

Gold Prices Soar To New Plateau Above $700

NEW YORK (AP) — The price of gold soared above $700 an ounce for the first time ever in New York Tuesday as uncertainty over U.S. gold auctions added fuel to gold fever.

Gold was bid up to $715 an ounce in late New York trading, according to Republic National Bank, after Treasury Secretary William Miller told reporters that the United States has not been auctioning gold in recent weeks because of turbulent conditions in the gold market. He indicated that the present "unsettled" market conditions were not appropriate for gold auctions.

While Miller also said the country's overall policy on gold auctions had not changed from one of holding occasional auctions with little advance notice, traders said the market apparently saw Miller's statement as possible squeeze on already tight supplies.

Gold, trading at around $690 just before Miller's statement, shot up to $715 bid and $720 asked in late trading, according to Republic National Bank. The closing bid was $47 an ounce higher than Monday's close.

Another dealer said Miller's statement added further uncertainty to a market that has been on a dizzy climb in the wake of international turmoil and "was the most unsettling thing that could have been done."

At the Commodity Exchange, the price of a spot gold futures contract, for delivery of gold this month, finished at $712.50, up $41.50 from Monday. Silver also was swept along, as the spot contract gained $3.80 an ounce to $46.30.

The dollar, meanwhile, made modest gains against most major world currencies despite gold's worldwide climb.

Miller's statement came after European markets had closed for the day but bullion had already climbed to new peaks above $680 an ounce.

In London trading, described by one trader as "a wild market," the gold closed at $683.50, and in Zurich at $684.50, records for both centers. Bullion ended the day Monday at $657 in London and at $654.50 in Zurich.

Worry over international developments, including events in Afghanistan and Iran and the illness of President Josip Broz Tito of Yugoslavia, was the main impetus for the latest bullion stampede, dealers in Europe said.

"Gold is a haven in any time of worry," said J.K. Newman, a bullion trader for the merchant bank Bache and Co. "It is a thermometer for the condition of the Western world, which has a rather high fever right now."

The push toward $700 began in the Far East. In Hong Kong, Asia's main bullion market, gold hit $683.06 in frantic trading before closing there at $665.17.

The price of gold has climbed steadily over the past two years. It began 1978 in London at around $169.50 and hit $200 for the first time on July 28, 1978.

At the start of 1979, gold was trading at around $225. But by the end of the year it had more than doubled to finish 1979 at $524.50 in London.

Since Christmas Day, when Soviet troops began flooding into neighboring Afghanistan, the bullion markets have been preoccupied with the possibility of a confrontation between the world's two superpowers, the United States and Soviet Union.

The price of silver has also been booming. It closed in London at a record high of $44 an ounce, up from $41.50 Monday. The tone of the market was described as firm. Throughout most of De-

Afghan Rebels Say Key Highways Cut Soviets Reported Airlifting Troops

By The Associated Press
ANTI-COMMUNIST rebels, reportedly fighting a losing battle against a modern Soviet force, claimed Tuesday to be disrupting movement along three roads into Kabul, forcing the Soviets to airlift troop reinforcements and supplies into the Afghan capital, a Pakistani newspaper reported.

On the political front, the Soviets, angered by a U.N. General Assembly resolution calling for withdrawal of their troops from Afghanistan, denounced the action as intervention in Afghanistan's affairs. America and its Western allies planned additional reprisals for the Soviet intervention.

Claims Unverified
The daily newspaper Nawae Waqt of Rawalpindi, Pakistan, carried the report of the rebel action against the highways. It quoted rebel sources across the Pakistani border in Afghanistan. The same sources said rebels had killed the governor of the northern province of Baghlan.

It has been impossible to verify such rebel battlefield claims independently. Western diplomats in Kabul have said, however, that the Russian troops have clamped down to a large degree on the Moslem rebellion and there was little fighting anywhere.

Hundreds Of Trucks
Other sources have said the rebels continue to resist the Soviets in the northeastern province of Badakhshan, and in Paktia, near the Pakistani border. But on Monday, hundreds of Soviet army trucks rolled northward through Badakhshan with only a light guard.

Two Soviet motorized divisions numbering some 25,000 men have moved into western Afghanistan, in the Herat area 75-100 miles from the Iranian border, but there is no indication Iran's oilfields are threatened, the State Department said Tuesday.

The official Soviet news agency Tass denounced as "concoctions" some U.S. news reports that Soviet troops were massing on Afghanistan's border with Iran within striking distance of the oilfields.

Vote Mark Set Here

ABSENTEE voting for Saturday's special election on two firefighter-supported issues apparently has set a record for the City of Lubbock, according to city officials.

By the time absentee voting polls closed at 5 p.m. Tuesday, the City Secretary's Office had recorded a total of 518 absentee ballots. That figure could change slightly because the vote totals include some mail-in ballots that have not yet been returned, City Secretary Evelyn Gaffga said.

Even if some mail-in ballots are not returned, City Manager Larry Cunningham said this appears to be a record turnout for absentee voting here. He explained that until recently, absentee vote totals were not kept separately from total election votes, and there is no way to determine what absentee balloting has been in most previous elections.

However, in the 1978 city election See ABSENTEE VOTE Page 14

"Nobody can have the slightest doubt about the Soviet Union's friendly stand in respect of Iran and no provocative statements can change this fact," said the Tass report from Moscow.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter dismissed suggestions of such a threat to Iranian oilfields as lacking U.S. intelligence confirmation, and said, "Geography makes it a little difficult to strike at the oilfields from the northwest of Afghanistan."

Iran's oil region is around the Persian Gulf, some 750 miles from the Afghanistan border near Herat. The Soviet Union's own border with Iran is nearly 200 miles closer to the main oilfields. The Soviets reacted angrily, too, to the U.N. General Assembly's call Monday for the troop withdrawal.

The resolution, adopted by a vote of 104-18, with most Moslem and Third World members voting for it, did not name the Soviet Union specifically. But it said the assembly "strongly deplores" military intervention in Afghanistan.

In a Tass report from Moscow, the Soviets condemned the U.N. move as "backstage actions by American diplomats and others."

Tass said the United States, China and See AFGHANISTAN Page 14

Khomeini Appearance Ordered By Judge

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A Tennessee court has ordered Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini of Iran to appear here March 31 to answer a complaint about a $10 cab fare paid in Iranian currency.

And a judge has impounded an Iranian student's $1,800 award in a damage suit for the duration of the hostage crisis in Tehran.

Cabbie W.T. Hardison, who has filed unusual suits before, on Monday sued Khomeini for the $10. He says he accepted Iranian rials as fare for a ride to the airport, but then found he can't convert the currency to United States bills because President Carter has frozen Iranian assets in this country.

Hardison wants Khomeini to make the exchange. A General Session Court issued a civil warrant for the ayatollah.

And in Circuit Court, Judge Hamilton Gayden said Tuesday in deciding a lawsuit that until there is a cessation of hostilities, Iranian student Ghodrattollah Amiri may not have his award from a damage suit filed Jan. 7 in connection with a three-car wreck.

In a memorandum, the judge said he wonders whether any Iranian should be able to collect such damages "when his country is holding American citizens as hostages against their will and without due process of law in violation of fundamental rights of life, liberty and freedom."

The hostage taking, the judge said, is an act of war that permits restrictions of the rights of Iranians. The court is to keep the money for the meantime. Amiri is to return to Iran in a few weeks.

GOP Blames Twin Crises On Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carter administration bumbling led to the crises in Iran and Afghanistan, and the trouble has only begun, Republican platform drafters were told Tuesday.

"For three years, American policy has been sowing the harvest that we are reaping today in Afghanistan," said Fred Ikle, director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency under Presidents Richard M. Nixon and Gerald R. Ford.

"And this is only the first installment," Ikle said. "The passive and indifferent attitude of the Carter administration toward the political color of the world map has provoked an accelerating erosion of the realm of freedom."

Ikle was one of several witnesses criticizing President Carter's foreign policy as the GOP platform committee concluded the first round of a six-month platform-writing process.

Richard V. Allen, a former adviser to Nixon, said recent events in the Middle East might have been prevented or at least handled better except for the weakening of U.S. intelligence capacity.

"The Carter administration and the Democratic-controlled Congress have drastically weakened the capability of the U.S. to collect foreign intelligence and to protect our internal security," Allen said. "Recent events in Afghanistan, Iran and elsewhere around the world compel us to take without delay steps to strengthen our intelligence capability."

John F. Lehman Jr., a former member of the National Security Council and deputy director of the Arms Control Agency, said Carter is "faced with the total collapse of his foreign policy," and his proposals to increase defense spending "will not begin to close the gap he has created."

Rep. James Leach, R-Iowa, told the committee that Carter's sharp curtailment of grain shipments to the Soviet Union hurt U.S. farmers without deterring Russian military activity in Afghanistan.

"Instituting a grain embargo is like cutting off your nose to spite your face," Leach said. "The president's announcement proved of so little deterrent value See GOP BLAMES Page 14

U.S. Newsmen Ordered From Iran By Friday

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran on Tuesday ordered American reporters to leave the country by midnight Friday in a move one Iranian official said could help ease the embassy crisis by "lowering the temperature" and taking pressure off the militants who hold the American hostages.

The United States, meanwhile, moved to build up pressure on the Iranians by rounding up support from the NATO allies for economic sanctions against Iran.

The Carter administration also pressed its court action against the Iranians. Lawyers for the U.S. government formally presented a lengthy legal brief on its case against Iran before the International Court of Justice in the Hague, Netherlands. The court is the main legal arm of the United Nations.

ABC News quoted unidentified U.N. sources in New York as saying Iran's revolutionary leader, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, would accept U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim as an intermediary in the U.S.-Iran crisis. It said Mansour Farhang, Iran's chief of mission at the United Nations, had received a message from the Foreign Ministry stating Waldheim was acceptable.

The secretary-general made a four-day visit to Iran two weeks ago to try to negotiate the release of the hostages but Khomeini refused to see him.

Abolghasem Sadegh, director of foreign press at the Ministry of National Guidance, said the expulsion of reporters for U.S. news organizations would mean that "the students (embassy militants) might be more relaxed and the hostages might be more relaxed in turn."

"I think it will be good for Iran, the United States and the hostages," he said, adding that the move could "lower the temperature... (and) might help the situation as a whole."

The 50 or so American hostages have been held prisoner at the embassy since Moslem militants seized the complex Nov. 4, demanding the return of the exiled Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi in exchange for their hostages' freedom.

Iran's ruling Revolutionary Council and Cabinet ministers decided Monday to eject the 100 or so American reporters here from the country, but did not set a deadline. On Tuesday, the National Guidance Ministry told The Associated Press that the deadline for leaving the country is midnight Friday.

The Iranian government of Khomeini accused the American journalists, part of a 300-member international press corps, of "biased reporting" on the Iranian situation.

It said French, British and West German journalists and those from other countries could stay for the time being. The non-American journalists, Sadegh said, can look at Iran "in a more fair way" since the hostages are not their fellow countrymen.

Tehran Radio announced Tuesday night that any American journalist un-

A SECOND candidate has filed in the race for the Precinct 3 seat on the Lubbock County Commissioners Court.

Franklin Dunn, an Idalou farmer, announced Tuesday his plans to run for the post held by Commissioner Jim Lancaster. Lancaster announced his plans to seek re-election earlier this month.

"In filing for this position," Dunn said, "I first want to make it clear that I have complete respect for Jim Lancaster and am not running against him, but rather running for the job of commissioner of Precinct 3."

Dunn said that he had been interested in the commissioner's job for a long time and had considered making the race in 1976.

According to Dunn, one of his chief interests is seeing to it that county roads are properly maintained. "I have reason See COUNTY Page 14

Panama Mainland Visited By Shah

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — The deposed shah of Iran took a one-day excursion Tuesday to the western district of Chiriqui, one of his aides said.

Reports said Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and his wife Farah Diba flew back to their residence on Contadora Island from David, the capital of Chiriqui, known for its mild climate.

Spokesman Mark Morse responded to reports that the shah faced further hospitalization by saying the deposed monarch's health was "very good."

Unconfirmed reports have said the warm, humid climate of Contadora does not agree with the shah, but his staff has consistently said he has no plans to leave.

'Inaccurate,' Kennedy Responds To New Chappaquiddick Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two new investigative reports on Chappaquiddick have raised fresh questions about whether Sen. Edward M. Kennedy told the truth about the automobile accident that took Mary Jo Kopechne's life. Kennedy said Tuesday that both reports are inaccurate.

As he has almost since the accident on July 18, 1969, Kennedy stuck to his version of the tragedy, and said one of the new reports, that published by The Washington Star, "is wrong, is wrong, is dead wrong."

The senator and several technical experts he has retained charged there were serious errors in the Star account and in another report published hours earlier by Reader's Digest.

But the reports, which challenge anew Kennedy's testimony about the current he encountered when he swam from Chappaquiddick Island back to Edgartown after the accident, demonstrated that questions about the senator's conduct continue to surface less than a week before he faces the first popular test in his presidential campaign.

The Massachusetts senator had just returned to Washington from Iowa, where he sought votes for the Jan. 21 precinct caucuses, when the Reader's Digest report and supporting consultants' studies were released Monday night.

Less than 24 hours later, after a news conference, called by his top aides and technical experts bogged down in some confusion over the complexity of the reports and Kennedy's replies, the senator himself met with a group of reporters and charged that both articles were in error.

Kennedy asserted that "independent experts who have studied the tidal currents and the topography of Chappaquiddick on the night of the accident support the facts as I testified to them."

As he departed for a campaign trip to New England, Kennedy told reporters who met him at National Airport, "When I announced for president, I knew that the issue would be raised. I also knew there would be nothing new that could come up that would question my testimony because the way I testified is the way it happened."

"It would have made absolutely no sense to launch on a campaign for the presidency if there were hidden facts or if the tragedy happened to be other than the way I testified."

The rebirth of the Chappaquiddick issue came when the Kennedy camp was on an emotional high over the endorsement the senator was about to win from Douglas Fraser, United Auto Workers union president.

Fraser confirmed that endorsement Tuesday, even as the Star published newly obtained information concerning changes in the Massachusetts island's topography and its purported effect on tidal currents.

The newspaper said that government data on currents — which The Associated Press used in a 1976 study that cast doubt on the senator's account of his swim — actually were obsolete at the time of the accident, and that Kennedy would have been swept inland, rather than out to sea, as he testified.

The AP had said the current was slack or nearly so at the time Kennedy said that in his weakened condition, "the tide began to draw me out, and for the second time that evening I knew I was going to drown."

"I remembered being swept down toward the direction of the Edgartown Light and well out into the darkness," the senator said in his only sworn account of the incident, which he gave at an inquest into Miss Kopechne's death.

The Star published two aerial photographs of the sandspit between Martha's Vineyard and Chappaquiddick, taken in May and November 1969. They showed the area known as the Katama Opening had silted in since the government had collected its data on currents. The two islands were almost joined at the time of the accident, the Star said.

Officials of the federal National Ocean Survey, who examined the photos at the newspaper's request, expressed the opinion that the change in topography would have had the effect of reversing the tidal currents that ebb and flow between the two islands.

No data were cited in the article to prove that assertion, however, and two admiralty lawyers retained by Kennedy insisted that the newspaper was mistaken in its assumptions.

If the currents were reversed, the Star said, Kennedy could not have encountered the situation he described when he swam the channel.

Taking a different approach, the Reader's Digest hired Bernard Le Mehaute, a coastal engineer, to sample the harbor currents last Nov. 9 and 10 when the tidal currents would have been "nearly identical" with those Kennedy encountered more than 10 years ago.

"The tidal current at Edgartown varies considerably depending on whether not the sand spit forming Norton Point is open," Le Mehaute said of the same area that was the focus of the Star report.

"There is presently no tidal cut through the spit, whereas it is reported by local fishermen that an opening did exist in July 1969," he said. "Therefore, current measurements obtained in Edgartown for the purposes of this study do not represent prevailing tidal conditions for 18-19 July 1969."

Le Mehaute, nonetheless, said the measurements of current that he obtained could be used to approximate the situation at the time of the accident. And he, too, concluded that Kennedy would have encountered a "weak to zero" current tending to push him — if at all — in the opposite direction from that to which he testified.

Endorsement From UAW Leader Boosts Kennedy Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Auto Workers chief Douglas A. Fraser endorsed Edward M. Kennedy for president Tuesday in a move timed to give the senator a needed boost in next week's Iowa caucuses.

