

Rain Pelts Pacific Northwest

By The Associated Press

More rain fell in the Pacific Northwest Sunday, triggering flooding and avalanches from California to Washington.

In northern California, heavy rain and high winds kept some roads closed, and flood warnings were posted as many rivers approached flood stage.

A fierce thunderstorm lashed the Sacramento area and moved toward Sierra Nevada foothills.

In southwestern Washington, flood warnings remained in effect after several days of heavy rains, but little flooding was reported. At White Pass in the Cascade Mountains, an avalanche Sunday morning buried three trailer truck rigs on U.S. 12. No injuries were reported. The highway was temporarily closed.

In western Oregon, rivers receded after overflowing their banks Saturday, and most people who left their homes in anticipation of flooding had returned.

In Portland, about 7,000 homes and businesses remained without electricity early Sunday, and some 21,000 were without telephone service.

Interstate 80N remained closed to traffic through the Columbia Gorge on Sunday, but police escorted convoys of trucks and cars through the area every 1 1/2 hours.

Snow fell in the northern Rockies and over the western half of the upper Great Lakes region.

In the east, rain showers dotted the south Atlantic Coast states, and rain pushed into the mid-Mississippi Valley. Some freezing rain and sleet was reported across parts of eastern Iowa, northwest Illinois and southwest Wisconsin.

Skies were sunny across much of the southern half of the Plains and the Dakotas.

in Caribou, Maine, to 84 in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The national weather forecast for Monday called for rain-showers along the Pacific Coast and Plateau regions. Scattered snow showers were expected in Montana and Wyoming, with a combination of snow, freezing rain and rain in Minnesota.

In the East, rain was predicted from North Carolina through the north Atlantic Coast states. In the rest of the nation, partly sunny weather was expected.

High temperatures in the 70s were predicted for the Florida Peninsula and southern half of Texas. From South Carolina through the southern half of Arizona and into the Great Basin and California, temperatures in the 50s and 60s were expected.

Below freezing readings were predicted across Montana, northern Minnesota and extreme northern Maine. Elsewhere, highs in the 30s and 40s were expected.

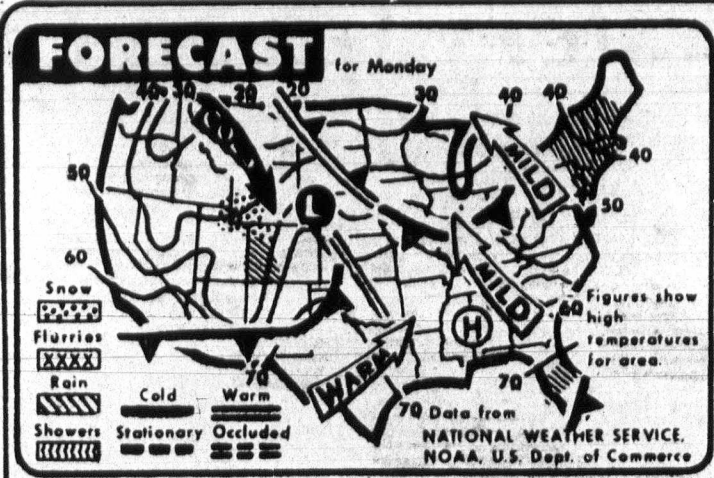

Here is the mid-afternoon weather in some key cities around the nation:

Eastern U.S.: Atlanta 39, windy; Boston 27, fair; Buffalo 31, cloudy; Caribou 15, fair; Cincinnati 43, cloudy; Cleveland 41, windy; Detroit 37, partly cloudy; Indianapolis 43, cloudy; Knoxville 38, rain; Miami 80, partly cloudy; Nashville 54, cloudy; New York 32, partly cloudy; Philadelphia 30, cloudy; Pittsburgh 38, partly cloudy; Richmond 34, partly cloudy; Washington 34, cloudy.

Central U.S.: Bismarck 30, fair; Chicago 36, cloudy; Denver 51, fair; Des Moines 46, windy; Fort Worth 60, fair; Kansas City 44, windy; New Orleans 62, cloudy; St. Louis 35, cloudy.

Western U.S.: Los Angeles 61, drizzle; Phoenix 63, cloudy; Salt Lake City 47, showers; San Diego 64, foggy; San Francisco 61, rain; Seattle 36, rain.

Canada: Montreal 23, cloudy; Toronto 28, partly cloudy.

Lubbock and vicinity: Partly cloudy and warm. Highs in the upper 70s, lows in the mid 30s. Winds westerly at 20 to 30 mph. No chance of precipitation.

Man Holding Two Crewmen Surrenders

FREEPORT (AP) — A man accused of holding two crewmen hostage overnight aboard a shrimp boat in the Gulf of Mexico was en route to the Houston FBI office Sunday afternoon.

The suspect, identified as Robin Stansbury of Brownsville, surrendered to an FBI boarding party about 8:10 a.m. CST. An FBI spokesman said agents would have a statement later in the afternoon.

The FBI caught up with the boat 20 miles off Freeport, on the upper Texas coast. Petty Officer Joe Gibson said the agents, one of them skilled in terrorist operations, boarded the 68-foot Easy Rider and arrested the man.

Crewman Ronald Bush, 24, and Jack Waller Jr., captain of the boat, said the three men left Brownsville Jan. 2 and had been fishing off the Louisiana coast near Morgan City.

The boat is owned by Jack Waller Sr. of Brownsville.

"He (the suspect) told me he wanted to go home, that it was an emergency. We didn't have any indication that he was upset. He was real quiet," Waller said.

Waller said the man then forced the other two into the hold, where the shrimp is kept on ice.

"The only part I hated was going into the hold, but if somebody's holding a gun on you and the safety is off, you do it," he said.

Waller said the suspect didn't know how to operate boats and would have run into trouble trying to operate the boat himself.

"He told us he wouldn't hurt us if we'd just take him home," Bush said.

"He said there was an emergency. But yes, we were still worried. When someone's holding a gun on you, you're going to be worried."

Bush said the man had a rifle and a pistol, and Waller said he didn't think he knew much about guns.

"He said earlier he was trying to shoot at birds with the safety on," Waller said.

Gibson said the FBI agents were aboard the Coast Guard cutter Point Nowell, which had been shadowing the captive vessel since the ordeal began nearly 24 hours earlier in the Gulf.

SUNDAY OUTING — Temperatures in Lubbock climbed to the high 70s Sunday, prompting Jim Cunningham, Carla Worley and dog Chepti to take an outing to Maxie Lake where they took in some sunshine and some of the sights. ## Anti-Nuke Protesters Seeking Trial

GLEN ROSE (AP) — Members of the Comanche Peak Life Force, who twice have been arrested for demonstrations at the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant, said Sunday they have not decided what they will do if trespass charges are not filed against them.

"Obviously we're curious, but I can't really say what our strategy will be," said Dallas attorney Tom Mills, who helped defend the protesters.

"We like having the trials because we like the subpoena power and the publicity. When you get publicity, you educate more people," Mills said.

Mills said the trials of two protesters arrested in a June demonstration have been delayed twice, and no trials have been scheduled for others arrested in the June protest at the plant, near Glen Rose in north central Texas.

Of the two cases that have been tried, one defendant is in jail for refusing to pay a fine and another is pending appeal.

"We just don't know what they're going to do. We don't know how that's going to affect future protests, if they are not even going to prosecute them," Mills said.

Somerville County Sheriff Frank Laramore, citing expense to the taxpayers, has said he will not file charges against 103 protesters arrested during the November demonstration.

But Texas Utilities Generating Co., operator of the plant, still could press trespass charges, as could the Somerville County attorney.

Johnson County Attorney Tommy Alteras, who acted as special prosecutor in the trials of two protesters, said Sunday that TUGCO pressed charges against 48 demonstrators the June protest and has the option of charging participants in the November demonstration.

The sheriff said he had not consulted Somerville County Attorney Charles Jordan before reaching his decision. Jordan could not be reached for comment, but a secretary in his office said "at the moment, there are no plans" to file charges.

Ray Ward, spokesman for Dallas Power & Light, one of three owners of the power plant, refused comment on the charges.

Evacu

In announcing his decision Friday, Laramore said trying the protesters would be "a burden on the taxpayers."

"I think they (the protesters) have got their point over to the people here," he said.

"Mainly, that's what they were trying to do. Their actions are to try to get these people here educated as to what's going on, and I think they've done that."

"The power plant could file. The county attorney could file," he said. "So it could be filed, but I'm not going to file it."

Members of the Comanche Peak Life Force were escorted onto buses Nov. 25 after scaling the plant's outer fence with homemade ladders. They were arrested on Class C misdemeanor criminal trespass charges, punishable by a maximum fine of $200.

Somerville County, one of the poorest in the state, simply could not afford to summon 70 prospective jurors and witnesses for 103 separate trials, Laramore said.

Pastor Of Large Baptist Church Hospitalized

DALLAS (AP) — Dr. W.A. Criswell, the 70-year-old firebrand pastor of the world's largest Southern Baptist Church, was hospitalized Sunday for "exhaustion," a Dallas hospital spokesman said.

The First Baptist Church in Dallas pastor was admitted to Baylor University Medical Center near his East Dallas home "due to exhaustion and testing for cause," said hospital spokesman George Tsamis.

Criswell's personal physician, who asked that his name not be used, said the pastor was "doing very well."

"He had not slept much last night (Saturday night). He is under a very heavy schedule, including completing a book," the doctor said. "We have persuaded him to remain in the hospital for a few days, (but) he possibly might be free a week. We just want to run some tests, blood exams and lab studies to look for any specific problems."

Criswell celebrated his 35th anniversary at First Baptist with a gala ceremony this fall. Widely known for his fundamentalist views within the denomination, he served as president of the Southern Baptist Convention.

He often has drawn criticism for his outspoken views on world affairs and drew rebukes from other religious leaders for his reelection endorsement of President Gerald Ford on the steps of the church.

Congregation members credit Criswell with massive membership drives, and the church's congregation now numbers well over 20,000. Evangelist Billy Graham and commentator Paul Harvey are among its members.

The church and its various foundations, located in downtown Dallas, also own several blocks of surrounding property, including buildings that house the Criswell Center for Biblical Studies, two gyms and work-out facilities and classrooms for the thousands of Sunday school students.

The church also has an extensive television studio set-up, which broadcasts Sunday sermons and special revival meetings.

'Witch' Trial Jury Selection Resumes Today

PLAINVIEW (AP) — Selection of a jury resumes today in the trial of Loy Dean Stone, a self-professed witch accused of the Halloween murder of a teenage girl.

Defense attorney James Doores said one reason the selection of a jury, which began last Monday, is taking so long is that attorneys must try to detect any biases against witches on the part of prospective jurors.

Stone and his wife, Louise, both members of the Church of Wicca, a witches' group, are charged with murder in the Halloween 1977 killing of 15-year-old Roxanne Casas. Mrs. Stone will be tried later.

Miss Casas was killed by a shotgun blast when a pickup truck in which she and four other teen-agers were riding pulled into the Stones' driveway to turn around. Two other passengers were injured.

So far, 13 prospective jurors have been selected for a panel of 32 from

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. In 1970, I inherited 13 shares of stock. My "cost basis," established at the time the estate was settled, was $543.27. The stock has really gone down the tube since then. Late last year, I got a quotation from a broker at 20 cents a share. I would like to establish a capital loss, for income tax purposes. But, because of the small amount involved, brokers don't want to handle the sale of this stock.

Can I report this stock at $2.60 — 20 cents a share — as of Dec. 31 and take a capital loss for the difference on my 1979 income tax return?

A. Nope. The rules are that you can't claim a capital loss on a security that became only partially worthless. As long as a stock has any value at all, you are supposed to sell it in order to establish a capital loss.

Some brokerage houses will handle small transactions such as this for good customers. And some banks which send a lot of business to brokerage houses can arrange for this to be done — again, for good customers. If you don't have an active account at a brokerage firm, try your friendly banker.

If you draw a blank, you may still have a way out of your dilemma. When a stock becomes worthless, you are allowed to report it as having a "zero" value as of Dec. 31 of the year in which it became worthless. And you report the entire cost basis of the stock as a capital loss on Schedule D of the federal income tax return you file for that year.

The Internal Revenue Service will normally accept a letter from a brokerage house stating that there is "no market" for a stock as proof that it is worthless. If you can get such a letter, you could be in the clear with the revenueeers. You can't sell those 13 shares. That means there's no market for them.

Q. I am 62, retired and have about $50,000 in a money market mutual fund. I would like to move a portion of this amount into bonds, in order to look into the high yields that are now available on long-term bonds.

I have the choice of buying separate bond issues and paying commissions, or of transferring the money, at no commission cost, into one of the bond mutual funds managed by the same company that runs the money market fund. If I transfer into a bond fund, I can continue to reinvest my dividends but my investment would be subject to the variables of the marketplace.

Do you have a recommendation?

A. By buying separate bonds, you would also be subject to those marketplace variables.

Bomb Explodes In Little Havana Cigar Factory For Second Time

MIAMI (AP) — A homemade bomb rocked a cigar factory in Little Havana on Sunday for the second time in a year, causing damage but no injuries, police said.

Police said the Padron Hand Made Cigars and Pilato Cigars Inc., building was "significantly damaged" shortly after midnight by a bomb that exploded at the front entrance of the building.

There were no injuries, said Miami Police spokesman Harry Cunill.

Shortly after the explosion, an anonymous caller told The Associated Press an anti-Castro group of Cuban exiles was responsible for the blast. The caller said the bombing was the work of Omega 7, an anti-communist group that has claimed responsibility for bombings at the Cuban mission in New York.

The factory makes cigars that were boycotted by some anti-Castro Cuban exiles after its owner was photographed handing a cigar to Cuban President Fidel Castro.

Fire Department Inspector George Billberry, who lives 15 blocks from the store, said the blast "almost blew me out of bed."

Damage to the two-story, half-block long building was confined to the first floor office area, he said. The front of the structure was charred and its interior was in rubble.

The gas tank of a passing car was set on fire by the blast, but the flames were extinguished quickly. Firemen said the explosion ignited a rag being used as a gasoline-tank cap.

Windows were blown out of a cafe next door and an unoccupied service station across the street. A neon sign on a nearby bar was also shattered.

Investigators said they haven't determined what kind of explosive was used.

A bombing at the factory last July 26 caused about $1,000 damage but injured no one.

Evacuation Urged For People Near Asbestos Mills

GLOBE, Ariz. (AP) — Gov. Bruce Babbitt has pledged state aid to evacuate 120 to 150 people from a mobile home park contaminated by nearby asbestos mills and waste piles.

Federal health officials late last week urged that the trailer park be evacuated "as expeditiously as possible."

Representatives of the homeowners and health officials will meet again today and Tuesday to discuss the evacuation of Mountain View Estates, a subdivision with about 40 mobile homes.

"We ought to try to leave in an orderly fashion within a week or two," the governor said Saturday.

Officials of the Arizona Department of Health Services met Saturday with residents of Mountain View to deliver Babbitt's message.

Babbitt also sent word that his office is developing a plan to provide temporary housing and would declare a state of emergency to get state aid.

The governor's office Saturday released a letter from the U.S. Department of Health, Education & Welfare's Center for Disease Control in Atlanta. It said residents of the trailer park should evacuate as "expeditiously as possible" and that access to the park should be restricted.

Babbitt said the letter, sent late Friday to Dr. Suzanne Dandoy, director of the health department, confirms his concern about the site. The recommendation came from Dr. William H. Foege, assistant surgeon general for HEW's Atlanta center.

The governor visited the trailer park Dec. 23 and warned residents of the dangers of exposure to asbestos, a known cancer-causing agent.

Besides evacuating the families, Foege called for disposal and decontamination plans and said some of the areas "may need to be restricted from further use until such time that risk to human health is eliminated."

One of the residents, Sarah Luckie, cried Saturday as she explained that her 2-year-old daughter, Holly, had played outside "all summer long."

Eunice West, another resident, argued that "we should have been evacuated in November when they first told us that the longer we stay here the greater the risks against our children and us."

Many residents said their children had played in or near the asbestos tailings for months and even years before word of the danger of mineral contamination became public.

A Chamber of Commerce newspaper column in December called the situation "farical" and criticized state officials for the "tremendous disservice they have done" by creating bad publicity for Globe.

Residents spoke of feeling ostracized and being treated like lepers, saying they also were besieged by offers to buy their furnishings in the event they had to move out.

"We've lost everything," Mrs. West said. "We'll never be able to sell our homes but we want out of here for good."

Mrs. West showed a reporter a Christmas card from Geri Neal, whose husband, Jack, developed the subdivision and owned the abandoned asbestos mill in the middle of the subdivision when the development was begun.

The card read: "Thanks for all the publicity. It sure is helping our business. May the Lord show you the right way."

CAREERS

By JOYCE LAIN KENNEDY

Dear Joyce: I'm going to college after a nine year absence and need help deciding on a career. Ideas?

—K.B., Louisville, Ky.

The two-year technical college—also called a technical institute—is a solid answer for many in your shoes.

New graduates of these fairly scarce institutions who have acquired high-demand skills are doing better than many of their liberal arts counterparts, both in job opportunities and in pay.

A survey of 553 employers last month by the Bureau of Naional Affairs, inc., illustrates the job market: nearly half of the companies reported difficulty in hiring technicians.

At one public institution where half the students live on campus—the Texas State Technical Institute at Waco been no let-up in recruitment at all, despite the recession. Graduates have multiple job offers and Richardson expects the starting pay for recent grads to average about $14,000, up from $13,000 a year earlier.

Among the 50 or so occupational programs at this converted Air Force base, most run two years, some only one year. Tuition is very low. While the school's main goal is to train Texans for jobs in the state, about 5 percent of students are from other states or countries.

At the Waco campus, demand is particularly high for electronics majors. Instrumentation technology graduates command an average $19,000 annually to start, and laser electro-optics graduates are being offered $16,000 and up. Other high-demand technologies include water and wastewater, computer science, and civil engineering.

At the Muskingum Area Technical College in Ohio, placement officer Herbert Davis says recruitment has slowed only a hair recently. While graduates of many program areas are receiving lots of job offers, those of electronics, environmental quality control and petroleum technologies are getting offers of $15,000 to $17,000 per year. Tuition is modest and out-of-state students are accepted.

The vocational education division of the state office of education can help you locate nearby technical colleges. ## AN EDITORIAL:

Mrs. Gandhi Leans To Left

THE FUTURE course of India in the teeming sub-continent of Asia and its relations with its neighbors have been a matter of concern and conjecture for several years. After taking numerous turns and twists, it now seems the nation of some 648 million may be headed back into at least a sympathetic role with Moscow.

Under its newly elected nominal leader, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, India's official position may be headed in that direction. The masses, except as they are herded by propaganda and threat of hunger, probably couldn't care less.

AFTER MRS. GANDHI'S resounding victory in national elections, it was announced that she opposed both Soviet and Western "interference" in Afghanistan.

As things developed, and the U.S. promised increased aid to Pakistan, India's neighbor and foe, Mrs. Gandhi let it be known that she "accepted" Russian explanation of its invasion of Afghanistan and was so instructing India's United Nations envoy.

On the surface, it might seem that India, with enough problems for six nations, might not be too important in the immediate turmoil sweeping that part of the world.

The truth is that if Mrs. Gandhi takes her nation, even at only the government level, back into the Soviet sphere—where she had been prior to her March 1977 defeat—Moscow will have laid a path of influence from Indochina in Southeast Asia to the mouth of the Persian Gulf, and one more link will have been forged in Russia's grand design of finally reaching the Persian Gulf and Indian Ocean.

MRS. GANDHI, the daughter of the late Jawaharlal Nehru, India's first prime minister after it gained its freedom from Britain in 1948, is wasting little time in asserting her authority along with her Indira-Congress Party.

Her election triumph was so sweeping she will have enough votes to push through about any sort of "reform" legislation she may wish.

Observers, both in India and the West, are watching to see if she makes the mistake of using the harsh emergency powers which helped bring about her downfall two years ago. At that time, Mrs. Gandhi ruled as a virtual dictator after having instituted press censorship, forced sterilization, curtailment of civil rights and the jailing of thousands.

During her absence, successive governments failed to stem India's growing population problem, its economic woes or its own widespread corruption. Now, millions, including those in the West, wait and watch.

AN EDITORIAL:

An 'Exorcise' In Hostility

THE FERVOR with which Iranian radicals have been condemning our "demon America" brings into sharp focus once again the fact that capitalism is aggressively under attack throughout the world.

Dr. Ernest van den Haag, sociologist of repute with the New School for Social Research in New York, argues that antipathy to capitalism comes primarily from intellectuals and those who have been duped by them.

Intellectuals resent the market because it makes people pay for economic value," he writes. "Moral value is left out in the cold—and so are intellectuals, who are the producers of moral value for public consumption." Thus, their hostility, he reasons.

Still, van den Haag maintains, capitalism with all its imperfections is the most successful economic system the world has ever seen.

CAPITALISM, he writes, provides "far more people with far more comforts—and with far more freedom—than any other system ever did or does."

Despite this success and perhaps because of it, capitalism provides an easy target for those who would attack it.

We find Iranian rabble and U.S. academics of one mind when it comes to capitalism's real and imagined defects—while they casually gloss over the dismal poverty and oppression in most socialist countries," writes Edwin Feulner, president of The Heritage Foundation.

To better understand both this "demon" and the reason it is so tenaciously pursued by its detractors, Feulner said a book co-authored by van den Haag, Capitalism, Sources of Hostility, proved enlightening.

THE BOOK examines what Feulner characterizes as "this most perplexing paradox: the more successful the system, the less popular it is—even with the very people who benefit most from it."

A second book, titled Will Capitalism Survive?, a brief volume of essays and commentaries, provided additional insight.

The lead essay is by Paul Johnson, controversial former editor of the New Statesman and self-proclaimed reformed British socialist.

In his spirited defense of industrial capitalism, Johnson says:

"Judged simply by its capacity to create wealth and distribute it (capitalism qualifies as) the greatest single blessing ever bestowed on humanity."

This is the demon the Iranian zealots seek by shrill rhetoric and despicable behavior to exorcise from the soul of America.

M. STANTON EVANS:

We've Got Oil To Burn If We Will Dig For It

WASHINGTON—For several years now the idea has been pounded into our heads that the United States and the world in general are running out of oil.

This alleged fact of life has been used to explain the recent surge of shortages at the gas pump, and to justify a no-growth, conservationist ethic as an appropriate reply from government.

Confronted by natural depletion, we allegedly have no choice except to learn to do with less, and to develop alternative energy resources.

There has never been much evidence to support this thesis, but since it fits the regulatory mind-set of the era, it has generally prevailed in political and press discussion.

Now, however, the fact that we have plenty of gas and oil available to us—if we will simply go out and get it—is beginning to make some headway in the media.

WITNESS A RECENT article in the Wall Street Journal by petroleum geologist Michael Halbouty. He observes that though the U.S. has been heavily explored for oil compared to other countries, much more exploratory drilling can and should be done here.

He notes that the oil potential of the Western U.S. has not been adequately explored at all, while the Appalachian region in the East has high, untapped potential.

Equally important, Halbouty points out that there is considerable oil out there awaiting us which has already been found—some 300 billion barrels of the 450 billion so far discovered.

This is the harder-to-get oil which must be retrieved with secondary and tertiary methods, and perhaps 30 percent of it (or about as much as the U.S. has so far produced in all its history) can be recovered on this basis.

IN COMPARISON to the U.S. of course, the rest of the world has hardly been explored at all. Halbouty notes that 73 percent of the 3.4 million oil wells drilled in the world through 1978 are in the U.S.

Similar points were made a few weeks back by Jude Wanniski, author of The Way The World Works, in an article for Harper's. Wanniski comments that of 645,000 exploratory oil wells drilled on earth by 1975, 482,000—roughly 75 percent—were drilled in the continental U.S.

More than 95 percent of the total have been drilled in the industrial countries of the world including the U.S., while Africa, Asia, and Latin America have been relatively untouched.

If all this be so, where does the petroleum shortage come from? The answer, both writers make clear, is government policy.

THE REASON so many countries of the world have had so little oil prospecting is that they have economic institutions hostile to investment and exploration: Government ownership or tight control of land, lack of property rights in minerals, nationalization of business holdings, punitive treatment of business profits, etc.

Because oil prospecting is a high-risk venture anyway, nations with such economic conditions are not good candidates for expensive exploration. The U.S. and other societies that have historically offered greater access to mineral resources and greater rewards for risk-taking have attracted most of the economic action in this area.

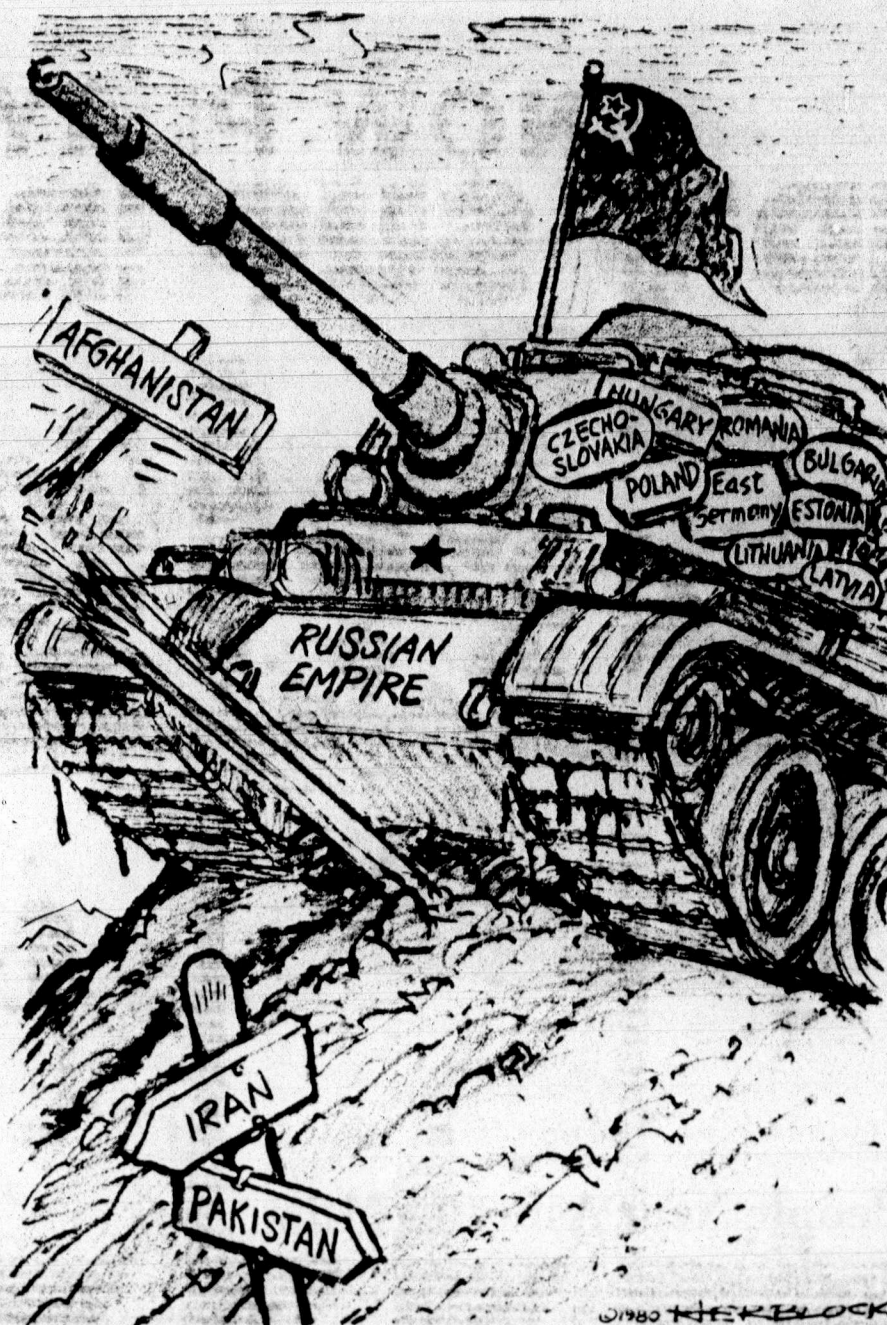

Unfortunately, the U.S. has taken to emulating other nations in such matters, rather than the other way around.

