

Iran Rebels Warned By Khomeini

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Kurdish insurgents will be given a "final ultimatum" to end their revolt or be punished, the government said Tuesday after rebels ambushed a government convoy and seized the weapons of 120 policemen.

Tehran Radio said one policeman was fatally injured in a brief clash at the roadblock ambush outside Mahabad, about 350 miles northwest of Tehran. The official Pars news agency reported four disarmed policemen killed and four injured when they were struck by a truck in the convoy as they stood beside the road.

Hashem Sabaghian, who has been negotiating with Kurdish leaders, conferred with Iran's Moslem strongman, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, in Qom and issued a warning to the rebels.

To Reopen Talks

He said he would return to Kurdistan next week to reopen negotiations, but "this will be the last time we have talks and this is our final ultimatum to the political groups and religious personalities." He did not elaborate on what the government might do but quoted Khomeini as saying, "I don't want even one innocent person to be killed."

In Washington, White House press secretary Jody Powell said Tuesday that Khomeini may have lost control of the militants who have held some 50 American hostages in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran since Nov. 4. He said that if the embassy invaders were students, their influence has diminished and the militants now occupying the compound take "a rather radical and certainly a Marxist line."

"Serious Questions"

He said the situation raises "equally serious questions about the motives of the terrorists, the kidnappers," who might welcome chaotic conditions to advance their own goals.

Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh did nothing to clarify the question of who controls the embassy militants when he spoke with reporters after a meeting of the ruling Revolutionary Council.

He was asked if the council or Khomeini has responded to the militants' demand that they be given U.S. Charge d'Affaires L. Bruce Laingen and two other American diplomats confined to the Foreign Ministry building.

The reply is the action we have taken, or the action we have not taken," Ghotbzadeh said. Laingen, political officer Victor Tomsch and security chief Michael H. Holland were not in the embassy.

JIM LANCASTER Files For Re-Election

Jim Lancaster Files For Re-Election

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS Avalanche-Journal Staff THE SECOND incumbent in as many days has filed for re-election to the Lubbock County Commissioners Court.

Precinct 3 Commissioner Jim Lancaster announced Tuesday his plans to seek a second term, citing his record during the past three years on the commissioners court.

Lancaster, an Idalou resident and employee of Santa Fe Railroad, gained his Precinct 3 seat in 1976 after outpolling Raza Unida candidate Trinidad Zepeda and write-in candidate Adolphus Cleveland.

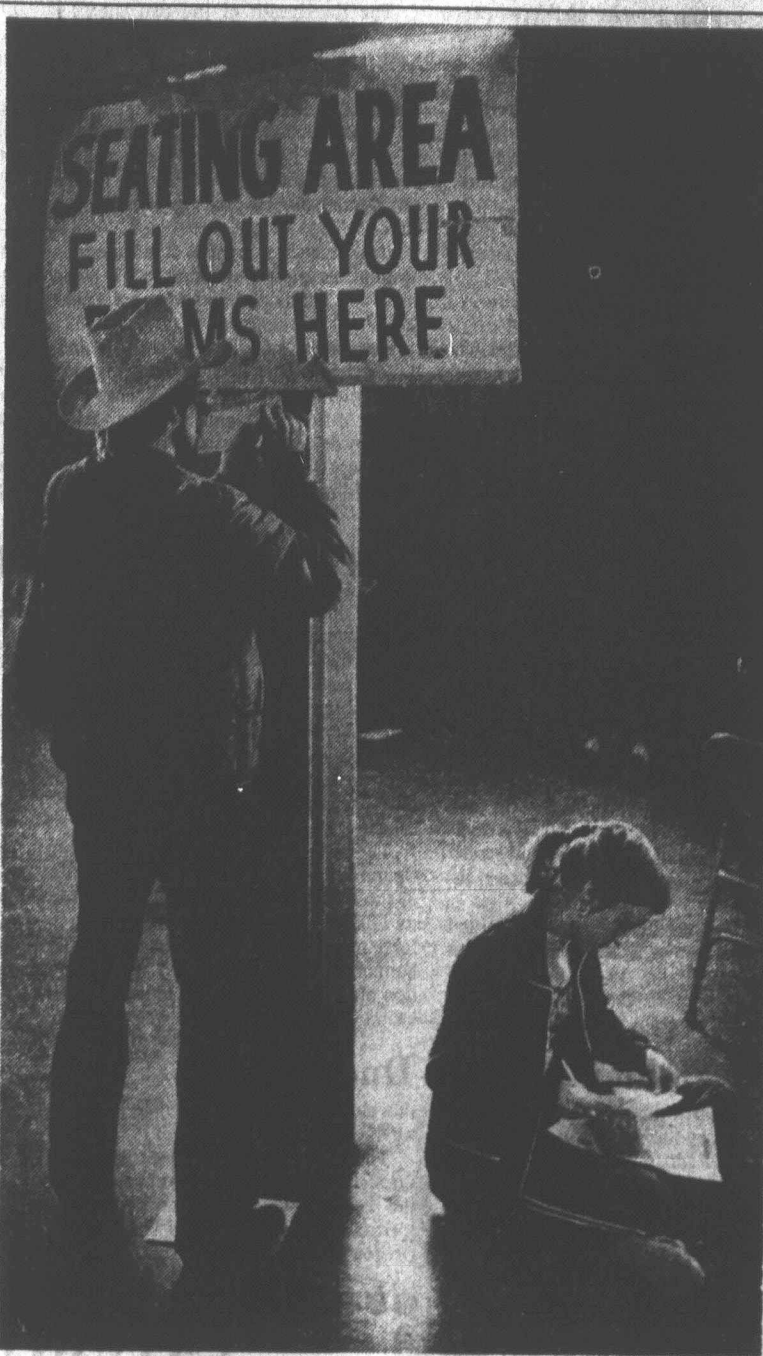

According to Lancaster, the current commissioners have had to be "both a catch-up court and a progressive court."

One of the first problems facing the court after he took office, Lancaster said, was the federal jail suit. Lancaster and Commissioner Coy Biggs have served as a liaison on the jail issue, working with Federal Judge Halbert O. Woodward, the sheriff's department and the commissioners court.

According to Lancaster, this liaison committee has worked with all parties involved in bringing the old jail into compliance with state regulations. The incumbent said he also worked on the planning of the new $4.5 million jail facility still under construction here.

The jail was built without the need for a bond issue, Lancaster said, noting that commissioners utilized federal revenue sharing funds to spare county residents.

Slide, Recovery Seen For Grain Market

By JOHNNY HOLMES Avalanche-Journal Staff STILL REELING from President Carter's sudden cutback of grain exports to the Soviet Union, two area agriculture spokesmen say they can't judge the effect of Carter's actions yet, while two local commodities brokers predict grain prices will continue to slide and then recover within a few days.

The commodities market is expected to re-open this morning after being closed Monday and Tuesday for the first time in history. The closure came after Carter abruptly canceled the export of some 17 million tons of grain and a million tons of soybeans to Russia in retaliation for the Soviet's invasion of Afghanistan on Christmas Day.

"I imagine all the commodities will be down the limit for a day or so and then begin to level out," said Jim Carroll of Lin-Wallock & Co. "People might be able to get out of this predicament if they don't push the panic button, but I'm afraid we're going to see a lot of panic buying and selling."

Jim Scarbrough of Stotler & Co. also expects prices to be down initially, "especially the first day the market re-opens."

"Moves like this (the embargo) can be devastating, especially out here," he added.

In Government's Hands The brokers agree with Texas Farm Bureau president Carroll Chaloupka and Lubbock's Elbert Harp, executive director of the Grain Sorghum Producer's Association, that much of the future of the grain markets lies in the hands of the federal government.

When he announced the embargo of approximately two-thirds of the country's sale of grain to the Soviets, Carter said the government would buy the remaining grain and dispose of it in a manner that would not depress the markets. All four commodity brokers believe that the market's success in coming months

Tito's Circulatory Condition Beters

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito, still secluded Tuesday at his retreat in Brdo, was reported improving after medication for a blood circulation problem.

A statement from the office of American cardiovascular expert Dr. Michael De Bakey, who has been treating the 87-year-old Yugoslav leader and returned to Houston, Texas, on Monday, indicated surgery would not be needed to remedy what was described as "some circulatory problem of blockage in the lower left leg."

The statement released by De Bakey's office in Houston, said: "With medical treatment, Tito was already improving."

Yugoslav officials have refused to elaborate on the health of Tito, who entered a hospital in Slovenia last week for an investigation of problems with blood vessels in his legs.

He returned home two days later and Yugoslav officials issued a brief statement saying Tito would need "intensive treatment."

China Urges Joint Anti-Soviet Moves

World Alliance Eyed Against Russia

PEKING (AP) — Senior Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping told U.S. Secretary of Defense Harold Brown on Tuesday that their two countries should do something "in a down to earth way" to resist the Soviet Union.

Brown responded with an offer to sell China a satellite ground station containing very high technology that could be used militarily.

But a high-ranking Chinese general, Deputy Chief of Staff Wu Xiquan, made it clear China does not contemplate military action to counter the Soviet incursion into Afghanistan, where a reported 100,000 Russian troops are fighting Moslem insurgents who are resisting the new Soviet-leaning government.

Alliance Urged Brown spent three hours with Deng on the fourth day of his China visit. The official Xinhua news agency reported that during the meeting the 75-year-old Chinese leader "urged all countries in the world to enter into an alliance to counter the Soviet Union's policy of global expansionism."

Deng, who spoke not only in his capacity as vice premier but also as chief of the army general staff, was quoted as saying he hoped the United States would strengthen its defenses as well as its unity with Western Europe.

Wu told American correspondents later that this is not the time for military action against Russia, but a time for international political action to isolate Moscow.

Pakistan Move Seen Wu said China believes the Russians will consolidate their position in Afghanistan, then ultimately move against Pakistan, an ally both of the United States and China. China already is supplying Pakistan with arms, but they are not advanced, he said.

Defense Department spokesman Thomas B. Ross said Brown told Deng the North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries had, at American urging, agreed two years ago to increase their defense spending to 3 percent of real growth annually.

He also referred to the NATO decision to introduce intermediate range nuclear missiles into Western Europe, a move protested by Russia.

1981 Launching Due The Landsat satellite ground station the United States is offering China does not have an application to the immediate problem in northwest Asia. Twenty other countries — none of them communist — will acquire the stations to pick up information useful for oil exploration, mining, gas and agriculture. The satellite will not be launched until late 1981.

The important aspect is that the computers and tape recorders that go with it are more sophisticated than anything so far sold to the Soviet Union. The sale would have to be approved by Congress.

An official with the Brown party said the satellite itself has no military potential.

He added that he was not sure what Deng referred to when he asked for a "down to earth" joint approach to the Soviet threat — that there were no specific Chinese requests for military assistance.

Wu, speaking at a dinner given for the American reporters, said that to check Soviet expansionism, China must develop

Furr's Chain Names New Chief Officer

By KIM COBB Avalanche-Journal Staff PATRICK J. Murphy, hired six months ago to guide Furr's Inc. through its turbulent financial reorganization, has been replaced by a member of the West German corporation which recently purchased the supermarket chain.

Murphy, who took over from Roy K. Furr in June as president and chief executive officer of the company, has been replaced by Jan Friederich — a longtime employee of Rewe Handelsgesellschaft Leibbrand OHG. Friederich has directed the retail operations of Furr's for the past four months as executive vice president and chief operating officer.

Murphy was asked to resign his position Tuesday, a Furr's official said.

During the reorganization of Furr's under Chapter XI bankruptcy proceedings, Murphy was hired away from Allied Supermarkets where he had served as senior vice president during that firm's filing under Chapter XI.

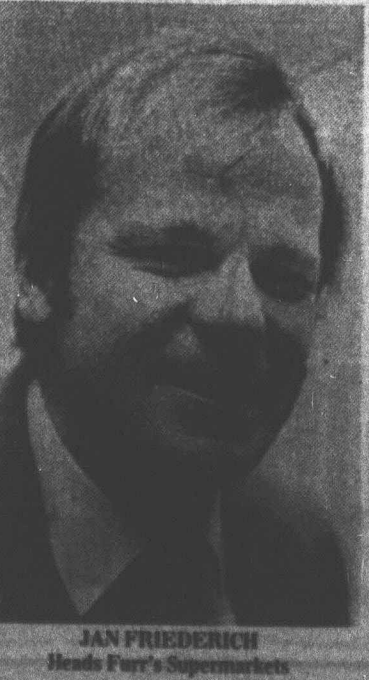

Murphy arrived at Furr's during a period of cash flow problems and limited credit. The firm was later sold to Rewe Leibbrand in order to stabilize the company and insure payment to creditors.

"His expertise was best used at the time in the company's history when his leadership was most needed," according to a statement issued by Furr's late Tuesday. "We have decided nonetheless that it would be more appropriate for us to have a member of our own management team in place as the chief executive officer of Furr's." Klaus Wiegandt, chairman of the board, said.

"The board has complete confidence in Jan Friederich and we shall furnish him with the support necessary to make Furr's a successful company once again," Wiegandt said.

The situation was considerably different then, Furr's official Bob Hurn once said of the period when Murphy

Chase, Shoot-Out Leaves Muleshoe Man Dead, Injures County Lawman

LAZBUDDIE (Special) — A Muleshoe man was killed, a Bailey County sheriff's deputy was injured, and three cars were wrecked in a high-speed chase and shoot-out near Lazbuddie Tuesday.

The dead man was identified as James A. Botts, 33, who reportedly fled in a car from a grain elevator northeast of Muleshoe when Deputy Bob Henderson attempted to serve him with a warrant.

Botts was hit by a shotgun blast as he levelled a sawed-off shotgun at a Department of Public Safety officer who had assisted in the chase, according to witnesses.

Bailey County Deputy Irene Splawn said the warrant was on a theft charge from Tillman, Okla., where Botts reportedly had lived before moving to Muleshoe.

Mrs. Splawn said Botts was living at a Muleshoe motel and apparently was working at the grain elevator on a farm northeast of the Bailey County city.

The final crash of the two sheriff's cars and Botts' vehicle occurred about 10 a.m. Tuesday, 11 miles north and five miles east of Muleshoe in the driveway in front of Lazbuddie Farmers Supply.

Witnesses said the two wrecked sheriff's cars had been hit by shotgun pellets and the windows on the right side of the car Henderson was driving were blown out.

Henderson was treated at a Muleshoe hospital for glass imbedded in his face, arms and hands and was released Tuesday.

Henderson was alone in one car and Bailey County Sheriff Dee Clements and Deputy Officer Lyndon Huckabay, with Huckabay driving, were in the other.

Jurors To Be Named In 'Witch Trial'

By JOHNNY HOLMES
Avalanche-Journal Staff

After two days of juror qualifications, the process of selecting a jury in the murder trial of a Castro county couple who say they are witches is expected to begin this morning in the Plainview courtroom of 64th District Judge John T. Boyd.

Prosecutor Jimmy Davis and defense attorneys James Doores and Travis Shelton will question 72 Hale County residents in an attempt to select a dozen jurors in the twice-delayed case.

Loy and Louise Stone are charged with the Halloween 1977 shotgun death of Roxanne Casas, 15, a Dimmitt High School sophomore whom the prosecution claims was mortally wounded by gunfire as she and three friends drove by the Stones' rural residence near Dimmitt.

"I really don't know how long it'll take to pick the jury," Boyd told the Avalanche-Journal Tuesday. "I'd hope we'd have one seated by Friday or Monday, but there's no real way to tell." Attorneys on both sides say the case could take as long as three weeks to be resolved.

The defendants are members of the Church of Arianhu, one of five branches of the Church of Wicca, which identifies its followers as witches and believes in a force of god that can be controlled by the human mind. They received area attention after appearing on an Amarillo television talk show about two weeks before

Cold Night, Mild Days Due Area

Fair skies, cold nights and mild afternoons will be the pattern of weather for the South Plains and most of Texas for the next few days.

After an Arctic cold front inched across the state Tuesday, temperatures in Lubbock reach a low of 22 degrees about 8 a.m.

The low tonight, however, is predicted to be in the lower 30s. The high today should be again in the low 60s with winds blowing briskly, 15 to 20 mph, from the southwest.

While Texas enjoyed mild winter weather, a new snowstorm buried parts of the Pacific Northwest Tuesday and a combination of sub-zero cold and howling winds put an icy crust on deep snow dumped earlier in the Midwest.

At least six deaths were blamed on the potent Midwest storm, including two men who died of heart attacks while shoveling snow and four people killed in weather-related accidents.

The new storm system spread snow through the Pacific Northwest and across the northern Rockies. Travelers advisories were posted for parts of Washington, Oregon and northern California.

Buffalo Claims Nation's Snow Capital Title

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Buffalo was the snow capital of the nation in the 1970s. It got 1,109.8 inches of snow.

And upstate New York can boast that it had three of the nation's four snowiest big cities during the decade.

The snowfall figures for the country's 50 largest metropolitan areas were tallied by Pete Chaston of the National Weather Service in Rochester and Scott Thomas of radio station WXXI in Rochester.

Second place went to Rochester with 1,074.2 inches. Salt Lake City was third with 818.3 inches for the decade. Albany, New York's capital, amassed 699.1 inches for fourth place, pushing Denver, with 672.6 inches, into fifth.

"The famous Blizzard of '77 was responsible for putting Buffalo on top," Chaston said. "In that 1976-1977 season Buffalo received 199.4 inches while Rochester measured a comparatively puny 92.1 inches."

The check by Chaston and Thomas covered only the nation's largest metropolitan areas. Many out-of-the-way spots such as Barnes Corners, south of Watertown, N.Y., average between 300 to 400 inches of snow a season, and Stampede Pass, Wash., has been known to get even more, Chaston said.

Rounding out the top 15 snowiest with their total accumulation over the decade were Cleveland, 570.7 inches; Milwaukee, 563.5 inches; Chicago, 556.2 inches; Minneapolis-St. Paul, 527.4 inches; Hartford, Conn., 474.5 inches; Detroit, 450.4 inches; Boston, 435.7 inches; Toledo, Ohio, 410.5 inches; Pittsburgh, 341.1 inches; and Providence, R.I., 340.2 inches.

Ambush Team Kills Italian Policemen

MILAN, Italy (AP) — A Red Brigades ambush team killed three policemen on a fog-shrouded street Tuesday in the bloodiest strike by Italy's most feared terrorist gang since gunmen kidnapped former Premier Aldo Moro in Rome in 1978 and killed his five bodyguards.

The four terrorists pumped at least 30 sub-machine gun rounds into the officers' car, then fled in their white Fiat which was later found abandoned.

The terrorists struck on the same day President Sandro Pertini and government officials were in Sicily for the funeral of a murdered politician who was a protégé of Moro. Pier Santi Mattarella, the president of the Sicilian regional government, was assassinated last Sunday in what investigators believe was a joint operation of terrorists and the Mafia.

The three officers, members of the special branch dealing with political violence and terrorism, were in plainclothes, in an unmarked car, and had just left their headquarters for routine surveillance outside high schools disrupted by extremist violence.

Eyewitnesses said the terrorists stopped their car in the middle of the street, forcing the police car to a halt. Gunmen approached the vehicle and opened fire, without saying a word.

One stray bullet grazed a woman, who witnessed the slaying in terror at the wheel of her automobile.

Shortly after the attack the Red Brigades claimed responsibility in a call to a local newspaper and said "we have liquidated a patrol in plainclothes assigned to the control of factories and schools."

TREATIES PROPOSED

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The Communist governments of Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos proposed Tuesday that non-aggression treaties be signed with non-communist countries of Southeast Asia. A joint communique signed by the foreign ministers of the three nations, reported by the Vietnam News Agency, also offered to "discuss the establishment of a Southeast Asian region of peace, independence, freedom, neutrality, stability and prosperity."

Kennedy, Brown Still Angry Over Debate Refusal

By The Associated Press
Edmund G. Brown Jr. and Edward M. Kennedy, still bristling over President Carter's refusal to debate them, escalated their attacks on his foreign policy Tuesday, less than two weeks before the Iowa precinct caucuses.

Brown accused Carter of retreating behind a "wall of silence" and demanded an immediate congressional investigation of how the United States became involved in the Iranian crisis, precipitated by the seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran last Nov. 4.

Complaining that a two-hour State Department briefing on the Iranian situation failed to answer his questions, Brown told reporters in Washington that a congressional inquiry would "disclose the circumstances of how we got into this situation and the responsibility of Jimmy Carter."

Asked about Brown's demand, White House press secretary Jody Powell said any response to a call for a congressional inquiry should be left up to the Congress.

Stumping for votes in Iowa, Kennedy said Carter has reneged on a 1976 campaign pledge that he would never support an embargo of U.S. grain shipments overseas.