"We have seen him, time after time, often alone, leading the fight for the young, the old, the poor and those who suffer discrimination," said Fraser, whose union gave Jimmy Carter critical, early support in the 1976 presidential campaign.

In a speech to the Washington Press Club, Fraser coupled his endorsement of Kennedy with an accusation that Carter has turned his back on the 1976 Democratic party platform.

Speaking of Kennedy, Fraser said, "His record and his positions on the issues reflect more closely the ... platform than those of any other candidate." Kennedy did not attend Fraser's speech, although he did address a UAW breakfast earlier in the day, where the Massachusetts Democrat was warmly received by 1,000 union members.

AN EDITORIAL:

The United Nothing Agency

THE FUTILITY of the United Nations not only settling big power disputes, but in punishing those who violate even the basic rules of the worldwide organization, as well as human decency, has been spotlighted again.
For the second time in as many weeks, the Soviet Union has vetoed an effort on the part of the Security Council to impose penalties on those who flout world opinion, the lives and freedom of nations and the UN itself.
On U.S. efforts to win Security Council approval for sweeping condemnation of Russia for its invasion of Afghanistan and sanctions against Iran for its "act of war" against the U.S. Embassy, Moscow, with help from at least one ally, has used its big power veto.

The latest charades in Iran and Afghanistan are classic examples. But there are others.
THE UNITED NATIONS has turned its head the other way in numerous instances and generally taken an attitude that the U.S. and West in particular are "fair game" when it comes to throwing words, and weapons, around.
Never mind that the American taxpayers have from the start picked up the major portion of the monetary support for the United Nations, the U.S. is still a greedy, grasping ogre.
Never mind that UN diplomats, serving with diplomatic immunity, have repeatedly abused their status as guests in this nation, some of whom are here specifically to spy and engage in other acts detrimental to those footing the bill, America still has no real voice in the UN.

THE U.S. HAS indicated it will take unilateral action, if necessary, to deal with the Iranian hostage problem.
That is as it should be. It has been conclusively demonstrated, actually many times in the past, that this nation no longer can depend on the UN for any sort of real support.
Perhaps it is time to take some sort of action against the UN itself, such as telling the Third Worlders and Russia to pay their part of the bill henceforth, clamping down on diplomatic spying and as a last resort kicking the whole kit and kaboodle out of the U.S.

AN EDITORIAL:

Alarmists Had Reason To Be

THE LATEST military action in Afghanistan by the Soviets only serves to underline the belligerent nature of the USSR, borne out by 70 years of modern history.
Forty thousand fighting troops now make the point clear even for Jimmy Carter, who took office condemning Americans "inordinate fear of Communism."
By admitting that in the past few weeks his opinion of the Russians has changed most drastically, the President proved once again that his concept of foreign policy is at least misguided, and worse yet, naive.
The Russians are not our friends. With typically cold logic, they have written off the ill-fated SALT II treaty—which, parenthetically, was a blessing.
THE SOVIETS, moreover, have taken advantage of the United States' involvement in Iran to carry their drive for a warm-water port one step farther.
Our capacity for anticipating and preventing actions such as those in Afghanistan has been deliberately downgraded for three years, just as the warnings by conservatives of the Soviet buildup have been rejected out of hand.

Afghanistan and its predecessors—trouble spots like Angola, Ethiopia and Nicaragua—all serve as stark reminders that the USSR is not, despite Mr. Carter's wishes, a peaceful country.
Rep. Robert E. Bauman, R-Md., chairman of the American Conservative Union, said he had always considered our "inordinate fear of Communism" to be a prudent, arms-length policy.
Mr. Carter, meanwhile, cancelled reconnaissance flights over Cuba and cut the defense budget by $7 billion initially. Subsequently and fortunately, the flights were resumed and the defense budget, in turn, was boosted 5 percent out of fear for SALT II's passage.
Thankfully, SALT II is now scrapped.
In the face of a very real threat to world peace, those who have been labeled alarmists for their warnings are only now recognized for what they truly are: realists.

M. STANTON ELANS: Khomeini Steers Away From Middle Of Road

WASHINGTON—For upwards of a year now, the Ayatollah Khomeini has been the beneficiary of myth and wishful thinking in the United States.
When his followers were agitating to throw out the Shah of Iran, it was widely reported in this country that the ayatollah wanted to establish an "Islamic republic," with little further explanation offered.
This had a nice libertarian ring to it, especially when contrasted with the usual description of the Shah's regime as a repressive "monarchy."
Had the people touting Khomeini's revolution taken a closer look at his writings on such subjects, they would have found that what he really had in mind was a fanatical dictatorship.
And so it has turned out: kangaroo courts, mass executions, the repression of women, war to the knife against internal dissidents, the seizure of the U.S. embassy, etc. Some "republic."
YOU'D THINK that this experience would have cleared away the cobwebs about the Ayatollah, but some of the myths about him still persist.
The one which has most recently been in vogue is that, as an Islamic third-worlder, he is interested in steering a middle course between the U.S. and the Soviet Union. Maybe so—but you couldn't prove it by his behavior.
Consider the contrasting treatment Khomeini has given the U.S. and Soviet embassies in Tehran. As everybody knows, extremist Islamic "students" pledging allegiance to Khomeini have held the U.S. embassy and 50 American citizens captive for better than two months.
This takeover would not have occurred without the acquiescence of Khomeini, and he has since endorsed it fully by his words and actions.
The treatment of the Soviet embassy has been quite different. At New Year's, when a mob of angry Muslims converged on that embassy to protest the Russian invasion of Afghanistan, Khomeini's "revolutionary guards" rushed to the scene to protect the Soviets from the demonstrators.
INDEED, THESE guards reportedly tried to steer the crowd away to the already beleaguered U.S. embassy.
Deepening the irony, as noted in a recent report by ABC television, is the fact that the Soviet embassy in Tehran is a well-known hub of intelligence and espionage—as are most Soviet embassies around the world.

The threat to Iranian internal stability from the Soviets is quite real, while the threat from the U.S. embassy—given our recent record of docility—could only have been illusory.
And of course the U.S. has not invaded a Muslim country lately.
Despite all this, Khomeini sanctions a takeover of our embassy by a mob, while defending the Soviets from another mob. That doesn't sound like much of a middle course.
NOR DOES the fact that Khomeini, while denouncing America as the great Satan, has failed to condemn the Soviets for their invasion of Afghanistan—virtually the only Muslim head of state in the world to display such reticence.
His "neutrality" is reminiscent of the late Jawaharlal Nehru, who always seemed to wind up on the Soviet side of things.
Just why Khomeini behaves this way is a matter of speculation. One theory is that he is simply afraid of the Soviets, who share a long common border with Iran and who are not so easily kicked around as the U.S.
If the Soviets will invade Afghanistan to install a puppet government, they could easily do the same to Iran were it to permit an embassy takeover or otherwise cross wires with Moscow.
SUCH MOTIVES, however, aren't incompatible with others. Marxist elements in Iran contributed to the original Khomeini agitation, and have been working hand in glove with the present extremist campaign against the U.S.
It is noteworthy that the "students" holding our embassy propose to "try" one of the Americans there for the alleged crime of having bombed Vietnam—and have said they would invite the Communist Vietnamese to take part in the anticipated propaganda orgy.
It is not inconceivable, therefore, that Khomeini both fears the Soviets and is co-operating with them through his internal alliance with Iranian Marxists.
Whatever the reasons, his much touted "middle course" turns out to be another myth.

GEORGE WILL:

A Visit To Detentist

WASHINGTON—Looking on the bright side (as has been said, hope is a lousy guide but a good companion), perhaps those people are right who say the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan was a "blessing in disguise."
Their theory is that Afghanistan will be, for the Soviets, "a Vietnam."

Perhaps it is Gallic drollery to say that Yalta put "bonds" on Russia. Yalta was an early cause of postwar disillusionment.
(Harry Hopkins on Yalta: "We really believed in our hearts that this was the dawn of the new day we had all been praying for and talking about for so many years.")
Now Yalta has popped up again, a ghost at the funeral of the latest illusion, detente.

To believe that, you only need to believe two implausible things.
First, that the Afghan resistance (with us supplying it something, maybe) will be a fighting force comparable to what the North Vietnamese army was, supplied by the Soviets.
Second, that Soviet power will be used as foolishly as U.S. power was used in Vietnam.
Looking on the bright side (doing so is silly, but why should the State Department have all the fun?), the invasion has provoked some revealing talk.
For example, French officials are reported to have said that "Russia has stepped outside the territorial bonds of the Yalta Pact."

Of course for some people, one illusion is indelible.
It is that the Soviet Union's most disturbing acts of domestic brutality and international violence are aberrational, not true expressions of the Soviet state.
FOR EXAMPLE, Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., recently said on Meet the Press that "our first priority must go toward proving to the Kremlin that whoever it was—the hawks that ventured forth into Afghanistan—were dead wrong, that they had reversed the policy of a decade and that we have got to prove them wrong and have the moderates come back in power."

ANDREW TULLY: Off And Waiting

WASHINGTON—The more one looks at, and listens to, the mob scene that is the Republican Presidential campaign, the more one wonders how long a man who used to sit in the Oval Office will be able to resist jumping into the race.
Jerry Ford has said he won't be a candidate. But he has also said he's learned never to say never, and has mumbled something about "unforeseen circumstances" arising that might cause him to change his mind.
Given the tone of the campaign so far, those circumstances threaten to arise. The GOP candidates in the running are going around speaking with one voice.
One struggles to tell them apart as they articulate the litany of Democratic sins.

Evidently, the assumption is that "moderates" (unnamed, but presumably including Brezhnev) normally run the Soviet Union, but have been suddenly and secretly pushed from power by some sort of semi-coup run by hawks (unnamed).
When we have "proved them wrong," the hawks will turn power back to the moderates. The absence of evidence for this thrilling tale is beside the point.
PEOPLE BELIEVE things like this because, evidently, they can't bear to believe that the Soviet Union isn't "normally" run by "moderates."

The candidates are working overtime trying not to make even a little mistake. They are mostly running against the Democratic Party, which is comfortable, but this policy ignores the political necessity of also running against one another.
After all, only one of them can get the nomination, and he can do that only by comparing his virtues with the sins of his opponents.
In short, winning a Presidential nomination demands at least a touch of the divisive.

SEN. JOSEPH BIDEN, D-Del., one of Percy's colleagues on the Foreign Relations Committee and, until recently, the very model of the modern detentist, now says the economic sanctions against the Soviet Union should remain in place as long as Soviet troops remain in Afghanistan.
Biden, 37, will not live to see the troops withdrawn, and I'll bet he changes his mind.
The Soviet crushing of Czechoslovakia in 1968 provoked Western outrage that was as brief as it was intense.
By March 1969, U.S. allies were pressing for U.S. acceptance of what the Soviets wanted and soon got: a European Security Conference.
It ratified the real meaning of Yalta: Soviet domination of Eastern Europe.

EVENTUALLY, THEN, the GOP battle has to get rough. And that inevitability is made to order for Jerry Ford. I don't buy the proposition that he can wait for a deadlocked convention.
But he can avoid the early primaries and still make a fight for the nomination in time for his supporters to organize.
Ford has something special going for him. He would be the only candidate who used to be President. He wasn't a bad one, either. His blunders were all minor—the Polish people were free, he sometimes fell down or ran into inanimate objects.
Besides, Ford can claim that he did pretty well in handling a problem that Jimmy Carter has unconsciously ignored since eruption of the crises in Iran and Afghanistan.

IT WON'T BE long now—May, I'd guess—before the Soviet "moderates" escape from the closet.
The Senate Foreign Relations Committee will rejoice in the escape and will say that it means the United States now should: "normalize" relations, increase grain sales and other trade, expand cultural exchanges, make a symbolic withdrawal of U.S. forces from somewhere (perhaps from the Indian Ocean), and ratify SALT II.
What reason will be given for doing all this? Need you ask? We must strengthen the "moderates" in the Kremlin.

THE PROBLEM is called inflation, and when Ford left office it stood at a 4 percent annual rate. It is now 13.1 percent, and climbing.
Ford's detractors say that 4 percent rate just happened, that he had nothing to do with it. But the rate is on Ford's record, not on Ronald Reagan's or John Connally's or Jimmy Carter's.
Republican sages are buttonholing everybody in sight to announce that both Carter and Ted Kennedy are beatable if the GOP nominates the "right" candidate. Off his record, Ford can claim he's Mr. Right.
And he can remind the electorate that heard Jimmy Carter say he finally learned Russian officials are liars, that he wouldn't need on-the-job training.

Murphy's 19th Law: If there's a 50 percent chance of success that means there is a 75 percent chance of failure.
Murphy's 22nd Law: Blame will never be placed if there are enough people involved.

JAY HARRIS: New Man At Tech

DURING THE agonizing hours of decision for Texas Tech's Board of Regents in naming a new University president, one of them was heard to remark:

"There must be a better way..."
He obviously was referring not only to the final days and hours in which nine men seek to reach a common understanding, but the intricacies leading up to that point.
It is a ritual repeated not only out on the Big Red Spread, but on every campus where a new head honcho is in demand. The same process, sometimes with even more "feeling" and controversy often occurs when a school names a new head football coach. Or lets one go.
And until a better way comes along, it will continue to be the way things are done, for better or worse.

ALL OF WHICH leads us to the point of saying that we warmly welcome Dr. Laura "Larry" Cavazos, Texas Tech's first "home grown" president, as it were.
Dr. Cavazos comes from a family of Techsians, and as such should have one leg up on the saddle. He will need it. The ride ahead isn't going to be an easy one.
But if close ties and an obvious love for the school he will now head count for anything, Dr. Cavazos will add ingredients to the job, which perhaps have been lacking in other instances.
Dr. Cavazos, who is articulate, handsome and a good listener, says his major assets include an ability to work long hours, get along on a minimum of sleep, read and absorb information quickly and a family that is supportive. "But most of all," he says, "it's having enthusiasm for the job...I also can make the tough decisions when necessary..."

THE JOB IN this case is a mountain, in many ways.
As we noted last week, Texas Tech has a lot going for it. It is one of the better multi-purpose Universities in the nation.
Its highly qualified faculty, its 23,000-plus student body, its diverse system of colleges—running the gamut from a Law School to Med School Complex—makes it attractive to students around the world.
Texas Tech remains, physically, one of the largest such Universities in the world and one of the two or three largest, in land proportions, in the nation.
Although just over half a century old, young in comparison with many of the nation's institutions of higher learning, Texas Tech has turned out its share of outstanding scholars, scientists, engineers, educators, agriculture experts, businessmen and women, writers, textile people, home economics authorities, lawyers and politicians.

IN BRIEF, Texas Tech has done the job which such institutions are supposed to do—turn out "total people," who because of having been here are better prepared to cope with their personal and public lives.
Graduates and Exes of Texas Tech have every right to be proud. The vast majority of them earned it.
Having said that, we would be remiss not to recognize that Texas Tech, as other schools, also faces some major challenges in the immediate and long-range future. Some are common to the business of higher education today—lack of adequate funds for teaching and physical facilities, a cut-back in some instances of student enrollment, a closer scrutiny by those who foot the bills, taxpayers and those who give outright.

TEXAS TECH not only faces these problems, but some peculiar to Tech itself.
One, as we noted, has to do with getting the Med School Complex back on track in relation to the Health Sciences Center Hospital. In this respect, how Tech relates to the community through its new president will go a long way in determining how the community relates to Tech.
Obviously, both need one another, a fact some regents, as well as some faculty members, sometimes seem to forget.
The other problem calling for attention involves Tech's athletic domain. The feeling is that, while on sound ground, a close look is needed in some areas to avoid some serious headaches later on, and to bolster backing for the overall program.

DR. CAVAZOS in time will get acquainted with most of these things. And it will take time, for him to learn to whom to lend an ear, those in whom he can place confidence.
Already, Dr. Cavazos has learned something of the straightforward, open and honest nature of some of those with whom he must work.
Little more than an hour after being told the job was his and before the formal public vote, he sat down to lunch with the two men who would later vote "no" when his name was called. We sat in on part of that luncheon.

