HEADS GOP CLUB Political Leader Is Doorman

NEW YORK (AP)—The Ivy Republican Club on the fashionable upper East Side has re-elected Peter Grippi as its president for a third term.

Today and Thursday, the victorious Mr. Grippi will be relaxing at his place on Mastic Beach, Long Island.

Then he will be back at the plush Sutton Terrace Apartments on East 63rd Street near the East River, opening doors and hailing cabs.

Pete The Doorman

Peter Grippi, 55, the political leader, is also Pete the doorman at the Sutton Terrace Apartments.

He also is a judge at wrestling matches, shop steward of nearly 30 men in the AFL-CIO Building Service Employees Union, onetime auto mechanic, onetime builder and house painter, and onetime Democrat.

When Pete became doorman at Sutton Terrace in 1950 he had some full circle, for the apartment house is only a block away from the building where he was born.

His political career dates back to 1942.

"A friend of mine couldn't get a little favor done," he says.

Wanted $200

The Democratic club told him they wanted $200 to do the favor. So he went to Mr. Malley (Thomas Malley) then and now the Republican leader in the district and got it.

Billions Sought For Plan Rebuilding Of Cities Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson today proposed a $2.3 billion program to rebuild entire slum neighborhoods in American cities.

He said his new "demonstration cities program" would offer qualifying cities of all sizes "the promise of a new life for their people."

The new program, which would pull together all available housing and social efforts, could involve as many as 100,000 people at a time, Johnson said in a special housing message to Congress.

Funds Are Sought

The President also asked Congress for:

—Special "incentive" money for local communities that plan development together with their neighbors.

—A series of demonstrations to test the latest approaches to metropolitan planning. Johnson put a $6.5 million price tag on this.

A law to ban racial discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing.

—Federal aid to "new towns" on the fringes of existing cities.

Radar Jeep Foils Viet Cong Ambush

SAIGON (UPI)—Troops of three heavy bombardments of the U.S. Army's 1st Cavalry Viet Cong positions Tuesday Division used jeep-mounted radar today to foil a Communist ambush on Highway 1 near An North-South Highway 1 South Duong 300 miles northeast of Viet Nam's Highway of Death.

The Navy disclosed the coastal city of Qui Nhon, but were picked up by radar and driven off by armed helicopters.

The Navy reported the 7th Fleet destroyers Shelton Higbee and Ernest G. Small steamed in close to shore and fired a total of 57 rounds of five-inch shells at Viet Cong positions in the Mekong Delta and Central areas of Viet Nam.

The Shelton hurled 250 rounds at enemy supply and ammunition dumps and troop concentrations, destroying 65 structures and damaging 20, sinking two boats and touching off secondary explosions in the coastal areas 10 miles north of Tuy Hoa in the Central Highlands.

The Higbee fired 185 rounds at Viet Cong positions and supply areas in the Mekong Delta, knocking out two buildings and damaging five, destroying one sampan and one small bridge.

The Ernest G. Small fired 138 rounds at Viet Cong strongpoints 10 miles southwest of Ham Tan and about 75 miles east of Saigon. Spotters reported the Viet Cong were firing at the destroyers.

Reported missing were a diamond ring, six necklaces, a special five-year bracelet from a private business, other costume jewelry, movie camera, adding machine, typewriter, vacuum cleaner, and two women's coats.

An Amarillo man, W. E. Hart, reported two hats taken from his car in 800-block 10th Street Tuesday morning. He said he saw a man walking by Lubbock Implement Co. with two hats in his hand and chased the suspect briefly. Employees of the firm told police they recognized the suspect.

Man Charged

Charged this morning with burglary of a motor vehicle was Paul Gee, about 60, of Lubbock. He was sought by police.

Sheriff's deputies said a $500 saddle, belonging to Taylor Knight, 3102 4th St., was reported stolen from Trammell stables south of the city recently.

Man Given Six Years

A six-year penitentiary term was the verdict returned this morning by a jury against Larry Miller, 37, of Lubbock, in the embezzlement of about $6,000 last spring from Southwest Lubbock Little League, Inc.

The trial began in 137th District Court Tuesday morning. The jury deliberated an hour late Tuesday and about 30 minutes today in arriving at the decision returned to Judge James A. Ellis.

Seek New Trial

The defense announced that it would take the allowed 10 days prior to pronouncement of sentence. A motion for a new trial was expected to be filed, officials said.

Miller pleaded guilty to the indictment at the beginning of the proceedings, but, under the law, he may ask for a new trial or even appeal the verdict to the Court of Criminal Appeals, according to officials.

After testimony, the jury first returned a verdict of guilty against Miller in the embezzlement of certain funds on April 13, as alleged in the indictment. Miller had been treasurer of the organization.

A precedent in courts here was set, under the new Texas Code of Criminal Procedure, which allowed further evidence to be presented by both the

Panhandle Shivers In Sub-Zero Cold

AMARILLO (Special)—Two escapeses from the Big Spring State Hospital (mental) were reported still at large this morning.

They are: Juan Rodriguez, 15, of Brownfield; and Richard Chavarria, 22, of Big Spring.

Rodriguez, who had been committed in connection with the shooting of Crosby County Sheriff Fletcher Stark at Crosbyton last July 4, escaped from the hospital here earlier this month, Jan. 8, and was captured one day later.

The Crosby County sheriff's office at Crosbyton notified this morning it had been notified of Rodriguez' second escape.

Search Pressed

Rodriguez and Chavarria reportedly escaped from the hospital about 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in bitter cold weather.

Big Spring officers apprehended one state hospital escapee here at 8:40 p.m. Tuesday on U.S. Hwy. 87, but, as it turned out, he had not even been reported as escaped. He was returned to the hospital.

Big Spring area officers were pressing a search for the pair this morning, but had not been able to find either at mid-morning.

The 15-year-old Rodriguez was ordered committed for an indefinite period to the custody of the Texas Board of Hospitals and Special Schools after a hearing in juvenile court in Lubbock last September.

Shot By Youth

In that hearing, the youth was declared delinquent and mentally defective.

Stark, who still shows effects of his wounds, was shot in the chest at Crosbyton on the night.

Dog Rejected By K-9 Corps Now Is Hero

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A German shepherd reject from the police department canine corps is in line for an award for courage after risking his life to protect his master during a holdup.

The dog, Donar, received bullet wounds in the chest and leg when he leaped at a lone gunman, who was trying Tuesday to rob a food shop owned by the dog's owner, Mrs. Edward Wiley.

Bandit Flee

The bandit escaped with $285 in cash, but no one was injured.

Donar was dropped from the canine corps when he failed the high hurdles test during training. He will be recommended by the Missouri Humane Society for the Stillman Award, society general manager Donald Anthony said. The medal is awarded in recognition of acts of courage by animals.

Dog Praised

Donar was given to the Wileys 10 months ago by their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Mayer.

"I gave Donar to mother and dad for protection here in the store," Mrs. Mayer said. She described the dog as "just marvelous, just like one of the family."

"My 2-year-old feeds him lollipops," she said, but "that dog knows immediately when something is wrong."

Police Trap Went Awry When Informer "Froze"

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Police witnesses gave their official version Tuesday of how they laid an intricate trap for the "mastermind" of a plot to kidnap tire magnate Leonard K. Firestone and how their informer "froze" and also fell in the hall of police bullets.

More disclosures were expected today—the second day of a coroner's inquest into the killings of the two men.

It was revealed Tuesday that five persons originally were in on the kidnap scheme and the victim originally was to have been Woolworth heir Lance Reventlow, son of Barbara Hutton.

Exploded In Violence

Police described how the trap to capture Cal Bailey, 44, and George Skalla, 25, the informer, exploded in violence. Officers said Bailey, who wore a hallo-ween-mask, drew his gun on a detective and Skalla, who was supposed to drop to the floor at any hint of gunplay. But, police said, Skalla "froze" so badly he, too, was slain.

Lubbock Group Reports Successes In Laying Trade Groundwork In Mexico

By ESPERANCE W. MCGARRY
MEXICO CITY (UPI)—The 22-member Lubbock International trade mission splits its forces today and heads for the flatlands of northern Mexico similar to the Texas South Plains.

Mexico and the High Plains of West Texas. Part of the team was scheduled to fly to Torreon, and the other part to Monterrey. Torreon is the central point for the cotton-growing area of La Laguna, an area similar to the region around Lubbock. Monterrey is the industrial hub of northern Mexico. The mission, the first Texas group to journey abroad under a U.S. Department of Commerce program to remedy the balance of payments by stepping up foreign trade, arrived in Mexico City Saturday.

"We have accomplished a great deal here," said Robert L. Reinhardt, head of the group. Among the accomplishments cited by the traveling Texans was a proposal to establish a branch of a Lubbock manufacturing firm in Mexico, a plan to increase the number of Mexican students at Texas Tech, and the possibility of bringing the Mexican folklore ballet to Lubbock.

Reinhardt, general manager of the Hancock Manufacturing Co. of Lubbock, makers of bulldozers and road scrapers, said he made progress while here toward setting up a Hancock branch factory in Mexico. He discussed the venture with Mexican businessmen who would be partners in the plant, he said, but so far no definite decision has been made.

"The factory would probably be located in Monterrey, for the availability of steel there," he said.

WOULD ONLY RESULT IN NEW COLD WAR STALEMATE

UN Debate On Viet Nam Conflict Thought Inadvisable

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—(UPI)—Allied, neutral and Communist powers have advised the United Nations that a U.N. debate on the Viet Nam war would paralyze peace efforts, diplomatic sources said today.

Reported feelers by U. S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg and Secretary General Thant since last July have brought a reaffirmed consensus that a Security Council debate on Viet Nam would freeze positions on the Viet Nam issue.

The Soviet Union was said to share this opinion which was held also by Britain, France and Nationalist China, the other three members of the council.

Cold War Debate

Diplomatic feeling was that raising the Viet Nam issue in the council would merely result in a new cold war debate which could hamper other steps in President Johnson's worldwide peace offensive which still are going on. The sources could not explain what steps currently are taking place.

This, in essence, was said to be what Goldberg explained Tuesday in Washington to about 70 Democratic congressmen, members of a group who wrote Johnson last week asking him "to formally request the United Nations to seek an effective cease-fire" in Viet Nam.

Johnson replied that "you can be assured that he (Goldberg) and I are firmly determined to make every possible use of the United Nations in moving toward peace and toward an effective cease-fire as part of that purpose."

Diplomatic sources said Goldberg and Thant first began sounding out sentiment for a council debate shortly after the former Supreme Court justice became permanent U. S. representative here last July.

Feelers Repeated

The feelers have been repeated since, the sources said, and each time the consensus has been that the result would be little more than a propaganda war.

But the U. S. position was that Washington wanted to negotiate peace and not waste time in the process scoring debating points here.

The sources said Goldberg carried out his last round of diplomatic sounding shortly before going to Washington Tuesday to talk to the Democrats.

He told them, the sources said, that the United States, like any other U.N. member, could bring any issue before the council but that the time was not ripe for such a move which would harm the general peace effort.

Goldberg's intimates said he had made several quick trips to Washington to consult a number of congressional leaders, including Sens. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., and Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., before his closed door performance before Tuesday's Democratic meeting.

They said the former labor secretary anticipated a similar group meeting with Republicans.

"PAINFUL" EXPERIENCE

Tall, Lanky Jim Hutton Is Getting His Biggest Break In Movie With Cary Grant

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Get me Jack Lemmon!

That's the inevitable cry of producers and directors with a sophisticated comedy script. If they can't get Lemmon they junk the idea or wait until he's available.

It's great for Lemmon, but murder on young movie comedians.

You think not? Name another funny actor who approaches him in the number of top-flight pictures released in recent years.

There aren't many around. Young Bobby Morse is available. So is Bill Bixby and Dick York, but they have become closely associated with television as have Don Adams and Dick Van Dyke, who may yet make it on the big screen.

Hardest Pusher

But the guy who's bucking hardest of all is tall, lanky Jim Hutton, a veteran of 11 movies who is, perhaps, getting his greatest break right now opposite Cary Grant in "Walk Don't Run."

Almost everybody goes to see Grant's pictures, and this time they'll also see young Mr. Hutton.

"This is the funniest and best movie I've ever been in," said Hutton during a lunch break. "I even come on the set when I'm not working, just to watch Cary Grant work. I've been taking a leaf or two from his book."

Hutton's coming role requires him to become a heel and toe walker in the Japanese Olympic Games.

A college athlete, Hutton had to learn the art of the Olympic walk, an event that draws hawks of mirth from spectators. At the starting gun the athletes resemble a collection of guys with bunions jostling one another in pursuit of Jayne Mansfield.

"It took me six weeks to learn how to do the heel and toe with Jack Powell. He was in the Olympics twice and held a couple of world records," Hutton said.

"It's the silliest-looking athletic event I ever saw. After the first workout I couldn't get out of bed the next morning. I was suffering from shin splints. Powell sadistically told me to get out to the beach and toe and heel it up. It worked, but it hurt."

"When we went to Tokyo on location I was instructed by the Japanese coach.

"One day I walked down the Ginza, Tokyo's Broadway, practicing the heel and toe and the people got out of my way like I belonged in a rubber room with no windows.

"But now I'm good enough at it to enter a track meet. I'm confident I could make a pretty good showing, but it should get a lot of laughs in the picture."

And that is precisely what the 6-foot, 4-inch actor seeks.

With luck and the right pictures, the day may not be far off when the moguls below: "Get me Jim Hutton!"