While Brown and Kennedy were intensifying their campaigns in advance of the Jan. 21 precinct caucuses, Sen. Larry Pressler of South Dakota dropped out of the 1980 Republican presidential sweepstakes.

Like Brown and Kennedy, Pressler was upset by his inability to engage his opponents in debate. Pressler's problem was not with a canceled debate, however. The 37-year-old senator had not been invited to the debate among GOP contenders, sponsored by the Des Moines Register and Tribune, which took place as scheduled Saturday night.

Among other developments Tuesday: *Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee refused to criticize Carter for permitting the deposed Shah of Iran into the United States for medical treatment.

"I feel a human and compassionate concern for anyone who requires medical treatment," Baker told an audience in Concord, N.H. "If the Ayatollah (Ruhollah Khomeini) were sick — notwithstanding what they have done with those 50 hostages — if Khomeini were sick and asked to come to the United States, I would let him."

*The Carter-Mondale Vice Presidential Committee announced that Vice President Walter F. Mondale would make a three-day visit to Iowa beginning Thursday.

*Kennedy backers, seeking to improve the senator's chances in the May 13 Maryland presidential primary, sent a high-ranking official to that state to build up the campaign organization there.

James F. Flug, a former legislative assistant to Kennedy, said his presence in Maryland "shows how important this state is."

*The Iowa State Council of Senior Citizens Organizations endorsed Kennedy, saying the senator "for 15 years has worked for a comprehensive health care plan."

*GOP candidate John Connally told a Council Bluffs, Iowa, audience that before announcing the partial grain embargo against the Soviet Union, Carter should have received guarantees of support from other grain-producing nations.

Brown and Kennedy accused Carter of using the Iranian crisis to dodge the Iowa debate. When the president pulled out of the debate, citing Iran, the event was canceled.

Brown was asked Tuesday whether his call for a congressional investigation of U.S.-Iranian policy might worsen the situation for the American hostages held in Tehran.

"Nothing that has happened so far has improved the situation," he replied.

Brown said such an investigation should be conducted now, and not put off until the hostages are released, so the American people can make their own evaluation of the administration's decision-making process.

Kennedy chastised Carter for halting shipment of 17 million tons of grain to the Soviet Union in reprisal for that country's military intervention in Afghanistan.

In response to a question from a farmer in Perry, Iowa, Kennedy pledged that as president he would not embargo grain shipments overseas.

Kennedy said his Senate record would show that "when I've said something I've meant it. When I've made a commitment I've kept it."

Later, however, Kennedy spokesman Tom Southwick said the only qualification to the senator's pledge would be "in the event of war."

Campaigning at the Iowa State Fair on Aug. 25, 1976, Carter said, "It's not my idea of a fair shake when the government promotes foreign sales and then cuts them off for political convenience."

"There aren't going to be any more embargoes if I'm elected president," he declared.

In a Sept. 21, 1979, White House interview with non-Washington newspaper editors and broadcasters, however, the president said he would not support such an embargo "... unless our own nation's security was directly threatened."

Powell asserted Tuesday that Kennedy's criticism of Carter was motivated by the senator's political ambitions in Iowa, a major corn-producing state.

He predicted that the grain curbs would largely account in the coming year for the biggest 12-month decline in Soviet meat production since World War II. He said the U.S. government expects Soviet production to fall off by about 20 percent, and estimated that two-thirds of the decline would stem from the grain embargo.

Pressler became the second Republican to withdraw from the presidential race. Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., quit last May after officially announcing his candidacy only two months earlier.

Pressler said he would have continued if he had been allowed to participate in the GOP debate.

"Being excluded from that debate was a blow," Pressler said. "Our strategy had been to spend 15 days in Iowa."

Pressler said he was excluded from the debate because its sponsor believed "we did not have enough of a visible campaign in Iowa."

James Gannon, executive editor of the Des Moines Register, said Pressler was excluded from the debate because "he had not mounted any significant Iowa campaign."

"For Larry Pressler to say that the Register undermined his campaign is like General Custer blaming his defeat at Little Big Horn on the weather," Gannon said Tuesday.

South Dakota Senator Out Of Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Larry Pressler of South Dakota pulled out of the crowded Republican presidential race Tuesday, citing his exclusion from the Iowa debate and a shortage of money.

Pressler's withdrawal reduced the GOP field from 10 declared presidential candidates to nine.

In announcing his decision, Pressler said he would have continued his campaign if he had been allowed to participate in last Saturday's GOP debate in Des Moines, Iowa.

"Being excluded from that debate was a blow," Pressler said in an interview. "Our strategy had been to spend 15 days in Iowa."

Pressler, 37, the youngest contender in the presidential race, said he was excluded from the debate by its sponsor, the Des Moines Register and Tribune, because the newspaper believed that "we did not have enough of a visible campaign in Iowa."

James Gannon, the newspaper's executive editor, said Tuesday that Pressler was excluded because "he had not mounted any significant campaign."

"For Larry Pressler to say that the Register undermined his campaign is like General Custer blaming his defeat at the Little Big Horn on the weather," Gannon said.

Opponent's Statements Disputed By Rail Commissioner Nugent

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Railroad Commissioner Jim Nugent, who said it would be nice to "inject some facts" into his opponent's campaign, Wednesday announced his candidacy for the job he now holds by appointment.

Nugent, 56, took his commission seat in January 1979 after Jon Newton resigned. Gov. Dolph Briscoe made the appointment.

The former Kerrville state legislator lashed out at an old foe — the "North-eastern power bloc" — as well as Jim Hightower, his opponent.

"Now that energy sources are no longer sufficient to meet the needs of the entire country, other areas should share some of those costs and risks. Unfortunately, the Northeastern power bloc does not want the risk and cost of energy development — they would rather fix the game so they can get our energy at bargain basement prices," Nugent said.

He warned the answer to the shrinking energy supply lies in a combination of conservation and production.

"We cannot conserve our way out of our energy dependence, and we can't produce our way out of it. We must do both. What we must avoid are those tellers of fairy tales who think we can talk our way out, blame our way out, or dream our way out," he said, in a veiled reference to Hightower, the former magazine editor who wants Nugent's job.

Hightower has said Texans pay the highest gas prices in the nation.

Nugent disagreed and asked an aide for a fact sheet.

"Let me give you the facts. It'd be nice to inject some of those facts into his statements," he said.

Nugent said the facts show Texans pay the 24th-highest rates.

He also defended commission action allowing gas utilities to pass on the cost of advertising. Nugent said utility companies have much conservation information that should be passed on to consumers.

Nugent called his year on the commission "exciting and frustrating, exhilarating and maddening; but as a challenge, it certainly has not been disappointing."

"Energy and transportation are like the blood and breath of the good life. They are so basic that we happily ignore them until they begin to run out or break down," he said.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Taking care of annoying problems where others are concerned can be the order of the day. Be exact and precise in whatever you say or do to prevent tension and strain.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to April 19) You want to revise a contract with a partner but this is not the right day to do so. Be sure to carry through with agreements with others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Some amusement you had looked forward to may not materialize, or there is delay. Take time for improving health and enjoy life more.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get rid of whatever keeps you from doing good work, and improve relations with fellow workers. A special thought for mate is appreciated.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do not permit some condition at home to get you off balance and then it resolves itself satisfactorily. Silence is golden today.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Show more concern for allies and neighbors. Don't be frustrated if some social plans do not work out as you anticipated.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Handle an important financial matter well or you could lose out where it counts the most. Concentrate on adding to present income.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Situations do not work out as you had planned, but don't let this frustrate you — it is for the best. Don't argue with others and avoid trouble.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take time to clear up some matters that have kept you miserable for some time. Do not get into an altercation with a close tie.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you go out socially, don't expect too much of others. Try to be more independent. Adopt a more conciliatory attitude.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Showing you are a conscientious citizen will make this a satisfactory day. Be sure to handle credit affairs wisely.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can make progress via new directions now but iron out any wrinkles in plans. Don't commit yourself with a new contract now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Handle every detail of any promises you have made to others, although you are thinking of making changes. A loved one needs help.

Oil Refinery Workers Walk Off Jobs

DENVER (AP) — Oil refinery workers walked off their jobs Tuesday in the first nationwide strike in 11 years by 60,000 members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union.

None of the refineries operated by the 100 domestic oil companies affected by the walkout was shut down immediately. Officials said managers and supervisors could keep the facilities operating indefinitely.

OCAW workers left their jobs at the Texaco Co. refinery in Westville, N.J., about 2 p.m., and refinery workers elsewhere soon followed suit. The walkout, called for the end of each plant's day shift, is the union's first nationwide strike since 1969.

As word of Eastern walkouts spread across the country, some workers in Western oil states left before the end of their full shifts, observers said.

Energy Department experts estimated that refineries could withstand a strike "without substantial loss of production" for anywhere from 45 to 90 days, spokesman Jack Vandenberg said in Washington. He said they had made no estimates beyond that time.

If crude oil supplies and demand continue unchanged, the walkout will not mean much of anything to American consumers, said industry observers.

"We're all prepared," Sinclair Oil Corp. vice president Clair Moyle said as the strike began in Sinclair, Wyo. "We'll do whatever is necessary to man it."

OCAW president Robert Goss ordered the walkout after failing to reach agreement on a contract dispute.

Goss met with oil-industry representatives Tuesday in Houston. But Kirk Vogeley, a spokesman for Gulf Oil Corp., said the talks ended "with no new contract offers" and no additional talks were scheduled.

Union spokesman Jerry Archuleta said he had no further details and Goss could not be reached immediately for comment.

Wayne Horvitz, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, attended Tuesday's meeting and was to fly to Denver on Wednesday.

The union is negotiating a second-year wage-and-benefit package under a two-year contract that began last January. The union wants full medical and dental coverage and has refused to discuss wages until the industry agrees to the new health-care proposal. Goss has said a "substantial" wage increase also should be part of the package.

Currently, health care plans vary widely among the 411 union bargaining units. The industry's average hourly wage is $9.55.

Of the 100 oil companies involved in the contract dispute with the union, only Husky Oil Co., with plants in Cheyenne and Cody, Wyo., said it would shut down entirely during a walkout because of possible problems in obtaining crude oil. Spokesmen for the rest of the refineries said their plants would continue with management and supervisory personnel at the controls.

If the industry can operate with supervisory help alone, there are too many supervisors, Archuleta said. "If I were a stockholder in an oil company, I'd want to know why there are so many supervisors."

If current crude oil supplies and consumer demands remained constant, such a set-up could go on indefinitely without affecting most Americans, said Donald O'Hara, president of the National Petroleum Refiners Association in Washington.

"If you look at the last couple of (industrywide) strikes (in 1952 and 1969), you find that total production of gasoline and fuel oil was hardly affected at all," said O'Hara. "And we're even more automated today than we were 10 years ago."

Much of a modern refinery's operation is "a matter of sitting in a control room and watching the dials," explained Marshall Nichols, executive director of the National Petroleum Council in Washington.

A Department of Energy spokesman said the department was watching the situation closely. The department would not estimate possible effects on supplies.

Skyride Accident Testimony Heard
DALLAS (AP) — Ten persons have testified before a closed hearing by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission into the Swiss Skyride accident at the State Fair last year.

The information obtained Monday by the commission will be used to determine what caused the mishap Oct. 21 and who similar accidents may be prevented. One man was killed and 17 persons were injured when four gondolas collided, knocking the cable off a support tower and sending two cars to the midway below.

Only half of the persons — passengers or witnesses — subpoenaed to testify at the hearing appeared. Jeanne White, area director of the commission, said others may be interviewed at a later hearing.

Two Fair officials have filed motions to quash the subpoenas.

Angelo said those accompanying him on the trip would be Andy Carter, national director of field operations for Reagan; Rick Shelby, regional political director of Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas; and Steve Dougherty, executive director of the Texas Reagan for President Committee.

No Postal Rate Hikes Seen Until 1981

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — There will be no increase in postal rates during 1980, but postal customers can expect to see increases in 1981, said William F. Bolger, postmaster general of the United States.

Bolger, attending a meeting of the Board of Governors of the United States Postal Service here, would not speculate on how much rates will increase at the beginning of next year.

"We want to keep prices as cheap as possible," Bolger said. He said lower rates generate a higher volume of mail.

The postmaster general said the board delayed until February a decision regarding Electronic Computer Originated Mail Service.

Bolger said he expects a decision in February on one of several options for electronic mail, which were discussed during a closed session of the board's committee on postal rates.

The postmaster general said one of the options is to have large firms, those mailing of 200 or more copies of the same message, to transmit them by computer to the Postal Service. The Postal Service would then transmit them to a destination for hard copy printout and delivery.

He said the ECOM was an attempt to use technology to improve postal service. Bolger told a press conference here that holding the line on rate increases this year was the Postal Service's contribution toward slowing the inflation rate.

He said a $470 million surplus last year enabled the service to get through the year without a rate increase. But, he said the Postal Service expects a $600 million deficit at the end of this fiscal year.

He attributed rising costs and labor agreements with cost-of-living increases as the reason for the projected deficit.

The postmaster general said the government's subsidy to the Postal Service has dropped from 25 percent in 1971 to less than 9 percent now.

In other comments, Bolger said: "The nine-digit ZIP code will be implemented in 1981, but he said it would not be mandatory for the individual postal customer to use it.

"He said productivity of postal workers has increased, but not as much as he would like it to.

"Postal prices for parcel post need to be competitive with the service's largest competitor, United Parcel Service.

"He defended the Postal Service monopoly on the delivery of letters. He said companies trying to compete were simply trying to skim off the cream without trying to provide the full range of services at uniform prices offered by the Postal Service.

Chef Held Hostage By Former Employee

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A former kitchen worker held the chef at the Sazerac restaurant hostage for an hour Tuesday, forcing 20 lunchtime customers into the street. The incident ended without injury when the chef tackled the man, and police rushed in to nab him.

Edward Trepagnier, 27, pulled a pistol on chef Jean Luc Albin at about 11:30 a.m. in the kitchen, demanding that "Harold" be brought to him, Lt. Gary Kessel said.

Kessel said Trepagnier fired one shot into the ceiling from his .22-caliber pistol. No one was hurt.

The customers in the Fairmont Hotel restaurant when the chef was taken hostage left quickly at the request of hostesses. The restaurant was closed temporarily, and plainclothesmen turned other people away.

"I didn't know anything about it except suddenly I saw everybody running," said hostess Melody Maher.

"He was just screaming that he didn't want to talk to anyone but Harry," said another police officer who rushed to the kitchen.

"Whenever someone was doing something he didn't like, he'd point the gun at him," said the officer, who asked not to be identified.

"After it was over, he was talking to one of the ladies that worked in the kitchen. He said something like, 'If Harry would have come in front of me, I would have blown him away,'" he said.

Police said Harold was another kitchen worker whom Trepagnier fought with Monday in an incident contributing to his dismissal.

A police SWAT team, wearing civilian clothes but armed with rifles, arrived at the hotel, along with the special operations squad set up for negotiating in hostage situations.

However, as they fanned out around the Sazerac kitchen, Trepagnier put down his pistol to light a cigarette and the chef wrestled him toward the officers, Lt. Kessel said. Officers leaped in and grabbed Trepagnier.

He was taken out the back door in handcuffs. Police said he would be taken to Central Lockup. No charges were filed immediately.

Kessel said Trepagnier made no demand other than to see "Harold," and though he held the chef hostage, and fired a shot into the ceiling of the chef's office, he did not display any particular hostility toward him.

Man Slays Mother During Morning Siege

ELIZABETHTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A man holed up in an apartment with a shotgun for six hours Tuesday and killed his mother and wounded a policeman before officers coaxed him to surrender by reciting the 23rd Psalm, authorities said.

The siege ended shortly before noon when David Brady, 31, gave himself up to state police Maj. Roy Titler, who had convinced the gunman God would forgive him.

Brady, clad in a white shirt, green work pants and black work shoes, emerged from the family's apartment in his quiet Lancaster County community with a cigarette in his hand.

Before he was led into an unmarked police car, Brady threw up his hands in the snowy yard and shouted, "Dear God ... Dear God, get this stuff out of my head."

Brady was being held at Elizabethtown city jail pending filing of charges. He was expected to spend the night in Lancaster County prison.

Police found the blood-spattered body of Brady's mother, Mildred, in the bathroom.

Randy Garman, an Elizabethtown police officer responding to what was considered a routine domestic call, was in serious condition at Lancaster General Hospital with a gunshot wound to the head.

Doris Pack, Brady's girlfriend, escaped from the house early in the ordeal. Police said the shooting began at 6 a.m. Less than two hours later, Mrs. Brady and Garman were shot about five minutes apart.

Ambulances, police cars, fire engines and armed police ringed the house. Reporters darted behind trees and 18th century gravestones in the neighboring yard of Christ Lutheran Church, where 25 children played inside at a day care center.

Elizabethtown Police Chief Anthony Meridionale said Brady, an epileptic who has an ex-wife and two children, was suffering from depression.

"It was a combination of personal problems and health problems and working problems," he said.

The chief said Brady didn't want to listen to anybody, although police brought to the scene everybody he wanted to talk to. His girlfriend and a brother joined police in pleading with Brady to give up.

Three state troopers climbed a ladder to enter the green-trimmed frame house at about 9:30. They confirmed Mrs. Brady's death but did not confront the gunman.

"We only wanted to see if his mother was alive," said Titler, a state police commander. "Then we backed off."

Brady surrendered after Titler, prompted by state police information officer Jim Cox, started reciting the 23rd Psalm.

"I felt sorry for him," Titler said afterward. "If we wanted to kill him, we could have. But we don't do things like that."

Former Court Justice 'Seriously Ill'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, hospitalized and receiving intensive care, was listed as "very seriously ill" Tuesday.

Douglas, 81, was admitted to Walter Reed Hospital on Christmas Eve suffering from pneumonia. His physician, Donald Steinweg, was quoted as saying Douglas is suffering from "progressive lung, renal and kidney failure."

"Mr. Douglas is very seriously ill. That's our most serious designation," hospital spokesman Peter Esker said.

Esker refused to say whether Douglas had lapsed into a coma, stating that such information would have to come from the former justice's wife, Cathy, who was not available for comment.

Steinweg was quoted by Supreme Court spokesman Barrett McGurn as saying, "The multiple complications stem from right lower lobe pneumonia."

A stroke suffered New Year's Day 1974 eventually forced Douglas to leave the Supreme Court in 1975. The once-avid hiker and mountain climber has been confined to a wheelchair for the past six years.

He kept writing, however, and up until last month often spent several hours each week at the Supreme Court office maintained for him.

Douglas served as a member of the nation's highest court for 36½ years, longer than any justice in history.

Former Lubbock Man Arrested In Hobbs

A special education counselor for the Hobbs school system and a former director of mental health and mental retardation centers in Lubbock and Corpus Christi was arraigned Tuesday in Hobbs, N.M., on fraud charges.

Fifth Judicial District Judge C. Fincher Neal arraigned Ronald V. Whittington, 36, of Hobbs, on a charge of fraud in excess of $2,500.

Whittington, who remained in Lea County Jail Tuesday evening in lieu of $25,000 bond, was arrested Nov. 26 by Lea County officials on the fraud charge after being arrested earlier in the day by Curry County officials on a charge of possession of stolen property in excess of $2,500. Curry County officials had released Whittington on $5,000 bond.

The Lea County District Attorney's office filed fraud charges against Whittington after a search of his Hobbs residence uncovered items the psychologist had reported stolen in an Aug. 8 burglary. Reports indicate Whittington, who was director of Lubbock's Regional Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center from August 1977 to 1978, had filed insurance claims in Hobbs totaling between $4,000 and $5,000 to recover his alleged loss.

Whittington was director of Corpus Christi's MHMR center from 1975 to 1977.

Carter Official Says Marxist Terrorists May Control Hostages

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's chief spokesman said Tuesday that Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini may have lost control of the fate of American hostages in Tehran to Marxist terrorists who may seek chaos for their own political ends.

White House press secretary Jody Powell, obviously reading from prepared notes at a briefing for reporters, said the composition of the group holding the U.S. Embassy in the Iranian capital may have changed since the hostages were seized Nov. 4. He said that if any Iranian "students" ever were involved in the embassy takeover, their number and influence seems to have diminished.

Powell said those now holding the embassy take "a rather radical and certainly Marxist line." In response to a question, however, he said he did not mean to suggest they were acting at the behest of the Soviet Union.

The Carter spokesman told reporters that the administration's analysis has "raised rather serious questions as to who is actually in charge" in Tehran.

He said there is evidence that neither Khomeini nor the revolutionary council controls the fate of the American hostages.

The situation, Powell said, raises "equally serious questions about the motives of the terrorists, the kidnapers," adding that they may welcome chaotic conditions for their own purposes.

