Snow Heavy In Big Bend

Fall At Alpine Tops 4 Inches

(Avalanche-Journal News Services) While the heaviest snowfall of the winter extended across several northern states and rain fell in many sections, the Big Bend area of Texas had a surprise snowstorm today.

More than four inches of snow fell on Alpine in the mountains of the Big Bend Country.

The Alpine Avalanche publisher called it "wonderful."

"It is wet and slushy," said Publisher Jim Glasscock, who said that area welcomed all the moisture it could receive.

Snow Continues Glasscock said the snow continued heavily at midmorning, but there was no indication of how much of the countryside received the moisture.

Alpine has an elevation of 4,850 feet, meaning it generally has cooler weather. Thus while that town had snow, many other Texas areas reported only light rain.

The rains fell around San Angelo, with showers in Southeast Texas and along the coast.

Front On Move Thunderstorms raked portions of South Texas as a cold front moved near the Kingsville area.

Ahead of the front, Texas had the highest temperatures in the country Wednesday as the mercury reached 77 at Presidio and McAllen.

Behind it, temperature dropped as low as 19 degrees at Perryton and 20 at Dalhart early today. Temperatures in the 20's were recorded at many places in the Panhandle and South Plains.

Amarillo had 25 degrees and Lubbock had 28. Maximum temperatures throughout North-west Texas today were forecast to range from 45 degrees to the middle 50's.

Cooler weather is forecast to linger through Friday morning in Lubbock vicinity, with a warming trend for the weekend.

Rain and a few thunderstorms occurred this morning in vicinity of the front from West Virginia and eastern Kentucky to the Texas coast.

Snow fell in vicinity of Santa Fe, N. M., during the morning. The wintry weather in the northern areas was the result of a storm which was moving from southwestern lower Michigan toward New England this morning.

Heavy snow warnings were issued for parts of the region.

Mother, Son Are Reunited

AGANA, Guam (AP)—A mother, waiting Wednesday in a Guam bank teller's line, chanced upon a son she had not seen for 20 years—because his name was stenciled on his Navy uniform. She asked where he came from and the youth said, "Arkadelphia, Arkansas."

Apartment Buildings Are Razed

ODESSA (UPI)—Fire spread through two units of a fashionable apartment complex in northeast Odessa early today, destroying 24 apartments valued at $250,000.

No serious injury or death was reported, although more than half Odessa's firemen were engaged in battling the blaze and approximately 200 persons got out of their apartments in the two burning units and six others of the complex.

Aubrey Harris, 21, suffered burns on his hands during the evacuation. Two firemen were treated at the scene for minor injuries.

Residents Alerted Seven pieces of firefighting equipment fought the blaze, responding to the alarm from four fire stations. An ambulance stood by.

Approximately 75 persons were in the burning units and all were rescued by the manager, Jim Manning, and other tenants.

Firemen suspected a cigarette may have started the fire. The fire spread from a top-floor apartment of the two-story complex and enveloped one unit. The draft created by the flames spread them to the other unit and it, too, was destroyed. A third was smoking from the heat. A nursing home was nearby.

Meeting Is Held In India

Viet Nam War Major Topic

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of State Dean Rusk discussed President Johnson's Viet Nam peace offensive with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin today.

Asked if peace in Viet Nam was any closer as a result of the lengthy meeting, Humphrey would say only, "Well, I have said all I am going to say on that. We had a good, constructive friendly visit."

Response Delivered Reliable sources said United Arab Republic Vice President Hussein Shafiq delivered Communist North Viet Nam's response to the U. S. peace feelers before Humphrey met with Kosygin. There was no indication as to the nature of the reply.

"May we all live in peace," Humphrey told reporters at the airport in a parting statement. "That is what the world needs most."

(In Washington, White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers shed no light on the meeting. "I know only that the Vice President did talk with the Premier," Moyers said. The President is awaiting a report from the Vice President on the conversation.)

The hour and 43-minute secret session with Kosygin was the longest between American and Soviet leaders in years. It ran 15 minutes longer than scheduled.

Leaves For U. S. After the meetings, Humphrey left for Washington to report to President Johnson and Rusk planned to leave Friday for Bangkok and talks with roving presidential envoy W. Averell Harriman.

Humphrey flew here to head the American delegation to the funeral of Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri.

He was solemn-faced when reporters caught a momentary glimpse of him through the glass doors of a conference room during the meeting.

But the vice president later emerged smiling from the conference. He and Ambassador Chester Bowles who also attended the session held up two fingers in the traditional V for victory sign as they sped away in a limousine for meetings with Indian officials.

U. S. and Russian spokesmen refused to disclose what was discussed, and by mutual consent Humphrey and Kosygin refused to answer reporters' questions.

But reliable sources said the Prisoner Flees Jail At Bryan

BRYAN, Tex. (UPI)—William Elvis Anthony Jr., 21, feigned a fainting spell Wednesday night when a jailer took him for an asthma shot, grabbed a butcher knife and escaped.

He was the first person to escape from the Brazos County jail since it was built nine years ago.

Jailer Arch Wilson said Anthony, who had served three months of a one-year sentence for fraud, asked for a drink of water. Wilson said he took the prisoner to the kitchen and Anthony grabbed an eight-inch knife and forced him to let him out of the fourth floor cellblock.

One federal agent was shot at the shooting occurred. Mrs. Hernandez, an eye-witness to the shooting, testified Wednesday. She said she was alone in the house when the group arrived in separate cars, Salcido alone in one and the

Transit Tieup In New York Ends

Workers Get Pay Increase

Eight Jailed Union Leaders Released; Quill Still Ailing

NEW YORK (UPI)—Subways and buses rolled today for the first time in 12 days.

A strike by 36,000 transit workers ended at 6:24 a.m., EST, when chief Transport Workers Union negotiator Douglas MacMahon announced that union leaders had accepted the recommendations of Mayor John V. Lindsay's mediation panel for a new two-year contract providing a 15 per cent wage increase.

The strike was estimated to have caused a loss of $1.2 billion in business in the nation's largest city.

MacMahon said it was $70 million settlement, but the City Transit Authority said $60 million would be more accurate. Observers said an increase in the 15-cent subway and bus fare was inevitable and predicted a 20 or 25 cent fare, which would be more in line with fares in other large American cities.

All the principles in the bitterly fought dispute gathered at City Hall two hours after the settlement was announced to receive commendations from Lindsay for agreeing to a contract that was "best for the workers, best for the city, and best for the country."

Has Good News "For the first time since I took the office of mayor of the city of New York, I have good news to report," said Lindsay, his youthful features eroded by fatigue, as he confirmed the settlement.

"The agreement represents the triumph of reason and good will over intransigence."

This was an obvious slap at the TWU and its jailed leader, Michael J. Quill, who picked a feud with Lindsay before the mayor took office and called him a "juvenile pipsqueak."

The ailing Quill, who is in custody in Bellevue Hospital, and eight other jailed union leaders were ordered released by state Supreme Court Justice Abraham Geller at the request of the TA. The authority had agreed to end "recriminations and reprisals."

Geller also agreed to drop the TA's civil action to obtain $323,000 in damages from the TWU for each day of the strike. The authority had submitted evidence at a four-day hearing that it was losing that amount daily.

Fellow unionists cheered as the eight were released from prison five hours after the strike ended. The men said they were shown no special privileges and had "worked KP, peeled potatoes and made beds."

Quill's person physician said the union leader would remain in the hospital for eight or 10 days longer.

Lindsay announced that he will issue an executive order for study of a reorganization plan for public transportation in the city as the first step toward legislation which would combine all transit facilities, including the Bridge and Tunnel Authority, under one authority.

He said the new authority would be "immediately charged with the responsibility of examining rates."

"I hope it will be possible to maintain the 15-cent fare," Lindsay said. "I think that it is desirable if it can be done. It is in the interest of working men and women."

The mayor praised the city's 8 million citizens for "conducting themselves in a most commendable manner during the strike."

Patient Husband Granted Divorce

LONDON—Former Shakespearean actor Herbert Alfred Ellis, who hasn't seen his wife since they parted 44 years ago, was granted a divorce Wednesday because of her presumed death.

"Now I have met someone I want to marry," the 63-year-old watch-repairman said. "I shall propose formally in July if Elsie does not turn up."

Defendant Testifies

FARWELL (Special) — Bernardo Salcido, 26, accused in the shooting deaths of his wife and mother-in-law last March 31, testified this morning in 154th District Court as testimony in his murder trial continued for the second day.

Salcido is being tried in the death of his wife, Guadalupe, 21.

Half-Dozen Witnesses Dist. Atty. Jack Young, Muleshoe, called a half-dozen witnesses this morning to conclude the prosecution's case.

Defense testimony was expected to continue this afternoon with cross-examination of Salcido.

Mrs. Salcido and her mother, Mrs. Mary Duran Murillo, 41, Sudan, were shot to death during a family argument at the home of Esteban Hernandez on the Dargan Kirk farm near Farwell.

Both victims were shot in the head with a .38 caliber pistol. Salcido, his wife, two children and Mrs. Murillo had just arrived at the Hernandez home when the shooting occurred.

Mrs. Hernandez, an eye-witness to the shooting, testified Wednesday. She said she was alone in the house when the group arrived in separate cars, Salcido alone in one and the Supt. Nat Williams says the lighting was included in the plans for the new school because of the large num-

PEACE OR WAR LBJ Gives Hanoi Regime A Choice

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson has given North Viet Nam a choice between an olive branch and the sword.

In his State of the Union message to Congress, the President emphasized this country's desire to reduce rather than expand the scale of hostilities in Viet Nam.

He invited the Communists to move toward a cease-fire with or without a formal peace conference and promised that "we will respond if others reduce their use of force."

But in almost the same breath he reaffirmed the U.S. commitment to stay in Viet Nam "until aggression has stopped — even if the war drags on for years."

And he called on Congress to put muscle into the commitment by boosting U.S. defense spending $5.8 billion during the next fiscal year to a new total of $38.3 billion. That would be an increase of nearly $10 billion in military spending levels since last January. The Chief Executive estimated total federal spending in the 12 months starting July 1 at $112.8 billion but said the

Gunbattle Breaks Up Smuggling Operation

MONTERREY, Mexico (UPI)—A gunbattle near a smugglers' hideout outside Sabinas Hidalgo has broken up a narcotics smuggling operation that used a route through Eagle Pass, Laredo, Hidalgo and Brownsville, Tex., federal agents said today.

One federal agent was shot at death and another critically wounded in the gunfite Tuesday. Army troops also took part in the attack.

A large quantity of marijuana was seized and evidence found of the route the smugglers used, police said.

Man Fights Off Burglar

A young burglar broke through a grocery window early today and, after a struggle with the armed owner, crashed out another window with the grocer's rifle.

The incident took place about 1:45 a. m. today at Blaylock's Grocery, 4903 Quirt Ave., according to police reports.

R. B. Blaylock, sleeping in the store, said he was awakened by breaking glass. He grabbed his 22-caliber rifle, and then he saw the youth crawling through the window. As he moved close to the burglar, the suspect suddenly grabbed the barrel and fought with Blaylock to keep the gun pointed upward.

Slipped And Fell Then Blaylock said he slipped and fell. The youth scrambled away and there was the shattering of another window. Blaylock said he could hear the suspect yell at someone on the outside.

The burglar was described as a Negro, about 16 years old, bare-headed, wearing a green shirt and red trousers, and believed injured by the broken glass.

Defectives also were investigating a skylight break-in at Dorothy's, women's apparel store, 1014 Broadway. Reported missing were $100 in cash, and an undetermined quantity of dresses and coats. A check was still being made at noon, according to Mrs. Dorothy Boyer, an owner.

Vandals also were at work Wednesday night. Martin Bock, of 913 E. Newcomb St., reported that someone bent the aerial on

Reds Pledge All-Out Aid

TOKYO (AP)—Moscow radio declared today the Soviet Union "will exert full effort to ship modern weapons" to North Viet Nam to help defeat U.S. forces.

The broadcast was an analysis of the trip of Alexander N. Shelepin, No. 2 man in the Kremlin, to Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital. Shelepin arrived in Peking from Hanoi today for talks with the Red Chinese, who have been critical of Soviet military aid to North Viet Nam.

All available aid will be extended to North Viet Nam to defeat the U.S. aggressions," said Moscow's Japanese language broadcast, monitored in Tokyo.

Shelepin's 24-hour stopover came on the heels of President Johnson's State of the Union message in which he pledged anew to defend South Viet Nam from aggression but made no overtures for peace.

A correspondent of the Japanese Kyodo news service reported from Peking that Chinese Communist observers there brushed aside Johnson's peace offers and attached significance only to his determination to fight on in Viet Nam.

Official Soviet reaction to the President's speech was slow in coming, as usual. Tass, the Soviet news agency, told of the speech in a seven-paragraph

OTHER POTENTIAL CANDIDATES SEEKING BACKERS

India's Nanda Reported Making Bid To Stay In Power

By CONRAD FINK
NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister G.L. Nanda was reported seeking help today from India's political kingmakers to guarantee his staying in power.

As the senior member of the Cabinet, Nanda, who is 67, succeeded the late Lal Bahadur Shastri after Shastri's death Tuesday. He was said to feel strongly that the ruling Congress Party should not ask him to step down in favor of another candidate. Nanda was acting prime minister after the death of Jawahar Lal Nehru May 27, 1964, but gracefully relinquished power when the kingmakers chose Shastri as a compromise acceptable to the party's many factions. Nanda met party president Kumaraswami Kamaraj today and reportedly said he should continue in office at least until general elections next year.

Other potential candidates also were moving to gather support. The plum is the leader's seat on the Congress Party benches in Parliament. The man filling it is automatically asked by President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan to form a new government.

Party leaders discussed the situation informally today. The party's powerful working committee scheduled a formal meeting Friday to plan an election. Challenges to Nanda may come from Defense Minister Y.B. Chavan and Information Minister Indira Gandhi. Both want the job, but whether they make a bid will depend on results of the maneuvering now under way.

Chavan, 51, has the strongest political machine of all the candidates. A former chief minister of Maharashtra (Bombay) State, he can offer party leaders important votes in the west central coastal region. This may be an important factor. Some Congress leaders feel the party will face stiff opposition in the next general election. Mrs. Gandhi, 48, Nehru's daughter, has important support in the Congress party's left wing. She also has the political aura of Nehru's name, a strong plus for any office seeker in India.

LABORITES ROUGHED UP

Kaunda Expects Collapse Of Rhodesian Government

By IAN MCCAUSLAND
LUSAKA, Zambia (AP)—President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia said today he expects Rhodesia's rebellious government to collapse before July.

Pearson's proposal to set up a committee to decide if the economic sanctions were effective and to provide help for Zambia. Pearson believes the sanctions will work, informed sources said.

Several African nations have asserted that the economic penalties, including an oil embargo, are not strong enough. Wilson has resisted their demands for Britain to invade Rhodesia.

Wilson flew to Lusaka after the Commonwealth meeting in Lagos, Nigeria, to confer for three hours with Kaunda on the effect of economic sanctions against the rebellious white minority regime in neighboring Rhodesia and the effect on Zambia.

In Salisbury, the Rhodesian capital, the Smith government issued a statement expressing regret over the manhandling of three visiting Laborite members of the British House of Commons. But the statement added that the visitors had disregarded emergency regulations on the holding of public meetings.

The three MPs—David Ennals, Christopher Rowland and Dr. Jeremy Bray—were roughed up as they were completing a question-and-answer session at a meeting they held in a hotel. None was injured.

Students Demonstrated—Student demonstrators angrily shouted "Wilson go home!" as the British leader drove away from a news conference. They carried posters demanding action now against the Smith regime.

Wilson told newsmen his talk with Kaunda covered a wide range of economic questions, including coordination of British and Zambian efforts to speed Rhodesia's return to constitutional rule.

Wilson's brief visit was regarded as a display of solidarity with Kaunda, who is struggling with economic strains resulting from the Commonwealth boycott of neighboring Rhodesia and tension along the border between Zambia and Rhodesia. Rhodesia is the normal source or channel for most of Zambia's exports and imports.

Before leaving later in the morning for Nairobi and London, Wilson planned to inspect the Royal Air Force unit he sent to bolster Zambia's defenses.

The emergency Commonwealth summit conference ended Wednesday in Lagos, Nigeria, with a decision not to use military force against Rhodesia. But the conference committee did not rule out such action if needed to maintain or restore law and order.

Wilson succeeded in persuading most of the 19 other Commonwealth leaders to be patient and give economic sanctions more time to bring down Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith's white minority regime. No time limit was set. The conference adopted Cana-

OPPOSITION EXPECTED

House Action Due On Excise Taxes

By EDMOND LE BRETON
WASHINGTON (AP) — House action may start next week on President Johnson's request to have newly lifted excise taxes slapped back onto cars and phone calls. He also wants pay-check withholdings increased.

The bigger withholdings would not mean an increase in tax rates — the wage earner would just pay more as he went along and have less to pay at the end of the year. The same would apply to a speed-up in corporate tax collections asked by the President Wednesday night in his State of the Union message.

Johnson said his revenue proposals would help finance the Viet Nam war and domestic programs. He predicted his proposals would ultimately bring in more than $4 billion annually.

May Make Request
Johnson proposed no general tax increase but said he would make further requests later if the Viet Nam war forced an increase in revenue needs. Sources close to the House Ways and Means Committee, where all tax legislation must originate, said it probably will begin hearings about next Wednesday.

Members were reluctant to comment on the chances for Johnson's proposals. But one, Rep. A. Sidney Herlong Jr., D-Fla., told reporters, "He'll get the tax increases. There's no doubt about it. Of course there will be opposition."

Opposition was quickly heard. A check of the Senate Finance Committee showed a probable majority inclined, at least for the present, against the proposals.

Some members said that if taxes must be raised, it would be better to hike the rates on tobacco and alcoholic beverages, or to rescind the special credit given companies which invest in a modernized plant.

Republicans have long been demanding that Johnson pare domestic programs before seeking tax increases. Echoing such sentiments today, Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., a member of the Ways and Means Committee, predicted a fight on the excise tax proposals.

GAS PRICES

Stay Order Issued On FPC Ruling

DENVER (UPI) — The 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Wednesday held back for review a Federal Power Commission decision reducing natural gas rates in the Permian Basin of West Texas and New Mexico. Firms which sent the gas to consumers in 13 states said the price reductions would have cost them $20 million a year.

The 13 states which use the gas include Colorado, California, Texas and New Mexico. The FPC last Aug. 5 decided that effective Dec. 1 the highest rate a producer could charge for gas produced in the Permian Basin was 16.5 cents a thousand cubic feet for new well gas.

A ceiling price of 14.5 cents was set for all other gas.

Producers Oppose
About 136 gas producers opposed the FPC order and said the rate reductions would cost them $20 million annually.

Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr told the court Friday Texas would suffer "severe financial loss" if the FPC order took effect.

Companies challenging the FPC order included Phillips Petroleum Co., Skelly Oil Co. and Warren Petroleum Corp.

The Denver court said the "FPC is enjoined and restrained, while this order is in effect, from enforcing, causing to be enforced, or attempting to enforce Kary rate reduction against the petitioning natural gas companies."

"Irreparable Injury"
In their decision, Circuit Judges David P. Lewis, Jean S. Breitenstein and Delmas C. Hill found the producers would suffer "irreparable injury" if the FPC rates were immediately put into effect and thereafter set aside or modified by court action.

The judges said the producers should file new rates as the FPC ordered, but the filings should not become operative until termination of the stay.

The stay will continue until 30 days after the decision of the court on the petitions for review of the FPC order. The court set next Tuesday as the deadline for filing objections to the proposed court order.

The court also ruled that producers be required to refund amounts collected for sales of gas produced on or after Sept. 1 "to the extent that such collections exceed the rates determined to be just and reasonable."

High Fashion Shoes

Create The Pressure

NEW YORK (AP) — A 120-pound woman can exert more pressure than an elephant—if she happens to be wearing high "stiletto" shoes, says the Tile Council of America.

In a torture test of various flooring materials in which only ceramic mosaic tile survived, it was found that a woman shod in high fashion shoes can put a pressure of 3,500 pounds beneath one heel. An elephant develops only 50 to 100 pounds pressure per square inch beneath its foot, the Tile Council said.

Jokes Fly About Otto

NEW YORK—The best crack we heard about Irving (Swiftly) Lazar cutting Otto Preminger's scalp 50 stitches worth with a highball glass at the 21 Club came from a prominent but anonymous newspaper executive who said, "That'll teach the 21 Club it should use plastic glasses."

A lawyer predicted that the feud would wind up with Preminger and Lazar having dinner together "just as they have for 30 years."

But that was considered doubtful by some who remember a classic anecdote about Preminger.