Dr. Cavazos' luncheon hosts were Regents Fred Bucy of Dallas and Don Workman of Lubbock. They, along with B. J. Pevehouse of Midland, were staunch supporters of Dr. John Bradford, also a Tech graduate and longtime dean of Tech's College of Engineering.
As the voting deadlock became apparent last Saturday, it was Pevehouse who finally joined six other board members to name Dr. Cavazos. As we met Dr. Cavazos, Don Workman explained, "The vote will not be unanimous this afternoon. Fred and I will vote no. But Dr. Cavazos is our new president and we want you and others to know we will support him and wish him the best."
When he saddles up at Tech, Dr. Cavazos may well find it is men like those and others of like character, at Tech and in Lubbock and this vast region, upon whom he can count the most when the going gets rough.
Good luck, Sir! There are a mighty lot of people in these parts who are praying for your success and who will go the extra mile with you if given the chance.

The Braniff Promise.

We hereby promise to make every effort to give the best airline service in the world.

Braniff sincerely believes that service industries — airlines included — have allowed their performance to deteriorate seriously. We want to take a stand against that trend.

That's why we're making a promise to do everything possible to provide the best airline service in the world.

Obviously, this is an ambitious goal. But we're no stranger to a difficult task.

Only 15 years ago Braniff was a small carrier. Today we fly between 75 cities all over the U.S. and the world.

We expect to perform a similar feat in the area of service. We promise to do everything we can to give you, not just good service, the best.

And when you make promises like these, you'd better be better.

1. We promise to knock ourselves out to be the world's friendliest, most professional airline personnel.

The rapid growth in air travel may have overwhelmed some airlines. Our people intend to go right on being friendly and professional. Because that's the kind of people we hire and train. For example, we screen 160 candidates for every flight attendant job we offer. Then we give them an intensive 5½ week course. And to keep them sharp we retrain them every year. The result is people who have the skill to do a good job and the confidence to be friendly.

2. We promise to provide frequent schedules throughout the U.S. and to Europe, Asia, Mexico and South America.

Only Braniff serves over 50 major cities in the U.S., 15 principal cities and capitals in South America and Mexico, 5 of the most important cities in Europe, and 5 in the Pacific and Far East. And because of its remarkable hub-and-spoke design, our system often provides the fastest service between many of the regions and countries we serve.

3. We promise to do everything we can to run an on-time airline.

Braniff now has a good on-time record. Of course, we'd like to have a 100% on-time record. We can't. No airline can. Here's some of what we do to minimize delays: We provide standby aircraft to replace delayed equipment. We're expanding our terminals to expedite arrivals. We keep schedules realistic by revising them to reflect wind and seasonal changes. And we use aviation's most advanced computer to generate flight plans that avoid potential delays.

4. We promise to provide quick, accurate ticket purchase and check-in.

Braniff has now linked all our airport ticket counters to a new computer that lets you pick up your ticket, check in and get your seat assignment all in one operation. And when you're taking a connecting flight, with Braniff's Connect Check-In you only have to check in once. And we've created Braniff's Advance Seat Assignment, so you can select your seat when you make your reservation by phone.

5. We promise to handle your bags with care and deliver them promptly.

You fly to save time. So the last thing you need is to waste time waiting for your bags. That's why we have luggage service teams assigned by zone for faster delivery at even the most distant gates in our big terminals. And why we have special expeditors to insure delivery of "connects" no matter how far they have to travel through the airport.

6. We promise to serve some of the best food you've ever eaten on any airline.

Our meals are prepared from fresh food. We buy the food at its source in markets all over the world and fly it — still fresh — throughout our system. And there's another reason our food is better — variety. We prepare dishes based on the cuisine of the many nations we fly to.

7. We promise to fly young, beautifully decorated airplanes.

Braniff's fleet is one of the youngest of any major airline in domestic or international service. In the U.S. we fly young Boeing 727-200s. Across the Atlantic or Pacific we fly young Boeing 747 jumbos and, the newest of the new, the Boeing 747SP. All these airplanes have exciting colors and bold designs to look at on the outside, soft restful colors, Halston wardrobes and most have real leather seats to enjoy on the inside.

8. We promise to fly airplanes you can depend on.

We've built our fleet on what we consider to be the two most dependable aircraft in commercial aviation today — the Boeing 727 and the Boeing 747. Both aircraft have a brilliant record of performance with us. And this year we'll be adding even more of them to our fleet, including the most advanced 747 in the sky — the Boeing 747SP.

In the most recent survey published by the Airline Passengers Association, the 727 and the 747 were chosen as the preferred airplane for short and long-distance flights respectively. So they're not only the airplanes we prefer to fly. They're the airplanes frequent travelers want to fly on, too.

9. We promise to offer bargain vacation fares to every Braniff city.

We can save you up to 50% on international fares including our new budget fares in the Pacific. And we can save you up to 40% domestically. And to some destinations we can save you even more. For example, we have standby fares to Britain and Europe that can save you up to 60%.

10. We promise to answer our phones and provide information promptly.

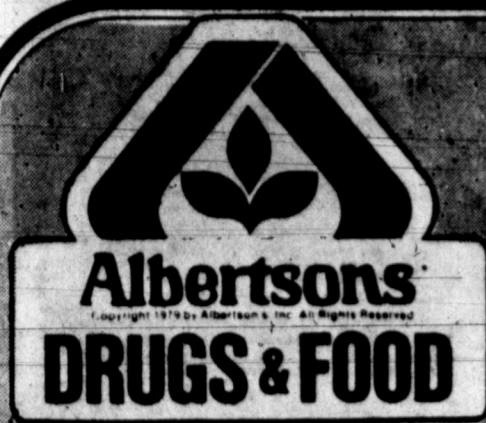

Braniff has just installed the most advanced telephone reservations and information system in the airline business. It has increased by a full 30% the number of calls we can handle at a given time. So for schedules, fares or other information on 7,500 flights between 15,000 city pairs, flown by 70 different airlines, in 107 countries, around the clock, call 800-492-4300.

We better be better.

DEFENSIVE JOBS PREDICTED

NEW YORK (AP) — An employment expert predicts that more married American women will seek work in the 1980s "purely as a self-defense measure" against the prospect of divorce. Faced with statistics showing two in five marriages breaking up, some divorced women will find it "very difficult to get all money" and then harder still to keep it coming, says Ed Glensberg, chairman of the National Commission for Employment Policy.

Gold Prices Blamed On World Conditions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary G. William Miller said Tuesday the price of gold has soared in recent weeks because of "unsettled conditions of the world" because gold has always been a hedge against the collapse of political and economic systems.

Miller hinted that the Treasury Department has decided against selling any of the nation's official gold holdings during the current period of soaring gold prices. Gold hit $700 an ounce Tuesday, although it fell back slightly to $682.

Miller also expressed satisfaction with the behavior of the dollar, which has been fairly stable, saying "the dollar has done well in this period of uncertainty and challenge."

The Treasury Department in recent years has held periodic auctions of the nation's official gold reserves. But there has not been an auction since November, and Miller indicated to reporters that there might not be one under current conditions.

"We are giving the message that at the moment it doesn't seem to us an appropriate time to sell our gold in this very unsettled and rather uncharacteristic period," Miller said. Of course, the U.S. gold hoard continues to gain in potential value as the world price rises. At the last U.S. auction on Nov. 1, the Treasury Department sold 1.25 million ounces at an average price of $372 an ounce, not much more than half of the current price.

But Miller said the U.S. policy of holding occasional gold auctions in amounts and at times that are not decided until just before the auctions are announced is "the same."

Miller talked to reporters following a speech to a White House Conference on Small Business. Asked why the price of gold has soared, he said it is due to "the unsettled conditions of the world." He said gold "is a hedge against collapse."

But he also said he thinks the United States is "still a safe haven" for investors. In his speech to the business conference, Miller was applauded several times and booed once.

He was applauded when he said the nation has been "living beyond our means far too long" and again when he said the government's growing share of the nation's resources has been "counterproductive."

He elicited a smattering of boos when he said the nation's oil companies "have done nothing to earn the increase in revenue" from the decontrol of domestic oil prices.

Miller repeated past assertions that inflation is the nation's greatest economic problem, but he said resolving the energy problem is now the key to controlling inflation.

"The war against inflation will be won, or lost on the issue of energy," he said.

Miller said the nation depends on for its oil on "a very uncertain, very unpredictable thin thread of supply," referring to petroleum imported from the Middle East.

"If we continue on this path, there is no question we will become hostage to the whims of those who don't have our best interests at heart," he said.

Meanwhile, the chairman of Carter's Council on Wage and Price Stability said chronic inflation won't be beaten until government stops overprotecting and overregulating big business.

Small Boat Capacity Labeling Revised

WASHINGTON (AP) — Starting this summer, the Coast Guard is changing the way a small boat's capacity must be shown on the boat label.

Boat labels now must show the capacity in terms of maximum weight. The new rule, effective Aug. 1, will also require a statement as to the maximum number of persons who can be carried safely in the boat. The rule covers boats of 20 feet and less.

EX-NTSU PRESIDENT INVOKES FIFTH — C.C. "Jitter" Nolen, left, former president of North Texas State University in Denton has invoked the fifth amendment in refusing to answer some questions asked by counsel for the House General Investigating Committee Tuesday. Ex-NTSU President Refuses To Answer

AUSTIN (AP) — Former North Texas State University President C.C. Nolen refused Tuesday to answer questions before the House General Investigating Committee looking into alleged financial misdeeds at the college.

Nolen was asked to answer allegations by his former secretary, Virginia Williams, that he told her to use school supplies and equipment to send letters seeking contributions to John Hill's gubernatorial race in 1978. Miss Williams testified before the committee Tuesday morning.

Soviets Hit U.N. On Afghanistan

Christopher was in Brussels, Belgium, on Tuesday meeting with the North Atlantic Council. He is touring Western European capitals in an effort to get U.S. allies to join in retaliatory measures against the Soviet Union.

In related developments: —The chairman of the religious board in Soviet Central Asia, Mufti Ziyauddinhan Ibn Ishan Babahan, was quoted by Tass as saying that Moslems resident in the Soviet Union "approve of the Soviet government's foreign policy, as it is prompted by common sense and the striving to deliver mankind from nuclear holocaust."

The mufti said the mission of Moslems in the Soviet Union was to "expose attempts of the United States at sowing discord between the adherents of Islam."

—The Soviet national airline Aeroflot canceled its scheduled flight to Washington, citing "a lack of load." A spokesman for the Soviet Civil Aviation Ministry denied that the cancellation was caused by the American Teamsters' Union refusal to service Aeroflot flights because of Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

—Tass said the United States was "investigating" in Japan an "adventurist course for military confrontation with the Soviet Union." The agency made the charge in a comment on Defense Secretary Harold Brown's visit to Japan.

Tass said Brown was "hastily and officially" urging Japan to increase military expenditures and military aid to Pakistan.

Other nations continued to protest the Soviet action in Afghanistan.

—In Brussels, the foreign ministers of Common Market countries condemned the intervention and protested Russia's U.N. veto. In a statement issued at a ministerial meeting, they called the troop presence a "flagrant interference in the internal affairs of a non-aligned country."

—Australia ordered out a Soviet ship carrying scientists doing marine research on the Great Barrier Reef. The ship had stopped at Newcastle, north of Sydney, to load supplies, and the Russians had planned to talk with Australian scientists for four days.

—In Bergen, Norway, employees at the Grieg Concert Hall announced they had decided to boycott a scheduled visit by a Soviet ballet group next month.

Absentee Vote

slightly more than 300 absentee ballots were cast prior to a turnout of approximately 18,000 voters.

A total of 191 voters cast absentee ballots during the day Tuesday, which was the largest one-day turnout since the polls opened Dec. 28.

The special election was called to determine whether city firefighters should get a 15 percent pay raise and collective bargaining rights. Mail-in ballots for the election can be received until 1 p.m. Saturday.

GOP Blames Twin Crises On Carter

that in its wake the Soviets promptly doubled their forces in Afghanistan."

Ikle said Carter's recent statement that he is reappraising Soviet world intentions because of Afghanistan "is shallow and comes too late."

"For three years now, because of this lack of realism, adverse military trends have been permitted to continue. For three years, because of the illusions of the Carter administration, our enemies have expanded their positions throughout the world."

"The invasion of Afghanistan taught us once more the lesson that a totalitarian regime, such as the Soviet Union, readily uses its superior military force as the ultimate arbiter," Ikle said.

"But how could anyone need one more lesson? Strangely, I can think of only one person in Washington who confessed he needed this lesson," Ikle added.

Herbert Stein, who was Nixon's chief economic adviser, said Carter is largely to blame for the country's economic woes.

"The current inflation did not begin with the Carter administration," Stein said. "There can be no doubt, however, that the policies of the Carter administration have not only failed to reduce the inflation rate but have actually made it worse."

Stein called for a stiff austerity program with higher money and a sharp curtailment of the growth of government spending. He said this may mean foregoing some popular government programs and passing up a tax cut, and probably the loss of some jobs and profits.

"The whole disinflationary process will be a source of disappointment to borrowers, to beneficiaries of government programs, to taxpayers, to workers and to businesses," Stein said.

"Nevertheless, the process must be carried through."

Bill Brock, GOP chairman, questioned the practicality of Stein's bitter-pill approach in an election year.

"I don't think you can convince the people in this country that you are going to solve inflation by putting people out of work," Brock said.

"I said something to the effect of, 'You better get the Young Democrats to do this.' So long as the Young Democrats went to the trouble to sign the papers and become involved, I assume that's a healthy part of the process," he said.

Nolen resigned in April as the House committee began its work.

Steve Morrell, who was vice president of the Young Democrats, testified the group was "essentially" used as a front to get a lower fee for the coliseum.

Morrell said he was surprised when the group was not billed for the use of the coliseum.

"I thought we'd get the bill and someone else would cover us," he said.

Airlines' Patrons Complaining Less

WASHINGTON (AP) — Airline passengers found less to complain about in September, with gripes declining 37 percent from August, according to the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Flight problems, such as delays, were the most common cause of complaints, followed by reservations, baggage, customer treatment and fares.

Hawaiian Airlines had the month's lowest complaint rate at 0.31 per 100,000 passengers. Delta was second at 1.71 complaints per 100,000, followed by Aloha at 1.85. The highest complaint ratio was listed by Pan American with 13.3 complaints per 100,000 passengers.

Afghanistan Rebels Claim Roads Cut their allies "imposed" the "artificially concocted Afghan question" on the General Assembly.

As many as 100,000 Soviet troops have poured into Afghanistan to ensure the success of the Dec. 27 coup that eliminated President Hafizullah Amin and put Babrak Karmal, a man more to the Kremlin's liking, in power, and to reinforce the Afghan army in putting down the Moslem revolt that broke out after the communists first took over the country in April, 1978.

U.S. moves to help the thousands of Afghan refugees fleeing across the border into Pakistan got under way Tuesday with arrangements by the U.S. Agency for International Development to ship tons of wheat, oil and milk.

More Aid Urged

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said he will introduce legislation authorizing funds to provide more aid. He gave no dollar amount, but said the joint Afghan-Somalian refugee aid measure is designed to provide at least $60 million.

The Carter administration already is at work on a $5.5 million aid package for the Afghan refugees, but Kennedy said that "will clearly be inadequate."

President Carter has said if Pakistan were to be threatened, the United States would consider military action. Carter also hailed the "almost unprecedented" worldwide condemnation of the Soviet invasion and said the Russians also face an American punishment that "will not be light."

U.S. Arms Claimed

Tass quoted Karmal as telling reporters in Kabul that "the imperialists of the United States, acting as one with their Western allies and also with Peking, have turned the territory of fraternal Pakistan into a base for armed aggression against Afghanistan." It said he claimed "planes with American arms arrive daily in Pakistan."

In Islamabad, Pakistan, President Mohammed Zia ul-Haq told a news conference he did not think U.S. aid to help bolster Pakistan's defenses would have any "strings" attached.

Asked whether the United States would expect a change in the domestic political and human rights situation, Zia said the United States had been told the dollar, meanwhile, stayed pretty much on the sidelines Tuesday, making modest gains against most major European currencies except the buoyant British pound. Tokyo markets were closed for a national holiday.

Gold Fever Fueled By Uncertainty

Late rates for the dollar in key European financial centers, compared to Monday's late rates, were: Frankfurt, 1.728 West German marks, up from 1.7181; Zurich, 1.5942 Swiss francs, up from 1.5810; Paris, 4.0467 French francs, up from 4.0287; Milan, 803.40 Italian lire, up from 803.30, and Amsterdam, 1.9055 Dutch guilders, up from 1.8965.