Asked if he was speaking on the basis of new evidence, Powell responded, "There's always new evidence."

But he quickly added that his statement was not prompted by any single piece of "dramatic" evidence.

Powell also was asked if his analysis did not make the situation of the hostages seem hopeless.

"I wouldn't choose that term," he replied, adding that "it is time for those in Iran who do care about their country" to review whether they want their national values undermined by "a small group."

Powell's comments came several hours after an informed official said the State Department also is beginning to believe that no one in Iran controls the militants holding the embassy and the hostages.

The growing belief that even Khomeini has no influence over the militants is behind the administration decision to press ahead with the effort to get the United Nations to approve sanctions against Iran, even though some diplomats have worried that imposing sanctions will make Iran less willing to release the hostages, the official said.

The official briefed reporters on the condition that his name not be used.

"People come back from Iran where they have had contacts with the revolutionary council, and they say sanctions would undermine efforts to negotiate the release of the hostages," the official said.

"The problem is that all of those ideas for negotiated settlements share one defect: It's not altogether clear that an order could be given at any level and result in the quick release of the hostages," he said.

The official said the State Department knows only bits and pieces of about the militants who have held the hostages since a mob overran the embassy on Nov. 4, demanding that the United States return the deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi for trial.

The State Department believes the militants inside the embassy are split into factions and argue among themselves, the official said. Some of those in the embassy may have Palestinian connections, he said, but the department cannot confirm that.

"These terrorists are operating in a totally different atmosphere from most terrorists. They are swimming in a sea of support from the Iranian government and people. We would like to separate them from that support," the official said.

The administration hopes that imposed economic sanctions will prod the Iranian people to end their support for the militants holding the embassy.

WILL BROWNWOOD SINK?
BAYTOWN (AP) — Baytown residents were voting a second time today on a $7.8 million evacuation plan for the sinking Brownwood subdivision. The funds would be the local share of a $37 million federal project to purchase the flood-prone homes and convert the area into a park. A similar proposal was defeated by a 2-to-1 margin last year.

Begin, Sadat Discuss Middle Eastern, African Trouble Areas

ASWAN, Egypt (AP) — Setting aside their bilateral problems, President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin examined trouble spots on a map of the Middle East, Africa and the Mediterranean for two hours Tuesday.

The two leaders spread out a large map on the flagstones next to the swimming pool of the Oberoi Hotel here and then sat down in cane armchairs to pore over it in comfort.

U.S., Egyptian Air Forces Cooperating

ASWAN, Egypt (AP) — American and Egyptian air forces have held joint exercises testing the feasibility of Egyptian facilities to defend the Middle East, Defense Minister Kamal Hassan Ali said Tuesday.

In interviews with reporters covering the Egyptian-Israeli summit meeting here, Ali said the exercises took place two or more weeks ago in the context of the Iranian crisis.

map on the flagstones next to the swimming pool of the Oberoi Hotel here and then sat down in cane armchairs to pore over it in comfort.

Afterward, Begin told Israeli correspondents that they discussed "important subjects" and didn't even notice the passage of time. Both he and Sadat looked well satisfied. The session was to have been devoted primarily to bilateral relations and the unresolved issue of Palestinian autonomy. But the two men appeared to be preoccupied with the situation arising from Soviet military action in Afghanistan.

The effect of the Islamic upheaval in Iran on the stability of the region also was a topic which seemed to have spilled over from Monday's meeting.

The two men indicated their business was not over when they postponed a scheduled news conference until Thursday, Begin's last day in Egypt.

While Begin and Sadat have expressed concern at the fallout from the Russian move into Afghanistan, Egyptian Defense Minister Kamal Hassan Ali said it was too early to talk about Israeli-Egyptian cooperation in the area. He said it was unlikely that any Arab country would accept Israeli help, but added that after the Palestinian question is solved "then all the countries in the area can direct their efforts against outside aggression and outside danger."

Egypt and Israel are still far apart on how much self-rule should be granted the 1.2 million Palestinians living in the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, and shortly before Begin's arrival at this southern city on the Nile an Israeli spokesman said he really did not expect any breakthroughs or crises to develop during Begin's four-day visit.

Begin flew to Abu Simbel 180 miles south of here on a sightseeing tour before meeting with Sadat at the Oberoi Hotel on an island in the Nile, and this round of talks was scheduled as their last. The Israeli premier is to do some more sightseeing today before returning to Tel Aviv Thursday.

But Dan Pattir, an Israeli spokesman, said the two leaders had decided they still had much ground to cover and extended Tuesday's talks to two hours. A third round was scheduled for Thursday before the Israeli party is to fly home.

"They reviewed regional matters, and the questions of normalization and autonomy, but they felt they had more ground to cover so they will meet again," Pattir said.

The process of normalization as described by the terms of the 10-month-old Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty calls for the establishment of diplomatic relations between the two nations on Jan. 26 and the exchange of ambassadors one month after that.

While the two men discussed the region, their wives lunched on a Nile boat on the river with their families.

Later, Begin toured the Soviet-financed Aswan High Dam and stopped briefly inside the huge, lotus-flower shaped monument erected to the one-time Egyptian-Soviet friendship.

'Skittish' World Economy May Provide Extra Cash To Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — The "skittish" world economy will give Texas legislators some surplus spending money in 1981 but much of it will be eaten away by inflation, says Comptroller Bob Bullock.

"Texas will stay afloat, but we'll see the waves lapping at the sides of the ship

Vice President Campaigns In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Vice President Walter Mondale wooed the important Mexican-American vote here Tuesday, praising U.S. Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez and unveiling an $18.8 million federal grant earmarked primarily for this city's huge Hispanic community.

Mondale's trip for a fund-raising luncheon honoring Gonzalez was considered by local political leaders to be the informal kickoff in South Texas of the Carter-Mondale re-election campaign. It was paid for by Gonzalez campaign of state," Bullock said in comment on his latest estimate of the state's money outlook for the next two years.

Bullock commented after a long conference with Gov. Bill Clements and his budget staff.

Clements said in mid-December he funds.

Campaign officials for both Carter and his chief Democratic challenger, Sen. Edward Kennedy, feel the Hispanic vote in South Texas is vitally important in the 1980 elections — as it proved to be in 1976.

Mondale used his keynote speech before about 2,000 Gonzalez supporters to announce what he said is one of the Carter administration's largest Urban Development Action Grants.

expected the 1981 Legislature to have a surplus of "several hundred million dollars" that could be distributed as tax relief.

Bullock replied that a decline in the economy could cut state revenues and said the 1981 Legislature might even have to pass new taxes.

Bullock said Tuesday that his updated revenue estimate shows the state could end its two-year budget period with a "surplus" of $124 million — "plus perhaps another $200 million that the Legislature has already approved but has not yet been spent."

"It may be little more than wishful thinking to hope the state agencies won't spend it," Bullock said. "Agencies in times past have not spent some of the monies given them but this time around they are pinched by inflation and may well spend every dime the Legislature approved."

Bullock said skyrocketing oil production taxes, natural gas production taxes and lubricant sales taxes will bring in $641.8 million more than the $2.3 billion previously estimated.

However, he said, court decisions and troubles in the economy will cost the state about $536.2 million in reduced income from other taxes and revenue sources.

The tax income decreases include $37.6 million in inheritance taxes, $139.6 million in state sales taxes, $1.6 million in hotel-motel taxes, $40.6 million in franchise taxes, $50 million from teacher retirement reimbursement costs, $55.3 million from motor fuel taxes; $143 million in lost motor vehicle sales taxes, and a decrease of $123.2 million in insurance company premiums taxes.

Total spending during the current two-year budget period, ending Aug. 31, 1981, is about $21.2 billion.

Bullock said the downturn in sales tax revenues was due to reduced purchasing power of consumers caused by the rapid inflation.

He said the hotel-motel tax is hampered by high gasoline prices, spot shortages of gasoline during the tourist seasons and the threat of oil spills on the coast.

Motor vehicle sales taxes are down because of reduced incomes and energy problems.

On the other hand, Bullock said, oil production taxes will be up because world prices will increase about one-third this year and another 10 percent next year.

He said natural gas production will increase 2.2 percent this year and 1 percent next year, but taxes will rise even more because they are based on rapidly rising prices, especially in the interstate market where federal price ceilings have been increased.

Mythical Island Composes Artfully Rigged Museum Exhibit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Somewhere in the balmy waters of the South Atlantic lies the ancient, long-lost island of Caerulea.

Two California women "discovered" it, and brought more than 100 artifacts, including multicolored frescoes, scrolls, necklaces, pottery, paintings and other implements to the M.H. de Young Memorial Museum.

But there is something museumgoers should bear in mind: it is an imaginary island, and the evidence was very artfully rigged by the women, who say they wanted "their own ruins."

Eleanor Rappe and Eleanore Bender created the collection over five years in a Sausalito studio.

"We were both always interested in archaeology and have traveled a lot," said Mrs. Rappe. "We were sitting around at lunch one day and we were thinking how nice it would be if we had our own ruins instead of spending all this time on other people's ruins."

The display causes many a double take. Jose Lopez, a Los Angeles psychologist and museum buff, said, "I was beginning to suspect that this was all mixed up — that some things don't go together from different historical periods."

"But you know, this may be a real story after all. In a way, Caerulea exists," he said.

The two women say nothing was known of the island culture before 1200 B.C. or after 500 A.D. They contend they found the artifacts in 1975 after clues in ancient Roman texts led them to an island south of the Sargasso Sea on a trade route between the Mediterranean and Central America.

Information accompanying the museum display describes Caerulea's ancient harbor, columns and the remnants of the lost world. It was a land of priests, magicians and ritual splendor.

But ask the women to pinpoint its location, and they just smile and change the subject. The latitude and longitude of Caerulea, from a Latin reference to the color blue, remain their secret.

"For the present time, Caerulea must remain an artistic enigma and Atlantis-type speculations must be held in check until much more extensive research and testing have taken place," says a "Letter to the Editor of the Journal of Caerulean Studies," which is part of the display.

Explanations of Caerulea's imaginary nature are posted at the entrance to the two rooms containing the 38 glass display cases.

"Most people eventually realize what Caerulea is," said Sue Levitin, curator of exhibits, who heard of the women's endeavors and offered them museum space because of the artistry of the display.

But not everybody catches on. "Recently we met a man who saw the work. We told him we had made the things," Mrs. Rappe said. "You can't put me on," he said. "I've been there!"

FANCIFUL RUINS OF CAERULEA — Sue Levitin, curator of special exhibits at San Francisco's M. H. de Young Memorial Museum, looks over some of the fanciful ruins of Caerulea, a mythical island civilization created by two women. It took them five years to create the collection in their Sausalito studio. (AP Laserphoto)

TECH REGISTRATION — Terry Layne, 18-year-old Houston freshman, was one of approximately 9,200 students who registered at Texas Tech University Tuesday. Registration continues through 6 p.m. today. Late registration will be available until

Postal Service Tentatively Agrees On Purchasing Site Of Post Office

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Following a year-long search, the U.S. Postal Service has tentatively agreed to purchase a two-block tract of land at Fourth Street and Avenue L for a new central post office.

City Planning Director Jim Bertram, who has been handling city negotiations with the Postal Service, said the post office plans to split its retail and mail handling functions.

The retail facility, including window service and post office boxes, would be relocated on property bounded by Fourth and Sixth Streets and Avenues K

FULL OF ENERGY

Faint starlike objects called quasars emit more energy than the most powerful galaxies known. If they are as distant as many astronomers think, the total energy emitted by a single quasar in one second could supply all of the earth's electrical energy needs for a billion years.

and L. Bertram said postal officials have been searching for property in the downtown area for about one year, and city officials suggested the property near the Civic Center.

The land to be purchased by the post office includes a 3/4-acre strip of Urban Renewal property acquired following the 1970 tornado, but considered unsalable because of its shape.

City officials also are pleased the Postal Service will be acquiring property now occupied by a garage and a tamale factory — uses which should be in industrial and heavy commercial zoning districts, Bertram said.

"This is one of the best opportunities to clean that corner up," he said.

Before purchase contracts can finally be agreed upon, Bertram said the City Council must approve the closure of two streets and an alley in the tract of land.

The City Council will consider on first reading Thursday the closure of Avenue

K between Fourth and Sixth Streets and Fifth Street between Avenues K and L.

"The post office is eager to have the site, but the purchase is only tentative until the city does its part," Bertram said.

"If we can get the closures made, and assure them everything is legal, they'll be ready to get started in the next couple of months."

"I understand they're ready to move," Bertram said, although it is unknown if architect's drawings for the new facility are complete.

Bertram said he thinks the new facility will face south, with access off Avenue L and off Fifth Street and will be comparable in size to the current central post office.

Postmaster Elmer Reed, unavailable for comment this morning, said last summer the post office needed additional space because of overcrowding and inadequate parking at the current downtown facility.

Lawmen's Training Fee Slated By Area Governmental Panel

By DEBBIE STALTER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Law enforcement officers residing outside the South Plains Association of Governments' region will now have to shell out a $200 tuition fee for a training course previously provided to them free of charge.

The council of governments' board unanimously agreed Tuesday that non-member entities should be charged for participation in the panel's Law Enforcement Training Academy. Member governments will continue to receive the service at no cost.

The contention of the board is that because non-member governments do not contribute to the academy's operations through dues, charging them for the service is a fair approach to solving funding problems for the course.

The 240-hour basic training school, which will increase to 320 hours (or eight weeks) in 1981, is required by state law for all beginning officers during the first six months of employment. Optional advanced training is also provided for officers who wish to increase their job skills and knowledge.

The training is provided through a grant from the state Criminal Justice Division in addition to a cash contribution from the association of governments. The association's contribution is expected to increase from last year's total of $5,150 to about $7,900 for expendable training materials such as books and ammunition.

Also, state support has decreased $735 from last year.

Included in the board's motion was the exclusion of Reese Air Force Base personnel from the tuition fee because Reese provides training facilities for the academy.

Those cities lying outside the city of Lubbock but within Lubbock County will be charged for the course because the county pulled out of the association last year. The city, however, retained its membership.

Earlier Tuesday, executive committee members received some bad news concerning Criminal Justice Division funding for this area. Executive Director Jerry Casstevens told the committee that new federal legislation could cut funding for the council of government's 15-county area from more than $300,000 to $95,000.

Under the new legislation, Casstevens explained, governmental jurisdictions with populations of more than 150,000, which would be called "entitlement jurisdictions," can apply for criminal justice money directly to the state office, rather than through local planning agencies, as smaller entities must do.

And if all the entitlement jurisdictions in the state, which include the city $300,000 for this area.

The state office has not decided how much funding will go to the 15-county area, but Casstevens noted that it received $385,000 last year for law enforcement programs.

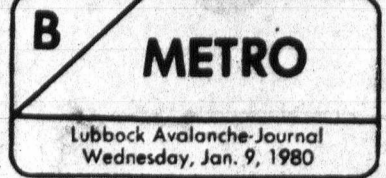

The full board is expected to decide at a later date how it will apply for the state money.

In other action, board members gave unanimous favorable comment to Community Development block grant applications from 11 cities. The applications totaled more than $5 million.

Board President Medlin Carpenter explained after the vote that the favorable comment does not necessarily mean the state will fund all block grant applications.

Carpenter said he made the explanation in response to comments from some area residents that the association refused their cities Community Development funding.

Carpenter pointed out that the association is not the funding agency but instead serves only to review the grant applications.

of Lubbock and Lubbock County, voted to apply directly to the Criminal Justice Division, the money available to remaining cities and counties could be cut drastically, Casstevens said.

The executive director mentioned, however, that if the association applies for criminal justice money as a whole under the entitlement jurisdiction category, its membership could receive more than

Tech Professor To Direct Institute

Dr. James W. Kitchen, professor of park administration and landscape architecture at Texas Tech University, will direct the Southwest Park and Recreation Training Institute Feb. 3 through 6, at Kingston, Okla.

More than 450 park administrators are expected to attend the meeting to discuss issues including efficient maintenance, rising fuel costs, vandalism and new trends in personnel management.

According to Kitchen, more than 70 percent of the expenses in existing park and recreational programs are devoted to maintenance and operation.

The institute, sponsored by the department of park administration and landscape architecture at Texas Tech and the Oklahoma Tourism and Recreation Department, was initiated by Elo J. Urbanovsky, horn professor emeritus at Texas Tech.

BETSEY CLARK

WHEN WE SHARE WHAT WE KNOW, WE HELP OTHERS TO GROW.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK
Every day I fight the battle of Bombeck vs. Trash.

As soon as I hit the bathroom in the morning, my arms make a wide sweep over the sink, taking with them used nose tissue, clumps of hair, empty boxes and toothpaste caps.

On the way to the kitchen, I walk like an orangutan through a field of bananas, swooping up yesterday's newspapers and stuffing them under my arms with crumpled notebook paper, empty cracker boxes and soft drink cans.

In the kitchen, I dispose of opened mail that is never put away, gym shoes held together by knots, yesterday's lunch bags, empty cereal boxes, assorted paper bags, bottle caps, crumpled telephone messages and pens that don't write anymore.

It's that way in every room of the house. Either no one has the strength to walk the litter to the waste can or there is an unwillingness to let anything go to that big Hefty bag in the sky. Whatever it is, I'm stuck with it.

Now you are probably asking, "Okay, that's the morning, so what do you do with your afternoons and evenings?"

Simple. I spend the rest of the day sifting through the trash and garbage cans looking for what I threw away in the mornings.

I am possibly the only woman in the country who can not only tell you what we had for dinner every night of the week, I can tell you what it looked like three days later.

Women don't know what guilt is until they pick up a house in the morning. My son failed biology because I threw away a magazine catching a leak under the bathroom sink with Euell Gibbons' picture on the cover.

My daughter will never marry because I threw away a phone number written on a piece of register tape belonging to the last tall boy in North America.

I am personally responsible for all of us freezing this winter because I pitched out the paper containing an ad for firewood at a bargain $65 a cord.

Let it be on my conscience that my husband will be on his way to a penal institution and never see his children grow up because I tossed out a SECOND NOTICE traffic ticket that he stuck in a beer can for safekeeping.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Everyone seems to dump on you, so why should I be different?

I'm a cook in a restaurant. When I see the waitresses counting up their tips at the end of the night, I boil. Why do people tip the waitresses when it is the cook who knocks himself out preparing the food, and the dishwashers do all the dirty work?

The waitresses smile a lot, wiggle their fannies, talk friendly, take the orders, carry out the trays and collect the tips. I have often wondered why nobody has ever caught on to this racket.

Will you expose it in your column, please? — Gridded in Emporia, Kan.

Dear Gridded: The waitress takes the orders all right, and she'd better get 'em straight. (One wants the liver rare, another wants the steak well done, someone else says, "Hold the spuds," and three people prefer two vegetables and no salad.)

The waitress also has to keep her eyes on all her customers to make sure everyone is happy. "More coffee?" — "Where's the catsup?" — "How about a salt-shaker that works?" — "We'd like some ice water." — "Where's my napkin?" Some of those trays weigh 25 pounds, and many waitresses do their own clearing. Also, chum, a waitress' salary doesn't compare with that of a cook or a chef. So get off the case.

Dear Ann Landers: My daughter-in-law is having an affair with a married man. The man's wife has sent me a bundle of letters written by my daughter-in-law to her husband. How she got hold of them I don't know. The letters are extremely explicit, leaving nothing to the imagination. Of course, they are unsigned, but I would recognize that handwriting any place. Also, the language is unmistakably that of my daughter-in-law.

Although no request was made, I'm certain the man's wife would like me to show the letters to my son. I feel it would be wrong of me to do this. I plan to keep my mouth shut, continue to be pleasant to my daughter-in-law and supportive of my son if he happens to learn of his wife's unfaithfulness. Should I respond to the wife? — On Tenterhooks In Ohio

Brunch Menu Highlights Sausage

CHICAGO (Special) — Just where or how the Sunday brunch originated may not be known but we can guess that it was started by a creative cook who enjoyed entertaining friends in a comfortable, casual atmosphere. This probably prompted her (or him) to set the time of this lazy "late breakfast-early lunch" meal around noon on Sunday realizing that this was very likely the most relaxed time of the week and a time when family and friends would particularly enjoy imaginative cookery and stimulating conversation.

Whatever the reason, today brunches are a happy part of the American entertaining scene and as their popularity has increased so has the quest for new and inventive menu ideas. The conventional ham and eggs have given way to more unusual recipes; often adding innovation and flair to the menu.

Sausage en Croute is a recipe meant to star at your next brunch. Created by Pepperidge Farm to introduce their new, frozen puff pastry sheets, Sausage en Croute is a combination of pork sausage, onion and green pepper gently sautéed then mixed with diced tomatoes and Swiss Cheese. This mixture is spread on a thawed sheet of pastry then rolled jelly-roll style and baked. The result is feather-light layers of golden pastry surrounding the sausage combination.

