Resolution scrapes by senate

■ Tech senators put rec center referendum on ballot

BY CAREN CARNEFIX
The University Daily

Unexpected discussion at Thursday night's Student Senate meeting almost tabled a resolution that would allow students to vote on a $25 recreation fee.

Senators raised concerns about the wording of the referendum to be placed on the March 4 Student Government Association election ballot.

The referendum gives students the opportunity to vote for or against the fee, which would go to fund student recreational center renovations.

time limit of the fee.

"We need to have in there that the fee is not infinite," said Freeman, a senior engineering major from Farmington, N.M. "It will pass more readily."

Although the fee will end at some point, the exact number of years it will be charged was not specified because

Clint Freeman, a senator at large, initiated debate because the referendum did not explain the the information could not be obtained in time for Thursday's vote.

Russell Thomasson, SGA president, urged senators not to table the resolution.

Waiting until the next meeting, which won't be until Feb. 12, may not give printers enough time to include the referendum on the election ballot, Thomasson said.

"It's imperative that we do take care of this tonight," said Thomasson, a senior accounting major from Lubbock.

"We will have to go out and educate the students before the election."

Senators were divided about tabling the resolution, but after a role call vote, the motion to table failed.

Senators went on to adopt the resolution.

"The students should know what's going on," said Senator-at-Large Chris Wright, a senior management information systems major from Austin.

"If they have questions, they will have plenty of time to ask us. If people read the referendum, they'll understand that paying the fee is something we need to do. I think that will sway the opinion."

Grand jury exonerates fraternity member

BY CAREN CARNEFIX
The University Daily

A Lubbock County grand jury has cleared a Texas Tech Pi Kappa Alpha member accused of raping a female Tech student at a fraternity social function last semester due to a lack of evidence.

The victim told police she was raped Nov. 21 in an upstairs room of the Baker Building during the Pike-sponsored Fireman's Ball.

The woman said the former suspect invited her to accompany him to one of the rooms for a quieter place to talk. She said he sexually assaulted her, although she repeatedly told him to stop.

The grand jury's decision Wednesday closes the case unless new evidence is found.

The decision surprised Matt Powell of the Lubbock County District Attorney's Office, who led the prosecution.

"We were somewhat surprised, but we're not going to quarrel with that decision," Powell said. "We felt, obviously, that there was enough evidence for an indictment."

District attorney officials obtained the offense report, witness statements and lab reports to present as part of the prosecution, but that was not enough to convince the grand jury, Powell said. However, had the former suspect been indicted, the next step would have been making a formal plea to the charges and proceeding with a trial.

Rape is a second degree felony that results in two to 20 years in prison and up to a $10,000 fine if a person is convicted.

Although the victim can file a complaint with the university under the Campus Crimes Act of 1990, Tech Associate Dean of Students Greg Elkins would not confirm or deny if the victim has taken action because of confidentiality.

"In any situation, a student can file allegations against another student," Elkins said.

If a complaint is filed, Dean of Students representatives would gather information and review the reported incident before finding a student in violation of the Code of Student Conduct.

Possible disciplinary actions for violations include disciplinary reprimand, probation, suspension and expulsion.

