

Reward Of $1,000 Offered For Link To Murderer

CRIME LINE is offering a $1,000 reward for information in a Lamb County murder in which the identity of the victim remains unknown.

The body of a man law enforcement officers identified as "a Mexican male," 38-42 years old, was discovered Dec. 16 on a dirt road 2 miles south and 1 1/4 mile west of Springlake in Lamb County.

The victim was 5 feet 1 inch to 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighed 110-115 pounds. He had black hair and a heavy mustache slightly gray in color.

A hunter discovered the body which had a deep wound from the chin to the breast bone and also from ear to ear. A case three-bladed pocket knife with a black handle was in the victim's throat. An autopsy revealed the victim was dead or near death from strangulation prior to the knife slashing. The murder victim, who has not been identified, was last seen leaving the Starr Dance Hall in Dimmitt about 12:30 a.m. Dec. 16, 1979. No identification was found on the body, which was clothed in a green western shirt with a white yoke and dark Levi type pants. He was wearing brown soft leather shoes with thick rubber soles. There was a black muffler scarf with cotton lint on it near the body.

Persons with any information on the identity of the murder victim or the person or persons who committed the crime are urged to call Crime Line at 741-1000. Callers may remain anonymous. Information leading to the arrest and indictment of the assailant or assailants in the Lamb County murder can gain the caller a $1,000 reward.

Crime Line, in operation since last April, is supported by donations. Reward amounts, which are fixed by the Crime Line board, range from $300 for a felony to $1,000 for murder. "The results of the first eight months of Crime Line are truly outstanding, far surpassing my expectations when I founded this program," said Lubbock Mayor Dirk West. Crime Line has averaged clearing almost three crimes per week. Since the beginning of the program, 106 persons have been arrested and charged with crimes.

Persons wishing to contribute to the Crime Line Reward Fund should mail checks, which are tax deductible, to Box 2000, Lubbock. A $500 reward has been posted in the aggravated assault on a 12-year-old boy who was wounded while standing in a yard in the 3600-block of 55th Street. The boy told police he was talking with five other persons when a brown and white pickup truck drove by and he heard shots fired. He was struck behind the right knee. The pick-up was last seen northbound on Memphis Avenue.

It is undetermined whether the bullet came from a pellet gun or a .22-caliber rifle. The hospital did not remove the slug from the boy's body because it was too near an artery. A $300 reward is being offered for information in the burglary of Margaret's, 2002 Broadway, which lost 18 fur coats in the early morning break-in on Dec. 29. A witness told police he was walking in the area about 7 a.m. when he heard a

City Woman, Son Killed In Collision

By ESTHER LONGORIA

GRACE TORRES, 29, of 5406 25th St., and her five-year-old son, Jason James Torres, became the city's first and second traffic fatalities for 1980 after a small foreign pickup truck and a GMC pickup collided at U.S. 84 (Slaton Highway) and Quirt Avenue Sunday morning.

Mrs. Torres, one of four passengers in the 1978 Subaru Brat, was dead at the scene of the accident, which reportedly occurred about 1:10 a.m. Jason died about five hours after the accident in Health Sciences Center Hospital.

Justice of the Peace Charles Smith is withholding a ruling in the two deaths. Robert Duane Daniel, 20, of 1312 41st St., driver of the Subaru, and Mrs. Torres' two other children, David, 8, and Melissa, 2, were not injured in the collision. Commie Lain Oats, 28, of Slaton, driver of the GMC pickup, and his passenger, Wade Norman Carter, 32, also of Slaton, also were not injured in the accident.

Reports indicate that Officers Ronald Logan and John Cason were on routine patrol when they spotted the Subaru standing upright in a ditch about 33 feet from the curb. Mrs. Torres was lying face down in the seat of the vehicle.

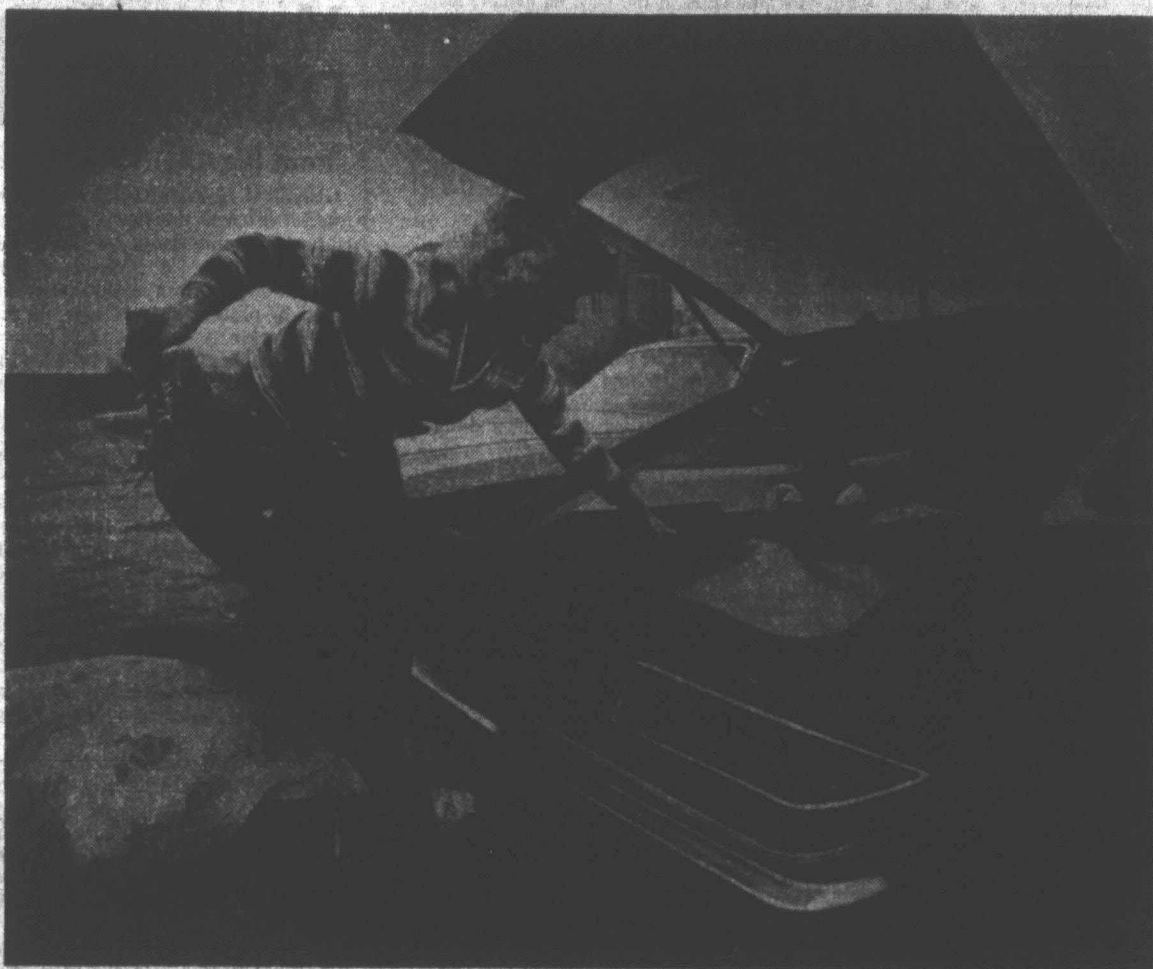

EMS took Jason, Daniel, David and Melissa to HSCH. A HSCH spokesman said Daniel, David and Melissa were not injured in the crash.

Police said Daniel was southbound on Quirt Avenue, and Oats was eastbound on U.S. 84 when the collision occurred.

Services for Mrs. Torres and Jason are pending with Franklin-Bartley Funeral Home.

Mrs. Torres was a ward clerk at the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center.

She had lived in Lubbock for one year. See ACCIDENT Page 14

GOP Contenders Rap Frontrunning Reagan

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Republican presidential campaigners denied an opportunity to debate Ronald Reagan face-to-face, are sniping at the frontrunner as the candidate who didn't care enough to come to Iowa to confront them.

But Reagan's chief campaign strategist said that criticism from the rest of the field didn't concern him. "We would expect some comments to be made," John Sears said in Los Angeles. "It wasn't very bad."

The six candidates who met in a two-hour debate Saturday night found little to argue about — and Reagan's absence became a bigger talking point than anything his rivals had to say.

The Reagan camp said the former California governor hadn't lost a thing by staying away. "It was a six-way dead heat," said Bob Collins, Iowa campaign director for Reagan. "If Reagan had been here, it would have been a seven-way dead heat."

Predictably, the debaters didn't see it that way, saying that Reagan would suffer politically for his absence. "There was one loser, Governor Reagan," said Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee. "He caught a lot more flak than he thought he would."

He caught a lot of it from former Texas Gov. John B. Connally. "I wish Governor Reagan were here. Oh, do I wish he were here," Connally lamented during the televised debate. "You know, I really don't know where he stands on the issues."

In turn, the rest of the Republican field criticized the absent frontrunner. Reps. John B. Anderson and Phillip Crane of Illinois, Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas and former United Nations Ambassador George Bush all said that Reagan's absence would cost him Iowa support.

Iowa Republicans will judge the merits of that argument when they conduct what amounts to a straw poll on Jan. 21. Connally claimed he was left without an inkling of Reagan's stand on the issues, but Sears said Reagan has been spelling out his positions for years.

Reagan said he passed the debate because it is divisive to pit Republican against Republican.

Anderson said he thinks the real reason is that Reagan hasn't had anything new to say in 19 years.

Connally called the six debating candidates "those who cared enough to come tonight."

It was a borrowed line, coined by the late Nelson A. Rockefeller, who won the Oregon presidential primary in 1964 after arguing that he alone cared enough to come to campaign.

Reagan was due in Davenport on Monday to campaign for the Iowa precinct caucuses, two weeks away. In those neighborhood gatherings, Iowa Republicans will register their preferences for a 1980 presidential nominee. The exercise is purely advisory, binding no delegates. But it is the first contest of the campaign year, and it could be a signal of things to come in the presidential primary elections.

The Iowa Poll, conducted by the Des Moines Register and Tribune, shows Reagan the preference of half the state's voters. See REAGAN'S Page 14

Donut Establishment Hit By Armed Man

CITY POLICE Sunday night were searching for a nattily attired armed robber who made off with more than $100 in cash from the Dunkin' Donuts store at 317 N. University Ave. shortly after dark.

The bandit, described by witnesses as a Mexican male about 19 years old, apparently entered the store about 7 p.m., pulled a blue steel automatic pistol on an attendant and demanded the money be placed in a Dunkin' Donuts paper sack, said police.

Store employees said the robber was dressed in a yellow leisure suit and two-tone brown gloves and was wearing sunglasses. They said he stood about 5-foot-8, weighed about 150 pounds, had a medium build and had full, neck-length hair.

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — New provincial fighting flared Sunday, and in Tehran some 65 Afghani residents of Iran took over Afghanistan's embassy for five hours to protest the "bloody Russian army" presence in their homeland.

The director of the foreign press here, meanwhile, said American, British and West German reporters may be expelled from Iran.

Tehran radio reported 43 persons had been killed and 110 injured a second day of clashes between Sunni and Shiite Muslims in the Persian Gulf port of Bandar Lengeh, about 600 miles south of Tehran. Religious leaders of both sects were broadcasting appeals asking "people to avoid shooting at each other," it said.

Hale County Woman Slain, Man Injured

HALE CENTER (Special) — Hale County sheriff's deputies Sunday sought two suspects in connection with the shooting death of a Plainview woman, who was found lying by the side of a dirt road about five miles north of here. She had been shot once in the head.

The victim was identified as Faye Hawkins, 40, of Plainview. Two Lubbock hunters discovered the woman's body about 10:30 a.m. Sunday. Hale County authorities believe the woman was kidnapped, possibly raped and then killed sometime after 3:30 a.m. Sunday.

Plainview Justice of the Peace Glenn Stone is withholding a ruling in the woman's death and has ordered an autopsy performed today at St. Mary's Hospital in Lubbock.

Both suspects were described as Mexican-American men, possibly armed with a .410 pump shotgun and driving a 1972 Green Chevrolet Impala.

One of the suspects was described as being in his 20s, 5 foot 9, 150 to 155 pounds with long, stringy hair and a goatee. He was reportedly wearing a dark blue zip up sweater.

The other suspect was said to be heavy and has hair down to the middle of his neck and a mustache.

Hale County sheriff's deputies believe the woman's death is connected with the shooting of Donald Ray Malone, 32, of Hale Center, which occurred about 9 a.m. Sunday about 13 miles southwest of here. See HALE COUNTY Page 14

Iran's Provincial Fighting Flares

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — New provincial fighting flared Sunday, and in Tehran some 65 Afghani residents of Iran took over Afghanistan's embassy for five hours to protest the "bloody Russian army" presence in their homeland.

The director of the foreign press here, meanwhile, said American, British and West German reporters may be expelled from Iran.

Tehran radio reported 43 persons had been killed and 110 injured a second day of clashes between Sunni and Shiite Muslims in the Persian Gulf port of Bandar Lengeh, about 600 miles south of Tehran. Religious leaders of both sects were broadcasting appeals asking "people to avoid shooting at each other," it said.

One person was reported killed and hundreds injured in street fighting in the Azerbaijani regional capital of Tabriz, 300 miles northwest of here. It was the third straight day of clashes between supporters of the nation's No. 3 religious leader and backers of the central government of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

And in the central industrial city of Isfahan, a leader of the local revolutionary government was assassinated at his home. Accounts of the slaying differed.

Iranian radio said commercial and government offices were closed Sunday in Bandar Lengeh and telephone operators were unable to place calls to the town, located on the Straits of Hormuz. The radio said former foreign minister Ebrahim Yazdi had been sent to the area on a peace mission.

The clash began Saturday when the local Shiite population became enraged at remarks made in a mosque by a Sunni clergyman, said Deputy Interior Minister

Afghan Assault, 'Miscalculation'

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States urged the Soviet Union on Sunday to withdraw its troops from Afghanistan immediately, and asked the U.N. Security Council to denounce the Soviet intervention there.

U.S. Ambassador Donald F. McHenry called the Soviet action in Afghanistan a "dangerous breach of peace and security" and "a terrible miscalculation ... by Soviet authorities."

He described the Dec. 27 coup in the Afghan capital of Kabul as Soviet-engineered and rejected the Kremlin's claims that it was invited by the Afghan government to send in military assistance.

Iranian Sanctions Predicted

Referring to the overthrow of Prime Minister Hafizullah Amin by pro-Moscow Babrak Karmal, McHenry asked: "Are we to believe that President Amin invited Soviet troops to come into Afghanistan in order to oversee his own downfall and his own execution?"

Also Sunday, McHenry predicted the council would approve economic sanctions against Iran when it considers that issue again Monday morning. "It (the vote for sanctions) will go through," McHenry told The Associated Press.

McHenry was first on the speakers' list for Sunday's meeting to discuss the presence of some 100,000 Soviet troops reported in Afghanistan since Amin was deposed and executed.

Brutality Of Action
"That the Soviet Union is taking military action against a deeply religious and fiercely independent people, who are struggling for human and religious rights, underscores the brutality and illegality of its action," McHenry declared.

He said the first announcement of the coup against Amin and his replacement by Karmal, who had been in exile in eastern Europe, came from radio transmitters in the Soviet Union purporting to be Radio Kabul.

"We know this because the real Radio Kabul continued normal transmissions for at least one and a half hours after these announcements were first heard. Nothing in these broadcasts from Kabul confirmed the content of the Soviet broadcast disseminated in Afghanistan's name," he said.

Gross Violations Alleged
McHenry called the Soviet intervention "a gross and blatant violation of the most important principles of international law and of the United Nations Charter" and stated:

"No state will be safe against a larger and more powerful neighbor if the international community appears to condone the Soviet Union's armed intervention..."

"It is therefore incumbent upon this council and upon every nation that believes in the rule of law and opposes the use of force in international affairs to denounce this dangerous breach of peace and security..."

"No state, not even a great power, can be allowed to ignore with impunity the responsibilities, obligations and commitments it assumed when it became a member of the United Nations. The United States therefore calls on all members of this council to act vigorously in discharge of their charter obligations..."

On Saturday, a dozen countries including China, Japan, Egypt and Pakistan spoke against the Soviet move and called it interference in Afghan affairs.

The Soviets and East Germans defended the action, saying the aid See U.S. SEEKS Page 14

STRIKE ANNOUNCEMENT DUE
DENVER (UPI) — The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union imposed a news blackout through the weekend on new contract offers, but said Sunday a decision will be announced Monday on a strike that could idle up to 60,000 petroleum industry workers.

Insurgents' Casualties Mounting

By The Associated Press

A RADIO BROADCAST from Afghanistan on Sunday said Moslem insurgents have suffered heavy casualties fighting Soviet troops but pledged a "fight to the finish" to force the Soviets out of the Central Asian nation.

One report reaching New Delhi said rebels killed in the fighting were being honored as Shahids, or holy martyrs.

In Moscow, the official news agency Tass charged that steps taken by the United States in response to the Soviet intervention were "hostile to the interests of peace." Tass said it was "hopeless" for the United States to try to alter the Soviet position by curtailing ties between the two countries.

President Carter announced Friday that the United States would halt the sale of 17 million tons of grain and sophisticated technology to Moscow, and an official said Saturday that these moves "should not be considered the final word."

In Peking, U.S. Defense Secretary Harold Brown, alluding to the situation in Afghanistan, warned Sunday that if the shared interests of the United States and China are threatened "we can respond with complementary actions in the field of defense as well as diplomacy."

Chinese Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping, speaking in Peking at a banquet honoring visiting Egyptian Vice President Mohamed Hosni Mubarak, called the Soviet action "a flagrant violation of the U.N. charter and the norms of international relations." He said the Soviets intended to "make a southward thrust to the Indian Ocean, control sea lanes, seize oil-rich areas and outflank Europe so as to gain world hegemony."

In Aswan, Egypt, meanwhile, a top official said the government had ordered the Soviet presence in Egypt scaled down and had offered aid to the Afghan rebels. Mansour Hassan, minister of state for presidential affairs, also said Egypt had called for an Islamic summit meeting and had ended relations with two pro-Soviet countries, Syria and South Yemen.

Elsewhere, officials in Riyadh announced Saudi Arabia will boycott the See AFGHAN REBELS Page 14

Mustafa Miralim in a telephone interview with his Tehran office. He did not describe what the charges were.

The 20,000 residents of the centuries-old port city are split between Sunni Arabs from Iran's Khuzestan Province to the northwest and Shiite Persians from Fars Province in central Iran.

In Tehran, some 65 unnamed Afghani snipers through the glass front door of the embassy and occupied the building for nearly five hours. None of the 14 Afghan diplomats and members of their families, briefly held hostage, was hurt.

Police and representatives of the Iranian Foreign Ministry arrived at the embassy midway through the occupation to begin negotiating with the Afghani, who burst out of the building chanting "Allahou Akbar! (God is Great!)" in late afternoon. None was arrested.

One of their leaders sat in a car and using a loudspeaker, read aloud a statement praising Khomeini, denouncing the Soviets and condemning the West for seeking "to win themselves an advantage in the present turmoil in Afghanistan."

"We want the bloody Russian army to immediately leave our country," the statement said. "We regard the leadership of Imam Khomeini as the only possible way for victory and salvation," it said.

Meanwhile, the official news agency Pars quoted Abolghasem Salami, director of foreign press at the National Guidance Ministry, as saying the ministry was studying the question of using Iranian reporters to leave for "as long as the U.S. relations had not been restored and especially as long as the U.S. embassy center was occupied."

Chilling Winds, Cloudiness Forecast

Winter should make its presence very strongly felt early this morning as a biting cold front is expected to sting the South Plains with chilling winds and heavy clouds.

Highs today across the area are expected to fall about 20 degrees colder than Sunday's high of 68 degrees. Lows tonight under the front should be in the mid 20s, and southeasterly winds blowing at 10 to 15 mph are expected throughout the day.

Tuesday should be only slightly warmer, but forecasters are pointing to Wednesday as an end to the current blitz of cold air.

The mid 40 readings across West Texas might seem almost balmy when compared to the blow the massive storm system is dealing to the northern part of the country, though. Blowing snow and sub-zero temperatures marked most of the central and northern Plains states Sunday, and more of the same is predicted today.

Minnesota, the Dakotas, Wyoming and parts of Nebraska received a foot and more of new snow Sunday, while other locations, including Michigan, Illinois, Iowa and Ohio recorded almost that much. Blizzard warnings roared that portion of the country, as did temperatures well below zero. Helena, Mt., reported a low of 25 below zero Sunday morning, and at 2 p.m. Sunday, had a high of only 15 degrees below zero.

Elsewhere, sunshine and slightly warmer temperatures prevailed, with more of the same expected today.

Probe Said Possible In Attack Of Police Chief

JACKSBORO (AP) — The Jack County district attorney says he may investigate the shooting of Jacksboro's police chief Guy Sullivan in the wake of the city commissioners decision to retain the controversial official.

"All the evidence I've seen disputes the man's version of the shooting," said District Attorney Brock Smith. "If he (Sullivan) wasn't shot as he has claimed, it's a very bad situation having the man charged with a law enforcement agency."

Council members decided to keep Sullivan after a marathon executive session Friday.

The controversy surrounding Sullivan's tenure arose from a Dec. 15 shooting that wounded the police chief in the left shoulder.

Sullivan claimed he was shot by an unknown assailant because of a drug investigation. City officials conducted their own inquiry into the incident.

Afterwards, Mayor Bill Kimberlin said the evidence presented failed to prove or disprove Sullivan's version of the shooting.

"We cannot prove there was any wrongdoing," Kimberlin said. "He (Sullivan) is a forceful man. If he tells you something he can back it."

Sullivan will be granted a minimum of 30 days sick leave and will return to duty when his physical condition permits, Kimberlin said.

The police chief underwent surgery twice for the shoulder wound. He was released from a Wichita Falls hospital Dec. 31.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. I am a divorcee, 42, and recently netted $40,000 in my property settlement suit. I work as an accounting clerk, with after-tax take-home income of $908.70. I have no savings, own no property and rent an apartment for myself and children. The $600 a month rent includes utilities and everything. Should I invest the $40,000 in a money market mutual fund, a six-month savings certificate or tax-free municipal bonds? I am certain there are many divorcees who, after being housewives for many years, have similar problems.

A. Not only divorcees, but many widows, face the same problem. The answer to your multiple choice question is "none of the above." You should use most of that $40,000 to buy a home. Home ownership remains the best investment for the average family unit. It's certainly right for you.

My recommendation is that you use about $35,000 as a down payment on a house. Unless you pick a very expensive home, your mortgage payments and other house expenses shouldn't be much more than the $600 a month you are now paying in rent.

Because the interest on the mortgage and the real estate taxes on the home are deductible for income tax purposes, you figure to come out ahead on home ownership. And, despite the current softness in real estate, home values are almost certain to resume their upward spiral in the years ahead.

The present situation in real estate gives you and anyone else with a sizable down payment a good opportunity. Start shopping around.

Q. I participate in the employee investment plan on my job. I have 6 percent of my gross income — the maximum allowed — deducted from my pay. For every dollar I put in the company contributes 50 cents.

The company's contribution is used to buy company stock for me. I have the option of using my contribution to buy either company stock, U.S. savings bonds or U.S. Treasury securities. I chose the latter. Is that good?

A. It was a better choice than U.S. savings bonds, U.S. Treasury bonds and notes are, as I write this, yielding about 12 percent interest. Series E, U.S. savings bonds yield 7 percent — only if they are held for 11 years.

Whether or not it will turn out to be a better choice than your company's stock only time will tell. The dividends on that stock now produce a yield of 7.1 percent. That dividend payout was increased in 1979 for the fifth year in a row.

Even though that stock, which you named in your letter, has had its ups and downs in the market, it's still counted as a rather good growth stock.

Since you are, no doubt, putting money into that employee investment plan for retirement, a growth stock would seem to be a logical choice.

One vote to switch your contribution out of U.S. Treasury securities and into the company stock.

Q. I am buying a car on time, with three and a half more years to pay. The payments, including 12 percent interest, are $127 a month. I have the money to pay off the note. Should I do so?

A. If you have the money invested elsewhere, earning more than 12 percent interest, the answer is no. But if your money is earning lower interest — such as 5 to 5.5 percent in a savings account — by all means pay off the car note.

This is a basic principal of money management. You borrow money and stay in debt only when the interest on the money you owe is lower than what you can get on money elsewhere.

Unusual Clause Gives Land To Woman

FORT WORTH (UPI) — An unusual clause in the 58-year-old will of famed pioneer rancher S.B. "Burk" Burnett gives control of his vast land holdings to a great-granddaughter, according to documents on file in Tarrant County.

The Burnett will gives Mrs. Anne Windfohr Phillips, who lives on the 1,700-acre Phillips ranch in the Collin County community of Frisco, control of the 6666, Panhandle and Triangle ranches, as well as several smaller holdings, all dotted with oil and gas wells and worth millions of dollars.

The clause was activated by the Dec. 31 death in Fort Worth of Mrs. Anne Tandy, widow of millionaire Charles D. Tandy, who co-founded the Radio Shack chain. Mrs. Tandy's own estate is estimated at $100 million.

Half that estate was left to Mrs. Phillips, the balance going to her 15-year-old daughter, Wendy, a ninth grader at Dallas' exclusive Hockaday girls' school.

But the Burnett holdings were passed to Mrs. Phillips in a will that was filed in Tarrant County in 1921. In that will, Burnett left his son a $25,000 annual allowance and put his holdings in a trust with income to be divided between his daughter-in-law — Mrs. Ollie Burnett — and his granddaughter, Mrs. Tandy, nee Anne Burnett.

A clause in the will stated that if his granddaughter — Mrs. Tandy — should bear any children, the entire estate would pass on to them upon her death.

It is that clause that passes Burnett's holdings on to Mrs. Phillips.

Fort Worth attorney Dee Kelly, who represents Mrs. Phillips, declined to speculate on the value of the property.

"I make it a point not to comment on the financial holdings of my clients," Kelly said.

Tarrant County judge Mike Moncrief is expected to designate appraisers for the property, which is valued in the millions of dollars.

Mrs. Tandy, who died at age 74, was herself independently wealthy. Her holdings included stock in the Fort Worth National Bank and many oil and gas leases. Her husband's estate, to which she was heir, included holdings in the Tandy Corp.

Drug Traffic Concerns New DPS Head

AUSTIN (AP) — Col. Jim Adams, new chief of the Texas Department of Public Safety, says his two most immediate concerns are curbing organized drug traffic and reducing highway deaths.

Adams, 53, the first lawyer to head the DPS, said in an interview his plans also include stepped-up legal training for troopers and investigators.

"I hate to see a good case built up and then lost because of a faulty search warrant. ... One of my freaky buttons is to make sure our people know the law," he said.

Adams, former No. 2 man in the FBI, became chief of the DPS on Jan. 1, the day after former director Wilson Speir retired.

His office decor includes autographed pictures of former President Gerald Ford, GOP presidential hopeful George Bush and former Attorney General Griffin Bell. Hanging on the paneled wall is his license to practice law before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Adams said he still is working out detailed priorities for his administration but drugs and traffic deaths are the top two problems on his mind at the moment.

Drugs can't be considered apart from organized crime, and Adams said that can involve outwardly respectable businessmen as well as the rank-and-file pushers and smugglers.

Mentioning the seizure of the "Mister Jake" off the Texas coast near Galveston, Adams said, "It takes money to buy 60 tons of marijuana. Those high-level financiers are the ones we are going after."

"We have to look at the fact that we do not have only the traditional criminal types involved in the drug traffic. You can have businessmen and bankers," Adams said.

He said he expects DPS officers to be scrupulous in following legal requirements laid down by federal courts — "I don't believe in cutting corners."

Adams said the DPS "can do the job within existing laws, subject to minor modifications by the Legislature."

One such "minor modification" would be Gov. Bill Clements' wiretap bill, which he plans to submit as an issue for a special legislative session this year. The bill would allow only the DPS to intercept telephone conversations, only in drug cases and only with permission of a state district judge.

Adams moved into his job as the state reached an unhappy milestone.

"We hit the 4,000 mark on traffic fatalities in 1979, an all-time high. Four thousand deaths is unacceptable to the state of Texas. When we have hostages in Iran we in Texas can't do much about it, but we can do something about 4,000 deaths," he said.

He indicated one thing he will ask the 1981 Legislature to do is enlarge the highway patrol, currently limited to 1,494.

Certificates Providing Higher Interest For Smaller Savers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Small savers with as little as $100 to deposit are getting a crack at today's high interest rates.