Because the pastry can be bought frozen and ready for use, Sausage en Croute is easy to prepare and the idea is different and intriguing.

SAUSAGE EN CROUTE
1 sheet frozen "bake it fresh" puff pastry
1 lb. pork sausage
1/2 cup chopped onion

Simply suggest that your wife see her doctor and get on a strict diet. It will make her feel better about herself. When she sees her high school chums, she takes your advice, hooray! If the doctor keeps your trap shut and act proud of her anyway. (P.S. I assume you are bulk like Kirk Douglas.)

1/3 cup chopped green pepper
1 large tomato, diced
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
3 lbs. chopped parsley
Thaw puff pastry sheet 20 minutes.
Meanwhile, in a skillet, brown sausage stirring to break into bits. Add onion and green pepper and cook until tender. Remove from heat and pour off drippings. Add tomato, cheese and parsley. Unfold and roll out pastry on lightly floured board to 14 to 10 inch rectangle. Transfer to baking sheet lined with brown paper. Spread sausage mixture on paste, roll up from long side jelly roll fashion. Pinch edges to seal. Form into circle, pinching together. Cut 2/3 way through roll at 1/2 inch intervals and turn pieces up with cut side showing. Bake at 425 degrees for 20 minutes or until golden.
Make 6 to 8 servings.

as opening bidder is to bid the suit below the singleton in order to save room in the auction. North realized after South had bid three suits that his 10 high-card points were all golden and decided to jump to the diamond game, an action that was certainly justified.

West woodenly led his ace of hearts and the hand could no longer be defeated. He switched to a trump at the second trick, but declarer was in control. South cashed his four black suit winners and scored six more diamond tricks by a cross-ruff.

If West had led a trump at trick one, which he should have realized was the right lead from the bidding, declarer would go down. South could still ruff two of his losers in dummy. But before he could ruff his third black suit loser, he would have to lead a heart as there was no quick entry to his hand. This would give the defense the chance to lead a devastating second round of trumps. South would be stranded with the two black suit losers as well as the heart loser.

The original heart lead effectively established communication between declarer and dummy for the cross-ruff. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Without an auction, if the West hand were given to 100 players on lead against a five-diamond contract all of them would lead a high heart. However, auctions are revealing. If West had drawn the proper inference from the diagrammed auction, he would have had an excellent idea of declarer's distribution. Then he could have found the killing lead.

South's bidding shows a three-suited hand of either 4-1-4 or 4-0-5-4 distribution. The modern tendency when holding three four-card suits

To Your Good Health

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.
Dear Dr. Donohue: I had a yearly checkup. As the doctor listened to my heart, he said, "I would like you to have an x-ray of the arteries to the heart." He said it is an injection of dye. Can you tell me about this x-ray, and how serious it is? How did he know I needed this just by listening? —Mrs. B.S.

Your doctor's advice was based on more than just listening to your heart sounds. He based it on your complaints to him, your previous examinations, your ECG readings and your general physical examination.

X-rays of the arteries leading to the heart are called "coronary arteriograms." They can detect any significant narrowing of those vessels. If there is narrowing it may be possible to remove the sections and replace them.

For this test, a small plastic tube (catheter) is threaded into an artery in the arm or leg. This passes along toward its opening into the larger vessel leading directly to the heart itself. At this point dye is "squirted" out and x-rays are taken. If the artery is blocked, the dye will not enter that vessel. I and thus will not show up on x-rays. Heart specialists and radiologists are skilled in reading and interpreting coronary arteriograms.

Coronary arteriography has been done for many years, and is performed daily in hospitals throughout the country. The risk of complications is small and might depend on many factors — age, severity of illness, etc. All procedures in medicine carry some risk. Undiagnosed heart disease poses much greater risks than arteriography.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Could you please tell me why a 13-year-old boy would have a black tongue? —Mrs. E.N.

Black tongue is quite often due to lengthening of the taste buds (papillae) on the tongues outer surface. The tongue may also appear blackened after extensive use of antibiotics, which may permit certain harmless fungi to grow there. It usually is of no significance and indicates no underlying illness.

Brushing the tongue gently with a soft-bristled toothbrush might help. The condition is often chronic.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I had a baby five months ago and have not menstruated yet. Would you inform me as to what is causing this absence of menstruation? My doctor wants me to see an endocrinologist. What does this doctor specialize in? —J.G.

Menstruation should begin by about eight weeks after childbirth if you are not nursing your baby. An endocrinologist is a doctor who specializes in the diagnosis and treatment of glands that make hormones — the endocrine glands.

Since the ovary makes female hormones it can be considered an endocrine gland. Its hormones are responsible for the menstrual cycle. However, its work is under the control of the "quarterback gland" — the pituitary. Endocrinologists are specially trained in unraveling the chains of events that can lead to such phenomena as your lack of menstruation.

Dear Dr. Donohue: This is not exactly a medical thing except that it might apply for a lot of folks who write you about itches of various kinds. This is what I found to be a cause of continuous itching — an ironing board. In some, there is a stuffing that can cause an itch if it comes in contact with the skin. If some of the covering is torn and some of the inside material gets out onto the board it can be transferred to clothing being ironed, like blouses, shirts, etc. When I corrected the problem my family's itching disappeared. Just a tip you might find worthwhile passing on. —A Reader.

Thanks.
Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been treated for hypertension for the past 10 years. My dilemma: When my reading is taken by my son-in-law, who is a gynecologist, it varies between 130/70 and 140/80. When I go in to my regular doctor for my checkup he says it is 160/90. This has occurred in at least three visits. Is my doctor's office reading due to temporary stress? —V.X.A.

Yes, the discrepancy may be due to the stress of visiting the doctor. Why not make a record of your son-in-law's readings? Your doctor will check those as reflecting your true blood pressure.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I would like to know (1) if having sexual intercourse helps hot flashes due to the change of

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: A senior citizens club started a singing group — 22 voices, male and female. We practiced until we thought we were almost perfect.

Now we go to neighboring nursing homes at least once a month. You should see their faces when we sing — and hear them sing along with us!

It is an extra special treat for us too as we all are senior citizens but more fortunate than those we sing for in the nursing homes.

Some senior citizens clubs, join the fun. You'll be surprised at how good an amateur singer you can be after a little practice! Besides, think of the wonder you'd be doing helping nursing home patients have fun. Ours look forward to our coming a week before — and talk about our sing-song for a week after we leave.

A senior sing-along! — Mrs. Jeanette Thiede

Jeanette, you've got me singing too — singing the praises of your senior citizens group. Bless you for hitting the right note in caring and a caring. It's what makes our wonderful world go round. — Love, Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

After opening a box of cough drops, put them in a covered glass jar or pill box and they won't stick together — A Reader.

DEAR HELOISE:

I have a problem that I've been trying to figure out for years to no avail. Perhaps you know the answer.

When I cook spaghetti, I always cook the sauce down until it is waxy thick. And I drain the spaghetti well.

PROBLEM: What in the world causes the water mess on the plate under all the good stuff?

When making stuffed bell peppers, I make a tomato sauce mixture to spoon over them, again cooking the sauce until thick and there's no moisture in the peppers as they are baked.

But here I go again with "red water" on the plate. Can you help me out with this one? — Jo Ann

I can hazard a guess at what's watering down your spaghetti and stuffed pepper plates.

In both cases, it could be the sauce! It's not enough to cook it until thick. Know what you also have to do? Give that sauce a good stir before spooning it on. That's to mix in any water that hasn't been absorbed. Try this and your problem should vanish.

And, another thing, you can drain spaghetti 'til the cows come home but you won't get out every last drop of water unless you keep shaking that colander.

So shake, rattle, and only then roll that spaghetti around your fork! — Hugs, Heloise.

DEAR HELOISE:

I want to share with all of your readers a new use I've found for my new automatic drip coffeemaker.

Maybe it will be of help for big family dinners.

We had a group of people over for a buffet, and everyone was eating at different times.

My electric roaster was full, so was the slow cooker pot. Trying to figure out how to keep the gravy warm, I spied the empty coffeemaker sitting there.

I put the gravy in the carafe and placed it on the warmer plate, turning the setting to "warm."

The gravy stayed piping hot and the carafe acted as a gravy boat. No cold gravy for the hot dressing! — Betty W.

Fantastic! That's a new one on me... but, with such a large crowd, how in the world did you get by without having to put "coffee" in that pot?

Thanks for plugging us in to another way of making do with what we have. — Hugs, Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

While playing beauty shop, my daughter, 5, decided to use water for hair spray.

She took the sprayer off an empty plastic liquid soap bottle I use for misting my plants and put it on an empty one-liter plastic pop bottle filled with water. The sprayer really worked.

I thought this was a pretty good idea, so I put a plastic straw on the end of the sprayer tube so the tube would reach to the bottom of the bottle.

Now, when misting my plants, the bottle is so large I don't have to make extra trips to the sink to refill it — one fill-up does it — with leftover water for next time.

My daughter sure came up with a time-saver. — Wendy Busch

She sure did. What a smartie! You too for turning her idea to your advantage. — Heloise

HINTS FROM HIM

DEAR HELOISE: This is a bachelor's idea for cleaning those baseball caps that implement and seed dealers give away.

Shame on you if you have a great household hint you haven't shared with Heloise. Send it to her today, 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017. Sorry she can't answer your letter but she will use the niftiest, thriftiest hints received in her column.

Barrier Request May Be Taken To City Council

By NANCY ALLEN
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Construction of a barrier to prevent a west Lubbock resident's house from being struck by speeding motorists is a problem the City Council should decide, agreed Citizens Traffic Commission members Tuesday.

Ron Modawell said his house, located at a "T" intersection at 82nd Street and Brentwood Avenue, was in danger of being struck by drivers running a stop sign in direct line with his home.

Modawell's 8016 Brentwood residence was struck by a vehicle traveling north on Chicago Avenue at 2:45 a.m. Dec. 8, he told commissioners. He requested that a barrier be built to protect his home.

But commissioners said Modawell's best bet would be to take the issue before the City Council.

"I don't see where the CTC can help," said commission member Harry Eastus. "We deal with problems of traffic flow; this is a construction problem."

Modawell told commissioners he requested the barrier because he "felt like the city created the hazard (and so) should provide protection."

His house has been there some three and a half years, he explained, while the "T" intersection was constructed last summer.

Commissioners agreed their standby recommendation of increased police enforcement in the problem area would have no effect in Modawell's situation.

Because a stop sign already is in place at the south side of Chicago Avenue, which is directly in line with Modawell's house, they also could not move to install signalization.

The stop sign apparently was ignored by the phantom driver who hit the house last month.

City Traffic Engineer Bill McDaniel provided a list of four other homeowners in much the same position as Modawell, and commissioners suggested he contact them to design a joint strategy for approaching the council.

Modawell said he has installed four cropped-off utility poles in his front yard as a makeshift barrier, but he does not believe they will withstand another vehicle assault.

He said he had in mind a "two-and-a-half to three-foot concrete barrier like the one the city installed at Sixth Street and Avenue K.

"It looks like the city can do what it wants to," he said referring to the Sixth and K barrier. "Where did the money come from to build that barrier?"

Declining further support, commissioners agreed Modawell has "a hazardous situation and you need something to prevent it."

In other business, CTC members authorized a letter of commendation to the mayor and police department for their respective roles in the Selective Traffic Enforcement Program, which is credited for a 46 percent drop in fatal accidents citywide during 1979, and a 10 percent reduction in total accidents for the calendar year.

Confidence In City's Desegregation Plans Continues To Grow

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Confidence in the city's public school desegregation plan continues to grow, say school officials who report that almost one-third of the white students bused the first semester this year have rejected the option of returning to their home schools the remainder of the year.

Administrators are encouraged by the increased numbers, but the logistics of providing transportation for all the students could prove a problem, says the director of transportation.

On Jan. 22, majority schools involved in the plan will initiate the mid-year busing switchover, when students not bused during the first semester will be transported the second half of the year.

The first semester students in specific grades whose last names end with A-L were transported to their crosstown "sister" school, while students whose last names begin with M-Z will be bused the second semester.

But 365 of the 1,102 students bused the first part of this school year have chosen to take advantage of the option that allows them to remain the second semester at their crosstown school.

About seven percent more students this year elected to continue being transported than last year, when 271 of 1,023 students bused maintained the option.

"I think this is a positive indicator for our plan," said Dr. E.C. Leslie, assistant superintendent for administration. "It's a confidence vote from people who've been over there (at crosstown schools) awhile."

The total number of students who will be bused next semester will really only increase by 125, even with the 365 optional students added, because there are about 240 less students in the M-Z half of the alphabet than in the first half.

Still, some rerouting and addition of buses may be required to deal with the increased numbers.

Leslie said, "We may have to look at some bus routes to make sure we can take care of them" from schools that include Bowie, Brown, Hardwick, Haynes and Wheelock elementaries.

Williams, with 42 optional students and Parsons, with 86 optional students, had the greatest number of youngsters who elected to continue being bused, but Leslie said the current busing plan for those schools will probably be adequate to handle the additional numbers.

Robert Miller, director of transportation for the school district, said that the change "will be pretty difficult," especially since there is a shortage of buses in the district. "We don't have spare buses waiting to be filled into slots where we need additional buses."

Miller said he has looked at the figures indicating additional students to be bused, but has not yet worked out a revised transportation plan.

Leslie said there was "no real problem" handling the 75 additional students who were bused the second semester of the 1978-79 school year.

However, he said there could be some transferring of teachers in order to handle the extra number of students at some schools. He called the transferring of teachers a "negative factor," but "if 20 kids want to stay at a school, we may need some more teachers."

He added that many times administrators will not make such a change until after the students actually show up in class, because some may decide at the last minute to back out of their decision to stay.

For the students who do elect to switch schools, the change can be a rough one, school officials acknowledge. "It's a rough transition period for kids, and we have to go all out to make it as smooth as possible," said Ed Stokes, director of elementary education.

School personnel try to facilitate that smooth transition by providing new teachers with a variety of the students' records and academic evaluations. Teachers, particularly resource instructors, are encouraged to contact each other about the students to evaluate their problems and performance.

Leslie said an additional aid to a smooth change this year will be a workday for elementary teachers the day before the second semester begins. "It will give time for records to be transferred and it will be an opportunity for teachers to contact other teachers," he said.

For the students who elect to stay at their "sister" school all year, advantages can outweigh the inconvenience of being transported across town, said Leslie. "There are some real educational advantages to being in the same setting a full year and not having to change teachers." He added that students who switch at mid-year can suffer a "certain loss of continuity."

Stokes said that parents and students "get comfortable" with a teacher and are reluctant to make a change. He said the desire to maintain a sense of continuity "takes priority when it comes down to the nitty gritty, even for parents who oppose busing in principle."

Nursing Home Officials Split On Funding Rule

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock nursing home administrators have mixed feelings about a recent action by the Texas Department of Human Resources that will stop state payments for nursing home care for elderly persons with only minor medical needs.

Some nursing home officials say they favor the move, but others say it could be detrimental to the elderly.

The change, which becomes effective March 1, will not affect approximately 18,000 patients already in the minimal-care category in Texas nursing homes. However, the new rules will make it more difficult for elderly persons who receive Medicaid to be admitted to nursing homes unless they have serious medical problems.

TDHR officials said the change probably will force more senior citizens to stay in their own homes or the homes of relatives, and to use visiting medical or housekeeping services. Quentin Woomer, head of medical services for TDHR, said the state will pay the bill for alternate in-home care if a doctor prescribes it.

Among those in favor of the TDHR action is Lois Harp, administrator for Francis Hospitality House. According to Mrs. Harp, there are some elderly persons who could be cared for outside a nursing home.

"Nursing home patients should be individuals who need nursing home care," Mrs. Harp commented. She said those who should be admitted to nursing home facilities are persons requiring the care of a licensed nurse.

One problem, Mrs. Harp said, is the lack of minimal care nursing homes in Lubbock. She feels there may be a need for this type of facility.

Betty Pospisil, owner and co-administrator at Golden Age Nursing Home, is one of those opposed to the change. "I think there's going to be a lot more neglected elderly people," Mrs. Pospisil said. "I don't think this is the solution."

Mrs. Pospisil expressed concern that this action will result in more elderly persons turning to unlicensed homes for their care. Under state law, she said, an unlicensed home can provide care for up to three individuals. However, an investigation conducted in the Lubbock area several years ago turned up 17 persons in one unlicensed facility.

Nursing home officials probably will become more cautious about whom they admit, noted Sarah Rice, administrator at Colonial Nursing Home.

According to Mrs. Rice, many nursing homes may require that the state establish a level of care for a patient before he is admitted as a Medicaid patient. She said it often takes several weeks for an individual's level of care to be set, which is likely to leave some patients in limbo for a period.

Bobby Ebeling, TDHR assistant regional director for medical services, said the state agency isn't requiring that a patient's level of care be established prior to admittance to a nursing home. However, he said, the nursing homes probably will make this requirement themselves.

Corporations Asked To Save Ailing Detroit Hotel

DETROIT (AP) — First it was the Chrysler Corp. that needed a bail-out. Now a downtown hotel crucial to plans for the Republican National Convention is failing, and among the corporations being asked to help save it are General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co.

The downtown hotel is losing $200,000 a month because of lack of business and has stayed open thanks to a $300,000 loan from the Detroit Economic Growth Corp. Officials from the group estimate an additional $1 million is needed to operate the hotel until summer convention business picks up.

The hotel is slated to supply 875 of the 14,206 hotel rooms committed to the GOP convention. The Radisson is one of the few hotels in the city large enough to accommodate major state delegations and is within walking distance of the convention hall, Joe Louis Arena. The hotel also probably will house one or more of the presidential candidates.

Meanwhile, Republican National Committee members in Washington considered Tuesday that they would consider switching the convention site should the hotel close. A published report in the Detroit Free Press quoted an unidentified GOP official in Washington as saying his party would take another look at Detroit as the site if the hotel went out of business.

million to operate the hotel until the summer as well as assume its $2.6 million mortgage and $6 million federal loan.

James Schaffer, vice-president of the Economic Growth Corp., said the companies would have considered bailing out the hotel even if there was no Republican convention in Detroit this summer.

He said the companies are concerned because the Radisson is a key element of Detroit's downtown renewal and important to the future of the city's convention industry.

Not expected to participate in the plan to save the hotel is the nation's third-largest automaker, the Chrysler Corp., which itself was threatened with financial collapse until the federal government came to the rescue. President Carter on Monday signed legislation granting Chrysler $1.5 billion in loan guarantees.

FAILING HOTEL POSES PROBLEM FOR CONVENTION — Executives from General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co., Burroughs Corp. and other businesses will meet Thursday to consider buying the failing Radisson Cadillac Hotel that has committed almost 900 rooms to this summer's GOP convention in Detroit. The Radisson is one of the few hotels in the city large enough to accommodate major state delegations and is within walking distance to the convention hall and Joe Louis Arena complex. New Brain Discoveries May Improve Memory

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Recent dramatic discoveries about the human brain are generating research that may result in improved memory, a cure for old age symptoms and more complex computers, says a California neuroscientist.

Richard F. Thompson of the University of California-Irvine said the premier discovery of the past decade involves a family of chemicals first represented by endorphins, substances almost exactly like morphine that are produced in the brain.

About 20 of these brain peptides have been identified and there are probably many more, Thompson said. In most cases, their precise functions can only be guessed at.

Endorphins act on the brain's pain and reward center, blocking pain and perhaps providing pleasure. Thompson said they may also be involved somehow in perhaps the biggest mystery of the brain: the incredible process of learning and memory.

"Events that are associated with either unusual pleasure or pain are stamped in the memory better," he said.

UTSPEAKER NAMED
AUSTIN (AP) — Dr. Norman Hackerman, president of Rice University, will be the 1980 commencement speaker at the University of Texas May 17. Hackerman was on the UT faculty for 25 years and was UT president from 1967 to 1970 prior to accepting the Rice presidency. He is chairman of the National Science Board and president of the Independent Colleges and Universities of Texas.

"It may well be that endorphins... create a situation in the brain where memory is established more rapidly and better."

Thompson commented in an interview at the American Association for the Advancement of Science's annual meeting, which ended Tuesday.

Thompson said mounting evidence also suggests that a part of the brain called the hippocampus has a major role in memory.

Thompson said he has shown that an animal's ability to learn increases with the level of activity in the hippocampus, raising the possibility of smart pills "that could make you remember better. We haven't even begun to approach anything like this, but I think there's no question it's going to happen."

Another area with exciting promise is the mapping of "the wiring diagram — learning how the brain is hooked together" to produce such things as language and thought, he said.

