Carter Halts Soviet Sales Technology Cuts, Partial Grain Embargo Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, retaliating Friday night for the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, announced a complete halt of shipments of U.S. high technology to the Soviet Union and a partial embargo on American grain sales.

"History teaches perhaps few clear lessons," Carter said in a nationally broadcast speech.

"But surely one such lesson learned by the world at great cost is that aggression unopposed becomes a contagious disease."

Carter refused to call for a boycott of the 1980 summer Olympic Games in Moscow, an option that had been widely discussed in recent days. However, he threatened such a boycott, saying, "continued aggressive actions will endanger both the participation of athletes and the travel to Moscow by spectators who would normally wish to attend the Olympic Games."

Carter said the United States would prefer not to see American athletes withdrawn from the games.

In a stern statement, the president announced these further sanctions against the Soviet Union:

—A delay in the opening of any new U.S. or Soviet consular facilities and deferral of most cultural and economic exchanges.

—Fishing privileges for Russian trawlers in American waters will be severely curtailed.

—The United States will supply military equipment, food and other assistance to Pakistan, a neighbor of Afghanistan to which some 400,000 Afghan refugees have fled.

"The response of the international community to the Soviet attempt to crush Afghanistan must match the gravity of the Soviet action," Carter said.

The president declared that Soviet dominance of Afghanistan threatens its neighbors in the Persian Gulf area and, ultimately, the security of the West.

"A Soviet-occupied Afghanistan threatens both Iran and Pakistan, and is a stepping stone to their possible control over much of the world's oil supplies," Carter said.

Administration officials said the United States would be willing to send economic and military aid to Iran if the American hostages held in Tehran are released.

An official said, "We do not rule anything out," when asked about military aid to the Afghan rebels. But the official refused to discuss the possibility further.

Carter warned that if the Soviets veto a U.N. Security Council resolution condemning the thrust into Afghanistan and demanding removal of the Soviet forces, "then an immediate action would be appropriate in the General Assembly of the United Nations, where no Soviet veto exists."

Historically, the Soviets have sought access to the Arabian Sea and Indian Ocean. In their path stand Iran and Pakistan.

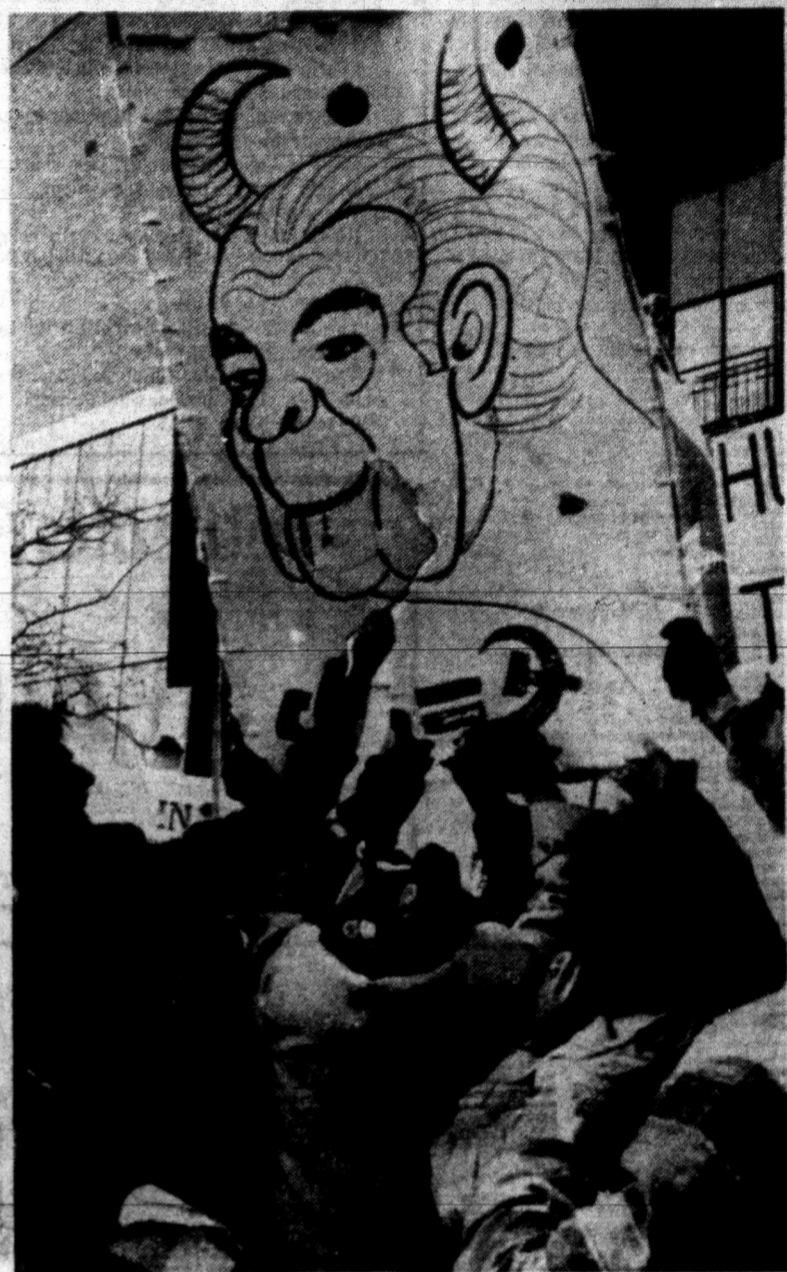

Strategic Importance
The area is of special strategic importance to the West because more than 60 percent of its oil supplies are shipped through the Straits of Hormuz, situated between Iran and the Arabian peninsula.

The cutback in grain shipments was calculated to affect only grain the Soviets intended for their livestock herds, not for human consumption.

A poor harvest last fall has strained Soviet storehouses and the need for imports is considered to be critical.

Under a five-year agreement with the Soviet Union, signed in 1975, the Soviet Union must buy a minimum of 6 million tons of grain a year. If it chooses, it may buy up to 8 million tons a year without any further U.S. approval. However, if more than 8 million tons is wanted, the

Heavy Resistance Seen To Soviet Paratroopers

By The Associated Press
FIVE THOUSAND Soviet paratroopers reportedly landed Friday in the snow-covered mountains of northeastern Afghanistan, where they were said to have encountered stiff resistance from Moslem Afghan rebels. Reports said some rebels there were "Chinese-backed."

Details about the military developments were sketchy, and some observers doubted the accuracy of the reports. Western reporters have been banned from the country, and the reports could not be confirmed independently.

In Moscow, the official Soviet news agency Tass blasted the Chinese as "active accomplices and allies" of the insurgents and accused the United States of preparing "massive arms deliveries" to the rebels.

China's Xinhua news agency said the Afghan capital of Kabul was another "blood-stained milestone along the path of aggression and expansion embarked upon by the Soviet social imperialists."

In New York, the United Nations Security Council scheduled debate on the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan for 10 a.m. CST today. The urgent meeting was requested by 43 countries including China and the United States. Soviet Ambassador Oleg Troyanovsky said council action would constitute "interference" in Afghanistan's "internal affairs," and the Afghan U.N. mission said the country's foreign minister was en route to New York to argue the same position.

Ambassador Abdul Hakim Tabibi, second in command of Afghanistan's U.N. mission, resigned Friday in protest of the Soviet intervention.

Information about military activity in Afghanistan was limited. Western reporters were forced out of the landlocked Central Asian country days after an estimated 35,000 to 45,000 Soviet troops poured into the country and the government was overthrown. The deposed leader, Hafizullah Amin, reportedly was executed.

The country's new prime minister, Babrak Karmal, sought to appease the rebels Friday, proclaiming his pro-Soviet government's "deep respect" for religion and promising a "new democratic constitution" soon. But the Afghan Islamic Party called the Soviet military action "an invasion against all" Moslem nations and called for "solidarity" among Moslem states.

An English-language newspaper carried to Amsterdam from Afghanistan said the new government also had declared a general amnesty for political prisoners. The Kabul New Times of Jan. 2 said the amnesty would be implemented

Anti-Khomeini Mobs Rampage In Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — In a sudden new explosion of political violence, anti-Khomeini mobs rampaged in the holy city of Qom and seized the government broadcasting center in restive Tabriz on Friday, the official media reported.

Tehran Radio said later that forces loyal to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini had retaken the broadcasting center.

The rioters in both cities were supporters of the powerful Moslem clergyman Ayatollah Mohammad Kazem Shariat-Madari, it was reported by the Iranian media and Western journalists who witnessed the disturbances.

Shariat-Madari has criticized the near-absolute power of supreme Iranian ruler Khomeini and was the symbolic leader of a major uprising last month among ethnic Azerbaijanis in Tabriz, in Iran's northwest. The movement that has rallied around him represents one of the most serious political challenges to Khomeini's control in Iran.

Tehran Radio said the broadcast station in Tabriz was stormed after a false rumor was spread there that Shariat-Madari's house in Qom had been attacked.

The official Pars news agency said the rioting in Qom, Khomeini's headquarters city 100 miles south of here, at one point swirled near his residence. The ayatollah was believed to be inside at the time.

Nine persons were reported seriously injured in Qom, where Khomeini's militiamen — the revolutionary guards — eventually dispersed the mobs. But there were no reports of casualties from Tabriz.

The Qom Moslem seminary, which closely reflects the Khomeini line, issued one of the harshest criticisms yet of Shariat-Madari, saying he could have headed off Friday's rioting but chose not to, and had given shelter to the "trouble-makers."

The seminary called on the people to demand from Ayatollah Shariat-Madari

WASHINGTON (AP) — A provision in a 1977 farm law, intended by Congress to help curb the use of embargoes on U.S. grain exports, does not apply under President Carter's decision to curtail shipments to the Soviet Union, an Agriculture Department official said Friday.

The section of the law, if followed to the letter, would mean sharp increases in the federal government's price guarantees to farmers.

But Thomas R. Sand, an aide to Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, said the provision in the Food and Agriculture Act is based on whether there is a shortage of wheat, corn, soybeans and other commodities in the United States.

"There is no shortage," Sand told a reporter. "Every knowledgeable person we've checked with says that part of the law would not apply if an embargo is ordered."

The part of the law in question states, in part, that if the president "or any other member of the Executive Branch ... causes to be suspended, based upon a determination of short supply, the commercial export sales of any commodity" the government would have to raise its price supports to protect American farmers.

Specifically, the law states that if an export embargo is ordered to conserve short supplies of U.S. farm products the government's price support rates would have to be boosted to 90 percent of parity.

The parity formula would — at 100 percent — give farmers the same buying power they had in 1910-14.

The present parity price of wheat is $6.16 a bushel. Thus, if the support were raised to 90 percent it would be a guarantee of $5.54 a bushel.

The government's support for wheat from the 1979 crop is now $2.35 a bushel. That is how much farmers can borrow from the government by using their grain as collateral.

The market price of wheat at the farm in mid-December, according to the Agriculture Department, was $3.82 a bushel. Therefore, at the 90 percent support rate, farmers would be guaranteed $1.72 a bushel more than the grain has been selling for lately.

According to the law, the higher support rate would take effect "on the day the suspension is initiated" and would remain in effect as long as the embargo is in place.

One effect, because of the guaranteed price, would be to drive up the market

Ruling Opposes City In Utility Dispute

By KAY BELL and SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

STUNNED CITY officials said Friday they will consider an appeal of a court ruling requiring Lubbock Power & Light to seek Public Utilities Commission approval before it can service newly annexed land already served by another retail public utility.

That decision first was rendered in August 1978 by 140th District Court Judge William R. Shaver after a lengthy court battle concerning whether LP&L could offer retail electric service to about 960 acres of land annexed by the city in 1977.

Shaver's ruling was unanimously upheld this week by the Seventh Court of Civil Appeals in Amarillo.

City Attorney John Ross said he has not seen a copy of the court's opinion, but said the document will be examined to determine whether the city has grounds to appeal the decision to the Texas Supreme Court.

"That's really amazing," Ross said. "I didn't think that's what they'd do." Assistant City Manager Jim Blagg said he was disappointed by the court's decision, but predicted "the city eventually will get the right to serve any areas inside the city."

"That's the only logical solution," he said.

All of the issues which need to be resolved were not addressed in the Court of Civil Appeals decision, Blagg said.

Those issues are included in the

Med School, Hospital Besieged By Problems

By KIM COBB
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A LOT OF PEOPLE breathed a sigh of relief when area planners finally got legislative and voter approval for Texas Tech's medical school and the county's teaching hospital.

But more than 10 years later, it's now clear that the worst was yet to come.

It's been an uphill struggle for both the hospital and medical school, caught in the backlash of what one health industry spokesman has called the "breathless rush to bigness and complexity of the '60s and '70s."

The medical complex wasn't built until the '70s, and it has taken most of the decade for the medical school to become a viable institution. Health Sciences Center Hospital, on the other hand, still faces problems severe enough to threaten the survival of the hospital and the effectiveness of its teaching program.

Texas Tech officials were eyeing the prospect of a medical school long before the institution received legislative approval in 1969. Talk of building the school surfaced as far back as 1949, when Tech president Dossie M. Wiggins got a late night call from an Austin official asking if Tech would be interested in having a medical school.

Remorseful Thief Sends Cash, Asks Merchant's Forgiveness

A LUBBOCK thief apparently included among his new year's resolutions a vow to make restitution for a past crime. He surprised a businesswoman this week by paying her for some stolen merchandise.

Mrs. Winston Reeves, owner of Reeves Photography and Camera Store, said she received an unsigned letter and $30 in cash along with a typewritten message which read:

"This is to pay you for something I took from your store one time. I am truly sorry. Please forgive me."

According to Mrs. Reeves, the letter was postmarked Dec. 31, but there was no indication who the sender was or what had been stolen.

"I was really shocked," she said. "We've been in business here 42 years, and as far as I can remember this is the only time we've had this happen."

Mrs. Reeves said she had no idea what the individual stole. "I feel sure it was merchandise, though, because I don't recall the cash register ever being that short," she said.

The camera store at 1719 Broadway has never had much of a shoplifting problem, Mrs. Reeves said, although it has been burglarized five times in the past six years.

Mrs. Reeves said she's sure that writing the letter and sending the money made the individual involved feel better.

"It makes me feel real good, too," the store owner said. "It's not because of the money, but because someone had a change of heart."

Officials Say Afghan Invasion Bears Mark Of New Generation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senior U.S. and allied officials believe the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan bears the marks of a new generation of Kremlin leaders, more adventurous and assertive than the ill and aging Leonid Brezhnev.

The view is not unanimous within the American intelligence community but it is shared by the highest levels of the American government.

Its adherents believe the Soviet actions require a firm American response to persuade the Soviets they miscalculated, otherwise "there will be a series of Afghanistans," according to one official.

The officials theorize the Afghan invasion was the first move of a transitional leadership in the Kremlin, and that the United States will have to deal more and more with the men who pushed the invasion.

The evidence for the theory is mainly based on deduction and scraps of information, rather than any internal documents.

According to the available evidence, President Leonid Brezhnev was operating normally on Dec. 19, when he met a delegation from Angola at Moscow's airport, but his foreign minister, Andrei Gromyko, announced the next day that Brezhnev, who was to have attended a dinner for the Angolans, was suffering from a "catarrhal indisposition."

Brezhnev has not been seen in public since then, and it is believed that he did not take an active, detailed part in the final decisions on the Afghan invasion, which occurred Dec. 27.

Earlier, the other top-ranking member of the ruling 15-member Politburo, Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, was disabled by a heart ailment and has not taken an active day-to-day role in recent political decisions.

One U.S. analyst says, "It is adolcent to believe that there are hard-liners and soft-liners within the Politburo. They all generally agree on the same hard-line goal, although some of the members — those with ideological and KGB backgrounds — want a more direct approach to reach those goals." The U.S. analysis puts forward the theory the "directliners" prevailed over the more cautious, aging leadership in the case of Afghanistan and argued in the Politburo that Soviet national interests required direct, immediate action to prevent the disappearance of a socialist government in Kabul.

One senior U.S. official says, "The Soviets with military and police backgrounds tend to weigh every action in terms of Soviet national security, while minimizing the consequences that might be suffered."

The official adds, "It appears that they carried the day, although the final decision was a collective one."

The U.S. officials are unable to identify the specific members of the Politburo inner group which pushed for immediate and massive Soviet military intervention but they speculate it probably included

Mikhail Suslov, secretary and ideologue of the Communist Party; Yuri Andropov, head of the KGB, and Minister of Defense Dmitry Ustinov.

'Pen' Pal Seeks Female For Marriage

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Marriage may be a paying proposition but it appears there are some disadvantages.

This advertisement appeared Jan. 1 in the Willamette Week newspaper: "I will pay $ for any avail female willing to marry me. No sex. Box 40069, 2605 State St. Salem, Ore. 97310."

Women replying may be surprised to learn the address is that of an inmate at Oregon State Penitentiary.

Michael Archie Easton, 27, said Thursday he would offer up to $250 and a three-year contract including payment of all costs for a non-contested divorce at the end of three years.

He said he is a full-time student in college classes offered inside the prison and the Veterans Administration will pay him $59 a month extra for three years if he is married.

That comes to $2,124.

The prison school confirmed his full-time status. Inmates are charged no fees for education at the prison.

The U.S. Veterans Administration director in Portland said full-time students, in or out of prison, who are single are paid $311 a month. Married students receive $370.

Price Of Gold Seesaws; Dollar Loses Ground

By WILLIAM GLASGALL
NEW YORK (AP) — The price of gold seesawed wildly around the $600 level Friday on waves of nervous buying and selling here and abroad. Other precious metals prices also gyrated as the dollar lost ground in late New York trading.

With conditions in Afghanistan and Iran remaining unsettled, one London trader called trading "fairly chaotic" as gold markets receded from Thursday's closing price of $635 a troy ounce in Zurich.

In New York, an analyst said "there was strong buying and occasional selling from Switzerland," where Middle Eastern orders often are placed.

As the trading day opened in Hong Kong, gold slipped to $609.42 an ounce, about $4 below the previous day's late rate. The fall accelerated on European markets, with bullion closing off $50 at $585 in Zurich. In London, meanwhile, gold dropped $34.50 to $595.50.

"There were still loads of buyers, but rather more sellers in what was basically a weekend liquidation," said a London dealer.

Dealers attributed the overseas plunge to rumors there would be a huge U.S. Treasury gold auction in the near future. Treasury officials in Washington declined comment on the reports.

Buyers took over when trading opened in New York, with gold for January delivery — the so-called "spot" contract — shooting as high as $621 an ounce on the Commodity Exchange Inc. before settling back to $590 in late trading. Gold closed at $625 on the Comex Thursday.

When Comex trading ended Friday January gold stood at $603.60, down $21.40.

And at the Republic National Bank gold closed at $600, down $21 from Thursday.

Among other spot prices, silver dropped as low as $31.60 an ounce on the Comex before closing off $1 from Thursday at $36.10, while platinum moved as high as $780 and as low as $720 an ounce on the New York Mercantile Exchange before closing off $30.90 at $767.30.

Silver, a major component of photographic film, was selling for about $6 at the beginning of 1979. On Friday, GAF Corp. said it has stopped taking new orders for X-ray and industrial films until it posts new prices next week.

Eastman Kodak Co., which uses 56 million ounces of silver a year in the manufacture of film and photo paper, later announced price increases in X-ray films that it said averaged more than 40 percent, it cited silver prices as the reason for the third increase in the last four months.

The gained in European trading but faded later in the day in New York.

Late rates in New York included 1.7110 West German marks, down from 1.7119 Thursday; 4.0190 French francs, down from 4.0220; 1.5730 Swiss francs, down from 1.5732; 234.10 yen, down from 238.80; and $1.1674 Canadian, down from $1.1695. The British pound cost $2.2410 compared to $2.2350 Thursday.