New 30-month savings certificates, with interest pegged to the rates for similar Treasury securities, were available for the first time Jan. 2 at some banks and thrift institutions.

They have not yet caught fire with inflation-weary savers — for a number of reasons:

- Many institutions around the country have delayed offering the new certificates, deciding the deposits are not worth the cost or that they want to stick with the already popular six-month money market certificates.
- Some institutions have the certificates available but are not advertising them or are limiting their use to certain types of accounts.
- Even those pushing the certificates, mostly savings and loans and mutual savings banks, are imposing varying requirements, which can confuse depositors.

Such a mixed reception is not unusual with the introduction of a new banking product and analysts say time and bank competition are likely to boost the popularity of the 30-month certificates.

If bought in January, new certificates obtained at thrifts will pay compounded interest of 11.12 percent or more for 2½ years. Commercial banks are restricted to paying a quarter point less interest.

"I think the new certificate will be widely available to consumers in a few months," said Kenneth Ghygerson, chief economist of the U.S. League of Savings Associations in Chicago, a trade group for the nation's savings and loan banks.

The real appeal of the 30-month certificates, he said, will come later in the year when yields on the six-month money market certificates were expected to drop. Six-month certificates now are better paying but the new certificates have the advantage of running 2½ years.

Further, the new certificates carry no federal minimum deposit requirement, although institutions can set their own. The $10,000 minimum on six-month certificates caused small savers to complain about being shut off from high interest paid bigger depositors.

Banks and thrifts advertising the 30-month certificates in major cities last week posted minimums ranging from $100 to $500.

Interest paid on the new certificates is pegged to Treasury securities of similar maturity and a new rate will be set for certificates bought each month. Whatever rate prevails when a certificate is obtained holds for the full 30 months.

The rate in January is 10.40 percent at thrifts and 10.15 percent at commercial banks but this can be compounded. This produces an annual yield to thrifths of 11.12 percent to 11.15 percent, depending on how the compounding is figured, and 10.87 percent or so at commercial banks.

Administration Reveals New Gasohol Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration revealed plans Sunday for a major new gasohol program that would use grain withheld from the Soviet Union to make hundreds of millions of gallons of fuel with alcohol.

"I think our farmers would rather be growing grain to solve our energy problems than they would for the Soviet Union's herds," Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher said.

Christopher, the No. 2 man at the State Department, provided an advance look at the new program during an interview on CBS "Face the Nation" program.

"The administration will be announcing tomorrow (Monday) a major new gasohol program — one that will use the equivalent of 5 million tons of corn during the next year," he said.

But a White House spokesman questioned about Christopher's comments, said some details of the program were still up in the air and the announcement might not come until later in the week.

"We do expect an announcement this week, but I don't know yet whether it will be tomorrow," he said Sunday. "We're still working on some of the details."

Senior Agriculture Department officials reached at home said the administration would hold meetings Monday to discuss details of speeding up gasohol production in the country.

Christopher, who has been talking with America's European allies about a joint response to the Kremlin's occupation of Afghanistan, said the program "will lead during 1980 to the production of over 500 million gallons of gasohol."

"Indeed by the end of 1980, over 10 percent of a particular kind of gasoline will have alcohol added to it," he said.

The new program, which apparently would supplement major gasohol legislation before Congress, only would replace a small fraction of the 294 million gallons a day of gasoline used by American motorists.

The energy bill before House-Senate negotiators would provide guaranteed loans for construction on plants to make alcohol for gasohol — a mixture of 10 percent alcohol and 90 percent gasoline.

Christopher said the new gasohol program "is the kind of thing that we can do to compensate for the grain, the corn that's not being sold to the Soviet Union."

President Carter announced plans Friday night to block sales of 17 million tons of American grain to feed cattle in the Soviet Union.

But Carter tried to soften the political impact by telling American farmers that the government would purchase some of the undelivered grain at market prices for world hunger programs as well as the manufacture of gasohol.

Birthday Of Slain Civil Rights Leader To Spur Holiday Effort

ATLANTA (AP) — Failure of efforts to make Martin Luther King Jr.'s Jan. 15 birthday a national holiday will bring a stronger political focus to the celebration this year, his followers say.

"For one thing, there's going to be a lot more organizing," said Steve Klein, a spokesman for the Martin Luther King Jr. Center for Social Change.

Included on the agenda are a host of politicians, strategy sessions for securing passage of the birthday bill and minority rights legislation, and the customary people's march from the Ebenezer Baptist Church to the state Capitol.

Guests include first lady Rosalynn Carter, Joan Mondale, two cabinet secretaries, numerous congressmen, several labor leaders, and national black figures such as Andrew Young, former ambassador to the United Nations, and Vernon Jordan, president of the Urban League.

The celebration, with the theme "Creating the Beloved Community: Nonviolent Social Change in the Eighties," will run from Jan. 10-16. It will be the center's 11th observance of King's birthday, since the civil rights leader was slain in Memphis, Tenn., in 1968.

The latest rebuff to the King holiday came last month when the House voted 207-191 to set the holiday for the third Sunday of each January. Sponsors pulled the measure off the floor before a final vote, saying they would hold out for a holiday on Jan. 15 or the third Monday in January.

Activities will begin Thursday when Moon Landrieu, the new secretary of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, addresses eight Southern governors and 20 Southern mayors in a forum. The speech is billed as Landrieu's first major policy statement on federal housing.

San Francisco's 350 Lepers Live, Work Normally

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — There are 350 lepers living and working in the San Francisco Bay Area, but many hide their ailment from employers and even spouses because of the stigma it still carries, a health official said Sunday.

Most are treated on an outpatient basis at the U.S. Public Health Hospital in San Francisco — a pioneer in leprosy treatment.

Dr. Robert Gelber, head of the Hansen's Disease Service at the hospital, said enlightenment has eradicated some of the prejudices that caused lepers through the ages to be shunned, loathed and banished from communities.

However, he added, most people still have the misconception that leprosy is an incurable and highly contagious disease and that its victims are confined by law to leprosaria such as the Hawaiian island of Molokai or Carville in Louisiana.

"I have had children thrown out of their homes, spouses divorced or even kept in ignorance," said Gelber. "It's a sociological phenomenon, the fear about this illness and the social repercussions towards the individual are drastic."

Many of the 350 bay area patients are living normal family lives and are employed, but most of the employers aren't aware of the affliction, Gelber said.

"I think most of the patients I treat are frankly in hiding. It's not that they have not come to understand that they are no risk, but this is not a tolerant world."

Gelber, who spent two years in a leprosarium in Malaysia and studied the disease in London, said leprosy is not very infectious and that those who get it through "close, long family contact" can be rendered non-infectious almost immediately after treatment with modern drugs.

Use of such drugs as rifampin and dapsonone and other early treatment can prevent the deformities associated with leprosy, he said.

The majority of the world's 15 million lepers live in poor countries, and most of the cases in the United States involve foreign-born patients, predominantly of Mexican, Philippine or Samoan origin as well as some of the Indo-Chinese "boat people," Gelber said.

Although many questions about transmission and manifestation of the illness remain unanswered, he said the biggest advance in treating leprosy has been the abandonment of the practice of segregation in favor of treatment in the community, pioneered at the San Francisco hospital.

"I think the care of leprosy patients ought to be incorporated into general hospitals. It's just another illness," he said.

Minorities Expected To Push Harder For Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Blacks and Hispanics will represent one-fifth of all Americans within 10 years and can be expected to apply greater pressure for equal rights, according to American Demographic magazine.

In a January article titled "Demographics of the Eighties," editors of the magazine predicted what the nation's population will look like in 1990, based on current trends and Census Bureau figures.

"By 1990, nearly one out of every five Americans will be black or Hispanic," they said. "In younger age brackets, the proportions will be higher."

The editors forecast that black Americans will number nearly 30 million and Hispanics about 17 million, out of a total U.S. population of more than 235 million.

Hispanics are the fastest growing minority group in the United States and will account for 7 percent of the population in 10 years, compared to 4 percent in 1960 and 5 percent in 1976, the magazine said. Blacks will account for 12.2 percent, they projected, compared to 11 percent in 1976.

The rest of the population will grow about 10 percent, they said, while the black population increases by 14 percent and the Hispanic by an even greater amount.

The magazine said a combination of higher fertility rates and legal immigration will account for the dramatic Hispanic increase.

"Minorities, especially the large black and Hispanic populations, will continue to press for an equal share in American society in the 1980s," it said, "and because these minorities will represent increasing proportions on the total population, pressures are likely to intensify."

Other projections made by the magazine include:

- Annual births probably will increase until the latter part of the decade, as more members of the baby-boom generation reach child-bearing age, then will begin to decrease for an average annual growth of slightly under one percent for the 80s.
- Life expectancy should continue to increase by two or three years to more than 76 years of age; women will continue to out-live men, with a life expectancy of 81 years for females compared to 72 for males.
- There will be large increases in the number of people between 30 and 49 and in the 60-and-over group.
- Fewer people will enter the labor force. The growth rate is expected to decrease from an annual average of 2.3 percent in 1973-77 to 1.1 percent in 1985-90, but there will be 10 million to 20 million more workers in the labor force by the end of the decade.

Reagan Begins First Campaign Trip Of Election Year In Iowa

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ronald Reagan, who passed up the GOP presidential debate in Iowa on grounds it would be "divisive," heads today for the farm state and his own brand of front-runner politicking.

Reagan's first trip of the election year will take the former California governor first to Davenport, Iowa, to talk about agriculture.

Press secretary Jim Lake said the candidate would have no comment on Saturday night's debate among six of his rival GOP presidential contenders, most of whom were highly critical on Reagan's refusal to participate.

Reagan, citing the so-called GOP 11th commandment not to speak ill of fellow Republicans, has said a debate of the candidates would "build up divisiveness that has characterized the Republican Party in the past."

But opponents charge Reagan with keeping a low profile in order not to threaten his position as front-runner in most GOP opinion polls.

With 125,000 farms in Iowa, there the nation's first precinct caucuses are set for Jan. 21. Reagan expected to be questioned about President Carter's decision to halt some grain shipments to the Soviet Union in response to Russian military actions in Afghanistan.

Other scheduled stops in Reagan's four-day campaign swing were New Hampshire, Massachusetts, South Carolina, Florida and Illinois — all states with early primary elections.

Lake said Reagan will adhere to a "vigorous" campaign schedule — taking to the road from four to six days a week — but he acknowledged that Reagan may be campaigning less in some states than he did in his unsuccessful battle against Gerald Ford for the 1976 nomination.

The other Republican candidates, Lake said, can pick one or two places on which to concentrate.

"We don't have that luxury," he said, referring to Reagan's front-runner status. "We have to be in every state. Our effort has to be equal or superior."

He also promised that voters can expect more specifics on campaign proposals "as time develops."

Reagan has not campaigned since Dec. 15, when he completed his third trip since declaring his candidacy Nov. 13.

Lake said Reagan spent the interval being briefed on such issues as inflation, the economy, energy and international matters.

AN EDITORIAL:

Bad Guys Are Still Around

IN A LOOK back at the past decade, one of the black marks on Lubbock's ledger has been its crime statistics.
Although getting what was described as a "slow start" in the crime ratings game, the city wound up the past year and the past decade with one of the more unenviable records for murders, rapes, burglaries and crimes against persons in general of any city its size in the nation.

As in the city official's death, several of those remain unsolved.
But, Lubbock and area citizens have suffered at the hands of the criminal element in many other ways, from hundreds of armed robberies, beatings and personal assaults. Lubbock officials have made headway in cutting the city's traffic death toll sharply, but basically the overall crime picture remains cloudy.

THE BRIGHTEST spot thus far has been inauguration of a Crime Line project in which citizens may call a "hot line" number to give information which may lead to the solution of certain crimes. The project was instituted by Mayor Dirk West and the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

Also to be commended are the efforts of new criminal Dist. Atty. John Montford, who has sought to put teeth into prosecution and penalties during the year he has been in office.

But, despite impressive results in this respect, Lubbock has a long way to go before wiping out the bloody stain of a 10-year criminal record unmatched in its history.

It is a goal worthy of everyone's attention as the 1980s get underway.

IN A WAY IT was ironic that one of the first homicides in the area the past decade was that of a city official. A. J. Prim, who was zoning administrator for Lubbock at the time, was found in an isolated East Lubbock field in his car July 7, 1970.

He had been shot several times and died 16 days later in Memorial Hospital. His unknown slayer is still free.

Prim's death marked the start of several such murders in the city and area, a number of them involving women.

AN EDITORIAL:

Social Security Bite Bigger

MILLIONS OF wage-earners this month will detect the first sign that the Social Security System is having financial problems again. The bite taken out of their paychecks will increase $14.575 a month.

On an annual basis, that's an increase of only $174.90 and, all things considered, minimal. Primarily to be considered by most of us are the much more dramatic inflationary leaps of food, housing and other essentials of living.

The 1980 Social Security boost may scarcely be noticed. But the following year's certainly will be. That increase is scheduled to be $32.38 per month, raising the maximum annual payment in 1981 to $1,975.05, compared with $1,587.67 for all of 1980 and $1,403.77 for the year just ended.

THAT IS NOT peanuts, and is going to make a difference in millions of budgets.

The increases are mandated by legislation enacted in 1977 and intended to meet the system's pinch then: outgo in benefits increasing at a faster rate than: income from employee and employer payroll taxes.

There was an outcry at the time but, since the sharpest bites were still a few years off, opposition simmered down. It is certain to flare up again, and almost certainly with greater intensity. It would be one thing if the increases, painful as they promise to be, had resolved the financing problem.

They have not. Expenditures again threat-

M. STANTON EVANS:

Reagan's Running In All Directions At Same Time

WASHINGTON—As we enter the new political year, Ronald Reagan remains the prohibitive favorite to win the Republican presidential nomination.

Reagan's carry-over strength from 1976, long-time identification with limited government issues, and widespread name recognition look at this point to be sufficient to withstand the various challenges he faces.

His strategy appears to be one of moderating his conservative image enough to de-fuse liberal GOP opposition, while remaining conservative enough to hang on to his original base, or most of it. So far, given the absence of any convincing alternative candidate, it seems to be working.

Rumbles of discontent within the Reagan constituency, however, have been growing. The Reagan moderate-image kickoff speech did not go down well in various influential quarters.

THE WALL Street Journal, for one, had some scalding things to say about it, as did the conservative weekly, Human Events, and Battle Line, monthly publication of the American Conservative Union.

Most observers trace the low-keyed Reagan strategy to campaign chief John P. Sears, whose "pragmatic" conduct of the '76 campaign angered conservatives and was thought by many to have lost the nomination for Reagan.

Assurances had been given by Reagan that Sears would not be running the show in 1980. In recent weeks, however, forces competitive to Sears within the Reagan entourage have been pretty well eliminated, leaving Sears more in charge than ever.

It is the Sears influence which, above all else, is responsible for conservative discontent with Reagan. Unhappiness with Sears, for instance, is thought to be a major factor in the defection of former South Carolina Gov. James Edwards—a Reagan backer in '76 who has declared for John Connally in '80.

IT ALSO weighed heavily in the negative comment recently offered by John D. Lofton Jr., editor of ACU's Battle Line.

en to outpace revenues. The reasons are several. Basic is the declining birthrate, as a consequence of which the retired population is growing at a faster rate than the work force.

At present, each benefit-receiver is supported by an average 3.3 wage-earners. By the year 2030, a ratio of one to two is projected.

INDEXING BENEFITS to compensate for inflation has also caused benefit payments to balloon, as have virtually out-of-control costs of the system's medicare and medicaid programs.

There's not much that can be done about the birth rate and aging population, but something can be done about the other problem areas. The medical programs could be cut out of the system entirely. They still would be costly, but easier, conceivably, to control when subject to regular budget scrutiny financed out of general revenues.

A panel of non-government experts commissioned by Congress to study the problem can be expected to figure prominently in hearings on Social Security reform scheduled later this year.

New legislation certainly can't be expected in an election year. But an overhaul must come eventually. Otherwise, the system will be left with nothing in the way of assets to meet its billion-dollar obligation to the working class.

Noting that the Reagan kick-off address omitted any mention of SALT or Iran, while stressing such issues as statehood for Puerto Rico and closer ties to Canada and Mexico, Lofton asserted: "What was called for in the governor's talk was raw meat, but instead he gave us hamburger-helper. Bluntly put: Reagan blew a golden opportunity."

Lofton traced the blandness of the Reagan opener directly to Sears, his aversion to issues, and his penchant for wooing liberal Republicans.

Lofton also reported that Sears had offered the Reagan campaign chairmanship to Iowa's liberal Republican Gov. Robert Ray, "who is for the ERA, pro-abortion, against capital punishment." Ray, however, turned Sears down.

"JOHN SEARS," Lofton concluded, "is out of touch with reality. His play-to-safe, run-out-the-clock strategy poses a great threat to Reagan's candidacy. Now, even more than four years ago, the country is ready for the basic Reagan message. There is no need for the governor to trim his sails. He can say the same things he has been saying for years to Republicans."

Such points are important, not only for Reagan personally, but for the cause he represents.

There is the obvious matter that Reagan is where he is today precisely because of his stands on the issues, and the appeal they exert for an electorate fed up with decades of big government at home and accommodation overseas.

If it is perceived that Reagan is softening up his issue posture, this could be harmful to his candidacy.

BARRING SOME immense catastrophe, it appears that Reagan will be nominated and very possibly elected, whatever strategy he uses. But the question of how he might be elected is almost as important as whether he is elected.

If he and others perceive his ascension to the White House as simply another triumph for pragmatic politics, the temptation will be strong to govern the country in similar fashion.

Which—as the Nixon years have shown—is basically a formula for continued drift, rather than for authentic reform.

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

Nothing But Truce

WASHINGTON—Ronald Reagan is resisting increasingly hard pressure from some of his advisers to "take the gloves off" and attack President Carter for not doing more to gain the release of the hostages in Iran.

The matter came to a head at a four-day strategy session starting Jan. 2 at the California home of the front-running Republican presidential candidate.

One Reagan insider who traveled across the continent to take part in the sessions pressed Reagan DONALD GRAFF:

Get Tan Indoors

WASHINGTON—OK. So you already know that franchising has been one of the hottest business operations of the '70s. But do you know what is currently the hottest franchise product?

If you answered burgers, tacos, photo prints or massages, you're out of date. It's the suntan—or more precisely, technology's counterfeit of nature's real thing.

Tanning salons—establishments consisting of a number of fluorescent lamp-lined booths—are springing up across the country, according to a Wall Street Journal report.

Business is even better for a clutch of companies (with inspired names on the order of Plan-a-Tan and Tantrific) doing the franchising.

FOR AN INITIAL fee of $15,000 and up plus a percentage of the gross, they set an independent entrepreneur up on business. And with any business sense at all and a decent location—usually a shopping mall—he can recover his take in a few months of operation.

There are, however, some drawbacks to this rush of the pale-skinned public to fry itself like franchised chickens.

Medical authorities and the Food and Drug Administration, which has new safety regulations pending, are concerned about excessive exposure to ultraviolet radiation, the effects of which include wrinkling, premature aging and potentially cancer.

Actually, as one critical dermatologist points out, for all that a golden tan may connote affluence and sophistication it is nothing but the body's reaction to injury from ultraviolet radiation.

It does nothing for you—"except maybe as a status symbol."

AND HERE'S what could be another hot item. A seafood specialist at Texas A&M University, Annette Reddel, is hoping to get America's stoves and grills to sizzling with a new delicacy—shark.

Supporting her contention that the shark's acceptability as a food source has been too long ignored, she points out that the flesh is firm, there are no bones, it lends itself to a variety of preparations and there is a plentiful supply of several species in U.S. waters, particularly off the Gulf Coast.

Utilization, she maintains, is simply a matter of overcoming a psychological block. Which, if managed, might not only expand culinary art but rewrite the definition of what makes news: Man bites shark.

AFTER IDI Amin what? Not political stability, or even an end to killing, Uganda is discovering. A new order has not followed the overthrow of the tyrant who in a few brief years set new marks for misrule of a country. Zambian troops who effected the liberation are increasingly resented but still necessary to maintain what passes for order.

Even so, nights in Kampala, the capital, echo to "popcorn," the term for indiscriminate shooting that makes venturing out after dark potentially fatal.

The economy of the country is still stalled. Tribal differences, deeper than ever, frustrate efforts to develop a stable political coalition.

Is there a better future for Uganda? No one at the moment appears to be betting on it. On the other hand, neither is anyone looking back nostalgically to good old days.

Clearly the situation could be worse—and has been.

hard to break the informal political truce that has almost completely protected Carter from criticism.

The first crack in the truce came when Sen. Bob Dole, a back-running Republican presidential candidate, said after a State Department briefing on the Iranian crisis that Carter "bears a heavy responsibility" for the plight of the hostages.

But Reagan is far from convinced that attacking Carter at this time would be smart.

His inclination is to stick with his present posture: Say nothing that in any way might be used to blame him if Carter fails to win freedom for the hostages.

AGAINST THE backdrop of full-speed U.S. development of Diego Garcia as an air and naval base in the Indian Ocean, Cuban "advisers" have now been spotted in Seychelles, a newly independent island nation under a left-wing government.

Although hard evidence is lacking here as to how extensive Cuban activities in Seychelles may be, the presence of any Cubans at all has ominous overtones.

It clearly undercuts U.S. efforts to safeguard the Persian Gulf and the vital oil waterways down the East African coast.

Seychelles is 1,000 miles closer to the coast than Diego Garcia, affording it immense potential value to future Soviet-Cuban operations in the struggle between the superpowers for control of Persian Gulf oil.

The left-wing Seychelles government, which took over from a Western-oriented right-wing group two years ago, is using troops from the pro-Moscow states of Tanzania and Malagasy to guard against an anti-left coup.

Cuban advisers, possibly to help train a police corps, are an additional protection. That reflects the interest of Moscow, which finances all foreign Cuban adventures.

DESPITE HIS publicly declared removal from presidential consideration, Gerald R. Ford is privately hinting that he might be back in the picture if front-runner Ronald Reagan stumbles even slightly in the New Hampshire primary Feb. 28.

On a recent visit to Washington, the former President gave this appraisal to old congressional cronies:

He views Reagan as a likely but not overwhelming favorite to win. New Hampshire will be his test.

If Reagan gets less than 35 percent of the vote there even while finishing first, Ford will immediately make a reappraisal and decide whether to run within the next 48 hours.

Implicit in this outlook: Ford does not think much of the chances for his friend and former Cabinet member, George Bush, to win the nomination even if Reagan trips.

SEN. STROM Thurmond's decision to back John B. Connally in the important South Carolina Republican presidential primary was a tribute to the influence of his pretty wife, Nancy.

The former Miss South Carolina has been quietly lobbying her husband to endorse Connally for months. Apart from Nancy, Thurmond has had increasing problems with the Reagan candidacy on grounds of Reagan's 68 years.

He telephoned Reagan in California to tell him of the decision to endorse Connally.

That puts both former Gov. James Edwards and Thurmond, the state's two most celebrated Republicans, in Connally's camp.

Connally is now in a position to give Reagan a run in the March 6 primary—the first in the Southern states and hence vital for Reagan to show that he is holding his formidable Southern base.

JAY HARRIS:

The Last Chance?

THE NEXT FEW months may well determine whether the world moves a giant step closer to an atomic showdown, or finds some way to avert the final Armageddon.

The Soviet Union's invasion of Afghanistan has created one of the most serious challenges to the U.S. and Free World since World War II. It won't go away overnight.

In fact, it didn't come about overnight. And therein is the subject for today's comments. We can "do something" about the Mideast crisis only by understanding how we got to this point in the first place.

A day before President Carter imposed a partial grain embargo, a halt to high technology trade and other measures against Russia, The Wall Street Journal took note of Mr. Carter's "Failure On Iran..."

It was a damning indictment and one which in many ways parallels remarks made on these pages for some time now.

IT WOULD BE easy to absolve Mr. Carter of much of the blame for what has happened around the world, and especially the Mideast, by noting that the "hot spots" were there before he came along.

To a point, this is so. But, the fact remains that this administration almost from its inception changed the focus of U.S. foreign policy from one seeking to contain Soviet Communism to one based on a selective and often hypocritical human rights crusade which more often than not zeroed in on U.S. friends such as the Shah and South Africa.

The major thrust, in repeated remarks by former UN Amb. Andrew Young and others, was a policy which seemed to be geared toward undermining certain pro-West governments under the guise of racial equality or kowtowing to Marxist oriented groups, such as the guerrillas in Rhodesia.

Instead of getting tough with Moscow for waging "proxy wars" in Angola, Ethiopia and elsewhere, with up to 40,000 Cuban "hired guns," the U.S. continued to play footsie with both Russia's Leonid Brezhnev and Fidel Castro.

AND WHEN THE Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi got into trouble in Iran, the Carter people's response was not to bolster him while seeking reforms in his regime, but instead to advise him to flee the country, call off the Iranian military and cave in to a madman.

And when the Ayatollah Khomeini and his "religious" henchmen took over with a bloodletting every bit as despotic as any in modern history, those in power in Washington turned the other way.

Finally, when the U.S. Embassy was seized for a second time, along with American hostages, the major goal of the Carter Administration seemed to be one of bombast and milktoast.

As millions of Americans seethed with an anger and national unity not evident since before Vietnam, one would have thought that before the hostages were allowed to sit for two months, President Carter would have taken whatever action necessary to either free them or punish Iran's leaders for what amounted to an act of war.

NONE OF THIS has happened, of course. Mr. Carter and the State Department seemed to spend as much time seeking to hold in check demands of U.S. citizens for some concrete action as much as putting pressure on Iran's "student" terrorists.

As the days passed into weeks and weeks into months, the President alternately blustered and sought alternatives such as martailing world opinion, freezing Iranian assets, halting oil imports, seeking UN action, a World Court ruling.

None of this has worked, and for good reason. First, the Iranian thugs and the Ayatollah Khomeini are not acting as rational men might. Secondly, they perceived Mr. Carter for what he has been, a man who wouldn't make tough decisions. It was a message not lost on the rest of the world, from Saudi Arabia to the Kremlin. Hence, Afghanistan. And why not?

IN ITS ESSAY on the subject, The WSJ says that many people now say, "Well, what would you do, send in the Marines?"

The paper makes the point that the first thing it would do would be "to fire the whole lot of policymakers who have blundered us into such an awful mess." And it names names.

The WSJ goes on to say that the U.S. should "not rule out any option, including helicopter landings in the 27-acre Embassy compound (in Tehran)." And it suggests that Marines certainly should be loaded aboard the U.S. aircraft carriers in the Indian Ocean.

Other steps would include warning all U.S. personnel in Iran, including newsmen, they were potential hostages, bypass the UN hencelforth and at some point "be willing to use military force to resolve the issue."

OF COURSE, THE Soviet's massive invasion of Afghanistan with its long border with Iran has injected "a whole new ball game" into the Mideast picture.

The scope and response now must be much broader.

While Mr. Carter's imposing of a partial grain embargo and other too-late actions against Moscow show some stiffening of the administration's backbone, much, much more must be done.

As we have repeatedly said of late, the U.S. must move immediately to work out an Arc of Defense with Egypt, Israel, Saudi Arabia and any other moderate nations in that area. Those nations must be convinced that U.S. bases leased in the Sinai and elsewhere will serve to protect them, the oil fields and also be a blunt warning as well as deterrent to Russia.

If the American people, and the moderate Mideast nations left alive, aren't willing to stand up and be counted now, by year's end it may be too late.

Grain Embargo Brings Hope To Republican Candidates

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — President Carter's decision to embargo grain sales to the Soviet Union drew country elevators during the weekend, but gave hope to Republican challengers seeking a political pass key to rural America.

Carter's decision created troubling uncertainty in an area heavily dependent on overseas grain shipments for its economic well-being. Iowa produces 20 percent on the nation's corn crop.

Commodity experts anxiously awaited Monday's opening of the Chicago Board of Trade for the first indications of which way the situation will go. "Naturally everyone is concerned," said Robert Harten, manager of the Lavery Elevator in nearby Indianola, "but it's too early to assess the impact."

Critics warned the retaliatory move — taken in the aftermath of a Soviet-backed coup in Afghanistan — could severely depress grain prices and cut farm income by billions of dollars.

Some predicted the grain market could go wild in its first reaction to the partial embargo, which will block the sale of 17 million tons of grain destined for the drought-stricken Soviet Union.

"I don't think anything will happen until the Chicago Board of Trade opens," said Maurice Van Nostrand of Agri-Industries, which halted grain purchases at its 320 member elevators across Iowa in anticipation of Monday's opening.