In London, the pound gained a bit against the dollar to finish at $2.2760, compared to $2.2720 late Monday. One London foreign exchange dealer said interest in the pound stemmed from oil price increases that bode well for Britain's North Sea output.

In New York, dollar rates as of 4 p.m. compared with Monday's rates were: 1.7269 West German marks, up from 1.7192; 4.0445 French francs, up from 4.0310; 1.5832 Swiss francs up from 1.5825; 240.10 Japanese yen, up from 236.54, and $1.1652 Canadian, down from $1.1651. The British pound traded at $2.2835 less than Monday's $2.2840.

There should be no such obligations and, "we feel the U.S. has probably no strings in mind."

The U.S. government kept up its campaign to get its allies to join in retaliatory action against the Russians.

Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher flew to Bonn, West Germany, after meeting with representatives of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Brussels. He earlier conferred with leaders in London and Rome.

Following the NATO meeting, Christopher said there "is a strong and growing tide" of questions about holding the summer Olympic Games in Moscow. He indicated there was no firm commitment from any of the 15 NATO members and said, "The issue seems to have turned to alternative sites, alternative means of holding the games."

Lord Killanin, the Irish president of the International Olympic Committee, reiterated that the Olympics would be held as planned in the Soviet capital in August.

Christopher said the NATO meeting also produced support to bar the export of an increased number of high technology products to the Soviets and a restriction of economic subsidies or credits to the Soviets.

The European Common Market, holding a ministerial meeting in Brussels, condemned the Soviet intervention to meet the expulsion deadline because of exceptional circumstances would have to appeal personally to the National Guidance Ministry by noon today to explain his position.

Los Angeles radio journalist Alex Paen, who delivered an estimated 3.5 million Christmas cards to the hostages, indicated he would appeal because of the Superbowl professional football game Sunday. He said that on Monday, before the expulsion deadline was issued, the embassy militants agreed to let him provide the hostages with a taped recording of the game.

The U.S. government campaign for sanctions against Iran was taken Tuesday to Brussels, Belgium, where Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher met with members of the North Atlantic Council.

The Soviet news agency Tass criticized Christopher's talks, saying they "may lead to a further heightening of international tensions and to an enhancement of military preparations."

The Western group's meeting on Iran followed the Soviet veto of a U.N. Security Council resolution on sanctions Sunday. The Carter administration pledged to continue working for an embargo on all goods to Iran, excluding food and medicine, until the hostages are released.

Meantime, Geri Joseph, U.S. ambassador to the Netherlands, and Arthur Ravine, a State Department assistant legal adviser, handed a World Court registrar the brief setting out the U.S. case against Iran.

The United States won an interim order from the 15-member court Dec. 15, when the justices called for an immediate release of the hostages.

In its full case, the United States charges Iran with violations of international law and diplomatic immunity. It asks Iran to pay reparations to the United States in a sum to be determined by the court and to start prosecutions against those persons responsible for the seizure of the embassy and the hostages.

Iran was ordered by the court to file a counter brief by Feb. 18.

Argentine Stance On Grain Sales Mulled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carter administration officials stood firm Tuesday on their position that Argentina had agreed not to try to boost grain sales to the Soviet Union during the U.S. embargo.

But the officials said they also interpreted the Argentine position as including a contention that that government would not seek to block grain companies from taking such a step.

President Carter on Jan. 4 suspended shipment of 17 million tons of U.S. wheat and corn the Soviet Union was expected to import this year. Other countries were asked to join the action in protesting the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

Saturday night, after a meeting among leading world grain exporting countries, including Argentina, officials said Argentina promised to not "take trade advantages" as a result of Carter's action.

That seemed to indicate to some that in no case would Argentine grain be used to offset the orders for U.S. wheat and corn that Carter canceled. But that was hotly denied by reports from Argentina, raising questions whether its case was misstated by an Agriculture Department official who briefed reporters after Saturday's meeting.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter insisted Tuesday that "the statement issued Saturday represents precisely what happened," and that the governments of Argentina and Brazil will not take action "to reward Soviet aggression."

Asked whether those governments had not also said they would do nothing to prevent the Soviets from buying grain or soybeans, spokesman Carter said he could not comment on details of diplomatic conversations.

OVERPOPULATION DEADLY
MIAMI (AP) — Scientists say overpopulation was to blame for the deaths of thousands of exotic walking catfish and other fish in a Miami-area canal last month. The fish move into the deeper water of canals in the winter when swamps begin to dry up, said University of Miami fish pathologist Lanny Udey.

He said the United States plans to continue to discuss with both countries the "question of what will happen in some sectors of their market economies."

He said he did not think either had taken a final position.

The president meanwhile noted the 104-18 vote of the U.N. General Assembly Monday night deploring the Soviet action in Afghanistan and demanding immediate withdrawal of foreign troops from that country.

"The world has condemned the Soviet Union in an almost unprecedented way" with an "expression of condemnation and abhorrence," Carter told a group of visiting journalists.

Dear Joyce: We saw a recent question about songwriters in your column, and would like to make you aware of our organization, the Nashville Songwriters Association. It has a worldwide membership of 1,500 members. We are available by mail or personal visit to answer questions on any facet of interest to the songwriter...because it all begins with a song!

—Maggie Cavender, Executive Director

This is a nonprofit association which aids songwriters in various ways, but it does not serve as a referral service to get songs published, or as a collection agency for royalties.

To receive a free pamphlet, "What Every Songwriter Should Know" and more information on the association, enclose a stamped, self-addressed, long white envelope with your request to me at this newspaper. Ask for "Songwriter." Allow several weeks for delivery. The offer ends May 1, 1980.

Dear Joyce: When you mentioned Exxon's Joanie Caucus fellowships for women over 30 who are not yet lawyers but who have worked as legal secretaries, paralegals, court administrators or in another legal support job, you noted only the program at the University of California. We also offer a similar Exxon fellowship program and would appreciate any help you can give us in locating qualified women.

OIL COMPANIES RAPPED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. newed for the second and third years of law school. Interested women over 30 with a paraprofessional legal background can write for particulars to Dean Badger at 1111 E. 60th St., Chicago, Ill. 60637. This is a great opportunity.

Dear Joyce: Is there some way I could combine my main interest, psychology, with my secondary interest, the environment?

—D.O., Atlanta, Ga.

Environment and behavior can blend but prepare for a rigorous job hunt. The possible combinations are vast: from writing impact statements on how technology affects humans, to researching a person's ability to work in a specific habitat.

Because psychologists operating in the environmental domain tend to be employed in mission-oriented projects, you may yourself seek new work habitats fairly frequently.

If you want to look deeper, read the career opportunities chapter in "Resources in Environment and Behavior," available for $10 from the American Psychological Association, 1200 17th St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. This is an esoteric book but a university library may have a copy.

Send career questions for possible use in this column to Joyce Lain Kennedy at this newspaper. Sorry, the volume of mail makes personal replies impossible.

Murder Defendant Explains Details Leading To Shooting

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Murder defendant Grace James told a Lubbock jury Tuesday afternoon, "I shot him (Robert Lee Johnson). I shot him twice."

But Mrs. James' reason for shooting Johnson the night of March 17, 1979, outside a Clovis Road bingo club varied under questioning from her defense attorney and the prosecutor.

"I thought he (Johnson) was getting in there (the club) to hurt me 'cause he went in his pocket with his right hand; you could see something there," the 51-year-old great-grandmother told her attorney Pat Simek.

When lead prosecutor Everett Seymour asked Mrs. James if the real reason behind the shooting was her anger at a name Johnson had called her, the defendant answered, "Yes."

Mrs. James was the last witness to take the 140th District Court stand Tuesday afternoon and her testimony completed the evidentiary portion of the two-day murder trial.

Attorneys this morning will present final arguments to the three-woman, nine-man panel.

The silver-haired defendant, who once worked as a maid for several noted Lubbock families, told the jury she and Johnson, 57, had dated about a year but that she broke off the relationship about two months before the fatal shooting at the AA Faith Club, 2819 Clovis Road.

Mrs. James said she had gone to the club for the Saturday night bingo game about 6 p.m. with her son and a female friend.

While waiting for the game to start, she said, her 16-year-old granddaughter entered the club and said Johnson had come by Mrs. James' 2730 Erskine St. residence looking for and threatening Mrs. James.

Mrs. James said shortly after her granddaughter left, Johnson came into the club and it appeared he had been drinking. She said he called her a vulgar name and told her to go with him or he would kill her.

After she refused, Mrs. James said, her son then tried to talk Johnson into leaving and the two of them engaged in a minor scuffle toward the club's front door.

As they stepped out the door, she said, she saw Johnson push her son aside and then start back inside the building. Mrs. James said during the scuffle, which she could not see too clearly, she had moved from a corner seat to the middle aisle of the club.

Mrs. James said that before she moved to the aisle, she took the pistol, which her daughter had bought in February, out of her purse. She said she routinely carried the weapon for her own protection.

As Johnson began to re-enter the club, Mrs. James said, she fired at him twice.

Following the shooting, Mrs. James testified, she, her son and the friend returned to Mrs. James' home. She said her son and his friend then left for Little field, where her son was then living.

But Mrs. James said she did not stay at her residence and instead went to a friend's home.

After answering several times that she didn't know why she left her house the night of the shooting, Mrs. James finally told her attorney, "It wasn't from the law 'cause I run. It was 'cause of Robert Lee's children.

"He always told me how mean they was, how they'd do anything he said."

Five Potential Jurors Qualify For Trial Of Dimmitt Witches

PLAINVIEW (Special) — Five more potential jurors were qualified Tuesday during yet another lengthy session of individual questioning in the trial of self-professed witch Loy Stone, accused of the Halloween 1977 shotgun slaying of a 15-year-old Dimmitt schoolgirl.

Prosecutor Jimmy Davis and defense attorneys James Doores and Travis Shelton now have qualified 25 Hale County residents to a panel of 32 from which they hope to select a dozen to hear the case. Those persons being interviewed were called from more than 200 summoned from across the county. Another group of 140 persons has been summoned in case 32 panelists cannot be agreed upon from the first batch.

"We're getting there," said 64th District Judge John T. Boyd, who will hear the case. "Testimony could begin as early as Thursday or Friday if all goes well. But it could be next week, too."

Stone, 50, and his wife, Louise, 49, are charged with the murder of Roxanne Casas, who died that Halloween night after being struck by shotgun fire as she rode in a pickup near the Stone's rural Castro County farmhouse. Two other persons in the pickup also were injured in the blast.

The Stones contend they never heard those shots. Castro County police records indicate the Stones had complained of "general harassment" by area teenagers after the couple appeared on an Amarillo television talk show to explain their religious beliefs.

Methodist Hospital Appeals Report Threatening Accreditation

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Methodist Hospital has been notified by a private inspection firm that it faces the loss of its accreditation, an action that could result in the hospital's ineligibility to participate in Medicare and Medicaid programs, because it "does not comply substantially" with the firm's standards.

The hospital is appealing that decision. The Avalanche-Journal has learned.

Until a decision is issued on that appeal, the hospital retains its accreditation.

A spokesman for the Chicago-based Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals Tuesday confirmed that Methodist received a "non-accreditation decision" at the end of December.

But George Brewer, Methodist Hospital administrator, said the decision will be appealed and that there is "no big hassle. We are still accredited."

David Maritt of the commission said the accreditation remains in effect during the appeals process if the hospital chooses to appeal that decision. If the hospital appeals, as Methodist has done, the report will then be termed a "tentative adverse action" against the hospital.

The accreditation then remains intact, said Maritt, until a decision by the commission is made on the appeal.

The accreditation commission spokesman said that if a hospital accepts the non-accreditation decision, it can reapply for accreditation in six months.

Maritt said hospitals work voluntarily with the accreditation firm and that the firm is "invited" to work with the hospital.

He said a loss of accreditation affects only the two federal medical programs, but not state licensing.

Maritt said there are several areas in which Methodist did not comply and that led to the non-accreditation decision. He said, however, that the report on the hospital is confidential and he could not discuss those areas of non-compliance.

Brewer said there are "specific requirements to meet in the next few months," but declined to discuss those requirements, saying that he was not required to divulge information because Methodist is a private hospital.

Brewer said he is "working with them" (the commission) and that the hospital "is not in great jeopardy."

Walter Dick, director of hospital licensure and certification for the state health department, said a hospital which does not receive joint commission accreditation for Medicare and Medicaid programs may ask the state to conduct an accreditation study if the hospital wishes to continue participation in the federal medical programs.

But he said the state will only come in upon invitation of the hospital or the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. He added that when the state is called in, HEW will make the final decision on accreditation.

Maritt said the commission decision came at the end of a one-year accreditation granted the hospital.

He said the commission works with 5,000 of 7,000 hospitals in the country and that about 2 percent fail to meet accreditation requirements.

Area High Schools Set Performances At All-Region Concert

Two Forms Available To Taxpayers

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of tax tip articles provided by the Lubbock Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants.

When it comes time to file income tax returns this year, the taxpayer does have a choice in regard to which form he, she decides to use. The two choices include Form 1040 or Form 1040A.

Form 1040A is the easy form, designed for taxpayers whose income results from standard sources such as salaries, wages and tips. It is also for use by taxpayers who do not itemize deductions and who do not claim credits or adjustments to their income.

Form 1040, however, with its assortment of schedules and forms, is for everyone else.

Taxpayers will be happy to learn that this year's tax forms are basically the same as last year's. There are few minor changes for the sake of simplification.

Depending upon individual circumstances, the taxpayer should choose the form which will be easy to complete and which is right for him/her. This year, Form 1040A will accommodate taxpayers whose income is $40,000 (for a couple filing jointly) or $20,000 for singles and married persons filing separately.

An exception to these income limits concerns interest and dividend income. If either exceed $400, Form 1040 accompanied by Schedule B should be used listing the sources of income, no matter what total income may be.

Regardless of which form taxpayers use, items will be laid out sequentially to facilitate easy computation.

These and other questions concerning your 1979 tax return will be answered in the Taxpayer Education program. This public service course, jointly-sponsored by the Lubbock Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants and the Internal Revenue Service will be offered Feb. 12 and 14, 7-10 p.m.

More than 30 CPAs will volunteer their time to assist taxpayers during a two-night informal program, which provides both instruction and question-and-answer sessions. The course is available to the public at a charge of $1 per person to cover administrative costs.

To register for the Taxpayer Education program, simply fill out the registration form below. Money and registration form must be mailed by Jan. 28, 1980.

Soviet Official To Visit India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko will visit India soon, an Indian government spokesman said Tuesday.

It will be the first visit here by a ranking Kremlin official since the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan and since Indra Gandhi became prime minister in an election landslide victory earlier this month.

Mrs. Gandhi has already indicated acceptance of Soviet assurances that they will pull their troops out of Afghanistan as soon as the Afghan government asks for such a withdrawal.

Gromyko will follow the British foreign secretary, Lord Carrington, to New Delhi. Carrington is scheduled to arrive here Thursday on a brief official visit.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK
I have always believed that the most exciting three words in the English language are, "Just add water."

This is obviously true of hot tubs and saunas. I don't own a home spa, but I know of a lot of people who think they're the greatest things since black towels.

In every ad you see for them, the people are laid back with their arms outstretched while their faces reflect an ecstasy reserved only for a loan approval.

I never know what to do in a whirlpool. After I guide my body carefully through a maze of water currents and find a seat, I just sit there and watch my fingers shrivel.

We were traveling with another couple through California recently when the sign on the motel advertised, "Hot Tubs." Since it was cold and raining and we were all suffering from passenger fatigue, the sign lured us in.

Within minutes after we checked in, the other female companion and I were standing at the edge of this outdoor, boiling caldron in our underwear. I put my foot in the tub. (My tea should be served this hot.) Pacing myself, I allowed an inch of body to enter the tub every eight minutes. Later, I thought what a sight we must have been...both of us sitting there cooking in a tub with only our plastic rain scarves showing above the water.

No one said anything for a few minutes. Then I said, "I was just thinking. Do you ever use your crock pot?"

"Not a lot," she said. "I never think about it until it's too late."

We sat in silence another 15 minutes. Then she said, "The Wehrles had one of these tubs put in their new home in the backyard."

"Does she like it?" I asked.

"She said it was just another way of getting the phone to ring."

Another woman entered the tub. She had on a bikini and her stomach was flat and her legs long and slim.

I looked at my friend. We both made the decision at the same time. We stretched our arms out, laid back and smiled like we had just heard voices.