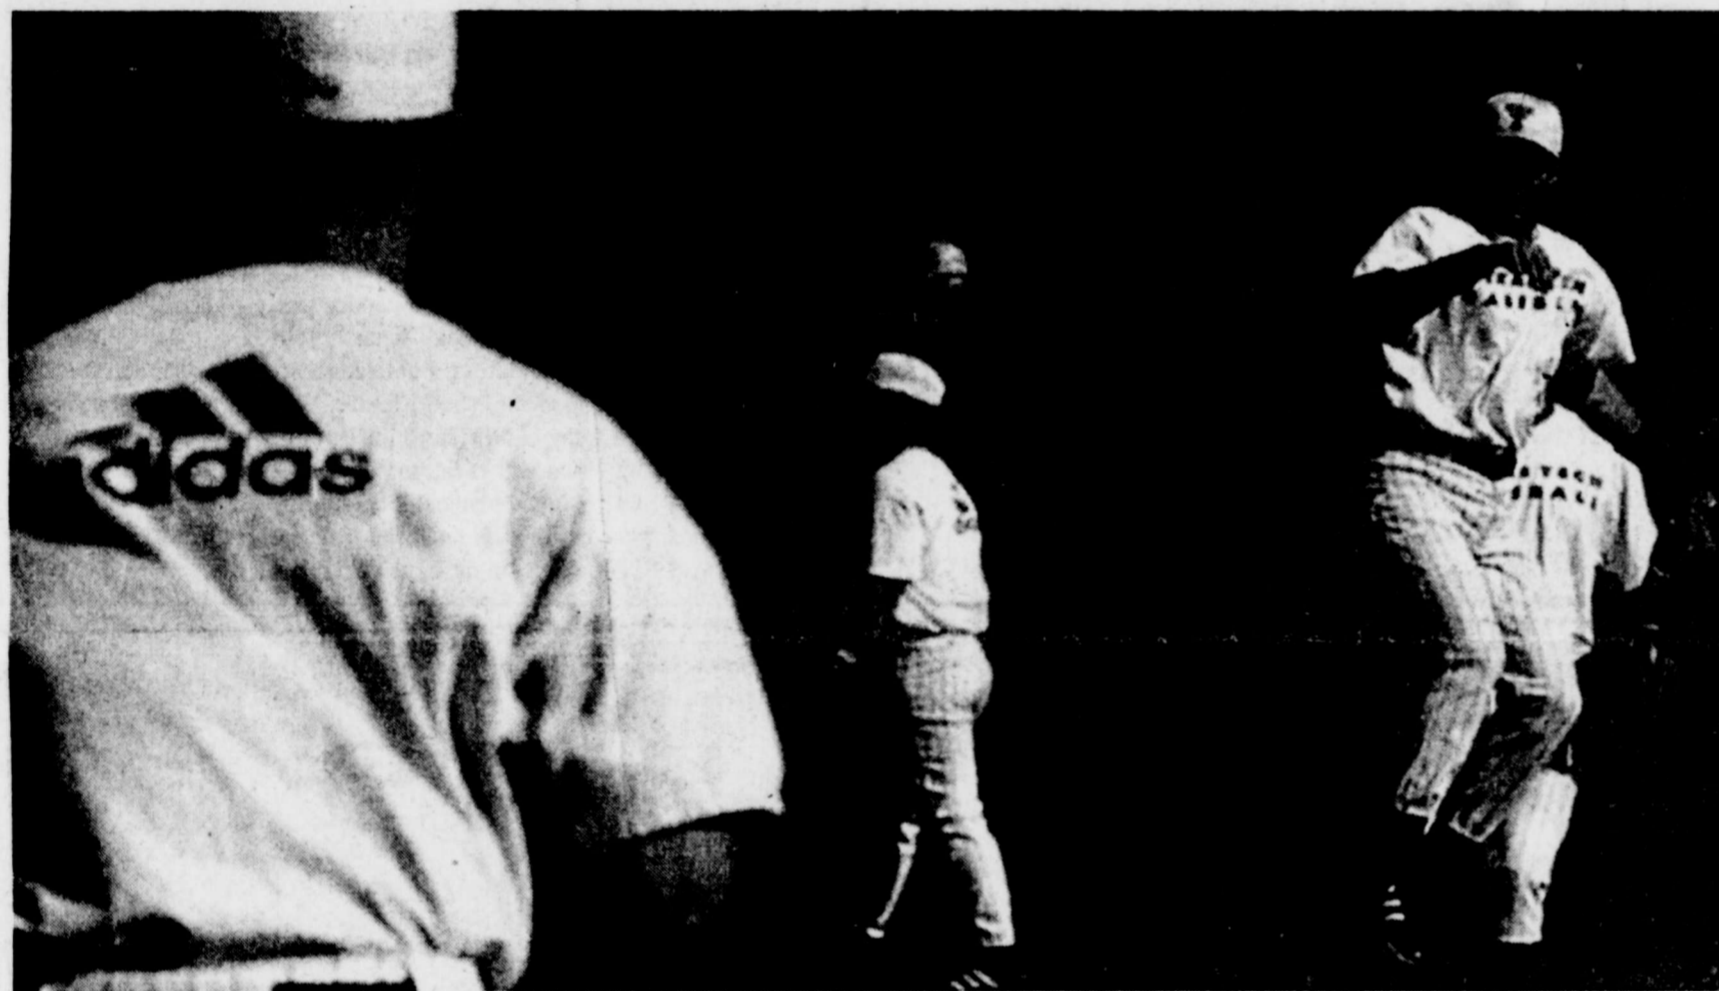

Pike Chapter Adviser Tommy J. Turner said after reviewing the evidence, he was not surprised by the grand jury's ruling.

"I'm not at liberty to disclose it (the evidence)" he said, but "I'm satisfied that the grand jury did the right thing."

Turner said public comment on the incident would be counter-productive to the investigation and could hinder authorities trying to do their job. The incident has not led to any changes in the fraternity's procedures, he said.

"We didn't do anything as a result of this incident."

Turner said the fraternity, like the university, cannot change the behavior of new 18- and 19-year-old freshmen.

Roe vs. Wade lawyer tells her side of story

BY JAMES WALKER
The University Daily

Twenty-five years after the landmark abortion decision Roe vs. Wade, the lawyer who won the case spoke to Texas Tech students Thursday about an issue that is still the subject of fierce debate.

"If you had told me that I would still be talking about this 25 years later, I would not have believed you," Sarah Weddington told the crowd at the University Center Allen Theatre.

At the time Weddington tried the case before the U.S. Supreme Court, her legal experience consisted of uncontested divorces, wills and an adoption for her uncle, she said. She never expected the case to reach the Supreme Court.

The three main issues of the case were the right to privacy, the fundamental nature of pregnancy and whether the state had a compelling reason to regulate abortion,

Weddington

Next she argued that nothing affected the lives of women in a more fundamental way than pregnancy, she said.

Finally, she argued that the law never had treated fetuses as people, she said. For instance, a pregnant woman leaving the country only needs to apply for one passport, and couples only receive a tax deduction for children after they are born. The justices agreed, 7-2, and history was made.

Today, because of recent court decisions, states can regulate abortion more strictly than after Roe v. Wade, Weddington said. The future of the decision rests in the hands of future presidents and their Supreme Court appointees.

"The issue is not whether we all agree, because we don't," she said. "The issue is who gets to make the decision."

Not all students who attended the presentation were happy about Weddington's appearance. About 10 students from the College Republicans and other conservative groups were on hand to express their opposition to the event and question Weddington.

"We think there's something fundamentally not right with our student fees going to support something we don't agree with," said Cameron Graham, chairman of the College Republicans.

Carrie Kilman, coordinator of the presentation for UC Programs, said the presentation was part of a series on women's issues. Part of the goal of UC Programs is to expose students to viewpoints different from their own, Kilman said.