Late dollar rates on foreign exchange markets included: Frankfurt, 1.7140 West German marks, up from 1.7110 Thursday; Zurich, 1.58 Swiss francs, up from 1.5720; Paris, 4.0220 French francs, up from 4.0047; Amsterdam, 1.8960 Dutch guilders, up from 1.8880; Milan, 804 Italian lire, up from 799.65; and Tokyo, 237.45 Japanese yen, down from 239.85 on Monday, the last session before a holiday break.

The British pound fell to $2.2375 in London from $2.2435.

Tech To Announce New Contraceptive

Details on a new contraceptive, co-developed by a Texas Tech University medical school professor, are expected to be announced Monday in Lubbock.

The device, described as a collagen sponge, could be on the market within one to two years and at a cost comparable to that of oral contraceptives, researchers say.

Dr. Wayne Heine, chairman of obstetrics and gynecology at Tech's Health Sciences Center in Lubbock, collaborated with a professor at the University of Arizona College of Medicine to develop the device.

The internally worn device, made of a fibrous protein substance, prevents penetration of sperm, doctors say.

Previous testing of the collagen sponge was done in Arizona with sterilized volunteers. Heine is seeking local fertile volunteers for Lubbock-based clinical testing. The local volunteers will assist in evaluation of design and possible suggestions for redesign, Heine said.

Nigerian Oil Corporation Denies Price Boost To $35 Barrel

By The Associated Press
The managing director of the Nigerian National Petroleum Corp. denied Friday that Nigeria is boosting the price of its crude oil to nearly $35 a barrel, a move Libya already is reported to have taken.

But a U.S. oil company source, who asked not to be identified, said he is "extremely skeptical" of the denial.

In a report carried in Lagos by the News Agency of Nigeria, the oil company's managing director, Festus Marinho, reiterated his country — the second-largest overseas supplier of oil to the United States behind Saudi Arabia — has increased the price of its crude to only $30 from its former $26.27-a-barrel level.

But since the government oil company recently named a new chairman, A.K. Hart, "I don't know how much authority Marinho is speaking with," said the U.S. source.

"I hope he's right," said the source of Marinho, "but I can't see Nigeria sitting there like that."

Libya last week reportedly raised its $30-a-barrel price to $34.72. Its moves usually are followed by Nigeria and Algeria, which last month raised prices along with Libya from $26.27 to $30.

Nigeria supplies about 1.1 million barrels of oil a day to the United States, roughly 6 percent of U.S. oil needs. Oil company analysts have estimated that an approximately $5-a-barrel price increase by Libya, Algeria and Nigeria would boost U.S. gasoline and heating oil prices by as much as a nickel a gallon.

Further confirmation of Iran's new oil price structure came Friday from Tokyo, where government officials said a group of 12 Japanese trading and oil companies agreed with the Iranians on a $30-a-barrel level.

The price is $1.50 a barrel above the price Iran posted last month and is $6.50 above its November price. Saudi Arabian crude oil of a like grade sells for $24 a barrel but reportedly may rise to $26 next month.

Guerrillas Report To Camps By Hundreds As Deadline Nears

By The Associated Press
DELTA ONE RENDEZVOUS POINT, Rhodesia (AP) — Nearly 5,000 heavily armed insurgents tramped into camps like this one Friday and more were streaming in after a midnight deadline for Patriotic Front guerrillas forces to report to cease-fire points under the truce in the Rhodesian war.
 An informed Commonwealth source said the British, who masterminded the truce in the seven-year war, view the guerrilla turnout as a "remarkable achievement." In the British view, according to this source, "the mechanics of disengagement and assembly have gone well." He refused to be identified.

Observers said it seemed unlikely any operations would be launched following the deadline against guerrillas who haven't reported in, unless the insurgents cause trouble.
 As the truce entered its eighth day, Saturday, more than 12,000 guerrillas were reported in the camps, said Allan Percival, spokesman for the British monitoring force. The gates of the camps were to be kept open until 5 a.m. Saturday.
 The British estimated there were 15,000 guerrillas in the country, but the Rhodesian army, the party most likely to complain about a low turnout of guerrillas, had put the figure at only about 12,000.

At this camp 100 miles east of the Rhodesian capital of Salisbury, one of the guerrilla officers, "Comrade Marcos," was still concerned.
 Glancing at dozens of fellow guerrillas dozing under mango trees in the sweltering African heat, he asked the question that was on everyone's mind: "There are many more in the bush who haven't had time to get here. What happens to them?"

 Insurgents not reporting by midnight risked being branded as criminals. Rhodesia's new British governor, Lord Soames, has the power to order them hunted down.
 But the British mood remained optimistic Friday night, and the showing here supported their predictions of an 11th-hour flood of guerrillas.

"We've had to send for more buses," said a sun-burned corporal, a member of the British-led Commonwealth truce force.
 On Friday afternoon, three buses carrying 130 guerrillas of the Zimbabwe

African National Union (ZANU) arrived at this camp in the hilly countryside. In the surrounding mud hut villages, more than 150 guerrillas wearing Chinese-made uniforms lay-dozing and chatting in clusters of four or five, their weapons at their sides.

YOUR PERMANENT NUMBERS

Step 1 — Year of birth. Read down the left hand column to find the last number in the year of your birth then go across to the appropriate decade. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

Congressional Action May Generate Loan Funds In Lubbock

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Congressional action lifting Texas' mortgage interest ceiling may generate conventional loan funds in Lubbock, but some lenders doubt buyers are willing to pay the 13 percent interest rate to get the loans.

Following a meeting with about 100 real estate agents and builders Friday,

First Federal Savings & Loan President Bob Edwards said that association will begin seeking the expensive funds.

Those funds should be available almost immediately, Edwards said, but the interest on the loans will have to be 12 3/4 or 13 percent because of the cost to the association of securing the funds in the secondary money market.

The decision to seek the conventional loan funds, which now are virtually nonexistent, came after the real estate agents and builders were asked whether prospective home buyers in Lubbock would pay 13 percent interest on a mortgage loan.

"Yes," said Bill Stinson, president of the Lubbock Board of Realtors.

However, he said the public must be educated that neither interest rates nor the prices of homes will decrease.

"We need to educate the public that this is it," he said. "If they want to buy a home, they ought to buy now."

Cecil Jennings, president of the West Texas Home Builders Association agreed: "We won't have any trouble. Homes here are better and cost less than anywhere."

In California and Florida, where there has been no lid on interest rates, "there are still lines of people waiting to buy," Jennings said.

But some Lubbock lenders said it may take longer than the 90 days the interest ceiling will be lifted for Texans to become accustomed to 13 percent interest.

J.W. Tuttle, manager of the real estate department at First National Bank, said that institution has had money available at 12 3/4 percent for more than a month, but has had few takers.

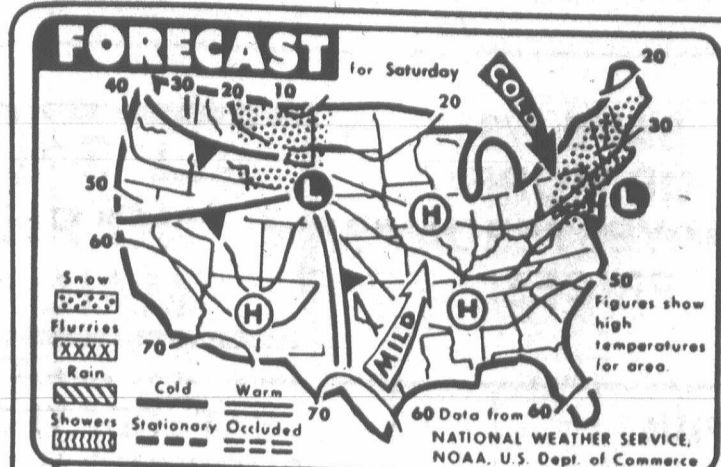

Because the institution is a national bank, Tuttle said, it has been able to charge interest higher than the state ceiling.

"Not one builder has been able to take advantage of the 12 3/4 percent funds," Tuttle said, although a few loans have been made to individuals.

Daryl Jones, president of Briercroft Savings & Loan, said he's unconvinced home buyers will pay the higher interest rates and said the 90-day suspension of the interest ceiling is inadequate to have a significant effect on the Lubbock housing market.

"We had some resistance to 12 percent," he said. "Some people wouldn't even pay that."

During the 90 days "there will be a

Fair Skies, High Temperatures Predicted For Weekend

Fair skies and warmer afternoons with high temperatures in the 60s should make the first weekend of the New Year worth remembering for residents of the South Plains.

National Weather Service forecasters are calling for mild weather for the entire weekend, with highs today in the lower 60s and in the mid-60s Sunday.

Low temperatures tonight are expected to be in the lower 30s.

The extended outlook for Lubbock and the South Plains is for partly cloudy skies with cooler temperatures Monday through Wednesday, with lows to dip into the teens at night.

High temperatures should range from the high 40s in the Panhandle to the 60s in the southernmost regions of the South Plains next week.

Friday's high in Lubbock was 56 degrees. The low for the 24-hour period ending at midnight Friday was a 27-degree reading at 7 and 8 a.m.

Skies across much of the state were fair Friday, but cloudy skies lingered along the Red River in extreme North and Northwest Texas.

Snow fell over much of the Northeast on Friday with up to inches predicted in the nation's capital by early today.

Snow and rain ranged eastward from Iowa, with snow falling through the Ohio Valley across the Carolinas to the Atlantic Coast. Snow also fell over the northern Plains and through the Great Lakes area.

Highs on Friday ranged from 15 degrees at Minot, N.D., to 78 at Miami and Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

In the West, fog closed airports in Nevada, shutting down Reno's Canyon International Airport for the fourth night in a row.

More snow was predicted today across much of the northeastern quarter of the nation with the heaviest snow concentrated from the lower Great Lakes to the Atlantic Coast.

Rain was expected along the Pacific Northwest coast, turning to snow in the Cascades and northern Rockies.

Old-Fashion Whippings Ordered As Punishment

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — When the judge gave two teen-agers the option of jail or a whipping, the youths chose to take their licks. One of them got his right in the courtroom — administered by his grandmother with a belt borrowed from a lawyer.

"The boy bent over and the grandmother whipped him. She burned him up, too. She did," said deputy clerk Karen Bennett of the events in the Wayne County District courtroom Thursday.

She was referring to 16-year-old Ricky Artis of Pikeville, who had pleaded guilty to resisting arrest.

The other youth, 17-year-old Buddy Lane Lytton of Dudley, was sent home with a promise from his parents that he would receive his spanking at home. He had pleaded guilty to misdemeanor larceny.

The old-fashioned punishment was ordered by District Judge Ben Allen of Goldsboro for the first time.

Allen offered the paddling as an alternative to five days in jail to both youths, and both responded that they would take the whipping, Miss Bennett said.

Artis' grandmother spanked him about a dozen times, courtroom witnesses said.

"The judge finally told her that was enough," Miss Bennett said. "It looked pretty effective to me."

Claude Ferguson, the assistant district attorney who prosecuted the case, said it was the first time he had ever seen a spanking sentence applied by a judge, or administered in court.

He said people in the courtroom seemed surprised, and Allen had to repeat his request for a belt before one of the lawyers offered his.

"For some reason he just came up with the idea," Ferguson said. "I guess he thought it was a good idea."

Artis had been charged with resisting arrest when an officer attempted to detain him in a case involving the throwing of fireworks, but no other charge was filed, Miss Bennett said.

Lytton's charge stemmed from the theft of $20.50 worth of gasoline from Grady's Grocery in Dudley, she said.

Both waived their rights to attorneys and entered pleas, she said.

Lytton was also given a five-day suspended jail sentence. Artis was ordered to pay $27 court costs, the deputy clerk said.

Absentee Voting Increases Slightly

Absentee voting increased slightly Friday for the Jan. 19 special election to determine if local fire fighters should get a 15 percent pay hike and collective bargaining rights.

As of late Friday afternoon, a total of 48 absentee ballots had been cast in the City Secretary's Office at City Hall. Eighteen of the votes were cast on Friday — about twice as many ballots as have been received on any other day since absentee voting started Dec. 25.

The majority of those voting absentee have indicated they will be out-of-town on election day. City Secretary Evelyn Gaffga said.

According to Mrs. Gaffga, the absentee voting polls will remain open through 5 p.m. Jan. 15. Absentee ballots can be received through the mail until 1 p.m. Jan. 19.

Off-farm income of farm families is expected to exceed last year's record $34 billion and will contribute more than half of their total income.

Self-Proclaimed 'Treeologist'

Explains Accurate Forecast

IRVINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — L.H. "Dick" Frymire, a self-proclaimed "treeologist" who predicts the weather with a thermometer set in a tree, stood in four inches of snow Friday explaining his accurate snow forecast issued four months ago.

Frymire, a 55-year-old oil distributor and former member of the Kentucky Railroad Commission, correctly predicted Sept. 1 there would be six inches of snow on Friday.

"I mentioned for Jan. 4 there could be four inches of snow and sleet. We've got that right now on the ground here in Irvington, Kentucky," Frymire said.

His forecast actually was better than he anticipated because he issues his forecast with the warning that "this forecast is give or take two days."

Frymire, who was kept busy Friday explaining his technique to local visitors and callers from around the nation, developed his forecast by comparing the outdoor air temperature last August to the temperature in the heart of a 30-foot Japanese maple planted by his father-in-law in 1928.

Using a 12-inch thermometer set in the heart of the maple, Frymire said he can tell "the temperature of the heart of the tree and the temperature of the outside of the tree. After I do that I have my own formula that helps me predict the snowfall."

"I don't divulge the formula to anyone," he said. "I'm not going to do that."

His short-term technique for predicting rainfall — a measure he can convert to snowfall in the winter — is less complicated.

"I have a quart jar and I fill it up with water and then put a Coke bottle upside down and this is a barometer," Frymire said. "When the water fluctuates up and down it will tell me when it's going to rain. I have a Coke bottle with a forked stick that tells how much rain."

Frymire's forecast for the remainder of the winter wasn't encouraging: five inches of snow next Thursday; sleet on Jan. 14; three inches of snow on the 16th; minus-14 degree weather on the 18th; seven inches of snow on the 21st; four inches on the 24th and two inches on both the 27th and 31st.

For February Frymire predicted 1 1/2 inches of snow on the 4th, 3 1/2 inches on the 11th, flurries on the 16th and three inches on the 21st. For March: One inch of snow on the 6th, the appearance of the first robin on the 9th, flurries on the 18th and 77-degree weather on the 30th.

College Student Kills Professor When Told Of Failing Course

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A college professor was shot to death Friday by a student who was upset after being told he failed a course and would have to take it over again, police said.

The professor, Ira Holland, 65, of St. Augustine, was shot once in the heart at his office at Edward Waters College, police spokesman Mike Gould said. A suspect, whom police did not identify, was still at large, Gould said.

A witness, Thomasena Bradford, 28, told officers the student and Holland were "discussing the matter about the grade very calmly."

"The student asked why he received a 'W' for a final grade," Gould said. "Holland replied, 'Maybe it was a typing error or maybe you didn't complete all the class requirements.'"

Holland, who taught education and philosophy for nine years at the small, private school, assured the student the problem would be corrected if he completed all the class requirements, Gould said.

"Then the suspect told Holland he didn't have time to come back and take the class over. The suspect then apparently pulled a gun and shot the victim," said Gould.

Miss Bradford told police she turned from her desk when she heard the shot, saw Holland clutching his chest and heard him ask for help.

Trust Fund To Help Accident Victim

SEMINOLE (Special) — A trust fund to help defray medical costs for Debra Modelle Langley, 20, of Seminole has been set up at the First National Bank here.

Mrs. Langley was injured Dec. 13 when the pickup truck in which she was riding rolled over near Welch. She was in satisfactory condition Friday at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock, but is paralyzed from the chest down.

The pickup truck, driven by her husband, Larry Gene Langley, hit a slick spot in the road and rolled over three times. Mrs. Langley was thrown from the truck.

Mrs. Langley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Taylor of Seminole.

when the shooting occurred around 12:15 p.m. CST said she was working in the dean's office when "we heard the shot. The only thing I saw was this guy running," said the woman.

for fear she, too, would be shot and killed.

"It was somebody who failed him," detective Greg Clayton said. "It was over grades."

A student, James Waldon, described Holland as "very systematic, very methodical and very orderly. He always kept a pretty cheerful outlook on life. He was optimistic. He never lost his temper."

FIND STRENGTH FOR YOUR LIFE — ATTEND CHURCH

TOO CLOSE FOR COMFORT

Here's a photograph taken from a kayak. You don't bring a ship this close to an iceberg! For underwater the tentacles of this cruel, cold monster may reach out a mile or more.

Life for some folks is a succession of narrow escapes. But these are adventures we can do without. They don't prove us bold sailors. They simply prove us poor navigators.

Frightened men sometimes turn to religion as a refuge when dangers — moral, spiritual and physical — loom too close for comfort. God does not fail us in crisis.

But the every-day function of faith is to pilot men on a true course through the sea of life. The Church cannot sweep away icebergs. It warns us of their whereabouts and helps us give them a wide berth.

Soviet Tanks Seal Off Access Routes

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Soviet tanks have moved close to the Iranian border with southwestern Afghanistan in an attempt to block all routes of access for Iran-based Moslem guerrillas and escape for refugees, an Afghan rebel spokesman claimed Friday.

Sayed Ishaq Diljou, spokesman for the Jamiat Islami Afghanistan, told UPI the tanks were sighted Thursday "within a few miles of the Iranian frontier."

The sighting was made by the Jamiat Islami guerrillas "Directly southwest" of the Afghan city of Herat, where intense fighting was reported after the Christmas Day military move by Soviet tanks and troops, Diljou said.

Other Afghan guerrilla sources in Qom, religious headquarters of the Iranian Shiite leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, said "strong resistance is being put up by our remaining elements in Herat."

They said a guerrilla party had sighted Soviet tanks at Chah Kharga, near the Iranian border, and at Islam Qaleh, an abandoned customs post.

Russian troops had hauled up the Soviet flag at several southwestern areas "cleared" of the Moslem rebels, they said.

Iranian officials were not available to comment on the reports.

The Moslem guerrilla movement, divided into several groups, has been led by Shiite and Sunni Moslem clergymen from Iran and Pakistan.

Diljou said the Jamiat Islami had sent teams of its officials to the border area to monitor the flight of innocent Moslems hounded by godless Afghans and the Russian military.

He said several hundred Afghans, including entire families, fled to Iran during the past week of Soviet military activity.

"But if the border is sealed, the fate of our people on the side of the border will be sealed," he said.

Soviets, U. S. Agree To Honor SALT II

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite the tension resulting from the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, the United States and the Soviet Union have agreed to act as if the deferred SALT II Treaty were already in force, the State Department said Friday.

President Carter pulled the arms limitation treaty back from the Senate ratification process Thursday "because of the atmosphere created by the Soviet action in Afghanistan."

In a written response to reporters' questions Friday, the State Department said, "We ... expect that both the United States and the Soviet Union will refrain from acts which would defeat the object and purpose of the SALT II treaty before it is ratified and enters into force."

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter told reporters, "I am sorry if you have already written stories about the demise of SALT, but it is just not true."

The department said the United States and the Soviet Union "share the view that under international law a state should refrain from taking actions which would defeat the object and purpose of a treaty it has signed subject to ratification."

Spokesman Carter said the United States discussed continuation of the observance of SALT provisions with the Soviets before Thursday's announcement by the White House. He did not say where the discussions were held or who participated from the two sides.

The treaty documents were signed in Vienna by Presidents Carter and Leonid Brezhnev in June, 1979, but they do not become law until legislatures of both countries ratify them.

After lengthy hearings, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee sent the treaty package to the floor of the Senate, where its consideration is now delayed indefinitely.

Under the treaty, the Soviets will have to scrap some missile launchers to reach the agreed limit of 2,400 launchers by the end of 1980. The United States, under the treaty, will not have to scrap any missiles, but is bound to limit the number of warheads per missile, and cannot deploy some weapons, such as long-range cruise missiles.

The statement added both sides will continue to observe the provisions of the SALT I interim agreement.

