A PAIR of Lubbock men in possession of about $20,000 in stolen property were arrested last week as a result of a tip to Lubbock's Crime Line.

The two men were arrested by Department of Public Safety troopers Thursday afternoon at Roscoe, near Sweetwater.

The car occupied by the men was pulling a trailer loaded with the stolen goods.

741-1000

The men were arrested on suspicion of burglary and felony theft. They are being held in the Lubbock County Jail. The recovered goods included clothing, photographic film, chain saws and four cases of cigarettes, police said.

In many types of felony crimes, such as burglary and theft, the only source of information that can lead to an arrest is a tip from an informant.

Crime Line informants have provided such information, which has led to arrests in more than 100 felony cases. In every case, the identity of the informant has been unknown.

Cash rewards ranging from $300 to $1,000 are paid for information leading to an arrest and indictment in any felony crime. Anyone calling Crime Line, 741-1000, will be given an identity number. No questions will be asked, and the informant's identity is not known, even to the police detectives manning the Crime Line.

Anyone wishing to make a tax-deductible donation to the Crime Line reward fund should mail the contribution to Crime Line, P.O. Box 2000, Lubbock, Texas, 79457.

This week, Crime Line is offering rewards totaling $1,800 in six felony cases.

A $300 reward is offered in the Jan. 2 aggravated robbery of a Seven-Eleven store at 3301 66th St. The female store attendant told police a man entered the store about 7 p.m. and made off with $40 to $50 cash.

She said the man first asked for change, and when she had the cash register open, the man tried to grab money out of the register. The woman told officers she pushed the man's hand away, and the man ordered her to go to the back room of the store.

The robber then told her to open the other cash register, which she did before going into the back room. When she emerged a few minutes later, the bandit had fled, possibly in a dark-colored vehicle.

The robber was described as a clean-cut thin man, with a short Afro haircut and a mustache. He was wearing a pullover sweater, the attendant told police. It is not known whether the man was armed.

Crime Line is offering a $300 reward in the Jan. 22 burglary of a residence at 501 51st St., in which the burglar apparently cut himself while crawling into the home through a broken window.

The occupant of the house told police she arrived home about 1:15 a.m. Jan. 23 and found lights on in the house. She then drove to her brother's house to call police.

When officers arrived, they found blood stains on the window ledge and carpet. Blood was also found outside the residence, police said. The burglary may have occurred about 9:45 p.m., because a wall clock, which had been knocked on the floor, was stopped at that time.

Taken in the break-in were a Curtis-Mathes portable 19-inch color television, a Sears Kenmore microwave oven, a Mr. Coffee brand See CASH REWARDS Page 14

SUPERMARKET SHAKEUP — The aisles of this supermarket were left littered following one of a series of earthquakes that have hit California coastal areas in the past few days. The store-jumping quake hit Saturday night. Then on Sunday the ninth sizable quake to hit the area in four days rattled the Livermore Valley of Northern California. The epicenter was on a fault near where a quake struck last Thursday night. Sunday's tremor registered 4.0 on the Richter scale, compared to the 5.6 quake which shook the area Saturday night. The quake scored a "strike" on 40 lanes (400 pins) of a bowling alley in Dublin, Calif. It emptied cabinets and even refrigerators in homes along the area it struck. (AP Laserphoto)

Soviet Intervention Draws Islamic Ire

Moslem Ministers Denounce Invasion

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — The Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan threatens world peace and the security of small nations everywhere, Pakistan's president warned Sunday at the start of an emergency three-day meeting of Islamic foreign ministers. Afghanistan boycotted the session.

"We view this development with the utmost apprehension because unless this trend to subjugate small countries through the use of force is arrested in time, world peace and the independent existence of small countries would be endangered," said Gen. Mohammed Zia ul-Haq, the Pakistani president.

He also told the Kremlin the only way it "can effectively restore trust and cooperation (with the Islamic world)" is to pull its troops from Afghanistan.

Foreign ministers from Gambia, Malaysia and Morocco also denounced the Soviet presence in Afghanistan before the conference went into private session to consider steps to pressure the Soviets to withdraw their troops.

Conference sources said the options reportedly being considered were a call for Islamic nations to break relations with the Soviet Union, economic sanctions, and a resolution to boycott the 1980 Olympic Games unless they are moved from Moscow.

PLO Attends Meeting

Libya and the Palestine Liberation Organization, both usually pro-Soviet, and Iran were among the 35 nations and organizations attending the meeting of the Organization of Islamic Countries. Syria was one of eight members of the Moslem group to boycott the Islamabad meeting, and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko went to Damascus, Syria, on Sunday for consultations.

Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said Saturday in Tehran his country agreed to send a representative to the conference because "we have added one more topic to the conference agenda — the economic embargo of Iran by America." He did not name the representative and conference sources said it had not been determined if the situation in Iran will be discussed.

Decisions 'Null And Void'

Afghanistan's Soviet-backed Marxist government said Sunday in Kabul that it would consider decisions made at the Islamabad conference "null and void."

However, in his latest conciliatory gesture, Afghan President Babrak Karmal promised "full freedom and immunity" — amnesty — to religious and tribal leaders who fled the country after the first of three Marxist governments took power in April 1978.

Despite that, representatives of six

Afghan rebel groups said Sunday at a news conference in Islamabad that they were joining together to "liberate Afghanistan from an alien and atheist regime" and to "establish a truly Islamic state."

The announcement amounted to confirmation of earlier reports that the rebel groups were banding together to fight the Soviet force of up to 100,000 troops that has occupied Afghanistan since late December.

The Soviets, who helped install Karmal's government in an effort to put down the 21-month Moslem insurgency, are believed to control most of the major cities and roadways throughout Afghanistan. See SOVIET MILITARY Page 14

Union Teachers Vow No Pay, No Work

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago schools will open today even though teachers in the 477,000-student system have voted to stay off the job because they haven't been paid, school officials said Sunday.

The schools will be open, said Board of Education President Catherine Rohter. She said she believes some non-union teachers will show up for work, but did not estimate the numbers.

"The purpose of going to school is to be taught and if the teachers are not going to be there I would not send my children to an empty classroom," said Mayor Jane Byrne, who joined Mrs. Rohter at a news conference.

Mrs. Byrne blamed teachers' union leaders for the latest development in the 76-day-old school financial crisis.

"We not only have a financial crisis we have a crisis in good faith and credibility," she said, claiming that the union reversed itself on a plan she negotiated Thursday which would have paid them part of back pay and kept them working.

Mrs. Byrne's statements came two hours after Chicago Teachers Union President Robert Healey announced the union had advised members to stay out of school until they receive the full two-weeks' pay they are owed.

The mayor said "the immediate cause of the crisis is the refusal of the Chicago Teachers Union to live up to the commitment made by Mr. Healey ... to accept one week's salary for all board of education employees on Monday with a promise that the board would pay the remaining one week's pay due next Friday ..."

She said the teachers' union and other city unions had delayed by two weeks a city council ordinance which would have gotten money to employees sooner. The delay came, she said, because the unions only came up with $3 million of $25 million they had pledged toward the sale of $225 million in bonds for a school refinancing plan.

Mrs. Byrne, seeking a way to bail out the nation's third-largest school district, had called for another round of talks Sunday. But Healey said Sunday that the mayor had called him just before noon to say such talks would be fruitless.

"We're instructing them (teachers) to report to work only when all monies due to them are in place to pick up," Healey said.

He said 28,000 union teachers would not be "diverted by the Board of Education's cheap tactics of trying to tempt them into the buildings on Monday with the one-week check they already have

Carrier Arrives In Alexandria

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP) — The U.S. aircraft carrier Forrester sailed into Alexandria harbor on a port call Sunday, less than a week after President Carter announced his administration's determination to defend vital areas of the Middle East.

U.S. Navy officers said the carrier's visit was planned before the crises in Iran and Afghanistan, but Egyptian officials said they were happy at the timing of the Forrester's arrival "because it strengthens the impression that Egypt is vital to the United States."

Egypt has joined the United States in condemning the holding of 50 American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Iran and demanding the withdrawal of Soviet troops fighting Moslem rebels in Afghanistan.

The 80,000-ton carrier has a crew of 5,000 sailors.

Nine Earthquakes Rattle California In Four Days

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The ninth sizable earthquake in four days rattled the Livermore Valley of Northern California on Sunday, causing widespread minor damage but no serious injuries, authorities said.

Scientists warned more quakes can be expected in the area, about 30 miles southeast of San Francisco.

Sunday's tremor registered 4.0 on the Richter scale, not so violent as the 5.6 quake that shook the area at 6:33 p.m. Saturday night.

Mike Browne of the state Office of Emergency Services said damage was widespread, but minor, and no injuries were reported.

"There was a lot of broken glass, objects knocked off shelves, minor cracks at the Greenville Overpass on Interstate 580, but they were not bad enough to close the highway," Browne reported after the Saturday shaker.

Kay Thomas, who lives near the quake area, said, "My refrigerator flew open and everything flew out. The refrigerator moved a foot out from the wall."

At a bowling alley in Dublin, nature rolled a gigantic bowling strike. "All 40 lanes, 400 pins, went down at once," said Joe Kreins, an employee.

"It felt like a truck ran into the house," said Julie Gaudinski of San Geronimo, about 30 miles north of San Francisco, on Saturday night. "I felt the one the other day, but it was nothing like this. This is a lot bigger."

The latest quake, which struck at 2:38 a.m. Sunday, was the ninth since Thursday to register at least 4.0, including six aftershocks that occurred between Thursday afternoon and Friday morning. In addition, there have been about 100 minor jolts.

Laurence Wells, who was working in a railroad tower in Fremont at the time, said the Sunday shaker "was quite a bit different."

"The one Saturday was a big jolt and then shaking," he said. "The Sunday morning one was just a rapid shaking from start to end and a lot shorter than the other one. It definitely made me jump."

Some chemical bottles were smashed and library books were again thrown from their shelves Sunday at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, a super-secret nuclear weapons research facility where extensive damage, some injuries and a leak of radioactive water were reported in the first quake Thursday.

"We've had a bit of damage, but not nearly as much as Thursday," said Jeff Garberson, information officer for the lab. "We've had spillage and breakage of glassware, including several bottles of non-radioactive chemicals."

"One laboratory library had just been picked up and hundreds and hundreds of volumes neatly placed on the shelves, and I don't have to tell you what happened."

In the Thursday quake, damage was estimated at at least $1 million, Garberson said, including possible structural damage to a five-story reinforced concrete office building. Following Sunday's quake, there was no further leaking of low-grade radioactive water from a tank damaged Thursday, Garberson said.

"We consider it an earthquake sequence," said Dr. Robert Robert Uhrhammer, University of California.

ICU Nurses Hardest To Hire

By KIM COBB

Avalanche-Journal Staff HOSPITAL intensive care units are pressure cookers.

For the nurse who works there, a few minutes can mean the difference between keeping a shaky life going and losing a patient. The critical care nurse is the hardest to hire and the first to go in a profession where turnover is a big problem.

Julie Graf is almost a stereotype of the contemporary nurse — young, aggressive and highly trained. As head nurse for the medical intensive care unit at Health Sciences Center Hospital, Miss Graf is pretty vocal about nursing and the responsibilities that go with the job.

"We don't just empty bedpans and take temperatures any more," she said, adding "It's not good enough to be licensed to pass pills."

"I've been in ICU (intensive care) for eight years," Miss Graf said. The pressure got to her — they call it "burnout" — after a couple of years of work, so she took a job as a camp nurse.

After laying out of critical care work for two years, she came back. But many don't.

"I stay because I love it," Miss Graf said, but many nurses are physically and emotionally exhausted after less than a year in ICU, where the average RN stays about nine months.

"When a patient dies, there's almost always a nurse there," Miss Graf said. Nurses become very close to both patients and their families in critical care units, she said, and the death which comes with the job is not easy.

"We cry over death, too," Miss Graf admitted. "I encourage the nurses to show emotion. It helps her and it helps the family."

Health Sciences may not be any harder hit by the nursing shortage, but has received more publicity because of its ongoing financial problems. Clamoring for more paying patients to help pay the bills, Health Sciences officials have had to turn away patients needing intensive care treatment because ICU nurses are in short supply.

Of the 12 beds available in Miss Graf's unit, only eight are open. She tries to keep the ratio of patients to nurses at two-to-one, a primary care nursing situation.

Despite the televised versions most people are exposed to, Miss Graf's staff does not rely on monitors to "watch" their patients, she says. She plans for each nurse to spend about six hours of almost constant care per person, per shift.

Sometimes they stretch themselves pretty thin. When the unit gets a surplus of patients, they deal with it as best they can. "It's no different than if we only have eight patients and two of them crash," Miss Graf said. It takes some juggling, may be assigning four of the less critically-ill patients to one nurse while the others work one-to-one with the patients needing immediate attention.

Health Sciences is designed to run as many county hospitals are — as a trauma center. That means that eventually the hospital will be running full steam with many critical care units, and need even more nurses.

With the advent of advanced critical care units and the highly-trained nurses that go with them. See PRESSURE Page 14

Temperatures Plunge In Much Of U.S.

By The Associated Press
Temperatures plunged over many of the northern states Sunday and there was heavy snow in Wyoming.
Arctic air plunged into the Plains, with sub-zero readings in the high plains of Colorado and Wyoming and bitter cold gripped Montana and the northern Plains.
The temperature dropped to 19 below at St. Cloud, Minn. Morning lows were only a few degrees above zero in the Texas Panhandle.
Heavy snow continued in Wyoming and spread into the Nebraska panhandle. Cheyenne, Wyo., got five inches of snow for a total of 20 on the ground. Snow was falling at the rate of one inch an hour at Rawlins, Wyo. A heavy snow warning was issued for southeast Wyoming.
Light snow continued around the Great Lakes region. There was a foot of snow at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. Hibbing, Minn., had 16 inches.

Temperatures around the country at 2 p.m. EST ranged from 76 degrees at Palm Springs, Calif., to 12 degrees below zero at Butte, Mont.
For Monday, rain was forecast for southern California and the Southwest deserts, with snow from the Intermountain region through the central Rockies, across the central Plains into the Great Lakes and the Ohio Valley. Partly cloudy skies were forecast for the northern Plains and the Northwest.
Bitter cold was forecast in the northern Plains, with below zero readings in Montana and North Dakota and freezing temperatures across the central half of the country. Temperatures in the 60s were predicted for the Gulf Coast, with 70s for Florida and southern Texas.

Here is Sunday afternoon weather in selected cities:
*East: Atlanta 45, foggy; Boston 34, fair; Buffalo 26, snow; Caribou 23, windy; Charleston, S.C. 46, drizzle; Cincinnati 32, partly cloudy; Cleveland 24, partly cloudy; Detroit 23, cloudy; Indianapolis 29, fair; Knoxville 54, partly cloudy; Nashville 36, drizzle; New York 34, fair; Philadelphia 32, partly cloudy; Pittsburgh 26, fair; Richmond 40, partly cloudy; Washington 36, cloudy.
*Central: Bismarck -1, partly cloudy; Chicago 11, snow; Denver 6, cloudy; Des Moines 12, partly cloudy; Fort Worth 31, cloudy; Kansas City 14, partly cloudy; Minneapolis-St. Paul 2, fair; New Orleans 52, cloudy; St. Louis 20, snow.

Weather To Warm Slightly

A slight warming trend that was expected to raise temperatures above the freezing mark Sunday never quite made it into the area and, as a result, most of the South Plains shivered under dreary skies for the entire weekend.
That ever-so-gentle warm pattern should bump its way across West Texas today, though, raising temperatures into the mid 40s by afternoon Tuesday should see a return to near-freezing temperatures, with highs across the area expected to be no more than 35 degrees.
The chance for precipitation remains fairly strong as long as the heavy, low-hanging clouds remain over the area. Winds should be southwesterly at 5 to 20 mph Monday.

Heavy snows have been reported across parts of the Texas Panhandle during the past 24 hours, though no measurable amounts have fallen across the South Plains. Light snowfall dotted parts of the area through the night Sunday, but as of Sunday afternoon only the northwestern corner of town could claim snow on the ground.
The mostly cloudy skies and chance of scattered snowfall should remain with us through today and Tuesday. Traveler's advisories will be posted for persons traveling north from the South Plains, especially into the Midwest and middle Rocky Mountains states.

CAREERS

By JOYCE LAIN KENNEDY

Despite a generally unsure labor picture, employers are in the mood to hire this year's college graduates — technical and business majors, that is.
Several surveys indicate corporate talent hunters will try to sign up an even larger crop of new hands than last year's pace-setting number.
In one nationwide study, the hiring quotas of 534 private employers surveyed by the College Placement Council are up 13 percent from '79. A similar survey by Michigan State University of 471 firms shows more modest hiring plans — up 1 to 2 percent. The Employment Management Association polled 560 companies and found 46 percent plan to hire the same number as last year, but 40 percent anticipate heavier hiring needs.
By any of the measures, unless there's a reversal in the next few months, a fertile job market awaits '80 graduates — except in the liberal arts, which may suffer an 8 percent cutback, according to the College Placement Council.
The biggest starting salaries are being offered in such high-demand fields as electrical, mechanical, chemical and petroleum engineering and computer science — where increases are expected to range in the 7-8 percent level — says John D. Shingleton, Michigan State's placement director. An increase of 5-6 percent is forecast for metallurgical and civil engineering, business, marketing and sales, chemistry, accounting, agriculture and math. Worst off on money increases — echoing lightweight demand for their services — are majors in human ecology, social science, liberal arts and education.
Prospects for federal employment are moderate to low, but improved over last year, which was the skimpiest in college recruitment since the '50s.
Science, math and various technical majors join engineers in the recruitment spotlight. The MBAs will do as well in popularity as last year, perhaps better.
By type of employer, the Michigan State survey says recruitment heavy hitters include public accounting, aerospace, electronics, merchandising, military and petroleum industries.
Other good bets employers in electronic equipment, food and beverage processing, hospitals and health services, hotels and motels, metals and utilities.
Automotive recruitment is a notable bleak — a 7 percent drop is expected by the College Placement Council.
Where are the best places for college grads to scout jobs? The Southcentral, Northcentral and Southwest regions, says one survey, the lowest-ranked are the Southeast, Northeast and Northwest.
The bachelor's is by far the most popular degree. Between 51-60 percent of jobs in the Michigan State survey require a baccalaureate, while no more than 20 percent specify a master's or doctoral degree.
If the liberal arts are making a comeback, as some educators assert, it is not obvious in this year's job forecasts.

Arkansas To Select Delegates

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Arkansas will pick the first delegates to the Republican national convention next Saturday, but early indications are the delegates will be pretty evenly divided between candidates for president.

Ronald Reagan, the former California governor, is favored to draw the largest concentration of the state's 19 delegates, but one state GOP official predicted there would not be more than four delegates separating the top candidate from the bottom.

Of the states' delegates to the July convention in Detroit, 12 will be chosen Saturday (Feb. 2) in four separate party congressional meetings across the state. The remaining seven will be elected by the Republican State Committee in Little Rock Feb. 16, making Arkansas the first state in the nation to choose its GOP delegates.

"As of today, I don't think anybody is going to get a majority of the 19," said Delia Combs, executive director of the state GOP.

She said she believed most of the 12 to be chosen Saturday would be committed to a candidate but several of those to be chosen Feb. 16 will be uncommitted.

"So it will be July when we get to Detroit before we know for sure (where they all stand)," Mrs. Combs said. "Some party leaders felt they had to remain uncommitted."

Once at the national convention, those who were chosen committed to a candidate are not bound to stick with him.

"They can change their minds but I wouldn't come back to Arkansas," Mrs. Combs said. "Legally they could change their minds but I don't think that would be a very good idea."

Arkansas Republicans held a presidential primary in 1976 and Reagan won over former President Gerald Ford. If a primary were being held this year, Reagan would be favored to win handsily.

Reagan finished second to former U.N. Ambassador George Bush in the Iowa caucuses Monday but Mrs. Combs said that probably would not have much effect on his chances in Arkansas.

"I do not think Reagan was hurt in Arkansas by the Iowa caucus but it can't do anything but help Ambassador Bush," She said. "I haven't heard any talk on anybody switching from Reagan."

Reagan's state campaign coordinator, J.J. Vigneault, cautiously predicted his candidate would draw just over half the delegates.

"We'll be happy with a majority (of the 19)," said J.J. Vigneault, a Reagan campaign coordinator in the state. "I think we've got a chance to get 10 but I'm not saying we'll walk away with it."

All the major contenders have made at least one personal appearance in the state to court party leaders and former Texas Gov. John Connally threw a reception and dinner that cost him $8,000 to $10,000.

One party official predicted that in Saturday's action, Connally and Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., would receive three delegates each, Bush two and Reagan four of the 12 that will be determined.

Judge To Determine Contract's Validity

DALLAS (AP) — The validity of a multi-million dollar contract between a Dallas-based computer firm and the Iranian government now must be determined by a federal judge.

Attorneys concluded two weeks of testimony Friday before U.S. District Judge Robert W. Porter, who faces the task of deciding whether the Ayatollah Khomeini's revolutionary government owes Electronic Data Systems Inc. the $23 million balance on a September 1976 agreement.

Defense attorneys attempted last week to prove H. Ross Perot's company obtained the $41 million contract to provide a computerized national health care program to Iran through promises of kickbacks.

The bribes, the Iranians argue, were funneled to deposed Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi through the Mahvi Foundation, which allegedly was to receive $1.7 million from EDS over a two-year-period for securing the contract.

HEARTLINE: I realize that Heartline is not a medical column and you do not give medical advice. But I have a unique problem. My mother is nearly 70 years old. She reads your column faithfully. You have helped her in the past two times with different problems. Now I need help for her.

She has arthritis and it is progressively getting worse. Recently, she and three other elderly neighbors of hers (they live in a highrise for oldsters) somehow got a hold of information on some kind of quackery treatment.

An ointment that costs $39.00 for a 3 oz. jar. It is delivered by a lady who claims to be a faith healer. I had it analyzed and it is nothing but a common muscle relaxer ointment, probably scraped out of a brand name jar into these tiny jars.

My mother claims that it sometimes helps. Her own doctor told her that this ointment is phoney and could have no effect on her arthritis, but she decided that he is jealous and now she won't see him again.

She has faith in Heartline and I really think it would help if you could print this letter in your column along with some facts about arthritis. — D.A.

ANSWER: Arthritis is man's oldest known chronic illness. Bones of the Java ape man and the mummies of Egypt show signs of arthritic damage. Ancient Greeks and Romans are known to have been victims of this disease which has tormented mankind through the ages.

Arthritis refers to the types of rheumatic disease which attack the joints. Other types that involve the muscles, tendons, ligaments, or bursae, are referred to as rheumatism. The effects of rheumatic disease may vary from slight pain, stiffness or swelling to crippling and total disability.