Tech admissions director retires

■ Medley will miss people at school

BY DANIEL KERR
The University Daily

Gene Medley, Texas Tech's longtime director of admissions and records, will clean out his desk for the last time today.

Medley, who has been director for 18 years and associate director for three years before that, said he will miss the office's staff the most.

"The people who work over here are good and honest people and don't get much credit for it," he said. "The folks over here know what to do, and they do it right. It's an upfront, active operation. That's why I think they're the best."

After his retirement, Medley said the only plan he has is not traveling the country or visiting Europe — it is finding another job.

"That's what the folks over here (at Office of Admissions and Records) are saying. 'Oh, you're going to get a real job," he said. The admissions and records staff, Medley said, will have no trouble coping with his absence.

"The admissions and records staff at Texas Tech is, without a doubt, the most efficient professional team of any institution of higher education in Texas," he said.

"I just float around. I could get away with anything because they are so efficient."

Although Medley, who received bachelor's and master's degrees from Tech as well as a doctorate in education, will miss his staff, he will not miss everything.

"This particular area — admissions and records — is not like some areas that are low profile. Everything we do, someone doesn't like it," Medley said.

"Some of the stressful things will not be any chore to leave."

Robert Ewalt, vice president for student affairs and Medley's boss for 21 years, said Medley has been dedicated to Tech for many years.

"He has been very dedicated to Tech and not only overseen the operations, but helped a great number of students solve a great number of problems," Ewalt said.

Medley, Ewalt said, has surpassed his responsibilities as director of admissions and records.

To address the issues of recruitment, enrollment and retention, Medley's former turf, Ewalt said, the Tech Board of Regents established a new division.

"Several months ago the board of regents made the recommendation that the university establish a division of enrollment management to pull together those activities involved in recruitment, enrollment and retention," Ewalt said.

Bombing at Alabama abortion clinic kills guard

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A powerful bomb exploded at an abortion clinic Thursday morning, killing an off-duty police officer who had just arrived for his moonlighting shift as a security guard and critically injuring a nurse.

It was the nation's first fatal bombing at an abortion clinic.

The blast, which blew a crater in the ground and shattered windows and shook walls a block away, came just a week after the 25th anniversary of the Supreme Court's decision in Roe vs. Wade legalizing abortion.

"It felt like lightning had hit the building," said Lindsey Thompson, who was at a University of Alabama at Birmingham dormitory when she heard the blast.

Nearby dorms and a day care center were evacuated for fear of a second, delayed bomb blast.

A year ago, two bombs went off an hour apart at a clinic in Atlanta, injuring seven in the second blast. That bombing is still unsolved. Hours after the explosion in Birmingham, the surrounding area remained sealed off while bomb experts in masks and heavy protective gear combed it over.

"We still have a hot scene. We're being very cautious because of what happened in Atlanta," said Brian Lett of the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

The bomb went off about 7:30 a.m. at the New Woman All Women Health Care clinic, rocking nearby buildings at the university and leaving a crater outside the clinic's blackened, wrecked entryway. The explosion occurred as clinic employees were arriving but about 30 minutes before doors normally open to patients.

Longtime Tech administrator hangs up his hat

■ After 46 years in Lubbock, Davenport ready for retirement

BY JONATHAN CARROLL
The University Daily

Davenport

When Monty Davenport began at Texas Tech in 1952, he was an undergraduate and a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Forty-six years later, Davenport retires today from Tech as the vice president of operations. He has served in his current position since fall 1996 and has worked at the university for 38 years.

"Monty has made a tremendous contribution to the university in a lot of ways," said Tech President Donald Haragan. "He is the type of administrator who works hard to complete projects and doesn't seek credit for a job well done. I hate to see him go."

Davenport first came to Tech in 1952 as a mechanical engineering undergraduate and graduated in 1956.

After graduating with a bachelor's degree, he didn't begin working or attending graduate school — he started teaching at the university level.

In 1957, Davenport taught mechanical engineering in the same classrooms he had been an undergraduate just a year before.

Because of a shortage of mechanical engineering teachers, when Davenport graduated in 1956 from Tech, he was hired as an instructor in the mechanical engineering department.

"It was a real good opportunity for me to really firm up the knowledge I had gotten from the program," Davenport said. "There's nothing like teaching to really learn it. You learn more teaching a course than you do taking it."

After teaching for a year, Davenport then went to Stanford University, where he received a master's degree in 1958 and a doctorate in 1962, both in mechanical engineering.

Davenport came back to the university in 1961 and joined the College of Engineering as a professor of mechanical engineering.

He has served in numerous positions at Tech, including associate dean in the College of Engineering, senior associate vice president, associate vice president for research and special programs, in addition to assistant to the dean of engineering.

"I've had a lot of fun," he said. "Being in one place for so long, I've had a lot of roles. I think it's a little unusual."

Davenport said the people are what he will miss the most.

"It just keeps coming back to people. I used to think when I heard old coots like me saying that I'd think that was kind of silly, but I've come to the same conclusion," he said.

His plans for retirement are uncertain, he said.

"I just want to kick back and take it easy for a while. I'm not going to stay that way. I'm going to get into something," Davenport said. "I'd rather just kind of make some of the adjustments and then decide how I'm going to spend my time."

Citibus collides with car

BY GINGER POPE

The University Daily

A Citibus ran into a 1995 Ford red and white supercab pickup in front of the Texas Tech University Police Department just after 12:40 a.m. Thursday.

UPD Sgt. Dan Hale said two Tech students were on the bus, but no injuries were reported. The accident may have been caused by driver inattention.