Once some Hollywoodian said to Preminger, "You should take so-and-so to dinner some night."

"To dinner!" Preminger allegedly retorted. "He's not a dinner date—he's only a lunch date."

But after the Lazar battle, they figured Lazar would be Preminger's book, be barely a breakfast date.

NEW YORKERS NOT STAMPEDED

New Yorkers are refusing to be quill-penned at home by the Transit Strike... they've found taxis were available except at rush hours... they jammed Danny's Hide-away and Luchow's ("We're practically out of everything but the weiner-schnitzel and sauerbraten")... At Voisin, Hy Uchitel had five limousines calling for customers and delivering them home if they wished (within Manhattan)...

There were new attractions such as the Copacabana's zingy Sergio Franchi-Rodney Dangerfield show... Buyers' Week... the Boat Show with lovely Joey Heatherton to be the Hatteras Yacht hostess... and in general a sudden realization that this was the time to buy "hot tickets," and get into sought-to-get-into spots.

Mike Quill may have the day-timers all queued up, Seymour Feldman was saying, but the Stay-Ups are over their Mike Fright and are again out night-bowling.

AVA GARDENER'S making gray hair popular (she was at Arthur & the Colony with a guy with hair that shade). As the years roll on, I'm getting chinchilla eyebrows... About the Subway Strike walkers, "A time to try men's soles" (Glen Alvine, Film Daily)... "The Wirtz Is Over" (from a NY Post Wilt)...

"The Mad Show" at the New Theater is about the funniest show in NY if you like crazy signs like "Help Save Acne!" "Stamp Out Bennett Cerr" "How About a Leo Gorcey, Ernst-val?" "Will the Real Mickey Rooney Stand Up On His Chair?" and "Report Obscene Mail To Your Postmaster, He Loves It." Talented youngsters, brilliantly written, and no messages, nothing sacrilegious. BRAVO!

EQUAL BILLING FOR WIVES

Sukarno's personally helping the Indonesian translation of the Cindy Adams biography, to eliminate all reference to sex, and to balance mentions of his 4 wives so each gets equal space and billing... "Mayor Lindsay's mad at Irving Lazar," says Comedian Pat Henry, "Just when the city needs blood, he spills a quart of it out of Otto Preminger's head all over the 21 Club"... "I once heard Mike Quill get so flustered," says Harry Hershfield, "he spoke English perfectly, without a brogue."

Soupy Sales' wife Barbara gave him a surprise 40th birthday party at Danny's—where Burgess Meredith and Tony Bennett proudly watched their teen-age sons play for the frog dancing... Lena Horne, taping a Perry Como show in Brooklyn, was worrying about her grandson making his first trip abroad with the Sidney Lumet's Grammy'll miss him.

CHRISTINE SCHMIDTKE

The German sexpot in "Ship of Fools" who moved on to the "Blue Light" spy series with Robert Goulet, says things are really prosperous back in Munich. Her cleaning woman bought a milk coat...

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

"Remember the good old days when a demonstration was something performed by auto salesmen?" (Ronald Weathers, Birmingham News)... For her Latin Quarter opening, Jan. 18, Jayne Mansfield got Walt Emerson to create a gown that costs $1,000 an ounce. (Whole gown cost $1500)... Gilbert Miller gets the Mary MacArthur Memorial Foundation award... The Gordon MacRae's gave up Beverly Hills for NY's Uppity East Side... "The Subway Strike's bothering many NY women. They don't have any place to put their makeup on in the morning" (Joey Wilde).

ALAN JAY LEBNER

(who's been feuding with Burton Lane, composer of "On A Clear Day") may team with Andre Previn... Irish actor Patrick Magee of "Marat-Sade" says he doesn't like acting: "I don't dislike acting—I just don't like it the way I like drinking"... Julie Christie (of "darling") was offered a lead in the film musical, "Goodbye, Mr. Chips"... Rex Harrison's out of the forthcoming "Dr. Doolittle"...

Hugh O'Brian's off on a yacht to work on his handbook for bachelors... Gretchen Wyler said at the Pines Hotel she may head a future national company of "Sweet Charity". (It hasn't opened on Broadway yet)...

Glenn Ford used his look from "Le Paris Burning?" to buy a villa in Acapulco. (A honeymoon spot for he and Kathy Hayes?)... Geraldine Chaplin says she'll do a walk on in her father's Brando-Loren film... Reuben's restaurant, which names sandwiches for celebrities, told David Merrick he'd be so honored soon. "Not yet," Merrick said. "First you'll have to try the sandwich out in New Haven"... At Luchow's: Arlene Dahl and her groom, Alexis Lichine.

Civil Rights Gains Have Become Double-Edged Sword

By DON MCKEE
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Unprecedented gains in the fight against racial discrimination have turned into a double-edged sword for civil rights organizations, whittling away their support as well as the foundations of segregation.

In the absence of crises, civil rights organizations are losing funds and followers. Unspectacular programs such as voter registration or job improvement do not attract much money or members.

"Our financial situation is pretty desperate," said John R. Lewis, national chairman of the Atlanta-based Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

The committee is the smallest and least organized of the civil rights groups and usually has financial problems. But the bigger organizations also are feeling the pinch.

Included is the oldest and largest, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, founded in 1909. Its executive director, Roy Wilkins, reported recently in New York that the NAACP lost nearly 25,000 members in the past year and had an unadjusted deficit of more than $200,000.

Coupled with a 45,000-member loss in 1964, this reduced membership from a 1963 peak of 535,000 to 440,159.

Wilkins attributed the decline to a belief of some supporters that the civil rights battle is over. So did Lewis.

"One of the reasons," Lewis said, "is a feeling on the part of a great many people that the basic problems we have been struggling with are solved. Then there is just a tendency on the part of the American public, when they cannot see the dramatic action, to slow down or support."

The Congress of Racial Equality, experiencing wholesale changes in leadership, and the Southern Christian Leadership conference, headed by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., plan to revamp their fund-raising methods.

CORE's community relations director, Alan Gartner, gave this analysis in an interview: "The public feels in a general sense that because of the voting rights and civil rights bills, the discrimination and major demonstration and the antipoverty program — the movement as it has been is no longer a relevant matter. We disagree."

Gartner said CORE had debts last Aug. 31 totaling "very close to $30,000." It has been reduced to about $210,000, he said, "a very significant cut."

"Financially, we are certainly in need," said the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, treasurer of the Atlanta-based conference. "But we are not drowning. We are still able to pay our bills."

"People usually give more when there is a crisis," he said. Enactment of the civil rights law of 1964 and the voting rights law of 1965, accompanied by continuing desegregation in the South, eased tense areas.

Federal agencies are enforcing nondiscrimination policies. Federal examiners are registering Negro voters in four states; federal funds are going into programs for the poor.

"Certainly it might be expected with the federal government moving into the civil rights field that it is going to be a factor," said Clarence Coleman of Atlanta, Southern regional director of the National Urban League.

Coleman said the Urban League depends largely upon civic United Appeal fund drives to the freedom movement will curtail their giving," he said.

But Gartner said when CORE moved northward about two years ago in its fund-raising efforts, "we found that people were willing to start fights if Borneo but not next door; this is particularly true on school desegregation."

Asked if the group could survive financially without demonstrations or crises, Abernathy replied: "I think it can, because we don't use demonstrations for the purpose of raising funds. We use demonstrations for the purpose of exposing the evil system of segregation. This is not our purpose at all — to raise funds. We can survive through our mail appeal through foundations, friends and churches; this is our basic support."

Abernathy also was asked if the campaign in Chicago would risk alienating financial supporters in that section of the country.

"I do not see where any of our givers who sincerely make gifts to the freedom movement will curtail their giving," he said.

Death Toll Climbs In Rio As Rain Snags Cleanup Bid

By CLAUDE E. ERBSEN
RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — The death toll climbed to at least 230 today as the Rio and Tijuca de Janeiro area began to clean up after the worst floods in its history. A major water shortage added to the city's misery.

Officials said 180 deaths had been confirmed in Rio and another 50 bodies were recovered in surrounding areas after heavy rains which began Monday caused floods and landslides. No estimate of material damage has been made.

Hampered By Rain
 More rain hampered operations Wednesday night as volunteers searched for more bodies in the shantytown "Favela." The rain caused more landslides but no new victims were reported. Most of the hillside residents had been evacuated.

Gov. Francisco Negro de Lima appealed to the public to conserve water after a landslide plumed a 150-pound boulder into a pipeline and cut off 40 per cent of the city's drinking water.

The shortage affected the city's most populated sections, including hard-hit Copacabana and Tijuca. The governor said it was likely to last several days. The floods buckled streets and burst sewers and mains, clogging the drainage system. There were fears of epidemics and hundreds were being inoculated against typhoid and smallpox.

Biggest Problem
 Volunteers struggled through the night to find homes for thousands who fled the hillsides, mostly women and children. They were jammed into schools, clubs, private residences and an uncompleted shopping center.

"Our biggest problem now is food and shelter," said Delio Santos, assistant to the state's social service secretary.

The public responded quickly for radio and television appeals for food for the refugees. Long lines formed outside emergency sandwiches and steaming pots of rice, vegetable stew and available powdered milk, wheat

WHITTLE AWAY SUPPORT AS WELL AS SEGREGATION

Civil Rights Gains Have Become Double-Edged Sword

By DON MCKEE

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Unprecedented gains in the fight against racial discrimination have turned into a double-edged sword for civil rights organizations, whittling away their support as well as the foundations of segregation.

In the absence of crises, civil rights organizations are losing funds and followers. Unspectacular programs such as voter registration or job improvement do not attract much money or members.

"Our financial situation is pretty desperate," said John R. Lewis, national chairman of the Atlanta-based Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee. The committee is the smallest and least organized of the civil rights groups and usually has financial problems. But the bigger organizations also are feeling the pinch.

Included is the oldest and largest, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, founded in 1909. Its executive director, Roy Wilkins, reported recently in New York that the NAACP lost nearly 25,000 members in the past year and had an unadjusted deficit of more than $200,000.

Coupled with a 45,000-member loss in 1964, this reduced membership from a 1963 peak of 535,000 to 440,150.

Wilkins attributed the decline to a belief of some supporters that the civil rights battle is over. So did Lewis.

One Of Reasons

"One of the reasons," Lewis said, "is a feeling on the part of a great many people that the basic problems we have been struggling with are solved. Then there is just a tendency on the part of the American public, when they cannot see the dramatic action, to slow down on support."

The Congress of Racial Equality, experiencing wholesale changes in leadership, and the Southern Christian Leadership conference, headed by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., plan to revamp their fund-raising methods.

CORE's community relations director, Alan Gartner, gave this analysis in an interview:

"The public feels in a general sense that because of the voting rights and civil rights bills, the diminution of major demonstrations and the anti-poverty program — the movement as it has been is no longer a relevant matter. We disagree, of course."

Gartner said CORE had debts last Aug. 31 totaling "very close to $30,000." It has been reduced to about $210,000, he said, "a very significant cut."

"People usually give more when there is a crisis," he said. Enactment of the civil rights law of 1964 and the voting rights law of 1965, accompanied by continuing desegregation in the South, eased tense areas.

Federal agencies are enforcing nondiscrimination policies, federal examiners are registering Negro voters in four states; federal funds are going into new programs for the poor.

"Certainly it might be expected with the federal government moving into the civil rights field that it is going to be a factor," said Clarence Coleman of Atlanta, Southern regional director of the National Urban League.

Coleman said the Urban League depends largely upon civic United Appeal fund drives and therein lies a problem born of new federal programs. Anti-poverty funds for Atlanta were double the $5 million raised by the United Appeal, he said.

"This makes it a little more difficult for the United fund," he said. The Urban League itself is turning increasingly to federal agencies, he said, having received $289,000 last year in Atlanta from the Department of Labor for a job training program.

CORE's new national director, Floyd B. McKissick of Durham, N.C., has talked of developing new techniques to fit today's situation, a drive for members and an overhaul of the organization's financial setup.

CORE depends heavily upon mail solicitations. Gartner said the organization would continue this type of appeal, "but we're selecting the people we appeal to a little more carefully."

Asked if the group could survive financially without demonstrations or crises, Abernathy replied:

"I think it can, because we don't use demonstrations for the purpose of raising funds. We use demonstrations for the purpose of exposing the evil system of segregation. This is not our purpose at all — to raise funds. We can survive through our mail appeal through foundations, friends and churches; this is our basic support."

Abernathy also was asked if the campaign in Chicago would risk alienating financial supporters in that section of the country.

BEATNIKS DEFEATED AT THEIR OWN DEBATES

Peace Corps Offers Challenge To Restless Students

By W. B. BAGSDALE JR. WASHINGTON (AP) — The Peace Corps has stepped into the world of college protest, seeking students who want to help "make the world a little different."

In private discussions and in rough and tumble debates on college campuses, Peace Corps officials are checking up on student leaders representing all shades of political opinion. "We're interested in the people who can get thousands of demonstrators to turn out because they have the kind of organizational skills that can make democracy work in undeveloped nations," explained Bob Satin.

Satin, a public affairs officer who ran the Peace Corps program in the Dominican Republic during the recent revolt, took part in the most notable confrontation in early November — head-to-head debates with Viet Nam protesters on the Berkeley campus of the University of California.

Excitement of what the Peace Corps can mean to a country and what the individual volunteer can mean to a community. Wiggins notes that the U.S. National Student Association has compiled a list of 27,000 jobs in community action projects similar to Peace Corps work.

than it does by alone, a Peace Corps volunteer, in the midst of a revolution. Hell's Angels is a motorcycle group on the West Coast known for its rowdy, and sometimes violent, behavior. This sort of tough debate went on for five days. After the drive was over, Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver summed it up. "At Berkeley, we beat the beatniks. Our representatives met them head on in open debate. We fought it out for five days, and we ended up by getting more applications than at any time in our history."

Campaign To Promote Rural Living Starts

By OVID A. MARTIN WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman is becoming one of the biggest land promoters in history.

He started the new year with a broad-based campaign to sell rural America as a place for Americans to work and live. This is a new approach for his efforts to bring prosperity to rural areas long marked by poverty.

lend for price supports. The department guarantees the loans and stands ready to take them over from banks. Today's action does not affect, however, the 3.5 per cent interest charge made farmers on support loans.

On Oct. 20, Paul Booth and Carl Oglesby, top officials of the Students for a Democratic Society, a leading group protesting the war in Viet Nam, told a Washington news conference they felt draft-age youths should be given a choice of public service, such as the Peace Corps or work in slum schools and hospitals.

They met later with Wiggins to discuss community projects. He also plans a similar meeting with the officials of Young Americans for Freedom, a conservative student group.

Then came the recruiting drive at Berkeley. "The blowup came primarily with student groups we hadn't been able to talk to when I was there," Wiggins said. "It's a big campus. Some elements of the faculty were urging students not

That something, Freeman said, is escape from the "cages of steel and ribbons of concrete" in the cities for a "better, more gracious, more abundant and healthful life than we know today."

It began last summer with some 40 college students who worked at the Peace Corps during their government work training. Soon these interns, most of them now seniors, began criticizing Peace Corps advertisements, recruiting techniques, and errors.

Take New Angle Having made only limited progress with this line of attack, the agriculture secretary has turned to the sales tack that rural areas offer Americans, particularly disillusioned urban residents, something they need and want.

What's needed, he says, are better educational facilities, better water and sewage systems, more doctors and health services, more cultural activities, and above all, more and better economic and job opportunities.

Back of it all is an effort to arouse local leaders and government agencies, including Congress, to a need for providing facilities in rural areas which would encourage Americans to help rural migration to the cities and cause many to turn to the countryside for future living.

In all three speeches he said, "We have reached the day when, as a matter of national policy, we should work for dispersion of industry, commerce and people into rural areas where families can marvel at a sunset unclouded by smog and know that clean water is to be found at places other than a faucet."

Questions Which Followed Nehru's Death Back Again

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Fate lay in wait for Lal Bahadur Shastri.
For this colorless little man just under five feet tall and noted more for compromise than decision had never been out of the Indian sub-continent when called upon 18 months ago to succeed the flamboyant and revered Jawaharlal Nehru as Prime Minister of India.

It was Nehru who described himself as "out of place everywhere, at home nowhere." Yet it was Nehru, harassed by mounting opposition at home and with a border war with Red China at his doorstep, who died in the India of his aristocratic Brahman ancestors.

Peak Of Prestige
And it was Shastri, born in poverty of a east of scribes, clerks and petty officials, who died in Soviet Tashkent at the moment of his greatest diplomatic achievement and at the peak of his prestige in India. There was no reason to believe Shastri wanted a war. Yet last September, when he stood firm against Pakistan and Indian troops drove to the threshold of Lahore, Shastri's prestige at home rose to a new peak, and the Indian army felt it had restored itself after its defeat by the Red Chinese in 1962.

His popularity rose again when at Tashkent he reached an agreement with Pakistan President Mohammad Ayub Khan to ease tensions between their two countries.

When Nehru died without a visible successor in mid-1964 there were many questions. — Could an India split by language, caste and religion, torn further by seemingly insurmountable economic difficulties, survive under any but the dynamic leadership of a Nehru? — Could the Congress party, which under Nehru had been the country's ruling political party ever since independence, survive?

Some Questions
The questions which followed Nehru, today follow Shastri. The Congress party is split both by personal jealousies among its leaders and by elements of right, center and left with the rightists currently in the ascendancy. Currently favored to take over is the present acting Prime Minister, Gulzarilal Nanda, who as Home Minister had been second to Shastri in the order of government. Nanda also served as interim Prime Minister after Nehru's death. As Home Minister under Nehru he is credited with firm action during Nehru's last illness in bringing religious riots in Calcutta under control. He also has pledged to carry out the terms of the agreement reached by Shastri at Tashkent.

He describes himself as a "Socialist but not a Marxist." Next is Defense Minister Yeshwantrao B. Chavan. Chavan, a relative unknown in the Western world, once was described by friends as a "red hot Marxist." He became disenchanted with the Communists during World War II and today is regarded as left of center. Clear out of it is former Defense Minister and Ambassador to the United Nations V. K. Krishna Menon. Once regarded as Nehru's heir apparent, he has been in disgrace since Red China's attack on India.

New Jersey Reservoir Sites Are Declining
NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — New Jersey is running out of suitable reservoir sites as housing developments swallow up the countryside, says a state water engineer. Donald J. Kroeck, supervising engineer of the State Division of Water Policy and Supply, said the state must act promptly to buy up sites for future water reserves.

PATROLMAN SUSPENDED

150,000 Indonesian Reds Slain In 3-Month Period

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Malaysian government sources said today that as many as 150,000 Communists and sympathizers may have been killed in Indonesia in the last three months.

The wave of killing broke out after the army accused the Indonesian Communist party, the PKI, of masterminding the attempted coup last Sept. 30.

Recently an average of 1,000 pro-Peking Communists and sympathizers were being killed each week in North Sumatra, another source said.

"The killings were so ferocious in the Medan area," he added, "that the authorities issued warnings to the people not to take the law into their own hands."

Clogged With Bodies

One report said parts of the Medan River in North Sumatra "were clogged with bodies for a while." Many of the killers were current prosperity would bring in $111 billion in revenue, leaving a deficit of only $1.8 billion. He called this the smallest deficit in many years.

Johnson assured the lawmakers that this country is wealthy enough to carry the extra defense burden while continuing to "build a great society at home." Accordingly, he outlined a massive agenda of domestic legislation, including new civil rights laws, an expanded war on poverty, and a national drive to clean up polluted rivers.

To pay for his guns-and-butter program, he recommended that Congress step out the cuts which took effect Jan. 1 in federal excise taxes on automobiles and telephone calls. He did not ask any increase in income tax rates, but he proposed that larger amounts be withheld from paychecks to put more taxpayers more nearly on a pay-as-you-go basis. He also called for a speed-up in collection of corporate taxes as a brake on inflationary pressures.

Johnson expressed the hope that these measures would be sufficient to finance the government and keep the lid on inflation.

"But if the necessities of Viet Nam require it," he warned, "I will not hesitate to return to the Congress for additional appropriations and additional higher taxes."

The tax proposals were not enthusiastically received. Republican congressional leaders said the excise tax cuts, which took effect only 13 days ago, will prove to be "the shortest-lived tax relief in history" if Johnson has his way. Even on the Democratic side of the aisle, there was grumbling about the idea of increasing taxes in an election year.

Reaction to the Chief Executive's declaration of policy on Viet Nam was generally favorable. Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., said he "fully concurs in the President's determination to bring that conflict to a successful conclusion."

Hopes For Results

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, who recently returned from Viet Nam with highly pessimistic reports on chances for peace, said that "I fully support the president in his peace campaign and, like him, I am hopeful that some sound results will be achieved."