WANNISKI, FOR example, deplors the tendency to close off more and more U.S. lands from mineral exploration. Before the Carter presidency, 500 million acres—three times the size of Texas—were unavailable for such prospecting. Carter has added another 185 million to the total.

In addition, our government has inhibited petroleum exploration and production with a straitjacket of price controls, and is now moving to replace these with a "windfall profits tax" that would have much the same effect.

These are solid barriers to high-risk wild-cat drilling, and also stand in the way of developing new, higher-cost techniques for recovering some of that 300 billion barrels already discovered and waiting in the ground.

There is, in other words, no natural shortage of petroleum in the U.S., and even less is there a shortage throughout the world. What there is instead is an entirely artificial shortage, created by the practices of government.

Slips In The Plight

NOVAK

KUWAIT—Angry U.S. diplomats throughout the Persian Gulf spent Christmas in lonely chambers with pet dogs while their "evacuated" families were home in the states, symbolizing this harsh fact: U.S. prestige in the Arab world is lower than at any time since the late 1960s.

It is not just that diplomats miss their wives and children, needlessly sent packing by official panic in Washington after the U.S. Embassy in Pakistan was sacked.

They feel it is a gratuitous insult to friendly, pro-

ROBERT WALTERS:

Fired Up For Coal

BILLINGS, Mont.—The cowboys and Indians are on the same side this time, but they're being trounced by a powerful coalition of government policy-makers, multinational corporations and millions of energy-hungry consumers.

The stakes in this contemporary range war aren't the West's bountiful pasture and farm lands but what lies beneath the ground—the richest deposit of coal on the face of the earth, known as the Fort Union Formation.

More than two-thirds of those coal reserves are in the West, concentrated in North and South Dakota, Montana, Colorado, Wyoming and Utah. The size of both the coal deposits and the efforts to extract them is staggering, with the Fort Union Formation estimated to contain at least 15 trillion tons.

IN NORTHEAST Montana, Burlington Northern is planning a strip mine/power plant synthetic fuel complex near the tiny town of Circle that will consume 35,500 tons of coal daily to produce anhydrous ammonia for fertilizer, methanol-methyl fuel and synthetic diesel fuel.

Tenneco Inc. hopes to build an 880-megawatt mine-mouth power plant and a facility to produce synthetic natural gas near the small town of Wibaux in east-central Montana.

Already in operation near Colstrip, Mont., is a pair of 350-megawatt mine-mouth power plants.

The Colstrip developers want to construct two more units, each with a capacity of 700 megawatts, but area ranchers and the Northern Cheyenne Indians, whose reservation lies just south of Colstrip, are waging a determined battle to head off future expansion.

ON THE other side of the reservation, a consortium headed by the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. plans to open a strip mine to extract two million tons of coal per year from a reserve believed to hold more than 186 million tons.

Near Beulah, N.D., Michigan Consolidated Gas wants to build a $500 million coal gasification project, then market its holdings of 3.5 billion tons to customers in the Detroit area.

The Los Angeles Department of Power and Water is building two 750-megawatt coal-fired generating units at the Intermountain Power Project near Lyndyl, Utah, with most of the electricity destined for Southern California.

RESIDENTS OF the region generally are willing to share their coal with the rest of the nation, but many are bitter about the widespread adoption of mine-mouth generation, a technique that saves money for the utilities because it eliminates the cost of transporting coal to urban areas for traditional load-center generation.

Montana already produces almost three times as much electricity as it consumes—and the state is paying the price in terms of air pollution and diversion of scarce water resources.

Even with emission control devices, the huge power plants spew into the atmosphere sulfur dioxide, nitrogen dioxide, lead, fluorides and other contaminants that pose a danger not only to humans but also to cattle, horses and other livestock as well as wheat, alfalfa, oats and other crops.

JAY HARRIS:

Time For Decision

THE AMERICAN people and their would-be leaders must soon come to grips with some major decisions.

Not only at home, but abroad. For better or worse, Election '80 may turn into The Great Debate of 1980.

Already, there are signs that the whole spectrum of U.S. foreign and domestic policy, which in many ways is becoming more and more interrelated, will play a key role in the upcoming Presidential contest.

The mood of a restive nation, beset with double digit inflation, a growing energy crisis and the grave threat to world peace since World War II, will play a key role in not only how the campaign is conducted, but who wins.

BECAUSE OF that, it is important that some hard facts be driven home early on.

Thus far, the American people have been most patient with President Carter in his efforts to resolve the Iranian hostage issue. Although a seething anger swept the nation in the wake of the seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, most citizens have been willing to give the President a chance to resolve the issue peacefully if possible.

Now, as hopes for a quick solution and the safe release of the hostages dim, the mood of the citizenry is turning angry again. Too, the President's "punitive" punishment of halting grain sales, high technology and fishing rights to the Soviet Union is a double-edged sword. It may hurt more Americans than Russians.

So, what should be done, and when?

BEFORE WE come to those answers, some things need to be understood.

In the first place, Moscow's bold invasion of Afghanistan has changed the whole Mideast picture. Although the President and State Department should not have been surprised, both were stunned.

The only unusual thing about the naked display of contempt for the West and the rest of the world was the timing. And even that can be understood. Russia made a calculated decision: 1. To crush a growing rebellion in a newly-acquired satellite, a fact many in Washington wouldn't admit, and 2. It fits into Moscow's grand design to move into the Persian Gulf.

Even now, far too many who should know better are saying, "Ah, the Russian Bear has bitten off more than he can chew. Afghanistan will become Moscow's Vietnam."

WELL, IN THE first place, Afghanistan isn't Vietnam, in terrain, in massive, coordinated, well-armed resistance.

And Russia isn't the U.S. Moscow's ruthless madmen will not make the mistakes America did in fighting a political war. The Red Army will crush any and all opposition. After all, how much resistance is there left in Cuba, Angola, Ethiopia, South Yemen, Hungary, Czechoslovakia?

The Soviets will round up any dissidents and ship them to concentration camps. There will be no anti-war protesters marching in Soviet cities, nor celebrities going to Afghanistan to empathize with the poor, down-trodden Afghans.

Nor will the Russian people or news media have a chance to debate or vote on what should be done. Nyet, Nyet! And, most importantly, the Free World really will not be able to come to the aid of Afghanistan in the same way in which Russia backed Vietnam. It's a whole new ball game with a Red referee.

SO, HAVING said that, what do we do, where do we go?

There are those who argue that the trade restraints were "about the most we could do." Actually, they are the least and probably should not have been imposed at all.

Were it possible, a complete boycott of the Summer Olympics in Moscow by the West and Third World would do more to damage Russian prestige in front of its own people and the world than anything else.

But, along with the piously hypocritical Olympic backers, we agree that sports should not be involved in politics. As an aside, we find the stance ironic in view of the fact that so many nations and the Olympic Games have done just that in relation to South Africa and Taiwan.

Actually, what should be done entails grave decisions which every adult American should understand. The U.S., alone or hopefully in concert with other Western nations—Britain, West Germany, Japan, France, and the moderates of the Third World—must mount a military "response" to the Soviet threat. Not an armed confrontation as such, but a military stance such as Mideast bases that says to Moscow, "This is it. No further!"

NONE OTHER than former Sec. of State Henry Kissinger argues that the U.S., in particular must make up its mind on a worldwide, long-range foreign policy.

The controversial former official makes the point that the U.S. must formulate a foreign policy that has the backing of both political parties and the American people.

"We have suffered since the late '60s," he recently told The New York Times' James Reston, "from a lack of consensus on the role of power in the world, the nature of the philosophy we should represent in the world."

In brief, we must make up our minds, and stick to it, just what sort of role this nation is to play—help defend those who think as we do, protect our vital geo-political interests in the Mideast (and its oil), in Africa (and its minerals), in other areas (with their peoples).

Are we ready to take such a world stance, realizing that we can't be an island unto ourselves, be willing to take the risks inherent, including the costs in money, time, and perhaps lives?

That is what the next few months are all about. Decision '80 has a lot more to do with the Eighties than just naming a President. The fate of a nation, perhaps the world, is at stake.

...Pass It On

TO SAY actor Charles Bronson got to the top by luck would be ridiculous. A moment of luck didn't hurt any, though. As he played an Indian in one scene, the script called for him to stretch out his arms to the heavens and call forth thunder. As he did so, real thunder clapped, and they picked it up on the sound track.

Was widely reported that children of mothers who smoke cigarettes during their pregnancies tend to be smaller than normal. Less well publicized was the claim that such children also are liable to be hyperactive. Claim of some medecines is they don't do as well in school, therefore

Brutality Charges Tarnish Image Of 'Friendly British Bobby'

LONDON (AP) — Jimmy Kelly, singing loudly after an evening's drinking in the Oak Tree pub in Liverpool, was weaving his way home in the moonlight when he met two police officers.

One hour later Kelly was dead. The questions of how and why he died last June have created a furor over alleged police brutality that is tarnishing the traditional image of the friendly British bobby in helmet and big boots.

Since Kelly's death, dozens of other cases of alleged injury and death while in police custody — some of them years old — have been revived. Critics claim they were never properly investigated.

The House of Commons returns from vacation Monday and seems almost certain to be met by demands for an inquiry. Liverpool police say they found Kelly unconscious. The official autopsy, which mentioned no injuries, said he died of heart failure.

But five persons say they saw the arresting officers punch, kick and club the 53-year-old laborer. They also say a prowl car deliberately drove slowly into him, knocking him down near his home.

Dr. John Torry, a pathologist hired by the family to conduct an independent autopsy, reported that Kelly had a double fracture of the jaw, a crushed vertebra, 32 cuts and bruises and extensive hemorrhaging. He said the death was "unnatural" and was due to heart failure brought on by multiple injuries, shock and alcohol.

Torry added that he encountered "considerable obstruction" from the authorities before he was able to complete the autopsy.

After questions in the House of Commons, the Home Office disclosed that 245 men died in police custody in the 1970s, 143 of them in police cells and the others on their way to or in hospitals. According to the statement, only 66 of the deaths were from natural causes. Sixty-two were by misadventure, such as alcoholism, drug overdose or inhalation of vomit; 39 accidental — brain hemorrhage or fight injuries; 36 suicides; two manslaughters, and 15 open verdicts — an inquest term meaning there was not enough information to show how a person died.

In the 25 remaining cases, there was no inquest or the outcome is not known, the Home Office said.

"No policeman was ever prosecuted in any of these deaths, and it seems to me that some people are above the law," Labor Party legislator Michael Meacher told The Associated Press.

It was questioning from Meacher, a former junior minister for health, industry and trade, that produced the Home Office statement, seven weeks after he asked for it.

"The figures might be low for some foreign countries, but they are disturbingly high by British standards," he said.

"There were seven deaths in police custody in 1970 and 48 in 1978. I don't know why it's rising. There is more violence in all Western society, but I doubt if that explains it. These cases tend to happen in big urban areas and alcohol may play a part."

Meacher said he will ask for an inquiry into the workings of the office of the Director of Public Prosecutions. The DPP, headed by top civil servant Sir Thomas Hetherington, decides whether evidence is sufficient to support a prosecution.

Fueling the fire is the annual report of the government-appointed Police Complaints Board, which said that in 1978 it investigated 2,230 allegations from the public of police brutality and recommended disciplinary action in none.

"A remarkably clean record," commented the Conservative tabloid, Daily Star.

A spokesman for the DPP said: "The figures may seem rather one-sided but the public would not believe the number of trivial complaints we receive. Every complaint is looked into very thoroughly. There is no question of preferential treatment of policemen."

Home Secretary William Whitelaw, whose department controls the police, rebuffed demands from Jimmy Kelly's family, from legislators, newspapers and civil rights groups for a public inquiry into Kelly's death. Whitelaw said he will leave it to a coroner's jury resuming the inquest in six to eight weeks.

Meanwhile, soccer fans in Liverpool chant "Anyone here kill Kelly?" whenever a policeman comes in sight. The policemen's union is countering what it calls a smear campaign.

Jim Jardine, chairman of the Police Federation, told members in Liverpool that attempts are being made to damage police morale. WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats says no one knows exactly how much fraud, abuse and waste in federal programs cost the taxpayer, but the total is "in the billions."

In an interview with U.S. News & World Report, Staats noted, for example, that about $1 billion of the money loaned to students by the Veterans Administration and the Office of Education is overdue.

"That's about 25 percent of the total money loaned," he said. "Some of it will be repaid, but this gives you an idea of the magnitude of the overall problem and how difficult it is to make a judgment as to how much will eventually be lost."

Staats said fraud is easier to control than abuse or waste.

Today's FOCUS

After questions in the House of Commons, the Home Office disclosed that 245 men died in police custody in the 1970s, 143 of them in police cells and the others on their way to or in hospitals. According to the statement, only 66 of the deaths were from natural causes. Sixty-two were by misadventure, such as alcoholism, drug overdose or inhalation of vomit; 39 accidental — brain hemorrhage or fight injuries; 36 suicides; two manslaughters, and 15 open verdicts — an inquest term meaning there was not enough information to show how a person died.

In the 25 remaining cases, there was no inquest or the outcome is not known, the Home Office said.

"No policeman was ever prosecuted in any of these deaths, and it seems to me that some people are above the law," Labor Party legislator Michael Meacher told The Associated Press.

It was questioning from Meacher, a former junior minister for health, industry and trade, that produced the Home Office statement, seven weeks after he asked for it.

"The figures might be low for some foreign countries, but they are disturbingly high by British standards," he said.

"There were seven deaths in police custody in 1970 and 48 in 1978. I don't know why it's rising. There is more violence in all Western society, but I doubt if that explains it. These cases tend to happen in big urban areas and alcohol may play a part."

Meacher said he will ask for an inquiry into the workings of the office of the Director of Public Prosecutions. The DPP, headed by top civil servant Sir Thomas Hetherington, decides whether evidence is sufficient to support a prosecution.

Fueling the fire is the annual report of the government-appointed Police Complaints Board, which said that in 1978 it investigated 2,230 allegations from the public of police brutality and recommended disciplinary action in none.

"A remarkably clean record," commented the Conservative tabloid, Daily Star.

A spokesman for the DPP said: "The figures may seem rather one-sided but the public would not believe the number of trivial complaints we receive. Every complaint is looked into very thoroughly. There is no question of preferential treatment of policemen."

Home Secretary William Whitelaw, whose department controls the police, rebuffed demands from Jimmy Kelly's family, from legislators, newspapers and civil rights groups for a public inquiry into Kelly's death. Whitelaw said he will leave it to a coroner's jury resuming the inquest in six to eight weeks.

Meanwhile, soccer fans in Liverpool chant "Anyone here kill Kelly?" whenever a policeman comes in sight. The policemen's union is countering what it calls a smear campaign.

Jim Jardine, chairman of the Police Federation, told members in Liverpool that attempts are being made to damage police morale. The federation journal "Police" called the Kelly case "yet another move in the concerted campaign being waged in certain quarters to stir up public anxiety about the relationship between the police and the public."

Energy Bills To Get Top Priority When Congress Reconvenes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three main components of President Carter's energy program — particularly the oil windfall profits tax — are expected to get top priority treatment when Congress resumes work later this month.

House and Senate negotiators are due to meet Jan. 17 to continue seeking a compromise on their differing windfall tax bills before Congress returns Jan. 22. The congress agreed before the Christmas holidays on a $227.3 billion revenue figure for the windfall bill, splitting the difference between the Senate's $178 billion tax and the $277 billion tax passed by the House.

But they did not complete work on the windfall tax, so the president postponed further decontrol of domestic oil prices until Congress sends him an acceptable bill.

The delay is estimated to be costing domestic oil companies $700,000 a day, so politicians from oil producing states — which are well represented on both the House and Senate conference delegations — are expected to push for quick completion of the legislation.

Carter wants the tax so the Treasury can receive some of the nearly $1 trillion in unearned income oil producers are expected to make between 1980 and 1990 because of Carter's decision to decontrol domestic oil prices, allowing domestic crude prices to rise gradually to world levels.

One of the controversial decisions facing the conference committee is whether to raise the tax on independent oil producers or on major oil companies to make up the difference between the $178 billion Senate bill and the $227.3 billion compromise.

They also must make final decisions on windfall profits tax rates for various categories of oil and on whether to make the tax permanent or phase it out.

Two other bills considered major part of the Carter energy program also are tied up in House-Senate conferences.

They are an omnibus energy bill — which includes a program of massive government aid to synthetic fuel plants plus incentives for gasohol production and energy conservation — and legislation creating a "fast track" bypassing government roadblocks for approval of high priority energy projects, such as synfuel plants.

Both conferences have been troubled by disagreements between House and Senate members and between environmentalists and business interests.

The key difference in the synfuels conference, which may resume the same week Congress returns, is the degree to which early federal promotion of synfuels would be handled under the Defense Production Act.

In the "fast track" conference, the major split was over allowing the proposed Energy Mobilization Board to waive substantive environmental laws or to waive only procedural steps standing in the way of quick approval of synthetic fuel plants and energy pipelines.

Nuclear, Coal Power Called Best Energy Sources

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nuclear and coal power, despite their potential health risks, are the only practical large-scale energy sources that can supply the nation's needs into the next century, says a major National Academy of Sciences study to be released today.

The long-awaited energy report, billed as one of the most comprehensive ever attempted, said a combination of coal and nuclear power, conservation and developing synthetic fuels are the country's best hopes for energy independence.

The study discounted a major contribution from solar energy by the year 2010, and warned against the nation committing itself too early to promising new energy sources before they prove their worth.

The four-year, $4.1 million study for the Department of Energy is two years overdue because of the complexity of its topic, numerous changes in the worldwide energy situation and differences of opinion within the committee working on it.

The 14 volunteer experts on the Committee on Nuclear and Alternative Energy Systems (CONAES) agreed on many points. But they were significantly divided on others, such as the role of nuclear power, according to those familiar with the 800-page study.

In a cover letter to the report, Dr. Philip Handler, the academy president, said disagreements noted in numerous supplemental statements and dissents in the report should not detract from the general agreement reached on most questions.

Handler said in an interview that the debate within the committee reflected the disagreement about energy issues within society as a whole. And most of this comes from a lack of scientific facts about what will work, and the benefits and risks of each approach, he said.

The report, which looked at U.S. energy options between the years 1985 and 2010, said first priority should go to reducing the growth of energy demand. And it said major conservation programs were the best way to do this.

Committee co-chairmen Harvey

Brooks of Harvard University and Edward Ginzton, board chairman of Varian Associates, said substantial energy savings could come quickly from more efficient energy management.

Retrofitting existing buildings, machinery and consumer products — such as cars and appliances — to make them efficient would offer immediate benefits, they said in a cover letter.

Naval Blockade, Olympics Withdrawal Still Considered By U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top U.S. officials said Sunday that a naval blockade against Iran and a withdrawal from the Moscow Olympics are still being considered to counter the holding of U.S. hostages in Iran and the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

The statements were made by Defense Secretary Harold Brown and Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

Bergland also predicted meat shortages in the Soviet Union as a result of the U.S. embargo against Soviet grain shipments. Brown said he expected continuing cooperation with the Chinese following the Soviet move into Afghanistan, including a visit to the United States by Chinese Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping.

Brown, who has just left talks with Chinese leaders in Peking, was interviewed in Tokyo for the ABC News program "Issues and Answers." He was asked about prospects for a Naval blockade to pressure Iran to release the Americans being held hostages in Tehran.

"Specifically we cannot rule out the option of cutting off Iranian imports by one means or another," he said, though he added that pressures by the international community were "much preferable."

Brown said of U.S.-Chinese cooperation: "We have parallel interests in various parts of the world. We intend to take parallel actions. Certainly South Asia is one of those areas where we do have parallel interests and we tend to see the situation in similar ways."

"I'm sure the Chinese will be assisting Pakistan in various ways," he said, "and we ourselves are considering a very substantial assistance to Pakistan, both economic and in terms of military sales."

Infant In Hostage Incident Dies

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An infant girl, delivered by Caesarean section hours after her mother was critically wounded, has become the fourth person to die as a result of a hostage incident.

The 2-pound infant, who was never named, died Saturday night at Mercy Hospital, of complications from premature birth. She was delivered in the sixth month of gestation.

The mother, Arlene Ware, 22, was in critical condition Sunday at the hospital. The Caesarean was performed after Miss Ware underwent surgery for two bullet wounds in the chest.

Miss Ware crashed through a window of her burning home Friday morning to escape her boyfriend, who shot and killed himself after slaying two more of her children, police said.

Samuel Andrews, a self-proclaimed Moslem prophet who apparently was convinced evil spirits threatened him, killed Kimberly, 4, and Fred Ware, 18 months, before taking his own life, police said.

These moves are not directed against the Soviets but are directed toward preventing expansionism on the part of others," Brown said.

"If the Soviets are expansionist," he said, "that association between China and the United States would naturally concern them."

Bergland, interviewed on the CBS News program "Face the Nation," was asked when there might be an administration decision on boycotting the Olympics scheduled this summer in Moscow.

"I think it largely depends on the Russians," he said. "If they keep on with this crazy business I think the president will have to take further actions."

He was then asked if a boycott of the Olympics was part of the current sanctions against the Soviets.

"No, not yet," he said. "We're maintaining a number of commercial ties with the Russians, at least for the time being, and see how they behave."

Bergland said that he expected meat shortages in the Soviet Union this summer as a result of President Carter's decision to halt shipment of 17 million metric tons of grain.

"I would advise anybody travelling to the Soviet Union, especially to the summer Olympics, if it's held and if we're there officially — bring your own lunch. You're going to need it," he said.

"They're going to have meat shortages," Bergland added. "They're going to have protests from their consumers who have had a taste of the good life in recent years when meat production has been expanding."

Bergland said he expected the Soviets to have a deficit of 14 million metric tons in the grain they expected to feed to their livestock and would cut livestock production 5 percent to 8 percent below last year's levels.

"They will feel the pinch," he said. "A-bout that, there's no doubt."

The agriculture secretary also said he expected no effect on consumer prices in the United States from the grain embargo and little effect on the nation's economic output.

"Our exports are going to be 5 or 6 percent above last year, without the Russians," he said.

shipped, but 3 million tons of that may be blocked by longshoremen refusing to load Russian-bound ships.

Carter merely asked other exporting nations not to increase their sales to make up the shortfall caused by the U.S. Embargo.

Despite Argentina's firm insistence that it opposes the embargo, its assurances at the meeting were essentially the position Carter sought.

Argentina Opposes Grain Embargo, Says Official

WASHINGTON (UPI) — David Lacroze, Argentina's chief representative in talks among major grain exporters, said Sunday that his nation opposes the U.S. grain embargo but will not exploit it by increasing grain sales to Russia.

Lacroze, president of the National Grain Board of Argentina, said he had no objection to a joint statement issued by the United States, Australia, Canada, Argentina and the European Community after a meeting of grain exporters Saturday. The statement said the participants agreed not to replace grain that would have been shipped to the Soviet Union prior to Carter's embargo.

But Lacroze insisted Argentina had not changed its publicly announced opposition to President Carter's decision to embargo 17 million tons of grain and 1 million tons of soybeans to Russia to retaliate for the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

"Argentina doesn't support the embargo," Lacroze said in an interview. He released a statement saying his government's position "has not been changed."

The U.S. position in the talks was that other nations may continue to sell grain to Russia under existing obligations just as the United States expected to continue to sell some grain.

The United States said it would honor a commitment to sell 8 million tons. Roughly 5 million tons of that has been VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Quietly think over what you want the most, then go all-out to attain your goals. Allow time to engage in favorite hobby.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Good day to be with congenial friends and cementing better relations with them. Plan how to gain your most intimate goals.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have an excellent opportunity now to engage in new activities which can lead to greater success. Perseverance pays off now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are inspired with new ideas that should be put in operation without delay. Express happiness with loved one.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find more modern and efficient ways of handling responsibilities and get ahead faster. Use more common sense.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Know what is expected of you by associates and then do your best to please them. Be most careful in motion at this time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Your vision of the future is great now so be sure to follow through on plans that could give added abundance. Strive for happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...he or she will be one who has unusual vision and imagination, so be sure to plan the finest education you can since the potential here is great. There are many talents in this chart which should be carefully trained.

DRIVE-IN SERVICE? — This Sears and Roebuck in Wichita Falls received about $20,000 damage recently when a car drove through some plate glass windows at the pick-up department.

The driver of the car apparently stepped on the accelerator instead of the brake, police said. Fortunately no one was injured in the incident. (AP Laserphoto)

Detectives Holding Shooting Suspect

Lubbock police detectives said Sunday they have a suspect in a shooting incident outside a Lubbock night club Saturday that left two men seriously wounded.

Late Sunday, detectives were questioning a witness to the shooting who allegedly named the shooting suspect.

The two injured men are at Health Sciences Center Hospital. Louis Pesina, 24, of Wolfforth was in serious condition late Sunday in the intensive care unit. Charles Pesina of Lamesa was listed in satisfactory condition.

The two men were shot shortly after midnight in the parking lot of a club located at the intersection of U.S. 87 and Erskine Street.

Witnesses told police they saw a man holding a pistol standing over the two victims. Both men had been shot with a .38-caliber weapon, police said.

A 15-year-old Lubbock youth was in satisfactory condition Sunday at Methodist Hospital with a stab wound to the abdomen suffered late Saturday night at Rollertown, 50th St. and Ave. P.

Monico Carabajal of 3217 First St. and a friend were at Rollertown about 7 p.m. Saturday when they were approached by two youths who wanted to fight, police said.