If the brain's wiring were fully understood, he said, it could be copied to "build a computer that would be far different from anything we've got today — a computer that's very much like the human brain, only a hell of a lot smarter."

Thompson said the process of aging "involves changes in the brain. Many of these changes may just be the gradual depletion of certain transmitter systems which could be bolstered by giving a substance externally," if the process were better understood.

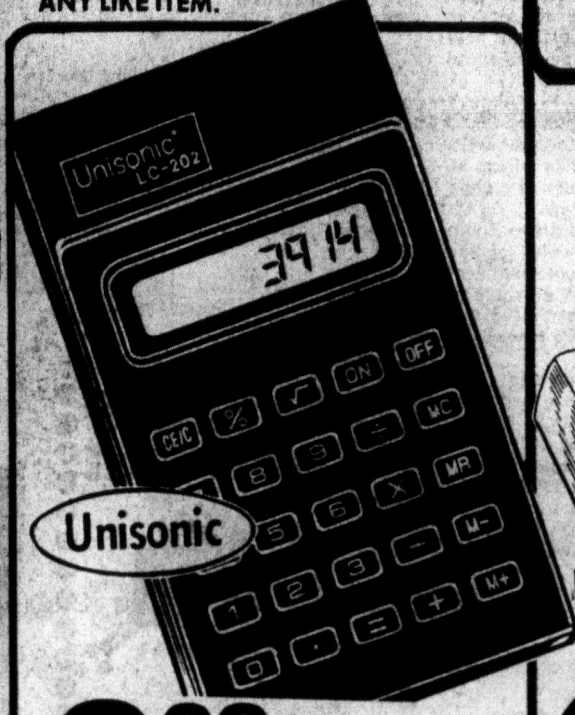

He said other implications of neuroscience, including treatments for a huge assortment of mental illnesses and diseases involving the nervous system, are almost as mind-boggling.

CBS Closing Gap With ABC In Season's Television Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — With or without a boost from the pro football playoffs, CBS finished first in the networks' prime-time ratings race for the third week in a row, and cut ABC's lead for the season so far to half a point or less.

CBS had the five highest-rated shows for the week ending Jan. 6 if you count the National Football Conference playoff and the post-game show, and the top three if you don't. If the game and the post-game show aren't included, CBS' "60 Minutes" is the week's No. 1 program, followed by "Dallas" and "Alice."

The A.C. Nielsen Co. provides the ratings on prime-time shows, and the networks themselves calculate the weekly averages. CBS and NBC included the sports programming, which began before the start of prime-time at 7 p.m. Sunday, while ABC chose to ignore the football.

In each case, CBS finished the week with a rating of 20.2 to 19.7 for runnerup NBC. ABC's rating ranged from 18.8 — CBS' figure — to 19.1 — ABC's.

The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 20.2 percent of the homes in the country with television were tuned to

CBS.

The rating for the football post-game show, No. 1 for the week with the runner-up portion of game between Los Angeles and Tampa Bay second, was 35.5, with "60 Minutes" third at 32.5. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television, 35.5 percent saw the sports program, and 32.5 percent watched at least part of the newsmagazine.

CBS' now has won the weekly competition six times in the last eight weeks. NBC's second place finish was, by the way, its highest ranking since the week ending Nov. 25.

Both CBS and NBC maintain ABC's lead for the season so far is two-tenths of a ratings point — 19.3 to 19.1. ABC says the margin is greater, 19.4 to 18.9.

In any case, CBS has steadily chipped away at the lead built by ABC in the early part of the season.

NBC scored in the most recent Nielsen survey with the Orange Bowl football game between Oklahoma and Florida State, No. 8, and the three-hour premiere of its newest dramatic series, "Skag," finished 19th.

CBS scored, meanwhile, with a new series of its own, "Knots Landing." The premiere episode in the series, a loose spinoff from CBS' successful "Dallas," was 14th in the ratings.

The week's five lowest-rated shows included two news programs — NBC's "Prime Time Sunday" in 58th place and a CBS News special, "The Energy Crunch," 59th — and three movies — "Stunts Unlimited" on ABC, No. 60, "Orca" on CBS, No. 61, and "The Master Gunfighter" on ABC, No. 62.

Here are the week's 10 highest-rated shows.

NFL Championship Post-Game, with a rating of 35.5 representing 27.1 million homes, NFL Championship Game, 33.3 or 25.4 million, "60 Minutes," 32.5 or 24.8 million, "Dallas," 27 or 20.6 million, and "Alice," 26 or 19.8 million, all CBS; "Eight is Enough," 25.8 or 19.7 million, ABC; "Dukes of Hazzard," 25.7 or 19.6 million, CBS; Orange Bowl, 25.1 or 19.2 million, NBC, and "Three's Company," 24.7 or 18.8 million, and "Mork and Mindy," 24.3 or 18.5 million, both ABC.

The next 10 programs:

"Benson," ABC; "The Jeffersons," CBS; "Fantasy Island," ABC, and "Knots Landing," CBS, tie; "Barney Miller," ABC; "Taxi," ABC, and "Real People," NBC, tie; "Charlie's Angels," ABC, and "Skag," NBC, tie, and "S Sinatra: The First 40 Years," NBC.

Gas Cap Incident Costly To Worker

HOUSTON (AP) — District Attorney John Holmes says an auto gasoline tank cap has cost an assistant his job.

Holmes said he fired David Castro after the assistant prosecutor was alleged to have taken a $12 tank cap from a parked vehicle. Holmes said the owner of the car chose not to press charges.

Several people saw the cap being taken, copied down a license number, and left it for the owner. The license was traced to Castro.

The witnesses identified Castro when shown a series of photographs by district attorney's investigator, Holmes' office said.

Holmes said Castro, an assistant about a year, was a "diligent, hard worker."

'Gunsmoke' Replacing CBS Late Movie Fare

The CBS Late Movie, which has experienced a gradual drop in ratings, is being replaced by KLBK TV with "Gunsmoke," the longest running western drama on network television.

The popularity of the CBS Late Movie "has been slipping very slightly the last several years," said Bill Blann, programming director at the Lubbock station. "It finally slipped to a point that we just had to sit down and look at the situation."

Blann said the previous late night programming "just wasn't doing what it was supposed to do as far as competing with other stations," when KLBK programmers opted to fill the 10:30 p.m. time slot with "Gunsmoke."

Following the western drama, the 10 p.m. Channel 13 newscast is being re-run before the station signs off. Blann explained, although the station is considering adding more programming later "after we see what the reaction is to 'Gunsmoke'."

The western previously was being aired from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, but because some Channel 13 viewers complained that they could not see the show at that time, the program was used to replace the faltering late night double feature.

"Gunsmoke" will be aired at that time seven days a week.

The new weekday afternoon schedule for KLBK TV beginning at 3:30 p.m. includes the original "Lassie" series, "Gomer Pyle," the original "Real McCoys," and the 5 p.m. airing of "Hogan's Heroes."

Singers Being Sued For Unpaid Bills

RENO (AP) — Harrah's is suing singers Frank Sinatra Jr., B.J. Thomas and Fabian Forte for allegedly not paying their bills at the hotel's clubs in Reno and at Lake Tahoe.

The suit accuses Sinatra of incurring $4,556 in hotel, restaurant and telephone expenses in 1976 and 1977, of which he has repaid $691.

Thomas allegedly owes $3,982 from 1977 expenses at Harrah's clubs in Reno and Lake Tahoe.

Forte, who performs under the name Fabian, allegedly owes a total of $2,858 to the two Harrah's locations from 1977 stays.

HEAD COUNT

The World Bank projects that by the year 2000 some 40 Third World cities will have more than 3 million inhabitants, compared with 12 such cities in the industrialized countries. About 18 of the 40 cities are each expected to have more than 10 million people, while the population of Mexico City at the time may exceed 30 million.

Guitar-Picking Farmer To Be Featured In Show Here

REX THOMAS

When Rex Thomas left Acuff and took up farming with his new bride in Lamesa, he considered himself pretty much just a guitar player. He began guitar lessons at age 2 and had stayed with the instrument throughout the years.

However, some new friends from Klondike, southwest of Lamesa, showed Thomas he had a chance to sing. Saturday Thomas will bring his guitar and songs back to Lubbock and delight new audiences at the KLLL West Texas Saturday Night Opry.

Cosponsored by Don Caldwell Studios, the event will begin at 8 p.m. in the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

In his early years, Thomas became enchanted with the guitar and music from an uncle he admired. Later, in Acuff, Thomas was a close friend of the Maines Brothers, regulars on the opry, and on occasion has performed with them.

Thomas recently recorded a single at Caldwell Studios. Soon to be released in the Lubbock area, it is called "First Forget." Thomas said he will probably sing "First Forget" and "Was It All Worth Losing You?" for his opry performance. Asked if he would like the record to take off and be an overnight success, he said, "I think everyone who has recorded records has a dream; I don't expect to make it but I think about it. As far as that being my goal or ambition, it's not. I put this record out for myself just to say that I've cut a record, but if it's good enough in its sales, then I might do something with it."

Thomas said he's played mostly for pure enjoyment and audiences came as an afterthought. But the opry audience will be a new experience for him. "I'm looking forward to it," the 25-year-farmer said.

Thomas said his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.H. "Punk" Thomas, who reside in Acuff, are proud of his new success and upcoming appearance at the opry.

Joining Thomas on the opry stage will be Jim Gullingim, Don Caldwell, Cecil Caldwell, Tommie Anderson, David House and Zeldia Ellison.

Making special appearances will be Curley Lawler and Buzz and Jewette James, featuring Bob Wills music and South Plains Bluegrass.

In addition, newcomers Wesley Putnam, Charles Terry and 13-year-old Michele Mason will highlight the family show.

Topping off the opry will be the Opry

Stage Band, the Maines Brothers Band and Steve Sever of KLLL serving as master of ceremonies.

Tickets are available at Luskey's Western Store and two locations of Flipside Records, 34th Street and Flint Avenue and Town and Country Shopping Center.

'Kramer Vs. Kramer' Possibly In Line For Sweep Of Awards

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Kramer vs. Kramer," an emotional drama of a couple's custody fight for their small son, dominated the nominations for the 37th Golden Globe Awards Tuesday.

The Hollywood Foreign Press Association Awards, which will be presented Jan. 26, often are a bellwether for the later Academy Awards. Early sentiment has indicated a sweep for "Kramer vs. Kramer."

The Columbia picture, which was nominated for best dramatic film, also was recognized for best actor, Dustin Hoffman; supporting actress, Jane Alexander and Meryl Streep; supporting actor, Justin Henry (also nominated as New Star of the Year); and for its director-writer, Robert Benton.

The Golden Globes, unlike the Oscars, are divided into categories of drama and comedy-musical. The major nominations follow:

Shirley MacLaine, "Being There"; Bette Midler, "The Rose."

COMPLETE STOCKS LIST NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

Mart Posts Broad Gain

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market broke aside its worries over tensions in Afghanistan and Iran Tuesday, turning to reports indicating hidden strength in the U.S. economy and surging to its largest gain in more than a year.

With New York Stock Exchange advances holding a nearly 4-1 lead over declines, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials soared 19.72 points to 851.71. It was the largest advance in average since it jumped 34.34 points on Nov. 1, 1978.

Analyst William Lefevre of Granger & Co. commented the market witnessed "an explosion on the up-side" in the trading session's closing minutes as institutional buyers flocked to "higher-quality issues."

NYSE volume built to 53.39 million shares from Monday's 44.50 million in the busiest day since Oct. 10, when 81.62 million shares changed hands.

U.S. Steel jumped 2 1/4 to 21 amid speculation deteriorating U.S.-Soviet relations will lead to higher defense spending. Other steel issues also rose, with Bethlehem Steel up 2 1/4 at 24 1/4 and LTV up 1 1/2.

Among defense issues, Lockheed, which said it is developing a new transport aircraft, rose 3 to 43 1/4.

New York (AP)—Tuesday's national prices for New York Stock Exchange issues as NYSE close. Prices and volume consolidated for securities also traded on other markets.

November Consumer Debt Hike Of $2.4 Billion Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's consumers increased their debt by $2.4 billion in November, up slightly from October but well below the borrowing pace of earlier months, the Federal Reserve Board reported Tuesday.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department's chief economist predicted that the United States "must expect to experience a recession" in 1980, mainly because of the rapid rise in world oil prices.

In remarks for a Richmond, Va., marketing meeting, economist Courtney M. Slater also said the nation's economy probably grew at an annual rate of 2 percent to 3 percent in the final three months of 1979.

"This positive rate of growth would be contrary to the forecasts of many observers, who had expected the onset of a recession in the fourth quarter," said a Commerce Department statement that accompanied Mrs. Slater's remarks.

The Federal Reserve Board report showed that the value of new installment loans fell 4.4 percent to $26.5 billion in November. But repayments also dropped, with the $24.1 billion total for November standing 5.7 percent below the October level

Government Announces Boost Of Wheat, Corn

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration on Tuesday announced a boost in government support rates for wheat and corn, saying the increase completes administration actions aimed at softening the blow on farmers from the loss of huge grain sales to the Soviet Union.

Eligible wheat farmers had their support prices raised to $2.50 a bushel to $2.10 from $2 a bushel.

Meanwhile, the federal government cleared the way for grain trading to resume Wednesday, saying investors have had enough time to assess the impact of President Carter's limit on Russian grain shipments.

The price support action was criticized immediately by Rep. Thomas S. Foley, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee. He called the increases "totally inadequate to offer farmers reasonable protection" from market price declines.

The price support rates reflect the amount of money farmers can borrow from the government by using their crops as collateral. They have the option of repaying the loans later on and selling their grain or, if prices are severely depressed, letting the government assume ownership of the commodities in lieu of repayment.

Deputy Agriculture Secretary Jim Williams told a news conference the price support increases completed all the actions planned now by the administration to help farmers recover from Carter's action halting the sale of 17 million metric tons of grain to the Soviets this year.

Earlier this week, it was announced the government would buy nearly 14 million metric tons of corn and wheat already bought by 22 exporting countries for shipment to the Soviets.

The total cost of the grain purchases, plus the higher support prices would mean a net cost to the taxpayer of $2.5 billion to $3 billion, Williams said. About $2 billion of that is expected to be in the current budget year.

Trading in the commodities affected by the partial grain embargo — primarily corn and wheat — was scheduled to resume Wednesday at four exchanges in Chicago, Minneapolis and Kansas City after a two-day suspension. Grain trade analysts predicted lower prices when the exchanges open, and some said Carter's order will unsettle the market for weeks to come.

In announcing the resumption of trade, James M. Stone, chairman of the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, said the four-member commission still is ready to intervene should market conditions make it necessary.

But for the time being, he said, "market participants have had time to assess the impact of the embargo ... (and) on the basis of the facts before us now no necessary purpose would be served by a further suspension of trading."

The suspension in trading was ordered Sunday to give the government time to explain its actions aimed at offsetting some of the embargo's impact and to allow traders a cooling off period. The action involved only the futures market, but cash traders quickly pulled back from making any purchases without having the futures market as a guide.

Futures are speculative investments in commodities to be delivered at a later time. Trading last week on the Chicago Board of Trade, for example, involved corn and wheat shipments to be delivered in March.

The president announced the partial embargo of shipments to the Soviet Union on Friday night in response to the Soviet's military intervention in Afghanistan. At the time, wheat and corn prices already were on the decline because of the unrest involving the Soviets and the fear of possible labor disputes involving dockworkers, analysts said.

One Chicago analyst, Conrad Leslie, said he expects grain prices to drop about 5 percent when trading resumes, but that prices may rally later in the week as details of the government's program are made clearer.

"We don't know the complete rules yet," said another grain trade analyst.

Wheat futures were selling at $4.45 a bushel and corn futures at $2.84 a bushel at the close of business Friday on the Chicago exchange. The other grain trading centers are the Minneapolis Grain Exchange, the Kansas City Board of Trade and the Mid-America Commodity Exchange in Chicago.

Licensing For Russian Export To Be Expanded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration Tuesday moved to put future agricultural exports to the Soviet Union under licensing controls and to suspend licensing of high-technology items to that nation.

The decision on the high-technology items — from computers to oil rigs and electronic components — could affect the sale of more than $155 million in U.S.-manufactured goods for which export license applications are pending, Commerce Department officials said at a news briefing.

The actions were taken in the wake of President Carter's announcement Friday that he was halting or suspending some trade activities to express the United States' displeasure with the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.

"This action reflects our concern over the impact which the Soviet aggression in Afghanistan has had on the national security and foreign policy interests of the United States," Commerce Secretary Philip M. Klutznick said in a statement.

He added, "Diplomatic efforts will continue in an effort to insure that the restraints imposed on the shipment of U.S. goods by the president are not offset by expanded sales to the Soviet Union by other nations."

Special licenses — documents giving an exporter U.S. government permission to send his goods overseas — had not been required for agricultural exports.

Donald A. Furtado, acting undersecretary of commerce for international trade, said the licenses would be issued for the roughly 3.5 million metric tons of wheat and corn that the United States remains obligated to ship to the Soviets under a 1975 agreement. A metric ton equals about 2,200 pounds.

The Soviets already have been shipped about 4.5 million tons of grain under the agreement.

Meanwhile, the administration is making arrangements to buy from American farmers and exporters an additional 17 million metric tons of grain the Soviets had hoped to obtain to make up for their own poor harvests.

Furtado added that any grain shipment that was being loaded as of 11:59 p.m. EST Monday and would clear U.S. ports within 48 hours could do so without need for one of the new licenses.

The special licenses will be required for future grain shipments and shipments involving other agricultural products, which in the past have included small amounts of tallow, hops, lemons, peanuts and cattle hides.

High-technology items such as computers, oil and gas drilling equipment and the like had required licenses.

Furtado said no new ones for shipments to the Soviet Union would be issued during a review of U.S. export policy.

He was unable to say how long the review would take.

Furtado added that the review could result in the revocation of licenses previously granted by the Commerce Department.

Department officials said that 742 licenses covering high-technology and other security products valued at $249 million had been issued since Jan. 19, 1979.

Applications for 494 licenses for goods valued at about $155 million are pending, they added.

They said they were unable to determine what products were involved because of problems with department computers.

The Commerce Department acted on the president's orders, which read in part: "I am taking this action in the national security and foreign policy interests of the United States. I have determined in accordance with the Export Administration Act that the absence of controls would be detrimental to those interests and that alternative courses of action would not comparably advance them."

According to Commerce Department figures, U.S. exports to the Soviet Union were valued at about $3.4 billion in 1979.

Of that amount, $2.6 billion involved agricultural commodities. About one-third of the roughly $600 million in manufactured goods exports could be classified as high technology, the department said.

Imports from the Soviet Union last year totaled about $700 million, the agency said.

Taxidermist Stays Busy Here

Exactng Art In Demand By Successful Sportsmen

By TED J. SIMON
A-J Outdoor Editor

The pheasant hunter ticked off his list of equipment for the outing he hoped would produce a beautiful trophy. His hunting license and landowner letter of permission were secure, boots properly conditioned, shotgun cleaned, two boxes of shells and a pair of his wife's nylon stockings in the hunting jacket.

That's correct — female hosiery! The feminine apparel had been suggested by a taxidermist, when the hunter said the outing might produce a pheasant worthy of being a trophy for the family den.

Napoleon Meletti, a Lubbock taxidermist, had explained to the hunter, "The best way to transport a dead bird is to slip the bird into a nylon stocking head first. The stocking keeps the feathers in place, and helps to protect the general appearance of the pheasant. You should do the same thing with a prairie chicken or quail destined for a taxidermist."

He added, "The bird should also be kept cold. The bird should even be put in a freezer if there's going to be a period of several days between the hunt and getting to the taxidermist."

All too often, a hunter doesn't give a thought about a product of the hunt being mounted until he's bagged the game. Then he looks at the animal in the field and decides it would make a memorable trophy. Not knowing how the taxidermist wants the game delivered, the hunter usually field dresses the game — doing more harm than good.

"Don't do a thing with a bird," warns Meletti. "Don't gut it or dress it. The same goes for most mammals. We'd just as soon that the hunter didn't do a thing beyond transporting the game. Bring it in whole, especially for a full size mount." He explained, "We have a special way of skinning an animal for such a mount."

Meletti's lifelong interest in hunting introduced him to the world of taxidermy. It started more as an avocation than a vocation. As his artistic ability developed, the former Illinois resident bought a taxidermy shop in El Paso in 1951, then moved to Lubbock in 1955 to continue his profession.

It was in El Paso that Meletti received his most unusual taxidermy assignment. A customer requested that a horse be "stuffed" and placed on rockers.

The adult-size "rocking horse" was used by a commercial studio photographer as an eye catching prop to appeal to northerners visiting the land of cowboys.

Whatever the request, Meletti takes his work seriously, knowing that each product is a display of his craftsmanship, a conversation piece that will be appreciated for years to come.