Barnes Talks Briefly With Tech Leaders

Speaker of the House Ben Barnes visited the Texas Tech campus Tuesday afternoon, conferring with President R. C. Goodson, meeting with campus student leaders and chatting with faculty and staff members.

The hulking six-footer, youngest man ever to be elected Speaker, met briefly with Dr. Goodson on problems confronting higher education in Texas, then had coffee with Student Body President Roland Anderson of Fort Worth and a half-dozen other campus leaders.

"Fifty per cent of the people in Texas today," Barnes told the students, "are 26 years of age or younger. I'm concerned that they don't care enough about their government."

"All too often," the Speaker said, "people refer to government as 'they.' They did this, and 'they' did that," he said. "Make no mistake," he said, "it's your government."

Barnes, a University of Texas graduate, recalled visiting the Texas campus a few years ago for a Longhorn-Raider football game. "You'll sure have grown since then," he said, "and you had a real fine football season as well."

MOD Poster Girl To Arrive Here Today

The 25-year-old Hillsboro youngster will be a special guest at the coffee, set at 10 a.m. Thursday in K. N. Clapp party house.

She is due to arrive at Lubbock Municipal Airport at 6:58 p.m. today.

Mrs. Charles Gibson is chairman of the Mother's March, set Jan. 31.

CONSTRUCTION CASE

NEW YORK (AP)—The City Board of Higher Education has approved as a goal a $400 million construction program to make it possible for any city high school graduate in the top quarter of his class to enroll in the City University. The plan would accommodate an expected 74,700 day students by 1975 and 82,600 by 1980. The university now has some 43,000 students enrolled in day sessions.

BY WILLIAM J. EATON... WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sargent Shriver believes the nation's war against poverty without revolutionary changes that would penalize the rich or undermine city hall...

"This organization was not established to promote social change," the director of the Office of Economic Opportunity said. "I don't subscribe to the view that you can't get people out of poverty without changing the social structure..."

No Rigid Rule... Shriver also reaffirmed his controversial policy that the nation and its problems are too diverse to lay down any rigid rule concerning participation by the poor in local anti-poverty campaigns...

The OEO, he told UPI in an interview, will continue to delegate the appropriate ratio on a case-by-case basis in approving funds for new community action programs...

Shriver denied he was trying to downgrade the role of the poor to reduce opposition to anti-poverty projects from mayors of big cities. Some mayors are not participating in anti-poverty projects...

SPEEDY MEASURES TO KEEP LID ON INFLATION

Planned Economy Is Nearing Reality In Washington

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Changing the government's policy from a goal of stimulating a lagging economy to restraining a go-go one isn't always as easy or effective as it sounds. But this time government economists and fiscal experts are using what they call new methods and better understanding of what makes the economy tick.

And they have a big talking point: a five-year record that bears all the outward signs of success.

Action Too Slow
Using tax cuts and pump priming as pep pills has been tried many times before. Using increased tax collections and tighter money as a curb on speculation has, too. In many instances in the past the government action has lagged so far behind the business cycle as to be of little help, and sometimes a hindrance.

One reason has been that the government policy makers got around to it too late. Another was that Congress took too long to make the changes.

The new economists say they are right on the ball now. And Congress may move fast out of respect for the record of the last five years.

Slump Recalled
Five years ago next month the last recession hit bottom. Unemployment was high. A horde of teen-agers plus the inroads of mechanization threatened that more joblessness would be on the way. Industries had overbuilt plant capacity in the middle and late 1950s and much lay idle.

From 1961 to the summer of 1965 the economic and fiscal policies of the government were aimed at building up demand for goods and services and spurring economic growth. More money was pumped into the economy by the government spending than out by tax collections. That is, the Treasury ran a planned deficit without apology. Tax incentives, such as depreciation allowances, led corporations to invest more.

Tax Cuts Cited
In 1964 and 1965 taxes were cut for individuals and corporations. It all added up to more money to spend. And all hands spent more. Business boomed and jobs multiplied.

Inflation was avoided for several reasons: As long as unemployment was high, wage demands were moderate and job security the prime union goal. Idle plant facilities kept competition keen and prices down. Automation meant more units of production per man-hour of labor and held costs down. Consumer demand — and confidence — grew along with the economy but there were still enough goods for everyone to buy.

A change became evident last summer. The economy was expanding faster than any one had expected. Idle plant capacity shrank. The jobless rate dropped. Productivity from new equipment wasn't rising as fast as before. Wholesale prices, long stable, started moving up fast. The consumer price index rose sharply toward the end of 1965. And the buildup in the Viet Nam war foretold increased spending, greater demand for materials that go into both military and civilian products, a callup of more youths at the age they enter the labor force.

Keep Lid On
The economy was boiling up fast under the lid of capacity and supply. The trick was to keep the lid from popping off but at the same time keep the economy just hot enough for everyone's taste.

The new economists say the government can handle this, just as it did the economic stagnation back in 1961. The overall policy will be the same: a prosperous and still expanding economy. The methods will change: restraint rather than stimulation — but just the right amount of restraint.

Next: What steps are government and business taking to make 1966 different?

MEASURE IS FIRST SOUTH OF MASON-DIXON LINE

Kentucky Governor Ready To Sign Civil Rights Bill

By SY RAMSEY FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) Gov. Edward T. Breathitt, adding a touch of drama to Kentucky's new civil rights bill, will sign it Thursday morning at the base of Abraham Lincoln's statue in the Capitol rotunda.

The measure, which glided through the House 76-12 last week, won 36-1 Senate approval Tuesday. By bipartisan agreement, no amendments were offered although a dozen had been prepared.

"All this bill gives the Negro about the bill. 'It's nothing but a hollow fraud,' said Sen. Donald Johnson, R-Alexandria. 'We're giving the Negroes nothing whatsoever.'" approved a fair employment act with provisions identical to the federal act. The entire process of getting the civil rights bill into law was in marked contrast to 1964. Absent over the angry floor debates, an integrationist march of 10,000 on Frankfort and an accompanying hunger strike in the House gallery.

"QUEEN MAKER"

Indian Politician Takes New Title

By CONRAD FINK NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Chief minister of independent Karnataka, Kamraj, long India's "king maker" of Indian politicians, has taken another title, "queen maker." Whatever the reforms that still are considered title, he is one of India's most powerful men.

He speaks only Tamil, a south Indian language as foreign as support to get India's top job, so Gandhi will need it in the months ahead as she tackles the nation's problems.

Kamraj is renowned for his political shrewdness, his complete calm in crisis, and his tendency to evade all hot questions with one word.

OVER WORLD: News About Area Men In Service

Behind Shastri That generally is acknowledged to have been his manipulative and employment of power into Shastri's hands after Jawaharlal Nehru died in 1964.

He and other Congress leaders grew up in the party. He is the political instrument that freed India from British colonialism, as the unifier of independent India — as their vehicle to power.

Kamraj was born 63 years ago into a poor family in a backward part of Madras State, in south India. By the time he was 17, Kamraj had thrown over school and family life to join the party and its independence struggle.

Declined Bride Kamraj declined the bride when he was 18, and today lives a bachelor's life in a rambling tree-shaded home in New Delhi.

He picketed a statue of a British official — an unheard of thing in those days — and demanded its removal. Kamraj got a knock on the head from a police club and distinction within the Congress party.

Sen. C.W.A. McCann, D-Louisville said, "Today, gentlemen, you are making history. You are giving the Negro what he should have had when Lincoln freed him 100 years ago."

"Great Day" "It's a great day for Kentucky," said caucus chairman Martin Duffy, D-Louisville.

Some Republicans, who reluctantly tore up proposed amendments, had second thoughts about the bill.

The bill's fair employment section affects employers of as few as eight persons. The federal version now covers 100.

It grants Negroes access to places not covered in the U.S. act — such as bowling alleys, golf driving ranges, skating rinks, automatic coin laundries, and some taverns without food service.

Exempt under the state bill are barber and beauty shops, private clubs and owner-occupied rooming houses with five or fewer rooms for rent.

The Human Rights Commission, now an advisory group, will administer the law under new investigatory powers. Ultimate enforcement is left to circuit judges with power to fine or

MILITARY FRICTION TO REMAIN

Departure Of Army Chiefs Won't Help Bosch Regime

By ROBERT BERRELEZ
SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — If the Dominican Republic's top military men go abroad, their departure is not expected to lessen the army's opposition to ex-President Juan Bosch and his Dominican Revolutionary party.

In a move to lessen tensions, provisional President Hector Garcia-Godoy ordered top armed forces and rebel officers to diplomatic posts abroad Jan. 6.

Series Of Meetings
The rebel chiefs, headed by Col. Francisco Caamaño Deno, left Jan. 22. The Supreme Armed Forces Council began a series of meetings Monday to decide whether it, too, would comply.

The general expectation is that it will, probably by early next week. Three of the army's four top officers are affected by the order, including the armed forces minister, Commodore Francisco Rivera Caminero.

Rivera Caminero and the man named to succeed him, the navy chief of staff, Commodore Emilio Jimenez, conferred with Garcia-Godoy for 90 minutes Tuesday.

The two officers met later with Ambassador Ellsworth Barker, the U.S. member of the Organization of American States political committee which negotiated an end to the rebellion.

Heavy Pressure

The meetings indicated the military leaders are under heavy pressure to accept Garcia-Godoy's order.

The final decision is up to the general officers who collectively run the armed forces. Since the assassination of dictator Rafael Leonidas Trujillo in 1961, there has been an upsurge of opposition to caudillismo, or bossism, both political and military.

Power in the armed forces passed to the general officers and they have exercised it much like corporation officers. The armed forces minister has acted as chairman of the board and the three chiefs of staff and their subchiefs as directors. The brigade and base commanders are the chief stockholders.

There have been six armed force ministers since the death of Trujillo.

These changes from Trujillo's strong rule have had little, if any, effect on the military's basic structure or orientation.

which, like that of the political parties, is fundamentally one of self preservation.

The army considers Bosch and his party the most serious threat to it. But there is widespread fear that if the military chiefs decide to resist the president's order, violence will ensue, and this might force the OAS and the Inter-American Peace Force to take measures which could mean drastic changes in the armed forces.

THE ALMANAC:

Today In History

Today is Wednesday, Jan. 26, the 26th day of 1966 with 339 to follow.

The moon is between new and first quarter.

No morning star.

The evening stars are Jupiter, Saturn and Mars.

U. S. Supreme Commander of allied forces in the Pacific in World War II, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, was born on this day in 1880.

On this day in history:

In 1837, Michigan joined the Union as the 26th state.

In 1861, Louisiana seceded from the Union.

In 1945, a syndicate headed by Larry McPhail and Dan Topping bought the New York Yankees baseball team for $1 million.

In 1963, Harry Stuhldreher of Notre Dame's famous "Four Horsemen" football backfield died at the age of 67.

A thought for the day: President Grover Cleveland: "Our every voter, as surely as your chief magistrate, exercises a public trust."

CONFUSED SEA

Ship Hit By Storm Limp Into Harbor

By HOWARD H. MASON

BOSTON (AP) — An unusually violent roll, a sudden shift in cargo and a huge freighter was left drifting off Cape Cod with 53 persons aboard, waves breaking over its listing port side.

The South African Victory limped into Boston harbor Tuesday night after a 25-day journey from Capetown, South Africa, interrupted by a coastal storm that left her unable to proceed until the waves subsided.

"It was a very confused and difficult sea," said Capt. George Pool, 37, of Newport, England, 31 hours after he radioed an SOS about 20 miles northeast of the tip of Cape Cod.

Unpleasant Situation

"I never feared the vessel would capsize, but it was a very unpleasant situation," said Pool, a 20-year shipping veteran on his first voyage as captain of the vessel.

Five passengers stood at the rail as tugboats nudged the listing ship to an Army base pier. Among them was Joy Liebrandt, 7, of Capetown, who said: "I was very scared. I'm glad to be here."

The ship, owned by South African Marine Corp. Ltd., left Capetown with a cargo of copper ingots and wool.

"There was no fuss or flap," said Mrs. Philip Liebrandt. She and her husband are on their way to Henderson, N.C., with their daughter and son, Stephen, 4.

Liebrandt, 37, who intends to study for the ministry, said: "I did a lot of praying."

Oil Prospector

The other passenger was Fred Weiserot, 40, a technician from Hackensack, N.J., who had been with an oil prospecting firm in South Africa.

Pool said the only mechanical disablement from the jolt was in a steering engine and that it was corrected within 20 minutes. But he would not proceed while wind-whipped seas of 20 to 40 feet were battering the listing vessel. He partially corrected the list by shifting ballast.

He said he decided to head to Boston Tuesday when the waves fell to about 8 to 10 feet. The trip took 10 hours.

Phillips Services Are Scheduled In Buffalo

Funeral services for Charles Phillips, 69, a retired barber, were to be at 3 p.m. today in the First Baptist Church at Buffalo, Tex., with the Rev. C. M. Lang, pastor, officiating.

Burial was to be in the Liberty Cemetery near Buffalo under direction of Capps Funeral Home of Buffalo.

Phillips was residing at the residence of R. E. Gray, 1520 10th St., at the time of his death.

Phillips was found dead about 12:40 p.m. Monday at his home. Justice of the Peace F. R. Land conducted an inquest and ruled that Phillips died of a heart attack.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Dorothea Webb, Buffalo; a cousin, Vermer Phillips, 2208 37th St., and two sisters.

Winter Fresh Food Available This Weekend

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Weekend shoppers will find a good variety of winter fresh vegetables and meats. Many fruits and vegetables are just coming into the markets from Southern harvests. Meats are in plentiful supply and fish are plentiful.