The word arthritis means inflammation of a joint. But arthritis as we now know it often involves much more than just aches and pains around a joint. In fact, inflamed joints may be only one manifestation of the more than 90 different diseases that can be considered arthritis.

The three most common of these diseases are rheumatoid arthritis, osteoarthritis and gout. Each is a distinct disease with different causes and different prospects for recovery, requiring different methods of treatment.

If you have arthritis, do not try to treat yourself. All forms of arthritis must be treated by a qualified physician. Some kinds of arthritis are aggravated by massage or exercise that may be useful in other forms of the disease.

You should beware of quack remedies and devices. Arthritis victims waste hundreds of millions of dollars every year on fraudulent drugs, devices and treatments. There is no quick cure for arthritis. The best that can be expected from any of these treatments is temporary relief; the worse is severe and permanent injury.

Your doctor can best prescribe treatment of your type of arthritis, and can give you safer and probably cheaper remedies for temporary relief of the pain.

DRAFT FIGHT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A group calling itself the Coalition Against Registration and the Draft says it will take its fight against reinstatement of the military draft to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary. Mary Faylen, vice president of the Southern California American Civil Liberties Union, said Saturday the coalition is made up of more than 150 social and religious groups, as well as members from different political parties. "When we are not at war and there is no immediate threat to us, it amounts to involuntary servitude, which is clearly prohibited by the 13th Amendment," she said.

Draft Signup Long Past Due

ALL OF A sudden, the Mideast crisis is more than a headline to millions of American young men.

If President Carter has his way, and Congress gives its approval, the machinery for implementing the registration of young men, and possibly women, between the ages of 20 and 26 will be set in motion.

The action is part of the President's program designed to serve notice on the Soviet Union that the U.S. will do "whatever is necessary" to halt Russian aggression.

PART OF THE program has predictably drawn opposition.

There have been sporadic opposition on some campuses to renewal of the draft machinery. And the plan to include women, which Mr. Carter reportedly favors, is drawing fire.

Any plan including women would not involve combat service, it has been emphasized. But, use of women in any future draft service needs as members of the uniformed services would be "most consistent with the President's philosophy," a high ranking administration official has said.

WE LONG HAVE felt that some sort of compulsory national service program should be in effect.

Had we maintained such a plan the past seven years since the draft was halted, the nation might not find itself in the shape it is in today. And, despite opinion to the contrary, the youth of the country most likely would be the better for it.

The draft was dropped, of course, because it was felt that in the wake of Vietnam that it was not needed. Too, because of the protests and general reaction to Vietnam, there was no popular support for such a program, especially one which many persons regarded as unfair and unequally administered.

IN THAT respect, the President has served notice that any new registration, including actual draft service if it became necessary, would be one which would work "across the board."

That would mean, quite rightly, that every eligible young man should serve, not just those who could not afford to go to college, work on a farm or otherwise seek a convenient way of avoiding duty to his nation.

AS FOR THE registration of women, we have mixed emotions.

There certainly is a place for women in the services, in desk work, in aircraft and other types of maintenance, in training missions of all sorts and other key jobs. But, we would draw the line at any sort of service involving combat, although some nations do make use of women in that area.

It is far past time Americans realized that survival is not a half-way thing. It includes all of us. Many have made the sacrifice in the past that we might enjoy the freedom of today.

Tuition Increase Worth Study

A COLLEGE TUITION rate hike, as proposed by the state Coordinating Board, is certainly worthy of consideration as a way of getting those who benefit directly from a service to pay a little higher portion of the cost.

Tuitions at Texas state colleges and universities have not been raised since 1971, since when double-digit inflation has added mightily to the costs of providing quality educations for the students.

Although the Coordinating Board did not specify an amount, Vice Chairman Tom Rhodes, Gov. Bill Clements' former budget officer, said he strongly favors doubling the tuition now charged Texas residents.

That fee now is $4 per credit hour with a minimum of $50 per semester. This covers a very small percentage of the cost of operating an institution of higher learning.

DOUBLING TUITION charges would increase revenues by only $28.4 million a year, which wouldn't even begin to cover the projected increase in state spending for higher education next year.

M. STANTON EVANS:

'Whiches' Get Burned At Regulatory Stake

WASHINGTON—The cause of free enterprise seems to be perpetually losing on Capitol Hill because it is always being "whiched."

The art of "whicheing" consists of establishing some taxing, regulatory or other interventionist policy as an unquestioned goal of legislation, then allowing the victims to choose among alternative routes to get there.

By this device, the argument is over before it begins, debate becomes a squabbling about details, and the nation's march to regimentation continues at a steady pace.

A prime example of this technique is the struggle over the so-called "windfall profits tax," to be imposed as a condition of de-controlling petroleum prices.

BEGINNING FROM the assumption that such a tax must be enacted, our lawmakers have agreed that it should exact a grand total of $227 billion from the petroleum companies over 10 years time.

With all of this assumed, the oil companies have been effectively "whicheed." The only remaining question, as one spokesman puts it, "is to decide where this money will come from."

And that perception has touched off a battle royal between the large petroleum companies and the independents as to which of them should bear the burden of the levy.

At issue is a Senate-passed exemption for the independents, which would relieve their first 1,000 barrels of daily production from the added tax.

SINCE MOST of the independents are relatively small producers, this provision would exempt about 98 percent of them, it is calculated as well that this provision would slice expected revenues from the tax by $50 billion.

This prospect has drawn bitter protests from the

Timely Quotes

The public speaker remembers "when I went shopping with a grocery list, not three credit references."

Did you know the government presses are grinding out $46,000 a minute? And it seems like someone else in government is spending it twice as fast.

Funding formulas recommended by the Board's finance committee last week would raise state spending for colleges and universities by $141 million in 1982 and by another $93.5 million in 1983.

That would be a 22 percent increase next year and another 12.1 percent on top of that the next year.

Even in the face of 13.3 percent inflation, those spending levels will be hard to justify, especially if enrollments level off.

The Coordinating Board, for example, rejected by a 7-8 vote Chairman Buryl Milburn's attempt to hold recommended faculty salary increases to 12.6 percent a year.

Nevertheless, giving full weight to probable legislative whittling of funding proposals, costs will go up next year and, after nine years, it's hard to argue against a tuition hike to help cover those costs.

Of course, in order to protect those students who are needy but who have college potential and desire, the Legislature will have to provide adequately for scholarship loans and grants if tuition hikes are made.

major oil companies. They argue that, if the windfall profits tax must infallibly produce $227 billion in revenues, then $50 billion the independents don't have to pay is $50 billion that will have to come out of the hide of the majors themselves.

So they are opposing the exemption the Senate wants to give the independents.

As long as the rules of "whicheing" are observed, the majors have a point. If the tax absolutely, positively must yield $227 billion, or any other fixed amount, anything the independents don't provide will have to be extracted from the majors.

BUT THEIR method of protesting this condition, and their lobbying against the exemption for independents, is not likely to make the situation better. A totally different approach is called for.

In the first place, it is wrong in principle and a bit unseemly in practice for one branch of petroleum to be lobbying for higher taxes on another—the spot that both the large and small producers have been backed into.

For those who oppose the further growth of government in our economy, a good general rule is: Oppose higher taxes on anyone, for any purpose, at any time. Don't get "whicheed" into plumping for higher taxes on the other guy.

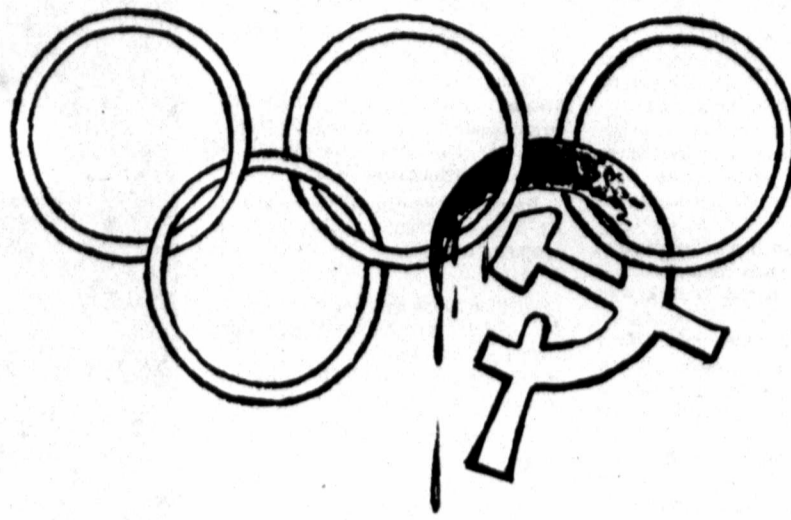

How, then, to resolve the problem of equity? Simple enough: lower the proposed taxes on the majors by an amount equivalent to the tax break for the independents.

USE THE discrepancy, not to raise the other guy's taxes, but to decrease your own. This is a particularly valid argument for the majors in view of the acknowledgment by the Carter regime that they need incentives to stand out and get more oil.

As matters currently stand, the big government forces are sitting pretty. They have got the alleged need for a further gigantic tax hike accepted as incontestable, and have the petroleum companies fighting among themselves concerning the proper method of payment.

This is ridiculous. The companies' lobbying goal should be to battle lower taxes on both majors and independents, and to take the difference out of the hide of government.

And to resolve, on top of that, never again to let themselves be "whicheed."

Insecurity Council

DONALD GRAFF:

Iran Out Of Focus

WASHINGTON—If anyone ever manages to come up with an exact definition of what is news, it will make news.

Meanwhile, we make do with such less than comprehensive efforts of Webster and others as "a report of a recent event," "new information," "matter that is interesting to audiences," "a newsworthy matter," "any person or thing thought to merit special attention."

By any of those standards, the situation in Iran certainly qualifies.

Not, however, in the opinion of a growing body of critics of how the media is dealing with the flow of information from Tehran.

The complaint is that the news organizations are allowing themselves to be used as a "forum for propaganda on the part of Iranian authorities...."

REPRESENTATIVE OF the reaction of many American authorities, those last are the words of Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., assistant House leader, in specific reference to an interview with a captive marine corporal telecast by NBC.

Neither network, however, had shown such reluctance on earlier occasions. Both had joined in the general rush for interviews with the Ayatollah Khomeini, a personage unquestionably meriting special attention.

But it was the resultant mass exposure accorded this eminence noire of the revolution that suggested there might be cause for concern over American news-gathering activities in a chaotic Iran.

THIS INCLUDES the press, of course, as well as television. But it is television, a much more intense medium reaching vast numbers of people simultaneously, upon which attention and criticism focuses.

This was recognized early and clearly by the ayatollah and company. But whether it is really doing them any good is another matter.

The circumstances in which American hostages are being permitted to speak are fully apparent and it is doubtful that anyone evaluates their words in any other terms.

The question remains whether it is proper for the American media to be a party to it. In seeking the answer, several points should be considered. First, all events in revolutionary Iran, whether manipulated or not, are of intense interest to American audiences.

SECOND, HUMAN affairs are essentially untidy and disorganized, particularly when they reach the revolutionary stage. So is the free reporting of same.

The real story of what is happening in Iran is not going to be wrapped up in a single, certified error-free report.

It emerges instead as a mosaic, built up from the myriad bits and pieces of reportage pouring out of a society at war with itself.

Some of those bits may be misinformation. Some of the pieces may be less information than propaganda.

But there is another term for deliberate selectivity in determining which bits and pieces are to qualify as news.

It's called managing information.

The Brighter Side

A brewery employe while stirring a large vat of beer lost his balance and fell in. His wife was called to the brewery and given the awful news of his drowning.

After regaining her composure she allowed that she assumed his death was "at least merciful and quick." The foreman shook his head saying, "I don't know about that. He got out twice to go to the bathroom."

The Madrid session will review progress in human rights and European "security" promised—and ignored—by Moscow at the 1975 Helsinki conference.

Despite his reputation as an admirable establishment liberal Republican of a bygone era, Scranton is viewed by human rights advocates as unqualified for the assignment.

"Bill Scranton?," mused one high official asked about the impending appointment. "Frankly, I would prefer Mac Toon."

Malcolm Toon is the foreign service Soviet expert who quit as ambassador to the Soviet Union last year, criticizing the administration for being "sloppy" in dealing with the Kremlin.

Vance could depend on Scranton, his friend and fellow Yale man, not to roil the waters in Madrid as Toon might.

Scranton lacks an insider's knowledge of the human rights campaign in the Soviet Union and the shocking late there of "Helsinki-watch" committees.

That would seem to suggest presidential caution in naming Scranton, or any outsider, even with business as usual.

Business as usual, however, between Washington and Moscow ended when the Soviet Union's military took over Afghanistan.

SOME HIGHLY respected U.S. officials, past and present, quietly argue that Carter should pull the U.S. out of the Vienna negotiations on European armaments (MBFR) now that the Soviet tanks have rumbled.

Others are counseling the administration that even the Madrid meeting on European "security" should be postponed, talking about international "security" with Moscow after the invasion of a sovereign state is demeaning and a sign of weakness.

Such counsel is getting nowhere as yet in the inner councils of the secretary of state.

Vance chose Scranton (well before the Soviet killings started in Afghanistan) partly to bar boat-rocking at Madrid by U.S. human rights advocates.

HE BELIEVED Scranton would not be spearpoint for the American human rights constituency as Arthur Goldberg brilliantly was at the first post-Helsinki conference in Belgrade in 1977—much to Vance's annoyance.

However unfair that may be to independent-minded Bill Scranton, there is no sign so far that the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan has changed Vance's mind.

The secretary's calm and constancy contrast with primordial emotions unleashed by Afghanistan and now running high among Americans—and Russians, as well.

For example, Washington correspondent Thomas Kielinger of the respected West German newspaper Die Welt in an interview published Jan. 14 quoted a ranking (but anonymous) Soviet diplomat mocking Carter's much-advertised "rapid deployment force" to safeguard the Mideast and Persian Gulf oil.

"Rapid deployment force? What is 'rapid deployment?'" I believe we have demonstrated that in Afghanistan."

THE RUSSIAN diplomat used blunt language to deride U.S. influence and power in the world today.

The years in which the U.S. had the say as to what could and what could not be done in the world are past, once and for all. We can no longer tolerate Washington behaving as though it were the umpire of contemporary history.

Such views publicly expressed by a disciplined Soviet diplomat would have been unthinkable in any previous U.S.-Soviet crisis.

Likewise, the deep hostility to Moscow exhibited by those who want the Vienna arms talks broken has also reached an emotional high point that seems to have escaped Vance and his inner circle.

That is the background of the proposed Scranton appointment and its nod to business as usual.

VANCE DOES not view the Madrid conference as a heaven-sent opportunity for the U.S. to make a weighty case to an international tribunal against Soviet thuggery—denial of human rights at home and military invasion abroad.

This will please U.S. allies in Western Europe, who want no confrontation at Madrid or anywhere else with Moscow's overbearing power.

But it dangerously ignores the mood in the world and raises anew most serious questions about U.S. will.

JAY HARRIS:

A Sunday Drive...

WITH THE price of gasoline soaring ever higher, an old American custom may soon be passe.

Time was when "taking a Sunday drive" was part and parcel of family togetherness. It still is for many persons, even if it is no farther than the latest showing of new homes, or to the countryside during the spring and summer to enjoy the green fields.

With a salute to the OPEC and the Arabs, we took such a journey recently. It is an amazing and impressive world right here on our own doorsteps. And we wager there are literally thousands who for whatever reason stay glued to the sports spectacles on Sunday and never take a look at what's around them.

It's too bad. Lubbock and environs, no matter what the 1980 Census may show, is bursting at the seams.

TIME WAS about a decade ago when the southern edges of Lubbock, for all practical purposes was along and just south of 50th Street.

In fact, at one point there was serious consideration given to making that thoroughfare the southern route for the Loop. In some ways, it might have been a wise decision.

Ten years ago, when the other Census was being taken, and just after the Lubbock Tornado, if anyone had suggested that by 1980, Lubbock would have houses in profusion with addresses on 80th Street, 90th Street and beyond, he would have been hauled off to the cages.

Today, some of the more impressive and unusual developments, and certainly some of the more expensive abodes, are in that part of town. And not to be outdone, the city has started a long-delayed expansion toward the north and northwest with a new development at Fourth and Slide Westgate and Rush in that area have long been among the more impressive parts of west Lubbock.

WE STARTED our journey by heading out Slide Road toward 82nd Street.

Along the way, we passed burgeoning new businesses of every description, shape and decor, from the South Plains Mall area on.

There are new shopping areas, office buildings, a whole new auto row, a new Postoffice, new churches and hundreds upon hundreds of new homes in places where there were only spaces five, four, three, two years ago...

And in the innovative LakeRidge Development, just off 82nd and spreading outward from Vicksburg Ave., Lubbock has a unique project to compare with any in the nation. Not only are there unusual homes, many in the $100,000 and way up category, but there is a clubhouse, a golf course which winds through the "back yards" of the residences, a lake-to-be and a view of sorts.

WE AREN'T IN the business of selling lots or houses or anything else in this particular project.

And as a matter of fact, there are numerous areas of the city closer in with equally fantastic and impressive homes and beautifully landscaped yards. It's just that we believe that anything that benefits one part of town helps the whole city. Hence the plug.

Over on Fourth and Slide, one of the newer developments is now getting underway in a big way. Called Whisperwood, the project takes in about 227 acres inside the Loop's northwest "corner," and includes 235 home sites. An extension is planned just north of the Loop.

One of the highlights of the Fourth and Slide project will be a new restaurant, called Tara. It will occupy the former John King house, which was patterned after the Tara of Gone With The Wind fame. The restaurant will have a touch of French cuisine, along with other choices of food and will cater to the public.

THIS PROJECT also will include at least two major department and food store units and if present plans go through a new bank just to the west of Tara.

Actually, we caught the Fourth Street development on a round-a-way back look at Lake Ransom Canyon, which was our next stop after 82nd Street.

At Lake Ransom, about a 15-minute drive southeast of the city is another unusual residential development. Built in, around, on top off and clinging to the at times sheer walls of the canyon are more unusual homes, including one "made of metal."

With the lake just below Buffalo Lakes as the piece-de-resistance, Lake Ransom Canyon offers an alternate life style for those who want to get away from the somewhat more cramped confines of the city, even one the size of Lubbock.

THE LATE EVENING sun was glinting golden off the canyon walls as we drove through the area.

The lake was dotted with fowl, a boat in the distance. Bicycle riders picked their way cautiously through the tree-lined lanes. High up on the canyon, it appeared work was underway on what has to be one of the most unusual architectural designs for a home in the entire nation.

We then headed home, swinging north around the Loop, where Lubbock's growing industrial complex has spilled over, in the International Airport area, along the eastern edges of the city and of course sprawling Texas Instruments to the north.

The sun by now was, as the travelogues say, slowly sinking into the west. And that is something which hasn't changed. From the days when the cowboys and ranchers first came to these Old Baldies, the sunsets—golden reds, purples, blues, fleecy whites, foaming pinks and yellows—have painted a bit of Heaven across the skyscape.

We have seen some unusual places and sunsets all over the world in recent years. But, home is still a nice place to come home to...

School To Aid Missile Modernization Planned

EL PASO (AP) — A NATO school is being launched here to help modernize Nike surface-to-air missiles used by six European countries.

The Army has been training foreign students in Nike missile maintenance at Redstone Arsenal, in Huntsville, Ala., and at Fort Bliss, located near El Paso.

Ulrich Menzel, a German Air Force officer on leave from the military, is coordinating the project for NATO. Menzel, 41, moved here last March.

NATO will spend about $20 to get the school in operation and classes will begin in October, Menzel said.

The missile system uses nuclear or conventional warheads to break up enemy aircraft formations. "It is a very old system and the U.S. Army is phasing it out in the near future," says Menzel.

However, Belgium, Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Greece and possibly Turkey plan to update their Nike systems, Menzel said.

The system renovation is needed because the countries cannot get spare parts for the systems, according to Menzel. He says manufacturers have nearly stopped making vacuum tubes, for instance.

The NATO school will train specialists to maintain readily-available solid state missile circuitry.

"This modification does not significantly increase the capabilities of the system," says Menzel.

Army Officer Heads Draft Registration

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man charged with carrying out President Carter's mandate to reinstate draft registration was an Army officer during the Vietnam war with a desk job in Washington.

Bernard Rostker, 35, the new director of the Selective Service System, was trained to be a tank commander but was assigned to work in the office of an assistant secretary of defense in the Pentagon during his two years of active duty between 1968 and 1970.

Asked in a telephone interview why he didn't serve in Vietnam, Rostker said, "I don't know. I was a graduate student finishing up my Ph.D. in economics. I'm sure that had an impact. They (at the Pentagon) were interested in bright young fellows."

Did he consider volunteering for Vietnam duty?

"I was in the service," Rostker said, his voice rising. "I went where I was told to go. I served. I did not go to Vietnam. I would have gone wherever they sent me."

Rostker, who grew up in the Bronx section of New York City, was a member of the Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) as a student at New York University and was commissioned a lieutenant upon graduation. During his military service and in the decade since then, he has specialized in military manpower problems.

Last fall, at a time when Carter was saying he had no plans to register anyone, Rostker took over as head of the Selective Service, an agency with only 98 employees — tiny by Washington standards — and a budget of $7 million.

Carter plans to get the agency an immediate $10 million to carry out his new plan, and the agency anticipates seeking as much as $22 million for the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

Since last November, Rostker said, he has spent his time rebuilding an emergency-preparedness system for draft registration, just in case it became necessary.

It wasn't until late Wednesday afternoon that Rostker learned for sure that his sleepy little agency would be tossed a political hot potato.

Rostker said he had hints last week that Carter was considering reinstating the draft. But he didn't get the final word until just a few hours before Carter used his State of the Union address to inform the rest of the nation of his plan.

Rostker said he has not met personally with Carter or anyone from the White House to discuss the complexities of starting up draft registration.

Instead, he said, he has worked with the task force preparing a report for Congress, due Feb. 9, on various aspects of the Selective Service System.

By law, all males aged 18 to 26 are eligible for the draft — and they number about 16 million.

Administration officials say no decision has been made on whether the nation's 17 million women in the same age group will be required to register.

In the past, Carter has said that if it ever became necessary to sign up people for the draft, he would favor registering both men and women.

The president has legal authority to order a draft registration, but he would need congressional approval to authorize registering women.

Carter will make the final judgment, Rostker said.

"The decision hinges on a lot of things," Rostker said, but he refused to name them, saying only: "Ask the White House. We are in the role of carrying out policy."

Rostker said the present law provides no exemptions for students. "But we are still working out the details," he added.

erators Robert and Priscilla Sims; catering manager Danny Waller, and (bottom) one of the two mobile units in which food is prepared on the spot in the catering segment of the firm's services.