The State of the Union message was delivered before joint session of Congress which convened in the House chamber Wednesday evening rather than the traditional hour of noon, to assure the President the largest possible television and radio audience. For the first time the address was carried in color as well as black-and-white.

The address began at 9 p.m. EST.

Johnson spoke for nearly an hour and was interrupted 58 times by applause. The loudest ovation was prompted by his plea for a constitutional amendment extending the terms of House members from two to four years, so they don't have to spend so much time running for re-election.

There also was frequent bipartisan applause for the President's remarks about foreign policy, which took up about half of his 5,000-word address.

Russian On UN Staff Accused

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — UNICEF, the U.N. Children's Fund, is investigating a report that a Soviet member of its staff, Vadim Isakov, tried to buy missile components from a New Jersey firm.

UNICEF's executive director, Henry R. Labouisse, indicated in a statement that Isakov would be fired if the investigation confirmed the report published in the New York Journal-American.

The Journal-American reported that two New Jersey businessmen said Isakov, a UNICEF procurement officer, attempted to buy "restricted" missile components from their Paterson, N.J., firm and offered a $5,000 down payment.

led by Moslem villagers, sources said.

One source in Singapore said the people, not the army, were leading the purge in some areas.

"In North Sumatra and West Java the situation exploded and the army has gone along with it," the source said. "But in central Java the army is more active, in the anti-Communist drive."

The size of the bloodbath "helps to explain some of President Sukarno's fears and why he has called for an end to the anti-Communist drive," a Singapore government source said.

"The army has kept the killings somewhat under control, but this thing is not going to simmer down for a long time. We still do not know what is happening in some remote areas."

Student Demands

In Jakarta, Indonesian student demonstrators demanded the expulsion of Peking's New China News Agency from Jakarta. They said the Red Chinese agency had supported the attempted coup.

President Sukarno this week ordered the expulsion of all American correspondents and correspondents for American news agencies and newspapers in retaliation for lies he said were being written in the American press about the political crisis.

Gasbiindo, the Moslem federation of trade unions, said it supported Sukarno's action, but added that the government should also expel the Chinese correspondents.

Thousands of students demonstrated for the third straight day in Jakarta to protest the soaring cost of living. Students affiliated with Kami, a collection of 17 organizations, stopped cars and pasted stickers on them protesting high prices.

issued by the Weather Bureau for today in much of lower Michigan, eastern upper Michigan and western New York. Four inches or more were expected to accumulate in the warming area. Provisional snow warnings have been posted for tonight in most of New England.

Two to five inches of snow fell between midnight and 6 a.m. over most of lower Michigan and in eastern upper Michigan. An additional inch fell in southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois.

The storm produced the heaviest snowfall of the winter season across eastern Iowa, southern Wisconsin, northern Illinois and in south and central lower Michigan. The Weather Bureau listed some snow amounts at 6 a.m. today as 13 inches at Buffalo Grove, a northwestern Chicago suburb, 12 at Milwaukee and 11 at both Grand Rapids and Muskegon, Mich.

South of the heavy snow area, sleet and freezing rain caused slippery highways and hazardous driving conditions in northern and eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania.

Halts Air Traffic

The storm halted air traffic at Gen. Mitchell Field in Milwaukee and incoming planes were rerouted to Chicago.

Wind gusting up to 35 miles per hour piled the snow into 3-foot drifts. Schools were closed in southeastern Wisconsin Wednesday and thousands of workers were sent home early.

Snow drifted up to 2 feet in downtown Madison, Wis.

The mercury was at zero in southern Wisconsin and 10 below in the north.

The storm zoned in on Chicago with the city's worst storm of the winter. Four inches accumulated at O'Hare International Airport, but air traffic continued.

Ice one inch in diameter formed on power lines in Chicago suburbs and in Streator, Ill. Work crews stood by for emergencies.

The snow struck northern Missouri, southern and eastern Iowa, extreme southeastern Minnesota, Wisconsin, northern Illinois, Michigan and northern Indiana.

Hazardous Driving

Hazardous driving warnings were posted for today in parts of Ohio and western Pennsylvania.

Two deaths caused by heart attacks while shoveling snow were reported in Milwaukee.

Snow spread in Michigan from Grand Rapids and Saginaw northward.

Eight inches of snow covered Minneapolis, including Wednesday's five-inch fall.

Light snow, mixed with sleet, pelted Nebraska.

In eastern Iowa, snowfalls of 5 and 6 inches followed a night of freezing rain.

The Weather Bureau said the storm was headed toward the northeast, in the grip of cold temperatures.

Snow fell in New England Wednesday. Most of northern Maine was zero to 10 above. Old Town, Maine had 22 below zero.

Some freezing rain fell, giving the snowpack a treacherous covering.

Rain and strong winds raked the north Pacific Coast. Wind gusts up to 51 miles per hour hit Tatoosh Island, Wash.

Viet Nam seemed certain to come up in a meeting in New Delhi this afternoon of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, and Secretary of State Dean Rusk with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. All three went to New Delhi for the funeral of Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri.

One of Red China's deputy premiers, Li Hsien-nien, met Shelepin at the Peking airport. Shelepin is the second-ranking man in the Soviet Communist party under First Secretary Leonid Brezhnev and the highest Soviet official to visit the Chinese capital in 11 months.

Although Western officials hoped Shelepin during his visit to North Viet Nam urged President Ho Chi Minh's regime to join in peace negotiations with the United States, the Soviet envoy's farewell remarks relayed by Tass gave no indication that he did.

"We Soviet people" he told Premier Pham Van Dong, "admire the unshakeable courage, firmness and staunchness of your people who are showing firm resistance to the barbarous aggression of American imperialism. We wish you success in your just struggle against the American aggressors."

NEAR ORANGE: Ground For New Plant Is Broken

Is Broken

ORANGE (AP) — Owens-Illinois broke ground today, symbolizing the start of construction on its $100 million pulp and paper mill and woodlands complex.

Among participants was R. H. Mulford, president of the company and a resident of Toledo, Ohio.

North Of Orange

The 12,000-acre plant site is just north of Orange in far southeastern Texas.

Mulford said at the ceremony that the company's investment "helps to explain some of President Sukarno's fears and why he has called for an end to the anti-Communist drive," a Singapore government source said.

"The army has kept the killings somewhat under control, but this thing is not going to simmer down for a long time. We still do not know what is happening in some remote areas."

Student Demands

In Jakarta, Indonesian student demonstrators demanded the expulsion of Peking's New China News Agency from Jakarta. They said the Red Chinese agency had supported the attempted coup.

President Sukarno this week ordered the expulsion of all American correspondents and correspondents for American news agencies and newspapers in retaliation for lies he said were being written in the American press about the political crisis.

Gasbiindo, the Moslem federation of trade unions, said it supported Sukarno's action, but added that the government should also expel the Chinese correspondents.

Thousands of students demonstrated for the third straight day in Jakarta to protest the soaring cost of living. Students affiliated with Kami, a collection of 17 organizations, stopped cars and pasted stickers on them protesting high prices.

ing yourselves magnificently" and asked them "to do the exceptional just one more day."

Lindsay estimated that the contract will cost $52 million but warned against "playing the numbers game." He also came up with his own estimate of how much the strike cost the city—$50 million in 12 days—although the Commerce and Industry Association of New York has been estimating losses at $100 million a day.

Big Hike

The strikers who received no benefits during their two-week unemployment, will get an average paycheck hike of $21.60 per week. They will be earning 40 cents an hour more than city garbage collectors but 28 cents an hour less than city laborers and $1.26 less than city truck drivers.

Transportation began to roll even before the settlement was announced. The buses were on the streets first with 80 percent of the 4,000-bus fleet in operation by 8:30 a.m. Subways were slower to move because of technical complexities and only 20 percent of the 6,619 cars were on the rails for the morning rush.

The contract package provided a 15 per cent across-the-board wage increase spread over two years. It boosted subway motormen's hourly pay from $3.46 a week to $4.00, as compared to the $4.28 an hour earned by city laborers and $5.26 an hour paid to city truck drivers.

The union dropped its demand for reducing the transit workers' five-day, 40-hour week to a four-day, 32-hour one. It also dropped its demand for six weeks' vacation after one year of employment instead of the present five after 25 years' service.

Settlement of the 13-day strike became imminent early today when both MacMahon and a TA spokesman said proposals drafted by a three-member mediation panel were "acceptable." But approval of the terms by the TWU's executive board and Wage Policy Committee was needed before workers could be ordered back on the job.

When it came, MacMahon reported the settlement saying, "I would like to announce the end of the strike." He called it a "tremendous victory for the union" and added, "We sincerely regret the inconvenience that has been caused to the public."

MacMahon took over the union's top negotiating spot when TWU President Michael J. Quill and eight other leaders were jailed for contempt of a court injunction barring a transit strike.

"I don't know as I could say a comparatively low much vandalism there is at Mackenzie than on any other campus," Williams said, "but it is at a minimum there. We felt that at Coronado we could operate the lights for a year for what one act of vandalism would cost."

The 650-car Coronado parking lot is just off lighted 34th Street. The superintendent says he expects more night activities there than on other campuses because the school system plans to use the spectator gymnasium for basketball games and other events.

The lighting system will be operated by an automatic clock and the lot is expected to be illuminated about six hours nightly, presumably until most vandals have gone to bed.

The lights also can be turned on manually. Municipal electric officials say the power cost will be 32 cents per hour, or about $290 annually based on six hours nightly.

Ralph Spencer, who supervised Coronado's construction, said the cost of installing the lights was figured at $3,920 but that slightly less than this was charged to the school system because the lights were included in the overall contract. He said the school would have cost about $1,000 more to install the 18 light standards if the work had not been done before the lot was paved.

Williams said the school district also plans to light the parking lot around another new high school, to be built this year in northeast Lubbock.

The vice president told Nanda he hoped the spirit of the Tashkent summit talks between Shastri and Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan would be honored by the new Indian government. Nanda replied that the accord would be kept.

The Tashkent agreement called for peaceful settlement of disputes and withdrawal of forces along the Indo-Pakistan border by Feb. 25.

Value Of Swift Kick Is Placed At $14,035

WASHINGTON (AP) — The national economy was rolling along at an annual rate of $64.5 billion in the final three months of 1965, the Commerce Department said today.

This was the 2 per cent higher than in the third quarter of last year. The department's Office of Business Economics said there was a 1.5 per cent gain in physical volume with the other one-half per cent attributed to rising prices.

For the year as a whole, the economy was measured at $67.5 billion.

This figure was given for the Gross National Product — the total value of all public and private goods and services produced during the year. On Jan. 5, the department said the 1965 GNP would be "slightly more than $67.5 billion."

In his State of the Union address Wednesday night, President Johnson said GNP should grow to $720 billion or more this year.

Every segment of the economy advanced during 1965, except for net exports.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The value of a swift kick was $14,035, a Tarrant County man who got one says it's worth $14,035 in damages.

A petition on file in district court said the man was working at a golf club as a waiter and maître d'. Some time after midnight, he was serving a party at the club.

He stooped over to speak into a public address system, the petition said, when some club member "who had consumed copious amounts of alcohol found the position of the plaintiff in said stooped position irresistible, at which time he let loose a kick."

How swift a kick? The petition described it as one "the force of which would be the pride of any professional football player."

The petition said the victim suffered a broken bone and some bruises and is permanently disabled from doing the same type of work.

Texas Fugitive Held In Denver

DENVER (UPI) — Denver police today held Joe Lee Hall, 33, of Garland, Tex., after he surrendered and admitted the shooting murder of another Garland man at a dice game.

Collin County sheriff's officers at McKinney, Tex., said they would send Denver police a fugitive warrant charging Hall with murder.

Hall told police he got into an argument with the victim, Leon Pickle, at a Garland dice game last Saturday night and shot him four times with a .38-caliber revolver.

But Hall said he thought Pickle was pulling a straight razor from his coat pocket at the time.

Hall told detectives he threw the gun into a field about a block from the shooting scene, went home to change clothes then took a bus to Denver.

Overton, 25, was taken to a hospital from his East Austin home about 1 a.m.

Attendants said Overton was shot from behind, the bullet entering below his left shoulder and lodging near his spine. He was reported in "fair" condition.

Police said Overton told them the shooting was accidental but refused to tell them where, when or how the shooting occurred. Officers said they found no gun or pistol at Overton's home.

Overton is plaintiff in a $35,000 federal damage suit in which he alleges Austin police illegally "bugged" or planted hidden microphones in his apartment.

MANY MOTORISTS FAIL TO USE SEAT BELTS IN TOWN

Autos Offer Safeguards, But Improvement Is Needed

By ROBERT J. SERLING
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Prevention is the key to greater highway safety.

Prevention of accidents in the first place; prevention of injury or death if an accident does occur.

The latter involves the vehicle itself. Never in the long history of the auto has so much attention been focused on its safety faults and virtues as in recent months. The automotive industry took a beating during last summer's Senate hearings on highway safety. The criticism may have been more than warranted but it was inevitable.

As one industry official told UPI:

"Detroit is an obvious target—first because it's easier to criticize the vehicle than the human being driving it; second because the industry has been sticking out its chin with over-emphasis on horsepower and speed in its advertising."

The role of the automobile in highway safety is neither all-black or all-white.

There is no doubt that cars are safer than they used to be. There is no doubt the 1966 models are the safest ever, with seat belts, impact-resistant door latches, cowling crash-padded, emergency flashers, lights and recessed hubs on steering wheels now standard equipment.

But there also is no doubt that cars could be even safer. The improvements available today fall somewhat short of what the experts say is necessary to make an automobile literally crash-proof—baring a high-speed collision that would make survival almost impossible.

Most fatal accidents occur at speeds of less than 50 miles an hour, and thus survival should be possible.

The U.S. Public Health Service says major auto design changes could cut highway fatalities by 43 per cent.

The organization that has done the most work in this field is the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, in Buffalo, N.Y., which for years has conducted an automobile crash injury research program on a scale unmatched by any other group in industry or government. It is financed partially through industry funds, but it is totally independent and objective in its findings.

The Cornell scientists have studied more than 50 thousand auto accidents with same thoroughness that investigators have probed into the causes of air crashes. Their findings can be summed up thusly:

—Ejection of occupants from the car itself is a leading cause of serious injury or death; even with all its faults, the structure of the modern automobile is a very capable protective shell, and every means should be taken to keep drivers and passengers inside that shell. In some accidents, fatalities are more than 10 times as great for ejection. Overall, the risk of death or serious injury is two and a half times greater if you're thrown out of a car.

—Once kept inside, however, the interior of the car still can be injury-causing meat grinder. The steering assembly is a major hazard, responsible for the majority of fatal or serious injuries received by drivers.

The instrument panel, particularly when unpadding, is the second leading offender. Next comes the windshield. Other dangerous areas include the door structures, front corner posts, top structures, the backrests of the front seats and the rear view mirror. Incidentally, there is considerable statistical evidence to show that it's safer to be in a big or medium-size car than a small one in a collision.

Safety Devices Limited

In effect, Cornell's research has pinpointed the areas of greatest potential vehicle danger. The obvious question is to what extent automotive design has reduced these known hazards. The answer is partially. According to the Cornell technicians, such safety devices as seat belts, padded instruments panels, recessed steering wheels and stronger door latches can and do save lives and prevent injuries—but they are not the ultimate answer.

Seat belts, for example, have been something of a supposed panacea—the object of many publicity campaigns which proclaimed that they could save 5,000 lives a year if universally used. They probably could, yet Cornell's research shows that the seat belt is merely a worthwhile device capable of reducing deaths or injuries in many instances, but not always.

Less Than 40

For one thing, the American public has yet to really adopt this restraining device. Less than 40 per cent of the cars on the road today have belts. This is a great improvement over the 19 per cent so equipped in 1964, and the 9 per cent two years ago, but it still leaves about 48 million cars without this accepted safety aid.

Furthermore, many drivers and passengers don't use belts when they're available and those that do use them mostly on long trips. A nationwide survey taken this year revealed that only 44 per cent use belts all the time in local or urban travel, 38 per cent sometimes and 18 per cent never.

Dangerous Fallacies

The survey also revealed that 67 per cent always wear belts on long trips, 25 per cent sometimes and 8 per cent never. It is a dangerous fallacy to assume that a belt is of value only in high-speed driving on the open road. The majority of accidents, according to the National Safety Council, occur within a few miles of home. Depending on the circumstances, one can get killed just as easily at 20 miles an hour as at 50 or 60—plus the fact that exposure to accidents is far greater in urban driving than in country traffic.

The main purposes of the belt are often misunderstood. It is intended mainly (1) to prevent ejection from the car and (2) to restrain drivers and passengers from being tossed against lethal objects within the car. It is highly effective in the first instance, but not as effective in the second. It usually won't prevent, for example, striking heads against windshields or instrument panels, nor does it offer much protection against driver's being hurled against the steering wheel.

Cornell's studies show that a recently, are another excellent anti-ejection device. Cornell says the earlier designs resulted in 40 per cent fewer ejections. Later models have proved strong enough to bend the door frame without falling. Cornell feels, however, that door handles should be redesigned to prevent inadvertent opening.

NO PROBLEM FOR MOST

Some Parents Worry Too Much About Reading Ability Of Child

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Writer

Reading is not a problem for most students, even though the number of articles on the subject might lead people to this conclusion. The majority of students measure up to or even above the expected levels and grade level standards.

Parents have been reading so much material about reading problems that they naturally become very concerned about their own children. It is possible that these concerns, if they lead to pressure on the children, will become the cause of an unnecessary reading problem.

Questions Sent

Many questions written to this column by anxious parents are the result of guilt feelings which are unwarranted. The parents have read so much about what they should have done that they tend to feel that whatever they have done is inadequate. Instead of being pleased with their children's achievements, they are critical and demand more than is reasonable. The children might either lose confidence or rebel. In either case they are probably going to have reading difficulties.

What are reasonable expectations? They vary for each child. Some children are ready to read at age 5, others at 6, and still others at 7. Some first graders are able to concentrate on one book for long periods of time while others have a very short attention span. Obviously, different children are quite different in their interests, achievements and abilities. This is not to say that some of these children are normal and others are not. There is a range of what is considered normal development. In addition, the rate of growth and development changes for each child. A child who learns slowly at age 7 may learn quite rapidly at age 8.

Lies With Teacher

Where does this leave parents? How can they determine if their child has a reading problem or is learning at a proper rate of speed? Perhaps the real answer lies with the teacher. She is usually best qualified and in the best position to make this determination. Her training and experience with many different children provide standards to which a child can be compared. If a parent is not satisfied with the teacher's opinion, there is nothing wrong with seeking additional opinions from the principal, psychologist or remedial reading specialist. There is something wrong with a parent making his own evaluation and then proceeding to try to correct the problem which may not exist.

What should a parent do if their child is not having trouble? Exactly what they have been doing. It obviously has been successful.

Remember, a good number of reading problems are caused by parents who expect too much and subsequently pressure their children. Most children do not have problems and therefore most parents should be pleased with their children's progress.

STYLE TIPS FOR MEN:

Paisley Has Grown Into Big Name In Men's Field

TRENDS: "Paisley" has grown into an important name in the men's field, says the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear—and is mistakenly being applied to every bold print pattern. It will continue along these lines, expanded into so-called Persians, medallions, cathedral-window types . . . The basic dark suit for teens in school is a black mohair—or one with a high sheen. The three-button model is the best seller—the two-button, in the same black suits, is the next best.

DRESS TIPS: A glove with a snug wrist will keep the hands much warmer than a loose-wrist gauntlet . . . With all the new and popular wash-and-wear raincoats looking pretty much alike, letter your initials large on the inside of the yoke . . . You might keep hair tonics, etc., from staining your hat band by rubbing the inside of the leather sweat band with a piece of paraffin.

GROOMING NOTES: Hair specialists believe that scalp infection is one of the leading causes of baldness. Frequent and proper shampooing keeps the scalp healthy . . . Three of the nation's top personnel executives list "cleanliness" as one of the chief assets wanted by prospective employers.

CARE OF CLOTHES: Keep size marks on shoes legible, for future reference, by going over them with clear nail polish when new . . . If your ties are showing wear or discoloration at the knot area, check up on how well you're shaving the stubble on the lower part of your neck . . . If your overcoat or topcoat gets wet in the rain, first give it a good brushing—then dry it out well in a ventilated room, away from any heat.