Senator Calls For Embargo On Trade With Soviet Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Whip Alan Cranston called Friday for an immediate embargo on trade in grain, seafood and technology with the Soviet Union as punishment for its "naked, bloody, brutal aggression" against Afghanistan.

Cranston commented at a news conference after meetings at his request with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, White House national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski and Stansfield Turner, director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Cranston said the embargo he proposes is the most effective non-military step that can be taken to convince the Soviet Union it is acting against its own best interests when it intervenes militarily in another nation.

He said the proposed embargo almost certainly would gain widespread support in Congress.

Cranston, the No. 2 Democratic leader in the Senate, said he expects Congress will be asked to remove legal barriers to sending military aid to Pakistan shortly after it reconvenes Jan. 22.

He said he knows the administration is considering requesting aid for Pakistan, which shares a border with Afghanistan, as well as an embargo on grain, seafood and technology shipments to the Soviet Union.

"The gain would be to show the Soviet Union that they cannot commit naked, bloody, brutal aggression against a foreign country without that act having its cost," Cranston said.

Cranston, a leading Senate supporter of the SALT II arms control treaty with the Soviet Union, said the delay in the ratification debate requested by President Carter is merely recognition of political reality and not a form of retaliation.

He said he "seriously doubts" the treaty will be debated and ratified this year.

In a related development, Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said that by its actions in Afghanistan, the Soviet Union has made clear its aim is to achieve dominance in the Middle East and Southeast Asia in order to "gain a stranglehold on the West's economic jugular vein."

TO BE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Berendzen will become president of American University on Jan. 13, the university says. Berendzen, 41 and the university's provost for the past 3½ years, will be the 11th president in the institution's history.

Outraged Afghanis Protest Soviet Intervention In Homeland

By The Associated Press
 Afghanis outraged at Soviet military intervention in their homeland demonstrated in four U.S. cities Friday, in protests that ranged from a flag-burning to a silent vigil.
 In Washington, D.C., the Soviet Embassy was besieged by marchers, some trying to push past police lines.
 In Omaha, Neb., sign-carrying Afghanis, many of them students, demanded freedom for their homeland during a rally.
 In downtown Dallas, 35 Afghanis held a midday protest which attracted some hecklers who dispersed when they learned the demonstrators were not Iranians.

 In New York, more than 100 Afghanis and Moslems from Pakistan and Turkey denounced the Soviet move into Afghanistan in a noisy demonstration at United Nations Plaza.
 Several of the protesters ripped and burned a Soviet flag before heading to the Soviet Mission, where pacifist groups were holding a silent vigil.
 At a mid-Manhattan news conference, the Anti-Bolshevik Bloc of Nations urged President Carter to recall diplomats from all Soviet-bloc nations, order diplomats of those nations to leave the United States, suspend trade agreements with those countries, halt American travel there and call a summit meeting of world leaders.

Barbrak Karmal's Soviet-backed regime. Later in the day about 500 Islamic students, chanting "Long Live Khomeini," and denouncing both U.S. and Soviet imperialism, conducted a separate march to the Soviet embassy.
 "Soviet pigs, get out of Afghanistan," read one sign. "No East, No West — Just Islam," read another.
 A spokesman for the first demonstration group, Mohammad Safa, said the marchers particularly hoped to show the developing countries... that Russia is the only aggressor in the world today.
 Safa, a professor at Southeastern University in Washington, predicted that Afghan Moslem rebels would prevail against Soviet troops. He noted that Alexander the Great, Genghis Khan and the British had all failed to subjugate Afghanistan, a rugged, mountainous country in central Asia.

 "God will help us against this godless regime of the Soviet Union," Safa said. He said most of the demonstrators were Afghanis who lived in or near Washington.

Soviet Union Opposes Security Council Meet

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The U.N. Security Council scheduled a debate on Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan for 11 a.m. Saturday and the Soviet Union declared its opposition in advance. The United States, China and 41 other countries asked for the urgent session.

Afghanistan Ambassador Abdul Hakim Tabibi, second in command of Afghanistan's mission, resigned his diplomatic post in protest of the Soviet intervention in his country.

Soviet Ambassador Oleg A. Troyanovsky said of the meeting, "We think it would be interference in (the) Afghan's internal affairs."

Council members fixed the time Friday evening after a day of intermittent private consultations led by Ambassador Jacques LePrette of France, council president for January.

Afghan Foreign Minister Shah Mohammad Dost made the same point as Troyanovsky in a protest cable sent to the council Thursday night, when LePrette received a letter from the 43 countries asking for an urgent meeting on "the situation in Afghanistan and its implications for international peace and security."

Troyanovsky's remark reflected the Soviet Union's position, set out Monday in the Communist Party newspaper Pravda, that the troops it sent into Afghanistan beginning last week were invited by "the Afghan leadership," under a 1978 treaty, to rebuff "armed interference from outside." The incursion was followed by a coup that overthrew President Hafizullah Amin and put Babrak Karmal in power.

A reporter asked Troyanovsky if he would veto any resolution that might be presented to the council asking for withdrawal of the Soviet troops. He replied, "Make your own guess."

The bid for council action picked up support Friday from seven more countries, five of them Islamic, that signed the request for a meeting. The Islamic countries were Bangladesh, Bahrain, Malaysia, Senegal and Indonesia. The others were Thailand and Uganda.

The cable to LePrette from the Afghan foreign minister said Afghanistan felt the debate would be "direct and clear interference in its internal affairs" and urged "that such a discussion be prevented."

Later, the Afghan U.N. mission sent word that the foreign minister would arrive in New York on Friday to set forth his government's position.

Diplomats involved in the talks said privately that the council could meet late Friday or Saturday.

The debate is expected to continue off and on until late next week and wind up with a Soviet veto of a resolution calling for the withdrawal of Soviet troops.

Meeting with reporters in a U.N. briefing room, Tabibi issued a personal appeal for withdrawal of Soviet soldiers who began pouring into Afghanistan last week and helped Karmal overthrow Amin.

"The world should know that on its support depends the future of a small country with empty hand but with great pride and honor," he said. "The Soviet Union, our traditional friend, should submit to the call of world public opinion for withdrawing the forces quickly, and by this act Afghanistan, and myself at the forefront, will always remain as a sincere friend of that country."

The great powers, including the Soviet Union, who are responsible for maintaining peace and security in the world should recognize their responsibility and leave us alone.

The protest in an Omaha city park attracted 60 sign-toting demonstrators, including a few Americans, who listened to speeches before cheering as a Soviet flag was torched.

In the nation's capital, several marchers scuffled with police in an apparent attempt to break through police lines at the Soviet Mission. However, the demonstration was kept more than 500 feet from the embassy, which is located in downtown Washington.

The march, conducted in a snowstorm, began in Lafayette Park across from the White House. Police estimated that the size of the demonstration, which included some American sympathizers, at about 250 people.

The marchers carried signs saying "Russia is the devil of the world" and depicting caricatures of Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Chanting in both English and the Afghan language, the demonstrators shouted "Death to the Russian invaders," "Death to Brezhnev" and "God is great."

Stopped by police about 1 1/2 blocks from the embassy, the demonstrators tore and burned Soviet flags. One man threw a Russian flag on the street and stepped on it.

At one point, several demonstrators pressed against the police line in an apparent effort to get closer to the embassy. However, police pushed them back. There were no arrests.

Police also tried to prevent the marchers from sending a list of demands to Soviet diplomats. The demands included withdrawal of Soviet troops from Afghanistan and an end to

Silent-Screen Poster Collector Prefers Old Cowboy Movies

By GARRET MATTHEWS
POCAHONTAS, Va. (NEA) — The talkative, white-haired man doesn't look at all like a collector of movie relics. He sucks constantly on a corncob pipe right out of Dog-patch. His floppy hat and overalls make him look like a yawning oldtimer content to hang around the wood stove all day, deciding nothing more substantial than whether snuff or Red Man will be his afternoon companion.

Yet, the retired coal miner with only a few working teeth boasts probably the world's largest collection of cowboy movie posters from the silent film days.

Edgar Shew figures he was more than 350 cardboard and paper posters promoting the films of Tom Mix, the Hoxie brothers, Fred Thomson, William Boyd, Buck Jones and many other cowboy types whose careers flourished from around 1915 until 1928, when the dastardly talkies became commercially profitable.

"Haven't seen any decent pictures made since the start of the Depression," says the grizzled oldtimer who looks for the world like the inevitable sidekick in all those cowboy movies. "I reckon that's why I haven't been to the movie show in 50 years."

 Lubbock Avalanche-Journal Saturday, Jan. 5, 1980

Shew is a purist — cowboy silent films or nothing. "To me, no other kind of movie has any plot to it," the over-alled film critic says.

Shew knows of some cowboy posters that collectors have bought for upwards of $150 each. And he figures his only known poster of Bronco Billy Anderson is worth even more than that. "But I can't see me selling any of my collection though," he says with a grin, "because then I wouldn't be able to look at 'em."

Shew is a historian as well as a collector. When he's not hoeing or harvesting on his 13-acre farm, he is scrounging for information on old Westerns. He has made many contacts with other collectors over the years and often has swapped old guns for posters and vintage Zane Grey books.

He has laboriously researched every silent Western ever made and tells anyone who wants to listen about the actors, the plots, the film studios and the locations where the movies were filmed.

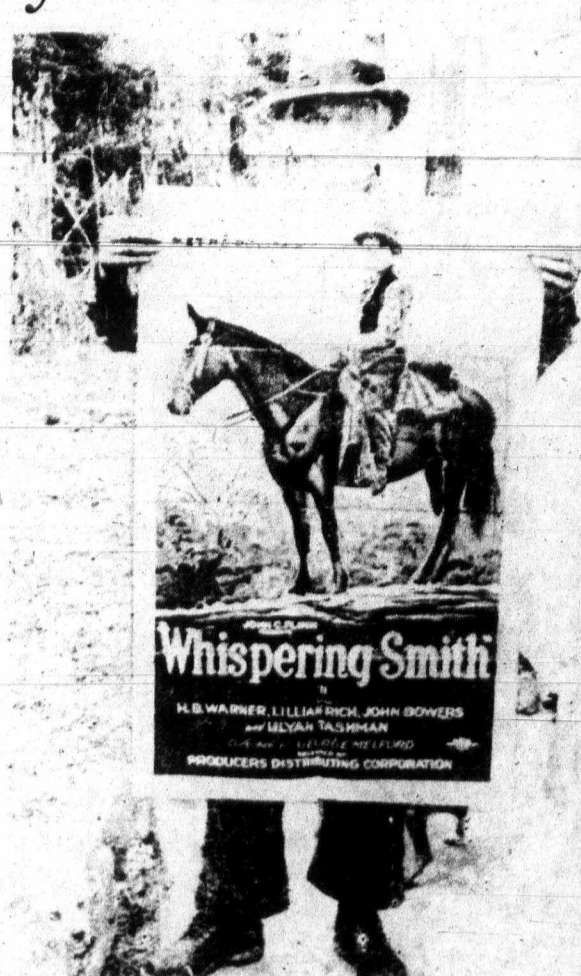

A highlight of Shew's collection is his Tom Mix memorabilia.

"He was the greatest," says Shew of the star of "Riders of the Purple Sage" and other classics. "People can talk about John Wayne all they want to, but for my money Tom Mix was better."

Shew can tell you that Mix was once a bona fide Texas Ranger who hit the silver screen by accident.

"He heard there were some strange goings-on at the movie set, so he rode over to investigate," Shew recounts. "The camera happened to pick him up coming in on that big horse and I guess you could say a star was born that very minute."

Shew was injured in the coal mines in 1952 — about the time mechanization was beginning to spell the end for pick-and-shovel boys like him — and he finally called it quits three years later.

WESTERN AUTHORITY — "Haven't been any decent pictures made since the start of the Depression," says grizzled oldtimer Edgar Shew, who looks for the world like the inevitable sidekick in the silent Westerns on which he is an authority. "I reckon that's why I haven't been to the movie show in 50 years."

Listening, Communication Go Hand In Hand, Experts Say

By DOLORES BARCLAY
NEW YORK (AP) — We do it most of our waking hours, more often than we read or write or speak. We listen — or do we?

Misunderstandings abound in daily life because of poor listening habits — between friends, wives and husbands, parents and children, employers and employees.

We tune each other out.

Most people are poor listeners or do not listen at all, experts say, causing personal, professional and diplomatic problems.

"The cost of wasted time, wasted productivity, broken down relationships, injury, death and lawsuits all come about because Party A sends a message to Party B and Party B may not respond to it or interpret it," said Lyman Steil, chairman of the speech communications division at the University of Minnesota.

"If you ask someone to listen to a short message that runs 10 minutes in length and then ask what the person heard, what was evaluated, retained and what the person could respond to, he would operate at about the 50 percent mark," said Steil.

"If you come back in 48 hours and test again, he'll drop down to the 25 percent effectiveness level. Without focus and systematic training, you're ineffective at listening."

Steil teaches a 10-week course on listening at the University of Minnesota in St. Paul.

Earlier this year the course was incorporated into a listening program at Sperry Corp., which started a $4 million advertising campaign — "Sperry... We Understand How Important It Is To Listen." Engineers and sales managers at Sperry's Vickers division took the seminars to improve communications skills in their work.

Listening is an integral part of counseling and psychology.

"People listen, but they hear the wrong thing," said Dr. Ruth Neubauer, president of the New York Association for Marriage and Family Therapy. "Not listening has a lot to do with failed relations."

She said she tells clients to structure their complaints or feelings in a positive way, rather than making an accusation.

"One should say, 'I have a need,' or 'I need this,' or 'it would make me very happy if you would consider this,'" she said, "and not say, 'You don't give me this' or 'You don't do that for me.'"

"The idea is to have the person listened to. If the other's ego is weak then this person is more inclined to see what you're saying as a threat or criticism."

Frank Drake, a professor of astronomy at Cornell Uni-

IN AMERICA

It was then his interest in the silent-screen Westerns intensified.

Though Shew has only a sixth-grade education, he helped establish a newsletter that is distributed to lovers of stagecoaches, six-guns and cowboy cliff-hangers. And he is acknowledged in at least one book on the subject.

"I only wish I could have been one of those cowboy actors," he says. "Of course, in the '20s I was always too busy digging coal to think about doing much else."

"I'm afraid I never got to see Tom Mix or Hoxie or Boyd or any of 'em in person, either."

But Shew saw his favorites many times inside the theaters that dotted the coal-fields in those days.

"I got most of my posters from outside the old movie houses and sometimes, I'm ashamed to admit, I swiped some of the posters before the particular picture ever left town."

If Shew saw a poster he wanted, no risk was too great. Take the time in 1927 when he was riding the train from the mines to his Pocahontas home.

"Trains were slow in those days, about 14 miles an hour or so," he recalls. "Anyway, while I was riding the rails one day I spied a cardboard poster of Tom Mix on a telephone pole by the track."

"Now you just didn't see cardboard posters in those days, so I got real interested in grabbing hold of that little item. We got a little closer and I decided it was either then or never, so I jumped off the train and pulled the poster from the pole."

"I ran like a wild man, and a mile or so later I caught up with the train and finished my trip."

Shew is one of those fellows who likes to concentrate on one field of endeavor. He has no vehicle. And no wife.

"I ran after the women for a spell but then I thought better of it," he grins. "But I don't have any regrets about that or not having a car or about anything else except when the fools took all the saloons out of the coal towns."

So, the fellow with the long Southern drawl keeps the cowboy tradition alive inside the simple white frame house that rests on top of mountain.

Shew lights his corncob pipe and takes another pull from his corn liquor bottle. Then he looks fondly at a smiling poster of Tom Mix.

"Times were true back in those days," he says as a frown displaces his normally happy countenance. "Even the bad guys were good guys in their own way."

Tool Used By Eskimos Found

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — A piece of polished stone, believed to be a tool used by predecessors of modern-day Eskimos, has been found on the Maine coast, archaeologists said.

The tool was turned up at an archaeological dig at Blue Hill, the coastal town where an 11th-century Norse coin was discovered about 19 years ago.

The Eskimo tool adds another piece of evidence to the theory that there was long-distance trade to the north, and it is more likely the traveling went from south to north rather than the other way around. Steve Cox, an archaeologist with the Smithsonian Institution, said this week.

ANNIVERSARY COUPLE — Mr. and Mrs. J.H. White of Levelland will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary today with a reception in the Community Room of the First National Bank in Levelland. Hosting the event will be their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Townsend, and their grandchildren, Cynthia Townsend and Robert Townsend. White and the former Linnie Mae Lawson were married Jan. 4, 1930 in Hugo, Okla. They moved to Hockley County in 1944.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: When I was in junior high I read your column for laughs. Now that I'm a grown woman, I find myself turning to you for help.

I'm 31 years old and have a wonderful husband and two beautiful children. We have been married for seven years, and he gives me everything I want. I really must be crazy to be taking such chances, but I can't seem to break out of this pattern.

I don't know how to describe my problem except to say I find myself going to bed with every man who pays me a compliment or shows the slightest sign of affection.

This has been going on for the last three years.

My last affair was with a man my husband works with. If he knew, he would throw me out and take the children.

My husband is as straight as an arrow. He has no tolerance for infidelity. I know I have been very lucky, and I simply must stop this sleeping around before my luck runs out. Please, Ann, help me. — The Lady Is A Tramp.

Dear Friend: Your story is pathetic and I've heard it many times before. It sounds as if you grew up without the paternal love you needed as a child. You've been filling in the void by latching on to shoddy substitutes.

You need professional help, and I hope you will get it at once. Now that you have a fine husband you must learn to get your fulfillment from him exclusively. With proper help you can do it and you must. The stakes are mighty high.

Dear Ann Landers: I have arthritis of the eyes. This was not my diagnosis. It was my doctor's. The problem is very painful, but worse than the disease is the reaction of my friends. They think it is simply hilarious. I get no understanding or consolation whatever.

A relative who is a physician's assistant told me emphatically that I could not possibly have arthritis of the eyes because arthritis is a disease that affects only the joints.

Will you please publish my letter and verify what I have said? Your word will mean something. Mine doesn't mean a hoot, obviously. — No Laughing Matter In Georgia

Dear Georgia: My word won't carry any more weight than yours, but my consultant in this matter is a most distinguished ophthalmologist, and what he says should count for a great deal.

Dr. David Paton of Houston says arthritis can be found in the eyes. The explanation is much too complicated and clinical to go into here, but you are right and your friends should stop laughing, for more reasons than one.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl, 17 I used to be crazy about Jeff but he treated me so rotten I finally told him to get lost. Guys always want what they can't get so he began to hang around a lot. Now I really can't stand him.

Mom thinks Jeff is the living end. He keeps coming over and she has been trying to sell me on him. Last night he sat in the living room for two hours talking to Mom. I read the newspaper and watched TV. I know it was rude but I don't like the jerk.

How can I get Mom to stop being so nice to him? It's just a plot to get me interested. — Jean Dear Jean: Since he's your mother's guest you have no obligation beyond saying hello. After that you can excuse yourself and go to another room. Jeff will get the picture soon and give up.

Dear Ann Landers: I was married for a short time. Now, three years after the divorce, I am planning to be married again — to a wonderful, understanding man.

Would it be proper to wear the same wedding dress? It is a very pretty ivory color and still in style. With the price of clothes so high, it would be quite a saving.

We want to have a small wedding, and my fiance told me it would be okay with him. I'm undecided and need your thinking. — Pennsylvania Woman

Dear W.: If I were you, I'd put away the ivory number and wear something else — for luck.

To Your Good Health

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.
Dear Dr. Donohue: When my daughter was three her doctor found a reflux on her right side between the bladder and the kidney. She has had annual x-rays since and the reflux is still there.

Will she outgrow this? What should we expect now? Is an operation usually needed? She is also a bed-wetter. Is this caused by the reflux problem? — G.G.L.

