Old Age Aid Going To 71 In This County

In answer to the question, "Why doesn't every aged person draw $30 per month Old Age Assistance?" W. R. Dorsey, Department of Public Welfare, points out the practical problem of financing such a program and the fact that Texas would lose federal grants-in-aid by which it is now paying one-half of the expense if such a law were passed.

"The 1940 census reveals that Texas has 345,120 aged persons over 65," Dorsey declared. "If each of these were paid $30 per month, without any allowance for administrative costs, it would require $10,353,600 each month, or $124,243,200 per year. The 47th legislature appropriated money to supply one-half the amount needed each month to pay grants to aged persons meeting the law's qualifications, specifying that no more than $1,750,000 should be used in any one month. With federal matching funds, this makes possible a maximum expenditure of $3,500,000 for Old Age Assistance. Last month, $3,374,649 were distributed to 172,324 recipients and the rolls continue to grow despite losses due to death and ineligibility.

A fundamental requirement of the federal government is that all grants shall vary according to the individual needs of an applicant. Therefore, if $30 per month were paid to all aged persons, the federal aid would be lost, Mr. Dorsey stated.

Texas is now making monthly public assistance payments to three groups of needy people: these are men and women over 65, blind people, and dependent children who have lost the care support of one or both parents.

Dorsey stated that the amount of the cash payment which each needy person receives is decided by the local welfare officer in a careful and thoughtful study of each person's situation. Three general facts considered by the local officer in making this decision are: the resources which the needy person has at his disposal, how much he needs to live on, and the statutory maximum which can be granted.

There are now 71 aged persons receiving Old Age Assistance in Bailey County, an increase of five over the previous month. Grants average $17 per month in the county and total $1,263,000.

The state and federal assistance program for dependent children is helping three families in Bailey County. Grants for May averaged $20 per family and total $60.

Phillips Co. To Send Gifts To Former Workers

Phillips Petroleum Company will celebrate its twenty-fifth birthday by sending gift packages to 750 employees now in military service. These men are stationed throughout the world and the addresses of many of them are a military secret, but arrangements have been made whereby boxes will be delivered to most of them by June 13, the anniversary date of the company's founding.

Each gift package contains cigarettes, candies, shaving cream and blades, a current best-selling novel, unbreakable military mirror and 16 other items.

Also in observance of its twenty-fifth birthday, Phillips will honor 24 employees, still in active service, who have 25 years of recognized service with the company. Eleven of these employees have been with the company since its organization in 1917; the others have part of their service records in companies merged or purchased by Phillips.

SUGAR FOR CANNING

All-Out Drive On Here For Scrap Rubber

Several hundred pounds of scrap rubber had been turned in at each filling station in Muleshoe the first three days of the two weeks' drive to round up this necessary war item. One hundred thousand pounds of rubber has been set as the goal for Texas in the rubber salvage drive which began Monday.

All old tires, inner tubes, hard rubber tire, rubber soles, hot water bottles tennis shoes, rubber belting, rubber sheeting, raincoats, rubber heels, etc., are needed. Filling stations throughout the nation are cooperating in this drive and every family in this county is asked to bring any or all of their unusable items listed above to the filling station nearest them. Filling station operators are merely acting as agents for the government, and do not make a cent of profit on the deal. In fact, as one dealer told us Tuesday, they are doing a little donating, too, for occasionally they have found some material in old castings and tubes which could not be used.

The government has set the price at one cent per pound, and this is the price paid when scrap is turned in. The money is refunded to the station operators when trucks call to pick it up.

Dedication Of Flying School To Be June 21

LUBBOCK, June 15—The behind-the-scenes life of both aviation cadets and enlisted men will be one feature of the special dedication services at the large Lubbock Army Flying School which the public may see on Sunday, June 21.

Besides the barracks themselves, mess halls, training buildings, day rooms, hangar and the sub-depot shop and hangar will all be open to the visitors as part of the formal dedication of the advanced twin-engine school.

Opening the gates to the general public at one o'clock, Col. Thomas L. Gilbert has announced that Maj.-Gen. H. R. Harmon, commanding officer of the Gulf Coast Training Area, will be the principal speaker in the dedicatory services scheduled for two o'clock. Col. Gilbert will also speak.

The Lubbock Army Post band will play a varied program under the leadership of Warrant Officer George P. Attridge from one to two o'clock.

Until late in the afternoon the visiting public will be admitted to various parts of the Lubbock Field on a general inspection tour. The many aspects of camp life of both aviation cadets and enlisted men may be visited on this occasion.