The pickup, belonging to a UPD officer, was parked on the Drive of Champions in front of the station. The Citibus ran into the back of the pickup, damaging the pickup bed and cab.

John Wilson, general manager of Citibus, said the review process for the driver's capability already has begun.

"This accident was involving a physical object, so we take the driver through an object test again," Wilson said. "The driver will not drive until the review process is done."

Before they begin driving a Citibus, drivers go through 48 hours of classroom training, and then four to six weeks of driving with another operator on the bus, he said. Also, background checks are done on drivers' driving records.

Accidents involving a Citibus have occurred before, but these mostly have been minor scrapes and bumps on students' cars that are parked outside of lines, Wilson said.

"We take these situations very seriously. Safety is our first concern," Wilson said.

Russell Thomasson, president of the Tech Student Government Association and senior accounting major from Lubbock, said student services fees pay for the contracted service of Citibus.

"We do stay aware of the operation of Citibus," Thomasson said. "It seems like it was a problem with a driver, and I'm sure Citibus will handle the situation. So far, I have to give high marks to the service provided by Citibus."

Iraqis pledge to defend country; officials seek diplomatic solution

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraqis will defend their country "with expertise, faith and perseverance" if the United States attacks, President Saddam Hussein declared Thursday — adding that there was no reason for the United States to do so.

While the Clinton administration and Congress were laying groundwork for possible U.S.-led airstrikes on Iraq, Saddam was quoted as saying his army will fight "in a manner that will be a subject of admiration."

"They don't have any national interest or any justification to come thousands of miles to attack us," Saddam said. "(But) if the devil pushed these enemies to commit an evil act and an aggression on us, we will be forced to fight them with all our capabilities, expertise, faith and perseverance. ... Their aggression is against God."

His comments, reported by the official Iraqi News Agency, came at the start of Eid al-Fitr, a three-day holiday that marks the end of the Muslim holy month of Ramadan. Saddam spoke as he met with members of the ruling Baath Party, the Revolutionary Command Council and his Cabinet, the agency said.

Iraq and the United Nations are in a standoff over U.N. inspections intended to ensure that Iraq has eliminated its weapons of mass destruction. Baghdad was forced to accept the inspections at the end of the 1991 Gulf War, and tough U.N. sanctions imposed in 1990 are unlikely to be lifted until inspectors certify the programs have been dismantled.

Washington demands Baghdad provide U.N. experts with unconditional access to any site they wish to inspect, including Saddam's palaces, or face air and missile attacks.

Russia has had some success in mediating disputes between Iraq, the United States and the United Nations, and Russian Foreign Minister Yevgeny Primakov said he is optimistic a peaceful solution will be found.

Primakov, speaking in Spain, said a military attack on Iraq would be "very serious and very negative."

Primakov was to discuss the situation with Secretary of State Madeleine Albright in Madrid on Friday during her visit to Europe to explain the U.S. position to its allies.

Her visit was to begin in Paris, where Foreign Ministry spokesman Yves Doutriaux declined to say Thursday whether France would try to block any U.S.-led air strike. He repeatedly called the Iraqi stand "unacceptable" and an air strike "undesirable."

Defense Secretary William Cohen said in Washington that the United States still was seeking a diplomatic solution to the impasse. On Capitol Hill, lawmakers were considering a resolution to "take all necessary and appropriate actions to respond to the threat posed by Iraq's refusal to end its weapons of mass destruction programs."

Iraq's state-run newspapers said Thursday that fighting the United States was part of Iraqis' national duty.

Judge rules Navy can not dismiss homosexual

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the first such ruling, a federal judge said Thursday that the Navy violated the military's "don't ask, don't tell" policy, ruling that it wrongly dismissed a sailor for homosexuality based on an anonymous online message.

U.S. District Judge Stanley Sporkin's ruling Thursday made permanent a preliminary injunction he issued Monday, effectively barring the Navy from ousting Senior Chief Petty Officer Timothy R. McVeigh for alleged homosexuality. In his written opinion issued Monday, Sporkin found that "the Navy has gone too far" in investigating McVeigh.

The ruling came amid renewed accusations that the Navy is punishing McVeigh with demeaning jobs and exposing him to possible assault by former shipmates.

Sporkin's decision marks a first in the history of the Pentagon's 1993 "don't ask, don't tell" policy on gays in the military. Unlike previous cases that challenged the policy's constitutionality, McVeigh challenged the Navy's enforcement of it.

"This is the first time a district court judge has ruled that any service has violated its own rules under 'don't ask, don't tell,'" said attorney C. Dixon Osburn of the Servicemembers Legal Defense Network, an advocacy group assisting McVeigh, who is no relation to the convicted Oklahoma City bomber.

Lawyers for the Navy reserved the right to appeal but accepted the court's ruling, a concession that appeared to end the effort to oust the 36-year-old sailor, who faced dismissal after 17 years on active duty.

In the earlier cases challenging the policy's constitutionality, three appellate decisions have upheld "don't ask, don't tell;" two other cases are pending. In another case, the Navy settled and reinstated a female sailor prior to a final court ruling.

Sporkin found that because McVeigh's AOL profile page was anonymous, the sexually suggestive statements did not constitute a public declaration of homosexuality.

Agriculture program good for West Texas

CHARLES MELTON/
COPY EDITOR

Thursday U.S. Agricultural Secretary Dan Glickman made a wise move in a week that has been marred with the failures of politicians — he announced the addition of 5.9 million acres into the Conservation Reserve Program.

