the Lubbock Rose Society. Mrs. Nat Williams is guest speaker. Even if the ice still glistens on your (carefully pruned back, of course) rosebush, as it does at our house, there is something very hopeful about that topic.

THIS WEEK AT THE LUBBOCK WOMEN'S CLUB: Wednesday's Members' Day Roundtable will feature a luncheon and fashion show with special emphasis on furs and gems. The committee is Betty Brown, Ann Knight, Ruth Smith, Doris Urey and Sue Clary.

Study Club Donates Library Book Cart

Patients at Health Sciences Center Hospital may choose from a wide variety of books now available through the Lending Library Book Cart.

The cart, donated by the Hospital Auxiliary, has been supplied with approximately 125 books by the Lubbock Women's Study Club.

Mrs. Chris Squyres, a member of the Lubbock Women's Study Club, arranged for the project through the hospital. Mrs. Squyres stated that all club members donated the books but the responsibility for cataloging and placing the books on the cart was accomplished by a special committee.

SLEEK BEAUTY — Rugs are gradually regaining popularity in place of carpet because of their versatility and contrasts. This contemporary style with classic overtones is composed of Oriental cloud-like motifs in a series of panels. The rug complements the sleek, modern Oriental look of this formal setting.

Dear Abby,

DEAR ABBY: I am a happily married woman (22) and Mike is a wonderful, healthy, robust, masculine man of 25. We've been married a little over a year, and I have a problem I can't ask anyone else about. It has to do with sex. Mike has a big appetite for sex, but I am not complaining. It's his timing that bothers me. He always wants to make love on Sunday morning before mass. Abby, I know that love within marriage is not a sin, but for some silly reason I just hate to go to mass right after having had sex. Lately I have been putting my husband off. But I feel guilty about that.

Do you think I should postpone the lovemaking until after mass? Or keep telling myself I have no reason to feel guilty about it, and just try to get over that feeling. What's wrong with me?

MAGGIE MANHATTAN

DEAR MAGGIE: Your problem is rooted in the notion that sex is sinful. You grew up believing it, and even though you're married and there is nothing to feel guilty about, you're still programmed to equate sex with sin. Talk to a priest, or a psychiatrist. (Try the priest first. It's cheaper.)

DEAR ABBY: I have been considering donating my organs for possible transplant at the time of my death. However, I have heard that the family of the deceased is charged for transportation to the special hospital where the organs are removed, and also for the surgery to remove the organs. Is this true?

If it is, I would rather not donate my organs since I do not wish to add to the expense of my funeral. Thank you.

CONSIDERATE

DEAR CONSIDERATE: There is no charge for transportation to hospitals for the removal of organs. Time is so important in the removal of organs that a donor almost always has to be in the hospital at the time of death. (Corneas must be removed within four hours after death; kidneys within 20 minutes.)

There is no cost to the donor or the donor's family for the removal of organs.

However, when one donates his entire body to a medical school, in some states the medical school bears the cost of transportation. In other states, the estate of the donor must pay for it. Check with your local medical school.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my neighbor. He's divorced, retired and lives across the hall from my husband and me. This pest rings my bell at least 10 times a day asking if I "need" anything. If I tell him I'm busy he asks me stupid questions and engages me in conversation anyway. He loves to visit. What a bore he is!

Last evening, after working 16 hours, my husband came home exhausted. Five minutes later "Mr. Pest" rang our bell, and my husband invited him in yet! I nearly blew my top.

My husband says the man is lonely and he hates to hurt his feelings. What feelings? I have to peek in the all to see if this pest is around before I go out to empty my trash. If he sees me in the hall, he follows me into my apartment. I told him once to go to the Senior Citizen Center and play cards, dance or something but it didn't sink in.

Abby, besides cleaning, cooking and caring for four cats, I also manage this apartment building and I don't have time to kill with this boring man.

Thanks for listening. I get no sympathy from other I've told this to.

READY TO SCREAM

Dear Ready: "Mr. Pest" sounds as though he could be mentally disturbed. Treat him as you would a nagging child. Give him five or 10 minutes of your undivided attention then tell him gently but firmly that you have many daily chores to do and have no more time for visiting. That pathetic man needs some friendly understanding.

DEAR ABBY: You recently published a letter from a reader complaining about a woman who chewed ice continuously. You commented in a funny vein.

She might just be ill-mannered; on the other hand, she could very well be suffering from an iron deficiency. "Pagophagia" is a medical term for eating ice; it is a form of "pica," which is a craving for unusual substances. It's a well-known symptom of iron deficiency. The woman needs to be examined and a diagnosis made. She might overcome her ice-chewing habit by taking iron supplements.

PHOENIX M.D.

DEAR M.D.: Thanks for the hard, cold facts. I learned something today.

CONFIDENTIAL TO VICTOR IN SACRAMENTO: Do not teach your mynah birds to "talk dirty," or you will be contributing to the delinquency of a mynah!

Are there questions you can't ask your parents? Get Abby's new booklet, WHAT TEENAGERS OUGHT TO KNOW. Drugs, sex and alcohol are plainly discussed. Send $2 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Brzezinski Seeking Support By Saudis

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — U.S. National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, looking for international partners in an American aid program for Pakistan, flew in to Saudi Arabia today for meetings with leaders of this wealthy and staunchly anti-communist kingdom.

(Other Afghanistan Stories On Page 8, Sec. A)

The United States has offered Pakistan $400 million in military and economic assistance over two years because of the Soviet intervention in neighboring Afghanistan. In the Pakistani capital of Islamabad over the weekend, Brzezinski told officials this was "only the beginning of the United States response to the threat."

He did not indicate how much more the Pakistanis might get, but added, "We hope that other countries also will indicate what they wish to contribute."

The Saudis are one potential partner. In a weekend statement, Saudi Crown Prince Fahd urged the Moslem world to unite to give moral and financial aid to the anti-communist Moslem rebellion in Afghanistan.

After the flight from Islamabad, Brzezinski was met at Riyadh airport by the Saudi foreign minister, Prince Saud al-Faisal, Riyadh state radio reported.

Before leaving Islamabad, Brzezinski told reporters he had been asked by President Carter to "lay the foundations for an invigorated friendship between our two countries. We have done so."

Asked whether the United States plans to establish military bases in Pakistan, Brzezinski replied, "We are in the process generally of enhancing our ability to be of constructive help to the security of our friends in this part of the world, as well as elsewhere."

In doing so, he said, "we will be cooperating in a variety of ways with different countries in this region."

Brzezinski, who is traveling with Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, left a Pentagon team in Pakistan to assess the nation's military requirements.

The U.S. envoys had two days of talks with Pakistan's President Mohammed Zia ul-Haq, who earlier had shrugged off the U.S. aid offer as "peanuts." Pakistani officials say they need billions of dollars to build up their armed forces satisfactorily.

There was no indication whether Zia and Brzezinski had reached agreement on the amount of aid. A joint statement said they had a "full exchange of views."

Brzezinski visited a Pakistani camp for Afghan refugees about 100 miles south of the Afghan-Pakistan border.

"You will prevail ... because your cause is right. God is on your side," Brzezinski told the cheering refugees who responded with chants of "Allah-o-akbar!" — God is great.

Pointing north to the snow-clad mountain border, Brzezinski said, "The land over there is yours and you will go back there one day. Remember you are not alone."

Several elders told Brzezinski their homes, mosques and villages had been destroyed by "the alien and atheist regime in Afghanistan," forcing them to flee.

More than 500,000 refugees have sought shelter in Pakistan since the first communist regime came to power in Afghanistan 21 months ago, sparking a nationwide rebellion by anti-communist Moslem rebels. The Soviets began pouring troops into the country on Christmas Day to put down the rebellion and prop up the latest Marxist ruler, Babrak Karmal, installed in a Soviet-backed coup two days after Christmas. As many as 100,000 Soviet troops are reported in Afghanistan.

Meanwhile, three British reporters reported missing in northern Afghanistan made contact with the Reuters office in Kabul, the Afghan capital, and said they were safe and sound. Reuters said in a message to its Moscow bureau the three got snowed in in Mazdar Sharif and expected to return to Kabul today.

Quake Victims Offered Help

PLEASANTON, Calif. (UPI) — Residents of the earthquake-shaken Livermore Valley can now find relief from the jitters at a psychiatric clinic.

The Valley Mental Health Services opened a special earthquake clinic last week for three powerful tremors and more than 100 aftershocks jolted the area in four days.

Interest Mounts In County Races

(Continued From Page One) Hale and Swisher counties and a portion of Lubbock County. Laney, who resides in Hale County, has held the post since 1972.

The race for sheriff has drawn more candidates than any other local contest. In the Democratic primary, incumbent Sheriff C.H. "Choc" Blanchard will face two challengers, Mike DeRosa and Willy V. Turner. Both DeRosa and Turner are former deputy sheriffs here.

Another former deputy, D.L. "Sonny" Keesee has announced as a Republican for the sheriff's post. Charles Southerland, an 11-year veteran with the Lubbock Police Department, has scheduled an afternoon news conference to announce his candidacy and is expected to run as a Republican.

A sixth sheriff's candidate, Wayne Kirkpatrick, earlier filed a campaign treasurer's designation with the County Clerk's Office but has apparently decided not to make the race.

Both commissioner posts up for election this year will be contested races. Precinct 1 Commissioner Edgar Chance, a Democrat, will meet Republican challenger Boyd Roberts in the November election. Precinct 1 covers the southwestern portion of the county.

In Precinct 3, which encompasses the northeastern quarter of the county, Commissioner James Lancaster apparently will face two opponents in the Democratic primary, Franklin Dunn, an Idaloo farmer, announced for the post in January, and Eliseo Solis, executive director of a program for migrant farm workers, has scheduled an afternoon news conference to announce his candidacy.

By noon today, no Republicans had filed for the Precinct 3 commissioner seat.

A two-man race has shaped up for the county tax assessor-collector post. Incumbent Frank A. Stuart, who was appointed to the post in 1979, will face former State Rep. Delwin Jones in the May 3 Democratic primary. No Republican candidate had surfaced in that race by this morning.

Three district judges are up for re-election this year, but none has drawn an opponent. Running for re-election on the Democratic ticket are Denzil Bevers, 72nd District Court; Thomas Clinton, 99th District Court; and William Shaver, 140th District Court.

Two county justices of the peace also have filed for re-election and have drawn no opponents so far. They are Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack, Precinct 1, Place 1; and Justice of the Peace Melvin Powers, Precinct 5, Place 1. Both are running as Democrats.

There apparently will be only one contested constable race here. Bennie Fred Setliff and Abel A. Anzalina have both filed as Democrats in Precinct 6.

Other constable candidates running unopposed include Lane Anderson, Precinct 1; Allen L. Meurer, Precinct 2; and Robert Huffman, Precinct 5. All have filed as Democrats.

The filing deadline for congressional, state and county offices is 6 p.m. today. Candidates for offices within one county must file with either Democratic County Chairman Madison Sowder or Republican County Chairman Ruth Schiermeyer.

Candidates for statewide offices and for district offices that involve more than one county must file with their respective Democratic or Republican state headquarters.

While the deadline for state and county candidates draws to a close late today, the filing season has just opened for city and school candidates. Individuals planning to run for either the Lubbock City Council or Lubbock School Board have until March 5 to complete their filings.

The first day for filings only drew one candidate. Paul Looney, who announced last week for the Place 4 seat on the council, turned in his filing papers this morning in the City Secretary's Office.

Death Toll Climbing At Prison

are totally gone" from butchery by other prisoners. State Sen. Ben Altamirano said he saw the body of a black inmate who had been decapitated and his head stuffed between his legs. Guards said another inmate's arm was cut off before he was tossed from an upper window inside the prison complex.

Hundreds of the 1,000-plus inmates who survived the two-day riot spent the night in tents flown in Saturday for National Guard troops and set up in a recreation field. Temperatures were below freezing.

State police said the riot apparently was not racially motivated, but racial tensions broke out afterwards — with some white inmates threatening to kill blacks — and prisoners were segregated in their makeshift camp.

"From what we understand there was no racial tension involved," said state police Maj. Charlie Anaya. "It was getting all the snitchers."

One guard and nine inmates were listed in critical condition from the violence that ended Sunday, with no shots fired by police or the 100 guardsmen. Seven guards and 55 inmates were admitted to hospitals, and 14 inmates were treated for drug overdoses from medical supplies passed around freely on the takeover's first day.

"The violence was incredible," said Adolph Saenz, newly appointed secretary of the state's Criminal Justice Department, after he had toured the prison 10 miles southwest of Santa Fe late Sunday. Saenz said at least 80 percent of the prison's structure was destroyed.

State Rep. Fred Mondragon estimated it would cost $40 million to $50 million to replace the 23-year-old prison. State Finance Secretary David King said he believed it would cost $7 million just to make the usable portions habitable again.

King said Arizona had offered a newly built minimum-security prison for housing some of the prisoners, and that other nearby states had been asked to help.

The siege ended quietly about 2 p.m. Sunday after state officials promised inmates that they would not use violence in retaking the institution. With or without violence, King said, "We told them we were coming in."

"We knew they didn't have any guns, but they had clubs, fires, machetes and knives. We thought some would try and use them," Montoya said. "We caught them by surprise. They didn't even put up a fight."

Only three guards were still in the prison when the rebellion ended. Two were found safe in a gas chamber which is no longer used, the other was found unharmed hiding in a vault.

The prisoners had presented a list of 11 demands, asking better food, improved facilities and an end to overcrowding — demands often voiced in the past. King said the only one that was impossible to meet was amnesty for the prisoners.

An inmate lawsuit charging overcrowded conditions at the prison violated the rights of prisoners is to go to trial in federal court this year.

The weekend's violence was the second major incident at the prison in three months. On Dec. 9, 1979, 11 maximum security prisoners escaped; one is still at large.

Teachers' Strike Closes Chicago School System

CHICAGO (AP) — Union teachers formally struck the debt-ridden Chicago school system today to protest staff cuts, walking picket lines at some schools and forcing students to stay home for a sixth school day.

Negotiations were continuing, meanwhile, with the city's firefighters, who decided to postpone their threatened strike.

School officials kept buildings open for parents to collect study materials, but urged them not to send their children.

"It could be a long strike," said Robert Healey, president of the Chicago Teachers Union. "To parents, we say we're sorry, but this need not go on."

The 7,717 to 2,506 vote to strike, announced Sunday night, came after a week-long teacher boycott of the schools when their paychecks failed to arrive on time. Though city officials scrambled to sell $206 million in notes to meet the third delayed paycheck of the schools' financial crunch, teachers refused to return until other demands were met.

The strike is the first in 12 years and the fifth in 12 years in the nation's third-largest school system.

Moments after the results were announced, school board president Catherine Rohrer said schools would remain open, because she thought some of the 48,300 employees would want to work.

But she urged parents not to send their children to school because "the children will be in danger."

Chicago schools were open last week, but most of the 487,000 students did not show up as teachers stayed away from classes to demand a full 39-week school year, substantial restoration of teaching jobs cut last week in budget-tightening moves and assurances that the board would not alter the current contract which expires Aug. 31, 1981.

Mrs. Rohrer said it was impossible for the board to meet the teachers' demands because "we must reduce our expenditures by $60 million."

Meanwhile, negotiations on the first written contract for firefighters ended Sunday without a settlement. But the threat of a walkout was defused Saturday when the city acceded to a key demand of the Chicago Firefighters Union.

The union's executive board voted 12-0 to "temporarily postpone" a strike pending "good-faith negotiations on the part of the city," said union president Frank Muscare.

They agreed that a pact between the two parties would take precedence over a collective bargaining ordinance now being considered by the city council. Union members had worried that the ordinance would conflict with, and possibly cancel, key provisions of any contract.

The breakthrough came just hours before the union's secret strike deadline, reportedly set for early Sunday morning.

Before the agreement was reached, the city was ready to seek a court order keeping the city's 4,300 firefighters and 300 paramedics on the jobs if talks broke down.

Local Jurists Split On Joint Custody

not normally concerned with the interests of the individuals (parents)," noted Judge Denzil Bevers.

Though Judge Thomas Clinton has yet to see a co-parenting petition in his court, he told The Avalanche-Journal he is "optimistic" about the idea. "There is a lot of room for improvement in our present system," he commented.

Shared custody is simply "another vehicle for the court to decide in the best interests of the child," according to Judge Robert Wright, who said he has considered appointing two parents as co-managing conservators of their children, but has not done so yet.

The ruling also could be useful in deciding custody of an infant born to a minor out of wedlock, noted Wright.

Other Lubbock judges were more skeptical about the idea of appointing divorcing parents co-managing conservators of their children, however.

"The parents would have to be bending over backwards to do right by each other and that doesn't happen very often," noted Judge John McFall.

McFall, who last year denied an application for joint custody made by a Lubbock father, said in that instance the arrangement "was not called for in my opinion."

The idea that a single custodial parent would lend more stability to children in a divorce prevailed in his mind, said McFall.

"Both parents probably would have to be begging for (shared custody) for the court to consider it," he said.

Judge J.Q. Warnick of the Lubbock County Court-at-Law No. 2, who also rules in family code cases, echoed McFall's skepticism of co-parenting, commenting "the arrangement might create problems down the line."

Lubbock attorney Barbara Benson, a certified specialist in family law, was more direct about her own reservations of joint custody.

While she allowed the arrangement "might work" in extraordinary cases, "In most cases you haven't got anything but a ding dong mess between two people who couldn't agree enough to stay married in the first place."

Believing his son would have been better off if he and his ex-wife were granted joint custody in their divorce settlement, the Lubbock father who was denied it commented thoughtfully, "My son is his own person, but he's also a part of me. I just want to make him self sufficient."

"A man and a woman are strangers in the eyes of divorce laws, but there's still that child..."

French Flee Libyan Mob

PARIS (AP) — A mob of demonstrators shouting "popular revolution in Tunisia" today attacked the French Embassy in the Libyan capital of Tripoli, destroying the embassy interior and setting fire to cars parked in the diplomatic compound, French diplomats said.

All embassy personnel escaped unharmed as the mob forced its way into the building and began destroying everything in sight, Ambassador Claude Malo said in an interview with French radio.

Another embassy staff member, Andre Laperroussaz, said in a telephone interview that the demonstrators set fire to a number of cars in the embassy courtyard during the attack.

It was the second attack on a Western embassy in Tripoli in about two months. On Dec. 2, about 2,000 Libyans chanting support for Iran stormed and ransacked the American Embassy. No embassy employees were hurt in that attack, but the first and second floors of the building suffered extensive fire damage.

The French Foreign Ministry said it was "reserving the right to demand appropriate reparations" and lodged a formal protest with the Libyan Foreign Ministry.

Malo, interviewed at his residence, said at the time of the attack, the embassy was guarded by only two policemen in spite of a request for more protection.

"The demonstrators forced their way in the doors, entered the building and destroyed everything in their path. The walls are still standing, but the interior is destroyed," he said.

"I think that there is a close link between problems in Tunisia and the demonstration in front of our embassy," he said, referring to the aid France gave to Tunisia to help the army put down an attack Jan. 26 on the town of Gafsa.

The mining town was attacked by guerrillas allegedly trained in Libya. French sent military transport planes to carry troops to Gafsa and sent a naval squadron to patrol the Tunisian coast.

Oil Workers

going to work. Everybody is in but two, and one of them is sick.

"They (Odessa employees) weren't really in favor of the strike here. It is more a national thing," he said.

M.C. Lassiter, personnel supervisor at the Andrews district, said pickets were up at at least three of the six sites where 185 field workers are employed. About 36 percent of those employees are members of the OCAW, he said.

"Not all are out," he said. "But we just don't know yet."

Richard Ogen, district superintendent at Brownfield, said "pickets are up at most (of the seven) operating sites." Sixty percent of that district's 226 employees are members of the OCAW, he said.

"Some are out, but the big majority of the people at the (Artesia) plant are out," said Ed Staley, superintendent in the Hobbs, N.M., office.

Reports Reveal GOP Senator's Rejection Of Bribery Attempt investigation of one or more of those people going on for months," he said, declining to give details.

Bennett said his committee would meet this afternoon to take up the issue.

Bennett's Senate counterpart, Sen. Howell Heflin, D-Ala., said today his ethics panel also will conduct "a thorough investigation of all allegations" against any senators involved in the case.