After urine is produced in the kidneys it passes down to the bladder via twin tubes (ureters — one for each kidney). In urination the bladder contracts to force urine downward through the urethra. If, when this happens, some urine is forced upward into the ureters that's called "vesico-urethral reflux." The usual problem lies with the ureter valves. They have become weakened.

This condition can be worsened with repeated urinary tract infections, which as you know are more common in young females. You do not mention any history of repeated infections of this type. If she has not had that then the chances of her outgrowing her problem are still good. Because her condition was discovered at such an early age, I suspect it represents a defect, perhaps one present at birth.

If your daughter is having repeat kidney infections then surgical repair of the ureter opening into the bladder should be considered.

Your daughter's bedwetting very likely stems from her ureter problem.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please discuss Morton's neuroma. — Mrs. N.N.

A Morton's neuroma is a pain in the foot and the bottom of the foot at the base of the third and fourth toes. Looking down at your foot you count toes from the big toe outward.

With Morton's neuroma, the problem lies with the large nerve that serves that toe area. It has become thickened and this thickening results in pressure pain. The pain occurs especially when walking, and there is sometimes a shock-like sensation.

A specially-constructed padded arch sometimes relieves it, but surgical removal of the thickened nerve can be the answer. There's a discussion of this in the booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet." For a copy, send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Dear Dr. Donohue: For three years I have had recurring vaginal fungus infections. I am at my wits end. I have taken medicine for it but it comes back. I was told that my husband could be causing this but I cannot convince him to get examined. What kind of disorder in a man could cause me to have fungus infections? This has been a terrible strain on our marriage.

My husband doesn't feel there is anything wrong with him. I am 26 and he is 28. Last year we used condoms for three months and I had no infections. He does not like them and so refuses to continue using them.

The doctor said he just didn't know what else he could do for me. Maybe you can say something to help. — N.W.

The evidence, even from your letter, seems pretty strong in favor of your husband's contribution to your continuing fungus problem. The fact that you had relief while he was using the condom is the strongest evidence of all.

It is common for the wife to have the symptoms while the husband does not. In fact, even if no fungus infection were found in his examination it would still be wise for him to take the anti-fungus medicine you take — and simultaneously, That way you can be mutually protected, eliminating the problem once and for all. I am using the term fungus loosely. It may be a non-fungal organism like trichomonas.

I hope he reads this and sees the light.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What is your advice to a 16-year-old girl whose diet consists of nothing but beef patties with ketchup (no bread), diet colas and candy bars for the past year? — Worried Mother.

She is serving her taste buds, but not her nutritional needs. My advice is for her to quickly change her eating habits. She needs a balanced diet and she's not getting it, especially in the dairy group and grain areas.

Vaginitis can strike any woman at any time in her life. You can read about the causes — and cures — for this troublesome complaint in the booklet,

"Vaginitis: The Hidden Ailment." To get a copy, write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

In the American card game known as Pitch, you count four for the ace, three for the king, two for the queen and one for the jack. This doesn't show the value of these cards in your hand but rather the points they represent in tricks you have taken.

Back in 1915, Bryant McCampbell of St. Louis wrote his friend Milton Work suggesting that the Pitch 4-3-2-1 count be used for notrump bidding. Work wrote about it and lots of players used it.

But other writers did not. When contract came in during the late '20s, the public followed Ely Culbertson and honor tricks, which valued combinations of honors.

In 1932, Oswald Jacoby married tennis champion Mary Zita McHale. He wanted to teach her bridge in a hurry and decided it would be simpler if she gave each ace and face card a point value. It didn't take long to find that he could bid better with her than with his regular expert partners and they also started using point count.

Later on, Charles Goren added short-suit points for use in suit bidding. The count was three for a void, two for a singleton and one for a doubleton.

Here is a simple distributional point table.

- A. Each void (blank suit): three points.
- Each singleton (one-card suit): two points.
- Each doubleton (two-card suit): one point.
- B. Add one point for each card over four in any suit that is so strong you don't need partner's support to establish it.
- C. Subtract one point for 4-3-3-3 distribution. This is overlooked by other writers but is most important.
- D. Count distributional points for suit bids only.

- Key Numbers:
- Grand slam (all 13 tricks): 37 points.
 - Small slam (12 tricks): 33.
 - Minor-suit game (11 tricks): 29.
 - Major-suit game (10 tricks): 26.
 - Notrump game (nine tricks): 26.

Point count is accurate but not perfect. As the bidding develops, you must realize that some points become worthless or nearly worthless, others increase in value.

It is impossible to make a grand slam with only five high-card points in the combined hands or to be unable to make any game with 38 high-card points.

Japanese With Mixed Blood Face Uncertain Prospects

By MARTIN ROTH
TOKYO (WNS) — "Mike-san," 27, is a tall, handsome Japanese. With earnings of over $50,000 a year, he is already at the peak of his chosen profession. Yet he grew up haunted by a world of injustice and discrimination, and he knows he will always live on the fringes of Japanese society.

Mike is a "mixed blood," half-Japanese, half-American. He has never met his father, a GI who came to Japan during the Korean War. With the looks and style of a John Travolta, Mike has become a "host," a peculiarly Japanese occupation, the male equivalent of a bar hostess. He pours drinks, and chats and dances with lonely housewives and businesswomen, and admits that the bulk of his income is from tips, often for accompanying them to a "love hotel." It is a young man's job and he is saving up to open his own dance school.

Today, the thousands of mixed blood children born during and after the U.S. occupation of Japan have grown up and the anguish their existence caused the racially homogeneous Japanese — bitter memories of the nation's first military defeat and occupation — seems to have vanished. For instance, 900 mixed blood children have passed through the Elizabeth Saunders Home, an orphanage set up 31 years ago in the resort area of Oiso, but today only eight of the residents are "half castes."

No statistics record how many such children were born and estimates vary widely from an improbable 4,000 to around 50,000. At first glance, most appear to have slotted into Japanese society; but it is difficult to find one who has excelled in any field.

In stratified Japanese society, a successful future depends on a university degree, or the right contacts. Mixed bloods generally have been denied these, a guarantee they will always occupy a bottom rung on the ladder of Japanese life. Most have drifted into low-paying office or factory jobs which offer little prospect of advancement, with a few entering fringe occupations, usually in the entertainment world.

Mike's story is typical of many. "I was born in Okinawa and brought up in a special home for children of Japanese women and GIs. But I went to an ordinary Japanese school and there were fights every day with the other children."

"I left school at fifteen and came to Tokyo. I joined a gang of mixed blood youths and for two years swaggered 'round with them, picking fights and causing trouble. Mixed bloods are often very handsome and many of us found girl friends to support us."

"Then I got interested in money and started work in a factory. From that, I became a waiter, a barman and for the last five years a host."

"My friends are mainly mixed bloods in Okinawa or Tokyo. Most work in factories, restaurants or bars. Some are in the 'yakuza' (Japanese mafia) and a few have made it into the modeling or entertainment business."

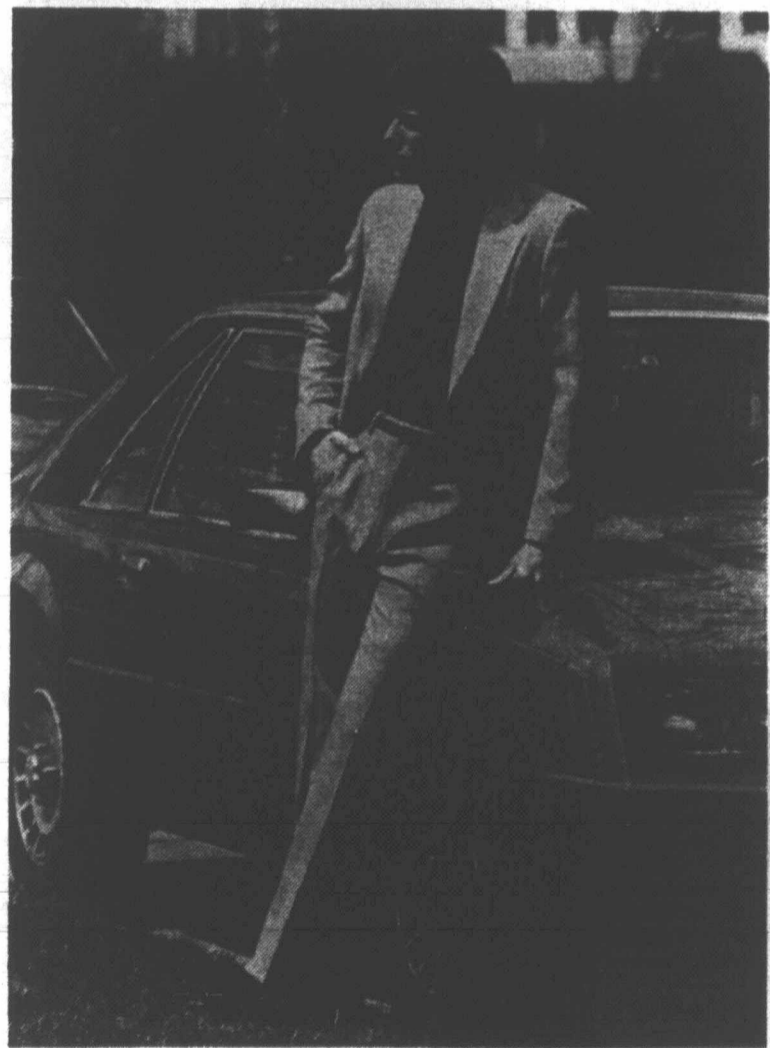

"We have learned how to avoid prejudice by keeping out of the way of the hostile people and arranging our lives, so we seldom meet strangers. We live in small worlds with just a few trusted friends. Most of us still feel angry at the way other Japanese have treated us."

The only profession they have penetrated with some degree of success is modeling. In this fall's general elections, the ruling Liberal Democrats caused a minor stir by featuring a 10-year-old mixed blood girl on one of their posters. Opposition parties accused them of "an inferiority complex towards white women."

But even modeling is seldom open to one group: those with black fathers. Thought to be about 10 percent of all half castes, they face innumerable problems, with their dark skin and curly hair. A few have achieved minor success in the entertainment business, but many live on the edge of the "white" mixed bloods' fringe world.

The Rev. Komuro is chaplain at the Elizabeth Saunders Home. "Unfortunately, Japanese are very reluctant to accept into their society people who look or behave differently. A person with a white father is often able to pass as Japanese, but the 'black' mixed bloods rarely manage it. Often we advise them to emigrate to America or Brazil. There's not much future for them here."

"As for success stories, I can't point to any orphan from our home who has excelled in Japan, though some who were adopted by Americans have done well. But looking at it from a narrower perspective, we claim great success in turning out good, law-abiding citizens."

TEXTURE AND TRIM — They're important trend words for men this fall. This sports duo by Austin Reed of Regent Street blends both. The fabric is texture-rich indeed — a lofty mini-check weave in heathery tan. All wool, of course. As for trim, the natural-shoulder jacket has it in suede at the elbows, in smooth leather on buttons and in special bellows pockets. The pockets are sewn with recessed stitching.

Hints From Heloise

HELLO!
How're you doing?
I'm doing lots better since I added something useful and decorative to my bathroom vanity.
What is it that's making my life a little easier but didn't cost me anything because I already owned one?
A clock!
I'm a time-conscious person and it seems to me that time always counts the most when I'm trying to get dressed and made-up — 'cause that's when I always have to hustle my bustle.
So my little travel alarm is the best thing that ever happened to my makeup cabinet. Now I don't have to guess at how much time I have left 'cause I can see it plainly tick-tocking away.
I think a clock would be a ring-a-ding addition to the bathroom in a household where one bath is used by all. Then there'd be no question about how much time one person spends in residence. And no excuses when someone gets in for hours and then says, "I didn't know I was in there that long!"
Give it a try and I think you'll wonder, as I have, how you've managed this long without a clock in your bathroom.

DEAR HELOISE:
I hope the woman who wrote you about using a typing chair with rollers for her sewing room doesn't stop there.
In our office such a chair serves double duty. It's used to move heavy objects, like a typewriter, from one table to another.

DEAR HELOISE:
Dog hair on the furniture can really get to be a headache to remove.
But I've found the best way of getting rid of the hair is to start at the source — the dog itself.
Though not 100 percent effective, brushing the dog at least every day or two helps.
Also, some dogs lack "fatty acids" due to being fed dry dog food, and may require an addition of vegetable oil (not animal fat as it can cause weight gain) in their diet to prevent excessive shedding.
Check with your vet. There are also prescribed preparations available and he can advise you as to type and amount. — Marjorie Bernier

DEAR HELOISE:
With prices as high as they are today, I have started cashing in on coupons, as has everyone.
Since they all expire on different days, I thought of a way to keep them in order and use them before their expiration date.
I bought a small recipe box and marked the months of the year on the dividers. This way I can check out each month and see what coupons need to be used. — Kayla Watson

Maude finds her Harold

Keith McDermott has been chosen to play Harold opposite Janet Gaynor's Maude in the new Broadway production of "Harold and Maude," opening Jan. 29 at the Martin Beck Theatre.

Director Robert Lewis, playwright Colin Higgins and producers Frank Milton and A. Max Weitzenhoffer Jr., interviewed hundreds of young men for the plum role of the 19-year-old boy who is enchanted by the zesty 80-year-old Maude.

As fans of the movie will recall, Harold is a poor little rich boy whose imaginative pseudo-suicide attempts — a ploy to win attention from his society-minded mother — are both charming and pathetic. The film is now some 10 years old, but is still frequently seen in revival houses and near college campuses. Bud Cort and Ruth Gordon had the leads in the original movie, which, given its large and loyal following, is a cult film of the first order.

Janet Gaynor

Grown-up 'Sesame Streets'

More than a third of all people who visit museums visit science museums, reports K.C. Cole in Omni magazine. "Science centers are the one public forum where people can familiarize themselves with present and future technology. Unlike traditional museums, they cater not to the comfort of fossils but to the curiosity of the general public. Instead of putting science on a pedestal or under a microscope, they bring the microscopes out to where people can discover nature for themselves." Cole writes: "Cole points out that because science centers are not in the business of preservation, they can encourage participation and play. Science centers, Cole adds, are grown-up 'Sesame Streets.'"

Joan Kennedy Crucial Factor In Husband's Presidential Bid

By TOM TIEDE

BOSTON (NEA) — The last time a candidate's spouse played a significant role in a presidential campaign was in 1972. Edmund Muskie was the Democratic front-runner then, and a New Hampshire newspaper printed unkind things about his wife.

Muskie went to the newspaper to complain. And broke down crying.

He was afterwards removed from serious contention. Now it appears the wife of another leading Democratic candidate may have an influence on her husband's presidential aspirations. And this time much more directly. Joan Kennedy, the estranged wife of the senior senator from Massachusetts, may in fact be the crucial factor in his campaign.

Well-placed Boston Democrats say Mrs. Kennedy, a 43-year-old recovered alcoholic, is a loose cannon in her husband's battle plans. She is gripped with personal and psychological woes, she's tied closely to Alcoholics Anonymous and psychiatric care, and no one can predict how she'll react to the campaign stress.

Friends think she should do well. They claim she is generally sober now, following a decade of heavy drinking, and relations with her husband are "improved" and proper. She still lives apart from the senator, but Kennedy's campaign staff says she will be with him often — "side by side" — on the stump.

Other observers here are not so optimistic.

"I think we all have our fingers crossed," says a longtime Kennedy ally. "If Joan campaigns, people will say she's being forced. If she doesn't campaign, they'll say she's being kept out of sight. God, think of the speculation if she stumbles getting off a plane. I believe it's going to be a long ordeal."

For Mrs. Kennedy, the ordeal actually may have begun 21 years ago. That's when the one-time television model and daughter of an advertising executive, married into the Kennedy family. She's never hid the fact that she's been uncomfortable with other members of the over-achieving dynasty.

JOAN KENNEDY

Nor has she kept secret her anxieties regarding the series of tragedies that have stalked her married life. Friends say she still has difficulty coping with the assassinations of her brothers-in-law, Jack and Robert. She also harbors unshakable fears that somebody may one day shoot down her husband.

She says the travails were the early cause of her drinking problem. Her friends, however, suggest that her husband may be to blame. Kennedy has been a two-fisted drinker himself (he once got potted on a flight from Alaska and staggered up and down the aisle shouting "Eskimo Power!").

But Joan's liquor was not a debilitating matter until after Chappaquiddick. One of Kennedy's Boston operatives says she was shattered by that humiliation: "She knew the senator played around, but, after Chappaquiddick, everyone else knew it, too. You should have seen the ugly mail she received."

What hurt most, the operative adds, was that Kennedy's wenching did not end with the accident. Neither did the mail. "Joan got rumors from friends, and rumors from strangers — it was awful." In time she was ticketed for driving while drunk, and it was then she began checking in and out of the hospitals.

Finally, last year, she went public with her tribulations. Some skeptics feel it was part of Kennedy's presidential preparation. In any event the candidate's wife now attends frequent AA sessions, and spends an estimated $10,000 a year on counseling. She lives by herself here, in a high-rise apartment.

Those close to her say she's mending famously. For her part, she says her primary goal is to "stay well." Reportedly, she has re-entered school, exercises regularly and practices the piano. She even dates now and then, though Kennedy aides prefer to think she merely has friends who also act as escorts.

The Kennedy folks put the best face possible on the situation. They say "the marriage is still strong," and "they see each other often." There is even a hint the pair will reunite under one roof; if Kennedy wins the primary, the thinking is his wife will live with him during the general election.

Until then, the Kennedys are allegedly locked in an agreement that states, in its simplest form, that she will not drink and he will not womanize. Kennedy's employees deny the agreement exists, but other sources say it's the price Joan has demanded for her promise to support the senator's candidacy.

What kind of support she'll give, though, is unknown.

And the question remains if it will be good or bad.

Sources say Joan Kennedy continues to be depressed about the road she's traveled. If she's strong enough it's no doubt her candidate husband will benefit; if she's not, however, the months ahead could be unfortunate for both of these troubled people.

Lee Marvin sounds off

Hollywood actor Lee Marvin says "Movies are made with all the dirty money floating around. I think it's one of the biggest laundries going now. I think it's way ahead of Vegas."

In an interview in the February issue of Penthouse magazine, Marvin cites a junk dealer in Akron, Ohio, who wants to protect $5 million from the government. Films are a natural outlet for hiding and increasing the funds. Should the film fail, then the dealer can write off the loss on his taxes.

When asked to name the last film he saw, Marvin replies, "Depends on the last plane I was on. And that's been a long time, over a year." In his opinion, there haven't been many good pictures for the last 10 or 15 years. "I mean the ones you would show your students if you were teaching school and wanted to show the better aspects of the human journey," Marvin says.

What does the public want from its stars these days? The actor responds, "Well, besides complete idiocy, they want a lack of respect. They want all the rules broken. The underdog has now become the leading man. He's the heavy, because he's kicking a mother or shooting a bazooka into the sheriff's office — and he does that before the movie even starts."

What's up in photography?

Which celebrities were photographed most frequently in 1979? As usual Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis and her children headed the list.

Following are the most-exposed people of the year according to paparazzo Ron Gaiella in Us magazine.

- Charlie's Angels (Jaclyn Smith, Cheryl Ladd and Shelley Hack)
- Farah Fawcett
- Suzanne Somers
- Robin Williams
- Elizabeth Taylor
- Princess Caroline of Monaco

Onassis: Overposed?

Rose Walsh stands near a sign that insists that there be no smooching inside a special zone near the Deerfield, Ill., railroad station. The city put up the "no kissing" sign to keep traffic moving during rush hours after it was determined that such human traffic was holding up vehicular traffic by causing jams in front of the station.

Intelligence Officials Urge Aid To Rebels

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two former U.S. intelligence officials urged on Friday that the United States provide covert aid to the Moslem rebels fighting the Soviet-backed regime in Afghanistan.

The two — William E. Colby, former director of the CIA, and retired Air Force Lt. Gen. Daniel O. Graham, former director of the Defense Intelligence Agency — also said the Soviets would fight ferociously to put down the Afghan rebels.