The victim and his friend, however, refused to fight. When the two left the skating rink about 11:30 p.m., they found the two youths who challenged them to fight, along with about 15 other youths, waiting for them in the parking lot, police said.

It was then that Carabajal was stabbed once in the lower back. The victim told police he did not know the attacker, described as a Mexican-American male, about 17 years old, weighing 130 pounds and standing five-foot-seven. The suspect was wearing a black felt hat with a leather in it and a long black coat.

A 23-year-old Lubbock woman was shot in the leg with a shotgun early Sunday morning after she tried to break into the house of the man she had been living with.

At first, police were called to the man's house, where he explained that he had heard glass breaking on his front door. He said he got up and got his shotgun, and then fired through the door when he heard the door knob turn. He said after he fired he did not see anyone.

Shortly after police got that call, they also were called to Health Sciences Center Hospital where the woman had been treated for a gunshot wound in the leg.

At the hospital, the woman explained that she had gone to the house to get her clothes. When the man did not answer the door, she admitted to breaking the glass out of the door, police said.

A 22-year-old Lubbock man was arrested about 1 a.m. Sunday after police stopped the man's vehicle for speeding and then found about a half ounce of marijuana in the glove compartment.

According to reports, police stopped the man in the 1000th block of University. When the officer approached the car, he said he smelled burning marijuana.

Toxic Fumes Hamper Firemen

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Toxic fumes from exploding chemical canisters hampered firefighters battling a four-alarm fire that started early Sunday morning in a sex stimulant factory near the waterfront.

For a time, fire officials considered evacuating the nearby Hyatt Regency hotel and worried about the safety of patrons using a nearby Bay Area Rapid Transit station because of the fumes and heavy smoke.

But officials who checked surrounding buildings decided against evacuating. Arson investigators said the fire was "suspect."

The chemical isobutyl nitrate, stored in the building, spewed off the perilous vapors, officials said. The substance is marketed by Pharmex Ltd. as Rush and billed as a sexual stimulant.

One firefighter was hospitalized suffering from smoke inhalation.

"We don't know how many containers there were, but they kept exploding," said Fire Chief Andrew Casper. "The more water we put on it, the worse it was."

The fire raged for about 2½ hours before officials declared it under control at 10:22 a.m. It broke out in a Mission street building owned by Pharmex, officials said.

A fire broke out Nov. 21 in another Pharmex building, said Thomas Creary, an assistant district attorney and member of the arson investigating unit.

"Apparently the same type of materials was kept in the building," Creary said, "and the same type of manufacturing was going on here."

"So, to say the least, it is a bit suspect."

A portion of the Embarcadero Freeway along the waterfront was closed because of the poisonous fumes.

During the earlier fire, the holiday exodus was badly snarled after toxic vapors were similarly unleashed.

Casper estimated damage from the blaze at $200,000. Much of that figure reflected water damage to computer terminals at a company in an adjacent building, Casper said.

House Subcommittees

To Conduct Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two House subcommittees will conduct field hearings in Los Angeles Thursday and Friday on the problem of plant closings and their effects on workers.

A joint hearing will be conducted Friday at the California Museum of Science and Industry by Reps. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., and Frank Thompson, D-N.J. Hawkins heads the House subcommittee on employment opportunities and Thompson is chairman of the House subcommittee on labor-management relations.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: It was quite obvious from your answer to "Hanging by a Thread and Suffering in Alexandria" that you never have had a brat for a little brother.

The young lady stated she was punished each time the brat started hollering because the little liar said she hit him.

The solution is obvious. The next time the brat starts to holler, she should hit him in the mouth. He will still holler, but at least he won't be lying when he says she hit him. When he gets tired of being hit, he will leave her alone.

This solution will accomplish a number of worthwhile objectives. First and foremost, it will improve her life immeasurably.

Second, it will teach the brat how life works (i.e., if you bother people and bear false witness you tend to get hit in the mouth a lot).

Third, the older sister will have a golden opportunity to show her dimwitted mother (who obviously is hung up on her son) that the girl has a mind of her own and will no longer tolerate prejudicial treatment. — Been There In Texas

Dear Texas: Thanks for passing on the results of your personal experience. While I cannot endorse cracking a kid brother in the mouth, I feel an obligation to share your "solution" with my readers. (Nothing succeeds like success.)

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent column that dealt with a child-molesting uncle, you said the best sitters for young girls are grandparents, female relatives and friends.

I'm sorry I must disagree with you. My father is the last person I ever would leave my young granddaughter with. I came to this conclusion after having been told by my daughters what happened to THEM when they were alone with "Grandpa."

My father is 80, and I have heard stories that indicate he is still pursuing this unspeakable form of "entertainment." So please don't give blanket counsel on anything. You never know. — Canadian Reader

Dear Reader: How right you are. All generalizations are faulty — even this one. I hope you will have the courage to warn all members of your family about the problem. Please do it for the sake of the little ones.

(P.S. Dear Readers: Don't write and ask why I didn't suggest counseling or calling the police. A man that age is not about to accept counseling and I simply couldn't advise a woman to put her 80-year-old father in the slammer.)

Dear Ann Landers: Please settle an argument about a small thing. It has gotten completely out of hand.

My husband always leaves the skin of the baked potato. I read recently that the skin is the most nourishing part. My husband called me "crazy." I told Mr. Know-It-All I would write to you for proof. He said, "If you give Ann Landers our name, I will let you have it right in the mush."

I told him I was afraid if I didn't give you a name you wouldn't use the letter in your column. He said, "This subject is a lot more sensible than how to hang toilet paper. Take a chance."

So, Ann, please print my answer. I really need help with this. — Spud-Dud In Hot Water

Dear Dad: The skin is just as nourishing as the potato. Tell the doll if he doesn't want to eat it, you will. Then go ahead and do it.

Don't get burned by a "line" that's too hot to handle. Play it cool with Ann Landers' guide to "Necking and Petting — What Are the Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611, enclosing 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

years developed into readers.

Both Farr and Cassidy cite an extensive study conducted nationwide by the National Assessment of Educational Progress to gather information about the learning trends of American school children.

A random sample of 63,000 children in three age groups were tested in 1971 and 1975. The children in 1975 were equal or better in every phase of the test.

A related study by NAEP shows that 17-year-old students gained an average of two percentage points on a test of functional literacy skills between 1971 and 1975. Black students gained an impressive five percentage points.

Despite all of these positive studies regarding reading and reading education, Farr points out that the one statistic consistently used to "prove" a decline in education is declining SAT scores.

However, Farr says, "The use of declining SAT scores to criticize American reading education is both inappropriate and inaccurate. The test is not designed to measure reading skills, and much of the score decline can be attributed to the fact that a broader range of students take the test now than in the past."

In conclusion, Farr notes, "Negative statistics about American reading education have been emphasized for too long. It is time to stand up and proudly proclaim that reading education is better than ever and improving all the time."

LARGE MERCHANDISE
While 20 to 30 percent of the female population wears size 16 and over, the average department store stocks only about seven percent of their large merchandise in large sizes, reports Beverly Rhoades, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. This practice greatly limits ready-to-wear availability.

Children Read Better Now

NEW YORK (MNS) — Johnny can read!

And many recent studies indicate that Johnny is reading better than ever.

Two leading educators who firmly believe this are Roger Farr, president of the 65,000 member International Reading Association, and Jack Cassidy, former member of the Association's Board of Directors.

Farr, director of the Henry Lester Smith Research Center and the Reading Center at the Indiana University School of Education, cites tests in Indiana and Iowa which measured the reading achievement of modern children against that of children in the 1940s.

In both cases, the tests showed that today's students read as well or better than children in the past. Farr also stresses that students today are younger than students in the same grade in the past. Adjusting the scores to reflect this age differential makes the achievement difference quite significant.

Cassidy, associate professor of education at Millersville State College in Pennsylvania, says that although many people complain about the quality of American education, a 1977 study showed that American students compare quite favorably to students in other countries.

This study showed that the top nine percent of twelfth graders in the United States performed better on a reading comprehension test than comparable students in the 14 other countries studied.

Since a much higher percentage of American students of twelfth grade age are still in school, Cassidy says, "This study shows that American education serves all students while still providing quality education for its best scholars."

Cassidy also notes that despite generally negative media coverage of student achievement, public support for education is growing. He cites a national opinion survey taken in 1977 which indicates that 41 percent of the American public expressed a great deal of confidence in educators, compared with only 31 percent in 1975.

Only four percent rated the educational system as inadequate. Educators were rated higher in the public trust than police, hospitals and public transportation.

Furthermore, Farr adds, that although many people believe that reading is "out" and television is "in," two separate studies in 1978 showed that America is still a nation of readers.

According to both studies, over 90 percent of the people sampled read newspapers, magazines or books with some frequency. And of the 55 percent who said that they had read at least one book during the past six months, nearly half had read more than 10 books during that period.

Most of the people classified as non-readers were either visually impaired or read in a foreign language.

An interesting finding of one of the surveys is that reading habits are established early in life. Children whose parents read to them were better readers and had a greater interest in books than children whose parents did not read to them.

"The important role that parents play in the development of their children's reading skills cannot be overemphasized," says Farr.

The study also found that children who were successful in the early school

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠6 ♠J92 ♦852 ♣AQJ1054

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♦ Pass 2 ♣ Pass

2 ♦ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Technically, North's rebid in a lower-ranking suit is not forcing, but he will be very surprised if you pass after making a two-over-one response. And your hand might not be worth much to partner—its main feature, the long, strong clubs, will be useless at any other contract. Rebid three clubs to show your long suit and warn partner that your initial response was made on minimal values.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠K10965 ♠1076 ♦8762 ♣K

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♦ Dble. Pass 1 ♦

Pass 2 ♣ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—This has become a very good hand indeed. All your cards are working—you have a fifth spade, and your length in diamonds suggests that partner is very short in that suit. Since partner's spade raise shows a hand worth about 16-18 points at a spade contract, we would jump all the way to game. Three spades is much too conservative for our tastes.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AK87 ♠K92 ♦AJ74 ♣93

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♣ Pass 2 ♣ Pass

1 ♦ Pass 2 ♦ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—While your hand evaluates to 16 points at a spade contract, it is rife with losers and you might be on a 4-3 fit. Even if partner has a super-maximum 10 points for his single raise, game is doubtful unless he has a magic hand. You have no way to discover his holding without endangering your part score, so pass.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable with 60 on score, you hold:

♠1094 ♠K75 ♦AQ1087 ♣63

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♣ 2 ♣ ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Here is a situation where you can expect the enemy to compete in an effort to deny you an easy rub ber. Therefore, you should plan on having to take two bids. It might seem that you should show your five-card diamond suit now, and then support spades next, if you have to. But that is uneconomical. If you bid two spades now and then three diamonds and should the enemy compete with three clubs, partner will be able to take preference in either suit at the three-level.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable with 60 on score, you hold:

♠1094 ♠63 ♦AQ1087 ♣K75

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♣ 2 ♣ ?

What do you bid now?

A.—The difference from the previous problem is that the overall has been at the two level in hearts, rather than clubs. You still want to make two bids, but this time it will be more economical to bid three diamonds first, so that you can bid three spades over three hearts. If you chose two spades, you would either have to suppress the diamonds or introduce them at the four-level.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠K10654 ♠862 ♦Q93 ♣76

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♣ Pass 1 ♦ Pass

2 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—There is a misconception that a jump to two no trump is a game force. Not so. It shows a balanced 19-20 points, but responder can pass if his original response was in the nature of a courtesy. Here, your hand might not produce a single trick for partner if he started with a doubleton spade, and even if he has three spades, there is no guarantee that your side can make a game. Pass.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

Where has the time gone?

In December of 1975, President Ford signed a bill into law which will bring the international metric system to this country by 1983.

Can you believe I've only got three more years left to convert and I haven't spoken a word of metric yet?

It's not that I'm stubborn or stupid. It's just that I cannot bring myself to think that large. This country has always put great stock in small feet, small waists, compact cars, short distances, and minute portions.

How do you think I'm going to feel renewing my driver's license when I report that my height is 1.52 meters and I weigh 286.0 kilograms? Why, it'll be all over town by noon.

That's why I've made a decision. At my age, I'm not going to waste time committing an entire metric system to memory. Instead, I made a list of the most used phrases in my vocabulary, converting words of measurement into metrics. You're welcome to use them.

To my neighbor: "Mayva, can I borrow 236 milliliters (1 cup) of flour sugar gin/cocoanut/rice/butter/etc.?"

To the police: "But, officer, I was only going 85 kilometers an hour (55 mph)."

To anyone: "I hear it's going to be 30 degrees Celsius tomorrow. Wanna play tennis?"

To Weight Watchers: "All I had was 255 grams of candy (nine ounces). Is it a crime to taste something?"

To teenagers borrowing my car: "If you only went to the library, how come you used up 30 liters (eight gallons) of gas?"

To the butcher: "Don't tell me you can't get a one-kilogram rump and not have it tender! (2.205 pounds)."

Loudly in the lingerie department: "Do you have any size 148 bras on sale?"

When I told my husband of my plan to memorize as much metric as I needed to get by, he was pleased. "As I've always said," he smiled, "30 milliliters of prevention is worth 454 kilograms of cure."

Boy, I'm glad it's not something I've always said.

First Baptist Sponsors Stress Seminar

First Baptist Church will sponsor a series of open seminars on dealing with stress beginning this week.

Starting Wednesday night and continuing each Wednesday through March 26, the family ministry department will conduct a series of seminars on stress management.

Sessions will be from 6-7 p.m. in E101 at the Church. Any interested person may attend.

Topics, dates and speakers are as follows:

Jan. 16 Stress in American culture: an overview, Mike Horton, minister of Family Life.

Jan. 23 Job-related stress, Sam Norman, pastoral counselor at Family Services Association.

Jan. 30 Dealing with financial stress, Lee Pennington, financial consultant.

Feb. 6 Stress in marriage and family living, Dr. Charles Darwin, Crossroads Counseling Center and Mrs. Pat Darwin, RN.

Feb. 13 Stress related to internal conflicts, Dr. Jim Jenkins, clinical psychologist.

Feb. 27 Stress related to life phases, Dr. Harvey Joanning, counseling psychologist, Texas Tech.

March 5 Stress related to spiritual concerns, Mike Horton, minister of family life.

March 12 Minimizing Stress through a personal physical health program, men, Dr. Bill Beisiegel, physical director, YMCA; women, Mrs. Joyce Arterburn, physical education department, Texas Tech.

March 19 Minimizing stress through proper diet, Jackie Lambert, department of Home Economics, Texas Tech.

March 26 Developing a stress management philosophy, nurturing silence, by Doug Tipps; personal growth by Eloise Schreiner; valuing priorities by Buck McNeil; and giving of self, by L. Lynn Walker.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

What do you think about the idea of saving some money by using my old carpet as a pad and installing my new carpet on top of it? — Edith Manley

I'm always for saving money so I checked out your idea with the Carpet and Rug Institute. Their experts agreed that in a few cases a new carpet can be installed satisfactorily over an old one but in most cases they strongly advise against it because a worn carpet won't provide sufficient support.

You use a pad under carpeting to give additional life to the carpet. In traffic

Microwaves Aid Frozen Food Use

By TOM HOGE
AP Wine and Food Writer

In 1912, a naturalist named Clarence Birdseye noted during an expedition to Labrador that fish frozen in this subzero region regained its freshness when thawed.

Birdseye spent the next decade experimenting with fish and other foods and finally came up with a primitive freezer. He sold his idea to the food industry and half a century ago, on March 6, 1930, the first assortment of frozen foods, including meat, fish, fruit and vegetables, went on sale at retail in Springfield, Mass.

Today frozen food has become a multibillion-dollar industry featuring more than 1,500 items. As the industry prepared to mark its 50th birthday, I talked to two leaders in the field.

I asked Thomas B. House, president of the American Frozen Food Institute, whether he expected any immediate changes in frozen foods. A big jump in microwave cooking, he replied, and a big saving in energy.

"Microwaves are expected to reach 25 percent of U.S. households by the end of 1980," he said. "And frozen foods will play a major role. Frozen fish fillets cooked in a microwave oven, for example, will save 90 percent of the energy required to cook in a conventional oven."

Recalling that during World War II stores selling only frozen foods cropped up all over America, I asked Murray Lender, a veteran in the field and chairman of the 50th anniversary celebration, whatever had happened to them.

"Frozen food stores fell by the wayside with the coming of the one-stop supermarket," he said. "It's significant to note that the typical market today devotes much more area to frozen foods than the entire frozen-food store did."

There are still many Americans who insist that fresh food is better than frozen. But during the off-seasons some of these foods can be costly. Still more important, in this day of working wives and long commuting hours, much time is saved using frozen foods and I don't mean TV dinners; necessarily. Here is a recipe for a Chinese stir-fry dinner that takes less than 10 minutes to prepare.

- 2 tsps. cornstarch
- 1 cup chicken broth
- 3 tsps. vegetable oil
- 2 crushed garlic cloves
- 1 tbsp. minced fresh ginger root
- 2 (10 oz. ea.) pkgs. frozen asparagus
- 1 lb. frozen peeled shrimp
- Soy sauce

Dissolve cornstarch in broth and set aside. Heat oil in wok. Sauté garlic and ginger 3 minutes. Discard garlic. Add asparagus and cook till spears separate. Add shrimp, chicken broth mixture and soy sauce to taste. Simmer 5 to 10 minutes till seafood is cooked and sauce slightly thickened. Serve. Good with a dry white wine, well chilled.

(For the best in gourmet cooking, order your copy of "101 Recipes" from Tom Hoge's Gourmet Corner. Send $1 to Gourmet Corner, AP Newsfeatures, 50 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020.)

PLAYGROUND SAFETY

To make swing sets safer on the playground, select those with lightweight seats, or replace heavy seats with lightweight ones, recommends Claudia Kerbel, a consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Hard, heavy swing seats can cause skull fractures, she cautions.

areas your old carpet will be crushed down, so in the very places where your new carpet needs the most support, it will receive the least support from your old carpet.

Initially, you could save money by not buying a carpet pad but the problems which could result in the long run from this economy might not be worth it, love. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: While finishing baking waffles for freezing, I stirred up a muffin batter and baked it in my waffle iron.

Try it. No oven to heat, no muffin tins to grease or wash, the baking can be done at the breakfast table while eating cereal.

Waffle-baked bran muffins are easier to wrap for freezing, so easier to toast direct from your freezer. Give it a try — you will like it. — Marie Reinhardt

DEAR HELOISE: I used scraps of nylon kitchen carpet to cover the moldings under my lower kitchen cabinets and it looks much better than the ceiling paint did. It's even an improvement on regular finished molding. No glue is needed. Simply cut the scraps a little bit wider than needed so the carpet pieces are wedged in under the cabinets and stay up by themselves. — Mrs. Judd Kline

DEAR HELOISE: Here is a helpful gadget not only for people with disabilities but for every household. It would prevent accidents.

It is my fabulous reacher.

Made of lightweight wood and shaped like a giant pair of tongs, it is excellent for getting things from those high shelves.

In parting, I will give one of my famous quotes: "I may have a few disabilities but please don't call me handicapped!" — B.V.D. of Sarasota

DEAR HELOISE: One of my pet peeves when sewing, one of my favorite pastimes, is having to stop in the middle of a seam to fill an empty bobbin. Now, at the very beginning of any sewing project, I fill two or three empty bobbins (depending on the size of the job) and I'm all set to go. At the end, I use the bobbin thread for hand-stitching which is inevitable, so I rarely am left with filled bobbins. — D.C. Preston

DEAR HELOISE: Here's a use for the plastic wrapping that a four-pack of bathroom tissue comes in: Cut the wrapping down the center and remove the rolls without tearing the packaging apart. This makes a free and disposable plastic "cap" for pinning over the hair after applying conditioner, bleach, or color treatments to the hair. — D.R.

Don't hoard a thrifty idea. Send it to your friend Heloise, 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017. Sorry she can't answer your letter personally but the best money-saving ideas received will appear in her column.

Alan: "The big news of the year was the American victory in the World championship in Brazil."

Oswald: "The team Malcolm Brachman, Mike Passell and Bobby Goldman of Dallas, Paul Soloway of Seattle and Billy Eisenberg and Eddie Kantar of Los Angeles did the playing and held on to score a narrow victory over Italy in the finals. But I feel that a major part of the credit should go to Ed Theus, the non-playing captain for keeping the team happy, alert and in best form throughout the grueling matches. I know what a tough job the captaincy is, and I hope that the ACBL will keep Ed as NPC as long as he will accept the job."

Alan: "I know you have won before as a player and NPC so you must be cognizant of their respective problems."

Oswald: "The victory also was a triumph for American bidding styles. Here is how Kantar and Eisenberg bid to six diamonds which was a cinch. At the other table Garrozzo opened four spades and played it there. With both sides vulnerable the swing was 12 IMPs to America."

Alan: "Americans never preempt when they have a hand with distinct slam possibilities. Note that even though North had passed, the diamond slam would have made even if North did not have the king of hearts."

To Your Good Health

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I'm a 52-year-old man who plans to move from the North to Arizona where I'm told they have 335 days of sunshine. That is good news and bad news for me — good because I like the sun, bad because I cannot tolerate it. I've done everything — changed soaps, etc. I break out with tiny blisters. Any advice for me? — L.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have a skin problem — sun sensitivity. I plan to spend the winter in Acapulco. I get a rash and itchy lumps. It goes away but comes back. Up North I can sun and not get this. What can I do to prevent it? — P.T.

With so many sun chasers around these days sensitive skin problems are year-around reader concerns.

Skin reacts in many ways to light. Reaction to sunlight can take the form of exaggerated sunburn. This is often due to chemicals that tend to sensitize the skin. Such substances can be found in perfumes, colognes, after-shave lotions, etc. Even hair dyes can induce allergic reaction from the sun, and some drugs can make the skin sensitive.

So the first step is to eliminate any agent that might be involved.

Hives appearing after exposure to sunlight can be helped with antihistamines. Rashes after sun exposure (called polymorphous light eruptions for a fancy term) can be prevented by some people with screening ointments. The best are those with zinc oxide or titanium dioxide. A solution of 5 percent paraminobenzoic acid in alcohol may help. Beta carotene taken orally has been reported to help considerably.

Finally, there are a few illnesses that produce sun sensitivity — porphyria cutanea tarda being one — and these might be investigated.

ine, notably) can produce a variety of sounds that would disappear when the drugs are eliminated. Coffee drinking and cigarette smoking can contribute to ear noises (tinnitus)

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Specialist Gives Budget Fighter

COLLEGE STATION (Special) — Enraged about inflation?

Then smother it with "budget guard" — at least for your own family, says a consumer information specialist, Claudia Kerbel, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Budget guard" is simple, but it takes guts. Here's how it works: keep very close tabs on debts you already owe, and DO NOT set up any more.

LEARN TO LIVE ON YOUR PRESENT INCOME
Does your family need "budget guard"? There are definite warning signs of possible money problems for each family. If you answer "yes" to two of the questions below, you may have problems. If you answer "yes" to three of them, you're already in trouble — and you may welcome the smother-inflation promise of "budget guard."

- 1) Do you charge small day-to-day items, such as groceries and housekeeping things because you don't have the money to pay for them?
- 2) Have you recently put off paying a bill until next month due to lack of funds to cover it?
- 3) Do you borrow money to pay fixed expenses, such as insurance premiums, a loan installment or tax payments?
- 4) Do your creditors phone or write to remind you about overdue bills?
- 5) Do annual payments on long-term debts, excluding mortgage payments, amount to more than 20 percent of your annual income?
- 6) Are you confused about exactly how much you owe on long-term debts?

Kennedy Campaign Hits Stride In Iowa

WATERLOO, Iowa (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's presidential campaign in Iowa looks like a textbook example of what a candidate is supposed to do to win an election. But if the polls are accurate, the senator is falling farther behind President Carter.

Kennedy returned to Washington early Sunday after six days of campaigning in Iowa during which he appeared in 21 communities, drew good crowds and seemed to begin generating the excitement missing during the first nine weeks of his presidential quest.

He will appear in Iowa only one more day, next Friday, prior to the state's precinct caucuses on Jan. 21.

Kennedy Dropping In Polls

The big question for those watching Kennedy's Iowa campaign is whether the latest poll is an accurate signal of how Democrats will line up in the precinct caucuses.

That poll, published Friday in the Des Moines Register, showed 57 percent of Iowa Democrats backing Carter and 25 percent supporting Kennedy. That's a 15 percent drop for the senator since the last survey in December.

Kennedy used the poll to set a standard for Carter in the caucuses. If the president's percentage of the caucus vote doesn't come close to 57 percent, it would be "a serious setback" for Carter, said the senator.

Supporters Exhorted

He also used the poll results to whip up enthusiasm among his precinct workers.

At a rally in Davenport, he exhorted them "to make the phone calls, to knock on the doors, to do the work of any successful political campaign, then on the caucus day, we'll show the Des Moines Register what a poll of Iowans really looks like."

The line brought down the house in Davenport and at every stop after that.

During the last two days in Iowa, Kennedy seemed to hit his stride. Gone was the hesitancy and fumbling that marked so many appearances in the opening weeks of his campaign.

Crowds Enthusiastic

The crowds were large and enthusiastic and the candidate responded by giving them the kind of stump oratory they hoped to hear.

It reached its peak at Waterloo in the crowded hall of Local 838 of the United Automobile Workers Union where Kennedy shared a platform with Vice President Walter F. Mondale and Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California.

Supporters of all three paid $10 to eat grilled pork chops and cheer their favorites. They vied to produce the loudest demonstrations, aware of the large press contingent looking for a winner in the rare confrontation.

There was no winner or loser in the appearance. All three did well.

Brown impressed with his ability to state his positions succinctly on a range of issues. Mondale gave a strong defense of Carter administration policies.

But Kennedy put on his best show of the campaign. He opened by presenting Mondale with a New England Patriots football jersey "from one patriot to another," a job at the vice president's suggestion earlier in the week that Kennedy's opposition to the Soviet grain embargo was unpatriotic.

Mondale accepted it laughing and the crowd roared. Kennedy got off a few more well-received lines at the administration's expense and then turned serious.

He delivered his basic campaign speech, attacking the administration for "lurching from crisis to crisis" in foreign policy and for failing to cut the rate of inflation. He criticized the grain embargo as more harmful to farmers and taxpayers than to the Soviet Union.

A questioner asked him about his failure to win Senate approval for a national health insurance program, a failure President Carter has cited as an example of a lack of leadership by Kennedy.

The senator has heard the question before and he gave his usual response. But then he began talking about the illnesses that struck his own family: his father disabled for seven years with a stroke, his son losing a leg to cancer, his younger son suffering from asthma.

Kennedy's voice was the only sound in the crowded room.

Dallas Businessman Takes Iran To Court

DALLAS (AP) — In many ways, H. Ross Perot is like a lot of multimillionaires.