A source close to the investigation said Pressler stormed out of his meeting with the undercover men when it was suggested money was available to win the sheik permanent residence here. "That man didn't violate any law," this source said.

"He told them, 'I don't want anything to do with it. I don't want to touch it,'" the source reported. "He saw very clearly what it was. What he did makes the other cases stronger, because the others could have walked out too."

In addition to state and local officials in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, one source said those who became subjects of the probe were: U.S. Sen. Harrison A. Williams, Jr., D-N.J., and U.S. Reps. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y.; Frank Thompson, Jr., D-N.J.; Michael O. Myers, D-Pa.; Raymond F. Lederer, D-Pa.; John W. Jenrette, D-S.C.; John P. Murtha, D-Pa., and Richard Kelly, R-Fla.

"My feelings are, having read the newspapers, that I would be very wise to engage counsel, which I've done," Williams said Sunday.

By Sunday, most of the eight members of Congress had issued denials of any wrongdoing.

In Newark, N.J., U.S. Attorney Robert Del Tufo was reported to have recommended against prosecuting Williams on grounds of an insufficient case, but that Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti ordered the investigation to continue. Del Tufo, a Democrat, was named chief federal prosecutor for New Jersey in 1977 with Williams' support.

Two sources said the investigation, the largest political corruption inquiry in FBI history, was carefully monitored to avert instances of entrapment.

The sources said FBI director William Webster and top Justice Department lawyers closely policed the probe to ensure the FBI was never the first to suggest bribes to public figures.

Entrapment is a frequent risk in undercover investigations and constitutes a defense against conviction. To wage a successful entrapment defense, attorneys must prove the law enforcement officer instigated the crime and that the defendant was not otherwise predisposed to join in it.

But one source said, "The FBI undercover men never were the first to suggest bribes to the subjects. Originally, they weren't even investigating political corruption, but running a phony fencing operation for stolen art, stocks and bonds. Informants and lawyers who came to them brought in officials seeking bribes."

As another protection against entrapment, the FBI videotaped some of the

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Unusual influences that could contribute to you materially or add to your resources in some manner are stirring tomorrow. Look for some unique opportunities.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Friends and contacts are willing to put themselves out for you tomorrow. You won't have to ask them to go to bat for you. It will be their idea.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Gaining the approval or cooperation you are seeking stands a better chance of being realized tomorrow if you're not too obvious about your motives.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You could meet somebody through another tomorrow who might become more than an acquaintance. You could find that you share an unusual interest.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you think something different will work in order to gain your ends, give it a shot. Bold, unique methods can pay off handsomely tomorrow.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A new insight into a better way of getting along with someone important to you will come to you tomorrow. Be sure to follow through on this fresh approach.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Give your attention to those who mean the most to you tomorrow. They'll respond in kind, making for a most happy time for all.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) An opportunity may present itself tomorrow to clear the air with someone you feel you've been less close to than you'd like. It will be a good meeting.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A person who appreciates something you've done involving your work could show you just how much so tomorrow by doing something nice for you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Tomorrow could prove to be a very interesting day where your social life is concerned. It could even lead to advancing your romantic interests.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone whose company you enjoy may pop in on you unexpectedly at home tomorrow. The reason for the visit might be unusual, but happy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You could find yourself in very entertaining company tomorrow, particularly if you're attending a social function. It should prove exciting.

More Women Claim Loan Discrimination

By GLENN RITT
WASHINGTON (AP) — Women are growing militant in their efforts to start businesses, claiming that too many loan officers discriminate against them for reasons that are emotional, not economic.

perately than men, the dollar amount women seek often is below $25,000.

But in this period of high interest rates and rapid inflation, many banks are hesitant to make such small loans.

Where else can women go?

The Small Business Administration has "targeted" $50 million for direct loans to businesswomen this fiscal year. But that target is more a statement of concern than a guarantee, the Senate committee says.

The SBA also has created a miniloan program for women who need less than $20,000.

House Committee Widens Investigation Of Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House ethics committee is expanding an investigation already under way to cover congressmen caught up in the FBI's undercover political corruption investigation.

The committee's chairman, Rep. Charles E. Bennett, D-Fla., said Sunday his staff has already been investigating for months "one or more" of the seven House members mentioned in connection with the FBI investigation.

"The accusations that were made were similar to those investigated by the FBI but the FBI was not involved," Bennett said.

"So I'll tell the staff to simply expand its investigation," Bennett said. "I've also asked the FBI and the Justice Department to give us any information they can."

The House members and one senator became objects of the FBI "sting" operation, in which agents posed as representatives of an Arab oil sheik offering bribes for help in investing and settling in the United States, according to sources.

Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., and all the House members responding publicly to the allegations deny accepting bribes or any other misconduct.

Most say they were trying to help their districts by drawing in Arab money or business.

"My feelings are, having read the newspapers, that I would be very wise to engage counsel, which I've done," Williams said Sunday.

The House members who became objects of the investigation are Reps. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y.; Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J.; John Jenrette, D-S.C.; Richard Kelly, R-Fla.; and Pennsylvania Democrats John M. Murtha, Michael O. Myers and Raymond F. Lederer.

Jenrette said he was trying to get financing for a project in his district he said would have provided 500 jobs.

"I know of no wrongdoing that I have done," Jenrette said Sunday night.

"I know of no associate that would have picked up any funds from anyone, and certainly not on my telling them to do so," he said.

Murtha, a member of the House ethics committee, told the Tribune-Review of Greensburg, Pa., "They didn't offer me any money and I didn't take any."

Murtha said a man purporting to be a Philadelphia lawyer told him an Arab wanted to make investments in Murtha's district but needed help in establishing permanent U.S. residence.

Murtha said he agreed to help if he could. "What I was trying to do was make sure we didn't lose that investment for this district," he said.

Murtha said one of the representatives, who proved to be an FBI agent, said "it's worth $50,000." The congressman said he thought that meant the lawyer was to be paid $50,000.

Similarly, Thompson, chairman of the House Administration Committee, told The Washington Post he thought he was trying to get a wealthy man to invest money in banks in his district, and got no money for it.

GOP Wants Congressional Ethics Inquiry

EASTON, Md. (AP) — Republican officials reluctant to criticize the Carter administration for its conduct of foreign policy, are seizing a new issue with which to taunt the Democrats: congressional ethics.

Leaders of the party that lost a presidential election in the wake of American political scandal are now demanding an "immediate, full, impartial and conclusive" investigation of all allegations of wrongdoing by members of Congress.

The weekend disclosures of an alleged bribery scheme implicating eight members — all but one a Democrat — prompted immediate reaction from participants at the annual Tidewater Conference here.

Two quickly drafted resolutions seeking to lay the blame for political corruption in Congress on the heads of Democratic leaders were approved by unanimous voice votes at the final session of the GOP gathering.

The conference is an informal policy forum attended by GOP members of Congress and elected state officials.

Until the ethics issue surfaced, the session had been marked by a few requisite blasts at Democrats along with approval of resolutions generally supporting President Carter's foreign and defense initiatives.

Those resolutions called for increased defense spending, revival of draft registration — although limited to males — and loosening of some congressional reins on the CIA. All three had been advocated by Carter in his State of the Union address Jan. 23.

"It is ironic," the conference chairman, Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., said in an interview at the conclusion of the conference.

"But when it comes to foreign relations and national defense, Republicans have always acted in a bipartisan fashion and put the country first. I don't think we're quarrelling with his (Carter's) objectives."

But the new reports of scandal — touching a number of prominent Democratic committee chairmen in Congress — seemed a ready-made issue to the Republican participants at the conference.

Political Probe Adds To List Of Scandals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI's undercover political corruption investigation is the latest in a series of misconduct probes involving members of Congress since Watergate.

Those investigations include the reprimand of three House members in the South Korean influence affair, Rep. Charles Diggs conviction on charges of misusing his office payroll, Rep. Charles Diggs conviction on charges of misusing his office payroll and the Wayne Hays sex scandal.

Most recently, Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., was denounced by the Senate for "reprehensible" handling of his Senate office funds.

The Senate Ethics Committee concluded that Talmadge's office made $43,435 in false expense claims and failed to report $10,000 in campaign contributions, but said it could find no evidence the money went to Talmadge's personal use.

Last July, Diggs, a Michigan Democrat, was censured by the House and ordered to repay it $40,031.66 for misusing his office payroll.

Diggs is appealing his conviction by a U.S. District Court last year on similar charges. He was sentenced to three years in jail but is free while pursuing appeals.

Former Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa., who resigned from the House effective last Thursday, faces a possible second trial on charges of taking payoffs for using his political influence to help private groups get federal assistance.

Flood's first trial ended in a hung jury.

The South Korean influence scandal wound up sending one former House member to prison, one to a criminal trial that acquitted him and got three sitting House members reprimanded.

Former Rep. Richard T. Hanna, D-Calif., served just over a year in prison after pleading guilty to conspiring with Korean rice dealer Tongsun Park to try to influence other House members to support South Korean programs.

Former Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., was found innocent by a federal jury in Louisiana of taking bribes to influence U.S. agencies in Park's favor.

Three sitting House members were reprimanded, not on charges of being influenced by South Korea but on less serious charges of violating House rules in the way they took contributions from Park.

One of the three, former House Democratic Whip John J. McFall of California, was defeated in the next election. The other two, Reps. Charles Wilson of California and Edward Patten of New Jersey, were re-elected.

The House ethics committee is now investigating separate allegations that Wilson converted campaign contributions to his personal use and had improper dealings with a Los Angeles businessman.

Earlier, Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, was forced to resign from the House to avoid ethics committee hearings on charges that he put Elizabeth Ray on his House payroll primarily to give him sex

FBI Planned Careful Strategy In Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Justice Department officials say authorities took painstaking care to avoid legal entrapment in their investigation of members of Congress under investigation for taking bribes in a major political corruption case.

The issue of entrapment — in which otherwise unwilling persons are lured into breaking the law — is likely to be a burning question at any criminal trials to result from the two-year probe, sources said.

Since the FBI allegedly has videotapes of officials receiving $50,000 payoffs from bureau agents posing as Arab businessmen, those implicated may argue they were lured into taking payoffs by the elaborate FBI set-up.

But to argue entrapment would mean making a clear admission that they accepted payoffs — for which congressmen could be answerable on election day, and to the Internal Revenue Service if they fail to include the money on their tax returns.

FBI officials said investigators were extremely careful in avoiding legal entrapment, consulting regularly with lawyers for the Organized Crime Strike Force of the U.S. Attorney's Office in New York on provisions of the law.

One source, who has viewed the videotapes of nearly $700,000 in payoffs to more than 25 public officials, including several members of Congress, said: "I think everyone was acting of their own free will."

Jury instructions used in the District of Columbia courts define entrapment as instances in which law enforcement officials have "induced or persuaded an unwilling person to commit an unlawful act."

But the instructions stress that "where a person is predisposed to commit an offense — that is, ready and willing to violate the law — the fact that government officials or their agents merely afford an opportunity for him to do so, does not constitute entrapment."

The law says that even if undercover agents induced a defendant to commit a crime, a defendant may be convicted if a jury finds he was predisposed to commit such an offense anyway.

It permits law enforcement officials to use undercover tactics and even to offer money to "afford opportunities" for suspects to break the law.

Sources say the government likely will be moving into new legal areas in attempting to prosecute the congressmen. Not only does the case raise the issue of entrapment, but it could bring court tests on whether the government can create a criminal enterprise through which it lures public officials into wrongdoings.

In one test case, during an FBI undercover operation in Washington, assistant U.S. Attorney Donald Robinson was caught on film taking a payoff.

DATSUN 280-ZX. AWESOME AND AVAILABLE — Dennis Kerr, president of Kerr Datsun Supermarket, and saleslady Gayle Wesley are shown in the attractive Lubbock showrooms of the firm with the energy-efficient, internationally-acclaimed Datsun 280-ZX, just one of the many Datsun models and units stocked by the Lubbock firm.

Kerr Datsun Auto Supermarket Idea Seen Unique, Beneficial

"Kerr Datsun, Inc., has brought the supermarket concept to the auto community in this area . . . and the response has been fantastic."

As the No. 1 Datsun dealer in all West Texas, Kerr Datsun is dealer for Datsun exclusively, stocking no other lines. After all, with full confidence in its product and with a wide selection offered, why do otherwise?

Dennis Kerr is president of the firm that has been under its present name and ownership since Oct. 1 of last year.

Full Service
He and an able staff pride in the "full service" capabilities of the firm, with a personal relationship maintained while still being professional in all aspects.

Kerr Datsun is the "only import dealer in Lubbock offering both GMAC and bank financing," its president reports.

Two locations are maintained, with the new car and service facility at 1941 Texas Ave., and with the used car lot at 4220 Ave. Q.

Volume buying contributes to the supermarket capabilities with consequent savings passed on to the customer, Kerr points out.

Coming here from Oklahoma City, the Dennis Kerr family consists of Dennis, his wife, Patricia, and two sons: Jeff, 9, and Sydney, three months.

"We like Lubbock . . . and we appreciate the opportunity of serving the large number that it has been our privilege to do business with since establishment of the company."

The service department is said exceptionally strong at Kerr Datsun, with the service manager, shop foreman, service advisor and other technicians long on experience.

Meeting American Needs
Whether selection is the Datsun 280-Z (Motor Trend import car of the year in '79), or one of the several other Datsun passenger cars or even a truck, "the quality shows" and the customer benefits in economy, utility of the unit, and lasting fashion, among other benefits.

Datsun affords efficiency, dependability and quality, spanning the spectrum of America's automotive needs.

All the attributes are too numerous to mention, but note this:

Multiple Choices.
The Datsun 210 economy will make you feel rich! The Datsun 310 front-wheel drive is at the head of its class. The 510 astonishing family cars for the '80s, assure more performance from less gas . . . and the new Datsun 200-SX is going to drive you like you've never been driven! Z-powered elegance is the hallmark of the Datsun 810 . . . and for new mystique it is the sensational Datsun 280-ZX!

"The 280-ZX was born a legend! It has captured accolades and honors from the Motor Trend Car of the Year to stunning victories on the race track. And it is on the floor at Kerr Datsun, waiting for you!"

"Let us at Kerr Datsun acquaint you fully with our supermarket type of operation . . . let us show you how a really fine product can be marketed to your advantage including dollar and cents saving. We want to know you and to serve you, in 1980 and years to come!"

Lellem Welch Relates Precautions, Products That Can Save On Heat Cost

"The heating season is upon us, along with those expensive heating bills!"

So . . . now is a good time to try and reduce some of those costs and maybe even some of the dangers of the heating season.

This is the very practical word from Lellem Welch, Inc., 1401 Ave. J, phone 762-8797, in Lubbock.

"Most people actually don't pay much attention to the appliances used for home heating, but with the cost of energy going up for both gas and electricity, we need to begin to attempt reduction of heating costs in the home. Right?"

Filters Important
Therefore, clean filters are a "must" for efficient heating operation. Dirty filters eat up energy by making the furnace motor run longer and harder (because less air is pulled over the heat exchanger) and a burned up motor is expensive to replace. Setting the thermostat lower also helps.

Humidifiers Advised
The addition of a humidifier will help, too, making lower room temperature more pleasant.

For health, comfort and protection, it is an April Air humidifier!

"Properly humidified air can help to repel upper respiratory ailments aggravated by too-dry air. In many cases, where excessive dryness has been diagnosed as the cause of those aggravations, doctors have prescribed humidification. Ask your doctor for his recommendations."

"For comfort, it is pointed out that if the humidity level in the home is too low, you may feel cold, even at 75-degree temperature setting. Proper humidification reduces the rate of evaporation from the skin and makes the room feel warmer. Those annoying wintertime static electricity shocks are reduced, too. Use the April Air humidifier."

"For protection, April Air humidifiers provide the answer. Dry, heated air draws moisture from everything in the home — woodwork, furnishings, books, the piano or organ. It can cause walls and ceilings to crack and make fabrics and carpeting wear out too fast. Proper humidification provides the protection that's needed."

Air Cleaners
Also, with the addition of a Space Gard air cleaner, you can have a cleaner home and also remove up to 99 per cent of pollens and spores, the Lellem Welch firm emphasizes.

"Now, you should also remember to put in the damper on the evaporative cooler so that expensive warm air doesn't just go right out the roof. Cover that evaporative cooler with a cover to also help, holding that warm air."

"If you don't have a damper, our stock of covers is still good, with most sizes available."

Heat Tapes
In trailer homes and those places that have water lines that freeze, heat tapes with insulation for covering can save a lot of grief from frozen and burst water lines. Wrap-on heat tapes and insulation are available here, in tape length from three to 100 ft., and insulation that is 3-inch and 6-inch wide.

"And as always for the do-it-yourself bargain hunter who doesn't mind a few dents, bumps and scratches, we seem to have more than our share of this merchandise. Our loss is your gain. All damaged merchandise is reduced according to amount of damage."

"Mr. Winter is here, and we at Lellem Welch, Inc., 1401 Ave. J, are here to help keep him outside the door!"

APPLY LIKE CHICKEN FEED — The simplicity of freezing walks, drives and other surfaces of ice and snow is graphically demonstrated here by W.C. Ellis, longtime member of the HUCO Products Co. where he is warehouseman. Ice-Foe is distributed and sold retail by HUCO and can be economically utilized in residential or business locations alike.

Ice-Melting Compound Among Items At HUCO Products Firm

"Were you one of the far-sighted and envied ones who had ice-free walks and drives, thanks to Ice-Foe ice melting compound from HUCO Products Co.?"

Yes, this economical and so-effective ice melting compound is sold and distributed by HUCO, 101 Sherman, phone 763-4644, in Lubbock.

Attacking ice and snow instantly, the concentrated power particles change from white to pink to show they start working the instant they hit ice or snow. (Application before the freezing is a great preventive, as Ice-Foe helps prevent moisture from freezing to a surface.)

Fast-Melting
 "Just sprinkle it on the desired surfaces as you would spread chicken feed! It melts about eight times faster than rock salt in the first 30 minutes at 20 degrees, and is great for application on walks, driveways, steps, parking lots, loading platforms and wherever ice accumulates. Penetrating the ice, it breaks its bond to the surface and keeps on working long after ordinary ice melters have stopped."

Janitorial Supplies
 Get this great product and others for home, business and industry from HUCO Products Co., home of quality janitorial equipment and related needs. Select from all janitor supplies including buffers, vacuum cleaners, gym finishes, carpet cleaning machines, etc.

Only "name" lines are stocked and sold by HUCO... such as Hilliard, National Super Service, Tornado Machinery, Hoover vacuums, and more.

For purchase of janitorial supplies, it is HUCO; for janitorial services it is Hughes Services, Inc., at the same Lubbock location. Both HUCO and Hughes go the extra mile in assisting the customer, helping in maximum benefits from both the equipment selection and the services.

Customers long have profited from the learning and experience, plus capacity for service, of the Hughes and HUCO personnel.

"Are you included?"
 In explaining the benefits and concept of HUCO Products, George Hughes puts it this way:

"We believe professionals, and others, too, want professional merchandise; hence any product we sell is used in our own professional maintenance business; we have tested it before recommending and selling it, without exception."

For home or business, selection and purchase of janitorial and related supplies is invited and recommended from HUCO Products, 101 Sherman Ave., phone (806) 763-4644.

Tuftwick Carpet, On Slide, Continues Clearance Sale Through Mid-February

Tuftwick Carpet believes icing on the cake might be more welcome just now than icing on the street...

Recognizing that a lot of people have hesitated to brave the weather during late January to do their intended browsing and shopping, Tuftwick is continuing its January Clearance opportunities until Feb. 15!

Rock-bottom prices will continue to be posted throughout the stock at the big Tuftwick store, 34th & Slide, for this extended period.

Don't delay... come to Tuftwick Carpet, and select during the extended sale. You'll readily recognize the quality and the selection that sets Tuftwick apart, and Hal, Arvel, Nancy, and Beth will be glad to assist in any manner possible; they know carpet, and they know that satisfied customers are the biggest asset a firm can have.

Tuftwick wants to serve you now and throughout 1980 just as they have in years past, and they believe this sale extension is the most practical way of proving their desire to serve best.