In spite of the numerous rumored cutbacks in the Department of Agriculture, Glickman exercised some rare common sense and decided that preserving highly erodible land is worth more than saving a few bucks in the federal budget.

Out here in West Texas, everyone feels the results of poor land management practices when those lovely spring winds blow that nasty sandy grit across their faces and turns the sky an ominous shade of brown.

Ever since its inception, the CRP has been more than just a Band-Aid on a cut that requires stitches; it's been just what the doctor ordered to keep the soil where it belongs — on the ground not flying up in the sky.

Just ask the people who lived in Lubbock and the surrounding area what life was like before CRP land came along.

They might break out in a rendition of the "Tumbling Tumbleweeds" and tell you about days the sun couldn't break through the clouds of dust.

Now ask them what they think about life with CRP land.

They might just start singing the theme song from "Happy Days" and a crack a pearly white, toothy grin.

CRP has made that much difference.

For those who happen to think CRP is just another form of farmer welfare with no real benefit to anyone other than the farmer receiving his government check, think again.

It's been said that if you take care of the land, it will take care of you, and if you abuse it, you'll lose it and more. So it just makes sense to take care of the land.

The government isn't just paying farmers not to farm, it's providing them compensation for preserving the environment, providing habitat for wildlife and keeping the skies from being saturated with dirt.

Thursday's announcement by Glickman was a step in the right direction that will pay big-time dividends in the future.

So the next time a dust storm hits Lubbock, just smile and think of how bad it would be without CRP.

What's it matter?

Clinton's character does not set policy

JASON LAWRENCE/
NEWS EDITOR

I'm calling off my presidential bid for 2012.

When I was about 7 years old, I had this crazy idea that I wanted to be president of the United States.

But now, I wouldn't even think about taking the job, just because I wouldn't want the media bulldozers pulling all the skeletons out of my closet.

Today, it seems like an elected official's job performance has become a secondary consideration. The American people, and especially the media, have placed too much emphasis on a politician's character, rather than his or her policy.

President Clinton's sex scandal is just the latest example of this.

The economy is healthier than it has been in years, crime is on its way down and the world is relatively at peace.

But just because he may have had an affair with some 21-year-old intern, the media is saying this "crisis" could bring down his presidency.

Should we really worry about what Clinton does when he's not on the job?

No.

As long as his job performance is good, we really shouldn't even care what Clinton is doing with his dog

Buddy in the Rose Garden.

Over the last six years, conservatives and the religious right have battled Clinton's character more than his policy.

Why? Because conservatives know the character issue is the only one they can beat Clinton on.

That's a tactic they've long used to hide their policy shortcomings. Take their hero, Ronald Reagan, for example.

Conservatives always point to him as the country's savior.

Nevermind that the man screwed the country by running up trillions of dollars in debt.

And nevermind that he escaped any serious punishment for selling arms to terrorist Iran by saying, "I don't remember."