He wears his graying brown hair cut close to the scalp and he blends perfectly into the sea of pin-striped suits, crisp white shirts and lace-up shoes that fill board rooms.

But outside the board room, the 49-year-old Perot follows a peculiar philosophy of make-a-profit and spread-the-wealth. It has thrust him into the international limelight dozens of times in the past decade.

Today, he goes into federal court here with a $23 million civil suit against the government of Iran for failure to pay for services: an extensive computer system and programming data.

Suit Tied To Rescue

The suit, filed last year shortly after Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini took power, is tied to one of Perot's most daring ventures, a commando raid that rescued two of his employees from a Tehran prison.

"I went to Iran, and at the last minute went into the prison to get the guys ready to go," he said. "I had to sneak into the country."

He talked his way onto an NBC Lear flying film from Jordan to Tehran. Landing in Tehran, Perot said he "disappeared into a city of 4 1/2 million people and I was safe."

Felt Stress

"It's the only time in my life I ever felt stress," he said in a recent interview, his first in almost two years.

The money behind his exploits came from the computer industry, which Perot caught in its infancy, founding Electronic Data Systems in 1962 with $1,000. Now a company with 10,500 employees worldwide, EDS reported $274 million in revenues for the last financial year.

In 1969, he tried unsuccessfully to deliver 26 tons of mail and supplies to prisoners of war in Vietnam. He sent 22 horses and tack for mounted police patrols in New York City. In 1973, he paid for a tickertape parade and party for returning POWs.

He bailed out an ailing Wall Street brokerage firm to the tune of $80 million. He sent 40 Air Force Academy cadets and their dates on weekend trips when he lost a wager on a football game between the fly-boys and the Naval Academy, his alma mater.

Most Remembered Act

He is paying to protect and house two ex-narcotics agents from Tyler who are believed to be targets of a hit man.

But the commando squad sent to Iran won Perot the most headlines.

The incident began as Perot threatened to pull EDS out of Iran because the country had failed to pay for a new computer system. Suddenly, two EDS employees were arrested and imprisoned.

As he negotiated — at one time he was asked for $12.7 million to ransom the two workers — a team of 12 EDS employees led by the late Col. Arthur "Bull" Simons, sneaked into Iran to set up a rescue.

In February 1978, a mob broke into the maximum security prison, freeing Bill Gaylord and Paul Chiapparoni, and spilling 11,000 other inmates onto the streets.

Perot Remains Moot

Perot still refuses to answer detailed questions about the squad's role in the prison break.

"I personally had a very high level of dread on this thing," Perot said. "You see, failure — if we tried to snatch them — would have meant losing everything. Everything. Everything. The worst you would lose if you paid the ransom is $12.7 million, which is not everything. It seems like a lot of money until you balance it against my net worth or EDS' net worth, either one. And then it becomes change."

"Once you go another route, the route of force, and you fail, then you probably destroy EDS, and you certainly will destroy me."

"Those were the odds. That's the reason we pushed the negotiations so hard," he said.

Perot said an Iranian employee of EDS made an "impassioned speech" about the prison being the "Bastille of Iran," housing Khomeini's supporters.

Afghans Renew Fighting

Bonn. Then he will go to Brussels for a session of the North Atlantic Council at which the allied governments will consider retaliatory moves against the Soviet Union.

A White House official, who did not wish to be identified, said Carter "cannot support U.S. participation in the Moscow Olympics if Soviet troops are still in Afghanistan."

"We are looking for cooperation on as many fronts as possible," said another senior U.S. official as Christopher flew to London for talks with British leaders.

Administration sources disclosed, meanwhile, that President Carter had tentatively approved $400 million in U.S. military and economic aid to Pakistan beginning immediately, if Congress gives its consent.

Half the amount would be spent during the current fiscal year, with the remainder to be used in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

All weapons would be "defensive" and warplanes would be excluded in deference to India's concern about strengthening its neighbor and old antagonist.

Half the aid would be military and the other half economic, with all the assistance in the form of loans and none as outright grants, said the sources who asked to remain anonymous. The defensive weapons would include anti-aircraft equipment and C-130 cargo transport planes.

This aid is above and beyond $150 million in U.S. weaponry already under contract for delivery. The administration blocked such shipments last year when Pakistan was suspected of developing nuclear weapons. Although there has been no apparent shift in Pakistan's policy, Carter has ordered the arms delivered — if Congress removes legislative roadblocks — because the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan is considered a threat to Pakistan's security.

One Pakistani newspaper, the Morning News of Karachi, quoted travelers arriving in Pakistan from south Afghanistan as saying Soviet troops have killed nearly 4,000 Moslem Afghan rebels and citizens since the coup.

Another Pakistani paper, Jang, said 25,000 Afghan government troops have defected to the guerrillas and that Afghan air force pilots have refused to bomb rebel strongholds. It reported heavy fighting in northern Afghanistan along the Soviet border.

The newspaper accounts could not be confirmed independently, and the report of 4,000 deaths was sharply higher than anything carried previously.

U.S. government analysts said Wednesday the Afghan army is doing most of the fighting against the rebels despite the influx of Soviet troops.

On Friday, however, a top-level administration official, who refused to be identified, charged Soviet forces were conducting a brutal campaign to "exterminate those who oppose them."

The official said the United States believes several hundred persons have been executed and 900-1,200 Soviets have been killed or wounded in fighting since the Dec. 27 coup.

used by his predecessor, with no additional costs for the county.

Blalack said his greatest achievement during his term in office has been the upgrading of the justice of the peace court's environment and procedures. When conducting business in the courtroom, Blalack said he always wears jurist robes.

"Counseling with individuals and families in trouble is an integral part of my daily activities," Blalack said, "and the services of this court have been and will continue to be made available to resolve these problems."

The incumbent estimated that an average of 200 to 250 persons have used his counseling services monthly during the past three years.

Blalack also said that his court's prompt and expedient handling of matters for the Lubbock Police Department, Criminal District Attorney's Office and the Lubbock County Sheriff's Office has resulted in good relations with law enforcement agencies here.

Prior to taking on the justice of the peace position, Blalack served 21 years with the federal government. He formerly served as administrative officer for the Lubbock office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Blalack is running as a Democrat. No other candidates have announced for that post.

Indian Ocean Fleet Discussed By U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet move into Afghanistan has led the United States to consider the possibility of giving some permanency to America's already expanded naval presence in the Indian Ocean.

Officials said an expansion of U.S. naval forces in the region — possibly by adding a carrier on a more or less permanent basis — was an option under active consideration.

But Pentagon officers denied the United States might create an entirely new "5th Fleet" to cruise permanently in the Indian Ocean as the 6th Fleet patrols the Mediterranean and the 7th Fleet sails in Far East waters.

The U.S. base on the British owned Indian Ocean island of Diego Garcia seems the logical spot for the eventual headquarters of an Indian Ocean naval force.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown is expected to ask Congress for $18 million in the 1981 budget to dredge the harbor at Diego Garcia, an atoll 1,000 miles south of India and 2,000 miles from the Persian Gulf.

The Navy has proposed a four-year plan, costing about $173 million, for upgrading the facility, Navy sources said.

The Soviet invasion of Afghanistan has caused the White House, State Department and Defense Department to take a serious new look at what Moscow may be up to in the Indian Ocean area.

Strategic planners say an emboldened Soviet leadership eventually may try to send troops through Pakistan to establish a permanent warm water port for the Russians on the Indian Ocean.

Truculent Soviet sources in Washington, in recent conversations with correspondents, warned clearly that Russian troops are capable of taking action against Pakistan.

actively supporting the Moslem guerrillas battling the Soviet army of occupation in Afghanistan.

The basing of Soviet submarines on the Indian Ocean would present a serious challenge to shipping lanes used to bring oil from the Persian Gulf to Japan and Western Europe.

In the face of the Soviet buildup in Afghanistan, the United States is taking steps toward establishing bases in Oman, Somalia and possibly Kenya to back up future American operations in the Indian Ocean region.

Defense officials say a U.S. Technical team will fly to Oman and Somalia toward the end of January to examine available facilities and assess what more might be required.

Kenya appears to have raised some last-minute objections to a U.S. base, casting doubts over whether military facilities in the East African nation would be available to the United States.

Derailments Force Three Evacuations

By The Associated Press

Rail tank car derailments near small towns in southeastern Ohio, central Arizona and eastern Pennsylvania forced nearly 2,000 people to spend Sunday away from their homes.

Nine chemical tank cars derailed Sunday near Millfield, Ohio, and residents of Buckeye, Ariz., were forced to leave their homes as clean up work began from a wreck Saturday that left two propane tankers off the tracks.

One car carrying a flammable liquid caught fire when a Conrail freight derailed Sunday near Feasterville, Pa. Police evacuated residents living within a half mile of the rural crash site 30 miles north of Philadelphia.

Firefighters rolled the burning car away from the others. There were no injuries.

Most of the 750 evacuees from Millfield returned to their homes Sunday night, but about 80 were still being kept out of the area.

In Arizona, the Red Cross said it served meals to 1,200 evacuees. They returned home Sunday night.

The chemical toluene diisocyanate, or TDI, was aboard one of the nine tankers on a 35-car Conrail freight train that went off the tracks near Ohio 13, about 10 miles north of Athens, the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency said.

Some of the TDI spilled into ditches and into the septic system of a nearby home. Some of it came in contact with a grass fire and burned for about half an hour before it was extinguished.

TDI is used in the manufacture of plastics and vinyl, state officials said.

Another car contained diphenylmethane diisocyanate, or MDI, also flammable and toxic, and officials feared it would rupture if it were moved. Another car was leaking propylene glycol, a chemical food additive.

In the Arizona wreck, officials said vandals may have thrown a switch that caused six cars of the 104-car Southern Pacific freight to derail. Officials first said gas was leaking from one of the two derailed propane tankers, but the railroad later said there was no leak.

halt to the strike and that he expected some 1,600 employees to go off the payroll in the next two to three days.

Airline and union representatives met in an all-day session Thursday and Saturday, but came away empty early Sunday. By 12:45 a.m. Sunday, pickets were being set up at the Dallas Love Field terminal (Southwest's home base) and at the maintenance buildings there.

The two sides have been negotiating a new contract since July 1979, and worked from October to mid-December under the eye of federal mediators. The strike was called at 12:01 a.m. Sunday, the first time the group has been eligible to begin a work stoppage.

"They (the mechanics and clerks) have been behind for a long time and we're just trying to get them caught up," Medley said. "We certainly don't enjoy strikes, but sometimes they can be very effective."

Soviets, East Germans Vote Against Sanctions

Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh told reporters outside the council chamber that, "A gap still exists between the Iranian and U.S. positions."

On Friday, Waldheim and various U.N. delegates received oral messages from the Iranian mission to the United Nations, prompting the first delay on the scheduled consideration of sanctions.

On Saturday, Iranian authorities sent a letter to Waldheim, after which the secretary-general requested further clarification of Iran's position.

The letter the paper said was from Ghotbzadeh referred to a pledge made here by Waldheim for a U.N. probe of the shah's alleged misdeeds, but threw little light on behind-the-scenes maneuvers to end the crisis.

"...On the basis of negotiations we had together," Ghotbzadeh wrote, "it was agreed that you form an international delegation to carry out its job as soon as possible and, considering the details discussed with you, the only solution is the one we talked about and naturally the mere formation of this committee or expression of a view by it will not solve any problems."

"Our demands for the extradition of the shah and his property should take a legal form. I hope there will be no vagueness in this field."

"Therefore I declare once again that if the decisions of the Security Council are not based on accepting it and carrying out our wishes, they will be regarded void from our viewpoint," the letter said, according to the newspapers.

While McHenry has repeatedly expressed doubt that "anything serious" would come from the latest communications with Iran, he said it would be irresponsible for the United States not to pursue even the slightest chance that Iranian officials were willing to negotiate the hostages' release.

Some Security Council members reportedly requested that a meeting be postponed for several days so that the Iranian communication could be followed up. But the United States insisted on day-to-day meetings to keep the matter under close review, diplomatic sources here said.

A number of Third World countries and even some U.S. allies have shown reluctance to adopt sanctions.

The Soviet Union is one of five permanent council members with the veto power. The others are America, Britain, France and China. The 10 non-permanent members are Bangladesh, Portugal, Jamaica, Norway, Zambia, East Germany, Tunisia, Niger, the Philippines and Mexico.

There are 152 members in the General Assembly, where no country has a veto, but it is not empowered to enforce its resolutions.

Gunman Wounds Levelland Man

Danny Cline, a 27-year-old Levelland resident was being treated at the Health Sciences Center Hospital emergency room Sunday night for a gunshot wound to the chest as Levelland police continued to search for a suspect in the case.

Police were searching for a Mexican-American male who reportedly was arguing with Cline over money when the shooting occurred about 7:32 p.m. in the parking lot of Jim Dandy Foods No. Five at Levelland.

"Some people were sitting in a van outside the grocery store when two of the guys got into an argument over some money," said Levelland Police Lt. Billy Weaver. The argument ensued until the suspect shot Cline with a .25 or .32 caliber pistol, the officer said.

"I didn't see anything happen," said a store clerk. "The man's wife came in here and said her husband had been shot, so I called the cops."

Thousands Welcome Guerrilla Leader's Return To Rhodesia

Whites, Blacks Urged To 'Get Together'

NKOMO RETURNS — Nationalist co-leader of the Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance, Joshua Nkomo, left, grins and waves to crowds that numbered in the thousands as he returned from three years of self-exile Sunday. Security was tight with white, foreground, and black security officials guarding him closely. (AP Laserphoto)

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesian guerrilla leader Joshua Nkomo flew home Sunday to a tumultuous welcome, bringing with him a conciliatory message that whites and blacks "get together" in peace after a bitter, seven-year war. "It's unfortunate we had to fight a war to bring about universal suffrage elections," the burly, 62-year-old nationalist told reporters after alighting from a Zambian airliner at Salisbury airport. "Let's get together and say that it's over." A crowd estimated at 120,000 cheered the returning leader at a mammoth rally shortly after his arrival. For Nkomo, the 39-minute flight from the Zambian capital of Lusaka ended three years of self-imposed exile during which he and fellow insurgent leader Robert Mugabe led the intense guerrilla war. Mugabe, based in Mozambique, was expected back in Rhodesia next Sunday. A British-sponsored cease-fire was in its 16th day when Nkomo returned. Under the accord, signed by guerrilla leaders and the local Salisbury regime of Bishop Abel Muzorewa, both sides began disengaging when the cease-fire took hold. Rhodesian forces were confined to the areas of their bases, unless the temporary British Governor, Lord Soames, needed to use them to counter security violations. Some 22,000 guerrillas have left bush hideouts and gathered in assembly areas monitored by 1,300 British and Commonwealth troops. New elections, in which Nkomo, Mugabe and Muzorewa will take part, are scheduled for next month and are intended to make Rhodesia a legally independent nation after some 15 years as a breakaway British colony.

Despite fears that elements within the 250,000 white minority here would attempt to assassinate Nkomo, his arrival went off without problems. Nkomo became an object of hatred for some whites after he made public statements that his guerrillas were responsible for shooting down two unarmed civilian Rhodesian airliners in 1978 and 1979. More than 100 whites died in the crashes. Nkomo, his aides and other passengers sipped champagne aboard the Zambian Airways Boeing 737 and there was spontaneous cheering and applause when the aircraft landed in Salisbury, reported AP correspondent Nicholas Hanks, who was aboard the flight. Nkomo supporters were encouraged to stay away from the heavily guarded airport and instead to go to the black township of Highfield, on the outskirts of Salisbury. A crowd of cheering blacks — estimated by police at least 120,000 — gathered at a sports complex of eight adjacent soccer fields to welcome Nkomo, who was whisked from the airport to the rally in a British military helicopter. As a fierce African sun beat down, Nkomo, speaking from a two-story-high wooden platform, addressed his supporters, some of whom festooned themselves with the red, green, black and yellow banners of his guerrilla group. "We have won our country," he shouted hoarsely to the excited crowd. Hundreds of persons fainted as they pressed closer to get a glimpse of their leader. But Nkomo also preached moderation to the blacks, who make up a 9 million majority in Rhodesia.

Israeli Investigators Mounting Search For 140 Buried Autos

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli private investigators are mounting a search in the Sinai Desert for an improbable buried treasure — 140 Mercedes Benz cars believed stolen in Israel and waiting to be dug up and smuggled into Egypt. The border between Israel and Egypt, constantly shifting as Israel withdraws from the Sinai, has become a paradise for Israeli and Arab smugglers trafficking in everything from cars to towels. Police sources say the traffic is huge, but figures are hard to come by. One indicator comes from Shmuel Flatto-Sharon, a member of Israel's Parliament, who claims that about 140 West German Mercedes Benzes are buried in the Sinai sands on the Israeli side of the lines, waiting to be dug up and sold when the area is turned back to Egypt. Flatto-Sharon has started a group called the "Mercedes Victims," which is renting a helicopter and four Jeeps to hunt for the buried cars around the dunes near El Arish, the only real town in Sinai. The hunt is set to begin on Tuesday. Police and Israeli soldiers have already dug up 32 vehicles in the area. According to Flatto-Sharon's secretary, Zvi Vilder, the thieves, both Arabs and Israelis, drive the cars to Gaza with fake Gaza registration plates. There they sell them to local Bedouin Arabs, familiar with the pathless sands of the area, who take them off to Beirut. Some of the cars have already made their way to Egypt, and one Israeli journalist reported riding in a Cairo taxi that had the Hebrew words "Onward Paratroopers" still stenciled on its door. The wealthy Flatto-Sharon has a personal stake in the problem. His own Mercedes, an $86,000 SL-450, complete with television, radio-telephone and bar, disappeared several months ago, and is believed to have made the familiar route from Tel Aviv to the Sinai burial ground. "If we turn up anything, two insurance companies have promised to join in the costs," Vilder said at a recent news conference. The smuggling has been one of the topics discussed by the joint Israeli-Egyptian military committee on Sinai. Committee members flying over the area recently spotted the stolen vehicle of an Israeli brigadier-general. Israeli soldiers recently stopped an Arab truck driver on his way to Gaza. It turned out the truck was stolen, and loaded on the back was a Mercedes taxi — also stolen. But cars are not the only things crossing the trampled border between Israel and Egypt. Money dealers smuggle foreign currency into Egypt, where currency regulations make selling dollars a lucrative business, while linens, television sets, radios and spare auto parts, all hugely expensive here because of heavy import duties, find their way into Israel. In the teeming market of Gaza City, you can pick up a car battery or set of Italian or Spanish bedsheets for less than half the price in Israel.

The Sinai has always been a highway for contraband, especially for hashish headed for the streets of Cairo and Alexandria in Egypt. The wild mountains and rutted valleys are filled with hiding places known only to the Bedouin, and newspaper reports say vigorous patrols by Israeli border troops failed to stop the flow of the drug to Egypt. According to the reports, the hashish makes its way from the fields of Lebanon through Jordan to the Israeli border or by boat to the Sinai coast. There, Bedouin trackers pick it up, and, with the drugs strapped to the bellies of their camels, they wind through dry riverbeds and across Israeli and Egyptian minefields in the dead of night to a drop-off point at the Suez Canal.

Doctors Test Preventive Medicine For Traveler's Diarrhea

CHICAGO (AP) — A drug similar to a medicine widely used to quell upset stomachs has been found to reduce the incidence of "traveler's diarrhea," a group of doctors says. The doctors say their finding is important because the drug might be safer than products now marketed for travelers who get diarrhea. But they cautioned it should not be used as a preventive medicine because not enough is known yet about acceptable doses. Their findings were published in the Jan. 18 edition of the Journal of the American Medical Association. The drug is subsalicylate bismuth, the active ingredient in Pepto Bismol. Dr. Doyle J. Evans said, Evans was a member of the research team at the University of Texas Medical School that tested the medication. The research team conducted a test among 128 college students who attended summer school in Mexico in 1977, the article said. In the study, 62 students were given about a quarter of a pint of subsalicylate bismuth four times daily for 21 days, and 66 students were given a substance with no medicinal value. The article said 14, or 23 percent, of those taking the drug got diarrhea, while 40, or 61 percent, of those not taking it developed diarrhea.

Doyle said there are only "very subtle differences" between Pepto Bismol and subsalicylate bismuth. The article said students experienced no overt side effects from the doses of subsalicylate bismuth during the study. Doctors may find the substance more acceptable for use against diarrhea than antibiotics, which can cause sensitivity to sunlight, sight problems and other side effects, the article said. Diarrhea is developed by between 30 percent and 50 percent of the three million Americans who visit Mexico annually, said Dr. Sherwood L. Gorbach of Tufts-New England Medical Center in Boston, in an editorial accompanying the article. "Although the disease is known as 'traveler's' and 'Montezuma's' revenge, it should be realized that traveler's diarrhea is at least as common, if not more so in certain Mediterranean countries." Travelers to the Soviet Union are apt to acquire diarrheal disease, often caused by Giardia lamblia, ruefully known among its victims as the "Trotsky's," he wrote. "Certainly, there will be other advances in this field, but the subsalicylate bismuth regimen is the first to offer safe (preventative care) to the beleaguered wayfarer."

HEARTLINE: I am 69 years old and I find that my memory is failing me more and more. Recently a man came to my door explaining that he was with a large pharmaceutical firm and they were introducing a new tablet that helped people remember things. He said there were 365 tablets in a bottle, a year's supply. He said it would cure hardening of the arteries, or senility, as it is called. I told him that I wanted to think about it because the pills were very expensive — $29.95 per bottle. My druggist said he has never heard of such a thing and for me not to buy it. What do you think about this? — R.W.

We were told that there are experimental drugs that hopefully one day can be used in the control or cure of hardening of the arteries and related problems. However, there is no cure or controlling drug of the kind that this salesman described to you at this time. Also, we will point out that if there were such a drug, it would certainly not be peddled door-to-door. Such a miracle drug would be highly publicized and most likely marketed through reputable retail drug outlets, probably only by prescription. We feel that the salesman you tell of is a quack, a con-man — and a dangerous one at that. If this man returns to sell you his special memory potion, tell him that you forgot where you put your money. The country is full of such con-artists and they are very convincing. After all, it's their job to be so. Heartline urges you to beware of other drug quackery, which includes cures for baldness among men, which is incurable; face peels that promise new youth, but may bring permanent disfigurement. There is the prompt relief of colitis through laxatives, which can seriously worsen this condition; and drugs that melt away fat without dieting or exercise, when dieting and/or exercise are the only ways known to medicine to reduce weight. Most cruel and dangerous of all are unproven treatments for cancer, which rob the patient of the one element that can save his or her life — valuable time during which really effective treatment could be administered. When you run across such quackery, do not buy. See your physician or inform your county medical society. Get in touch with the Food and Drug Administration, either at its district office in your area or at its headquarters at 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Md. 20852. You might contact your local newspaper, which in turn could alert others to beware. If the drug was promoted through the mail, inform your local post office.

which, I understand, actually the benefit check for January. When I signed up for Social Security, the counselor at the Social Security office tried to explain to me about the allowed earnings limitations, as I will be working part-time. He was very nice and explained it to me twice, but I am still confused as to whether Social Security will be concerned with my yearly earnings this year, or only the monthly earnings. I was embarrassed to ask him again, so I hope you can clear it up for me. — T.A.

The allowed earnings limits established under Social Security deal with your yearly earnings — except for the calendar year in which you FIRST begin drawing benefits. This means that for the year 1980, which is the year you are to begin drawing benefits, you must stay within the monthly earnings limit. Beginning in 1981, you will only need to be concerned that your yearly earnings stay within the allowed amounts. So, since you are age 65 or over, for the year 1980, you must keep your earned income at $417 per month or under. Those persons who are under age 65 and who are retiring during 1980 must keep their monthly earnings, after retirement and until the beginning of 1981, at $310 or below. You will find most of the information that a retiree will need about Social Security in our 1980 guide to Social Security. To order your copy, send $2.00 to Heartline's Guide to Social Security, P.O. Box 11934, Chicago, Ill. 60611. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED

American Indian Activist Meets With Hostage

U.S. INDIAN SEES HOSTAGE — John Thomas, an American Indian from South Dakota, is shown with letters he was given by the one hostage he was allowed to see in the U.S. embassy Sunday. Thomas, a militant of the American Indian Movement, would not reveal the name of the hostage he saw. The letters are from other captives to their families. (AP Laserphoto)

Militants Release Panamanian Hostage

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftist militants on Sunday released a young woman who was one of seven hostages they had been holding in the Panamanian Embassy. They said the move was intended as a sign of "good faith" to show they are determined to settle the standoff.

The militants, members of the Popular Leagues of Feb. 28, seized the embassy Friday and are still holding the six other hostages, including Panamanian Ambassador David Pere Ramos and Costa Rican Ambassador Alejandro Alvarado.

A militant spokesman said embassy attache Guadalupe de Mendez had been freed because she has a two-month old child.

The others being held are three El Salvadoran employees and Costa Rican charge d'affaires Santos David Lopez.

The militants are demanding that the government release six members of the group arrested last month after a clash with national guardsmen and that it explain the disappearance of six other persons at that time.

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — American Indian activist John Thomas said he met Sunday with one of some 50 American hostages held by Iranian militants at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and was given mail from the captives for their relatives at home.

Thomas, a member of the American Indian Movement, said he could not disclose the name of the hostage he met, but said, "he was in good condition."

"He looked good. He was very surprised to see me, to see who I was. He appreciated concern by someone," Thomas told reporters.

The 35-year-old member of the Shawnee and Delaware Indian tribes went to Tehran to attend an international conference of "liberation movements," hosted by the militants occupying the embassy. During a demonstration last Friday, Thomas led Iranians in shouting "Down with Carter."

Thomas had said he also was trying to arrange the release of one of the hostages, Frederick Lee Kupke, whom he identified as an Oklahoman who is part Kiowa Indian. It was not known if this was the man Thomas saw.

Asked if he had had any luck in trying to get the militants to free Kupke, Thomas replied: "I think their position is clear. They have told the world their position. No hostages will be released until the shah is returned, then they all can go."

Thomas would be the first American to have seen a hostage since three U.S. clergymen saw 43 of them during a Christmas visit.

He said the hostage he spoke with did not seem concerned that he had been forgotten at home and recalled the Christmas visit by the clergymen.

Thomas said the man had received only one personal letter since he was taken captive Nov. 4 but had gotten some of the three million Christmas cards sent by Americans in a show of support for the hostages.

All the hostages "were very satisfied and happy that people were concerned about them," Thomas quoted the captive as saying.

He said the visit with the hostage took place in a reception room and lasted "probably five to ten minutes." The conversation was restricted to the hostage's well being, Thomas said.

The Indian, who plans to return Monday to the United States, said he was carrying 151 pieces of mail which he intended to hand deliver to the family members, either by going to their homes in person or asking relatives to collect the mail from him at some central point.

"I hope to have the mail done in the speediest possible way, I hope within a week," Thomas said.