Whatever the selection in the very large stock, including full rolls, short rolls and remnants, one can save by purchasing from Tuftwick at this time.

Tuftwick takes pride in selling at $3 to $5 per yard under suggested retail, no matter the selection, no matter if just arrived in stock.

Treated For Static

One must surely see the new rolls arriving from such famous mills as Lees, Milliken, Philadelphia and Horizon. Seldom has there been such a variety of fabrics and colors and patterns. All the fabrics received by Tuftwick are treated for static and soiling, with either Scotchgard or Teflon.

A really gret selection of Antron (the best Dupont nylon) is noted.

are being marked at sale prices, too. So don't delay in selection, comparison and purchase.

With the quality of workmanship, with fine materials and beautiful new patterns, more for the money in carpet is provided than ever before, the folks at Tuftwick welcome opportunity to explain and prove.

Also, of prime interest at this time, is recognition that carpet is a great energy saver, a definite instrument in insulation. (And energy savings mean dollar savings.)

Furthermore, at Tuftwick, expert installation is assured.

All labor is guaranteed.
 Longtime recognition of Tuftwick Carpet, Inc. as a headquarters for attractive pricing, utmost in value, and always a wide selection is a matter of general knowledge.

Business & Industrial Review

American Equipment & Trailer Stocks Speedy Lift For Vans

"If there is a handicapped member in your family, you most likely need a Speedy Lift that is sold, installed and serviced by American Equipment & Trailer, Inc., 3707 Quirt Ave."

Designed by an aeronautical engineer who is now himself handicapped, the Speedy Lift is a new innovation in lifts.

"Give a lift to someone you love, give a Speedy Lift for vans."

For this fine product and for more, American Equipment & Trailer is the name to know, the folks on which to depend, the supply source for service and convenience.

"To emphasize the scope of products and services of this customer-oriented firm, the following paragraphs hint of just how much American Equipment & Trailer can do for you."

"If your business and activities involve construction, ranching, farming, trucking, industrial enterprise or even many other fields, then American Equipment & Trailer, Inc., appreciates your business, stocking and serving accordingly. Service is our business; we can work for you as we have for others!"

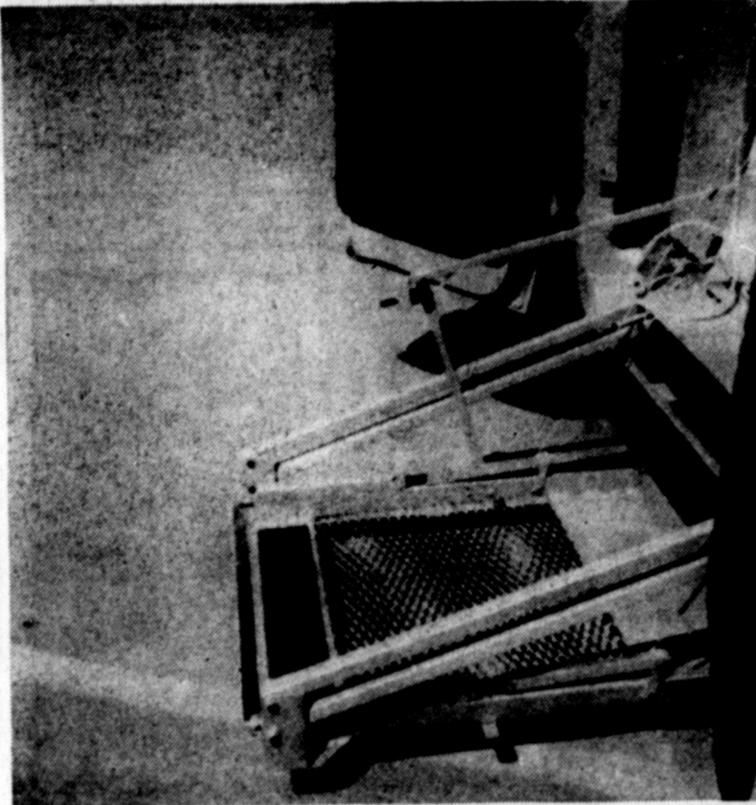

Need a versatile trailer for loading and hauling?

Or is it a winch for pickup, four-wheel drive unit or truck that is required?

In these and other needs, American Equipment & Trailer, Inc., with over a quarter century service record, is the firm on which to depend.

American Equipment & Trailer, Inc., at 3707 Quirt Ave. in Lubbock and at 610 N. Grand in Amarillo, and at 1400 West Overland Trail in Abilene, prides in its large line-up of equipment, with every item bearing a well-known and respected name.

Included are Koenig service bodies, Galion dump bodies, Midwest farm bodies, Tulsa winches, Wilson livestock and grain trailers, Great Dane refrigerated trailers, Clement dump bodies, Bendix-Westinghouse air brake equipment, Michigan and Pryor gasoline tanks, tank installation kits, Auto Crane, Dur-a-Lift, and more.

SPEEDY LIFT AIDS HANDICAPPED

New items and lines are added in a continuous program of anticipating and meeting today's and tomorrow's needs.

Of course, American Equipment & Trailer, Inc., can help one with special requirements, too.

Starting from modest beginnings, American Equipment & Trailer, Inc., has grown and served in an ever-expanding program. It began with the idea of having trailer equipment of all kinds for all size trucks, from pickups to diesels. The firm started with a few good lines and built up its stock until now it can say it is the largest trailer service facility in the entire Panhandle-South Plains region.

The Lubbock facility is modern in every respect, built to afford exceptional service. The 12,000 sq. ft. building has multiple double-bay drive-through shop, parts department and spacious showrooms, and is located on eight acres of land.

We are proud of our customer list, appreciating the opportunities of years past, looking forward to continuation of these opportunities and privileges for seasons to come. We appreciate your visits at any of our facilities; come on out or call us when in need of any product or service we can render. Our service department, remember, has seven double bays and long drive-through large enough to accommodate the largest tractor-trailer made."

Bostick's Auto & Truck Sales

'Strong In Things That Count'

Bostick's Auto & Truck Sales is "different", and this difference has earned for it a large and still-growing family of customers and friends.

Located at its present 2302 Texas Ave. quarters for the past six years, Bostick's Auto & Truck Sales has the envied reputation of going all out for its customers, in value, in selection and in a lot of extra considerations that make for a firm to be appreciated and trusted.

Check these several factors that are among reasons Bostick's should be considered in your own situation:

Large Selection New Units
Stocking more than 150 units, Bostick's makes available a good selection of new General Motors, Ford and other units, and also can secure most any new American-made car on short notice all with full factory warranty.

Aside from competitive pricing, Bostick's is glad to "go the extra mile" in finding hard-to-locate units, in securing pickups, vans, suburbans, compacts and all to meet the customer's particular need and preference.

Aside from the large stock maintained on the big lot at its Texas Avenue location, Bostick's can special order. A very efficient locator service also is utilized.

Leasing, Also
Even a lease plan is provided. Bostick's is glad to assist with financing and insurance, too.

One can readily observe and appreciate the Bostick devotion to value, but a visit there conveys even more fully the firm's concept of treating folks right, as one friend to another. The coffee pot is always on, and the homey atmosphere is underscored by the lobby with its wood-burning fireplace and casual atmosphere.

Home Folks
Bostick's Auto & Truck Sales is home owned and home operated, with Gary Bostick as owner. Gary has over 15 years experience in the auto business in Lubbock. His wife, Sharon, is on the job, together with Herschel Bird, Lorenzo resident, a highly qualified auto salesman with friends throughout the area.

Gary and Sharon were reared at Ralls, and they are "your kind of folks", inviting and earning your confidence and trade.

With inflation imposing its problems on every hand, with the energy shortage, and with the very real necessity of getting the most for the dollar uppermost in operations of most families and businesses, it makes more sense than ever to turn to a firm like Bostick's Auto & Truck Sales where "value" is the key to its every transaction.

"May we have the pleasure of your visits and friendship . . . and your patronage when auto or truck purchasing is in the picture?" This is the sincere invitation from Gary, Sharon and Herschel, home folks you likely already know, at Bostick's Auto & Truck Sales, 2302 Texas Ave. in Lubbock.

Auto Upholstery & Trim Stressing Workmanship

For the finest in all types of auto upholstery and tailor-made seat covers, Auto Upholstery & Trim Co., 1910 Ave. Q, phone 765-6523, invites consideration and comparison.

Said to be unique in the trim business, everything there is guaranteed for one year!

Actively managed by Elizabeth Varga, the firm prides in "the largest stock of auto upholstery material in town," and she takes pleasure in showing the patterns and materials available, one seemingly "just for you." And there is carpeting and vinyl top material, too. Elizabeth Varga emphasize that only finest in installation is the rule, with value foremost.

A most capable staff is maintained, Mrs. Varga also emphasizes.

"Next time, for that upholstery job, convertible top, auto glass, vinyl top, etc., check first with Auto Upholstery & Trim Co., 1910 Ave. Q, and its related home-owned firms, Mr. T-Top and Auto Care Center, 2507 Texas. Don't you deserve the ultimate in quality, selection and service?"

Lubbock's Own Chimney Sweep Serves Throughout Wide Area

"A lot of you have been using the fireplace more than usual, what with the frigid weather, the energy shortage, etc. And are you enjoying it with assurance that it is working properly? Is the chimney clean, safe in operation?"

To be sure, then the wise suggestion is to involve the services of Al the Chimney Sweep!

Let Al clean the chimney, simply call 795-1789. The cost is modest and the inconvenience minimal.

Widely Used
Al the Chimney Sweep had cleaned more than 400 chimneys in a wide South Plains region, and he can schedule your own job, either evenings or Saturdays depending upon distance from Lubbock. Al has served customers in Clarendon, Lamesa, Memphis, Hereford, Bovina, Paducah, Tulia, Plainview, Levelland, Brownfield, Lubbock and other South Plains points.

Debris Unbelievable
And the things he has found in chimneys! A dead owl, birds, footballs, tennis balls, newspapers, paper cups, cans, even a pair of pants with 16 cents in the pocket! Countless such hazards can be found in fireplace chimneys, together with the soot that is saturated with creosote.

The solution is to let Al take over. (Contrary to popular belief, the chimney sweep "goes up" rather than "down" in cleaning most chimneys, operating from inside the building but with minimum inconvenience to the owner.)

See Al, also for glass screens, chimney caps and other accessories associated with fireplace safety and best operation.

Chimneys Checked
If one thinks a chimney needs cleaning but is not sure, Al is glad to make an inspection, promising an "entirely honest, straightforward report" if or if not cleaning is warranted. A low inspection fee can be applied at any time within 18 months on an actual cleaning operation.

No undue mess is involved in the cleaning, Al emphasizes. And the time, most usually less than an hour.

"The cleaning of the chimney should be a vital part of one's home maintenance and housecleaning schedule. Al the Chimney Sweep, a longtime Lubbock resident and professional man, makes the job easy for you."

SERVING SUPERBLY — Al Manney is shown during a chimney sweep operation in his capacity of Al the Chimney Sweep. Minimum inconvenience and speedy conclusion of each job is a mark of his in-demand services throughout the region.

In the insurance business for almost two decades, Al has seen the effects and costly lessons of unclean chimneys that resulted in fire damage. In fact, he points to 31 fires in chimneys and flues reported in Lubbock in a recent year, drawing his figures from an annual Lubbock Fire Department report.

'Best Without Exorbitant Cost' Said True At University Manor

"It costs no more to have the best." This is the word from University Manor, state licensed Medicaid Type 3 home with the purpose of furnishing aging and chronically ill senior citizens a safe, wholesome and comfortable place in which to live with a homelike atmosphere in quiet surroundings. Privately and locally owned, University Manor is at 2400 Quaker Ave., phone (806) 792-2831, in Lubbock. Mrs. Alexander and the entire staff take this occasion to extend heartiest greetings for the new year, at the same time voicing appreciation of the many blessings of 1979.

Sign-Up Conclusion Date Nearing For B & I Pages

Today commences final week in which to arrange for participation in the Business and Industrial (B & I) pages of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal during the spring and summer months ahead.

See an Avalanche-Journal retail advertising salesman, or call 762-8844, Extension 306 or 334, and a representative of the advertising department will then explain the program in full, helping plan a comprehensive schedule of presentations in stories and pictures, together with ads that week after week carry their impact.

These pages have a record of proven benefit to advertiser and customer alike. The B & I program can be especially beneficial in the key merchandising months ahead, months that involve late winter events, spring activities including school-ending, summer outdoor time, vacation days, etc.

Many businesses and services actually consider the B & I presentations as best opportunity for "getting the message across," testimonials indicate, month after month.

Effectiveness Proven
One businessman wrote:

"We feel the article was excellent and we truly appreciate the time you devoted on emphasizing the points we felt needed extra attention."

Another said:

"The ad alone resulted in a $40,000 sale that made the cost insignificant."

Keep the ad on the B & I pages!" Another took time to write: "Thank you for capturing the spirit and the accurate portrayal of our programs and staff... in such a positive, complete and accurate manner."

'For You, Too'
"So... let's get down to business; haven't you said, in your own situation, that next time I'm going to be on the B & I pages? My business associates have reported the effectiveness, and readers have expressed their enthusiasm for the informative stories and ads."

Now that time is here, together with its opportunities.

"Your business or service can be featured in pictures and stories in the unique B & I section, but only if action is taken at soonest possible time."

"Your own story can be told effectively, prominently, professionally and correctly on these pages in the activity packed season ahead."

"These messages can be featured, however, only if arrangements are made now; so don't find your firm or service omitted from the B & I pages during these key months."

"Those interested in being represented through these factual stories and pictures for the first time, or as a continuation of former rewarding schedules, should call 762-8844, Extension 306 or 334, and a representative of the advertising department will assist to the fullest."

By Doctors' Referral
All residents must have doctors' referral; and local physicians are encouraged to use University Manor for their patients who need nursing care.

Activities are a major factor in the life of each individual, with University Manor offering a variety of programs and opportunities.

University Manor personnel devote as much time as possible to each resident/patient, trying to learn the dislikes or preferences of each in order to give the best service possible, maintaining an active and happy atmosphere.

Churches and civic groups also devote much time to residents at University Manor, and the staff encourages such interest and worship.

The planned activities are very much a part of the University Manor program, including games, entertainment and numerous craft pursuits. Parties are arranged at frequent intervals.

Truly, every phase of operation at University Manor points to the fact that "it costs no more to enjoy the best!"

Visits, calls or letter inquiries are invited for full information.

Business & Industrial Review

EMPHASIZE APTLY-TIMED SAVINGS — Ski time is at its peak, and Ski-Lubbock Sports favors the enthusiast with buys 'that shouldn't be passed up'. Robin Houston and Peggy Reynolds of the firm's staff are shown here calling attention to both apparel and the ski stock at the west-Lubbock store where specific markdowns are posted as outlined in the accompanying story.

Ski-Lubbock Sports Extending 'Pre-Olympic Sale' Opportunity

Snow conditions for skiing are sensational in both New Mexico and Colorado! And this is all the more reason to take advantage of the big Pre-Olympic Sale underway at Ski-Lubbock Sports, 2918 4th St. in Lubbock!

A real good selection still is available, even though the sale has been underway several days. Because of the ski advantages in the mountains with this new snow, and with understanding that because of local icy conditions some might not have come out to the sale, Ski-Lubbock Sports is continuing every one of its sale prices . . . but hurry, as the response has been tremendous and selections should be made at earliest possible time.

(Ski-Lubbock Sports has first-quality rental equipment, too, for those making the trek to the slopes. Our assistance in this department is well known, we believe.)

About the sale markdowns: All clothing is priced at 30 per cent off! What an opportunity this provides, as Ski-Lubbock Sports stocks apparel for the entire family, and the sale makes these items available at a price sure never to be duplicated. All indications assure that apparel will be more expensive next season.

So, the wise move would be to purchase now, enjoy the apparel items during the current ski season and at the same time plan for seasons to come. Gloves are not included in sale items.

Ski Markdowns

Furthermore, there are some really fantastic ski buys during the sale. Whatever you do, don't buy skis anywhere until you check the sale prices on the quality lines at Ski Lubbock Sports

Ski-Lubbock Sports, devoting all efforts to skiing satisfaction, is glad to have a part in the enrichment of wintertime pleasures.

"We have the quality merchandise (ski wear for all the family), all the ski equipment you'll ever need, the know-how and a professional but friendly approach to every transaction.

"Put yourself in our hands" is the qualified invitation of the staff at Ski-Lubbock Sports whose whole job is to assure maximum satisfaction, correct fitting, everything that is right for the avid ski enthusiast or the beginner.

Not only do the products excel, but Ski-Lubbock Sports is especially well known for its fitting and its expertise in equipment maintenance and repair. Nothing is left to happenstance; satisfaction is more important than the sale to Ski-Lubbock Sports owners and staff.

Ski-Lubbock Sports is easy to reach from just about anywhere . . . from Texas Tech, LCC, the Loop and principal cross-town arteries. Don't forget the location and the easily-spotted and distinctive building at 2918 W. 4th St., Lubbock.

"Name" lines comprise the entire stock at Ski-Lubbock Sports, whether for apparel or skis.

'Name Lines' Clothing

Select from the Number One Sunline clothing, Innsbruck, Bogner, Anba, White Stag, Roffi, Obermyer, Snuggler, Demetre sweaters, and others. There are Hanson boots, too, and children's apparel is now stocked to round out the selection for the entire family.

Dynastar, Head and Olin ski lines are stocked, and the Salomon 626 and 727 ski bindings are featured, and Tyrolia 360 racing, 360 diagonal and the new 260 diagonal, even the 60 series bindings for aggressive children are stocked. Also, select from the "Look in '77" turntable bindings.

Cruz's Bicycle & Lawnmower Repair Advises Early Servicing Of Equipment

"Don't let the weather fool you; it is time to 'think of' and 'prepare for' beautiful lawns this summer!"

And Cruz's Bicycle & Lawnmower Repair Shop, at 4204 1/2 W. 19th St., not only is ready with a big line of tools for lawn care but also suggests early attention to repair services at which the firm excels.

In fact, it is urged that mowers be brought in just as soon as possible to avoid delays at a later date when it seems everyone wants a mower repaired at once!

Sharpening Blades

Now is the best time to have blades sharpened, for a tune-up or to secure the new products needed.

Cruz has scalper blades and springs for the mower, likely one of the first items needed in the lawn-care season.

Some used mowers presently are available.

New Snapper mowers (both manual push type and self-propelled) are stocked in sizes from 3 1/2 to 5hp. Also, select from Toro mowers, even the 3/4hp and 1hp Spin Trim that makes yard trimming a pleasure.

Cruz's Bicycle & Lawnmower Repair Shop is authorized factory service dealer for Briggs & Stratton, Tecumseh and Kohler motors.

Bicycle Accessories

A popular department at the Cruz firm is the bicycle selection including Vista, Mongoose and Webo bikes, with bikes for all ages and preferences, even three-wheel bikes and exerciser bikes.

Accessories for bicycles and mowers are stocked in abundance. Mini-bike tires and tubes are stocked.

Some may not realize that keys also are made by Cruz.

Actually, the Cruz firm has just about anything one could imagine to make lawn preparation and care both pleasant and efficient.

The big shop is open Mondays through Saturdays at its location just across from the Fox Theatre on West 19th Street, phone 795-4331. There is plenty of at-the-door off-street parking for customer convenience.

All brands of mowers are repaired, remember.

With more than 30 years experience, owner Cruz Ramirez came to Lubbock in 1964, working as a mechanic for some time at another firm, opening his own business that has grown and prospered at the present West 19th Street location several years ago.

Cruz started out in the business of "serving the public" as a Western Auto employe in Midland more than a quarter century ago, and there he later owned his own shop for eight years. He is factory-trained in both the mower and bicycle field, and continually keeps up to date in new methods, new models, products and service techniques as a factory authorized dealer.

Whether for any of the above quality products and services, or others, such as machine sharpening of blades, Cruz has a wide following, a wide selection, and a sincere desire to serve.

Phone 795-4331 or visit the 4204 1/2 W. 19th St. facility for full details about a particular product or service needed to "get the jump" on summer yard beauty!