ODD ITEMS: On Men's Toiletries—The variety of scents is growing by leaps and bounds, but we're still way behind the ancient Romans, who used different scents for every part of the body—mint for the arms, pum oil for the chest and ivy essence for the knees! . . . Foot Note—The U.S. male is said to be the healthiest man in the world. But one of every three has some sort of foot trouble. (Much of this is caused by inferior-quality shoes, improperly fitted.) . . . The Dave Clark Five (one of the best-dressed of the groups): Dave wears blue shirts with white collars and cuffs; while guitarist, Lenny, wears detachable checked tab collars on a blue shirt . . . Style Change—Remember when, only a few years back, men couldn't get cuff-links big enough to suit them? Now there is a complete range of link sizes—big and small . . . Formal Note—New York men seem to be groping for a new "look" in formal shirts without any great success. Seen at recent theatre openings—a red and white polka dot shirt, several pastel yellows and pinks and a handful of stripes, ranging from the pencil to a very bold!

Car Mishap Prompts Sheriff To Quit Job
STEPHENVILLE, Tex. (AP)—The Erath County commissioners court has accepted the resignation of Sheriff David C. Hale, who held the job for a year and 12 days.

The Stephenville Daily Empire said Hale quit Wednesday for reasons stemming from an automobile accident he was in a week ago in Denison, in which an Oklahoma woman was injured.

The court said it would appoint a new sheriff to fill out Hale's term.

FRENCH PRESIDENT TO VISIT MOSCOW LATER THIS YEAR

De Gaulle May Seek Russian Aid On Viet Nam Talks

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
Diplomatic sources predicted De Gaulle took the firm stand that Paris (UPI) French President Charles de Gaulle may these days seem to enlist Soviet help in getting the Communists in Viet Nam to the peace table, reliable diplomatic sources said today. This could be one of his major goals when he visits Moscow later this year, the sources said.

De Gaulle and the Russians agreed last February to work five-year standing invitation by the Soviets, it was announced Wednesday night. He probably failed because the Russians will get some time next summer, French officials said.

French sources said De Gaulle's position on this remains unchanged. However, they said if the present bombing hull should continue indefinitely, it would remove the main roadblock in the way of cooperation with the Soviet Union on Viet Nam.

However, diplomatic sources said De Gaulle's relations with Communist China might provide a stumbling block. They recalled that the French leader always has insisted that the Peking regime must be an active participant in any Far Eastern peace settlement. They questioned whether the Soviets would accept this in view of their increasingly bitter quarrel with Communist China.

On European security, it was noted, France and Russia still remain far apart. They agree that the Oder-Neisse line should be Germany's permanent eastern frontier with Poland.

But the Soviets want Germany to remain permanently divided into two states, while De Gaulle supports the United States, Britain and West Germany in making German reunification a long-term Western policy.

SHE'S NO TOKYO ROSE

Luscious Lotus Blossom Or Hazzled Old Hag?—GIs Get Bang Out Of Hanoi Hannah

By TOM TIEDE
AN KHE, Viet Nam—(NEA)—Hanoi Hannah is a North Vietnamese radio celebrity whom some GIs here envision as a luscious lotus blossom and others figure as being just a hazzled old hag with a wart on her nose.

In any event she's a kisser. Her nightly broadcasts to U.S. troops provoke howls of glee. Unfortunately for Hannah, she is trying to be serious. "Hey, guys," a soldier will cry, "I'm getting Hannah on short wave."

"Oh, zow!"

"Maybe she'll play that Communist love song again."

"You mean the one about the militiaman and his plow-horse?"

"Yeah, yeah. Ain't it sexy?"

"Hey, knock it off, will ya?"

The radio's oriental music fades. "Good evening friends," Hannah says stiffly. "A very warm hello from Radio Hanoi."

"Talk to me sweetheart," says a trooper slapping his knee.

"What a broad," sighs another.

"Here I am Hanny baby."

"Hey, shaddup so's I can hear."

Unlike Tokyo Rose in World War II, Hannah is all business. No sex and sensuality. No reminders of mom's apple pie or mental sniffs of the perfume on the girl every soldier leaves behind.

Not on The People's time. She comes on like a WAC sergeant. News first with Commie coloring. Fiction and fishy fact.

"The latest war tabulations on American casualties since July," she says precisely, "indicate more than 10,000 have been killed (more nearly a 20th of that). In addition, over 800 U.S. jet fighters have been shot down over North Viet Nam (about 150)."

"In other news, U.S. pilots have admitted killing helpless civilians in South Viet Nam during the bombing raids (half true)."

"Despite the continued aggression of U.S. imperialism, however, the South Vietnamese Liberation armies (Viet Cong) are at all times vigilant and ready to bring down more planes and kill more troops."

"Ain't she something?" a GI groans.

"What a cat," another adds.

"She ain't too sharp on figures, is she?"

"Say, speaking of figures, I wonder..."

"What kind of talk is that?"

"Man, that's three months away from women talk."

Hannah's shows are invariably the same. After the news is an editorial denouncing U.S. escalation of the war. Then a recording by an Asian soprano who sounds as if she's having her ears pierced. Then, Mailbag Time ("write us for the truth, friends").

There is no small talk, no intimacies and no nonsense. There is only propaganda. Just another part of this weary war. And the only part, unfortunately, one can just turn off.

Elderly Man Dies After Boat Flips

PALO PINTO, Tex. (AP)—An elderly Fort Worth man died of shock Wednesday after he swam 25 feet to shore from a capsized boat. He was Cecil McAlister, 71.

His nephew Otis J. McAlister, 58, also of Fort Worth, collapsed after the accident and was hospitalized in undetermined condition.

The men were fishing from a boat on a creek flowing into Possum Kingdom Lake.

Justice of the Peace Jackson Masse ruled shock was the cause of the older man's death.

The craft was based at Chase Field, an auxiliary Naval Air Station near this South Texas City.

Authorities withheld the name of the pilot, pending notification of next of kin.

Switch In Policy

Some saw a switch in South Vietnamese official policy in use of the phrase prisoner of war to describe the captives. Previously, the Saigon government, as well as American military men, called the captives rebels.

The announcement by the South Vietnamese Foreign Ministry also said the government would release 20 North Vietnamese captives in honor of the lunar new year. It said they would be set free at the 17th Parallel demilitarized zone which divides North and South Viet Nam, before the national holiday, which starts Jan. 20.

Vietnamese Will Open Camps For Inspection

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The South Vietnamese government announced today it will open prisoner of war camps to inspection by the International Red Cross.

This has been urged by U.S. officials in hopes of stilling criticism abroad of the government's handling of Viet Cong captives and possibly winning better treatment for American prisoners in North Viet Nam. The Communist regime has refused to let the Red Cross check on the conditions in which it keeps Americans.

The Ho Chi Minh regime has said it considers captured U.S. pilots war criminals subject to trial. It has denied them the protection of the Geneva conventions on the treatment of prisoners of war.

Tiede, Editor Win Ernie Pyle Memorial Award

NEW YORK (AP)—Two journalists were named winners today of the 1965 Ernie Pyle Memorial Award for their coverage of the war in Viet Nam.

They are Tom Tiede, 29, a correspondent of Newspaper Enterprise Association, and John Van Doorn, 32, night editor of Newsday in Garden City, N.Y. Each was awarded $1,000.

Tiede has been in Viet Nam since last October and Van Doorn spent three months there on special assignment last fall. The two were awarded the prize named after the famed World War II reporter and columnist for "most nearly exemplifying the style and craftsmanship" of Pyle.

Priest Finds Way To Beat Traffic Jam

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—A Seattle Roman Catholic priest found his own way of getting to Mass on time last Sunday in traffic-tangled New York City.

The Rev. Francis J. Greene, S.J., telephoned a friend here he had to hitch-hike 20 miles to St. Mary's Church in the Bronx, where he says Mass weekly. He is doing graduate work at New York University.

Around his neck, he said, he hung a hand-lettered sign: "Get me to the church on time."

Someone did.

RIPS UP SIGNS

Picketing Arouses Ire Of Marine

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Steve Soule, 19, an off-duty Marine, angrily tore up signs students were carrying protesting war in front of the federal building Wednesday. Police hustled him away to cool off.

The students picketed also in protest of a two-year prison sentence given Murphy Paul Dowouis, 24, of Raceland, La.

Draft Evasion

Dowouis pleaded guilty to four charges of evading the draft. He was arrested by the FBI in New York last November, after attending a pacifist rally at which David Miller burned his draft card.

Soule was just one of a stream of pedestrians who shouted insults and argued with the pickets.

Soule seized a sign strung around the neck of one picket and ripped it to pieces.

He grabbed a picture of two U.S. soldiers and a Viet Cong captive off one of the picket signs, balled it up and crammed it in a demonstrator's pocket.

No Charges Filed

Police took him away but said no charges were filed.

Lon Hill of Prestonburg, Ky., a spokesman for the demonstrators, said they were a loosely knit organization called the Committee to End War in Viet Nam. Most were students of Tulane University and Louisiana State University.

One of the girl pickets wore a button that said, "I Am An Enemy Of The State." Other signs said, "Communists Are Children of God, Too," "Love, Not War," "Fight Poverty, Not People" and "We Mourn All Deaths."

One well-dressed middle-aged man stopped, surveyed the protesters and shouted, "You know what you people need? You need to live through a war, then you'd stop all this foolishness."

A native of Longview, Tex., the instructor with medical and dental degrees, left today on the first leg of the trip to Saigon.

On a leave of absence from the medical branch, Dr. Blankenship will serve two months without pay as part of the volunteer program.

TAX RULES LISTED

Improper Dependent Claims Will Prompt Challenge Of Return

By RAY DE CRANE
 NEA Special Writer

Internal Revenue Service probably challenges more tax returns because of improper claims for dependents than for any other single reason.

The problems generally arise when a student leaves school and starts to work, when a dependent marries toward the end of the year and when a parent is claimed.

IRS regulations prescribe five conditions which must be met before a $600 dependency exemption may be claimed:

1. The person being claimed must have received less than $600 in income. (This qualification does not apply to your children who are under 19 or who are full-time students.)
2. The taxpayer must have furnished more than one-half the total support for the year.
3. The person claimed did not file a joint return with his wife or her husband.
4. A nationality requirement must be met.
5. The claimed dependents must be related to you or, if not a relative, must have lived in your home for the entire taxable year.

There is never much of a problem with your children under 19, unless one should be a movie star or has a substantial income from another source. It is when the special arrangements for students apply that questions arise. This is particularly true in the year of graduation or separation from school.

Up to that time they have generally met the conditions of being in school for five months and being chiefly supported by their parents. It's what happens after June that creates the confusion.

Assume your son or daughter started to work immediately after graduation and earned $1,700 the rest of the year. What can you do on your return?

First off, you must realize that you cannot take part of a

Pupils Get Mail From U.S. Troops

By GAYLE NOLL
 Avalanche-Journal Staff

Warm letters of appreciation from three soldiers in Viet Nam have arrived in Lubbock for elementary school students who sent Christmas cards to American troops.

One of the letters sent to Mrs. Roy Lee Risner, 5310 45th St., for her third-grade class at Stewart Elementary School, was from Capt. Don E. Brown whose family resides in Lubbock at 4806 45th St.

Capt. Brown's 8-year-old son Jeff is in Mrs. Risner's class, which sent 31-hand-made Christmas cards to the Army officer.

The 31-year-old captain, who is stationed in Quang Tri, Viet Nam, said in his letter:

"It was a very pleasant surprise to receive the Christmas cards from your thoughtful students. It was very heart-warming to read the students' notes. Things like this make me happy that I can play some small part in keeping children like them free from what these people are having to endure over here."

The other two letters were sent to Arnett Elementary School for students in Mrs. Richard Hammock's sixth-grade class that sent to Viet Nam a bundle of 24 Christmas cards.

Ricky Urrutia, 13, 1005 N. Ave. H, one of Mrs. Hammock's students, received a letter from Pfc. William S. Clabattari, who "drew" Rickey's card out of a stack of mail in Viet Nam.

Clabattari told Rickey: "I feel I must write you to let you know that I was very happy to be the soldier who picked your letter out of the Christmas box. I want to tell you it makes a soldier feel so good to hear from peo-

EL PASO (Special)—The 132-county area served by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has grown into a $7 billion market with a population in excess of 3,200,000 people, Beeman Fisher of Fort Worth, WTCC president, said today before the mid-year meeting of the chamber's membership in El Paso.

In speaking on the subject, "What Makes West Texas Tick?" Fisher presented for the first time statistics from a new survey of the 132-county area. Fisher, who is president of Texas Electric Service Co., pointed out that this means the total $7 billion personal income of the people in this area exceeds that of any of 28 other states in the nation. It also is one-third of the Texas state total.

It also means, he said, that the total personal income in the area approximates $27 million a day for the more than one million workers who live and work here.

Fisher reported that there are about 118,000 farmers and ranchers in the area and that their 1965 cash income exceeded $1.1 billion. The 1965 cotton harvest will approximate 3,175,000 bales, and almost 200,000 bushels of grain sorghum were harvested. These farmers and ranchers have banked about $300 million from cattle sales, but there are about four million cattle and calves remaining on the ranches of West Texas, and 300,000 head are now being fed in commercial feed lots in West Texas.

Webb Tells Of Recent Soviet Gains In Field

DALLAS (AP)—U. S. astronauts making their first landing on the moon may find the Russian flag already planted there, space agency administrator James Webb said Wednesday.

He told newsmen that Soviet space explorers are ahead of the United States "and will be for the next year or two."

Webb, nearing the end of his fifth year as head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said he feels this country will beat Russia to a lunar landing but he is not as confident as 12 months ago.

"A year ago I would have said the Saturn V would be far bigger than anything they could do," he said. "I'm not so sure now. They have a very vigorous program."

The day before yesterday they flew Cosmos 104. This year they have flown Proton 1 and 2, both four times the size of Gemini, and they have announced a big new rocket.

Webb talked to reporters while here to address the Dallas County Medical Society.

The NASA chief said he was particularly impressed at the Russians' capability for orbiting their 27,500 - pound Proton spacecraft.

Someone asked if the Proton series promises ability to maneuver, like this country's Gemini vehicles, and he replied:

"Any time you can put up a spacecraft that weighs 27,000

RECORDS REVEAL

Buckskin Bill's Home In Wilds On Private Land

McCALL, Idaho (AP)—Buckskin Bill Hart may have won his battle with the government for his wilderness home. Or he may have lost. Or maybe there really wasn't any battle at all. It's hard to tell with Buckskin Bill.

The government officially declared the isolated stretch of Salmon River area he calls home as a wilderness area, meaning no one can reside there. That called for eviction of 66-year-old Buckskin Bill, who took to the wilds as a young man.

Can't Be Evicted

But a forest supervisor says a search of records shows Buckskin's hand-hewn home is on 4½ acres of privately owned land the government can't evict him. Trouble is, records don't show who owns the land. It may be that the title papers have long been lost, and the land reverts to the government.

CLAIMS HE WAS KIDNAPED FROM PERU

South American Indian Boy Who Claims To Be From Cannibal Tribe Being Held

PORT ISABEL, Tex. (UPI)—A South American Indian boy who claims to be from a tribe of fierce Peruvian cannibals was being held at an Immigration Service detention center today for illegally entering the country.

The youth—around 17 and with the name of "Yun"—has been held at the detention center five months.

He said he was kidnaped from his tribe in mountain caves in rugged parts of Peru as a small boy by a group of white men.

He later escaped from the men after traveling days chained in the hold of a ship, and made his way north, eventually into the United States.

Joe Staley, district director of the Immigration Service, said his office was attempting to determine whether the boy actually came from Peru.

"Yun's story was not known until he injured a knee while trying to learn basketball and had to be hospitalized at San Benito. Edwin Harvey, editor of the San Benito News, interviewed him and reported an amazing yarn.

"The youngster says he can remember seeing his father and other members of the tribe eat the flesh of enemy tribesmen who were killed attempting to raid their village," Harvey said.

Overtaken Boat

"Yun" told Harvey he broke loose from his chains in the ship and jumped overboard. He said he swam underwater until a boat sent after him was directly overhead and then

DEAR ABBY

Prejudice Apparent!

DEAR ABBY: We just moved from the South to the West Coast. We have Southern accents, and every time one of us opens our mouth, we get looks that would freeze the ears of a brass monkey. Our son had three fights in school last week. He is only eight years old, and every fight has been because some kid said something hateful about the South. They undoubtedly heard it at home and were only repeating, but it hurts just the same. These Northerners claim that they are not prejudiced, that we are. But they are sure not practicing what they preach. How are we supposed to cope with this kind of treatment?

Southerners Moved West

DEAR ABBY: Only education will overcome prejudice. But those who refuse to learn cannot be taught. Try to teach your children to respect the other person's point of view, even though he may not share it. And to "speak softly but carry a big stick" (Teddy Roosevelt).

Dear Bride

DEAR ABBY: Four of us girls who work together have lunch at a small luncheonette every noon. We leave work a few minutes early to be sure we get a booth. We eat our lunches at a normal rate. The place fills up quickly, and when we have a cigarette leisurely with a second cup of coffee, the glares we get from the customers who are standing over us, breathing down our necks, are enough to kill. We ignore them as though they weren't even there. We

Discotheques Launched In Paris

By DOREEN KING
NEW YORK (WNS)—Regine is a plump little woman. She has the Frenchwoman's studied chic but no one would imagine on first meeting she was a major style setter.

It's easier to imagine her behind the cash desk of a good French restaurant—say one star in Michelin—than being the uncrowned queen of Paris night life.

But Regine (she doesn't bother to use a second name) is responsible for launching thefad that's swept both sides of the Atlantic—the discotheque boom. The plump vivacious woman I met during her recent visit to New York started a minor revolution and unlike most revolutionaries is still firmly in power over a decade later.

New Kind Of Music
Twelve years ago she thought it would be fun to open an inexpensive night club where people could dance to records instead of a live band.

"American records were all the rage in Paris in 1953. It was a new kind of music—music you could dance to. There was jazz of course. Paris always had a liberal public for jazz. But that was a more dedicated audience, more intellectual, more the student type. To go to a jazz place—it was like going to church."

"And the other places where people went to dance. They danced very close together to soft music."

With a collection of American records donated by friends, Regine opened her first club. It was an immediate success. French youngsters started rock 'n' rolling to records by Johnny Ray, Bobby Darin, Sarah Vaughan or Sinatra. Regine started getting rich and famous.

"It was me launched the cha-cha in Paris," she told me proudly.

Regine has a simple explanation for the runaway success of her first discotheque. It was the right time.

"Just after the war people in Europe were so happy and so relieved they amused themselves very easily. They were happy with very little entertainment. But when I started they were beginning to want more complicated amusements, something new."

Toast Of Jet Set
Whatever Regine has—and it is not immediately apparent—she's managed to set most of international cafe society dancing to her tune. Perhaps it may be what ever quality made another plump little woman, the late type, the toast of the jet set. A certain flair for creating fun for those too jaded to create their own.

Regine describes her Paris club as like a party every evening. Everyone, she says, knows each other. Her clientele she describes as, "Rich people with names certainly. But not just because they are rich. That doesn't get them in automatically. They have to be agreeable and amusing."

And the men and women who dance all night chez Regine can be, she says, any age from 17 to 70.

Regine took a professional if somewhat jaundiced look at New York's discotheque while she was here. "Here in America the dancing is more violent and exaggerated. I didn't see people chatting as they do in Paris. And the service is terrible. The waiters are so rude."

Regine was not impressed by New York's currently fashionable East Side discotheque, Arthur, run by Sybil Burton Jordan.

"That Arthur—I thought it was like a common dance hall. Everything and everyone looked cheap. The band was good. Otherwise I didn't think much of it. I think this is the kind of place that springs up in Paris sometimes. It's the fad for a while then the style goes out and so does the night spot."

She paused for a moment then added darkly, "In three months."

Beauty After Forty

"IF I COULD only make myself over!" This is the thought and wish of so many women. Perhaps the wish comes because of a man, a job, a husband or just because a woman is not satisfied with the way she is.

If you want to enough you can make yourself over. You can polish every facet of your face, figure and personality. You can improve your most unattractive feature; you can study your best features and use them to advantage. Every woman can be better looking than nature intended. I know that any woman who works at it can "make herself over." You can achieve a new look, and that is fun. It stimulates your interest in life. You can dress and you can win that battle if you stick with it; you can improve your hair, your neck, your style.

AFTER 40 you need this interest in your own personal self. Go after the style you want, change your makeup, change your hairdo and your selection of clothes. Wear some new colors, new designs in clothes.

As a consultant to women and a columnist for the after-forty group, I have tried to make my leaflets and booklets meet the needs of my after-forty readers. I believe I have succeeded, because of the thousands of requests I receive for the material. To quote, "I must be doing something right."

GLAMOUR is part of the "make yourself over" process and elegance can be achieved by women who care enough to try for the goal. Glamour is a sort of "put-on" quality, and you can have it—if you wish. Never say, "I am too old" (as if any woman could be); never say, "I don't care." Never say, "I am too tired." Think about all of this; make up your minds and let this year be your "G" year. Mark it on the calendar.

