Strip Crops Check Erosion

Strips of close-growing crops such as Sudan grass or other sorghums alternated with strips of clean-tilled crops such as cotton, corn and beans, afford protection from both wind and water erosion, Soil Conservation Service technicians report. On this farm in one of the demonstration project areas Sudan grass, which resists erosion, is alternated with cotton, which does not resist erosion.

We wonder how many idle band instruments are scattered over town that could be assembled into a sizeable band group. A young fellow remarked to us the other day that he had had enough experience to direct a group if enough were interested. Surely would be nice if Quitaque had a band. We heard there once was one here. Let's have one again.

To The Taxpayers of Briscoe County:

At this writing there is around eighty thousand dollars in delinquent and unpaid taxes due the State of Texas and Briscoe County. As the years mount, this sum continues to grow, and unless they are paid, the Tax Collector and the Commissioners' Court will have to take steps to collect these back taxes. The money collected in taxes goes to the upkeep of our government and when we fail to meet our obligations in that way, we are imposing on our fellow man. We are receiving the benefits that some one else is paying for. Is that fair? Our Commissioners' Court has made an effort to equalize the tax burden on all of us alike and when one of us fails, it makes it hard on some one else. The Commissioners have been very lenient on us and the question at present is whether or not we are going to force them to take drastic steps to collect them or will we make every effort to avoid this by starting now and paying one or more years at a time and relieve this situation. Check your tax account now and make the decision. Our office will be glad to furnish you a statement of all taxes due.

Yours Truly,

N. R. Honea

"Behind the Scenes In American Business"

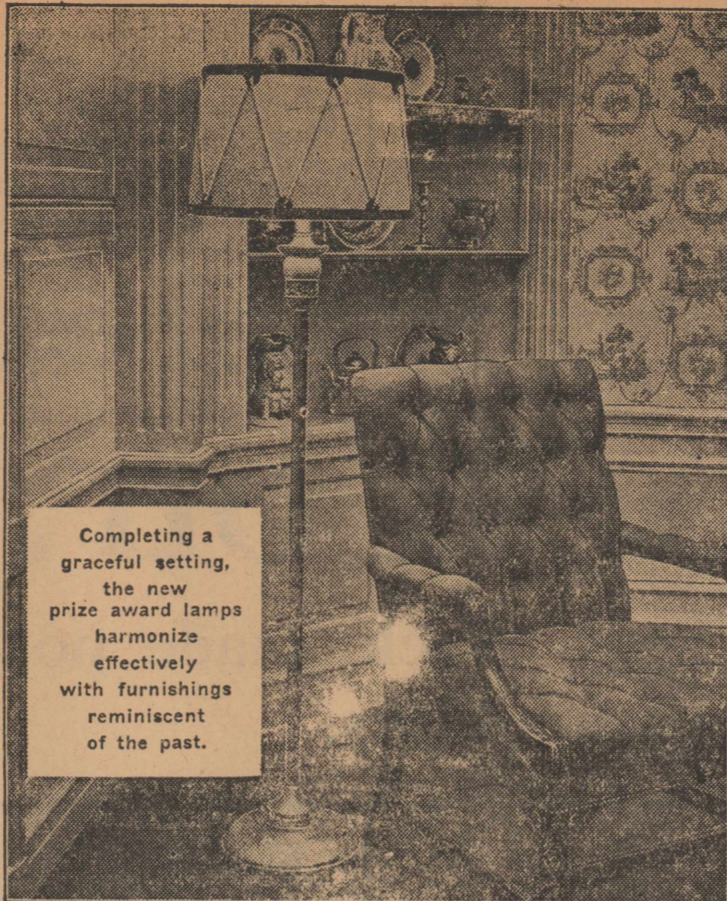

(By John Craddock)
 (Note—Information contained in this weekly summary of happenings in the world of business and industry has been obtained from sources we consider reliable but is not guaranteed. Opinions and forecasts are based upon careful analysis but are subject to change without notice.)