LOCAL BOY SCOUTS ARE AT CAMP POST

A record-breaking enrollment of 146 for the one-week Boy Scout encampment which opened at Camp Post Sunday was reported Monday by Jack O. Stone, scout executive. Rev. John A. Winstow of Lubbock is camp leader.

Muleshoe Boy Scouts at the encampment are:

W. B. Wagon, Fulton McGarvey, Frank Foster, Herbert Griffith, and Mrs. J. H. St. Clair, Jack Young, Billy Stiel and L. Irvin St. Clair.

GEORGE GETS AROUND

Pfc. George Wood, U. S. Army, manages to get around over the world. Week before last it was learned that he was in South Africa, or, at least, had been. This week we hear that George is somewhere in India. In the past three months, we have heard of George being almost everywhere except Egypt—and before this time next week he may be there. However, we're not surprised, for George has a record for efficiency and boys like that are going places in today's war.

R. L. Brown Is Re-elected City Mayor Tuesday

Peace and quiet reign again—at least it's quiet after the city election of Tuesday. Some time in the near future, Mr. R. L. Brown will again be installed in office as mayor of Muleshoe, with all the pomp and ceremony due the reigning dignitary of the city.

The hottest election in years, in this town, took the spotlight as sound trucks roved up streets and down alleys, urging the indifferent citizen to go forth and do his duty at the polls. All day long, qualified voters, straggled into the voting boxes—pardon us, but we are better at spelling than writing political news—and when night came and all were near exhaustion, the total read:

R. L. Brown, 97; R. L. Jones, 43; Julian Lenu, 1; Sam Fox, 1, and Ike Robinson, 1. Grand total, 143 official.

Rev Huckabee To Pastor At Amarillo

Rev. R. N. Huckabee, pastor of the Muleshoe Methodist church the past several years, has been appointed pastor of the Tenth Avenue Methodist church at Amarillo, it was announced the first of the week following a visit to Amarillo by Bishop Ivan Lee Holt of Dallas.

Rev. H. H. Hamilton, who has been pastor of the Methodist church at Sudan for a number of years, will assume the pastorate of the local church.

The changes sending Reverend Huckabee to Amarillo and bringing Reverend Hamilton here, were two of several occasioned by three ministers in the Northwest Texas Conference becoming chaplains in the U. S. Army.

Rev. Hubert Johnson, who has been pastor of the Tenth Avenue Methodist church at Amarillo, will go to Wellington. Rev. A. W. Gordon, who has held the Bible chair at McMurry College, Abilene, will take Reverend Hamilton's place at Sudan.

Another change sees Rev. L. L. Hill of the Friona church going into the Army as a chaplain, and Rev. J. W. Price of Coahoma succeeding him at Friona.

Dr. Holt last week officiated at the dedication of four Methodist churches in the Panhandle; the First Methodist church, Miami, on Thursday; the Lazduddy church at noon Friday; the 10th Avenue Methodist church on Friday night, and the Central Methodist church at Dalhart on Sunday morning.

USO Drive Is Lagging In Bailey County

All service committees in each community of the county have been asked to select workers to collect United Service Organization funds. This work should be attended to just as soon as possible, as it is hoped the Bailey County can turn in its quota by July 1. Many people do not understand the advantages of the USO clubs to service men.

Manned by 1,112 trained workers, the many USO chapter organizations of this greatest of all fraternities, chalk up a monthly total of daily peak attendance well beyond 1,000,000 visitors, according to Ray Johns, director of USO's field operations.

"All in all, the composite picture is one of community hospitality that is spontaneous, open handed and genuinely friendly. That is what ninety-nine out of a hundred soldiers want—for, after all, these young men are a cross-section of all of our people. What most of them are looking for is something to bridge the gap between the army barracks and the old home town. What they used to do of an evening or a Sunday, they want to do now. They want to go home on leave. They want someone to help us. They want to meet girls and they want to dance with them—I have even met some who want to do such unusual things as wedding a flower bed, or reading a book.

"In short, they want—unconsciously perhaps, but often quite desperately—to keep hold of their own private and personal past. Recreation must help them do that. And it must help them adjust to the present. But it must also help them, and help us, to prepare for the future."

According to Field Director Johns, the clubhouses are the core of the whole USO program, and the fulfillment of its first public purpose in the county.