Look yourself over carefully, make notes of what you must do and then proceed to do it. Good luck—you can win!

SWITCH THE FOCUS
NEW DELHI (AP)—A government committee studying statistics in the capital recommended a status of King George V of England be replaced by one of Mohandas K. Gandhi, the "father" of Indian independence.

QUALITY IS BARGAIN
Bargain hunting is a time-honored American custom, but it defeats economy when it is penny wise and pound foolish. A homemaker who wouldn't buy bad food just because it's cheap should shy away from surfacing materials with a low initial cost but a short life span. Bargain-wise homemakers often turn to domestic ceramic tile surfacing for real economy.

TWO OF A KIND
---both businessmen

Your newspaperboy son has much in common with the appliance dealer down the street. Both are independent businessmen, succeeding through their own individual efforts under the free enterprise system. Both buy their wares at wholesale and sell them at retail, making a profit through good salesmanship, customer service, and sound business practices. Both know that effort and ability are their own reward, and that true success comes only through work.

So much do these two have in common that it is not unusual for businessmen everywhere to give valuable advice and assistance to newspaperboys, encouraging them to make the most of their opportunities to grow and advance. It is the adult businessman who recognizes the practical value of this experience when the ex-newspaperboy goes out looking for his first job.

Your newspaperboy son and the successful businessmen are two of a kind. This nation could not get along without either of them!

Improper Dependent Claims Will Be Challenged By IRS

$600 deduction for a portion of the year. You either get a full year's credit or you get none.

The determination then is who furnished chief support on the basis of the full year. To get the answer, compare the total of your support expenditures with the total expended by your son or daughter in his or her own behalf.

If your total is the larger figure you get the full year's dependency credit. Your son or daughter files his own return and either pays a tax or claims a refund on his or her individual earnings.

Now what happens in the event of a marriage toward the end of the year when you have furnished the chief support for the greater portion of the year?

If on the full year's basis you furnished the chief support you may still claim the student bride or groom as your dependent PROVIDING the newlyweds do not file a joint return.

Still different problems frequently arise when a parent is claimed as a dependent. The two common sticklers are income and degree of support.

If the parent has as much as $600 gross income he or she may not be considered as a dependent no matter how much a son or daughter may have furnished in support. This can work a severe hardship should the parent be the owner of some rent-producing property.

This means that if the parent-landlord received as much as $50 monthly from the investment property, he or she would be ruled out as a dependent. It would make no difference if the claims against the rental income—such as depreciation, repairs, taxes—could reduce the net figure materially or even result in a net loss for the year. The law speaks of gross income.

The Social Security income a parent might receive is not considered gross income but it becomes a factor in determining chief support.

If, for example, the parent received $65 a month in Social Security payments ($780 for the year) and spent it toward his own support, the child claiming the parent as a dependent would have to prove his contributions toward the parent's support exceeded $780.

If two or more children together furnished the chief support of the parent but no one of them individually contributed over half of the support, the dependency claim may, by agreement, be made by any one of them who furnished over 10 percent of the support, if the other make a declaration they will not claim the person as a dependent for that year. The declarations, known as Forms 2120, must be attached to the return of the one making the dependency claim. Such forms are available at all IRS offices.

ple we don't know, who care about us and what we are doing here.

"But most of all, I am so very proud of you Rickey. You have more sense than these people who are against us for being here, and I love you for it. If all Americans were just like you, our battle here would be an easy one.

Proud To Serve
"I am proud to be here and to fight alongside my fellow Americans. And I want you to know you will always be in my heart. . . I will always keep your card, even when I go home next year, and in fact, forever. I would love to hear from you again if possible.

"Well, so long for now, you little doll. Your family should be proud of you.

Rickey says he plans to answer Clabattari's letter.

The other letter, from Capt. Emmitt T. Carroll Jr., a U.S. Army chaplain in Viet Nam, was mailed to Mrs. Hammock.

Capt. Carroll's letter said: "If you were to see the smiles that crossed the faces of the soldiers who received your cards, it would bring smiles to your faces also. Many of these men have not had much reason to be smiling lately.

"Christmas for these men . . . has been made a great deal brighter because there are thousands of little boys and girls back home who are wishing the soldiers here a 'Merry Christmas.' Your cards will long be remembered.

"Many of us here do have children like you and we pray that our being here will insure that they and you will continue to have freedom to attend school, and have Christmas and all the other things that we take for granted.

Has Four Children
"I have four children, all boys, in Columbus, Ga. Their ages are 9, 6, 3 . . . and the baby is 3 months old. He was three days when I left to come over here. My wife is also a school teacher. . .

"Because of you and millions of other Americans, we are here. You can help us in another way—by studying hard so you will know what it is to have freedom. . .

The Christmas cards sent by Mrs. Hammock's class had such personal messages as: "Be careful . . . come home soon . . . thank you for what you're doing . . . and each card had the inscription: "To Let You Know We Care."

Each card for Capt. Brown also had personal messages such as: "I hope you don't have a rut time . . . I hope you don't get shot . . . We hope you come home. . ."

Jeff Brown's card to his father said simply: "Dear Daddy, Merry Christmas. I love you, love you, love you. Come home soon. Love Jeff."

Other than the comments already mentioned, Capt. Brown's letter to Mrs. Risner's class said:

"I am very pleased that Jeff is being a good student. It makes a father very proud to read what other people think of his children. . .

"Please express my deepest appreciation to your wonderful students for being so thoughtful. We, the Americans, Australians, Koreans, South Vietnamese and other allies, are proud to be serving the free world. I for one, hate war and being separated from my loved ones, but just the thought that my children may not have to go through these hardships, keeps me going. . ."

turned it over, dumping his pursuers. They swam back to the ship and he got in the boat.

The boat washed ashore on the coast of Salvador in Central America. He was found by farmers and a wealthy wholesale firm operator, Rojelio Diaz Calderon, took him into his home for several years.

Staley said authorities at first thought "Yun" was from Mexico, where there are tribes of Indians.

"All the evidence we have been able to get shows at least a lot of it is true," Staley said. "As to some of the details, I don't know."

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Civil Servant's Prestige Reflected By Number Of Telephones In His Office

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Disclosure that the White House switchboard now records the names of all callers created a bit of a stir here this week.

Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers denied that the practice was a "gumshoe operation." He explained that it was adopted for reasons of economy and security.

If, for example, a certain office had three telephones and a check of the incoming call list showed that two would suffice, one phone could be disconnected.

That may work at the White House, but if the system should spread to other government agencies I fear the results might be entirely different.

Status Symbol
It so happens that the telephone is an important bureaucratic status symbol. A civil servant's prestige rises or declines in direct ratio to the number of phones in his office.

Let us say for illustration purposes that the assistant deputy undersecretary of agriculture is a three-telephone man. He would undoubtedly view with alarm any move that might downgrade him to a two-telephone ranking.

As soon as he heard that the department switchboard was recording calls, he would have his wife and friends start phoning him several times daily to beef up the tally.

Chances are he would then be elevated to four-telephone status.

Since the names of the callers would be taken down, he could instruct his confederates to give fictitious identifications.

"This is President Johnson calling the assistant deputy under-secretary," they might say, or, "This is Chairman Cooley of the House Agriculture Committee. Let me speak to the assistant deputy under-secretary."

Prompt VIP Line
Those names would look so good on the record it might prompt his superiors to assign him a private line. They wouldn't want to risk the other four lines being busy when a VIP called.

On the other hand, however, the White House system could work to his disadvantage.

Suppose that someone had a grudge against the deputy assistant undersecretary. He might start getting calls like this:

"Connect me with the deputy assistant undersecretary, please. This is Billie Sol Estes calling."

Once those calls started showing up on the record, he would have quite a lot of explaining to do.

It would be tantamount to calling a White House aide and identifying yourself as Bobby Baker.

come received for products and services from those visiting the area to enjoy the cultural assets and recreational facilities.

These visitors, on the average, he said, pump about $40 a day into the economy of the area.

In the West Texas area, there now are some 22,160 air-conditioned hotel and motel rooms with 428 swimming pools for the pleasure of visitors. In addition, there are 1,963 holes of golf, 57 museums, 42 art galleries, and 10 full-sized zoos.

In addition, there are also 4-180 churches, 28 community theaters, 10 symphony orchestras, 5,487 clubs and organizations, and more than 1,500 modern retail stores.

The speaker said that the new survey showed there are about 150,000 workers now employed in West Texas factories, producing $1.5 billion in value added by manufacture.

In the past 15 years, Fisher said, factory employment has been rising at 4 per cent per year in West Texas, while the state has risen at 3 per cent a year, and the national increase has been about 1.5 per cent.

In referring to the petroleum industry, Fisher said that in 1965, 600 million barrels of crude oil and three trillion cubic feet of gas, valued at more than $2.1 billion, were produced and that this was about one-eighth of the nation's supply.

In addition to reviewing the area-wide statistics, Fisher listed new industries and expansions in West Texas cities and towns and said that these new industries and expansions accounted for 9,300 new jobs.

Actress Proves Good Looks Not Vital To Film Success

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—She was only a grocer's daughter, but she refused to be put on a shelf. So, at 23, Rita Tushingham, who never took a formal drama lesson in her life, has become one of Britain's brightest young film stars.

Her story is that of the ugly duckling who became a success without turning into a swan—a Cinderella who looks more like a wistful gnome.

No Beauty
Rita is 5 feet 2 and built a bit like a pigeon-chested roving guard for a girl's hockey team. Her face would never win a beauty contest, but her face is her fortune. It looks like an elf toy drawn by Walt Disney, and shines with the awkward grace of youth.

"It's the face that helps in films," she said. "It has to have something that comes through. I've been lucky."

Going to football games in her native Liverpool stirred Rita to dream of a career in the theater.

"I thought the response of the crowd was marvelous," she said.

Rita quit school at 15, spent three months taking a business course during which she learned to type and write "I love you" in shorthand.

She landed a job as assistant stage manager with the Liverpool Repertory Theater. She played a few small parts, served as a prompter, and worked from 9 in the morning until 11 at night.

"It was good training," she recalled.

"But I had to leave because I wasn't experienced enough. I hadn't been to drama school. So

GOALS SET
State Group To Upgrade Teacher Role

HOUSTON (AP)—The chairman of the new committee to study the needs of secondary education in Texas says the citizenry must be convinced of the importance of education to all.

Leon Jaworski, a Houston attorney, said Wednesday he will suggest the committee thoroughly explore the role of teacher and seek significant changes aimed at improving the teacher position in the eyes of the community.

"It is my personal hope that in our results we will find a means to let the pay scale for teachers go higher than it is today," he said. "Salary isn't the only consideration but it certainly is a matter for serious study."

The 15-member committee was appointed last week by Gov. John Connally.

Jaworski said that attracting the cream of college graduates to instruct future generations would mean the state will have an educational system that will control poverty and crime while educating youth and while welfare agencies must work together to solve the awesome dropout problem.

Dr. June Hyer, another Houston member of the committee, said Texas is rapidly becoming a great industrial state and will need highly trained workers in increasing numbers.

Dr. Hyer is professor of education and political science at the University of Houston. She also is a curriculum consultant to public and private schools in Texas and Louisiana.

Burma's Census Board Bans Four U.S. Films

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Burma's film censor board has banned four American films from showing within the country, the Working People's Daily says.

The board said the four American films are "Blanket Bingo," "Ski Party," "Pajama Party," and "Muscle Beach Party."

I went and got myself a film part."

The part she got was the role of heroine in "A Taste of Honey," and she got it by winning over 2,000 other applicants. Her biggest previous role had been one in which she played the back legs of a donkey in pantomime.

Since then her touching, homely features have been in five other films.

"Instead of playing the sad-eyed girl," she said, "I'd like to be a bit more zany—more like I really am."

She is married to Terry Bicknell, a television cameraman, and they have a 20-month old daughter, Dodonna, named after an ancient mythical Greek city.

"We found the name listed in the back of a dictionary," she explained.

Rita says she likes "being married, antiques, Buster Keaton, Cornwall when it's windy and rough, cooking roasts and making puddings, coach horses, Labrador dogs, children—and I'd like to lose 10 pounds and put them in the bank."

"I dislike snobby people, routine housework and getting up early in the morning, and central heating."

Her philosophy: "It is important to have a base in life, and from that base you can enjoy it. To me the base is family."

"Your profession should give you enjoyment, but it should never be your life."

Today In History

Today is Thursday, Jan. 13, the 13th day of 1966 with 352 to follow.
The moon is in its last quarter.
No morning star.
The evening stars are Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.
American author Horatio Alger was born on this day in 1834.

On this day in history:
In 1733, James Oglethorpe and some 130 British colonists arrived at Charleston, S.C., with a charter to form a settlement which is now Georgia.
In 1864, American songwriter Stephen Foster died in New York City.

In 1877, a literary critic for the New York Times said Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer" was something "unnecessarily sinister."

In 1963, President Sylvanus Olympio of the west African nation of Togo was assassinated.
A thought for the day—Mark Twain said: "Work consists of whatever a body is obliged to do... play consists of whatever a body is not obliged to do."

Leadership Clinic, Youth Council Meet, Teen Jury Revival Slated In City

Organization of an All-City Youth Council, plans for a Monterey Leadership Check - Up Clinic and revival of the teen-age jury in Lubbock are among the many activities coming up after the new semester gets underway.

The Leadership Check - Up Clinic is scheduled to begin at 5 p.m. Jan. 21 at Monterey High school and continue through the afternoon of Jan. 22.

Students from 101 schools, including 86 area schools, have been invited to attend the clinic which will feature such speakers as Sen. H. J. Doel, Blanchard and Mrs. Joyce Brown of Abilene, assistant executive secretary of the Texas Association of Student Councils.

Robert T. Davis, Austin director of the Attorney General's Youth Conference, will also attend the clinic and lead a discussion group on the modern concepts of leadership.

Registration is scheduled for 5 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Jan. 21 at Monterey, to be followed by a basketball game and after-game party that night.

Students will be allowed to register from 8:30 a.m. to 9:15 a.m. Saturday, then a general assembly is scheduled from 9:15 a.m. to 10:15 a.m. during which time Sen. Blanchard will speak on the importance of leadership for youth and for America.

After a coffee break from 10:15 a.m. to 10:45 a.m., participants will split into two groups, one going to the discussion group led by Davis, and the other attending any of the 25 various discussion groups being offered at the clinic. Those attending the smaller discussion groups will actually attend two sessions of their choice while the other half remains with Davis.

From 12:15 p.m. to 1:15 p.m. a luncheon is scheduled at Underwoods, then the participants will return to Monterey to attend more discussion groups. Those who have heard Davis in the morning will attend two of the 25 groups to be offered which include various phases of leadership, organization of clubs, and other topics, while the other half meets with Davis.

Another coffee break is slated from 2:45 p.m. to 3 p.m., then from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. the students will attend the final general assembly, during which time they will hear an address by Mrs. Brown on the tools of leadership.

"We wanted to have a project that would help other area schools," said Ann Armitstead, president of TASC and chairman of the clinic.

Others working on the committee which planned the clinic are Sharon Young Susan Cathey, Kim Gilbreath, Jim Gilbreath, Ann Coeougher, and Jan Price. The clinic is being sponsored by the Monterey Student Council with assistance of student activities at Monterey. J. W. Edwards, director of student activities at Monterey, is supervising students in planning the clinic.

The revival of the teen-age jury which began last spring has had a slow start, but hopes are high that the red tape which stands in the way will be cut in the near future.

The jury met only twice last spring and then suffered a temporary collapse when its sponsor, Walt Lindsey, who formerly headed the Citizen's Traffic Clinic, left the jury without a leader. Johnny Walker, who originally started the jury, has taken over the leadership but is having legal troubles now.

Must Be Voluntary

Walker has been told by Corporation Court judges that only those cases in which the defendant is entering a plea of innocent will go before the teen-age jury voluntarily.

Walker contends that so few such cases come up in a city the size of Lubbock that this would cut deeply into the success of the teen-age jury. He has written Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr asking him to make a formal ruling on whether or not the defendants tried must be volunteers and expects to get an answer soon.

If Carr hands down a ruling in support of the demands of the teen-age jury, the system will be kicked off this year with a workshop for teenagers. Walker has tentatively set Jan. 29 as the date for that workshop, which would include a mock youth jury, orientation, discussion of penalties, defendants' rights and basic law enforcement.

An organizational meeting of the All-City Youth Council is scheduled for 5 p.m. Jan. 22 in Room 143 at Monterey High School.

Davis To Attend

The idea for the council arose out of the Attorney General's Youth Conference which was conducted last August in Austin, and on hand for the organizational meeting will be Davis, who directed the youth conference.

Walker has been instrumental in organizing the youth council, along with Herman Williams, pastor of the Second Baptist Church.

Students from the Lubbock schools who attended the conference in Austin have been asked to attend the organizational meeting.

Organization of an All-City Youth Council, plans for a Monterey Leadership Check - Up Clinic and revival of the teen-age jury in Lubbock are among the many activities coming up after the new semester gets underway.

This week and next students will be entering drawings of their ideas of a good cover for the school directory, the "Eagles Record."

The deadline on these drawings is Jan. 21. Last Monday two paid assignments were presented by J. A. B. Fleisher. He discussed amusing incidents dealing with science in everyday life and the usefulness of language arts.

Wednesday, Patti Cline and Larry Wharton, secretary and president of the National Junior Honor Society, presented an assembly dealing with the juvenile crime problem. They attended the Attorney General's Youth Conference on Crime last summer. The assembly's highlight was when a gavel was given to the school. Every school represented in the conference received one.

Two new water coolers were recently installed here, one in either hall, and a scoreboard will soon be put on our football field in the hopes that more people will attend the eighth grade football games. The Student Council is responsible for these improvements.

A recognition service board is being displayed in the halls by the National Junior Honor Society. This group's main purpose is to provide tutoring for students having difficulties with schoolwork. The service board tells the names of the tutors and the subjects they teach.

Morning Watch is making a practice of giving awards to the best representative, speaker, and to the group that brings the largest audience. This time the awards go to Patti Cline, best representative, and to Mrs. Jane Irvin, most popular speaker.

A tall, dark handsome, straight A football player is honored as Wilson's December Teen-Of-the-Month. Randy Sowell stated that his present ambition is to be a good student without cheating. His report card shows straight A's for this year. College heads the list for his future plans.

Ian Fleming's thrillers, movies and all kinds of sports capture Randy's interest. He enjoys the Beach Boys and "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." In school he would like to see typing and French added to the junior high curriculum. Steak satisfies his hunger, and a Jaguar car would make him very happy. He thinks England would be an interesting place to visit; only, however, after touring the United States. Intelligent, quiet, and unassuming describes the character of this teen.

Cowboys and Calypsoes will meet the Mackenzie Raiders today at Mackenzie. Thompson played Alderson last week. In this game, the Calypsoes were defeated by a score of 30-17, but the Cowboys sought revenge and beat the Hornets. Final score was 38-24.

Cowboys are looking for their fourth win in the game this afternoon. Ninth grade girls had a special program sponsored by room 109. Mrs. Linda Tipp spoke to the girls on ideas concerning good posture, grooming and dressing.

Eighth and ninth grade girls started volleyball last Tuesday. Eighth graders have just completed their first aid course. Aptitude and achievement test results have been returned and discussed with eighth and ninth grade students in various assemblies.

Students are now studying for the city spelling bee. Building competition is to be held first. This will be held in February. Students participating in this contest include Kathy Throne, Rachel Escobedo, Nancy Nisler and Kathy Rhodes. Others include Felix Nave, David Jaramillo, Kenneth Perry, George Kowach, Lori Bennett, Dale Webb and Pauline Galvan. Six weeks tests began today and will continue through Friday. Report cards will be distributed next week. Members of the creative writing class have completed PTA yearbooks. The booklets and assembled the class printed for the members of the P-TA.

Coins of 10, 20, 50- and 100-mills are being issued as replacements. The new coinage law does not mention the piastre, a term that will be allowed to lapse. Libya's pound is divided into 1,000 mills.

Seventh Grade Homeroom Gives Guidance Program For Students

By INAEETTE ABBOTT

Seventh grade homeroom 108 gave a guidance program Wednesday entitled "You're as Big as You Think." Putting the emphasis on citizenship, responsibility, and service, the program related junior high school life to world affairs, especially the threat of Communism. The idea of INAEETTE the program can be summed up in the introduction: "Once in his quest for that faith each turns to something higher than himself—a body of ideals which promises to give meaning to his life. Responsibility follows growth; every individual should do certain things to help maintain his freedom and keep it growing and thriving. Let's take a look at our ideas, behavior, and beliefs to see if we are following the rules to become useful citizens or if we are a weaker link in our democracy."