New York—BUSINESS—"Back to work we go" is now the theme song chanted by business men throughout the land with war scares, baseball classics, and hurricanes out of the way for the time being at least, the country is rolling up its sleeves for another era of prosperity. The business picture at this stage of events, although admittedly less dramatic than the recent martial headlines, gives a firm basis for an optimistic feeling. Major steel companies are now turning out ingots at 50 percent of capacity and better. Detroit and other automotive centers according to reports produced approximately 1,000,000 cars in the last three months of the year, a figure which only a month ago was considered utterly impossible. The number of buyers from out of town stores registering in New York, always a significant index to watch, has heavily increased during the past week. It is reported that sales in practically every department in one of the major chemical companies have moved up sharply. The strength in the stock market and the relief from war threats abroad is causing a renewed activity in new financing.

WASHINGTON—One important result of the recent foreign crisis is a keen appreciation in government circles of the fact that the European territorial chess game, behind the mask of "self-determination of peoples" is primarily based on a terrific struggle among the major powers

NEW LAMPS BLEND With Period Furnishings

By Jean Prentice

Completing a graceful setting, the new prize award lamps harmonize effectively with furnishings reminiscent of the past.

It has never been too hard to find old chairs and tables that fit into modern living. But finding table or floor lamps to harmonize with these pieces, and still give safe, steady light, has been a difficult problem. Now there is an answer. The American Institute of Architects, the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and the Illuminating Engineering Society recently sponsored a nationwide lamp design competition. Lamps that would blend authentically with popular periods of furnishings, and at the same time, give scientific lighting, were what they wanted. Designers, design students and artists throughout the country sent in two hundred entries, from which twelve were selected for awards. A number of manufacturers are now making lamps over these prize designs. Models in 18th Century English, Early American, 18th Century French and Contemporary Modern designs are now appearing on the market, wearing a prize award emblem from the three sponsors of the competition. All of these lamps conform to the specifications of the Illuminating Engineering Society for good lighting. Occasionally old original lamps are wired successfully. But too often lamps from the past simply cannot be made to deliver the right kind of light for the reading we do late at night. (When our ancestors would have been in bed.) Our modern pace of living and the hard visual tasks we give our eyes demand the more advanced lighting that is available today. A colonial fireplace and a colonial lamp are very pleasant to look at, but eye-comfort demands that we improve the setting with scientifically-designed lamps that do an adequate job of light-conditioning.

for self-sufficiency in raw materials. With this in mind various Federal agency experts are pointing out that the United States still has to import 21 strategic materials. With manganese, essential to the making of steel, ranking No. 1 on the list, army officials are recommending development of nearby Cuban deposits, American-owned, and working of some domestic ores, to lessen dependence on distant sources such as Russia, Africa, Brazil.

RAINBOWS ON MAIN STREET—A spurt in buying is in store for retail merchants in several lines, judging by reports from governmental agencies and private trade sources. Shoe manufacturers, for instance, are turning out 35 to 40 percent more pairs now than in July, preparing for an expected increase in demand this fall. Prices will be a little higher by Christmas, it is reported, and the trend is toward the more expensive merchandise, with black suede leading the fashion parade in women's dress shoes. Restaurant and diner owners will also feel the effect of the greater purchasing power afloat in the nation this fall, with the more expensively priced meals getting more frequent calls. The average restaurant in the first half year registered a 4.4 percent profit, which probably makes some large corporations green with envy, but the record will probably be even better this fall.

DOMESTIC ECONOMY—The air-conditioning industry which has made rapid strides in the past two years now has a little brother. Sash manufacturers, carpenters, lumber dealers, and glass merchants in every community are benefitting by a national advertising program to sell "window conditioning" to America's 12,000,000 homes which have central heating. The campaign is based on engineering survey which shows double glazing, which means the use of two panes of glass with an air space in between, can effect annual fuel savings running as high as high as 30 percent. That the promotion is succeeding is proved by the disclosure that orders from sash manufacturers and glass jobbers received at one Toledo glass plant during the first nine months exceeded those of the same period a year ago.