"I think they will be fairly brutal and ruthless about it," Colby said as he and Graham were interviewed on NBC-TV's "Today" show.

Graham added: "They'll wipe out the rebels the best they can. I think they probably will this winter reduce them to a remnant."

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

A PRIVATE SURVEY OF GINNERS indicates earlier estimates of the 1979 High Plains cotton crop may have been high. The survey indicated ginner believe the 25-county High Plains crop will total about 2,750,000 running bales. With bales weights for the season here averaging about 492 pounds net, the survey would indicate a crop of about 2,819,000 bales of 480 pounds net.

Government estimates of course are in 480-pound bales, the common denominator for both supply-offtake figures.

The last U. S. Department of Agriculture estimate, adjusted to compensate for geographical differences, put the 25-county crop at about 3,115,000 bales. Thus the ginner estimate is about 296,000 bales below the USDA's December projection. It also is about 193,000 bales below a private estimate last month, based on information from other sources, of 3,012,000 bales.

VERY LITTLE COTTON IS LEFT on the stalk. The ginner should be able to count what is estimated to be left in modules and come fairly close to the final production tally.

There is a possibility that ginner in the survey suffered a disproportionately heavy loss in late-season hailstorms, but an effort was made to take this into account in tabulating results.

The survey pegged current ginnings at roughly 2.1 million bales, or around 76 percent of the ginner's estimate of the total crop.

Some gins have closed for the season and others are winding down operations, although thousands of field-stored seed-cotton modules remained to be processed elsewhere.

Areawide cotton classing receipts through Tuesday totaled 1,835,372, including classings of 1,745,972 and a carryover of 89,400. The total a year earlier was 1,353,972 on classings of 1,200,772 and a carryover of 153,200. New USDA crop estimates will be released Thursday.

A CUTOFF OF U. S. GRAIN EXPORTS to the Soviet Union would be an unwise and self-defeating method of protesting the U.S.S.R. invasion of Afghanistan, the president of the 3.1-million-member American Farm Bureau Federation said Friday.

Allen Grant told a news conference at the AFBF's annual meeting at Phoenix that a halt to shipments would prove ineffective because the Soviets could turn to other nations, such as Canada and Australia, for their grain.

Grant said there are more effective political and economic sanctions that can be used to protest the Soviets' military action in the Mideast.

He noted that Thursday's announcement of a new sale of 3.8 million metric tons of corn and wheat to the U.S.S.R. brings its total purchases of U. S. grain in the current marketing year to 21.4 million metric tons.

Grant said export embargoes or moratoria on grain shipments directed at one nation "confuse and antagonize" all trading partners and should be avoided unless national security is involved.

MEANWHILE, SEN. HOWARD BAKER, R-Tenn., said this week that halting U. S. grain exports to the Soviet Union would not be "a very useful foreign policy tool."

The Republican presidential candidate told a press briefing he wouldn't support a grain embargo against the Soviets. He also said halting grain shipments would have "a devastating effect" on U. S. agriculture.

Elsewhere, grain trade and congressional sources said chances of the United States unilaterally halting grain shipments appear to be waning, although reportedly not totally out of the question.

Grain trade representatives said they were more fearful of International Longshoremen's Association action to stop loading Soviet-bound vessels than they were of administration action to halt grain sales or shipments.

Sen. Alan Cranston of California, assistant Democratic leader in the Senate, told an afternoon press conference he strongly favors a grain embargo but could not say whether it would be proposed by President Carter in a presidential address to the nation on television Friday night.

LATE-SESSION COMMISSION HOUSE BUYING nudged cotton futures from lows Friday to close with 21 to 40-point losses in nearby.

Speculative support helped to pare earlier losses of 83 points in March, which ended off 33 points at 74.30, while May offset a 76-point drop to finish down 21 points at 75.97. July, which was down 70 points at one time, closed off 40 points at 77.30. Estimated volume was 8,250 lots.

Floor brokers said prices seceded largely on local activity which reflected moves in precious metals markets. In light early activity, prices slipped on commission house liquidation after the market opened about 30 points lower.

The USDA's weekly export report, released after the close, showed new sales for delivery in the current marketing year of 149,800 running bales during the week ended Dec. 23. This brought the total 1979-80 export commitments to 7,839,500 running bales.

Shipments of 212,700 running bales were the second largest of the season, with 18 percent going to Asia, including 66,700 bales to China. The total for the season stood at 2,502,500 running bales, up 566,000 from a year earlier.

THE LARGEST WEEKLY MOVEMENT since this reporting system was established in 1974 was recorded earlier this season when 226,000 bales were loaded out for the week ended Dec. 9. Until then, in fact, there had been only one previous occasion, nearly two years earlier, when 200,000 bales had been exported in one week.

Could shipments total 8 million bales this marketing year? Skeptics say not much more than 7 million bales can be loaded out, if that much, because of physical constraints on the shipment-flow system.

"All we know is that the people doing this business are going to work as hard as they can to make the shipments," says one analyst, "and we are not going to bet against them."

"What will happen when we start seeing a string of 200,000-bale weekly loadings? What will happen if we load out a million bales in February? Where will the market be then?"

With sales already topping 7.8 million running bales with a week still left in the 1979 calendar year, some analysts say export sales for the first five months of this marketing year surely must have been a record for any corresponding period of any season.

WILL EXPORT SALES BE PUSHING ABOVE 9 million bales by the end of the season?

"There's a lot of business that remains to be done for the second quarter," one analyst says.

"Do you think all that cotton can be supplied by outside growths? We will be the skeptics about that possibility."

The main threat to the market, according to some analysts, remains the possibility of the textiles business turning quite soft. So far, they say, they haven't seen that evidence.

Trading on Telcot totaled a light 10,172 bales Friday as bidding weakened and farmer selling slackened following the downturn in futures. The average price was 52.24 cents and the average over the loan was 1,019 points.

Wheat Planting Up; Production Expectations Down, Expert Says

AUSTIN (Special)—Wheat farmers in Texas have planted the largest acreage for pasture or harvest since 1949, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has reported.

Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service surveys indicate that 6,800,000 acres have been planted.

"The acreage is 17 per cent more than last year. However, based on conditions of the fields on Dec. 1, production is expected to be significantly lower, down to 88 million bushels," Brown said.

Germination on dryland seedlings was slow due to lack of moisture in August and September. High Plains wheat fields were providing only fair grazing for cattle on Dec. 1. Early snow storms damaged some of the Plains crop.

Production in 1979 from 5.8 million acres reached 138 million bushels.

Conditions in Texas are comparable to those in other wheat-growing states, with the U.S. production estimated at 1.57 billion bushels, 3 per cent less than that in 1979.

According to preliminary surveys by the Reporting Service, counties in the Northern High Plains have increased acreage from 2.7 million to 3.1 million. The Blacklands area also has a substantial increase, from 660,000 acres in 1979 to 1,060,000 for the 1980 harvest.

Other regions showing increases are the Northern Low Plains with 760,000 acres, contrasted to 710,000 in 1979; Southern Low Plains, moving from 680,000 acres to 830,000; South Central Texas, 115,000 acres in 1979 and 127,000 acres for 1980.

Acreage reductions are forecast for the Southern High Plains, 260,000 acres in 1979 to 240,000 for 1980; Cross Timbers, 380,000 to 370,000; and the Edwards Plateau, 175,000 to 160,000.

All other regions account for 153,000 acres planted for the 1980 season, as contrasted to 120,000 for 1979.

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP)—Commission house selling, partly due to nervousness about a possible cutoff of grain shipments to the Soviet Union, left grain and soybean futures prices mostly lower in nearby months at the close Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Some commercial buying limited the downward trend of wheat and corn prices, traders said.

Many local traders reasoned that with the continuing international confusion about events in Iran and Afghanistan, it was better to sell nearby months than be caught long over the weekend.

A continuing rumor about a boycott of grain shipments to the Soviet Union by longshoremen grew stronger near the close and caused grain prices to drop several points. But when the rumor remained unconfirmed, prices made modest recoveries.

At the close, soybeans were 2 1/4 to 4 1/4 cents lower, January $6.43; wheat was 1/4 cent lower to 7 cents higher, March $4.45; corn was 2 1/4 cents lower to 1/2 cent higher, March $2.84 1/4; and oats were 1 to 2 1/4 cents lower, March $1.54 1/4.

PSYCHOLOGY TODAY

Uninformed Opinions Subject Of Testing

By the Editors of Psychology Today

"Some people say that the 1975 Public Affairs Act should be repealed. Do you agree or disagree with this idea?"

Most people do not remember the 1975 Public Affairs Act too clearly. They shouldn't. It is fictitious. George F. Bishop, a psychologist at the University of Cincinnati, and three colleagues, made up the Act to test people's willingness to give uninformed opinions on polls.

When the researchers asked 467 people 18 and older in Hamilton County, which includes Cincinnati, to answer the question about the Act in 1978, they found that a full third of the group firmly gave an opinion. When other groups were offered various ways to admit they did not have an opinion, about 10 percent still offered one.

People with such "pseudo-opinions" about the Public Affairs Act were also more likely to give an opinion on all the other issues in the poll, the researchers found. The tendency was particularly true for questions involving "more remote or abstract matters of policy, such as resumption of arms shipments to Turkey and the SALT negotiations."

Still, the researchers have reason to suspect that such people do not simply make up opinions in order to avoid being taken for dummies, and may not be giving random or thoughtless replies.

The people who gave pseudo-opinions said, when answering other questions, that they mistrusted government in general. When they came to the question was another test of whether they trusted government, and answered the question they assumed they have been asked.

When people had no chance to bow out or say they didn't know, the ones who were most likely to volunteer pseudo-opinions were those with the least education, when education was held constant, blacks were more likely to answer than whites. Despite their mistrust of government, these people revealed on other questions that they favored such "liberal" programs as affirmative action and national health insurance.

If these groups misinterpret regular survey questions, the researchers say, the results of regular polls may exaggerate the extent to which support for liberal views is well informed. On the other hand, Bishop thinks survey researchers and policy-makers looking for well-informed opinion should be wary of assuming that people who say they "don't know" about details of an issue know nothing about it in general.

When people were given a chance to bow out, those who still insisted on sounding off were quite different. They tended to be better educated, and to have more of an interest in politics. They also, apparently, had more of an interest in saving face.

In one way, Bishop's project is confirming the idea that poll results should be taken skeptically because the public is ill-informed. On the other hand, polling experts often argue that while the public indeed may not be competent to respond to detailed questions about the best means for attaining specific ends, people's opinions about the "basic ends" of policy do reflect genuine feelings.

Bishop and his colleagues do not believe policy-makers should abandon their increasing willingness to rely on polls. The results, after all, can be more representative than casual conversations or letters from constituents.

Still, the researchers warn that people who devise polls should be more aware of pseudo-opinions, and should work on ways to weigh their influence in poll results. The political and social consequences, they say, "are too great to continue sweeping the problem under the rug."

Organization Essential For Spending Less

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Be it resolved: I will not waste money in 1980.

For millions of Americans, spending less will be a matter of necessity, not choice, this year. But it is easier to make money-saving New Year's resolutions than it is to keep them.

Organization is the first step to success. Draw up a personal spending calendar. Go through last year's checkbook to jog your memory. Mark down dates of annual medical checkups, car tune-ups, school holidays and anything else that might require special scheduling or purchases. Note deadlines for fixed or predictable expenses like insurance premiums and charitable contributions.

Check household appliances to see whether you will have to replace any during 1980 and take stock of the family clothes closet. Plan now for the entire year so you can take advantage of sales.

Make a gift list. Include birthdays, anniversaries, Mother's Day, etc. Note names, ages, hobbies and possible presents. When you spot an item that fits your budget, buy it and set it aside on a special shelf, ready to be wrapped and sent.

Learn what to look for at the sales. Clearance sales usually feature discontinued or out-of-date merchandise. They offer the biggest savings — up to 50 percent off. They also offer the biggest risk. Clothing styles change quickly, for example, and a dress or suit that winds up hanging in the closet is no bargain — no matter how cheap.

As a general rule, you will get the best buys when you shop out of season. Here is a month-by-month guide to seasonal sales:

JANUARY: Holiday items like Christmas cards and decorations and white goods, shoes, warm gloves, clothing, fabrics, women's suits and coats and televisions and radios should be good buys. Watch out for fads. The 1979 Christmas "must" may be the 1980 Christmas "dud."

FEBRUARY: Most stores have Washington's and Lincoln's birthday sales on a wide range of inventory, but merchandise may have been picked over already. Check savings on bedding, floor covering, mattresses, major appliances and men's suits.

MARCH: Look for housewares, china and glassware and pre-season sales on Easter goods, rainwear, home and garden supplies and spring and summer accessories. Now is also the time to shop for made-to-order drapes and slipcovers.

APRIL: Good buys include soaps, cleaning supplies, building materials, paint and outdoor furniture. After Easter, you should find reductions on women's dresses and coats and men's and boy's clothing.

MAY: Stock up on blankets for next winter and shop ahead for summer sportswear and garden items and vacation luggage.

JUNE: End-of-year sales on school supplies, including typewriters, are frequent. Check, too, for bargains on storm windows and building supplies, cars, tires, women's dresses and lingerie.

JULY: Look for storewide clearances, especially toward the end of the month. Among the bargains: air conditioners, bathing suits, summer clothing, home appliances and sports equipment.

AUGUST: Watch for a second round of white sales and special deals on back-to-school supplies, children's clothing, furnishings — especially lamps — and hardware supplies. Tire sales start at the end of the month.

SEPTEMBER: Check prices on end-of-model-year automobiles and keep an eye-out for pre-season sales of winter merchandise. Other good buys include rugs and carpets, china, glassware, fabrics and silver.

OCTOBER: Auto batteries, electric blankets, women's coats, gloves and ski equipment are on sale this month. It is also a good time to start pre-holiday shopping.

NOVEMBER: Look for late fall clothing, fabric and fur sales. You should be able to find some bargains on home decorating items like lamps and on Christmas toys, games and radios.

DECEMBER: This is probably the worst month to shop. Sales are few. If you have planned wisely, you should be able to avoid the crowds and the high prices.

Inflation Hits Grades, SMU Study Concludes

DALLAS (UPI) — One of the state's most prestigious universities has vowed to slow the "grade inflation" of the 1960s that school officials say make the good student practically indistinguishable from the mediocre one.

"Grades are a kind of academic currency. Any currency is cheapened by inflation," concluded a recent report to the Southern Methodist University Faculty Senate, released by school officials.

The study, released after more than a year of research, said grade inflation first began in the 1960s, when giving an F became increasingly unpopular and rare and was replaced with a D.

"The practice had a domino effect, with all grades being pushed toward the top of the scale," said Dr. C.W. Tittle, a professor of physics and chairman of the panel that investigated the grade situation.

The report singled out "pass-fail grading" as part of the problem, along with professors hoping for favorable student evaluations by giving better grades.

Ironically, the study said, too many students have grades that are too high.

"Grade inflation has advanced at SMU to the point where the good student and the mediocre student are scarcely distinguishable."

The Faculty Senate has directed a restoration of "credibility in the meaning of grades" within six years by bringing the Grade Point Average (GPA) of students down to 2.70 from its current 2.92 level.

The report listed 11 proposals, which were approved by the Faculty Senate, calling for a "gradual lowering of grades over the next several years" and carefully worded teacher evaluation forms to emphasize course content, "not the popularity of the professor."

The "pass-fail" grading system will be discouraged, and another recommendation stated, "Grading standards should be the same for all students and not altered to favor any particular group, such as those who had not the same educational advantages before entering SMU as did the majority."

New Dollar Sold Half Price

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — In these inflationary times, it seems like a dollar is worth about half what it was not long ago, and that's just what it was sold for Friday.

Anyone could walk into a branch of the Skokie Federal Savings and Loan Association, plunk down 50 cents, and walk out with a Susan B. Anthony dollar coin.

But there was a limit: just one to a customer.

"It's a light-hearted but novel approach to accomplish two serious objectives," said Kevin Tynan, the bank's vice president for marketing. First, the association wanted to generate new deposits, and call attention to its savings and loan services.

"Secondly, and it is secondly, we'd like to urge people to use the Susan B. Anthony coin," Tynan said. The promotion began Dec. 28 and is being held on three consecutive Fridays.

"I'm all for it. I just made 50 cents," said George Sweet who went to the bank for other business and decided to buy an Anthony dollar.

Tynan said, "Personally, I don't think I would walk four blocks for 50 cents, but maybe in these inflationary times people are looking for bargains."

Kroc In Treatment Center

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Ray Kroc, founder of the McDonald's fast-food chain and the owner of the San Diego Padres baseball team, has entered an alcoholic treatment center after suffering a stroke.

His son-in-law, Ballard Smith, who is president of the Padres, said Wednesday that the 76-year-old Kroc was resting comfortably and progressing satisfactorily under medication.

Kroc said in a statement released by Smith that he is "required to take medication which is incompatible with the use of alcohol."

After suffering the stroke at his LaJolla home two days before Christmas, Kroc was hospitalized at Scripps Hospital before his transfer Wednesday to Care Manor Hospital in Orange, Calif.

Couple To Relocate

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — David and Julie Nixon Eisenhower are planning to move into a converted carriage house on an estate in suburban Chester County, probably at the end of the month.

The couple is paying about $160,000 for the 100-year-old renovated, three-bedroom house on a secluded road in Daylesford, Easttown Township.

The Philadelphia Bulletin reported Thursday.

He is the grandson of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and she is the daughter of former President Richard M. Nixon.

The couple will be relocating from southern California primarily to be near the Nixon and Eisenhower families, said a family friend. The Nixons have moved to New York City, and David's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Eisenhower live in suburban Devon.

Tricia Nixon Cox, her husband, Edward, and their son also live in New York City.

After settlement next week, the Eisenhowers and their 1-year-old daughter are expected to move into the house at the end of January. The house is now occupied by G. Forrest Praggoff, vice president in charge of marketing for N.R.M. Petroleum Co. of Newport News, Va.

13 Pennies Result In Suit

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The state Division of Taxation said John Cervase misfigured his taxes. By 13 cents.

Now the tax people want Cervase, a retired lawyer, to pay a $10 late-filing penalty, and he's gone to court over it.

Although he is retired, Cervase keeps a desk, filing cabinet and telephone in his home and handles an occasional case or two. He sent the tax department $1.30 for business personal property tax last year.

But the state determined Cervase should have paid $1.43. Because the 13 pennies were late, the state also charged him $10 in late filing penalties and up to $2 a day plus interest.

"There must be a limit in a reasonable law beyond which penalties are barred," said Cervase. "I would think a 13-cent deficiency ought to be within the excusable limits."

Leaders Off To Washington

LONDON (AP) — James Callaghan, former British prime minister and now leader of the Labor opposition in Parliament, left for Washington Friday to visit with relatives and meet with President Carter.

Callaghan, accompanied by his wife, Audrey, plans to visit their daughter, Margaret, and her husband, Peter Jay, formerly Britain's ambassador in the United States.

Callaghan also will have talks with Carter on the situation in Afghanistan and other current world problems, he said on leaving Heathrow airport.

Composer Celebrates Birthday

LONDON (AP) — Sir Michael Tippett, the eminent British composer whose music often sounds like Schoenberg with bass and drums, celebrated his 75th birthday by attending the London premiere of his Fourth String Quartet.

A packed audience at the Queen Elizabeth Hall gave him a resounding solo ovation Wednesday night after the new work's performance by the Lindsay Quartet.

Since the death of Benjamin Britten in 1976 and the virtual retirement of composer and one of the best-loved serious composers in the world.

His Fourth Symphony was recently given its premiere by Sir Georg Solti and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, and "Turn on to Tippett" T-shirts are a favorite with students in Dallas.

His 75th birthday year will include the broadcast of his complete works in England, a Tippett festival in Toronto and performances of his music all over the world.

Avoiding Reporters 'Wise'

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Jane Byrne says "all wise people" do better in popularity polls when they avoid reporters — and she plans to do just that.