When USO was established last year it pledged to set up 339 service clubs in 125 major increasing areas. Demands, still increasing, made the organization extend original plans. As a result, USO is not only on the way to doubling the number of clubs originally bargained for, but also has set up six special services requested for the troops by the War and Navy Departments.

As Mr. Johns describes them, "the clubs are ready reminders to the men in uniform that the men in multi are behind them."

Being close to the service men's post, the USO clubhouse is the haven for marched out men with tired feet. It is also the center of ping-pong, dancing, and other active recreation.

Here's how one civilian described to Mr. Johns his recent visit to a typical club in Wrightstown, N. J.:

"There must have been fifty soldiers in the lounge when I dropped in. A blazing log crackled in the fireplace. At once I was struck with the complete freedom of the place. Some of the men were reading. Others were writing letters. Still others were seated around the radio. One could hear the faint click of ping-pong balls in the next room.

"Suddenly the front door opened and in walked a great bulk of a soldier. He made for the nearest arm chair and sank into it. After a moment, this tired fellow took off his shoes. He stretched out his legs, surveyed his feet, and with a deep satisfaction wigged his toes. A few moments later he was fast asleep. Not a soul had bothered this hard-drilled soldier. He was completely at home."

The same officer offered an interesting vignette.

"In a far corner of the lounge," he said, "I noticed an old, weather-beaten sergeant with a face like buckskin. His sleeve to the elbow was covered with hash stripes of long service. I sauntered over to him and said: 'Nice day?' He grunted. I moved away.

"Then this grizzled veteran, obviously sorry or something, called me back. 'You know?' he said, 'I noticed an old, weather-beaten sergeant with a face like buckskin. His sleeve to the elbow was covered with hash stripes of long service. I sauntered over to him and said: 'Nice day?' He grunted. I moved away."

County's Bond Quota For June Set At $7,700

It is reported that 97 percent of all the homes in one state have signed pledges to buy War Bonds and Stamps, and it is hoped that our great state of Texas can do even better.

The people of Bailey County bought $7,300 worth of bonds and stamps during May and made our quota. The quota for June is $7,700, and it is the duty of each and every one in the county to buy War Bonds and Stamps and help pass this quota.

If you have not signed your pledge to buy bonds and stamps each month call at your post office or your bank and do so, for we want Bailey County to pass its quota each month. It is your duty and my duty to do so, and it is asking very little of us compared to our boys now scattered all over the world.

Baptists Plan To Be Debt-Free By October

DALLAS, Tex., June 15—The Baptist General Convention of Texas plans to be debt free by Oct. 31, 1942. Dr. W. W. Melton, Dallas, executive secretary, said today as he announced a debt-paying campaign for the denomination in Texas.

The Convention now owes $421,000 on which it is paying $100,000 per month principal. A few years ago the amount owed was approximately $2,000,000. These amounts do not include debts of Baptist institutions in the state.

Authorized by the executive board of the Convention to launch the debt-paying campaign, Dr. Melton expressed the belief that now is the best time to "pay up" because of uncertainties in connection with the present world situation. Being debt-free, he said, would save Texas Baptists $16,000 annually in interest. Further, it would insure the permanence of Baptist work should a post-war depression hit this country.

The Baptist Brotherhood of Texas, with R. A. Springer, Dallas, state secretary, and Judge E. S. Cummings, Abilene, Brotherhood Convention State President is taking the debt-paying campaign as its principal objective for the remainder of this Convention year.

A COZY BERTH FOR LAND-FARING 'SAILORS'

These men of Uncle Sam's Navy are but five of the nation's many troops-in-transit to find a home-away-from-home waiting for them in the USO lounges at Bailey County. These lounges are outfitted with furniture and appointments provided by local citizens committees of USO and in them, soldier, sailor and marine can rest, read and play the radio between trains. USO's troops-in-transit service is one of six special functions assumed at the request of the War and Navy Departments, over and above the original program for clubs near encampments and training stations. USO's six component agencies are the Young Men's Christian Associations, the National Catholic Community Service, the Salvation Army, the Young Women's Christian Association, the Jewish Welfare Board and the National Travelers Aid Association.

Maple Man Suffers Severe Burns Tuesday

A. M. McGovern of Maple narrowly escaped death Tuesday afternoon when his clothing caught fire while he was refueling a tractor.

Mr. McGovern was pouring gasoline in the tractor while the motor was hot. Some of the gasoline was spilled on the manifold and ignited with a flash, setting fire to his clothing. Within seconds, he was aflame from head to foot. Nearby was a stock tank filled with water, and Mr. McGovern dove into it. If this tank had been a few steps farther away, he would not have made it. As it was, he received severe burns about the face, arms and legs.