No I knew why people looked like that in the spa ads.

No one wanted to leave first.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Does marijuana have any effect on the way a person's body burns up calories? I ask this question because my husband ran out of pot for a few days and dropped six pounds.

I should tell you that Bob has been smoking dope for about 10 years. He's had the daily habit for the last three. He smokes when he gets up, has a joint at lunchtime and usually does two more numbers after supper. I'd say he goes through an ounce every three weeks. The guy is a good husband and father, and I don't mind at all that he is into grass.

Bob is about 25 pounds overweight and seems to be in good health. He can work high, play high and drive high. He explains he is used to being "up there." It's like his normal state.

Please find out what you can about smoking dope and calories. We would like to know — Dayton, Ohio

Dear Dayton: Normal state? My grandfather's mustache. I just hope when he's high behind the wheel you and the kids are in another car.

If Bob lost six pounds in a few days when he ran out of pot, the logical deduction is that he eats more when he's high — the same way most people put away more food after they've had a few belts. The reason: alcohol and mind-altering drugs immobilize the "censoring agent," and a what-the-hell attitude takes over. Pot contains THC, which is a mind-altering drug and don't let anyone tell you it isn't.

Dear Ann Landers: As a faithful reader of your column I admire your open-mindedness on most contemporary issues. Like most of us, you occasionally suffer from hoof-in-mouth disease. But sometimes you do admit when you are wrong. I hope you will do so in this case.

The last sentence of your reply to "Two in Love" was probably meant to be funny, but to most gays it implied tacit agreement with a false notion that plagues the gay community. In suggesting a suitable location where a gay couple might live in Chicago, you said, "One thing is certain, you don't need to be near a school."

As a 26-year-old gay, I can confidently state that most responsible, gay adults are not the least bit interested in "converting" heterosexual children to our lifestyle.

The primary interest of gays is to be able to admit to our family and friends that we are homosexuals without the fear of being denied housing, jobs or human dignity. We also don't wish to be told we can't live near schools. Thanks for the opportunity to sound off. — A Proponent Of Peaceful Existence

Dear Proponent: Either you are not as avid a fan as you claim, or your paper has been cutting my column.

I have stated more than once that I am in favor of permitting homosexuals to teach in public schools — that child molesters are invariably heterosexuals, not homosexuals.

The remark to which you took exception was a lame joke. The implication was that a gay couple would not need to look for a house near a school because they wouldn't be having any children.

Captain Theus decided to stick with his original plan of campaign and kept Brachman and Passell in while he took out Soloway and Goldman to give them a rest before the last 64 boards.

Brachman and Passell became inspired. Kantar and Eisenberg added 16 almost perfect boards.

Brachman was faced with a problem on the very first hand. After East opened one diamond, Malcolm had to choose between pass, double and one heart. He elected to bid one heart. Needless to say, Mike Passell took him right to game and Malcolm located the jack of clubs and made five odd.

At the other table Kantar opened one of those weak two bids. His hand was really weak even for a weak bid in standard bidding, but we were going out to create swings, not

To Your Good Health

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please explain to me what left ulnar neuropathy means. Also, what does my doctor mean by "suspected unproven psychomotor seizures?" — F.S.H.

Neuropathy means impairment of nerves. The ulnar nerve is one of three large ones that send impulses to the muscles of the hand and fingers. If the ulnar nerve is disturbed there can be loss of sensation in the little and ring fingers and sometimes loss of finger movement.

The ulnar nerve passes around the back of the elbow, where it lies quite close to the surface. The familiar electrical shock sensation you feel in the hand and fingers when you bump your elbow is caused by stimulation of the ulnar nerve at this point.

As to your second question, Psychomotor epilepsy produces a kind of seizure different from those of ordinary epilepsy. The seizure is often preceded by a sense of a past scene now being experienced, "deja vu." It means that the brain's memory storage area is being stimulated.

During the seizure itself the person is not aware of his surroundings. He may perform repetitive automatic motions, as lip smacking or chewing. Treatment is with diphenylhydantoin and phenobarbital. You can learn more about this and about epilepsy in general by contacting a local chapter of the Epilepsy Foundation. Your local medical society should have an address for you, or you may find one in the telephone directory if you live in a large city.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can you give me the name of a good medicine for bedsores? I have a relative who works in a nursing home and she would appreciate it. — J.G.

The best treatment, of course, is prevention. Although bedsores may occur anywhere on the body, they are more likely to form over bony prominences. In such places, pressure against the bone shuts off the blood supply to the skin. It dies and an ulcer forms.

To avoid the pressure, the patient must be turned frequently to relieve the pressure and restore circulation. Also, the skin must be kept clean and dry. Special mattresses (floatation-type) help relieve the pressure.

The ulcer should be washed with surgical soap and rinsed every eight hours. Special agents for removing the debris from a bed sore, such as dextran beads, help keep the area cleaned. In severe cases, surgically closing a bed sore may be necessary.

Theoretically, all nursing home attendants are taught how to treat bedsores. If the facility where your relative works does not have an education program in this, it should.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been told I need an electromyography test to see if I have nerve damage. I have been in so much pain this year. I am 70.

I have heard they use needles for this test and I can't see what good this would do. It surely can't repair damaged nerves, can it? — Mrs. B.

An electromyogram (EMG) is a test to observe the actions of nerves. Small needles are used to pass a tiny electrical current to the nerve. Then the nerve's ability to transmit this impulse, as well as the muscles' ability to respond, is measured.

It is not a very painful procedure and its value to you is to arrive at a source of your chronic pain. It may be due to a nerve disorder, and if so the EMG would provide strong clues.

It is a serious condition in which certain substances accumulate in the blood because of a failure of the kidneys to filter them. A wide range of symptoms follow from it, from headaches to diarrhea and dizziness. It is to avoid uremic poisoning that persons whose kidneys have failed must have their blood cleansed by machines (dialysis).

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I am a lover of the new "exotic" blends of instant coffee (especially mocha) yet I don't buy them regularly because they are more expensive than regular coffee.

I keep a jar of regular instant coffee on tap so I don't have to make a full pot for that afternoon cup and decided to improvise.

I put one-half teaspoon of instant coffee in my cup and one-half teaspoon of cocoa. Then, sweetened it and added the same amount of powdered creamer I use in regular coffee.

I was surprised to find that it is a very close substitute for the real mocha coffee mix.

Now, I can enjoy my afternoon cup of mocha coffee without feeling extravagant. — Mrs. Rosebelle Yuratic

U-m-m-m, yummmmm! But don't stop with adding cocoa.

Try adding cinnamon, nutmeg, or allspice, or a drop or two of your favorite flavoring.

You'll love the spicy flavor, especially for after-dinner coffee. Great if you're dieting—but use artificial sweetener.

Seems to make passing up dessert a little bit easier. — Heloise

HINTS FROM HIM

DEAR HELOISE:

If you are finding it difficult to thread the needle of your sewing machine try this:

Hold a small piece of white paper directly behind the needle. Position it so it will reflect as much light as possible.

It will make the eye of the needle "stand out" and much easier to find. — C.J. Kapper

DEAR HELOISE:

One way to add flavor to mashed potatoes (especially the instant kind) is to stir sour cream into them along with onion flakes, if desired.

Really adds zest! — Ann McKay

DEAR HELOISE:

To slide curtains on a rod, insert a dinner knife blade into the rod, then put the curtain channel over the knife handle and slide it onto the rod.

This will prevent the rod from catching on the curtain seams. — Carolyn Olsen

DEAR HELOISE:

I had a plastic tablecloth with flannel backing. After washing it in the machine (as I always do plastic tablecloths) it was full of wrinkles. No amount of smoothing would remove them.

It finally dawned on me that the flannel backing had shrunk in the washing and was the culprit causing the wrinkling.

I decided to try to separate the flannel from the plastic. It peeled away like shucks from corn. Left the plastic smooth and wrinkle-free.

If you try this, you can still use the flannel under the plastic to help keep the cloth from slipping because it peels away in one piece. — Sue Betts

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:

I've never sent in an idea as through the years, I've learned Solomon was right when he said, "There's nothing new under the sun."

Every time I decided to send in an absolutely original idea, here it comes in your column.

Well, yesterday, I stuck a Christmas stamp on an envelope upside down. My husband asked why.

I said, "Because Christmas is 'over,' and showed him the word 'Christmas' printed side down because the stamp was turned 'over.'"

He thought that was funny and said, "send it to Heloise." Here 'tis... — Juanita Fuller

Another Man Charged In Summer Slaying Of Apartment Manager

Six months after Ben P. Guzman Jr. was killed during a riot at the East Lubbock apartment complex he managed, a second man has been charged with Guzman's murder.

Tuesday afternoon, the criminal district attorney's office filed a murder charge against Eric Salazar, 18, of Slaton.

Salazar, who was not in custody Tuesday night and is described by authorities as "armed and dangerous," is accused of stabbing Guzman to death during the July 7, 1979, melee at the Sunnyside Apartments, 1027 E. 29th St.

When Salazar is arrested, the district attorney's office has recommended that he post a $100,000 bond.

Guzman, 38, was stabbed six times the early July morning after he reportedly confronted a group of people who were "drinking beer and causing a disturbance," according to police. Wearing a security guard uniform and carrying a shotgun, Guzman walked from his apartment to the swimming pool area where the group was gathered, witnesses said.

An argument and fight ensued, and by the time police arrived on the scene a large crowd had gathered. The crowd had swelled to nearly 100 persons when an ambulance arrived, police said, and the driver of the Emergency Medical Services vehicle was forced to brandish a shotgun in order to move the crowd away from Guzman's body, which was lying near the swimming pool.

Five persons were arrested at the scene — three who allegedly assaulted a police officer and two who subsequently were charged in connection with Guzman's death.

One of the men arrested in connection with the slaying was Victor Torres Salazar, brother of the man charged Tuesday afternoon with murder.

A Marine Corps military policeman stationed at Camp Lejeune, N.C., the 19-year-old Victor, originally from Slaton, was indicted on an attempted murder charge. His trial is pending on the state district courts' docket.

Also arrested following the incident was the Salazar brothers' 16-year-old cousin, Ynes, of Waco. The youth was certified to stand trial as an adult and indicted for murder in connection with Guzman's death.

Ynes, who since has turned 17, pleaded guilty Monday to the lesser charge of voluntary manslaughter and received deferred adjudication in the case.

Paulina Jacobo, chief of the district attorney's juvenile division, explained that under the procedure of deferred adjudication, Salazar is placed on what basically is a probationary period for 10 years.

However, unlike usual probated prison sentences, the court has simply "recessed" and has the option to reconvene Salazar's case any time during that 10-year period if the judge determines any probation conditions are violated, Miss Jacobo said.

And while the criminal district attorney's office has recommended punishment for Salazar, if necessary, be set at a 15-year probated prison term, Miss Jacobo said the judge has the option to set Salazar's punishment anywhere within the two-to-20 year range covered under the second-degree felony offense of voluntary manslaughter.

Also Tuesday, two other men were charged with aggravated assault in connection with the Guzman incident.

Noel Salazar, 17, of Slaton and Freddie Mendoza, 19, whose last known address was the Sunnyside Apartment complex, were named in the assault charges.

Bond recommendations of $10,000 each were made by the criminal district attorney's office, but neither suspect was in custody Tuesday night.

Noel Salazar, also Victor's and Eric's brother, is accused of hitting Guzman with a firearm, while Mendoza allegedly stabbed the apartment manager with a knife.

Tuesday's additional three charges, Miss Jacobo said, were the result of continuing investigation by district attorney's office investigator Duane Aaron.

CARTER CRITICIZED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Dick Lugar, R-Ind., criticized the Carter administration for not following through with its plan to expel Iranian diplomats from the United States. He noted that on Dec. 13 Carter ordered all Iranian diplomats out of the United States within five days, except for a force of 15 at the Iranian embassy in Washington. "To date, no Iranian diplomats have left the country, and the Immigration and Naturalization Service is having problems even locating the diplomats, according to Verne Jervis, public information officer for the INS," Lugar said.

Some Cloudiness, No Rainfall Seen For Area

Partly cloudy skies are expected in the South Plains today and although rain was falling Tuesday night in the Panhandle and New Mexico, none is forecast for the Lubbock area.

The National Weather Service said a low pressure trough to the north and west of Lubbock formed Tuesday and within that trough a cold front was forming from the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles to southeast New Mexico.

Although the weather activity was predicted to move to the south and east, weather forecasters expect the rainfall to miss the Lubbock area.

Slightly cooler but still mild daytime weather is expected in the Lubbock area through Thursday, with high temperatures near 60. Tonight's low temperature is expected to be near 30.

7,592 Iranians Admitted To U.S. Despite Deportation Search

WASHINGTON (AP) — Since mid-November, the United States has admitted 7,592 Iranians, including 1,212 students, during a period when immigration officials were busy looking for Iranian students who could be deported.

The figures were provided Tuesday by Vern Jervis, a spokesman for the Immigration and Naturalization Service, who said the INS saw no inconsistency in admitting Iranians at a time when Americans were being held hostage in Tehran.

Jervis said he was not aware of any outcry protesting admission of Iranians to the United States. He said the INS lacked power to block qualified Iranians from emigrating here.

But Justice and State Department officials said it might be possible for the president to suspend the admission of a particular nationality under emergency powers if he felt it were justified.

Normally, visa applications to enter the United States are reviewed by the State Department on an individual basis. State Department officials said the law gives the president power to impose restrictions on entry into the country, but it is not clear how courts might rule if the president used the authority to exclude a particular nationality, officials said.

The INS began keeping count on Nov.

The Labor Party became Britain's official opposition in 1918 following the "khaki election" in which women over 30 voted together with men over 21 for the first time.

14 of Iranians admitted to the country. At the time, Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti ordered a crackdown against Iranian students who were violating the terms of their visas and could be deported.

Since then, the INS has interviewed 56,694 Iranian students and determined that 47,373 were here legally.

The INS determined that 6,817 were violating their visas and almost all of them were subject to deportation.

Jervis said 55 Iranians had left the country voluntarily and 12 actually were deported. An additional 278 are planning to leave on their own and 43 more have been ordered deported.

The government has received requests for asylum from about 500 Iranian students who said they feared persecution by the current revolutionary regime if they returned to their homeland.

The INS is still examining the files of an additional 3,000 students and is trying to locate about 9,000 others who refused to report to immigration authorities. Those who defied the government's reporting program will be asked to leave the country if the INS can locate them.

The reporting program prompted a civil rights suit that resulted in a brief suspension of the program when a federal judge ruled it discriminated against Iranian students. But the program was reinstated by a three-judge appeals court panel.

Add the three columns to derive your permanent biorhythm numbers for your Physical, Emotional and Intellectual cycles. Now you can refer to today's biorhythm readings.

Republican Candidate Enters Sheriff's Race

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

D.L. "Sonny" Keese Tuesday became the first Republican candidate to officially enter the race for Lubbock County sheriff.

A former deputy in the sheriff's department here, Keese announced his candidacy for the sheriff's post during a news conference attended by approximately 40 supporters.

"In the six years that I have been employed as a deputy sheriff, I've become aware of the many needs for better law enforcement in our county," Keese said. "These needs obviously must be handled by a person with a new and more progressive outlook on training of available personnel and the more effective utilization of these people."

Keese said he could provide better law enforcement service for the county without having to hire additional deputies. The key, he said, would be to redistribute duties of the existing staff.

"But I'm not saying that better equipment and more people won't be needed in the future," Keese added.

One of his first moves, Keese said, would be to beef up the criminal investigation division at the sheriff's department. He said that this division should be working from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily, but that it currently concludes its duties at 5 p.m. each day.

Another of his goals for the sheriff's department, Keese said, would be to computerize the warrant division. He said that the computer already installed in the county courthouse probably could be used to process warrants, without creating additional expense for the county.

According to Keese, Lubbock County citizens are not getting the full benefit of their tax dollars from the sheriff's department. He said, "In Lubbock County, we see bars on the windows of our residences, increased sales of guard dogs, burglar alarms and handguns for personal protection. Our friends and neighbors worry about muggings and assaults, and our wives and daughters worry about rape."

Keese said the sheriff's department needs a man with experience to be sure the office is operating properly. "As a deputy, I have worked in and am familiar with every department," he noted. "I have that experience."