Consolation Prize Won By LCHS

By COLEMAN LEMMONS
Lubbock Christian High School Correspondent

During the Christmas holidays the Lubbock Christian High School Varsity Basketball Squad won 2 out of 3 games to win the consolation bracket of the small schools in the Caprock Holiday Tournament. It was held here in Lubbock Dec. 27, 28, and 29 in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum. The Varsity, having lost their first game to Dimmitt, roared back to win the next two games by a large margin.

On Jan. 4, the Varsity Squad and Junior Varsity Squad (B-Team) played Dunbar A and B teams, which proved to be of only scrimmage nature for the "Partners" as they chased the LCHS "Eagles" home holding two defeats. The Varsity lost by a slim margin 82-54 compared to the Junior Varsity 102-22.

The Varsity Squad was in the Slaton invitational tournament Jan. 7 and 8 and won second place. The LCHS Varsity boys won the first game against a "Double A" school 82-50, but lost the next two games. The team with the best record got 1st, 2nd, and 3rd. The tournament ended in a three-way tie for second. LCHS had the best record so they brought home the trophy.

The Varsity and B-Team played Christ the King Catholic School Tuesday night. Last Saturday, Paul Silvey, a member of the LCHS Chorus, tried out and was named for the position of 1st Tenor in the All-State Chorus for the Lubbock district. Paul made the All-Region Chorus and a chance to try out for All-State in November.

Last Friday, C. A. Farley, the principal for LCHS for the past five years, spoke to us in our assembly on the subject he called "My Sore Foot." This was a lesson concerning the little things which we do matter just as much as the big things we do. He used the illustration that a small pebble in your shoe won't hurt very much at first but after you walk on it a while day it hurts. Farley is now Adult Education Coordinator in the city of Lubbock.

Also, on Jan. 11 in our assembly period, two guitar combos played. They are called "The Assassins" and "The Misfortunates" and are composed of boys from out Junior-Senior High School. "The Misfortunates" are composed of freshmen. Their names are Carl Cope, Wallace Lee and Neil Baldrige. "The Assassins" are composed of eighth graders, whose names are Randy Field, Terry Paden, Ronnie Mvatt, and Mike Stroop. Lamar Mallett and Den Langford each played the organ, and Paul Silvey sang a song accompanied by "The Misfortunates." They all did a "mighty fine" job.

HOUSEWIFE TELLS OF ORDEAL

Illinois Turns Spotlight On Underworld Loan Sharks

By ROBERT T. LOUGHRAN
CHICAGO (UPI) — The voice was electronically distorted. All the emotion and tone were taken out. What remained was a raspy screech.

The voice belonged to a housewife seated behind a curtain so she could not be seen. She told of how her husband had been beaten, her child threatened and how she herself had been offered a way out from under the thumb of the underworld "juice racket" — prostitution.

The witness was testifying before the Illinois Crime Commission, which Wednesday opened a three-day hearing into the high cost of "easy loans" from underworld loan sharks who back up exorbitant interest rates with exorbitant beatings.

Fall To Appear

Six alleged hoodlums who had been subpoenaed to appear did not show up. They were held in contempt of the committee. An attorney for one reputed loan shark called the hearing "a shoddy, theatrical show in a carnival atmosphere."

The leadoff witness said her husband, a 37-year-old week laborer, had borrowed $400 in 1963 and had paid back about $1,000 only to have the principal unpaid. She said when her husband fell ill and could not make the $20-$40 a week payments, he was beaten, her child's life threatened and she was told she could earn the money as a prostitute.

Lawyers representing the subpoenaed hoodlums demanded that each of the commission's witnesses be brought from behind the curtain surrounding the witness stand.

Star Witness

The commission planned today to question its star witness, a Chicago attorney who is being held under heavy guard to prevent underworld reprisal for his "cooping out."

The attorney, Fred Ackerman, 43, was expected to tell in detail how a $25,000 "juice loan" led to the loss of his $200,000 yearly business, his wife and seven children.

Two underworld figures who appeared Wednesday before the Paris Calls On Army To Combat Snow, Ice

PARIS (UPI) — The city of Paris called out 1,000 army troops today to combat shivering snow and slush which slowed the French capital to a frozen crawl for the third day.

Ten persons were reported dead from cold alone and many more killed in weather-caused accidents across the nation, two-thirds of which was gripped in an unusually fierce onslaught of snow and ice.

CHAIRS FLY AFTER FINAL WHISTLE

Powerful Vandy Edges Out Tennessee In 53-52 Tilt

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Big Clyde Lee got only five points, but his Vanderbilt teammates, Keith Thomas and Jerry Southwood, took up the slack and brought the Commodores from behind to a 53-52 victory over Tennessee.

The fierce struggle on Vandy's home court at Nashville on Wednesday night ended in a flurry of fistfights as Tennessee almost pulled the game out in the closing seconds.

"Everybody was excited," said an eye witness. "I don't know what caused it. I guess it was just fan reaction."

Chairs Are Thrown

Several chairs were thrown, but no one was reported injured and police quickly controlled the situation.

Tennessee, led by Ron Widby, held an eight-point lead at halftime 30-22. The Vols stayed in front until Thomas' three-point play tied the score at 42-42 with eight minutes to go.

The Commodores, continuing to penetrate Tennessee's zone defense, led by five points with one minute left. The Vols closed the gap by scoring two baskets on intercepted passes.

Thomas was high for Vandy with 19 points. Southwood got 14, all in the second half. Widby got 21 points for Tennessee and teamed with 6-foot-9 Red Robbins in holding Lee, also 6-9, in check.

Decks Are Cleared

The victory cleared the decks for Vanderbilt's crucial South-eastern Conference game with unbeaten Kentucky on Saturday. Kentucky, 11-0, is second-ranked in The Associated Press poll, and Vanderbilt, now 14-1, is third-ranked.

The fourth-ranked St. Joseph's Hawks, led by Matt Guokas' 20 points, crushed Wake Forest 87-72 as part of a double-header at the Palestra in Philadelphia. The other teams in the AP Top Ten were idle.

Stan Pawlack's 37 points paced Penn to a 90-76 triumph over LaSalle in the other half of the Palestra twinbill.

Don Rolfe hit on 11 consecutive field goal tries and scored 36 points altogether in leading Cincinnati to a 87-79 triumph over Dayton at the Cincinnati Gardens. The Bearcats limited Henry Finkel, Dayton's 6-11 star, to 13 points before he fouled out with nine minutes from behind to a 53-52 victory over Tennessee.

St. John's Wins

St. John's of New York, playing at home, edged Syracuse 66-65 or Bob McIntyre's basket.

Syracuse, behind Dave Bing's 24 points, held a five-point lead before the Redmen rallied to avenge their defeat by the Orange in Los Angeles Holiday Classic.

Chicago Loyola, Miami of Ohio and Furman scored notable road victories. The Loyola Ramblers, 1963 national champs, upped their record to 12-1 by trouncing Western Michigan 117-86 at Kalamazoo. Miami's Redskins dethroned Ohio University 68-56 at Athens, Ohio, for the Bobcats' first loss in 30 home games. Furman beat South Carolina 73-66.

Air Force Wins

The Air Force won its fourth straight, taking Arizona State College 83-78. In other games, North Carolina beat N.C. State 82-75, Alabama downed Georgia 88-60, Florida took Miami, Fla. 111-66, West Virginia whipped East Carolina 98-78, Navy walked George Washington 99-63, Penn State thumped Bucknell 95-55 and Connecticut routed New Hampshire 119-74. All were home court victories.

Villanova defeated Xavier of Ohio on the road 90-82. Temple also won on the road, 81-67 over Scranton.

Plans For New Dallas Sports Center Offered

DALLAS (AP) — City officials are weighing proposals for a multi-million-dollar sports and cultural center near the south edge of downtown Dallas.

Clint Murchison Jr., wealthy financier and sportsman, has laid the plans before Mayor Erik Jonsson without mention of cost, the Dallas News reported today. It said Murchison's idea is to finance the project with both municipal bonds and private funds.

The plans call for a new sports stadium seating 55,000, a theatrical center and a sports arena for such events as basketball and ice hockey.

Several city leaders acknowledged that they have seen the elaborate plans but had little other comment.

Murchison was unavailable for comment.

City officials and civic leaders indicated they probably would not discuss the proposals until directors of the state fair of Texas finish drafting plans to modernize the 75,000-seat Cotton Bowl and the adjacent Music Hall, both on the Fair Grounds here.

A spokesman declined to say when the fair would be ready to disclose its plans.

Buffington Quits Job At Edmonton

EDMONTON (AP) — The Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian Football League announced the resignation today of Harry Buffington as defensive coach and assistant to Neill Armstrong, the head coach.

The club said it learned from President Hugh McColl, attending a coaches conference at Washington, D.C., that Buffington will return to college football coaching. No details were given.

Headed For Tech

(Burie Pettit, Avalanche-Journal sports writer, reported last week that Buffington was expected to be named to the Texas Tech coaching staff. Buffington is expected to serve as a defensive aide to head coach J. T. King.)

Armstrong's other assistant, Len Younce, quit the club earlier this month in a similar move. The club said one replacement may be named early next week.

Former Tech Aide

Buffington, released from the remainder of a contract which was to expire in March, joined the Eskimos in 1964. He coached at Oklahoma State 1955-62 and at Texas Tech in 1963.

The 44-year-old native of Lubbock, Tex., played professional football with the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Giants of the NFL. He graduated from Oklahoma State in 1942.

Houston Attitude Good After Ban

HOUSTON (UPI) — University of Houston coach Bill Yeoman said Wednesday his team's attitude "is very good" despite a National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) ruling which placed the school on probation for three years.

The Rules Infraction Committee of the NCAA put the Houston on probation Monday because of persistent infractions of recruiting, financial aid and football practice operations. This will keep the university from participating in post-season bowl football games or appearing on NCAA-sponsored television over the probationary period.

"I believe the players will accept this as a challenge," Yeoman said. He said there had been no indication of any player wanting to leave because of the probation.

"As far as I know," Yeoman said, "I never assured a player he could be playing in a bowl or on national television. Our goal has been to become a better football team and win the national championship, and certainly nothing has changed that."

Devine Turns Down Pro Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dan Devine, football coach at the University of Missouri, said Wednesday night he had received an offer this season to be head coach of a professional team, but had turned it down.

Devine, attending the National Collegiate Athletic Association meeting here, did not identify the pro club that made the offer.

He said the offer he received was a good one. "It was flattering, but I did not seriously consider it. I already have one of the best coaching jobs in football."

Devine also said, "I have not been contacted by the St. Louis owners in regard to the opening created by the resignation of Wally Lemm. But I'm sure the Bidwill Brothers (owners of the football Cardinals) will come up with a good coach. They are both capable

Bolt "Possibility" In Dispute On New Rule

By BOB GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The threat of an Ivy League revolt still hung over the National Collegiate Athletic Association today as it cleaned up the last details on its 60th annual convention.

The convention proper wound up Wednesday, passing a number of amendments implementing its controversial 1.6 rule, a rule that establishes a minimum grade level for athletes—about a C minus.

And it's over this rule that the Ivies are up in arms. They have let it be known they will not live with it, will not abide by it and are ready to accept the penalties involved.

Penalties Possible

The penalties could include ineligibility for NCAA championship events, including the indoor track championships and the basketball championship, both coming up next month.

"Certainly we'll accept the penalties," said Jerry Ford, athletic director at Penn. "Here and now. It's a matter of policy."

Ford even hinted that the Ivy League may, in time, bolt the NCAA.

"It's always a possibility," he said. "I don't think we would pull out over this issue, but it's always a possibility."

Rule Is Opposed

The Ivies—Penn., Brown, Columbia, Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Dartmouth and Princeton—oppose the rule on principle.

"Our position is that there is no distinction between students and student-athletes," Ford said. "The NCAA is in the business of legislating for athletes."

"When the NCAA goes into the area of grades and admissions and financial aid, they are intruding on an area which, in our opinion, is not in their province."

The rule was adopted last year, but did not become effective until Jan. 1, 1966. An amendment delaying it another year was defeated Wednesday. The Ivies did not take part in the discussion.

"You're not going to change anyone's mind at a convention," Ford said. "We've taken our position and we'll stand by it."

A resolution was adopted urging the U.S. House of Representatives to pass legislation to see NCAA Page 4

Savage Wins Mat Crown

Dutch Savage relieved Ricky Romero of his North American heavyweight wrestling championship Wednesday night at Fair Park Coliseum, defeating the champ with a pin in the third fall.

Romero held the title quite a while before losing it in the match Wednesday. The former champ had defended the crown several times since winning the title from Don McCarty in Amarillo months ago.

Miller's defeat marked the first singles match by Terry—the youngest of the Funk wrestling clan.

Casper In Spotlight At San Diego Tourney

Ellis Rates As Threat

By BOB MYERS
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Native son Bill Casper was the leading gallery attraction today as the $40,000 San Diego Open Golf Tournament got under way.

But lanky Al Geiberger had something else going for him—a bird tucked away in his golf cap.

Plastic Bird
Unlike a live sparrow that baseball's Mr. Casey Stengel once released from his cap during a game years ago, Geiberger's bird was plastic.

It was a good charm, indeed, for Geiberger, in Wednesday's pro-amateur competition, shot a six-under-par 65 and won $500 in first money in individual play.

The tournament setting is the pocket as he left for the golf course by his 2-year-old daughter, Les Ann, who wished her father luck.

Rather bulky, the bird in the pocket was no help to Al's swing, so he shifted his featherless friend to his cap and wore it during the round—to good advantage.

The tournament setting is the 6,738 yard, par 35-36-71 Stardust County Club.

Ellis On Hand
On deck is the defending champion, Wes Ellis Jr., who won a furious battle with Casper in a sudden death playoff last year.

Ellis, who shot a 71 Wednesday, had a final round 65 in 1965, but Casper came up with a 64 to tie with a 72-hole score of 267.

Casper had a 68 Wednesday in the pro-am round.

Missing from the tournament are Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player. They are filming a series at Palm Springs, Calif., which has stirred up a small storm by the San Diego sponsors—the Century Club.

Protest Planned
Tournament director Sid Lind said attorneys are drawing up a formal protest addressed to the Professional Golf Association.

He said the contract with the PGA stipulates that pros cannot appear in competition or an exhibition within 200 miles of an official PGA tournament on conflicting dates without permission from the sponsors. No such permission was granted and, Lind noted, Palm Springs is about 150 miles north of San Diego.

Action, if any, against the three stars would come from the PGA.
Homero Blancas of Houston, Tex., the 27-year-old PGA 1965 Rookie of the Year, led three partners to the pro-am honors. The team had a best ball score of 52 and Blancas shot a 69. He won $400.

Lee Halfback Receives Honor
AMARILLO (UPI)—Pat Sheehan, San Antonio Lee's flashy all-state halfback, was named Wednesday as the outstanding high school football player in Texas by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

Putt Powell, sports editor of the Amarillo Daily News and Gobe Times, heads the selection committee for the annual award.

Sheehan carried the ball 201 times for 2,201 yards and 29 touchdowns in leading the Volunteers into the state Class AAAA championship game against Odessa Permian. Lee lost 11-6.

In 1963, another San Antonio Lee back—halfback Linus Baier—won the award.

RECORD-HOLDER BUSY AS CAGER

Randy Matson Won't Enter Shot Events Until March

By ED FITZ
DALLAS (UPI)—Much to the disappointment of the sponsors of the nation's major indoor track and field meets, the world's premier shot putter Randy Matson—hasn't even looked at a 16-pound iron ball in months.

And it may be another couple of months before he gets around to picking one up and flexing his muscles toward the 70-foot 7-inch world record he set last May in the Southwest Conference meet on his home Texas A&M University campus in College Station.

Dandy Randy is busy playing basketball, a sport in which he had not participated since he won all-state honors at Pampa, Tex. High School in 1963.

Busy First Year
He did not participate in freshman basketball at Texas A&M. He was too busy steadily raising the indoor record in his specialty in world meets from coast to coast.

But, the steady diet of year-around practice took its toll on Matson and he decided to break the monotony by trying to make the Aggie basketball team—much to the delight of team coach Shelby Metcalf.

The 6-7 Matson "made" the team in more ways than one. Not only did he win a starting role, but he's helped make the team into a strong title contender.

Despite his height, he isn't contributing many points. He has scored in double figures only three times in his first 11 games.

Great on Rebounds

throwing his weight around under the baskets, grabbing rebounds and feeding off to the team's shooting hot shot, John Beasley.

Speaking of weight, Matson has lost 20 to 25 pounds in the strenuous sport.

He isn't exactly a "shadow" of his former self, however. He still tips the scales at about 225 pounds.

Should Know Soon
Matson had planned to resume his weight-lifting program while playing basketball and build his strength back to 260 pounds by the start of the outdoor track season around March 1.

"But, he can't find time," track coach Charlie Thomas said. "It is bound to take him at least a month to get his weight back to normal and it may be late in the year before he reaches his peak again."

Thomas said the situation may give him—and other proponents of weight lifting as a strength builder—a clue as to how right they are.

The Aggies compete in a triangular track meet March 5 on the A&M campus and Matson may have his first fling of the year then. If not, then there's the Border Olympics at Laredo March 12.

"I think he could hit 63 to 64 feet right now without anything but a few warmups and that would assure him first place . . . but I don't expect to find out if that's true until then," Thomas sighed philosophically.

Margaret Smith Second In Annual AP Ratings

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Kathy Whitworth of San Antonio, successor to fellow Texan Mickey Wright as the premier women's professional golfer, was named the Female Athlete of the Year for 1965 today in The Associated Press annual poll.

Miss Whitworth outdistanced Australia's Margaret Smith, the Wimbledon tennis titleholder, in the balloting by 274 sports writers and sportscasters. The golf ace collected 101 first place votes and 441 points on a basis of three points for a first-place vote, two for second and one for third.

Miss Wright was chosen the AP's outstanding female athlete in 1963 and 1964. Last year she participated in only 11 tournaments, winning two.

Leading Winner
Miss Whitworth won eight of the 30 tournaments in which she took part and emerged as the women's pro golf circuit's leading money-winner with earnings of $32,327.50.

Miss Smith, who also captured the U. S. tennis championship at Forest Hills, N. Y., was the poll's runner-up. She was chosen the top athlete on 36 ballots and drew 206 points.

Maria Bueno of Brazil, loser to Miss Smith in the Wimbledon finals, was third with 204 points. She was followed by bowling's Marion Ladewig, U. S. tennis ace Billie Jean Moffitt and three track stars, Tennessee State sprinters Wyomia Tyus and Edith McGuire, and Tamara Press, Russia's top performer in the shot and discus throws.

Holds Crowns
Among Miss Whitworth's victories last year were the Lady Carling Midwest Open, the Women's titleholders' Tournament, the Bluegrass Invitational and the Yankee Open. In 100 official 18-hole rounds of competition, she scored in the 60s 13 times, tying the record set by Miss Wright in 1963.

Miss Whitworth's average for the 100 rounds was 72.6. She will receive the Frederic C. Miller Trophy as the nation's top woman athlete from the Fraternal Order of Eagles. The heavyweight boxer Cleveland Williams, who was seriously wounded when he was shot by a highway patrolman a year ago, says he has completely recovered and has been in training since November.

After extensive surgery, Williams' weight dropped from a normal 217 pounds to 159 and there were reports he would never fight again. He weighed 216 Wednesday.

"I'm all right now," Williams said. "As a matter of fact, if anything, I feel even stronger." Ollman Hugh Benbow, Williams' manager, said Williams had applied for a 1966 license in Texas and hoped to appear in his first comeback bout in a few weeks.

Benbow said Williams, who was ranked high among the heavyweight contenders at the time he was wounded, is "the only man around who can beat the Cassius Clay."

ENMU Swim Team Goes To NMSU

PORTALES (Special)—The Greyhound swim team of Eastern New Mexico University travels to New Mexico State University Saturday for its third meet of the season.

The Hounds will be attempting to stay above the .500 mark in the Saturday encounter. Eastern swamped its first foe, Fredonia (N. Y.) State Teachers College, 76-19, and in turn was swamped by Texas Tech, 62-33.

Evaluating the upcoming contest, Eastern coach Ray Padovan commented, "I don't look for a great deal of trouble in winning the match. They (the Aggie swimmers) are a young team. This is only their second year in swimming competition."

Need Conditioning
Coach Padovan said his biggest worry at the moment is getting his charges back into shape after the Christmas break.

"They are progressing well, however," he added.

The strength of the Greyhound contingent is expected to be bolstered in the spring semester with the addition of one new freshman and two transfer students, who were ineligible for competition during the fall period," Padovan indicated.

The freshman, Don Keinlen, Joliet, Ill., will fill a serious gap in team strength as a competitor in the butterfly event, Padovan said.