In many areas beef is a good buy. Roasts, steaks, and ribs lead the list. Bacon and turkeys are the other meat plentiful.

Cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, and celery are spotlighted on the vegetable plentiful list, with lettuce, onions, and potatoes following. Sweet potatoes, tomatoes, and hothouse rhubarb also are listed as good buys for this weekend.

Fruits in good supply include apples, avocados, bananas, grapefruit, oranges, tangerines, and melons in some areas.

Canned red salmon, canned tuna, and fish sticks and portions are in good supply for housewives shopping for fish.

Senator Must Eat Tortillas Quietly

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — State Sen. Tibo Chavez, a Democrat, inquired during a New Mexico Senate session what the Senate rules had to say about a member eating tortillas in the chamber.

He referred to Sen. Matias Chacon, Democrat, who was taking a quick lunch Tuesday during the discussion on Senate reapportionment.

Sen. W.C. Wheatley, another Democrat, president pro tem, said the rules only required that eating of tortillas be done quietly. Tortillas are pancake-like delicacies made of corn flour.

Miami Students May Have To Retake Exams

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The University of Miami freshman class, now enjoying a semester break, may have to take final exams over because someone swiped a copy of the answers.

The school said Tuesday that a professor's office was broken into, copies of exams stolen and then sold for as much as $40 each.

One spokesman said it was impossible to determine how many students got the answers. Students reported the exams were for courses in natural science, social science and humanities — all required freshman courses.

All were multiple-choice questions, designed for computer scoring. Apparently only the natural science material was of value to the exam-peddler. They failed to get the question sheets for the other two courses, and without them the answers were useless.

"The reaction of all the students who take their tests honestly would naturally be, 'This is unfair,' and I'd tend to feel the same way," a university official said. "But, what else can we do?"

Recently we sent a few of our research specialists on a field trip to study the traveling habits of American kids.

They came back exhausted. After following students on trips to colleges, ski-resorts, jazz festivals and various demonstrations (including a demonstration against demonstrations) they reached an inescapable conclusion.

"Kids are traveling more than ever before. You should do something to make it easier for them."

We are taking the advice and announcing a new fare, for kids twelve through twenty-one, that virtually cuts the cost of flying in half.

(This new fare is not to be confused with our regular family fare which applies to all members of the family regardless of age.)

Our new fare goes into effect on January 28. But applications are being accepted now.

All it takes is a trip to a local Braniff office, proof of age and a $3.00 registration fee.

We'll issue an identification card which will entitle you to buy seats at this low rate on our flights in the United States, subject to availability of space at departure time. (Soon the same card will identify you for discounts on hotels and other services.)

It's something every clean-cut American kid should have.

DEFEAT FOR BRITISH PARTY COULD CUT PARLIAMENT MARGIN TO ONE

Labor Government Hangs In Balance Of Special Vote

By LAWRENCE MALKIN
HULL, England (AP) — Two election posters peer out from Mr. and Mrs. Barry Nicholson's third-floor walkup apartment across the street from local Labor party headquarters.

In the living room window, Nicholson's poster reads: "Kevin McNamara — vote Labor." Mrs. Nicholson's poster shouts back from the kitchen window: "Vote Richard Gott — end the war in Viet Nam."

Nicholson, a lab technician at Hull University, told a reporter: "We both like Gott. But I don't like his tactics, and she does. He may bring down the government. We're split."

Could Bring Downfall
The Nicholson's domestic political disagreement, multiplied by only a few hundred of Hull's voters, could indeed bring an end to Britain's Labor government. A Labor defeat in Thursday's special parliamentary election would send Prime Minister Harold Wilson's House of Commons majority down to the absolute minimum of one vote and might force a new general election.

It also would send Conservative morale sky-rocketing after a winter of party feuds.

Henry Selwyns, the Labor member who died last November, wrested the Hull seat from the Conservatives at the last election by a margin of 1,181 votes. That margin now is hanging by a thread, which could be snapped by such imponderables as a snowstorm on polling day, a 15 per cent rise in local property taxes announced only this week, or the immediate resignation of the leader of the Conservative Party, Edward Heath.

Has Quit Party
Gott, 27, a London scientist, has quit the Labor party to run as a candidate of a union called the British Alliance, and he doesn't care if he stays away enough Labor votes to bring Labor down.

He acknowledges a political kinship with the peace demon, finding a sympathetic audience in the United States, among women and the young, and his single platform plank is a protest against Wilson's steps to take against Labor.

HOPES OF BRITAIN'S LABOR PARTY RIDE WITH HIM—Kevin McNamara explains his views to a woman shopper as he campaigns in Hull, England, for Thursday's special Parliamentary election. ### LBJ CHOICE

Nominee Is Fighter For Civil Rights

By Austin Scott
NEW YORK (AP) — When Constance Baker Motley was a high school senior in her home town of New Haven, Conn., her father, a chef, asked why she had already decided to become a lawyer.

"The law is difficult," she replied, "and I want to do something that's difficult."
She certainly did. Most of Mrs. Motley's adult years have been spent in the eye of one legal hurricane or another, and her selection by President Johnson Tuesday to be a federal district court judge is not likely to ease her burden.

First To Get Post
She is believed to be the first Negro woman to be nominated for a federal judgeship.

Northern born and Southern educated, with graduate work at Columbia University Law School, she has helped break several precedents in her 21-year career.

As second ranking attorney in the legal defense fund of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the $2 million-a-year agency that handles much of the nation's civil rights cases, she has argued many times before the U.S. Supreme Court.

In 1964, she left the fund to enter a special election and became New York's first Negro woman state Senator. A year later, she was named by the Democrats as Manhattan's first woman borough president, a $25,000-a-year post.

Move With Storm

Mrs. Motley, 44, has always seemed to move with the storm. She represented James H. Meredith when he became the first known Negro to enroll at the University of Mississippi. She led a battery of five lawyers against Harvey Gantt admitted to Clemson College in 1962. She was the NAACP's chief legal tactician in the struggle over Alabama school desegregation, and she was instrumental in getting Charlayne Hunter and Hamilton Holmes into the University of Georgia in 1961.

While still in law school, Mrs. Motley was brought onto the NAACP fund's staff by Thurgood Marshall, then its chief counsel, later a U.S. Circuit Judge, and now Solicitor-General.

Director-Counsel Jack Greenberg, the fund's top lawyer, once described her as the "Field General."

"If a case is important or tough, one that really requires a major undertaking, then Connie gets it," he said.

Mrs. Motley has sometimes found the machinery of the law moving too slowly.

Finally You Win
"Court processes are slow," she once observed. "You always feel that you wish they'd hurry up and rule... but when you finally win, then everything is wonderful."

In 1961 she predicted: "Within the next five years there will not be a single area in which we do not have a court decision securing the rights of Negroes."

In court she has been firm and forceful in her arguments, logic, direct and simple in her summations. She has a keen sense of humor, which she uses occasionally to break the tension of a long hearing.

Mrs. Motley is the wife of real estate man Joel W. Motley, and the mother of 15-year-old Joel Jr.

"I think a woman has to be good enough at her job to justify her skipping the housework," she once said. "She certainly should be able to earn enough to justify paying a housekeeper."

125 Dogs Found Undernourished, Sick At Farm

EASTON, Md. (AP) — State police, accompanied by a national Humane Society official, raided the farmyard of Clifford Hughes at Goldsboro, Md., and said they discovered 125 dogs — many of them sick or undernourished.

A number of dead dogs and cats were discovered Tuesday behind a barn, not far from the pen which contained live animals.

Hughes, who called himself the unofficial dogcatcher of Calverton County, was free on $450 bond today on nine charges of cruelty to animals.

Like Pig Sty
Capt. Thomas S. Smith of the state police investigative division said the yard the dogs ran in resembled a pig sty. He said the sick and underfed dogs had to be left there, however, because there was no place to take them.

The Humane Society official, Frank McMahon, director of field services, called conditions "extremely bad" and said some of the dogs were bloody and injured, apparently from fights among themselves.

Smith said that Hughes, a farmer and slaughterhouse employe, brought entrails from where he worked to feed the dogs. He said Hughes told him that he buys, sells and trades dogs besides acting as unofficial dogcatcher.

The raid on the farm near the Delaware line was the second raid led by Smith and McMahon in two weeks.

Last week 100 dogs were discovered at a junk yard near White Hall, Md., near the Pennsylvania line.

The owner of the junk yard, Lester J. Brown, was charged with 29 counts of cruelty to animals.

Colorado Springs Pilot Is Killed

DENISON, Tex. (AP) — Maj. Robert P. Ferguson, an Air Defense Command pilot from Colorado Springs, Colo., was killed Tuesday when an F102 jet crashed after taking off from Perrin Air Force Base.

Ferguson's body was found under a tree about 300 yards from the burned wreckage. The plane crashed five miles north of Soper, Okla., across the Red River from Perrin. The Air Force base is located between Denison and Sherman, Tex.

Officials said Ferguson was on an evaluation flight.

Wheat Holdings Are Smallest Since 1954

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department report shows holdings of wheat by millers, elevators and other off-farm holders were the smallest since 1954.

Farm holdings, on the other hand, were the largest since 1961. U.S. wheat stocks Jan. 1 totaled 1.33 billion bushels, down 8 per cent from a year earlier. Farm holdings totaled 408 million bushels and off-farm stocks 931 million bushels. The report showed the government owned or held under price support loans 56 per cent of the total wheat supply, compared with 62 per cent a year earlier.

Spain were halted the same day. They emphasized the ban was ordered by the U.S. Government and not at the request of Spanish officials.

The B52 crash touched off a massive land and sea search which apparently resulted in the recovery of three of the nuclear devices aboard the bomber when it went down. The fourth was reported still missing, however.

Although American and Spanish authorities tried their best to keep the circumstances of the crash secret, the search triggered fears among the farmers of the southeastern coastal area near Palomares.

Gen. Bruce K. Holloway, commander-in-chief of the U.S. Air Force in Europe, flew into Madrid for consultations with Spanish and American officials last Sunday.

Called Routine
However an Air Force spokesman described Holloway's visit as routine and denied it had anything to do with the B52 crash.

The courses also said SAC was taking precautionary measures and planned to hold future refueling operations over the ocean instead of over land areas.

Meanwhile, in the Mediterranean off Palomares a large American destroyer and a Navy repair ship moved in to assist two minesweepers that have been probing the water for days.

The Air Force said two ejection seats from the B52 have been recovered. There was no confirmation of reports that one of the ships made sonar contact with two mysterious objects 2,000 feet under the surface of the water three miles offshore. The reports sparked speculation that the objects could be parts of the missing nuclear device.

AUSTIN (UPI)—Appealing for help to "throw the rascals out," team candidates Stanley C. Woods and Bill Hollowell, Tuesday night opened their campaign against Gov. John Connally and Lt. Gov. Preston Smith.

Woods, a Houston oilman and lawyer, and Hollowell, a state representative from Grand Saline, bought time on 13 television stations. Houston gets to see the program, entitled "Hope for Texas" today. Dallas sees it Saturday.

Woods, a political novice and Hollowell, a five-term member of the legislature, both appealed for financial help in their campaign for the Democratic nomination.

Woods, running against Connally, called the governor "arrogant," saying Connally sought to impose his one-man rule on Texas.

Hollowell also concentrated most of his attacks on the governor, mentioning Smith only as a "follow-along lieutenant governor."

Woods said he and Hollowell will appear all over the state to discuss "issues that he (Connally) won't want discussed." He said he would discuss possible conflict of interest on Connally's part.

"We're going to talk about the 30,000 acres that some people are saying that Connally now has. He's not justified in doing anything on the outside."

Woods and Hollowell promised to campaign on old age assistance, education, teachers' salaries, forced oil pooling, oil allowances, industrial safety, auto insurance, industrial expansion, water pollution, mental health, mass transit and urban problems.

They said they would work for creation of two new medical schools, one under Texas Tech at either Lubbock or Amarillo and one at Tyler.

"The vote will be taken off of all Texans," Woods declared. "Our theme song is 'throw the rascals out' and put integrity and honest back in the government of Texas."

Women See Slides Made In Colombia

Slides made in Bogota, Colombia, were shown by Bill Cox, Lubbock Community Ambassador to Colombia in 1965, in the world affairs program of Lubbock Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday night.

Decorations emphasized the international theme. Six students from other countries who are attending Lubbock High School and Texas Tech, were guests.

Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Cox, 1909 29th St., described his experiences during his two-month trip, including a month's stay with a Colombian family.

Dolls And Fans
Mrs. Lila Mae Adams lent dolls dressed in authentic costumes from 20 countries, and Mrs. Lena Sanders furnished fans from eight countries for table decorations.

Mrs. Chang presented vocal selections of Chinese love songs with Miss Sun as accompanist. These are among students from 21 countries attending Texas Tech.

Taught In Bogota
Another special guest was Neil Parker, who taught last summer at the National University Army training camp during World War II, and lived in the new $2 million hospital the city while in Colombia. ## President Isn't Expected To Boost Wage Guidelines

By NEIL GILBRIDE. WASHINGTON (AP) President Johnson, fighting to stave off the threat of inflation, won't provide an expected boost in White House wage guidelines in his economic message to Congress Thursday.

Johnson won't boost the four-year-old 3.2 percent guideline despite booming industrial production figures.

"We do not believe there is any immediate threat of inflation so serious as to warrant extraordinary measures," Meany said after the session.