Apparently irked by media polls which showed that her popularity has fallen sharply, Mrs. Byrne told reporters Friday that she wouldn't talk to them.

"Jimmy Carter hasn't been seen in two months outside of photographs that are released and Press Secretary Jody Powell making statements for him," she said. "So I'm going to go in and find out who my Jody Powell is and he'll answer all your questions for the rest of the day."

"Then my polls will come up just like Jimmy's," she added.

Mrs. Byrne did not say how long her silence would last.

"All wise people who stay away from the press shoot up (in the polls). I'll see you. Bye, bye," she said.

Recent polls commissioned by WBBM-TV have indicated a sharp drop in the popularity of Mrs. Byrne and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who she is supporting for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Death Threats Ignored

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. says reported threats against his life sounded "like a bunch of the boys got together drinking" and he does not expect to increase his personal security force.

Brown held a brief airport news conference Thursday on his return from California, where his wife, Phyllis George Brown, took part in the telecast of the Tournament of Roses Parade.

He said he heard tapes of the telephone calls by a man who said coal truck drivers were angry due to increased enforcement of weight limits. The caller "sounded coherent, but the things he said were incoherent," Brown said.

His wife said she not so much worried about the threat as that her parents in Denton, might have read about it and be worried.

A state police investigation is focusing on a telephone caller who apparently has been using several false names and telephone numbers in making the threats.

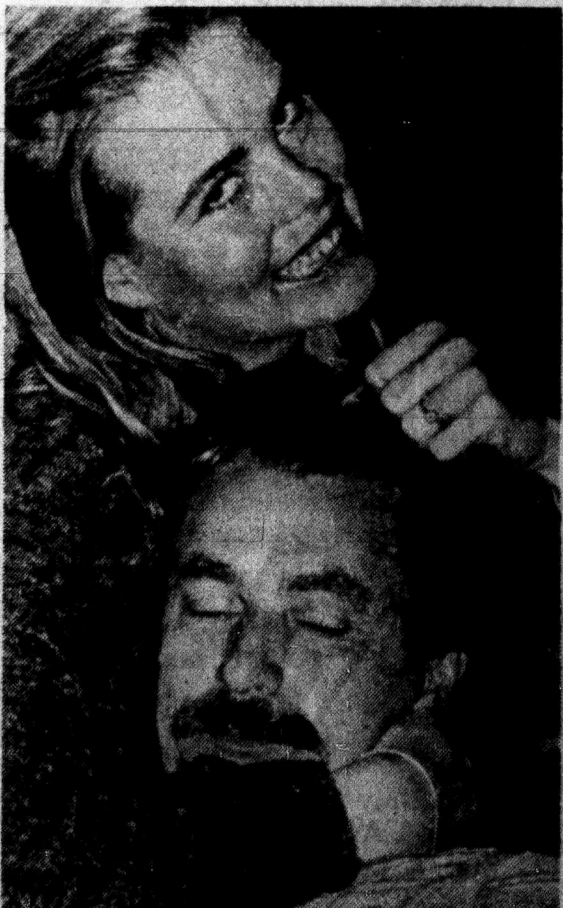

Town 'Loafers' Discuss World

GREENTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Every day, Kissinger holds a breakfast conference with his close and trusted associates. Herbert Kissinger, that is. He's the 76-year-old leader of the Greentown Loafer's Club, a group that meets at Buff's Quick Stop to rehash the problems of the world and the town over coffee.

"You don't have to buy coffee to join the fun," he said. "You can get all the news and have a big time for nothing."

The loafers, most of them retired, wear pale green windbreakers emblazoned with a coffee cup and saucer. The jackets were presents from John Anderson, the restaurant owner, who has enjoyed their discussions over the years.

The loafers keep a wary eye on the new sewer system in this north central Ohio town, Washington politics and federal taxes. They think the country needs gas rationing, and they're all suspicious of oil companies.

'Winner-Take-All' Abolishment May Cost Reagan GOP Delegates

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A move to abolish the nation's last "winner-take-all" presidential primary may cost Ronald Reagan more than 60 GOP convention delegates from his own state.

State officials say a petition drive apparently has gathered enough signatures to put an initiative on California's June 3 ballot to carry out the shift away from "winner-take-all" balloting in the Republican primary.

The initiative, backed by Reagan's foes within the party, would divide California's 168 delegates to the national convention in Detroit in the same proportion as the popular vote in the primary election, also to take place on June 3.

If Reagan's vote in June matches his 61 percent showing in the most recent poll of California-Republicans, abolition of winner-take-all would cost him 66 delegates.

In another development, a citizens group brought suit Friday challenging the winner-take-all primary. The suit, filed in Los Angeles Superior Court by Californians for Equal Treatment Committee, asserted that the existing GOP primary system violates the one-man, one-vote doctrine.

locked convention.

California is the last state with a winner-take-all primary, and it applies only in the GOP primary. Reagan, who leads his nearest GOP rival by a 5-1 margin, according to polls in the state, is the only candidate with realistic chances of gaining from winner-take-all.

Kidnappers' First Victim Of Decade? — 5-Year-Old Cat

ROME (UPI) — The first recorded victim of the new decade of Italy's industrious kidnappers is a black cat.

Restaurateur Paolo Celli said Friday he noticed his 5-year-old cat Minu had been missing around the kitchen for a couple of days "and thought nothing of it."

"He often goes off for a while," said Celli, "but then I got this phone call saying they had the cat and wanted 1 million lire ($1,250) ransom."

"At first I thought it was a joke, but the calls keep coming and the cat's still missing."

Celli said he had not told the police, "because they would think I was crazy. But I need Minu back — he's black and he's lucky."

The first recorded catnapping in Italy may not be as crazy as it sounds. Between lifting wealthy Italians and foreigners for huge ransoms, Italian kidnappers have gone for animals in the past, with varying degrees of success.

In recent years they have seized a talking mynah bird, a racehorse and an Afghan hound.

The racehorse was recovered without ransom, the mynah bird was never seen again after its owner refused to pay $300 ransom and the Afghan was restored to her Brescia owner in 1975 with a note saying two valuable pups had been bred from her as "ransom" during her captivity.

Tech Eyes Second Win

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
"Even Napoleon," someone once remarked, "had his Waterloo." The Texas Tech cagers can only hope that they aren't yet due for theirs just yet. The 7-4 Raiders face the 6-5 University of Houston today at noon in a regionally televised shootout at the Coliseum.

Both teams are 1-0 in Southwest Conference play after the Cougs took a 78-70 decision from the Rice Owls Thursday and the Raiders scored a big win over Texas in Austin. If that opening win over Texas sounds familiar, well... Raider fans hope that history doesn't repeat itself entirely.

Last year, you see, Tech opened SWC play with a regionally televised 92-74 romp over the Longhorns — won their next two games and then fell apart, losing to Rice, SMU and Texas A&M.

But the Raiders have already had their share of problems this year. After a quick 6-1 start, Tech went to the Far West Classic in Portland, Ore. and lost three straight games prior to the Texas contest.

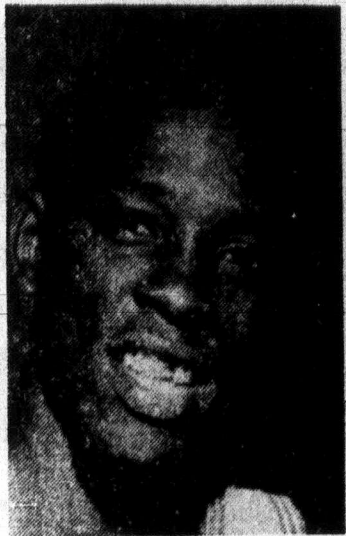

"I hope," says Tech boss Gerald Myers, "that we've learned that every game is different. If we don't come back and play good against Houston — then that win in Austin doesn't mean anything."

But don't let Myers fool you — Thursday's win in the Super Drum was a mighty big one. It was Tech's first ever in the Longhorn showplace and marked only the second time the 'Horns have lost in 39 games at the Drum.

"A lot of people are going to lose at Texas," admits Myers. "That's a tough place to play and they've got a good ball-club."

University of Houston coach Guy Lewis seconds that motion hardly. "Tech's an outstanding team," he said. "They proved that last night (Thursday). You don't go down there without a good team and win — lot's of times you can go down there with a good team and still lose."

Although Houston has defeated Tech in six of the team's last seven meetings,

'JUICE' WILLIAMS
Houston's Leading Scorer

Lewis voices plenty of concern when talking about the Raiders.

"Tech's starting a very experienced group of lettermen," said Lewis. "We saw them all last year and they were all outstanding. It's just another well-coached Tech team."

True, the Raiders have four starters back from last year's squad and are much the same club. The Cougs, on the other hand, are sprinkled with new faces.

Senior Kenneth "Juice" Williams still provides the brunt of the Coog scoring attack — 15.7 points a game, 20 against Rice — although he's been joined in the backcourt by another Williams. That's freshman Robert Williams who's averaging 12.1 an outing and pumped in 19 against the Owls.

Both are extremely quick and nearly the same size (the senior Williams is 6-1, Robert is 6-2). Lewis says that he plans to go with a small starting lineup of 6-6 Victor Ewing, 6-4 Marshall Saults and 6-6 Larry Rogers.

But Lewis does have plenty of big men that he won't hesitate to play — namely 6-9 Daryl Brown, 6-8 Willie Porter and 6-8 freshman Larry Micheaux. The Houston coach has started nine different players since the year began and only "Juice" Williams has started all 11 games.

"I'll probably play everybody," admits Lewis, "I usually do. But I just want to start this (smaller) group. (Williams and Williams) are our two leading scorers but we've got some other guys that can score."

Rogers, who played international ball for the last three years in the U.S. Army, is averaging 10.1 for the Cougs and young Micheaux is averaging 7.9. Porter, Micheaux and Brown have carried the rebounding load for the Cougs thus far.

"They're a typical UH team," says Myers. "They're big and physical with exceptional guards. We have some problems matching up inside with them. They are going to be a very good team in the conference race.

Plenty of tickets are still available for today's 12:10 p.m. Southwest Conference clash between Texas Tech and Houston at the Municipal Coliseum since Tech students are still on Christmas break.

Tickets will go on sale at 11 a.m. at the door at $4.50 for seats above the concourse and $5.50 for seats below. All seats are reserved.

This is Tech's only home game of the year where fans without season tickets can be assured of getting a seat prior to the start of the game. The contest will be regionally televised by NBC and Tech officials are expecting a large crowd to be on hand.

"They've played a tough schedule," said Myers of the 6-5 Cougars, "and they've had to play with quite a few new guys."

The Raiders biggest problem hasn't been working in the newcomers but rather with turnovers and consistency. But against Texas the Raiders committed only 10 turnovers and there is hope in the Tech camp again.

"We stopped making so many turnovers," said Myers, "and that probably won the game — if we'd made even 15 we probably would've lost. But that first half (when the Raiders took a 34-24 lead) was about as good as we can play."

Leading the Raiders first-half surge was sophomore Jeff Taylor who was six of seven from the field in the opening period — finishing the game with 18 points from his guard spot.

"Jeff played very well on both ends of the court," said Myers. "He was just excellent on defense."

But, as Myers keeps telling his players, that's history now. And the Raiders had little time to prepare for today's matchup.

Sophomore forward David Little still leads all Tech starters with a 15.5 per game scoring average while Taylor is right behind him with a 15.1 clip. Senior guard Kent Williams is averaging 10.9 and 6-6 forward Ben Hill is at 10.3 — 6-8 center Ralph Brewster is only a hair below that at 9.9 a game.

Plainsmen Take Thriller From Golden Sandies

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Monterey's Jan Hyslop hit a free throw with 25 seconds left to cinch a 49-46 Plainsman victory over Amarillo Friday night.

It boosted Monterey's record to 15-4, easily the best in the city and it prevented the Plainsmen from losing back-to-back games for the first time all season, but still coach Joe Michalka was in no mood for back-slapping.

"It's just as good to get that game out of the way," said Michalka, who has only three games left to get his team ready for district play.

The Plainsmen, and, for that matter, the Sandies as well, seemed to lack intensity in the game and made lots of mental errors throughout.

But when the crunch came, Monterey was ready.

After watching a 26-17 halftime lead dissolve in a little more than two minutes, the Plainsmen had to be satisfied with swapping buckets with the red-hot Amarillo bunch.

The Sandies tied the score at 26 with 5:15 to play in the third period. Monterey pulled ahead with a basket at 4:22 but then Scott Andrews connected on a bomb at 3:46 and Kevin Wagner hit a pair of free throws at 3:22 to give Amarillo a 30-28 lead, its first of the game.

It didn't last long. Again, Monterey looked like it could put the game on ice as big Trav Clardy put together back-to-back three-point plays at 3:07 and 2:06 to put Monterey ahead 34-30.

But Wagner connected again to pull the Sandies within two and the Plainsmen had to be satisfied with maintaining that margin till the end of the period.

Wagner, who scored only six points, was the key man again as he hit the opening shot of the final quarter to knot the score at 36 and throw the game into a wild chase.

In all, the score was tied seven times and the lead changed hands twice in the second half.

With 2:01 left, Steve Wooten connected to put Monterey up 46-44 and several Amarillo turnovers frustrated the Sandies' attempts to tie the score again.

The final one came with 55 seconds left and the Plainsmen went promptly into a stall, forcing Amarillo to foul Hyslop with :25 left.

He made the front end of the one-and-one, and for the first time since midway through the third period, Monterey led by more than two points, 47-44.

AMARILLO (Special) — Tony Westmoreland scored 19 points and Ed Shaver and Todd Loftis both pumped in an additional 18 points each Friday night to lead Palo Duro to a 71-64 double-overtime win over the visiting Coronado Mustangs.

Leading Coronado were Williams with 16 points, Kirk Johnson with 13 points, and Sam Law and Love with 12 points each.

The Ponies will entertain Amarillo Tascosa in the CHS gym Tuesday night.

ance free throws at .08 to ice the victory. Michalka attributed much of Monterey's problems to Amarillo. "They are a very tall team, that affected our play," he said.

"We're really not as tall as people think we are. We start some pretty short guards.

"I'm disappointed that we lost our lead. The third quarter is usually our best. But they made the shots when it counted. We tried to make them shoot outside shots, but you saw what they did. In the end though, I think we're a little better shooters overall than they are. We shot 50 percent from the floor, they shot 44 percent."

Michalka added that Amarillo's deliberate style of play disturbed the

He birdied the final four holes to break the old course record of 66 shared by three pros — Dan Sikes, Larry Ziegler and Ken Towns — who achieved their scores on Bing Crosby Pro-Am tournaments. Clampett's best previous score at Spylglass was 70.

The 20-year-old golfer, an All-American at Brigham Young University, had a 54-hole total of 15-under-par 201 and held a two-stroke lead over former BYU golfer Mike Reid as the tournament headed into the final round, scheduled Saturday on the famed Pebble Beach course. The Spalding Invitational, a non-tour event, has a first prize of $22,500 which, should Clampett win, would go to the runner-up.

Clampett could become the first amateur since 1956, when Doug Sanders won, the Canadian Open, to win a significant pro tournament. He was named the nation's best amateur golfer in 1978 when he was low amateur finisher in the U.S. Open and won the Western Amateur, California State Amateur and several other titles.

Reid posted a 66 Friday at the Corral de Tierra course for his three-round total of 203. Gary McCord, with a 67, was at 205 and third. Mike Morley, Alan Tapie and John Buzcek were at 206, and J.C. Sneed was in a group at 220.

Jan Stephenson, at 207, had the best score of the three women pro competing in the event. Defending champion Al Geiberger, who beat Clampett in a playoff last year, was out of contention at 217.

All 78 pros will play in the final round. The pro-am play ended Friday. Baseball stars Jim Rice and Jim Palmer were on the team which finished second, behind the amateur threesome of Jim Remmert, Brian Sugahara and Gerald Owens.

The amateur teams had different pro partners each day.

NEW YORK (AP) — Atlanta's Dan Roundfield and John Drew continue to lead the vote-getters at forward for the Eastern Conference team for the National Basketball Association All-Star Game, but Philadelphia's Julius Erving is rapidly gaining on them.

In the latest fan balloting, released Thursday, Roundfield had 97,895 votes. Drew had 96,447 and Erving, the most valuable player in the 1977 All-Star Game, was third with 80,061.

Meanwhile, guard George Gervin of San Antonio, the league's top scorer, remained the leading vote-collector overall in the East with 149,365. Eddie Johnson of Atlanta was second among the guards with 113,538 votes and Moses Malone of Houston led the centers with 111,720 votes.

The Dimmitt boys fell for the ninth time this year Friday night, losing to Tulia 51-48. The Hornets were led by Walter Brown, who had 16 points, while DHS was paced by Joe Nino's 11 points. Dimmitt is now 10-9.

Becky Andrews paced the Dimmitt girls with 24 points as the Bobcats downed Tulia 77-45. Dimmitt is now 13-7 for the year. Leading Tulia was Shanna Burrow with 12 points.

MIDLAND DROPS PERMIAN
Herb Johnson scored 22 points to lead Midland to a 78-70 win over Odessa Permian in the first District 5-AAAA game of the season for both teams.

Scott Wynne paced Permian with 21 points. Midland is 19-4 for the season and Permian is 11-7.

TAHOKA NIPS DENVER CITY
Kenny Nipp exploded for 34 points to lead the Tahoka Bulldogs to a 58-55 victory over Denver City Friday night. The 'Dogs are 3-0 in District 5-AA play, while the Mustangs fell to 1-2. Russell Sherrill had 13 for the losers.

The girls' game was considerably more one-sided as Denver City whipped Tahoka 68-30 behind the 22-point performance of Linda Mull. DCHS is 3-0 in loop play, Tahoka 0-3.

PLAINS, ROPES SPLIT
Joey Flores fired in 12 points to lead a balanced Plains team to a 51-46 victory over Ropes Friday night. The PHS boys are now 2-1 in district play and 8-7 on the year — Ropes is 1-2 in loop play. Mark Moore had 21 points for the losers.

In the girls' tilt, Ropes got 13 markers from Miss Milton to defeat Plains 61-38. Miss Nance had 13 for the losers.

BUFFS TRAMPLE CROSBYTON
Petersburg downed Crosbyton 87-66 as Quintan Berry scored 22 points and Mike Willis pumped in 20 points for the Buffaloes. PHS is now 4-0 in conference play. Crosbyton 1-3. Harvey Fink drilled 22 points for the losers.

In girls' play, Crosbyton whipped Petersburg in overtime 62-61. J. Dwyer hit 25 points for Crosbyton — three in overtime. Valerie McLaughlin paced PHS with 23 points. PHS is now 1-3 in district play. Crosbyton 2-2.

SUDAN DOWNS BLEDSOE
Kenneth Williams bucketed 16 points to lead Sudan to a 54-50 win over Bledsoe. Harvey Jazier canned 17 points for BHS (12-1).

In girls' play, Sudan scored a 70-33 victory as Lisa Wood pumped in 18 points for the winners and Patty Hall 11 points for Bledsoe (9-8).

He birdied the final four holes to break the old course record of 66 shared by three pros — Dan Sikes, Larry Ziegler and Ken Towns — who achieved their scores on Bing Crosby Pro-Am tournaments. Clampett's best previous score at Spylglass was 70.

The 20-year-old golfer, an All-American at Brigham Young University, had a 54-hole total of 15-under-par 201 and held a two-stroke lead over former BYU golfer Mike Reid as the tournament headed into the final round, scheduled Saturday on the famed Pebble Beach course. The Spalding Invitational, a non-tour event, has a first prize of $22,500 which, should Clampett win, would go to the runner-up.

Clampett could become the first amateur since 1956, when Doug Sanders won, the Canadian Open, to win a significant pro tournament. He was named the nation's best amateur golfer in 1978 when he was low amateur finisher in the U.S. Open and won the Western Amateur, California State Amateur and several other titles.