He said he also was told by the embassy militants that he could "receive messages from family members and bring them back."

Thomas said he was working with the U.S. National Council of Churches in distributing the mail and hoped to return to Tehran with a new batch for the captives after he delivers their mail.

"Some of their families have not received any mail," Thomas said.

Israelis Hold American Citizen Said To Be Terrorist Member

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israeli authorities have refused to allow family members to visit a U.S. citizen of Palestinian extraction who has been held without formal charges since Dec. 23 on suspicion of involvement with guerrilla organizations, his sister said Sunday.

A spokesman for the U.S. Consulate in Jerusalem confirmed Israel has filed no formal charges against Isa Hanna, 35, a salesman based in Rome for a pharmaceutical manufacturer.

Hanna's detention was extended last week for an additional 30 days, the consulate spokesman said.

Hanna arrived at Ben Gurion Airport Dec. 22 for a Christmas visit to his family in Ramallah on the occupied West Bank.

Security officials at the airport ordered him to report the next day for questioning to the Israeli military government headquarters in Ramallah.

He was arrested at the headquarters and held since, his relatives said.

U.S. consulate officials have visited Hanna three times since his arrest but the family has not been allowed to see him, his sister Angel Kashou said.

Resentful Afghans Vow Not To Accept Russians

JALALABAD, Afghanistan (UPI) — By day, Jalalabad is a peaceful, tree-lined frontier town warmed by brilliant winter sunshine, a welcome contrast with Kabul, the barren and frigid capital.

But as the sun sets and a bitter chill creeps back into the air, men with blankets wrapped around their shoulders and heads emerge carrying Soviet rifles and automatic pistols. A few hours later, gunfire erupts in the distance.

Despite the presence of an estimated 1,000 Soviet troops in Jalalabad, 45 miles from the Pakistan border, the fighting is between mujahideens, or Moslem guerrillas, and Soviet-led Afghan troops loyal to the Kabul government.

The Soviets are ostensibly in control of Jalalabad, located midway between the precipitous Kabul Gorge and the equally spectacular Khyber Pass.

But residents say the Soviet troops never venture forth from their barracks just east of town on the road to Pakistan because anti-Russian sentiment runs high in Jalalabad.

Armored personnel carriers manned by loyal Afghan troops guard the approaches to the Soviet camp, where anti-aircraft guns, tanks, and trucks can be glimpsed by passersby.

"There is going to be a lot of bloodshed in this country," a longtime foreign resident said. "People will never accept the Russians."

"They will try their hardest to let the Afghan army take care of the mujahideens," he said, sitting in a sunny garden of orange trees and roses. "But if they have to, they'll come out and do it themselves. But there will be a general uprising when the Russians come out of the barracks and take control."

Afghans in Jalalabad are surprisingly open with a foreigner about their anti-Soviet and anti-government feelings, once they establish that he is not a Soviet.

Four of the approximately 100 Soviet civilian advisers in the Jalalabad area have been slain by guerrillas since the Dec. 27 Soviet-backed coup that installed Babrak Karmal as president, the foreign resident said.

"Babrak Karmal says there are Americans and Germans and Chinese inside Afghanistan," one Afghan offered unsolicited. "You tell him I only see Russians."

The distaste for Karmal extends to a very basic level of morality.

"The Moslem people do not drink," an earnest young man from Paktia province said. "The Parchamis and the Khalqis they are Moslems but they drink. It is against our faith."

The youth, who has been cut off from his family because of fighting in Paktia province, finds little difference between the quibbling politicians in Kabul and their Soviet mentors.

"You take the Parchamis here and the Khalqis here," he said, drawing a diagram on a piece of paper. "And you take the Soviets here. They are all the same, all sons of Lenin."

"I want to go to another country," he confided. "Here there is no work and there is no rest from the Russians."

Most of the fighting in the Jalalabad area is concentrated on the town of Surkhrud.

BEAUTY CARE AT SENSIBLE PRICE — Shown at Bernice's Hair fashions, near Methodist Hospital, are staffmembers (standing) Helen Cross; Barbara Huffman, manager; Judy Tate, and (seated) Judy Garcia. Each has a record of finest training, achievement and expertise. Note specials in the accompanying story.

Bernice's Hair Fashions Tells Two-Week Offer, Other Benefits

Bernice's Hair Fashions, 2107 Knoxville Ave., phone 795-2604, has some most attractive offers to usher in the new year:

(1) For two weeks, beginning today, ear piercing, with studs furnished, is on special at $10 (regular $15);

(2) One can save, throughout the year, in Bernice's combination offer of hair-cut, shampoo and set, all for $10.50, a full $1 saving as haircuts alone are $6.

Near Methodist Hospital, the salon is especially convenient to hospital-related personnel, and "walk-ins" are welcome. Special attention is called to the all-new Zotos texture foam perm (go foam, it's fabulous!).

For Men, Too

The friendly staff is schooled and most adept in all the new hairstyles and latest methods, and one could do well to form the habit of depending upon Bernice's, phone 795-2604. Early and late appointments can be arranged.

Men are welcome at the shop, too, with expert hair care assured.

Barbara Huffman, a Jessie Lee graduate well recognized in the trade and by customers who appreciate quality in beauty and hair care, is manager. Barbara has been with Bernice's for over 15 years.

Bernice Sturdivant still is owner of the shop.

Barbara is assisted by an able staff including Helen Cross, Judy Tate and Judy Garcia.

Helen is a graduate of Mickie's Beauty Academy, and though most proficient in all the beauty services, she specializes in sculptured nails, hair straighteners and men's hair services, also.

Both Judy Garcia and Judy Tate are Jessie Lee graduates and render a really superior beauty service.

With these operators, one can be sure of expertise and friendly attention.

Whether long or short hair styles are the situation, or if old or new style cuts are preferred, Bernice's can be a sensible solution for style without exorbitant expense.

Bernice's is open six days a week. Remember the location, one-half block south of Methodist Hospital at 2107 Knoxville Ave., phone 795-2604, a location especially appreciated by residents of that area and by hospital personnel, visitors, etc.

"The best of beauty care is just as near as Bernice's Hair fashions in Lubbock, where the coffeepot always is on and a friendly, casual atmosphere prevails.

"And don't forget the two-week special ear-piercing offer."

Beef Eaters Special Buffet Added At Hilton's Doc Chumley Restaurant

There's a new addition to the elegant menu at the Lubbock Hilton's Doc Chumley's Restaurant, 505 Ave. Q.

As of just a week ago, a Beef Eaters special buffet has been provided, from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, at just $4.95!

There is a carved whole steamship roast, cooked to perfection, with a salad bar featuring tossed green salad, cole slaw, potato salad, carrot and raisin salad, macaroni salad, three bean salad, garbanzo beans, bean sprouts, cottage cheese, gelatin molds, sliced pineapple, croutons, bacon bits, parmesan cheese, grated cheese, baked bread and rolls, and block cheese.

What an opportunity to eat sumptuously and at affordable price during the lunch hours!

And this special is in addition to the extensive menu always provided. The entire menu at Of' Doc Chumley's Restaurant, is truly exciting, and the Hilton Inn general manager Alain Pelletier prides in the delicious meals there, noting that testimonials from satisfied customers are available upon request.

Evening hours for the restaurant are 5 to 10 p.m.

Aside from the great food, only top liquors are made available.

Appetizers, Texas treats, salads, wines, Doc's palatable platters, the great steak menu, desserts and beverages... all invite and merit your pleasure and applause at the Hilton Inn!

Menu To Please

The platters include such popular offerings as U.S. top sirloin steak with two giant broiled shrimp, cooked to one's taste; the shrimp Italiane; double pork chop broiled; sauteed trout almonde, Texas pepper steak, Chumley's beef skewer and seafood Newburg.

In the steak menu, select from Texas-size T-bone, Kansas City strip, filet mignon and U.S. top choice sirloin.

Texas Treats include the Chumley Burger (half pound chopped beef patty on a sesame seed bun with steak fries, even with cheese when desired; the chicken breast cordon bleu, Italian Bird and Chicken Chumley.

Three Lubbock Diet Centers Afford Weight Loss Programs

Does a weight loss program (that really works) seem especially sensible after the holiday round of sumptuous dining?

Does assistance and attention by a counselor who cares hold special appeal as one looks ahead to spring and summer when excess weight might keep you from enjoying the related activities to the fullest?

All this points to very pertinent reasons for depending upon the Diet Centers in Lubbock, now located in Security Park (3602 Slide Road, phone 799-1441), at 8302 Indiana Ave., phone 793-3438, and at 4311 Boston Ave., phone 793-8300.

In introducing and explaining the Diet Center programs in Lubbock, let us first learn about the counselors heading each of the units. Each of the three counselors became head of her business after personal experience in Diet Center weight loss, becoming "sold" on the program through personal trial. What better proof could there be?

Deanne Alewine heads the 8302 Indiana Diet Center. A native West Texan, Deanne is more recently a 10-year Bryan, Tex., resident where she attended Texas A & M.

Connie Dunlap is owner of the Diet Center at B-10 Security Park, 3602 Slide Road. Connie is a longtime Lubbock resident, and began her Diet Center program under Deanne.

There's a Diet Center near you!

In citing their personal experiences with Diet Center, each of the three counselors relate a personal and measurable weight loss that has remained stabilized. In fact, they report that each probably has lost over 200 pounds during their lifetime in other programs and on their own, what with fad diets, crash diets, etc., but each prefer the Diet Center program because it has worked for them. Each has had special training at the Dietology Training School in Rexburg, Idaho, before opening centers as franchise owners. Each has graduated from the Rexburg school.

Program Defined

No drugs or shots are involved in the very practical program that features: (1) well-balanced diet; (2) individual counseling and (3) daily weigh-in.

A 12-week program most usually is utilized, with 17 to 25 pound loss normal within a six-week period.

Stabilization after weight loss is an important fact of the Diet Center program, it is emphasized.

Diet Centers in Lubbock are open five days a week; no signing of contracts is involved; it is a plan to "live with" pleasantly.

Some may not realize that Diet Center programs are set up to meet each individual's needs, and that these can be adjusted for folks with special health problems. Counseling is afforded men and children, as well as women.

Finally, and in brief, it is explained that the Diet Center program calls for a well-balanced diet, and the clients will

Near Two Centuries Combined Experience Mark Service Staff

"Taking your car to a 'pro' is not just a figure of speech when applied to patronage of the Don Crow Chevrolet Service Department, Loop 289 and Slide Road in Lubbock."

After all, service technicians there have combined total of 172 years experience in the field!

Count and add it yourself!

There's Jess Nichols, service manager, with 26 years professional experience; Emmitt Booher, 6 years; Roger Paschall, 7; Buster Singleton, 35 years; Mario Molina, 2; Jim Dickey, 15; Leon Roberts, 21; Beauford McCain, 28 years; Robert Gutierrez, 6 years; Chana Hernandez, 6; and Andy Orta, 20 years.

Small wonder that customer satisfaction not only is a motto and pledge but is a reality at the Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc.

Service Special

The trade accorded the Service Department is sincerely noted and appreciated, and a graphic expression of this appreciation is the still-continuing offer of oil and lube job for GM autos at just $9.95! Yes, just $9.95, and this includes up to five quarts of Quaker State HD 30 oil, AC filter, and grease.

Of course, we welcome your business throughout the department, but we are listing this good price as indicative of the customer-considering operations at Don Crow Chevrolet.

And Don Crow still has some of those sought-after Target engines, with the 350 Target engine priced at just $995, including installation, intake, belt set and labor for Chevrolet passenger cars and not lose the essential fat on the body, but only the extra adipose fat, the dieters will have all the nutrients necessary to maintain good health while losing adipose fat from the body. At a very modest price, one may avail herself or himself of daily counseling during the weight loss period, counseling during stabilization, and further aid during later maintenance for a lifetime of weight control.

"With the aid of one of the Diet Centers in Lubbock, you can feel well and if you persevere, in no time at all you'll begin to look as great as you feel!"

"After all, wasn't one of those New Year resolutions to lose excess weight?"

light duty pickups. Cost for heavy duty trucks understandably is slightly more.

Service advisors are on the job at 7:30 a.m. at Don Crow to aid in servicing for folks en route to their work. Mini Maid service has long been appreciated gesture, and the firm also affords bus service to and from the South Plains Mall at the customers' convenience!

It all is a part of the "customer satisfaction" image carefully guarded at Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc.

From the service manager to the service advisors and technicians (including five master technicians) at Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc., all take pride in the ultimate in customer service at a price that can be lived with.

"And don't forget Don Crow Chevrolet's invitation to compare costs; we are glad to show you the posted hourly rates and allotted Chevrolet factory time for any job, eliminating any confusion. We are aboveboard in all dealings."

Don Crow believes that it pays you to know all the facts; it pays to know and trust Don Crow Chevrolet!

"When you consider our honesty in dealing, the dedication of a professional staff with true know-how, our reputation for saving for you in dollars and cents, then why consider anything less than Don Crow Chevrolet for your every auto repair need?"

All service work is guaranteed 90 days or 4,000 miles on all General Motors parts and accessories.

More than a dozen technicians and three service advisors are on the job.

FASHION-WISE, CUSTOMER ORIENTED — Pictured (standing) at Maxine's Accent are Kay Shook, Sharon Harris, assistant manager, owner Maxine Willingham, Michele Hunter; and (seated) Mary McCollum and Lue Ree McGee. Mary, Maxine and Sharon represent three generations of the same family on the team since the store's founding 11 years ago.

Maxine's Accent January Sale
Featuring Exceptional Values

It is January Clearance time at Maxine's Accent, in Briarcrest Shopping Center!

For this once-a-year event, Maxine's not only is offering many racks at 50 per cent reduction, but also is arranging storewide reductions of 30 per cent and more off on all fall and holiday sweaters, coats (including leathers and fake furs), jeans, short and long dresses, sportswear, robes and gowns, and accessories. Also, reductions in the Designer Room include some ultra suedes.

Maxine's Accent has an excellent selection of ultra suedes. A new shipment of ultra suede jackets has just arrived, and also spring ultra suede suits and dresses.

Beginning their eleventh year, Dr. and Mrs. Will Willingham especially invite their many friends and customers to come in for this storewide clearance sale.

Three years ago this February, the store was expanded to twice its original size, and a beautiful new "Designer Room" was added. Here, merchandise from top designers is displayed, and privacy is afforded the discriminating customer looking for uniqueness and many lines exclusive to Maxine's Accent.

Fur Showing
Another situation merits special attention at this time:
An added venture for the store has been the association of Maxine's Accent with Pam Mahoney, noted furrier of New York and Dallas. Mrs. Mahoney is bringing a $500,000 collection of exciting furs for an early February sale.
"Maxine and Pam extend a joint invitation for you to watch for specific dates and details and to come by at that time and see this collection at most competitive prices before you purchase a fur."
Referring to the shop's current January Clearance, Maxine emphasizes:
"We've had a most enjoyable and rewarding 10 years in ladies and junior apparel here in Lubbock and have met with tremendous response from not only Lubbock but from many of the surrounding cities."
"We are happy to offer the exciting savings during the January Clearance, and we hope our many friends will be able to take advantage of these values."
The storewide reductions (30 to 70 per cent, remember) involve fall and holiday lines, long dresses and short dresses, beautiful mix-and-match sportswear for both juniors and misses, fall coats, sweaters, ultra suedes, party looks, lingerie and accessories.

Outstanding Labels
Some of the lines are Pant-Her, Collegian, Lady Wrangler, Body English, Melissa Lane, Lilli Ann, College Town, Dorce, Halston, Mollie Parnis, Strawberry Plant and many, many others.

The capable staff at Maxine's includes full-time staffers Maxine Willingham; her daughter, Sharon Harris, who is assistant manager; her mother, Mary McCollum; also Lue Ree McGee and Kay Shook. Part-time members include Michele Hunter, a Distributive Education student. Other occasional part-time staffers include Poppy Burnette and Kaye McGee.

Maxine is the fashion coordinator each year for Miss Lubbock, and she also assists other pageant entries locally in their wardrobe rightness.

Visa and Master Charge purchases are welcomed on both sale items and regularly-priced merchandise in the store where everything from the capable staff, the famous labels, the attractive decor, the management's devotion to fashion rightness and leadership, and currently the January Clearance contribute to the enviable Maxine's Accent image.

Sale Days, Workshop, Class Schedule
Announced By Hagood's Arts & Crafts

Hagood's Arts & Crafts, at 8211 Indiana (around the corner at 83rd and Indiana in spacious, modern quarters) starts the new year with new classes and still further inventory expansion.

One of the key announcements from the popular shop is that a special Dollar Day Sale will be conducted on the first Monday of each month, with a 10 per cent discount at that time on all purchases except frames which already have marked-down prices.

Be sure and check each sale day for unadvertised specials.

Inventory of Hagood's Arts & Crafts was expanded last fall, and now even more is being added. One must see all that is new to realize just how much is offered.

Due to popular demand, matting and backing materials will be stocked. (And if there are other arts and craft items not yet stocked but which you would like for us to carry, please let us know.)

Students Aided
Hagood's also would like the opportunity of serving the art and craft needs of the college students, offering a full 10 per cent discount with proper ID.

Another situation of immediate interest at Hagood's is the really impressive class schedule announced.

Among the opportunities are:
Monday nights, 6 to 9 o'clock, Beginner Tole with Carolyn Fortenberry instructing.
Tuesdays, 6 p.m. until 9 p.m., Beginner Canvas, Terri Burdette teaching.
Tuesday mornings, 10 a.m. until 12:30, Beginner Tole, with Carolyn Fortenberry.
Wednesday afternoons, 1-3:30, Acrylic Painting with Judy Sprehe.
Thursday nights, Advanced Canvas, Terri Burdette.
On Tuesday night, Jan. 22, and on Saturday morning, Jan. 26, there will be Gold Leaf Workshops with Sidney Field directing.

Hagood's will be scheduling other workshops and classes as time permits.

Chennault Prints
Included in the enlarged inventory are the sought-after Robert Chennault limited-edition prints, signed and numbered. Hagood's is quite proud to be able to make these available.

Due to popularity of the Hagood's workshops and classes, it is advised to call beforehand when possible to assure inclusion in the class of one's choice.

"We invite you to start off 1980 by taking advantage of the workshops afforded," is the sincere message from Billie Hagood, owner of the big store: "we invite you to visit and discover our upgraded, enlarged and specialized stock arranged to be of added service to the arts and crafts community."

NEW RV ELEGANCE AT AFFORDABLE PRICE

Rentals, Sales, Storage, Top Service Mark Pharr RV Center

For new fun experiences and for economy, the rental of a new motor home, trailer or pop-up from Pharr RV's, 1702 Clovis Road in Lubbock, could well be the happiest solution yet! Get details now about the ease and convenience involved in these three-day-minimum rentals.

Pharr doesn't stop here; he offers even more services and products. Such as some extremely good buys in '79 Coachmen customized vans (some equipped for trailer pulling).

And two '79 Wheel units and a '79 Silverstreak, all at discounted prices.

New Arrivals
Plus new 1980 units including the value-marked Coachman Citation and Crest-line trailers on the big lot at intersection of Avenue Q and the Clovis highway near downtown Lubbock, with some Deluxe models arriving soon.

For Winterizing
It is conceivable that some trailering folks have not yet winterized their units; if so, turn to Pharr without delay. Servicing and winterizing are specialized services there. And one can purchase anti-freeze from Pharr at reduced prices at this time.

Pharr also maintains covered and open storage for RV units.

Parts, accessories and service add to the picture of the firm's popularity.

More about the Coachmen units in stock.

Coachmen is the world's largest full-line manufacturer of recreational vehicles. New this year is the Citation model with livability features you've asked for, and with features you'd expect to find on much more expensive trailers. Now might be the very best time ever to acquire a great trailer with Coachmen value.

Among the Citation features are one-piece aluminum roof, full fiberglass insulation, tubular frame, painted exterior graphics, galvanized metal underbelly, interior cabinets fastened to sidewall studs, floor and rafters, aerodynamic front end styling, tandem wide track Kelsey Hayes running gear, four-wheel electric brakes, lockable outside storage compartments, dual holding tanks, positive latches on cabinet doors and lined wardrobes, increased kitchen counter-top, vinyl backsplash, rolled edge, laminated countertops in most models, and larger double stainless steel sink, plus name-brand refrigerator, range and oven. And much more assuring elegance, serviceability and full value. Options are available for even greater convenience and flexibility.

"Let Pharr open a whole new world of livability, convenience, comfort and style for you . . . the kind of travel excitement and vacation value you can rightfully expect from Coachmen . . . and Pharr RV, Inc.

Pharr appreciates the customer confidence in the just-concluded year and in years past, humbly recognizing the loyalty of the growing family of customers, appreciating every friendship and every transaction, pledging entry into the '80s with all-around value and consideration in each department. It is just another situation of home folks serving home folks to the best of their ability, we believe.

Accommodating age 3 through the sixth grade the Spring semester begins Jan. 21, with registration now underway at the school, 83rd Street at Salem Avenue in Lubbock, phone 794-2230.

"We hope you will consider us and investigate immediately; we want you to get full information just as soon as possible; we want you to learn of the outstanding physical facilities provided on the big 3.2-acre campus, with 40,000 square feet under roof. We believe you will find the school and its curriculum an eye-opener, and we hope you'll find how its program can be of service within your own family or scope of acquaintances."

Remember, registration is presently underway.

Dorothy Winfrey is founder and director of the school now in its second school year. She had conducted a school on Broadway for three years before personally designing and establishing the present facility involving 18 self-contained classrooms, all adjacent to a huge 60 ft. by 235 ft. gymnasium accommodating over a dozen sports!

All classrooms are air conditioned, independently heated and opening to the gym.

Construction is functionally attractive, of concrete and steel, and the building is reported completely fire safe. A heat detecting system is installed.

Dorothy Winfrey holds Bachelors and Masters degrees from Texas Tech in the field of Elementary Education; she is certified in three special education areas, certified in learning disabilities and physically handicapped, and has completed 40 hours study on the doctorate level.

To reach Winfrey Private School, just turn off 82nd Street on Toledo; the school is two blocks west and one block south of the Quaker Avenue-82nd Street intersection. You can't miss it!

'Plus Factors'
Discover at Winfrey Private School how "the best in education" in afforded. Student-teacher ratio in the grade school age is one instructor for 20 students or less; for ages 3 and 4 it is one instructor for 15 students.

Modest Charge
Rates are most reasonable. Many parents are surprised to find that their children can get the best in care and in educational opportunities at such modest fees — at Winfrey Private School.

Aside from the comprehensive curriculum, after-school private instruction (for ages 3 and up) is available in baton, gymnastics, tap, ballet and piano. After-school care is available until 6 p.m.

Every teacher in the school is "degreed" and certified in elementary education.

To give a hint of the school's concept and opportunities . . . and quality, a special sheet applicable to age 3 and 4, a suggested curriculum content for early education, points out the school's assistance and leadership in social development for the child, art and music opportunities, nature study units, writing readiness, number concepts and math readiness, and language arts and reading readiness helps.

"You must see the Winfrey Private School to understand its quality — in planning, concept, physical facilities, and operation. We hope you'll come out this week (enrollment is enabled now for the spring semester); we think you'll like and appreciate what you find."

Tuftwick's January Clearance Affording Savings, Selection

Tuftwick's January Clearance is underway with rock-bottom prices posted throughout the stock in the big Lubbock store.

"Don't delay . . . come to Tuftwick Carpet, at Brownfield Highway and Slide Road in Lubbock, and select during the sale. You'll readily recognize the quality and the selection that sets Tuftwick apart; and Hal, Arvel, Nancy and Beth will be glad to assist in any manner possible; they know carpet, and they know that satisfied customers are the biggest asset a firm can have.

Tuftwick wants to serve you now and throughout 1980 just as they have in years past, and they believe this sale kicking off the new year is the most practical way of proving their desire to serve best."

Whatever the selection in the very large stock, including full rolls, short rolls and remnants, one can save by purchasing from Tuftwick during this meaningful sale.

"Tuftwick takes pride in selling at $3 to $5 per yard under suggested retail, no matter the selection, no matter if just arrived in stock!"

AREA WINDOW INSTALLATIONS BY SCORES ATTEST TO FIRM'S POPULARITY

Insulating Windows Advantages Include New World of Savings

"Put your windows to work conserving energy!"
 This is not a trite suggestion, but rather a very practical procedure. Aluminum replacement windows, storm windows and storm doors can be a great factor in energy conservation, in comfort, in economy and in the over-all beauty of the home.
 And these windows and doors can be custom made for you, right here in Lubbock at Insulating Windows, Inc., now in its new home at 327 E. 74th St. (formerly serving at 1616 Ave. F).
 Come by the big new facility or call Insulating Windows at 745-5768 for full details about how this experienced firm can work for you.
 (Insulation-related installations can qualify for income tax credit, too, it is reminded by the manufacturing firm.)
For All-Year Comfort
 Insulating Windows, Inc. can open a whole new world in one's enjoyment of the home every day of the year, winter and summer, with the finest in storm windows and doors, with insulating windows enhancing the beauty, comfort and hospitality of the home.
For Cost Reductions
 Properly designed, properly located and properly used windows actually can reduce heating and air conditioning costs, research has proven. In winter, now with us, a window can capture the sun's warmth while providing a barrier to heating system losses.
Energy Conservation
 "Proper windows would seem to be a very, very rational approach to energy conservation . . . and with the help of the experienced staff at Insulating Windows, Inc., the job is simplified . . . with you, the customer, benefitting now and for seasons to come."
 Don't delay, call (806) 745-5768 or come by and visit the new home of Insulating Windows, Inc., 327 E. 74th St. (just south of Loop 289).