"Anniversary Specials" are in effect Tuesday through Saturday of this week at the two Southern Sea establishments in Lubbock — at the 10th & Q facility and at the South Loop 289 — Indiana Avenue location.

The specials are a very practical and convincing way of saying "thank you" upon occasion of the first anniversary of the downtown Southern Sea.

The featured specials, Tuesday through Saturday, remember, include: Fish and Fries, snack-size portions of fish, batter (flour) fried, french fries, hot puff and honey, all just $1.99!

And the two-piece order of chicken, with two hot puffs and honey, only 99 cents for the announced days!

Though in observance of the downtown Southern Sea anniversary, the specials are being made available at either location; visit the one nearest for a new experience in eating goodness and economy!

Owners Robert and Priscilla Sims have been prominent on the Lubbock restaurant scene for six years as founders and owner-operators of their own establishments including the Indiana Avenue restaurant that opened in 1976 and has since enjoyed continued and expanded patronage.

Functionally Beautiful
Then, on Jan. 22, 1979, the downtown Southern Sea opened, with its most attractive building (both exterior and interior drawing acclaim), delightful food service innovations, seating for 220, extra-size booths, a serving program minimizing time in line, etc., all correctly conveying that Southern Sea "appreciates and considers you as a valued customer."

The reception was instantaneous and enthusiastic. It has been a year of achievement, growth and service for the downtown Southern Sea in each of its departments including the restaurant, the carry-out department and its catering service that is utilized area-wide.

Since its opening, Southern Sea has greatly expanded its menu in a program of customer service. There is the Sea-feast, chicken fried steak (USDA choice), stery, etc. The convertible customizing by Auto Care Center can be done on other light pickups including Ford Courier, Datsun, Toyota and Mazda. Varga reports.

"Your vehicle will like us, too!"

Auto Care Center can be truthfully said to specialize in each... whether installation of T-Tops, all types of auto upholstery, tailormade seat covers, vinyl tops

tion.

know no other firm than Auto Care Center, owned and actively operated by Steve Varga.

Personal Service

Varga, as owner, founder and operator of the "modern concept" business at 2507 Texas Ave., maintains a most capable staff. T-Tops can be installed on most vehicles (models '71 and later) and sun-roofs can be put on almost any car. Steve is on the job to personally guard the reputation of craftsmanship and integrity the firm has enjoyed.

T-Tops not only are available at the Texas Avenue headquarters, but also are available through many dealers.

After-Market Products
With a lot of "after-market" products on hand, together with parts, Auto Care Center is open six days a week, stocking digital clocks and other items. Both Master Charge and Visa use is welcomed.

It is a factory-type product and factory-type job one can expect at Auto Care Center. These roofs have become a tradition in style and craftsmanship, unparalleled in looks and technology. So why wait? Let the professionals install the ultimate roof concept in your own vehicle.

ronment in a way you've always wanted invited the sky into your car, we'll make it possible, you'll thrill at discovering that being face to face with the sky is the mere pull of a lever away!"

Also check with Steve Varga for electric sunroof repairs, for what Varga emphasizes is the largest stock of auto upholstery in town, and for quality service in any installation. Watch these pages for the ads of Varga enterprises, and for further stories pinpointing services and products that can make driving more pleasant for you, your family and friends.
It could be a whole new world of motoring enjoyment that awaits!

World Wide's Professionalism Simplifies Travel Arrangements

"Let us plan your cruise... you deserve no less than selection from the exceptional good cruise buys now being made available! Really, cruises are among the most relaxing, enjoyable and economical values in travel packages today.

"If you value good service and a professional approach to your travel needs (cruise or otherwise), then the invitation is extended to call or stop in for a visit at World Wide Travel, Court Place, 100 Main, Lubbock, a full service locally owned travel agency."

World Wide Travel, phone 762-0311, is reported as the oldest travel agency in Lubbock, and it is fully staffed and geared to handling one's personal or commercial travel.

"Just one phone call can take care of your trip arrangements... when that call is to the professionals at World Wide Travel, leaving you free to take care of your own business and get ready for the trip."

Free Delivery
The Services of World Wide Travel are free to the customer, and the firm is justifiably proud of its multiple services—such as free delivery, for example.

Office hours are 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday; free parking is provided, just across the street, and itineraries are furnished with each ticket.

Staffed To Serve
The capable staff marks some 35 years combined experience in the field, and is headed by Cindy Jones who has been with the firm for 10 years. The staff travels extensively and can assist with first-hand knowledge in most trip inquiries.

Travel today is a complex and changing field requiring a competent professional to keep up with these changes. World Wide travel agents are professionals in their field, with each rendering service from research and years of experience.

Whether the situation is an impending cruise, group and convention travel, train travel, air travel, hotel and car rental reservation, tours and tailored itineraries or a honeymoon, World Wide travel knows that it can be of full assistance.

"Honeymooners are a special group with us, and though requiring work with budgets and time limits, the enthusiastic staff is ready to fill the travel needs of the special honeymooners, making this important time an even better trip with our interest and aid."

There are very good "buys" in travel in spots throughout the world; and the World Wide travel staff knows of these particular values, glad to pass on suggestions and helps, whatever the travel desire.

"May we at World Wide travel, Lubbock's oldest and most experienced travel agency, make your own trip, in any season, the most pleasant ever? Please call, 762-0311, or visit us in our Court Place offices, 1001 Main in Lubbock."

Added Location, On 19th, Opened By Hufstedler GMC As Customer Benefit

"Yes, you were right; that was a Hufstedler truck sign that you saw at 19th and Texas!"

The fact is that Hufstedler GMC Truck Co., at 1802 Erskine Road, is expanding, not only maintaining its present modern quarters but providing the public an added convenience with its used pickup headquarters opened at the busy and popular 19th & Texas corner.

Select at this added location for finest values in '79 pickups, '79 customized vans and for those in-demand full-time 4-wheel-drive units with the big 400 engine.

Neither the 400 engine or the full-time 4-wheel-drive is available in GMC '80 models, so if one is fortunate enough to find the vehicle of his or her choice (which we likely have) at the new headquarters for used units, an exceptional and not-to-be-repeated value awaits Hufstedler makes it possible.

And for rugged quality 1980 models in the Jimmy, pickups or vans, see the exciting selection at Hufstedler GMC Truck Co. at its 1802 Erskine Road facility. There are lots of '80 pickups ready for delivery, presently there are some 80 vans, and all with new '80 features that look good and perform good, with innovations and improvements as would be expected of GMC.

More about the '79 units at the new location:

All with the full-time 4-wheel drive enable control to the driver from inside the cab. There is no need to shift into or out of 4-wheel-drive or to get out to lock or unlock front free-wheeling hubs.

There never was a better time to enter into 4-wheelin' adventure... to make that dream a reality. For 4-wheeling touring or trailering, Jimmy comes through strong on dependable performance, toughness, comfort and good looks that last.

Check the plus features of every unit at the Hufstedler headquarters for used light trucks, new at 19th and Texas, or check for the '80 units at 1802 Erskine; distinctive features and values are the rule at each.

as Tech. LCC, the Loop and principal cross-town arteries. Don't forget the location and the easily-spotted and distinctive building at 2918 W. 4th St., Lubbock.

"Name" lines comprise the entire stock at Ski-Lubbock Sports, whether for apparel or skis.

'Name Lines' Clothing

Select from the Number One Sunline clothing, Innsbruck, Bogner, Anba, White Stag, Roffi, Obermyer, Snuggler, Demetre sweaters, and others. There are Hanson boots, too, and children's apparel is now stocked to round out the selection for the entire family.

DynaStar, Head and Olin ski lines are stocked, and the Salomon 626 and 727 ski bindings are featured, and Tyrolia 360 racing, 360 diagonal and the new 260 diagonal, even the 60 series bindings for aggressive children are stocked. Also, select from the "Look in 77" turntable bindings.

Qualified To Serve

The selection of a ski dealer might seem nothing more than a question of convenience, but take it from us (and a lot of our customers) where you buy your skis is a most important consideration, for the dealer you choose will affect the skis you choose, as well as the boots, poles, bindings and accessories you need to improve your skiing and for full enjoyment of the sport. Finding a dealer who can satisfy you in each of these areas is not difficult... simply depend upon Ski-Lubbock Sports where expertise and customer consideration is the rule rather than exception."

Tick Tock Clock Shop January Sale Means Storewide Savings

Only four days remain in the January Clearance at Tick Tock Clock Shop where everything is marked at least 10 per cent off in price, with some values even greater!

Yes, one actually can save up to $1,750 on fine items during this sale at Tick Tock, in Monterey Center (on the 50th Street side).

Aside from the pricing, there is so much at Tick Tock Clock Shop that merits its recommendation.

A fine clock, or a quality ceiling fan and the extra services that count all contribute to the big shop's image of customer consideration.

The selection, the quality and the beauty of merchandise there is a matter of record and general knowledge.

However, some of the related benefits may not be fully recognized, and a number are listed here in brief:

More than 600 clocks actually are on display!

Financing is available, as are gift certificates.

Meaningful Warranty
 There's a 3-year warranty on all key-wound clocks with German movement, and this guarantee at Tick Tock includes all parts and labor.

"And remember, we at Tick Tock Clock Shop fix anything that should malfunction on these, for a full three years. At the end of this period we can service at a nominal charge and then renew the all-inclusive warranty for three more years! What more could be asked?"

There is free delivery and set-up on all grandfather clocks.

Free gift wrap on mantle and wall clocks is afforded, of course.

Lines To Trust
 Tick Tock is authorized factory service center for the prestigious Ridgeway, Trend, Pearl, Howard Miller and Seth Thomas lines.

Big Selection Fans
 The big store comes through with a truly exceptional selection of ceiling fans, too, together with parts and accessories (blades, switches and all).

Select at super savings from Ritz, Casa Blanca, Emerson, Centennial or Unique. There are 75 models of ceiling fans, in stock, from which to choose.

The utility and beauty of the ceiling fans cannot be minimized. For more uniform heating in winter, for gentle cool air movement in summer, for energy savings that contribute very realistically to a reduced budget, ceiling fans from Tick Tock should be considered.

"In every field of endeavor, there is a leader, and there are followers. For the fourth year in a row, it is clear that Tick Tock Clock Shop is leader in its field; owners Al and Shirlene Juno and family have worked mighty hard to be sure it is so."

"We want to be your clock specialists, and in recognizing that a fine clock is today's treasure and tomorrow's heirloom, we direct all efforts to customer satisfaction... in every season."

Well Body Shop's Product Expansion, Juice Bar, Other Innovations Lauded

There must be a reason why so many Lubbock and area residents turn to the Well Body Shop for leadership in natural foods (and the juice bar!)

Realistically, the Well Body Shop has done a tremendous job in stocking and in service, continuing to add to this stock at its B-21 location in Security Park, 3602 Slide Road, phone 793-1015.

Increased freezer space within the shop has enabled stocking of organic chickens and turkeys, as example of the additions there.

The juice bar, grain grinder, a great selection of natural foods, bulk grains, a comprehensive herbicide selection, candies without sugar, perfume oils, cosmetics, Aloe Vera lip balm, soaps, herb teas, animal cookies with honey, a really quality and extensive book selection containing cook books and other books on natural foods, all contribute to the store's completeness and popularity.

Even with the large stock, everything in the shop is related to natural foods.

One might not realize that this stock includes sprouting seeds to be grown indoors for fresh vitamins and proteins, a complete and natural food ready in three to seven days. And the Arrowhead Mills all-organic foods from Hereford. And juicers and grain grinders stocked for sale.

Well Body Shop, at its Security Park location since its founding, was opened in June '78 by Dee Justice and mother, Connie Gregory. Dee's interest in natural foods could be dated from her first pregnancy, and Connie became acutely interested during an illness; both became aware of wrong eating habits, did something about it in their own situations, and then decided to assist in the health and wellbeing of others. They report the store was opened after they discovered many of their natural food and related needs were unavailable elsewhere.

"We believe a fantastic stock and an attractive, beneficial store has been provided. Let a personal visit to Well Body Shop in Security Park reveal why the shop is so appreciated."

American Equipment & Trailer Firm Includes Service Bodies In Values

Koenig, the service body for professionals to help them do their jobs more efficiently through better designed storage areas, are available at American Equipment & Trailer, Inc., 3707 Quirt Ave.

Or is it a winch for pickup, four-wheel drive unit or truck that is required? In these and other needs, American Equipment and Trailer, Inc., with over a quarter century service record, is the firm on which to depend.

For plumbers and electricians, as example, the Koenig Tip-Top service body or the Koenig So-Lo service body makes the work faster and easier.

Koenig also makes crane bodies, heavy duty servalls and mini bodies for compact trucks. Koenig makes tool boxes, side pads and winches.

For these fine products and more, American Equipment & Trailer is the name to know, the folks on which to depend, the supply source for convenience and service.

"If your business and activities involve construction, ranching, farming, trucking, industrial enterprise or even many other fields, then American Equipment & Trailer, Inc., appreciates your business, stocking and serving accordingly. Service is our business, we can work for you as we have for others!"

Need a versatile trailer for loading and hauling?

Included are Koenig service bodies, Galion dump bodies, Midwest farm bodies, Tulsa winches, Wilson livestock and grain trailers, Great Dane refrigerated trailers, Clement dump bodies, Bendix-Westinghouse air brake equipment, Michigan and Pryor gasoline tanks, tank installation kits, Auto Crane, Dur-a-Lift, and more.

New items and lines are added in a continuing program of anticipating and meeting today's and tomorrow's needs.

Of course, American Equipment & Trailer, Inc., can help one with special requirements, too.

Budget Rent A Car Airport Valet Parking Affording New Security

"It is entirely possible that during the recent holiday travel time many of you discovered what a lot of people knew all year long... that free airport valet service (with parking at just $1 per day) is available at Budget Rent A Car of Lubbock! You discovered the convenience you discovered the savings!"

Serving All Flights
Yes, one can park his or her vehicle at Budget Rent A Car, 1701 N. Quirt, at cost of only $1 per day when taking advantage of the free valet service provided right to the airport (with Budget Rent A Car servicing all flights, early and late).

Many also find it advantageous for the folks at Budget Rent A Car to service the vehicle while it is there... washing, an oil and lubrication job, etc.

Fenced Parking, Security
Now comes a further announcement

Fenced-in parking has been made available upon construction of a 700-ft. chain link and barbed wire fence, with around-the-clock extra security also arranged!

Doesn't it make sense, then, to leave your vehicle at Budget Rent A Car before airport departure?

Budget Rent A Car of Lubbock, 1701 N. Quirt Ave., not only operates from all-new facilities said to be the most modern in the area, but it provides likely a much greater scope of services than some may have realized.

You don't have to be in need of rental units to be served at this complete Enco service center where there's even a big used car lot.

As for the rental part of the business, the owner emphasizes, that "we save you money," inviting comparison of the low rates afforded on current model GM and other fine cars of all sizes.

Valet parking is one of the much-appreciated services, with Budget Rent A Car enabling one to leave a personal car there, with a firm representative taking the driver and occupants right to the airport, affording the same service upon return trip! Thus there are no long walks from parking areas; the customer is taken right to the airport doorway.

A full-service station is provided, open six days a week.

Rentals are available every day.

Some 70 to 80 cars are kept in the rental fleet at most times, right here in Lubbock.

(There is no drop charge for cars dropped in Amarillo.)

Budget Rent A Car of Lubbock (a budget Rent A Car System licensee) opened in September '78.

PEOPLE ARE IMPORTANT AT WOOLCO — Aside from its tremendous stock and its 'always low Woolco discount pricing', Woolco knows that people serving on its staff best emphasize that 'we want to be your favorite store'. Pictured above is Clotilde Abernathy, office manager, who is being honored upon her retirement after 40 years with Woolco and the parent Woolworth company in Lubbock. At left is store manager W.M. Hardman presenting a plaque that was among the gifts and honors accorded her in activities last week, and at right is Kent Sweet, assistant store manager. 'Clotie', as fellow employees call her, joined Woolworth in Lubbock back in October 1939, remaining there until 1970 when she left Lubbock until returning in 1972 to Woolco. She plans to remain in Lubbock upon her retirement this week. Below she is shown 'on the job', with payroll clerk Jackie Peterson pictured at left.

PROMOTED BY ORGANIZATION — LaNelda Gordon, with Woolco in Lubbock since its opening eight years ago, is being transferred and promoted to status of advertising director in San Antonio over eight Woolco stores there. Mrs. Gordon, shown here with Lubbock manager W.M. Hardman, has served as ad manager in the Lubbock store, more recently as personnel director. LaNelda and husband, Garry Gordon, have two children, Cari, 11-year-old daughter, and Brian, eight-year-old son. LaNelda, a Clovis (N.M.) area native, assumes her new responsibilities Feb. 1.

SNOW FUN — It's "snow fun" being locked inside when there's snow on the ground outside that's perfect for two-wheeled daredevils, and Gordon Nelson, Jr., and Eric Wood practically had their own personal snow Sunday. The boys, sons of Mr. and Mrs.

Iranian Called 'Moderate'

By The Associated Press

Abolhassan Bani Sadr, whose apparent victory in Iran's first presidential election has been taken as an encouraging sign for the American hostages in Tehran, said Sunday a solution to the crisis "becomes attainable" if the United States does not meddle in Iranian affairs.

Bani-Sadr, an economist, has held to an anti-American line but is considered a relative moderate among Iran's revolutionary leaders. He has made clear to reporters in Tehran that he believed the seizure of the hostages by Islamic students to have been misguided.

At a news conference at his campaign headquarters in Tehran, the Iranian finance minister, a close associate of Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, also said foreign reporters should be allowed unrestricted access to Iran even if false and distorted reports are sent to the rest of the world.

"False reports are better than no reports or reports from a long distance," he said — an apparent reference to the expulsion of U.S. journalists from Iran on Jan. 18.

Unofficial returns reported Bani Sadr had received a whopping 75 percent of votes cast in the presidential election. Official returns were expected Monday. Iran has 22 million eligible voters.

It has been asked how we are to resolve the U.S. Embassy crisis," Tehran radio quoted Bani Sadr as telling the journalists in a broadcast monitored in London.

"The solution to the crisis is not wholly up to us, only a part of it concerns the Iranian government." A solution will come, he continued, when the U.S. government tells Americans and others that it will "desist from expansionist policy and domination over other nations, and when it concedes the right to our people to pursue criminals anywhere in the world." He did not elaborate.

During his talk with reporters, Bani Sadr did not mention by name deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. Islamic militants holding up to 50 Americans hostage for 12 weeks have demanded the shah, living in Panama, be returned to face trial before the Americans are released.

On other subjects, Bani Sadr said:

—Iran would "assist Afghanistan rebels fighting a just cause and hope the Soviets realized their mistake" of sending troops into Afghanistan. He did not say what aid he might offer the Moslem rebels.

—Iran might boycott the summer Olympics in Moscow. "It would be difficult to participate in the Olympics in a country that has invaded our brother country and was slaughtering our brothers." Afghanistan, like Iran, is overwhelmingly Moslem.

—Iran could cope if the United States imposed economic sanctions or a blockade in a bid to force the hostages' release. "What the U.S. does not know is that the Iranian people can live with very little and can resist any blockade."

—An Iranian prime minister will be chosen after parliamentary elections scheduled for March.

In another development, the son of Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini said his father would be transferred from an intensive care unit to an ordinary hospital ward if he continued to be listed in satisfactory condition, Tehran radio reported.

There is no cause for worry, and the Imam (spiritual leader) is feeling very well," Ahmad Khomeini said in the radio broadcast, monitored in London. He said his father had been examined by doctors Sunday morning and that his pulse and blood pressure were normal. The ayatollah was taken to a Tehran hospital's cardiology department from his home in the holy city of Qom Wednesday for what his doctors described as a minor heart ailment.

The issue of the hostages, held since Nov. 4, is "one depending on the main issue, namely America's domination over Iran," Bani Sadr said.

Thus our main expectation is not only that the U.S. should definitely change its attitude on dominating Iran but also that adequate safeguards should be created to insure that it will (not) interfere in our internal affairs in the future either."

Bani Sadr continued: "The request the U.S.A. desists from its expansionist policy the matter will become different and then things would be set in train enabling one to say that a solution becomes attainable."

He was replaced after three weeks as foreign minister in November when he wanted to go to New York to take part in the U.N. Security Council debate. The debate led to a resolution calling for release of the hostages.

Hungry Shark Helps Rescue Three Sailors

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Three men who survived five hungry, thirsty days at sea and an attack by a determined shark were in satisfactory condition Sunday at a hospital, officials said.

The men were recovering from exposure and dehydration at St. Luke's Hospital, where they were taken by Coast Guardsmen after they were rescued Saturday afternoon by a passing freighter 95 miles off the coast.

"We couldn't have lived out there another day," Jerry Willis said from his hospital bed.

Willis, 35, said he and his companions, Doug Dixon, 21, of Waverly, Ohio, and Chris Napolitano, 19, of Bowie, Md., sailed from Maryland in a 40-foot sailboat he had purchased there.

The boat sank suddenly Tuesday when they were about 10 miles off southeastern Florida at Stuart — where they planned to take a cross-state waterway over to the Gulf of Mexico to Willis' home at Navarre, Fla.

"Doug came running up on deck and said the boat was flooding. I went down below, and it was like the bottom had fallen out of the boat," Willis said.

He said the boat sank quickly, and he was dragged underneath it.

"I thought I was through. When I swam to the surface, the life raft had been turned over. All the survival gear, all our food, was lost. There was no debris. There was nothing floating on the water. It was as if it had all vanished," he said.

The men huddled under a poncho on the tiny raft, with no way to control the direction of their drift. They used tennis shoes to bail water and stopped each other from giving into thirst and drinking the salty ocean water.

Saturday morning, they were awakened by a large shark.

"We were asleep when the shark started bumping the raft. We had seen sharks before, and they had circled us, but this one was determined to get us," Willis said.

"Finally, he came toward us and rolled over to bite the raft. You could see the teeth and you could see his eyes staring at us. I took out my knife (a four-inch pocket knife) and stabbed him right forward of the dorsal fin, next to the spine. It made a good penetration. It must have discouraged him, because he left," he said.

Willis said the shark provided an important wake-up call.

"If it hadn't attacked, we would never have seen the tanker," Willis said.

The men attracted the attention of the tanker Exxon-Lexington, and were pulled aboard by its crewmen, who radioed the Coast Guard.

Kennedy Needs Big Victory In Maine

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Maine used to be part of Massachusetts, so it's no surprise that Sen. Edward Kennedy is under pressure to score a decisive victory in the next battleground for the Democratic presidential nomination.