ONE MORE PROBLEM FOR GI:

A New Offensive: Mud Mail

By TOM TIEDE. SAIGON (NEA) The anti-everything forces back home have opened up a new offensive against the war here. They are attacking individual GIs.

"I have never talked or corresponded with a person knowledgeable in Indochinese affairs who did not agree that had elections been held at the time of the fighting (1954), possibly 80% of the population would have voted for the Communist Ho Chi Minh as their leader."

- Dwight D. Eisenhower, in his book Mandate for Change, p. 372

The United States is fighting against the people of Vietnam. Why?

"People ask me who my heroes are. I have only one—Hitler."

- Saigon premier Nguyen Cao Ky

Wouldn't it be better to let the Vietnamese people decide for themselves what form of government they want—even if it's communist—and stop this needless killing of Vietnamese peasants and American G.I.s?

This is the kind of anonymous mail American troops are receiving in Viet Nam.

"Dear Soldier," it reads, "Get out of Viet Nam!"

The letters bear no return address, and the envelope postmarks are from Berkeley, Calif., Eugene, Ore., Dallas, Tex., and from College Station, Anystate.

One message being directed at the 173rd Airborne Brigade is a reprint from the leftist "National Guardian" entitled: "What to do when drafted—if you have a conscience."

The author, Peter Roman Clark, writes that at his induction he passed out peace leaflets, argued with a sergeant, solicited signatures for an anti-Viet Nam petition and refused to sign the loyalty oath.

"Does it affect you?" one was asked. "Not me," he replied, "but it does some guys."

"How's that?" "They figure, what the hell's the use? You know?"

"Yeah, if nobody back home cares, why should they?"

"But people do care."

"I know and you know. But some guys don't."

Mud mail delivered here is only part of the problem, according to military sources. Hate letters to wives and families in the States is steadily increasing also, to the point where some soldiers, especially pilots, ask newsmen not to print names of their home towns.

An Army colonel said: "What can we do, check every letter? There are laws against that. America is a free country." And this war is being fought to keep it that way.

MARKET PLANS CHANGING

Freeman Claims Cattle Industry At Crossroads

KANSAS CITY (AP) The cattle industry is approaching a crossroad where the question will be not of how much beef scheduling will be raised, fed and sold, but men who can provide quantities rather than quality animals on a regular schedule will have the advantage.

Freeman said another important factor is the need for more accurate scheduling of deliveries. Cattle will be raised, fed and sold, but men who can provide quantities rather than quality animals on a regular schedule will have the advantage.

He said government is bringing stability to the beef industry through its feed grain program.

At a news conference later, Freeman praised President Johnson's proposed rural poverty program and said it might deter the exodus of people into the cities.

Community Aid program proposed in Congress would provide federal aid in setting up community development districts along the same lines as provided by the Economic Opportunities Act in the cities.

All the talk of expanding our field aid to needy nations and of maintaining adequate reserves does not constitute a pressure movement for removal of farm controls, Freeman said.

Such advocates are jumping the gun, he said. He agreed the surplus had been reduced in recent years, but there still is far too much cotton in government hands, too many tons of feed grains. Wheat supplies are getting near what might be called prudent reserves, he said.

Any reduction, he said, in crop controls would be affected commodity-by-commodity.

Rep. Robert Dole R-Kan., also addressing the convention, criticized the administration's practice of using farm surplus stocks to hold down farm product prices. This is flouting the will of Congress, he said.

"In my opinion," Dole said, "the greatest threat to farm income and price stability is the Commodity Credit Corporation itself with its fast accumulation of wheat, feed grains, cotton and other commodities."

He advocated a government policy of permitting farm income to rise through further advances in prices at the market place.

Women have more foot trouble than men, he said in an interview at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons. He blames pointed toes in women's footwear.

"Women fit their eyes and not their feet," Dr. Brahms said.

HEADA NEW BANK BROWNWOOD (AP)—J. T. Saunders, former Coleman County rancher, Tuesday was elected president of the newly chartered Southwest State Bank in Brownwood.

The guideline means that wage increases up to 3.2 percent per year are noninflationary and okay with the White House. Thus, under the formula, a worker making $3 per hour could get a 9.6-cent hourly hike without incurring Johnson's displeasure.

Not Accepted Yet Big labor, from AFL-CIO President George Meany on down, never has accepted the guideline, so what do union chiefs have to be mad about?

They think Johnson has abandoned the rules in failing to hike the wage guideline to 3.4 or possibly 3.6 percent on the basis of the government's own economic figures.

"They're just grabbing 3.2 percent out of thin air without any economic justification at all," said one high union official.

The theory of the guideline is that productivity the amount of goods a worker produces per hour has been rising 3.2 percent a year. So industry can grant that much in wage increases without boosting prices.

Labor, and many economists, had expected an increase because the nation's industrial production rose more rapidly than expected in 1965.

Guideline Mike One member of the President's Economic Advisory Council, which originally formulated the wage-price guidelines, hinted strongly months ago that an increase to at least 3.4 percent might be in the cards this year.

White House economists reportedly now argue that any boost in the wage guideline would have an inflationary effect, even if government figures do indicate some justification for an increase.

Even more worrisome to top labor leaders, briefed in advance of Johnson's economic message, is the hint of wage controls if signs of inflation increase.

The economic message will propose no such controls, but administration officials mentioned the subject at the briefing.

But both labor and industry have at times criticized the guidelines for creating inflexibility at the bargaining table.

Some labor spokesmen believe Johnson has been using the "suggested" guidelines as almost a substitute for mandatory controls.

Johnson used the wage-price guidelines, for instance, to hold steelworkers' wage demands to 3.2 percent and more recently pressured the steel industry to roll back a $5 per ton price increase to $2.75.

Johnson and Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz sharply criticized the recent New York transit strike settlement for exceeding the guideline. Federal sources estimated the increase at about 4.6 percent.

The guidelines do leave room for maneuvering in particular industries where productivity or wage increases differ from the national average.

I said, "Show me a filter cigarette that really delivers taste and I'll eat my hat!"

STUDENTS GROWING IMPATIENT WITH PRESIDENT

Sukarno Builds Luxury Hotel While People Starve

By ANTOINE YARED
 KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—A modern 10-story department store has just been completed in Jakarta's main street. Nearby a 29-story office building is under construction. Opposite is the luxurious 15-floor Hotel Indonesia. These tall buildings seem like strange icebergs surrounded by a sea of slums and dilapidated streets. Jakarta is Indonesia's capital city, with a population of three million, but in many respects it looks like a worn-down village. President Sukarno ordered monuments and high buildings despite the country's need of more urgent projects such as housing. Students Demonstrate—Sukarno maintains that these showy pieces of construction are needed to present Indonesia's greatness. His hard-pressed people accepted the argument. But lately thousands of students have demonstrated in Jakarta streets to protest against soaring prices of essential commodities. They criticized the policies of "the great leader of the Indonesian revolution," as Sukarno likes to call himself. Day after day, the students with the tacit approval of the army which is engaged in a power struggle with Sukarno shouted: "We need rice, not monuments and big buildings!" Wife Is Japanese—The students even scribbled on the walls. "No more imports of wives and concubines," Sukarno's third wife is a Japanese. He observed recently: "With my own eyes I saw ordinary Indonesian people buying flow-ers in preparation for the Moslem feast of Idu Ifitri. This alone is enough proof to kill and concubines." Sukarno's third wife is a Japanese. He observed recently: "With my own eyes I saw ordinary Indonesian people buying flow-ers in preparation for the Moslem feast of Idu Ifitri. This alone is enough proof to kill and concubines."

Wide-eyed Indonesians stand in front of the still-empty 10-story department store and wonder what will fill it and who will be able to afford the goods in it. Sukarno has envisioned making Indonesia a prosperous country in his lifetime. But instead of concentrating on developing and tapping Indonesia's enormous natural resources, he has embarked on repeated political ventures as a way of giving Indonesia a leading place among the world's great nations. In his recently published autobiography, Sukarno says Indonesians inherited a broken-down country from the Dutch colonizers 20 years ago. Sukarno recounts that the Dutch before leaving wrecked the palace of the former Dutch governor general which he now uses as his presidential mansion. The furniture was broken, the glass windows and the mirrors, and even the door locks were smashed. Sukarno says. Over the years, Sukarno beautifully repaired his palace. But he has failed to repair his country.

Friends, Lawmakers Laud Former State Rep. Bill Parsley At Ceremony

PRAISE FOR PARSLEY—Ben Barnes, center, speaker of the Texas House of Representatives, was the principal speaker here Tuesday night at a Lubbock Country Club dinner in appreciation of Bill J. Parsley, left, who recently resigned as state representative from Lubbock to become a vice president of Texas Tech. With them is Frank Junell, master of ceremonies for the program. (Staff Photo)

More than 225 persons turned out here Tuesday night to hear the speaker of the Texas House of Representatives and others honor former state Rep. Bill J. Parsley.

"Parsley set a record for effectiveness in the legislature that will stand for years to come," Speaker Ben Barnes asserted.

Alternately praising and tossing verbal jabs at Parsley, other speakers predicted success for him in his new $21,000-per-year job as vice president of development of Texas Tech.

Master of ceremonies Frank Junell presented him a watch inscribed "In appreciation of Bill Parsley, from his Lubbock friends."

Sixteen members of the state Legislature also were here for the dinner at Lubbock Country Club.

Barnes, the youthful Speaker who is regarded by many as a powerful force in Texas politics for years to come, recalled Tuesday night that Parsley was the first representative to approach him about becoming a candidate for the speakership.

IT'S DOING WHAT COMES NATURALLY

Beauties Mostly Disagree With Texas Doctor's Theory On "Wiggle Walk"

SECTION B

LUBBOCK AVALANCHE-JOURNAL
Lubbock, Texas, Wednesday Evening, Jan. 26, 1966

By RAYMOND E. PALMER
LONDON (AP) — Doing what comes naturally puts the wiggle in a woman's walk, says blonde actress Diane Cilento. But others in the movie glamor set agree with an American surgeon's theory that the girls do it deliberately.

Dr. Louis H. Paradies, a bone specialist who teaches at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School in Dallas, told a medical meeting in Chicago that there is no physiological reason for a woman to wiggle while walking.

"The female walk can be put on," he said.

"Oh, I don't believe it," declared Miss Cilento, blonde wife of actor Sean Connery. "Women wiggle naturally. They are more flexible creatures than men and more mobile. That's why they wiggle."

In Hollywood, Ann-Margret, one of the prettiest wigglers in the American film colony, said: "I've never been conscious of how I walk from the waist down. I do try to keep my shoulders straight."

"I would never walk like a man. What fun would there be in that?"

Paradies said movies made of women walking showed that those who wiggle take short steps and keep their knees stiff. High heels have nothing to do with the female gait, he added.

"It's obvious," the professor See WIGGLE Page 5

LUBBOCK BEING ENCIRCLED BY "INSTANT SLUMS"

Ramshackle Neighborhoods Springing Up Around City

By KENNETH MAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff
NOW COMES the era of the "instant slum."

Even as taxpayers support a $9 million urban renewal project inside Lubbock, ramshackle neighborhoods spring up on the outskirts.

Shacks and houses from in and near the urban renewal area, in fact, help form these satellite communities.

Sooner or later, the city will inherit them — and taxpayers will be stuck with still another enormous bill.

Pig Pens, Privies, Junked Cars

Featuring pig pens, outdoor privies and junked cars, one embryonic community is thriving within one mile of the Lubbock city limits, just outside the reach of effective controls over sanitation, building standards, health or fire hazards.

Old houses also have been moved from inside the city to Carlisle and other points just outside.

After County Atty. Fred West, informed of the situation by The Avalanche-Journal, stepped forward with an offer to help, the City-County Health Unit finally is making a limited move toward control.

City and county officials throw up their hands, however, and say little can be done to solve the basic problem.

MAY

City, County Wink At Problem

NEW LEGISLATION is needed, they argue, but to date they have closed their eyes or winked at the situation and have taken no steps in that direction. They just sit back and moan. "It's a mess."

Representatives of the Legis. Research League, a privately financed organization, have taken note of the problem, however, in a study now underway of difficulties facing Texas cities and of what the Legislature might do to help.

Giving cities public health and welfare control over fringe areas or empowering counties to act might provide an answer. Cities now can act by annexing contiguous populous areas, but this often comes too late — and, as in the case of Carlisle, is put off indefinitely.

Shacks Moved From Inside City

One community just northeast of the Lubbock city limits has grown to more than 60 houses, most of them shacks moved from inside the city, within the last year.

Residents of the Roosevelt School District are concerned about the load this is throwing on them. They have to provide classrooms and help pay teachers for the children. Supt. Marvin Williams says 47 students already are enrolled from the neighborhood, which provides practically no tax revenue to the 900-student district.

Although no subdivision plat was filed for the neighborhood, County Commissioner Les Derrick used county equipment to "drag" the dirt streets for its development. Even though saying "it is really a mess out there," Derrick explains he did so at the request of a constituent.

Land and buildings in the neighborhood have been sold by metes and bounds descriptions, some on sales contracts without warranty deeds being filed. Other shacks are rented. One family of seven pays $6 weekly for a one-bedroom outside.

No Checks On Safety, Sanitation

SEVERAL OF the residents came from the urban renewal area, which was designed as a means of providing low-income families a decent environment at taxpayer expense. Untested water wells, septic tanks and privies are interspersed ed among the houses, hog pens and junked cars.

Small cafes and other businesses have sprung up in buildings which, like those used for homes, pass no tests for structural or fire safety.