The transfer students are Jim Kuhrt, Des Plaines, Ill., and Jim Crane, Buffalo, N. Y. Kuhrt will compete in breaststroke swimming and Crane will provide additional reserve strength as a free-style swimmer.

Richie McCabe New Bill Aide

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Richie McCabe, former Buffalo defensive back, was named Wednesday an assistant coach of the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League.

The appointment was announced by Joel Collier, new head coach of the AFL champions.

McCabe will join the Bills in time for their Saturday game against the AFL All-Star squad. Collier said McCabe will coach defensive backs and linebackers. Collier also said he will select another new assistant later.

McCabe was an all-league selection for the Bills in 1960 but retired because of a knee injury. He has been teaching school in Pennsylvania.

Well, At Least He Hopes To Relax

COLLEGE FOOTBALL for one Garry Don Anderson is now a thing of the past. And, even beyond the wildest expectations of those who watched him stroll onto the Tech campus on that day in late August, 1961, his amateur career closed out on a resounding note.

Whatever Donny had established as a boyhood goal likely has been exceeded. And that accomplishment within itself is quite impressive, once you place it into perspective beside the fact that Anderson five years ago rejected a $50,000 baseball bonus offer in hopes that something better would someday be available to him.

Needless to say, his decision to refuse the Baltimore Orioles bid in 1960 has paid off with interest.

THAT'S ALL OVER now. Donny has accepted from the Green Bay Packers a neat bundle totaling $711,000. Along with it, he has taken all publicity—adverse and otherwise—in the same smooth stride he's displayed in hauling in a jillion Tom Wilson passes.

"Some of it (the publicity) I don't understand," Donny told this writer yesterday, "but I don't let it bother me. I know that many of the people writing about me don't even know me and maybe have never seen me. So I don't worry at all about it."

Perhaps one of the writers he had reference to was Murray Olderman, whose NEA syndicated column touched briefly on Anderson Tuesday afternoon.

Olderman, who never got closer to the Gator Bowl than his New England apartment, wrote with assumed insight concerning Donny's dealing with the Packers and his "escapes" in Jacksonville. Good copy, granted. Unless, of course, you wanted to dilute a good column with such unpopular thinner as (shudder) facts.

MURRAY, IT MUST be pointed out here and now, is a great columnist, a real pro. And it would be unfair not to mention that it was Olderman who owns the distinction of being the first all-America selector to give Donny a first-team position on one of the mythical squad (circa the 1964 NEA All-America).

But, in addition to being more than slightly unfair to Anderson in general and erratic in particular, his Tuesday etching was in bad taste. This scribe can attest to one error, and Anderson's word measures against another.

DONNY DID MAKE a trip to Baltimore to watch the Packers-Colt skirmish, and he did so at his own expense. But, according to Anderson, the truth from there on was mishandled in Olderman's column.

"I did visit a few times with Paul Hornung," Donny said yesterday, "but we weren't nearly so buddy-buddy as that guy said."

"Now Paul is a great guy, very likeable and, of course, one of the greatest football players in the business. I was impressed by him, professionally and socially."

"He made it quite obvious that he wanted me to choose Green Bay. But that trip to Europe... well, it was nothing more than a kidding joke."

"I was talking to Hornung and Max Magee just before the game, and they brought it up in a very joking manner. Gosh, I never thought anymore about it until I saw that column."

THEN OLDERMAN MADE an unfounded statement that "The cocky Texan didn't go over too well with the deb set at Gator Bowl shindig."

Which stirred quite a question mark in the mind of this writer, who—like the entire Texas press troupe—was following Donny like a shadow during the entire Florida week in hopes of being the first to know which direction Anderson would choose.

And at the "shindig"—which, in actuality, was a New Year's ball honoring players from both Gator Bowl teams—the so-called "deb set" didn't make it. The female congregation consisted only of wives and dates of the players, coaches, scribes, etc.

Anderson, in fact, never gave his popularity a chance to function. He spent the entire ball seated at a table with his mother and father, accepting with a polite grin the tons of good-natured kidding thrown constantly in his direction.

THE AMATEUR CAREER was closed out Friday night in Honolulu, and it went out in storybook style. Donny set a Hula Bowl record for pass interceptions, then decorated the mark nicely with a pair of touchdowns, a 40-plus yard punting average and another 80 yards rushing.

Yesterday he was back in Snead Hall, relaxing with roommate Guy Griffin and getting ready for finals. He will enroll in Tech again this spring, and the only difference between it and any other off-season semester he's spent here is that he will likely give up his Snead residence and take an off-campus apartment.

"I can get pretty close to my degree this spring," he explained, "and that's still the most important thing I'm shooting at."

ALTHOUGH DONNY WASN'T around the current Packers long enough to develop an intimate relationship with any of the players, he was exposed to Jim Grabowski sufficiently that the rookies-to-be became fast friends during the Honolulu stay.

And the kidding followed him all the way to Hawaii.

"I took quite a bit of it," Donny smiled. "Like when we'd go somewhere to eat and the service would be a little slow, somebody would always make the remark to the waiter, 'Hey, you'd better wait on this guy or he'll buy the damn place and let you go.' But it was all in fun."

Is Anderson apprehensive about his rookie year in the NFL? "Well, right now I'm not. But it's still a long way off, and I likely will be later on. Right now, I just want to rest up a little and get ready for finals."

"What time is it? Gosh! I've gotta run, now. I'm supposed to meet Doc Blanchard..."

So Donny has learned during the process of his education at least one basic fact: A man worth $711,000 can never relax.

Goose Tatum's Club Plays Here Monday

Goose Tatum and his Harlem Roadkings will take on the New York Olympians here Monday night at Municipal Coliseum at 8 p.m.

Tickets for the game are now on sale at the Pioneer Hotel box office.

Tatum, the clown prince of basketball, who has been playing the sport for 20 years, most of them with the famous Harlem Globetrotters, will have his son, Goose Jr., with his group for the fourth straight year.

Other members of his team will be Marland (Showboat) Buckner, another former Globetrotter, Moose Montgomery, former Michigan cager, Booker T. Washington, ex-Alabama State College player, John Farley, former Tuskegee Institute athlete, and Cleveland Harp, former Indiana standout.

The Golden Goose stands 6-3, but he possesses and arm reach of 84 inches, reportedly the longest in sports, but he doesn't stand under the basket and just drop 'em in, he prefers the challenge of an opponent guarding him so he can make the tough shot.

His son is 5-11, but is regarded as one of the best dribblers in basketball. For a time, his father felt he was too short to play pro basketball and discouraged him, but he doesn't any more because the younger

Legal Blitz Hits Allen

CHICAGO (AP)—A Chicago Bear legal blitz is keeping Bear aide George Allen from becoming the new head coach of the Los Angeles Rams in a growing National Football League ruckus.

Allen from fulfilling his Ram commitment was continued Wednesday until next Tuesday, Jan. 18.

Allen Testifies
The continuance came after Allen, 43-year-old Bear defensive coach, testified for 50 minutes on how he thought he was the new Ram coach as of last Monday, but Bear owner-coach George Halas thought he wasn't.

The 70-year-old Halas was represented in court by his son, Bear President, George Halas Jr., and attorney Charles F. Short.

Allen, an eight-year Bear employe who also is director of player personnel for Halas, told Judge Cornelius J. Harrington he thought the breach of contract suit against him should be turned over to NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Matter For Clubs
Rozelle has said he regarded the dispute a matter to be resolved between the Rams, Allen and Halas.

Domed Stadium Assured By Louisiana Governor

By BOB ROESLER

Sports Editor, New Orleans Times-Picayune

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Without any trace of fanfare, drum-beating or high-pressured high selling, Gov. John McKeithen has been working quietly to get a dome stadium and a National Football League franchise for New Orleans.

In an exclusive interview in his chambers at the capitol the Governor told the Times-Picayune of the progress of his two-pronged project to make New Orleans a major league sports metropolis.

The Governor said:

1. His plans for an all-weather stadium were progressing.

2. He has been keeping in close touch with NFL czar Pete Rozelle regarding the franchise.

Position Is Known
"I met with Commissioner Rozelle several months ago and told him we were going to go all out in obtaining a franchise and building a new stadium," McKeithen said. "He has known our position almost from the start. That is why I have felt there is no need for a lot of commotion."

"I have given Mr. Rozelle my personal assurance that New Orleans will have a new stadium. And, I might add, it will be the best in the whole world."

Orleans will have a new stadium. And, I might add, it will be the best in the whole world."

"In my conversation with Mr. Rozelle Tuesday, I reiterated my stadium pledge. I also asked him if I might have left anything undone. He told me 'no, that I had done all there is to be done. He told me a decision would be reached after that market study was weighed. He also told me that there was no need for me to attend that Palm Beach meeting (Feb. 14-16), but that I might attend a later meeting," McKeithen said.

"I asked him point blank how See NEW ORLEANS Page 4

Questions About Beckwith Dodged At Hearing On Klan

WASHINGTON (AP)—A motorcycle repairman identified by House investigators as the chief Mississippi recruiter of the Ku Klux Klan refused to say today whether he had signed up the accused slayer of a civil rights leader as a Klan member.

Gordon Mims Lackey, 29, of Greenwood, Miss., invoked the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination when asked if he had recruited Byron de La Beckwith into the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

Tried Twice
Beckwith, also of Greenwood, was tried twice on charges of slaying Medgar W. Evers, a civil rights leader in Jackson, Miss. Both trials ended with the juries failing to reach a verdict.

The chief investigator for the House Committee on Un-American Activities, asked Lackey if he had recruited Beckwith into membership after his second trial.

Lackey refused to answer. He also invoked constitutional grounds when asked if it were true that Lackey, Beckwith and a man named John Winstead painted a black band around a house the owner had hired a Negro to paint.

He declined to answer whether he had told the owner of the house, M. F. White of Greenwood, that White had hired the "wrong nigger" to paint the house.

Dodges Some Issues
Unlike many earlier witnesses, Lackey readily answered some questions. But he refused to talk about Klan activities and he fenced with questioners who called on him to produce Klan documents in his custody or control.

Instead of declining under the Fifth Amendment, as most other witnesses have done, he replied that he did not have custody or control of such documents.

City Residents Laud Talk But Show Concern On War

Sentiment in Lubbock apparently favored many of President Johnson's plans on domestic and foreign policy fronts following his third State of the Union message Wednesday, but some residents expressed disappointment that he did not adopt a "tougher" outlook on the Viet Nam situation.

A "hit-and-miss" survey conducted by The Avalanche-Journal also indicated that the majority of his "Great Society" plans were well-received, although one city resident said the president was advocating a "Socialistic" package.

Soup Suppers for Frosty Nights

FOOD
 Lubbock Avalanche Journal
 THURSDAY, JANUARY 13, 1966

GUEST SUPPER — Steaming soup and homemade hot breads make happy partners for a simple but elegant Sunday supper. Creamy shrimp soup prepared with chopped cooked spinach can be ladled from an attractive tureen into pewter or pottery mugs for serving. The contrasting colors of the cloth and napkins contribute to the dramatic setting. Each napkin is placed through a mug handle. To complete the supper include a green bean salad and a homemade dessert.

Steaming Soups Win Acceptance

JOY PENROD, Food Editor

There is nothing quite so welcome when the temperature dips to frosty lows than a hearty, hot bowl of soup. It's a frequent basic choice for family meals but it can be a tasty treasure for company.

Even the home cook who claims she has no talent for soupmaking has little excuse in not creating an appealing blend. She can start with any of the convenience combinations and vary them to please her taste desires. An important point to keep in mind, however, is never to boil soup because this impairs the flavor. Heat it gradually to the simmering point and simmer slowly for the required cooking time.

Although substantial soups are excellent for the family, guests will enjoy this informal dish for lunch or supper. With it serve appealing breads and salads.

Soup can be elegant when served, as the accompanying pictures prove. Handsome accessories turn the trick. Choose a creamy shrimp soup, flavored with a dash of nutmeg and garnished with crisp green spinach, along with assorted hot bread sticks, twists and scones and you'll be amazed at the response from guests. This supper requires only a green bean salad and a homemade dessert to round out the menu.

Creamy Shrimp Soup

1 can (10 ounces) frozen condensed cream of shrimp soup
 1 soup can milk
 1/2 cup chopped cooked spinach
 Nutmeg

Combine soup, milk and spinach in saucepan. Heat, stirring now and then. Do not boil. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Makes two to three servings.

Chicken Cheese Soup

1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
 1 soup can water
 1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
 1/2 to 1 teaspoon chopped chives

In saucepan stir cream of chicken soup until smooth. Blend in water and cheese. Heat, stirring often, until cheese melts. Garnish with chives. Makes three servings.

Potato and Asparagus Potage

1 can (10 1/4 ounces) frozen condensed cream of potato soup
 1 soup can milk
 Dash ground nutmeg
 3/4 cup cooked asparagus pieces (about 1/2 inch long)

Combine soup, milk and nutmeg in saucepan. Heat until soup thaws; stir now and then. Add asparagus; heat. Makes three servings.

Four Dimension Salad Shrimp Squares

1 package lemon gelatin
 1 cup hot water
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
 1/8 teaspoon pepper
 1 tablespoon vinegar
 1/2 cup cold water
 Cooked shrimp, cut in 1/2 inch pieces (about 1 cup)
 1 medium avocado, diced

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add seasonings and cold water. Pour into 8 by 4 inch loaf pan. Chill until slightly thickened. Then arrange small groups of cut shrimp and diced avocado, one inch apart in the thickened gelatin. Chill until firm. Cut in one inch squares. Arrange on top of tossed ingredients such as grapefruit sections, diced tomatoes, thin strips of cheddar cheese, ripe olives, chopped green onions, and salad greens. Dress with a garlic flavored salad dressing.

SOUP AND SALAD SUPPER—When homemade bread, delicate chicken-cheese soup and a combination gelatin and tossed salad are served, most appetites are satisfied. Shredded cheddar cheese is blended in a condensed cream of chicken soup and garnished with chopped chives for the hot dish. The salad features shrimp gelatin squares arranged on top of tossed ingredients including grapefruit sections, diced tomatoes, thin strips of cheddar cheese, ripe olives, chopped green onions and salad greens. A garlic salad dressing is mixed with the ingredients.

President Outlines Plans To Pay For Guns, Butter

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Probably no president ever has avowed more firmly the policy of guns with butter.

"We will not permit those who fire on us in Viet Nam to win a victory over the desires and intentions of the American people," President Johnson promised Congress Wednesday night.

But there were strong hints in the next 5,000 words of his State of the Union message, that — as far as federal spending goes — the country will get a lot more guns and only slightly more butter.

Johnson made clear his view that, while the nation can afford a record $112.8 billion budget in fiscal 1967, it cannot afford the costlier spread called inflation.

Elaborate Plan
So if it was a guns-and-butter message, it also was an anti-inflation message — an elaborate piece of legislation for keeping prices in reasonable restraint while waging a war, without sacrificing home-front progress and without imposing a general tax increase which might precipitate a recession.

To prevent an overheating of the economy in the military buildup phase of 1966, Johnson proposed some fiscal fire extinguishers.

One is an apparently rigorous slowdown on domestic spending. He said that while the outlays for Viet Nam will climb another $5.8 billion next year, all other federal spending will rise only $800 million.

Johnson reassured those who feared that his "Great Society" programs would come under the ax, saying "I believe we can continue the Great Society while we fight in Viet Nam." But some programs, he admitted, will suffer — "because of Viet Nam, we cannot do all we should, or all we would like to do."

Pressure Of Arms
Whatever his budget cuts may prove to be, they cannot cushion the strongly inflationary pressure of an arms program on top of a boom.

So Johnson called also for three special tax actions — quickie, one-shot doses of anti-inflation medicine, to cool the spending fever of industry and consumers during the build-up period.

1. Rescind temporarily the telephone and auto excise tax cuts that took effect 13 days ago.

2. Alter the income tax withholding system. Instead of withholding 14 per cent from all paychecks, scale the rate up to, say 20 per cent, for higher-paid taxpayers.

3. Speed up corporation tax payments — not increasing the amount to be paid, but collecting more of it in 1966.

Net result: $4.3 billion removed from the spending stream.

Will Ease Off
And eventually, the military spending will ease off. Well before the end of fiscal 1967, the government actually will be in the deflationary posture of talking more money out of the public's pockets than it puts in.

The plan will work, Johnson

Trustee Indicted By Grand Jury

HOUSTON (AP)—The Harris County Grand Jury has indicted Houston School Board trustee Asberry B. Butler Jr. for subordination of perjury.

Butler, 32, a Houston attorney, already is under two felony indictments.

The indictment returned Wednesday accused Butler of perjury in a felony drunk driving case in criminal district court Oct. 13, 1965.

Butler denied the charges and told newsmen political enemies are "out to get me."

He was indicted for felony theft by pretext Nov. 24 and again on Dec. 14. Both indictments accuse him of illegally obtaining money from insurance companies. He was released on bond.

The new indictment was returned to Criminal Dist. Judge E. B. Duggan, who set a $1,000 appearance bond for Butler.

Natural Gas Benefits During Blackout Cited

HOUSTON (AP)—A pipeline firm executive says natural gas total energy projects demonstrated spectacularly their effectiveness during the November power blackout in New York.

E. Clyde McGraw, president of the Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp., said Rockdale Village in Jamaica, Queens and Warbase Houses, a large apartment project in the Coney Island section of Brooklyn, have natural gas-fueled total energy installations. Gas generates all the electricity for all the electric needs and provides steam for heating, cooling and hot water.

"These areas were like beacons in the darkness," McGraw said Wednesday in a speech before the natural gas men of Houston.

McGraw said "scary statements hinting at an impending shortage of gas supply" can hurt the natural gas industry in its battle for additional markets. He said such statements are not going to encourage demand and "the lessening of demand can only further weaken prices."

McGraw suggested a "positive approach by all segments of the industry—including producers—to strengthen public confidence and encourage use of natural gas."

He said natural gas now is

CELL RESEARCH

Scientist Finds Octopuses Have Long Memories

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—There are, of course, memorable octopuses — such as those seen in horror movies — but now, alas, comes an octopus with a memory.

And, according to Dr. John Z. Young, it's a most important memory — both for octopuses and people.

Young, professor of human anatomy at University College, London, said Wednesday he has discovered that the brain — of an octopus, at least — has two kinds of cells instead of only one type.

The newly discovered cells, found with the aid of an electron microscope, apparently secrete a substance that prevents repetition of harmful acts, Young said.

So, there's a memory, be it ever so primitive.

The British scientist, speaking at a conference at the California Institute of Technology, said he was certain the newly found cells exist in the brains of all animals, including man.

He said that the special cells give off an enzyme that blocks the passage of signals through other cells when those signals would tell the body to do something the brain has learned is harmful.

Young said he discovered the existence of the cells and the message-blocking enzyme while studying an octopus to see how it learns when to attack and when to retreat from a strange object.

And why pick on the octopus? "All memory systems depend on making choices among alternatives. The reason we study how these choices are made by octopuses and other relatively simple creatures is that we can keep the choices simple and study the reactions more easily," he said.

"They have to be fast learners. In nature they don't get many opportunities to choose wrong."

told Congress, "If you approve every program I recommend."

There's the catch. Will Congress be willing to revamp the whole tax withholding system for a negligible and temporary revenue gain? Will it renege on the excise cuts and change the tax rules for industry?

Quite probably not. But Johnson has served notice: If his plan doesn't work, he'll come back for something more drastic — more military appropriations and a real tax increase.

That Girl on Broadway says let's hope they're taking special precautions to make sure Fidel Castro doesn't slip on board one of those refugee planes to Miami.

The wise parent knows that in order to bring up a child properly, it sometimes is necessary to take him down a peg or two.

Trying to run away from your troubles is about as sensible as trying to run away from your shadow.

IN A FEW weeks now, men—and a few women—will be campaigning across Texas for seats in the State Senate and House of Representatives. They probably won't say much about it, but those candidates in the know will have lurking in their minds a disconcerting thought, to wit:

The Legislative Session beginning in January, 1967, likely will bring forth the longest and hottest battle in years on a tired, old issue: Wet vs. Dry.

Offered, debated and fought will be a state of bills aimed at junking Texas' incongruous and outmoded laws governing the sale and consumption of alcoholic beverages.

The principal effort, no doubt, will be toward removing the State from the list of 10 which do not permit sale of alcoholic beverages by the drink.

How it will turn out, nobody but nobody knows. However, it's an odds-on bet that the struggle will be one of the bitterest and the most "all out" in many years.

SOMETHING LIKE eight years ago now, during a Wet vs. Dry battle in the Mississippi State Legislature, a Senator whose name now is lost in antiquity, made a speech on the subject, with all his colleagues listening.