Briercroft Dance/Gymnastics Academy Adds Ladies Aerobics To New Program

"Did you realize what a tremendous program in dance and gymnastics is offered at the Briercroft Academy of Dance & Gymnastics, 50th & Q?"
 Even with the already-outstanding program, something new has been added.
 It is Ladies Aerobics, with sign-up underway (what a great time and opportunity to take off that "Christmas bulge"!)
 The Ladies Aerobics classes meet from 10 a.m. until 11 a.m. on Wednesdays, beginning Jan. 23, with the six-week program just $25.
 Continuous enrollment for gymnastics is a feature of the Academy.
 Dance enrollment is available now for those with previous training (with beginner session set for summer).
 Another item of interest at the popular Academy in the impending recital May 9 in the Municipal Auditorium, with preparations now well underway.
 For particulars about any phase of the opportunities at Briercroft Academy of Dance & Gymnastics, call 747-5850 or come by the big facility just off 50th & Q.
 There is special, modern equipment for toddlers through primary, and includes the mini vault, low bars, kindergarten work set, low beams and much more.
 The Gym has wall-to-wall ethy-foam matting, floor-level trampoline and the new equipment units.
 Elsie Jackson is business administrator of the 14-year-old Academy.
 Over 9,500 sq. ft. of clean, uncluttered space with in-place equipment, and instruction from truly outstanding personnel contribute to the envied capabilities and reputation of the Academy, with students there excelling in competition at many places and levels.
 Linda and Mac Laceywell are the safety certified gymnastic instructors. Eight adults and three specially trained young adult instructors care about the good physical and mental development of the children with whom they work, and they all feel that progression comes with good instruction as well as fun and enjoyment.
 The gymnastics programs, for all ages and skill levels, include beam, bars, vault, tumbling, floor exercise and floor-level trampoline.
Outstanding Dance Program
 The Dance Studio affords ballet, tap, jazz and the newly added aerobics, even with pre-school classes, musical theatre, ladies ballet and jazz.
 Janis Geddes, in charge, is president of the Texas Dance Teachers Association and holds numerous other prestigious posts in the field. She is active in the Lubbock Theatre, playing the role of

HOUSE CLINIC SETS SPECIAL SAVINGS FOR BRAND CLOSE-OUT

House Clinic Reveals Drastic Reduction On Close-Out Items

There's a special money-saving announcement from the House Clinic, 1922 Ave. E.
"There presently are limited quantities, in several decorator colors, in both soffit and fascia materials from Arrowhead Steel that we are closing out at 20 per cent or greater reduction!"
This is quite an opportunity to get those desired materials for overhangs and at exceptionally low price while quantities last.
House Clinic, at 1922 Ave. E, phone 747-4436 in Lubbock, is closing out its Arrowhead line and will in the future stock U.S. Steel products.
So... you still can depend upon the House Clinic for finest in materials... for soffit and fascia, but now exclusively from U.S. Steel.
Attention is re-directed to the following:
"Do you as owner of a brick home realize just how very much the House Clinic can do for you?"

"You can eliminate all painting of your overhang cover and on gables with a metal product exclusively designed to cover overhang in beautiful decorator colors, even guaranteed against such problems as flaking, chipping and peeling, for 35 years!"
The invitation is extended to "let the people who know solve your overhang problems, assisting your budget, helping in energy savings and certainly contributing in large manner to overall beauty and comfort of the home."
"People Who Know"
The House Clinic, not only has proven products, but it prides in the over 85 years of combined experience on its staff, factors that point to the evident fact that "you can depend upon House Clinic to get the job done, right."
First Quality
All the products at House Clinic are manufactured in the United States and all metal siding, just as all the related items, is first quality only.

Soffit and Fascia systems (call it "overhang," if you wish, but call it trouble unless you give it prompt attention as signs of deterioration start) do more than just fix up what's run down! Their superior construction, advanced design styling and colors actually will make one's home more beautiful than it ever was before.
Also, House Clinic invites and urges that one inquire about the involved long-term prorated guarantee.
Factors to be considered in deciding upon an overhang and gable system from House Clinic include fire resistance, maintenance savings, elimination of costly repainting, termite resistance, a finish that cannot crack, peel, flake or blister; choice of colors and renewal by simple hose washing.
"Stop in and visit at 1922 Ave. E in Lubbock to see the graphic displays and to get complete details on how House Clinic can benefit you, even as owner of a brick home."

'The Best In Beauty Care' Tradition At Elisabeth's Swedish Hair Design

"Don't let the rigors and changes of winter take its toll insofar as a beautiful complexion and beautiful, healthy hair is concerned!"
Possibly in no season of the year is the best in beauty care more necessary and more appreciated than now.
And for excellence in beauty and hair care, the recommendation by so many is Elisabeth's Swedish Hair Design, 4630 50th St., Suite 106, phone 792-4688, a salon worthy of full consideration and reliance.
Extraordinary Facials
For extraordinary deep-cleaning facials, for waxing of facial hair, for sculptured nails, manicures, and of course the most elegant and desirable in hair care, it is Elisabeth's in Lubbock Square.
For soft-looking perms, for addition of highlights to the hair, for the ultimate in hair conditioning, why delay: give your hair the proper care during the winter, for sure, to aid in its beauty this spring and summer.
One of the key services at Elisabeth's Swedish Hair Design is the facial care enabled by the new Dermodyn steam machine for scientific treatments. It affords a truly deep-cleansing facial, with penetrating action on the skin, moistening of dead cells and dirt accumulation (all with lukewarm ionized vapor), a machine that does not generate ozone even in small amounts.
Staffed to Serve
Staffmember Angel Smallwood, with European training, is a specialist with this equipment.
The entire staff is exceptionally qualfied, including newest staffmember June Cloude, a Jessie Lee graduate with 15 years experience in Lubbock including tenure with the House of Hair.

Anita White is another well-known and appreciated member of the Elisabeth's Swedish Hair Design family, together with Elisabeth Pyron who also is a Jessie Lee graduate who later served as stylist at the Jessie Lee Salon before establishing her own salon.
Open Mondays through Saturdays, Elisabeth's encourages appointments and drop-in traffic alike.
Both men and women customers are invited, with precision haircuts one of the salon's specialties, with haircuts with blow dry or wet set provided.
Remember the facials that are most refreshing and "out of the ordinary", and don't forget that for relaxation at a really beautiful salon, for an exhilarating experience in hair care or facials, for modern techniques by a skilled, proven staff, for all the best in beauty services, acquaintance with Elisabeth's Swedish Hair Design at earliest opportunity is urged as a great way to enjoy the winter weeks and to prepare for a great new season to come.

Storkie's Staging Storewide Maternity, Baby Wear Sale

A Storewide Sale is in progress at Storkie's Maternity and Baby Shop, in the Family Park Shopping Center, 34th & H.

Great savings are provided, and anything in the store not already marked down in price is being discounted 10 per cent throughout this week!

(This includes not only the maternity department but also the baby department, and a number of price markdowns in the infant and toddler sizes.)

"So don't delay: shop Storkie's Maternity and Baby Shop this week. Storkie's is where your dollar buys more!"

"Response is growing stronger for quality merchandise, good selection and budget prices," owner-operator Faye Spoth points out, and "everyday there are new faces at the shop, all expressing a real excitement in being able to find youthful looking fashionable styles at truly affordable prices."

Maternity sizes are stocked in sizes 4 to 24, with good selections in everything from blue jeans to formals.

There are several styles of nursing gowns, robes and nursing smock tops, underwire nursing bras as well as the conventional type nursing bra; maternity panties available from size small to X-large.

"If this is your first pregnancy and you need information and help in selecting your wardrobe, or if you need questions answered in the nursing department, please feel free to come in and chat, sale time or any time."

Faye will be delighted to help answer your questions or help you coordinate a wardrobe.

Convenient layaway, Visa and Master Charge purchases are available.

"For maternity needs, baby and toddler girls selections, Christening sets for boys and girls, shower and baby gifts, Storkie's Maternity & Baby Shop is the place."

"If you haven't tried Storkie's as yet, put it on your list of new year resolutions!"

"Remember, Storkie's is located at 34th & H, Family Park Shopping Center (next door to Anthony's). See you at Storkie's where your dollar buys more!"

Edwards & Abernathie, Realtors, Tell Small Items That Make Big Difference

Bernice Turquette, real estate director at Edwards & Abernathie, Realtors, not only points out that "now is a very good time to purchase a home in Lubbock" but she goes further to explain how one can work with the Realtor in making home sales and purchases easier for all.

Whether the primary concern is saving in cash, in securing a home for immediate occupancy upon transfer here, for location elsewhere, for upgrading one's living accommodations, or whatever, Edwards & Abernathie at 3217 34th St., phone 792-5166, is on the job to meet the need.

"Home ownership is an investment with benefits many other investments lack," let us at Edwards & Abernathie explain all facets of opportunities presently advantageous. Contact us now and let us go to work for you in one or all of our several departments. Capability for service and a genuine interest in your welfare is our way of doing business."

Among Selling Hints

Bernice gives the following hints to those planning to sell:

"You can help, in a very realistic way. The prospect we bring to your residence is looking at your house as a future home, so first impressions are very important; a little time on your part will pay dividends. Even the shrubbery, flower beds and trees should be shown to best advantage. Keep the grass well cut and neatly trimmed around walks and driveways, weed the flower beds and trim the shrubbery where needed.

And at a minimum expense, you can clean the shutters and painted surfaces of the house, washing screens and even polishing doorknobs! Careful maintenance of the little things is indicative of a well-maintained house that can continue to be a pleasure and an asset for a new owner.

Also, consider painting the house before showing it, and the same applies to papering in some instances. The inside of the house really should be spotless when shown to the prospective purchaser."

Attics and basements should be cleaned and organized to give maximum floor space. The garage should likely be hoisted down. Lubrication of sticking doors, windows and doors can pay off, too.

Curtains should be fresh and clean, and mirrors, picture frames and glasses covering the pictures should be clean. Even the contents of bookshelves should be clean and in order, making for an attractive room.

A cheerful house is a "wanted" house, so many have found... so don't neglect the many little things that can show it to best advantage as a home to enjoy.

Children and pets should be absent, in most instances it is believed, when the house is being shown, to prevent undue confusion.

"Then let your house and the salesman do the selling. The salesman will tell the prospects why the home is being sold; you won't have to tell them. Don't go along with the prospect and salesman... they will call if you are needed. You have given your house a chance; now, give the salesman a chance!"

Bernice Turquette and the staff at Edwards & Abernathie are glad to offer further suggestions to both purchaser and seller, all working toward a mutually rewarding transaction.

"Aren't these the type people to whom you wish to entrust your real estate transactions?"

'The Cotton Patch', In Idalou, Holds January Clearance Sale

It is January Clearance time at The Cotton Patch in Idalou, a distinctive shop appreciated region-wide for concept and selection.

"We're right on the highway in Idalou, clearly marked, with parking made easy right at the door. And what bargains and selection within!"

Featured in the sale are fall and winter items at a full 30 per cent to 50 per cent off!

Select in the Misses and Junior department from designer jeans, fancy jeans, junior tops, blouses, sweaters, rabbit coats and Halston robes.

Then, in the Infants and Girls department are further sale items including jeans and tops, long dresses, nightwear, velour overalls, and velour joggers. Rabbit coats in girls sizes, too.

Well-known lines mark The Cotton Patch and its merchandise that is sale priced. For misses and juniors, labels include Calvin Klein, City Girl, Original Sin, Organically Grown, Turtle Back and SW I Sweaters. For little girls there are the popular Luv It items, Billy the Kid, Health Tex, Tulip Tops, Her Majesty Nightwear, and Wiggles.

Elizabeth Arden Specials

Also, during the spectacular sale, two Elizabeth Arden cosmetic specials are posted:

Cabriole cologne, by Elizabeth Arden, regularly priced $9.50, is marked down to $5!

And the Red Door skin fitness kit, also by Elizabeth Arden, and containing milky cleanser, active day moisturizer and skin lotion, regular $17.75, is now $8.50.

What an opportunity to select and save!

Clinic Scheduled

Also, watch for announcement and details of another Elizabeth Arden skin and makeup clinic to be conducted at The Cotton Patch in February. One arranged last October was so well received that this second one is planned and eagerly awaited.

Convenient store hours at The Cotton Patch are 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays, and Master Charge, Visa and layaway purchases are welcomed.

Local, Dedicated Ownership

The Cotton Patch is owned and actively operated by Janis DeBuck. Opening the shop last July, Janis explains that she believes in cotton as a comfortable, superior fiber and she has purchased accordingly, staying with quality lines and fashion.

"Living, producing and shopping here in the midst of such a large cotton area, I felt upon establishment of this shop that it was high time for a store to really stock and promote cotton. We buy as much cotton wear for the shop as possible, while staying with respected brands and today's fashions."

"Response to the type store provided has been most gratifying, and we want to thank each of you who have discovered The Cotton Patch: we shall try to serve equally well in the new year, extending our new year greetings and assisting with the very practical sale as a starter. We look forward to our early visit; we know we can save for you, and we think you'll be surprised at the really impressive inventory maintained."

"Welcome to January Clearance at The Cotton Patch, on Hwy 62/82 in Idalou!"

BEAUTIFUL PLANT ARRIVALS SWELL STOCK AT WOOLCO

New-Stock Shade, Fruit Trees, Roses Among Woolco Arrivals

Woolco's Garden Center is proud to announce arrival of our 1980 stock of packaged shade trees, fruit trees, berries and more!

Also, just received, is a selection of grade 1 and 1 1/2 packaged roses. These roses include a wide selection of colors and varieties, including climbing roses. Also offered are potted roses.

Our selection of packaged fruit and shade trees includes stock especially suitable for the West Texas growing belt.

Easy To Find

The selection of nursery packaged stock is displayed both in the center aisle of the big Woolco store and in the outside garden center.

Also stocked is a wide selection of garden fertilizers, potting soil and tools.

Woolco features top-name brands and quality merchandise in its Garden Center just as it does throughout the store, and all at low Woolco prices.

Potting Soil

Jim Haynes, Woolco Garden Center manager, also directs attention to the four-quart, eight-quart and 20-quart bags of potting soil stocked.

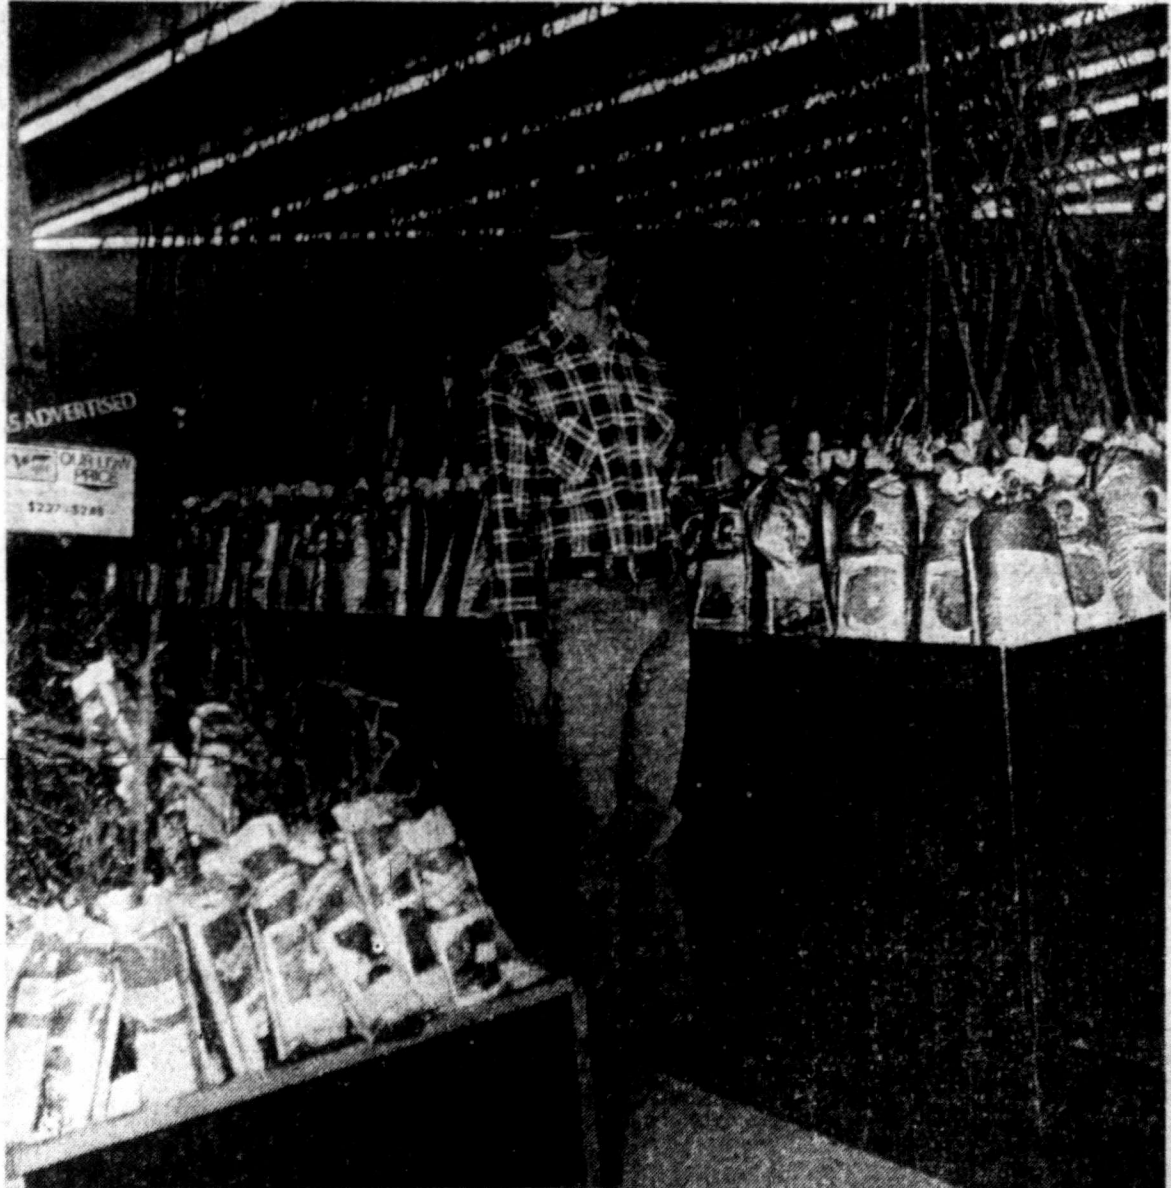

Quality indoor plants are part of the comprehensive stock within the department, and these plants include a very good choice in hanging baskets, and three-inch, four-inch and six-inch potted plants.

Pot Selection

A good stock of ceramic, clay and wicker pots is provided, plus top quality macrame plant hangers.

And for a wide selection of liquid plant foods and insecticides, Woolco is the place to shop. After all, the Woolco Garden Center works hard to please, doing its part in proving "Woolco wants to be your favorite store."

GARDEN CENTER COMES THROUGH — Jim Haynes, Garden Center Department Manager at Woolco, calls attention to hardy new shrubs and trees received and displayed both within the main store and in the outside garden center at Woolco. Related items are stocked in abundance, too, for getting the landscape in readiness for spring and summer beauty.

Letter Clarification Awaited

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — American diplomats studied Iran's latest word to U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim on Sunday before deciding whether to renew pressure for economic sanctions against that country.

U.S. Ambassador Donald F. McHenry, Waldheim and Security Council President Jacques Leprette of France remained in contact during the day.

A U.N. spokesman said Waldheim was waiting for a response to a message the secretary-general sent to Iran's Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh seeking clarification of a letter received Saturday.

On the basis of that letter, the United States agreed Saturday night to postpone for the second time in two days a U.N. Security Council vote on sanctions against Iran. America is seeking the sanctions to press Iran to free some 50 American hostages held since Nov. 4 by Iranian militants in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

On Friday, Waldheim and various U.N. delegates received oral messages from the Iranian mission to the United Nations, prompting the first delay on the scheduled consideration of sanctions.

On Saturday, Iranian authorities sent a letter to Waldheim, after which the secretary-general requested further clarification of Iran's position.

The letter was not made public here. However, three Tehran newspapers said Ghotbzadeh told Waldheim the U.N. General Assembly "has been asked to announce its views concurrently on three issues: 1. Extradition of the deposed shah, 2. Returning the property of the deposed shah and 3. The hostages."

While McHenry has repeatedly expressed doubt that "anything serious" would come from the latest communications with Iran, he said it would be irresponsible for the United States not to pursue even the slightest chance that Iranian officials were willing to negotiate the hostages' release.

Some Security Council members reportedly requested that a meeting be postponed for several days so that the Iranian communication could be followed up. But the United States insisted on day-to-day meetings to keep the matter under close review, diplomatic sources here said.

The 15-member council scheduled private consultations Sunday evening. After private talks on Saturday, McHenry said he would press for a vote on sanctions unless Waldheim's contacts with Iran showed "there was another way" to resolve the hostage problem.

The Soviet Union was expected to veto a sanctions resolution.

A number of Third World countries and even some U.S. allies have shown reluctance to adopt sanctions. Still, Ambassador McHenry has predicted that the sanctions resolution will win a majority if it comes to a vote in the council.

Even if the Soviets vetoed an embargo, a majority in support of the resolution would give the Americans a symbolic victory.

The Soviet Union is one of five permanent council members with the veto power. The others are America, Britain, France and China. The 10 non-permanent members are Bangladesh, Portugal, Jamaica, Norway, Zambia, East Germany, Tunisia, Niger, the Philippines and Mexico.

There are 152 members in the General Assembly, where no country has a veto, but it is not empowered to enforce its resolutions.

Bomb Shatters Aeroflot Office

NEW YORK (AP) — Three persons were injured Sunday in a bomb explosion at the mid-Manhattan offices of the Soviet airline Aeroflot, police said.

A man chased from the scene and caught by police was being questioned.

The injured, two men and a woman who were passing by, were taken to St. Clare's Hospital after the blast at about 6:15 p.m. at Fifth Avenue and 45th Street. Police said the injuries were not serious.

More than a half hour later, an anonymous caller, who identified himself as a member of the militant Jewish Defense League, told The Associated Press the group had "planted the bomb at Aeroflot" to protest the imprisonment of Soviet dissidents.

Fifteen minutes after that, a man identifying himself as a member of Omega 7 told The Associated Press that the anti-Castro terrorist group was responsible for the Aeroflot explosion as a show of "solidarity with the people of Cuba and Afghanistan in their struggle against Soviet imperialism."

Police said the explosive device was apparently thrown from the street toward the building's glass windows. "We don't know what kind of a bomb there was," a police officer at the scene said.

Windows at Aeroflot, as well as at the offices of British Airlines and Qantas Airlines, located across the street, were blown out by the blast.

Sgt. Stanley Wojcik said a police officer on guard in front of the office was talking to someone on the corner when "somebody walked by and left the package."

Budget Slash Faced By Chicago Schools

CHICAGO (AP) — Although Gov. James R. Thompson is expected to sign into law this week a $875 million plan to reorganize the finances of the Chicago school system, the Board of Education still faces the painful business of slashing the budget by about $60 million.

The cuts — out of the $1.4 billion total — were among the compromises worked out to solve the financial predicament of the nation's third largest school system.

"It is going to be difficult," said Chicago School Board President Catherine Rohter. "But it is a chance to start over and it must be viewed that way."

She called the situation "the opportunity of a lifetime."

Thompson, who brought city, business and legislative leaders together to work out a solution, said the final version of the package would be on his desk Monday or Tuesday.

The governor said he could sign the plan as early as Wednesday, after lawyers check it, so the system's 48,600 employees would receive paychecks by Friday.

"It is only a first step, though," Thompson warned. "The Chicago Board of Education now has to demonstrate how it will cut everything that can be cut."

Mrs. Rohter said the $60 million has to be cut by Feb. 1, the date a revised budget for this school year must be submitted to the new five-member Chicago School Finance Authority.

The authority, created by the school aid package, will hold the purse strings for the 480,000-pupil school district, impose balanced budgets and sell the long-term bonds needed to refloat the failing school system.

In March, the board must submit a financial plan for balancing the budget for the 1981-82 school year.

During debate over the package, Mrs. Rohter promised lawmakers that $166 million would be cut by Aug. 31, 1981. She said up to 2,000 employees could lose their jobs soon, but said she hoped none would be among the 20,000 classroom teachers.

Tito Doing Well After Surgery

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI) — President Josip Broz Tito, 87, underwent apparently urgent surgery Sunday on blood vessels in his left leg and doctors reported his post-operative condition as "normal."

A medical bulletin from the ultra-modern medical clinic in the northwestern Yugoslav city of Ljubljana said Tito was operated on overnight after he was admitted to the hospital's cardiovascular department late Saturday.

The officer, Jack Troy, "saw the guy come down the street," Sgt. Barry Williams said. "The guy threw a package and it landed in front of Aeroflot and he turned the corner and ran down the street," Williams said.

The man, wearing tan clothing and a mask, was chased by Troy on 46th Street toward Madison Avenue, and the man then ran up Madison Avenue to 51st Street, where he was seized by officers from a patrol car, police said.

Police were questioning the man, who was not immediately identified, at the Midtown South precinct.

The names of the injured also were not immediately released. Originally, four persons were taken to the hospital. One of them, who had asked to be examined, was found not to have been injured, police said.

A caller claiming to represent Omega 7 also claimed responsibility for the bombing Sunday of a cigar factory in a Cuban district of Miami. The factory, which was extensively damaged, is owned by Orlando Padron, a member of the Committee of 75, which has gone to Cuba to negotiate with Cuban President Fidel Castro. It has been bombed once previously and Omega 7 also claimed responsibility for that bombing.

The Teamsters Union announced Friday that its members would no longer load baggage and food onto Aeroflot planes because of the Soviet action in Afghanistan. A flight to New York from Moscow Friday was diverted to Montreal and Aeroflot employees in New York handled a flight Sunday without the aid of the Teamsters.

Mrs. Rohter and the school board may not be around to keep that promise: the bail-out program calls for the entire school board to be fired by April 30. Mayor Jane Byrne, with the approval of the City Council, would fill the 11 vacancies.

That provision was tacked onto the package by critics of the bail-out, particularly by black legislators who said the board was not responsive to their constituents. Other opponents blamed the board for the system's financial mess.

Mrs. Byrne has the option of reappointing current members. But no matter who sits on the school board after April 30, the newly created authority has financial power.

The package approved Saturday provides $225 million in interim loans and $500 million in long-term loans to keep the schools afloat.

Lawmakers also voted to create a special 12-member legislative committee to investigate how the financial crisis occurred and if criminal conduct was involved. At the same time, the state will make its first audit of the Chicago school system's books.

The interim loans would be raised by the city of Chicago selling notes, backed by future state school aid payments. Bonds to raise the long-term loan would be floated by the special oversight authority.

The package also gives Chicago permission to seek higher school real estate taxes by a referendum, if the austerity measures and extra bonds do not provide enough money for the schools.

That provision was demanded by suburban and downstate legislators worried that if the rescue plan failed, state money once again would be required to bail out the school system.

The bail-out package also will raise the $16 million that the Chicago schools owes to the Internal Revenue Service. In December, Mrs. Byrne announced that payment of the employee withholding taxes would be delayed until March, after members of the Illinois congressional delegation persuaded the IRS to accept a delay.

"The surgery was carried out on blood vessels of his left leg. President Tito bore the operation well. His immediate post condition was normal."

Tito was receiving unspecified "intensive treatment" for what American cardiovascular surgeon Dr. Michael DeBakey described last week as some "circulatory blockage" in his left leg.

Kennedy, Brown Request Permission To Join Carter Interview

WATERLOO, Iowa (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. both asked NBC Saturday to allow them to join Jimmy Carter in a "Meet the Press" interview scheduled with the president on the day before the Iowa caucuses.

But no invitation was forthcoming from NBC, which issued a statement pointing out that Kennedy and Brown had already appeared on the interview program since announcing their candidacies.

Instead of the debate they want, Carter's two Democratic rivals had to settle for a joint appearance with Vice President Walter Mondale Saturday night before a crowd of almost 600 persons at a party fund-raising dinner in Waterloo.