"We pulled clear out," Van Nostrand said. "There is no market for corn or soybeans — anywhere. No one knows what it's worth."

He estimated corn prices could drop 20 cents a bushel if the embargo lasts through the marketing year — a loss approaching $220 million in Iowa.

Interwoven with the economic uncertainty shared by farmers across the Corn Belt was politics.

Carter's announcement came on the eve of a presidential debate in Des Moines, where five of six Republican hopefuls seized on the action to woo farmers still harboring resentment from embargoes ordered by Presidents Nixon and Ford.

The sharpest criticism came from Kansas Sen. Robert Dole, who has been stressing agricultural issues in his campaign for the Jan. 21 Iowa precinct caucuses. Dole estimated long-term losses to farmers could exceed $20 billion.

Dissenting from the GOP criticism was Illinois Rep. John Anderson, who said Americans could not demand action in response to the Soviet incursion into Afghanistan and remain "unwilling to accept any measure of sacrifice."

Conspiracy Theory To Be Tested Again

DALLAS (UPI) — The U.S. Department of Justice plans to order further scientific testing of film and acoustical evidence that point toward a conspiracy in the assassination of President Kennedy, a Dallas newspaper reported Sunday.

The Dallas Morning News quoted Justice Department spokesman Robert Havel as saying the testing would be done in response to recommendations from the House Assassinations Committee, which expired a year ago and concluded there was a "high probability" two gunmen were involved in Kennedy's death.

Havel said Saturday the National Science Foundation had been asked to help set up an "independent scientific review" of the committee's acoustical findings.

The committee discovered a Dallas police tape — made when a motorcycle officer left his microphone on during the time of the Nov. 22, 1963, shooting — recorded four shots. The Warren Commission had concluded only three shots were fired and all of them by Lee Harvey Oswald.

Following highly technical testing done at Dealy Plaza in the summer of 1978, acoustical experts said a fourth shot came from the "grassy knoll" area to the right of the presidential motorcade as Kennedy was killed.

Havel also said the Justice Department plans to obtain and test a film of the assassination site made by an amateur photographer six minutes before the shooting. The film taken by Charles Bronson of Ada, Okla., purportedly shows two people in the sixth-floor window of the Texas School Book Depository Building — where the Warren Commission said Oswald was when he alone fired the fatal shots.

G. Robert Blakely, the defunct committee's general counsel, said Saturday if the acoustical tests "come out that we made a mistake somewhere, that would end it."

"But there's no mistake, the findings are solid," he told the newspaper.

The Warren Commission concluded in 1964 that Oswald was the lone assassin, firing an old Italian rifle with a telescopic sight three times from behind the presidential limousine. However, a film taken by amateur photographer Abraham Zapruder showed the president's head snap backward, which assassination buffs claimed meant someone had shot Kennedy from the front.

The Bronson film was viewed by FBI agents within days of the assassination but returned when an FBI agent said it "failed to show the building from which the shots were fired."

However, the House Assassinations Committee — two months before it expired — said it was possible the film showed two people. With most of its $5 million allotment gone, the committee was unable to use computer analysis to determine if the film showed two people.

"The FBI has been in negotiations with Bronson or his lawyer to get the film and review it," Havel told the newspaper. "But we do not have it yet."

Republicans Showing High Hopes In Statehouse Races

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After making modest gains in last November's state legislature elections, Republicans have drawn up a $500,000 strategy to wrest control of America's statehouses from the Democrats in 1980.

Republicans picked up 27 seats in six states that held off-year elections in 1979. Those wins boosted the GOP's nationwide total to 2,692 seats, while Democrats hold 4,717.

The GOP, however, has high hopes for this year and plans to mount a major effort to win back legislative seats lost in 1974 when Republican prospects fell to an all-time low in the wake of the Watergate scandal.

Winning control of at least half the state legislative chambers should be our goal in 1980," Delaware Gov. Pierre du Pont said in a statement. Du Pont chairs GOPAC, a political action committee formed to help Republican candidates win seats in state legislatures. GOPAC plans to spend $500,000 backing 600 Republican candidates in key races around the country.

HEARTLINE: I noticed starting about eight months ago that my hearing was failing me. For a long time I convinced myself that it was normal to develop a slight hearing problem at my age — 82. At the same time, I hoped it would go away and that my hearing would improve. It didn't.

So, one day while in town buying groceries, I noticed a hearing aid dealer. I ended up buying a $600 hearing aid on the recommendation of the dealer, after having a hearing test. I wore the hearing aid for about 30 days, but no matter how much I fiddled with it, it didn't seem to help much. I called the dealer and he said to give it time.

Not long after I called him, I developed an ear infection and a bad earache. I went to my family doctor and he found that my ears were full of wax. He flushed my ears and treated the infection. It turned out that I didn't need the hearing aid. Can I get a refund of my $600? — K.S.

We managed to get a refund for you in this case, but we are not always so successful.

We have said so many times in the past years and we will say it again — do not go directly to your hearing aid dealer if you have a hearing problem. Go to your doctor first. Your hearing problem may be a build-up of wax, as in K.S.' case. It could be a problem that should be corrected by treatment or surgery. It may be the kind of problem that a hearing aid cannot help.

We repeat — when you suffer a hearing loss, first consult your family doctor. Since hearing can be impaired by so many unexpected physical ailments, your doctor may feel that a complete physical examination should be your first step.

If your doctor finds no physical ailment that he or she can treat, you may be referred to a physician who specializes in problems of the ear: an otologist or otolaryngologist. This specialist will seek to determine the cause of your hearing problem and may be able to restore some, or all, of your hearing through medical or surgical treatment.

During the course of or following treatment, or if surgical or medical treatment is not indicated, the otologist may refer you to an audiologist for testing and for recommendations concerning a rehabilitation program.

The audiologist is professionally trained in the testing, rehabilitation and counseling of people with hearing disorders. If the tests reveal that a hearing aid may benefit you, the audiologist will help you select the type of aid you need and will refer you to a hearing aid dealer.

If your hearing loss is uncomplicated and a hearing aid offers the best choice for remedy, the otologist may refer you directly to a hearing aid dealer. In this case, the hearing aid dealer will help you select a particular aid and will fit it to you. In most states, licensing now establishes the qualifications and standards of hearing aid dealers.

AGE CELEBRATED
MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Although his opponents say Ronald Reagan's age is a liability in the former California governor's quest for the presidency, two Manchester women consider it an event to celebrate. The two have launched a campaign to help the Republican presidential hopeful mark his 69th birthday on Feb. 6, and to boost his campaign at the same time.

Union Negotiator Predicting Chrysler Wage Cut Approval

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers union is trying to sell its Chrysler Corp. members a new contract that takes $243 million away from them. The chairman of the negotiating committee says the pact "stinks," but he predicts workers will approve it to save their jobs.

UAW and company bargainers reached an agreement Saturday night on the additional contract concessions as required by Congress in a bail-out plan for the faltering automaker.

President Carter on Monday is to sign the bill giving the faltering No. 3 automaker $1.5 billion in loan guarantees.

"The agreement stinks in comparison with GM and Ford," said Joe Zappa, president of Local 212 in Detroit and chairman of the union's bargaining committee.

But Zappa said he thought members would approve it because "they're voting to save their jobs."

UAW President Douglas A. Fraser would not predict the outcome of the voting, but he called rejection "unacceptable."

It is the second time in three months the UAW membership has been asked to ratify a contract.

A contract approved in October gave the company $203 million in concessions, as compared to the contracts at General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. But Congress decided that was not enough and that Chrysler's unions had to give up $462.5 million. The UAW share was $446 million.

The new agreement is to be presented to officers of the 184 Chrysler local unions at an airport meeting in Detroit on Tuesday. Ratification votes should be complete by the end of the month, UAW officials said.

The October contract was approved by 69 percent of those voting. That included some 14,000 UAW members in Canada, who refused to take part in the reopened talks, thus throwing an extra burden on the 110,000 UAW members in the United States.

The rejection led to a union demand, willingly accepted by the company, that not a penny of the extra money be spent in Canada.

About 90 percent of the new concessions would come through the elimination of paid time off.

That would not reduce the actual income of active workers but would require them to give up leisure. The savings to the company is achieved through doing the same work with fewer workers.

The GM and Ford contracts give each UAW member eight days off this year, nine in 1981 and nine in 1982, scattered throughout the years by company computers. In the October Chrysler contract, the UAW gave up the eight 1980 days and got nine in 1981 and 11 in 1982.

Saturday night's agreement drops the 17 paid days off scheduled before the contract expiration date of Sept. 14, 1982.

It also further delays the scheduled 3 percent annual wage increases. Chrysler's UAW members, who make an average of $9.52 an hour, will get the first increase in March while GM and Ford workers got theirs last September.

Chrysler workers had been scheduled for the next increase in January 1981, four months behind GM and Ford.

Ford Motor Company Facing Charge Of Reckless Homicide

WINAMAC, Ind. (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. goes on trial today on charges of reckless homicide through faulty design of the gas tank in its early Pinto automobiles — a high stakes case that could cost the automaker millions.

Should Ford be convicted of criminal charges in the deaths of three girls whose Pinto exploded in flames when struck by a van Aug. 10, 1978, it could be fined up to $30,000 under Indiana law.

What Ford fears far more is the loss of millions of dollars in small car sales — a setback that could be generated regardless of verdict by publicity from the trial, the first in the nation seeking to impose criminal rather than civil penalties.

Pinto sales nose-dived after a California jury awarded $128 million in damages for a 1972 Pinto accident which killed a woman and disfigured a 13-year-old boy. A judge later reduced the figure to $6 million, and Ford still is appealing. An Elkhart County grand jury in September 1978 brought reckless homicide charges against Ford.

Wave Of Anti-Soviet Sentiment Sweeping Much Of Arab World

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A wave of anti-Soviet sentiment, set in motion by the Soviet's military intervention in Afghanistan, is sweeping much of the Arab world. Saudi Arabia and other conservative Arab nations have been attacking the Soviet Union as "aggressors," "invaders" and "usurpers of Islamic values" for its massive offensive against Afghan Moslem rebels opposed to the country's Marxist government.

Left-wing Arabs generally have been silent, but some have joined in the chorus of criticism. "How can one refer to the Soviet Union as a peace-loving nation or the champion of downtrodden peoples any more," asked a columnist for the Beirut leftist newspaper al-Liwa. "The Soviet action in Afghanistan is similar to America's involvement in Vietnam."

Iraq, a Soviet ally, was among the Moslem nations protesting the movement of Soviet troops and tanks into Afghanistan to back the Dec. 27 coup that replaced President Hafizullah Amin with another pro-Soviet leader, Babrak Karmal.

"The Soviet action is an outright occupation of Afghanistan," said the Iraqi government newspaper al-Thawra. "It gives good reason for concern among all those linked with the U.S.S.R."

Al-Thawra noted that Amin, who was executed after the coup, was a Marxist and said he had no Western links warranting his ouster and death. Karmal's regime has accused Amin of killing thousands of political prisoners and Karmal is considered more pro-Moscow.

Two leftist Arab nations, Libya and Syria, have withheld comment on the Soviet involvement.

The Republic of South Yemen, the only socialist country in the Arabian peninsula, cabled good wishes to Karmal but made no official comment on the Soviet actions.

In Morocco, Foreign Minister Mohamed Boucetta called the events "very grave" and said the Soviet action represented "interference in the affairs of an Islamic country."

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat offered the United States military facilities in Egypt to counter the Soviet presence in Afghanistan, and warned the Soviet move was aimed at bringing the oil resources and waterways of Persian Gulf within Soviet military reach. He also ordered the Soviet Embassy, which has about 40 employees in Cairo, to reduce its staff.

Sadat's offer of facilities to the United States, which was echoed by Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, drew angry retorts from Syria and the Palestine Liberation Organization. Both warned against allowing a permanent U.S. military presence in the Middle East, but neither mentioned Afghanistan.

Saudi Arabia called upon all Islamic countries to rally behind the Moslem rebels in Afghanistan and suggested an Islamic summit conference on the Soviet move.

Government-backed Saudi newspapers urged volunteers from Moslem nations to fight alongside the Afghan rebels. "The Islamic world cannot remain handcuffed while atheists attempt to impress communist hegemony on part of the Islamic world," one Saudi paper said.

Other Arab nations on the Persian Gulf, including Kuwait, the United Arab Emirates, Bahrain, Qatar and Oman, followed Saudi Arabia's lead and denounced the Soviet intervention.

Stormy Weather On Horizon For Texas Tourist Industry

ARLINGTON (AP) — Stormy weather is on the horizon for the state's tourist industry, according to a spokesman for the Texas Tourist Development Agency.

Frank Hildebrand, the agency's executive director, said icy weather, spring floods, gasoline shortages and oil that stained Texas beaches reduced attendance at state attractions through 11 months of 1979 by 4 percent.

"It was not a particularly bright year for the Texas travel industry or the nation as a whole," Hildebrand told an energy and tourism conference here sponsored by the North Texas Tourism Council.

Six Flags over Texas managed to come close to its attendance projection, but only by "pulling out all the stops," he said.

Aquarina Springs in San Marcos survived the year with a "remarkably" good job of television advertising, he added. In 1980, the tourism agency will use

$925,000 in state funds to advertise — a 123 percent increase over the 1979 budget. The funds will be used to highlight

Texas and its four adjacent states in an attempt to offset energy shortages and inflation, Hildebrand projected.

Illegal Aliens Pouring Into America From Northern Border

ALONG THE CANADIAN BORDER (AP) — A new breed of smuggler — so confident that he offers "money back guarantees" to eager clients — is bringing thousands of illegal aliens into America from Canada.

The invasion is aimed at the 798-mile stretch between Canada and the states of Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine. But it really starts in the dusty villages and teeming cities in the Caribbean and Central and South America.

"There's no visa requirements for these people," said Sgt. George Regenius of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. "They show their passport and are issued a visitor's permit for three months."

"It's very easy for foreigners to get in to Canada. ... We believe that there are thousands, right here in Montreal, waiting for arrangements to be made to smuggle them into the United States."

Regenius, in charge of 19 investigators, works closely with U.S. customs, immigration and border patrol agents. He said both sides are "working frantically to halt the flood but neither country has the men to do it."

In interviews with a score of agents, many described their jobs as "shoveling sand against the tide."

In recent years, requirements for entry to the United States have been tightened. Illegal aliens were often captured or turned away at heavily patrolled borders in Florida, Mexico and the Gulf.

Today's FOCUS

"The smugglers have determined it's very difficult to enter the United States through other borders, so now they come to Canada first. In West Indian and South American countries, we know it's common knowledge of how easy it is to get through Canada," Regenius said.

"Smuggling through Canada is openly advertised (in Haiti), even in the smallest villages, but there's nothing we can do about it. They're not breaking Haitian law," said a police inspector in a telephone interview from Port-au-Prince.

Typically, a Haitian passes the word that he wants to go to America. He is contacted by an "arranger," who helps him sell his belongings then buys his ticket for one of the two weekly Air Canada flights from Haiti to Montreal.

It is $250 one-way, but the Haitian will buy a round-trip ticket to avoid suspicion. Four hours and 15 minutes later, the Haitian is at Mirabel International Airport outside Montreal. Briefed on what to say, he clears customs and gets a three-month visitor's visa.

Then he waits. The arranger may try to boost the original $500 smuggling fee to $1,500 or more. Whether he gets it depends on how much of a hurry the Haitian is in.

When the smuggler finally arrives, the Haitian is crowded into a van with 19 others and driven to the border. They are dumped in the forest on the Canadian side.

The driver takes the van over at a legal crossing and picks up his human cargo down the road. Five hours later, the Haitians can be in Boston.

"This is the only smuggling operation that I know of where the smugglers are so confident that they offer a money back guarantee," said Gordon Dilmore, deputy chief patrol agent.

George Lara, district director of immigration in Vermont, says the smugglers use the latest technology to avoid capture: "They've got police radios, they use scout or dummy cars to draw our men out of hiding and they probably know as much about our manpower, assignments and schedules as I do."

The solitary white farmhouses and stainless steel-and-glass huts that mark the ports of entry are often the only signs of civilization along the rugged, forested border.

But at least eight ports of entry are unwatched between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. Others are unstaffed from dusk to dawn.

In Washington, Glenn Bertness, assistant commissioner of investigations for the Immigration and Naturalization Service, said unstaffing the ports "is a calculated risk. We'd like to keep all the ports manned around the clock, but there just isn't money for it."

The only "defense" at the unstaffed outposts and at 16 unguarded roads crossing the border are signs instructing people coming in after dark to "report for inspection" at the nearest open port.

"Can you imagine a guy with eight KGB agents in his van or a load of hash stopping for inspection?" asked Art Poulin, district director of immigration for Maine.

Some aliens do try to get past the official stations.

Shortly after midnight recently, a patrolman spotted a car crossing from Canada into Derby Line, Vt. The car turned off a block before the guardhouse. Guards gave chase and eventually stopped the car.

"We got the smuggler and four Guyanese — the two women and two children he was bringing across," said patrol agent Peter Eaton.

Another incident occurred in Colburn Gore, Maine. Immigration inspectors became suspicious when three cars, each driven by a Haitian, crossed the border within an hour.

An hour later and 30 miles down the road, local police were asked to check the cars. They found 18 Haitians — all but the drivers had walked across the border.

"There are thousands and thousands of places they can get across and even if we had an army we couldn't stop the smuggling," said Poulin. "But up here we don't have even a small army and the smugglers know it."

Law Students Outraged At Nazi Hunter's Removal

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Harvard Jewish Law Students Association has criticized as "an outrage" the removal of the deputy director of the federal agency charged with tracking down and deporting Nazi war criminals.

Martin Mendelsohn will be replaced as deputy director of the Office of Special Investigations effective Monday, the U.S. Department of Justice has confirmed.

A spokesman said Mendelsohn had been offered other posts in the Criminal Division.

In mailgrams to President Carter and the Justice Department, the law students said that Mendelsohn's departure from the unit will be interpreted as a sign that the United States is not serious about investigating former Nazis. Justice Department spokesman Dean St. Dennis said any such interpretation would be a mistake.

St. Dennis said the Office of Special Investigations is headed by Walter Rockler, a Washington attorney who was a prosecutor at the Nuremberg war crimes tribunal and that the unit now has more than 200 active cases.

The replacement of Mendelsohn by the incoming deputy director, Allan A. Ryan Jr., a former assistant to the Solicitor General, was intended to strengthen the efficiency of the agency's operations, St. Dennis said.

Mendelsohn could not be reached for comment.

In the mailgrams, sent Thursday, the students said Mendelsohn's work had ended the government's "almost total inactivity for 30 years while the perpetrators of the Nazi holocaust lived comfortably within our borders."

"Surely he does not deserve the callous treatment which he presently appears to be receiving," they said.

"The Justice Department has been accused in the past, by members of Congress and others, of placing obstacles in the path of Nazi prosecutions," the students continued. "Mr. Mendelsohn's departure would provide yet more grist for the conspiracy theorists."

Mendelsohn was the unit's director and sole employee when it was established in 1977 within the Immigration and Naturalization Service. The unit became part of the Justice Department last May.

CAREERS

By JOYCE LAIN KENNEDY

Dear Joyce: A recent experience in a college classroom suggests you might want to describe investor relations as a career. As a guest lecturer in an investments class, I learned from the students they had never heard of the field. So I told them that:

•Investor relations is a relatively new career option; its real growth began in the late '60s. Our professional association, the National Investor Relations Institute, has grown from 12 members a decade ago to nearly 1,000 now, which represents about one-twentieth of all the people in the field.

•Salaries generally start at the $15,000 to $18,000 annual range for a management trainee, and rise to about $125,000 for vice president of corporate communications. The vast majority of investor relations executives command more than $30,000 a year. Some owners of top consulting firms report earnings of as much as $30,000 annually.

•Investor relations is a good place for people to get a broad, tough view of their company, which could lead to other career opportunities.

•Investor relations people need a background in communications, law, business and accounting.

Columbia, S.C.

Thanks to Arthur Roalman, who is an investor relations consultant and the editor of his professional association's newsletter, for spotlighting an interesting alternative for money-and-word-minded people.

An investor-relations specialist works for large corporations or private consulting firms to provide financial communications to stock analysts and the investing public.

Analyst relations meetings, shareholder relations and publications are the three activities that account for the bulk of the specialists' time.

Most investors relations executives hold college degrees, and nearly half have graduate degrees, most often a master's in business administration.

How could you get into the field? About 40 percent enter from communications, about 40 percent from finance.

According to the requirements of a recent recruiting advertisement for a manager of investor relations: "The ideal candidate will combine the talents of a good journalist and financial analyst and will think as marketer."

READER SERVICE: Want more details on this attractive career? The National Investor Relations Institute is preparing a special career fact sheet for readers of this column. To receive a copy, enclose a stamped, self-addressed, long white envelope with your request to Joyce Lain Kennedy at this newspaper. Ask for "Careers in Investor Relations." Allow several weeks for delivery. The offer ends April 1, 1980.

Dallas Man Dead After Firing At Police Cars

DALLAS (UPI) — A 29-year-old man who fired at police cars investigating a report of a man shooting a rifle at a south Dallas park Sunday was killed, but police were unsure if he died from police bullets or his own.

Police spokesman Bob Shaw said Jose Angel Vargas was pronounced dead at Lake Cliff Park about 2:45 p.m.

Shaw said a man living near the park called police to say someone was shooting a rifle in the park. When police arrived, several shots were fired at patrol cars and officers surrounded the park.

"At one point, the man got into a car and started moving toward the police command post but he was intercepted," Shaw said.

He said tactical section officer R. Brown shot the man at least twice in the lower part of the body.

"But there is some question on whether or not he shot himself in the head," Shaw said. "As he also had a pistol and an automatic rifle."

The man's sister told officers her brother had recently attempted to commit suicide and had appeared to be under the influence of drugs when she saw him earlier Sunday, Shaw said.

Shaw said that although at least two police cars were struck by bullets, no officers were injured.

Overfishing May Hurt Industry

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (UPI) — The signs all seem to point to a boom in the New England scallop industry: scallops selling for $5.70 a pound, more boats dredging than ever, the catch more than doubling at Newport, R.I.

But insiders say the signs are misleading — the industry is in trouble because of overfishing.

The retail prices are up because there are fewer scallops reaching market. Roy Enokson, owner of one of the largest scallop businesses in New Bedford, the capital of the New England scallop industry, said his catch is down more than 70 percent.

"It's just like a big pie," Enokson said. "The more people eating out of it, the less you have."

About 35 big dredgers from Virginia, the Carolinas and Texas began dredging the fertile Georges Bank and Nantucket Shoals area last year. To avoid strict union rules limiting the number of days of operation and setting crew minimums, the Southern boats operated out of Newport.

Their business raised Newport's annual catch from 320,000 pounds in 1978 to more than 700,000 pounds last year. It meant big money for operators and crewmen in Newport. But it also meant an overall drop in the number of scallops caught.

The New England Fishery Management Council, which controls offshore fishing within the nation's 200-mile limit, has scheduled a discussion at its two-day meeting beginning Jan. 16, of whether to set scallop-catch limits.

Cocaine Bags In Man's Intestines Burst

MIAMI (AP) — A man died after 110 multicolored plastic balloons containing cocaine burst inside his intestines as he went through customs at Miami International Airport, officials said.

Victor H. Benjamin, 29, of San Francisco, died at a hospital Friday after collapsing at the airport. Officials said he had arrived on a flight from La Paz, Bolivia.

Dr. Donna Brown, assistant Dade County medical examiner, said X-rays had revealed "little packets inside" the man.

"By the time they found out it was cocaine it was just simply too late for this young man," she said. "It's a pretty lethal way for people to try to smuggle in drugs."

Family members said Benjamin, a California state government employee, had left California on Christmas Eve on what he said was a trip to Greece to visit his mother. Instead, he went to Bolivia and then to Miami, authorities said.

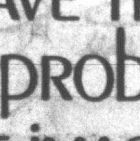

The substance in the pink, green, blue and orange balloons weighed 250 grams, more than a half pound, said Dade County Detective Robert Fiallo.

Depending on its purity, it could be worth up to $100,000 on the street, he added.

"The bags, or balloons, always do break," said Dr. Ronald Wright, chief deputy medical examiner. "Rubber is semipermeable to water. As a consequence, over the length of time that it takes to pass through the gastrointestinal tract, they absorb water. The pressure builds up and they burst."

"There's a new generation of people who think this is a bright new way to smuggle in drugs," Wright said.

The ancient science of alchemy was based upon the futile attempt to change lead, iron and other base metals into gold.

We HAVE THIS LITTLE PROBLEM ABOUT IMAGE

In western movies, the funeral director is a shifty-eyed, no-good character who races with his tape-measure in hand to every shoot-out. In contemporary books and shows, he's the shrewd businessman who thrives on death.

How does a guy overcome an image like that?

Perhaps the best way is by setting an opposite example — by serving the living in a friendly, unselfish manner. We hope so, because that's what we've been doing all along.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

My problem has to do with the care of wooden indoor shutters.

Ours were getting pretty dingy and dirty and I wanted to do something without having to go through the hassle of painting them (yuch).

So, I took one set down to experiment on, took them outside, applied a spray cleaner and washed them down with the garden hose. Needless to say, I almost ruined them.

The dirt came off but the wood became so swollen it took weeks for them to fit the window again. Also my wash job loosened some of the glue. Luckily, all of the damage was repairable but I felt like a real dummy and I still have three sets of very dirty shutters.

Help! If I resort to painting them, I'll still need advice on how to care for them and keep them looking new.

Any helpful hints will be appreciated. Thanks again. — Vikki Preston

How about it, guys and gals? Does anyone have any ideas on this problem?

With indoor shutters becoming more and more popular, keeping them clean can present a problem.

We not only have shuttered windows but also shutters on closet doors, bathroom cabinets, etc.

Send your ideas to me — Heloise

COOKING FOR ONE

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's a little hint for those who live alone and want to save on the cost of food. I have found buying small individual cans of food far more expensive than the regular size cans of food but, if you divide the contents into smaller portions and put the food into the small cans, you'll save. I mark the

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

In addition to imitation mayonnaise, fake fur, sugar substitutes and plastic that wears like iron, the nuclear family has added another synthetic to its life: step-people.

There are stepmothers, stepfathers, stepsons, and stepdaughters. The reception they get is varied.

Some are looked upon as relief pitchers who are brought in late, but are optimistic enough to try to win the game.

Some are regarded as "double agents" who in the end will pay for their crimes.

Others are just "standing in" for the Star Parent who appears out of the East on visiting day.

There are few generalizations you can make about step-people except they're all locked into an awkward family unit none of them are too crazy about.

I know, I've been there. Perhaps you've heard of me. I became a hyphenated child a few years after my "REAL" father died. I was the only stepchild in North America to have a stepfather who had the gall to make me go to bed when I was sleepy, do homework BEFORE I went to school, and yelled at me for wearing bedroom slippers in the snow.

My REAL father wouldn't have said that.

My stepfather punished me for "passing my mother," wouldn't allow me to waste food, and wouldn't let me spend money I didn't have.

My REAL father wouldn't have done that.

My stepfather remained silent when I slammed doors in his face, patient when I insisted my mother take "my side" and emotionless when I informed him he had no rights.

My REAL father wouldn't have taken that.

My stepfather paid for my needs and my whims, was there through all my pain of growing up, and checked himself out of the VA hospital to give me away at my wedding.

My REAL father... was there all the time and I didn't know it.

What is a REAL mother, father, son or daughter? "Real" translates to something authentic, genuine, permanent. Something that exists.

It has nothing to do with labor pains, history, memories, or beginnings. All love begins with one day and builds.

"Step" in the dictionary translates to a short distance. It's shorter than you think.

HINTS FROM HIM

DEAR HELOISE:

I wish to add to a hint about using clothespin hangers for drying rubber gloves, which appeared in your column recently.

Rinse the gloves before taking them off, dry thoroughly, and dust with baby powder.

Peel off the gloves wrong-side out and any moisture will be on the outside.

Next time wear them inside out — they'll slip on smooth and easy.

If textured for non-slip grip, wear one right side out so one hand always has a sure grip. — Lawrence F. Chadler

DEAR HELOISE:

My large dog named Sam was always turning over his water and food pans, then carrying them off. Sometimes I even found them in my neighbor's yard.

But not anymore! I purchased two of the largest angel food cake pans that I could find. I drove two stakes into the ground, close to the house and where they would be shaded all day long, and put the pans over the stakes.

