newspapermen. Many had been Republicans all their lives and some had been delegates to national conventions in past years. ASC NOMINATIONS ARE NOW BEING ACCEPTED

Farmers are being reminded that slates of nominees for membership on ASC community committees soon will be established at the ASCS County Office. And a special effort is being made to secure the greatest possible participation of eligible voters in the election.

Louie Kitchens, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Briscoe County Committee, said today that farmers who are eligible to vote in the committee elections also have the right to nominate as candidates for committee membership any farmer who is eligible and willing to serve. Such petitions, signed by six or more eligible voters may be filed at the County Office.

Additional nominations may be made by the incumbent ASC community and county committee, if these are required or determined desirable.

"We want the best men available to serve on our ASC committees," Chairman Kitchens declared, "because the committee system is the backbone of farm programs—those dealing with conservation of soil and water, as well as the price support activities in various commodities. In the last couple of years, the farmer-elected committee system unique in the history of agriculture, has come under considerable scrutiny. As a result of intensive study by official groups, the system is not only being retained, but has been greatly strengthened."

Here in Briscoe County, Mr. Kitchens points out, the impact of the ASC committee-administered programs on the welfare of individual farmers, and collectively on the life of the county, is considerable. For instance, last year 171,509 acres of farmland were improved under the Agricultural Conservation Program cost-sharing arrangement. This cost $122,530, with about half coming from the participating farmer, the balance from ACP.

Continuing, he listed price-support payments in the county last year, totaling $392,772.00 and $1,645,328.18 in price support loans. Included in the price-support program in this county are such major commodity programs as grain sorghum, wheat barley among others.

"So you can see that ASC committee in Briscoe County are in effect board members of a big 'business,' the Chairman continued. "This points up the urgency in getting out the greatest possible percentage of farmers in community elections, so that the committeemen they select will more nearly represent the thinking of a majority of farmers."

"A farmer eligible to vote in the committee elections, according to the Chairman, is generally a farmer who is taking part or is eligible to take part in one or more of the national farm programs which the ASC committee helps to administer. A persons eligible to hold office as a committeeman—among other qualifications—is a local resident who is eligible to vote in the election. Further information on these and other qualifications may be obtained from the ASCS county office.

The election of ASC community committees throughout Briscoe County will be held by mail. Ballots will be mailed August 26, along with instructions on voting.

Each community election will choose three community committeemen and two alternates. The chairman and regular member of the elected ASC community committee will also serve respectively as delegate, alternate delegate, and second alternate delegate to the county convention to be held soon thereafter, where the ASC county committee will be chosen.

VISIT HISTORIC SAM HOUSTON SHRINE ON VACATION TRIP

For those who are fascinated with Texas history—and who isn't—nothing could be more rewarding than a visit to the Sam Houston Shrine at Huntsville.

The former home of Sam Hous-ton, winner of Texas independence at San Jacinto and first elected president of the Texas Republic, the shrine attracts thousands of visitors each year.

The shrine is open free to the public from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day except Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Here you will see the Houston residence, built in 1847, with the original Houston law office and restored log kitchen.

The Sam Houston Museum is a modern building with excellent ex-hibits, including Houston's amous leopardskin vest which he wore while a Senator, his favorite rock-ing chair, hat and pipe, and the cane with which he once thrashed a political enemy.

General Santa Anna's saddle and bridle are here, as are many other relics of the Texas Revolu-tion. The Pioneer Room tells viv-idly the story of the Texas Revolu-tion and of the final heroic stand at the Alamo in San Antonio and also shows much of what life was like in early Texas.

Steamboat House, where Hous-ton died, was built by Dr. Rufus W. Bailey in 1858. This is modeled after a Mississippi steamboat, with decklike galleries running its full length.

Sam Houston's grave is also in Huntsville, about three blocks north of the courthouse on a side road. Inscribed is the tribute of Andrew Jackson, once his military commander: "The world will take care of Houston's fame."

Just six miles south of Huns-ville is the beautiful Huntsville State Park, where fishing, boating, camping and water skiing are available year-round.

Many highways lead to Huns-ville, including U.S. 75, U.S. 190 and Interstate 45. The shrine is approximately 70 miles north of the city of Houston which was named for the Texas hero.

A 'SECRET' MESSAGE

Upon receiving a prescription from your physician, what is the first thing you do? Of course, you try to read it. Most often you don't understand all of the words. Why the secrecy in a prescription?

There is none, really. What you are looking at is simply the language of medicine—the expression of your physician's decision on what drug you re-quire, how much you need and how it should be taken. Your prescription is a brief, accurate note of all this priceless infor-mation.

This prescription, this "secret" message, and your pharmacist then become the final links be-tween medical research, the physician's diagnosis, and your continued good health.

ON THE PASSING OF A FRIEND

(Elmer Berryhill, Sr.)

You could tell by the eyes that were strained

From tears on the cheeks that were dry;

You could tell by the prayers that were uttered

That a friend passed through this life.

You could tell by the quietness there,

Among the crowd that had gathered around;

You could tell by the whispering voices

That he was a friend to all in town.

You could tell by the tears that were falling

You could tell by the songs that were sung;

You could tell by the hearts that were broken

That he was a friend to everyone.

You could tell by the mournful sadness

Of the children who lingered by;

You could tell by the inquiring stranger

For he, too, was seen to cry.

You could tell by the Angel's chorus

And the Voice that is heard from above;

In heaven our friend and loved one

Is sending back his bountiful love.

One of the highlights of the stay at Camp Davis, according to the two girls, was a three-day pack trip into the Pecos Wilderness, from where at one point, five states could be seen. We were 15 miles from camp.

A few days before returning home, we spent the day in Santa Fe. It was good to see city life after being at camp for over three weeks.

The last night was the night for the big banquet, when various awards were given. Jo Beth won the award for "Best Senior Archer," and Sherry received the award for "Best Hiker Over the Mountain" (Pack Trip).

The girls made many new friends. It will be an experience long remembered.

program operating as planned in early September. Getting the control program started on schedule is a necessity if the cotton-destroying boll weevil is to be suppressed.

Participation by all farmers is a must. With such a massive, expensive control program as will be undertaken, producers can't afford not to back it to the hilt. Farmers in these seven counties will be doing part of their share by making sure no "non-permit" areas are left. Such an area—or areas—could easily provide a hot spot for weevil buildups. Farms not sprayed—but weevil infested—could provide a re-infestation spot for weevils next spring and summer. Without 100% cooperation, the cotton farmer could be robbed of maximum benefits. Another question being asked is "Why is it necessary to get permits to spray signed for every cotton farm in these counties?" Don Rummel, Area Extension Entomologist, points out that, at the present time, the weevil infestation line is shifting almost daily.

By early September when the spray program is expected to