As each man entered the hall, their partisans sent up competing chants, shouting out their candidate's name.

Kennedy and Mondale spoke briefly and then answered questions from the audience. Brown devoted all of his allotted 20 minutes to responding to questions.

Kennedy drew loud laughter from the audience as well from the vice president when he presented Mondale with a New England Patriots football jersey and said, "I present this as one good patriot to another."

It was a reference to an acrimonious exchange earlier in the week that began when Mondale said Kennedy's opposition to Carter's partial embargo of grain shipments to the Soviet Union was politically motivated and unpatriotic.

Mondale extolled Carter as "a compassionate president" whose record is "solid and strong."

Brown, responding to questions from the audience, detailed his positions on a range of issues from foreign policy to social security, nuclear power and national health insurance.

Brown advocated a review of American foreign policy coupled with a NATO summit meeting to discuss cooperative efforts to deal with such crises as Iran and Afghanistan.

He also called for encouraging Islamic nations to hold a summit to discuss how they should deal with Soviet aggression.

But the governor drew his loudest applause when he responded to a statement from a member of the audience who chastised Carter for refusing to debate in Iowa. Brown said he would try to rephrase the statement into a question of "can we, should we and how do we get President Carter into a debate?"

Kennedy and Brown differed sharply from Mondale on the grain issue with the two challengers to Carter opposing the decision.

Mondale said Carter did not impose the embargo because he thought it would be popular in this Farm Belt state, but he "did it because he felt it had to be done for this nation and for civilization."

Kennedy, campaigning earlier in Sioux City, had said that he "just happened to be available" the day of Carter's scheduled appearance on "Meet the Press" and would be "delighted to join the president and anyone else on the program."

And Tom Quinn, chairman of Brown's presidential campaign, sent a telegram to "Meet the Press" program moderator Bill Monroe asking that both Brown and Kennedy be included in the interview scheduled for Jan. 20.

But in a statement, NBC said, "Both Gov. Brown and Sen. Kennedy have appeared on 'Meet the Press' in recent months after both announced they were declared presidential candidates. The NBC News invitation to President Carter has been a longstanding one."

Monroe said one problem in adding Kennedy and Brown was a scheduling conflict which prohibited the interview show from being expanded to a full hour. Monroe said he did not know what program posed the scheduling conflict.

"We knew weeks ago that we would have only a half hour," he said, adding that length of time would not be sufficient to interview all three.

Kennedy and Brown forces were irked by Carter's decision to appear on "Meet the Press" after backing out of a debate among the three candidates that had been scheduled in Des Moines on Jan. 7.

The debate was canceled by its sponsor, the Des Moines Register & Tribune, when Carter declined to participate. The president cited the Iranian crisis, saying it required his continued presence at the White House.

One day after the "Meet the Press" program is to be nationally telecast, Iowa Democrats will take the first step toward choosing the state's 50 delegates to the Democratic National Convention in August.

Tom Southwick, Kennedy's chief spokesman, said a joint appearance by Carter and Kennedy on "Meet the Press" would offer the voters the opportunity to compare the candidates just prior to the caucuses.

It would "at least give them the opportunity that has been denied by the president's decision to pull out of the debate," he said.

In his telegram to Monroe, Quinn said, "A decision by NBC to exclude Gov. Brown and Sen. Kennedy would be a disservice to the public and an act which could benefit Mr. Carter's prospects during the Iowa precinct caucuses."

White House press secretary Jody Powell said the "Meet the Press" invitation was issued several weeks ago and that NBC suggested the Jan. 20 date. "We didn't set the timing," he said.

Powell said the interview show was nonpartisan.

VFW Commander Criticizes Defense Policies

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Much of the world is now vulnerable to Soviet aggression because President Carter and his advisers lack decisive defense policies, the national commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars says.

"In just over three years, President Carter and his defense advisers have established an unbelievable pattern of unilateral defense reductions without any reciprocal concessions from the USSR," Howard Vander Clute told a VFW Southern States Conference Saturday night.

He said Soviet intervention in Afghanistan "exposes to ridicule" the president's policy of "appeasement."

Carter's cancellation of the B-1 strategic bomber forces the United States to rely on the 25-year-old B-52 bomber, Vander Clute said. He also criticized the curtailing of the U.S. Navy's shipbuilding and Trident submarine missile programs despite what he called Soviet naval superiority.

"With modern technology available to everyone in the world today, we can no longer permit a president of this country three years for on-the-job training, for that is what it has taken Jimmy Carter to finally admit, in his own words, 'the action of the Soviets has made a dramatic change in my opinion of the ultimate goals,'" said Vander Clute.

The VFW commander from Montvale, N.J., said the veterans' organization, through a Political Action Committee, would endorse candidates in the 1980 elections for the first time, and contribute to the campaigns of candidates sympathetic to its views.

"This year finds us, as a nation, suffering from the 1938 mentality of avoiding the major issues," he said. "We should have by now learned that the only way to prevent war is to be ready to fight."

"It appears that we either do not remember that lesson or do not want to face reality."

One Child Revived After Fall Through Ice

DURHAM, Conn. (AP) — One young boy whose heart had stopped was revived but his brother died Saturday after they fell through ice and lay for more than an hour at the bottom of a pond, authorities reported.

Joel Johnstone, 8, was pronounced dead at Middlesex Memorial Hospital in Middletown at about 7 p.m. after doctors worked for three hours attempting to restart his heart.

However, doctors revived 11-year-old Benjamin Johnstone, who was in "extremely critical" condition early Sunday.

"His condition is unchanged in the last few hours," said a nursing supervisor who declined to give her name. She said Benjamin was resting in the intensive care unit.

The nearly freezing temperature of the water in the 100-foot wide pond apparently put the boys in a state of shock and kept the older one alive, said George Planeta, chief of Durham's volunteer fire company.

The children must have been at the pond bottom for more than an hour. Planeta, because rescue workers spotted no sign of them for that long after arriving at the scene.

A third boy who also fell through the ice had managed to pull himself out of the water and told officials what happened when he was found, wet and dazed, on Main Street in this south-central Connecticut town. Officials estimated the boys fell into the pond at about 2:30 p.m.

Winning The "Little 'Uns"

"BUT CAN THEY WIN THE LITTLE-ONES?"
What kind of quote is that? It's definitely not the kind of verbage that made Thomas "Hollywood" Henderson a household name.
In fact, it immediately conjures up images of that Los Angeles-Tampa Bay battle for the NFC championship — which most observers figure will long be remembered as the dullest playoff game in history. And that's why you don't see it bandied about in print very often.
Let's face it, that wouldn't make for much of a movie plot either — a story about a team that takes delight in pounding second division teams. Yeech, what could be more distasteful.
Winning one for the Gipper is fine — but "winning against the nippers" just doesn't cut it in the entertainment world.
Unfortunately, "winning the little ones" is often the distinction between the champions and the also-rans. To prove the point, let's take a look at last year's final Southwest Conference basketball standings.

TEXAS AND ARKANSAS TIED for first place as both posted identical 13-3 SWC marks; Texas A&M was second at 11-5 and the Red Raiders of Texas Tech tied Baylor for third with a 9-7 mark.
But — and this is a big but — the Raiders split with both Texas and A&M during the regular season and then defeated the Aggies again in the Southwest Conference post-season tournament.
The only team that dominated the Raiders was Arkansas — and the Razorbacks didn't do that by much. They defeated Tech 63-57 in Fayetteville and then nipped the Raiders 66-65 in the Coliseum as Sidney Moncrief hit an unbelievable bucket in the final seconds with everybody but Pom Pon girls covering him.
So if the Raiders were at a level with Texas and A&M last year, and only inches below Arkansas, how in the world did they finish behind them in the final standings?

THAT, MY FRIENDS, IS WHAT I mean when I say you've got to win the little ones. Although the 'Horns lost to Tech 92-74 early in the year and then were forced into overtime before winning 63-56 in Austin — they made chopped meat out of the rest of the schedule.
They beat the Houston Cougars by 18 and 16 points, pounded Rice by a total of 56 points in two games, beat Baylor twice, beat the Aggies twice and split with Arkansas and SMU.
And that, in a nutshell, was the difference between Texas Tech and Texas. Against each other, the two teams were virtually even. But it was against the second division squads that the Raiders faltered.
The Raiders split with Houston — and the Cougars were 6-10 in conference play — Tech split with SMU (the Mustangs were also 6-10), and split with Rice (the Owls were 4-12 in SWC action).
You take away those losses against SMU, Rice and Houston and the Raiders would've been 12-4 — good enough for second place in the conference. Take away Sidney Moncrief's miracle basket and they are 13-3 — take away the meat, and steak-and-potatoes wouldn't go for 20 bucks a throw.

"IF" IS A MIGHTY BIG WORD. But nonetheless, the point I'm struggling to make is that the difference between the first and second-place teams and everybody else is the ability to win the games that you're supposed to win.
And that brings us to this year — finally. The Raiders are rolling now under a good head of steam. They are 3-1 in conference play with a firm hold on second place. And, by pounding TCU, the Raiders have shown the ability to win against the small fry. A&M, idle on Saturday, is at 3-0 and Arkansas is also 3-0 after a 55-50 victory over Texas.
The Raiders have already faced Texas (and won) and A&M — but now comes the real test. This week they have Rice and Baylor in the Coliseum and next Tuesday face SMU in Dallas. Currently Rice is 1-2, Baylor is 1-2 and SMU 1-3.
The usual protests that these teams are "better than their records" will be aired this week — and all three are fair teams. Still, they are three games that a contender for the conference title must be expected to sweep and do it in style.

THESE ARE THE LITTLE ONES and, for the Raiders, this is the test.
SMU is probably the best of the three teams and the Mustangs have already been stomped by Texas, Houston and Arkansas — two of those are teams that Tech has already beaten.
The most recent showdown in the SWC came Saturday when Texas and Arkansas met in the Super Drum. It was a game that was almost identical to the Texas-Texas Tech clash back on Jan. 3. The Hogs led by 10, 29-19, at the half and withstood a Texas rally in the second half to emerge on top 55-50 in a defensive struggle.
The Raiders also led by 10, 34-24, at the half and withstood a Longhorn rally in the second half to win by three 57-54 in a defensive struggle.
But Texas coach Abe Lemons didn't see that much similarity between the two games. After the loss to the Raiders, Abe blamed a poor performance by his players. After the Arkansas game, Abe said it was simply that Arkansas was the better team.

SWC FOLLOWERS WON'T HAVE to wait that long to see if the Texas coach is right. On Monday, Jan. 28, the Hogs will be in town to meet the Raiders in what promises to be a big, big game in the SWC race.
If the Raiders can win their gimme games, they'll take a 6-1 record into the showdown. And the Hogs have only a slightly tougher road between them and that Jan. 28 shootout with Tech.
They host Baylor and Houston before a Jan. 22 date in G. Rollie White Gym in College Station. And the Raiders can vouch that Jolly Rollie is no place for fun and games.
But anyway you look at it, the Hogs should come to Lubbock with no more than one SWC loss under their belt. Arkansas, you see, has displayed a real knack for winning the little ones the last couple of seasons.
In fact, they've won a couple of big ones along the way.

Borg Wins Masters Title

NEW YORK (A) — No one could blame Bjorn Borg Sunday if he broke into a chorus of "I Love New York."
"I'd never won in New York and I'd never won the Masters. I wanted to win very badly," said the second-seeded Borg after his 6-2, 6-2 victory over fifth-ranked Vitas Gerulaitis gave him the championship of the $400,000 Grand Prix Masters tennis tournament.
Borg didn't lose a match en route to his first championship here. And the triumph in this event, which served as the championship of the 1979 Grand Prix tour, was Borg's 15th over Gerulaitis in as many tries.

Soviets Blast Boycott Talk

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union, angered by Western calls for a boycott of the Moscow Summer Olympics, has launched a counterattack against "cold war troubadours" trying to keep foreign athletes at home.

In recent days, Soviet Olympic officials and the national newspaper Sovetsky Sport have warned that any attempt to boycott the Games is destined to fail. In his television speech Jan. 4, Carter raised the prospect of boycott of the Games by U.S. athletes or tourists because of Soviet military involvement in Afghanistan. On Thursday, Vladimir Popov, the first deputy chairman of the Soviet Olympic Organizing Committee, accused ad-

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Rich Branning, Tracy Jackson and Kelly Tripucka each hit 13 points as 7th-ranked Notre Dame crushed Texas Christian 85-68 in college basketball Sunday.
The Fighting Irish led by as many as 23 in the first half and 27 in the second half as they increased their season record to 9-2. TCU dropped 5-8.
Notre Dame was playing a home game here for junior reserve Gilberto Salinas, a heavily recruited high school star from San Antonio Burbank.

able to cut the score to 80-66 on consecutive baskets by Darrell Browder and Kenny Hart.
Jackson, a 6-6 junior, had 9 points in the first half, as did Branning. Tripucka, Notre Dame's leading scorer who had scored more than 15 points per game, had gotten only 4 points by halftime.
Browder paced TCU with 14 points, 10 coming in the second half.

Syracuse Tops Boilermakers

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Roosevelt Bouie scored 17 points Sunday as fifth-ranked Syracuse rattled No. 10 Purdue with a second half press and remained unbeaten with a 66-61 victory in a nationally televised college basketball game.
"Purdue is a good team, but we just hung in there," said Bouie, who had only two field goals in the first half, but led the winning rally early in the second period. "The coach told me just to do the things I do best, and that's block shots and get some baskets."
The errors hurt both teams, especially Purdue at the start of the second half.

Duran Shows Form In Victory

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Roberto Duran removed any doubt that he might be slipping Sunday with an impressive fourth-round knockout over Josepez Nsubuga in a nationally televised welterweight contest.

The win moved Duran one step closer to a million-dollar showdown with Sugar Ray Leonard, the World Boxing Council welterweight champion.

Duran said he was ready. "I was in good shape today," Duran said, "but I'll be in much better shape for Leonard."

Duran, who appeared confused early in the fight, admitted Nsubuga's in-and-out style threw him off.

"He had me a little confused in the beginning," said Duran. "He was stronger than I thought and much faster than I thought."

It was the first knockout in more than a year for Duran, now 68-1, with 54 knockouts.

"He was the one who fought on the ropes," said Duran, who battered his opponent along the ropes in the third and fourth rounds. "I had to go looking for him."

Nsubuga said he wanted to answer the bell but my corner said not to."

With seconds left in the fourth round, Duran knocked Nsubuga down with a right cross. The Ugandan, fighting out of Norway, took an eight count and staggered to his feet. Referee Richard Green checked Nsubuga and stopped it after the bell had sounded ending the round. It was recorded as a fourth-round knockout.

"I think I fought stupid," said Nsubuga. "I fell for Duran's tricks. He wanted me to mix it up with him and I did. I should have moved and kept jabbing."

Duran knows how to mix it up.

Nsubuga said when Duran nailed him at the end of the fourth round, "I got kind of dizzy. When I got up, the round was over."

Stadler Edges Into Classic Tie

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Chunky Craig Stadler rolled to a 3-under-par 69 and tied Larry Nelson for the lead Sunday with one full round to go in the Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Stadler is a former national amateur champion seeking his first title in four years of pro tour activity. He and Nelson put together 72-hole totals of 276, 12 shots under par for one round on each of four desert courses.

This unique event, however, is scheduled at 90 holes. With a day's delay due to rain last week, the tournament is set to end with the final 18 holes today at La Quinta.

Nelson, the first man off the tee at La Quinta, rallied from the potential disaster of a triple bogey-7 on his second hole and finished with a 71 that enabled him to continue to share in the lead he has held for three rounds.

Stadler, playing in relative solitude at Indian Wells while host Hope and his show business friends cavorted before the cameras at La Quinta, had the lead alone much of the round. But he dropped back into a tie when he bogeyed his 17th hole — long after national television coverage had ended for the day.

Tom Purtzer and Mike Sullivan were a single shot back at 277. Sullivan had a 71 in the warm sunshine at Bermuda Dunes and Purtzer shot 69 at La Quinta.

Victor Regalado, who shared the third-round lead with Nelson, three-putted from two feet on one hole at Bermuda Dunes, took 73 and fell to 278. He was tied with George Cadle, who had a 69 at Indian Wells.

A group of three at 279 put nine men locked within 3 shots of each other going to the final round. Bob Murphy and Mark Hayes each shot 71 at La Quinta, while Lanny Wadkins, a two-time winner last year, moved into the title hunt with a 71 at Eldorado.

Defending champion John Mahaffey appeared to be out of it. He was well back at 283 after a round of par 72 at La Quinta.

And Arnold Palmer, 3 under par for 36 holes, failed to make the cut for the last round. The five-time winner of this title — including his last American victory in 1973 — shot a 78 before the massive gallery that followed him and his amateur partners Hope, former President Gerald Ford and Jackie Gleason. That put Palmer at 294, too high a score to qualify for the final.

Stadler, a stroke clear of the field, dropped back into a tie when he hit a 3-iron out of bounds and made bogey-6 on his 17th hole at Indian Wells.

Nelson had even more problems — problems he anticipated.

"It's just exactly what I was afraid would happen," said Nelson, golf's No. 2 money-winner last year.

"I've been hitting everything to the right. And I hit it in the right rough on No. 2," he said.

He tried to thread his next shot through some trees, hit a limb and the ball bounced out of bounds. Before he finished, he had a 7 on the hole, then bogeyed the next.

"There didn't look like there was any relief in sight," he said.

But he lofted a 6-iron to within eight inches of the cup on the seventh hole, birdied three of four immediately after the turn, and then hit a beautiful shot over palm trees to within six feet for a birdie on the last hole.

SWC ROUNDUP

Lemons Gives Nod To Hogs

By United Press International

There are two teams currently tied for the lead in the Southwest Conference and Texas coach Abe Lemons has already cast his vote for which one he thinks is going to stay there.

"I think Arkansas is going to be first in the conference," said Lemons. "They are just a better ball club than we are. I don't know how you can sum it up better than that."

Lemons' opinions came following Arkansas' 55-50 victory over Texas in Austin — the second straight year the Razorbacks have defeated the Longhorns in the Super Drum.

The victory boosted Arkansas into a first-place tie with Texas A&M at 3-0 with Texas Tech a half step back at 3-1. Every other team in the conference has at least two league losses.

Arkansas, employing a rarely-used zone defense, hit its customary 50 per cent from the field while limiting Texas to only 39 per cent.

"This was the worst I've ever seen Texas shoot," said Arkansas' Alan Zahn, who helped the Hogs to a 10-point halftime lead. "We went to a zone with about seven minutes left in the first half and stayed with it. It's the most zone I've played since I've been here."

Although Texas came within four points early in the second half and late in the game, the Razorbacks made the key baskets when they had to and thus established themselves as at least co-favorites with the Aggies.

In losing its second game at home this year, Texas fell to 2-2 in league play along with the Houston Cougars.

Houston overcame an eight-point deficit at home against SMU and overwhelmed the Mustangs in the second half to pick up a 96-81 triumph. The Mustangs and the Cougars scored more points in the first half (SMU led at that point 60-52) than Arkansas and Texas did.

in their entire game.

Baylor (1-2) won its first league game last Saturday night, whipping Rice, 73-63, and TCU lost its fourth SWC contest in as many starts — falling to Texas Tech, 84-65. Tech scored the first 15 points of the game.

Texas A&M took last Saturday off after its key, three-point home victory over Texas Tech earlier in the week.

Arkansas center Scott Hastings, who had been scoring more than 20 points with regularity, was a chief target of Texas' defense in the Saturday showdown so Zahn and U.S. Reed were given the task of hitting from the outside.

The two combined for 10 field goals in 15 attempts.

"Against Texas you have to hit from the perimeter," said Arkansas coach Eddie Sutton. "And we especially had to in this game because they were so aware of Hastings."

Arkansas now returns home for games on Tuesday night against Baylor and Saturday evening against Houston. Texas A&M returns to action Tuesday night making what could be a tough road trip to SMU and then going to Rice on Saturday.

Texas Tech figures to win twice this week since they play at home against both Rice and Baylor.

Bo Rein Receives Praise At Memorial

CARY, N.C. (AP) — Officials, coaches and friends of Louisiana State head football coach Bo Rein came to the church Rein once attended to pay their last respects Sunday afternoon.

A memorial service was held for the 34-year-old Rein, presumed dead after the plane in which he was travelling veered off course to avoid a thunderstorm Thursday night, traveled 1,000 miles to the northeast of Louisiana and crashed into the Atlantic Ocean.

coach at North Carolina State in November.

Following the services, LSU Athletic Director Paul Dietzel called Rein "an unusually wonderful" man.

"He was the kind of fellow you could talk to for 20 minutes and felt like you had known him all your life," Dietzel said.

Dietzel said Rein was so excited about being head coach that "we responded by being excited that he was our coach."

Rein's successor, Jerry Stovall, said the people of Louisiana had fallen in love with Rein, but he added that his responsibilities must be carried out.

"You just begin anew. There's nothing else to do," Stovall said.

Ferragamo Knows No Fear Of Steelers

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Heaven can wait for Vince Ferragamo, who will be making only his eighth National Football League start next Sunday when the Los Angeles Rams face the Pittsburgh Steelers in Super Bowl XIV.

Midway through the 1979 season, it seemed like Ferragamo would have nothing to do with the Rams' fortunes this year, and six weeks ago, he himself said he thought he wouldn't play another down with Los Angeles.

But here he is, the starting quarterback in Super Bowl XIV, and like Warren Beatty in the movie "Heaven Can Wait," it's a dream come true for the handsome 6-foot-3, 207-pound former Nebraska star.

"It's a similar experience, I guess," said Ferragamo with a smile when asked about a comparison to the role Beatty played. "It feels good being the No. 1 quarterback. I knew this team could go all the way. There's never been any doubt of that."

"Pittsburgh is a fine football team. Two of the best will be playing. We feel we're on an equal basis with them. We feel confident we'll win the game."

Ferragamo, 25, is in his third NFL season. As a reserve to Pat Haden the past two years, he completed 16 of 35 passes for 197 yards in limited action. He threw two touchdown passes and was intercepted twice.

In last summer's preseason, he was impressive, completing 23 of 32 passes for 291 yards and three touchdowns. But Haden was healthy and clearly No. 1.

Ferragamo was brought in to mop up late in the Rams' 30-6 loss at Dallas on Oct. 14, and suffered a broken bone in his throwing hand. Ironically, it was reported that he would have been a starter against San Diego the following week had he not been injured.

Haden retained his position, but broke the little finger on his throwing hand at Seattle on Nov. 4. Ferragamo hadn't recovered enough from his injury to play at Chicago the following week, a game the Rams narrowly lost to the Bears, but he returned to make his first start against Atlanta on Nov. 19.

That was a game the Rams won 20-14, and Ferragamo has started every game since. Los Angeles has won six of those seven, with the only loss a meaningless 29-14 setback at the hands of New Orleans in the regular-season finale.

Ferragamo has had his ups and downs since becoming a starter. He was replaced by Bob Lee during a 26-20 Los Angeles win over San Francisco on Nov. 26, and relieved again by Lee in the Rams' 27-21 overtime victory over Minnesota on Dec. 2.

In the latter contest, Ferragamo didn't play after a dismal first half performance. Following the game, the distraught quarterback said he didn't think he'd play again for the Rams.

"That was a premature evaluation on my part," said Ferragamo, sounding just like the pre-med student that he has been during the past two off-seasons. "I don't like to look back. I feel I'm the No. 1 quarterback right now and I'll remain No. 1."

"As far as I'm concerned, it's been a super year. There have been ups and downs; but when we've had to win, we've won. The team has responded well to me. It's a good feeling to be No. 1."

Ferragamo enters the Super Bowl having completed 74 passes in 154 attempts in 1979-80 for 1,151 yards. He threw eight touchdown passes and was intercepted 12 times.

Ferragamo expressed the feeling that he's a much better quarterback now as compared to when he made his first start eight weeks ago.

"I've felt good playing. I've learned a lot," he said. "I've felt stronger each week and improved steadily. I don't think inexperience will pose much of a problem against Pittsburgh."

"My performances have been good enough for us to win and I've been playing with some talented athletes. The Dallas game was a highlight and we moved the ball well against Tampa Bay."

Ferragamo fired three touchdowns in his team's 21-19 victory over the Cowboys, including a 50-yarder to Billy Waddy with 2:06 remaining. In Los Angeles' 9-0 victory over Tampa Bay in the NFC championship game, he was 12 of 23 for 163 yards.

Ferragamo doesn't give the impression that he'll be up-tight in nearby Pasadena next Sunday. And while the Rams' plays come in from the sidelines, he sounds like he'll be ready to adjust to different looks by the defense.

"They'll come up, they'll blitz, it's up to us to blow them off the ball," he said after a Rams' practice session. "We'll have them scouted real well."

"If I see something that's open, I'll go to that. I'll have to attack what they do. They dictate to you, sometimes you have to call an audible. Pittsburgh does a lot of things. They're sound in what they do. When you play against the best, it brings out the best in you."

"I have a bright approach to playing in the Super Bowl. If you don't like the big games there's no sense in playing. I think it's a lot of fun and I think the other guys do, too."

Steelers Take Low-Key Approach To Rehearsal

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers have handled Super Bowl hoopla before, so Coach Chuck Noll expects no problem from this week's crush of interviews, autographs and festivity.

"The Super Bowl is a fun time for our team," said Noll, who gave his players a day of rest Sunday before today's flight to California to continue drills for their Super Bowl XIV meeting with the Los Angeles Rams.

"We enter it with that kind of spirit instead of wasting our energy trying to fight it," he added.

Noll and the Steelers haven't developed this approach as a result of past Super Bowl trips.

They were loose from the start when they arrived in New Orleans in 1974 to prepare for Super Bowl IX. Some Steeler players even lingered overtime in interview rooms to chat with reporters.

Noll set the "fun time" tone that year too. How did he develop that approach even before taking the Steelers to their first title game?

"That wasn't the first time I was there. It was something I learned before I came to Pittsburgh," Noll responded.

Indeed, Noll was an assistant on the Baltimore Colts' team that took the tight, serious approach as it prepared for its Super Bowl III meeting with the New York Jets and loose-lipped Joe Namath.

The Jets pulled off a 16-7 upset that year.

"We (the Colts) were very serious. I think that had something to do with it," said Noll. He also figured the Colts were lulled into a false sense of security.

"I think we were affected by public opinion. Everyone said the Jets didn't have a chance," he recalled.

Noll said there is no chance the Steelers will fall into the same trap against the underdog Rams.

"Los Angeles has the ability to beat anyone," he said. "We know that."

The Steelers will fly today to Long Beach, Calif., and then travel by bus to their hotel in Newport Beach. Drills will begin Tuesday at Cal State-Fullerton.

Four Steelers missed the final practices in Pittsburgh. All are expected to resume workouts in California.

Wide receivers Lynn Swann and John Stallworth are both recovering from viruses. Guards Sam Davis and Steve Courson are nursing leg injuries.