Sonotone-Lubbock Schedules Special Counsel Opportunity

"This Friday and Saturday, or even next Monday and Tuesday could be very special days for you!"
On Feb. 8, 9 and again Feb. 11, 12, Charles Babula, factory-trained representative of the world-renowned Starkey Laboratories, will be at Sonotone-Lubbock, 2318 Broadway, for counseling and advice.

Louise Bills, certified hearing aid audiologist and manager of Sonotone-Lubbock, has been most enthusiastic regarding Babula's availability to the Lubbock area on these days. A similar visit only a few months ago met with exceptional response.

Babula has 35 years of experience and is a specialist in analyzing nerve-type (sensori-neural) hearing losses.

"Mr. Babula will counsel with you, giving expert and confidential advice on how to improve your hearing and understanding, also providing a thorough audiometric test and evaluation.

By Appointment
"This service is available on an appointment basis only. So don't delay; call now to Sonotone-Lubbock at 762-5469, for your personal and confidential appointment with Mr. Babula," is the invitation of Louise Bills.

Free Services Outlined
During his visit, Babula will provide the following services free:

(1) A complete test of your hearing aid with the Fonix electronic digital computer hearing aid analyzer;
(2) A thorough analysis and evaluation of your hearing and understanding problem with the latest electronic testing equipment; and
(3) Clean and adjust your hearing aid for maximum performance.

"In addition to the above free services, Babula will discuss with you the advisability of wearing an all-in-the-ear hearing aid. Hundreds of thousands of behind-the-ear and eyeglass hearing aid users are switching to all-in-the-ear hearing aids, with evidence reported that these provide up to 25 per cent better understanding in a noisy environment," Louise Bills emphasizes.

"In the past six years, Starkey Labs has become the world's largest manufacturer of all-in-the-ear aids," Mrs. Bills emphasizes, adding: "Their phenomenal growth is due to the proper fit of each custom-ordered aid to the shape of your ear and your hearing loss. They and we are so confident that you will be satisfied that you will receive a full refund within 30 days if you do not experience improved hearing and comfort with the new Starkey Labs 'Custom-Ear'. So, you have nothing to lose and much to gain by coming in to meet Mr. Babula!"

"If you hear certain sounds but don't always understand what others are saying, it is reasonable to believe that Mr. Babula may be able to help you. You owe it to yourself to find out if acoustic amplification will bring you back into the world of sound. There is no charge or obligation for this valuable service."

"Professionalism with a human touch" at Sonotone-Lubbock has earned appreciation of customers throughout the area, for years and years! Louise Bills and Ralph Huntington, longtime staffmember, have been of tremendous service, literally making life richer for hundreds.

"Can you benefit, too, by availing yourself of these services?"

"If you have a hearing problem or suspect that you may have one, that visit or call you make to Sonotone-Lubbock may be the most important one you will ever make. And we strongly urge that you call now to secure an appointment with Charles Babula who, remember, will be at Sonotone-Lubbock on Feb. 8, 9, 11 and 12."

"The location: Sonotone-Lubbock, independent multi-line hearing aid dealer at 2318 Broadway, phone 762-5469."

CHARLES BABULA

Don Crow Chevrolet Announces February Service Specials

February Specials, just announced by the Don Crow Chevrolet Service Department, are such that one is sure to sit up and take notice!

Talk about customer consideration and satisfaction, check the following among specials indicative of the way that Don Crow Chevrolet serves at Loop 289 and Slide Road in Lubbock:

Minor tune-up for high energy system GM autos, just $29.60 plus tax!

Tune-up conventional (spark plugs, points and condenser type) a money-saving $45 plus tax.

Wheel pack, just $15 plus tax.

Transmission service at an unbelievable $24.85 plus tax during February!

And the complete brake special for $80.96 plus tax, including replacing front pads, repacking front wheel bearings, replacing rear shoes, turning rotors and rear drums.

Oil change, filter and lube, $12.95. This includes up to 5 quarts of Quaker State HD30 oil, AC filter and grease.

The specials are for American-made GM cars and light trucks.

Furthermore, one is invited to check Don Crow Chevrolet ads and to come in to the service department to discover still other specials!

"Taking your car to a 'pro' is not just a figure of speech when applied to patronage of the Don Crow Chevrolet Service Department, Loop 289 and Slide Road in Lubbock."

After all, service technicians there have combined total of 172 years experience in the field!

Small wonder that customer satisfaction not only is a motto and pledge but is a reality at the Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc.!

And Don Crow still has some of those sought-after Target engines, with the 350 Target engine priced at just $995, including installation, intake gasket set and labor for Chevrolet passenger cars and light duty pickups. Cost for heavy duty trucks understandably is slightly more.

Service advisors are on the job at 7:30 a.m. at Don Crow to aid in servicing for folks en route to their work. Mini Maid service has long been appreciated gesture, and the firm also affords bus service to and from the South Plains Mall at the customers' convenience!

It all is a part of the "customer satisfaction" image carefully guarded at Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc.

From the service manager to the service advisors and technicians (including five master technicians) at Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc., all take pride in the ultimate in customer service at a price that can be lived with.

"And don't forget Don Crow Chev-ro's invitation to compare costs; we are glad to show you the posted hourly rates and allotted Chevrolet factory time for any job, eliminating any confusion. We are aboveboard in all dealings."

Don Crow believes that it pays you to know all the facts; it pays to know and trust Don Crow Chevrolet!

"When you consider our honesty in dealing, the dedication of a professional staff with true know-how, our reputation for saving for you in dollars and cents, then why consider anything less than Don Crow Chevrolet for your every auto repair need?"

All service work is guaranteed 90 days or 4,000 miles on all General Motors parts and accessories.

"Did you realize that the very best in stock trailers are manufactured right here on the South Plains, in Lubbock, and made available in numerous models to meet every need and preference?"

Hale Manufacturing Co., Inc., at its Idalou Highway location just northeast of Lubbock, provides a large selection of these new stock trailers, together with used units.

Assuring unit for the particular job or use, Hale has stock trailers, jackknife units and all, to meet these specific area preferences and needs.

ANNIVERSARY APPRECIATION GESTURE — Moses Perez of Bookbinding & Bible Repair in Lubbock points to the gold name inscribed on a Bible there. During this week as an anniversary expression, Perez is imprinting names without cost on work brought to the firm during the week.

Bookbinding & Bible Repair Marking Fourth Anniversary Of Area Service

Bookbinding & Bible Repair, 2235 34th St., is four years old this week.

"On this 4th Anniversary, we want to thank the public of Lubbock and the South Plains for having trusted us to work with some of your most valuable possessions: your books, your heirlooms.

"We have received from so many of you words of encouragement and offers of help, and through your word of mouth advertising many others have learned of our services... to the point that our opportunity to serve has been widened to distant areas farther than Lubbock alone.

"For such fine confidence and good wishes, we only can offer a promise to always do our best in handling the work that you bring to our place of business; we will be trying to excel to satisfy you in every way possible.

Anniversary Offer

"We at Bookbinding & Bible Repair still are trying to survive as a business, and our means are limited, but we want to offer as a way of 'thanks' a free name imprinted on any work brought to us during the week of our anniversary: Feb. 4-9.

"Our prices still are reasonable in spite of the inflationary effect on prices we pay for our supplies, especially for leather and gold. We will keep our prices as low as possible, keeping the quality of our work as high as our abilities will enable.

Difficult Jobs Welcome

"Please keep coming to see us, bringing us your work. Our services are different, and we can work on all the areas of bookbinding. Don't hesitate; remember that your business always is appreciated and welcomed, no matter how impossible the task may appear."

When Bookbinding & Bible Repair started in business, its goal was service in bookbinding needs. Other services have been added for even greater customer service in the four years since.

Lamination of documents, binding in Spiro ring bindings, and name imprinting in gold are among these services.

It is emphasized that each of these can be performed on an "as you wait" basis.

And in most instances the firm can offer an overnight service in Bible binding for those who cannot separate from the book for a more lengthy period.

Regular time service for almost any order is one week.

Even with all this, remember that at Bookbinding & Bible Repair, phone 765-6761, the basic services are in the binding of books, journals, etc., re-binding of Bibles in genuine leathers, and restoration of old family Bible heirlooms; this is the main reason for the existence of Bookbinding & Bible Repair, founded and operated by Moses Perez, a master in his trade.

"Bookbinding & Bible Repair, in short, can help you preserve many treasures, whether involving Bibles, the National Geographic, Life and other collector magazines, journals, etc.

"Check the following outline to see if one or more of our services can be utilized in your own situation."

- (1) Books rebound or restored;
- (2) Restoration of Bibles that are out of use because of their condition but that can be rebound and re-used again and again;
- (3) Binding of favorite magazines such as special years of the National Geographic Magazine, or any other professional or hobby magazine or journal;
- (4) Blank books for special occasions;
- (5) Restoration or re-binding of antique photo albums and pictures;
- (6) New bindings in elegant leather for special letters or documents that should be preserved; and
- (7) Restoration of heirloom family Bibles for family records and future memories.

"Our phone is 765-6761, and our address at Bookbinding & Bible Repair is 2235 34th St., across from the clock at First Federal Savings & Loan."

Rhea's Crafts Adds To Stock, Tells Specials, Specific Aids

Several situations at Rhea's Crafts illustrate the treats provided at this popular 2831 34th St. facility.

The following are singled out among the news-making announcements there:

- (1) Owners C. L. and Ruby Clingman have just returned from the Dallas market, purchasing heavily, and new '80 merchandise already is arriving and being placed in stock.
- (2) Red tag items in most departments of the big store carry discounts of up to 50 per cent!
- (3) All finished plaster items are marked 25 per cent off.
- (4) Plaster finishing lessons are held each Thursday from 6:30 p.m. until 9 p.m. Check for details.
- (5) Silk Flower classes are conducted on Saturday to facilitate early preparation for weddings, etc.

The new 1980 arrivals include lots of new white wear (with over 150 new items in this category). Already, Rhea's Crafts has taken pride in "the largest plaster selection in the Southwest."

There are lots of large pieces: animals, birds, dogs, cats, etc.

Even a large stove planter, a big selection of mirrors, and in increased western line of plaster.

There's the complete selection of renowned J.R. Moore copyrighted action Western plaster.

At random, the following "goodies" are listed among those to be found at Rhea's Crafts:

Jute, Macramé

There is a good selection of jute, even the hard-to-find types, and new cords, rings, beads, etc.

There is a complete line of craft paints, oils and all paints for plaster, etc.

And "how to" books, and a fantastically-increased doll selection.

Plus the large silk flower selection, decoupage wood, Latch Hook kits (some 150 kits for rugs, etc.).

And several clock kits involving decoupage or plaster, and including the clock works.

There is a very good selection of beads, too.

Clingman points out that now is a good time to start projects for next Christmas, with a good selection of nativity sets already stocked.

Custom Finishing

Master Charge and Visa purchases are welcomed, together with layaway.

Store hours are 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays, with later closing on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

C. L. and Ruby Clingman, owners for about 18 months, are glad to lend their advice and other assistance in helping one get the most from his or her craft hobby pursuit. Added work tables have been installed for customer service. Sales space has been increased two times within the past year to accommodate the expanding customer list with products "you want and need."

There are products and savings and learning opportunities galore at Rhea's Crafts, 2831 St., phone 795-2655, in Lubbock.

DEPARTMENT'S ENLARGEMENT, SPECIALS PINPOINT-ED — Tracy McMahan of the Lubbock Woolco staff calls attention to a really significant selection and special savings in the furniture department. Furniture is stocked in abundance for every room of the home.

Month-Long Sale Introducing Expanded Furniture Selection

"Woolco, your favorite store, now has your favorite furniture at low, low prices!"
 The furniture department at Woolco has been greatly expanded, and to acquaint customers with all the new items, Woolco is having a month-long Furniture Sale.
 Now, in the furniture department at Woolco, the customer will discover a gigantic selection of all types and styles of furniture. Featured are contemporary and modern to traditional and Early American styles.
 The wide selection of occasional chairs and recliners compliments the living room suites, and the many bedroom suites can be expanded with rocking chairs, shelves or additional storage in ready-made or unassembled form.

 There are dinettes to fit small or large family needs, for liberal or conservation tastes.
Specific Values Listed
 Some of the many furniture values are:
 Mediterranean style or contemporary occasional tables in pecan or oak finish, choose cocktail, octagon or end tables for only $59.88 each!
 Also featured is a six-piece contemporary design living room suite in durable brown-toned plaid Herculon with saddle-bag style arms and contrasting trim, great for both comfort and beauty, for only $399 while the sale lasts!

 For the modern household, there are chrome and glass accent pieces. The etagere at $58.88, the entertainment center at $59, the cocktail table at $36, or the end table at $24.88 will bring sparkle to any decor at prices to fit almost any budget.
Rocker, Recliner Markdown
 Rockers and recliners always have been a favorite of Woolco customers, and now one can purchase one of three popular styles at one popular price. Choose an Early American recliner, a rocker-recliner or a swivel rocker for just $99 each!
 These and many other great buys make up Woolco's February Furniture Sale. Don't miss it!

16 Killed In Bloodiest Cease-Fire Violation

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — A guerrilla rocket and machine-gun attack on a rural bus killed 16 blacks and wounded 24 in the worst violence since the month-old cease-fire began.

The attack occurred Sunday night 80 miles southeast of Salisbury. The Rhodesian military command blamed Robert Mugabe's guerrillas, who were operating in the area before the truce went into effect Dec. 29.

The force of the rockets and machine gun bullets sent bodies flying up to 30 yards. The victims were returning to Salisbury from visits to relatives and friends in the eastern garrison town of Umtali.

"It was awful," said one of the wounded, Baxter Machuana, a 31-year-old welder. "The driver was hit first. His head exploded from his body. There was blood all over. Then the bus crashed and people were screaming and rushing to get out the windows. And still there was shooting."

Violence between political rivals has increased during the campaign for the parliamentary elections Feb. 27-29, the first in which all black political factions will participate.

One black was killed and four were wounded earlier Sunday in a grenade attack on a bus carrying supporters of former Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa, the major political rival of Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo, the co-leaders of the Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance.

Two others were crushed to death and 35 injured when thousands of blacks stampeded from a Mugabe rally in Gwelo, 100 miles south of Salisbury.

The worst previous cease-fire violation occurred three weeks ago when six blacks were killed in a cross-fire between security forces and supporters of Nkomo.

Nkomo and Mugabe split after the cease-fire to campaign separately, and Nkomo angered his wartime partner by registering his party as the Patriotic Front. Mugabe, who heads the Zimbabwe African National Union, told the rally in Gwelo: "There are others who have hijacked the name Patriotic Front and tell you they are united with us. We say, 'No,' the alliance is only a bond of friendship. When it comes to fighting for the country, we are alone."

Mugabe also said Lord Soames, the interim British governor, was "turning a blind eye" to intimidation by security force auxiliary units loyal to Muzorewa.

Soames also was criticized Saturday by the U.N. Security Council, which called on Britain to show no partiality to any of the political factions and to ensure that all South African troops were out of the country.

Soames allowed South African troops to take up positions at the Rhodesian end of the Beit Bridge, a key rail and highway link between the two nations, but ordered them out the day the U.N. debate started.

Nkomo, who has been portraying himself as a moderate, told a rally Sunday in Que Que, 50 miles north of Gwelo: "I don't want to deceive you that you will take other people's property because you will not. You will have equal opportunity to create your own property — the property you did not have when certain people were in power."

He referred to the white-minority governments that held power for 90 years, and his message was intended to support his claim that Rhodesia's 230,000 whites will be able to survive if his party wins.

Former Prime Minister Ian Smith, who declared independence from Britain 15 years ago to prevent black rule, has said white voters may have to support Nkomo to keep Mugabe from taking power. Smith claims Mugabe, a Marxist, is committed to seizing white property. But Mugabe has not announced such a policy.

Smith helped set up a moderate biracial government with Muzorewa at the head following elections in April that Mugabe and Nkomo boycotted and Britain and most other nations refused to recognize.

Cold Front To End Pleasant Weather

A-J News Services

A new front bearing colder weather and gusty winds is forecast to bring an end to the area's unseasonably mild temperatures tonight.

Cooler air behind the front is expected to allow the mercury to climb no higher than about 50 degrees Tuesday afternoon.

Gusty southwesterly winds of 15 to 25 mph today are due to shift to northerly at about the same velocity tonight and continue Tuesday.

Meanwhile, today's forecast calls for another balmy high of about 65 this afternoon. The overnight low, however, will be considerably cooler than this morning's reading of 35. The minimum is expected to be in the upper 20s early Tuesday morning.

The cool weather is expected to be short-lived, with a warming trend expected to return on Wednesday. The high Wednesday should reach the mid-50s, and afternoon temperatures should rise to the mid-60s by Friday.

The long range outlook for Saturday through Wednesday, Feb. 13, however, predicts below normal temperatures and above-normal precipitation.

Elsewhere in the state this morning, dense fog covered much of East and South Texas and the Coastal Plains. Generally fair skies prevailed across the remainder of the state.

Gusty winds kept temperatures above freezing as rain drenched Montana early today, but temperatures fell to the teens and lower across much of the upper Mid-west.

WEATHER FORECAST — Generally sunny skies but chilly temperatures are expected east for the Rockies in the forecast period until Tuesday morning. Mild weather is expected for the Pacific coast. Rain is forecast for the central Gulf Coast. Snow is forecast for the upper Mississippi and lower Midwest. (AP Laserphoto)

Weizman Criticized For Carter Support

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Ezer Weizman, Israel's popular but impetuous defense minister, is accused of meddling in American politics by praising President Carter and criticizing Sen. Edward Kennedy.

In the past six weeks Weizman has heaped praise on Carter, intimated that Kennedy's pledges of support for Israel were only campaign rhetoric and predicted Kennedy would lose his challenge for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The comments have provoked a barrage of criticism from Israeli and American Jews who say foreign leaders have no place on the U.S. political scene.

Weizman touched off the controversy after a meeting with Carter in late December to press Israel's case for more economic and military aid. He told reporters: "We have a friend in the White House, and I hope it will be that way during the next four years."

The remark, interpreted as an endorsement of Carter's candidacy, incensed Kennedy backers because of its possible effect on the Jewish vote. Jewish supporters of the senator protested to Prime Minister Menachem Begin, who in an effort to keep his cabinet from getting involved in the campaign has barred non-essential visits to the United States until after Election Day.

Israeli politicians and newspapers chastised the defense minister for undermining Begin's effort to avoid any appearance of interfering in U.S. affairs.

Weizman defended his remark by citing Carter's key role in the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty and the massive U.S. aid that has been channeled to Israel by his administration. Last week he compounded the controversy by belittling Kennedy's campaign statements expressing strong support for Israel and predicting he would lose.

In an interview with Israel Television he said: "I never heard one word about Israel from Senator Kennedy until he decided to run." During the difficult two-year peace process with Egypt, he added,

Marchers Drop Plans To Carry Supplies Inside Cambodia

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Organizers of the so-called "March for Survival" to get publicity for the plight of the Cambodian people today abandoned plans to try to carry food into Cambodia and will instead hold a rally on a bridge at the Thai-Cambodian frontier.

Robert DeVecchi of the International Rescue Committee, a spokesman for the marchers, said 20 truckloads of supplies they hoped to deliver inside Cambodia would be handed over to the Thai Red Cross for distribution to Cambodian refugees.

Despite the change in plans, he said, up to 150 international celebrities, social activists and politicians plan to spend three days near the border, visiting refugee camps and publicizing the problem of hunger in Cambodia.

The group changed its plans because the Vietnamese-backed Cambodian government in Phnom Penh said they would not be allowed to cross the border and because of increased fighting between the Vietnamese army and the Khmer Rouge guerrillas just inside Cambodia near the Thai border.

The Thai military command met today to draw up contingency plans in case the fighting endangered the marchers.

Among participants who arrived are American singer Joan Baez, Norwegian actress Liv Ullmann, Sir Winston Churchill's grandson and namesake, who is a member of the British Parliament, and U.S. civil rights activist Bayard Rustin.

On Tuesday they will visit the Sa Kaew refugee camp 109 miles east of Bangkok and 31 miles from the border. More than 25,000 refugees have been housed at the camp since fleeing Cambodia last October.

On Wednesday the marchers will gather at a border bridge at the Thai city of Aranyapraphet to make their statements about the Cambodian situation.