For many hunters and anglers, the trophy on the wall or table will bring back fond memories of a once-in-a-lifetime experience. Consequently, sportsmen often check with their taxidermist before starting off on a special trip.

Anglers are reminded to pack the trophy fish in ice and deliver the complete fish. The fish should not be gutted. If no ice is available, wrap the fish in a wet cloth and then in foil, or put the cloth-wrapped fish in a plastic bag and keep in a cooler. If delivery to the taxidermist is more than a day away, store the fish in a freezer if available.

The product of a taxidermist, as for other professions, should be appraised on quality of work. An inexpensive mount that looks artificial will lose its appeal very quickly. A quality hunting or fishing trip can be expensive, so the trophy, as a daily reminder of that special experience, shouldn't be the place to start pinching pennies. Prices for quality trophy mounts from experienced taxidermists will vary slightly, but will generally be in a comparable bracket. For example, mounting fees at Meletti's Taxidermy are $55 for a pheasant standing or on the wing, while the strutting position is $65. A head mount of a whitetail deer is $110, $175 for an elk.

Keep in mind that proper care of the mount will assure the attractiveness of the trophy for many years. You can vacuum a fox and use a feather duster on a prairie chicken; a damp cloth will keep most fish trophies looking brand new for a long time.

"Never put any animal trophy over a fireplace that's being used," warned Meletti. "Otherwise you won't have a trophy in a year or two. Also, keep it away from a window. Heat and sunlight will ruin a good looking trophy very quickly."

Although there are more sportsmen every year that decide to have the product of their outing mounted, fewer persons are turning to the taxidermy profession. Meletti, with 32 years of experience, points with pride to his son and grandsons who are continuing the art of taxidermy.

The years of taxidermy for Napoleon Meletti have guaranteed memories for others, memories of safaris to Africa for cape buffalo, of expeditions to Alaska for caribou.

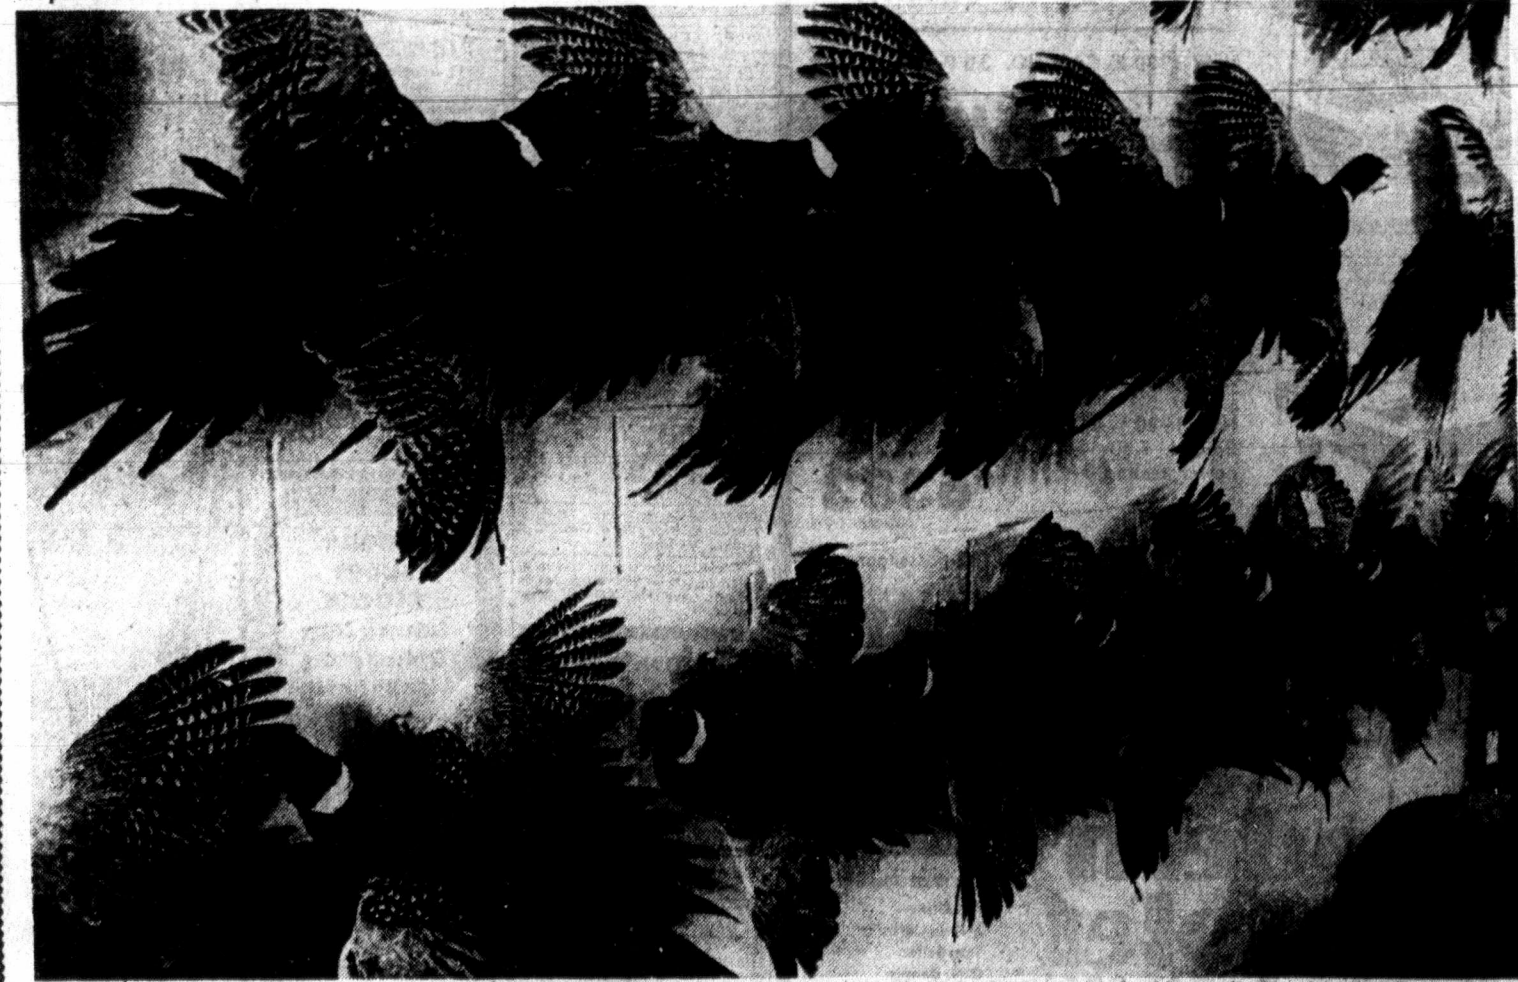

From aoudad to zebra, the Lubbock taxidermist definitely enjoys his work. However, there's one exception: "I don't like skunks!" Meletti emphasized.

PRIDE OF PLAINS — Napoleon Meletti notes the exotic beauty of a pronghorn antelope bagged on the plains of Texas.

FEATHERED FLIGHTS — Rows of ring-necked pheasants represent the popularity of pheasant hunting on the plains of Texas, where improved habitat has avored the birds. Outdoorsmen should consult a taxidermist for tips on the care of game destined to be trophies. (Staff Photos by Ted J. Simon)

Matheny has accepted a position as dean of continuing education at Fort Hays State University in Fort Hays, Kan.

Matheny said he was making his resignation effective Feb. 15 in order to be available for the 1980 New Mexico legislative session.

The budget for the ENMU Clovis campus is very important, and I want to make sure that it goes through the legislature before I leave," Matheny said.

Matheny has been vice-president of the Clovis campus since 1976 and also is a professor in the history department.

Oilfield Servicers Cited In Accident

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Well-Tech Inc., a Houston-based oilfield service company, has been cited for safety violations in connection with a well explosion that killed one man and injured four on Nov. 15.

Mike Hunter, senior compliance officer for the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, said the citations involved an accident in southern Nueces County near Chapman Ranch. A crew was reopening an old oil well for Texaco when escaping gas ignited, burning one man to death and sending four others to the hospital.

Well-Tech was assessed a $5,040 penalty.

Bill Smith, manager of employee relations at the company's Houston office, said Well-Tech will contest the citations.

Hunter said the company is accused of failing to provide a workplace free of recognized hazards.

THE SUPERMARKET SHOPPER

By MARTIN SLOANE

DEAR SUPERMARKET SHOPPER — I gave my husband a super Christmas present and it was all because I got involved with coupons and refunds. It happened this way:

I had cash-off coupons for Ajax, Ajax Liquid and Pine Forest Cleaner. When I took them to the store, I found that the Pine Forest box was marked 20 cents off the regular price and the dishwasher liquid was marked 25 cents off the regular price. The store was also offering double coupon savings.

So, I got all these items for less than half the regular price. When I got home, I sent the labels to Colgate-Palmolive for its offer of free tickets to a National Basketball Association game of my choice. The two tickets I received were worth $7 each.

My husband was surprised and delighted when he opened his Christmas card and found the basketball tickets. He was so happy that he took me out to dinner before the game.

We had a wonderful night on the town all because one of your super-smart shoppers. Coupons and refunds are great! — Mary B., Southgate, Mich.

DEAR SUPERMARKET SHOPPER — With Christmas just passed, I don't have much money for gift giving. But there are still occasions when a gift is called for.

Perhaps other readers in the same position will appreciate this tip. I have a good friend who recently moved into a new house. She is also a coupon clipper.

For a housewarming gift, I purchased a purse-size coupon organizer and filled it with some of my best cash-off coupons. I included coupons for cleaning products, paper towels, napkins and dishwasher detergent. (She never had a dishwasher before.)

She was thrilled with her gift and she says she thinks of me every time she takes out her organizer to save money.

A gift like this would also be good for a baby shower if you fill the organizer with coupons for baby food, disposable diapers and other baby needs. Whether the baby turns out to be a girl or a boy, the gift is still appropriate — Camille L. from Hollywood, Fla.

DEAR CAMILLE — Thank you for the excellent tip. I'm sure it will be used by many readers.

DEAR SUPERMARKET SHOPPER — Though I am an avid coupon clipper and refunder, I have never kept a good record of how much I save during the year. But your column has inspired me.

I am off to a good start in 1980 with both my savings and my record keeping. — Lillian D. from Calvert City, Ky.

DEAR LILLIAN — Now that the New Year has arrived, it is the perfect time to start keeping score of your savings. Couponing and refunding is the best supermarket game in town and knowing exactly how much you are saving makes the play all the more exciting.

For help in recording your coupon and refunding savings, order a copy of my "Coupon Clipper's Newsletter No. 1. Keeping Score." Send 75 cents plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Supermarket Shopper, P.O. Box 461, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to ask for newsletter No. 1.

Decision To Re-Enter Labor Group Due

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The new American ambassador to U.N. offices in Geneva said Tuesday he hopes the United States will decide within the next few months to rejoin the International Labor Organization.

The United States withdrew from the world group in 1977 because of what it charged was "politicization" of the ILO and application of double standards in the field of human rights.

The new American ambassador, Gerald B. Helman, told reporter he believes that the withdrawal by the United States, which had provided one-fourth of the ILO budget had a beneficial "shock effect" on the 140-nation U.N. agency, which was established to help improve working conditions, encourage collective bargaining and otherwise assist laboring people around the world.

Helman told reporters he felt that the ILO has made a "genuine effort" to correct some of the concerns that prompted the U.S. pullout.

Helman, who described himself as an unabashed supporter of U.S. membership, said he expected the Carter administration would make its decision before the ILO's annual conference, scheduled to open June 4.

Large Multi-Mirror Telescope Proposed

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — After success fully building a telescope using six mirrors, astronomers here are proposing a design for another multi-mirror telescope that would be the world's largest.

Neville J. Woolf and Roger Angel, both astronomers at the University of Arizona, plan to unveil their proposal this week to scientists meeting in Tucson to discuss new telescope designs.

They said the new telescope would consist of eight 200-inch mirrors. Focused together, they would give a seeing power equal to a 550-inch single-mirror telescope, twice as large as any existing telescope. Such an instrument would show more detail, and enable scientists to look farther into space from any point on Earth than they can now.

Woolf said the telescope could be built for $40 million, and housed in a building about 11 stories high with more than 14,600 square feet of floor space.

Multiple-mirror telescopes are less costly than single-mirror ones, in which one large piece of glass is made, ground and polished. The multi-mirror design also solves the problem of moving one huge piece of glass from an optics shop to a telescope site, scientists say. Woolf said there could be federal participation in the eight-mirror project by the Defense Department and national science agencies.

The university and the Smithsonian Institution last year began using the multiple mirror telescope built in a joint project atop 8,585-foot Mount Hopkins in the Santa Rita Mountains south of Tucson.

That instrument uses six 78-inch mirrors focused together to give the same power as a single-mirror 176-inch telescope, making it the third most powerful in the world. Woolf said southern Arizona was a good spot for the new larger multiple-mirror telescope, adding that the university's past experience puts it in a good position to handle the project.

"There is a clear advantage in that we have a prototype now," he said. "We have something that can fly. We have the understanding."

He said 10,713-foot Mount Graham near Safford, Ariz., and the 9,100-foot high Santa Catalina Mountains north of Tucson were possible sites for the new instrument.

U.S. Test-Tube Baby Project Approved

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The United States' first test-tube baby project was given the go-ahead by Virginia's health commissioner Tuesday, and doctors at the Eastern Virginia Medical School said they hope to attempt the first pregnancy in March.

But a right-to-life group which believes the procedure raises serious moral and ethical questions said it would challenge the project in court.

Commissioner James Kenley informed officials at the medical school that he would sanction the establishment of a test-tube baby laboratory at Norfolk General Hospital. The laboratory, next door to the hospital's obstetrics-gynecology unit, is near completion. About $25,000 in hospital reserves were used to renovate and buy equipment.

Kenley said he had decided, after five months of hearings and studies by state and local health agencies, that the clinic would violate no state or federal law.

In the test-tube baby process, an egg is removed from women with diseased or deformed fallopian tubes, fertilized in the laboratory with the husband's sperm and reimplanted within the woman's womb.

More than 2,500 women from all over the world have applied to the program, announced in November 1978, a few months after the first test-tube baby, Louise Brown, was born in England.

"We're ready to go ahead now," Dr. Jack Rary, chief of the genetics laboratory at the school, said in an interview Tuesday.

"The only thing we need to do now is get the laboratory completed in the hospital," Rary said. "As soon as we get the instruments calibrated, we'll be ready to do."

But Charles Dean, president of the Tidewater chapter of the Virginia Society for Human Life, a right-to-life group, said he would appeal the decision immediately.

"We'll never give up. That's exactly how we feel," Dean said. "There's a lot of pressure against it. And a lot more is mounting. This isn't the end of it."

Dean said the controversy had been clouded by politics. The development

Southwest Airlines May Go On Strike

DALLAS (AP) — A strike by more than 100 Southwest Airlines employees is possible unless the airline's management and the International Association of Machinists agree on a new contract by midnight Sunday.

Negotiations were conducted between IAM and officials of the Dallas-based airline from October until mid-December, when a federal mediator ordered a 30-day cooling off period.

A final attempt to reach a new agreement with 72 mechanics, 21 cleaners and 13 stock clerks to replace the 3-year contract that expired Aug. 16, 1979 was scheduled Thursday.

Should the IAM call a strike, the airline says, officials then will decide whether to continue operations on a limited basis or shut down.

President Washington laid the cornerstone of the White House in 1792.

20 infertile women monthly once the project is under way.

A year ago Tuesday, a mysterious fire damaged the offices of Dr. Mason Andrews, chairman of the obstetrics-gynecology department at the medical school, and the offices of the program's co-directors, the husband-wife team of Drs. Howard and Georganna Jones.

Mrs. Jones expressed delight Tuesday with Kenley's decision.

"I never expect anything, but I didn't see logically how it could turn it out any other way," she said.

In a prepared statement accompanying his decision, Kenley said he was certain the laboratory would be well-utilized by infertile couples from all over the United States.

Andrews said the decision would "remove some additional trauma" from the minds of 11 women now participating in the initial stages of the program.

"We have great confidence that we will win the court battle if it goes that far," he said. The hospital, however, said it had not determined how far it would go in the courts.

You Can't Fight Fires When You're On Fire!

The glove you see in the series of pictures is one of the gloves issued by the City of Lubbock to its professional firefighters to protect the firemen's hands while they fight fires. As the pictures prove, this type of cotton glove fails the first test of flame protection gear. It burns!

While fighting a fire and during cleanup operations, a fireman's hands are exposed to smoldering wood, hot metal, broken glass, corrosive chemicals and numerous other hazards. The gloves issued to the Lubbock firefighters offer little or no protection from these hazards.

The price of the gloves issued to Lubbock's firefighters is economical and probably the main reason they were chosen above gloves made for firefighters. The Lubbock firefighter's request for safer and more adequate gloves have gone unheard by the city government. The city government is not obligated in any way to listen to requests from the firefighters about equipment or pay.

Since the Lubbock city government has turned a deaf ear towards the Lubbock firefighters, our only alternative is to ask you, the Lubbock voter, to help us by voting to accept the Texas Fire and Police Employee Relations Act so that our requests will be heard by the city government.

Vote YES for a law which would only require the city to sit down and talk.

Section 10(B) of the Act states: "...nothing contained herein shall be deemed a requirement for compulsory arbitration."

Castillo No Kid In Boxing Ring

GILBERT CASTILLO IS NOT a mean looking sort. He's not the captain of his high school football team or one of those 6-foot-7 giants on the basketball squad. To be honest, he looks just like any other clean-cut, baby-faced 16-year-old.

Yet there is something about Castillo that sets him apart from his classmates. And because of that something, no one who knows him dares mess with him.

You see, Castillo is a fighter — a boxer — and a damn good one. How good you ask — good enough to have compiled a 179-19 record over the course of 10 years. Good enough to have captured 10 consecutive Golden Gloves titles: good enough to be the nation's top-ranked 106-pound amateur; good enough to be one of the leading contenders for a spot on the U.S. Olympic team that will, hopefully, compete in Moscow this summer.

Since he was six years old, Gilbert Castillo has been boxing. Boxing and working hard to, as Marlon Brando said in the movie On The Waterfront, "be somebody" in the fight world. What started as a visit to Chapman Fieldhouse to watch his older brother box has turned into a 10-year climb up the ladder of boxing success for him. And now, he stands at the threshold of a dream.

"YOU SHOULD HAVE SEEN HIM (Castillo) during his first three fights," Edward Hernandez, coach of the Lubbock Warriors boxing club and Castillo's mentor for the past decade, said with a smile. "He got killed. I had to stop all three of them (bouts) because I didn't want him to get discouraged. After those three fights, well, he just bloomed."

Bloomed would have to be an understatement. Only weeks following his shaky debut, the then-45-pound Castillo went on to capture a regional Golden Gloves title from a 55-pound opponent. At the time (1970) 55-pounds was the lightest weight division in Golden Gloves competition.

Some 190 bouts later, Castillo stands ready to challenge this country's top amateur fighters for a spot on the U.S. Olympic team.

"I'd really like to win a gold medal," declared the Lubbock High School sophomore during his daily workout Tuesday. "That's my dream. I guess I have to make the team first."

Making the team is Hernandez', and fellow coach Angelo Rosendo's, prime concern at this time. There are two routes that Castillo can take to earn a tryout for the Olympic squad. The first is via Golden Gloves competition this spring. The second would be a special invitation from the U.S. Olympic Committee to attend the team tryouts June 4 and 5 in Las Vegas, Nev.

THE GOLDEN GLOVES ROUTE would require Castillo to win somewhere in the neighborhood of 20 bouts. He would have to win the regional title in Lubbock Feb. 13 through 16, Castillo would then advance to the state Golden Gloves championships in Fort Worth March 4 through 8. If he won there, Castillo would go on to the national Golden Gloves tournament in Shreveport, La., March 26 through 29.

Because of his No. 1 ranking, Castillo would likely be invited to try out for the team even if he was knocked off somewhere along the Golden Gloves route. "I think we'll make it (to the tryouts)," stated Hernandez. "Gilbert has such a good record and because he is ranked so high, I think he would be invited to try out even if he didn't win the national title."

Currently, Castillo is the national champion at 106 pounds. He won that distinction last year. He won his No. 1 ranking by defeating Angelo Pollock at the Golden Bear senior tournament held last September in Sacramento, Calif. Pollock, from Salt Lake City, is considered one of Castillo's top challengers for a spot on the Olympic team. Castillo has defeated him twice.