Scanlon Paces West's Japan Bowl Win

YOKOHAMA, Japan (AP) — Kevin Scanlon of Arkansas University passed for two touchdowns as the West skidded to a 28-17 victory over the East in a rain and snow-soaked fifth Japan Bowl at Yokohama Stadium Sunday.

The West also scored on a 14-yard charge by I.M. Hipp of Nebraska, voted top offensive player of the game, and an 8-yard plunge by Paul Jones of California to overcome a 10-7 halftime deficit before 27,000 fans.

The West team now leads the East 3-2 in the annual event.

The West was coached by Lou Holtz of Arkansas and Tony Mason of Arizona while the East was coached by Ohio State's Earle Bruce and Jackie Sherrill of Pittsburgh.

Fumbles led to all three scores in the first half. The East struck early in the second quarter on a 29-yard touchdown pass from Tulane quarterback Rich Hontas to wide receiver Keith Pugh of Alabama.

The touchdown came on the second play after Larry Flowers of Texas Tech fumbled a punt on the West 31.

A few minutes later, the East's Paul Campbell of Ohio State fumbled the ball on the East 41. On the next play, Scanlon sent a touchdown pass to Emanuel Tolbert of Southern Methodist to tie the score.

With fifteen seconds left in the half, David Holsclaw of Iowa kicked a field goal from the 5 after West quarterback Turk Schonert of Stanford fumbled the snap on his own 9.

By halftime, the steady drizzle had turned to sleet and then a wet snow, transforming the stadium's artificial turf into a skating rink.

The West finally went ahead at 7:37 of the third quarter when Brian Baggot of UCLA intercepted a Hontas pass on the East 23. Three plays later, Scanlon teamed with Junior Millier of Nebraska on a 14-yard touchdown pass play.

The East battled back into a 17-14 lead when Campbell, voted the Joe Ross Memorial Award as the game's outstanding player, capped an eight-play drive with a 4-yard touchdown run through the middle.

But the West controlled the fourth quarter on the passing of Scanlon — eight for 12 in the game — and the rushing of Hipp, who gained 82 yards in the contest.

Tracy Austin Takes Meet

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tracy Austin continued her mastery over Chris Evert Lloyd, winning their championship match Sunday 6-2, 6-1 in a $150,000 women's tennis tournament here.

Soviet Skate Star Beats Miss Heiden

HAMAR, Norway (AP) — Natalia Petrusheva of the Soviet Union won the first three races and placed sixth in the final 3,000 meters Sunday to dethrone Beth Heiden of the United States as the 1980 world all-round women's speed skating champion.

Miss Heiden, of Madison, Wis., finished second in the standing, more than one full time point behind.

Miss Austin, who has now beaten Mrs. Lloyd three times in the last two weeks, dominated the match from start to finish.

Miss Austin, the 17-year-old reigning U.S. Open champion, played nearly faultless tennis, forcing the normally patient Mrs. Lloyd to commit errors.

Miss Austin served two aces in the final game, which took even her by surprise.

"I can't remember the last time I served an ace," said Miss Austin who collected $30,000 for the victory, winning 10 straight sets during the week-long tournament.

Miss Austin had not beaten Mrs. Lloyd until a year ago, but has since won seven of their nine matches, including the U.S. Open.

'Younger' Actor Says 'Going In Style' Has Little Bit Of Everything

NEW YORK (AP) — "George Burns called me a snot-nosed kid," laughed 61-year-old Art Carney, here to plug "Going In Style," a film about three old men who rob a bank to break the boredom of retired life.

Carney shares top billing with Burns, who at 84 is old enough to be his father, and Lee Strasberg, the 77-year-old master of method acting, who makes movies between lectures at his famed Actors Studio.

"We're the Supremes," joked Carney, "the Aristocrats. Actually, I think we give an accurate portrayal of three old men."

As far as Carney is concerned, "Going In Style" has a little bit of everything. "It has humor, warmth and some tragedy," he said. "It's not what I'd call a fast-moving movie. It takes its time."

"The thing I was very impressed with," said Carney, "was how director Martin Brest and the cinematographer handled the camera. They would hold it on us while we're thinking. It's a big pause and some directors would try to keep things moving. But you don't move too fast with old guys. Let them think. Get close on the faces."

Since his television days as Jackie Gleason's sidekick, Ed Norton, Carney has developed an active movie career, specializing in retired men. He won an Oscar for "Harry and Tonto" and received critical acclaim for "The Late Show," in which he played a retired detective.

There were three main reasons Carney decided to make "Going In Style."

"I liked the script," he said. "I liked the fact I was hitched together with some heavy-hitters like Burns and Strasberg. And the loot was nice too. I got bills to pay."

Carney said he also was impressed with the 27-year-old Brest, who wrote and directed the film. "I thought he did a superlative job," he said. "He knew what he wanted and I think he got it."

When not working, Carney said he spends most of his time at home in Connecticut. "I'm not a big city lover," he said. "I'm a hick."

Although Carney loves his work and tries to keep as busy as possible, it's the relationships with his wife, his kids and his grandchildren that give him the most pleasure, he said.

"I guess I'm trying to make up for lost time," said Carney, sighing. "Jean and I had some rough time going about 15 years ago." The rough time ended in divorce. During the 10 years they were separated, both remarried and both later divorced again. When they got back together, it was as if they had never been apart.

"One day, I just knocked on the door," said Carney, "and called out, 'I'm home.'"

"Come in," she answered. "Shut the door. There's a draft."

"Got anything on the stove, Jean?"

"Yes," she answered, matter-of-factly. "What do you want?"

They remarried last March.

Production Of Legal Marijuana Not Up To Par, Patient Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government is not producing enough legal marijuana to meet the needs of glaucoma and cancer chemotherapy patients, but is favoring use of a less-effective synthetic substitute, a critic said Sunday.

He said persons with the legal right to use marijuana frequently are forced to use a synthetic derivative, delta-9-tetrahydrocannabinol — better known as THC, the ingredient in marijuana that provides the "high."

Robert Randall, a District of Columbia resident, became America's first legal marijuana smoker after a protracted court case in which he claimed a legal right to use the drug to treat his glaucoma. He gets a prescribed 70 marijuana cigarettes a week.

In a statement issued Sunday, he said he had taken THC on several occasions and it failed to help him. He contended: "If I'd been forced to take THC, I would now be blind."

Since 1978, 16 states have passed legislation allowing certain patients legal access to marijuana for legitimate medical uses in treatment of glaucoma and to ease the side effects of cancer chemotherapy, Randall noted.

But the government has discouraged states from growing their own marijuana and only three — New Mexico, Washington and Illinois — have received any federally grown marijuana, he said. Randall said fewer than 100 cancer patients are receiving marijuana supplies, and no state has been able to establish a glaucoma treatment program because of federal restrictions.

The government grows its own marijuana on a five-acre plot of land near Oxford, Miss., but generally only plants a crop in odd-numbered years.

Dr. Seymour Perry, chairman of the Interagency Committee on New Therapies for Pain and Discomfort estimated last March that the government could produce enough marijuana cigarettes to supply four cigarettes a day to 250 subjects for 18 months.

Randall estimated there were as many as 1.5 million cancer and glaucoma patients in the 16 states that have passed marijuana therapy laws so far.

"The whole discussion on the marijuana supply is based on the assumption that large quantities of marijuana will be required as it is the only or at least the best dosage form to use," Perry said.

Perry said the Food and Drug Administration requires "initial treatment with THC Capsules and only permits cigarettes when these fail."

A May 15, 1978, National Cancer Institute memo, excerpts of which Randall distributed to reporters, said "the oral absorption of THC is erratic."

Controversial Economist Against Federal Subsidies For PBS

FRIEDMAN AGAINST PBS SUBSIDIES — At a press conference publicizing a 10-week series on economics being run by the Public Broadcasting Service, Milton Friedman, sporting a tie with portraits of 18th century economist Adam Smith, said government subsidies for PBS, along with funding for humanities and the National Science Foundation were a waste of money. Friedman and his wife, Rose, pose in New York with a copy of the book they co-authored, "Free To Choose," which is also the title of the PBS series. (AP Laserphoto)

NEW YORK (AP) — Sporting a blue and gold tie bearing the portrait of 18th century economist Adam Smith, Milton Friedman confronted a group of television reviewers and journalists.

With characteristic bluntness, the 67-year-old economist declared that government subsidies for the Public Broadcasting Service were a waste of money, along with funding for humanities and the National Science Foundation.

"I have strongly and for long been opposed to government subsidies for PBS. I do not think there should be government appropriations for PBS..."

That may not have been a politic thing to say. Friedman held the news conference to get publicity for a 10-week series on economics that is being run by PBS.

The federal government provided public TV with about 28 percent of its funding in fiscal 1978.

But Friedman, a slightly built man of 5 feet 2 inches, is not known for being politic.

For years he has been a leading critic of government and a staunch defender of the free market system — an idea espoused by Adam Smith in his pioneering 18th century theory of economic principles.

Friedman also ranks among the most controversial economists in America for his conservative views.

The depression of the 1930s convinced many economists that the market system didn't always work and government spending was necessary to pump up the economy and put people back to work. But Friedman contends that the collapse represented a failure of the Federal Reserve to perform its function, not a failure of the market system.

The result, he argues, is that government is more and more depended on to provide education and jobs, to guarantee everyone an income and to protect consumers. None of those things, he says, should be the business of government.

In the initial segment of his television series, "Free to Choose," which debuts on many stations Friday evening, Friedman tours a garment factory in New York's Chinatown where workers are paid less than minimum wage and work long hours under poor conditions.

While that violates all sorts of government rules, Friedman argues that the factory is providing jobs for workers who would otherwise be without them.

Such arguments do not sit well with labor leaders and others who have spent years trying to gain what they view as better conditions and protection for workers. But Friedman counters that the effect of such government efforts to regulate private business do more harm than good and are part of a gradual choking of society in general.

Skyrocketing Silver Prices Affecting Film, Amateur Shutterbugs

NEW YORK (AP) — Silver has become so valuable that the companies making photographic film save all the little bits they punch out of 35-millimeter and movie film so the film fits on the sprockets.

"They're much too valuable to throw away," Henry Kaska, a spokesman for Eastman Kodak, says of the little punchouts.

There is no way around it: The price of silver, a key ingredient of both film and the paper on which pictures are printed, is soaring.

That is pushing up photography prices, and people in the industry are worried there will be a lot fewer folks lining up to say, "Cheese!" for American shutterbugs.

"People are going to be reluctant to buy a roll of film," predicts John Lauer, a vice president of Fotomat. "Instead of buying four or five rolls a year, they'll buy two or three."

A year ago, silver cost $6 an ounce. This month the price touched $40 before settling above $30, so prices are rising for both film and paper.

Kodak's increases, ranging up to 75 percent, take effect Jan. 26 for film and a month later for photographic paper. There is little doubt that other makers will follow Kodak, which dominates the industry and is the price leader.

Amateur photographers can take heart in the fact that color film uses less silver than black-and-white, so the percentage price increases are smaller. Per roll, the cost of color film is rising between 15 percent and 25 percent.

A 12-exposure roll of Kodachrome II color print film, size 110, which cost $1.76 in October, will rise from the current $1.86 to $2.15. And the Kodak charge for developing and printing the pictures will climb from $5.46 to $5.70 on Feb. 26.

A roll of 35-millimeter Kodachrome slide film with 20 exposures will have a suggested retail price of $3.69, up from the current $3.07 and from the $2.90 price that prevailed in October. And on Feb. 26, the Kodak price for processing the film will rise from $3.15 to $3.40.

Instant film uses even less silver than regular color film. Prices of Kodak instant film rose just 10 percent. Polaroid imposed a 6 percent increase Jan. 1, blaming it on increases in all costs, not just silver.

Not everyone is hurting. Because film sales were disappointing for Polaroid last year, the silver it bought at relatively low prices was not used as quickly as expected. Donald Dery, a Polaroid spokesman, will not give details but says "We have not felt a severe strain as a result of the silver price increase."

"Photography has a unique value," says Fred Nakamura, executive vice president of Fuji Photo Film U.S.A., a Friedman, whose father died when he was 15 and whose mother supported the family in New Jersey by running a dry goods store, is familiar with the pinch of hard times.

"I doubt that our family at any time got an income that would have been above the poverty level at that time. Of course, we didn't know it," he said in an interview.

And he cites a state scholarship, which sent him through Rutgers University in the Depression years, as an example of why he is opposed to such government spending. He left Rutgers for the University of Chicago and never returned to New Jersey, thus giving that state no direct return on its investment.

He has taught at the University of Chicago since 1946, although he now lives in California, and is regarded as the leader of the Chicago School of monetary economics, which stresses the importance of the quantity of money as an instrument of governmental policy and a determinant of business cycles and inflation.

He won the 1976 Nobel prize in economics and has written numerous books, including "A Monetary History of the United States," "Capitalism and Freedom," and "There's No Such Thing as a Free Lunch." He is also a columnist for Newsweek Magazine and served as an informal economic advisor to President Nixon.

His latest book, which he wrote with his wife Rose, was produced to coincide with the television series and carries the same title "Free to Choose." He's currently living in San Francisco and is a research fellow at Stanford University's Hoover Institution.

Friedman acknowledges that his own TV series on economics and freedom is partly a response to one liberal economist John Kenneth Galbraith did in 1977, also on public television.

"In a sense, the Galbraith series undoubtedly stimulated people to believe that it was desirable to have a series from a different point of view and that it was possible to do something on television."

Corporate sponsors were in fact so eager for a Friedman series that public television officials had to turn some away.

While none of the $2.4 million cost of the program involves government subsidies, Friedman told reporters that was simply the way it turned out and not a matter of personal principle.

"I don't want to be holier than thou in that sense. ... I'm opposed to all of these subsidized programs. But I'm also a law abiding citizen."

"If my fellow citizens are going to be so foolish as to establish these (programs), there is no reason I shouldn't benefit from them. I was long an enemy of rent control but that did not prevent me from living in a rent controlled apartment."

"There is a big difference between our role as citizens in which we try to affect public policy and our obeying the law after it is passed," he said.

Japanese company that has carved out a segment of the American market.

"There is no ready-made substitute."

The photo industry has long since taken steps to recover every ounce of silver it can. Kodak says it recovers 20 million ounces a year, but still has to buy 50 million more.

One place a lot of silver can be reclaimed is in film processing. Lauer estimates that Fotomat will recover silver worth $10 million in 1980.

Birdwatcher Falls Short Trying To Break Own Sighting Record

JACKSON, MISS. (UPI) — Birdwatcher James Vardaman last year set a record by sighting 698 different birds in North America, but despite a heroic last-minute effort, fell tantalizingly short of his personal goal of 700 sightings.

Vardaman had a jet chartered Dec. 30 to take him to Miami and Brownsville, Texas, where scouts had reported seeing a striped headed tanager and a golden crowned warbler, which would have given him his magic number.

"Well, damned if they didn't disappear the next day," he said.

It wasn't the first time a rare bird had flown. The day before, Vardaman hired a pilot in Boston to fly him out over the Atlantic Ocean to look for number 698, a great skua. But the brown gull with white-patched wings was not to be found. Undaunted, Vardaman went to Ocean City, Md., where he boarded a boat and got his skua.

His quest took him to every corner of the continent. He began in Miami in January, where he quickly rattled off a sizable chunk of his list. In July he broke the previous record of sighting 659 species.

In all he spent 170 days birdwatching, logging nearly 25,000 miles by car, boat, bicycle and on foot. He went to 24 states and six Canadian provinces in nine different time zones.

A few days later time ran out. "There was no other place to go," said the 58-year-old Vardaman, president of a Jackson forest management company. "There were people all over North America looking for me. I'd been sending a newsletter to more than 1,000 people. They were really busting a gut, but if the bird's not there, it's not there."

Vardaman began laying plans to sight 700 North American birds more than a year ago, working out an itinerary that would put him at the right place at the right time to catch the seasonal migrations. The goal was formidable — only seven expert birdwatchers have ever seen 700 species in an entire lifetime.

Ex-Mormon Joined By Civil Rights Leader At ERA Rally

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Civil rights leader Joseph Lowery joined Sonia Johnson, excommunicated from the Mormon Church because of her activism, on Sunday in urging Virginia to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment.

Mrs. Johnson and Lowery stood atop the steps of a 19th century bell tower in Capitol Square, exhorting the some 5,000 to 7,000 union members, blacks and feminists to demand that Virginia become the 36th state to ratify ERA.

"While in the past we may not have acted like we supported it, black folks are behind ERA," said Lowery, who heads the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Lowery also suggested that those supporting ERA, which would outlaw discrimination based on sex, should strike a bargain, and get behind the civil rights movement.

"There is no need us black folks running around thinking we can get equal rights without women and labor, and there is no use you folks running around thinking you can get equal rights without us black folks," Lowery said to a cheering audience.

Mrs. Johnson, excommunicated late last year because she criticized church elders for opposing ERA, could not speak for several minutes as the crowd erupted into cheers, chants and applause when she was introduced.

Bundled up against the 32-degree temperature, she said, "This is Sunday, and ordinarily some of us would be in church hearing about miracles, instead of out here, trying to work one."

"Our miracle is that this year we will break the hammerlock the new right has on ERA."

The rally was sponsored by Labor for Equal Rights Now, a coalition of labor groups in Virginia.

The Virginia General Assembly, which is in session, has for the last seven years refused to ratify the amendment to the Constitution that bans discrimination on the basis of sex.

So far, 35 states have ratified the amendment; three more are necessary.

It is possible the ratification resolution will be passed by the Virginia Senate. But it is doubtful it will even be voted upon by the full House of Delegates because a majority of the 20 members of the Privileges and Elections Committee, which is to consider it, appears ready to vote against ERA.

The ERA, must be ratified by 38 states by June 30, 1982, to become part of the Constitution. The original deadline was March 22, 1979, but was extended by act of Congress.

The ERA has been approved by 35 states, but five have since rescinded approval. The validity of that move still is in question and the Justice Department has said it is up to Congress to decide. The states that have rescinded approval are South Dakota, Kentucky, Tennessee, Idaho and Nebraska. Kentucky's action was vetoed, however.

The National Organization for Women has urged a boycott of the 15 states that have not ratified it, an action NOW says has caused conventions and travel business to go elsewhere.

Opponents of ERA also have vowed a determined effort. Phyllis Schlafly, head of Stop ERA, has predicted that the 15 states will continue to withhold approval.

Rock Band Musician Acquitted Of Murder

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Gary Lynn Webster, who admitted that he started to cut up his wife's body with an electric saw, was acquitted Saturday night of second-degree murder by a jury that deliberated 10½ hours.

Defense lawyers had claimed Webster planned to dispose of Betty Faye Webster's body in small pieces because he didn't think the police would believe her death was an accident.

Assistant Public Defender Bob Link said Mrs. Webster died of a heart attack triggered by a cut to her neck during a domestic argument in 1977. He denied she had been strangled.

Her decomposed body was found in a Texas warehouse last July. Prosecutors said Mrs. Webster was killed in Jacksonville Beach during the summer of 1977.

Dr. Linda Norton, an assistant medical examiner from Dallas County, Texas, said she could not tell from the decomposed body whether Mrs. Webster was strangled or not. Dr. Norton said the heart attack theory was unlikely.

In final arguments, Assistant State Attorney Frank Tessano said Webster was "lying to save his skin. He's had two years to reflect on what he said yesterday. He's covering his tracks."

The body was discovered when the Garland, Texas, warehouse manager opened the building after the rent went unpaid for seven months. Inside, he found the body sealed in a box and wrapped in sheets and plastic bags.

Webster — a rock band musician and former band and choir director in Greenwood, S.C. — was arrested in Casper, Wyo.

He told Garland police that after Mrs. Webster died on the floor, he planned to cut her body with an electric saw and discard it in the trash in pieces. After severing her legs below the knees and her arms above the elbows, he said he could not continue.

"He just strangled his wife, he pulled the sheet up and he was ready to play music again — sing and dance," Tessano said. "He has incredible gall, saying that because of his love for his wife, he couldn't continue to dismember her body."

Meanwhile, the trial apparently did not discourage a woman who plans to marry Webster, 33. Officials say a marriage license was issued here this week for Webster and Linda Bingham, who was living with him when he was arrested. Police say Miss Bingham met Webster on one of his rock band tours.

City Prepares To Seek Court Order Against Police Strike

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — As officials of this coastal community prepared to ask a judge to end a 12-day-old police strike, weary officers still on the job struggled through a busy weekend.

"They had a very busy night last night with numbers of arrests and a good deal more than they could handle," Police Chief William Glavis said Sunday. "But we've gotten through the week in good order."

Glavis said the skeleton crew on duty Saturday night handled many burglaries, several public disturbance calls and "a very serious assault that may become a homicide."

The union for the 100 striking policemen has been ordered to show cause Monday why a Superior Court judge should not grant the city's request for a back-to-work order.

Meanwhile, the few non-striking officers who have been policing this city of 75,000 since the strike began Jan. 2 were starting to show the strain of working 12- to 14-hour days.

"We've got six men trying to do the work of 100," said Lt. Bob Strong on Sunday. "The situation is deteriorating because we're all exhausted."

There has been a slight increase in crime since the city's first police strike began and detective agencies say several businesses have hired private guards.

City negotiators last sat down at a bargaining table Dec. 28 with the union negotiators representing 140 policemen and some civilian employees. The city's final offer was an 18-month contract with an across-the-board 8 percent raise and a 5 percent merit increase for officers deemed deserving. The offer would raise the top pay for an officer from $19,188 to $21,762.

The union seeks a three-year pact with increases of 12 percent in the first year, 11 percent the second two years and improved educational benefits. That would would put an officer's maximum pay at $23,660.

Fans Stampede Detroit Ticket Office

DETROIT (AP) — A crowd of rock music fans waiting to buy tickets for a concert by a group called Rush stampeded the Cobo Hall ticket office, kicking in glass doors and knocking several people to the ground, police said.

There were no injuries in the incident. More than 1,000 fans were waiting to buy tickets to a Feb. 17 concert by the Canadian rock group. Police said some fans had waited all night in temperatures in the low teens.

When the doors opened at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, the crowd surged forward, Detroit police said. Some fans kicked in glass doors and entered the building through the door frames, police reported.

The crowd would push you up the steps a few feet, and then it would push you down a few feet," said 13-year-old Ed Matte, of Tecumseh, Ontario. "Some people couldn't get their feet on the ground."

He said rumors that the box office would run out of tickets added to the confusion and shoving.

Texas Collective Bargaining Means NO STRIKE

According to the Texas Fire and Police Employees Relations Act. C Article 5154C-1, U.T.C.S.)

The only public employee bargaining statute on the books in the State of Texas covers police and firefighters but applies only in local jurisdictions where voters petition their municipal governments for a referendum and adopt the law by a majority vote. The Act grants exclusive recognition and bargaining rights, prohibits strikes and permits binding arbitration of bargaining impasses. Excerpts follow:

Sec. 2. Policy. (b) (i) It is also the policy of the State of Texas that firefighters and policemen, like employees in the private sector, should have the right to organize for the purposes of collective bargaining, for collective bargaining is deemed to be a fair and practical method for determining wages and other conditions of employment for the employees who comprise the paid fire and police departments of the cities, towns and other political subdivisions within the state. A denial to such employees of the right to organize and bargain collectively would lead to strife and unrest, with consequent injury to the health, safety and welfare of the public. The protection of the health, safety and welfare of the public, however, demands that strikes, lockouts, work stoppages and slowdowns of firefighters and policemen be prohibited; therefore, it is the obligation of the state to make available reasonable alternatives to strikes by employees in these protective services.

Sec. 10. Arbitration. (b) Although the policy of this Act favors and encourages the parties to elect voluntary arbitration, nothing contained herein shall be deemed a requirement for compulsory arbitration.

Sec. 17. Strikes and lockouts. (a) Strikes, lockouts, work stoppages, and slowdowns of firefighters and/or policemen shall be unlawful, and they are hereby prohibited.

(b) In the case of a lockout of firefighters or policemen by a municipality, or its designated representative or agent, or a department or agency head the Court shall (1) issue an order restraining and enjoining such violation, and/or (ii) impose on any individual violator a fine of not more than $2000.

(e) If a firefighter or policeman engages in a strike, or interferes with the municipality or prevents the municipality from engaging in its duty, or commits, attempts, or directs any employee of the municipality to stop or decline to work, or slowdown work, or causes any other person to fail or refuse to deliver to the municipality goods or services, or pickets for any of the above illegal acts, or conspires to perform any of the above acts, the wages or compensation in any form of such firefighter or policeman shall not increase in any manner or form, until the expiration of one year from the date such firefighter or policeman resumes normal working duties, and said firefighter or policeman shall be on probation for two years with respect to civil service status, tenure of employment, or contract of employment, which that person may have theretofore been entitled.

The above are excerpts from the Texas Fire and Police Employees Relations Act. Obviously, adoption of the Act by the voters of Lubbock would prevent strikes by the Lubbock Professional Firefighters Association. The Act provides for strict fines and reasonable alternatives to strikes. You need the FACTS before you vote.

Two Sisters Accused In Plot To Kill Slumbering Parents

SLIDELL, La. (AP) — Two young sisters have been arrested in what authorities said was a plot to kill their sleeping parents after an argument by setting their mobile home on fire.

"They discussed shooting, stabbing, cutting their heads off and finally decided on fire," said a St. Tammany Parish Sheriff's Department spokesman who did not want to be identified.

The girls, aged 9 and 13, were apprehended Saturday in New Orleans, and were booked in connection with a fire that injured Truett Simpson, 51, and his wife Glenda, 42.

The couple were rescued from their burning mobile home about 3 a.m. Saturday. Both suffered second- and third-degree burns over 45 percent of their bodies, said a spokesman for West Jefferson General Hospital in Marrero.

Simpson was listed in fair condition Sunday, and Mrs. Simpson was in critical condition.

Deputies said the fire was planned after the girls got into an argument with their parents on Friday. The nature of the argument was not disclosed.

The girls' names were withheld because of their ages.

Investigators said the girls admitted planning different ways to kill their parents, finally lighting newspapers in three spots at their mobile home. The house trailer was parked next to the service station operated by the family, and the state fire marshal's office was checking if a flammable liquid also had been used in the fire.

After starting the fire, the girls fled to New Orleans in the family car, deputies said. The older girl was armed with a .38-caliber pistol kept in the vehicle's glove compartment, deputies said.

They drove to the Bethlehem Children's Center, a New Orleans treatment center for disturbed youngsters, where authorities said the older girl had once been sent.

Center employee Kenneth Sutton told officers he stopped the car because the girls seemed too young to be up late. He said he detained the 9-year-old, but the 13-year-old fled.

The older girl was taken into custody later by New Orleans police, who said they also recovered the pistol.

The older daughter was being held at a family court detention center, and her sister was released in the custody of a family friend pending a hearing.