Seven owners of property in the neighborhood are being given 90 days to clean up alleged unsanitary conditions. In letters being sent out by the City-County Health Unit, the owners are requested to correct "all violations of the state sanitation code." West said he will file suit if violations are found to exist after that time.

This action was taken under provisions of state law which direct health officers to enforce standards in "unincorporated villages" for protecting drinking water, for disposing of garbage, for abating fly breeding areas and for exterminating rodents.

Few Laws, No Enforcement

Even so, there apparently is no provision in Texas for controlling building standards, land use or other factors which might affect the public health and welfare on a city's outskirts.

There is a law requiring land owners to plat land on which they plan outlying subdivisions — but there is no penalty clause. The same law empowers county commissioners courts to adopt an order requiring adequate rights of way, drainage, etc., but such an order has not been adopted here — and enforcement would be another matter even if it were.

Last year, the Legislature empowered any two or more local governmental units to form a regional planning commission to make recommendations on major thoroughfares, streets, land use, water supplies, sanitation facilities and other factors "to guide the unified, far-reaching development of the area."

Here again, however, no one would have authority to en-

DEAR ABBY

Questioning Not Routine

DEAR ABBY: A few weeks ago, my best friend applied for some work done by a dentist a job with the government in I liked very much. He has a Washington, D.C. She said she reputation for being tops in his field, a security clearance filed, but I never went back to check for this job so they gave him. The reason being I once he a lie detector test. All was saw him turn on the faucet and fine until she was asked some questions through the motions of washing extremely embarrassing, questioning his hands, but I'm quite sure then he came so shocked and wet? He didn't even get his fingers flushed that she failed the test watching him. I would like to and lost the job opportunity go back to him again because Abby, this girl is as normal his work is excellent, but I would and aboveboard as a girl can have to be sure he washed his be. Is this form of questioning hands before going to work on for a government job routine me. Is there some way I can accomplish this without insulting him?

Also Shocked

Dear Also: John W. Macy Jr., Chairman of the U.S. Civil Service Commission, assures me that "No Federal agency subject to civil service rules and regulations screens applicants in this manner. Only two agencies, both operating outside the civil service framework, use the lie detector polygraph in screening applicants. And they feel they must do this because of the top security nature of their work."

Fussy

Dear Fussy: No. But if you have any such doubts, go to a dentist in whom you have complete confidence. It is hard to believe that a dentist who has a reputation for being tops in his field would be so unhygienic. Are you sure you don't need to see an eye doctor?

Dear Abby

The phrase "Beauty is only skin deep" must have been coined by some overweight wife trying to rationalize that extra piece of banana cream pie. My wife is one of those girls who held her weight down before marriage, but since the ceremony was over she let herself go and picked up 35 pounds in a few years. She blames it on our two children but look at Ethel Kennedy!

By ALINE MOSSY PARIS (UPI)—Youth won a round at the traditionally classic salon of Designer Pierre Balmain Tuesday.

Balmain's spring fashion show gave in to the Courreges-inspired trend for angular, extra-short clothes by introducing some outfits along that order on the beautiful body of a 19-year-old Danish model, Dorthe Konigsfeldt. Dorthe, long brown hair pulled back by a girlish velvet band, showed the fashion writers and store buyers checked navy blue suits banded a la Courreges at the hemline and neck with solid blue or tomato red. The flat box-pleated skirts whirled a good inch above the knee, a startling change for this conservative house.

But Balmain's bow to the Courreges influence was a dress, hanging openly, diagonal- graceful one and barely noticeable. White slim dresses were edged with Kelly green or coral-colored bands at necklines and hem to match their coats in the Courreges manner, but the dresses had softer lines than the sculptured-looking "geometric" look at the other salons.

Skirts Go Shorter Balmain admitted that "it is impossible to escape the natural evolution of these fashions. Anyway it is quite sure that the trend is towards a short-skirted, sharply outlined silhouette, sometimes softened by pleats and bias.

Except for Dorthe, the more mature Balmain models paraded grown-up elegant non-Courreges type clothes that have kept royalty, millionaires and film stars as his private customers. Their hemlines were longer, barely showing the knee.

The big news in the Balmain look was that it was not "A-line" as had been for women who like a coat or skirt gradually sloping out to the hemline. Balmain chose what he called a "Y" line, or straight, narrow skirts and shoulders widened and rounded by raglan sleeves or a special cut. An example of this was a navy blue outfit called "blue jean," trimmed with red stitching. The short jacket over the narrow dress had high, rounded shoulders.

Another Balmain innovation was a wrap-around "envelope" dress, hanging openly, diagonal- graceful one and barely noticeable. White slim dresses were edged with Kelly green or coral-colored bands at necklines and hem to match their coats in the Courreges manner, but the dresses had softer lines than the sculptured-looking "geometric" look at the other salons.

Beauty After Forty

"Dear Edyth Thornton McLeod"
 "MY HANDS and arms are badly tanned and I have a few large brown spots on my arms. I must attend a very important evening function. What should I wear? I am tall, like high fashion, am not overweight, and have my hair done at a fashionable salon."—Marie.

Why not have a black sheath with long tapered sleeves and a deep open neckline? If you like high fashion, you will have it, and hide the arms as well. But do get to work on your arms. Use cosmetic oil and, when you bathe, scrub the arms with soap and rinse well. After that, use a good quality witch hazel and then apply the oil.

"I HAVE A small roll of flesh around my waistline. Even my diet, and I reduced, does not help much."—M. D.

Be fitted to a proper girdle and a long-line bra. This will "ease" the fleshy roll, and exercise would tend to firm flabby muscles.

"WOULD IT be proper to attend a reception with my 22-year-old nephew as my escort and to drive my car there and back? There is always such a crush at these important civic functions that I feel the need of an escort. I am 49, a widow, and have no men friends."—B. T.

Certainly it is quite correct to have your nephew escort you, but why no men friends? At 49 you should try to remedy this situation at once. Plan to go out and meet people and entertain in your own home. No woman should be without men friends and mature women need the "pleasure of their company."

To all of you who need to reduce: Remember my new diet, "Figure Control", plus a leaflet which will be of aid to you in following the diet. Don't talk about dieting, don't start and not keep up with one. You can obtain your copy of "Figure Control Diet" by just sending me a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and enclosing 25 cents in coin. Use the diet; you will feel better and be in far better condition when you drop that excess weight.

Tomorrow: My Creed

DEAN OF STYLISTS SPEAKS

Cutting Becomes 'Art Beyond Styling'

By CATHARINE BREWSTER
 NEW YORK—(WNS)—When Robert Flance talks about hair and styling, he does so with the authority of 25 years as the beauty industry's "teacher of teachers." The tall, calm head of his own schools believes that women have never had it so good with their crowning glory.

"Today's styles are, or can be, as lovely as any I remember since I began as a stylist myself," said the man often called the "dean of hair stylists."

"Now that the bouffant era, with all that unnatural teasing, is gone, we have an orderly, gentle movement, normally framing the face and tapered to contour the head. Cutting has become the art it should be."

The bloc to every woman having a good hair style is the personnel in salons. Flance knows that there are still too few good cutters, even among so-called top stylists.

"Cutting is an art even beyond styling. People like myself long ago turned styling into a matter of following a pattern. I can send out patterns for styles which almost any experienced stylist can follow. But I can't teach a stylist to cut by long distance."

Why doesn't an experienced stylist realize that his or her cutting isn't good? Flance's answer is that they have little basis of comparison.

"The stylist is holed up in his shop. Whatever way he learned to cut, maybe as long as 20 years ago, that's the way he is still cutting. He can return to an advanced school, such as I have, but that's time and money lost, he figures, when he seems to be doing all right as is."

Returning to the present trend in styling, Flance discounted the publicity fuss over long hair.

"Strictly for the very young. By 25, a woman can seldom wear her hair long without looking foolish. Worse, it will make her look older, as the vertical lines of long hair make the face seem to droop. No, the general trend is to fairly short hair, but softly styled." Styles are neither set-looking nor are they flat in the shingled mode of 1920's. The neckline isn't shingled but gently tapered to follow the contour of the head, and ends are gently feathered for an all-over soft look.

Favors Hair Pieces
 "Yes, I'm all for hairpieces, especially to turn a daytime style into an evening one. Few women have the time to go to a salon for a special style for every party. With hairpieces they can have a style in a few minutes."

Flance pointed out that it should be easy for most salons to clean and re-style hair-should be done so that a curl tendency is cut into the hair. Then the proper setting lotion should be used. Wetting power is important, the reason why beer and white wine make good setting lotions. Last comes the comb-out technique.

"Teasing isn't necessary. You know how you curl a ribbon, by holding it taut and running a knife along it? You should curl a hair the same way. Brushing and teasing are, in effect, a confession of poor technique."

Flance would also like to see better machines in salons. Too many still have hot-air hair dryers that in his opinion blast the life out of hair.

SOFT STYLING—This coiffure designed and styled by Robert Flance shows the current trend to short soft styling with tapered back shaped in toward the nape of the neck.

Appreciation Speech Topic For Sorority

Mrs. Dorothy Holland, teacher in the Lubbock Public Schools, and her son, John Holland, presented a program on "Music Appreciation" for members of Alpha Gamma chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority in the Lubbock Women's Club Monday night.

Two of the numbers were original compositions by John Holland, recently graduated from high school.

They were the "Second Movement of the Violin Concerto-Andante" played by Mrs. Holland on the violin accompanied by her son on the piano, and "Two Violins Unaccompanied-Aria."

Other selections were the "First Movement of Beethoven's Sonata No. One" and Fritz Kiser's "Rose Marie."

Mrs. Elwin Smith, president presided over the business meeting.

The bidding:

Opening lead: Ace of

A deliberate underplay in the trump suit by South, the declarer, at four spades, thrust the lead on his opponent at a time when West had no safe exit—and the donated trick came back with interest.

East opened the bidding with four hearts. With seven winners in his hand, the maximum penalty that he could incur would be 500 points if partner presented a trickless dummy. South overall with four spades and, tho a cheap sacrifice was available at five hearts, West chose to defend.

West opened the ace of hearts; however, despite the vigorous encouragement signaled by his partner, he was unable to continue the suit and cashed the ace of trumps, on which East showed out, discarding a heart.

A club was led to the ace and the three of spades was returned. South played the four from his hand, permitting West to win a very cheap trick with the seven of spades.

West could not lead a club without giving the declarer a ruff and discard, so he cashed the ace of diamonds and continued the suit. South played the king of diamonds and led over to the queen, when the suit divided evenly, he was able to discard his last heart on North's nine of diamonds. His losses consisted of one spade, one heart, and one diamond.

If West exits with a club when he is in with the seven of spades, South can ruff in dummy and discard a diamond from his hand. A diamond is led to the king and West plays the ace. Declarer puts up North's queen of diamonds on the return and then ruffs a diamond to establish dummy's nine for the necessary heart sluff.

Girl Wins Movie Contract By Fibbing About Her Age

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) Women have been falsifying their ages for years, but how many have won movie contracts by doing so?

Melody Patterson is one girl who has learned that a little bit of lying goes a long way toward success in the studios. Not that she makes a habit of it.

"I was tired of being told I was too young for every part I tried out for," she declared. "I was 15½ when I had an interview for a role in the series 'Bank'. They told me to come back when I was 18."

Concerns Economics
It's not that Hollywood is against youth. Far from it. The problem concerns economics. Child-labor law dictates that under-18 performers must attend three hours of school daily while working in films. Because schedules must proceed at a breakneck pace, producers avoid this interruption of the work day by hiring juveniles only when necessary.

"When I was interviewed for a role in 'F Troop', I said I was 18," Melody continued. "And you know what? I got the job." The ruse was not difficult to pull off. Melody is a big girl who could easily masquerade in the upper teens. She is also a beauty with a sunny, outgoing personality. She won the feminine lead in the Warner Bros. series over actresses as good as she.

Melody said she forged her birth certificate to carry out the deception. She even had her copy approved in court as an 18-year-old. But I was thinking in my head and praying that I wouldn't be discovered. She fibbed to the authorities.

Jealous Rival
Melody might have earned off her job except for the duplicity of a jealous rival. Her real age was known by an actress who failed to get the "F Troop" role. She fibbed to the authorities.

Now a sober 16, Melody might be expected to be contrite about what she has done. She isn't in the least.

"I do it again," she admitted. "I asked the producers if they would have hired me if they had known I had to go to school. They said, 'Of course not.' School is Melody's penance and she cracks the books every morning in the Warner's schoolhouse. She hopes to follow the footsteps of a previous student there, Natalie Wood. Her grades on 'F Troop' think she has a chance, and they think she was right to lie about her age."

"I did the same thing when I was in burlesque at 15," said Forrest Tucker. Melody springs from a lively background. Her father was a professional gambler, but he quit when I was 6 because he didn't want me to have to tell my friends what he did as I was growing up. He is now a machinist in a missile plant.

Her mother was a movie actress and doubled for Joan Crawford in several films. Once a male dancer fell on her and broke her, Miss Crawford took her to the hospital. Melody reported stories full of such sprightly information.

PARIS — French census takers will get extra pay.

MELODY HIT AT MISE EN SCENE — Melody Patterson, about a 16-year-old actress, who does Yoga exercises when not otherwise occupied, won a leading role in a new series because she fibbed her age. She knew producers avoided hiring under-18 performers because the law requires them to spend three hours a day in school. She fibbed to her age when she applied for a part in "F Troop." Her secret came out when a jealous rival told on her. She kept the show's news AP Wirephoto.