The original plan had been to attempt to deliver supplies as far as possible into war-torn Cambodia, but DeVecchi said they had not received a clearance from the Cambodians.

"We had no intention of crossing into Cambodia without a positive response to our requests to Phnom Penh," he said. "We have had no direct response from them, and we consider that this amounts to a refusal."

After the meeting at the bridge, the marchers may visit the huge Khao I Dang refugee camp housing 111,000 Cambodians about nine miles from the border, DeVecchi said.

They will deliver their supplies to the Thai Red Cross at Aranyapraphet on Thursday. The shipment includes 16 trucks of rice, two trucks of dried fish, one truck of assorted food supplements and one truck of medicines and medical supplies.

Lebanese Leader Hopes Syrians Stay In Beirut

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Lebanese Premier Salim el-Hoss traveled to Syria today seeking clarification of newspaper reports quoting unidentified Syrian officials as saying that country's 22,000-member force in Lebanon will be withdrawn, his aides said.

The aides said Hoss was meeting with Syrian President Hafez Assad and Premier Abdel-Raouf el-Kasm and would tell them the Lebanese army was not yet strong enough to take over responsibility for security in Beirut, the aides said. Hoss would ask for an indefinite postponement of the reported withdrawal, they said.

Beirut newspapers quoted unnamed Syrian officials as saying recent developments in the Mideast have prompted a "redeployment plan" designed to strengthen Syria's ability to make Lebanon secure.

Lebanon's army was on emergency alert because of the reports, Lebanese state radio reported.

In Beirut, spokesmen for leftist Moslem and right-wing Christian political parties said the Lebanese government feared that a Syrian pullout would create a security vacuum that might rekindle Lebanon's smoldering civil war rivalries.

The Syrians have been in Lebanon since the 1975-76 civil war between the Moslems and Christians, acting as peace-keeping troops in buffer zones set up to separate sectors of the Lebanese capital.

Meanwhile, Israeli warplanes buzzed Beirut at a high altitude drawing intense anti-aircraft gunfire from Palestinian and Syrian peacekeeping positions near Beirut's international airport.

Sakharov Tells Of Threats On Life

MOSCOW (AP) — Exiled dissident Andrei Sakharov, in a statement issued in Moscow today by his wife, says his life has been threatened by two men armed with a pistol since he was banished to the city of Gorki last month.

Sakharov also said a Gorki public prosecutor warned him last week that if he issued any more statements through his wife, the site and conditions of his exile would be changed and his wife would also be restricted.

And he said the unidentified armed men who came to his apartment had told him a place was ready for him at a psychiatric hospital.

Sakharov's wife, Yelena Bonner, distributed the statement to newsmen shortly after her return from a weekend with her husband in Gorki, the Volga River city 250 miles east of Moscow to which the Nobel Peace Prize winner was confined Jan. 19. So far, no action has been taken against her.

"The situation in Gorki is very alarming," she said. At her side at the news conference was Lev Kopetev, the 68-year-old writer and friend of the Sakharovs who was sharply denounced in the official press Sunday.

In a separate statement, Sakharov described Kopetev as "my friend of many years" and declared: "Truth and moral strength are on his side, as I'm certain are the sympathies of many, many honest people."

Sakharov said he was summoned Jan. 28 by the KGB security police, who complained that "certain people" had reached him despite their barriers.

That same day, Sakharov said, "there appeared two 'workers,' pretending to be drunk, of whom one was toying with a Makarov pistol. They said they shoot without missing from any position, and threatened to 'arrange an Afghanistan' and wreak havoc in the apartment."

"They said, 'Don't think you'll be here long. There's a place already prepared for you in the psychiatric hospital 30 kilometers (20 miles) from Gorki."

On Sunday, Sakharov said, a card with a death threat was delivered to his apartment.

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Stock Prices Mixed After Long Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices were mixed today, pausing after the rally of the past four weeks.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 1.87 at 879.61.

But the average would have shown a small gain had it not been for ex-dividends, or dividend-payment adjustments, in the prices of four of its component stocks.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about a 4-3 margin in the broad tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said no major developments had come along in the past few days to change the expectations of persistent inflation that have apparently fueled the market's early-1980 rally.

Those expectations, coupled with the poor showing of the bond market in recent months, apparently have encouraged investing institutions to channel more money into stocks.

There were more reports today of oil-price increases by individual members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Brown Co. jumped 10 1/2 to 30, trading for the first time since James River Corp.'s announcement last week of a plan to acquire the company.

Clark Oil & Refining was delayed in opening. Chairman Emory T. Clark said he had ended talks with a company that had expressed interest in acquiring Clark stock.

The NYSE's composite index was off .02 at 66.06. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .67 at 278.24.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 18.55 million shares at noon time, down from 21.97 million at the same point Friday.

Warrants Wanted For Spy Break-Ins

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is ready to propose that U.S. intelligence agents, with the permission of a secret court, be allowed to burglarize the homes and offices and open the mail of Americans suspected of spying.

Though Carter's proposal won't be unveiled before Friday, debate already has begun over whether such intrusions should be regulated strictly or loosely.

The first question is whether break-ins and mail-openings should be permitted against any American believed to be acting for a foreign power or whether when there is specific evidence of an American's criminal conduct.

If the standard requires evidence of a crime, the next question concerns how much evidence.

Civil libertarians are prepared to argue for the most restrictive standard, allowing break-ins and mail-openings only when the secret court finds hard evidence a crime has been or will be committed.

But conservatives in Congress seem likely to resist subjecting these tactics to court scrutiny, even in secret.

The controversy is developing as Carter polishes details of his proposed comprehensive charter governing intelligence-gathering by the CIA, FBI and other agencies.

Carter, in his State of the Union message, said increased U.S.-Soviet tensions require loosening some of the restrictions placed on these agencies after past abuses came to light in the 1970s.

Sen. Walter D. Huddleston, D-Ky., chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee's charter subcommittee, said last week the charter would legalize some spying on Americans whenever the president ruled an investigation was "essential to the national security."

But Carter's proposal will require court warrants for mail-openings or break-ins, known as "black bag jobs," said Huddleston, a participant in months of charter negotiations with the administration.

The warrant responsibility would rest with the seven-member court created two years ago to review government requests for permission to use wiretaps or other electronic surveillance in foreign intelligence cases. Those requests, the court's hearings and even its written decisions are all classified secret.

Government sources and outside critics involved in the negotiations confirm Carter's charter will apply the same standards for break-ins and mail-openings against Americans as the 1978 law set for using electronic surveillance against Americans in foreign intelligence cases.

Currently, a presidential order allows the FBI to carry out covert break-ins against Americans if the president has authorized the general investigation and if the attorney general approves the specific break-in and finds probable cause to believe the American is a foreign agent.

But the order allows mail-opening only when there is probable cause to believe a crime has been or will be committed. That is the same standard required for the warrants police use in such everyday cases as searches for stolen property.

Mail-opening warrants require that the suspect be told about the search, and sources said the measure has effectively halted the use of mail-opening in foreign intelligence cases.

The 1978 law and Carter's new charter together would allow wiretapping, break-ins and mail-openings against Americans whom the government believes are knowingly engaged in spying or other secret actions to benefit a foreign power. The government must at least suspect those actions may involve a crime.

Large Bank Fraud Trial Continues At Slow Pace

ATLANTA (AP) — Former U.S. budget director Bert Lance was going back to court today for the fourth week of his bank fraud trial, which is still creeping along in a preliminary stage of the government's case.

By the end of last week, prosecutors had questioned only 15 of some 60 "custodial witnesses" — keepers of bank records who may or may not know anything about the case.

The role of the custodians is to identify thousands of records from the files of banks that have done business with Lance and his three co-defendants over the past 10 years.

Lance, once a top adviser to President Carter, is charged with conspiracy, making false statements to get loans, misuse of bank funds and false entries in bank records.

His co-defendants are Richard Carr, a former bank president; Thomas Mitchell, a contractor who was Lance's trustee; and Jack Mullins, a former pharmacist and friend of Lance since high school.

Records introduced as evidence include loan applications, liability ledgers, statements of the defendants' net worths and other financial information.

The custodial witnesses have been cross-examined at length by defense lawyers, to the annoyance of U.S. District Judge Charles A. Moye Jr., who asked the attorneys to stick to questions about the authenticity of the documents.

Former Ford Executive To Take Witness Stand

WINAMAC, Ind. (AP) — A former Ford Motor Co. executive who has testified against the company previously was to take the stand in the fifth week of the automaker's trial on charges of reckless homicide.

Elkhart County Prosecutor Michael A. Cosentino has said he hoped the testimony of Harley Copp, who was to testify today, would allow him to introduce documents about crash tests performed on the Ford Pinto.

Copp, regarded as an expert on auto production, has testified previously in civil suits against the automaker.

Ford is charged with three counts of reckless homicide in the fiery 1978 deaths of three teen-age women who were in a

Pinto when it was hit from behind by a van.

Cosentino contends Ford executives knew the Pinto's fuel tanks were likely to explode in rear-end collisions, but ignored making repairs in the interest of saving money.

The prosecutor has introduced in efforts to introduce the documents he subpoenaed from the automaker. Pulaski Circuit Judge Harold R. Staffeld has ruled the prosecutor must prove the documents authentic before using them as evidence.

Earlier, Cosentino said he hoped to work out a deal with defense attorney James F. Neal to introduce some of those documents.

Three Countries Raise Prices For Crude Oil

Nigeria, Algeria and Indonesia, which together supply 11 percent of U.S. oil needs, today joined the rapidly-growing number of Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries raising crude oil prices by from $2 to more than $4 a barrel.

The moves followed $2-a-barrel increases by Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Venezuela and most other OPEC members last week.

Theodore R. Eck, chief economist of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) estimated the round of OPEC hikes would boost U.S. gasoline or heating oil prices by 2.5 to 3 cents a gallon.

The United States imports half its oil. It gets about 30 percent of its petroleum from OPEC members.

Indonesia's state-owned oil company Pertamina announced a $2 increase to $29.50 per 42-gallon barrel for its basic grade. Algeria's price, including continuation of a $3-a-barrel surcharge, climbed by $4.21 to $37.21 a barrel.

Dollar Rises In Europe

LONDON (AP) — The dollar, benefiting from an apparent easing of the Iranian confrontation and from high interest rates in the United States, rose in European trading today while the price of gold slipped.

Gold was fixed at $672 in London and at $674 in Zurich, down from Friday's closing $683.50 in London and $676 in Zurich.

The price of the metal fell $12.26 in Hong Kong in earlier Far East trading to close at $660.87.

Gold hit a record $875 in New York on Jan. 21 before slumping to $585 two days later in frantic profit-taking.

The Nigerian National Petroleum Corp. said it was raising prices by $4, but U.S. industry sources said Nigeria also tacked on a 21-cent-a-barrel "retroactive compensation" fee to make its price $34.21.

Earlier, Venezuela raised its base price by $2 to $28 a barrel, but raised prices on lower grades of oil by as little as 44 cents.

The impact of the Indonesian move was not immediately clear because the country reportedly has been adding surcharges of up to $5 a barrel to posted prices in recent weeks. Indonesia increased its oil prices by $1.45 to $2.95 a barrel last month.

The price of the metal fell $12.26 in Hong Kong in earlier Far East trading to close at $660.87.

Gold hit a record $875 in New York on Jan. 21 before slumping to $585 two days later in frantic profit-taking.

Silver slumped in London at $35.25 an ounce, down from $35.75 Friday.

Frankfurt—1.7450 West German marks, unchanged.

Zurich—1.6342 Swiss francs, up from 1.6325.

Treating Painful Heels

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I've had pain in my heel about four months. When it started the pain was so bad I could hardly walk. It is greatly improved now but it's not completely well.

I went to a doctor who specializes in the treatment of bone disorders. He looked at my heel and said it was an inflammation of the tendon that stretches from the toe to the heel. He gave me a shot of cortisone in the heel and told me to return in two weeks, if it was not well. If anything, it was worse, so he gave me another shot and again told me to come back in two weeks. I didn't improve any.

I canceled the third visit after hearing it was not good to take too much cortisone. The pain is on the bottom of the heel and spreads to the outer rim in a burning sensation. The most tender spot is in the center just where the arch meets the heel. I know this isn't much help but I hope you can enlighten me as to what I have. Thank you.

DEAR READER — There's no way to be certain exactly what you have without examining your foot and perhaps even looking at an X-ray. The disorder you complain of, pain in the heel, is similar to what many people call a heel spur.

That may be misleading because the little bony spur that develops on the bottom of the heel bone may or may not be associated with actual pain in that area. Some people do have the kind of pain you describe and don't have a bony spur at all. Other people have a bony spur and don't have any pain.

Your description suggests that your doctor was absolutely correct and that it's related to soreness and irritation in the area where the tendons and other tissues attach to the bottom of the heelbone. These spread across the arch of the foot. The irritation is often caused by a strain on the arch — the constant pulling at the point of attachment.

It's no surprise then that one of the best forms of treatment is to get the weight off the foot so the pulling doesn't occur. From the foot's point of view, the best idea would be to stay off the foot entirely but, of course, that imposes other problems associated with inactivity.

A good foot doctor will sometimes strap the heel to rotate the foot a little and cause you to walk on the outside of the arch. By walking on the outside of the foot, you don't put all that strain across the center arch of the foot and you decrease the pulling effect. A similar approach is to put a little pad underneath the inside of the foot to change the weight bearing effect on the foot itself.

I am sending two issues of The Health Letter that may be of help to you: Number 11-8, Your Feet And How to Care for Them and Number 11-10, Common Foot Problems: What to Do for Them. Other readers who want either one of these issues can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Send your request to me, in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

People often don't realize how important it is to take good care of their feet. A good shoe is a prerequisite to good foot health. With good foot care that is described in the two issues that I'm sending you, you can avoid many common foot ailments.

Lumber Firm To Use 'Sawdust Power'

By DAN HALL
HADDAM, Conn. (AP) — Sawdust, once a bothersome byproduct of the sawmill, soon will be used by a lumber producer in this Connecticut river town as a substitute for precious fuel oil.

And in Saco, Maine, Gwido Swistun has built a furnace in his home that burns sawdust from a local mill. He hopes to begin marketing sawdust furnaces soon.

In Connecticut, Rossi Corp. plans to start burning its mountains of sawdust and wood chips next month in a new burner that produces steam to heat the company's new wood-drying kilns, says President Ted Rossi. The corporation might save as much as $400,000 per year if the plan works out well.

And while Rossi's sawdust-burning unit is the first of its kind in Connecticut, there are an estimated 30 similar systems at lumber companies in the nation.

Rossi said "sawdust power" will provide the company with hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of heat per year to kiln-dry the 12 million board feet of lumber it produces annually.

Until recently the company has transported freshly cut lumber from its five mills to other companies to be dried and sold.

About a year ago Rossi began thinking about using sawdust as an alternate source of energy to dry the company's lumber without relying on other firms.

Six kilns and a $300,000 combination oil-sawdust burner to heat them have been installed at the plant. So far, the Pennsylvania-made burner has been operated only on oil — except for test runs.

But in Maine, Swistun's home has been heated this winter by sawdust. He packs the sawdust in a chamber around lengths of pipe, then removes the pipes. The sawdust burns along the channels left when the pipes are taken out.

Swistun figures his sawdust furnace will heat his house for $98 this winter, compared to the $780 that the equivalent of fuel oil would cost.

Rossi said that during cold weather, his heating system burns about 6,000 gallons of oil per week. With the wholesale price at more than 80 cents, that costs more than $4,800 per week.

His lumber operations produce about 200 tons of sawdust and wood chips per week. A ton of sawdust will produce as much heat as 50 gallons of fuel oil, Rossi said. Therefore, 200 tons of sawdust can replace 10,000 gallons of oil, more than the firm's weekly oil demand.

Assuming all the sawdust and chips are used, it could mean an annual saving of more than $416,000 per year.

"It's the lumber industry's answer to saving fuel."

Housewife sells 'glass plate' for $40; worth $1,800

NILES, Ill.—The story of a small fortune, lost because a housewife had no idea her glass plate was a collector's item, recently came to light.

In a letter to J. R. MacArthur, chairman of the Bradford Exchange, world's largest trading center in collector's plates, a Madison, Wis., woman wrote: "I had a Lalique 1965 plate . . . which I sold to a friend for $40. I had not heard of you at that time."

The plate she sold is actually valued at more than $1,800. Although MacArthur points out that this price is exceptionally high, he said, "I'm afraid others may be losing hundreds or thousands of dollars by not knowing what their plates are worth."

To aid in identifying valuable plates, the exchange issues a report that includes current prices on more than 900 plates, guidelines on what to look for and when to buy, and the plate evaluation checklist used by the exchange.

To obtain a copy without cost or obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code before Saturday of next week to: The Bradford Exchange, Dept. A72506, 9301 Milwaukee Avenue, Niles, IL 60648. A postcard will do.

'Pokes Face Problems

THIS TIME OF YEAR should be all fun and games for Dallas Cowboy coaches and players. A long, difficult season finally is past, and it is two months until the club launches the off-season conditioning program that signals the start of another campaign.

It isn't that simple, though. Coach Tom Landry has a bundle of problems to solve and some crucial decisions to make. His actions will determine, to a large degree, the success or failure of the 'Pokes this autumn.

First on the agenda is the matter of Thomas "Hollywood" Henderson. Landry booted the talented but controversial linebacker off the squad late last season, after a series of unpleasant incidents. Now Henderson is promising that he will be a good boy and begging Landry to let him return.

Henderson's new tactics really put Landry in a bind. "Hollywood" was accused of loafing and talking too much, not selling secrets to the enemy or shaving points, so it may be difficult for Landry to justify lifetime banishment. Henderson irritated his coaches and teammates, but he also made a lot of big plays and was a demon on the special teams.

Insiders are betting that Landry will not let him return to the team. Landry doesn't believe Henderson can change his ways, no matter how much he tries, and the mentor fears "Hollywood" would continue to set a bad example for the younger players.

PLAYERS WHO ARE NOT starters usually are unhappy, even at the high school or college level, so it was not surprising when wide receiver Butch Johnson recently asked Landry to trade him to a West Coast team. Johnson, who grew up in the Los Angeles area, would like to go home and play with a team where he has a chance to be No. 1.

Butch has been unhappy for a couple of years, actually. He is a fierce competitor and it galls him to sit on the bench while other guys get to catch the passes and make the blocks. The Cowboys traded Golden Richards to give Johnson a chance to play more, but then talented young Tony Hill took over the split end spot.

Johnson subbed for Drew Pearson at flanker late in the '79 season, when the veteran receiver hurt his knee showboating in the end zone, but Butch has little or no chance to beat out Pearson over the long haul. At least not until Drew gets more years and miles on his slender frame.

Landry agreed to try to trade Johnson, but he isn't going to give him away. The Chargers and Rams are fairly well stocked with wide receivers, leaving San Francisco and Oakland as the best bets. San Francisco, because of its high position on the draft list, would suit Cowboy officials just fine.

THAT INCIDENT AT DALLAS last week involving Ed "Too Tall" Jones didn't help his chances of returning to the Cowboys. Not that Jones had given any genuine indication of wanting to return to the pro grid ranks, understand. He has never wavered in his public declarations that he intends to be a boxer or, failing that, concentrate on his booking agency in the entertainment field.

Which is just as well, in the light of recent developments. Jones is an awesome physical specimen and made a considerable contribution to the Dallas defense for five seasons, but the Cowboy brass rates scandal and bad publicity right along with the bubonic plague. Club President Tex Schramm and Landry had traded away a lot of good football players because they were tavern brawlers off the field or made a habit of getting unfavorable headlines.

The Cowboys swapped Baltimore an arm and a leg for John Dutton, so chances are that Schramm and Landry will give the big guy a chance to play. Dutton was severely handicapped by reporting to the Cowboys at mid-season and having to get into condition while learning a new system.

This year, with the advantage of the off-season program and training camp, Dutton may eliminate any regrets about Jones' absence.

HERE AND THERE — Talk of realignment is growing in the National Football League. Huge increases in travel expenses, plus an obvious imbalance in division competition, make some changes possible. Rumors say that a realignment plan based on regional rivalry will be submitted to NFL owners at their next meeting.