Now he can't move the pans and I can be sure that while I'm at work he will have plenty of water. — Rick Gonzalez

To Your Good Health

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Our family has a problem that may seem small to others but to my three children and my husband it is a big one — boils!

My husband has had four bad ones the last year and my 13-year-old and the two smaller ones all had them recently. One had them in both knees under the kneecap. Lancing had to be done in all cases they were so bad.

They just keep coming back. All four of them have been tested for diabetes and they have no signs of that. I have been careful about hygiene, etc. I wonder if you have any recommendations for us? — P.G.

Recurrent boils are not a small problem. They are a big one.

The first step to take is to make sure that there is no disease process causing the boils, like diabetes. You have wisely done that. All clothing and towels used by the family must be kept separate until washed. The family members, INFANTS EXCLUDED, should wash hands and face several times a day with hexachlorophene, povidone-iodine or chlorhexidine-containing liquid soaps. I REPEAT, infants should not be subject to this routine. All family members should take a daily shower and moist areas of the skin must be kept dry (behind the knees, for example). An alcohol-containing drying lotion helps.

The staph germ (the boil culprit) often lurks in a hidden body recess, such as the inner nose. A light application of an ointment with neomycin or bacitracin is sometimes necessary to eliminate the germ from that site.

You really have to have your hygiene act together to rid your family of this boil problem.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 75-year-old male, in good health. I have a luxuriant growth of hair on my head, but it has turned gradually white, I might say "snow white." Now my question. Why? What is it the body lacks or needs to keep the hair as before — dark? With modern medicine as it is, isn't there an answer? Millions of us would like to know. Come on, Dr. Donohue, give us "white heads" an encouraging answer. — M.L.

I can give you an answer, but I'm afraid it's not going to be encouraging.

I wish there were some way to restore natural color to your hair — if that's what you want. I know of no way, however. Hair color comes from the pigment cells (called melanocytes) located in the bulb of the hair. White hairs have no active melanocytes. This is the process of becoming "distinguished." It is an irreversible process. No diets, drugs or vitamins help. The cosmetic industry is based on such unalterable facts of life.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would cutting down on fatty foods help a person who has a flatulence problem? — N.G.

It might. It is not because fatty foods of themselves are especially gas-producers. Fats do take longer to digest and taken in excess they might slow down the digestion of other foods. The undigested food might get into the lower digestive tract to produce the flatulence.

Cutting down would not only be a reasonable experiment to try, but it would also eliminate a lot of undesirable cholesterol in your diet.

Do you have problem hair? Dr. Donohue's booklet, "Good Health for Your Hair," shows how proper treatment can result in healthier, more attractive hair. To get a copy, write Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents. Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Oswald: "The suit preference signal is a valuable tool when used properly but like most modern expert conventions it can boomerang against its user and hit him right in the face if not used properly."

Alan: "One time when it is likely to go wrong is when your partner opens a suit and you attempt to tell him to shift to a specific suit rather than play a high card to suggest that partner continue and a low card to suggest that he shift to some other suit."

Oswald: "East played his ten of diamonds at trick one. West read this as a come-on and continued whereupon South took his ten tricks quickly and chalked up game and rubber. East felt that his ten had called for a spade shift since West knew that South was going to ruff the second diamond."

Alan: "I agree with East that West should have led his king of spades at trick two. However, I would have played the deuce of diamonds, not the ten."

Oswald: "Naturally. You have raised diamonds. You want your partner to shift and there is no way that you can want a club shift so that deuce cannot be a suit preference signal."

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠9852 ♥7 ○AK54 ♣KJ82

The bidding has proceeded:
 East South West North
 1 ♥ Pass 2 ♥ Dble.

What action do you take?
 A.—East's raise to three hearts has actually made life easier for you. You have an excellent supporting hand opposite what should be quite a good hand, since partner forced you to bid at the two-level; had East passed, you might have been forced jump to three spades on a very ragged suit. Now you can freely bid three spades to show a reasonable hand without overstating the quality of your trump suit.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♠8 ♥J10 ○AQJ852 ♣AJ94

The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 1 ○ Pass 2 ♥ Pass
 3 ○ Pass 3 ♥ Pass
 4 ♣ Pass 5 ♣ Pass

What action do you take?
 A.—In the light of partner's jump shift response, your hand offers good play for slam. Partner surely has a good six-card heart suit, so you should tell him you have some support by bidding five hearts. Partner won't expect more from you than you have—after all, you took two other bids before supporting his suit.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♥K93 ○A109753 ♣AKJ4

The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1 ♣ Pass 1 ○ 1 ♣
 2 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
 A.—There is no question about proceeding to game, but which

North East South
 4 ♣ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—This is a very tempting hand, but analysis will show that any action is fraught with danger. If partner's spades are solid, he cannot have the ace of hearts—remember, four spades is a proving—so you could be off several fast heart tricks. And the fact that you are void in spades is a warning that partner might suffer an unexpected trump loser. Pass.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠A1064 ○K83 ♣J97642

Partner opens the bidding with one club. What do you respond?
 A.—Right now you have no idea about the potential of this hand. You could easily make a slam, or there might be no game. It's even possible that the opponents could be cold for a slam in a red suit! The way to avoid making a painful decision is to temporize with one spade. Partner's rebid should help you decide what to do next.

Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠Q1073 ♥AKJ4 ○K ♣KQ102

Partner opens the bidding with one diamond. What do you respond?

A.—You have a big hand—more than enough for a jump shift in terms of high cards. Unfortunately, your partial misfit makes it awkward for you to jump shift. For example, if you choose two hearts, you could easily miss a superior contract in a black suit. Therefore, we would respond with a simple one heart bid, saving the big "push" until partner has had the opportunity to make a rebid that will clarify his holdings.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠A106 ♥95 ○AKJ873 ♣63

The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1 ♣ Pass 1 ○ 1 ♣
 2 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—There is no question about proceeding to game, but which game? There is a temptation to bid three no trump in the hope that partner has the hearts stopped, but that is not necessarily the case. A cue-bid of two spades is a possibility, but partner might misinterpret that as asking for a stopper. Probably the most flexible rebid is a jump to three diamonds. If partner shows a heart stopper, you can now bid three no trump. And if he raises diamonds, you might even think in terms of a slam.

Q.7—East-West vulnerable with 90 on score, as South you hold:

Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with three clubs. What action do you take?
 A.—There is nothing you can do. Certainly, it looks as if your chances of beating three clubs are excellent, and if you could double for penalties, we would choose that action. But a double would be for takeout and partner will almost certainly bid spades, leaving you in a spot. Pass, and wait to see what partner does. At this score he will stretch to do something.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♠AQ43 ♥93 ○8752 ♣Q108

The bidding has proceeded:
 West North East South
 1 ♥ Dble. 2 ♣ ?

What action do you take?
 A.—Well, well—another humorist. At this vulnerability, partner almost surely guarantees a spade suit for his takeout double, so East must be taking advantage of the vulnerability to stir up a little dust. Don't let him get away with it. Double, to tell partner you have some values and spades. That will leave him well placed when the opponents try to wriggle out.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I thought I truly loved this man. We have been close for five years. He's a bachelor, 50 years old, makes $40,000 a year, has a Ph.D., is good-looking and, when he wants to, is perfectly charming.
 I am single, 40, and make $27,000 a year. We have similar backgrounds and enjoy one another's company. The problem? He is the stingiest person I've ever known. His major preoccupation is money—how to make more, spend less, and avoid paying income tax. The only person he spends money on is himself. This he does lavishly.

When we go out together it is always Dutch treat, except when I treat him—for his birthday or some other special event in HIS life. He never gives me a gift, but he loves to receive presents from me. When I hint that it would be nice if he bought me a little remembrance once in a while, he says, "Buy it yourself... you have just as much money as I have"—which is not true.
 When we first met he had an occasional generous impulse. Now he has none. If I really loved him, would I be so bothered by his stinginess? Please help me figure this out. I am—Penny.

Pinched In Montreal And Plenty Muddled
 Dear Muddled: There's more wrong with this bird than his tightness with a buck. He is selfish, inconsiderate, exploitative, ungallant and a clod.
 You must be pretty desperate for male company to have invested five years on the cheapskate. If I were you, I'd unload the skinflint pronto.

Dear Ann Landers: My father remarried a few years ago. I dislike my stepmother intensely, and the feeling is mutual. I have tried every which way to get along with her, but she is impossible. It is no secret that we don't get along.
 Now my stepmother is dying of cancer. I hate to see anyone suffer, but I cannot truthfully say I am sad that she will not be around. The woman has made my life miserable.

At the funeral people will be coming up to me and saying things like, "I'm sorry." How do I respond? I'm a lousy actor and no phony. It's going to be rough to act bereaved when there are—

 No Tears In Middletown

Dear Mid: It's all right not to have tears, but there is no excuse for being disrespectful.
 Accept the condolences with grace. Say "thank you" and behave like a mensch—for your father's sake.

Dear Ann Landers: You gave good advice to the woman whose fiancé postponed the wedding three times. I hope she listens to you.
 I also went with a man who had a million excuses for not getting married. First it was money. Then he had to wait until his older sister found a guy. Next he just got cold feet about being hemmed in. This stalling went on for seven years. Finally, I told him to leave me alone.

After three months, I missed him so much I decided to give him a call. He was thrilled to hear from me. We have been going together ever since—and it's been 27 years. We are very happy this way and it's like you said: "Marriage is not for everyone." I'll bet if we had been married when I was pushing for it we'd have been divorced by now.—Different Strokes

Dear Diff: If you are content to "go with" a guy for 27 years, it's all right with me. I, however, do not endorse such arrangements.

Experts Say Wives Ease Money Burden

WASHINGTON, D.C. (Special)—When one modern husband was informed of his wife's substantial pay increase, he told his friends:
 "I don't care if she makes more money than I do, as long as she doesn't spend it at the track, on booze or on beach boys."
 This refrain may be playing around town more than people realize, says the American Council of Life Insurance. As women emerge into full economic citizenship, the wife who outearns her husband is showing up more frequently.
 And many husbands are beginning to realize it isn't all bad.
 They've discovered, say family experts, that when wives share financial burdens, both spouses can enjoy life more as financial tensions ease.

While sociologists mull over the implications of the dual-salary family—half of the adult female population contributes to family income today—the question of who makes important household financial decisions takes on new significance.
 No hard statistics have as yet surfaced on who pays for what. But in a Council survey, the prevailing view of young Americans is that major purchases should be agreed on by both spouses.
 Of the young men and women between the ages of 14 and 25 interviewed in a national sample, the majority felt both husband and wife should decide on life insurance investments, car ownership and vacation plans on a "fairly equal basis."

Even buying the family car, long considered the husband's prerogative, now has 7 in 10 young women along with 6 in 10 young men believing it is in the joint domain.
 The most agreed-upon area of financial allocations was vacation planning. More than 9 in 10 of the young men and women said they felt both spouses should have an equal say on this.

Assailants Kill Khomeini Aide

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Amirabbas Bahrian, chief of all revolutionary committees in the central Iranian city of Isfahan, was assassinated at his home Sunday, cut down in a hail of submachinegun bullets, the official Pars news agency reported.

Pars said Bahrian was killed in a volley of 32 bullets fired from an Israeli-made Uzi submachinegun. There were no details on the number of assailants or their motive.

It was the second attack on a prominent revolutionary figure in the industrial city in two days. Ayatollah Faghih Imani was wounded Friday night by a single bullet fired by a man on a motorcycle. The gunman escaped and no one has claimed responsibility for the shooting.

The district committees, which hold much of the power in Iranian cities, have been under heavy criticism in Isfahan. A 21-day protest sit-in ended in Isfahan on Friday.

U.S., China Widen Talks. Discuss Mutual Defense

PEKING (AP) — U.S. Secretary of Defense Harold Brown warned the Soviet Union Sunday if the mutual interests of the United States and China are threatened "we can respond with complementary actions in the field of defense as well as diplomacy."

In a tough speech condemning the Soviet move into Afghanistan, Brown said he had come to China "to broaden the security dialogue between our two governments and to exchange views on how we might facilitate wider cooperation on security matters in the future."

Taken together with Vice President Walter Mondale's declaration last August that a strong China is in America's interest, the Brown statement further strengthened the links between the two former enemies. Mondale made the statement while on an official visit here.

Brown also promised "close consultation," expanded professional contacts and discussions of specific defense problems.

He made the remarks at a banquet given by Chinese Defense Minister Xu Xiangqian in the Great Hall of the People.

Xu also attacked the Soviet Union's to the Democratic National Convention.

The Democrats were to have debated, too, in a twin forum sponsored by the Register and Tribune. But Carter withdrew from the Monday night debate, saying the crises in Iran and Afghanistan would keep him at the White House.

Iowa Gov. Robert D. Ray suggested that the collapse of the Democratic debate might serve to minimize the impact of Reagan's absence Saturday night. "He might have lost less because Carter didn't appear and Kennedy didn't appear," said Ray, a Republican who is officially neutral but no fan of Reagan.

Kennedy launches a week of intensive Iowa campaigning on Monday. Carter's wife, Rosalynn, will campaign Monday and Tuesday in five Iowa cities. Brown, who became an active candidate in the state in order to gain a place in the debate that didn't happen, worked his way across Iowa on Sunday bidding for caucus support.

Echoing the Republican debate about debating, Brown accused Carter of exploiting the Iranian hostage crisis to avoid the political confrontation. "Using the Iranian situation as an excuse is cynical, hypocritical and outrageous," he said.

Brown said Carter's renomination would "drag the party down to defeat."

Kennedy issued a statement on Saturday assailing Carter's partial embargo of grain shipments to the Soviet Union as unfair to American farmers and taxpayers.

"A weak policy cannot be redeemed by suddenly getting tough on farmers," he said after Carter imposed the embargo in retaliation for the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

Five out of six Republicans took the same line on the embargo, a sensitive subject in Iowa.

"I don't think the Iowa farmers should pay the price for the failure of the Carter foreign policy," said Connolly, arguing that the Russians will get grain anyhow from other producers.

"The only people who will be severely injured will be the American agricultural community," Baker said.

Dole said Carter had "devastated the American farmer". Crane said farmers were being made scapegoats, and Bush said the United States will be hurt more than the Soviet Union.

Only Anderson endorsed the embargo, saying it will take a measure of sacrifice "to send a clear, certain signal to the Russians" that the United States will not tolerate aggression.

Anderson said his rivals were playing "the same old politics" by telling farmers they should not have to accept the embargo as the price of drawing a line against the Russians.

That was the pattern of the Republican forum. What debating there was, Anderson did, against his five more conservative rivals. He said they want to flex military muscle and increase defense spending, while he thinks America's declining prestige abroad stems from energy and economic shortcomings at home.

"I'm afraid that there's too much old politics being practiced, even among Republicans today," Anderson said.

The Republicans chorused criticism of Carter's foreign policy, saying that American weakness tempted Iranian militants to seize the hostages still held in Tehran. Baker called it "a symptom of a failed foreign policy."

Baker said in a Sunday television interview that the United States must defend its own interests around the world instead of relying on foreign dictators. Asked if that was a reference to the deposed Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, Baker replied, "Of course he was a dictator."

All save Dole declined to say specifically what they would do to gain release of the captives. Dole said that if the United Nations will not impose stiff economic sanctions against Iran, the United States should do so unilaterally and shut off everything except emergency medical supplies.

"And that would mean shutting off oil coming out of Iran," he said.

Indira's Party Leads In Indian Elections

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's party seized a commanding lead in returns today from national elections and she appeared virtually certain of recapturing the leadership of the world's largest democracy.

With 524 lower-house seats at stake, Mrs. Gandhi's Congress Party and its allies swept 64 of the first 78 races decided in final results. Her candidates led in 45 of 51 other districts where counting started on the ballots cast Thursday and Sunday in the two days of voting.

Early results announced were from a cross-section of districts in the vast country and were decisive enough to suggest a major triumph for Mrs. Gandhi barring an unexpected change in the trend.

It would be a dramatic victory for the 62-year-old leader who suffered a stunning defeat in the March 1977 elections after she imposed emergency rule.

Final results are expected later Monday in the election in which slightly more than half of the 362 million registered voters stamped their paper ballots.

The Janata Party, headed by Jagjivan Ram, unofficial leader of India's Untouchables, has elected five members of Parliament, including former Foreign Minister A.B. Vajpayee, officials announced.

They said the old Congress Party had won two seats while its coalition partner in the caretaker government, Prime Minister Charan Singh's Lok Dal Party, led in one race but had yet to win a seat.

India's two communist parties each elected two candidates, and minor parties, three.

Mrs. Gandhi's candidates captured six of seven parliamentary districts of the Delhi-New Delhi capital region. It had been a stronghold of the Janata Party that swept the 1977 election and installed former Prime Minister Morarji Desai to succeed Mrs. Gandhi.

They also led in Haryana state, earlier dominated by Singh, the rural bloc chief who unseated Desai last July after leading a bloc of defectors out of the Janata Party.

Violence and charges of voter harassment marked both election days. Indian news media counted a nationwide toll of 20 dead and scores injured.

Sunday's worst violence flared in the eastern state of Bihar, where the United News of India reported five deaths and about 1,000 arrests as riotous groups of political party workers reportedly tried to capture ballot boxes to rig the election in 54 separate districts. Police opened fire at least three times, UNI said.

Mrs. Gandhi is the daughter of the late Jawaharlal Nehru, India's first prime minister, who died in 1964. She became the third prime minister in 1966, succeeding the late L.B. Shastri and ruled for 11 years climaxed by 19 months of emergency rule that brought curtailment of civil rights, press censorship, forced sterilization and the jailing of thousands of critics.

Mrs. Gandhi's use of harsh emergency powers brought her downfall in the 1977 election. But in her energetic comeback campaign, she defended the emergency as a period of economic progress and stability which she charged were squandered by the Desai and Singh governments.

Mrs. Gandhi warned Sunday that Soviet moves in Afghanistan and U.S. military aid for Pakistan would pose a danger for her country.

"The presence of one side attracts the presence of the other side," she told reporters after early returns showed her Indira-Congress party taking a majority of seats in the election.

She said she did not approve of any foreign interference in the region. She said this includes the Soviets as well as the Western powers.

Mrs. Gandhi took a pro-soviet line during her previous term, analysts agreed.

If the new Indian government follows a pro-soviet line, Moscow will have laid a path of influence from Indochina in Southeast Asia to the mouth of the Persian Gulf, and only Baluchistan, a wild and nearly autonomous tribal area, will stand between the central Asian Soviet republics and a warm water port on the Arabian Sea.

Afghan Rebels Hard Pressed By Soviets

Olympic games this summer in Moscow to protest the Soviet action in Afghanistan.

At the United Nations in New York, the Security Council debated the Afghanistan situation for a second day.

U.S. Ambassador Donald McHenry called the Soviet action a "dangerous breach of peace and security" and "a terrible miscalculation... by Soviet authorities." He asked Moscow to withdraw its troops and called on the council to censure the Soviets.

The debate was expected to produce a resolution along the lines McHenry asked, one which the Soviets almost certainly would veto. There was talk of taking the issue to the General Assembly should that happen, where no country can exercise veto power.

As the international war of words continued, travelers arriving at the Iranian frontier Sunday told of Afghan men and women attacking Soviet tanks with sticks and stones in the western Afghan city of Herat on Friday. They said many people were killed in the streets of Herat, 60 miles east of the Afghan-Iran border.

Also, a Pakistani newspaper quoted officials at Quetta on the Afghan-Pakistan border as saying the gas plant outside Herat was blown up Sunday night, hurling flames into the sky that could be seen for miles.

The daily Jang newspaper also said Soviet troops executed a tribal leader in Herat for cooperating with the guerrillas, and kept the body hanging in the city's main square as a warning.

The rebel radio broadcast, monitored in Islamabad, Pakistan, said the insurgents suffered heavy casualties near Jalalabad in eastern Afghanistan. Thousands of Soviet troops reportedly were flown to Jalalabad last week, days after the Soviets began sending what Western diplomatic sources now say is a force of 100,000 soldiers into Afghanistan.

The rebel broadcast also claimed the rebels have gained "considerable strength" from the defection of Afghan army units in fighting in other parts of the country. It claimed Saturday that 30,000 regular Afghan soldiers had defected and were fighting the Soviet troops.

"Islamic dissidents, pro-rebel citizens and deserters from the Afghan army who have joined the rebel cause have pledged under oath on the Moslem holy book, the Koran, that they will fight to the finish and throw the Soviets out of Afghanistan," the broadcast said.

Diplomatic sources in Islamabad said fighting continued Sunday in northeastern Badakhshan Province near Afghanistan's borders with China, Russia and Pakistan; in Paktia, southeast of the capital city of Kabul and near the Pakistan border; in Parwan, north-west but within 50 miles of the capital; in Kandahar, about 270 miles southwest of Kabul, in Jalalabad, and in Herat.

The New Delhi report said Afghan urban guerrillas killed at least 60 Soviets in the Kabul area in the days after the Soviets sent their first troops into Afghanistan on Dec. 27 and backed the overthrow of Hafizullah Amin, who was reported executed. Amin was replaced by another Soviet supporter, Babrak Karmal.

The Indian report, quoting reliable sources in Kabul, said two Soviet women were stabbed in a market and left for 40 minutes before being taken to a hospital and that guerrillas killed six Soviet civilians sitting in a car outside the Soviet embassy in Kabul.

In another incident, the report said, two Soviet tanks accidentally crashed into a house in Kabul and killed five occupants. Neighbors then attacked with firearms, and the Soviets opened fire, killing 18 others.

Kabul has been reported calm since last Sunday.

Moslem Afghan rebels have been waging what they call a "holy war" against a succession of three pro-Soviet, Marxist governments for the past 20 months. Afghanistan, whose people have traditionally abhorred foreign domination, was previously non-aligned.

Afghanistan, a mountainous, backward land, is surrounded by Iran to the west, the Soviet Union to the north, China to the east, and Pakistan to the south and east.

was requested and that it came only after interference from other foreigners, including the United States and China.

Non-aligned countries on the council, meanwhile, were sounding out the other members on a preliminary draft for a resolution calling for withdrawal of the Soviet troops.

Delegates said the resolution was not expected to mention the Soviets by name but call for the withdrawal of foreign troops from Afghanistan, a clear reference to the Kremlin's presence in the neighboring Central Asian country. It was expected to be introduced for adoption in the windup of the debate, anticipated by midweek.

The Soviet Union is expected to veto the resolution and some delegates are talking privately of taking the issue to the General Assembly. There had been no decision yet, they said.

Fifty One Sign

A majority of the council or of the U.N. membership can within 24 hours get an emergency special session of the assembly, where there is no veto, if a permanent member of the Security Council prevents it from taking action to preserve peace.

Fifty-one countries signed the request for the Afghan debate, the most ever to bring an issue before the council. The council was expected to take up the issue again Monday after discussing the U.S.-Iran crisis.

In a resolution adopted last Monday, the council committed itself to meet again a week later to adopt sanctions against Iran if American hostages held since Nov. 4 were not released.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim went to Iran on New Year's Day in hopes of meeting with Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, whom U.N. diplomats feel holds the key to the hostages' release.

Oklahoma Suspect Being Held Here

A 35-year-old Oklahoma City man late Sunday was being held in the Lubbock County Jail for Oklahoma City police in connection with the Saturday shooting death of Debra Kay Sweigart of Oklahoma City.

The suspect, who was accompanied by a lawyer, turned himself in to Lubbock authorities about 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

Formal charges against the suspect are expected to be filed today in Oklahoma City.

The shooting reportedly occurred about 1:40 a.m. Saturday in Oklahoma City.

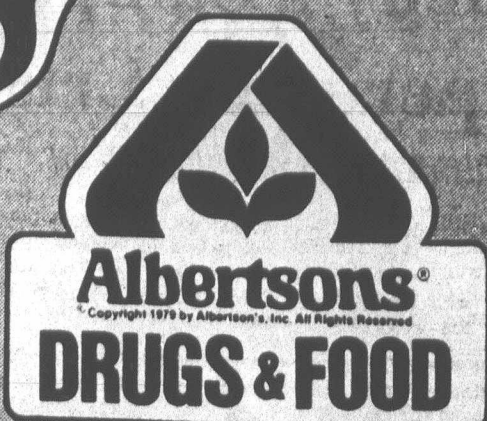

REPORTS ON TEHRAN TRIP — United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim meets with President Carter at the White House Sunday to tell him about his trip to Tehran in an attempt to dissolve a deadlock over release of American hostages held by terrorists there. Phantom Caller Gives Hospital Patients Unwanted Advice

MIAMI (AP) — For more than a year, investigators have been trying to catch a phantom caller who has offered unsolicited medical advice to about 200 women recovering from surgery in a dozen hospitals in the Miami area.

The advice is always the same. The caller, known to authorities as "Dr. Upchuck," tells the women to drink two glasses of water and force themselves to vomit.

Once, a patient persuaded the phantom doctor to come to her room. A policeman armed with handcuffs and a walkie-talkie hid in a bed, but the man didn't appear.

The caller, who apparently has detailed knowledge of each case, speaks fluent English to some patients, fluent Spanish to others. He has called patients as often as six times. He uses the name of a real doctor sometimes, the name of a fictitious assistant at others. Some patients take the advice.

"This guy has so much information it is shocking," says Stephen Seabolt, security chief at Jackson Memorial Hospital, where the caller has pestered 50 women.

Seabolt has concluded that the man has access to confidential post-operative records, but that makes the case even more baffling.

"How can he have so much inside information on so many hospitals?" Seabolt asks. "It would be physically impossible for him to be at Jackson, Mercy and South Miami — yet the three of us have had calls on the same night."

Southern Bell Telephone Co. security chief Gerald Doyle has tried to help hospital security officers.

"We have tried tracing," Doyle said. "But the caller is sporadic. He mixes up his hospitals. And if you have a hospital with 30 or 50 trunks, you can't trace."

The seriousness of the calls is a matter of dispute.

"He will kill someone, eventually," Seabolt believes. "Someone will asphyxiate on vomit or someone will split sutures or something."

Dade County Medical Examiner Dr. Joseph H. Davis isn't so sure.

"In the old days, when we used ether, it was accepted that almost 100 percent of the patients would have vomiting after surgery," he says. "The amount of harm was nil."

Also in dispute is whether the caller is doing anything illegal.

"What he is doing is essentially innocuous," believes Abraham Laeser, an assistant state attorney. "He hasn't done anything illegal except harass people."

Kennedy's Campaign Hampered By Crises

Candidacy Overshadowed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — His campaign hampered by the crises in Iran and Afghanistan, Sen. Edward Kennedy is trying to saturate Iowa by doubling his appearances there this week and with broadcast appeals for support.

As the nation's attention has been drawn increasingly to vents in far away Tehran and Kabul, the Kennedy presidential candidacy has been knocked off the front page and reduced to a sideshow.

Cancellation of the Iowa debate with President Carter lost Kennedy a crucial chance to stem his decline in the popularity polls — with only two weeks to go before Iowa launches the nation's delegate selection process at precinct caucuses.

"The cancellation of the debate was a serious blow to the Kennedy candidacy out here," a campaign spokesman in Des Moines told UPI.

"Large numbers of Iowa Democrats were telling us over Christmas that they were going to wait to make a determination between Mr. Carter and Mr. Kennedy until they had had an opportunity to see the debates — to see the two men in action."

Kennedy backers in Iowa are encouraged, however, by indications that voters feel Carter's dropping out of the debate was a political cop-out. The Des Moines Register and Tribune, sponsors of the aborted debate, said Iowans felt "slapped by the White House."

To capitalize on that bitterness, the Kennedy aide said. "We have roughly doubled the appearances and stops."

Kennedy will spend virtually all this week in Iowa.

While Carter has cancelled all campaign appearances in Iowa, the president has been highly visible in the state recently because of his Friday night televised announcement of a grain embargo against the Soviet Union and a 30-minute Sunday night political spot on ABC.

To balance Carter's television exposure, Kennedy's spokesman said: "It's quite possible that he will go to some sort of longer paid television appearance statewide."

He said more expensive radio and television time will have to be purchased. "We are behind in Iowa because the president has wrapped himself in the flag and refused to debate what we feel to be the most important issues of this campaign," he said.

"We are smothered literally by Iran and Afghanistan."

Kennedy aides are deciding how to best capitalize on the domestic impact of the grain embargo, which the candidate sharply criticized on Saturday as an ineffective measure that will only wind up hurting U.S. Farmers.

The embargo could cause corn and wheat prices to plummet. Talk of an embargo "has sent shivers down the spines of thousands of Iowa farmers," the Kennedy aide said.

It is domestic concerns upon which Kennedy is basing his campaign.