After his drubbing in Iowa, Kennedy acknowledged he has to win Maine's Feb. 10 caucuses and the New Hampshire primary two weeks later in order to keep his campaign afloat.

For President Carter, Maine represents a golden opportunity to embarrass the Massachusetts senator in his New England backyard, perhaps driving him from the race before the primaries shift to Carter's home turf in the South.

The political spotlight in Maine focuses on the Democrats, who chose to hold their precinct caucuses on the same day. The Republicans, by contrast, won't complete their political meetings until March, so the final results won't be available until after the New Hampshire primary.

Kennedy was regarded as a sure winner in Maine two months ago, securing the endorsement of Gov. Joseph E. Brennan even before he formally announced his presidential challenge. But Carter retained the support of most other leading Democrats, giving him a built-in organizational base.

Many observers agree that Kennedy's lead has eroded, and that the race could go either way. "I think it's close right now," said Democratic State Chairman Harold Pachios, who has remained neutral. "It could change dramatically in the next two weeks."

Most Carter backers say publicly that the best they can hope for is a respectable showing, but at least one partisan is predicting a narrow victory for the president. Secretary of State Rodney Quinn sports a campaign button that says "CAMBO," an acronym for "Carter and Mondale by One."

While forecasting victory, the Kennedy camp is trying to downplay Maine's ties to Massachusetts in order to lower the expectations of a big win. "The only time a Kennedy ever ran here was when John ran in 1960, and he lost," says Peter Meade, the senator's Maine man.

Organization and weather could be key factors in determining how many of Maine's 230,000 enrolled Democrats are willing to spend an hour or two on a Sunday afternoon or evening attending their precinct caucuses. The presidential preference caucuses will select 2,240 delegates to the Democratic State Convention, which in turn will pick Maine's 22 national convention delegates.

Perhaps more important than the delegates themselves is the impact that a Maine victory could have on the first-in-nation state primary in neighboring New Hampshire. Carter found this out in 1976 when he parlayed his first-place finish in Maine into a New Hampshire triumph.

Kennedy, with the most at stake in Maine, has made three campaign swings through the state, drawing sizable crowds at every stop.

Afghan Regime Seeks Accord With Guerrillas

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — Afghanistan's new Soviet-installed government is sending out signals it wants peace with anti-communist Moslem rebels who went to war when the Marxists first took power in Kabul 20 months ago.

It decided last week to abandon the black, white and red flag adopted when the first Marxist regime seized power in a coup in April 1978. And on Sunday, the new regime announced it is stripping the country of leftist slogans and pictures and removing gaudy red signs proclaiming worker solidarity.

President Babrak Karmal also proclaimed "full freedom and immunity" — amnesty — for Moslem religious and tribal leaders who fled the country after the April revolution.

Still, the big question is whether a government backed by as many as 100,000 Soviet troops can find common ground with fundamentalist Moslem guerrillas who equate communism with godlessness.

Whatever the odds, Karmal has shown he definitely intends to try for a settlement.

New Flag Foreseen

A clue to the new regime's intentions came in the government's decision to do away with the flag that accompanied the arrival of the first Marxist government. Like a matador's cape, the banner was literally a red flag waved in the face of the nation's predominantly Moslem population.

Karmal's government has invited the public to send in suggestions to help design a new flag, and it is virtually certain to contain a field of green, the traditional color of Islam.

The abolition of the present flag is one of the few policy changes the government has taken publicly. It has announced no change in foreign or economic policy, and seems to devote much of its time to uncovering the purported sins of ex-President Hafizullah Amin, the alleged "agent of imperialism and the CIA" whom Karmal overthrew Dec. 27.

Amin, who ousted and executed Tarkani last fall, was himself executed in the latest coup.

'God-Fearing' Regime

The new regime has taken pains to show the populace how God-fearing it is. Official statements usually open with the traditional Islamic preamble: "In the name of Allah the compassionate, the merciful."

A long editorial Thursday in the government-controlled newspaper, Kabul News Times, explained that the new regime's policy was socialist, but not communist, and that one could be both socialist and Moslem without being communist.

"We are all good progressive Moslems and nothing else, no matter how Western propagandists brand us," the paper said.

A decision by the country's Politburo, published in the newspaper Sunday said signs that have a "leftist character and are not in conformity with the present stage of national and democratic revolution should be collected and disposed of."

So should "all photos of the party and state leaders ... past and present," the resolution said without explanation.

Third World sources who have had contact with the Karmal government believe it wants to settle with the rebels rather than continue the bloody civil war.

It's possible that this government is trying to reach a settlement with the rebels and that some of the rebel leaders will be prevailed upon to come into the government," said one Western observer who wondered whether any rebel leader could make peace with a government backed by Soviet troops.

There is increasing speculation among foreign residents of Kabul that Karmal is nothing more than a transitional leader. The speculation reached as far as Washington last week, when the State Department said it had heard rumors that he was on the way out.

According to one scenario, the 50-year-old president will be replaced, possibly in yet another coup, by someone whose reputation as a devout Moslem is impeccable — Karmal's is not — and who is not as completely identified with the Kremlin as Karmal.

coffee maker, an electric table-top mixer, a Kirby upright vacuum cleaner, a Universal sewing machine and an electric can opener. The loss was estimated at $980, police said.

A $300 reward is also offered in the Jan. 23 burglary of a church at 1602 Quirt Ave., in which a Hammond organ and a large Leslie speaker were taken.

A vehicle had apparently been backed up to the door of the building. A white van was reportedly seen near the church about the time of the theft. The organ and speaker were valued at $5,000, police said.

A $300 reward is offered in the Jan. 22 burglary of a residence at 5216 87th St., in which goods valued at $1,750 were taken.

The victim told police the door latch had been forced open. Items taken include a J.C. Penney 19-inch color television, six rifles and shotguns, a stereo AM-FM eight-track player-recorder, a Zenith digital clock radio, two file boxes containing personal papers and $500 in series E savings bonds.

A $300 reward is offered in the Jan. 22 burglary of a residence at 4811 55th St., in which jewelry valued at $13,110 was taken.

Items taken include eight rings, four bracelets, two necklaces, one pair of gold and turquoise earrings and a wallet.

Crime Line is offering a $300 reward for information leading to the arrest of Alan Lee Benedict, who is charged with felony theft.

Benedict is described as a white male, 20 years old, 5 feet 9, weighing 150 pounds, with blond hair and blue eyes.

Soviet Military Invasion Draws Islamic Protest

U.S.-backed guerrillas opposed to the Afghan government.

"Whoever tries to force himself on another country is simply crazy," Sagladin was quoted as telling Stern magazine.

Falini said that contrary to Western speculation, Karmal had been living in Afghanistan for two months before the Soviet intervention and that he asked the Soviet troops to intervene.

In opening the Islamabad meeting, Zia said, "An unequivocal message should go forth from this conference conveying to the Soviet Union the grave concern of the Islamic world at the presence of its troops in Afghanistan and calling on that great power to reverse the course of its military intervention."

He continued: "This is the first instance since World War II when a superpower has made a sovereign and independent Moslem country the target of its attack ... In plain words, if this precedent is allowed to perpetuate itself, then what has happened in Afghanistan today can happen in another country tomorrow."

Conference sources said the foreign ministers also might agree to give economic assistance to Afghan refugees who have fled into Pakistan and Iran. Pakistan has reported it is providing refuge to more than 450,000 Afghans and that number could double if the fighting continues.

In other developments:

—In New Delhi, French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing and Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi issued a joint declaration expressing their opposition to military intervention in the affairs of other countries. The declaration was apparently aimed at, but did not specifically mention, the presence of Soviet troops in Afghanistan.

—In Indianapolis, Sen. Birch E. Bayh, D-Ind. and chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, said the Central Intelligence Agency knew Soviet troops were massing on the Afghan border before their invasion and occupation of the country.

Pressure, Bad Hours Plague Nurses

some healthcare experts question whether nurses are becoming super-nurses or semi-doctors. Miss Graf said the nurse becomes less effective when she loses sight of what her function is.

"We are the patients advocates," she said, adding teach him how to take care of himself."

The critical care nurse picks up on the symptoms a patient is exhibiting in advance of a crisis, she said, because the doctor isn't always there. But she doesn't find it a problem dealing with physicians, saying that when a doctor knows a nurse he will trust her judgement.

Other nurses will disagree. Some women want more responsibility in the delivery of healthcare and are finding satisfaction as nurse practitioners. The nurse practitioner has even more training and often works in areas traditionally held by physicians. They have their own patients or work side-by-side with a physician.

In doctor-poor West Texas, nurse practitioners may offer a compromise between traditional care and no care at all.

But when nurses trained for hospital duty are in short supply, nurse practitioners are even harder to find.

Karen Tilley is one of the nurses who got out of intensive care work. But rather than quitting nursing altogether, she now works in a private physician's office.

She felt pressured working in ICU, she said, but quit hospital work because of her working hours more than anything. Hospitals traditionally work their nurses during three shifts — 7 a.m. to 3 p.m., 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. and the graveyard shift between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m.

"Hours were a big reason why I quit," Mrs. Tilley said. "Any nurse that works in a hospital has bad hours."

She's traded one kind of pressure for another. Working for a cancer surgeon, she spends her days administering chemotherapy and moral support and just helping people deal with their own mortality.

"I loved the patient contact in the hospital, but your private life suffers," she said.

Man To Be Jailed

For Raping Wife

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — In a precedent-setting decision, a Jerusalem district court sentenced a man to three years in prison for raping his wife, Israel Radio reported Sunday.

It said the man, whose name was not released, was found guilty of rape under the Israeli statute that defines the crime as "intercourse with a woman against the law."

Shulamit Aloni, chairman of a parliamentary committee on criminal law, said it was the first time in Israel that a man was convicted of rape in a case involving his wife.

The three-judge court interpreted the clause "against the law" as referring to Jewish religious law, said Miss Aloni. Under the religious law, a woman is "not a prisoner of her husband" and is not required to have intercourse with him on demand.

Israel's criminal law at one time defined rape as "forced intercourse by a man with a woman not his wife," but that was changed in April 1978 to include intercourse with any woman.

Latest Changes In Tax Laws May Boost Refunds

By RAY DeCRANE
(First in a Series)

If you aren't getting a refund of $499 on your federal income tax, perhaps you're doing something wrong.

Internal Revenue Service reports that 75 percent of all those who filed income tax returns last year got money back. And the average refund was for $499 — a considerable jump from the $422 returned, on average, just a year earlier.

For the lucky, the refunds should be even higher this year. There are many changes in the tax laws that are effective this year, most of which should spell lower taxes for you.

In this series of 14 articles, of which this is the first, all of the important changes in the tax rules for this year will be reviewed. If your income is so high — and your deductions so few — that not even this information will help you get a refund, it could at least help you to reduce the amount of tax that is due.

These are among the important changes you should look for on your tax return this year. Each of them will be explained in greater detail in subsequent articles:

Personal exemptions and the credit for dependents have been increased to $1,000 per person. These were only $750 a year ago. This means that a husband, wife and two dependent children are worth $4,000 tax-free this year — $1,000 more for the family than last year.

Standard deduction (actually, it's now called the Zero Bracket Amount) has been increased for everyone. It is now $3,400 for a married couple filing a joint return, $2,300 for unmarried taxpayers and those filing as head of household, and $1,700 for married persons who file separate returns.

The tax brackets have been widened. This is more than a mere technical or cosmetic change. It means that more income is being held within one tax rate before being permitted to move into a higher bracket. The lawmakers' intent on this one was to prevent taxpayers from moving into a higher tax bracket solely because they received an inflation-induced wage or salary increase.

Those three changes — increasing the exemptions, raising the standard deduction and trimming back the tax rates — have but one combined effect: That is to lower your tax.

This is one of the reasons that tax filing time will be a happy experience for even more people this year.

Despite the grumbling, it always has been a looked-forward-to event by 75 percent of all those who file tax returns, because they always get money back.

(Next: More changes for 1980.)

Drug Vendetta May Have Sparked Oklahoma Riot

IDABEL, Okla. (UPI) — Last week's rioting that killed two people may have been precipitated by a black leader's vendetta against rival drug traffickers, a Justice Department official said Sunday.

The official, who asked not to be identified, said city, county and state police also were involved in the investigation into the role of a leader in the black community suspected of dealing in narcotics.

The alleged drug dealer was identified as one of the leaders of a mob that marched on Idabel's city hall in response to the shooting of a black youth near an all-white nightclub, the official said. He was not identified by name.

Mayor Rex Helms and police chief Hoppy Denison said authorities were considering the possibility that the riot, which pitted about 200 blacks against almost 300 police, did not stem solely from mounting racial tension.

Asked about the possible involvement by drug traffickers, Helms said, "It (the riot) is being investigated on all aspects. We need to give it a little time to see if there could be something to that (allegations of drug involvement)."

There has been no violence in Idabel since the riot. A visit Saturday night by the grand wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, Bill Wilkinson, posed the threat of another outbreak, but no incidents were reported. Wilkinson demanded the arrests of the blacks responsible for the riot.

Some of the business that were attacked in the rioting were owned by whites who reportedly were trying to move into the drug trafficker's business, the Justice Department official said.

He said a committee of black residents, organized to present their community's grievances to city officials, had not acted because they did not want to appear aligned with the alleged narcotics dealer.

"They think they'll be embarrassed when it's shown not to be a race riot, and they know it's not one," the official said. "They don't want to get involved with him too much. They know it's something else."

"The base line is there's not enough to justify a racial connotation."

One member of the grievance committee, the Rev. Ralph White, said the panel would seek, in part, to circumvent the influence of the alleged drug dealer.

"There has to be some means of reaching the person on the street if you are going to have peace," White said. "If there are people who will listen to this kind of person, there's going to be trouble unless we give them a voice. That's what we want to do with the grievance committee."

The trouble began when a 15-year-old black was shot to death near the parking lot of an all-white nightclub. The federal official said authorities were investigating whether the youth was connected with the town's drug traffic.

The day after the shooting, a group of 100 blacks marched on the police station demanding an arrest in the slaying. That night the mob doubled in size and rioting broke out in the black neighborhood. Adjacent white-owned businesses — including the nightclub where the shooting occurred — were burned, looted or vandalized.

In 1942, there were 147 distilleries and 96 breweries serving a population of 500,000 in Upper Canada.

IS IT A BAG OR A SACK? — University of Texas assistant linguistics instructors, Marianna Di Paolo and Charles McClenon have compiled statistics about the different words Texans use to describe the same thing. Their study of Texas dialects has shown most Texans call it a sack when they put groceries in it, but it becomes a bag when it is used to carry lunch. (AP Laserphoto)

Questions, Discrepancies Surround Witch's Trial

PLAINVIEW (AP) — Questions surrounding the investigation of a Dimmitt girl's murder are foremost in the minds of prosecutors and defense attorneys, particularly since one witness testified authorities apparently forgot to read the defendant his rights.

Castro County Sheriff Granville Martin spent much of last week in the hot seat.

Martin admitted to defense attorney Travis Shelton that officers also failed to tell Loy Dean Stone and his wife, Louise, that 15-year-old Roxanne Casas had been killed on their property.

Stone, 50, is accused of the Halloween 1977 shotgun slaying of Miss Casas, as she sat in a truck in his driveway near Dimmitt in the Texas Panhandle. Mrs. Stone, 49, has been granted a separate trial.

The Stones, both high priests in a witches' group, have pleaded innocent.

The trial was moved 45 miles away to Plainview after the murder caused an uproar in Dimmitt's Hispanic community.

Martin told State District Judge John T. Boyd he had driven past the Stones' house 10 minutes before he was alerted to the shooting.

On his return, he said, Stone approached him with a shotgun in his hand. He said Mrs. Stone also was outside, pointing to two cars and a pickup on the highway that she said had been harassing them.

Martin and a Texas Department of Public Safety trooper confiscated a shotgun and three spent shells from Stone. A later search netted five spent shells and a rusty old shotgun.

Glen Johnson, a former DPS chemist who analyzed pellets taken from the girl's head, testified he believed they were fired from the shotgun he examined. Johnson also said the five spent shells found on Stone's property were from the same weapon.

Although the shotgun was not tagged, Martin said he could identify it as the one he took from Stone, even though he agreed 100 to 500 such guns existed in the county.

Radio May Aid Rural Area Traffic Jams

By The Associated Press

Highway engineers are experimenting with short-range broadcasts, which an ordinary car radio can receive, to warn motorists away from traffic snarls.

The highway advisory radio system uses low power transmitters over which highway officials broadcast information directly to motorists.

Signs on the highway inform drivers that the information is available at the twist of a dial.

The Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation tested the system in November on Interstate 35 as tourists tried to wind their way through a traffic maze to the Wursthfest celebration in New Braunfels.

License numbers were recorded, and drivers later were asked by mail if they tuned in to the tape-recorded broadcasts and found them helpful.

The results will be studied by the Texas Transportation Institute in College Station. Conrad Dudek, a TTI research engineer, said the highway advisory radio could become part of a comprehensive communications system.

"It's one technique where the highway department can transmit the latest information. It would be on-the-spot information, and if something unusual should happen on the freeway the information could be transmitted to the driver," said Dudek. "Then the motorists should be able to avoid congestion."

Dudek said there are some roadblocks in the system, however.

The Federal Communications Commission has set aside only two frequencies for the 10-watt transmitters, which have a range of about a mile. In big cities where AM stations crowd the dial almost back-to-back, the two frequencies already may be taken.

Milton Dieter, state highway engineer at San Antonio, said the Highway Department wanted to test the system in San Antonio during a livestock show.

Texans Separated By Common Language

AUSTIN (AP) — Depending on what part of Texas you're in, that boy and girl on the couch may be making out, spooning, kissing, smooching, mugging, pitching the woo, sparking, grubbing, playing smacky face or — swapping horses.

That road alongside the freeway may be a frontage road, access road, axis road, excess road, or service road.

A coke may be a Coke; a Dr Pepper may be a coke; a 7-Up may be a coke; a soft drink or soda water.

And, in a controversy that has grown with the influx of northerners, that thing used to carry groceries home may be a bag or a sack.

Texas' diversified heritage has produced a series of dialects that sometimes make it difficult for West Texans to understand East Texans. We are, as Winston Churchill pointed out in a different context, separated by a common language.

The people in West Texas tell me, "Wait 'til you get to East Texas — you'll never understand them." And the people in East Texas say the same thing about the people in West Texas," said Marianna Di Paolo, an assistant linguistics instructor at the University of Texas.

For several years Miss Di Paolo and Charles McClenon, also an assistant linguistics instructor, have asked students to check on dialects in their hometowns.

"Nothing surprises us any more," McClenon said in an interview.

Last spring linguistics students were asked to get native Texans to complete this sentence: "John and Mary were sitting on the sofa with the lights dimmed and they were —"

McClenon said "necking" seemed to be the predominant answer among Texans over 50. It was a man in his 60s who came up with the expression "swapping horses."

One realist said the romantic couple was "hoping their parents wouldn't come home."

Miss Di Paolo said she is fascinated by "mugging" — used by college students to describe what they do on the couch.

"I'm dying to know what they call the New York kind of mugging," she said.

She predicted "mugging" will be more commonly used when the college students bring the term back to their hometowns.

The bag vs. sack battle is still being waged at grocery store check-out counters across the state.

Bag seems to be creeping in from the coasts. The northerners are bringing it with them," Miss Di Paolo said.

However, native Texans will be glad to hear, sack is still more common.

"It's a sack for groceries," she said. "But it's a bag if they put their lunch in it."

What Texans call non-alcoholic carbonated beverages seems to differ by region.

Respondents under 25 tended to use the trade name Coke for any of the beverages. That use is most common in Dallas and West Texas. Soft drink is the second most common response. But Central Texans, particularly in Austin, still drink soda water, the results show.

The regional differences also showed up when people were asked: "What would you call a road parallel to a freeway, by means of which one gets on and off the freeway, and which may have gas stations and restaurants along it?"

Texans agreed there is a simpler way to say all that, but they could not agree on the simpler form.

Along the Gulf Coast it's the feeder. Access road is the most common across the state. McClenon said it is variously pronounced "axis" or "excess."

And if you drive from here to Dallas and then to Texarkana, along that one highway, they call it a service road," McClenon said.

Frontage road used to have some statewide popularity but is now limited to the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

One farmer had no response to the question. He didn't call it anything because he'd never been on one.

Miss Di Paolo said she called state highway department officials to find out what they call it. Access road is the official term. However, she said, she found a state regulation in which "every word for it was mentioned."

The researchers said there are no right or wrong answers to the questions. Languages are supposed to change and develop, they said, and Texas talk is evolving as non-Texans pour into the state.

"It's going to change," Miss Di Paolo said. "But we don't know exactly what is going to happen."

McClenon predicted northerners who move to Houston will try to talk Texan in order to blend more quickly into the new environment. "And their kids are going to talk Texan," he said.

Tech Dean To Appear Before House Committee

Business Administration Dean Carl H. Stem of Texas Tech University will appear before the Ways and Means Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives in Washington Tuesday at hearings on tax incentives for savings.

Al Ullman (D. Oregon), chairman, announced the committee would conduct two days of public hearing on proposals before the Ways and Means Committee. Included in proposals are tax exclusions, deductions, and credits for special savings accounts, tax deferral for savings, and "rollovers" to encourage continuation of and addition to savings.

Stem will emphasize the nation's need for increased savings and investments to enhance the U.S. competitive position in the world economy. Since the early 1970's, the rate of increase in productivity in the United States has slowed considerably, coinciding with a decline in the proportion of after-tax personal income saved and a decline in the rate of growth in business investment.

Personal savings provide financial resources to support business investment in new plants, equipment, and research and development, Stem said. Productivity growth is heavily dependent on the amount of new investment which takes place in an economy. A low rate of investment does not provide the continual updating of the capital upon which labor is dependent to improve productivity.

Stem's testimony will specifically support a measure before the House in two bills to defer income taxes on dividends invested by the recipient stockholder under a qualified reinvestment plan in the stock of the paying corporation.

"Given the tax rates and the high level of inflation we have experienced during most of the 1970's," Stem said, "there is little incentive for a person to save the financial assets — the savings form which provides financing resources for business investment. Under current inflation and tax conditions, the emphasis is on savings in real personal assets which do not contribute to increased productivity in the economy."

To encourage a higher savings rate, particularly inflexible assets, governmental policy must aim both at attempting to get inflation under control and making modifications in the tax system which raise the real return, after taxes and inflation, to savings in financial assets. Stem said. Deferral of taxes on stock dividends used to purchase stock of the paying company will raise the real return on these financial investments, encouraging greater personal savings.

ALWAYS LOOK FOR LIFE'S RAINBOWS.