Sources in the South say that a Dixie division is under study, with Tampa Bay, Miami, New Orleans and Atlanta as charter members. But Tampa Bay officials are happy with the setup the way it is now, with the Bucs competing against Green Bay, Minnesota, Chicago and Detroit.

The Cowboys would be against realignment, for sure. Schramm and Landry like it in the NFC East, no matter how much airline fares go up. It would take years to replace the rivalries with the Redskins, Cardinals, Giants and Eagles.

A lot of the other clubs probably feel the same way. Logic seldom rules in professional sports, unless big money is involved.

Ali May Quit Olympic Mission

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (UPI) — Saying he was "nobody's Uncle Tom," Muhammad Ali has offered to give up his special diplomatic mission to convince African nations to boycott the Moscow Olympics if he finds that he is "being used."

The former heavyweight champion, rebuffed in an attempt to meet Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere, was to hold talks today with the nation's Minister for Culture Youth C. Mjona to rally the nation behind President Carter's boycott call.

His chances of convincing Tanzania to join a boycott appeared slim.

Ali, who set out on the weeklong, five-nation African tour at Carter's behest, arrived on the first leg of his mission Sunday and confronted hostile questioning by Tanzanian reporters that apparently left him bewildered.

After meeting with Mjona, Ali was scheduled to leave for Nairobi, Kenya, where President Daniel Arap Moi has endorsed an Olympic boycott. Ali is also to visit Senegal, Liberia and Nigeria in his role as special presidential envoy.

The questions asked by Tanzanian journalists centered on why he was allowing himself to be "used" to draw African nations into a conflict between the United States and the Soviet Union.

"I'm not a traitor to the black people," Ali said, adding that the questions made him "feel funny."

"If you can show me something I don't know, I want to be helped," the boxer-diplomat said. "I'm free. Nobody made me come here and I'm nobody's Uncle Tom.

"Maybe I'm being used to do something that ain't right. I could amend my wrongs. I'm not here to do nothing against Africa. I'm not here to promote no role for America. If I find out something else, I'm going back to America and cancel the whole trip."

Ali, who was mobbed by enthusiastic supporters when he arrived at the airport, said he was learning from his questioners who told him that the Soviets had done a lot to help the African liberation movement.

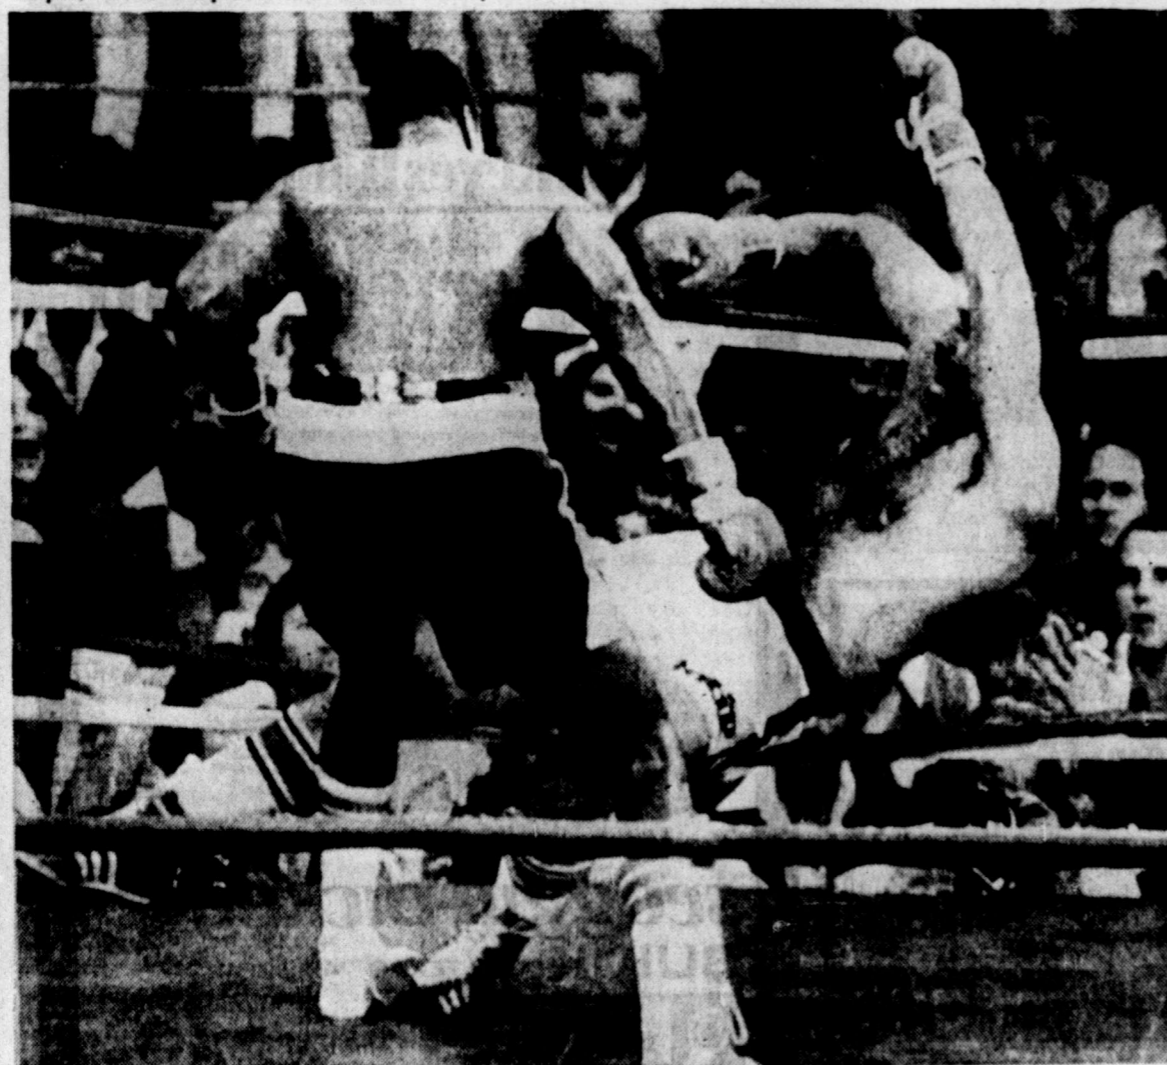

Tanzania voted in the United Nations to condemn the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, but most government and sports officials say they do not support a boycott of the Moscow games.

The government-run Daily News today said, "If the Western countries had at least shown some understanding of the African argument in 1976, our use of the Olympics for peaceful protest against the barbarian Boers of South Africa, at least we would not now be questioning their wisdom in involving the Olympics now in superpower politics."

Many African nations boycotted the 1976 games to protest the participation of New Zealand, which they said had close ties to South Africa.

Ali was entertained Sunday night at a reception hosted by Mjona.

During the gathering, a traditional dance troupe performed a "Boxing Dance" for Ali's benefit.

Powerful A&M Meets Tech

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
The way Shelby Metcalf figures it, his Texas A&M Aggies won't have much of a height advantage in tonight's 8 p.m. Southwest Conference showdown with Texas Tech. (The game will be televised live locally on Channel 28.)

The Aggies may boast their famous "Wall" but really, says Metcalf, the Raiders are just as big.

"Tech's a tall team," said Metcalf with just the trace of a smile. "They're pretty big."

Let Metcalf explain: "Their smallest starter is six inches taller than our smallest guy. (6-4 Jeff) Taylor has six inches on (5-10 Dave) Goff, right? And (6-8 Ralph) Brewster is only three inches shorter than (6-11) Rudy Woods.

"So you can't say Tech has a small team," added Metcalf.

The Raiders may have that overall team-size Metcalf mentioned — all five starters are grouped between 6-8 and 6-4 — but inside, where size really counts, the Raiders come up short. The Aggies will start the 6-11 Woods at the post, with 6-8 Vernon Smith and 6-6 Rynn Wright at the forward spots. If that weren't enough, 6-9 freshman Claude Riley is ready and able to spell any of the trio. "I think," said Metcalf, "that they've made Claude an official member of 'The Wall.'"

The Raiders will counter with 6-8 Ralph Brewster on Woods, and Ben Hill and David Little down low — both are 6-6. But Tech does have 6-5 Kent Williams and 6-4 Taylor at the guards while the Aggies have to make do with 6-4 David Britton and the tiny Goff.

So much for the Tech size. "We'll try to go inside," admitted Metcalf, "but Tech does a good job of keeping you from going inside."

But the Aggie guards can also hurt you. The last time these two teams met, the Aggies came away with a tough 63-60 decision in G. Hollie White Coliseum. And it was the A&M guards, not "The Wall," that proved to be the difference.

Tyrone Ladson and Britton scored 10 points apiece in that game, and hit a bushel of clutch free throws down the stretch run, to clinch the win over Tech. Ironically, that was the only time Ladson has scored more than three points in a game this year. The 6-1 junior has not seen action in the Aggies' last three games.

"Tyrone had his best game of the year last time," said Metcalf, "and Riley came off the bench and played well."

Woods also scored 20 and Wright added 15 to lead the Aggies in their earlier win over Tech. And now, says Metcalf, A&M is playing even better.

"Every one of our starters is playing better now," he said. "We've definitely improved since that last game — but that was early and I'm sure Tech has, too. Tech's a fine outside shooting team."

But does the A&M inside game more than balance out the Raiders outside attack?

"I don't know," said Metcalf, "there must not be much difference or that last game wouldn't have been so close. But I think we're playing with confidence now, confidence that we can make the big play."

The Aggie confidence should get a test tonight. A&M hasn't won in the Coliseum since 1975 and Tech took two of three contests from the Aggies last year.

But this may be the finest A&M team to come down the road in quite awhile. The Aggies have won 12 of their last 13 games, including nine in a row to post a 9-0 SWC slate. (That is the first 9-0 conference record in the history of the school.)

Leading the A&M attack has been Smith, who's averaging 15.6 a game. But Wright, Woods and Britton are also in double figures and Woods has been hauling down eight rebounds a game. As a team, the Aggies are averaging 37.2 rebounds per outing. Tech is averaging 30 rebounds a game.

Little leads the Raiders with a 15.2 scoring average, and the other four Tech starters are also in double figures. Brewster leads the team in rebounds with seven per game.

But how well Brewster can match up with the Aggie big men remains to be seen. The first time the two teams met, Brewster and Hill each snared five rebounds to pace the Raiders. On the other end of the court, Woods hauled down seven misses and Wright had six.

When he gets his adrenalin flowing, Rynn Wright is an outstanding player," said Metcalf. "He's important to us."

Although the Aggies started slowly this year, losing four of their first nine games, they've lost only once in their last 13 outings. According to Wright, it was simply a matter of attitude.

"We weren't playing together the way we should have," Wright said. "We said, 'Hey we're better than this.' We knew we had the talent — we just had to get in our minds that we would play better."

High-Flying Razorbacks Continue Title Pursuit

By The Associated Press
The highlight of the Southwest Conference games scheduled tonight is the Texas A&M-Texas Tech game, which will be televised. In other league action, Arkansas hosts TCU, Baylor is at SMU, and Houston is at Texas. Rice hosts Wright State in a nonconference tilt.

The Aggies lead the pack with a 9-0 mark, followed by Arkansas at 8-1, Tech at 6-4 and Texas at 5-5.

As if Arkansas didn't have enough advantage, playing in the hills, U.S. Reed, a 6-2 junior, felt he got help from above on his game-winner against Texas.

Fred Carson had hit a 12-foot jumper to give Texas a 59-58 lead with 9 seconds left, but Reed said as he took the in-bounds pass and dribbled downcourt, he heard the crowd counting the seconds down and "suddenly it seemed like The Lord just took over."

He dived between two Texas defenders, threw up a shot, and watched as it fell through.

"I couldn't believe it," Reed admitted afterward.

Teammate Scott Hastings, a 6-10 sophomore, said when the shot went in, "I felt all my emotions drain. I just felt like falling on the ground and lying there for a while."

Texas coach Abe Lemons, just as stunned, shook his head and offered polite applause. The shot brought tears to the eyes of Texas forward John Danks, while Ron Baxter, Texas' other senior starter, stood motionless, put his hands on his hips and finally headed for the dressing room.

Texas led Arkansas by 34-28 at the half and led by eight, 39-31, before the Razorbacks began their charge.

Holmes, Gomez Pound Ring Challengers

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Larry Holmes wants the world to realize he's the heavyweight boxing champion, a tough public relations job since Muhammad Ali ruled the sport for so long.

"John Tate just has a piece of the title that I deserve," said the 30-year-old Holmes Sunday after stopping Italy's Lorenzo Zanon in the sixth round of their scheduled 15-round bout for the World Boxing Council heavyweight share.

Tate holds the World Boxing Association part of the title having won an elimination series following the retirement of Ali.

"Tate would be just another opponent for me," said Holmes, of Easton, Pa. "He doesn't rate to be called champion."

Zanon became the fifth challenger to fall by knockout to Holmes, who won the WBC version by outpointing Ken Norton at the Caesars Palace Sports Pavilion, where Zanon was stopped by a left-right combination, the latter doing the big damage.

On March 31, a television audience gets to see both champions in action. Holmes fights big Leroy Jones in Las Vegas while Tate tangles with Mike Weaver in Knoxville, Tenn. Holmes already has stopped Weaver in a WBC title defense.

The snarled mess in the heavyweight ranks came after Leon Spinks beat Ali for the undisputed title and the WBC said the winner must fight Norton. Spinks refused, and signed instead for a rematch, which he lost to Ali in New Orleans. The WBC had stripped Spinks of his crown and named Norton as his successor while the WBA went along with a Spinks-Ali title fight, which the latter won.

Zanon, 28, and weighing 215 pounds, used the full ring in trying to avoid Holmes and actually won the third round. But he went down twice in the fourth and was given a standing eight-count respite in the same stanza by referee Ray Solis of Mexico City, who apparently didn't know you could not legally do that in Nevada.

But Solis ended the fight at 2:39 of the sixth after the right hand shot put the challenger down. Zanon was up by the count of eight but beaten and wobbly.

"Zanon was a good stepping stone toward Tate," said the unmarked Holmes, who put his record at 33-0 and earned a reported $600,000 with his 24th kayo.

"I feel I don't have to fight anybody to prove I'm the undisputed champion of the world," said Holmes, who weighed 213 pounds.

Zanon's record went to 25-5-2 as he fought for $125,000 and simply did not have the artillery to stand off the champion.

Neither did Ruben Valdez of Colombia in his WBC title shot against swift-hitting super bantamweight champion Wilfredo Gomez of Puerto Rico in their fight for the 122-pound crown Sunday.

Gomez won when Valdez "felt so bad" that he couldn't come out for the seventh round and the bout went into the records as a TKO in six.

Gomez had hoped to fight Danny Lopez for the WBC featherweight championship with million dollar purses, but the latter lost to Salvador Sanchez on Saturday and out the window went the big money.

"I was disappointed when Lopez lost," Gomez readily admitted. "I will box as a featherweight and also defend my title as a super bantamweight."

Valdez had been the No. 2-ranking contender in the WBC ranks.

Gomez is now 29-0-1 while Valdez dropped to 43-6-1. Gomez became the first pro champion ever to record 11 straight knockout victories in championship fights. All 29 of his victories have come by knockout.

Smith, Bruce Carver and Bill McGee.

The LCC women, 5-12 and 3-2 in the TIAA, meet the Sul Ross women at 6 p.m.

The Chaps defeated Sul Ross 86-68 last Monday in Alpine. Sul Ross is 3-3 in the TIAA and 6-11 overall. LCC is 14-13 in all games.

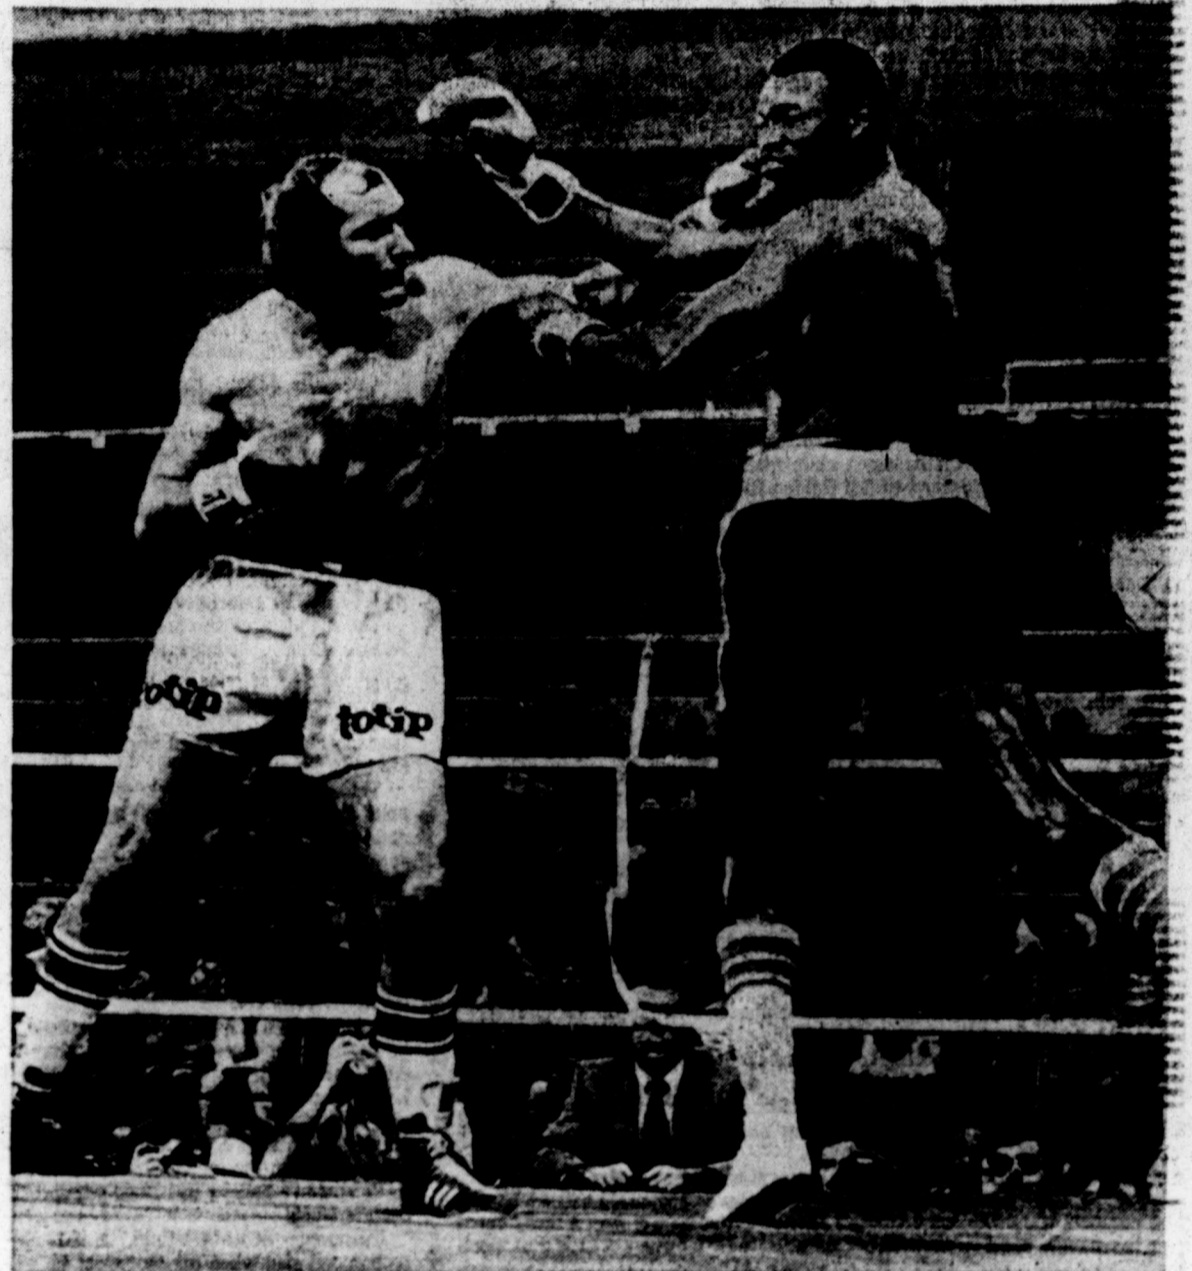

LCC coach Larry Hays expects his team to return to a strong level of play despite the McMurry result.