Mr. McGovern is now in the hospital at Levelland and was reported to be getting along as well as could be expected. Considerable damage was done to the tractor, with three tires being completely destroyed.

Maple Man Suffers Severe Burns Tuesday

Connie Gagnon, one of Bailey County's old A.E.F. veterans, is back with Uncle Sam to help win another war. He left Muleshoe Monday morning and completed his enlistment that day.

Going to Fort Sill, Okla., he will be assigned to regular duty within the next few days. Connie was a member of the Coast Artillery Corps in 1917, but saw service with a trench mortar outfit in France. He asked for service this time in any branch where he could do the most good. George Johnson and daughter, Margaret Ann, Horace Taylor, Jim Herbert, Potter, and C. S. Holland accompanied Connie to Lubbock. We'll be hearing from him in a few days.

GAS COMPANY'S COOKING SCHOOL IS SUCCESS

The cooking school sponsored by the West Texas Gas Co. and held at the E. R. Hart store last Friday afternoon, was a huge success, with 48 persons in attendance, according to Wayne Vardeman, manager of the local office.

The school was conducted by Miss Mary Alice Crosson. She was accompanied to Muleshoe by M. J. Aderton.

Those who attended the school registered, and prizes were given at its conclusion.

In compliance with constitutional mandate, the Texas legislature passed an act providing for a state university during the administration of Oran M. Roberts, (1897-1933).

Men Here In Interest Of Aircraft Work

A sound truck of the California Aircraft Institute was in Muleshoe Wednesday in the interest of the aircraft industry. Accompanying the truck were C. T. Carmichael, C. T. Rice, Murray Hatchell and Curt Brown.

Mr. Brown stated that it was impossible to secure enough workers in aircraft plants, and the institute is making every effort to train new workers, both men and women, to fill the increasing demands. A four-weeks course under skilled instructors makes it possible for men and women to start work at good pay.

For those who might be interested, we call your attention to the institute's ad on this issue of The Journal.

Hail Damages Castro Wheat

Sunday night's hailstorm caused damages estimated at half a million dollars to Castro county's best wheat belt, and damaged wheat in other areas in this section of the state.

Damage ranging from thirty to fifty percent of several wheat crops in the Muleshoe territory was reported.

Only a few of the farmers who lost wheat in Castro county had hail insurance, it was said. Many fields, it was predicted, would have produced thirty bushels per acre, the best crop ever grown in that area. Some individuals said their loss was $25,000 to $30,000 each.

Many row crops, including cotton, which cannot now be replanted, were also destroyed by the hail, which cut a 10-mile-wide swath through Castro county.

THE STORY SO FAR: Ellen Carey, postmaster's daughter, seems interested in two men, Jeff Brand, a rustler, and Calhoun Terry, manager of a big ranch. Recently four rustlers had been killed mysteriously. Terry called Jeff and Carey investigated the last one, Lee Hart, brother of one of the victims. He also believed to have taken a shot at Terry. Jeff shows Ellen the note left by the killer and she thinks it is Jack Turley's writing. The ranchers bring in nothing. Brand could name a dozen men who had one. It only showed he had the weapon handy. Turley had a habit of occasional absence. The boys had joshed him about it. When Jeff rode up to the cabin of Turley's claim he found two other men there with the homesteader. One was Dave Morgan and the other Bill Herriot.

"What's new?" Bill asked after the first greetings.

Jeff dropped the bride reins to the ground. "A heap of things," he drawled. "You'll be surprised. First off, the Diamond Reverse B is quite tin' business. Sellin' out lock, stock, and barrel."

"Who to?" Herriot inquired.

"To Tom, Dick, and Harry. The big boss is from Boston or somewhere. He was at the Box 55 with Terry, and he told the Careys they was cutting it up into small tracts to be offered for sale."

Brand then spilled his next piece of news.

"This guy from Boston had a copy of the Denver Republican with him. There was a piece in it about a big bunch of Texas warriors all garbed with guns ready to take off and they had ridden hard and far into the brush after the men on the dodge wanted by the law.

At Jim Creek the engineer ran the train onto a siding. Sunday Brown passed through the cars, waking up his men and shouting "All out. All out." Sleepily the Texans came to life. They gathered up their baggage and their weapons, then fled down the hillside, dropping the steps of the coach. Eight or ten men in chaps awaited them there. They were cattlemen and foremen of various outfits. Others were join them as the invaders moved deeper into the territory they meant to comb.