Polly's Painters
Level Solution
Discovered

DEAR POLLY — My husband is a handy man, but he made a neat cutting board of level. He cut the rubber tips off one of my old girdle garters, glued them on all four corners of the board. When dry he sliced down the rubber to make the board level. To make sure that the glued tips would not be knocked off, he ran a small nail into each of them. This idea could be used for most anything that becomes off level. — Mrs. S. S.

DEAR POLLY — A base support with the rubber knob missing can be a great inconvenience. A quick and easy solution is a small hard ball of cotton placed under the base and into the metal fastener as a substitute for the missing knob. I find this will hold perfectly all day. — Lois

DEAR POLLY — My husband and I have a piano who have played piano. Many of the keys are broken and are beyond repair. We have found that if you use a small piece of wax with the metal spring, the key will work. We use a small piece of wax boxes, are the right size for the key. We use a label on the end of a box with the name of the key. This will keep the keys from being lost. — S. M.

DEAR POLLY — The best way to keep your car from being scratched is to use a plastic car cover. I use one and it works. — Debbie

DEAR POLLY — I have a good idea for a solution to stay in place of the lead ever when the car is parked. If you or the readers have any suggestions, please send them to me. My bridegroom and I received more wedding gifts and cannot use them as they are. — Shalben

GIRLS — Perhaps some of you have a better solution than mine. Fasten tape ties on the two lower corners of the comforter and then tie them to the bed footboard or posts. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I have seen many mothers have had the same problem. I have had to wash food. The last half or so of the food in a jar becomes too watery to use and is often thrown away. I discovered this is caused by dipping baby's spoon in the jar and feeding him from the jar. Some saliva from baby's mouth is on the spoon each time it is put in the jar. This makes the food watery. Instead of what you think baby will eat and do not put baby's spoon in the jar if more is needed. Use a clean spoon. The remaining food will be of good consistency for the next feeding. An extra spoon and dish to wash but it saves on baby food. — Sally

Surety Discount On Compacts To Be Eliminated

NEW YORK (AP) Ten per cent premium insurance discounts on compact cars are being eliminated by three national insurance-rating bureaus, says the Insurance Information Institute.

The institute said Tuesday night it would take at least a year for the discount to end. The companies involved are the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters, the National Automobile Underwriters Association and the Mutual Insurance Rating Bureau. They represent 400 affiliates.

The institute said that five years of experience with the discount "did not show that accidents involving compact cars occur less frequently or that automobiles involved are less costly to repair after an accident than those involving larger cars."

LONDON (AP)—An Oklahoma automobile collector has paid $6,000 for a 1936 limousine that belonged to the late Sir Winston Churchill.

success," Barnes added. Junell and Barnes both pointed to Parsley's role in securing record appropriations for Tech money to build a new state school for the mentally retarded here and water legislation "that generations to follow will appreciate" and other legislation last year.

"Higher education throughout Texas, not only Texas Tech benefited from his work," Barnes said. "Texas is going to be a little bit better place to live because he came out this way."

Has Lighter Moments
On the lighter side, Parsley was presented an academic gown, a Hamburg hat and a wig so that he might undertake his new duties as a money-raiser for Tech with proper dignity. Joe Ripstein of the banquet arrangements committee made the presentation.

Harley Pershing, representing the capital press corps at Austin, praised Parsley for bringing honesty and integrity to government.

In a telegram read at the dinner, Gov. John Connally paid tribute to the Lubbock representative's able and effective leadership. Fellow townsman Lt. Gov. Preston Smith called him "efficient and reliable."

Frank Irwin, chairman of the governing boards for state colleges and universities, urged that every Texas college and university benefit from Parsley's work in the Legislature.

Other telegrams were read from Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, former House Speaker Byron Tunnel, S. Rep. George Mahon, Mayor Max Tidmore and several members of the legislature.

Barnes' Also Saluted
State Sen. H. J. (Doc) Blaine introduced the 15 legislators who were here for the dinner plus Sen. of State Crawford Martin and Bob Johnson, director of the Texas Legislative Council.

In his response, Parsley took time to praise Barnes' leadership in the House of Representatives and predicted he will be with us a long time.

With the honors at the head table were his wife and three sons, Clint, Clay and Matt; his mother, Mrs. Evelyn Jordan, Lubbock; and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Beatrice Hix, Abilene.

Dr. R. C. Goodwin, president of Tech, and Mrs. Goodwin also were at the head table.

The Rev. Tom Miller of St. Christopher's Episcopal Church gave the invocation. Before his election to the Legislature, Parsley was a practicing attorney in Lubbock and was active in civic affairs here. During his first two terms in the lower House, fellow members named him the most outstanding new member.

force the recommendations outside the city limits even if such a commission were organized.

Problem Not Solved, Just Shifted

THESE EVEN as taxpayers foot the $9 million bill for eradicating one slum area inside Lubbock, others can spring up just outside the city without even having to go through the process of deterioration. The problem isn't solved, just shifted.

"A substantial area just outside the city might retard the city's growth in that direction," Bob Burr, city director of planning, says. "Then, when the area eventually is annexed, the city taxpayers have to pay the cost for helping bring it up to standard. There should be legislation governing cities' land use, health and structural controls over areas on their perimeters."

Existing regulations limit our authority in unincorporated areas, according to Walter Broadlove of the City-County Health Unit. "We need stronger laws."

Few Laws—Fewer Suggestions

A very few of the houses in these outlying areas came from within the urban renewal area," H. O. Alderson, U.P. director, concedes, "but most were moved from elsewhere in the city. We'd like to see the development of new slums stopped but we have no authority outside the bounds of our area."

Houses condemned in the urban renewal area are demolished, Alderson says. Some structures nonetheless have shown up later in the outlying communities.

"We don't have the authority to control public health, safety or welfare in such areas," County Judge Red Shaw says. "There ought to be some way for someone to keep slums from being developed but I don't know of any."

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI)—San Quentin prison has its star artist back again.

Wiggle

has never worn high heels," snuffed Marlo Thomas, actress daughter of American comedian Danny Thomas. She is currently starring in the London company of "Barefoot in the Park."

Ursula Andress, once described as the finest sample of Swiss landscape after the Alps, went along with the professor's views.

"Wiggle is very pretty if you do it right," she said, "but it's not necessary."

German-born Laya Rakl also agreed with Parasolus. "The single is just as deliberate and subtle as Eve's producing the egg," Rakl's mustn't be overdone, after all, even a little wiggle can be a dangerous thing.

Dickhaud, British actress Sarah Miles was uncertain. "I don't think deliberately about wiggle. I'm not even sure that I do. I think it depends on what a woman is wearing. Obviously, she has more of a wiggle if she wears a tight skirt and high heels."

The Middle Road
Martine Beswick of Jamaica who has played opposite Miss Client's husband, in James Bond films, took the middle of the road.

"I'm sure that some girls who wiggle don't do it deliberately. I suppose it depends on the individual on how supple you are. Do I wiggle? No, but then I've had dance training and that helps to develop a swaying style of walk."

Ash-blonde Sharon Tate, an American making a film in England, summed up both arguments.

"Even if a girl's wiggle is an affected trait, and I'm not convinced it is, as long as it's attractive, well, who cares?"

IF YOU DON'T believe there are more city votes now than country ones, how do you account for the fact that the Washington Administration seeks to cut appropriations for agriculture by 16 per cent while increasing the size of the pie to be cut up for the benefit of city dwellers?

Bob Jones of Seagraves observes:
"The Indian maid with the best sense of humor probably was Minnehaha."

AN OLD-TIMER in West Texas is the one who remembers when a prisoner, showing the effects of manhandling, was referred to as having been "wreasted."

MRS. INDIRA Gandhi, new prime minister of India, announces that she will follow the same policies followed by her late father, J. Nehru, when he held the job.
In other words, she'll industriously work both sides of the Cold War Street!

A wise man is one with whom you are usually in full agreement.

That Man on Avenue Q says it's always good to remember that one's present soon will become his past and act accordingly.

The fellow who's determined to follow the highway to success to its very end won't be looking for parking places along the way.

DAN FENLEY, one of the pressmen here on The Ad, brought in a reproduction of Vol. 1, No. 1 of the Rocky Mountain News, under date of April 2, 1890. However, at that time the Rocky Mountain News was published in Denver, as it is today. Instead of its home of publication was Cheyenne, Cook, now of course, a part of Metropolitan Denver.

Furthermore, the Rocky Mountain News wasn't even published in Colorado when it first began, because there was no Colorado. It was published in what then was "Kansas Territory." What now is Denver and environs was part of Kansas prior to the days when Colorado made its bow.

Denver was on the map then, but was called "Denver City."

Advertisements in the four-page, six-column Rocky Mountain News came all the way from Council Bluffs, Ia., and St. Joseph, Mo., and there were more ads for local businesses in what then was "Omaha City," Nebraska Territory. Then there were from local and immediate adjacent concerns.

OF MORE THAN passing interest is the fact that nearly 100 years ago, as today, some people were worked up over the dangers of the use of tobacco. A front-page item reported on a statement made in England in 1821 in which one Sir William Stourton moved in the House of Commons that an importation of tobacco into the British Kingdom be prohibited by law and its use similarly prohibited and that Sir John Parnis added that a tobacco tax be levied on it, which would have the effect of reducing the consumption of it. It will be recalled that the tobacco industry in this country was not one of health, but instead, a money-making racket for other things, being sold on the fact that the tobacco business was growing.

In the second issue of the week, Sir John Parnis actually noted that the use of tobacco had grown so widespread that even some people were taking it at the mouth.

CONGRUENTS must have been the rage around Cheyenne, Colo., 100 years ago, judging from the fact that one issue of the Rocky Mountain News gave a full column to a conundrum, the type given in the middle of Page 4.

Called "Alphabetical Conundrums," these were dishes up such gems as:
Why is the letter A like a mermaid? Because it is in the middle of the sea.
Why is the letter B like a hot fire? Because it makes all fall.
Why is the letter C like a girl? Because she makes all fall.
Why is the letter V like two extremes? Because it is the beginning of both vice and virtue.

WHILE THE EDITOR of Vol. 1, No. 1 of the Rocky Mountain News, one William N. Byers, probably had no idea of it at the time one of his Page 1 stories reflected the casting of a small shadow over the world, one which was to grow to envelop most of mankind in less than 100 years.
It was a report on how a treaty opened up the world four years before by a treaty between the emperor and Commodore Perry. USS was rapidly being taken into global trade and being visited by business people from one end of the world to the other.

Also noted as of primary importance was the fact that teachers and preachers of Christianity were going to Japan in sizable numbers, to spread the faith now that the Land of the Rising Sun had opened its doors to the rest of mankind. Verily, verily, tempus fugit.

BILLY GRAHAM:

My Answer

QUESTION: Is it true that trouble is for our good? There is so much suffering in the world, even by good people, that I have often wondered if there is a God away out there who is concerned for the world. Can you give an explanation? M.N.

ANSWER: The Bible definitely states that troubles, afflictions, and adversities are for the good of the child of God. "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them which are called according to His purpose." Rom. 8:28.

But we never to assume that this goes for those who are not in Christ, to those who are rebellious against God. This promise is only for those who are "called according to His purpose." Christians are enabled to handle trouble in a special way, and God has promised to turn it to good, if our love for Him is unfeigned.

Dr. Edward Wilson, who died on an expedition to the Antarctic, wrote: "This I know is God's truth, that pain and troubles and trials and disappointments are either one thing or another. To all who love God they are love tokens from Him. To all who do not love God and do not want to love Him they are merely a nuisance. Every single pain that we feel is known to God because it is the most loving touch of His hand."
The Great Physician, like earthly physicians, often hurts in the very process of healing. We, knowing that God is all-wise, and is concerned for His children, should never doubt His wisdom, but accept every adversity as a part of the Divine process.

ALLEN & SCOTT:

Democrats Seeing Red

WASHINGTON—Acting Democratic Treasurer Clifton Carter is glumly pondering a most disconcerting financial problem.

The Democratic National Committee is more than $25 million in the red.
That's what the long-time political lieutenant of President Johnson is telling Democratic Congressional leaders seeking funds for colleagues facing tough election battles this year. According to Carter, the National Committee not only is broke but deeply in debt.

While not disputing this, the legislators are frankly baffled.

THEY ARE UNABLE to understand why an Administration that scored a landslide victory and big majorities in both branches of Congress only a little more than a year ago should be in such dire financial plight. Usually under such circumstances, by this time the election deficit has been paid off and the till again well filled.

But that's Carter's sad tale, strongly supported by Marvin Watson. The two Texans are the President's chief political trouble-shooters.

VARIOUS ACCOUNTS are afoot on the reason for this exceptional situation.
Some party leaders are attributing it largely to the President. They cite his cold-shouldering invitations to address fund-raising dinners and other gatherings, and his keeping Vice President Humphrey from doing so. Humphrey was set to make a swing around the country for this purpose last Fall, but it was abruptly canceled at White House insistence, according to backstage word.

Carter and Watson, incidentally, are pointing the finger at former Treasurer Richard Macquire, the Kennedy household who resigned last month to join a big law firm with offices in Boston and Washington. They are indicating he spent too much and collected too little.

THE FIRST THING they did after taking over was to slash the National Committee's staff, more than half. Around 50 were lopped from the payroll.

The wholesale economy saving was followed by the elimination of a number of expensive activities, foremost among them the voter registration bureau. This was justified on the ground civil rights organizations and labor unions are adequately taking care of this function.

CARTER IS SAYING a full financial report will be made to the National Committee when it meets in Washington in March.

During a change in party he will then be formally elected National Treasurer.