Kennedy's anti-Carter radio advertisements, decrying the president's record on inflation and energy, started last week. Television promotions get under way this week.

In one broadcast appeal, a male voice asks listeners: "If someone did his best for three years and things got worse and his contract was coming up for renewal, what would you do?"

Highest Algebra Honors Awarded Pair

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Mathematics professors Michael Aschbacher of California and Melvin Hochster of Michigan Friday were given the highest algebra honors awarded by the American Mathematical Society.

The $1,500 Frank Nelson Cole Prizes in Algebra recognized Aschbacher for a paper entitled "A Characterization of Chevalley Groups Over Fields of Odd Order" published in the Journal of Mathematics in 1977, and Hochster for his paper "Topics in the Homological Theory of Commutative Rings."

Spring Crest January Sale Event
Pinpoints Specific Savings

What better opportunity than the big Annual January Sale at Spring Crest Draperies to "move up to Spring Crest!" Throughout this month, really banner values prevail at Spring Crest Draperies, 5302 Ave. Q, in Briercraft Shopping Center, Lubbock, and at the Spring Crest store, under same ownership, at 2613 Yonkers in Plainview.

"Come in to either store . . . the one most convenient in your own situation, and profit by the following prices:

Specific Markdown
During the sale, all fabrics are marked at a full 20 per cent off!
Mini blinds and woven woods are also at a big 20 per cent price reduction.
And Crestrand, the sheer alternative, is at a whopping 30 per cent markdown.
"Quite possibly you have been wanting to move up to Spring Crest, and this month's sale provides a most inviting opportunity.
"Spring Crest wants you to have the finest in drapery treatments in your home at affordable price, now and for seasons to come.

Home Owned
Ben and Brenda Powell are owners of Spring Crest in Lubbock and Plainview, and they are most appreciative of the trade and friendships they have been privileged to enjoy. Their New Year greeting includes full recognition and thankfulness for past blessings.
Free estimates are featured, in every season, at Spring Crest, and there is a full assurance that each valued customer is completely satisfied with the latest in design and workmanship that are hallmarks of Spring Crest, "the finest in the industry."

Computer-Assisted
Brenda and Ben call special attention to a new convenience . . . their use of the Compucrest, computer developed especially for Spring Crest by Texas Instruments

Programmed for Spring Crest service, it computes the cost of an entire operation or transaction, with almost instant information. A tape immediately shows such information as hardware type, rod size, finish length, fabric cost, lining cost, rod cost, fabric widths, cut length, fabric yards, total fabric cost, installation post-sewing cost, lining widths, lining yards, total lining costs, pleats, stacking space and total price.
Spring Crest is modern in every respect.

Hang From Steel Spring
Why is Spring Crest different?
"Actually, Spring Crest Spring-Pleated Custom Draperies are the neatest hanging draperies in the world because they actually hang from a steel spring inserted in the top hem, with no crinoline headers to get soft and fall apart. They must be seen to be thoroughly appreciated."
Furthermore, aside from their beauty and simplicity, they are competitively priced.

Spring Crest Draperies of Lubbock and Plainview stocks a complete line of drapery fabrics.
A large line of decorator rods is stocked.

Warranty Unique
There is 10-year warranty on drapery hardware.
Only three to four week delivery time is involved for the custom made drapes.
Also available are woven woods, shades, shutters, custom bedspreads and the Classique metal blinds.
Drapery hardware is stocked for the "do it yourself" trade, too, with its simplicity lending itself to ease in installation.
Crestrand, the alternative to sheers (the elusive sheer that is different and popular) is stocked. It is beautiful, unique and thoroughly different.
BankAmericard and Master Charge purchase plans are welcomed at Spring Crest.

And remember this:
"No matter what your style, Spring Crest can dress your windows better: these custom draperies add elegance to the most formal setting, but also can be the perfect finishing touch to a casual room. These unusual draperies are formed by threading a spring steel pleater through a narrow hem at top of the material. Result: a drapery that hangs beautifully with rounded, supple folds rather than the sharp, stiff edges of conventional pinch-pleated draperies."

Gunther Piano Studios Conducting Enrollment, Interviews During Week

Enrollment and interviews will be conducted throughout this week at the fantastically different Gunther Piano Studios, 4019 58th St., phone 793-1872. Classes will begin this week, also.

The innovative group instruction for which the Gunther Piano Studios probably is best known, has gained wide acclaim, and the Fall '79 semester was most successful. Now the opportunity is afforded for the first 1980 semester, with participation including age 4 through adults. But early attention is advised as the classes are traditionally popular and enrollment is limited.

Gunther Studios are located across the street from Williams Elementary School, just three blocks east of South Plains Mall, easy to find and easy to reach.

Bonnie Apple Gunther, a Texas Tech graduate of '64, an area native (from Monahans) is more recently from Urbana, Ill., where she was assistant professor of music at the University of Illinois. As a special consultant to the national education office of Baldwin and Wurlitzer companies, Mrs. Gunther has conducted workshops and seminars in class piano at universities and public schools throughout the nation. She often is featured as a special clinician on national and state convention programs.

Electrical pianos dominate the big studio, and during piano practice, Mrs. Gunther and the children wear headphones. Switches on the piano enable the students to tune in only on their own and the teacher's piano or to listen to the entire class. The instructor can tune in or talk to any of the students when desired, and the piano can be turned to full sound or muted. Sounding boards are replaced by an electronic device.

Fun exercises, such as a giant keyboard to serve as "home base" in a catching game, are part of the comprehensive programs arranged at the Gunther Studio.

Operating on theory that children learn best when they learn with others, in a lab atmosphere and with finest lab facilities, the students grouped by age level acquire such important skills as solo performance, sight reading, transposition, harmonization and improvisation.

For All Levels
In addition to learning to play the piano, students learn here about music in general through theory study, rhythm activities and critical listening.

It is a real delight to be included in studies at the Gunther Piano Studios! Classes are available for beginners, intermediate and advanced. Special exciting pre-school classes for 4 and 5-year-old children are conducted.

Morning and afternoon classes are available, and each involve four to six students.

Pre-schoolers come for one hour, twice a week. All other classes meet once a week for an hour.

Bonnie Gunther is a member of the Lubbock Music Teachers Association, Texas Group Piano Teachers, and Music Teachers National Association. She has co-authored a series of studies used in public school labs.

Bonnie enjoys teaching. "It is fun," she emphasizes, "to introduce and assist the student to new achievements and joys", and a visit to the studio will correctly convey that the student . . . from age 4 to even those above 70 . . . share in the pleasure. It is a different kind of studio, a fun laboratory, an innovative gateway to new horizons.

"This, in brief is the Gunther Studio contribution in Lubbock. For inclusion in its program, immediate inquiry and arrangements are well advised."

Jack Faulks Auctioneers Professional Staff Holds Sales Of All Types Items

"A properly conducted and advertised auction assures a fair market price for the seller because of competitive public bidding."
Jack Faulks Auctioneers, located at 2414 Oberlin (just off North University Avenue, four blocks south of Loop 289) is a professional auction team with 12 years experience conducting all types of auctions.
Its experienced personnel assist the seller in arranging, aloting and tagging each piece of merchandise that is to be sold at auction. An attractive and orderly arrangement of merchandise or equipment benefits the seller by providing a better opportunity for the buyer to inspect and appraise each piece, therefore bringing a better price at the auction.
Selling the "auction way" provides many benefits that other types of selling does not offer the seller, Jack Faulks points out.
"First of all, transactions are made by cash; there is no better or faster way to turn your assets into cash than by public auction." Also, Jack Faulks Auctioneers' personnel are thoroughly knowledgeable in state sales tax laws. Sales tax is collected by Jack Faulks Auctioneers for the auctions they conduct.
Versatile Service
Secondly, auctions provide a means to sell any type merchandise or real estate. An auction can be held for an individual wanting to turn his personal property or real estate into cash. Auctions are excellent means for businesses to liquidate completely. Also, businesses can take advantage of auction selling to reduce inventory of goods or equipment that they no longer need or can use to fullest potential. All types of businesses can take advantage of the auction method of selling, whether it is a dress shop or an oil field equipment company.
Thirdly, Jack Faulks Auctioneers brings the buyer to the seller; the seller does not have to be concerned with this aspect of the sale as it is handled by the auctioneer. Jack Faulks Auctioneers' personnel have successful experience with all types of media advertising... from radio spots to mailing of descriptive brochures to proven buyers.
The Print Shoppe, a commercial printing company located at 1606-B N. University, handles all advertising for Jack Faulks Auctioneers. Its experienced staff designs and prints brochures describing each auction and listing each piece of merchandise or equipment offered for sale. Brochures are distributed by mail to proven buyers and by display racks placed in various proven locations in several area cities and towns. The Print Shoppe maintains mailing lists of proven buyers in many different categories from farm sale buyers to heavy equipment buyers. Also, slicks of advertisements are provided to area newspapers and other publications which will best inform buyers of each particular auction.

No Sale Too Large
No sale is too large for Jack Faulks Auctioneers, whether it is an auction of heavy equipment, oil field equipment, farm equipment or property, estates, real estate, warehouses, factories, machine shops, restaurant equipment, zoos, furniture, trucks and automobiles or clothing stores.
Jack Faulks Auctioneers has four licensed auctioneers in its employ which assures the seller of a properly conducted sale in a professional manner. The cashiers and clerks are a very important part of a Jack Faulks Auction, and they are experienced and knowledgeable in all types of auctions. Check-out and security services are available at a Jack Faulks Auction.
Professionals
Successful businessmen are "cashing in" their equipment at Jack Faulks Auctioneers' Auction. Phone (806) 763-4919 or write P.O. Box 5701, Lubbock, Tex. 79417, and let the "professional team" handle your auction.
Jack Faulks Auctioneers is a member of the National Auctioneers Association and the Texas Auctioneers Association.
Jack Faulks has been a director of the Texas Auctioneers Association and is presently second vice president of the organization.
Jack Faulks Auctioneers is a subsidiary of J.N.J. Co., Inc., which also includes the Print Shoppe and J.N.J. Plumbing, Heating and Air Conditioning.

to books, art supplies, craft needs and all.
Full information regarding class duration, supplies, costs, etc., are available at Village Craft Corner, together with information about the particular qualifications and specialties of each instructor.
"It can be a fun and achievement time ahead for you in 1980, with Village Craft Corner helping in its unique and long-appreciated way."

Mahon Martinizing Cleaners Welcomes Problem Garments

"Is it new or was it Martinized?" This is an understandable query when one's clothes look their best! And it is a question that might be asked at especially frequent intervals now just after the Christmas season when new clothes were one of the major items given. (Incidentally, if you received quality garments for Christmas, don't you think only the best in dry cleaning care is merited? Then, there is this assurance: the finest service is available at a Mahon Martinizing Cleaners easily accessible to you, no matter your Lubbock address.)

The same great services are available at each of the plants . . . at 49th Street and Knoxville Avenue where Sam Caddell is manager, at 3322 83rd St. (one block east of Indiana on 83rd) with Scott Rickman managing, or at the 30th & Slide unit managed by Johnnie Bates.

Suede Cleaning
 It is emphasized that the Mahon Martinizing Cleaners are equipped to handle the special situation needs . . . such as cleaning of fine leathers, suedes, cashmere coats, delicate fabrics, camel hair garments, the expensive problem garments, ultra suedes, manmade furs, etc., all cleaned superbly in the local Martinizing plants.

For cleaning of these materials, and for bonded fabrics, knits, most plastics, fur-lined and fur-trimmed garments and even jeweled apparel and pile coats, one can entrust the job with confidence to the nearest Mahon Martinizing Cleaners owned by Gordon Mahon.

Valcene Process
 With post-holiday demands on the wardrobe, with back-to-the-classroom situations for many, with the promise of more adverse weather, and with the new materials popular this season, expert cleaning attention is advised. These materials deserve no less than the gentleness and other advantages of Valcene drycleaning. (If you have a problem garment, ask your cleaner to Valcene!)

Added Convenience
 Check these among the other Mahon Martinizing advantages:
 Cleaning brought in before 11 a.m. Saturdays can be picked up the same day before closing at 3 p.m.
 One likely has recognized that one-day cleaning service is available throughout the week, but the added Saturday convenience may not have been realized . . . and all this considerate service is at no extra charge. College students, other students and traveling men seem especially appreciative of this convenience.

Pillow cleaning is a very important and specialized service, whether foam rubber or leather bed pillows.

In the pillow cleaning process, all feathers are removed from ticking and the contents are individually sanitized. Reuffed and clean, they are put into new ticking, returned soft and buoyant as new.

Ozone gas is utilized in deodorizing the feathers. New ticking plus added feathers as desired are part of the finished operation. (You get your own feathers back, with added ones as asked.) A choice of ticking in coloring and patterns is available, with all guaranteed fast color 100 per cent new cotton that is leather-proof and down-proof.

Each Martinizing facility here serves as a pick-up station for laundry, too. Drive-in window service is afforded at each of the locations.

Maxey Improvement Center Cites Customer Benefits, Sends Greetings

Maxey Home Improvement Center, 120 N. University Ave., is proud year after year to serve area needs for the do-it-yourself handyman, the homebuilder and the contractor alike, understanding the preferences of each, and stocking accordingly.

"We are most grateful for the trade accorded us in the year just past, and we wish each of you the best that 1980 can hold: we hope to have a measureable part in your achievements, stressing service, quality products and pricing to please."

Maxey Home Improvement Center, remember, is the home of the famous Benjamin Moore Paints, Genie automatic garage door openers, finest in storm doors, and many, many other products recognized for quality features.

With savings in every department, and with a selection in which it takes pride, Maxey Home Improvement Center works hard in justifying its name as an improvement center. It seems it has been most successful in this goal and continuing effort.

Whatever the painting need, for inside, outside, enamels, exterior stains, varnishes, etc., Maxey feels it has a really outstanding offering.

With the large stock of paints now presented, Maxey emphasizes that whatever the color, it can be secured now; custom mixing enables over 1,000 colors.

For new beauty, luster, resistance to blistering, alkali and fumes, Benjamin Moore comes through. Whether selection is from MooreGlo latex house and trim paint, MooreGard vinyl-acrylic, exterior paint for wood siding, trim, shakes and shingles, even unglazed brick and asbestos shingles, stucco, cement and cinder blocks, or from Moore's Impervo high-gloss enamel, with its bold, bright, durable, wet-look finish, one cannot go wrong with Benjamin Moore.

"Be our guest at Maxey Home Improvement Center and look before you buy."

Maxey is a "family type of place" in which to shop, select and purchase; with a record of satisfaction.

Look at some of the other Maxey features:
 "Have you discovered the beauty and utility of Amerock decorative hardware?"
 "And have you realized that Maxey

Home Improvement Center includes a huge Amerock display and stock among its many products for the home?"

For fine decorative hardware, whether the item is an entry lock, towel bars, switch plates, and more, the Amerock collection of Maxey Home Improvement Center, 120 N. University Ave., phone 765-7736, is most impressive.

Not only is there a wide variety at the Maxey firm, but prices are kept in line throughout the stock, with specials arranged whenever possible to further assist.

There are very good buys on water heaters, bathtubs, marble top vanities, faucets, light fixtures, paint, etc.

And some may not realize that the Maxey Home Improvement Center stocks a good assortment of hand tools, both in sets and individual pieces, for auto repair.

Genie Recommended
 Genie automatic garage door openers are featured by Maxey, and one is invited to come in and learn all the details of why a Genie "should be in your immediate future."
 "Happy New Year!"

Dura' Bilt Portable Buildings Sets One-Week Special Pricing

It is "First of the Year Savings Time" at Dura' Bilt Portable Buildings, 6415 Ave. H, just south of the Tahoka traffic circle in south Lubbock, phone 745-2891!

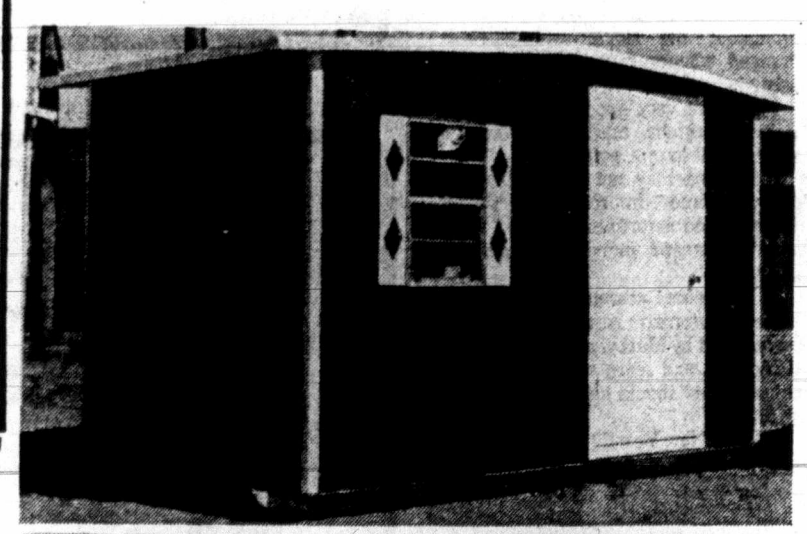

This means that every one of the more than 35 buildings on the lot is marked today through Jan. 14 at 10 per cent to 15 per cent off regular price. It is a special "one week" opportunity and is Dura' Bilt's way of saying "we have appreciated your business in the past year and want to save for you again in 1980."

The sale takes on added significance when it is recognized that Dura' Bilt's prices already are low (tomorrow's buildings at yesterday's prices).

So... check the selection of units in stock, from size 6 x 8 to 12 x 24, note the quality and versatility, and Dura' Bilt surely will be your choice. Early attention is advised to be sure of full selection while at sale pricing.

VERSATILE, PRACTICAL... AND ON SALE — The pictured units are among those on the Dura' Bilt lot marked this week at reduced prices.

"Dura' Bilt Portable Buildings are manufactured locally to better serve you. Whether the need is an office, garage, barn, backyard storage, well house, warehouse, concession stand, hobby shop or a mobile-home add-on, as example, Dura' Bilt can be the economical and practical answer.

(With today's housing costs, and with many living in mobil homes, wouldn't an add-on to that mobil home make sense?)

Features of Dura' Bilt buildings include pre-finish masonry exterior that requires no paint or maintenance; it is of best quality and available in various colors.

Strong steel roofing guards against hail.

Exterior-grade plywood flooring is utilized, with floor joists on 16-inch center to assure further quality.

Baked-on enamel aluminum trim in lovely colors is another feature.

And rubber closures in the eaves to guard against dust.

Custom Units, Too

Custom design to the customer's specifications is one of the services at Dura' Bilt, and many "extras" can be added to standard buildings to assure a unit that meets one's needs and preferences.

All lumber is top grade, No. 2 or better (no sap problem here to cause twisted studs).

Bank rate financing is available.

Dura' Bilt delivers the units and emphasizes that no expensive site preparation is needed.

Another service some may not realize is afforded at Dura' Bilt is moving of portable buildings.

"We hope you'll come to see us during the one-week sale; but you are welcome at any time; come by and browse, even when 'just looking!'"

ARCADIA STONE FOR BEAUTY, VERSATILITY

Arcadia Stone Now In South Lubbock, In All-New Facility

"Did you realize that Arcadia Stone in Lubbock late last year moved to a new home?"
Arcadia Stone Co., Inc., long at 1922 Ave. E, is now in big new facilities at 327 E. 74th St., just off the Loop 289 access road in southeast Lubbock, phone 745-6328.
"We at Arcadia Stone, in our new home, invite your visits, inquiries and inspection, and most of all, wish you a Happy New Year... all year long!"
Most likely you have observed and admired the use of Arcadia Stone in homes, businesses, yards or institutions in your neighborhood or community, wherever you live within the South Plains area. We would consider it a privilege to give a free estimate in your own situation.
For a truly beautiful and functional fireplace, for stone work to modernize an existing home or business, to be utilized in expansion or new construction, commercially or for the home, Arcadia Stone is the firm to know, again in 1980.

Arcadia Stone is an enduring investment, whether for attractive fireplaces, for beautiful wall and floor tiles, for stepping stones, even the very popular exterior use on metal buildings. (Or interior walls for offices, as another practical and functionally-beautiful usage.)
Arcadia Stone is ideal for other interior ornamental work such as walls, arches, columns and planters; it affords the attractive way to add a distinctive new look to the home's interior.
The Lubbock firm has its own installation crews, or one can purchase the stone for "do-it-yourself" projects.

Adaptable for either inside or exterior use, Arcadia Stone is flexible; it can be used on any sound surface including metal, wood, block and even sheetrock. It can add architectural beauty to shopping centers, commercial and professional buildings.
Maybe it is an entryway, a bath or a kitchen... or exterior landscaping and fences... whatever the situation, Arcadia Stone is an attractive accent.
"And don't forget our new address and phone number, 327 E. 74th St., phone 745-6328."

Individuals and contractors alike, throughout the region, have voiced enthusiasm for Arcadia Stone. This is no surprise, for after all, can you imagine a lightweight and durable man-made stone at a fraction of the cost of some other materials, and available in seven decorative colors?
Full details of the product and services are available at the home-owned and home-operated Arcadia Stone Co., Inc.
Arcadia stone has been used for exceptional beauty and warmth in numerous area situations... commercial and residential. It can be used wherever stone or masonry veneer is desired. It can be used to veneer complete homes or to enhance the quality of one's present residence.

Budget Rent A Car's Airport Valet Parking Aids Traveler

Yes, one can park his or her vehicle at Budget Rent A Car, 1701 N. Quirt, at cost of only $1 per day, when taking advantage of the free valet service provided right to the airport (with Budget Rent A Car servicing all flights, early and late!)
(Many also find it advantageous for the folks at Budget Rent A Car to service the vehicle while it is there.)
Budget Rent A Car of Lubbock, 1701 N. Quirt Ave., not only operates from all-new facilities said to be the most modern in the area, but it provides likely a much greater scope of services than some may have realized.
You don't have to be in need of rental units to be served at this complete Enco service center where there's even a big used car lot.
As for the rental part of the business, the owner emphasizes, that "we save you money," inviting comparison of the low rates afforded on current model GM and other fine cars of all sizes.

Valet parking is one of the much-appreciated services, with Budget Rent A Car enabling one to leave a personal car there, with a firm representative taking the driver and occupants right to the airport, affording the same service upon return trip! Thus there are no long walks from parking areas; the customer is taken right to the airport doorway.
A full-service station is provided, open six days a week.
Rentals are available every day.
Some 70 to 80 cars are kept in the rental fleet at most times, right here in Lubbock.
(There is no drop charge for cars dropped in Amarillo.)
Budget Rent A Car of Lubbock (a budget Rent A Car System licensee) opened in September '78.

Don Crow Chevrolet Continues Special Oil-Lube Price Offer

"We believe it is generally known that the Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc., Service Department is really something special; otherwise, we just wouldn't be having the trade that we enjoy!"
Jess Nichols, service manager of the Don Crow firm at Slide Road at South Loop 289, joins with the entire firm in expressing appreciation for the confidence and trade accorded this department, and as a graphic gesture of this appreciation makes the following announcement:
Special Low Price
"We are extending our offer of an oil and lube job just $9.95! Yes, just $9.95, and this includes up to five quarts of Quaker State HD 30 oil, AC filter, and grease!"
"Of course, we welcome your business throughout the department, but we are listing this good price as indicative of the customer-considering operations at Don Crow Chevrolet."

And Don Crow still has some of those sought-after Target engines, with the 350 Target engine priced at just $995, including installation, intake gasket set and labor for Chevrolet passenger cars and light duty pickups. Cost for heavy duty trucks understandably is slightly more.
From the service manager to the service advisors and technicians (including five master technicians) at Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc., all take pride in the ultimate in customer service at a price that can be lived with.
"And don't forget Don Crow Chevrolet's invitation to compare costs; we are glad to show you the posted hourly rates and allotted Chevrolet factory time for any job, eliminating any confusion. We are aboveboard in all dealings."

Don Crow believes that it pays you to know all the facts; it pays to know and trust Don Crow Chevrolet!
"When you consider our honesty in dealing, the dedication of a professional staff with true know-how, our reputation for saving for you in dollars and cents, then why consider anything less than Don Crow Chevrolet for your every auto repair need?"
All service work is guaranteed 90 days or 4,000 miles on all General Motors parts and accessories.
More than a dozen technicians and three service advisors are on the job.

TUFTWICK, WHERE QUALITY-PRICE ADVANTAGES ARE TRADITIONAL!
Tuftwick Carpet's Early-Year Clearance Affords Opportunity

"Surely you have heard... but if possibly you have not, let us save you money by reminding:
"Tuftwick's January Clearance is underway, with rock-bottom prices posted throughout the stock in the big Lubbock store.
"Don't delay... come to Tuftwick Carpet, at Brownfield Highway and Slide Road in Lubbock, and select during the sale. You'll readily recognize the quality and the selection that sets Tuftwick apart; and Hal, Arvel, Nancy and Beth will be glad to assist in any manner possible: they know carpet, and they know that satisfied customers are the biggest asset a firm can have.
"Tuftwick wants to serve you now and throughout 1980 just as they have in years past, and they believe this sale kicking off the new year is the most practical way of proving their desire to serve best."
Whatever the selection in the very large stock, including full rolls, short rolls and remnants, one can save by purchasing from Tuftwick during this meaningful sale.
"Tuftwick takes pride in selling at $3 to $5 per yard under suggested retail, no matter the selection, no matter if just arrived in stock!"
Treated For Static
One must surely see the new rolls arriving, from such famous mills as Lees, Milliken, Philadelphia and Horizon. Seldom has there been such a variety of fabrics and colors and patterns. All the new fabrics received by Tuftwick are treated for static and soiling, with either Scotchgard or Teflon.
A really great selection of Antron (the best Dupont nylon) is noted.
Remember, the new carpet arrivals are being introduced at sale prices! So don't delay in selection, comparison and purchase.
With the quality of workmanship, with fine materials and beautiful new patterns, more for the money in carpet is provided than ever before, the folks at Tuftwick welcome opportunity to explain and prove.
Also, of prime interest at this time, is recognition that carpet is a great energy saver, a definite instrument in insulation. (And energy savings mean dollar savings.)
Furthermore, at Tuftwick, expert installation is assured.
All labor is guaranteed.
"Longtime recognition of Tuftwick Carpet, Inc. as a headquarters for attractive pricing, utmost in value, and always a wide selection is a matter of general knowledge.
"But in appreciating Tuftwick for its inflation-fighting prices, have you realized that this big firm at Slide Road and Brownfield Highway in Lubbock includes the most elegant wool carpets, even custom made for your own situation, along with its wide choices in other materials and grades?
Finest 100 per cent wool carpet from Philadelphia Carpets, even in custom colors, is available at Tuftwick... so "let us custom make your carpet" is no idle claim there.
"Seriously, if you can't find the color you need, as example, consider custom carpet manufactured especially for you.
"Imagine... the exact color or any imaginable color, from the softest, most delicate color of your favorite rose to the deep rich auburn shade of your Irish setter!"

Building Supply Center, On West 34th, Serving Handyman Or Contractor Alike

"Are you among those who found in 1979 that Building Supply Center, Inc., 5238 34th St., seemed to be stocked especially for your particular needs?"
After its establishment in April, Building Supply Center gained wide popularity from contractors, homebuilders and the home handyman alike. And when you stock and serve to meet the needs of each, you must be doing things about right!
Greetings Expressed
"At this time we want to express our deep appreciation for the friendships and the trade that has made our present stature possible, and we pledge all efforts to serving you in the new year to the best of our ability. With demands upon the pocketbook at every hand for the consumer, we emphasize that we are re-doubling our efforts to provide quality materials at lowest practical prices in the new year."
Whether the need is selection from a full stock of paint, plumbing supplies, electrical materials, even an increased line of hardware and tools, Building Supply Center comes through strong.
Not only are southwest Lubbock residents and builders fortunate in having this home-owned and home-operated firm in its area, but folks throughout the region turn to this complete building supply company.
Veterans in Business
Billy Morris, longtime Lubbock resident in the paint and related businesses for over 30 years, is president of the corporation that bought the Murray-Wright Lumber business formerly at the 5238 34th Street address, changing its name and expanding the stock for the April opening. Virgil Murray of the former firm remains as a stockholder of Building Supply Center.
Lyle Avey, recognized for his hardware and lumber knowledge and wide experience, is general manager.
Building Supply Center stocks Jones-Blair and TCI paints, plus the good hardware selection, glass, lumber, roofing, hand tools and more.
Building Supply Center, Inc., 5238 34th St., just a short distance west of Slide Road, pledges again in 1980 to remain foremost in the things that count - customer consideration, good stock of quality merchandise, and prices that can ease entry into the '80's. May we have the opportunity of proving our capability to you as a valued customer?"