Aggies Outmuscle Raiders

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
COLLEGE STATION — The large (6,131), noisy crowd here at G. Rollie White Coliseum wasn't at all bashful about making its feelings known when the Texas A&M Aggies, nursing a 53-48 lead, decided to go into a four-corner, slowdown offense against Texas Tech Tuesday night.

There were almost six minutes left in the game and everybody knew what the four-corners meant — stall — and they didn't like it. Neither did the Raiders, as they were forced to foul the Aggies and watch hopelessly as the home team refused to miss at the line.

The Aggies were eight-of-eight from the line in the final minutes and handed the Raiders a 63-60 defeat.

That win gives A&M sole possession of first place in the Southwest Conference race with a 3-0 record. The Raiders fall to 2-1.

"They were just too tough for us inside," said Tech coach Gerald Myers. "Rynn Wright was just a bull inside."

"We played hard but we made some mistakes. And they hit their free throws there at the end while we missed some."

Williams, and it was Williams who finally tied the game at 44-44 on a pair of free throws with 9:56 remaining.

But on the other end of the court, Wright hit a three-point play to put the Aggies up 47-44 and the Raiders could not close that gap.

"They got out in front," said Myers. "and just controlled the game. We got close but we couldn't get control."

Little and Brewster each had 14 for the Raiders and Jeff Taylor added 13. Although badly outmuscled inside by the Aggies, Tech somehow managed to stay right with A&M. Incredibly, Tech out rebounded the Aggies 27-23.

But the A&M defenders just didn't give the Raiders many opportunities to score. Tech attempted only 18 field goals in the second half — connecting on 12 of those. On the other end of the floor, the Aggies hit 12 of 23 tries and in the end it was the Aggies' free-throw shooting ability that won the game.

First David Britton went to the line and hit both ends of a one-and-one to give A&M a 57-52 lead. Then after Jeff Taylor's free throws cut it back to three, Britton hit two more free throws and the Aggies led 59-54 with 1:18 left to play.

After Kent Williams hit a bucket, Tyrone Ladson went to the line with 46 ticks showing and hit both ends of a one-and-one to put A&M back up 61-56. Then Britton finished any Raider chances by adding two more free throws with 15 seconds remaining.

The Aggies were 10 of 10 from the line in the second half while the Raiders were 11 of 15.

"Vernon Smith had an off-night," said Metcalf. "But Woods played his second straight good game. We always want to get the ball inside and we did it a lot in this game."

So although the Raiders held the high-scoring Smith to only two points, they couldn't contain the Aggies' other big men.

"They were just too strong for us," said Myers.

With the Raiders leading 15-14 early in the contest, the Aggies reeled off nine unanswered points to take command in the first half.

First, Woods hit inside, going right over Tech's Leslie Nichols to give A&M a 16-15 lead. Then another Woods' lay-up and three more Aggie free throws boosted that to 21-15 and, when Rynn Wright muscled inside for another lay-up, it was 23-15 with 3:47 left in the half.

The Raiders called a timeout and came back with a pair of Jeff Taylor free throws to cut it to 25-17. Then Williams and Little, who had had trouble finding the range early in the game, combined for three long jumpers and the Raiders had cut the gap to 27-23.

Little hit two more free throws and A&M's Tyrone Ladson answered with a 25-footer at the buzzer as A&M led 29-25 at intermission.

Taylor led the Raiders' first-half scoring effort with eight points — six of those coming at the charity stripe — and Little added six. Woods led the Aggies with 10 points.

Except for that four-minute spurt when the Raiders went scoreless, the first half was close all the way.

The low score reflected solid defense by both teams rather than poor shooting.

Eagles' Gillman Praises Noll, Super Bowl Match

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Sid Gillman says "only the Pittsburgh Steelers" can beat the Pittsburgh Steelers but that Los Angeles is the strongest opponent available in this Super Bowl.

"The Rams are the best team in our conference," said Gillman, the 67-year-old development specialist of the Philadelphia Eagles. "They have the best talent. I suppose Dallas is next."

In an interview, Gillman said he doesn't plan to see the Jan. 20 game because "the Steelers will win even if they come into the game fat-headed. But Chuck Noll won't let that happen."

Gillman, who has been head coach of the Rams as well as the San Diego Chargers and the Houston Oilers, speaks highly of Noll, who spent six years as his assistant in California.

DHS Battles Inconsistency, Wins

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

The Dunbar Panthers won their third straight game Tuesday night and crept above the 500 mark for the first time since the initial two games of the season, but coach Joe McWilliams wasn't handing out any cigars.

The Panthers topped Brownfield 68-63 in a game they should have won by more to push their season record to 9-9.

Castig a longer shadow over Dunbar is the fact that only one game remains before the Panthers open 1-AAA play a week from Friday. And that single contest is against Monterey, a team which has beaten Dunbar by 68-47 and 74-52 counts already this season.

At the core of McWilliams' dissatisfaction with his team's play is consistency. Sometimes it looks like the Panthers don't even know what the word means. "At times it looks like we're starting to get it," McWilliams said, "but then other times..."

Tuesday night was a case in point. The Panthers cruised to a 37-26 halftime lead, then opened that margin to 43-26 early in the third period. But that old devil — inconsistency (or maybe lack of concentration) — hit and, just like that, the Panthers were, if not fighting for their lives, fighting to keep a respectable edge.

The Panthers puffed the lead back to 40 at 49-39 and it seemed for a while the only question left was whether they could keep that 10-point bulge to the buzzer.

But, trailing 60-48, Brownfield caught fire and pumped in seven straight points to close the lead to 60-55. After that it was a see-saw battle until the end.

What's the problem with the Panthers? "We'd like to alibi and say it's youth," said McWilliams. "But over half the season is gone now and we're still making the same mistakes as we did at the beginning."

Stanley Whitfield led all scorers with 21 points. Teammate Leroy Rivers turned in one of his best games of the year, scoring 19 and Gary Shipman rounded out the Panther scoring with 12.

Dirk Bush led the Cubs with 18 points, 16 in the second half. Brent Wilkes and Melvin Brown backed him up with 13 and 10, respectively.

LHS Comes Home To Victory

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Craig Wells admitted that it seemed a bit strange "not coming to the game in a bus for a change."

Not funny? Well, maybe you had to be there.

Wells meant, of course, that the Lubbock Westerners played a basketball game in friendly surroundings. And that's certainly a switcheroo. LHS, saddled with a horrendous piece of scheduling, has been at home only four times so far this year, including Tuesday night against Amarillo Caprock. The Westerners have hit the road so many times — 13 to be exact — Roger Miller should be their middle names.

Trailer for sale or rent. In the rare home appearance, Thomas Romero hit 24 points to lead the Westerners, now 8-9 for the year, to an easy 75-59 non-district win over the Longhorns, a team that looked bad at times and worse at others.

Using a swarming full-court press, Lubbock High broke loss with nine unanswered points early in the second quarter. Prior to the barrage, the game had been knotted at 11-11. But Lopez hit a shot that could have been tracked at the Lubbock Airport. Jeff Manley canned a layup. Romero countered with a layup of his own. Lopez made good on a technical foul shot, and Manley hit another layup.

The way Caprock kept pounding iron during that three-minute span, it sounded like a convention of blacksmiths had hit Lubbock for a week-long stay.

For the game, Lubbock managed to hit only three more field goals than CHS, 30-15. However, at the free throw line, it was another story altogether. LHS bucketed 15 freebees, the Longhorns five.

"I thought we played a pretty fair game," said Wells. "This is the way we're going to have to play if we're going to win...very aggressive."

Caprock, continually swarmed by LHS defenders, led in the game only once. That brief moment of glory came with 2:37 left in the first quarter when Terry Teniere, CHS' leading scorer for the night with 20 points, canned a long-ranger. But Manley countered with a pair of free throws to give LHS the lead right back at 11-10.

For the first time since Wells has been the LHS head coach, he had the luxury of sending in the F-Troopers to mop up the contest. "That was nice," grinned Wells. "I didn't think I'd ever see that day come."

Kush Contends For Colts' Job

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Frank Kush, former Arizona State University football coach, is a leading contender to fill the head-coaching vacancy for the Baltimore Colts. The Phoenix Gazette said Tuesday.

"Kush is definitely the man right now," the afternoon paper quoted a Baltimore source as saying. "It's up to somebody else to beat him out."

Kush, 51, was removed Oct. 13 after 22 years as Arizona State coach. He denied charges that he struck a player or attempted to cover up the incident.

Lubbock To Host Boxing Event

By NORVAL POLLARD
Executive Sports Editor

Lubbock area fight fans will be treated to some of the top amateur boxing competition this country has to offer Saturday during the Lubbock Warriors' Tournament of Champions.

Seventy-eight of the nation's top young fighters, representing 10 boxing clubs from the southwestern U.S. and California, will be on hand for the tournament, which begins at 7 p.m. Saturday in the Lubbock Civic Center. All seats for the three-hours of boxing are priced at $3 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

"This will be the biggest fight card in Lubbock history," said Edward Hernandez, coach and board member of the Lubbock Warriors Boxing Club. "It's rare to find the number of boxers of this caliber at any tournament. Sixty percent of these fighters we have coming will probably have a chance to tryout for the Olympic team."

Thirteen national AAU champions and numerous state and regional Golden Gloves champions will be among the contestants.

Among the top matches scheduled for Saturday is the scheduled bout between Lubbock's Gilbert Castillo, the national champ at 106 pounds, and Lawrence Castello of Fort Worth, the 1979 Junior Olympic champion.

Castillo is not the only talented Lubbock boxer who will compete in the tournament. Mario Martinez, rated sixth in the western United States, will take on Steve Hindi of Albuquerque, N.M., in a 119-pound battle. Hindi is ranked second in the western U.S.

Lubbock's Domingo Amalla, ranked sixth in the western U.S. will battle Hector Hernandez of Houston. Domingo's brother Raymond, who is rated eighth in the western United States at 139 pounds, will meet Robert Chapa of Dallas.

Other members of the Lubbock Warriors who will compete Saturday include 85-pound Johnny Almaquer, who has a record of 46-4; 100-pound Billy Burt, a 1979 Police Athletic League finalist; 125-pound Angelo Carrillo, West Texas A&U and Junior Olympic champ; 106-pound Doug Meyer, 1979 All-Region champ; eight-year-old Danny Olivarez, the West Texas Junior Olympic titlist; 75-pound

Sam Sharp, three-time regional Golden Gloves champion; 85-pound Angelo Rosendo, a national PAL finalist; 132-pound Joel Almaquer, a national PAL finalist; 139-pound Terry Johnson; 65-pound Phillip Zamarron; 70-pound Johnny Miller, a two-time regional Golden Gloves champ; 80-pound Orlando Lucero, and 106-pound Todd Mayer.

Levelland's Robin Blake, ranked third in the U.S. at 132 pounds and a top challenger for a Olympic squad berth, will fight the No. 1-ranked 132-pounder in the western United States, Albert Garcia of Albuquerque.

Blake leads a large contingent of South Plains boxers that includes Randy Leaks and Jackie Williams of Levelland; Edward Parker and Ismael Rosales of Tulia; Roger Gonzales and Rinaldo Falcon of Andrews; Joe Barrera and Louis Melendez of Plainview; Mark Plasiesio of Hale Center; Brad Bingham and Terry Raines of Seminole; Jeremy Channey, Johnny Ivey, Israel Garcia, Johnny Revilla and Sammy Christian of Shallowater, and Dennis Chavez and Gabriel Chariz of Clovis, N.M.

Albuquerque's Ronnie Rentz, the 1979 112-pound national champion, will trade punches with Parker, the 1978 national champ.

Two-time national champ Gary Cardova of Santa Rosa, N.M., will take on Neil Wass in another outstanding 112-pound confrontation.

In the light-heavyweight division, Jay Strickland of Dallas, the third-ranked fighter in the western U.S., will face George Mathews of Phoenix. Mathews is ranked sixth. Tickets for the tournament can be purchased at the Optimist Boys' Club, Gilbert's Auto Parts or at the door.

pic team is Fort Worth's Lawrence Castello, the 1979 National Junior Olympic champion and the Southwest AAU champion. Castillo and Castello will have the opportunity to feel each other out Saturday evening in the Lubbock Civic Center when they meet in the Lubbock Warriors' Tournament of Champions.

"What makes this young fighter so good?" Castillo says it's his determination. "I put my heart into it," Castillo said innocently. "When I get out there I fight to win. I love to box."

Hernandez agrees. "I would have to say his determination in the ring," acknowledged Hernandez. "But he also has good quickness and power. Gilbert can fool you. He has exceptional speed."

The element of power is also there. When he was only 14, Castillo knocked out an Amarillo boxer during a Golden Gloves tournament. And he has had his share of KOs and TKOs since.

"CASTILLO WORKS OUT DAILY, under the guidance of his older brother John, who Gilbert says pushes him to be a good fighter, and Hernandez. He runs five miles a day, jumps rope some 36 minutes, punches the speed bag for at least a half hour and spars at least 10 rounds per day. He's been training like that since his six-year-old days as a beginner.

Gilbert Castillo is only 18 years old, but he can call himself a champ. And he is working hard to further his career in the ring. He'd like to be an Olympic champ and someday a professional champion. Obviously, he's been successful so far. With his determination, who knows, someday he may be America's next Sugar Ray Leonard.

CORONADO WINS SOCCER MATCH

Shelly Johnson scored three goals and Marinda Bancy added one to pace the Coronado girls' soccer team to a 4-1 victory over Lubbock High Tuesday afternoon. CHS is now 1-0, while LHS is 0-1.

SWC ROUNDUP

Texas Freshman Tandem Lead Past Cougars

By The Associated Press
Texas' John Danks led a hot-shooting first half and freshmen LaSalle Thompson and George Turner took over in the second half to lead the Longhorns to a 99-73 Southwest Conference victory over Houston Tuesday night.

Danks, who hit 18 of his 24 points in the first half, led the Longhorns to a quick start. Texas hit nine of its first 11 shots and finished with 68 percent from the field in the first half.

Danks hit seven of his eight shots in the first 20 minutes before Thompson and Turner took charge. The freshman duo hit Texas' first four baskets of the second half as the Longhorns built up a 72-61 lead midway in the closing period.

The Cougars, led by freshman Rob Williams with 21 points, went stone cold in the final four minutes when they were outscored 18-4. Thompson led the Longhorns with 20 points and forward Ron Baxter added 19. Ken Williams added 15 points for the Cougars.

Texas improved its season record to 9-3 and its SWC mark to 2-1. Houston is 6-7 and 1-2.

Turner, who played only six minutes of the first half, and Thompson picked up the Longhorn tempo early in the second half.

was 10-of-11 in sealing Baylor's loss. Allen followed Branson with 16 points, while Hale connected for 10 and Pfieler 9.

Terry Teagle led the Bears with 25 points, with Mike Battle contributing 13.

Arkansas 70, TCU 58
Sophomore center Scott Hastings scored 23 points and pulled down 14 rebounds to pace the Arkansas Razorbacks to a 70-58 victory over Texas Christian in a SWC game.

The 6-10 Kansan hit on 10-of-21 field goals as the Razorbacks stayed unbeaten in SWC play with a 2-0 mark and improved their overall record to 9-3.

Sophomore Jon Mansbury made a three-point play midway through the second half to pull the Horned Frogs to within five points of Arkansas, but the Razorbacks answered with six straight points to put down the threat.

U.S. Reed and Alan Zahn scored 14 and 13 points respectively for Arkansas, who out rebounded TCU, 39-31.

Freshman Darrell Browder led TCU with a career-high 18 points, with sophomore Ed Wineinger gunning in 14. TCU dropped to 5-6 overall with its third straight SWC loss.

"I really don't know what we did in the second half," Texas coach Abe Lemons said. "We were just trying to hold our ground to hold on and not let them push off. Houston is a lot like us, pretty inexperienced."

Houston's only surge came late in the first half when they took a brief 41-39 lead. They were outscored 10-2 in the final two minutes, however.

"Awful," Houston coach Guy Lewis said. "We were thoroughly outplayed the second half."

SMU 78, Baylor 72
Brad Branson poured in 25 points and Southern Methodist capitalized on 32 free throws Tuesday night to overtake the Baylor Bears, 78-72.

Branson ignited a second-half rally with eight straight points that carried the Mustangs from a one-point deficit to a lead they never lost.

Baylor led 40-48 with 10:50 remaining when Phil Hale put the Ponies ahead and Branson exploded for his barrage of points to give SMU a 58-49 cushion.

From then on, it was a case of SMU players parading to the free throw line, where they connected on 24 of 28 in the second half alone to nail down the win.

Branson was 9-for-9 from the free throw line and Dave Pfieler hit seven straight in one span, while Billy Allen

Bum Phillips Lashes Out At Alleged Cover-Up

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston Oilers coach Bum Phillips, saying he had kept quiet until he was certain what happened on a disputed touchdown catch in Sunday's AFC championship game at Pittsburgh, Tuesday complained the NFL used a filmed replay "to cover up for an official." Phillips offered his own film that he said proved "positively" that Mike Renfro scored on a third quarter pass that would have brought Houston to within a conversion of tying the game. "If I don't know better, I have to accept it," Phillips said of his initial reluctance to criticize the ruling by side judge Don Orr that Renfro did not have possession of the football when he tumbled out of the end zone — a ruling supported Monday by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle after a review of league films. "But now I've seen the films and I know better and they're wrong," Phillips said.

"I talked to Art McNally (NFL supervisor of officials) this morning," Phillips said. "He said they had film that, when slowed to one-frame action, showed in their opinion that Mike did not have possession."

Phillips questioned the consistency of the NFL for refusing to allow instant replays to decide such controversies on the spot while later using the films to try to settle the disputes.

Meyer, De Paul's Climb Nears Cage Summit

By The Associated Press
It's taken 37 years, but De Paul coach Ray Meyer is finally just one step away from the top, and closing.

"The highest we've ever been was third place last year," Meyer said after learning the Blue Demons had moved into the No. 2 spot behind Duke in The Associated Press college basketball poll Tuesday.

"At long last, this team will not only have something to shoot at, but will gain the confidence and respect it needs to stay there."

Duke received 48 of 54 first-place votes cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters and collected 1,073 of a possible 1,080 points in maintaining the top spot for the fourth consecutive week. The Blue Devils crushed Colgate last week and defeated Georgia Tech Monday night in running their record to 12-0.

But Meyer doesn't expect Duke to remain undefeated.

1 Duke (48)	12-0	1,073
2 DePaul (5)	11-0	1,011

White Sox Tab Young Luzinski

NEW YORK (AP) — The Chicago White Sox, hoping there's more of a family resemblance than just a last name, made Bill Luzinski their first selection in the winter free agent amateur baseball draft Tuesday. The 20-year-old Bill's brother, Greg, is the slugging outfielder with the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Toronto Blue Jays had the draft's No. 1 pick and used it to select and sign 6-foot-6 right-handed pitcher Colin McLaughlin from Woodbury Conn., who compiled a 12-2 record and a 2.30 earned run average for the University of Connecticut-Storrs last year.

Right-handed pitchers dominated the regular phase of the draft — 14 were picked in the first round, along with three southpaw hurlers, four infielders, four outfielders and one catcher.

Miami Dade North also contributed the first pick of the secondary phase, which is for players previously drafted but who weren't signed. The Boston Red Sox selected and signed slick-fielding shortstop Juan Bustabad.

Mark my words, Duke is going to lose a few games, Kentucky will lose a couple more — yes and De Paul will lose because nobody is really that great," said Meyer, who has more than 600 career victories.

De Paul, ranked 11th four weeks ago, landed five No. 1 votes and picked up 1,011 points in replacing Kentucky as No. 2. The Blue Demons, 11-0, knocked Missouri from the unbeaten ranks last week and also posted triumphs over Loyola of Chicago and Ball State.

Preseason favorite Indiana, meanwhile, continued its slide. The injury-plagued Hoosiers dropped their fourth game of the season last week, losing a 50-

58 decision to Ohio State — this week's No. 3 team — and fell from 11th to No. 19.

Ohio State collected the other first-place vote and 954 points in jumping from fifth to third this week. The Buckeyes also beat Purdue — ranked eighth at the time — 67-58 last week.

Kentucky, upset by Tennessee 49-47 last Saturday and a two-point winner over Auburn last week, slipped to No. 4 with 814 points.

Unbeaten Syracuse jumped from ninth to fifth with 814 points. Louisiana State, which was upset by Vanderbilt last week and a dropped a one-point decision to Alabama Monday night, was sixth with 736 points. Notre Dame retained the No. 7 position with 713 points, three more than No. 8 Virginia, which moved up five notches after upsetting North Carolina last week.

Oregon State, 14th last week, moved into the No. 9 position with 666 points while Purdue slipped two notches to 10th with 541 points.

North Carolina made one of the biggest downward movements, dropping from sixth to 15th after losses to Clemson and Virginia.