The Republican candidate also cited a need for better training for deputies here, saying that schools are available through the Federal Bureau of Investigation and state agencies. He charged that the incumbent, Sheriff C.H. "Choc" Blanchard has not taken full advantage of the training programs that are available.

Keese is the first Republican to officially announce his candidacy for sheriff. However, former Department of Public Safety trooper Wayne Kirkpatrick has filed for sheriff in the County Clerk's Office and has confirmed he will run on the GOP ticket.

Blanchard and former deputy Mike DeRosa previously announced as Democratic candidates. A fifth candidate, Willy V. Turner, has filed his campaign treasurer designation but has not announced which party ticket he will be running on.

Faulty Fuel System Blamed On Money

WINAMAC, Ind. (AP) — Ford Motor Co. "deliberately chose profit over human life" in selling its Pinto automobiles while knowing that the car's fuel system was unsafe, a prosecutor said Tuesday in opening arguments for the automaker's criminal liability trial.

Prosecutor Michael A. Cosentino told a Pulaski Circuit Court jury that Ford refused to alter the Pinto fuel system "for the sole reason that they would save money by not doing so."

Chief Ford attorney James F. Neal replied in his opening statement that the Pinto was safer than many sub-compact models and that Ford decided in June 1978 to recall 1971-76 Pintos "to even improve it, to make it safer."

Ford is charged with three counts of reckless homicide in the August 1978 deaths of three women in a 1973 Pinto that exploded when hit from behind by a van traveling 50 mph near Goshen, Ind.

The state contends Ford marketed the car and 1.5 million other Pintos and Mercury Bobcats while knowing the fuel tanks were likely to explode in rear-end collisions.

Opening arguments before the jury of seven men and five women came after a day and a half of preliminary legal skirmishing. Earlier Tuesday, the prosecution lost an effort to present photographs and other evidence about the victims of the Pinto crash that triggered the trial, the first criminal prosecution of a manufacturer in a product defects case.

Testimony was scheduled to begin Wednesday, with the trial expected to last about two months in this farming community of 2,400.

Cosentino said the Pinto was designed and sold on a "$2,000, 2,000-pound basis ... with one thing in mind — profit," he said.

He said tests by Ford engineers revealed that, for $6 per vehicle, Pintos could be equipped with a rubber bladder inside the fuel tank that would prevent fuel leakage in rear-end collisions, but that Ford management rejected that as "too costly."

Neal denied that, saying that modification would have cost $300 to $400 a car and "simply was not durable."

Neal also said Ford crash tests simulating the Indiana accident showed that other sub-compacts and some larger cars would have exploded under the same circumstances.

Cosentino said that in 1971 Ford officials "agreed that no fuel system safety over 20 miles an hour would be incorporated until the company was forced to do so by the federal government."

Neal said Ford engineers "didn't believe it was a high risk problem. They (rear-impact crashes) occur at such high speeds that the automotive people felt they could not do much about it."

Cosentino also said the prosecution would prove that Ford crash tests were conducted with the Pinto fuel tank filled with a non-flammable liquid, accounting for the absence of fire in the tests.

Firefighting is the most hazardous occupation in the United States. The Lubbock firefighter works a 56 hour work week for only $5.31 per hour. He receives no overtime pay for the extra 16 hours. And that's a great bargain for the city.

An 8% pay increase would be $5.70 per hour. And that's still a great bargain for the city!

FIREFIGHTERS HURT
TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Nine firefighters were trapped and one was killed Tuesday when the roofed collapsed at a burning bakery. "It was close," said Phoenix Fire Department spokesman Steve Jensen said. "They almost lost all nine men." Three of the trapped men managed to crawl to safety and ladder crews rescued five others.

PEOPLE PLACES THINGS

Henry Ford II Sells Stock

DETROIT (AP) — Henry Ford II has sold more than 40,000 shares of his stock in Ford Motor Co. for more than $1.75 million, according to reports filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The reports show the retired company chairman sold 48,324 shares of common stock in mid-November at prices from $36.25 to $37.125.

The price range that would have brought in between $1.75 million and $1.79 million. The automaker's proxy statement of last spring showed Ford owned 63,279 common shares.

However, most of Ford's holdings in the company are in Class B stock, the special class available only to family members which has allowed them to retain a 40 percent voting interest in the auto company. Ford's own 1,257,729 Class B shares amounted to 8.9 percent of all the special shares outstanding, according to the proxy statement.

A company spokesman said Ford's decision to sell the common shares was "a personal matter," and would not say what prompted it.

Chancellor Has Sore Throat

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Doctors advised West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt to remain in his office while recovering from the acute tonsillitis he picked up during his vacation in Spain, a government spokesman said Tuesday.

The doctors' advice came when Schmidt apparently planned to take care of official business outside his chancellery.

Despite his sore throat, he was scheduled to present a government statement in Parliament on Thursday and participate in the ensuing debate, the spokesman said.

Schmidt, a fairly heavy smoker, ended his vacation on the Mediterranean island of Mallorca and paid an official visit to Madrid early last week.

Man Serves 15 Minute Term

COSHOCTON, Ohio (AP) — Newly elected Coshocton city council member John Roller lasted just 15 minutes in office.

Roller is a bookkeeper in the city garage. He discovered after the election that because he works for the city, he can't serve on the council.

So after being sworn in Monday night at the first council meeting of the year, he resigned. The council appointed Leiland Cooper, the opponent Roller defeated in November, as his replacement.

Expletive Runs On Air

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Every four minutes, for more than half an hour, the forecast on the national Weather Service's local FM radio station was followed by a salty expletive.

"It was very unfortunate and we're very embarrassed," said Des Moines office chief Perry Baker. "It was a real goof and we're sorry it happened."

Baker said the forecaster making the tape for broadcast Sunday made a mistake in the recording, tried to correct and then cursed.

"He thought he had it erased, but he was making two tapes at the same time and the words got on the second tape," Baker said.

The weather service broadcasts forecasts continuously on tape loops that repeat the information about every four minutes. Baker said someone in the office noticed the remark after it had run about 40 minutes.

Baker declined to name the forecaster.

Police Chief Kicks Back Pay

HAMTRAMCK, Mich. (UPI) — In Hamtramck, a community devastated by the closing of a Chrysler Corp. plant, every little donation helps the city cope with the loss of a quarter of its tax base.

Police Chief John Sitek this week donated $500 of his annual pay of $20,000 to the city as a "goodwill gesture."

"It's not that I can afford it," Sitek said. "In fact, I can't afford it. But I couldn't just sit by and do nothing. I'm hoping that my action will spark a goodwill gesture throughout the city."

Hamtramck, a Polish enclave wholly surrounded by the city of Detroit, lost about a quarter of its tax base Jan. 4 when Chrysler closed its old Dodge Main plant. The plant employed nearly 2,500 workers.

"I talked it over with my wife," said the 48-year-old police chief. "We decided to make a contribution because of our concern for the city and our desire to show some confidence in the new mayor and his administration."

"We're glad we did it."

Mayor Robert Kozarek, who took office just two weeks ago, said he was stunned and elated. Hamtramck was in financial trouble even before Chrysler closed the plant. It nearly went broke in 1971 and has operated under the direction of the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission since then.

Officer Donates To City

HAMTRAMCK, Mich. (AP) — City officials don't expect it will start a trend, but Police Chief John Sitek's $500 donation to city coffers was called "a hell of a gesture" all the same.

Sitek mailed the check out of what he called "concern for our community." The town lost its largest taxpayer and employer when Chrysler Corp. closed its 70-year-old Dodge Main Assembly Plant earlier this month.

"I feel I couldn't just sit by and do nothing," said the 23-year police veteran. Sitek, 48, earns about $24,600 a year. His donation represents more than a week's pay.

The police chief's son, Gary, a firefighter, was one of 94 city employees laid off in September in anticipation of the plant closing.

"I thought it was a hell of a gesture," said Hamtramck Mayor Robert Kozarek. "I know his intentions are good."

But Kozarek said he did not expect similar gestures from the remaining 250 Hamtramck employees because "they don't make that kind of money."

Ex-Governor Enters Hospital

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Former Gov. George C. Wallace entered a local hospital Tuesday for minor surgery to correct a skin irritation problem on his hip, according to a Wallace aide.

Wallace's spokesman, Elvin Stanton, said the former presidential candidate expects to remain in the hospital only "a few days." But he said Wallace may not be back at his office for about 10 days.

Wallace has been confined to a wheelchair since 1972 as a result of an assassination attempt during his campaign for the presidency.

Since leaving office a year ago, Wallace has remained in Montgomery as director of the Rehabilitation Resources Division of the University of Alabama at Birmingham.

Hotel To Be Given Away

LYONS, Mich. (AP) — The historic Red Brick Hotel in the central Michigan village of Lyons will be given away if anybody wants it.

There are a few strings attached.

The prospective owner must have the expertise and money to restore the mid-19th century building, which has been condemned by the Ionia County health department. And the property must be developed within a time period set by the village, which also can impose certain restrictions regarding its use.

If anyone interested meets those requirements, they can have the three-story brick hotel, two adjacent lots and 12 years of tax breaks.

The village has run newspaper ads in Michigan, New York and Chicago seeking possible owners.

Fifth Graders Issue Spacy Predictions

WEST WARWICK, R.I. (UPI) — The future won't be lacking for fresh ideas.

David Dennomee, a fifth grade teacher at Notre Dame Regional School, decided one afternoon recently to find out what his 10 year olds thought the future would be like.

If they are right, times are going to get more mechanized and more convenient.

They predict the 1980s will bring:

- Stereos with memory computers that allow you to just call out the name of a song and hear it instantly.
- Houses that shrink at the push of a button, making moving an easy task.
- Christmas trees that put themselves together.
- Telephones giving everyone a receiver in his ear and a transmitter in his mouth.
- Shows staged in space.
- Football with built-in speakers allowing the quarterback to tell the ball where to go.
- Circus vendors selling never-deflating balloons.
- Pens that write automatically as you speak.
- Mail sent at the speed of light through vacuum tubes.
- Tennis matches on icebergs to alleviate a shortage of land.
- Machines capable of making bald scalps produce hair.
- Girts with built-in stain repellents so effective stains will become extinct.
- Solar-powered cars that travel six inches off the ground and are capable of traveling on land and over water.

Some students also had a rather odd serving prediction about the future.

They predicted schools will become obsolete with teachers being replaced by video robot machines allowing kids to learn at home.

FLIERS EJECT SAFELY

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Two Navy fliers safely ejected from their A-4 Intruder jet plane before it crashed into the Atlantic off the coast of southern Florida, the Navy said Tuesday. Navy spokesman Capt. Jim Loh identified the fliers as Lt. Bruce T. Stuchart, the pilot, and Lt. Mark J. Hauer, both of Virginia Beach. The plane was on a training mission from the aircraft carrier USS Intrepid when it crashed about 9:30 p.m. Monday, Loh said.

Red Raiders Rally To Beat Rice In OT

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Texas Tech's Jeff Taylor, changing roles the way a chameleon changes colors, went from hero to goat and finally back to hero as the Red Raiders managed to neatly sidestep history by defeating the Rice Owls 62-59 in an overtime thriller Tuesday night in the Coliseum.

Whew, this one looked all too much like the Owls' 62-56 upset over Tech last year to give the crowd of 7,986 much chance to make any noise.

Taylor got a little help from fellow sophomore David Little, who went to the line twice on one-and-one situations in the game's final 18 seconds and managed to come away with four points — icing the contest for the Raiders.

But back to Taylor.

With the game knotted at 47-47, Taylor grove down the left side and dropped in a spinning bank shot to put the Raiders up 49-47 with only TWO ticks left on the clock.

But then, after what seemed like a dozen timeouts, Taylor fouled Rice's leading scorer with only one second left and Bobby Tudor calmly sank both ends of a one-and-one to send the game into overtime. And when Taylor fouled Tudor, the Rice Owl was 30 feet from the basket and facing the opposite direction.

Then, with the Owls up by one point in OT, Kent Williams missed on a short jumper and the ball appeared destined for the hands of a Rice Owl. But Taylor came streaking out of nowhere, snatched the ball out of the air and got it back to Williams who was fouled.

Williams made good on both shots and Tech went ahead 56-55. Shortly thereafter, Taylor made good on two free tosses and Little added the final four and the Raiders upped their conference mark to 4-1 — 10-5 overall. The Owls are 1-3 and 3-9.

"I don't know where Taylor came from to get that last rebound," said a drained Gerald Myers after the game. "All I know is that if we hadn't gotten the ball back they probably would've won it — especially considering the way they were shooting their foul shots."

"Jeffrey went from the goat to the hero," added the Tech coach. "I don't know what he did on that foul — he just thought that he could intercept the pass."

But for the longest time, it didn't look like the Raiders were ever going to get in a position to win the game — overtime or not.

Tech was unable to find the mark in the first half and the Raiders were completely dominated on the boards (17-10) as the Owls led 31-21 at the intermission. Taylor, who led Tech with 18 points, and Ralph Brewster both got into early foul trouble and spent a good portion of the half on the bench.

Tech had closed the gap to 21-19 — but the Owls ran off 10 unanswered points at the end of the half to take charge.

"It wasn't really that we played that bad in the first half," explained Myers, "because you really have to give Rice credit. They forced us into a lot of mistakes with their press and they had us playing the way they wanted us to."

"Tonight," he added, "it wouldn't have been any upset if they had won. I know it's an old cliché," said Myers, "but boy we were fortunate to come out of this one alive."

The Raiders slowly chipped away at that Owl lead until they cut it to three, 38-35, on a pair of Taylor jumpers.

Then Leslie Nichols, who stepped in for the foul-prone Brewster, went to the line and sank both ends of a one-and-one and the Raiders trailed 38-37. Finally, another Taylor jumper tied it at 39-39. Little hit from 15 and Tech finally led 41-39 with 7:15 left.

The Raiders went up by as much as four, 47-33, but a couple of turnovers brought the Owls right back into the game.

Then, after Taylor hit what looked

San Antonio To Keep Tourney

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Southwest Conference postseason basketball tournament, scheduled here this year for the first time, will return in 1981 because of the support it has already drawn in San Antonio, according to a SWC official.

Dr. Kenneth Herrick, faculty representative for Texas Christian and chairman of the SWC basketball committee, told the San Antonio Express that the SWC Executive Committee had unanimously approved his committee's recommendation last week.

"We felt the people of San Antonio had done such a great job of getting this organized that we should show them some confidence and go ahead and award them the tournament for 1981," Herrick told the newspaper. "They have guaranteed us sellouts for this year and 1981."

This year's SWC tournament will be played Feb. 28 through March 1 in the 16,000-seat HemisFair Arena, home of the National Basketball Association's San Antonio Spurs. The tournament was moved here after its first year in Dallas and three years in Houston.

The basketball committee is made up of coaches, athletic directors and faculty representatives.

Herrick said the tournament is usually awarded at a later date, but the SWC decided to go ahead and award it to San Antonio because of the progress thus far.

The dates for the 1981 tourney haven't been set, said Herrick, who added, "We don't have flexibility. It will be the week before the start of the NCAA playoffs."

San Antonio won out over Houston for the 1980 tournament. Dallas, with an 18,000-seat arena under construction, had seriously bid for the 1981 tournament.

Super Bowl Press Ritual, Countdown Underway

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Super Bowl week ritual of mass press conferences began for the Pittsburgh Steelers and Los Angeles Rams Tuesday as the countdown to Sunday's National Football League championship game started.

The Steelers, in the big game for the fourth time in six years, are familiar with the routine and deal with it rather matter-of-factly. But the Rams were somewhat reluctant, still sizzling over widespread criticism of their mediocre 9-7 regular season record.

There even was some talk on the club of boycotting the press conferences but the carefully-choreographed NFL program never would allow such insurrection.

with dozens of writers bussed from NFL headquarters in Los Angeles first to the Steelers' camp at Fullerton and then to the Rams in Anaheim.

Because this is their home turf, the Rams players are not required to check into the hotel and they have the comfort of working at the regular practice site — both firsts for a Super Bowl team.

Playing on the natural grass of the Rose Bowl in Pasadena could be another edge for the Rams. The Steelers are more accustomed to artificial surfaces and played only twice on grass this season — beating Cleveland 51-35 and losing to San Diego 35-7. The Rams played all of their home games and five of their 10 road games on grass.

If nothing else, the Rams' coaching staff is familiar with Pittsburgh's personnel and philosophy of football. Three Los Angeles assistants — defensive coordinator Bud Carson, receivers coach Lionel Taylor and offensive line coach Dan Radakovich — all came to LA from the Steelers.