National Chairman John Bailey will stay on until after this year's elections. He is little more than a figurehead, and has been for a long time. Carter and Watson are running the committee.

BOBBY BAKER, recently indicted by a Washington grand jury on charges of money tax evasion, grand jury and grand jury, is currently waiting for the rubber stamp to be issued.

A legislative grand jury has been investigating the former Senate Finance Committee secretary for more than a year. His multi-phased motel is in Maryland.

There is no indication when this grand jury will act. But it is known several score witnesses have been interviewed, some of them prominent officials.

ATTORNEY GENERAL is expected to bring to President Johnson to publicly come out against capital punishment.

The President hasn't flatly rejected taking such a stand. But neither is he ready to make such a declaration, ardently advocated by the Kennedy family. The attorney general is not likely to do so.

He vigorously urged, incidentally, such a statement in the President's State of the Union message.

BUT AFTER looking at the Democratic Party's record and congressional record, the President decided against it. They pointed out the possible world conflict with communist China, and the danger of the United States which would have the death penalty.

In the book of eventually writing over the President, Katzenbach did succeed in adding his to the short paragraph dealing with capital punishment. As expanded the paragraph to the effect that the United States should not be the only country in the world to have the death penalty.

DON MILLER, Texas oil and gas executive, is a member of the Democratic National Committee. He is the only one of the committee who is not a member of the party.

Miller is the only one of the committee who is not a member of the party.

Miller is the only one of the committee who is not a member of the party.

Time Out To Laugh

THE GUARD at the entrance to the Boss Long Island estate barred the way to a character leading by a halter, an enormous elephant. We don't allow no elephants in here," stated the guard in no uncertain tones.

Back came the character, the next day leading the same elephant. He had however, posted a slice of bread on the elephant's trunk, and another slice of bread on its tail.

"Didn't I tell you yesterday," growled the guard, "that we don't allow no elephants in here?"

"So what?" said the character. "This isn't an elephant. This is a sandwich."

No matter how dismal things may appear on the surface you may rest assured everything will turn out for the best. My own father believed this with all his heart for all of his life. He died in the poorhouse, but while they were digging his grave, they struck oil!

KAMPS KUTUPS: From Vanderbilt.
Mother: "I am, your hair is all mussed. Did that young man kiss you against your will?"
Lena: "Well, mother, HE thinks he did."
From Dartmouth.
Doctor, signing his first death certificate: "Shall I confine my affidavit to the fact that he is dead?"
Graduate student: "No. Merely state that you treated him."

He: "How did you get to be a nudist?"
She: "I was born that way."

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Going West Makes Sense

SOME WESTERN communities may feel left out of today's hustle and bustle, but by leaving that isolation from the more crowded parts of the country is a handicap. But actually it may prove to be an asset, says Robert P. Gerholz, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Mr. Gerholz expressed this opinion recently in an address in Idaho. He had the Intermountain area in mind when he made the statement, but what he said can apply as well to other sections, including parts of the Great Plains.

The Chamber of Commerce official said the future growth of the Intermountain area is assured, because it has plenty of what is becoming a rare commodity—a "open space." He predicted that it will be the places with open space to offer which will be the fulfillment of man's search for Camelot, the perfect place to live.

Mr. Gerholz urged his listeners to start getting ready now for what he said would be a "wide open space" resulting from a combination boom and migration to cities from newly mechanized farms. All this will occur before population and urban sprawl can double by the year 2000, he declared.

As an example of technology and in transport, changes in the character of goods and services, he said, "will make industry feel home in the years to come. And employees will be even more so."

In fact, the very absence of factories, which you probably deplore as a liability, could be an asset in the future as a result of developments almost certain to come out of our rapid technological progress.

Mr. Gerholz cited a report from the State of California by the North American Aviation Company. It indicates that advanced communication devices and systems permitting instantaneous transmission of data will allow many employees to perform their jobs at home, perhaps hundreds of miles from the central office. This, he said, may mean that a person's job will no longer be a main factor in his choice of where he wants to live. He may well be able to live year-round at his favorite vacation spot. This would truly be the better way of life we are always talking about.

It must be admitted that Mr. Gerholz's approach to this subject is unique, but it makes a lot of sense. If it is true that people in the overcrowded sections are looking for more "living room," as we are often told, it is logical that they should go to places which have open space to offer. And the West is about the only part of the country that does.

The West's alleged isolation from the rest of the country, which Westerners have been inclined to deplore, ultimately may prove its greatest attraction for people from the congested areas. If Westerners are wise, they will "bear down" on this fact in making their bids for new citizens and new businesses.

WHITNEY BOLTON:

Pocket-Sized Tape Recorder Opens Amazing Possibilities

NEW YORK—A man I once met in Duesseldorf, West Germany, said that if it weren't for the reason the tape took it, a tape recorder could be as small as a thumb. He flew into New York the other day and telephoned to say that he wanted to show me something.

We went to lunch and he reached into his pocket and brought out a tape recorder not much larger than a cigarette lighter. A little longer, thicker and wider, but not much.

"WE ARE getting there," he said. "The miniaturization. Look at this. Talk into it. Play it back and listen. You'll be amazed at the quality of the sound. It will carry about 28 minutes of tape on a package you snap in. There's no winding of tape on spools and threading it through a sound head and all that."

Just a device for instant recording of anything you might wish to say, and might forget later. Writers, business executives, film makers, all kinds of people. How many times have you had a thought, liked it, said to yourself, I must remember that, and an hour later can't recall it? That's what this is for.

REMEMBERING that the first super-small radios, the tiny ones that hang around the neck on a cord, were about $50, I looked at this astonishing little hand-sized item and privately guessed at the price. My estimate was not less than $100, probably $115, I asked him.

"Under $50," he said. "We may in time shave a little more than that off it. It's just under $90, but under."
"And the Japanese?"

"NOT YET," he said, smiling, "but we can hear them panting right behind us. Another six months, a year, they may even make it smaller and more lightweight than this. Heft that in your hand and tell me what you think it weighs."

I hefted it, loaded with tape, and said I would guess a pound even, maybe 15 ounces.

"It's 13," he said. "We tried to trim another ounce so we could say three-quarters of a pound but could not find the ounce to carve out. It's down, in this model, to basic weight now. If we thinned out the case, replay would sound tiny. Shall we need that much body in the case to keep the sound rich?"

I PUT it in my pocket to see how it would feel, took it out, pushed the start button, held it near my mouth and talked. Then I stopped it, pushed the replay button and listened. The voice coming back had timber and honesty. It was not a vibrating and tiny sound.

"I wish you could cut away maybe three more ounces somewhere," I said. "This is fine at this weight for winter, you know; you can put it in

WILLIAM S. WHITE:

Danger Lies In Grabbing

WASHINGTON—No matter how the experts in the dismal science of economics may poke and thump the new Federal budget, up and down and sideways, two central realities emerge.

One is that, given anything like a continuation of the strong condition of business, the government can afford both the expenditures for guns and the slight increases for butter—that is, the welfare measures of the Great Society—which the Johnson Administration is asking.

THE OTHER is that if there is any real danger—and indeed there is—that danger is not in the budget but rather in the possibility of an inflation that would make money buy much less than it does now. Everywhere one looks, the statistics—corporation earnings, take-home pay, employment—are blazingly bright. If anything, they are too bright.

Seven months of work by President Johnson and his associates have brought forth a budget which involves a spending of $112.8 billion but at the same time forecasts a deficit of only $1.8 billion, as against $6.4 million for the fiscal year before.

THIS IS no result of legerdemain. For while spending in some categories is going up, $4.7 billion is being squeezed from other categories, in part through the stout efforts of Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara.

So there is nothing wrong with the bookkeeping and the budget as such a point which President Johnson has been putting to business friends, who have not yet privately challenged it.

Paraphrasing, what is really open to challenge is not the size of the budget but rather the wisdom of demanding even a small rise in butter spending while Viet Nam is the core of national concern.

MANY BELIEVE—this columnist among them—that while we can afford more butter as a simple matter of economics, it is still not good, as a matter of public policy, to ask for more butter now. A valid debate could and ought to come in here. But most of the President's critics have been preoccupied with such giant and memorable issues as whether the White House switchboard is being too noisy with callers on the telephone and whether the President's style is tough enough.

Still, the central question is not the budget, with or without butter trimmings, but whether there is going to be so much money flooding about as to super-heat the economy to a point where Federal controls must be clamped on.

NOBODY WANTS to see this, but it is no good pretending that it could not come. The government can do something to hedge against the necessity for controls. It has, for illustration, just raised the interest rate on Government bonds to 5 1/2 per cent of the hot private money.

In the end, however, the only effective way to hold the line is for business and labor voluntarily to restrain excessive profit-grabbing and pay-grabbing. Business might do it if labor would. Labor might do it if business would. But when the Administration pressures industry to force unreasonable price increases, a bowl goes up that free enterprise is being violated.

AND WHEN a labor union like the transit workers in New York blackbooks for itself an obviously inflationary wage rise, what happens? Mayor John Lindsay gives in and his apologists bring out a bookkeeping device to pretend that isn't inflationary after all.

So the clock is at about a quarter to 12, and the specter of Federal controls is looming at say, three minutes after midnight. It is hard to free the economy of controls once on. To avoid them only requires a small degree of common sense self-restraint now. The next few months will show whether the country has that small degree of common sense.

Portraits . . .

TOO EARLY
Oh, I know it is too early. To be thinking of the Spring. But my heart for Spring is yearning. More than anything, I am weary of the snowfall. Of the cold and sleet and ice. And I deeply hope the weather soon is turning nice. I am sick of seeing branches which are black and bare and lean. And I long for fragrant flowers. And their leaves of green. I can scarcely wait for the Spring. That tender warm and sunny. And to see the clouds of purple. In the heaven's strings. Oh, I know it is too early for the Springtime to appear. But my heart with utmost patience, keeps on yearning here.

RUTH MILLETT:

We—The Women

A LOT OF men enjoy pretending that they are henpecked husbands, but you can tell a husband who is really henpecked very easily.

His wife never lets him drive the car without help. If he chooses one route, she insists that another way is better, and he meekly goes her way.

He sits with a miserable-looking smile on his face while his wife regales her listeners with the latest thing he has managed to do all wrong.

HE LEAVES a party no matter how much fun he is having, when his wife gives him the signal. And he does it without protest.

His wife sets him straight on point after point whenever he starts to tell a story. Sometimes, he gets up enough courage to say, "Well, you tell it." And his wife jumps in and takes over without a blush.

He has learned that it is easier to take his wife with him when he goes to buy a suit than to listen to her complain about how the new one looks like all the others he has in his closet. When she goes along, she decides in no uncertain terms what suit it shall be, and it isn't the one he likes best, either.

HIS WIFE HAS no confidence in his ability to do anything outside of his regular job and is forever poking fun at his attempts to do the simplest kind of handyman jobs.

No matter what he earns, his wife makes it sound as though it's not enough, and the only reason the family gets by is due to her good management.

It's easy to spot a hen-pecked husband, even though the man who is really hen-pecked never claims to be.

Middle-Aged Man Faces Countless Frustrations Without Mechanical Savvy

By HAL COOPER. A minor moment in the office... NEW YORK (AP) — A man claims that if you should get diagnosed man of small intestine everything set right...

Obvious Remedy. The obvious remedy is to get simple, sturdy, mechanical... for setting words down on the page...

Any fool in the office could... A man with an engineering operate a typewriter, and many electrical engineers and said...

One of the new breed was fasted off on this corner recently by the office manager...

It must weigh a good 35 or 40 pounds and at best only 25 percent is payload. The rest is window dressing to make the older typewriters look obsolete...

Merely setting the margins requires the use of no fewer than four buttons and toggle switches. These are easily confused with a bristle of similar devices for varying the touch tension, starting up the windshield wiper, turning on the built-in radio and raising the windows...

So far it has proved impossible to master the combination, and the typewriter just sits there in smug idleness.

Finkel Sizzles As Dayton Trounces Loyola

LOOKING OVER THE TROPHIES
Willie Mays, Left, And Sandy Koufax, Honored

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's getting close to voting time for the 1966 college basketball All-America. One of the leading candidates is Henry Finkel of the University of Dayton Flyers.

The 6-foot-11 senior from Union City, N.J., demonstrated his finesse Tuesday night in pacing Dayton to an 85-57 home court triumph over Los Angeles Loyola.

The 23-year-old Dayton star missed just one shot as the Flyers chalked up their 14th victory against only three defeats to maintain their status as one of the country's leading independents. He made 12 of 13 tries from the field and got four-for-four from the foul line. That added up to 28 points.

Finkel, a "proven star" in the words of his coach, Don Donohue, will face sterner opposition Saturday night when the Flyers invade Philadelphia to battle the St. Joseph's Hawks, fifth-ranked in the Associated Press poll.

None of the AP Top Ten teams saw action as the mid-year examination lull continued.

Ron Williams, West Virginia's star sophomore, sparked a fast break with 24 points to lead the mountaineers to an easy 90-79 road victory over Pitt. Larry Szykowny tossed in 29 points for the losing Panthers.

Alabama also won on the road, beating Mississippi State 71-63 in a Southeastern Conference game. Creighton and Villanova, each playing at home, beat LaSalle and St. Peter's of New Jersey, respectively.

Wally Anderzunas' 27 points paced the Bluejays over LaSalle's Explorers 104-90. Bill Melchioni got 23 points for Villanova in the Wildcasts' 94-66 conquest of St. Peter's. It was victory No. 1,000 for Villanova since the Philadelphia Main

SANDY NAMED AS TOP PITCHER

Koufax, Mays, Alston Get Awards At Houston Dinner

HOUSTON (AP) — Sandy Koufax and praised by baseball men at an awards dinner.