"I want our players to be realistic and make sure that what happened (against the Indians) doesn't affect them in our next game," Hays said. "We were disappointed by losing but we hope we're a good enough club so that we can play well against Sul Ross. I'm hoping that we have no big psychological problems, doubts or fears — notice I said 'I'm hoping' — because everybody's matured enough to know they can bounce back."

Center Kevin Wharton, who was bothered by foul trouble and scored only seven points against McMurry, said, "Coach called a meeting (Saturday) and told us to keep our heads up."

"I don't want the McMurry game to stay in our heads because it's definitely not the end of the world."

The Chaparrals, who performed before a season-high attendance of 2,385 Saturday, will probably open with their usual starting lineup of Wharton; forward Keith Gardner and guards Marshall Lorenzo Zanon (left) delivers a punch to the head of champion Larry Holmes, who later recorded a knockout.

LCC Chaparrals Greet Sul Ross

The Lubbock Christian College basketball team, which had its school-record six-game victory string broken by McMurry College 92-77 Saturday, hopes to resist another streak — the losing variety — when it hosts Sul Ross State at 8 p.m. tonight in the Fieldhouse.

LCC was never in the game with McMurry except when a rally midway through the second half brought the Chaparrals to within five points, 62-57, of the lead.

As a result, the Indians gained sole possession of first place in the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association at 5-1. LCC is alone in second place at 4-2.

Donnie Ray Cruse, McMurry's premier guard who scored 17 points against the Chaps, spoke highly of the team that had upset the Indians 62-61 one week earlier in Abilene.

"They hustle and can beat any team in the conference," Cruse said of the

Unpredictable Matadors Gain Share Of Crown

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

All year long the Estacado basketball team has been jumping on big leads, only to throw the ball away when it looked like a win was assured.

This week the Mats did it again, but this time on a much larger scale.

If you'll remember, at this time last week the Mats had just rumbled past Borger in what appeared to be a title-insuring District 1-AAA win.

Well, it wasn't.

Estacado went into a deep sleep Tuesday and awakened only after a 68-60 loss to Levelland. The sound that jolted the Mats out of their slumber was probably the Borger Bulldogs celebrating, about 150 miles north.

Because, with Friday night's 81-72 win over Canyon, the Bulldogs grabbed a share of the district first-half title that appeared lost only a week ago.

The Matadors, on the other hand, responded in usual fashion, playing their best game of the season to beat Dunbar 88-72 to gain its share of the crown.

Now it comes down to the second half, and there's another force to be reckoned with.

For sure, the spotlight for the next couple of weeks will be on the Mats and the Bulldogs, but look for either Levelland or Dumas to pull some surprises.

Levelland has been playing much-improved ball of late and Dumas, a good squad all season with a current 12-9 mark, has to go on the road only twice in the whole second half. And one of those road trips is to Dunbar.

The 1-AAA girls' race also shapes up interestingly. Dumas took the first half in a cakewalk, winning by two games. But in the first game of the second half, Canyon sneaked up on the Demons and dealt them a 51-44 defeat.

The Dumas girls, like the boys, enjoy a favorable schedule from here out, traveling only to Dunbar, but Canyon has to go only to Estacado.

Plainsmen's First-Half Title Eases Michalka

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Joe Michalka didn't search for any fancy explanations when asked about Monterey's success story so far this year.

"We played well at times and we've been lucky, too," concluded the MHS head coach.

Truer words have never been spoken.

In clinching District 4-AAAA's first-half title with a 4-0 mark, the Plainsmen had to overcome a bout with the chicken pox and another 15-round affair with the injury bug. And, in both cases, MHS won the decision.

Following a 70-50 victory over Lubbock High, Michalka lost starters Greg Thomson (chicken pox) and Ian Hyslop (sprained ankle) for the next two weeks. But that didn't stop the Plainsmen from running their conference winning streak to 21 straight. Oh, no.

Things didn't come easy for MHS, though. Just the opposite, as a matter of fact.

After the win over the Westerners, the Plainsmen were forced to hold off Hereford before capturing a 58-49 victory. Then, the dam broke. Within a five-day span, MHS captured back-to-back overtime victories. The first came in a double OT affair against Coronado, a game Monterey won 54-48 thanks to some hot free-throw shooting that saw the Plainsmen hit 24 of 25 attempts.

If that wasn't enough excitement for Michalka and Co., there was more of the same in store a few nights later. It took a desperation shot at the buzzer by Thomson and a 15-point outburst in the third overtime in three nights before MHS could knock off Plainview 64-53. The victory clinched the first-half title for MHS.

Entering the second half of action mitt 61-35 at the Hereford tournament, also back in November. But Monterey hasn't been blown out of the tub, either. The Plainsmen have lost their five games by a total of 14 points, or an average of just less than three points. The largest margins were to Permian in overtime and to Estacado (57-52).

Now, the Plainsmen are healthy and Michalka says MHS has the schedule on its side. So, Monterey should be the team to beat — again — for the title.

"We only have to travel to one game (Hereford, Feb. 8)," said Michalka. "So the schedule certainly favors us."

Cool Burns Absorbs Lesson, Wins Pro-Am Meet

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — There are nine categories in the new PGA Tour statistical service. "Assists," isn't among them. If it were, Ben Crenshaw would get one. "I have to give a lot of credit to my good friend Ben Crenshaw," George Burns said after scoring his first official individual victory Sunday in the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am. "Ben whetted my appetite. He showed me how to be more patient," said the oft-frustrated Burns, who had come so close so frequently before finally breaking through, shooting a final round 69 that gave him a one-stroke triumph. A victory with Crenshaw late last fall in the National Team championship "was a big stepping stone for me," said Burns, who has had numerous chances to win individual events before, and each time let them get away. "I'm my own worst enemy. I get aggravated, more than most, when I'm playing bad and I let it effect me. "In the team, Ben showed me how I looked at his easy mannerisms out there and I learned." Not winning previously, he said, "was a combination of things. I just wasn't ready to win." This one came almost as a surprise. "I looked at (Jack) Nicklaus and thought for sure it was his tournament. After that start of his, I tried not to look at the leaderboards and just concentrate on what I was doing," said Burns, who finished with a 280 total, eight shots under par on the 6,806 yard Pebble Beach Golf Links. What Nicklaus was doing was burning up the course. The mighty man, on a comeback from the worst season of his career, had three birdies and an eagle in the first six holes, was in the lead alone and appeared on his way to a rout. But his putting suddenly turned sour. He lost four strokes to par on the next three holes, then played the back nine in 38, finishing with a 73 and a 284 total. "It felt good to get in a position to win as I did on the first nine, but it was just as frustrating to throw it away," Nicklaus said. When he began falling back, the gates were opened for a host of challengers. Six men led or shared the lead at one time on the bright, sunny day. Sixteen were locked within three strokes at one time. Burns solved it with a 45-foot birdie putt from the shadow of a grove of trees around the 16th green. That put him ahead to stay. Dan Pohl, considered by his fellow pros as the longest hitter in the game, came from deep in the pack with a 30 on the back nine and claimed second at 281. He had a last-round 67, but — playing well in front of the leaders — said "I really wasn't in contention at any time." John Mahaffey, Keith Fergus, Bill Kratzert and Larry Nelson were at 282. Mahaffey had a closing 68, Fergus and Kratzert 70's and Nelson 72. Third round leader David Edwards slipped to a 75-283. Tom Watson shot 70-285.

Gervin, All-Stars Parade Skills

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — George Gervin had a good time, on and off the court. When the 6-foot-7 guard of the San Antonio Spurs came to Washington for the 30th annual National Basketball Association All-Star Game, he compared it with being on vacation. And, he didn't change his mind after scoring 34 points to lead the East to a 144-136 overtime victory over the West Sunday, a performance which earned him the game's most valuable player award. "It was a very competitive game and there was a lot of pride out there," Gervin said. "But I still had a good time." The two squads put on an entertaining show for the sellout crowd of 19,035 in Capital Centre and a national television audience, with the usual All-Star Game moves, passes and dunks ... and a general lack of defense. "It was my kind of game," said Gervin, who is going for his third consecutive NBA scoring title as the chief gunner of the Spurs. "What did we score — 144 points? It sounds like the Spurs ... no defense, all offense." "This game just goes to prove a point about giving 100 percent," said East coach Billy Cunningham, who noted that both teams bounced back from big deficits. The West moved in front 39-28 at the start of the second period after Dennis Johnson of the Seattle SuperSonics scored eight points during a 14-0 streak. But the East forged a 64-64 tie at half-time on the strength of a 15-6 spurt. Dan Roundfield of the Atlanta Hawks scored five points during the outburst, with Gervin and Elvin Hayes of the Washington Bullets adding four apiece. The East, allowed much more freedom on offense by Cunningham after intermission, outscored the West 44-27 in the third quarter and Gervin poured in 11 points during a 27-7 streak which made it 96-79. "In the first half, we tried to run three plays," said Cunningham, the coach of the Philadelphia 76ers. "It seemed to restrict the players. They weren't comfortable and they weren't fluid, so we just went to a passing game in the second half." Just as that strategy worked, so did a move by Coach Lenny Wilkens of the West when he used centers Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Los Angeles and Jack Sikma of his own Seattle team at the same time in the fourth period. "Jack came in and gave Kareem some help on the boards," Wilkens said, "and some of our other players got out to push the ball up the floor. Slowly, the 17-point deficit evaporated, and the West pulled even for the first time at 122 on one of the seven second half field goals by Paul Westphal of Phoenix. Boston rookie sensation Larry Bird hit two baskets — one a three-pointer — in the overtime session to help the East pull away. WEST (134) Dantley 27-42, M. NBA Requests Dallas' Advance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Will pro basketball return to Dallas next fall following a seven-year hiatus? The Dallas group seeking a National Basketball Association expansion franchise has been given 30 days to decide whether it's willing to meet new terms set forth by the league's Board of Governors Saturday at its annual midwinter meeting in conjunction with the NBA All-Star Game. Foremost among the changes is the requirement that the 24 partners in the group headed by Norm Sonju come up with half the $12 million entry fee as a down payment, instead of just $3.5 million. The Governors also made the remainder of the payment schedule more stringent and decided to let each existing team protect eight players from the expansion draft, instead of seven. If these terms are acceptable, the Dallas group will get the NBA's 23rd franchise and pro basketball will return to a city it left in 1973, when the Dallas Chaparrals of the old American Basketball Association moved to San Antonio. In another major development, the NBA Governors voted to accept a new three-year working agreement with the Players Association, which had been competing this season without a contract. The pact, approved by the Association's executive committee, was scheduled to be voted on today by the 22 player representatives. "I think this contract is a major step forward," said Paul Silas, president of the Players Association. "We are delighted that we have come to this conclusion." Under the agreement, the players would receive an increase in the minimum salary from the present level of $30,000 to an unannounced figure, as well as raises in per diem expenses and playoff money. And in 1981-82, the final year of the contract, the league agreed to raise the roster limit from 11 players to 12. In return, the players agreed to drop their demands for a share of the growing revenue from cable television, which had been a major point with the owners, and the elimination of no-trade clauses from contracts. In another labor development, Richie Phillips, legal counsel for the National Association of Basketball Referees, called on the league to return to three-man officiating teams for this spring's playoffs. He also said a return to the three-referee system, which was tested last year but dropped by the Board in a cost-cutting move, would be a major point in negotiations for a new contract to replace the one which expires this summer. "We will not sign a contract for the 1980-81 season without the three-referee system being brought back," he declared. "It could become a strike issue."

Paper Finds Payroll Scandal At Arizona

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Checks totaling about $6,000 were issued by the city in the names of three University of Arizona players and a player's wife who say they did no work for the city, the Arizona Star says. In a copyright story, the Star said Sunday the checks were issued in the names of tailback Larry Heater, running back Robert "Boot" Robertson, tackle Cleveland Crosby, former offensive guard Willie Tompkins, and Robertson's wife Stephanie, who at the time the checks were written was his fiancée. The newspaper said the checks were issued between September 1976 and August 1978. It said three players appeared to have been paid while under full scholarship at the university. Tompkins, Crosby and Robertson said they did no work for the city, and Robertson said neither did his wife, the Star reported. It said Heater couldn't be reached for comment. Some of the checks in Heater's name apparently were sent to the home of assistant football coach Karl Singer, who declined to comment, the Star said. The Star said Herb Reeves, a former city recreation official, said he hired the players and that they worked for the money. The paper reported that unidentified

McEnroe Romps To Net Crown

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — John McEnroe had eight match points and failed to convert one in last year's semifinals of the Richmond Tennis Classic against eventual champion Bjorn Borg. "I still have nightmares about last year," the 20-year-old McEnroe said Sunday after a 6-1, 6-2 romp over Roscoe Tanner in the championship match of the $175,000 15th annual tournament that earned him a $30,200 paycheck. "I had a few match points on Borg, so I was determined to come back this year and win," said McEnroe, who was seeded No. 1. A near-capacity crowd of 9,500 saw McEnroe take only 55 minutes to dispose of the hard-hitting Tanner in one of the few matches of the closing rounds that failed to last two hours or more. The 28-year-old Tanner, who collected $15,100, failed to get his first serve in with any regularity and McEnroe took advantage by coming to the net for easy volley winners time after time. "I made only one mistake today. I got up. Some days you don't like to remember. I hope I forget this one in 10 minutes," Tanner said of his first tournament this season. "Sometimes you have a tendency to let up in the second set, when you get ahead like that. But I thought I concentrated well throughout the match. He never got going," said McEnroe. There was an upset in the doubles final, won by the unranked team of American Fritz Buehning and South African Johan Kriek. Buehning and Kriek split $9,100 with a 3-6, 6-3, 7-6 (7-3) decision over the top-ranked team of South African Frew McMillan and American Brian Gottfried, who divided the $5,500 second-place money. The victory for the Germans was not without its tense moments as they fought off the high-flying Whittington brothers. The Whittingtons — defending world endurance champion Don, Bill and Dale — led the race several times and never fell below third place before a broken distributor shaft ended their effort nearly three-quarters of the way through the race. "There seemed to be no end to the last half hour of the race," Stormeinen said as he basked in the glow of his second victory in this race. "But everything going so well, I begin to think about what can go wrong. "I never wear my watch when I am racing, but in my last turn I took it with me and, in the last half hour, I was watching my watch more than the track." There was no need to worry as Stormeinen brought in the sleek white sports car 33 laps ahead of its nearest competitor, a Porsche driven by the American trio of Preston Henn, Al Holbert and

Attorney Claims Jones' Innocence

DALLAS (AP) — It's not enough that a 25-year-old nurse has dropped rape charges against boxer Ed "Too Tall" Jones — she also must stop saying the rape took place, says an attorney for the former defensive end for the Dallas Cowboys. "Nobody wants to harm this woman," said Dallas lawyer Fred Time. "But she keeps saying, 'I dropped charges, but he still raped me.' "The only way we would not do anything is if she comes out and says she was not raped. At this point, we will leave it up to her." However, Time refused to confirm a report that a libel suit is being considered against the woman. "That would be something that is up to Too Tall. He's the one making those decisions. You could go in and win a suit like that, but do you think that erases it from the public mind? "There will always be a question." Jones was arrested early Thursday after the woman told police he raped her in her apartment several hours earlier. Jones denied the accusation. He was released Thursday on $2,500 bond and late Friday, the woman signed a document saying she did not wish to press the charges. "It did happen," the woman said this weekend. "But I just want to forget the whole thing." Police investigators and county prosecutors had expressed reservations about the complaint. A source at Parkland Memorial Hospital said tests taken there indicated there was no evidence of rape. The woman also told police she had cleansed herself twice with a vinegar and water solution before calling officers. In the original complaint, she said she woke to find Jones on top of her in bed. The woman said she and her roommate had met Jones and a Dallas physician at a northside disco earlier in the evening. Time said he has "conclusive proof" that the incident did not occur and that proof would be released soon, probably Friday. "We have virtually wrapped up our case and have conclusive evidence that there was no rape," he said. "And next week, we'll be holding a press conference in which we'll be able to show everyone that Ed was innocent." "We have spoken to more than a dozen witnesses — all the evidence will be presented this week," he said. Time said the former National Football League star has been besieged with calls of support from all over the country. "I've talked to people that have called from Canada, Baltimore, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Dallas saying they are behind him," Time said of his 6-foot-9, 255-pound client. "And he wants to keep their faith."

Raider Officials Threaten To Make Oakland 'Pay'

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders, deeply bitter toward the city they have called home for 20 years, are in no mood to listen to a new offer to keep them from moving to Los Angeles, according to the team's executive assistant. "I can't imagine us expecting to do business with people who have no integrity and have lost their credibility with us and the community as well," Al LoCasale said Sunday. LoCasale, assistant to managing general partner Al Davis, was sharply critical of Oakland Coliseum president Jack Maltester, Coliseum general manager Bill Cunningham and Alameda County supervisor Joseph Bort, whom he accused of undermining an $8 million offer that was declared invalid on Friday. The offer, by Mayor Lionel Wilson and Cornell Maier, chairman of Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp., was designed to persuade Davis to sign a new lease with the Oakland Coliseum. It included a $4 million loan for construction of luxury boxes and a $2 million pledge from Kaiser. "It was a solid proposal by solid people who were working in the direction of a definitive proposal that warranted serious consideration," said LoCasale. "It got shot down by a lot of little people."

Miss Austin Wins Tennis Tourney

SEATTLE (AP) — Chris Evert Lloyd left early, Andrea Jaeger went back to school and Tracy Austin went home with the money. The 17-year-old Miss Austin, seeded second in a $150,000 women's professional tennis tournament, defeated Virginia Wade of England 6-2, 7-6 Sunday to take home the $30,000 first prize.

Griffith, Cards Dunk St. John's

NEW YORK (AP) — The St. John's basketball fans were waiting and ready for the Louisville Cardinals — right down to the thousands of bright, red signs that said: "We are ... St. John's."

The St. John's basketball team was waiting, too ... but obviously not ready.

"Our quality of play was a nightmare," said St. John's Coach Lou Carnesecca after watching his ninth-ranked team lose a 76-71 decision to the seventh-ranked Cardinals Sunday in a nationally televised game. "We did very little right. When we watch the films tomorrow, I know we'll be unhappy."

Carnesecca's players will no doubt kick themselves over the way they let Darrell Griffith and Wiley Brown slip through for a basketful of easy field goals.

As Griffith emphasized after scoring 23 points: "Our offense is designed to shoot layups. If we can't carry on this offense, we find ourselves sitting on the bench and holding Coach (Denny) Crum's hand."

The Cardinals accomplished all they set out to do, continually flying inside with the skyrocketing Griffith and the bullish Brown. That forceful pair helped Crum's team build a 17-point lead late in the game, then Louisville held off a St. John's comeback try.

"It took a while for us to get loose," said Griffith. "St. John's is one of the toughest teams we've played this year. I would rank them with Ohio State (a team the Cardinals beat by 10 points earlier this season)."

The loss stopped a 17-game St. John's winning streak — the second longest in the nation next to DePaul's 20 and the longest at the New York school in 50 years.

"A setback or two is not that important," stressed Carnesecca. "Hopefully, we learned something from this game."

The beginning of the contest was a sparing match, with both teams a bit uncertain. It wasn't until late in the first half that the Cardinals took charge behind Brown and moved into a seven-point lead at intermission, 32-25.

"In the first half, we were playing with nails in our shoes, like we were climbing mountains, and chasing mountain goats," said Carnesecca.

The second half was better for the Redmen, who first fell behind by 17 points before making a charge. Led by Reggie Carter, who scored 23 points overall, St. John's came back to within three points on two occasions. However, the Redmen finally ran out of gas, and appropriately, Griffith nailed down the Louisville victory with a field goal in the last few seconds.

The game was the only one involving ranked teams Sunday and followed a busy Saturday schedule during which four Top Twenty clubs were upset. Fifth-ranked Duke lost a 101-82 decision to Maryland, sixth-ranked Ohio State was beaten 70-67 by Wisconsin, 13th-ranked Virginia dropped a 79-77 decision to Wake Forest and No. 20 Kansas State lost 56-55 to Oklahoma.