CUSTOMER-ORIENTED SERVICE — Billy Morris, left, is president of the home-owned Building Supply Center, and Lyle Avey, right, is general manager of the firm established back in April. Long in related businesses they each benefit the customer with experience, interest in personal assistance and in stocking the right products at sensible price.

WOOLCO. FOR VALUES IN TYPEWRITERS

Office Furniture, At Woolco's Low Pricing, Can Save In '80

"Had you realized that a wide selection of office furniture is stocked at Woolco... and at low Woolco prices?"

"Yes, you can turn to Woolco for your office supply needs, just as you have relied upon its other departments, saving appreciably in 1980.

Quality is the watchword throughout, but still with those low Woolco prices.

File Cabinets

At present, special attention is directed to the two-drawer and four-drawer filing cabinets, locking or non-locking, and with matching desks.

Desks are stocked in three sizes and in three colors from which to choose.

There are security chests, desk organizers, bond boxes, letter files, etc.

Even typewriters and calculators. The new "ball" typewriters are stocked at very competitive prices; select from electric typewriters with the convenient cartridge system; and a wide variety of calculators including both desk and pocket units.

Woolco always has a good selection of stationery needs, fax ledgers, appointment books, expanding files, business calendars and daily aids and appointment calendars.

For stationery and office furniture, Woolco again proves that "we want to be your favorite store."

Iowans Voice Varied Reactions Following Des Moines Debate

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Ralph Lewis does not consider himself a political activist. Some years he doesn't even vote.

But while on guard duty at an office building Saturday night, Lewis — like thousands of other Iowans — was tuned in to the biggest political event in the state.

He watched intently as six Republicans seeking the presidency squared off in the first debate of the 1980 campaign.

"It was damn interesting," Lewis said Sunday. "I don't know how it changed anybody's mind, but at least you got to see those guys up on the stage answering questions."

Lewis' typified the reaction of Iowans who had seen the debate on television or the 2,600 who saw it live in the Des Moines Civic Center.

The candidates — Rep. John Anderson, Sen. Howard Baker, former Ambassador George Bush, former Gov. John Connally, Rep. Phil Crane and Sen. Robert Dole — fielded questions on topics ranging from Iran to pornography.

With the pivotal Iowa precinct caucuses just two weeks away, the candidates were eager to appear before a prime-time television audience, hoping for even the smallest boost toward victory Jan. 21.

"From the standpoint of personalities, it was an interesting thing to watch," said Christian Jencks, an Englishman visiting friends in Iowa. "From an issued standpoint, I think it left a bit to be desired."

Frank Hostettler, who describes himself as "sort of a half-Republican, half-Democrat," listened to the debate on his truck radio and concluded there were few differences among the candidates.

"They all sounded pretty chummy, except for a few little digs," he said. "Still, I was kind of impressed."

Lewis and Hostettler reported being "impressed" by the candidates, but would they attend their neighborhood caucuses?

"I doubt it," Lewis replied.

One politically astute observer speculated the debate could influence undecided GOP voters.

"There are a lot of Republicans out there who still haven't made up their minds," said Rick Morain, a newspaper publisher from Jefferson and ex-member of the GOP State Central Committee. "This may help them weed out some people, but it won't make any sure-fire winners."

Kay Roelofsma, a teacher in Steamboat Rock, a stronghold of Republican conservatism, said the debate reaffirmed her support for Crane, who started out early in Iowa to win over former Reagan loyalists.

"He's a man who applies sound principles to moral problems," she said.

But in the apartment which Drake University student Linda Wilson shares with two room-mates, the television was tuned to "Love Boat" while the Republicans were squaring off across town.

"We've had enough politics," she said. "All we've been hearing about these days is the caucuses — in the paper, on radio and on television. We didn't need to spend our Saturday night being inundated by more politicians."

A group of Democrats gathered in a Des Moines hotel room to watch the debate and size up the potential opposition.

"It was a real nice beauty contact," quipped a legislator. "They all looked real pretty sitting up there in a row."

Uncanny Accuracy In Astronomy Noted In Study Of Indians From Dark Ages

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — While European civilization declined in the Dark Ages, astronomy was flourishing in the jungle cities of Mexico and Central America, scientists said Sunday.

As long as 1,200 years ago, scientist-priests of the Maya Indians, for example, could unerringly predict eclipses and could plot the motions of the planet Venus with uncanny accuracy, according to modern scientists.

The Mayans, who also are credited with developing mathematics and an advanced written language, devised complex and accurate calendars.

Around the world — among South American Incas, Polynesian Islanders, American Indians, ancient European tribes and many others — a new science called archaeoastronomy is finding evidence of a sophisticated understanding of astronomy long before the invention of the telescope in Holland in 1608.

The discoveries of just how advanced ancient astronomers were reveal that between modern astronomers and their prehistoric predecessors, "there is an ultimate goal that I think we still share," said Edwin C. Krupp, director of Los Angeles' Griffith Observatory. "We are still studying cosmology. We are still trying to say, this is our universe, this is what it's like and this is our place in it," he said at a weekend meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Krupp is a leading member of the new field of archaeoastronomy, which tries to identify and understand the role and practice of astronomy in long-dead civilizations.

"It has changed our opinion in the direction of understanding that they (ancient civilizations) were much more sophisticated (than had been suspected). We have very much to learn from the ancient ways of looking at the universe," Anthony Aveni of Colgate University in Hamilton, N.Y., said at a news conference.

Prehistoric peoples lived in intimate contact with the natural world. The timing of planting and harvesting and the migration of animals meant the difference between life and death. The celestial events that signaled the changing seasons were obvious subjects for study and often took on religious overtones.

Near Chatsworth, north of Los Angeles, Krupp said, archaeoastronomers recently found an elaborately painted rock wall beneath an overhang in which a sort of window seems to have been hacked out hundreds of years ago.

On the day of the summer solstice, the day the sun reaches its northernmost point in the sky, "when the sun comes up, the very first thing that happens is that an arrow of light falls (through the window) squarely on a set of concentric circles and points directly at the center," Krupp said.

Similar solar observatories and others much more complex have been found elsewhere around the Americas.

Aveni described a vast, complex system of rock towers built by the Inca Indians of Peru in the 14th and 15th centuries. The towers apparently were used much like sundials; their shadows revealed the annual movement of the sun and identified the planting seasons.

Throughout Central and South America, he said, an imposing array of monuments, towers, markers and observatories were used for an assortment of astronomical measurements with practical and religious value.

SIGNBOARD COMMENTARY — Commercial advertising designed to take advantage of the feelings of the Americans toward Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini are springing up all over Northern California. This one is on San Francisco's ninth street, just off busy Market street. The sign speaks for itself. (AP Laserphoto)

Police Investigate Numerous Assaults

Police investigated numerous assaults involving city and area residents during the weekend's criminal activity.

A 30-year-old Lubbock woman told police that a man socked her in the face and then threatened to stab her in an incident about 4:55 a.m. Sunday at a parking lot near the intersection of Parkway Drive and Quirt Avenue.

The victim said that she had just left a nearby club and was sitting in her car when the suspect walked up, asked her to roll down the window and assaulted her.

Reports show that two men approached and told the suspect to leave the woman alone, and that the suspect grabbed the woman's car keys and fled the scene.

The suspect was described as black, 26 to 35, thin and of medium height and was wearing a red shirt and white pants.

A 49-year-old woman was in serious condition Sunday at West Texas Hospital with injuries she suffered during an assault at her East Lubbock home about 4 a.m. Sunday.

The woman said that when she told her husband to let her sleep, he left the house, came back with a pipe and began beating her. The victim said she ran to a relative's home, and a few hours later, she sought treatment at West Texas Hospital.

A 54-year-old man was treated and later released from Health Sciences Center Hospital Sunday for a gunshot wound to the leg he sustained during a domestic dispute at his south Lubbock home Sunday morning.

The victim told police that he and his wife had been arguing and that she picked up a .22-caliber pistol and shot him in the left leg.

The man said that he and his wife resolved their differences, and he went to bed. Reports indicate the woman later called some friends of her husband, and they took him to HSCH.

A Brownfield man was treated and later released from University Hospital Sunday for a stab wound to his side that he suffered about 1:30 a.m. Sunday in an assault at the rear of a club in the 1700-block of Fourth Street.

The victim, Nabor Castro, 20, told police that he and two friends were leaving the club when two men jumped him. Castro said that one of the suspects struck him in the face, and that the second suspect stabbed him in the side. The victim said that two other men then began beating him.

Reports show that Castro's friends ran from the scene but when they heard Castro yelling for help, they returned and took the victim to their truck. When the pickup truck drove off, the suspects reportedly fired at it.

The suspects were described as Mexican-American, and 18- to 25-years-old.

An 18-year-old Lubbock youth was treated and later released from HSCH Sunday for injuries he suffered in an assault late Saturday at the party house at Mackenzie State Park.

Michiel Sosa of 2110 Colgate St. reported that he was kicked and hit by about 15 youths after he told them that the party was over. When several persons approached Sosa, reports show the suspects fled in a brown Torino and a white Ford van which had red stripes along the sides.

The victim could not describe his attackers.

Gary Bruce Ufford, 18, of 5421 86th

St. was in satisfactory condition Sunday at Methodist Hospital with a stab wound in the stomach he suffered during a fight in the 7000-block of Joliet Avenue Saturday night.

Ufford told police that he and a friend were westbound on Loop 289 when they saw a brown pickup truck and a silver Nova racing. Ufford said that the pickup almost collided with his vehicle and that he chased the pickup to a business area just south of the loop.

Reports indicate that the occupants got out of their vehicles and began arguing. Ufford said that the two young white men in the pickup truck pulled out knives and that one of the suspects chased his friend, telling him that he was going to cut his throat.

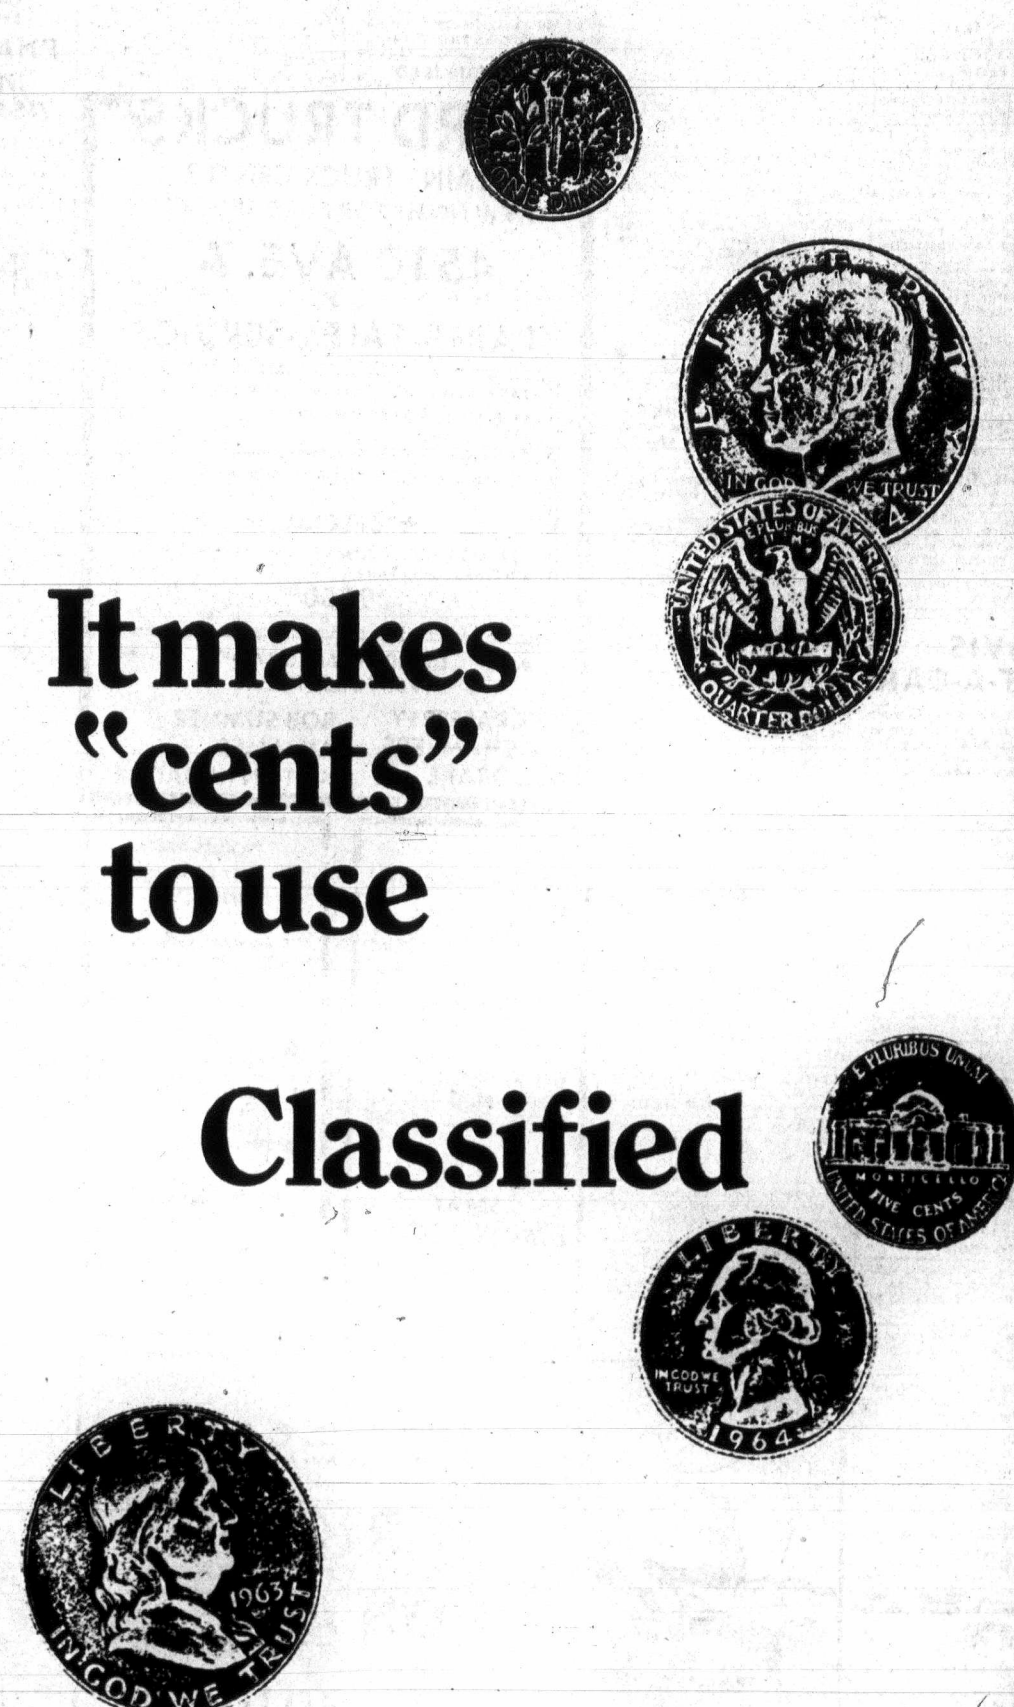

Ufford told police a scuffle ensued between him and the other suspect, and that the suspect stabbed him in the stomach. Ufford said he got into his vehicle and that his friend drove him to Methodist Hospital.

Rolando Estrado, 28, of Brownfield was beaten and then his legs were allegedly run over in an assault about 11 p.m. Saturday in the parking lot of a club in the 1900-block of East Fourth Street.

Estrado was treated and later released from HSCH.

Two security guards told police they saw a man get out of a black Blazer and start beating Estrado. Reports show that when the security guards began driving toward the suspect's vehicle, a 1977 blue Pontiac Grand Prix blocked them and the suspect got into the Blazer and left. The driver of the Pontiac then reportedly ran over Estrado's legs and left the scene.

Hold The Onions,
Send In 'The Train'

STEVE SMITH WAS IN HIS usual spot — about five seats from the end — when he got the call. And it wasn't from the Sonic confirming his — hold the onions — cheeseburger either.

The call was from Texas Tech boss Gerald Myers for Smith to get up off the bench, get in the game and make something happen. It was early in the second half Saturday and the lackluster Red Raiders trailed Houston 49-41.

Was the sophomore from Hobbs, N.M. surprised? Does a bear sleep in the woods?

"Yeah, I was surprised," said a laughing Smith — suddenly the center of attention in the Tech locker room following the Raiders 77-70 victory over the Cougars.

STEVE SMITH

Writers from Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston clustered around him, only moments earlier he'd been the star of Frank Gleiber's post game show on NBC — who'd done the regional telecast.

Heck, the closest Smith had ever come to an interview before was when he answered the phone for someone looking for his roommate — Jeff Taylor, also a Hobbs product.

"You just got to be ready when they tell you to go in," said Smith. "I was a little tight at first (he missed his first three shots) but I got confidence as the game went on."

I'll say. Smith hit four crucial free throws down the final stretch to help seal the win. And he made them in the midst of brutal bantering from the Coogs.

"That only made me try harder," he said.

GERALD MYERS POINTED TO THE play of Smith and senior Thad Sanders as the key to the Raiders turnaround.

"Steve hasn't got to play that much since he's been here," Myers said, "but he's kept a real good attitude. I think he showed our starters something today."

Smith's job, and he decided to accept it, was to shut off the "Juice" — Kenneth Williams, the Cougars' top scorer. Williams had gone on-for-seven in the first half, mainly with Jeff Taylor sticking to him like paint. But Williams is a streak shooter, and Houston coach Guy Lewis left him in the game — hoping he would get hot.

The "Juice" canned two quick bombs in the second half and looked like he was on his way. That's when Smith came in the game for Tech and Williams didn't make another field goal the rest of the tilt — going on-for-seven.

"Are you primarily a defensive or offensive player?" one of the writers wanted to know.

"I don't know," said Smith — who loves to shoot — hesitating, "I guess defense."

"So how did you shut down Williams?" came the query.

"Mainly just by playing him away from the ball," he replied, "I knew that if he got it he was gonna shoot."

THE WELL-WISHERS AND BACK-SLAPPERS were pressing around the latest Raider hero like kids around candy and Smith was having a hard time controlling a grin that reached from ear to ear.

"Tell everybody I said hi," Smith told his high school coach, Ralph Tasker, who was in the dressing room.

"Was that the first time your coach has seen you play down here?" someone asked.

"Ah no, he's been down here before," answered Smith, "but I guess that was the first time he's seen me play."

Suddenly, Smith was a legitimate part of the Raider success but he lacked that special something that separates a hero from a guy on the bench — he needed a nickname. I discussed the problem with the boss.

We came up with "Train" — which captures the image of Smith's bulky frame and shoulder-pads style of play. I suggested "Freight Train," someone else came up with "Night Train" — you know, because he came out of the blue.

And speaking of nicknames, "The Doctor" — Thad Sanders turned in another big game as the Raiders sixth man.

In 27 minutes the Doctor had 11 points and three blocked shots. His defensive assignment — he also accepted it — was to cover slippery Rob Williams.

Although Williams scored 22 points in the game, that total included eight free throws and a 40 foot shot at the buzzer. After scoring 14 points in the first half, Williams was only two-of-seven from the field in the second stanza.

BUT DEFENSIVE PERFORMANCES are nothing new from the Raiders. They got a dandy from Jeff Taylor against George Turner of Texas last Thursday.

Taylor held the high scoring Turner to four points (one-of-seven from the field) as Tech nipped the Longhorns 57-54 in an SWC opener.

Turner, bitter over the criticism he drew from teammates and coaches, left the Longhorns the next day.

"I don't think we'll be seeing him (Turner) anymore," admitted Texas coach Abe Lemons at the time, but Turner changed his mind and returned to the team Sunday.

Tech fans, on the other hand, will see plenty of Taylor and Smith in the next two and a half seasons. Don't think that Smith has walked into a starting role or anything like that — he may not even play that much the rest of the year.

But under the Myers' system, you'd better be ready when your number is called. You've got to prove something when you get your chance. And Steve Smith proved a bunch the other day.

As for Sanders, or "Doc" as he'd rather be called, this'll be his last year in a Raider uniform. But he'll continue to come off the bench for whoever is lagging at the moment — and Myers hopes he continues to sparkle.

At 6-4, Sanders is a good enough leaper to play a forward spot and he's a adept enough at handling the ball to play guard. Yes, the Doctor will continue to make house calls — but he is expensive.

ASK THE HOUSTON COUGARS — he sent them his bill on Saturday. It didn't cost the Coogs much — just the ballgame.

Corral, Rams Kick Young Bucs For NFC Crown

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Just when it seemed that time had passed them by, the Los Angeles Rams, of all people, earned a trip to the Super Bowl, of all places.

The perennial bridesmaids — losers in four of the previous five conference championship games — turned into brides Sunday with a 9-0 victory over Tampa Bay that ended the Bucs' Cinderella bid for the title game and gave the Rams the National Football Conference crown.

Frank Corral kicked field goals of 19, 21 and 23 yards, accounting for all the points in the game, and propelling the Rams into the big one Jan. 20 against the defending champion Pittsburgh Steelers.

Corral, bothered by a bad ankle all year, said he had pulled a hamstring in his kicking leg last week.

"A kicker tries to have his leg like a whip, but with the injury I can't get that," Corral said. "All I can do is try and make contact and get it up."

That was good enough Sunday, as the Rams put on an awesome defensive show in shutting out the Bucs, who had become popular underdogs after reversing three sad-sack seasons and charging into the playoffs.

"I knew it'd be a defensive struggle and I felt it might come down to a couple of field goals," Corral said, "but I never dreamed it would be like this."

Los Angeles Coach Ray Malavasi has been dreaming about a trip to the Super Bowl for some time, and he'll be taking a team that had a 9-7 regular-season record — poorest of any of the 10 playoff clubs.

"It's been so long," he said. "This is my ninth year in the playoffs and always before, it's been frustrating. We've waited for this day a long time."

Four times, beginning in 1974, the Rams had played for the NFC title and lost — twice to Dallas and twice to Minnesota. Each of those losing teams seemed stronger Super Bowl threats than the one Malavasi will take to Pasadena in two weeks.

Steelers End Oiler Dream

PITTSBURGH (AP) — It wasn't the two touchdown passes that Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw threw which had the Houston Oilers steaming. It was the one Dan Pastorini didn't throw — or, more precisely, the one which side judge Donald Orr said he didn't throw.

Bradshaw's two scoring losses, coming after he had thrown an interception which Vernon Perry returned 75 yards for a touchdown, helped the Steelers beat Houston 24-17 Sunday and propelled them into their fourth Super Bowl.

But so did Orr's call on an apparent touchdown catch by Oilers wide receiver Mike Renfro in the closing minute of the third period.

It kept Houston from wiping out Pittsburgh's 17-10 lead, allowing the Oilers only to shave the margin to four points — and they never got closer than that.

"That was the key play as far as I'm concerned," said Pastorini. "A touchdown right there and we might have turned things around."

On the controversial 6-yard throw, Renfro came down behind cornerback

Ron Johnson with both feet barely in bounds. Orr made no signal until Renfro jumped to his feet and rushed toward him. Then Orr signaled no catch — no touchdown.

The Oilers erupted and the officials conferred.

Then referee Jim Tunney declared the decision stood. Repeated instant replays showed that Renfro's feet had been in bounds. But Orr contended that Renfro was juggling the ball as he left the end zone.

"He saw two feet come down, but the catch was made after he came down," Tunney said after the game. "He didn't have possession that he must have."

Tunney said the officials had conferred just to double-check what Orr had seen. "No other official was in position to help, but we wanted to make sure," Tunney said. "We went around to everybody to see if they could help."

Renfro, surprisingly composed in the Houston locker room, said of Orr: "He didn't signal nothing. I thought maybe the ball had been blown dead at the snap. He was maybe 2 yards from me, looking across my face. He looked confused. Only one guy can make a call and he didn't do it... I guess they took the easy way out. He hesitated and it hurt us. It hurt us real bad."

Bradshaw called the controversial play "unfortunate for them, fortunate for us. That's the breaks of the game. I thought it was a touchdown — but I didn't care. If they scored, we were gonna score again. They had to stop us and they didn't."

Johnson, beaten by Renfro on the play, thought the receiver was out of bounds, both before and after he saw replays of it. Then he shrugged. "The play stands as called, so that's that," he said.

And, when asked if the play had a profound impact on the outcome, he replied, "I don't know. I didn't even think twice about it. Anytime you lose, you always look for reasons. But the score stands the way it is."

It appeared that Perry's interception would have a profound impact on the outcome, before Bradshaw began connecting with his own receivers. "It was a bad pass," Bradshaw said. "A terrible pass."

"I was mad as a hornet, but (Coach) Chuck Noll said to me, 'Hey, don't worry about it. You've been down that road too many times to worry now.'"

"So we just settled down and played our game and things fell into place. We did it when we had to and that's always been the mark of this team," Bradshaw added.

After the controversial play, the Oilers settled for Tom Fritsch's 23-yard field goal, making the score 17-13 entering the fourth period. A touchdown would have wiped out the Pittsburgh lead.

The Oilers got no closer.

Matt Bahr's second field goal of the game, a 29-yarder, restored Pittsburgh's seven-point lead, then Rocky Bleier sealed the Oilers' doom with a 4-yard touchdown run 54 seconds from the final gun, and the Steelers had their second successive American Football Conference championship victory over the Oilers. Last year, the Steelers romped 34-5 en route to their 35-31 triumph over Dallas in the Super Bowl.

This year, they'll play Los Angeles in the Super Bowl, Jan. 20 at Pasadena, Calif.

Bradshaw brought the Steelers from an early 10-3 deficit with his scoring strikes of 16 yards to tight end Bennie Cunningham and 20 yards to All-Pro wide receiver John Stallworth in the second period.

Those passes and the controversial call by Orr obliterated the Oilers' dreams. See BRADSHAW, Page 2.

of a championship upset, built on Perry's early heroics.

The Houston strong safety, who had a playoff-record four interceptions eight days ago in the Oilers' 17-14 upset of San Diego, picked off a poorly thrown Bradshaw pass and ran it a record 75 yards to open the scoring exactly 2½ minutes into the game. Johnny Robinson of Kansas City held the old championship record, 72 yards against Buffalo in 1966.

Except for Fritsch's 27-yard field goal for Houston 48 seconds into the second period and the 23-yarder in the fourth quarter, the Oilers' offense — especially running back Earl Campbell — was relatively dormant.

Campbell, the National Football League's rushing champion in each of his two years in the league, gained only 15 yards on 17 carries. Pastorini, under constant pressure and knocked out of the game for one play midway in the third period, completed 19 of 28 passes for 203 yards.

Bradshaw, meanwhile, completed 18 of 30 passes for 219 yards, while Franco

Harris punched out 85 yards on 21 carries in the balanced Steelers' offense.

Bradshaw's first pass of the game was a 17-yard beauty to Stallworth after he had escaped Houston's charging defenders. His second was incomplete to Stallworth and his third was way short of Cunningham.

It went right into Perry's belly, and the Oilers' defender sprinted toward the right corner of the end zone, getting there 5 yards ahead of his closest pursuer.

The Steelers barely got into Houston territory with their second possession, then moved from their 40 to the Houston 3 the third time they had the ball, with Lynn Swann making a sliding catch of a 15-yard pass for one first down and Bradshaw scrambling 25 yards for another.

But after defensive end Jesse Baker tipped an end zone pass away from running back Sidney Thornton, Bahr came in and put Pittsburgh on the scoreboard with a 21-yard field goal.

Houston then generated its only offensive display of the first half with Pas-torini completing passes covering 41 yards to Tim Wilson and 32 yards to Ronnie Coleman in a drive from the Oilers' 19 to the Steelers' 9. But the march stalled and Frisch made it 10-3 with his 27-yarder.

That's when Pittsburgh really woke up.

Bradshaw's passes of 17 and 11 yards to Swann fueled a 67-yard drive capped by the 16-yarder to Cunningham, who caught the ball in the middle of the end zone, behind Perry. The Houston defender stomped his feet in frustration after Bradshaw had completed his 25th postseason touchdown pass, breaking the NFL record he had shared with Dallas' Roger Staubach.

Again the Steelers' defense held, this time giving the offense the ball when safety Donnie Shell stripped it from Renfro and cornerback Mel Blount recovered it on the Houston 49.