OFFICES SPRUCE UP—A myriad of new equipment for offices, stores and industrial plants has been introduced in recent months, and last week most of them were on display among the 1,500 exhibits at the National Business Show in New York. New gadgets at the show included: a "breathing chair" that has air ducts built into the upholstery to cool the user in stuffy offices; a sealing and stamping machine that handles 9,500 letters an hour; ink wells with electric lights and streamlined design that require filling but once a year.

THINGS TO WATCH FOR—A ginger ale "health drink" to be made by adding vitamin B-1 to Poland Spring water. . . Air conditioning for Uncle Sam's submarines. . . An electric gadget which looks like an electric razor, but to be used for applying nose and throat drops. A tractor with an enclosed cab for the operator, equipped with radio, cigar lighter, and cooling-heating apparatus. . . A small signal panel for automobiles to indicate whether all lights are operating properly. . . Cigarette holder with glass filter. . . A mirror device for front door which permits housewife to see who is ringing door bell without being seen herself.

I Give You Texas By Boyce House

As you head out of Fort Worth on the way to Dallas, you may observe to the left a fence above which towers a dense hedge that hides the spacious grounds from view. Behind that screen of tropic luxuriance is a beautiful home occupied by W K Gordon. Though nearing the three-quarters of a century mark, Gordon is erect and active. His hair is iron gray and he has a close-clipped mustache. His speech still bears a trace of his native Virginia and his manners are courtly. W K Gordon is the man who discovered the Ranger field and ushered in the biggest boom the United States has ever seen. Disregarding the unfavorable reports of experts, he drilled the McCleskey well which came roaring in, assuring America and the Allies of an adequate supply of oil with which to wage the World War to a victorious close. He was in the New York offices of the company (which was capitalized at $3,000,000) when the president told him he had just rejected an offer of $100,000,000 above the income tax for all the holdings. He added that he was a little doubtful as to whether the individual making the offer would be able to carry it out. The proposition was made by Harry Sinclair, who today is perhaps the greatest single figure in petroleum. Gordon now spends idyllic days in pruning trees, digging in the flower beds and tusseling with a particularly ugly but affectionate bulldog. And, occasionally, Gordon puts down a well in West Texas.

Ranger, Eastland, Cisco and Breckenridge were villages until Gordon hit oil. The golden find at Ranger, plus the discovery at Burkburnett, gave Fort Worth its biggest impetus since the building of the packing houses. Furthermore, the McCleskey started the great West Texas exploration, which opened scores of fields, including those which have enriched the University of Texas by millions of dollars. Seldom has one man set in motion so far-reaching a chain of events. Gordon has much to muse about as he sits in these autumn twilight.

LONGER STAPLE SHOWN ON REPORT OF U. S. DEPT. AGR.

Cotton ginned in Texas prior to Oct. 1, 1938 was somewhat similar in grade but considerably longer in staple than for the corresponding period last year. Estimates by the bureau of agricultural economics indicate that 38 percent was strict middling white and better, compared with 32 percent last year. About 34 percent was middling white and 10 percent was strict low middling. Less than 17 percent was of the spotted grades.

Almost 25 percent was 1 inch and longer in staple, compared with only 8 percent last season. Approximately 47 percent was 15-16 and 31-32 inch 23 percent was 7-8 and 29-32 inch; and only 5 percent was shorter than 7-8 inch. While less than 28 percent was shorter than 15-16 inch this year, 58 percent was of these lengths for the corresponding period last year.

Ginnings prior to October 1, 1938, according to the Bureau of the Census, were 1,909,498 bales, compared with 2,650,072 bales ginned to the same date last year.