Koufax, who has arthritis in his right arm, was presented the Dickie Kerr Award by the Houston chapter of the Baseball Writers of America. It is given to the outstanding pitcher in the major leagues.

Willie Mays, San Francisco center fielder, who was presented the Tris Speaker Award for his contribution to baseball over the years, called Koufax "the greatest."

"Sandy is always good to me," said Mays. "If he has a four or five-hitter he may let me have a hit or a comfortable strikeout."

Walter Alston, Koufax's manager, was given the Rogers Hornsby Award for the World Series outstanding personality.

CIRCUIT COURT ACTS

Braves Lose Another Round In Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin has a legal siege gun in place today after winning another battle in its war to keep baseball from abandoning Milwaukee as a major league city.

A decision by Circuit Court Judge Elmer W. Roller cleared the way for a temporary injunction designed to block the shift of the Braves from Milwaukee to Atlanta.

League president, said the decision was "not unexpected." He refused to say anything more on the case.

Baseball may challenge the ruling by asking for a review by the State Supreme Court. Such a motion would not necessarily affect the trial date, a matter which remains in Roller's hands.

It also opened the gates to a full scale judicial review of baseball's unique exemption from antitrust laws.

Conference Sought

Roller, who refused Tuesday to dismiss the state's antitrust action against the Braves and the National League, also had been expected to rule on the injunction sought by the state.

He declined, explaining that he first wanted to confer with counsel for both sides "to determine whether there are any further developments."

By developments, Roller was apparently alluding to the possibility of a pretrial settlement that would assure Milwaukee a future as a city with a major league team.

Should there be no settlement the trial is scheduled to open in Roller's court Feb. 1.

Baseball officials had little in the way of comment on the ruling. Warren P. Giles, National Should an injunction be granted pending the outcome of the trial, the Braves would be faced with contradictory court orders in two different states and the National League would be faced with still another legal headache.

A Fulton County, Ga., court has already ordered the Braves to fulfill their contract with Atlanta authorities by playing their 1966 home games in Atlanta Stadium.

Refers To Ruling

Roller referred to that injunction in his ruling Tuesday, saying that Georgia authorities have no direct legal interest in the Wisconsin case.

Thomas A. Reynolds, Jr., Braves' executive vice president, also cited the Fulton County injunction Tuesday in commenting on Roller's ruling. Reynolds predicted the Braves would open the season in Atlanta.

Wisconsin officials were elated by the decision.

"We are moving forward with all possible speed in preparation for trial," Atty. Gen. Bronson C. La Follette said. "By this decision MILWAUKEE Page 5

Harry Walker, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was presented the Eddie Dyer Award as the comebacker of the year. He called Koufax "now the greatest in the game."

Donatelli Gets Award

"I hear about his bad arm all the time, but it is always well when I come around", Walker said.

National League umpire Augie Donatelli received the Bill Klem Award for his 16 years as a major league umpire.

He noted the capacity crowd and jokingly told Koufax "Hey, Sandy, I sure can pack them in, can't I?"

"I want to point out," Koufax said in acceptance, "that the Dodger victory was made possible by 25 guys."

Koufax had praise for Mays and said "Willie always tells me how tough it is to get a hit off me but every time I look up he is on second base."

Jim Wynn Picked

Mays mentioned San Francisco's second place finish behind Los Angeles and added "I don't think we lost the pennant — they won it."

Others receiving awards were Jim Wynn, Houston Astro center fielder, the Jim Umbricht Award for being voted the most valuable Astro; and Dave Johnson, a young Baltimore farm hand, who was voted the outstanding Texan in the minor leagues.

Joe Morgan, Houston second baseman, was presented an award from the Sporting News, which named him Rookie of the Year.

Chualo Loses To Argentinian

LONDON (AP) — The hopes of chunky George Chualo for a heavyweight title bout with champion Cassius Clay have received another ride setback.

The Canadian champion from Toronto was outpointed by little known Eduardo Corleth, a 24-year-old Argentinian, in a 10-rounder at Olympia Hall Tuesday night.

"I guess this has set back my program for a challenge against Clay, but that is still my objective," said the 26-year-old Chualo, who last year was defeated by Floyd Patterson and Ernie Terrell in two other bouts.

DeWitt Weaver Joins Video Forces

WHEELS HAVE BEEN turning hard, fast and late for a local electronics dealer named Bob Walker. The former Red Raider Club prexy and a pioneer in the world of video replay has seen his prized machinery face the scrutiny of one of the most powerful athletic organizations in the universe. And, he feels, it has survived the crucial first round of a fight whose formidability can not yet be accurately measured.

The NCAA rules committee studied carefully a recommendation that use of the video playback coaching aid be outlawed, then took no concrete action. Instead, it appointed a subcommittee to study further the device's attributes and drawbacks, then report back at a later date.

"That gives us a year during which we must do a tremendous job of selling this concept in its true light," Walker said yesterday, while testing out his buttons, switches and cameras on the Raider basketball team.

"And I am thoroughly convinced that if, in that length of time, we can't let this machine sell itself, we have not done a good job."

WHEN THE NCAA rules group met in Washington, Walker put his ammunition in the chamber and began immediately firing into the target.

There was not Walker's goal at least, not his primary one. No figures are available, but it's greatly improbable that he even as much as scratched the black of the ledger last season.

To Walker, as to such people as J. T. King, Frank Broyles, etc., the concept, not the dollar, is the target.

"If people fully understand this thing," King said, "there will be no attempts to legislate against it. Some claim that it will give one team an advantage, but I don't think this is the case at all."

"There was a time when they were saying the same thing about game films, telephones in the press box and a number of other things. The video people must educate them into this realization."

Which is in Walker's department.

DURING THE NCAA meetings, Walker hired former Tech coach athletic director DeWitt Weaver and turned over to him the task of making as many contacts as possible among his old colleagues.

This move, Walker feels, went a long way toward preventing the device from being outlawed immediately.

"I've had lined up representatives from all different kinds of industry, many not even associated with electronics, to meet with the subcommittee and with coaches across the country."

"I believe that once we have convinced them that this is no monster that will help only the money schools, the concept will be out of danger."

WEAVER WAS IN Lubbock yesterday, looking with Walker at the device as applied to basketball. The unit they were using was equally as effective as the one introduced a short while ago to football.

It had every capability and versatility, yet there was one basic difference. This rig sells in the neighborhood of $3,000, compared to 10 times that amount which represented the price of earlier units.

As time goes by, mass production and so forth will bring the price down even lower. It soon will be in every high school across the land, and it is greatly doubtful that any school that can afford to field a football team won't be able to use the video replay process.

WEAVER IS SOLD completely on the device, and has been since he first saw it in Jacksonville during the Gator Bowl week. He sold this corner then (and that was before he had even considered coming into Walker's employ). "If I were still coaching, I wouldn't be without it."

DeWitt has moved to Dallas since changing jobs, moving back to Texas from Mobile, Ala., where he has lived since resigning in 1961 as Tech athletic director-head football coach.

The NCAA is not the first organization to scrutinize carefully the machinery's assets and liabilities. It has been banned by the American Football League, which without direct legislation against it, has made the provision that one team could not utilize its advantages without making it at the same time available to its opponent.

The AFL will open soon further discussion on the matter, submitting it to a similar study as the one underway by the NCAA. The final decision of either group is yet to be made, but Walker isn't sweating it.

"I have a lot of faith in this thing," he said. "I believe that all it needs is a chance to sell itself."

The NCAA and AFL have now given it that chance.

Gale Winds, Rain Forecast For Lucky Open Pro-Am

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Whole gale winds and heavy rains were predicted for today's start of the Lucky International Open Golf Tournament in San Francisco.

That's enough weather to dampen the spirits of not the games, of this year's top money winner Arnold Palmer who won in Los Angeles, Bill Casper who won in San Diego and Don Massengale who won at the Crosby in Pebble Beach.

They are all in the Lucky series putting starts. The odds are if the weather is as forecast, the rains will favor the tournament directors. "So I don't want a pro that will be bothered by my game." He was in a foursome with professional Mike Souchak.

They started early on the Harding Park golf course. The regular tournament will be over 72 holes for $50,000. The winner will receive $7,500. Palmer's return was expected to bring sizable crowds to the Harding course if the weather clears up. Palmer is off to a fast pace with his $11,000 winnings from Los Angeles and second place money in the Crosby. He finished with three birdies on the Pebble Beach course, but failed to overtake Massengale.

Along with Palmer, Casper and Massengale are Tony Lema, Ken Venturi, Gene Lister, Chi-Chi Rodriguez and defending champion George Archer.

Venturi shot a practice round 70 Tuesday. He did not participate in the Crosby last week, because he feared cold weather would affect his ailing hands. Venturi has been bothered with a circulatory ailment. The weather at the Crosby was ideal.

WALLEYE FISHING in Texas? The chances look mighty favorable. Just recently, Panhandle fishery personnel set their nets in 40 to 50 feet of frigid water in Lake Meredith and caught 42 frisky walleye with their stomachs full of tiny shad, according to Project Leader Lonnie Peters.

Apparently growing steadily, most of the 42 fish caught were 10 inches long. When released by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department less than a year ago these fish specimens were about the size of mosquito larvae.

Surprisingly, one walleye caught weighed over three pounds and was 18 inches long. Biologist Peters surmised that the large walleye was not a native Texas, but had come downstream in the Canadian River from New Mexico, where it will have been growing for a number of years.

WILEE LAKE MEREDITH has been the scene of a "fish boom" in several lakes. In several lakes, 100 to 200 fish are being caught daily. The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is now conducting a study of the fish population in the area.

About three months ago, Texas Parks and Wildlife officials found Lake Tawakoni water too highly mineralized for many fish species. Excessive mineralization had been caused by West Texas winds had sucked moisture from the lake and left a heavy salt deposit of mineral residue.

Officials are now studying the problem of mineralization in the lake. They are looking for ways to reduce the salt content of the water.

Clandiani's reserves got a workout against the MHS bulls in the final period as the Bulldogs outscored the Plainsmen, 10-8.

That Game Friday, Monterey and Amarillo, both unbeaten in league play, will square off Friday in a game that could well mean the second half title. The Sandies were idle Tuesday night.

The Monterey Lancers edged the Plainview 'B' team, 48-46, in a preliminary affair at Monterey Gym. Jimmy Gressett hit for 14, Ricky Dyer had 12 and Gary Wright, 10, for the winners.

Yannigans Trip CHS

Coronado and visiting Amarillo B fired at the basket with abandon Tuesday in Monterey Gym but the local Mustangs came out on the short end of the score-wise and scoreless, 64-47, in a District 3-AAA junior varsity cage duel.

The loss brought the loop record of Coach Carl McMillan's charges up to an even 9-9 while the Yannigans rolled on undefeated.

Holt Leads Mustangs Coronado managed a 30 per cent showing from the field to the visitors' 48 per cent. From the charity line, the Mustangs outpointed their opponents, 17-14, which was not good enough to make up the difference.

Sammy Holt and Mark Leaverton paced the locals with 13 and 10 points respectively and Gary Kirksey added eight to the effort.

Defense Stock Up On Mart

NEW YORK (AP) — Continued strength in aerospace issues and airlines featured an irregularly higher stock market early this afternoon. Trading was heavy.

Analysis saw the list as having improved as it approached the "psychological barrier" represented by 1,000 in the Dow Jones industrial average.

Defense Stock Booms The big boost in the nation's defense budget continued to boom the defense stock, however. Airline stocks were said to have received additional encouragement from President Johnson's request for the repeal of the 2-cent a gallon tax on gasoline used by airlines.

The trend among steel and auto was a little lower as industrial oils, tobacco and nonferrous metals were irregularly higher, chemicals lower.

The market reached its best at the end of the first hour, then began to trim gains. The Dow Jones industrial average was up 1 1/4 at 11 A.M. EST, but by noon had cut its rise to 67 at 92.31.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 5 at 368 3/4 with industrials up 5 1/2, up 7 and utilities unchanged.

Airline Gainers As the defense stocks moved up, Boeing spurred 4 points, United Aircraft and Douglas Aircraft 2 or better.

Among the airlines, United rose more than 2, Pan American and American more than a point each.

U.S. Steel's report on earnings brought no strength to the stock which sank a point. Bethlehem, which reported on earnings during the session, sank nearly a point.

Ford and General Motors were fractional losers along with duPont and Standard Oil (New Jersey).

McKesson & Robbins started 1 1/2 to 5/8 on a delayed opener of 14,600 shares on news of a tender offer at $51 a share for its stock from Foremost Dairies. McKesson kept the gain in later dealings.

Philip Morris, which proposed a 14-1 stock split also was delayed in opening and ran up 3 points.

IBM, which surged yesterday on news of its 3-to-2 split, added another point. Palomar rose about 2 1/2, Kennecott and International Nickel a point each.

Prices were irregularly higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange. O-Krop Copper gained 2 1/2, about a point were Pacific Northern Airlines, Aerojet-General, Conduction, Harris-Corbin and Atlas Consolidated Mining.

Salt Lake Devco, last week's American Bank nearly 4. Western Equities was down more than a point. Massey Ferguson and National Video were fractional losers. Up fractionally were Brazilian Traction, Balfour, Alaska Airlines and Peruvian Oil & Minerals.

Corporate bonds were mostly unchanged. U.S. Treasury bonds were unchanged to a shade lower.