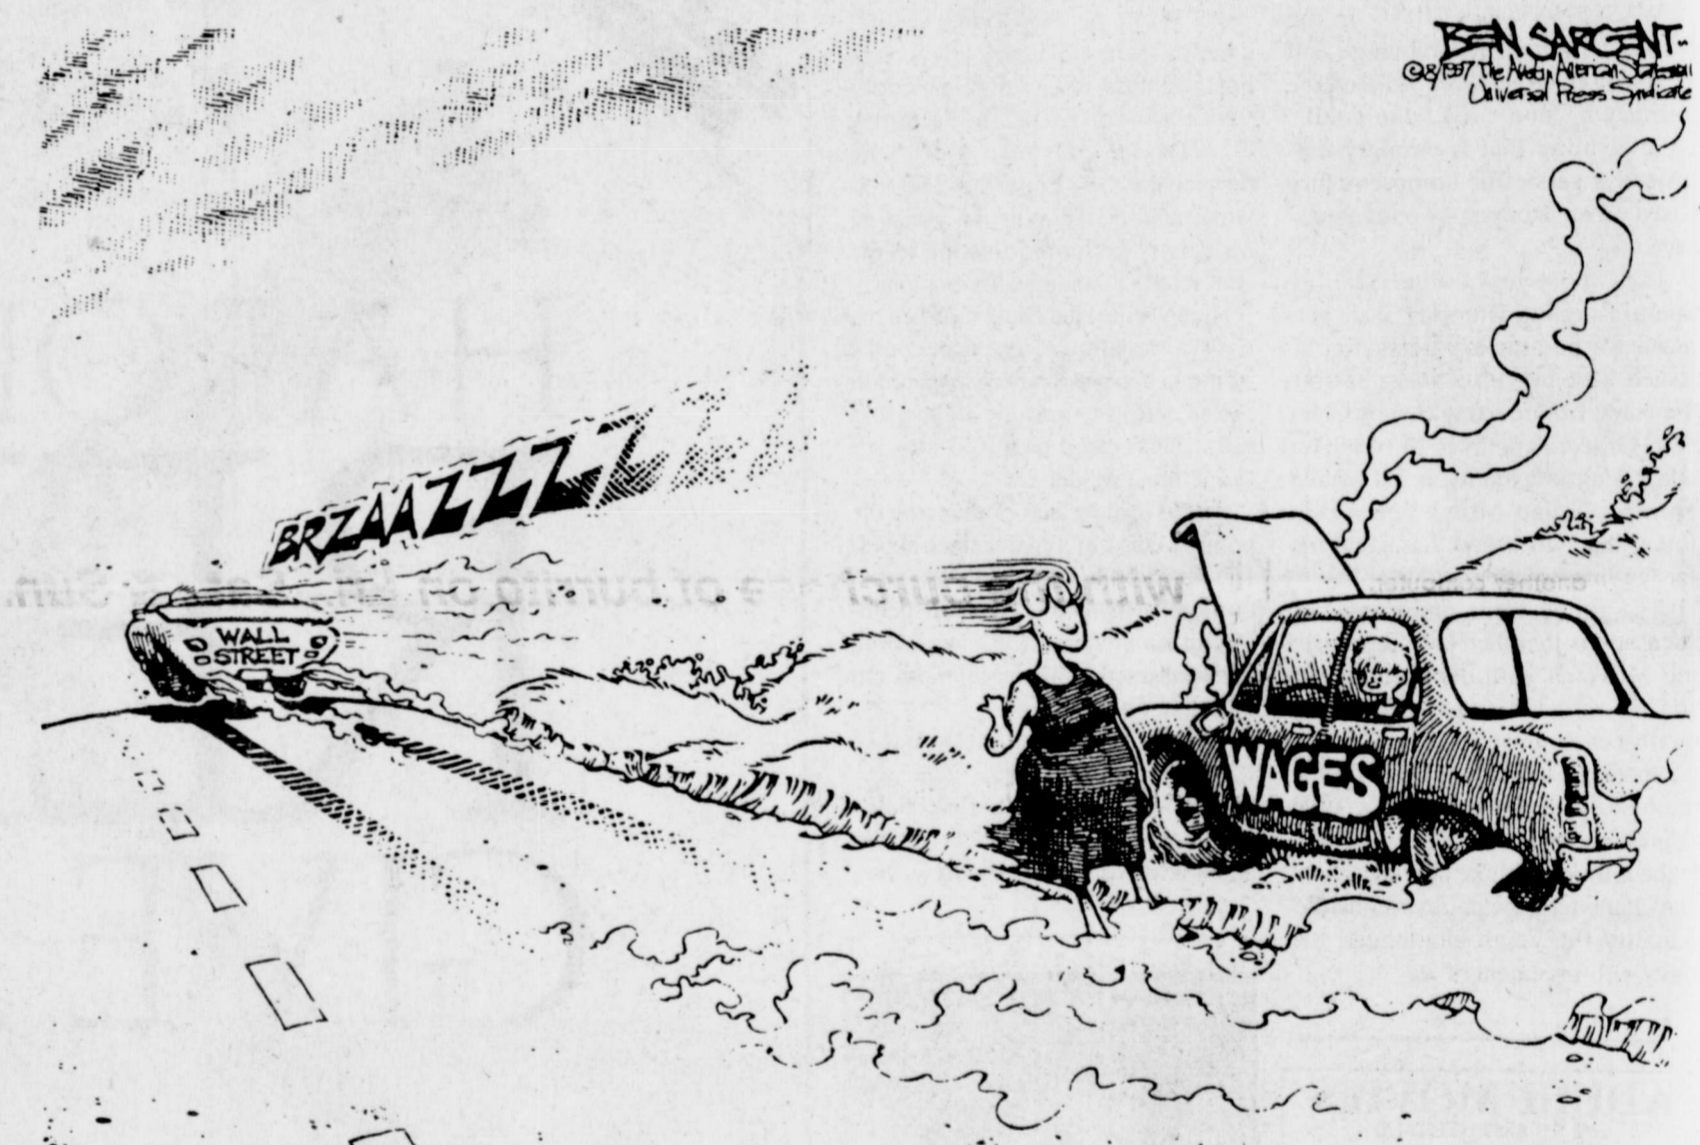

These people say Reagan was a good president just because he didn't get caught with his pants down.

Reagan's lack of sound policy was masked by the appeal of his character.

So maybe Clinton should start advocating morals rather than his current agenda. And then when it comes time for him to answer these latest charges, he can just say he doesn't remember.

Hey, it worked for Reagan.

INTERNATIONAL EDITORIAL ROUNDUP

Expressen, Stockholm, Sweden, on President Clinton:

The previous time that an American president had to depart prematurely, Nixon, the people's trust of politicians in particular and government in general tumbled. Only an intensive cold war and Ronald Reagan's hard line toward communists could recreate a part of the trust that is necessary for a government.

The right in the USA now of course hopes for the same reaction. But whatever happens with Bill Clinton, it is not at all sure that the scandal opens the door for the rightwingers who want to reduce state welfare programs and focus more on traditional family values. ...

Bill Clinton may fall, in any case he is severely injured. But the economic and social conditions indicate that the Democrats' ideas have a future. And that feels good for the world. The leadership in Washington governs not only the USA, they also have a strong influence on the ideological climate in all of the Western world.

Corriere della Sera, Milan, Italy, on Hillary Rodham Clinton's appearance on NBC:

During her NBC interview, Hillary (Clinton) has proven herself an exceptional politician, wife and mother. Her words were clear and strong.

The Lady Macbeth of Little Rock, as her enemies call her because of her toughness, has been Bill Clinton's muse and his ace of spades.

Hillary is feared and viewed as unkind.

But she has an iron strong sense of family and an innate sense of power. It may have not been easy for her to face the country but she did it with the same determination with which she protects her daughter Chelsea.

It is too early to say if Hillary has repeated the miracle of 1992, when the first scandal exploded with Gennifer Flowers.

Nevertheless it is clear that Hillary, with her dignity and determination, under the capable direction of her entourage, has enchanted most of America.