Clemson, 10-1, was the only new member of the Top 20, replacing Illinois, which dropped a 72-71 decision to Iowa last week.

Diverse Music Stars Contending For Annual Grammy Selections

Woman's Endorsement Sought

BANGOR, Maine (AP) — While other Republican presidential hopefuls were debating the issues in Des Moines, Iowa, Ronald Reagan placed a long-distance call to a housewife in Garland, Maine.

Mary Adams, who led a successful petition drive to repeal Maine's uniform property tax in 1977, said the former California governor was seeking her endorsement when he called Saturday night.

"He called around 7 p.m. and said, 'This is Ronald Reagan. I said, 'No, you're not. Who are you really?'"

Reagan's campaign leaders in Maine were unaware of the call, but state campaign chairman Howard H. Dana of Portland said "it's the kind of thing that he would do."

Mrs. Adams said she advised Reagan "right off" that she wasn't endorsing any candidate right now, but they chatted for about 30 minutes anyway.

Mrs. Adams said Reagan explained his decision not to attend the Iowa debate, quoting as saying he was following his 11th commandment: "Thou shalt not attack a fellow Republican."

Mayor Appoints Husband

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Jane Byrne's husband, newsman Jay McMullen, will become her $1-per-year press consultant, effective Jan. 21, according to city officials.

"I have never worked for a wife before and that always takes a little agonizing on both sides," McMullen said.

He said Monday that he will take a one-year leave of absence from his job as a Chicago Sun-Times real estate writer. He is to run his wife's press relations office part time and organize a new political office that she intends to open Feb. 1.

Officials said the small fee for his job is to blunt criticism that the appointment smacks of nepotism and will allow McMullen to continue writing free-lance newspaper articles.

'Big Apple' Has Competition

LONDON (UPI) — New York City isn't the only "Big Apple." A British seed firm has developed a cabbage that tastes like a "Big Apple."

The century-old firm of Thompson and Morgan in Ipswich is sending a specimen of the cabbage it developed through a painstaking experiment to a Disneyworld food exhibition in Florida.

The leafy vegetable grows to 10 pounds and the firm decided it naturally had to be called "The Big Apple."

Lack Of Toughness Blamed

BEDFORD, N.H. (AP) — Retired Adm. Thomas Moorer, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has blamed President Carter's lack of toughness for recent events in Iran and the Middle East.

Moorer, addressing an audience on behalf of Republican presidential hopeful John Connally, says Connally "... understands the use of power to protect the interests of the United States, and I don't think Mr. Carter does."

Moorer also said the shah of Iran predicted two years ago that if he were ousted the Soviet Union would take over Afghanistan.

"I don't care what kind of opinion you have of the shah; the fact was that when he was there he was the eastern anchor of that very, very unstable region," Moorer said Monday night.

War Of Words To Resume

ALBANY, Ore. (AP) — A boat shop owner says he plans to resume his war of words — in the form of a 30-foot sign — with an industrial neighbor.

LeRoy Pruitt made the pledge Monday after a court order which originally prohibited the billboard two years ago was dissolved in court. The company had abandoned a libel suit which it filed in response to the first showing of the sign.

The sign, which reads "Wah Chang Stinks," refers to Teledyne Wah Chang Albany Corp. Pruitt said the company, which manufactures zirconium next door to him, "spews odors which have invaded (his) property."

Dressed in a "Wah Chang Stinks" T-shirt and armed with a briefcase full of legal papers asserting his right to speak freely about his industrial neighbor, Pruitt was disappointed when Teledyne Wah Chang Albany Corp. abandoned the libel suit.

"They denied me my rights for two years and now they just want to quietly sweep it all under the carpet," Pruitt said. "I have waited a long time to have my say and it's just not fair."

Sister Elected Mayor

DUBUQUE, Iowa (AP) — Sister Carolyn Farrell, an administrator at a local Roman Catholic college, has become the first woman to be elected mayor of Dubuque.

Sister Farrell, 44, was elected Monday night by a 3-1 city council vote. Some Iowa cities elect mayors by a council vote rather than a direct popular vote of the people.

Sister Farrell is starting her third year as a city council member.

She is dean of continuing education at Clarke College.

Congressman Urges Aid To Afghan Guerrillas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Charles Wilson called Tuesday for United States support of Afghan guerrillas and a stronger defense posture — including the building of a neutron bomb — in response to the Soviet Union's military actions.

The Democrat from Lufkin, said the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan would serve to "strengthen the people in the United States government who have consistently maintained that the Soviet Union was the greatest threat to freedom all over the world, including our own."

Wilson frequently has criticized U.S. foreign policy as being too passive.

"The heart and soul of American foreign policy should be American interest," he said at a news conference in his office. "I think that we just have to face it, that we're right back to 1946 and weakness on our part can only make it worse."

Wilson said the Soviet intervention "should prove to the pacifists in this country that when you turn the other cheek, you get two bloody cheeks."

City Ready To Make Snow

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (AP) — What Mother Nature doesn't deliver, the Brodie Mountain ski area will.

When MGM begins filming the movie "A Change of Seasons" in this Berkshire Mountains town next week, Brodie officials say they'll be ready to make snow wherever the movie producer wants it.

Brodie officials say it costs $30,000 to $35,000 to cover a one-mile intermediate trail with four to eight inches of snow.

The movie, which will be set primarily at Williams College, deals with a professor who has an affair with a student. Bo Derek plays the student, Anthony Hopkins the professor and Shirley MacLaine the professor's wife.

Senate Hopeful Late

MOUNT HOREB, Wis. (AP) — Douglas Cofrin planned to open his campaign for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate by flying 90 miles by helicopter from Milwaukee to the birthplace of the late Robert M. LaFollette, a legendary figure in state politics.

Unfortunately, the pilot couldn't find the farm and Cofrin, a 36-year-old businessman, was 2 1/2 hours late Monday. By then several hundred school children and a brass band had gone home after waiting in windy, 7-degree cold. The farm's owner, John Judd, demanded — and received — $1,000 from Cofrin for the use of his farm and the inconvenience caused by the candidate's lateness.

Burglar Steals Violins

DALLAS (UPI) — A burglar stole three violins worth $12,500 from the home of Sarah Hardesty, leaving the Dallas Symphony Orchestra member with a $100 model.

Miss Hardesty, who plays in the orchestra's first violin section, said the theft occurred Sunday afternoon while she was visiting her mother.

One of the missing instruments was made in the 18th Century and another was a late 19th Century Italian violin. The third was made in Paris in 1888.

The burglar also took four bows — one gold mounted and another silver mounted — valued at $2,000.

"They literally were a part of me," Miss Hardesty said of her missing violins.

The $100 model "is worse than a student instrument," the musician said.

She'll borrow a violin to perform.

Balloons Part Of Degree Plan

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Gary Meddock is earning his bachelor of philosophy degree — by flying balloons.

The 21-year-old junior at Miami University's School of Interdisciplinary Studies has designed his own major that combines aeronautics, business and ethics.

This semester, Meddock is doing required field work by flying balloons and promoting his own business, the Dayton BalloonPort. There he gives balloon rides and sells balloons made by his brother, Dodd, at the Balloon Works in Statesville, N.C.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Disco star Donna Summer, the mellow-rocking Doobie Brothers and country crooner Kenny Rogers emerged Tuesday as major contenders for the 22nd annual Grammy awards.

Other nominees for top awards to be announced in February included rhythm-and-blues kingpins Earth, Wind & Fire, newcomer Rickie Lee Jones and New York balladeer Billy Joel.

There was even one non-musician in the crowd: comedian Robin Williams, who was nominated for best new artist.

"That's the only one that rings a bell with me," cracked composer Eubie Blake as he announced Williams' nomination at a Beverly Hills news conference with Debbie Boone and Lou Rawls. Other best new artist nominees were the Blues Brothers, British rock group Dire Straits, Miss Jones and teen sensations The Knack.

With 336 nominations in a record 58 categories — including new ones in rock, disco and jazz-fusion — there were many multiple nominees.

The Doobie Brothers' "Minute By Minute" album got six nominations, including record of the year, album of the year, two songs of the year listings — both co-authored by group member Michael McDonald, best pop performance by a group and best arrangement accompanying vocalists, also for McDonald.

"Bad Girls," Miss Summer's tribute to ladies of the night, was nominated for album of the year. She also vies for best pop, rock and rhythm and blues female performances and best disco record.

Rogers, who scored a big hit in "The Gambler," was listed in five categories: record of the year, album of the year, best male country performance, best male pop performance (for "She Believes in Me") and — with sidekick Dotie West — best country performance by a group for "All I Ever Need Is You."

Miss Jones was nominated for best new artist and her jazz-flavored hit "Chuck E.'s in Love" earned her song of the year and best female pop performance nominations. She also was nominated for best female performer in one of four new rock categories for "The Last Chance Texaco."

Earth, Wind & Fire vied in the record of the year and best rhythm and blues performance for "After the Love Has Gone," and in the newly created disco category for "Boogie Wonderland."

Joel, who won song of the year and record of the year Grammys last year, was nominated for album of the year ("52nd Street"), song of the year ("Honesty") and best male pop performance ("52nd Street").

Gloria Gaynor's disco anthem "I Will Survive" got her record of the year, best female pop performance and best disco record nominations.

Grammy winners are decided by secret ballot of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences' 4,500 members. The awards, which cover the year ending Sept. 30, 1979, will be presented Feb. 27 in a CBS telecast from Los Angeles.

The nominations in major categories:

Record of the year: "After the Love Has Gone," Earth Wind & Fire; "The Gambler," Kenny Rogers; "I Will Survive," Gloria Gaynor; "What a Fool Believes," Doobie Brothers, and "You Don't Bring Me Flowers," Barbra Streisand and Neil Diamond.

Album of the year: "Bad Girls," Donna Summer; "Breakfast in America," Supertramp; "52nd Street," Billy Joel; "The Gambler," Kenny Rogers, and "Minute by Minute," Doobie Brothers.

Song of the year: "After the Love Has Gone," Chuck E.'s in Love," "Honesty," "I Will Survive," "Minute by Minute," "Reunited," "She Believes in Me" and "What a Fool Believes."

Best new artist: Blues Brothers, Dire Straits, Rickie Lee Jones, The Knack and Robin Williams.

Best female pop vocal performance: "Bad Girls," Donna Summer; "Chuck E.'s in Love," Rickie Lee Jones; "Don't Cry Out Loud," Melissa Manchester; "I Will Survive," Gloria Gaynor, and "I'll Never Love This Way Again," Dionne Warwick.

Best male pop vocal performance: "Da Ya Think I'm Sexy," Rod Stewart; "52nd Street," Billy Joel; "Sad Eyes," Robert John; "She Believes in Me," Kenny Rogers, and "Up on the Roof," James Taylor.

Best pop vocal performance, group: "Breakfast in America," Supertramp; "Lonesome Loser," Little River Band; "Minute by Minute," Doobie Brothers; "Sail On," Commodores, and "You Don't Bring Me Flowers," Barbra Streisand and Neil Diamond.

Best pop instrumental performance: "An Evening of Magic," Chuck Mangione; "Manhattan," film score, Zubin Mehta and the New York Philharmonic; "Music Box Dancer," Frank Mills; "Rise," Herb Alpert, and "Theme from Superman," John Williams.

HEARTLINE: I was in the service during World War II. I understood that this military time would give me some credits toward Social Security, but when I signed up for Social Security last month, the representative said that because I had received a discharge that was other than honorable, no service-time credits would be added to my Social Security. What are the types of discharges that are considered by Social Security to be other than honorable? — P.Y.

The Social Security representative did inform you correctly. The following types of separations are issued under dishonorable conditions:

1. A dishonorable discharge;
2. A bad conduct discharge issued pursuant to a sentence of a general court martial;
3. A discharge for desertion;
4. In the case of an officer, a resignation accepted for the good of the service;
5. A discharge on the grounds that the person was a conscientious objector who refused to do military duty, to wear the uniform or otherwise to comply with lawful orders of competent military authority;
6. A discharge by reason of conviction by a civil court for treason, sabotage, espionage, murder, rape, arson, burglary, robbery, kidnapping, assault with intent to kill, assault with a dangerous weapon, or an attempt to commit any of these crimes.

The Social Security Handbook, printed by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, goes on to say that a veteran may have more than one discharge involving separate periods of active service. The period of active service to which a discharge under dishonorable conditions applies cannot be used for military service wage credit purposes. However, wage credits may be granted for any other period of active service from which a veteran was released under conditions other than dishonorable.

Where an enlisted person received a conditional discharge to accept a commission with no-break in service, the service is considered as performed in one period.

HEARTLINE: You may have already printed this information in your column. If so, I hope that you will print it again, as many of us older folks may have missed it. What are the deductibles under Part A of Medicare for 1980? — O.S.

For the first 60 days of hospitalization, you will have to pay the first $180 ($160 in 1979), and your Medicare will pay the remainder of all covered charges.

From the 60th through the 90th day of hospitalization, you must pay $45 per day ($40 per day in 1979). For hospital stays beyond the 90 days (when your lifetime reserve is in effect) you will have to pay $90 per day ($80 per day in 1979).

If you should be lucky enough to qualify for Medicare coverage in a skilled nursing facility, from the 21st through the 100th day, you will have to pay $22.50 per day ($20 per day in 1979).

For this and most of the information you will need to know about your Medicare coverage, we have available our 1980 guide to Medicare. To order, send $1.75 to Heartline's Guide to Medicare, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381.

Fair Pay For Safety

"Better Parks ... or Better Pay?"

City workers were given an inadequate 7% pay increase for 1979-80. With little concern for the plight of the city workers, the City Council cut 2% from the City Manager's already marginal proposed city pay raise of 9%. Then in the ultimate gesture of contempt, the Council used that 2% to finance pet projects, such as speeding up the development of some city parks. Not a penny was returned to the tax payers.

In effect, the Council paid for their pet projects out of the pockets of city employees!

Area Congressmen's Votes Listed On Major Items

Roll Call Report Service
WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the days before the adjournment of the first session of the 96th Congress.

HOUSE
AIRBAGS The House adopted, 320 for and 73 against, an amendment to ease the requirement that U.S. autos be equipped with airbags beginning with the 1982 model year. The amendment enables car buyers to choose passive-restraint seatbelts instead of airbags as mandatory safety equipment. Passive-restraint seatbelts are designed to automatically protect the wearer during crashes.

This vote was largely symbolic because it came during debate on an authorization bill covering only fiscal 1980; the airbag rule does not take effect until two years later. Still, the vote was a significant statement of House opposition to airbags as standard equipment on autos.

Rep. Dave Stockman, R-Mich., the sponsor, said his amendment "preserves the right of the consumer to choose" the safety system he or she prefers. No oppo-

More Jurors Seated For Murder Trial

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Two more jurors were seated Tuesday in the Theodore Bundy trial, bringing to six those tentatively chosen to decide whether the Death Row prisoner murdered a North Florida schoolgirl.

An official of a fire protection firm, Donald C. Smith, and a woman who works with children in a social agency, Rose Rossi, joined four others tentatively seated Monday.

The 33-year-old former law student, sentenced to death in July for two murders at Florida State University, is charged with kidnapping and murdering 12-year-old Kimberly Leach of Lake City in February 1978 — a month after six women were attacked near the Florida State campus.

Miss Leach's decomposed body was found near Live Oak. The trial was moved to Orlando when Circuit Judge Wallace Jopling was unable to seat an impartial jury in Live Oak in November.

Jopling dismissed several prospective jurors from the pool of 350 persons when they said they couldn't put aside their opinions that Bundy, whose Miami trial for the Florida State murders was widely publicized, was guilty.

PUBLISHER APPOINTED
HOUSTON (AP) — Fred Hartman, Baytown newspaper publisher, has been named interim chairman of the new Harris County Appraisal District. The district is to implement uniform county-wide property tax appraisals that will become effective in 1982.

Members voting "yea" favored easing the airbag requirement.

Reps. Samuel Hall, D-1, Charles Wilson, D-2, James Collins, R-3, Ray Roberts, D-4, Jim Mattox, D-5, Phil Gramm, D-6, Bill Archer, R-7, Jake Pickle, D-10, J. Martin Leath, D-11, James Wright, D-12, Jack Hightower, D-13, Joe Wyatt, D-14, Kika de la Garza, D-15, Charles Stenholm, D-17, Mickey Leland, D-18, Kent Hance, D-19, Ron Paul, R-22, Abraham Kazen, D-23, Martin Frost, D-24, and Manuel Lujan, R-1 (N.M.), voted "yea."

Reps. Bob Eckhardt, D-8, and Henry Gonzalez, D-20, voted "nay."

Reps. Jack Brooks, D-9, Richard White, D-16, Tom Loeffler, R-21, and Harold Runnels, D-2 (N.M.), did not vote.

AIRPORT NOISE By a vote of 195 for and 192 against, the House approved a parliamentary shortcut that cleared the way for a final vote on legislation relaxing certain federal noise standards at airports. However, the closeness of this tally prompted supporters of the bill to delay the final vote until the Second Session of the 96th Congress, at which time they hope to have a guaranteed majority.

The language in question would delay the application of noise limits to certain two and three-engine planes.

Rep. Gene Snyder, R-Ky., a supporter, said that under the legislation "there would be a little more noise for awhile but less noise in the final analysis."

Rep. Millicent Fenwick, R-N.J., an opponent, said: "We cannot relax noise control provisions. Noise is another form of pollution, and we ought to recognize it as such."

Members voting "nay" opposed a relaxation of federal noise standards.

Hall, Wilson, Collins, Roberts, Mattox, Gramm, Archer, Pickle, Leath, Wright, Hightower, Wyatt, de la Garza, Stenholm, Leland, Hance, Gonzalez, Loeffler, Kazen, Frost and Lujan voted "yea."

Eckhardt and Paul voted "nay."
Brooks, White and Runnels did not vote.

NATIONAL VISITOR CENTER The House rejected, 139 for and 247 against, a bill to spend $39 million to complete the conversion of Washington's Union Station into a combination tourist center and train station.

The project was launched by Congress in 1967. Costing more than $41 million in public money, it has been clouded by massive cost overruns and allegations of illegal contracting procedures. Critics point to an uncompleted parking garage and a pit dug into the train station floor as scars left by the ill-fated project.

This bill (HR 3927) sought to salvage the venture by completing the parking garage and reclaiming much of Union Station for train purposes, among other projects.

Rep. Elliott Levitas, D-Ga., a supporter, said congressmen have a choice. "We can let a very beautiful facility, the Union Station building, collapse and deteriorate... or we can pass this legislation..."

Rep. Delbert Latta, R-Ohio, an opponent, said it is time for the House to "stand up and say 'enough' and stop this endless drain on the Treasury."

Members voting "yea" favored the bill to salvage the National Visitor Center project that all sides agree has been a boondoggle.

Wilson, Roberts, Mattox, Eckhardt, Pickle, Wright, Hightower, Leland and Gonzalez voted "yea."

Hall, Collins, Gramm, Archer, Leath, Wyatt, de la Garza, Stenholm, Hance, Paul, Kazen, Frost and Lujan voted "nay."

Brooks, White, Loeffler and Runnels did not vote.

SENATE
The Senate confirmed, 43 for and 25 against, the nomination of L. T. Senter Jr. as federal judge for the Northern District of Mississippi. The 45-year-old Senter is now a Mississippi state judge.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., who had picked Senter for the nomination, called him "well-seasoned as a trial judge" and said "I am satisfied that I found the man who is suitable based on character, temperament and experience."

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., an opponent, quoted the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law as concluding: "Judge Senter's record demonstrates that he is not free of bias toward black people and that he has not demonstrated a commitment to equal justice under law."

Senators voting "nay" opposed the Senter nomination.

Sens. John Tower, R, Pete Domenici, R (N.M.), and Harrison Schmitt, R (N.M.), voted "yea."

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D, did not vote.

WASHINGTON SUBWAY The Senate passed, 66 for and 23 against, a bill that commits Congress to completing Metro, the subway serving metropolitan Washington. Critics say Metro is the most expensive public works project in the history of mankind, but Metro officials say that it ranks second, behind the pyramids.

The bill authorizes $1.7 billion through fiscal 1987 to build the last 40 miles of the 101-mile network. Total federal-state (80-20) costs of Metro are projected at $7.2 billion. The bill was sent to the White House.

Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., a supporter, said "it is in the national interest that this system be finished...It serves the nation's capital and the nation's capital has a special place in the heart and mind of every American."

Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., an opponent, said Missourians consider the Metro-funding level "a bit too generous" because St. Louis and Kansas City together have received only $124 million in mass transit funding in the last five years.

Senators voting "yea" favored completion of the Washington area subway.
Bentsen, Domenici and Schmitt voted "yea."
Tower voted "nay."