To Your Good Health

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.
Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been told I have "thoracic outlet syndrome." This was not explained in any detail to me. Could this cause the pain that shoots from back to front under the shoulder blade? — A.S.

Thoracic outlet syndrome may include a wide variety of symptoms.

The thorax is the chest. It is bounded by the rib cage, which narrows toward the top. This is readily noted on x-rays. Important nerves pass through this narrowed area to serve the arms. The point at which the nerves pass out of the chest is called the "thoracic outlet." Pressure on either the blood vessels or nerve bundles at this point may cause pain or numbness along their paths. Since they pass close to bony structures, it is common for compression to occur.

The nerves and vessels pass under the arms and downward to the hands, so pain in the area you mention can be a part of it.

There are many causes of the problem. Some people develop an extra rib at the neck end of the rib cage (cervical rib), which can cause pressure. This may not produce symptoms until later in life, when supporting muscles lose tone, allowing compression of nerves or vessels against the rib area.

Results may be lessening of blood flow to the arm because of pressure on an artery or tingling sensations from pressure on a nerve. Even fingers can be affected. Thoracic outlet problems may be mistaken for angina pectoris. Sometimes simple exercises help. In other cases surgery relieves the obstruction.

X-rays help pinpoint the specific problem. The doctor may ask the patient to produce certain specific movements so he can tell whether he is dealing with thoracic outlet syndrome. (See item below.)

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have noticed lately that something seems to be pinching real hard on my arm, just above the elbow up to my shoulder. When I hold my arm out straight and turn my head to the right I get this feeling. It is in my left arm. What do you suppose could be causing this and what do you think I should do? — S.A.

I can make an educated guess. It sounds as though there is pressure on the nerves to your arm. These originate in the neck spine, and sometimes spurs on the spine at this point can put pressure on them. When you turn your head or extend your arm you place traction on these nerves, causing the pain.

You need an examination for a definite diagnosis.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I say we only inherit our genes from a so-called "direct line" — parents, grandparents, great grandparents, etc., and not from our uncles, aunts, cousins, etc. Please comment — A.S.

YOU inherit YOUR genes only directly from your parents. However, they share their genes with their brothers and sisters. Thus, before many generations have passed, a large group of distantly-related persons actually share some of the same genes.

This is why you may notice a resemblance between uncles, aunts, and their nephews and nieces. Questions about genes are nerve-racking. Geneticists are seldom satisfied with the answers.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK
Anti-smoking crusaders have stopped being Mr. Nice Guy.

Remember how they used to suggest rather politely that smoking causes cancer, emphysema, harmful effects to your unborn child, damage to the lungs of people around you who inhale and early death?

Well, that was a bedtime story compared to a new threat. A University of Louisville researcher has announced smoking decreases your sexual desire and your ability to make love!

If that doesn't clear the air... nothing will. Several couples were discussing it the other night and Mayva said she didn't understand the logic behind it.

Her husband, Jim, wanted to know which part she didn't understand — smoking or sexual desire.

Jill said she thought the theory had a lot of merit because she noted a change in her own desires when she quit smoking.

Her husband, Ralph, looked shocked and said, "You never told me. When did you quit smoking?"

Paula said she thought the reported increase in sexual desires after giving up cigarettes was a bunch of garbage. She thought it was "just something to do to keep your mind off smoking like chewing gum or snacking."

I personally didn't see how smoking diminished sex drives because there was nothing more romantic in this world than to see Humphrey Bogart inhale, flip a cigarette into the darkness, and exhale through his nose.

My husband told me to get the chip dip. When I returned, Sally's husband, Dan, was saying, "I never wanted to give up cigarettes because I'd put on weight. I needn't have worried. Sally put on the weight."

That's when his wife, Sally, announced she was three months pregnant. As they drove away, they had His and Hers bumper stickers. His read, "I QUIT." Hers read, "I KNOW."

Anti-smoking crusaders may just have a backlash on their hands.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: During the last three decades, the unspoken message to young people in America was, "If you want to be rich, be a doctor." The word for the 1980s: "If you want to be rich, rich, be a lawyer."

Laws that once were designed to protect us have been turned inside out. Today, nobody is safe from lawsuit-happy lawyers or ambulance chasers who will take any case on a contingency basis: "If I lose, it costs you nothing. If I win, you pay me one-half or one-third of whatever I can get."

Today, anyone can be sued for anything by anybody. The accused must then appear in court and defend himself. He has to pay a lawyer and take time away from his job to testify. Many lawyers charge by the hour, and their bills would pop your eyeballs.

Decisions handed down by screwy judges and nutty juries are scandalous, if not crazy. Recently a court in Washington, D.C., instructed a minister to pay $60,000 because he allegedly called a woman parishioner "an old devil." The woman is appealing the case to a higher court. She wants $800,000.

I am 67 years old and can never remember a time when things were so bolted up. Laws once protected people. Today, one must protect himself against the laws and the lawyers.

Do you have the courage to print this? Or will your lawyer advise you to ignore it? — Quo Vadis

Please, Ann, don't fail me. I am pleading with you to drop her a line and patch this up. Here is her address. Thanks, pal, I'll do something nice for you when I get out. — Harry K

Dear Harry: Like what? Give me a ride in a red Olds? Thanks a heap. No deal. A person who takes a car that doesn't belong to him is considered a car thief, no matter what the color is. I hope you get some therapy after you've done your stretch. You need it, Bub.

What do you bid now?
A.—Despite your relatively weak answer, partner is still looking for game. You are near the top of your range for your original response, so you should cooperate with partner. A bid of two no trump describes your strength nicely and promises stoppers in the unbid suits.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

What action do you take?
A.—If you think that partner is showing a minimum takeout double with a dislike for hearts, you couldn't be further off base. Actually, partner is showing a hand too strong for an overall of one no trump. He has 19-20 points and a balanced hand. With your five-card suit and good intermediates, we would jump to game in no trump.

A.—A very difficult problem. If partner has the right hand, you could make a slam in clubs, but if he doesn't, even five clubs might prove too much. You could also pass and take a certain penalty, but this is unlikely to compensate you for a vulnerable game. In view of the excellent source of tricks in the club suit and a secure spade stopper, we would bid three no trump as a compromise, knowing full well that other actions might work out better.

What action do you take?
A.—You have some scattered values, but nowhere near enough to bid at the two-level, so you will have to forget about your five-card suit. If you want to bid, the only action that comes into consideration is one no trump, which is not forcing. Since your spade stopper is shaky, however, we would suggest a pass—but it's close.

Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠J76 ♥Q962 ♦Q8 ♣KJ93
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♣ Dble. Pass 2 ?
2 ♣ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—With a better than expected hand opposite a partner who has made a vulnerable takeout double in the immediate seat, you should not permit the opponents to buy the hand at the two-level. Bid three clubs, and allow partner to take preference to one of your suits.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠8752 ♥63 ♦AKJ6 ♣AK10
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♣ 2 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Partner cannot have much outside the heart suit, so he must have at least six good hearts to overcall vulnerable at the two-level. Since partner has promised six tricks with hearts as trumps and you are delivering four more, don't worry about your trump support—just bid four hearts. We would make this bid even if we had only a singleton heart.

Foil wallcoverings do not expand or shrink, so air pockets must be punctured and the wallcovering pressed against the wall to set.

pie of books of interesting hands. Here's a fascinating one.

Alan: "I don't see anything fascinating about this six-notrump contract. Without that lovely nine of diamonds lead by West it would just be a slaughter. After the diamond lead South has six diamonds, four clubs and two aces for a nice twelve-trick total."

Oswald: "At the other table South arrived at a reasonable three-notrump contract after West had made a one-spade overall of South's one-club opening. West elected to open the seven of hearts to the queen, king and ace. The six of diamonds was led to dummy's king and East's ace. Back came a heart which was ducked and a third heart was led. South won, cashed his queen of diamonds and put East in with the jack of diamonds. Now East cashed two hearts to set three notrump."

Alan: "Double dummy. South could have made the hand at the finish. He could cash all four clubs and throw West in with a spade since West held the king-jack-ten and nine."

Oswald: "This was in the finals of the 1961 world's championship. The fascinating thing about it all is that the team that lost this board still won."

THOUGHTS ON LOVE

The heart has its reasons, which reason does not know. If we feel it in a thousand things, I say that the heart naturally loves the Universal Being, and also itself naturally, according as it gives itself to them; and it hardens itself against one or the other at its will. You have rejected the one and kept the other. Is it by reason that you love yourself?

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

A few years ago, you printed a recipe for Angel Biscuits. I have made batches of them and they are delicious. My family loves them!
Please print the recipe again so others can enjoy them. I have a pan ready to pop into the oven right now. I wish you could enjoy them with us. — Mrs. Dorothy Klaiber

Oh! So do I! I would just throw my diet right out the window for Angel Biscuits 'cause I'll tell you right now, folks, if you've tried these biscuits, you know they're irresistible.

For those of you who haven't and would like to, here's your chance. They're simple to make, almost fail-proof and absolutely mouth-watering.

You can mix the biscuits up the night before, roll 'em out, place 'em in a pan and refrigerate. The next morning, pop into the oven for an out-of-this-world type breakfast.

The dough keeps well for two or three days; refrigerated in a covered bowl, should you like to have it on hand

So, grab your scissors gals, 'cause here's the recipe:

ANGEL BISCUITS
1 package dry yeast
1/4 cup warm water 2 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 cup sugar
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup buttermilk

Dissolve the yeast in warm water and set aside.

Mix the dry ingredients in the order given, cutting in the shortening as you normally do for biscuits or pie dough.

Stir in the buttermilk, also the water-yeast mixture. Blend thoroughly and the dough is ready to be refrigerated in a large covered bowl or made into biscuits.

When you are ready to bake the dough into biscuits, turn it out onto a floured board and knead lightly as for regular biscuits.

Roll out and cut with a biscuit cutter and place in a greased pan.

Let the biscuits rise slightly (if the dough is cold, it will take a little longer for them to rise than when first mixed), and pop into a 400F oven until lightly browned.

As was mentioned in the original column, should the folks in your family shun breakfast, these biscuits make such lovely dinner rolls you will rate hugs and kisses from the whole family.

And, for good measure, here's a bushel of each from me. 'Til tomorrow. — Heloise

I lay out the garments on the bed and fold in thirds — or to fit my suitcase — then put hanger and all in the bag.

Upon arriving at my destination, I just need to lift out the hanger and hang. No wrinkles, no need to borrow hangers from my hostess, etc.

Since discovering this trick, I quit packing my clothes with tissue paper between the folds. I like this way much better. — Mrs. H.L.

with a twist tie, and leave it for thirty minutes, longer if needed. Then peel off the label.

You can even do this when the jar is full — Lois

I put two sheets of fabric softener in and not only did the pillows come out fluffy but smelled good. — Bertha C.

Have a household hint that's a real jim dandy? Send it to Heloise, 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017. Sorry, Heloise can't answer your letter personally but she will use the best hints received in her column.

DEAR HELOISE:

In packing suitcases for a trip, I put my pantsuits, dresses, etc., on a hanger, then slip a plastic bag over all — the kind you get over your clothes from the cleaners.

DEAR HELOISE:

To "soak" a label off a jar or bottle for any reason, fold a paper towel to fit the label, then wet the towel thoroughly and wrap snugly around the label.

Place the jar in a plastic bag, seal it

Migration Expert Says U.S. Should Legalize Incoming Aliens

"The peasants are not going to sit in their valleys and starve"

By PAULA M. BUTTURINI

DALLAS (UPI) — An expert on Mexican labor migration predicts a major new influx of illegal aliens beginning next month and says the U.S. Government — instead of trying to keep them out — should legalize as many of the workers as possible.

Dr. Wayne A. Cornelius, one of the nation's foremost authorities on Mexican migration, also predicted that despite Mexico's burgeoning petroleum industry, the economic forces driving workers across the U.S. border would remain "very strong" for at least the next five years.

Cornelius is director of a new U.S.-Mexican studies program at the University of California at San Diego which will serve as a national research, teaching and public service center regarding relations between the two countries. He made the predictions last week during a businessmen's conference on Mexican energy, industry and immigration.

He said the immediate problem which will drive an unusually large number of Mexican workers into the United States was a near catastrophic crop failure particularly in the central plateau area, which traditionally has been the major source of illegal aliens.

In many areas 70 percent or more of the 1979 corn, bean and sorghum crops were lost to a drought that was followed by early frost.

"The peasants are not going to sit in their valleys and starve," said Cornelius. Acute subsistence crises side, Cornelius said other economic forces would contribute to the immigration increases:

•Continuation of the inflationary trend that began in the 1980s, which has caused a very severe erosion of real income for the poorest and most migration-prone sectors of the Mexican population.

•An increasing gap between the creation of new jobs and the growth of the labor force. Even if Mexico's total output increases 6 percent a year, it still would not be sufficient to absorb the current backlog of 4.6 million unemployed and underemployed workers in Mexico, to say nothing of the somewhere between 1 and 3 million Mexican workers who are presently employed in the United States.

•The growth of Mexico's new petroleum industry. Ironically, oil cannot be expected to solve the country's unemployment problem since the oil industry generally needs skilled rather than unskilled labor. Cornelius predicted shortages of skilled workers but even larger surpluses of unskilled labor.

•Better pay scales in the United States, which Mexico is not likely to match in the near future.

Cornelius said the steady march of illegal Mexican aliens across the U.S. border probably would continue until at least 1985.

Contrary to prevailing notions, Cornelius said economic studies show that the United States needs Mexican workers as much as the workers themselves need U.S. jobs. The stereotyped illegal alien — a migrant farm worker and his multi-children family ily hoscotching across U.S. farm states following the harvest — is not a true picture of today's illegal Mexican worker.

The illegal alien has left the increasingly mechanized U.S. Farm for low-skill, urban jobs in restaurants and hotels, hospitals and convalescent homes, light manufacturing plants and landscaping firms, and individual households seeking child care or domestic services.

Cornelius said U.S. demand for such Mexican workers — currently at an all-time high — was not likely to decrease for the rest of this century.

"The best projection which economists are capable of producing at this point indicate that the United States may need as many as 15-30 million immigrant workers by the year 2,000," he said.

"The real question is not whether Mexican migrants will be here but whether they will be here legally or illegally."

Federal Abortion Case Eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court almost certainly will be asked by the government to review a New York ruling striking down the Hyde Amendment, which bars federal funding of most abortions for poor women.

But it is unlikely the high court will have time to act on the case before its current term ends in July — unless the justices take unusual steps to do so.

U.S. District Judge John Dooling in New York ruled unconstitutional the Hyde amendment — named after sponsoring Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill. — Jan. 15.

The amendment bars federal funding for Medicaid abortions except to save the life of the mother and for victims of rape and incest.

In a 642-page opinion, Judge Dooling decided the Hyde Amendment infringes on a woman's religious freedom to choose whether she wants an abortion and denies women on welfare equal protection of the law.

Peter Buscemi, an assistant to U.S. Solicitor General Wade McCree, told UPI in an interview, "It's a foregone conclusion" that the government will appeal the decision.

He also said the government will ask the high court to stay Dooling's order that federal funding of abortions for poor women resume Feb. 15.

Guerrilla Leader Returns To Rhodesian Welcome

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — Marxist guerrilla leader Robert Mugabe returned from exile to a frenzied reception by 200,000 cheering supporters Sunday and asked the minority white population to remain in the country despite threats of new violence.

The huge unprecedented rally at a sprawling sports field in the black Salisbury suburb of Highfield nearly doubled the reception received two weeks ago by Mugabe's one-time guerrilla partner and now his electoral foe, Joshua Nkomo, a more moderate socialist.

At the same time, the military command announced its troops killed three of Mugabe's guerrillas and three of "their collaborators," but did not say when. The announcement said a black woman caught in a crossfire between Mugabe forces and Rhodesian soldiers also was killed.

As Mugabe reached the sports field after a flight from Mozambique, his home in exile for five years from where he masterminded a bitter war against white minority rule, the crowds waiting for him since Saturday went wild.

They surged forward in a frenzy, knocking down iron pipes erected to keep them away from Mugabe, and within seconds engulfed the platform.

The ZANU leader, 52, waving clenched fists, spoke in the Shona language under a banner displaying a Soviet-made Kalashnikov assault rifle dripping blood.

Geological Survey Scientists Find Petroleum Off Alaska

NEW YORK (AP) — Scientists of the U.S. Geological Survey say they have discovered five huge undersea basins off Alaska believed to contain major petroleum deposits. The New York Times reported Sunday.

The Geological Survey said the regions are in the outer continental shelf, off the western coast of Alaska in the Bering and Chukchi seas. Two of them lie beneath waters that are owned, or might be claimed by the Soviet Union, thus complicating exploitation of those sources, the Times said.

Dr. Charles Masters of the Geological Survey was quoted as saying that recent seismic exploration work "leads us to believe that the areas may have enormous petroleum resources."

One of the areas, the Navarin Basin, has sediments up to 40,000 feet thick and Masters said it is geologically comparable to oil-rich areas of the Gulf of Mexico, according to the Times.

Geologist Oswald W. Girard Jr. estimated that the Navarin Basin held one billion to four billion barrels of oil and that other areas might have similar amounts, the Times said.

However, Masters said that even if oil were found soon, it would be years before the areas were commercially exploited because "production problems will be severe, since drilling in these areas would stretch our technology to the limit," the Times quoted him as saying.

Migration Expert Says U.S. Should Legalize Incoming Aliens

By PAULA M. BUTTURINI

DALLAS (UPI) — An expert on Mexican labor migration predicts a major new influx of illegal aliens beginning next month and says the U.S. Government — instead of trying to keep them out — should legalize as many of the workers as possible.

Dr. Wayne A. Cornelius, one of the nation's foremost authorities on Mexican migration, also predicted that despite Mexico's burgeoning petroleum industry, the economic forces driving workers across the U.S. border would remain "very strong" for at least the next five years.

Cornelius is director of a new U.S.-Mexican studies program at the University of California at San Diego which will serve as a national research, teaching and public service center regarding relations between the two countries. He made the predictions last week during a businessmen's conference on Mexican energy, industry and immigration.

He said the immediate problem which will drive an unusually large number of Mexican workers into the United States was a near catastrophic crop failure particularly in the central plateau area, which traditionally has been the major source of illegal aliens.

In many areas 70 percent or more of the 1979 corn, bean and sorghum crops were lost to a drought that was followed by early frost.

"The peasants are not going to sit in their valleys and starve," said Cornelius. Acute subsistence crises side, Cornelius said other economic forces would contribute

Guerrilla Leader Returns To Rhodesian Welcome

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — Marxist guerrilla leader Robert Mugabe returned from exile to a frenzied reception by 200,000 cheering supporters Sunday and asked the minority white population to remain in the country despite threats of new violence.

The huge unprecedented rally at a sprawling sports field in the black Salisbury suburb of Highfield nearly doubled the reception received two weeks ago by Mugabe's one-time guerrilla partner and now his electoral foe, Joshua Nkomo, a more moderate socialist.

ute to the immigration increases:
•Continued worsening of income distribution levels, in which the poor receive ever smaller pieces of Mexico's national income pie.

•An increasing gap between the creation of new jobs and the growth of the labor force. Even if Mexico's total output increases 6 percent a year, it still would not be sufficient to absorb the current backlog of 4.6 million unemployed and underemployed workers in Mexico, to say nothing of the somewhere between 1 and 3 million Mexican workers who are presently employed in the United States.
•The growth of Mexico's new petroleum industry. Ironically, oil cannot be expected to solve the country's unemployment problem since the oil industry generally needs skilled rather than unskilled labor. Cornelius predicted shortages of skilled workers but even larger surpluses of unskilled labor.

•Better pay scales in the United States, which Mexico is not likely to match in the near future.

Cornelius said the steady march of illegal Mexican aliens across the U.S. border probably would continue until at least 1985.

Contrary to prevailing notions, Cornelius said economic studies show that the United States needs Mexican workers as much as the workers themselves need U.S. jobs.

The stereotypical illegal alien — a migrant farm worker and his multi-children fam-

He then switched to English to direct remarks at Britain's caretaker governor Lord Soames, who was not present, and at the 230,000-strong white minority in the nation of nearly 7 million people.

"For a very long time, the European community had treated ZANU as a monster, ZANU as a vicious animal. We are not a vicious animal," he said.

Geological Survey Scientists Find Petroleum Off Alaska

NEW YORK (AP) — Scientists of the U.S. Geological Survey say they have discovered five huge undersea basins off Alaska believed to contain major petroleum deposits, the New York Times reported Sunday.

The Geological Survey said the regions are in the outer continental shelf, off the western coast of Alaska in the Bering and Chukchi seas. Two of them lie beneath waters that are owned, or might be claimed by the Soviet Union, thus complicating exploitation of those sources, the Times said.

Dr. Charles Masters of the Geological Survey was quoted as saying that recent seismic exploration work "leads us to believe that the areas may have enormous petroleum resources."

One of the areas, the Navarin Basin, has sediments up to 40,000 feet thick and Masters said it is geologically comparable to oil-rich areas of the Gulf of Mexico, according to the Times.

Geologist Oswald W. Girard Jr. estimated that the Navarin Basin held one of today's illegal Mexican worker.

The illegal alien has left the increasingly mechanized U.S. Farm for low-skill, urban jobs in restaurants and hotels, hospitals and convalescent homes, light manufacturing plants and landscaping firms, and individual households seeking child care or domestic services.

Cornelius said U.S. demand for such Mexican workers — currently at an all-time high — was not likely to decrease for the rest of this century.

"The best projection which economists are capable of producing at this point indicate that the United States may need as many as 15-30 million immigrant workers by the year 2,000," he said.

"The real question is not whether Mexican migrants will be here but whether they will be here legally or illegally."

Federal Abortion Case Eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court almost certainly will be asked by the government to review a New York ruling striking down the Hyde Amendment, which bars federal funding of most abortions for poor women.

But it is unlikely the high court will have time to act on the case before its current term ends in July — unless the justices take unusual steps to do so.

U.S. District Judge John Dooling in New York ruled unconstitutional the Hyde amendment — named after sponsoring Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill. — Jan. 15.

The amendment bars federal funding for Medicaid abortions except to save the life of the mother and for victims of rape and incest.

In a 642-page opinion, Judge Dooling decided the Hyde Amendment infringes on a woman's religious freedom to choose whether she wants an abortion and denies women on welfare equal protection of the law.

Peter Buscemi, an assistant to U.S. Solicitor General Wade McCree, told UPI in an interview, "It's a foregone conclusion" that the government will appeal the decision.

He also said the government will ask the high court to stay Dooling's order that federal funding of abortions for poor women resume Feb. 15.

Congress To Look At Carter's Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress takes a first official look at President Carter's new budget Monday, with the Senate Democratic leader saying in advance that defense worries may lead to more red ink than Carter wants.