Reid posted a 66 Friday at the Corral de Tierra course for his three-round total of 203. Gary McCord, with a 67, was at 205 and third. Mike Morley, Alan Tapie and John Buzcek were at 206, and J.C. Sneed was in a group at 220.

Jan Stephenson, at 207, had the best score of the three women pro competing in the event. Defending champion Al Geiberger, who beat Clampett in a playoff last year, was out of contention at 217.

All 78 pros will play in the final round. The pro-am play ended Friday. Baseball stars Jim Rice and Jim Palmer were on the team which finished second, behind the amateur threesome of Jim Remmert, Brian Sugahara and Gerald Owens.

The amateur teams had different pro partners each day.

NEW YORK (AP) — Atlanta's Dan Roundfield and John Drew continue to lead the vote-getters at forward for the Eastern Conference team for the National Basketball Association All-Star Game, but Philadelphia's Julius Erving is rapidly gaining on them.

In the latest fan balloting, released Thursday, Roundfield had 97,895 votes. Drew had 96,447 and Erving, the most valuable player in the 1977 All-Star Game, was third with 80,061.

Meanwhile, guard George Gervin of San Antonio, the league's top scorer, remained the leading vote-collector overall in the East with 149,365. Eddie Johnson of Atlanta was second among the guards with 113,538 votes and Moses Malone of Houston led the centers with 111,720 votes.

The All-Star Game will be played Feb. 3 at Landover, Md.

Snow, Cold Forecast For AFC Contest

GETTING READY FOR HOUSTON — The Three Rivers Stadium grounds crew used brush-equipped tractors to clear snow from the football field Friday afternoon. The Steelers will host the Houston Oilers in the American Football Conference title game Sunday. The winner goes on to Super Bowl XIV. Winter weather is predicted in the Pittsburgh area. (AP Laserphoto)

PITTSBURGH (AP) — It wasn't too long after Houston's surprising victory in sunny San Diego that the Oilers' quarterback began thinking of the chilling prospect of playing once more for a championship in the tundra known as Pittsburgh.

"We'll win this one, even if we have to find a secret way to hold onto a wet, frozen ball," Pastorini said, half-joking.

It may not be a joke at all. There's a very good chance that, like last year at this time, snow will cover Three Rivers Stadium as the Oilers and Steelers battle for the American Football Conference title and a berth in the Super Bowl.

About two inches of fresh snow had fallen Friday as the Steelers practiced amid temperatures in the mid 20s. Snow flurries were forecast for Saturday. The Oilers practiced Friday in Houston before flying here.

"We won't let the weather be a factor," Pastorini said, reflecting on last year's title game, when the sleet and slush befouled Houston's plans, helped the Steelers reel off 17 points in the last 52 seconds of the first half and propelled them to a 34-5 victory.

Terry Bradshaw, the Pittsburgh quarterback, isn't buying Pastorini's claims. He thinks the weather will be a definite factor, especially since the Oilers don't have to contend with it in their Astronomy.

"When you get this far, you need every edge you can get and we'll take the home-field advantage," Bradshaw said. "It doesn't snow in Houston. If it snows here, that's an edge we'll take."

The weather isn't the only thing giving Pittsburgh a potential edge. The ballpark itself has been a factor for visiting teams. The Steelers have won their last 15 home games and 23 of their last 24, the only loss coming at the hands of the Oilers, 24-17 on Monday night, Oct. 23, 1978.

Although the Oilers may not be at full strength, what with running back Earl Campbell, quarterback Dan Pastorini and others still recovering from a variety of injuries, the Steelers aren't exhibiting any overconfidence.

"San Diego probably fell into that thing," Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll said when asked about the possibility that his players might take Houston too lightly. "I hope we don't and I don't think our football team will. We have a great deal of respect for the Oilers — before, after and still. They (Campbell and Pastorini) could well be ready to go. In fact, we'll expect that. That's the way we'll go into the game."

"I think everybody is anxious and gunned up when you come into a playoff situation," Noll continued. "That is a normal and natural thing, to be excited by it. I don't care how many times you've been in it, you're excited by the game. Just a regular football game will make the adrenalin go."

Meanwhile, the Oilers packed their winter gear and headed for Pittsburgh Friday where coach Bum Phillips said neither weather nor the type of shoes the Oilers wear will have anything to do with the outcome of Sunday's American Football Conference title game.

The Oilers will be playing on the Pittsburgh's home turf where last year they gave up six fumbles and lost to the Steelers, 34-5, in the cold and rain.

The Oilers again will carry the same special weather shoes they used a year ago, but Phillips doesn't regard equipment as a factor.

"There was a whole lot more going on on that field last year than shoes," Phillips said. "There were some other things — happening out there."

Campbell, who counts himself 100 percent healed from a groin injury, added that weather would not be a factor.

"Sometimes you get so involved in a game that you don't even hear the crowd until the game is over," the NFL rushing champion said. "You don't feel the cold after you start playing."

The Oilers public relations staff discouraged media from attempting to interview Oilers players prior to their departure Friday afternoon. Interviews following Thursday's workout heated up when Pastorini showed a writer following an argument.

Phillips again closed workouts to the media following an incident prior to last week's game, when some Oilers blocking adjustments showed up on San Diego television prior to the game.

Despite the appearance of tenseness from the closed workouts and Pastorini-writer scuffle, Phillips and Oilers players say they are much more relaxed than a year ago when the Oilers reached the playoffs.

"It was all new to us last year," Phillips said. "We weren't used to having this many people at a news conference. The players weren't used to signing autographs for an hour. We know what to expect this time around."

Oiler cornerback Greg Stenrick said the Oilers were looser than last year.

"We're certainly not overconfident, but we kind of know what to expect this time," Stenrick said. "We know what we have to do and we're going to do it."

McKay Detects No Signs Of Pressure

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Coach John McKay put his young Tampa Bay Bucs through their final full practice Friday before Sunday's National Football Conference title game, and said he didn't detect any signs of pressure.

"I told my team after practice: 'You're so loose you look like a goose, just don't play like one and lose,'" McKay said. "I guess that's poetry."

McKay said his upstart team, accused of choking during a late season three-game losing streak, has "gotten over the biggest hurdle — that's winning the Central Division. I think that gave them a lot of confidence and they still have it."

"The enthusiasm of the fans and the enthusiasm of the young players is carrying us right now," McKay said.

McKay conceded that his team will be going against a Los Angeles Rams team full of experienced veterans.

"But we've got players of our own who have been in big games. This is the biggest thing about our inexperience in that the players don't have a point of retreat," McKay said. "I can go over to Charley Hannah (converted to offensive tackle this season) and say, 'Charlie, remember how you did this last year?' And then he says, 'But coach, I was playing defense last year.'"

McKay said he won't change his normal game weekend routine this week, explaining that "overcoaching is a bugaboo with a lot of coaches" in important games.

"I will play golf this afternoon. I will not look at any more pictures (game films), I will not burn the midnight oil, and I will get my beauty sleep," McKay said. "I'll meet with the team once and give them some sage words of advice — that will last about 34 seconds."

McKay, wearing a bright pink golf sweater and smoking his familiar stogie, was as relaxed and jovial at his news conference as Bucs players have been in interviews all this week.

McKay was asked how he assessed his team's chances of winning the division before the season.

"My original statement was, and get this for posterity, was that anybody can win the Central Division. Even somebody who's not in the division could win it if they wanted to," he replied. McKay, who has guided the Bucs to the highest point ever reached by a fourth-year franchise, said he decided to rely on the draft and young players after studying case histories of past expansion teams.

"A lot of them traded for quality players who were over-the-hill and won three or four games ... When you do that you're getting players the other teams want to get rid of," he said. McKay added that because his team has built through the draft, "We will be a much stronger football team three years from now, because these young players will have experience."

McKay talked about some of the key Bucs this season, starting with second-year quarterback Doug Williams.

"He's very very coachable, a very calm person. He listens to us. We don't want him to listen to his players."

"The receivers come back and say, 'I'm open, I'm open.' You have eight guys, open and you only sent three out," McKay explained.

McKay, who traded away draft rights to Earl Campbell, said he would have picked Williams, the 17th player chosen in the 1978 draft, ahead of Campbell.

"We had to have a quarterback, that's the big thing. I think he's the best quarterback to come out in several years," McKay said.

McKay was asked if he felt that Williams, a star at Grambling, had been passed over by other teams because he is black.

"I think that would be a poor comment on our society if it were true," McKay said. "Most of the teams who didn't pick him won't be playing Sunday. I would have taken him if he was Chinese — tall Chinese."

McKay said the additions of Hannah, rookie guard Greg Roberts and tight end Jimmie Giles have greatly improved the offensive line.

"We had people who are no longer here, and truthfully, people who are no longer playing football (on the past Bucs lines). I get most of my plays from Scholastic Coach magazine, but they never work for us because you always need somebody to block somebody."

Of All-Pro defensive end Lee Roy Sellmon, McKay said, "I don't think he weighs 260, but he may have at birth.

He's a house. If he had a chimney you could sell him."

McKay also mentioned Thursday's incident in Houston, when Oiler quarterback Dan Pastorini physically threw a reporter out of the locker room.

"Did he win that one? We lost the last one in Boston. You guys had us down 1-0," said McKay, referring to earlier this season, when Boston sports writer Will McDonough punched Patriot player Raymond Clayborn.

McKay compared his feelings this year to his 1962 national championship at Southern Cal.

"One's a 37-year-old thrill, and this is a 55-year-old thrill," McKay said.

McKay was reminded that during his Southern Cal tenure, he was three times offered the Rams head coaching job.

"Well, I was in their city, there weren't any moving costs so they could get me cheaper because I would live in the same house," McKay said.

Cowboys Fans Still Watching Football

DALLAS (AP) — What becomes of Dallas Cowboys fans when America's Team falls short of the Super Bowl? Well, they don't stop watching football.

Some of the more die-hard fans, still trying to rationalize the sudden malevolence of the Los Angeles Rams, watch the playoffs with a detached coolness.

Others, however, find that watching football is no fun without being for or against at least one of the teams playing. So they cast off old rivalries and root — temporarily, of course — for the Houston Oilers.

In the fall, Dallas fans and Houston fans are best known for their hatred of each other. But when it comes down to it, they would rather have a Texas team win the Superbowl than a bunch of Yankees — or Californians.

Eulogies for the Cowboys lasted about three days in Dallas. The final words came from defensive lineman Larry Cole on Brad Sham's call-in radio talk show Wednesday night.

Then a note came up from the audience: "Now that the Cowboys are out of it, let's become Oilers fans."

And so the subject in offices and bars has become whether quarterback Dan Pastorini and running back Earl Campbell will be healthy enough to play, and whether Terry Bradshaw can withstand the onslaught of Texas' Team.

Conversations may not be as enthusiastic as they were about Roger Staubach, but they are growing.

"There's a lot of talk about Houston," said Bill Chapman, manager of the Point After, a Greenville Avenue sports bar. "Everybody's wondering if Earl is going to be ready and Pastorini. All our folks seem to have adopted Houston now that the Cowboys are gone. We'll have a full house for Houston."

"I think Earl Campbell has made the difference," Chapman said, "his presence and the fact he's from our part of the country. And (coach) Bum Phillips — everybody likes him."

Said Sham: "It's part because they're in Texas, part Earl Campbell and part because the way they beat San Diego, all guts."

Although Cowboys coach Tom Landry will not be watching Houston's game against Pittsburgh on Sunday, even he admits he has a soft spot for the Oilers.

Writer Likes Bucs, Steelers

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers have a history of rising to the occasion and winning the big games. The Los Angeles Rams tend to go in the opposite direction.

Which is why, when Super Bowl Sunday arrives 15 days from now, the Steelers and — yes! — the Tampa Bay Buccaneers will trot onto the turf in Pasadena, Calif.

In a postseason series crammed full of upsets (bye-bye, Philly; see ya, Dallas; so long, San Diego), there's room for one more. But nobody upsets Pittsburgh.

NATIONAL CONFERENCE

TAMPA BAY 20, LOS ANGELES 16: The Rams shouldn't even be here. They were oh, so lucky to defeat the Cowboys, whose defense committed the unpardonable sin of relaxing for a few disastrous moments.

The Bucs commit no such sins. They'll have Vince Ferr-gamo running for his life from start to finish. They'll blanket Wendell Tyler all day. They'll...aww, you get the point.

And what of the Tampa Bay offense? It's got one, we discovered last Saturday. And unless Doug Williams gets rattled and Ricky Bell gets hurt, it'll be quite enough, thanks.

AMERICAN CONFERENCE

PITTSBURGH 24, HOUSTON 10: The Steelers don't wig-wag their signals to the huddle from the sidelines, like the Chargers do. Terry Bradshaw calls his own plays — so there'll be nothing for the Oilers to steal...except out of town very quickly.

The Steelers will eat Dan Pastorini for breakfast and munch on Earl Campbell for lunch. Meanwhile, John Stallworth and Lynn Swann will frolic in the secondary (are you listening, Vernon Perry?) and Franco Harris will get his 100 yards or so.

Morton Plans To Play Again

DENVER (AP) — Quarterback Craig Morton has decided to return for the 1980 season, the Denver Broncos said Friday.

Morton had said before the end of Denver's National Football League season that he might retire.

Broncos' Coach Red Miller said he had talked with Morton on Thursday. "He has indicated that he is not about to quit," said Miller. "He wants to come back and be a part of the Broncos for another year, and we welcome him back with us."

Said Sham: "It's part because they're in Texas, part Earl Campbell and part because the way they beat San Diego, all guts."

Aggies Return Home To Host Feisty Bears

By A-J Wire Services

Texas A&M hasn't played many games at home this season, last appearing in the G. Rollie White Coliseum on Dec. 12.

But the Aggies finally return home tonight to play in a game that could provide a somewhat better clue as to the personality of the pre-season conference favorites.

A&M will host old-time rival Baylor in the latest renewal of a basketball feud that has had some warring moments down through the years.

The Aggies staggered to a six-point victory over TCU in their opening conference game last Thursday night and Baylor should provide a somewhat tougher test than did the Frogs.

Baylor was given little chance to make much noise in the SWC this year, but the Bears have won five of their last six games.

The Baylor-A&M attraction will be the highlight of the today's SWC action.

In this afternoon's, televised game, Texas Tech will try to make it two league wins in a row at home against Houston. The Red Raiders upset Texas in Austin Thursday night while Houston had troubles with Rice — a team to which it has never lost.

TCU will travel to Rice in another SWC game and Texas will visit SMU in a crucial contest for two clubs that hoped to contend for the conference title. Texas was defeated at home in its initial league game while SMU dropped a decision at Arkansas.

The Razorbacks, who broke a three-game losing streak with the win over SMU, will play a non-conference game tonight at Pine Bluff, Ark., against Northeast Louisiana.

That will serve as a warmup for a two-game road trip next week in which the Razorbacks will travel to TCU and Texas.

Arkansas had little trouble with SMU, breaking a three-game losing string with strong inside shooting and complete domination in rebounding.

"They killed us on the glass," said SMU coach Sonny Allen, after the Razorbacks out-rebounded the Ponies 48-30. Houston's full-court press was too much for Rice, as the Cougars coasted to a 78-70 win. The Cougars' backcourt combo of the Williams boys — Kenny and Robert — combined for 38 points in the game.

Stars White, Sims Still Hurting From New Year's Day Games

HONOLULU (AP)—The biggest attraction for the some 49,000 fans in the Aloha Stadium stands and the national television audience in today's 34th annual Hula Bowl will no doubt be Heisman Trophy winners Charles White and Billy Sims.

But both White, who was given college football's prestigious honor for his efforts at Southern California this season, and Sims, who earned the title as a junior at Oklahoma last year, are taking the game in stride.

"I don't look at it as me against Charles White," Sims said. "I know the type of player he is, and he knows about me."

"This is a different type of game, a fun game. We don't even have a punt team," he said.

The two running backs were still on the mend from New Year's bowl games going into the Hula Bowl, but after Friday's final practice, game promoters said both would be in the East versus West action.

Sims says having only three days rest from the Orange Bowl will definitely be a factor.

"I'm still sore after coming from Miami. I don't know how much I'll play," he said.

White, who took a licking in his record-setting performance in the Rose Bowl, was the final Hula Bowl player to arrive in town, and looked weary from his bout with the flu and sore.

He still sports a large bandage over a deep cut on the bridge of his nose which took eight stitches to close, but said "I'll be ready to play."

Not everyone at Aloha Stadium will be looking to see White and Sims breakaway for those thrilling runs.

For one, there's West defender Steve McMichael, an All-American tackle from Texas, whose job will be to stop Sims.

"The key to stopping Sims is fast pursuit and gang-tackling," said the 6-foot-2, 250-pound Longhorn.

He's going to break some tackles but not all. I hope hope, anyway."

While much of the attention has gone to White and Sims, they are not the only running backs in the game.

East Coach Bo Schembecher of Michigan also has Matt Suhey of Penn State, Iowa's Dennis Mosley and Joe Cribbs of Auburn.

West Coach Fred Akers of Texas also has in his backfield Nebraska's I.M. Hipp, James Hadnot of Texas Tech and Jerry Ellis of Missouri.

A couple of pro-type passers, USC's Paul McDonald and Arizona State's Mark Malone, will quarterback the West team, while James Streater of Tennessee and Minnesota's Mark Carlson round out the East backfield.

Air Battle Imminent At Shrine Classic

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—A classic air-ground battle was shaping up for today's East-West Shrine game, but West coach LaVell Edwards admits it may not be settled in the first three quarters.

"In the fourth quarter we'll try to win the ballgame. We'll go with whoever's doing well," the Brigham Young University coach said Friday, leaving little doubt the West's fate was linked to its considerable passing fortunes.

"I think that's a pretty good assumption," Edwards said when asked whether the star-filled game stacked up as a passing-rushing encounter.

In BYU's Marc Wilson and Stanford's Turk Schonert, the West has two of the top passers in the nation this year. Edwards said Wilson would start, but he guaranteed both quarterbacks would see plenty of playing time.

But despite a strong aerial squad, Edwards understands both sides of the argument on whether a passing team or a rushing team has an advantage when two teams are filled with stars — including a stable of running backs on the East team — and there is little preparation time. He's taking nothing for granted.

"Generally it might be a little easier to throw the ball," Edwards said, "but it all depends on the blocking. If you have a matchup, if the offensive line for one team is a lot stronger than the other team's defensive line, then it's an advantage to run the ball, because the defense can't do anything. It can't blitz, or stack its linebackers, or move into gaps (because of the rules established before the game)."

If size in the line is a key, the East offensive line outweighs the West by an average 258-250, but the East's defensive line is 13 pounds per man heavier than the opposition's at 263-250.

East coach Charlie McClendon of Louisiana State University said he hasn't decided on a starting quarterback, but he has his choice of two experienced in the running-oriented option offense. Bill Hurley of Syracuse and David Woodley of LSU. McClendon said Hurley and Woodley would probably alternate throughout the game.

"We know that you can't move the ball consistently just on the ground," McClendon observed, noting the team has not ignored its passing practice.

But for his running game, McClendon will be calling on the talents of Vegas Ferguson of Notre Dame, Perry Harrington of Jackson State, Mike Guman of Penn State and Frank Mordica of Vanderbilt.

"I assure you this now," McClendon said, "coaches, players — we're going to give our left arm to win. That's one thing about athletics. If you play marbles, you're going to play to win."

Last year the East snapped a three-game series of West victories by defeating the West 56-17.

Texas Tech's offensive tackle Ken Walter will be playing for the West squad in today's classic.

Sampson Decides To Quit

HOUSTON (UPI)—Houston Oilers offensive tackle Greg Sampson, who missed this season because of brain surgery but said he planned to rejoin the team next year, has decided not to try a comeback.

"The doctors told me I should not try to play football again," Sampson said. "I was emotionally involved in football. The longer I was away from it, the more logic chipped away at those emotions."