Bradshaw's 15-yard screen pass to Harris and Harris' 12-yard burst to the 20 preceded Bradshaw's decisive scoring strike to Stallworth.

REFS TAKETH AWAY — Houston receiver Mike Renfro (82) makes a fingertip catch for a would-be touchdown against the Pittsburgh Steelers in Sunday's AFC title match. Los Angeles Finally Wins Elusive Bowl Ticket some Steelers, shooting for a record fourth Super Bowl crown.

"Pittsburgh will be tough, but I'm not afraid of them," said Malavasi. "I'm not afraid of anybody in the NFL."

Why should he be? After all, he's already beaten Cinderella.

It will be the first time the Rams will play for the National Football League championship since 1951, when they won the title.

The Rams made it on defense, completely throttling the Bucs and ending Tampa Bay's Cinderella season. With All-Pro defensive end Jack Youngblood playing despite a hairline fracture of his left leg, the Rams' defenders played inspired football and rarely allowed Tampa Bay to threaten.

The closest call the Rams had came when Corral, the kicker, made a touchdown-saving tackle against Isaac Hagins following the first Los Angeles field goal. Corral was the last Los Angeles defender and caught Hagins with a rolling tackle at the Bucs' 29.

Twice the Rams seemed to have touchdowns, only to lose them on decisions by the officials. First an apparent 4-yard TD run by Cullen Bryant was nullified by an illegal motion penalty, then Preston Dennard grabbed a 20-yard pass from Vince Ferragamo in the end zone but was ruled out of bounds before he had possession of the ball.

It was the first time in NFC history that no touchdowns were scored in a championship game.

The first quarter was scoreless, but late in the period the Rams launched a drive that carried them to the Tampa Bay 1-yard line.

The big play in the march was a 35-yard pass by Ferragamo to Dennard on a third-and-13 situation at the Tampa Bay 39. Bryant went in from the 4 on the next play, but the touchdown was nullified and the Rams were pushed back to the 9. Wendell Tyler picked up 8 yards, putting Los Angeles at the 1, but when two plays failed to dent the Bucs' end zone, Los Angeles settled for Corral's 19-yard field goal on the first play of the second quarter.

The teams exchanged punts twice before Ferragamo got the Rams moving again. The young quarterback, starting only his seventh pro game because of an injury to Pat Haden, completed five straight passes in a drive that was culminated by Corral's 21-yard field goal with 47 seconds left in the first half. Three of the completions in the drive went to Charlie Young, who caught only 13 passes all season.

That gave Los Angeles a 6-0 halftime lead, but the important statistic was possession time. Tampa Bay had controlled the ball for only 9:16, compared to 20:44 for Los Angeles.

Doug Williams, Tampa Bay's second-year quarterback, missed on his first eight passes — and when he finally threw one that was complete, it was for no gain.

Rams Numb McKay

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — "We couldn't get the ball. Our offense was sitting on the bench so much they almost forgot the plays," said Coach John McKay, fighting back disappointment.

The Super Bowl-bound Los Angeles Rams battered the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, knocking quarterback Doug Williams out of the game with a torn muscle in his throwing arm, shutting down workhorse Ricky Bell, and shredding the proud Tampa defense.

Los Angeles kept the ball for nearly 38 minutes while they piled up a total offense of 369 yards — good enough for a 9-0 shutout and the National Football Conference title. They left the upstart fourth-year Bucs standing on the brink of a trip to Pasadena Jan. 20.

Tampa had the ball for 22 minutes and managed a total of 177 yards offense.

"We didn't play very well defensively. We kept the score down," said McKay after his young players shuffled off the field heads down, silent and expressionless.

Williams, the second-year player from Grambling who led the Bucs to the playoffs, went out midway through the third period after taking a hit from defensive end Mike Fanning. Williams completed two of 13 passes for 12 yards.

Fullback Bell, who rushed for 1,263 yards during Tampa's 10-6 season and set a postseason record against Philadelphia with 38 carries, was held to just 59 yards on 20 carries.

The bruising Rams sidelined All-Pro defensive end Lee Roy Selmon, NFL Defensive Player of the year and anchor of Tampa's best-ranked defense in the league. He sprained his left ankle in a pile-up and missed most of the second half.

Another part of the rugged front three — defensive end Wally Chambers — went down earlier with a knee problem.

"Whatever we did, they expected it," said Williams in a somber dressing room. It was quiet and the players talked only when someone asked them something. They volunteered little.

"I came in feeling like we were going to be on top. But they played a hell of a defensive game," Williams said.

"Even when I left, I felt we could still win. But the big plays never happened. We had a dream. We still have a dream. I'm elated we got this far," said the 24-year-old strong-armed signal caller, his throwing arm wrapped in a sling.

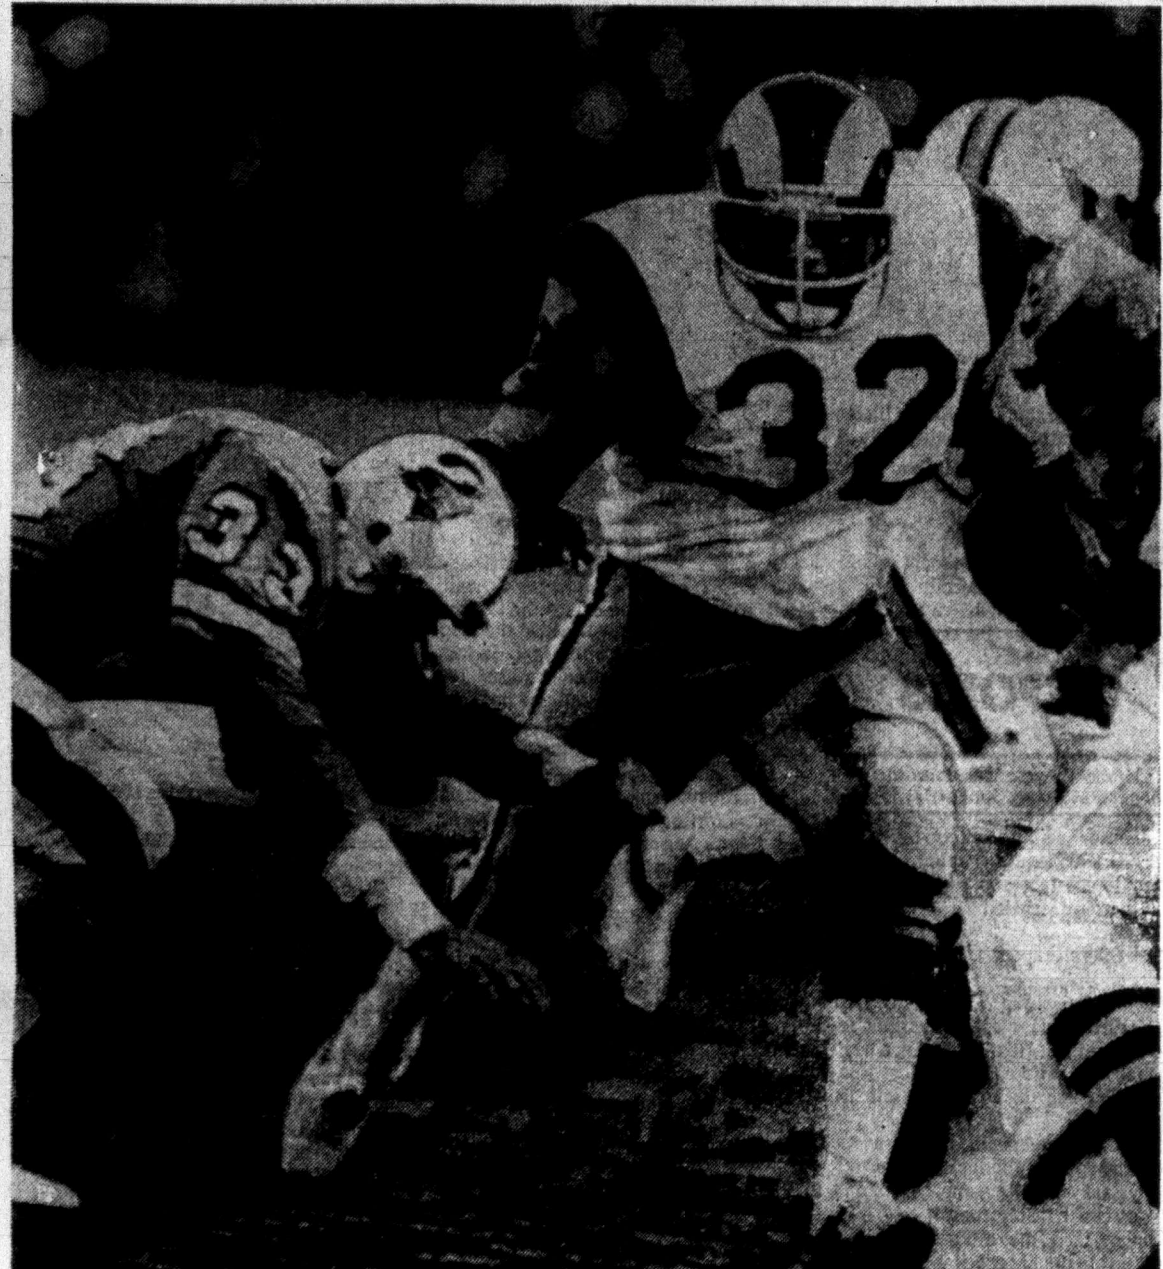

"I could say we didn't play well, but that would detract from the Rams," said McKay.

Texas A&M Picks Up Title Pace

By United Press International

About an hour before Southern Methodist took the floor against the Texas Longhorns Saturday night, the discussion at court-side concerned how balanced the Southwest Conference race appeared to be this year.

"Yes," said SMU coach Sonny Allen, "but the team that can really do it is Texas A&M. If they get it together, they can dominate."

That's what most people had said before the season started and through the month of December Texas A&M did not dominate.

But against the Baylor Bears Saturday night, the Aggies looked to be championship material.

"We played well at both ends," surprised A&M coach Shelby Metcalf. "I think if we play defense like that the rest of the year we will be in pretty good shape.

"Once a player decides he likes to play defense he can find that it is a fun part of the game."

The Aggies overwhelmed Baylor in the second half at College Station and ran away with a 74-57 decision that left them tied for the early league lead with Texas Tech — both teams a half game ahead of Arkansas.

The first week of conference action saw one major surprise — Texas Tech upsetting Texas in Austin.

After that game, Texas freshman guard George Turner, looked upon as a potential superstar for the Longhorns, disappeared and failed to accompany the team in its trip to Dallas for what turned out to be an 85-75 Texas victory.

Some of the Texas players said Turner had a hip injury and would rejoin the team. Texas coach Abe Lemons said he didn't have the slightest idea where Turner was.

"If he comes back three weeks from now he can play," said Lemons, who, as is his nature, appeared not to care one way or the other whether Turner returned to the team.

Against SMU, Lemons used another freshman, Fred Carson, in Turner's place and he responded with excellent floor leadership in Texas' mild upset of the Mustangs. In addition, freshman center LaSalle Thompson came through with a career high 25 points to spark the Longhorns' win.

"That was almost a must win for us," said Texas' Ron Baxter. "A loss in that one and we would have been 0-2. We have games coming up in Houston and against Arkansas. It was possible we could be 0-4. Now we can be 3-1."

After whipping Texas in Austin, only the second loss for the Longhorns in the three-year-old Super Drum, Texas Tech rallied to down Houston Saturday afternoon, 77-70, and boost its league record to 2-0.

Tech played poorly in the first half against Houston and trailed by seven after the first 20 minutes.

"I was afraid we might have an emotional letdown after the big win over Texas," said Tech coach Gerald Myers. "I thought we were never going to get it turned around."

Arkansas won its only conference game of the week — over SMU — to stand as the only other club unbeaten in SWC Play.

There will be conference action on Tuesday and Saturday this week with one key game on each occasion.

Texas Tech and Texas A&M Meet Tuesday night in College Station in a battle of the early conference leaders. And in a regionally televised game next Saturday afternoon, Texas will host Arkansas.

When those two teams met last year in Austin, Arkansas handed the Longhorns' their first loss ever in their new home and the coaches of the clubs — Lemons and the Razorbacks' Eddie Sutton — wound up in a brief shoving match at halftime.

Turner Returns

AUSTIN (AP) — Freshman guard George Turner returned to the Texas basketball team Sunday, after being missing for one day.

He said he would be with the squad for Thursday's game at the University of Houston.

Turner failed to make the trip to Dallas for Saturday's Southwest Conference contest with SMU.

Saudi Arabia Junks Games

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Saudi Arabia on Sunday became the first country to announce that it will not participate in the Olympics Games in Moscow this summer because of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

The decision by the Saudi Olympic Committee was announced by the Saudi press agency.

It was not known how large a delegation the Saudis might have sent to the Games.

Saudi Arabia, guardian of Islam's most sacred shrines, has been the most outspoken Arab country against the coup which brought the pro-Soviet Babrak Karmal to power in Kabul.

As many as 100,000 Soviet troops are said to be in Afghanistan.

President Carter warned in his nationally televised address last week that the United States might withdraw from the Moscow Games because of the Soviet military action.

But Carter's statement generally met with unfavorable reaction from athletic officials, including the United States Olympic Committee.

Dan Pastorini Typifies Oilers' Disappointment

"There's gotta be an easier way to make a living," he sighed Sunday, standing in the Oilers' dressing room stark naked after most of his teammates had departed following their 27-13 defeat at the hands of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Pastorini had taken a fearful beating all day in a vain attempt to guide the Oilers into the Super Bowl for the first time. He had completed 19-of-28 passes for 203 yards and was intercepted once.

He was hit so hard at one point in the third quarter that he had to be helped off the field and Gifford Nielsen replaced him for one play after which he returned and called signals for the losers the rest of the way.

"It's a sad thing to work so hard, come so close and then wind up like this, so far away," said the Oilers' quarterback, who was involved in a pushing and name calling episode with a sports writer during the past week.

All that was forgotten now and the only thing on Pastorini's mind was the fact the Steelers, not the Oilers, would be going to Super Bowl XIV.

Someone asked Pastorini if he would be going to Pasadena anyway to see the game on Jan. 20 and he shook his head and said, "No, I don't want to go unless I can play in it."

Despite the fact they were short-enders and the oddsmakers considered them 9-1-2 point underdogs to the Steelers, Pastorini believed the Oilers had a good chance of upsetting Pittsburgh before the contest. So much so that he was half-thinking about the Super Bowl himself.

"Now, I don't know what I'll do for the next couple of weeks," he said. "I didn't want to make any plans past today."

Pastorini missed the Oilers playoff game with the San Diego Chargers due to a groin pull and faced the Steelers despite the fact the injury was not completely healed.

"Under the conditions he played, I think he did a superb job," said Oilers' wide receiver Ken Burrough, watching Pastorini walk with his head down into the trainer's room.

"I saw him get injured two weeks ago and I know how much pain he was in," added Burrough, playing with a groin pull of his own that was not entirely healed. "I'm not saying this about him because he's the quarterback and I'm the wide receiver. But I'll tell you this much — if we had won the game, he would have been the Most Valuable Player. That was the way I saw it anyway."

Burrough, talking about the controversial referee's call in which Mike Renfro was ruled to have been out-of-bounds before gaining "complete control" of a touchdown pass in the third period, said that he naturally was hoping it was a touchdown.

"It didn't help us," he said, hollowly, when asked what the general reaction was among the Oilers when the play was nullified. "If it had been vice versa, with the call going against Pittsburgh, I would have been happy. This way there's no way you can be. But calls are part of the game. If there was a team in the world that was going to beat the Houston Oilers today, it was the Pittsburgh Steelers."

"I don't know of any other team that could have done it."

Youngblood, Gritty Rams Triumph Behind Defense

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Jack Youngblood played on a broken leg. Frank Corral kicked with a pulled hamstring. Wendell Tyler didn't leave when his bad knee got twisted.

After six years of mental anguish, the Los Angeles Rams didn't let physical pain stop them short of their first Super Bowl.

Youngblood gasped for breath as he limped on a hairline fracture in his left leg following the Rams' 9-0 victory over the young Tampa Bay Buccaneers Sunday night.

"How do you think a broken leg feels?" Youngblood said. "It feels like it's broken — that's how it is."

The veteran All-Pro end started and contributed two early tackles as the inspired Rams' defense led the team into the Super Bowl for the first time after six earlier playoff losses.

"It's just the type of thing that if you're strong enough, you can block it out," Youngblood said.

"I honestly believe the good Lord blessed me with some kind of healing power and let me play today," said the Florida native, who sustained the fracture in last week's upset of Dallas.

"When you see Jack Youngblood making those big plays, it has to help," said defensive tackle Larry Brooks. "He just played as hard as he could as long as he could."

"Jack's the type it would take two broken legs to keep out. His leadership out there was very welcome. He has lots of fire," said free safety Nolan Cromwell.

Linebacker Rich Saul understood what Youngblood went through. Saul left a hospital bed the day of the Dallas game to play despite a severe virus.

"I was on I.V. (intravenous feeding). I couldn't keep anything down," said Saul.

"All year, everybody has been playing injured. We've got a lot of guys who are going to be operated on when this is over. It's been an unbelievable season," Saul said.

"We've had a lot of adversity — management lists, injuries, press problems, fan discontent. This shows what you can do if you keep the faith," Saul added.

Corral, who accounted for all the scoring with three field goals, had suffered a hamstring injury in his kicking leg a week ago.

"I knew I had a contribution to make on this team, and everybody has to do their job," Corral said.

Joe Greene Feels Less Than Mean After Win

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Joe Greene earned a game ball as the Pittsburgh Steelers won another trip to the Super Bowl Sunday.

Yet instead of celebrating, the Steeler defensive captain suggested that the taste of victory had been tainted by an official's call which took a possible touchdown away from the Houston Oilers, beaten 27-13 by Pittsburgh in the American Football Conference title game.

"I feel that we have been cheated...the players who play the game and the coaches who coach it," said Greene, key man in a Pittsburgh defense that limited Earl Campbell to 15 yards on 17 rushes.

With Pittsburgh leading 17-10 in the third quarter, Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini lobbed a pass into the corner of the end zone that was apparently caught by wide receiver Mike Renfro for a 6-yard touchdown.

But side judge Donald Orr ruled that Renfro did not have possession of the ball while his feet were in bounds.

"I was hoping it was a correct call, but I asked after the game and I was told..." Greene said, his voice trailing off.

He didn't say who he asked but the inference was that he had been told the decision was in error.

"I can't take any satisfaction in that call. That's what I'm saying," said Greene. "What do we say? Do we say, 'Things like that happen.' I mean how do you explain that to the Oilers."

"Don't get me wrong, I feel damn good that we won. But I'm not in a celebrating mood yet. It will come. I'll get happy — later."

"But right now I feel bad for Houston because it happened. I can imagine how I'd feel in their place."

Others around the locker room weren't so subdued after Pittsburgh earned a berth in the Super Bowl against Los Angeles or Tampa Bay.

"We can become the first team to win back-to-back Super Bowls twice," said wide receiver Lynn Swann, who led Pittsburgh with four catches for 64 yards.

"We truly want to make Pittsburgh the city of champions."

Chuck Noll, the Steelers' business-like coach, walked off the field as if already primed to begin Super Bowl XIV preparation.

"We've accomplished our first two goals, first to win the division title and second the conference title," said Noll. "We have only one more to go. Hopefully, we can make it three for three."

But All-Pro center Mike Webster quietly savored the victory. "I think everyone is just content with the effort we gave to win today. You have to be humble at a time like this," he said.

In the Super Bowl, the Steelers will face a team that has never been there before.

"I think their advantage will come from their enthusiasm," said Webster. "But we'll go out there knowing what it takes to win."

Steeler Rooters Take Title Nonchalantly

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh's wild and woolly sports fans may have had their heads in the victory cup too long. Drinking deep of the familiar championship wine Sunday, they had just enough energy left for a contented burp.

Maybe it was the biting 20-degree cold outside; maybe it was the rush homeward to catch the 5 p.m. National Football Conference championship game on television.

But Sunday's 27-13 American Football Conference title win over the Houston Oilers failed to generate the kind of exuberant post-game mass celebration that has traditionally followed major sports victories here.

"This is no big deal," said a policeman downtown, which is customarily off limits to inbound traffic after the big games. "But just wait until the Super Bowl."

Carloads of happy fans sped along downtown streets with passengers leaning out to wave their fabled "terrible towels" in the air while the drivers leaned on their horns.

"We're number one," they screamed. "On to the Super Bowl!"

In the warm confines of downtown bars, however, there was plenty of Steeler spirit.

"We were the team of the '70s," yelled one hard-hatted fan. "Now we're taking it into the '80s."

In the lobby of a downtown hotel, a glum Houston partisan in a peaked and be-feathered cowboy hat rolled up his oversized Texas flag for the long trip home while a pair of Steeler fans tried to persuade him to leave the banner with them until the two teams meet next year.

Outside, more Houston rooters slogged their way back to their rooms through the inch of snow on the ground.

"Cowboy boots weren't made for this stuff," muttered one.

"It's an ugly town," observed his companion. "It's dirty and it's cold and it's mean and everywhere you look it says 'Pittsburgh.'"

Extra police called to duty early were in evidence on downtown sidewalks, some with dogs which have been used in earlier celebrations to keep crowds orderly. But everything was quiet, and the dogs strolled calmly on slack leashes while their handlers gazed at the shop windows.

Beth Heiden Wins Event

OSLO, Norway (AP) — A fourth-place finish by Beth Heiden of Madison, Wis., in the opening 500 meters race in the time of 43.70 seconds was the best American showing as Russian, East German and Swedish entries dominated an international speed skating meet here Sunday.

The meet at Oslo's Valle Hovin artificial ice rink was staged to commemorate the late Norwegian champion Sigrid Sundby Dybedal, who died of cancer in 1977. The meet was also seen as a dress rehearsal for next weekend's world championships at Hamar, north of Oslo.

Ann-Sofie Jaernstroem of Sweden won the 1,000 meters in 1:28.16.

Tracksters Hit Olympic Stride

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — American athletes have served notice that the competition is going to be rugged for spots on the U.S. team that competes in next summer's Olympic Games in Moscow.

There were several outstanding marks Saturday night at the third annual Muhammad Ali Invitational Indoor Track meet, first major competition of the season.

Sprinters Houston McTear and Evelyn Ashford established all-time world indoor bests in winning their respective 60-meter dashes at the Long Beach Sports Arena.

McTear broke his previous indoor best twice during the evening, the final time with a 6.38-second clocking in the finals of the event. The first four finishers — McTear, Harvey Gance, Steve Riddick and Cliff Wiley — all bettered the 6.54 McTear ran at this meet in 1978.

Miss Ashford's time of 7.04 seconds broke the mark of 7.12 set by East Germany's Marliese Göhr in 1978.

"I'm very pleased with my times tonight in both races," said McTear, who won his heat in 6.53 seconds. "I think my start is very good now and I've been working very hard. I think I'm in great shape now and I'm not thinking about my past injuries at all."

Miss Ashford remained unavailable for comment.

In other meet highlights, Steve Scott of the Sub-Four Track Club recorded an all-time American best in the 3,000 meters with a time of 7:45.2. John Smith returned to amateur track for the first time since 1973 and won the 400 meters in 47.20 seconds and the Southern California 1,600-meter relay team set an American best with a time of 3:06.3. Southern Cal finished second in the event to the Philadelphia Pioneers, who had a foreign athlete on its team.

"I'm in good distance shape right now and I'm running about 90 miles each week," said Scott. "I'm very happy with the American best tonight and I'm way ahead of where I want to be at this point."

Smith was also pleased with his effort.

McTear Claims Ills, Upsets Meet Officials

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — American sprint sensation Houston McTear set a world indoor best Saturday night, then found himself in hot water with Australian officials.

McTear twice shattered his indoor mark for the 60-meter dash at the Muhammad Ali Invitational meet in Long Beach, Calif., only 24 hours after Australian officials had been advised he would be unable to fulfill commitments here and in New Zealand in the coming weeks because of injury.

"He must think we are mugs down here," said an angry Ken Elphick, director of the KB International Games.

Hilton Nicholson, manager of the Muhammad Ali Track Club, phoned Elphick Friday night to advise that McTear and 400-meter runner Sherri Howard could not go to Australia and New Zealand because of injury.

"Nicholson said McTear had torn a groin muscle," Elphick said.

"Some injury. He turns out less than 24 hours later and breaks a world record."

McTear, 23, and ranked third in the world last year over 100 meters, was to have competed in four meets in New Zealand and five in Australia in the coming weeks.

He showed no signs of injury at the Ali meet, lowering his indoor mark from 6.54 seconds to 6.38.

Elphick said he conferred by telephone with the sponsors of the meet in New Zealand.

"McTear has left the New Zealand organizers particularly in a tight spot," he said. "It is virtually impossible at this late stage to get a replacement for him for the New Zealand races."

A strong complaint would be made with American officials about McTear's actions, Elphick said.

"I will be contacting Australian officials to get them to lodge the strongest possible complaint with the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States over the way he has treated us," he said.

"We don't want athletes here who do not want to run, but we don't like being taken for a ride, either. McTear has been discourteous. He gave us an official acceptance and all the arrangements had been made, and then pulls out because of injury only to compete the next day."

"Even though I've been ineligible, I have been working out for the past three years and I am in pretty good shape," said the 1972 Olympian who still holds the world record at 440 yards. "I woke up one night last week and saw myself running 43.5."

"I think I may be able to do it this year. I'm pretty pleased with my time tonight but I know I can run much faster."

Among others who were returning to competition after being reinstated by the Amateur Athletic Union in November were high jumper Dwight Stones, who finished second at 7 feet, 4 1/4 inches, and Rod Milburn, who was third in the 60-meter hurdles in 7.76 seconds.

Stones, who finished second to Franklin Jacobs, left immediately after the high jump — the meet's final event — was completed.

Milburn, competing in his first amateur meet since the 1972 Olympics when he won the gold medal in the 110-meter hurdles, was another athlete who expressed happiness at his performance.

"I really felt good tonight, especially after so long a layoff," said Milburn. "That's not too bad a time for an old man. I just want to see if I can make the Olympic team and I think my chances are pretty good."

Among those who Milburn will probably have to beat out are Kerry Bethel, who won Saturday night's race in 7.67 seconds; Dedy Cooper, who finished second in 7.70; Greg Foster, who withdrew from the race because he was unhappy with his lane assignment; and Renaldo Nehemiah, who didn't compete.

Women's Official Blasts NCAA

WASHINGTON (AP) — With outgoing President Carol L. Musher providing the impetus, the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women criticized two men's sports organizations Sunday for attempts to create women's collegiate championships.

Miss Musher told the opening session of the seventh AIAW Delegate Assembly that the organization "must meet the constant threats of those who challenge our right to exist."

She told the 600 convention delegates that it has become "a tiring process" to fight off attempts by men's sports organizations, particularly the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the National Association for Intercollegiate Athletics, which want to involve themselves in and attempt to control women's athletics.

Miss Musher, women's athletic director at the State University of New York at Cortland, said AIAW attempts to meet with the NCAA and NAIA to discuss the problem were unsuccessful because of the refusal by the NCAA.

On Saturday, she said, the AIAW Executive Board approved a resolution in which it said the women's organization "strenuously opposes" proposals under consideration at the NCAA convention, beginning Sunday in New Orleans, which would create women's championships for schools in Division II and Division III.

Miss Musher said, "The NCAA proposals represent another attempt to deprive women of athletic opportunities and undermine the growing strength of AIAW, the organization created to govern and stimulate women's athletic programs."

"This latest effort is a continuation of the NCAA's unceasing desire to dominate collegiate athletics. They have traditionally opposed increased opportunities for women athletes."

Miss Musher said the NCAA has tried three times during the past five years to take over women's athletics and has attempted, both legally and legislatively, to exempt collegiate athletics from Title IX, the federal law prohibiting sex discrimination in college sports.

"The NCAA traditionally has defined 'athletics' as 'men's athletics,' she said. "They have demonstrated no genuine interest in expanding opportunities for women. The NCAA proposals would offer less than half the championship events for women that AIAW now offers, and undoubtedly at more than twice the price."

The AIAW now offers 30 national championships in 14 sports — badminton, basketball, cross-country, field hockey, golf, gymnastics, skiing, swimming and diving, synchronized swimming, softball, indoor and outdoor track and field, tennis and volleyball.

Miss Musher said the AIAW would explore every avenue, including legal challenges, to prevent a NCAA takeover of women's sports.

After Miss Musher's opening address and in a rare move for a normally ceremonial session, the 339 voting delegates approved nearly unanimous two motions opposing proposals by the NCAA and the NAIA to establish women's championships.