Bill may not one of the best Presidents in history, but Hillary is definitely one of the best First Ladies.

The Sydney (Australia) Morning Herald, on U.N.-Iraq stand-off:

U.S. President Bill Clinton has been placed in an unenviable position with respect to the latest stand-off between President Saddam Hussein and the U.N. weapons inspection team in Iraq. If Clinton orders a military strike to force Iraq's compliance with the team's mandate, he risks the serious accusation of having made war only to distract attention from the controversy over his relationship with former White House intern Monica Lewinsky.

If, on the other hand, he doesn't take a tough stand with Baghdad — and that may eventually require a show of force — he could be criticized for weak leadership and for placing more importance on his own image than on the responsibilities of his office. Hussein, unsurprisingly, isn't helping matters. By predicting that Clinton will use force against Iraq as a diversionary tactic, the Iraqi leader is conveniently overlooking his own contribution to a stand-off that looks set to escalate into a crisis.

Basler Zeitung, Basel, Switzerland, on Cuba-pope:

The visit of the Catholic Church's highest authority to Fidel Castro's revolutionary island has put the Cubans, their everyday life, and also the 'comandante en jefe,' at the center of world attention for the first time in a long time.

It is without doubt a success for Cuba, and at the same time a slap in the face for pro-blockade U.S. politicians.

The visit has again brought to mind the laughable nature of arguments for the embargo — a justification that has been left behind in Cold War patterns of thinking.

Whom does Cuba threaten today? No one outside its own borders. Castro now defends only his own interests, which as far as the island's sovereignty are concerned are certainly those of all Cubans.

Something old, something new

Bridal fair assists couples in preparation for approaching wedding day

You need flowers, a dress, a cake, food, two rings and a limo. In the end, you will need a fantastic honeymoon to escape from all of the hassle of planning a wedding.

Many brides, when faced with the task of planning a wedding, may seem overwhelmed.

But the fourth annual Lubbock Bridal Fair will be offering help this weekend for those lost people wanting some answers.

The fair will be 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday at the Lubbock Municipal Civic Center.

The fair will feature 50 booths from local merchants presenting wedding accessories.

"People can come and visit and ask questions instead of running around town," said bridal fair chairman and photographer, Robert Suddarth.

"It's a great time for a bride who is planning a wedding to get all of her info all in one place."

Suddarth said he has received hundreds of calls since Christmas from brides planning weddings for this summer.

"This is a perfect time of year if you are starting to plan a wedding for the summer or if you are wrapping up a few loose ends," Suddarth said. "It's not a pressure type deal either.

★ Lubbock Memorial Civic Center
★ Saturday 1 p.m. - 5 p.m.
★ Sunday 1 p.m. - 4 p.m.
★ Tickets $4

You can take your time and look." Depending on the size of a wedding, it can take many months to plan for the event and to get everything in order.

Suddarth said the sooner a couple begins planning, the easier and smoother the wedding will be. "Everything that is involved in a wedding can be found down there," Suddarth said. "There are several merchants in every category, so you can compare their prices and services. They will even book your wedding right there. It's one-stop shopping."

The idea of hosting a bridal fair began four years ago when the Lubbock Bridal Service Associates formed.

The associates, which consist of local merchants, wanted to help brides in Lubbock who did not know where to begin shopping.

"We are here for brides who are lost and would just start going through the phone book and start calling people," Suddarth said.

"We are just kind of like a group of advisers. We refer brides to other businesses, tell them where the best places are to go."

Tickets to the event cost $4. For more information call 795-4553.

Teens engage in oral sex after teacher leaves room

MOODY (AP) — Two students engaged in oral sex during an English class when the teacher left the room, school officials confirmed.

Superintendent Marcus Anderson said Wednesday that a 16-year-old boy and a 15-year-old girl were suspended from school for three days and assigned to an alternate school because of their actions.

Detective Janet Smith said the case will be turned over to juvenile authorities for consideration of possible charges.

Public lewdness is a Class misdemeanor punishable by a fine of up to $4,000 and up to a year in jail.

Smith said about 20 classmates witnessed the Jan. 20 incident during a sixth-period class.

The teacher reportedly left the classroom for several minutes to make a telephone call.