"Congress will continue to be fiscally responsible, but we have new problems," Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said this weekend. He mentioned "the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan and the potential threat to the blood lifeline of the industrial democracies" — a reference to the oil-rich Mideast.

"This will be a security-minded Congress whose members will think in terms of improving our defense capabilities, maintaining essential quality in strategic weapons, strengthening NATO capabilities and building up our Navy," Byrd said.

"It may not be possible" for such a Congress to keep the fiscal 1981 federal deficit to the $15 billion level Carter is expected to recommend, he said.

Carter is expected to ask for a 5 percent increase in military spending — after discounting for inflation. And although that is well above this year's 3.3 percent, Byrd said "he may get more than he's asked for."

Congressional concern over international events is also reflected in predictions for quick and overwhelming Senate approval this week of an Olympic-boycott resolution. The resolution urges U.S. withdrawal from this summer's Olympic Games in Moscow unless the Soviet Union pulls its troops out of Afghanistan.

A similar resolution passed through the House last week.

In other congressional action this week:

- The Senate Energy Committee will take up Carter's plans for standby gasoline rationing in a fuel emergency; congressional sources say the president may ask for authority to order rationing in answer to a 5 percent oil shortage rather than 20 percent as currently authorized.
- The House will resume debate on $4.3 billion legislation covering a wide range of water projects; opponents have prepared more than 200 amendments trying to trim the size of the bill.
- The House Armed Services Committee will dig into a bill covering the weapons, research and military procurement portions of the nation's defense spending.
- The House will debate a revenue-sharing bill aimed at helping communities make up for revenue that might be lost if the U.S. economy slips into a recession this year.

A long-running House-Senate conference committee will resume negotiations between the two houses' versions of the "windfall profits" bill to tax company revenue.

Carter wants a so-called "windfall profits" tax to accompany his program for gradually ending price controls on domestically produced oil. Technically, the tax would be on the extra revenue, not profits, from decontrol. Without the tax, oil companies would keep more of the revenue as profits.

Reagan Proposes Cuban Blockade To Retaliate

NEW YORK (AP) — Republican presidential hopeful Ronald Reagan said Sunday if he were president he would consider a blockade of Cuba in retaliation for the Soviet armed intervention in Afghanistan.

"I'm suggesting that we might, we might blockade Cuba and stop the transportation back and forth of Russian arms, Soviet military, their submarines are based there," Reagan told interviewer Dan Rather on CBS's "60 Minutes."

"They have airplanes and pilots there. They have troops there on that island. A blockade of Cuba could be an option," Reagan said.

Reagan was then asked if he were president would he "actively consider the possibility of blockading Cuba?"

"Yes, but if I were president today, I would have access to the same information the president has and there might even be better options than that," Reagan answered.

"I am not talking war and I'm not being a warmonger. I am talking of my fear that unless the United States does the Russian thing, we will be forced to do it."

Reagan's remarks were part of a criticism he made of President Carter's foreign policy and what Reagan, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said was a failure to send the "proper signals" to the Soviet Union.

Confusing neighboring Pakistan with Afghanistan, Reagan asked earlier in the taped interview, referring to the Soviets, "how do we move them out of Pakistan?"

"I think the United States should have a policy of, what can we do that would be a move comparable to their own move and a move that would indicate to them that there is some reason why they should withdraw their troops," Reagan said in reference to the estimated 100,000 Soviet soldiers now in Afghanistan.

Later Reagan suggested the Soviet blockade as an action which could force a Soviet withdrawal from the landlocked Central Asian nation.

Tito's Illness Revives Worries Over East-West Confrontation

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — The illness of President Josip Broz Tito has revived old nightmares about an East-West confrontation over strategically important Yugoslavia, a communist nation independent of the Soviet Union.

Reports of his illness — a blood-circulation problem that resulted in the amputation of his left leg — were enough to touch off diplomatic scrambles, rumors of troop movements and a domestic security tightening. Some Yugoslavs rushed to banks to withdraw money and to grocery stores to stock up on food.

Behind it all were worries that a Yugoslavia without the 87-year-old leader could set off a chain of events that would bring Soviet troops and new war.

Yugoslavs dismiss this.

"There was never any danger that the Soviet Union would intervene militarily," one ranking official said privately of rumors, circulating after Tito entered the hospital, that the East Bloc Warsaw Pact forces might be preparing to do just that.

"The Russians can come any time but they know that if they come there will be war, with rockets flying from everywhere," he said.

Yugoslavia's importance comes from its location and its politics.

It lies between the armed forces of the Warsaw Pact and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on Europe's southern flank. Its own territory holds no foreign troops.

It is the only country standing between the Warsaw Pact nations and the Adriatic Sea. Its conversion to Moscow-style communism could vastly upset power balances in the Mediterranean.

Italy would then face the Warsaw Pact along its entire east coast and northeastern border. Austria to its north and Greece to its south would be further isolated, as would Turkey and the Middle East.

Yugoslavia was cast out of the Soviet bloc by Josef V. Stalin in 1948. Tito went on to build a "self-managed" communist state that was structurally different from Moscow's. It is now more liberal and more prosperous in spite of serious economic problems.

Few experts worried about a Soviet military move against Yugoslavia during Tito's illness, but many worried that Soviet pressure might come after Tito, if domestic politics became unstable.

Tito's Yugoslavia has elaborate safeguards against both foreign and domestic enemies.

Its 22 million people are divided among six federated states and two provinces, speak three languages, use two alphabets, follow three main religions and widely varying life styles and traditions.

Yugoslavs fought each other after the German invasion in World War II loosed regional animosities.

Tito has spent years shaping a system designed to assure that this won't happen again after he is gone.

Both the Yugoslav Communist Party and government are to be run by collective panels whose chiefs could not come from the same part of the country. They will serve only for one year. Top posts are to rotate automatically from one politician to another, following predetermined order. All major decisions in both party and government would be made only by the agreement of all.

Yugoslavia's standing military force of about 300,000 and its elaborate system of civilian reserves are organized partly along lines of Tito's World War II partisans, who defeated German and Italian invaders.

Yugoslav defense strategy has long assumed that Warsaw Pact forces could roll into the country from across the Hungarian plains to the north, where Soviet tanks and troops are stationed permanently.

Yugoslav officers say they could rally their main forces in the mountains that run from one end of the country to another, dividing the plains from the sea.

Tito's partisans fought in the same mountains 40 years ago and much of the territory remains almost as impassable and inaccessible now as it was then. Military supplies are believed hidden throughout the mountains.

Yugoslav officials argue that there is no longer any real danger to Tito's government from pro-Soviet Yugoslavs who took Stalin's side in 1948 and wanted to stay in the Soviet bloc.

Such pro-Soviet groups still operate in Western Europe, however, and domestic Soviet sympathizers were among those whose names were being sought by commissions set up during Tito's illness.

This was part of a low-priority but nationwide security alert that the Yugoslav military chief of staff, Adm. Branko Mamula, said proved the country could defend itself.

Mamula conceded that there had been cases "here and there" of Yugoslavs hoarding food and withdrawing savings during Tito's hospitalization.

Hopeful Says Foreign Policy To Be Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican leader Howard Baker said Sunday President Carter's "failed foreign policy" will be a major issue in the 1980 campaign even if, as he predicts, a new peace offensive occurs this spring.

In an interview on CBS' "Face the Nation," the Tennessee Republican said he and other presidential candidates have felt bound to stand by President Carter's efforts to free the hostages in Iran. But, Baker said, he considers the overall issue of Carter's foreign policy a legitimate subject for public debate.

In reply to a question, Baker said he did not feel that Carter's tough-talking State of the Union speech last week had pre-empted the foreign policy issue.

"I don't think for one minute the people will be fooled by that," he said. "They will measure his words by his actions, and they'll realize we are in this mess because of his failed foreign policy... the mistakes he has made."

After three years of weakness and vacillation, Baker said, there are doubts that Carter can "convince the world that he won't flip-flop one more time."

Asked if he believes East-West relations have returned to the "Cold War" atmosphere of the post-World War II years, Baker said the Cold War title has outlived its usefulness. "But there is no doubt our relations are in a new era," he said. The United States "has been living in a dream world, but now is coming back to reality" and preparing to rebuild its strength.

Baker said he intends to continue campaigning on foreign policy because he considers it important to the nation, even if the current problems are solved.

"I predict that by next spring there will be another big peace offensive," he said, "and we'll be back into a debate on SALT. And people will say once again that Baker is paying too much attention to foreign policy — but I will be in there debating, and saying there is an external threat, and I believe I will be successful."

On his own prospects, Baker said he is content, for the present, to be third in the list of GOP candidates. He noted that only a few weeks ago, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan was thought to be the GOP front-runner and Democratic Sen. Edward Kennedy was believed invincible.

Now, he said, former U.N. ambassador George Bush is the Republican front-runner and on the Democratic side there is talk that Kennedy may pull out of the race.

"I'll get there," he said. "There are 36 primaries." He added, "It is way too early" to count Kennedy out of the Democratic race.

Contractor's Mass Murder Trial Begins

CHICAGO (AP) — In a modest neighborhood on the Northwest Side is a vacant lot. Neighbors say it's riddled by four-wheel-drive vehicles that jump the curb and gun across it and littered with beer cans and liquor bottles deliberately tossed by passing motorists.

A year ago wreckers were tearing down a ranch-style house and police were digging up the yard, driveway and patio in a macabre search for bodies. They eventually unearthed the remains of 29.

John W. Gacy Jr., a stocky 37-year-old building contractor, had lived there. The neighbors liked him. He sometimes dressed as a clown and gave parties in his backyard for scores of friends.

He was a Democratic precinct worker and once had his picture taken at a political dinner with Rosalynn Carter when the first lady visited Chicago.

He was chaplain of the Jaycees chapter in the late 1960s when he worked for his father-in-law's fried chicken franchises in Waterloo, Iowa.

He always seemed to have young men around, neighbors said. He made contact with many of them through his remodeling work and offered them jobs. He lived with his wife and her two children by a previous marriage until they were divorced in 1976 and she and the children moved out.

Jury selection today as Gacy goes on trial charged with the sex-related murders of 33 young men and boys — this country's worst multiple slaying.

Circuit Court Judge Louis Garippo ruled earlier that all indictments should be consolidated into one trial because testimony would be repetitive if Gacy were tried on each indictment.

The remains of 26 bodies were unearthed in a 3-foot-high crawl space under his house, some stacked atop each other, sprinkled with lime and wrapped in plastic. Another corpse was found beneath the wooden floor of a room that had been added to the house.

A 28th skeleton was found under the concrete floor of a garage-tool shed, and a 29th was dug up from under an asphalt apron of a backyard patio.

Gacy was also linked to the bodies of four young men found in nearby rivers. The first skeleton was uncovered Dec. 21, 1978. Almost daily, others were carried out in plastic bags as authorities dug and tore at the inside of the house.

The digging and dismantling ended April 23. A bulldozer leveled the ground.

When the first bodies were found, inquiries began pouring in to authorities from desperate parents and relatives of missing youths. At present, 22 of the bodies have been identified, mainly by dental charts.

When the trial gets under way, the prosecution says, it will seek the death penalty. The defense will try to prove Gacy is not guilty by reason of insanity.

In a change of venue granted to the defense, Garippo shifted jury selection to Rockford, Ill., a conservative, working-class city of 147,000 some 85 miles northwest of Chicago.

The defense contended that an impartial jury could not be impaneled in Chicago because Gacy's case was so extensively reported there.

Selection of 12 jurors and four alternates from a list of 500 persons summoned for duty may take a couple of weeks, some officials think. Once the selection is made, the jurors will be sequestered in Chicago. The trial is expected to run two months.

Gacy will be in court during jury selection. He will be taken under heavy security from the Cook County Jail complex to Rockford where he will be housed next door to the Winnebago County Courthouse in the jail section of the Public Safety Building.

Gacy will be isolated from other inmates and may be kept in the infirmary if his physical condition warrants, said Don Gasparini, chief deputy sheriff in Rockford.

Since his arrest, Gacy has been hospitalized four times, complaining of chest pains. At one of his hearings, he collapsed in the courtroom and fell out of his chair.

Gacy was picked up by police in December 1978, suspected of delivering marijuana to youths. At about the same time, 15-year-old Robert Piest of suburban Des Plaines disappeared.

While Gacy was being questioned about drugs, police checked his background and found that he was convicted of sodomy when he lived in Iowa.

Authorities began bearing down on Gacy about Piest. It was learned Gacy had done remodeling work at a Des Plaines drug store where Piest had worked. Some belongings of Piest allegedly were found in Gacy's home.

Gacy was charged with killing the youth and also with aggravated kidnapping, deviate sexual assault and taking indecent liberties with a child. The charges were leveled even though Piest's body had not been found then. It was one of the bodies found later in a river.

Tourists Crossing Sinai Border

By The Associated Press

Tourists from Tel Aviv and Cairo crossed the border between Israel and Egyptian-ruled Sinai on Sunday, renewing a land link that had been closed for 31 years. But what was termed a "bureaucratic hitch" prevented a Cairo-bound group from completing the journey.

Normalization of relations between Israel and Egypt and what was described in Syria as the resultant growth of American influence in the Middle East, was one of the subjects to be discussed by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in a three-day visit to Syria. Gromyko arrived in Damascus Sunday for talks with Syrian President Hafez Assad, and apparently also to allay Arab fears over the Kremlin's intervention in Afghanistan.

In other developments, Sol Linowitz, President Carter's special envoy to the Mideast, arrived in Cairo for talks with Egyptian officials before going on Tuesday to Tel Aviv for a formal round of negotiations on Palestinian autonomy in the occupied territories seized by Israel in the 1967 Mideast war. In an arrival statement, Linowitz said Egypt and Israel had fulfilled the bilateral part of their peace treaty "so gratifyingly and so faithfully."

The U.S. aircraft carrier Forrestal dropped anchor in Alexandria, Egypt less than a week after President Carter announced his administration's determination to defend vital areas of the Mideast. U.S. Navy officers said the 80,000-ton carrier was paying a long-planned courtesy visit.

"In Tel Aviv, Israeli sources and news reports said Israel is concerned about heightened Syrian military activity in Lebanon. A military source said: 'We are aware of developments there, and are following them closely.'"

Under the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty, normalization began Saturday, but the border opening was postponed one day because of the Jewish sabbath.

In a few weeks or months everyone will be used to normal relations, even though for the past 31 years our border was closed (and) there were no mail or telephone or land links between us," said Prime Minister Menachem Begin in an interview on the armed forces radio station.

Begin said that the two sides needed additional talks on the opening of regular air routes. "Many things still require discussion and arranging," Begin told the radio. "This will take time."

A group of about 100 persons from Tel Aviv, both Israelis and other foreign tourists, crossed the border checkpoint near El Arish in the Egyptian controlled Sinai, but were not allowed to continue, Israel Radio reported.

Civil Rights Chief Threatening Suits Against Some Suburbs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department is studying suburban zoning laws that restrict residential lot sizes to see whether they exclude most minorities from buying homes, civil rights chief Drew Days III said Sunday.

Laws requiring lots to be minimum sizes — in some cases ranging from half an acre to three acres or larger — may be discriminatory and push housing costs too high for most minorities to afford new homes, the assistant attorney general said.

He suggested lawsuits threatening to cut off federal Community Development Act funds could be filed against suburbs that restrict lot sizes, mainly in newly developing communities receiving millions of dollars in federal aid.

Days discussed the approach, which could become a controversial new government push for housing integration, in a UPI interview.

Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti first revealed last week the department is considering filing civil rights suits where there is evidence suburbs are using zoning laws to exclude minorities.

"What we're doing," Days said, elaborating on the attorney general's comments, "is looking at a number of land use practices to try to determine whether they have the likely effect of maintaining racial segregation and the extent to which there seems to be some type of discriminatory motivations behind such actions."

He said the chief enforcement tool probably would be the Community Development Act of 1974, which requires cities receiving federal funds to project the extent to which persons at various income levels will seek housing in their communities.

Suburban communities receiving federal revenues are supposed to plan to meet the overall housing needs of the area, Days said.

Visitor Details Soviet's Exile

MOSCOW (AP) — Banished Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov lives in a spacious apartment with a well-stocked refrigerator and has a shortwave radio able to pick up the Voice of America and the British Broadcasting Corp., a visitor reported Sunday.

But his next-door neighbors are policemen and his visitors are sometimes detained, according to Mark Kovner, a 46-year-old physicist who spoke with reporters in Moscow after returning from Gorky.

Kovner visited Sakharov who was banished from Moscow to Gorky last Tuesday to muffle his advocacy of human rights in the Soviet Union.

Gorky, a city of 1.3 million people 250 miles east of Moscow, is closed to foreigners and Sakharov has been forbidden any contact with "criminal elements," a term Soviet officials often use for dissidents.

Kovner's account of his visit with Sakharov was the first detailed report of how Sakharov, 58, and his wife Elena Bonner, are faring.

"I'm impressed by the way they're holding out," Kovner told foreign journalists. "They're relaxed, they're in good humor and they're staying calm."

Kovner said when the Sakharovs arrived at their ground floor, four-room apartment they found it equipped with a television set and a refrigerator that had been stocked with food of better quality than that normally available in Gorky at this time of year. Sakharov can pick up world news reports on the shortwave radio he took with him, Kovner said.

But he reported police are always nearby and officers looking from windows in a nearby police station can see the Sakharov apartment. Police have briefly detained several visitors, Kovner said, and the Sakharovs have complained to authorities.

Sakharov cannot leave Gorky, has no telephone and every 10 days must sign in with local officials assigned to "supervise him," Kovner said. The Prioksky district where Sakharov lives is represented in the Russian Federation parliament by Yuri N. Andropov, chief of the Soviet KGB security police.

Police always know the Sakharovs' whereabouts, according to Kovner. He said when Mrs. Bonner boarded a Gorky-to-Moscow train on Friday, in an apparent test of whether her husband's exile applied to her, police boarded the train and told her relatives were coming to Gorky to see her.

Kovner said she left the train and returned to the Gorky apartment where the relatives arrived a short time later.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. We recently invested in a money market mutual fund. Newspaper tables always list the value of this fund's shares at $1. Will this figure remain constant, forever? Or, could it change — indicating a change in the value of the fund?

A. The per share value does not change, how can we tell if anything bad is happening between monthly statements?

A. The one answer to your first two questions is that the value of each share of the money market mutual fund you named in your letter will probably always remain at $1.

If you invested $1,000 — the minimum initial investment accepted by that fund — you bought 1,000 shares. It's very unlikely that those 1,000 shares will ever be worth anything other than $1,000. Any dividends you reinvest will buy more shares — also at $1 apiece.

Your fund uses the "constant net asset value" method of methods used by different money market mutual funds. With two of the other three, day-to-day changes in share value are also unlikely.

Even with the fourth method — called "variable net asset value, market-to-market" — changes in daily share values are seldom more than a penny.

This is because money market mutual funds use the money you and other shareholders put in to invest in "short-term" money market instruments — U.S. Treasury bills, bank certificates of deposit, commercial paper and such.

Those short-term investments do go up and down in day-to-day market value — depending upon interest rates and related factors in the worldwide money market.

But, because those short-term debt securities are paid off at "par" — face value — when they mature, money market funds don't stand to take losses on their investments. A loss would occur only if a money market fund invests in short-term paper on which the issuer defaults — an unlikely happening.

So, with the per share value of your fund remaining constant, you can't tell if anything bad is happening between the monthly statements' you receive from the fund — unless you keep tabs on the fund's yield.

Your money market mutual fund — like most others — has a toll-free telephone arrangement for calling and getting the yield. Yield — now around 13 percent for the better-managed money market mutual funds — is the best measurement of how well, or how badly, such funds are serving their shareholders.

Q. You favor dividend reinvestment plans, through which stockholders can use their dividends to buy more shares. Such plans help attract investors and keep the price of the stock up.

If enough investors are attracted by such a plan, doesn't that lessen the chances of the company having a stock split to benefit present stockholders?

A. That depends on the thinking of the company's board of directors — which initiates plans for a stock split. A split is usually put into effect, when the price of a stock is high. A two-for-one split, for instance, doubles the number of shares and cuts the price of each share in half.

Where did you get the notion that a split — by itself — will benefit stockholders? Other than attracting attention to the stock, a split is meaningless.

DOYLE welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

Smaller U.S. Airports Feeling Impact Of Refinery Explosion

By PAT TEAGUE
United Press International
A Jan. 20 explosion at unit 22 of Phillips Petroleum's refinery near Borger caused severe physical damage and 41 injuries, but the impact of the blast is just now being felt at the nation's smaller airports.

A Phillips aviation fuel executive, who called the explosion at the company's primary aviation fuel production facility "catastrophic," summed up this weekend: "We're out of business right now."

Today, the company will begin allocating "100-130" aviation gasoline to its customers "on the basis of 35 percent of the amount called for by contract during the first three months of 1980," a company statement said.

The fuel — known in the trade as "LL" for low lead — is used in smaller, piston-driven aircraft and in older military planes.

In its statement, Phillips noted that construction work on its Borger refinery is proceeding "as quickly as possible. It is expected that gradual improvement (in the supply situation) will be made."

Privately, however, an executive said there is no way of knowing how long the facility will be inoperative. It may take engineers as long as four months or as little as 60 days to rebuild crippled Unit 22, he said.

One thing was clear as the week ended: aviation fuel supplies for Phillips' customers already were getting tight and the situation would get worse before it got better.

"I was in Denver yesterday and I could not get gas. I called before I left to check on the availability, so I got all I could here," Farmington, N.M. pilot Richard Cramer said in Albuquerque, where rationing also had begun.

At Des Moines Flying Service, Iowa's pilots were getting just enough "to get them there and back," said service manager Tom Omstot.

Omstot said supplies of Phillips aviation fuel were nonexistent and already had put a drain on Shell and Texaco stocks.

The bad news was repeated in Mis-

News 'Blackout' Extended By OCAW Union

DENVER (UPI) — The news "blackout" on talks by representatives of 60,000 striking oil industry workers was extended for an indefinite period Sunday as the walkout moved toward a third week.

Robert Goss, president of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, met with members of the organization's National Oil Policy Committee in Denver starting Saturday on the union's bargaining position and imposed the blackout.

"The blackout will continue for an indefinite period," said OCAW spokesman Jerry Archuleta. "The committee is supposed to be in Denver for several days at least. Mr. Goss gave no reason for the blackout."

The union called the strike Jan. 8 under a reopener clause in last year's contract that permitted renegotiation of wages, fringe benefits and vacations. The walkout involves more than 400 contracts with 100 major oil firms.

Before the blackout, Archuleta said industry offers had made no significant progress toward the request from the union for fully paid health insurance, including dental and prescription drug benefits.