Sunday Brown was a big broad-shouldered man moving on toward Jeff. He stood six feet in his shoes and weighed two hundred pounds of solid bone, gristle, and muscle. His weather-beaten face was hard and yet yet Clint Ellison and John McFaddin led the cavalcade. They were familiar with the terrain, which was part of the country covered by their springs and fall roundups. The party followed a winding, narrow road through the sage to a ford on the North Fork. A coyote crept its furtive way through the brush. On the bank of the river they caught a glimpse of startled cattle branded with the Reverse B brand.

Reminded of Calhoun Terry by the brand, Clint Ellison made bitter comment to his companions. "We're risking our lives for that turncoat as much as for our own stuff. He sits tight and says he won't have any part in this, but his outfit shares the profits with us."

Ellison's gray face was set obstinately. "The trouble with him is that he has too many friends among the cattlemen. He used to be one of that crowd."

"No, sir," denied McFaddin promptly. "He came of good, clean stock. His father, Barton Terry, was Cal's cousin. We're not taking any chances. We're not taking our lives for that turncoat as much as for our own stuff. He sits tight and says he won't have any part in this, but his outfit shares the profits with us."

"What's new?" Bill asked after the first greetings.

"I wouldn't know. Do yore own figuring." Brand's hard, shalloy eyes still held fast to Turley. "What would you think they are headin' this way?" Morgan asked.

somewhere to clean out rustlers. Clint Ellison was seen with them."

a lot of Texas ex-peace officers to round up rustlers and kill them. Terry objects. He gets the owner of his ranch to offer his sale in small parcels to small offers. In his opinion, the day of the absentee owner is past.

"Must be nearly two thousand dollars here," Herriot said.

"Five hundred apiece." Jeff's voice was cold as a mountain stream fresh from a glacier. "They pay three, don't they, Turley?"

"You've got it wrong, Jeff," the killer croaked hoarsely. "I wouldn't do that to boys I had bunked with. Don't you know I wouldn't?"

"Come clean," Morgan snarled. "What's hired you?"

"Nobody. That money came from my folks, like I said. Boys, I been your friend. You wouldn't—"

His voice died away in a quaver.

"You're backed out," Jeff said evenly. "You're going on a long journey. Starting right damn now."

The man looked round from one to another. His glance slid back to Jeff. "Thing to do is . . . talk this head for home. Part of it is here. There was no mercy in these impleable eyes.

"You didn't give Buck or Black or the other boys a show for their white alphas. Jeff told him. "You don't deserve one either. But I'm giving you one. Bill and Dave will keep out of this till I'm through. It will be one of us at a time. Don't keep me waiting you."

The guns came out together. The roar of them was almost simultaneous. But not quite. Jeff was the quicker by a fraction of a second. Turley spun round from the shock of the bullet, clutched at his heart, and pitched forward full length.

After a silence, Morgan said, "That will be all for Mr. Turley," then he will do with this blood money?" asked Herriot.

"Jim Tellow left a wife and two larly children," Brand said. "Take it Fisher Creek to her, Bill, when you head for home. Part of it is the price of her husband's death. The other boys weren't married. It will come in handy to feed the kids."

Jeff thrust the revolver back into its holster. "I noticed some Flying V C horses down the trail a way ago I came up. We'll rope one, tie the body on it and send it home with this rustler on its back."

"Fine," Morgan ripped out a mal and violent oath. "Telling them their killer has come back to report."

Bill Herriot left for Fisher Creek. "You'll be back to me," said Herriot to Mrs. Tellow, "and two rounded-up bunch of Flying V C horses, roped one, and brought it back to the cabin. They found a cross-buck pack saddle in the barn and cinched it to the animal. The body was made secure to the cross-buck by a lash-rope interlaced about the load. Jeff threw the diamond hitch expertly so as to absorb any slackness that might arise. Meanwhile Morgan penciled a note.

"They had to drive the packhorse many miles to be sure it would reach its destination."

On Sage Hen Flats they met a cowboy. He rested in the saddle, his weight on one foot and on the thigh of the other leg.

"Where you headin' for?" he asked.

"Just maverickin' around," Jeff told him. "Know anything new?"

"Not a thing. Little while ago I saw John McFaddin."

They crossed the tableland into a hilly country where they gradually wound toward Johnson's Prong. When at last they came suddenly on three horsemen at the foot of the draw. Brand noticed instantly that they were strangers. Swiftly he said to his companion, "Don't start anything."