All of those things — the "home team" advantage, the grass field, the presence of three ex-Steeler coaches on their staff — hasn't changed the odds-makers' view of Los Angeles' chances Super Bowl XIV. The Rams remain 11-point underdogs.

That suits coach Ray Malavasi, who doesn't mind the underdog role one bit. "Once the whistle goes off, it's insignificant," said Malavasi. "If your players want to win badly enough, you're gonna win."

Certainly, Malavasi's Rams have waited long enough for their chance. The team won its seventh straight NFC West championship this season, setting a league record for division dominance. But they've always been short-circuited in the playoffs and never played in the Super Bowl before.

Eight members of the team Malavasi will take into Sunday's game have played on all seven division championship teams. They are defensive tackle Larry Brooks, fullback Cullen Bryant, defensive end Fred Dryer, safety Dave Elmen-Gort, halfback Lawrence McCutcheon, center Rich Saul, defensive end Jack Youngblood and linebacker Jim Youngblood.

"Our guys are hungry," said Malavasi.

The Steelers, of course, are familiar with that particular quality. Until they emerged as an NFL powerhouse in the mid-70s, the club had never won a thing. Yet, if they beat the Rams, they will become the first team to win consecutive Super Bowls twice and would be four-time champions. Only two NFL teams, the Green Bay Packers and Chicago Bears, have won more than four league titles.

But nothing is certain in this game. The ball, after all, does take strange bounces. Only twice before has a Super Bowl team gone in as a double digit favorite. In 1969, Baltimore was a 17-to-12-point choice over the New York Jets and lost. In 1970, Minnesota was rated 10 points better than Kansas City and lost.

Chuck Noll, coach of the Steelers and a keen student of NFL history, knows all about those upsets. In 1969, Noll was an assistant coach and paid his first trip to the Super Bowl.

He was working for the Baltimore Colts.

ROSE BOWL-PASADENA, CALIFORNIA—JANUARY 20, 1980

Steelers React To Tatum's Book

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Linebacker Jack Lambert of the Pittsburgh Steelers is no football pacifist, but he stressed Tuesday that he's no Jack Tatum, either.

"I play the game aggressively, but I have never, ever tried to hurt someone," Lambert said before practice for Super Bowl XIV.

Tatum is the Oakland Raiders' safety who tells in a recently released book that he measured his tackling success in "knockouts" and "limpoffs." The book, "They Call Me Assassin," sells for $9.95. Lambert said he won't buy a copy. He obviously isn't waiting for the paperback, either.

from the neck down. "I could have attempted to intercept," the book said, "but because of what the owners expect of me when they give me my paycheck, I automatically reacted to the situation by going for an intimidating hit."

The Steelers hit hard, too, as hard as anyone.

"We're all out there to make a living, but the game is physical enough the way it is without trying to hurt someone," said Lambert, who led Pittsburgh this season with 119 solo tackles.

"I remember a Cleveland game, I watched someone try and go low on somebody's knees on a field goal. I couldn't believe it. But I haven't seen much of that at all."

There are times when you may be rolling on somebody's knee or maybe their arm is in an awkward position. Instead of going down full force, you try to roll off. I've done that many times.

the talent Pittsburgh has on their front line, they hardly need a linebacker at all. Lambert is fair on pass coverage but is quite weak against the running game," Tatum said.

Lambert's response: "I've heard that statement before by many other people. Maybe they're right. Maybe I'm not very good at all," he said with a smirk.

Tatum also calls fullback Franco Harris a "cake runner." "If Franco doesn't run for the sideline, slip and fall, or cake out before anyone gets near him, then believe me, someone else is wearing his game jersey," Tatum said.

Harris, who has rushed for 8,563 career yards, was asked about that.

"I really have no response," he said. "I just kind of feel that if anybody watched the Oakland-Pittsburgh films, I think they would speak for themselves."

Ironically, it was a jolting hit by Tatum that triggered the "Immaculate Reception" by Harris that beat Oakland in the 1972 playoffs.

What kind of tackler is Tatum?

His statements are very upsetting, very saddening indeed. I can't believe anybody would say something like that," Lambert said in a sombre tone on the practice field at Cal State-Fullerton.

Tatum hit Darryl Stingley during a 1978 exhibition game, a collision that left the New England receiver paralyzed.

Transcript Probe To Continue

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The fraudulent transcript scandal which first surfaced in November at the University of New Mexico is spreading east, sources close to the investigation have told The Associated Press, and the number of schools involved soon will grow larger.

"We're finding a common thread involved where individuals know each other, individuals who are willing to help each other," the AP was told by persons who wished to remain anonymous.

"The overall number of schools involved is going to be significantly bigger than what has become public now. It's not all confined to the western part of the United States. Apparently, there may be schools east of the Mississippi."

Since an FBI wiretap first disclosed the practice at New Mexico, six universities in five western states have been named in investigations by the FBI and the National Collegiate Athletic Association — New Mexico, San Jose State, Arizona State, Utah, Oregon and Oregon State.

A number of athletes admitted receiving credit for extension and correspondence courses in which they did not work or did not even attend.

Basketball games have been forfeited by New Mexico, Arizona State and San Jose and resignations have been turned in by the head basketball coach at New Mexico and assistant basketball coaches at New Mexico and Oregon.

"At this point, it seems to revolve around a certain group of people who have been employed together," the AP was told. "Some individuals within that group have gone on to other jobs farther east and they are being looked into. From the evidence we now have, those are potential problem areas."

The NCAA enforcement department, working in close contact with the FBI and other law agencies, has given the transcript probe top priority, pulling in several investigators who had been assigned to other cases.

"We are not in daily contact with the FBI, but you could say we are in continuing contact with them," said Dave Berst, head of the NCAA enforcement department. Hale McMenamin, a former FBI agent now with the NCAA, has been helping to coordinate the joint effort.

"We're sharing everything we have with them," Berst said. "We feel certain our own efforts will be enhanced with their cooperation since they have access to so many things we do not, such as subpoenas. Plus, people just naturally perk up and take interest when the FBI comes around."

Raiders Likely Moving South

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Barring a snag in negotiations, the Oakland Raiders will announce plans "within the next few days" to move the National Football League franchise to Los Angeles, The Los Angeles Times reported Tuesday.

According to Times' sources, the only remaining unsettled question is whether the club will solicit league approval or make a unilateral decision.

Al Davis, managing partner of the Raiders, is reportedly being urged to by other NFL clubowners to make a formal request for a league-wide ballot. Many owners believe his move would have the support of at least the required 21 of 28 franchises, The Times said.

However, Davis is being advised by his senior league counsel, former San Francisco mayor Joseph Alioto, that NFL approval is unnecessary if not irrelevant, the newspaper said.

The Raiders, one of the most successful NFL clubs of the 1970s, would replace the Los Angeles Rams, who move to Anaheim next season.

Well, one-on-one he is not that good as a tackler," Harris said. "But you can't, well, I don't want to get into that," he told a handful of reporters.

In the book, Tatum also says that Steelers' wide receiver Lynn Swann likes to "hide from contact" and that he poses no threat to the tougher, tougher teams.

A reporter asked Harris if he figured Tatum had made a calculated effort to stir up controversy and sell the book.

"Well, he would seem to have done that," Harris said with a smile. "He brought it out at just the right time, didn't he?"

Orangemen See Limited Value In Lofty Cage Poll Ranking

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — If Syracuse University's opponents aren't worried enough at meeting an undefeated team with two players an inch shy of seven feet, Coach Jim Boeheim hopes they will be intimidated by his team's national ranking.

"Down deep they know this has got to be a pretty good team they're playing," said Boeheim.

McMurry Tops LCC Women

The Lubbock Christian College women's cagers narrowly lost a seesaw battle with McMurry College in TIAA play here Tuesday 66-61.

The lead changed hands six times, and LCC came within one point of a tie with 3:34 left on the clock. Then LCC's Darla Lynch broke loose with a basket inside, but McMurry's Belinda Sladek responded a few seconds later with a score after an offensive rebound.

McMurry hit eight straight free throws during the next 50 seconds.

With just over a minute to go, McMurry's Dyana Teeter hit a jump shot from the base line to make it 66-55. LCC followed with three buckets, but it wasn't enough to close the gap.

Miss Lynch led LCC with 23 points, followed by Cindy Bigham with 14 and Sherry Williams with 10. Miss Teeter was the only player from McMurry to score double digits with 16.

The loss drops LCC's season record to 3-9, while McMurry now stands at 10-8. Both teams are 1-1 in conference play.

The LCC women will host Tarleton State College at 1 p. m. Saturday.

 McMurry — Teeter 26, Lafferty 22, Whiteside 23, James 20, Peacock 17, Gober 12, Willis 12, Woods 11, Farmer 11, Sladek 10. Totals: 23 20-66.
 LCC — Brown 20, Ramirez 22, Musick 20, Phillips 12, Bigham 14, Williams 10, Lynch 7, 23. Totals: 21-61.

Sherry Brown Wins At LCC

Lubbock Christian College women's basketball player Sherry Brown has been named her school's athlete of the week, it was announced Tuesday.

Miss Brown, a 5-7 freshman guard from Tidehaven, swished 11 of 17 field goal attempts, three of five free throws, and had four rebounds and four steals Saturday as the Lady Chaps won their Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association opener 76-48 over Austin College.

Her 25-point effort boosted her season's scoring average to 11.1 points per game.

Runners-up were Debbie Pitchford, a 5-2 sophomore guard from Millsaps, who played well in her first starting role at LCC Saturday; and men's cager Keith Gardner, who scored 22 points in the Chaps' 68-65 loss to Austin College, also played Saturday.

But Boeheim insists the No. 3 ranking will not be enough to keep his Orangemen undefeated.

"The rating doesn't win you any games," said Boeheim, who has an 88-14 record in his fourth season as coach at Syracuse.

Danny Schayes, a 6-foot-11 forward whose father Dolph Schayes is an NBA Hall of Famer, says the high ranking will fire up the Syracuse opponents, but admits there is what he called "an intimidation factor" with the ranking.

"Some teams will tend to get a little nervous when they realize they're not just playing Syracuse, but a team that has been ranked third in the country," said Schayes.

"Just because the polls say we're third doesn't mean we're the third best team in the country. All it means is that we're playing real well right now. The polls are a week to week thing which merely reflect who's winning that week and who's losing. If we lose next week we could go down to 10th, but it wouldn't mean we're playing any worse," said Schayes.

"It means a lot to the program, but we can't go crazy about it. The polls are not really an indication of how good we are," said Schayes.

Although Syracuse has been to the last seven NCAA tournaments, and made it to the Final Four five years ago, the Orangeman had never been ranked higher than No. 5 before Sunday's victory over No. 11 Purdue.

Longhorns, Hogs, Aggies Whip Foes

AUSTIN (AP) — Ron Baxter, John Danks and Ken Montgomery each scored over 20 points and freshman Fred Carson made the Texas offense work with pinpoint passes as the Longhorns coasted past Texas Christian 95-65 Tuesday night in Southwest Conference basketball.

Seniors Baxter and Danks each had 24 points and Montgomery, who came off the bench to ignite the sluggish Longhorns in the first half with five long field goals and a layup, scored 21.

Carson had only seven points, but repeatedly set up his teammates with accurate passes and received an ovation from the pro-Texas crowd when he went to the bench late in the game.

Texas Christian led only once — 2-0 on a layup by Deckery Johnson — but was down by only four points late in the game.

TCU (65) Johnson 5-0-10, Summers 4-1-9, Prevett 1-0-2, Browder 3-1-7, Winesinger 3-0-8, Thompson 3-2-11, Mansbury 5-0-10, Bridges 1-0-2, Baker 2-0-4, Cucinella 1-0-2, Hund 1-0-2, Hart 0-0-0. Totals 31-3-55.

TEXAS (95) Baxter 11-27-24, Danks 9-6-24, Thompson 2-1-3-5, Carson 3-1-7, Turner 0-0-2, Montgomery 10-1-21, Boyd 0-0-0, Cunningham 0-0-0, Wendlandt 2-0-4, Olson 0-4-4, Douglas 0-6-6, Lopez 0-0-0. Totals 37-21-31-95.

half when Montgomery hit two consecutive 35-foot jump shots.

Texas extended its lead in the second half even though Coach Abe Lemons cleared the bench.

Baxter's points raised his career total to 1,608, which is second only to Jim Krivacs in Longhorn history. Baxter already holds the school record for career rebounds.

Ty Thompson pitched in 11 points for Texas Christian, and Johnson and Jon Mansbury each had 10 for the Horned Frogs. All of Johnson's points came in the first half as Texas took a 36-24 lead.

The victory raised Texas' record to 3-2 in SWC play and broke a two-game losing streak at home for the Longhorns. The Longhorns are 10-4 for the year.

The loss was the fifth in conference without a victory for TCU, which is 5-9 for the season.

Arkansas 71, Baylor 57

Faced with a two-point deficit with just under 10 minutes remaining, Arkansas outscored Baylor 25-14 during the final half of the second period to pin the Bears, with a 71-57 setback Tuesday night.

Baylor had not missed in ten second-half shots and held a 45-43 advantage when Terry Teagle swished an eight-footer at the 9:56 mark. However, Brad Friess turned a layup into a three-point play to give the Hogs their first second-half lead, and Arkansas never trailed again.

Alan Zahn drilled a pair of free throws, U.S. Reed nailed a 22-footer and Reed made two free throws to swell Arkansas' lead to 52-45 before Baylor scored again.

Scott Hastings was Arkansas' leading scorer with 23 points. Alan Zahn added 17 points for the Razorbacks and Reed had 15.

Teagle scored 24 points and Pat Nunley added 11 for the Bears.

The victory was Arkansas' fifth in a row, and upped the Razorbacks' record to 11-3. Baylor slipped to 6-8, including 1-3 in the league.

and Dave Piehler, who scored 10 points.

SMU missed its first 11 shots in the second half and at one stage had hit only 2 of 16.

The Mustangs shot 38.3 percent for the game with a paltry 28.1 percent in the second half.

The Aggies shot 54.7 percent from the field, but surprisingly were outbounded 38-33.

Aggie coach Shelby Metcalf, noting it had been five years since A&M had won in Moody Coliseum, said: "You've just got to be pleased. We've had some bad games in here over the years. Sometimes we'd think we'd win for sure. They have good crowds in here. But we played a real good game tonight under pretty tough conditions."

The game was televised back to College Station and Metcalf said, "It was a great game for television. This was a big one for us. I'm going to enjoy it for about two hours and then start thinking about the next game."

SMU coach Sonny Allen said, "They are just a better team. They play a good, smart game. They did a good job of containing Billy."

Allen's son, Billy, was held to no field goals and missed all nine of his shots as the Aggies intimidated his drives up the middle.

"With Rudy in the middle, there just wasn't a way we could drive enough," the SMU coach added. "I'm not that disappointed. We gave it our best shot."

A sellout crowd of 9,810 witnessed the game. The Aggies had won one of their last nine games in Moody Coliseum before Tuesday's triumph.

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

THE GRAIN EMBARGO AGAINST THE Soviet Union could cost the United States more than $14 billion over a two-year period, three to four times more than the estimate of the Carter administration, according to International Grain Reports.

In the latest issue of the weekly newsletter, IGR said the administration's figures cover only the estimated cost of government activities associated with the direct "bailout" of the international grain companies.

Higher price supports and storage payments for farmers were not included in the original estimates, IGR said.

A special IGR survey of experts brought out additional expenses which the newsletter said will increase the cost enormously.

The IGR breakdown for 1980 includes:

— A minimum of $3 billion in direct cost to the government for buying and holding 17-19 million metric tons of grain.

— About $1.2 billion extra for food donations under Public Law 480 and proposed international food reserves, which Congress is expected to provide.

— CLOSE TO $1 BILLION TO FARMERS to divert land to offset the increased domestic grain supply caused by the embargo.

(Administration officials have argued that a land diversion program may not be needed, contrary to some rather widespread industry opinions, but have said a decision will be made by March 1—a late time for farmers who need information well before that in order to develop production plans for the year.)

— A $3 billion loss in U. S. export earnings which the Soviet Union would have paid for the grain.

The IGR estimated an additional $6 billion would be spent or lost in 1981, for a total of more than $14 billion.