The only dissent came from Linda Estes, women's athletic director at the University of New Mexico, who opposed one paragraph of the resolutions which says, "it is the overwhelming desire of the women in collegiate athletics that a separate governing organization dedicated primarily to women be retained at the present time."

Miss Estes told The Associated Press: "I don't believe that is the overwhelming desire. Most enlightened people believe we must eventually have one organization controlling both men's and women's sports."

"We're talking about rules and regulations for students," she said. "Not different rules for females and males."

"I have no great love for the NCAA," she continued. "I think they are cry babies. What came out of Title IX is reasonable. Their actions and cries of woe are absurd. But I do believe there should be only one organization controlling collegiate sports for men and women."

Knicks Owners Balk At Expansion Vote

NEW YORK (AP) — Sonny Werblin and Mike Burke, the two top executives of the New York Knicks, say they are opposed to any expansion of the National Basketball Association for next season. And they say they're not alone.

"There are 100 reasons against expansion and no valid reasons for it," said Burke, president of the Knicks. "I expect we will have the votes to make certain the league is guided in the right direction, rather than take off in a misguided way."

"We've been against expansion from the start," added Werblin, president of Madison Square Garden Corp., which owns the Knicks. "There are a lot of clubs that aren't cutting it now and it would not make sense to add more."

Burke and Werblin also said they opposed plans for sharing of gate receipts or television revenues, issues that have been raised by several club owners in the past and are expected to come up again when the Board of Governors convenes Feb. 2 in Washington, prior to the NBA All-Star Game.

NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien announced in Detroit on Feb. 3, 1979, following last winter's board meeting, that the Board of Governors had voted unanimously to expand by no more than two teams no later than the 1980-81 season.

But that's not the way Burke saw it. "It was New York's impression that the earlier vote was to explore the possibility of expansion, not something definite," Burke said Saturday night following the Knicks' 124-117 victory over the Chicago Bulls. "You can't just expand into the blue."

Nonetheless, a final vote on expansion — with 17 positive votes needed from the 22-member board — had been expected at this winter's meeting, following recommendations from the league's Expansion and Advisory Committees. Dallas is considered to be first in line for an expansion franchise, with Minneapolis the leading contender should the NBA vote to go to 24 teams.

Burke cited increased transportation costs, dilution of player talent and diminution of television revenues as among the major objections to expansion.

"Besides, no one knows how much money anyone is willing to pay," said Burke. "Is it $20 million or a dollar and a half? And is it hard money, cash on the line, or soft money, promissory notes and the like? No one knows."

"We have not yet voted to expand — I don't care what the commissioner says," Burke added.

Malmquist Wins Phase Of Olympic Trials

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Walter Malmquist of Post Mills, Vt., soared to the longest jump of the day, 109 meters, and won the second day of U.S. Olympic 90-meter ski jumping trials Sunday.

Malmquist had a second jump of 104 meters and accumulated 231.6 total points, awarded on the basis of length and style. Malmquist also had a practice jump of 108 meters. The hill record of 115 meters was set last February by Pentti Kokkonen of Finland.

Malmquist, 23, is a member of the U.S. Nordic combined team, a discipline which includes 70-meter jumping and cross-country ski racing.

Second went to Scott Clayton of the Rocky Mountain Ski Division. Clayton had jumps of 104 and 103 meters for 218.7 points. Clayton was followed by Reed Zuehlke of Eau Claire, Wis., a member of the U.S. Ski Team, with jumps of 104 and 102 meters for 212.3 points.

Jeff Hastings of Norwich, Vt., was fourth with 98-102 for 202.4 points, and Jim Maki of Coleraine, Minn., who won Saturday's competition, was fifth with 103-96 for 201.0 points.

Jon Denney, 19, the youngest of the three jumping Denney brothers from Duluth, Minn., was sixth with 97-100.5 for 198.9 points, followed by Tim Williams of Ely, Minn., with 98-95 for 185.1; Mark Solner of Middleton, Wis., 97.5-94 for 182.0, and Kip Sundgaard of Maplewood, Minn., with 96-88 for 176.5.

James Grahek of Ely, who finished second on Saturday with a jump of 106 meters, fell on the landing of his first jump, a 96-meter effort, and his style points were so low they put him out of contention. He was uninjured. Jon Denney's oldest brother, Jim, is America's top jumper and already has qualified for the Olympic team with two other jumpers — Chris McNeill of Polaris, Mont., and John Broman of Duluth. The other brother, Jeff, had jumps of 90 and 89 meters Sunday, failing to crack the top 10.

Franchise Sale Moves Closer

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland A's are out of business here in one way, even though there are several more steps to be taken before the American League team can be moved to Denver.

A's owner Charles O. Finley filed papers late last week withdrawing his license to do business in California. But he said from his home in Chicago over the weekend. "This doesn't necessarily mean anything."

The license easily could be renewed if the team can't be freed from its Oakland Coliseum lease before the 1980 baseball season, he added.

If Coliseum, city and county officials don't block a proposed $4 million buyout deal to settle the lease, the A's are expected to be sold to oilman Marvin Davis and moved to Denver.

Mrs. Moser-Proell Wins Race

PFRONTEN, West Germany (AP) — Austria's Annemarie Moser-Proell, fully recovered from an ankle injury that hampered her earlier this season, overpowered her rivals Sunday to win the World Cup downhill for her first victory in four races.

Marie-Therese Nadig of Switzerland, who swept all three downhill races in December, finished runner-up on a track which was fast despite a layer of wet, new snow.

Hanni Wenzel of Liechtenstein was third and West Germany's Irene Epple fourth.

Mrs. Moser-Proell, the 26-year-old World Cup defending champion, flashed down the 2,080-meter course, with a vertical drop of 540 meters, in 1 minute, 19.84 seconds, 36-100ths faster than Miss Nadig, who clocked 1:20.20 skiing directly after the Austrian ace.

"If I hadn't won today it would have been difficult for me to stay in running for the Cup," Mrs. Moser-Proell said. She said she liked the course and was able to ski all out after recovering completely from a weakened right ankle that caused her to miss a month of training before the season started.

Mrs. Moser-Proell finished fifth, second and third in downhill last month. Miss Nadig won all three races.

Miss Wenzel's clocking was 1:21.58 and Miss Epple finished in 1:21.92.

Cornelia Attia of France was fifth in 1:22.41 and American star Cindy Nelson of Lutsen, Minn., was sixth in 1:22.44.

The victory earned Mrs. Moser 25 points and boosted her World Cup total to 149. Miss Nadig, the leader going into the race, was second at 145. Miss Wenzel remained third with 138.

Holly Flanders, Manchester, N.H., was 12th in 1:23.37 and Jamie Kurlander of McAfee, N.J., was 15th in 1:23.53.

A second World Cup downhill will be run on the same course today on Breitenberg mountain in the Bavarian Alps.

Mrs. Moser's victory was her seventh in eight races on this course going back to 1973.

Mrs. Moser appears to have regained top form with the 1980 Olympic Games several weeks away at Lake Placid, N.Y. She will be trying for her first gold medal at the Games, the only title that has eluded her in a career that includes six World Cup championships.

"I made a big mistake on the bottom section. I got turned up on a traverse and hit some soft snow," the blond American said, adding that it cost her a higher place.

Miss Nelson said new snow on the course "always makes a difference. But I liked the run. It was well prepared."

Miss Nelson said it was impossible to compare the various downhill courses on the world cup circuit because each has its own character.

Muller Skis To Downhill Win

PRA LOUP, France (AP) — Peter Muller of Switzerland won his second World Cup downhill race Sunday, beating Italian Herbert Plank by a little less than a minute.

Muller was timed in 1 minute, 53.56 seconds and Plank was clocked in 1:54.37. Erik Haaker of Norway finished third in 1:54.44.

A surprise fourth over the 3,213-meter course, with an 800-meter drop, was Harti Weirather of Austria, who started in the 18th spot and finished in 1:54.53. Next was Austrian Werner Grissmann in 1:54.63.

The race was more than disappointing for the Canadians. Steve Podborcki, hero of the debacle at Schalding, which was abandoned in dangerous conditions Dec. 22, lost balance and went off the course at the midpoint. He had been about one second behind Muller's intermediate time and spectacularly controlled a possibly vicious fall. Ken Read finished only 14th and had no immediate explanation of the result.

The track, with a slow start and a finish built for speed, offered no major technical problems.

There were two major surprises in the top 10.

Valeri Tsyganov, 18, of the Soviet Union, came in eighth in 1:55.17 after starting 32nd. He was fifth in the combined results.

Austrian Ernst Winkler, starting 40th, was ninth in 1:55.31. It is the first World Cup season for the 24-year-old from Schwarzach.

Sixth was Swiss Walter Vesti in 1:54.70, followed by Josef Walcher, Austria, 1:55.08. Michel Veith of West Germany was 10th in 1:55.43.

After the bad weather which canceled Saturday's final training, the race was run under excellent conditions with bright sunshine and no wind.

Austria's Franz Klammer, trying the comeback trail, could only manage 12th, in 1:55.56 behind teammate Peter Wirnsberger's 1:55.47.

In the absence of the Mahre brothers, the best American was Karl Anderson, 26, of Greene, Maine, 20th in 1:56.29. Doug Powell, 22, of Stowe, Vt., was 29th in 1:56.62, and David Stapleton, of Aspen, Colo., at 19 a member of the junior team, was tied for 30th with Canada's Dave Irwin in 1:56.67.

Baseball Heads For Negotiations Crisis

BOSTON (AP) — Can anyone in his wildest dream imagine a player such as Claudell Washington earning the same pay as sluggers Jim Rice and Fred Lynn for their first few years in the major leagues?

That's what owners of major league baseball clubs include in their first demands for a new agreement with the Players Association.

Can anyone on the same dream trip imagine a player with the right to demand to be traded after just three years with a club?

That's among the Players Association initial demands as a bargaining war looms once again on the baseball front.

Both the demands of the owners and the association are listed in a memo to association members-players, managers, coaches and trainers.

The Associated Press gained access to a copy of the memo sent by Marvin Miller, the hard-nosed negotiator for the Players Association. The memo consists of 12 pages, printed on both front and back.

Miller said in a telephone interview with The AP that the memo generally is a report on a meeting of the association's executive board Dec. 4-5 in New York while baseball conducted its annual winter meetings in Toronto.

"The minutes were mailed to about 1,000 association members, so they hardly can be considered confidential or secret," Miller said.

However, because of his position, he said he didn't think it "appropriate" to release a copy. The AP then pursued a source for a review of the lengthy memo, mailed by Miller's office Dec. 14.

PORTALES (Special) — Eastern New Mexico University got 25 points and 11 rebounds from Al Massenburg to pound Northwestern Oklahoma State 72-56 late Saturday night in the third-place game of the Sunshine Basketball Tournament.

Eastern trailed 32-30 at the half but held the visitors to only 26 second-half points en route to the win. A.J. Johnson had 19 points and 11 karooms for Northwestern.

In the championship tilt, Western New Mexico State outlasted Belvue College of Nebraska 80-61. Belvue led only 27-26 at the intermission but Western put it away in the final half as Virgil Jenkins pumped in 19 points. Dick Miller had 18 for the losers. WNMU is 6-3 on the year, Belvue is 6-7.

Eastern's win raised its season mark to 2-6 while Northwestern Oklahoma fell to 6-5.

Most of the memo consists of discussions by individual club player representatives at the executive board's meeting. However, it also contains what the association claims are both the initial proposals of it and major league club owners.

Although initial demands in labor negotiations often are exaggerated, the owners and players appear about as far apart as the United States and the Soviet Union. And more than a few baseball executives are worried about a possible shutdown of spring training unless progress is made.

The owners' proposal, as listed in Miller's memo:

—1. Players with less than six years' major league experience be paid a salary according to a scale based on an undefined, unidentified criteria. (This would eliminate individual negotiations, multi-year contracts and salary guarantees. This would affect 75 percent of the people on 40-man rosters throughout the major leagues.)

—2. The owners would significantly increase compensation to a club losing a player to free agency. This compensation would be either through amateur draft picks or for "more valuable" free agents as "manpower" compensation.

—3. The owners suggested an undefined improvement of benefit levels of the pension fund, but not to retired players.

—4. Interleague trading would be expanded (from Feb. 15 to March 15) to April 1 or seven days prior to the start of the regular season.

—5. The clubs would have the right to send an injured player to the minors to "play themselves back into shape" without asking for waivers or using an option on the player.

—6. Clubs would be allowed access to confidential medical information prior to the completion of any trade.

The Players Association proposals:

—1. There would be a substantial increase of the club's contribution to the pension plan. This would include all members of the association (presumably including those retired).

Housewife sells 'glass plate' for $40; worth $1,800

NILES, Ill.—The story of a small fortune, lost because a housewife had no idea her glass plate was a collector's item, recently came to light.

In a letter to J. R. MacArthur, chairman of the Bradford Exchange, world's largest trading center in collector's plates, a Madison, Wis., woman wrote: "I had a Lalique 1965 plate... which I sold to a friend for $40. I had not heard of you at that time."

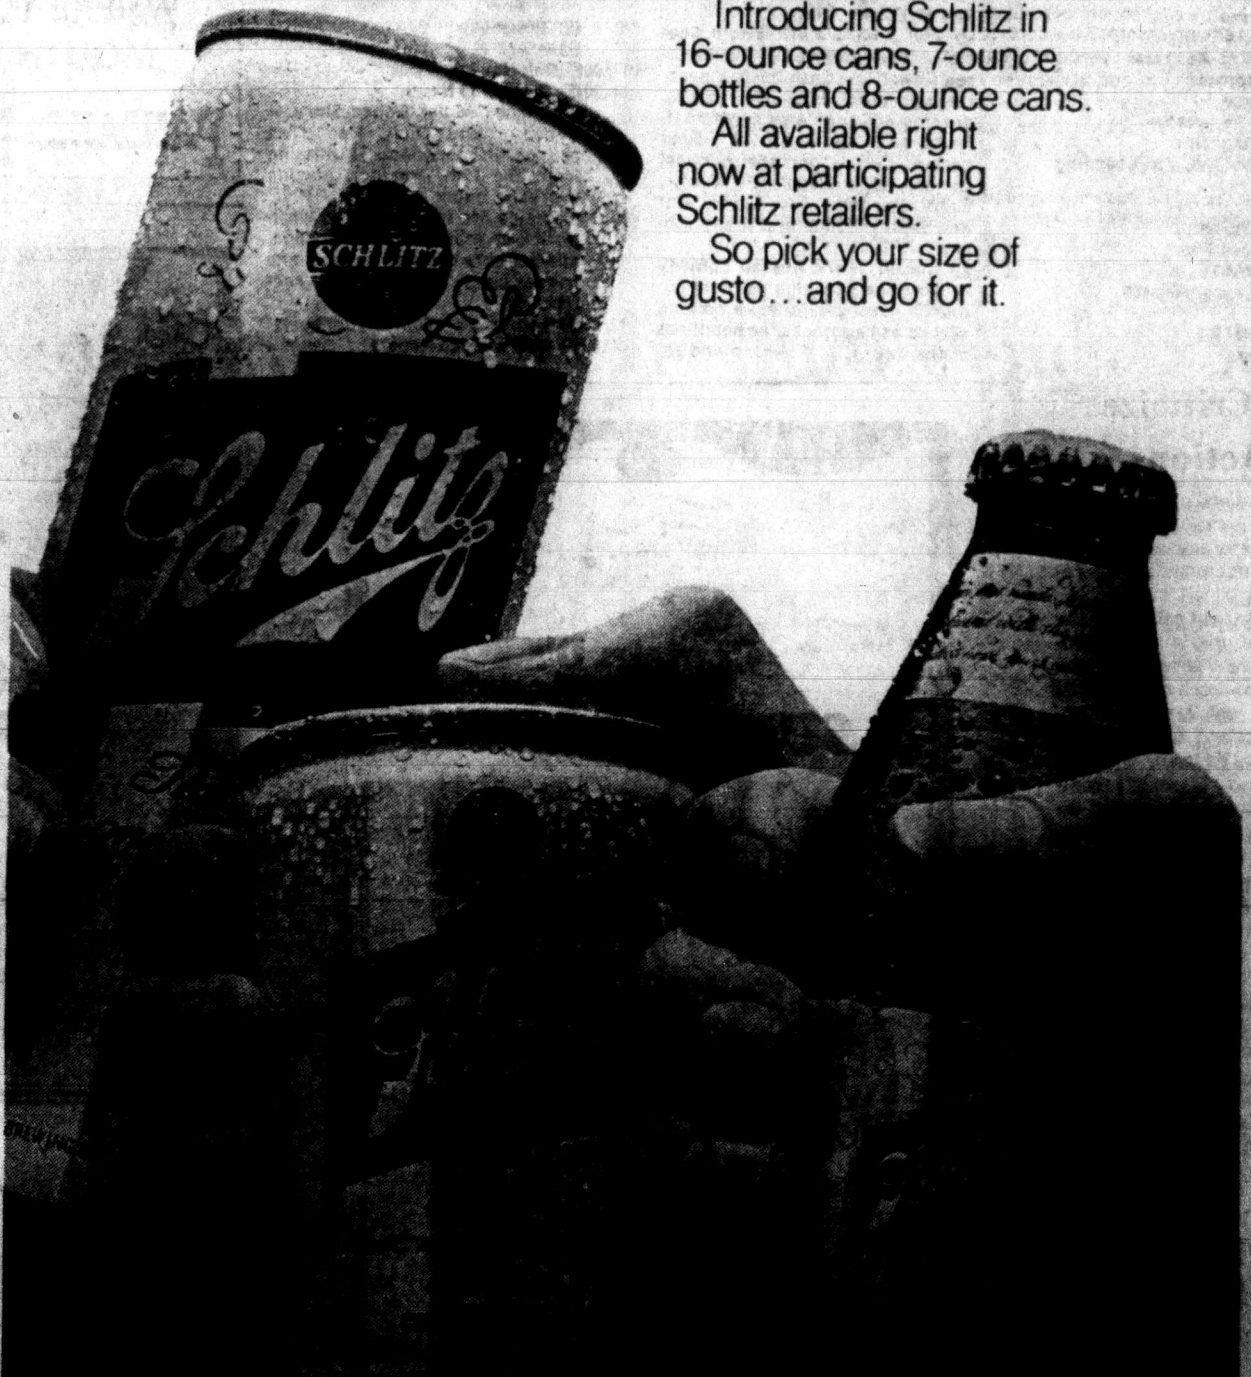

The plate she sold is actually valued at more than $1,800. Although MacArthur points out that this price is exceptionally high, he said, "I'm afraid others may be losing hundreds or thousands of dollars by not knowing what their plates are worth."

To aid in identifying valuable plates, the exchange issues a report that includes current prices on more than 900 plates, guidelines on what to look for and when to buy, and the plate evaluation checklist used by the exchange.

To obtain a copy without cost or obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code before Saturday of next week to: The Bradford Exchange, Dept. A72502, 9301 Milwaukee Avenue, Niles, IL 60648. A postcard will do.

- 2. FREE AGENCY
- A. Clarify all phases of requirements.
- B. A player may elect to exercise his free agency option after four years of major league service (instead of six years). When a club who picks a player in the free agent draft, which would be held on Jan. 15 under this proposal, and makes no bonafide offer to the player, the club would lose its negotiation rights.
- C. Compensation through the amateur draft for lost free agents would be eliminated and, prior to selection in the free agent draft, the player may discuss terms with a club.
- D. After three years with a club a player may demand to be traded. The club would have to comply with this demand prior to March 1. (Under the old agreement, only a player with 10 years in the majors and the last 5 with one club has the right to pick a club he would be willing to join.)

PBS Slates Science-Fiction Movie

NEW YORK (AP) — David Loxton spent nine months reading science fiction, 400 short stories and nine novels, in search of material for public TV's first major made-for-television movie.

"It was before 'Star Wars' and all that," Loxton recalls, "and I came to the conclusion that Ursula Le Guin was one of the best writers in the field, that her work represented all of the best elements of what I wanted this thing to be."

That was three years ago. And Monday night, Loxton and the Television Laboratory at New York's WNET offers "The Lathe of Heaven" to stations in the Public Broadcasting Service network. As with many PBS programs, air date and time for the two-hour motion picture may vary.

"This is a difficult work," Loxton says. "Ursula has a wonderful phrase to describe it: 'This is about inner space, not outer space.'"

"We tried something very daring," says the man who co-produced and co-directed the film with Fred Barzyk of the New Television Workshop at WGBH in Boston. "A lot is left to the viewer's imagination. We start very carefully building the premise, but in the second half we almost let things go; we say to the audience, 'You stay with it, and you'll have to work at it.'"

And that's not to discourage people from looking at "The Lathe of Heaven." Loxton says science fiction — he calls it "speculative fiction" — to differentiate from the "Star Wars" variety — should be that way.

"The intention of a director of a motion picture is to move a large mass of people to have the same experience at the same time," he says. "In television, you move one or two people at a time towards a more detached experience. And I hope this film will lead to millions of slightly different experiences."

"The Lathe of Heaven" is set in the Pacific Northwest at the end of the 20th Century. It's the story of George Orr, played by Bruce Davison, who is plagued by his own dreams that actually change reality. Kevin Conway is Dr. William Haber, a dream analyst.

Miss Le Guin's novel was published in 1971, and has been translated into several languages.

Loxton, 36, is a graduate of Trinity College in Dublin. He went to work for National Educational Television, PBS' forerunner, in 1966. In 1969, he was made staff producer for "NET Playhouse," and was responsible for several productions, including "Between Time and Timbuktu," an original drama commissioned from Kurt Vonnegut Jr.

He was appointed director of the TV Lab in February 1972.

Loxton says he approached Miss Le Guin after reading several examples of her work, and found her more than receptive to his idea.

"We both decided 'The Lathe of Heaven' was the right piece," he says. "It takes enormously complicated ideas, like the uses and abuses of power, and puts them in a very fascinating, very dramatic narrative. It takes you so far, and the reader makes the extension from there."

Translation to screenplay was such a sensitive undertaking, in fact, that the script was revised a dozen times. Beyond that, attention to detail in the actual filming was precise. The movie was shot on location in Dallas and Fort Worth, to take advantage of an abundance of futuristic-looking architecture.

"The work was complicated," Loxton says, "because the demands on the audience are so extended. The imagination of the writer has created such elaborate consistency, and one little inconsistency and the whole structure would disintegrate."

Funding the project was another problem. "I went to the Corp. for Public Broadcasting," Loxton says, "and the argument I gave was that I felt too much of the domestic dramatic output of public television has been unnecessarily dominated by theater."

"What I wanted to do was create a more cinematic style that would be much more akin to the kind of dramatic production the television viewer is accustomed to from the commercial networks. Their scripts may be atrocious, but the viewer expectation in terms of production values is very high."

Vietnam Criticizes Chinese Actions

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vietnam called on the Chinese people Saturday to "take practical actions" to curb the "hegemonic ambitions" of the Peking government.

In a lengthy statement carried by the official Vietnamese media and monitored here, the Hanoi government detailed more than two dozen of an alleged 250 Chinese border violations since Dec. 1, including artillery and air strikes and armed intrusions into Vietnam.

It said China also "brazenly permitted" foreign oil companies to conduct explorations in waters claimed by Vietnam.

The statement "energetically denounces the armed provocations and war preparations by the Peking authorities."

"At the same time," it said, "we call on genuine Chinese and all conscientious, peace and justice-loving people in the world to take practical actions to stay in time the barbarous hands and hegemonic ambitions of the Chinese rulers."

The first British settlement in Australia, in 1778, was a penal colony at Port Jackson, now Sydney.

Game Machines May Save Dollar

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The pinball machine and the jukebox may help save the unpopular Susan B. Anthony dollar.

A large manufacturer of such machines says the government has asked the gaming industry to push the new coin.

As a result, some pinball players are finding they can save money by using the Susan B.

A pinball game today costs 25 cents on many machines that not long ago offered three games for a quarter. But now some machines are offering five games for a dollar, provided the dollar is a Susan B. Anthony coin.

The coin, which bears the likeness of the 19th century suffragette, has received a cool reception from the public since it was introduced in July 1979 to replace the Eisenhower dollar.

Ross Scheer, director of marketing for Bally Manufacturing, a Chicago concern that produces pinball machines, said the gaming industry was asked by the government to help push the new coin.

FBI Takes To Ski Slopes In Training For Upcoming Olympics

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI agents have been zig-zagging over the ski slopes of Colorado, preparing for the 1980 Winter Olympics by undergoing training similar to the rigors faced by athletes bidding for gold medals.

The ski training is part of the FBI's efforts to be ready for the unthinkable — a terrorist attack at next month's Lake Placid, N.Y., Olympics similar to the Arab strike that left 11 Israeli athletes dead at the 1972 Munich games.

An official at FBI headquarters, looking ahead to Lake Placid, acknowledged that several SWAT (Special Weapons and Tactics) teams have been preparing by undergoing rigorous ski training in Colorado.

"If we have to chase somebody, we're probably going to chase them on skis," he said.

Accused Marine Compared To Iran Embassy Hostages

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood, accused of collaborating with the North Vietnamese in captivity, should be given the same consideration as hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran who make statements under duress, his lawyer says.

A military hearing to determine if there is enough evidence to court-martial Garwood resumes Tuesday at Camp Lejeune.

"My guess is that when you have representatives of President Carter getting on television and telling the world that those poor kids in Tehran are not to be held responsible for statements made under duress, you see a parallel between that situation and Bobby's, and you wonder why charges are being pushed against him," said Dermot Foley, Garwood's civilian attorney.

said. "We want our people to be prepared."

The official said the FBI's special training poses demands similar to those in an Olympic event — the biathlon — where competitors ski cross country, stopping periodically to fire rifles at targets along the route.

Bureau officials say a terrorist attack at this year's games is unlikely, partially because Lake Placid is located in a remote area of upstate New York.

But the FBI, which refuses to divulge details about much of its preparations, is taking every precaution to prepare for the worst, particularly in light of recent international tensions.

Last month, more than 70 agents on the bureau's SWAT Teams converged on the Olympic grounds in Lake Placid, N.Y., for 2½ days of training in handling simulated hostage crises or other possible terrorist strikes.

"We tested our response — and we made mistakes," said Irv Reecer, special agent in charge of the FBI's Albany, N.Y., office and the man in charge of the advance planning. "It was to teach us things we need to bolster."

An FBI special projects crew has constructed a scale-model mock-up of the massive Olympic grounds, including the mountains where skiing and bobsled competitions will be held.

The model, which includes the Olympic Village where athletes will be housed as well as arenas for hockey and ice skating, will help the bureau respond quickly in case of crisis.

FBI officials, who stress they have no evidence of plans for a terrorist attack, say the preparations are aimed at deterring anyone from breaking the law and making sure agents can handle any crisis.

"We, as a country, would be foolhardy if we didn't prepare for events like this," one official said.

An official said the FBI is also stepping up intelligence gathering to keep track of potentially-violent, militant Palestinians, Puerto Ricans, Croats, Iranians, Afghans and anti-Castro Cubans.

FBI Director William Webster recently described the 1972 Munich holocaust as "warning of the vulnerability of free societies to attacks by terrorists."

The Olympic grounds will be guarded during the 12-day games beginning Feb. 13 by some 700 New York State Police officers and another 300 officers from the New York Environmental Conservation Division, officials said.

Under the Protection of Foreign Officials Act, the FBI only has jurisdiction to investigate criminal acts that might occur against the 1,800 athletes from around the world or their family members.

Step 2 — Month of birth. Find the corresponding numbers for the month you were born. If your month is February, and your year numbers were preceded by a B, your month numbers would be 8 for Physical, 3 for Emotional and 31 for Intellectual. Enter your own numbers in the figure chart for Step 2.

Step 3 — Day of birth. Enter your day of birth three times in the figure chart, once each for Physical (P), Emotional (E) and Intellectual (I).

Add the three columns to derive your permanent biorhythm numbers for your Physical, Emotional and Intellectual cycles. Now you can refer to today's biorhythm readings.

At Gibraltar Savings, we pride ourselves in doing what we're supposed to do, and doing it best!

That means offering you a good association. We believe that a good savings association owes it to its' customers to maintain strong reserves. Reserves that not only meet federal requirements, but exceed those requirements. At Gibraltar we maintain larger reserves than any other savings association in the state. In addition to financial strength, we pride ourselves with a staff of savings personnel, that is second to none. They are not only capable of answering your questions, but also capable of guiding you in a safe savings program that will yield the maximum return on your money.