Elsewhere, top-ranked DePaul defeated North Texas State 102-71; second-ranked Oregon State edged Southern Cal 73-72; No. 3 Kentucky turned back Tennessee 83-75; No. 4 Syracuse routed Providence 89-69; No. 8 Notre Dame crushed Davidson 105-71 and No. 10 Louisiana State took a 75-63 decision over Mississippi State.

Also, No. 11 North Carolina beat Furman 75-63; No. 14 Missouri downed Nebraska 73-60; No. 15 Weber State trimmed Boise State 79-73 in overtime; No. 16 Clemson nipped South Carolina 61-60 and 17th-ranked Purdue turned back 18th-ranked Indiana 56-51.

Greg Manning scored a career-high 26 points to lead Maryland's victory over Duke, one that Terrapin coach Lefty Driesell called "one of the best games a team of mine has ever played.

"They were just awesome hitting the open man and running the offense," said Driesell. "We shot 63 percent and the reason we did was because we passed the ball so superbly."

Claude Gregory's 23 points helped Wisconsin beat Ohio State. The defeat was the second to Wisconsin and the third in eight days for the bucking Buckeyes.

Alvis Rogers' jumper with one second left led Wake Forest over Virginia, spelling the Cavaliers' fourth ACC loss. Aaron Curry's field goal with three seconds remaining lifted Oklahoma over Kansas State.

Mark Aguirre's 29 points, eight assists and five blocked shots paced 19-0 DePaul over North Texas State. Ray Blume's 18 points led Oregon State past Southern California in a tense Pacific-10 contest.

Kyle Macy scored 22 points as Kentucky beat Tennessee, sending the spinning Volunteers down to their fifth straight Southeastern Conference defeat.

"Defensively, it was our best effort since December," said Kentucky coach

Miss Carner Storms To LPGA Victory

DEERFIELD BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The wrist is fine, says JoAnne Carner, and her golf game isn't in bad shape either.

Carner, sidelined about four months last year in what might have been her best season ever, declared her comeback complete Sunday by winning the $100,000 tournament at Deer Creek Country Club here to open the Ladies Professional Golf Association season.

"I worked hard during the off-season just to make sure my wrist was well and strong enough, just in case I had to hit against a root or something," said Carner, who picked up $15,000 for the victory.

Joe Hall, who hasn't been pleased about too much lately. "That's as hard as we've played."

Also, Steve Stipanovich's 17 points led Missouri over Nebraska; Weber State beat Boise State behind David Johnson's 25; Bobby Conrad's two free throws with eight seconds remaining led Clemson over South Carolina and Purdue beat Indiana as Arnette Hallman scored 16 points.

Raider Women Play Aggies

The Texas Tech women's basketball team will attempt to keep its perfect 10-0 Municipal Coliseum state intact when it meets the Texas A&M Lady Aggies directly preceding the men's A&M game tonight.

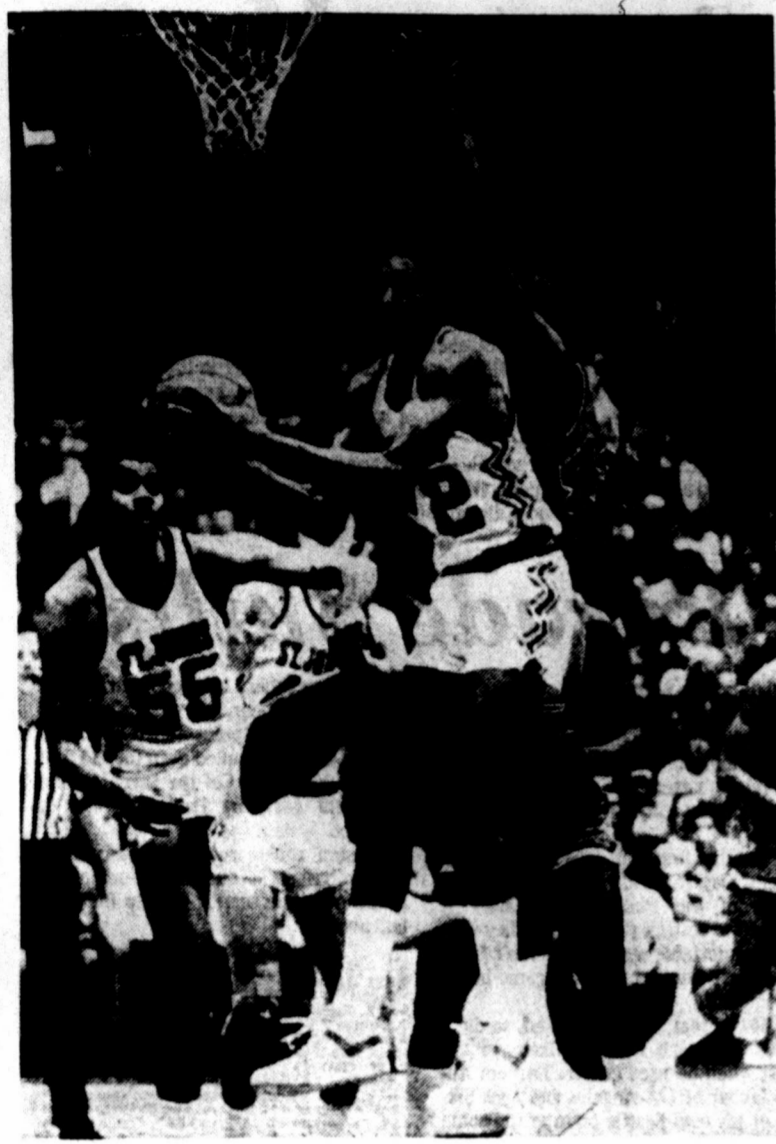

All men's game ticket-holders and Tech students students will be admitted to the game free and the contest is also being aired live on KTXF-FM radio.

The Runnin' Raiders will take a 19-6 record into the contest and a No. 3 ranking in the state. The Aggies, under new head coach Cheri Rapp, are 13-8 on the year and ranked fifth in the state.

Leading the Aggie attack is 6-1 senior Lori Foreman, who is averaging 15.6 points and 6.6 rebounds a game. Four other seniors round out the A&M starting crew. Peggy Pope is the Aggies' other high scorer, averaging 13.8 a game.

Tech will counter with guards Louise Davis, 5-9 senior, Vicki Lee, 5-6 freshman; forwards Gwen McCray, 5-8 freshman, and 5-10 sophomore Lynn Webb; and center Pam Stone, 6-1 freshman.

Miss Stone is the team's leading scorer and rebounder with respective figures of 14.4 and 9.9 per game. Miss McCray follows closely at 14.3 points and 8 rebounds per game.

REBOUND — St. John's Ron Plair (22) rips down a missed Louisville shot as the Cardinals' Derek Smith defends in nationally televised college game action Sunday. St. John's Wayne McKay (55) converges. Louisville won 76-71. The game pitted the nation's seventh-ranked team, Louisville, against the ninth-ranked Redmen, who had their 17-game victory streak snapped. (AP Laserphoto)

Money Only Necessity For Kennedy Campaign

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — As Maine and New Hampshire go, so goes Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Maybe. The challenger for the Democratic presidential nomination now says he is in the campaign to stay, no matter what happens in the upcoming New England tests.

They come in Maine's town-meeting style Democratic caucuses Sunday, and in New Hampshire's presidential primary election Feb. 26.

The morning after his landslide loss to President Carter in the Iowa precinct caucuses, Kennedy said he had to win those two contests. The implication was that if he did not, his candidacy would be over. But he did not say that.

All he said was "Yes" when he was asked whether he had to beat Carter in the two New England contests.

In fact, he couldn't have said anything else. To have claimed that two states in his own home region were not vital would have affronted his supporters and campaign workers there just when he needs them most.

Besides, nobody would have believed him.

One sure way to undo any presidential campaign is to talk about quitting it, under any circumstances. The point of no return has to be top secret, or the candidate is virtually certain to reach it.

Early in his 1972 presidential campaign, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie said he had to win big in the early primaries or he'd be dead as a candidate. He didn't, and he was, although he did not drop from the race until months later.

When a candidate loses, as Kennedy did in Iowa, the pressure mounts for him to set goals, to say this state or that state is the crucial one.

Kennedy already had done too much of that for the good of his own campaign. Outpolled in a pre-season straw vote in Florida, he said Iowa would be the first real test. Beaten there, he said New England victories were essential.

What really is essential is to keep the money coming. When it dries up, a campaign really is over. Kennedy has had problems in that department, but nothing a victory or two wouldn't cure.

In the competition for campaign dollars, it also is important that the candidate quash any suggestion that if he doesn't win next Tuesday, or the Tuesday after that, he'll no longer be a candidate. Set a specific contest as the make-or-break test, and the wavering donor will keep his checkbook in his pocket to await the return.

"I would certainly like to win the states of Maine and New Hampshire, but we're in this race and we'll continue," Kennedy said the other day.

In a way, Kennedy's early misfortunes could be an asset in the coming New England primaries — if he can beat Carter. Any margin will do in New Hampshire where, a year ago, the pre-campaign pollsters said he was preferred over Carter by a 2-1 margin. Now polls give Carter the edge.

In those altered circumstances, Kennedy doesn't face the soaring expectations that turned a victory into a psychological setback for Muskie of Maine eight years ago. Muskie beat Sen. George McGovern in New Hampshire, 46 percent to 37 percent. But his own people had forecast a runaway, and when Muskie didn't score one, the victory was tarnished.

The Carter line is that while it would be difficult to defeat Kennedy in his own neighborhood, the president hopes to gain more delegates than his challengers Feb. 26, whatever the New Hampshire outcome.

That's because Minnesota will begin choosing its 75 delegates in caucuses while New Hampshire is awarding its 19 nominating votes by primary election. And in Minnesota, the home field advantage belongs to Vice President Walter F. Mondale.

A week after New Hampshire, Kennedy's own Massachusetts holds its primary, with Vermont voting the same day. The Massachusetts vote is even more essential to Kennedy, and the presumption has to be that he'll win comfortably in the state that has elected him to the Senate four times.

Still, Kennedy hasn't faced a really formidable candidate in Massachusetts since his first Senate election, in 1962, when his brother was in the White House. He has some old political enemies waiting at home.

In Washington a week ago, Kennedy suggested that whatever happens in the month of New England primaries, he will keep up the challenge to President Carter in order to raise the issues dear to liberal Democrats.

"I intend to stay the course," he said. "I believe we must not permit the dream of social progress to be shattered by those whose promises have failed."

"And for all these commitments, I have only just begun to fight."

But for all those ringing words, the fact is that Kennedy is going to have to come out of New England a winner. A week after Massachusetts come the primaries in Carter's Georgia, and in neighboring Alabama and Florida.

Unless Kennedy succeeds in his own territory, his problems will go from serious to critical.

Big Spring To Be Site Of 'Hangar 18' Movie

BIG SPRING (UPI) — Leroy Tillery didn't invite a Utah-based movie company to this West Texas town, but he knew what to do once it arrived. "We laid out the red carpet for them," said Tillery, recently hired as executive vice president of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce. The story began a few weeks back when Chuck Sellier, executive producer of Schick-Sunn Classic Productions Inc. of Salt Lake City, drove through Big Spring en route to Harlingen, on a trip to inspect abandoned air bases. The veteran movie and television producer had virtually narrowed his choice to Harlingen or Las Cruces, N.M., as sites for a film tentatively titled "Hangar 18."

The film, about two American astronauts whose craft collides with a UFO, requires an abandoned air base because the script calls for the UFO to be taken to a hangar for secret inspection by NASA scientists. "We came here and it was just a fluke," said publicity man Rej Jackson. "One person said, 'I remember my cousin saying there was an air base at Big Spring.' We just didn't want to count it out."

What they found was Big Spring Industrial Park, which until its closure in September 1977 was Webb Air Force Base. "This air base was really quite spooky," Jackson said. "We were able to walk through buildings. The furniture was still in place. Names were still on the chalkboard. Chuck fell in love with it."

KIDS-ONLY CLUB Shari Describes Rainy-Day Game

By SHARI LEWIS
Tis the season to be cold and wet! Here's a rainy-day game that we used to play in school during lunch hour when I was a kid. First we would push our chairs into a circle. We'd tape pieces of paper with numbers on 'em (from one to however many kids there were), one number to each chair. The person in chair number one started the game by calling out his or her number, and then any other player's number, like this: "One calling three!" Number three then had to answer by identifying him or herself and then calling another number. "Three calling four!" for example. The game went on until someone made a mistake by answering out of turn, calling a wrong number, or not answering soon enough (only right away is soon enough!). The person who goofed moved to the chair with the highest number, and everyone seated between the goofed and that highest seat moved up one chair. Now everyone got a new number. The object of the game is to get to the number one chair, and stay there as long as possible. Even with TV and good books, being stuck indoors can get dull, so let me know if you have any terrific ideas for indoor fun. Not that this isn't a good game — but I've been playing it since I was a kid, and I'd like to do something new this winter! TODAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: Here's another funny brain twister sent in by J.J. Britting of McPherson, Kan.: What do you do if you have an injured lemon? (Look for the answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club column.) (Mail to Shari should be addressed to Kids-Only Club, in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1111, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.) (c) 1980, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

Mardi Gras Festivities To Resume This Year

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — It's Mardi Gras time, ladies and gentlemen. Two weeks of bawdy, noisy, gawdy, carnival in the streets. One long stream of color from St. Charles Avenue to Canal Street. Beginning Friday, unless "blue flu" returns. The city's oldest celebration, once thought to be as invidious as the Lenten season it introduces, was canceled last year because of a police strike. It was the first time this century, except during war, that it has been called off. It used to take world wars to cancel Mardi Gras, but the two-week strike by 1,300 officers in 1979 changed all the rules. Now, the natives are eager for the return of the two-week carnival season. The police union that instigated last year's strike voted last week to guarantee that the carnival — which starts Friday and climaxes on Fat Tuesday, Feb. 19, would go on as scheduled. "We made a commitment to the community that we will give them a carefree Mardi Gras to the best of our ability," said Peter L. Dale, union vice president. "The average policeman loves Mardi Gras. It's a part of New Orleans." Last year's strike ended in a face-off between the police union and Mayor Ernest Morial. Morial refused to bargain with the union and ordered all parades in New Orleans, including the traditional reign of Rex on Mardi Gras, canceled. Most New Orleans Carnival organizations, called "krewes," simply held private balls for their members.

'Fancy Free' Retains Old Charm

NEW YORK (AP) — The charm of Jerome Robbins' "Fancy Free," about three sailors on shore leave in New York, has not dimmed since the ballet's premiere in January 1944.

From then until last week, when the New York City Ballet put it in its repertoire, "Fancy Free" has been danced only by American Ballet Theater.

A change of company hasn't dimmed it either.

The all-American sailors, kidding around, chewing gum and flipping the wrappers, flexing their muscles, breaking into optimistic dances, now are Peter Martins, Jean-Pierre Frohlich and Bart Cook.

Martins, tall and with much longer blond hair than military regulation, was a little stiff as the ballet began but soon was moving with it. Cook has the slow, lyrical solo — showing off for a couple of girls — and Frohlich has the funny, almost goofy one. He didn't maintain a goofier persona than Cook throughout, however.

The two girls were Lourdes Lopez and a very impressive Stephanie Saland. After they saunter away, while the men fight over who should pair up with them, Florence Fitzgerald strolls by. They ignore her about as long as sailors on shore leave would ignore a pretty blonde. And the audience greets the curtain with laughter and applause.

Robbins, now a ballet master with the New York City Ballet, didn't appear for a bow and neither did Leonard Bernstein, who wrote the music. Oliver Smith's original set design was used. Robert Irving conducted the orchestra which sounded fine.

The performance was dedicated to the memory of John Kriza, one of the original sailors with Robbins and Harold Lang.

The evening in the New York State Theater began with "Le Tombeau de Couperin" and a Tchaikovsky "Pas de Deux" by a glowing Patricia McBride beautifully partnered by Helgi Tomasson. It ended with Suzanne Farrell and Martins triumphant in "Chaconne."

Refugees Building Computers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Eight years ago South Vietnamese Air Force Lt. Tuan Tran was scrambling for a helicopter to escape the triumphant Viet Cong. A year ago Lang Phun and Hoa Phung, hating life in Communist Vietnam, joined the exodus of the boat people.

Today all three, and hundreds of fellow boat people and Indochinese refugees, are building computer components

They reflect a happy coincidence that is helping solve two California economic problems at once.

—Finding jobs for the Vietnamese refugees who have chosen to live in California in disproportionate numbers.

—And filling a shortage of thousands of workers in the state's booming computer and electronic manufacturing industry.

Refugee-welfare workers and the electronics industry have discovered each other to mutual delight, sending hundreds of Southeast Asia refugees into the computer-building business.

"They are fine workers, very initiative-oriented, and will learn anything required of them," said Jerry Ringer of Cubic Corporation of San Diego. Cubic has four Vietnamese women and a Laotian man, three of them boat people who escaped Southeast Asia last year, on just one project.

"They're assembling a defense project, a training simulator system for missile recovery boat crews. Their supervisor says they are super good workers."

Among them are Mrs. Phon, 33, a former elementary school teacher who spent eight days in a boat that drifted to Thailand, and Miss Phung, 23, who was at sea for five days before reaching Malaysia.

"There was a 40 percent chance we would die in the boat," she said recently, "but we all felt the Communists were going to kill us for sure anyway."

Throughout the industry, supervisors and employers say the refugees seem unusually suited to the demanding nature of building computer and other electronic equipment. The work requires positioning and fixing very small components on circuit boards, each in its exact place, repeating the same steps over and over again for hours.

"They have manual dexterity, concentration and patience," said Barbara Bryan, job developer for the San Diego County Welfare Department.

"A lot of electronic companies have given up in frustration on caucasians who can't handle tiny pieces and can't sit still for 10 minutes."

"In two years our Indochinese Orientation and Employment group has completed training 61 of the 312 San Diego refugees who enrolled in basic electronic skills course, and all of them found and kept jobs," the welfare worker said.

"I would guess that just as many got jobs on their own, usually by enrolling themselves in one of the private training courses. The electronics industry in San Diego is expanding so steadily there is never any problem in finding these people jobs if they finish the training."

"The Vietnamese prefer to live in California and this industry is keeping them off welfare."

The boat people move into bottom level assembly jobs that pay about $7,500 to $10,000 a year. A number of the earlier arrivals have now worked their way to advanced positions.

Tran, 30, a former Air Force maintenance officer who is working on an electrical engineering degree at night, has been with Cubic for four years and is senior technician in the defense division. Senior technical jobs pay $12,000 to $18,000 a year.

"This is good work for us because it does not require much speaking English," Tran said. "Most Vietnamese have good educations in mathematics, and we have small hands for intricate work."

"This is easy work for us to do," said Miss Phung. "Vietnamese learn skill with the hands as children."

Robert Lewis, employment developer with the International Rescue Committee of Los Angeles, said he placed 75 Vietnamese in electronic technology jobs in just three months.

"The newsletter of the American Electronics Association ran a small piece that we have these people available and I got calls from the bay area."

There is a shortage of about 40,000 assemblers throughout the state, said Bob Connell, the association's public relations manager. It has grown steadily from about 10,000 less than two years ago.

Residents Offered Home Energy Audit

DETROIT (AP) — A free home energy audit is being offered to residents of single family homes and duplexes in this city to help save energy.

Detroiters are urged to reply to questionnaires that ask about such things as how many windows are on each side of the house, which direction the house front faces, attic exhaust fans, basements, shrubbery or trees shading the house and others. The information is fed into a computer and, within three to four weeks, a homeowner report is returned to the resident suggesting energy-saving steps to take.

Suggestions include such items as weather-stripping and caulking, estimates of what will be saved in both dollars and energy, and estimates of what the energy-saving steps will cost if the homeowner does his or her own work or if a licensed contractor does it.

KOKOSCHKA GRAPHICS
LOS ANGELES (AP) — An exhibition of the graphic works of Austrian-born artist Oskar Kokoschka is on view at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art through March 16. "Kokoschka at 94: Seventy Years of His Graphic Art" presents 130 prints, drawings, book and periodical illustrations and a tapestry from the artist's prolific career.