When the team returned to Houston from their San Angelo training camp Aug. 1, Sampson, 28, complained of severe headaches. He was taken to Methodist Hospital where the clot was discovered by a brain scanning machine.

Sampson underwent surgery the same day to remove the clot.

"The doctors told me then that if they could drain the clot by making a small hole, I could play again," Sampson said. "But if they had to make a three-inch hole, a flap they called it, the chances weren't so good."

It was necessary to make the larger hole.

Point-Shaving, Gambling Mentioned At Hearing

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — University of New Mexico President William E. "Bud" Davis said a federal grand jury probing the school's beleaguered athletic program asked him about possible gambling or point-shaving.

"It was mentioned just briefly," Davis said. "All I could tell them was that I don't know anything about it."

Davis appeared Thursday before the grand jury.

U.S. Attorney R.E. Thompson de-lined comment when asked if the grand jury also was investigating allegations of gambling and point-shaving.

"If that's what President Davis said he was asked, I won't dispute that," Thompson said.

Former UNM Athletic Director Lavon McDonald, who testified Friday for more than an hour, said gambling and point-shaving "weren't even brought up."

McDonald said he was asked "mostly about administrative procedures" in hiring and in recruiting student athletes.

The grand jury met in December and heard about three days of testimony without issuing any indictments. Testimony resumed this week.

The grand jury investigation follows a disclosure in November by the FBI that it was investigating possible mail fraud and bribery in connection with a UNM basketball player's transcript.

Former Lobo head basketball coach Norm Ellenberger and assistant Manny

Goldstein were suspended after the FBI released a document, contained in a sworn affidavit filed in U.S. District Court, of a wiretapped telephone conversation between Ellenberger and Goldstein.

The document alleged that Goldstein had the junior college transcript of UNM basketball player Craig Gilbert doctored.

Ellenberger later was fired and Goldstein resigned.

Six Lobo basketball players were declared ineligible in early December when the players said they had not enrolled in or attended the controversial Ottawa University course.

It later was learned that three UNM football players also received Ottawa University credits without attending classes. They also were declared ineligible.

UNM has forfeited six 1979 football triumphs and a basketball victory this year because the ineligible players participated in the games.

International Swimming Competition Begins

AUSTIN (AP) — The third annual USA Women's International Swimming Competition, billed as a 1980 Olympic preview, began here today, with more than 175 women from 10 nations entered.

National swim teams from the United States, Russia, East Germany, Canada and Sweden, plus individual swimmers from five other countries and three U.S. club teams are represented, including seven women who hold eight world records.

The 100-meter freestyle today matched world record holder Barbara Krause of East Germany and Cynthia "Sippy" Woodhead of the United States, the current American record holder.

The same pair will also compete Sunday in the 200 freestyle, in which Woodhead recently broke Krause's world record.

Meet officials will not tally team points, but the individual performances could indicate relative strengths in advance of the Olympics.

East Germany dominated the 1976 Olympics at Montreal, Canada, winning 11 of 13 possible gold medals but the United States team had a strong showing in the 1978 World Games.

The U.S. national team was chosen based on times at the 1979 AAU Long Course National Championships. Besides Woodhead, it includes world record holder Tracy Caulkins (200-meter and 400-meter individual medleys), Kim Linehan (1,500-meter freestyle) and Linda Jezek (200-meter backstroke).

The other record holders are Krause and two Russians, Julia Bogdanova (100-meter breaststroke) and Lina Kachushite (200-meter breaststroke).

Krause, 20, missed the 1976 Olympics because of illness but has not lost a 100-meter competition since then. She was the first woman to break 56 seconds in the 100 freestyle—54.41—and two minutes—1:59.03—in the 200 freestyle.

"We're very optimistic for 1980," she said.

"The top female swimmers—most of the ones who are going to win medals this summer—are going to be here," said director Steve Berizzi of the Texas Swimming Center, the $7 million pool on the University of Texas campus, where the meet will be held.

"It's the first chance they've had to get together since the World Games in 1978 and the last they'll have until Moscow," said Berizzi.

Preliminaries are scheduled for noon today and Sunday, with finals in 14 events—seven each day—starting at 7 p.m. CST, both days.

Rangers Reacquire Clyde From Tribe

ARLINGTON (AP) — The Texas Rangers obtained outfielder Jim Norris and re-acquired pitcher David Clyde from the Cleveland Indians Friday in exchange for outfielder Gary Gray, pitcher Larry McCall and third baseman Mike Buccì.

Clyde, 24, joined the Rangers in 1973 after graduating from Houston's Westchester High School as the No. 1 pick in the major league baseball draft.

Rangers' Executive Vice President Eddie Robinson said that Norris, a left-handed hitter, was the key to the trade.

"If we're able to do something else down the road, then Norris is the key," Robinson said. "Of course, it's always desirable to have another left-handed pitcher. We have strength in our outfield. Norris, I think, is a good fourth or fifth outfielder. He can run well."

Robinson said the Rangers also got money in the deal but did not disclose the amount.

Norris, 31, batted .246 last season after hitting .276 for Cleveland in 1977 and .283 in 1978. He had 15 doubles, six triples and three home runs while driving in 30 runs in 1979.

Twenty days after Clyde was drafted by the Rangers, he was the starting pitcher for Texas against the Minnesota Twins before a big home crowd of 35,698. Clyde walked the first two batters he faced, but then struck out the next three batters swinging.

He got the victory in a 4-3 Rangers' triumph, although he pitched only five innings, allowing one hit, a two-run homer by Mike Adams.

In 1973, Clyde started 12 games for the Rangers in Texas. For those 12 games, the Rangers drew 218,240 fans, outstanding in a year when their season home attendance was only 686,150 for about 80 games. He finished 1973 with a 4-8 record and fell to 3-9 in 1974.

The former schoolboy who fell on hard times and wound up being traded to Cleveland. His overall major league record is 18-33.

Clyde underwent surgery in May 1976 to relieve a trapped nerve in his left shoulder.

McCall, a right-hander, was 14-2 at Tucson in the Pacific Coast League and 1-0 with the Rangers last season. Gray batted .305 at Tucson and .238 in 15 games with the Rangers. Buccì hit .256 at Tucson. Gray was included in the first trade—that fell through—to the New York Yankees involving Mickey Rivers. Gray did not produce when he was brought up from Tucson, and he accused the Rangers of being racist when he was sent back down.

Harms Captures NAIA Honor

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Ron Harms, who led Texas A&I to a national championship in his first season as head coach, is the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' 1979 Division I Football Coach of the Year.

Named head coach last July, Harms led the Javelinas to a 12-1 season and a 20-14 victory over Central State (Okla.) in the Palm Bowl for A&I's seventh national title.

Harms, offensive coordinator at Baylor (Texas) for the past three seasons, first joined the A&I staff in 1974 and helped initiate the veer offense, the offensive pattern still used by the Javelinas.

In his two seasons as offensive coordinator, A&I compiled a 25-0 record in winning two NAIA national championships.

TV After Segmented Audiences

NEW YORK (AP) — One way to look at the very near future of television, says David Liroff, broadcast manager at Boston's public TV station, WGBH, is to examine the history of radio.

"It's similar to what happened as television began to monopolize the audience in the '50s and '60s," he says. "Radio began to target in on smaller and smaller segments of the audience. It was the start of 'format' radio."

"It's marvelous, in the sense that history is repeating itself, but that is just what's happening to television."

The capacity to transmit the TV signal by satellite and cable already has begun to chip away at old geographical limitations, Liroff says, and the broadcaster now does not have to aim solely at the general audience.

"Because the satellite has made distribution of the signal so inexpensive, compared to the old ground line method it's relatively easy now to aggregate an audience in small groups around the country and provide those groups with specialized programming."

"We've already got an all-sports network, there's the Christian network, and we're about to have an all-news network," Liroff says.

"And go one more step," he says, "and look at the development of home computers and video games. The television set has become more than just a display device for the networks."

"We're looking at a much more personalized video service."

All of this interests Liroff personally, and more so as an executive at one of public TV's most sophisticated, most productive stations.

WGBH is responsible for nearly a third of the prime-time programs offered stations in the Public Broadcasting Service network: from programs produced elsewhere, like the "Masterpiece Theater" series from Britain, to those WGBH produces itself, like "The Scarlet Letter."

Liroff, 35, is a native of Brooklyn with a background that is both practical and academic. A 1966 graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, he taught radio and television at Ohio University, and later worked at the school's public TV station.

He was director of programming at St. Louis' public television station, KETC, before going to work at WGBH just months ago.

Liroff's primary job is to attract more viewers to WGBH, as well as to WGBX, the Boston station's UHF outlet, and that spells planning.

"What is intriguing about 'GBH,' he says, "is that for a number of years, it has had the critical mass to put sufficient resources into research and development, to begin to capitalize on changes in the environment," meaning the television environment.

"There are so many explorations going on," he says. "Our problem now is limiting the directions in which we want to go."

"For me, as a local broadcaster, I can see how, in addition to operating two channels, we could be feeding four or six cable systems."

From a content standpoint, Liroff says, the difference between public and commercial television is clear. But that, too, he says, will change.

"I'm in public broadcasting because I believe there should be some social utility in the use of the medium. A good deal of what the commercial networks offer is for relaxation but relaxation also can be social utility, as Norman Lear and others have demonstrated with shows like 'All in the Family.'

"And the distinction between what we do and what Lear or David Wolper, who did 'Roots,' or Mary Tyler Moore, do, should begin to disappear," he says.

Steve Martin Signs Contract With NBC

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Steve Martin, the "wild and crazy guy," has signed an exclusive contract to star in a series of specials for NBC over the next three years, Mike Weinblatt, president of NBC Entertainment, said Friday.

Martin, the star of the movie "The Jerk," will also develop other television projects for NBC.

"Steve Martin typifies the kind of contemporary humor we want at NBC," Weinblatt said at a news conference. "He is equally comfortable starring in his own special, hosting 'Saturday Night Live,' or as a guest or sitting in for Johnny Carson on the 'Tonight' show."

Weinblatt addressed a group of newspaper television editors here to preview new shows to be aired by NBC, CBS and ABC.

He also announced that Robert Blake, who starred for four years as "Baretta" on ABC, would make two movies for NBC and added that Marie Osmond had signed a long-term exclusive contract.

Blake will star as George in a new film version of John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men" and will play private detective

Joe Dancer, a character he created, in a movie. The private eye movie apparently will be a pilot for a future series.

Plans for Miss Osmond call for her to star in a special and a movie this year. Weinblatt said. "It's also expected she will star in her own series to be developed for the 1981 season."

Pink Lady, a Japanese singing duo, will star with comedian Jeff Altman in six one-hour variety shows to be aired starting in March, he said. Mie and Kei are the top female recording stars in the world, although they are not yet well known in this country. They are 21 and have grossed more than $100 million in record sales since they began performing in Japan three years ago.

Weinblatt said Martin's contract also calls for his company to develop comedy and variety series for the network.

Martin's performances have grossed $150 million in the past five years. His activities include movies, television, recordings, books, and personal appearances in concert halls, college campuses and the hotels of Las Vegas and Lake Tahoe. He has been host of "Saturday Night Live" seven times and has made more than 40 appearances as guest or host of the "Tonight" show.

Photographic Genius To Exhibit Works During 14 City Tour

PHOTOGRAPHIC GENIUS EXHIBIT — Henri Cartier-Bresson's "Brussels, 1932," is one of 155 photographs by the French genius in an exhibition which will visit 14 cities in the next two years. (NEA Photo)

By NORMAN NADEL
 NEW YORK (NEA) — For 50 of his 71 years, Henri Cartier-Bresson has constructed his life work out of small fractions of a second. These have been the exposure times for photographs which rank high among the most spontaneous ever taken, and at the same time, the most exquisitely composed and balanced.

NORMAN NADEL

So the exhibition "Henri Cartier-Bresson: Photographer," which will visit 14 cities in the next two years following its current stand at the International Center of Photography in New York, would seem to be an impossible contradiction, despite the evidence before our eyes.

Ordinary mortals would take a long time to compose such lyrical arrangements of light and shadow, of figures and structures — if they could accomplish it at all. It would take a genius to compose his pictures unerringly, time after time, and do it almost instantaneously.

But Cartier-Bresson is a genius. There is no other explanation for his ability to create such photographs and always capture what he calls the decisive moment. True, he does get around: the 155 photographs in this exhibition were made in 23 countries, and often at decisive moments in history. These have included the liberation of the German concentration camp victims, the end of the Kuomintang and the start of Mao's regime in China in 1949, the first sit-ins in Alabama, and the death of Gandhi in India.

Other photographs, however, have no world-shaking significance beyond their eloquence and humanity. A loving couple on the grass in a cemetery, a horse and two men and a dog on an Irish road, children at play, people sleeping and an elegiac variety of street scenes.

Sometimes the subject is famous, but the image is far from ordinary. In 1961 Cartier-Bresson photographed the Swiss modernist sculptor, Alberto Giacometti, crossing a street in Paris in a down-pour, his coat pulled up over his head: it is an impression to treasure. William Faulkner, Ezra Pound, Colette, Turman Capote, Jean-Paul Sartre, Cardinal Pacelli (Pope Pius XII), Henri Matisse: each distinctly, no two the least bit alike.

Cartier-Bresson, born in France, prepared as a painter and would have become an artist with his incredible eye in any medium he might have chosen. But it was the 35-mm camera invented by Leitz engineer Oskar Barnack in Germany in 1914 and first put on the market by Leitz as the Leica in 1925, that set his course. It fit in the pocket, and could be whipped out for instant use. Also, it was for less conspicuous than previous equipment.

Following its New York showing "Henri Cartier-Bresson: Photographer" will pen Feb. 12 at the Art Institute of Chicago, then tour to Pittsburgh, Richmond, Mexico City, Seattle, Atlanta, Washington, Dallas, Philadelphia, Indianapolis, Cleveland, Boston, concluding its journey in Kansas City in the summer of 1982.

The companion book with the same title as the show has been published by Delaire for the ICP, at $29.95, in a square format almost a foot on each side, with all 155 black-and-white photos.

Coincidentally, "Style in Motion," devoted to the fashion and other photography of the Hungarian emigre Martin Munkacsí, has just been published by Clarkson N. Potter Inc. at $15; authors are Nancy White and John Esten.

Munkacsí, who came to prominence in the late 1920s, changed fashion illustration from something static to the spontaneous, untrammelled craft it is today, largely through his work for Harper's Bazaar. Cartier-Bresson has said that it was Munkacsí's work which inspired him to switch from painting to photography in 1931.

On another floor of the ICP during the Cartier-Bresson show is an exhibit of photographs taken in great European parks and gardens by Eugene Atget (1857-1927). In contrast to the larger and more commanding exhibition, these are quiet, traditional, contemplative; no instantaneous impressions here.

The muted quality is gently appealing and historically interesting. "Atget's Gardens," the accompanying book (Doubleday, $9.95 softcover, $19.95 hardcover), has essays by the show's guest curators, William Howard Adams and Jacqueline Onassis.

Both these exhibitions are corporations-supported. The Cartier-Bresson was funded by American Express Foundation, and the Atget by Vivitar, makers of lenses and other photographic equipment.

Actress Recalls Work With Thomas Edison

DALLAS (AP) — Rhea MacAdams never became a talking-picture star like Al Jolson, but she still considers herself the first actress to work in the field of sound movies.

She was "Rachael Acton" nearly 75 years ago, playing in "Forest Flower" at the Empire Theater on Broadway. Her part was that of an Indian maid who kills her lover and then herself with a poison arrow.

Among those in the audience was Thomas A. Edison. He persuaded her to help him test his prototype of a voice recording device, which he hoped to synchronize with "moving photographs" as the forerunner of talking movies.

"Edison said he liked my voice and diction," Mrs. MacAdams, 94, recalled in a recent interview at a Dallas retirement home, "and that he needed me to do some work with him."

"I remember we made five or six discs in just one or two days," she said. "There was something in the quality of my voice that pleased him."

"He was 3 tall, thin man with white hair, and he worked much like a teacher. "He called me 'little girl.'"

But Edison's commitment to develop the electric light bulb delayed introduction of his phonograph until 1912, and he died in 1931 before his sound movie device was perfected.

Mrs. MacAdams' acting career was interrupted by marriage. She never made it to Hollywood, and she still has never seen her only movie — a low-budget horror film produced by a niece in 1973.

She still reads Shakespeare, but her acting now is limited to recitations for other members of the retirement home, and she has little use for modern performers.

"I just do not like amateurs," she said, "and for that reason I don't think about the theater much today. So little of it is good, and it seems that mediocre people now make the big successes on stage. Most don't know what it's all about."

She frankly admits she would love the chance to rewrite the script of her life.

"The pleasant memories are really few. I'm not doing what I want to do. Oh, I would love to get to New York again."

But her smile is wide, her eyes twinkle when she reminisces and her voice is strong.

"I'm going to die with my boots on," she said.

'Kramer Vs. Kramer,' 'The Rose' Receive Good Grades From Film Critic

BLACK HOLE THE (PG) — Maximilian Schell, Anthony Perkins, Robert Forster. (Sci-Fi) This is Disney's attempt to do a big, lavish space film, and millifloris were spent on remarkable special effects. But they use a story they probably got for $2.98. And the actors ham it up dreadfully, so the whole thing is absurd, when they intended it to be amazing. The robots are cute, though. GRADE: C-minus.

ELECTRIC HORSEMAN, THE (PG) — Robert Redford, Jane Fonda. (Romantic drama) A textbook case of much ado about nothing, this is a lavish and loving production nicely, artistically photographed, with great stunts — all tacked on to a filmly, wispy story. A famous cowboy befriends a horse. And a female TV reporter (Jane Fonda plays it again) tags along. GRADE: B

GOING IN STYLE (PG) — George Burns, Art Carney, Lee Strasberg. (Drama/Comedy) Much talent is wasted on this tasteless film about three old men who turn from boredom to bank robbery. Poorly written and directed, and amateurishly edited, it has some good moments because of the cast. But it can't make up its mind what it intends to do, or to be. GRADE: C

HEAD OVER HEELS (PG) — John Heard, Mary Beth Hurt. (Comedy-Drama) On-again romance between a confused young woman and a flakey young man. Film is uneven but the performances are a constant delight. Heard is once again brilliant. GRADE: B

KRAMER VS. KRAMER (PG) — Dustin Hoffman, Meryl Streep. (Drama) A faithful adaptation of Avery Corman's novel, this is basically the story of a court battle over custody of a young boy, and what went before and came after that battle. No villains here, merely human beings with flaws. Magnificent performances, including one by a great new child actor, Justin Henry. GRADE: A-

"1941" (PG) — An all-star cast. "A comedy spectacle" Universal and Columbia call it. It may be the biggest disappointment in recent years. It's Steven Spiegel's attempt at comedy, set in panicky California a few days after Pearl Harbor. But the comedy is cartoon-style, done slapstick and with heavy-handed absurdities. There is no wit, style, grace. The real war was funnier. GRADE: C-minus

ONION FIELD, THE (R) — James Woods, John Savage. (Drama) The true story of two hoodlums and two cops. One is killed in the inevitable confrontation, and we learn what effect that has on the three survivors. Well acted, but slow. It is based on Joseph Wambaugh's book, which was plodding; in the movie, the plod thickens. GRADE: B

ROSE, THE (R) — Bette Midler, Alan Bates, Frederic Forrest. (Drama with music) This story of the tragic decline of a Janis Joplin-like singer is ugly and unpleasant, but tremendously effective and moving. Midler's performance is truly outstanding, and you'll fine yourself aching with her, as booze, drugs and men destroy her. Caution: Gutter language. GRADE: A RUNNER STUMBLES, THE (PG) — Dick Van Dyke, Kathleen Quinlan, Maureen Stapleton. (Drama) Producer-director Stanley Kramer always aims high, and does so again with this film version of a play about a priest, a nun, a romance (after a fashion) and a murder. The trouble is it sounds more exciting than it is, and the film is very slow going. The runner may stumble, but the film falls down. GRADE: B-minus.