The bargaining committee last met Jan. 10, but had been polled by telephone on offers from Gulf and Shell last week. Archuleta said the proposals were almost identical to those rejected prior to the walkout.

The committee had been scheduled to meet in Denver Friday, but a severe winter storm stranded several members, including Goss, in other cities. Archuleta said all members had arrived by Saturday.

The contract signed last year was negotiated under Carter's wage and price controls. The union opted to use the reopener clause to obtain higher wages and better fringe benefits in light of the industry's year of high profits.

'Grave Robbers' Take Man's Wallet, Car

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — It was a case of grave robbery.

It began in broad daylight when Franklin Hardy of San Diego was visiting his mother's final resting place at Evergreen Cemetery last Thursday.

Hardy, 27, told police he was standing looking down at the grave when he two men walked up behind him and interrupted his meditations by putting a knife in his back.

"They told me to get over to my car and then demanded my wallet," said Hardy, an airline pilot.

The robbers hung around a while, played his car stereo and told him how nice his car was, Hardy said. Then one told me to get back to the grave if I didn't want to be in it," he said.

Hardy said the two men took off with about $400 in cash, some credit cards and the car — leaving Hardy to make the three-mile trip to the nearest police station on foot.

souri at Spirit of St. Louis Airport where director Dick Hrabko assessed his situation.

Although Phillips dealers had been cut off entirely, he said, the Bartlesville, Okla., oil company had promised to seek alternative supplies.

"But I talked to at least half a dozen folks relying on Phillips aviation gasoline and they're in pretty bad shape," Hrabko said. "It's my understanding that Phillips is severely allocating it, what little they have. It's not a short-term situation. It could be awhile."

The grim reports flowed in from Lubbock to Minneapolis and Cheyenne, Wyo., and eastward to Cleveland.

A Phillips executive said the problem is compounded because the explosion occurred at a time when company inventories "weren't what they wanted (them) to be."

But, he added, things might have been even worse. Aviation fuel sales normally are lower in the winter months of January and February because most private pilots prefer to take their vacations during the warmer months.

"Thank God this happened when it did, or we would have been in a disaster," he said.

The production of jet fuel also has been affected by the Jan. 20 explosion at Unit 22 where another explosion last October killed two workers. Phillips was fined $20,000 in December by the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration for "willful violations" at the plant that led to the October blast.

"Jet fuel involves some of our big, big customers. And they're panic-stricken," the executive continued.

Supplies during February will be allocated on a 70-percent-of-contract basis, the company has announced. But, said the spokesman, jet fuel is generally more plentiful than aviation fuel nationwide.

The exception is in Denver, he said, where he expected supplies to be tighter "because of the Borger impact."

The Story That Almost Was

IT WOULD HAVE BEEN — or could have been — the perfect ending for the perfect comeback.

Roll the credits, strike up the band (playing the Tech fight song, naturally) and whip out the Kleenex. This one is going to rival "Rocky" in the tear-jerker department.

And Franse, who looks like he just stepped off the "Happy Days" set would be the perfect hero. The 6-foot-2 (he doesn't look that big, either) honor student from nearby Clovis, New Mexico, could smile shyly and offer only praise to his teammates.

What a game, what an ending, what a movie. There is one drawback. That's not the way the final scene was written in the drama that was the Tech-SMU contest Saturday night in Dallas. The hero of the game turned out to be SMU's Gordon Welch — a little-used junior who made what he called the "biggest play of my life."

FIRST, LET'S SET the scene. The Raiders, after flirting with elimination all night, get the ball back with only 19 seconds left in the game. They call time out and set the play. The objective is to get the ball to either Kent Williams or David Little for the final shot.

Little, in particular had been ripping the nets, and was already the game's leading scorer with 27 tallies. Hearts flutter when the Mustangs bat the ball out of bounds with 10 seconds left. But Tech retains possession.

Another timeout is called. The tension mounts. The action resumes and the seconds are fast slipping away when Williams drives inside the free-throw line. The SMU defense sags around him as Williams goes up in the air. Williams spots Franse wide open in the corner and — rather than shoot — flips him a perfect pass.

(Already I can see the headlines: "Freshman Saves Raiders," "Franse Leads Tech Out Of Wilderness." Oh, I love those kinds of stories!)

Franse aims, cocks, fires and BOOM — all of a sudden the ball is flying over his head — backwards.

WELCOME, MR. FRESHMAN, to the Southwest Conference. Welch didn't just block the Tech youngster's shot — he sent it about six rows up in the bleachers. The Raiders got the ball out of bounds with four seconds left, but by now it was academic. And Williams' desperation heave fell way short at the buzzer.

"I never saw him," said a quiet Franse afterwards. "Kent penetrated well, he drew in the defense and I was wide open — I really don't know where he (Welch) came from."

"If I'd have seen him," he added, "I could've given him a head fake or dribbled underneath him."

Welch, a 6-4 junior, had been sticking to Tech's Ben Hill on the play. But the moment Williams made his pass, Welch went up in the air.

"I saw him (Williams) dump the ball off," recounted Welch, "I thought it was going to Little and when I saw it was going to a different man I just went for the ball."

"If he'd have pumped and gone under me," added Welch in all honesty, "he'd have been gone — 'cause I was up in the air."

Ironically, Welch had spent the entire game on the bench until the final 10 seconds of the contest — going in on the last timeout.

"That block was the biggest play I've ever made," he said grinning from ear to ear. "It was a great win for our team."

MAYBE IT WOULDN'T PACK the house here on the Caprock — but Welch did give the show a bonafide Horatio Alger ending.

And Tech's Franse? Well, he'll be okay, too.

"If I'd have given a head fake, or double-clutched or dribbled past him — the game could've had a different ending," he said. "But I just never saw him. Hopefully, I'll learn from this."

The Raiders should also learn quite a bit from the experience. It was remarkable indeed that Tech was even close at the end after the way they'd played defense against the Mustangs.

Although the Raiders shot remarkably well in the second half, the Mustangs relied mostly on layups and foul shots to stay ahead. And with the loss, the Raiders' position now is hardly an enviable one.

Tonight, in their biggest game of the year, Tech will face the 6-1 Arkansas Razorbacks at 8 in the Municipal Coliseum. The only smudge on the Hog record is a narrow loss to the Aggies in College Station.

On Wednesday, Tech is in Houston to battle the Cougars. The next two games are crucial for Tech's conference hopes.

Even more crucial, say, then "The Block Heard 'Round the World."

There's just one thing that's bugging me though, and it kept me up all night Saturday.

Let's say, for the sake of argument, that Welch hadn't blocked the final Franse attempt. Would the shot have been good, anyway?

Watson Claims Playoff Triumph

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Tom Watson's routine par — an anticlimax after a wild variety of adventures — on the first extra hole provided him with a sudden-death playoff victory over D.A. Weibring and the title in the Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament Sunday.

Weibring, 26, rapidly establishing himself as one of the game's most promising players, and Watson completed the regulation 72 holes with matching totals of 275, 13 shots under par on the cold, gloomy, windy South course at the Torrey Pines Golf Club.

The playoff was set up when Watson, the outstanding player in golf for the past three seasons and opening his 1980 campaign here, three-putted for bogey on the 72nd hole, blowing sole control of the top spot.

In order, Watson led by two, trailed by three, led by two again, was tied, led by one, then tied. He had a final-round 70. Weibring shot a brilliant 65.

In the playoff, Weibring drove into the left rough and was blocked from the green by a tree. He had to play out short, then pitched to the green, the shot stopping some three to four feet from the cup. Watson was on in two and two-putted for the routine par.

Weibring then missed the par-saving putt and Watson was a winner again, off and running in his quest for a fourth consecutive player of the year title.

Lon Hinkle, who once led by three shots, finished a distant third at 71-278. It

Henderson Seeks Reprieve

DALLAS (AP) — Thomas "Hollywood" Henderson, the brassy linebacker dismissed from the Dallas Cowboys, says he will plead again this week with coach Tom Landry to reinstate him as a member of the National Football League team.

"I'm going to ask him to forgive me," Henderson said.

"It's a scary feeling thinking about going to another city, neighborhood and society and functioning properly."

Henderson noted former teammate Duane Thomas was given a second chance by Landry.

But he added, "I don't know if it would work or not but if I made up my mind to conform and prove I could do all the things I didn't do with the Cowboys, and if I said I wanted to conform, would he (Landry) give me another chance?"

Landry gave the boisterous veteran his walking papers Nov. 19, saying he was a disruptive influence. Both said at the time a reunion was impossible.

Henderson said he would appeal to Landry after Sunday's Pro Bowl in Hawaii, where Landry coached the NFC team.

Reached in Honolulu, Landry responded:

"I cannot comment until I talk to him. I just talked to him last week. He and I have no problems — except playing football for the Cowboys."

Tech Eyes Scrappy Hogs

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

To listen to Eddie Sutton and Gerald Myers talk, you'd think the two of them were in charge of a couple of lower-division clubs fighting to get out of the Southwest Conference cellar.

But — and don't let the kids know — sometimes even coaches tell little white lies.

Both claimed to be plagued by sloppy defense, a lack of overwhelming talent and the kind of player that can consistently come up with the game-winning bucket.

"I think this may be one of the worst defensive teams, I've ever had," Myers matter-of-factly informed Sutton Sunday evening at the Municipal Coliseum.

"Well," replied Sutton with a twinkle in his eyes — still black from the broken nose he suffered in practice Wednesday, "you can say the same thing about us. This could be a real high-scoring affair."

Both coaches laughed heartily at that. Tech and Arkansas meet at 8 p.m. tonight in a key SWC matchup in the Municipal Coliseum. And, if we are to learn anything from history, it ought to be another hard-fought, defensive struggle right down to the wire.

EDDIE SUTTON
Downplays Hogs' Chances

In fact, this could be a real low-scoring affair.

"We've been lucky so far," said Sutton of his 6-1 Razorbacks. "I don't think we're as good as we have been in the past, and we've won a couple of games that we probably should've lost."

And the Raiders have also had their share of luck to stand 5-2 in conference play. But Saturday night in Dallas, the Raiders came up short — dropping a one-point decision to SMU and are in third place in the league standings. Arkansas is alone in second after struggling to beat Rice at home.

"Realistically, we got ourselves in a bad predicament," said Myers of the Raiders' 76-75 loss to SMU. "We can't control our own situation. We're two down and we're not playing for first anymore."

Although Myers is hesitant to call this a must game for the Raiders, obviously it's a biggie.

"Well every game is important," he explained. "You can't afford to lose any of them. But this one is important — without question Arkansas is motivated, they're going for a championship and I'd rate them with (Texas) A&M."

"We're more balanced than we have been in the past," acknowledged Sutton.

"We're playing a lot more people, but Scott Hastings, Alan Zahn and U.S. Reed are the guys that we've really been relying on."

Hastings, the Hogs' 6-10 post man, is averaging 17 points and 6.7 rebounds a game. Zahn, a 6-7 forward and Sutton's only senior, is scoring 11.5 points a tilt and Reed is averaging 13.4 from his guard spot.

The Hogs' other starters are guard Keith Hilliard and defensive specialist Brad Fries (6-5) at a forward.

"I think the two teams are pretty evenly matched," said Sutton. "In all the games that Gerald and I have played, their's only been one that didn't go right down to the wire, I don't expect anything different."

"I would have to say Arkansas is the biggest surprise of the season so far," countered Myers. "They're a lot stronger than anybody thought they could be."

"They are very confident on the floor and they play the game well from every standpoint."

Sutton just chuckled.

"You know," he said, "Gerald and I have similar philosophies and this ought to be a heck of a game. But this (SWC) race has a long way to go."

"I don't think the top three teams (A&M, Arkansas and Tech) are that much better than the bottom six," he added. "We had to play the game of our life to beat Rice last night..."

RED RAIDER NOTES — Tech will go with its set lineup of 6-5 Kent Williams and 6-4 Jeff Taylor at the guards, 6-6 Ben Hill and 6-6 David Little in the wings and 6-8 Ralph Brewster at the post. Little is coming off a career-high 27-point performance against SMU. The Tech athletic department is again offering to give away tickets to anyone unable to purchase tickets for tonight's game at the door. Tickets go on sale at 7:30 p.m.

drive in the first quarter of Sunday's Pro Bowl. A sellout crowd at Honolulu's Aloha Stadium watched the NFC all-stars whip the AFC for a third straight year 37-27. (AP Laserphoto)

Muncie Leads NFC To Victory

HONOLULU (AP) — Chuck Muncie of New Orleans ran for two touchdowns and threw a 25-yard halfback option pass to Dallas' Tony Hill for another score Sunday to lead the National Conference to a 37-27 victory over the American Conference in the Pro Bowl.

The victory was the third in a row for the NFC and gave it a 6-4 edge over the AFC in this game, which comes one week after the Super Bowl and officially closes the National Football League season.

Muncie, who was selected the most valuable player in the game and had gained 1,198 yards for the Saints this season, broke a 3-3 tie on a 1-yard run with 1:41 gone in the second period, then swept in from 11 yards out with 5:14 gone in the fourth quarter for the NFC's final touchdown.

The AFC tied it 10-10 barely four minutes after Muncie's first score on a 1-yard pass from Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw to Cleveland's Mike Pruitt. That play came right after Dallas' Cliff Harris was penalized 25 yards for pass interference in the end zone against wide receiver Stanley Morgan of New England.

The Saints' Archie Manning put the NFC ahead again 16-10 by capping a 12-play, 80-yard drive with a 13-yard scoring pass to Detroit's David Hill.

With 1:50 to go in the half, three plays after linebacker Harry Carson of the New York Giants intercepted a Bradshaw pass, Muncie took a Manning pitchout, rolled to his right and lofted his 25-yard TD strike to Tony Hill, who caught the ball in the right corner of the end zone. Another interception of a Bradshaw pass, this one by New Orleans' safety Tom Myers, preceded Muncie's 11-yard scoring run.

Philadelphia's Wally Henry electrified the Aloha Stadium crowd of 48,000 with an 86-yard punt return for a 30-10 NFC lead early in the third period. Houston's Earl Campbell scored the AFC's final two touchdowns on runs of 2 and 1 yards.

Two scoring records were set in the game — the 37 points by the NFC eclipsing the 33 by the AFC in 1973, and the 64 points by both teams surpassing the 61 in that 33-28 AFC victory.

In the first period each team managed only one field goal, a 37-yarder by Washington's Mark Moseley for the NFC and a 19-yarder by Toni Fritsch of Houston for the AFC.

Fritsch's field goal came after San Diego's Dan Fouts had completed passes of 22 yards to Pruitt and 16 yards to Chargers teammate Charlie Joiner.

Schedule Not Getting Easier For Mats

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Estacado's win over Borger Friday night didn't get the Matadors out of the woods in the District 1-AAA title race. In fact, it may have only given them a chance to stay in there a little longer.

The Matadors are 3-0 in loop play with a one-game edge on the Bulldogs and Canyon and two games remaining in the first-half chase.

And two big games they are. For sure, the toughest part of Estacado's first-half schedule is past them. Borger and Dumas at home and Canyon on the road, but now the Mats must host Levelland and travel a couple of blocks up Quirt Ave to take on Dunbar.

Those squads are the last two in the district standings, but Levelland, paced by 6-8 junior post Dwight Phillips, has surprised everybody this season and Dunbar, well, when Estacado meets the Panthers, anything can happen.

And the emotional setting is just right for a Panther upset Friday night. Dunbar has defeated nobody but coach Joe McWilliams since district play began. They're 0-3 now, after losing their first two games at home and being blown out of the tub (Dumas 104, Dunbar 60) in the third. After Tuesday night's trip to Borger, in all probability they will be 0-4.

In short, they're in a perfect position mentally to beat Estacado. Dunbar has nothing to lose and everything to gain. A win over the Matadors would be the perfect beginning for a second-half awakening. But, to paraphrase an old saying, Dunbar's spirit is willing, but the flesh may be weak. Not weak, maybe, but young. The Panthers start a pair of sophomores and two more seniors with only limited varsity experience last year.

Plainsmen Atop 4-AAAA Heap

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
For more than two months now, basketball teams from Amarillo to Midland and points between, namely Lubbock, have been staging some pretty serious battles on the hard wood.

Plainsview. But things haven't been easy for the MHS through round one. Riddled by injury and a case of chicken pox, the Plainsmen had to hold off a tough Coronado club last Friday to win in double-overtime 54-48. MHS head coach Joe Michalka still feels the Plainsmen are "the darkhorses" of the district. Somebody, though, forgot to tell the Plainsmen that.

7 Darrel 'Spiderman' Polk and 6-2 Joe Walker. Plus, Hereford will host Monterey during the second half. So the schedule is certainly on Decker's side.

deciding who eventually does. DISTRICT 3-AAAA: This district seems considerably weaker than District 4-AAAA. Amarillo and Palo Duro are sloshing their way to an eventual showdown — if that's what you want to call it. Palo Duro is the only team over the 500 mark. The Dons, who aren't so dandy, are 12-10. This loop also sports two teams, Caprock and Taqosa, that have combined record of 8-34. And as the Amarillo sports writer commented: "They should forget this district even exists."

Drew, Hawks Soar Over San Antonio

By The Associated Press
John Drew hit 32 points, 20 in the second half, as the Atlanta Hawks whipped San Antonio 118-111 in a nationally televised National Basketball Association game Sunday.

The victory, only Atlanta's second in the last seven, gave the Hawks a two-game lead over the Spurs and snapped San Antonio's four-game winning streak.

Drew got 11 points in the final quarter as the Hawks beat back a furious San Antonio rally.

Guard Eddie Johnson and center Wayne Rollins also had key baskets in the final period.

San Antonio had trailed virtually the entire game and was down 94-84 with 8:33 remaining in the game. But the Spurs chipped away and narrowed the gap to 108-106 with 1:53 left.

But Rollins, Drew and Johnson combined to outscore the Spurs 10-5 the rest of the way to put the game away for Atlanta.

Boston 131, San Diego 118
Rookie sensation Larry Bird scored 36 points in his top effort as a pro Sunday as the Boston Celtics handed San Diego its sixth consecutive loss in a 131-108 National Basketball Association victory over the Clippers.

NFC Dumps AFC Stars

returned Fritsch's kickoff 32 yards to the AFC 43-yard line. Three plays later, Manning scrambled away from pressure and completed a 26-yard pass to Philadelphia's Wilbert Montgomery. Three plays after that, Muncie went over for the score.

The NFC had an opportunity to hold its 10-3 lead when the AFC was forced to punt near midfield — but the Nationals were penalized for having too many men on the field — the same penalty which ultimately cost Dallas (and NFC) head coach Tom Landry a Thanksgiving Day victory against Houston.

This time, it cost the NFC a touchdown on Bradshaw's pass to Pruitt at 5:50 of the second period.

The 80-play march capped by Manning's pass to David Hill was highlighted by the game's most controversial call. On a second-and-11 play, Pittsburgh safety Dannie Shell was penalized 21 yards for pass interference against Philadelphia's Harold Carmichael. Television replays appeared to show that Shell had batted the ball away cleanly.

But the NFC had possession on the AFC 21 and, eight plays later it had the touchdown that put the Nationals in front to stay.

On the AFC's next play from scrimmage, Carson stepped in front of San Diego's John Jefferson and intercepted Bradshaw. Carson ran the ball 11 yards to the AFC 42. It took three plays for Muncie to make his scoring pass to give the AFC a 23-10 halftime lead.

Aggies Alone Atop Standings

Sometimes the winning baskets in the closing seconds fall, and sometimes they don't.

They didn't Saturday, and as a result Texas A&M is still all alone at the top of the Southwest Conference basketball race, one game ahead of Arkansas and two ahead of Texas Tech.

Let two field goals connect in the final six seconds, one by Texas and the other by Tech, and the SWC race would be in a three-way tie for first among the Aggies, Razorbacks and Red Raiders.

John Danks' driving jump shot from inside the lane bounced off the front of the rim with six seconds to play, and instead of losing to Texas 55-54, the Aggies picked up two more free throws just before the buzzer on a desperation foul and claimed a 56-53 victory to remain unbeaten in SWC play with a 7-0 record.

SMU's Gordon Welch made his first appearance in the SMU-Tech game with only 10 seconds to play. But he blocked Nelson Franse's shot from the corner with 4 seconds to play, and the Raiders' Kent Williams shot an air ball from 28 feet at the buzzer as the Mustangs took a 76-75 victory.

Tech dropped to 5-2, two games behind A&M and a game behind Arkansas, which raised its record to 6-1 with a 73-64 victory over Rice. In Saturday's other game, Houston pinned an 82-71 loss on Baylor.

"Tech is a good ball team, and they played another good team tonight. A last-second shot in Austin and another one here, and Tech could be in first place," SMU coach Sonny Allen said.

Texas coach Abe Lemmons said the difference in A&M beating his club was "a lucky bounce one way or the other, a key rebound on a shot here or there."

"Danks might have hurried his shot a little, but we still had a good chance to get the rebound and put it back in," the Texas coach said about the loss to A&M before 13,430 fans in the Super Drum.

Instead, the rebound bounced over Texas freshman LaSalle Thompson and into the hands of the Aggies' David Britton. Danks fouled him in desperation, and Britton made both free throws to wrap up the win.

"The shots just didn't fall that could have gone," Lemmons added.

Aggie coach Shelby Metcalf agreed. "We were fortunate. There were five or six things that happened to each side that could have decided this ball game," he said.

Ron Baxter scored 18 for Texas while Danks, who scored the Longhorns' last four baskets, had 16. Vernon Smith and Rynn Wright had 11 each for A&M.

SMU and Tech traded the lead in the early going before the Mustangs went ahead to stay at 19-18 with 8:20 left in the first half. SMU led by as much as seven points before Tech closed the gap on the outside shooting of David Little, who led all scorers with 27 points.

Trailing 76-75, the Raiders got the ball at midcourt with 19 seconds to play and worked for a final shot. But Welch came in with 10 seconds to play as Allen tried to beef up his defense.

Maryland Mistakes Help Irish

By The Associated Press
With Kelly Tripucka out of the lineup, Notre Dame basketball coach Digger Phelps needed all the help he could get against Maryland.

He suggested a variation of the Pittsburgh Steelers' spirit-lifting "Terrible Towels," asking Notre Dame students to bring old socks and wave them at the game.

But the biggest help he eventually got were Maryland lapses, one on defense and the other on offense. The first one allowed Notre Dame to come roaring down the court and score the go-ahead basket with five seconds left. The second one wasted the remaining time on Maryland's last shot, allowing the eighth-ranked Irish to beat the 15th-ranked Terps 64-63 Saturday.

"We should have had a better shot at the end," said Maryland coach Lefty Driesell. "But that was my fault. I told (Albert) King to run up behind (Gilbert Salinas and try to get fouled."