Meanwhile, U. S. Rep. Eldon Rudd of Arizona told wheat growers Tuesday that increased U. S. military spending would have a more profound impact on the Soviet Union than the decision to sharply curtail grain shipments.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the National Association of Wheat Growers in Phoenix, Dodd said President Carter should have considered announcing plans to build the B-1 bomber or a comparable intercontinental bomber or to develop the range of the cruise missile.

THE SUSPENSION OF GRAIN SHIPMENTS to the Soviet Union will have the greatest impact on farmers, Rudd said.

"If the president carries out his announcement of last week to purchase all this grain, it also will impact heavily on the taxpayers of the United States (farmers of course also are taxpayers) to the extent of about $2.25 billion," he said. "This will increase the federal deficit and further fuel inflation."

Rudd said inflation poses a severe financial threat to farmers.

"The basic strength of America is in our farms and our ability to produce the food and fiber for our population and for hungry millions in less favored nations," he said.

Earlier this week at Phoenix, Great Plains Wheat, Inc., and Western Wheat Associates formally signed a long-awaited merger agreement between the two major associations. The new association now is known as U. S. Wheat Associates, Inc.

The board of directors elected J. Ole Sampson, a North Dakota wheat producer and former chairman of GPW, as its chairman. The board was unable to decide on who the first president of the new organization will be.

LATE COMMISSION HOUSE BUYING LIFTED cotton futures from lows to close with 16 to 27-point losses in nearby.

Trading was suspended about five minutes early due to a fire in a mailroom at the Commodities Exchange Center at New York. The fire was quickly extinguished but police ordered all people on the seventh and eighth floors of the building to leave.

Floor brokers said late market support pared earlier losses on trade hedge selling. Volume was estimated at 12,500 lots.

The USDA after the close released a report estimating world cotton production in 1979-80 at a record 65.1 million bales, up 900,000 from the previous month's projection and up from 59.8 million last season.

Increases from the month-ago estimates included 400,000 bales (reported last week) in the United States, now pegged at 14.9 million bales; 200,000 each in China and India at 10.0 million and 6.0 million, respectively; 100,000 in Pakistan at 3.0 million; and 200,000 in other countries at 8.6 million. Decreases included 100,000 bales each in Brazil and Central America at 2.6 million and 1.1 million, respectively.

Trading on Telcel was relatively quiet and light on a volume of 13,035 bales, an average price of 54.25 cents, and an average over the loan of 1,174 points. Price quotes were down 25 points.

GRAIN FUTURES TRADERS PREDICTED even lower prices for U. S. corn following Tuesday afternoon's USDA crop report indicating a nationwide corn output of 7.763 billion bushels in 1979.

The report showed an increase of about 178 million bushels from the USDA's previous estimate and a gain from the 1978 crop of 7,087 million bushels.

This large increase is expected to put additional pressure on corn futures prices, which have been still reeling from the impact of President Carter's partial cut-off of U. S. grain shipments to the Soviet Union. Cash grain dealers reported taking 2-5 cents protection on corn shortly after the report was released after markets closed.

The huge crop, combined with the severe loss in corn exports expected to result from the grain embargo, could result in a big carryover of corn stocks, traders said. Traders said they still don't know how the government plans to keep the excess corn supplies from driving domestic prices sharply lower.

There were predictions from some traders that corn futures will open 1-2 cents a bushel lower today at the Chicago Board of Trade.

Future Farmers of America Exhibit Top Steers

A Shallowater 4-H member and a Roosevelt Future Farmers of America member exhibited the top two steers Monday at the Lubbock County Livestock show.

Pam Greaves of Shallowater led her 1,110-pound Angus to the grand championship after the animal placed first in the heavyweight division of the steer show.

A 1,030-pound Hereford steer took reserve grand champion honors. The animal, exhibited by Roosevelt FFA member Branden Petree, was also judged first in the lightweight division of the show.

In the lamb show Tuesday, Rance Craig, Roosevelt 4-H member, showed the grand champion. His heavyweight Suffolk was champion in medium wool competition.

The reserve grand champion lamb was shown by Jana Winter, Idalou 4-H member. Her lamb was reserve champion in the medium wool division.

The premium sale took place Tuesday

Agricultural Chemical Development Conference Begins Today

ROSWELL (Special) — The latest developments in agricultural chemicals and the laws that regulate them will be discussed here today and Thursday at the Agricultural Chemicals Conference.

The conference will open with registration at the Sally Port Inn, says John Durkin, extension entomologist at New Mexico State University.

Dr. L. S. Pope, dean and director of the NMSU College of Agriculture and Home Economics, will give the keynote address at 1:15 p.m. His presentation will be followed by a look at how the tight money situation has affected New Mexico agriculture.

The program for the remainder of the day will include a look at new federal and state pesticide regulations, the newest products from seven chemical compa-

HIGH PLAINS COTTON

U. S. Department of Agriculture — Trading on the Lubbock spot cotton market Tuesday was moderate to active. Supplies of cotton for sale were moderate to heavy and demand was good.

The Lubbock Cotton Exchange's spot quotations held steady.

The base price of grade #1, staple 3 1/2 to 4.9 was 64.85 up 125 from one week ago. Grade #2, staple 3 1/2, mix 2 7/8 was 47.80.

Growers sold mixes 3.0-3.2 around 1.125 to 1.325 points over 1979 loan rates. Mixes 2 7/8 brought 700 to 900 over.

Gins paid growers $100-1100 per ton for cotton seed.

High Plains Agriculture Marketing Services graded 30,000 samples Monday. This brought the season's total to 2,052,000 samples. About 70,000 samples were carried over unclassified.

LUBBOCK SPOT COTTON

Quotations are the approximate prices reported to the Agricultural Marketing Service for qualities listed in the U. S. Official Grade and Standard cards. Prices are for micronaire (mic) readings of 3.5 through 4.9. In mixed lots, unclassified, free of all charges in the warehouse in the market. Price trend: steady on Tuesday.

Danish Doctors Ready

FOR TEST-TUBE BABIES
COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Danish doctors said Tuesday they were ready to begin using the "test-tube" method of conception for women unable to conceive babies normally.
Dr. Joergen Glenn Lauritzen told reporters physicians here could begin next month using the method of fertilization in the laboratory pioneered by British doctors. Two "test-tube babies" are known to have been born in Britain.
The process, which Lauritzen studied in England, involves placing an egg fertilized in the laboratory back in the mother's womb for normal growth and birth.

Spiraling Prices Cause Disuse Of Gold Police Badges

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With gold nearing $700 an ounce, a San Francisco police tradition is, if not dead, about ready for last rites.
Until late last year, it was a practice in San Francisco's police community that when a member rose into the higher ranks — inspector, lieutenant or captain — his family and colleagues passed the hat and bought the proud cop a real gold badge.

But no more.
"I haven't made a gold buzzer in more than six months," said Michael Sabatino, engraver of police badges to the department for more than 30 years.

The gold badge that that sold for a few hundred dollars in the '70s now goes for more than $1,000.
"That's a lot of bucks for a badge," Sabatino said, noting that the last one he made cost $800. "Nobody can afford them anymore."

'Scared Straight' To Be Telecast For Second Time Locally

"Scared Straight," a hard-hitting television documentary about a prison program designed to scare the crime out of juvenile delinquents, will be telecast for the second time at 9 p.m. Jan. 23 on KAMC, Channel 28.

One of the most compelling hours of television produced, the program is being sponsored as a public service, without commercial interruption, by Crime

Line Inc. and KAMC.

The program first was aired late at night in May 1979.

"After the careful consideration of the feedback following the first presentation of the program, we chose a week night prime time slot for the second viewing," said Rusty Jones, executive vice president and news director for the locally-owned ABC affiliate. "Much of the response urged us to repeat the program at a time when the largest number of teen-agers and young people might be available. That, after all, is our target audience for the program," Jones said.

As host, Peter Faulk guides a tour through Rahway State Prison in New Jersey exposing the audience to an extraordinary program developed by a group of hardened criminals serving time in the maximum security prison. An unlikely group of crime-fighters, these convicts, serving life sentences for murder and other major crimes, have committed themselves to helping juveniles get back on the right track.

Twice each day, with the full support of the prison officials and the surrounding community, a group of juveniles enters the prison to serve a three-hour "sentence."

The cameras join one such group of 17 chronic juvenile offenders as they get a dose of the prisoners' special brand of "shock therapy."

The frightened youngsters are forced to listen as the convicts describe in brutal and explicit detail the horrors and realities of prison life — the homosexual rapes, suicides and murders, the boredom, bells and brutality. The convicts shout, swear and threaten violence — whatever it takes to shock the youths into realizing the consequence of their lives of crime.

To date, more than 10,000 teen-agers have experienced the "lifers' program at Rahway. Participating communities report that 80 to 90 percent are scared into "going straight" by the terrifying experience.

Capt. W. A. "Bill" Cox of the Lubbock police department's juvenile division supported the re-broadcast of the program and recounted an incident that happened after the show was telecast during the summer.

"A couple of teen-age girls were brought in soon after the program was on the air and when we told them they would be referred to a probation officer, one of the girls, 13, broke down and cried, saying she didn't want to go to prison," Cox said. The young girl had watched "Scared Straight."

A word of warning about the movie. The program documents an actual session in prison and the language and descriptions of conditions are presented as they occurred. The people in the film are not actors, but real convicts and juvenile delinquents. In order to preserve the essence of this effective method of crime prevention, the film has not been censored.

TRADE ACCORD REACHED
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. and Hong Kong negotiators reached an accord Tuesday in talks on proposed changes in the textile trade agreement for 1980, according to informed sources. The negotiators have been meeting here for a week debating U.S. proposals seeking to put some restraints on Hong Kong textile exporters' use of flexibility in the present quota system. Under the agreement, Hong Kong textile exports to the United States have increased to an annual value of about $1.4 billion.

Despite Denials, Moscow May Lose 1980 Olympics

OTTAWA (AP) — The Summer Olympics might be yanked out of Moscow by the International Olympic Committee despite repeated denials by IOC President Lord Killanin, says Dick Pound, president of the Canadian Olympic Association.

And Julian Roosevelt, an IOC delegate from the United States, agrees.

Pound and Roosevelt said Tuesday that anything could happen at an IOC meeting Feb. 10-12 in Lake Placid, N.Y., just prior to the opening of the Winter Olympics.

It's the IOC's first full meeting since the Soviet Union's invasion of Afghanistan and the subsequent condemnation by the United Nations.

"The matter will be discussed thoroughly and there could be a resolution" to withdraw the Games, said Pound, who is one of two Canadian IOC delegates. In Britain, more than 100 members of Parliament from all major political parties have signed motions calling for the Games to be boycotted or moved.

One motion said bluntly: The 1980 Olympic Games should be held somewhere else other than Moscow.

Roosevelt said in an interview from Long Island, N.Y., that it is difficult to assess the mood of delegates now because the political situation is rapidly changing.

Prime Minister-Clark has stated that he would prefer the Games be moved rather than boycotted. So far only Saudi Arabia has chosen that route.

Pound said last week that the Canadian Olympic Association would defy a federal boycott unless the athletes were in physical danger. And an official of the British association said he doubted that British athletes would support a boycott.

External Affairs Minister Flora MacDonald said in Montreal Monday that moving the Olympics would be one of the best ways to bring pressure on the Soviet Union by making its citizens aware of their government's activities.

Miss MacDonald also threatened to bar Soviet hockey teams from playing in Canada.

Such a move would seriously affect the Canada Cup tournament scheduled in September between European teams and the National Hockey League.

But Lord Killanin has stated repeatedly that the Games will not be moved out of Moscow because sport and politics don't mix.

"We won't go back on our word," he said in a weekend interview. "In any event it would be physically impossible to change the venue."

Roosevelt said it boils down to money.

"There's no other city willing to take the Games," he said. "And if they found one willing, the Games would probably have to be put off for a year."

The IOC also has a contract with Moscow that would cost the association millions to break, Killanin said.

Montreal, Munich, West Germany and Mexico City have been touted as possible sites, but critics say most of their facilities have been converted for other uses.

Swiss Court Rejects Taiwan's Bid To Keep Name Of China

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — A Swiss court decision Tuesday rejected Taiwan's bid to stay in the Olympic movement under the name "Republic of China" and cleared the way for Mainland China's re-entry into the Olympic Games for the first time since the Communist takeover in 1949.

The decision, which came one week after a public hearing in Lausanne where the IOC is based, gave Peking the go ahead to compete at Lake Placid and Moscow and turned down Taipei's request for a temporary court injunction.

The International Olympic Committee had ordered Taiwan to change its name, flag and anthem to make way for Mainland China's participation. The Olympic Committee in Taipei fought the ruling.

The decision of the court, relayed by letter to lawyers on both sides, was confirmed by Francois Carrard, counsel for the IOC.

"The court president has decided that the Olympic Committee of Taiwan has no case in the issue of a court injunction," he told The Associated Press. "We are very satisfied. I can close my file until the next move."

Taiwan's Swiss lawyers were not available for comment Tuesday night. But sources on both sides predicted the Taiwan Olympic Committee immediately would appeal against the decision of the court.

Carrard said he did not rule out such an appeal, but he doubted whether it would effect Peking's participation at next month's Winter Olympics.

IOC spokesman Alain Coupat said the world Olympics body had no immediate statement to make on the decision.

The court ruling was a personal triumph for IOC President Lord Killanin, who had fought for years to get Mainland China back into the Olympic Games without prejudicing the participation of the island of Taiwan.

Last October, an IOC executive board meeting in Nagoya, Japan, recommended that Taiwan be given until Jan. 1, 1980, to drop its old name, flag and anthem and use instead the term "Chinese Taipei Olympic Committee" for all further Olympic Games. This was later approved overwhelmingly in a postal ballot vote among the IOC's 89 members worldwide.

Two separate law suits have been filed in the Swiss courts by Henry Hsu, IOC member for Taiwan, against the IOC. They claim the IOC plan contravenes vital clauses of the Olympic charter.

Neither suit is expected to be heard for several months. As a result, Taiwan sought a court injunction temporarily blocking the IOC ruling so that it could compete under past conditions in the Olympics at Lake Placid and Moscow.

Carrard said he did not anticipate any adverse reaction to the court's decision by the U.S. Olympic Committee, which Taiwan sports officials have stressed supports their claims.

At the hearing last week, IOC director

Mason Says Trips Legal

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The University of Arizona's payment for trips to Tucson by six non-recruits was all legal and actually was a way to save money, say football coach Tony Mason and Athletic Director Dave Strack.

Mason, in his first public comments on a Sunday newspaper report revealing the trips, and Strack commented in an interview published Tuesday by the Tucson Citizen.

They said the trips were their way of thanking people for help with university football recruiting and in no way violated university, Pacific 10 Conference or NCAA rules. Strack said he already has contacted the conference and NCAA officials about the report.

"These people help us in providing summer employment for recruits," Strack said. "And they also save the UA thousands of dollars by providing transportation for the recruits."

Mason added: "The Star said we spent $1,800 for six trips. These people we brought here will save the University of Arizona that much money in a week."

The Arizona Daily Star said in a copyrighted story Sunday that its research into university football recruitment records showed the UA paid for trips by non-recruits at least six times, but the trips were recorded by Mason as involving recruits.

In one instance, a woman the Star identified as a California massage parlor operator came to Tucson and stayed at the exclusive Skyline Country Club at university expense.

Monique Berlioux said that Washington and Moscow would have been unlikely to issue visas to Taiwan's athletes should the court decision have gone against the IOC.

Taiwan was continuing to use the same symbols employed under pre-revolution China, it was pointed out in court. The IOC could not accept this if Peking was to compete again at Olympic level.

Triumph for Tar Watchers!

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

Triumph rocks yesterday's
"low tars"—
offers great taste at 3 mg.

Yesterday's "low tars" are sadly out-of-date. Not just by a little. A lot.

The reason is simple.

Today's low tar, Triumph®, offers remarkable taste at only 3mg tar.

And no matter how you figure it, that's a lot less tar than Merit at 8—Salem Lights at 12—or Marlboro Lights at 12.

And it's a lot more taste than Carlton at 1 (which doesn't even claim to have taste).

Taste a Triumph. Your taste doesn't lie. And the numbers don't, either.

Try Triumph—today's low tar.

Triumph for taste!
Only 3mg tar.

Of All Brands Sold: Lowest tar: 0.5 mg. "tar," 0.05 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette. Triumph: 3 mg. "tar," 0.4 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.