At the time, the wire services moved quite a lengthy story on the event, reproducing the speech in full. It was a lulu, one which well might have been made in the Texas Senate, since Mississippi's approach to the liquor question as a whole is just about as impractical, as insincere and as hypocritical as that of Texas.

I'd forgotten all about the story and the speech until just a week or so back, when it was reprinted in the Wall Street Journal. But on reading it, I discovered it was as applicable today, and will be as applicable in 1967 as it was when it first was enunciated.

It reflects the attitude not only of the average politician all over the U.S., but, in addition, that of what I suspect is an amazing proportion of the citizenry in general.

FOR THE benefit of candidates for the Legislature, and for the people who will vote on them, as well, the Mississippi Senator's speech is herewith reproduced. It is recommended that citizens of both the wet and dry persuasion clip it out for reference a little over a year from now, just to use as proof of the old adage that "times change, but people (and especially politicians) do not."

It goes like this, the Mississippi Senator speaking:

You have asked me how I feel about whisky. All right, here is just how I stand on this question:

"If, when you say whisky, you mean the devil's brew, the poison scourge, the bloody monster that defiles innocence, yea, literally takes the bread from the mouths of little children, if you mean the evil drink that topples the Christian man and woman from the pinnacles of righteousness, gracious living into the bottomless pit of degradation and despair, shame and helplessness and hopelessness, then certainly I am against it with all of my power."

"But, if you when you say whisky, you mean the oil of conversation, the philosophic wine, the stuff that is consumed when good fellows get together, that puts a song in their hearts and laughter on their lips and the warm glow of contentment in their eyes, if you mean Christmas cheer, if you mean the stimulating drink that puts the spring in the old gentleman's step on a frosty morning, if you mean the drink that enables a man to magnify his joy, and his happiness, and to forget, if only for a little while, life's great tragedies and heartbreaks and sorrows, if you mean that drink, the sale of which pours into our treasuries untold millions of dollars, which are used to provide tender care for our little crippled children, our blind, our deaf, our dumb, our pitiful aged and infirm, to build highways, hospitals and schools, then certainly I am in favor of it."

"This is my stand. I will not retreat from it; I will not compromise."

Don't laugh too much at the old boy. This country long has been and still is chock full of people both in and out of office whose position on the Wet vs. Dry issue is fully as staunch and uncompromising.

The fellow who first called it the "easy payment plan" had a peculiar idea of what is easy.

That Man on Avenue Q says a small town may have its problems with stray dogs, but it doesn't have to worry about smog control.

Adverse weather conditions never damage the sucker crop.

WHEN A READER complained to him that there is no mountain—hence no ski slope—in the Panhandle, Editor Thomas Thompson, of the Amarillo Globe-Times, answered that since the Panhandle now has a Canadian Dam, it might be no more than a matter of time until it can get a mountain.

Mr. Thompson was writing tongue-in-cheek, of course, yet the suggestion quite possibly may arouse some vague fears in the hearts of taxpayers.

If the "Great Society" happens to notice the item, it might start building mountains everywhere they ain't, including the Panhandle!

BILLY GRAHAM:

My Answer

QUESTION: When the Bible uses the word "heart," for example, "The Lord looketh on the heart," does this mean the physical organ that pumps blood through our bodies, or does it mean our minds or the soul? L. B.

ANSWER: When the Bible employs the word heart in the manner quoted, it does not refer to the physical organ, but to the center of our whole being, and the seat of our affections. The word "spirit" could be properly substituted in most instances where it occurs in the Bible, without changing the meaning, or doing violence to the Scriptural content.

Just as did the ancients, we use the word heart today in the same sense. We speak of a change of heart, to lose heart, having a tender heart, and as was used in a recent political campaign, "in your heart you know he's right."

Probably the reason why we use the word heart for spirit is that when the physical organ stops functioning, the spirit is released from the body, and the spirit has no vehicle through which to manifest itself. In our vernacular, the word soul is used interchangeably with heart, also. But in any case, the word heart as employed to describe the center of man's affections does not refer to the physical organ, but to the soul, the spirit, to the inner man.

ALLEN & SCOTT:
14-B Repeal Held Back

WASHINGTON—The first major legislative casualty of the intensifying Viet Nam war apparently is labor's demand for repeal of Section 14-B permitting states to enact right-to-work laws.

Although the AFL-CIO's priority proposal is still not being rated as "dead" for this session of Congress, its prospects are drastically dimmed by the contemplated high-powered drive to put through President Johnson's $13 billion emergency Viet Nam appropriation.

IN CONFERENCES here this week, members of the AFL-CIO Executive Committee are being frankly told their No. 1 legislative proposal will not be the first order of Senate business as originally planned.

Instead, the controversial 14-B repealer is being sidetracked to clear the way for immediate consideration of the huge Viet Nam fund bill to avoid delay in winning Congressional approval of it.

THIS BACKSTAGE strategy, worked out by White House, Labor and Democratic congressional leaders, calls for cannonballing the emergency money measure through both the House and Senate before the legislators take up the controversial domestic legislation.

According to word Congressional leaders are passing to colleagues, AFL-CIO chiefs bowed to this unannounced strategy for two compelling reasons.

The union leaders' fear that a prolonged debate over 14-B would block action on war funds and backfire against their repeal efforts; private polls showing that the pro-labor forces in the Senate lack the votes to force an early showdown on this issue.

LABOR AND Administration leaders are privately saying they can muster only 55 votes to cut off Senate debate. 11 short of the 66 needed to compel a vote on repealing 14-B.

In December the AFL-CIO launched a $1 million publicity campaign in newspaper and TV ads to present the argument that the real issue in the 14-B battle is the right of the Senate to vote.

As the drive has made little evident headway, the labor leaders propose to use the interval required to pass the emergency Viet Nam funds to "build up a new head of steam" behind their stalemated measure.

WITH DEMOCRATIC congressional leaders hoping to adjourn by August 15 so members up for election can campaign, every delay in bringing up 14-B reduces its chances for passage this year.

Freshman Democrats, who helped edge the measure through the House last year, already are urging the White House to shelve the controversial labor issue.

They point out that if a full-scale Senate debate takes place, the bill will become a major issue in their election contests and could cost a number of them, particularly from rural areas, their closely-won seats.

SEN. EDWARD Kennedy (D-Mass.) is submitting his own legislative program to the Senate. He will propose new civil rights, crime, social security, education and refugee legislation that has been prepared for him since last year's session of Congress.

Quietly working behind the scenes with several Kennedy holdovers in the Johnson Administration, the youngest Kennedy plans to seek national prominence by calling for establishment of a Criminal Justice Academy.

UNDER THIS proposal, scholarships would be granted by the Government to outstanding law graduates to study methods of improving the administration of Federal and state judicial procedures and protecting civil liberties.

Kennedy, who is a member of the Judiciary Committee, plans to make a speech urging enactment of legislation to safeguard civil rights workers and to insure Negroes the right to serve on state as well as Federal juries.

While Sen. Robert Kennedy (D-N.Y.) will seek the leadership of youths throughout the country, his brother "Teddy" Kennedy, in proposing new social legislation, will bid to become the leader among the millions of elderly persons in the country.

AS A STARTER he will sponsor legislation for a guaranteed income for all persons 70 or over regardless of whether they are under Social Security. This is one of United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther's pet schemes.

Kennedy also hopes to improve his liberal image by waging a vigorous fight for Federal funds for the National Teachers Corps, which he co-sponsored last year. Congress authorized the establishment of this body, but balked at voting funds so teachers could be recruited to work in poverty-stricken areas.

IN THE FIELD of foreign affairs, Kennedy will move more cautiously than his brother "Bobby," who has made headlines with his disarmament and peace concepts.

Teddy's main concern will center on helping Vietnamese and Cuban refugees.

Legislative aides of the Massachusetts senator say he will seek legislation to permit Cuban refugees to become U. S. citizens after a brief waiting period.

Backstage efforts by young Kennedy last year to achieve this privilege for Cuban refugees were rebuffed by House-Senate conferees during the final consideration of President Johnson's immigration measure.

IN A MANEUVER to improve his relations with Speaker John McCormack (D-Mass.), Kennedy is "letting Democratic leaders know that he will keep hands off the governorship race. The contest will pit Edward McCormack, the Speaker's nephew, against former White House Aide Kennedy O'Donnell, long-time friend of the Kennedy family.

Kennedy is assuring young McCormack, whom he soundly defeated for the Senate in 1962, that he will support the victor at the party's nomination convention in the Spring.

This political olive branch is viewed by McCormack adherents as an effort by Kennedy to keep them from committing themselves to Vice President Hubert Humphrey in the future.

It was different in the old days. A man wasn't accustomed to eating his breakfast on the run.

Job had patience but he never received a bill with 5 cents postage due.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Highway Use Reforms Urged

"GRASSROOTS ACTION" is what Ocie Hunt of Sweetwater, Nolan County Democratic Party Chairman, wants taken on Texas' highway slaughter.

Along with it, Mr. Hunt would like to stir renewed public interest in an "experience rating" system to replace the State's present automobile insurance rating by "class." He would like for the "grassroots" to be Democratic, so he has mailed a letter to all 254 county chairmen of the party urging a completely new drivers' license law and a new statute to correct the rating situation under which "the good drivers pay the losses of the bad drivers."

The hope is that enough resolutions will come out of the Spring precinct and county conventions to assure inclusion of the proposals in the next platform of the Texas party. If, indeed, that will mean anything.

As for the killing and maiming of motorists, Mr. Hunt correctly notes that "the people themselves have never made up their minds to put a stop to it. It is now time to do something effective about it."

His recommendations include several drastic steps which the State's lawmakers, perhaps sensing public indifference, have never been willing to take. He would make it a jailable offense for any person to drive an automobile without a driver's license. Any person found guilty of driving while intoxicated would be fined, and lose his license for six months, as at present, but on second offense would be "grounded for life." Violations such as running a stop sign or signal lights, passing cars uphill, or other "accident making" acts, would be punished by suspension of license for from ten days to six months.

Any person involved in an accident, whether judged at fault or not, would have to take a physical and technical examination within a reasonable time, or be subject to suspension of license. This, Mr. Hunt contends, would weed out many a dangerous driver.

His new rating law would be based on present rates. However, if the driver had no accidents and no traffic violations during the first year, he would get ten per cent taken off his next year's premium, and could get another ten per cent off for two more years. For each violation and each accident, he would be charged fifteen per cent penalty for the year following. This also would continue for three years.

An inclosure in the Hunt letter gives samples from "Texas Roundup," a compilation of names and addresses of persons whose licenses have been suspended, issued monthly by the Department of Public Safety. The number of persons on the list who did not have a valid driver's license at time of apprehension, or who had never had a driver's license in their lives, would be startling except that everyone knows about the many thousands of driver's license violators who remain uncaught.

Just as we know about the thousands of drivers who never worry about insurance until they run afoul of the financial responsibility law.

If Mr. Hunt's proposals can stir some interest among the electorate, well and good.

VICTOR RIESEL:

"Right-To-Work Law" Repeal Chance Lost In The Subways

WASHINGTON—'Twas the morning after the Christmas week holidays and in the White House the President got the telephones ringing early—especially to Labor Secretary Wirtz.

It was about a matter of stalled subways, not usually on the President's own dawn patrol.

Why this special interest in the big city's weirdly quiet underground? The answer, according to some of his associates, is in the fact that Mr. Johnson makes a fetish of keeping his promises. He keeps them on a sort of timetable. And the subway strike was disrupting his schedule of strategy.

THE PRESIDENT, in private and public letters, in secret and broadcast telephone talks, and in personal conversation had pledged labor he would fight hard for repeal of the law which permits states to ban the union shop and dues check-off.

With the President, everything was timing. Here it was the morning of Jan. 3, and Mike Quill's long needle and paralyzed New York. Fortunately, for labor, Congress had decided to reconvene on the 10th and not the 3rd—or right then and there, there would have been roars for tough no-strike laws. So the President wanted to learn from his labor adviser just how critical conditions were in New York City.

LAST YEAR, President Johnson had delayed making the fight to repeal 14-B early in the session because of the 44-day multi-million-dollar waterfront strike. The steel labor crisis did not ease matters, either. So he held off until the end of the session.

Now, a year later, Mike Quill roared in with a frank public-be-damned, let the streets be jammed, pray for a blizzard, transit strike.

IN THE DAYS which followed the first phone call to Bill Wirtz, the President reportedly agreed with the sentiments of one of the nation's most famous labor leaders. The latter said in strong prose, hardly weakened by mixed metaphors:

"This strike is far more than a transit tie-up. It is more a calamity to labor in the long run than to the public."

SYLVIA PORTER:
Career Gap Is Critical

THE HEALTH SERVICES of our country now offer you one of the brightest career areas of all—and this goes whether you're young or old, a man or woman, trained or untrained. Millions of additional workers will be needed in the years ahead to fill critical manpower shortages in literally hundreds of health fields. There is no doubt whatsoever that employment opportunities in this sphere will soar along with our demands for the best and latest in health care.

The shortages in health personnel range across the board—cover physicians and surgeons, hospital orderlies and cooks, physical therapists and dental hygienists, blood bank workers and medical librarians, social workers and teachers for medical and nursing schools. The estimate is that, right now, an additional one million workers are needed.

HOW, THEN, can the career gap be narrowed? The first session of the 89th Congress voted record totals of dollars for the entire field of health—above and beyond the historic Medicare law and the new funds for medical research.

In addition, the last Congressional session voted almost $2 billion to build, expand and improve medical nursing and dentistry schools; to improve and expand medical and nurse teacher training; to build and improve medical libraries and community mental health centers; to provide student loans and scholarships.

THE SHORTAGE of physicians will be relieved by a new system of Federal scholarships which will enable many lower-income students to get medical training. It now costs $20,000 to $30,000 for pre-med and medical school training—obviously a prohibitive sum for all but the highest income brackets.

The shortage of nurses will be cut by the Federal Nurse Training Act of 1964, authorizing funds for training facilities, teacher training and student loans. It will be alleviated by the Vocational Education Act of 1963, making funds available to the states to set up and expand two-year nurse training programs.

BUT THERE must be much more than these commendable Federal efforts. For instance our high schools, junior colleges and four-year colleges must develop many more courses and facilities to educate and train health workers—particularly in fields requiring five years or less of specialized training.

We must break down the traditional barriers which tend to discourage women from becoming physicians and men from becoming nurses. We will have to hike salaries in a long list of health occupations.

WE MUST MINE new sources of medical manpower. Large numbers of the "poor" today could, with financial assistance, be trained for subprofessional health jobs. Many elderly men and women, largely snubbed by the labor market and pushed into early retirement to make way for younger workers—could be attracted to perform meaningful tasks in the health field.

This will become clearly apparent when the Medicare law goes into effect in July. Many women—especially middle-aged wives returning to the labor force after their children have left the nest—could become excellent health workers. A full half of all new entrants into the labor force in the decade ahead will be women.

OF COURSE, all of this will demand a drastic revision in thinking by schools, counselors and the men and women workers themselves. It will call for much greater opportunities for training, retraining and for upgrading the skills of women returning to the work force in their middle years. It will require a new attitude toward part-time work in the health fields.

Narrowing the career gap in the health services will be exceedingly costly. But what will be the cost to you and me of not ending the critical shortages? The cost easily could be our lives.

AS DEMAND INCREASES

Cost Of Borrowing Money Is Still Creeping Higher

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The cost of borrowing is still creeping higher as the demand for loans rises at both consumer and business levels.

One result is that the return on long-term bonds also is higher of late and well above the yield from most of the popular common stocks.

Another result of increased interest rates and greater loan demand is that many of the nation's banks are enjoying more business. And early reports show their profits up smartly from a year ago.

A Third Result
A third result is that the U.S. Treasury is paying more to lenders and is all but frozen out of the long-term bond market where there is a legal ceiling of 4 1/2 per cent on the interest it can offer. The Treasury's short-term securities, this year may hit $13 billion.

The volume of bank loans to business has risen sharply since last summer. Demand for funds is spurred by increased business activity as well as by plans to expand plants and buy new equipment. The cost of borrowing has gone up in recent weeks, as business customers discover when they go back to their bank for a new loan.

Consumer credit also is in a new growth stage. The more affluent society becomes the more confident consumers are of their ability to handle more installment debt. They are estimated to have taken on $74 billion of such debt last year, and to have made monthly repayments totalling about $67 billion, as they reduced old commitments. At the end of the year perhaps $66 billion of installment credit was still outstanding, compared with $59 billion a year earlier.

Some high-grade corporate bonds now yield around 5 per cent. Their interest rate often is fixed below 5 per cent, but the market price of many of them has dropped to a level that gives today's buyers a 5 per cent return. High-grade municipal bonds are yielding about 3.6 per cent but are popular as offering a return free of federal income taxes.

Corporate dividends have risen in recent months, but market prices of common stocks have gone up even more. At today's prices the return from many common stocks is well below the yield from high grade bonds. But stock traders tend to look more for price increases in the stocks of their choice than for the yield, welcome as latter dividend payments are.

Average Yield
The average yield on the latest 13-week issue of U.S. Treasury bills is close to 4 1/2 per cent, and for 26-week bills it is above 4 1/2 per cent. These are favorites of banks, other financial institutions and large corporations eager to put idle money to work for short periods.

But of late, well-heeled individuals also have been buying more marketable Treasury issues of intermediate length. These, unlike U.S. Savings bonds, can be bought and sold daily. At today's prices these securities yield much more than does the savings bond, still pegged at 3 per cent when held to maturity.

Several additional classes in bridge are being arranged at Maxey Community Center, according to Mrs. Jim Dailey, director at the center.

IN NEWLY CREATED DISTRICT

State Rep. Delwin Jones Announces For Re-Election

State Rep. Delwin L. Jones announced Wednesday he will seek re-election in the newly created District 77-F which includes Lubbock and Crosby Counties.

The 40-year-old farmer now holds one of three Lubbock County seats in the state Legislature but, under the new redistricting plan, Crosby County was added to one of the places.

Jones' decision to seek that spot makes him the first candidate in the new district.

During the 59th Legislature, Jones served on five committees, including the important Appropriations Committee on which he became a key man in working out a compromise pay plan for the state's teachers.

Sponsored Court Bill
Jones now is one of three House members on a committee which will hold 12 regional meetings this year in working out recommendations for new agricultural laws in 1967.

During his first term, the Lubbock resident also sponsored the House bill creating a new district court here and he co-sponsored the bill for a new medical school at Texas Tech, which subsequently was vetoed by Gov. John Connally.

Jones also worked for the $2 million-plus appropriation for construction of the proposed State School for the retarded in Lubbock and for the $275,000 bond issue for weevil control allocation.

A graduate of Lubbock schools, Jones served in the U.S. Air Force during World War II. He is past-president of the Caprock American Business Club here, was a charter member of the Plains Cotton Growers and has served on several other church and civic organizations.

He and his wife, one son and a daughter reside at 2129 54th St.

Surprise Menus Are Possible In New Cookbooks

This is the time of year to browse in the book shops for a fine new cookbook for yourself, or to give to a good friend. Nothing could be more personal than a cookbook.

A cookbook should fit the needs of the person for whom you are buying so a little time should be spent in choosing the books, whether for yourself or for the friend. What would be a delightful choice for one person probably would be wasted on another. So the best thing is to know the eating habits or know whether the person has a collection of cookbooks before shopping.

Among the old and new treasured cookbooks on the shelves today is a new edition of "The Settlement Cookbook," recipes of more than six decades. The first Settlement Cookbook was published in 1901. This has been revised, enlarged and newly organized. Other editions have sold more than a million and a half copies.

For Every Occasion
Settlement Cookbook would be ideal for the young homemaker. It has a wealth of information not usually found in specialized cookbooks. It boasts more than 3,000 superb recipes and has everything from savory pot roast to fancy chicken dishes. There are 28 pages of new menus for every occasion from brunch to buffet and company dinners without help. A guide to cheeses, wines, herb and spice charts and chapters on entertaining, marketing and housekeeping make it a complete book.

Published by Simon and Schuster, the regular edition is $5.95 and the deluxe edition is $10.

Don't overlook the specialized cookbooks while browsing. These are the additions which add verve to any entertaining or surprise the family. Just such a book is "Wonderful, Wonderful Danish Cooking." You don't have to be Danish to love this cookbook. You just have to enjoy good food.

The first half of the book is a collection of old heritage recipes for real Danish pastries and coffee cakes, cookies and dessert cakes. The second half of the book contains tried and true recipes for simple family meals with a Danish flair.

The author, Ingeborg Dahl Jensen, a Middlewesterner, was born in Denmark and trained in the Danish way of cooking. She has assembled 500 specialties that Americans love to eat in this one book with an introduction by Victor Berge—who admits he must curb his Danish appetite to get into his concert apparel for another year.

Simon and Schuster are the publishers and the price is $6.95.