The strangers were watching them, their horses motionless.

"Some freight for McFaddin and Collins," Jeff called. "Seen any?"

After a pause one of the men said, "Yes."

"Fine. Turn it over to them. Be seeing you later."

Jeff wheeled and led the way round the bend, then went to a canyon. Someone shouted to them to stop but they kept going. They heard the pounding of hoofs behind them. Just before they disappeared over another hill a rider showed at the head of the draw. He shouted again, then fired, too hurriedly for accuracy.

"This way," Morgan called to his companion, and slid into a hollow between two hills.

The country was a huddle of hills, and inside of a few minutes their pursuers had completely lost them.

"Who were those fellows?" Morgan asked. "They're mighty quick to burn powder. I'll say that."

"Yes. With few questions asked. "Must be warriors of some of the big outfits."

Yes, but not cowboys." Brand's eyes were shining with excitement. "Part of this army the Republican was tellin' about."

Morgan pulled up his mount. "Hell! It might be that way. We'd better find out for sure, and if it's so get word to the boys."

"Just what I'm thinking, Dave. Let's scoot around and find out how big a bunch of them there are."

They talked it over together, then made a wide circle to strike Johnson's Prong from the pines above.

Tomatoes Can Be Prepared In Many Ways

Tomatoes can be prepared in so many ways and so easily, home-makers will do well to make them a "stock item" in the refrigerator for the remainder of the summer.

With tomatoes available thru-out the state now, Hazel Phipps, specialist in food preparation for the A. and M. College Extension Service, suggests that home-makers plan to use them "morning, noon, and night."

As a beginner, tomato juice is always refreshing, or it can be made into a cold congealed consommé. Use baked tomatoes, plain or stuffed, scalloped or stewed tomatoes, the specialist advises. Tomato sauce goes well with all kinds of meats, fish or beans.

There is no end to the number of salads which can be made with tomatoes. Whatever the salad, choose tomatoes with a deep red color, Miss Phipps suggests. Attractive salads may be prepared by cutting the tomato in fourths or sixths and spreading it apart in flower-like fashion. Then the center may be filled with cottage cheese, salmon, tuna, raw cabbage, or any food which combines well with tomatoes.

Although the tomato was once the Cinderella of the horticultural world, it is now one of the most important vegetables, nutritionally speaking. It provides three vitamins and three minerals. This year's tomato production goal calls for 33 percent more canned tomatoes and 12 percent more fresh tomatoes than were available in 1941.

RECOGNIZE THE GENTLEMAN ON THE RIGHT!—This hitherto unpublished photograph shows Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Texans last saw him, in April, 1937, when MacArthur accompanied President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines, at left, on a goodwill trip through Texas to Mexico. James V. Allred, then governor, welcomed the visitors to the state. Then a major general and American advisor to the Filipino army, MacArthur wore a business suit as impeccably as the military dress with which Americans are more familiar now.

After Hatching Season Tend To Roosters

After the hatching season ends, pen up the roosters, or sell them, or can them. Otherwise, says George P. McCarthy, poultry husbandman of the A. and M. College Extension Service, a $15,000,000 loss may result from production of fertile eggs during the summer. That sum would buy a lot of machine guns or cannon, but even more serious is the loss of foodstocks it represents. Realizing this, County Agricultural Agent John Moosberg arranged a "Rooster Day" through the Shelby County USDA War Board, and Mayor Y. W. Rogers of Center made it official with a proclamation which requested that:

"There shall not be heard a cock's crow within the corporate limits of Center during the 150-day period beginning the morning of May 9, 1942, except such cock bird be confined in a pen or yard individually, or with one or more of his kind, and that the owner of the birds so confined should not permit the entry of the female of the species that may or may not be producing eggs which may reach the kitchens and pantries of our city."

"But why stop with the roosters," McCarthy asks. "Pen the broody hens. They break eggs and reduce the quality of eggs. A small pen without a nest or roost soon discourages broodiness."

Clean litter, especially in nests, helps to decrease the number of soiled eggs. If possible have at least one nest for every five hens. Gather eggs at least twice a day in a wire basket, which allows air to circulate around them and reduces the internal temperature. Many farm families have built an iceless refrigerator for holding eggs to check evaporation and reduce internal temperature. Eggs kept in this refrigerator, plans for which may be obtained from county extension agents, suffer little, if any deterioration in quality when marketed twice weekly.