But King's last shot was a desperation heave from half-court that bounced hard off the backboard. Only a few seconds earlier, Tracy Jackson had breezed downcourt, unhampered by Maryland defenders, to drive in for a layup that gave the Fighting Irish their winning points.

While Notre Dame was winning by a whisker, fourth-ranked Ohio State was losing by the same margin, dropping a 72-71 decision to Wisconsin Saturday.

The Buckeyes did better Sunday, beating 17th-ranked Virginia 70-65 in a nationally televised game. Kelvin Ransey, scoring in double figures for the 80th straight time, scored 18 points to pace the Buckeyes.

In another Sunday game involving a Top Twenty team, Darrell scored 27 points to lead No. 7 Louisville to a 79-73 decision over Florida State.

Red Raider Thinclads Second Behind Texas

ALBUQUERQUE (Special) — The Texas Tech track team, competing in their second indoor meet of the 1980 season, turned in a strong second-place finish here Saturday in the Lobo Indoor Invitational.

The Raiders held a slim 1½-point lead over the University of Texas going into the meet's last event — the high jump — and the Horns finished one-two in the event to capture the meet.

The Longhorns piled up 89 points to finish first in the 11-team meet, while the Raiders were second with 72½ points.

James Mays and Joseph Mutai turned in a pair of victories, in the 600-yard run and 1,000-meter run respectively, to pace the Tech effort.

"I'm really pleased with our performance," reported Tech coach Corky Oglesby. "This was a very competitive meet with some fine teams. Considering how early it is, our guys are really running well."

Two other Top Twenty teams were upset Saturday when No. 10 Missouri lost a 78-73 decision to Oklahoma and No. 19 Tennessee was beaten by Alabama 72-59.

Elsewhere, No. 1 DePaul defeated Evansville 105-94, No. 2 Oregon State beat Cal 86-55, No. 3 Duke whipped Pitt 78-69, No. 5 Kentucky stopped Georgia 56-49, No. 6 Syracuse beat Connecticut 99-89, No. 9 St. John's defeated Villanova 81-75, No. 11 Louisiana State tripped Florida 66-58, 13th-ranked North Carolina edged No. 12 Clemson 73-70, 16th-ranked Indiana beat 14th-ranked Purdue 69-58, No. 17 Virginia nipped North Carolina State 49-47, No. 18 Weber State wiped Idaho State 84-67, and No. 20 Brigham Young outlasted Hawaii 34-33.

Jackson's game-winning shot for Notre Dame killed a frantic late rally by Maryland. Trailing by three points in the last 30 seconds, the Terps had pulled ahead 63-62 on a steal and a layup by King.

TEAM TOTALS

FONTAINE IN A SOAP — Joan Fontaine appears on ABC-TV's set of "Ryan's Hope," a mid-day soap opera. Fontaine is appearing over a two-week period beginning today. Last fall when the offer came from New York, she was appearing in a Vienna English Theater production of "The Lion In Winter," and thought it would be a challenge. (AP Laserphoto)

Oscar Winner Takes Role In Soap Opera

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — Joan Fontaine was starring in the Vienna English Theater production of "The Lion in Winter" last fall when the offer of a limited role in ABC's daytime serial, "Ryan's Hope," came from New York.

"I thought, having achieved the success I had in 'The Lion in Winter,' I could do anything I jolly well pleased without letting myself down," the Oscar-winning actress recalls.

"I love challenge. I've flown a plane, won a balloon race, gone down the Grand Canyon on the back of a mule, and I decided a soap opera would be my next challenge."

A challenge it would be: Several rehearsals a day, taping late in the afternoon, and study in the evening for the next day's work.

"The hardest part of being in a soap opera is having to be on the floor all day," Miss Fontaine says. "They constantly jump from scene to scene, and they want you there all the time. You sit and you sit, and by the time they get to you again, you've cooled down."

"I'm very glad I did all those B pictures, which we ground out in five or six days. That's exactly what they're doing now."

In "Ryan's Hope," Miss Fontaine plays Page Williams, a prominent personal manager who wants to represent Kimberly Harris, a young actress. "Under a steely exterior, there beats a cash register," she says of the character she portrays.

Miss Fontaine appears in "Ryan's Hope" over a two-week period beginning today. The serial is broadcast weekdays 11:30-12 p.m. CST.

Joan Fontaine appeared in 48 motion pictures, not many of them B's, beginning with "Quality Street" in 1937. She won an Oscar as best actress for her role in "Suspicion" in 1941, and starred in several other now-classic films, including "Jane Eyre," "Rebecca" and "Letter from an Unknown Stranger."

In recent years, Miss Fontaine, now 62, has devoted a good deal of her attention to the stage, appearing in at least one theatrical production a year.

"The trouble with that is," she says, "when I sign up to do a play, like 'Dial M for Murder' and 'The Lion in Winter' last year, when other things come along, I just have to pass them up."

The demand for her talents appears constant. Twice during the interview in her East Side apartment, agents called with offers of work. One possibility for the future is a television series, for ABC, which she won't talk about now.

She appeared in the ABC movie, "The Users," in the fall of 1978.

"If it's a good role," she says, "I'll consider it, but I won't play a dipsomaniac or a nymphomaniac or any other kind of maniac. I've built quite a large following over the years, and I don't want to disappoint them, or myself."

There are a dozen or so first-run movie theaters in her neighborhood, and Miss Fontaine says she sees most films as they are released. "I'm afraid I like the foreign ones best," she says. "La Cage aux Folles" was marvelous."

Her schedule doesn't allow much time for television, but she says she does watch on occasion. "The English are doing some good things. I saw that Simpson thing the other night," she says, referring to the British production "Edward and Mrs. Simpson," "and it's got style."

"It's a pity American television doesn't do more of that, and I don't know why."

Study Says Fat People Discrimination Victims

BALTIMORE (AP) — Fat people are discriminated against almost as much as blacks and other minorities, a Maryland state study concludes.

David H. Tucker of Columbia, Md., a consultant who directed the study for the state Human Relations Commission, said fat people are victims of discrimination in virtually every aspect of life, from their workplace to theaters and sports arenas.

Tucker said he drew his conclusions after interviewing 600 members of the National Association to Aid Fat Persons, as well as representatives of the state's largest employers and 200 small businesses.

Few cases of weight and size discrimination are reported to authorities, he said, "because very few persons realize they are protected by law. Also, they are so used to being discriminated against."

"One of the problems is that fat people tend to accept it as their fault," Tucker said.

The consultant said fat people are less likely to be picked for jobs involving contact with the public.

Respondents said fat people are characterized by their employers as "lazy, lacking in self-discipline, sloppy, not well motivated, unclean and, in one case, smelly," according to the report.

The study also recommends that the state regulate the weight-loss industry to protect the estimated 700,000 Marylanders who are overweight.

The report was initiated by a joint resolution enacted by the legislature last year which asked all Marylanders to work toward ending discrimination against fat people.

The 68-page report has not been released, but portions were published in the Baltimore Evening Sun.

It urged that personnel directors take a close look at their hiring practices to make sure fat people are given a fair chance.

The report also called on management of theaters, stores, sports arenas and other public accommodations to check seating width and access so that overweight people are not excluded from events.

At the same time, it recommended that the state health and education departments do more to promote proper nutrition and diets.

The weight-loss industry, with annual income nationwide estimated at $15 billion, should be placed under strict control so that consumers know how foolproof a method is for slimming down, the report said.

Anyone can set up shop as a weight-loss expert and use a variety of machines, pills and therapy without any way of knowing whether the procedures are safe or effective, the study found.

It called for laws requiring such programs to advertise their success, failure and attrition rates. Any new program should be openly proclaimed as experimental, the agency added.

Younger Kennedy Going Into Petroleum

BOSTON (AP) — Joseph Kennedy 3rd is going into the oil business.

Kennedy, the 28-year-old son of the late Sen. Robert Kennedy, is president of The Citizens Energy Corporation, a non-profit company set up to sell oil cheaply to the state of Massachusetts for dispersal to low income families.

"Many people are carrying a disproportionate share of our country's energy burden," Kennedy said in announcing the company Saturday. "For those who have worked hard all their lives and are now on fixed incomes, it's heat or heat."

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Vsevolod Sotinsky, the Soviet ambassador who was expelled from New Zealand last week, Sunday denied the New Zealand government's charges that he had funded a local Communist Party.

It is lies, it is slander," Sotinsky told reporters who cornered the ambassador in Sydney en route home to Moscow.

Popular Movie Brings Golden Globe Awards To Actor, Actress

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Awards are very silly," Dustin Hoffman cracked Saturday night after winning a Golden Globe as best dramatic actor of 1979. "They pit very talented people against each other. They hurt the hell out of the ones who lose and relieve us that win."
Hoffman's victory was cheered by the Hollywood crowd at the 37th awards of the Hollywood Foreign Press Association at the Beverly Hilton Hotel.
"Kramer vs. Kramer" proved a popular winner, scoring for Hoffman, Meryl Streep as supporting actress, Robert Benton for his screenplay and for the film itself as best dramatic picture.
Sally Field, the Southern millworker and union organizer of "Norma Rae," was another popular winner as best dramatic actress.
Field, once "The Flying Nun" of television, recalled that she had once flown across the Coconut Grove at the Golden Globes and landed in John Wayne's lap.
"And now, 12 years later, I got one," she said emotionally.
Bette Midler went twice to the stage for Golden Globes as new star of the year and best actress in a musical or comedy.
After a number of fairly off-color remarks, she admitted, "This is the most wonderful thing that ever happened to me."
Francis Coppola was a surprise winner as best director for "Apocalypse Now," and he shared the award for original score with his father, Carmine, for the Vietnam film.
"Breaking Away," a low budget film about a high school graduate enamored with cycling, was awarded the Golden Globe for best comedy or musical film. Peter Sellers, the dim-witted television addict of "Being There," was named best actor of a comedy or musical.

Hoffman was named best actor for his role in "Kramer vs. Kramer," which also took three other major awards including best film, best supporting actress (Meryl Streep), and best screenplay (Robert Benton). ## Airline Offers 37-Cent Flight

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — William Cusack came to Cleveland for lunch Sunday. The flight from Chicago cost the 15-year-old youth just 37 cents.
"The last thing I bought at that price was a candy bar," said the Chicago resident as he arrived at Burke Lakefront Airport on the shore of Lake Erie in downtown Cleveland.
With Cusack was a friend, William Swales, 15, also of Chicago, who said he was going to visit his brother.
They were among hundreds of people taking advantage of special promotion fares offered by Midway Airlines.
After getting off the plane, they got in line right away for a return ticket. But, under the rules of the promotion, tickets are only on sale one hour before each of the flights.
On Sunday only, Midway charged just one percent of its normal fare on flights between Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and Kansas City.
Roderick Randle, 22, a Cleveland supermarket manager, was the first one in line Sunday morning at Burke Airport, arriving at 6 a.m.
"I couldn't pass on 37 cents to Chicago," he said. He didn't know how he would get back or what it would cost him, but he said he had to be back on the job Monday morning in Cleveland.
Randle said he would rent a car in Chicago and ride around, saying he'd use credit cards to meet the expenses and adding, "I won't have to worry about paying for that until later."
Clete Schley of suburban Parma was among a group of 15 people enroute to Chicago.
Asked if he weren't concerned about how they would all get back and what it would cost them, Schley said, "We're all on our own and we'll take it on our own."
Ticket clerks said no one tried to use a credit card to pay for the one hour and 15-minute flight. However, at least one person paid for his 37-cent ticket with a $50 bill.

The foreign awards brought three titles: Melvyn Douglas, "Being There," and Robert Duvall, "Apocalypse Now," for best film supporting actor; Danny De Vito, "Taxi," and Vic Tayback, "Alice," best television supporting actor; and "Alice" and "Taxi," best TV series.
Ricky Schroeder, the tyke of "The Champ," was hailed the male new star of the year. He commented: "Even if you voted against me, I still love you."
Henry Fonda received a standing ovation and long applause for his Cecil B. DeMille award for services to motion pictures. Jane Fonda and Roger Moore were selected world film favorites.
Other awards included:
TV actor, comedy or musical series: Alan Alda "MASH"
TV actress, comedy or musical series: Linda Lavin "Alice"
TV supporting actress: Polly Holliday "Alice"
TV motion picture: "All Quiet On The Western Front"
TV dramatic series actor: Ed Asner "Lou Grant"
TV dramatic series actress: Natalie Wood "From Here to Eternity"
TV dramatic series: "Lou Grant"
Foreign film: "La Cage aux Folles"
Original motion picture song: "The Rose," Amanda McBroom.

Actress Finally Receiving Respect

NEW YORK (AP) — "Why does it make you so nervous to finally get what you've always wanted all your life?" asked actress Sally Field, star of the recent hit film "Norma Rae."
After years of hard work and determination to shake her television sitcom image from "Gidget" and "The Flying Nun," Sally Field is getting what she's always wanted — recognition and respect as a serious actress.
Her portrayal of Norma Rae, a young textile worker fighting for dignity on her job and at home, already has won several awards and is certain to grab an Academy Award nomination for best actress.
"Sometimes I'm a nervous wreck," Miss Field said of her recent success. "It makes me shake. Going up to get an award, Trembling. It's like I've never been in front of an audience before."
"There's a little voice inside," she said, "that puts you in your place. It says, 'Well, it's only because it wasn't a very big year.' But then you think of Meryl Streep and all the other wonderful actresses and it feels numb."
"There's another little voice that wants to pat me on the back and say, 'You did it Field. For this segment of life. You did it, by gum!'"
For Sally Field, "doing it" did not come easy. Her "Flying Nun" image followed her like a dark cloud whenever she tested or read for parts. For nearly three years, she didn't work, and was about to take a job teaching high school drama when director Bob Rafelson gave her a chance in the movie "Stay Hungry."
"He made me read and re-read and test and re-test, until he finally believed it wasn't a fluke and I really could act."

Miss Field said, "Stay Hungry" was the first crack in the dam. Then came "Sybil," which was the real difference. It was on television and everybody saw it. That was the turning point.
After winning an Emmy for "Sybil," Miss Field decided it was safe to return to light comedy. She agreed to do "Smokey and the Bandit" with Burt Reynolds, with whom she has an on-going relationship.
"It was right to do 'Smokey' then and it will be right to do 'Smokey II' now," the actress said. "'Smokey' was exactly what it said it was going to be. Light entertainment. An appealer to go see something more substantial afterwards. I wouldn't want a total diet of it. I'd go nuts. But, it never hurts to be involved in a well-made highly commercial movie."
"If I'd been a bigger star," she added, "more people would have seen 'Norma Rae,' which has something to say about people. If I made more commercial films people might say, 'Look Ethyl, a Sally Field movie. Let's go out and see it.' You have to have the drawing power. You have to have something to bring them in."

Extradition Proceedings Pending For Phoenix Man

EL PASO (AP) — Extradition proceedings are pending here for a Phoenix, Ariz., man arrested in connection with the strangulation death of his three-year-old daughter, authorities said.
David Leon Schuesler was arrested in Topeka, Kan., after a border patrolman found the body of Colette Schuesler in the desert near here Thursday, officer Pete Montemayor said.
Schuesler was identified last week as David Leon.
The child's mother, Maria Schuesler, identified the body, Montemayor said.
Mrs. Schuesler left El Paso on Saturday to join her family in Billings, Mont., where the little girl will be buried.
After the child disappeared earlier this month, Montemayor said, Mrs. Schuesler told authorities she and her husband had been having family problems and feared her daughter might be in danger, Montemayor said.

USOC Lays Groundwork For Alternate Games

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The United States Olympic Committee, after agreeing to support President Carter's demands on the Olympics, laid the groundwork Sunday for games of its own if there is a boycott of the Summer Games in Moscow.

The USOC Executive Board voted to continue training an Olympic team even if a decision is later made that no American athletes should be sent to Moscow because of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan. Those athletes could then participate in a sports festival sometime this year if they did not go to the Olympics this summer.

Sources said the Americans would also consider inviting athletes from any country that boycotted Moscow to attend the alternative festival, a suggestion that was made by Carter.

The USOC Executive Board voted unanimously Saturday to support Carter's request to seek a transfer, postponement or cancellation of the Moscow Games unless the Soviets withdraw their troops from Afghanistan by Feb. 20.

If the International Olympic Committee, which has sole responsibility for the games, refuses the request — an action USOC President Robert J. Kane has said he considers likely — the USOC will meet to decide if American athletes will enter the competition.

The executive board vote — 68 of the board's 86 members were present — came after a 2½-hour plea from the Carter administration. Carter's request has been backed by some U.S. allies, including Canada.

Carter, returning to the White House Sunday evening from Camp David, Md., where he spent the weekend, was asked if he were pleased by the executive board's action backing his demands on the Olympics. "Yes, very much so," he replied.

F. Don Miller, USOC executive director, said Sunday he believed a sports festival would be feasible but would not specify particular dates the event could be held. He did say the event might be staged at the same time as the Olympics were going on in Moscow.

No site for the sports festival was named although Colorado Springs, which was host of two previous summer events and is the home of an Olympic training center, was the strongest possibility. It was also understood that Montreal, scene of the 1976 Olympic Games would also be considered as well as Philadelphia.

A national sports festival would not require any sanction from the IOC, however, if athletes from other countries were to participate in it or if it was held outside the United States, there would be a requirement for approval from an international governing body.

A member of the executive board said Sunday that Carter will press Congress for a bill to underwrite expenses of an alternate site for U.S. athletes to compete if the country boycotts the Moscow games.

In a telephone interview with the Cincinnati Enquirer from Colorado Springs, USOC executive board member Rolly Schwartz said the committee has been assured of Carter's support for alternate site funding by White House General Counsel Lloyd Cutler.

"He assured us that the president would underwrite any type of bill that would assure us of venue so that the athletes can compete," Schwartz said.

Kane said Saturday that the executive board was "buying more time" by approving the resolution because the USOC has until May 24 to decide whether to enter a U.S. team in the Summer Games.

He said he did not fault Carter for pressing the Olympics issue.

"If I were president I would use every weapon I could, so I don't personally blame him for using this," Kane said. "I think it is more symbolism than effectiveness, but it is a weapon even if it is only a psychological one."

Papers Allege

Kush Brutality

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Legal documents allege ousted Arizona State football coach Frank Kush, who has said he used fear and agony to get the best from his players, kicked them, hit them with steel bars and punished them through "hamburger drills," the Arizona Republic says.

The Phoenix newspaper said Sunday in a copyright story that it had obtained 15 court depositions and seven sworn statements made by players and coaches that portray Kush as using physical abuse while directing a football program that left him the nation's second-winningest active coach.

The circumstances leading to Kush's ouster began with a multimillion-dollar suit brought against him and others by former Arizona State kicker Kevin Rutledge, who alleged Kush had punched him after a weak punt and had driven him off the team through mental and physical harassment.

Raider Women Host WBC

The Texas Tech women's basketball team has never beaten the Wayland Baptist Flying Queens since the Raiders began playing basketball in 1975. But tonight, the Raiders feel they have a chance to change all that.

The Raider women will square off with the Queens at 5 p.m. in the Municipal Coliseum in a contest that'll directly precede the Tech-Arkansas clash at 8.

The Raiders, 15-6 on the year, have an 0-11 record against WBC. Wayland is 12-7 on the year and although all of the Queens losses have come against national powers, they aren't the dominate force in the region as they once were.

Currently, the Flying Queens are ranked fourth in the Texas TAAW poll and the Raiders are ranked fifth.

1978 Kodak All-American Kathy Harston seems to have recovered from a knee injury and leads the Queens with a 16.3 scoring average. Four other Queens are in double figures — Janie Denton (14.1), Elaine Schulte (11.1), Terri Henry (11.1) and Kathy Booth (10.1). In addition, the Queens lead the state in field goal percentage with a 50 percent average.

The Raiders are led by a trio of freshmen, Pam Stone, Gwen McCray and Vicki Lee and are on the way to their best season in the history of the school. Ironically, coach Gay Benson will be relieved of her duties at Tech at the season's end.

"Our kids have the idea that they can beat them," said Tech coach Gay Benson. "so I don't have to convince them. Wayland doesn't have the leadership that they had last year with Jill Rankin leaving, but they are more experienced than we are."

"Harston can shoot the eyes out of the bucket," added Mrs. Benson. "and she runs the show. I think we're a quicker team and we're going to try to run. But we know they'll be very patient and work for the good shot."

Connors Grabs Indoor Tourney

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Top-seeded Jimmy Connors, showing no evidence of the groin pull that plagued him all week, ousted second-seeded John McEnroe in five sets Sunday 6-3, 2-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4 to win an unprecedented third straight singles title in the U.S. Pro Indoor Tennis Tournament.

The match was an exciting cat-and-mouse struggle between Connors, the world's No. 2-ranked player and McEnroe, rated third-best among all professional tennis players.

The 27-year-old Connors equaled Rod Laver's record in winning this tournament for the fourth time. He earned $40,000 for his second triumph of 1980.

In five appearances in this week-long contest, Connors has won 26 of 27 matches, his only loss to Dick Stockton when Connors finished second in 1977.

Connors, who admits his goal this year is to dethrone Bjorn Borg as the world's best tennis player, appeared to have won the final set when he broke McEnroe's service in the fourth game for a 3-1 lead. The harried McEnroe, who continued his week of arguing with officials, double-faulted the final point in the game.

McEnroe and Peter Fleming picked up $13,000 by winning the doubles title with a 6-3, 7-6 victory over Brian Gottfried and Raul Ramirez.

The complex probe began when law enforcement agencies discovered a sophisticated gambling operation in the Albuquerque area had used a computer at the plant of a government defense contractor.

Authorities said a wiretap then produced evidence that UNM basketball coach Norm Ellenberger and his assistant Manny Goldstein had conspired to pay $300 for a fraudulent transcript that would keep start basketball player Craig Gilbert eligible.

The Union said the probe has spread to Louisiana State University and the University of Nevada-Las Vegas. The paper quoted "sources" as indicating the NCAA planned a possible transcript violation investigation at Purdue.

Byrne came to San Diego after resigning as president of the Lobo Club, UNM's booster organization, which is being investigated by another grand jury for hidden funds allegedly used to subsidize athletes.

The San Diego Union, citing a variety of "reliable sources," also said Saturday that law enforcement officials anticipate a perjury indictment of University of New Mexico President William E. Davis, since Davis recants his testimony before a federal grand jury.

The testimony concerned allegations that basketball player Larry Belin continued to practice with his team after losing his eligibility, and that Davis was aware of what was going on.

The paper also said Bill Byrne, the new assistant athletic director at San Diego State University, has been subpoenaed to answer questions regarding fraudulent athletic credits there.