Eight bands to help celebrate annual bash

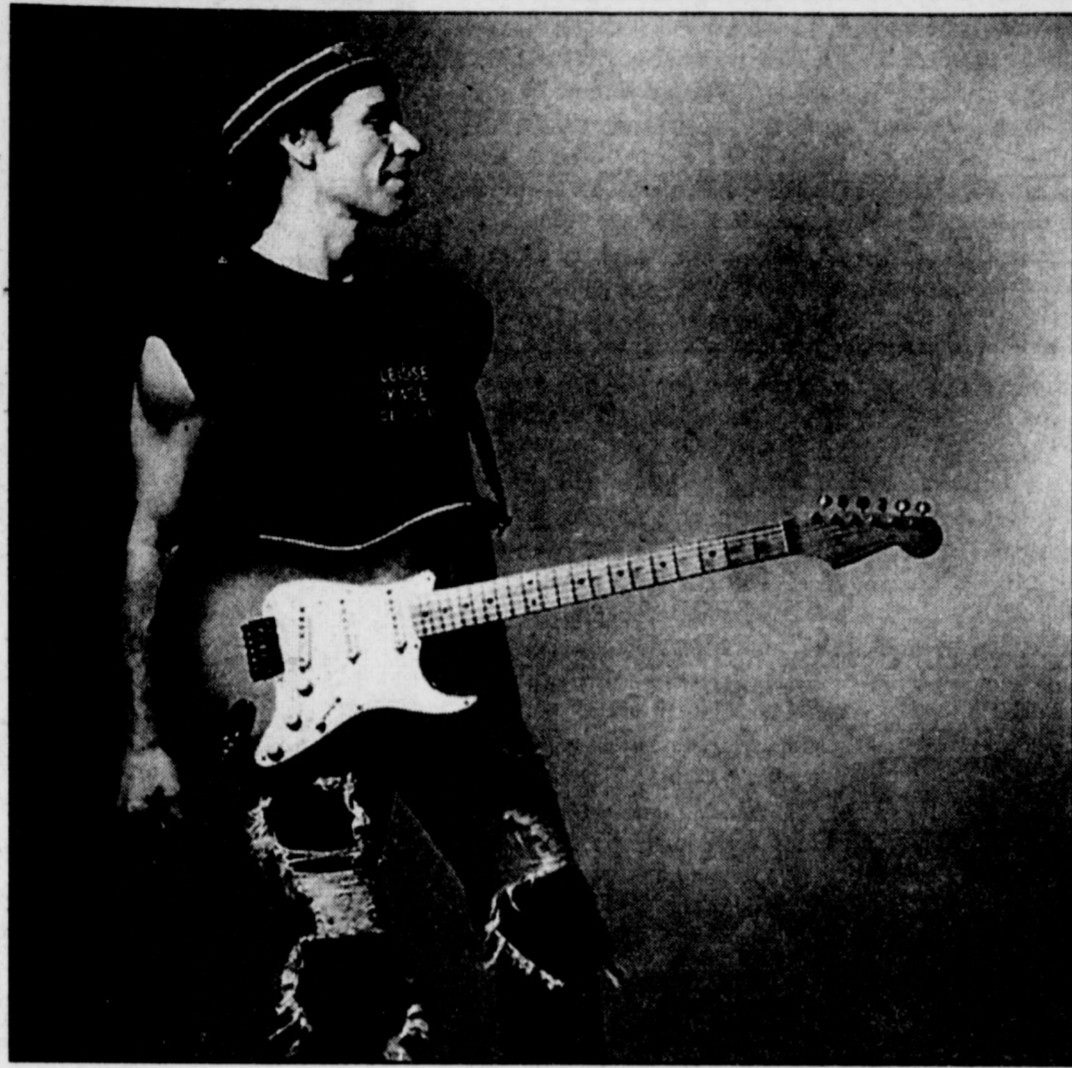

BY SEBASTIAN KITCHEN
The University Daily

No matter who may be on stage, people always come out for a night of music and surprises at the annual KFMX-94.5 Birthday Bash.

"Some people only come out twice a year, New Year's and the Birthday Bash," said Wes Nessman, program director for FMX.

"Some people come no matter who is playing."

Tonight, The Nixons will headline the 17th annual FMX Birthday Bash.

- The Nixons- 12:30 a.m.- 2 a.m.

"Lubbock is one of the places we have always enjoyed," said The Nixons lead singer Zac Maloy. "The people are always crazy."

Other bands scheduled to play include the Jason Bonham Band, Chris Duarte Group, The Hunger, Drop Zero, Hells Bells, Bad Opie and Tribal Citizen.

Jason Bonham is the son of the late John Bonham of Led Zeppelin. Jason Bonham and his band sing many Zeppelin songs.

Chris Duarte is one of the top blues guitarist touring today. Duarte is quite popular in Lubbock and growing numbers of fans come to see him play.

The Hunger bring with it a lot of energy and power. Lead singer Jeff Wilson and his brother, keyboardist and vocalist Thomas Wilson, captivate audiences with their presence.

The event will take place at Liquid 2000, 1812 Ave. G, formerly the Palladian and the Iridium, and next door at the 19th Street Warehouse.

Entertainment will alternate between the two venues. Tickets cost $14 in advance at both locations of Ralph's Records, 909 University Ave. and 3322 82nd St.; University Records, 2414 Broadway; Stubb's Bar-B-Q, Interstate-27 and 19th Street; and Liquid 2000. Tickets cost $15 at the door.

"This almost always sells out," said promoter Lane Arnold.

"They always get a huge turnout for this. This is a great price for eight bands."

For 17 years, the Birthday Bash has been a part of the Lubbock music scene and has included the likes of Ugly Kid Joe, White Zombie and Filter, Green Jello and many more, Nessman said.

Months of planning go into the event which features prizes, surprises and the eight-band lineup.

"No matter who comes, it's always a good show," Arnold said.

Many bands and many memories have made the event memorable for the thousands of people who attend every year.

This year, like past years, is sure to leave an impression on concertgoers.

CRAMPED DORM ROOMS LINKED TO PSYCHOTIC BEHAVIOR

Scientists have discovered that living in cramped spaces may cause serious side effects, ranging from slightly paranoid to dangerously psychotic behavior.

In a recent experiment, lab rats were forced to live in small dorm room-like containers for several semesters, only coming out to eat in crowded rat cafeterias or share a bathroom with dozens of other rodents.

The majority of rats suffered from an acute case of irritability, while several showed signs of aggressive behavior after snuggling at for simply looking at him the wrong way. Richard Schtinkenmeir, a professor at the Flint Behavioral Center, estimates that thousands of college students all over the

JEFFERSON 1-888-367-4342

JEFFERSON 1-888-367-4342

Schtinkenmeir also adds that "people have been subjected to worse conditions in the past, like the '70s for instance."

While researchers concede that rats do not necessarily mirror the same side effects as humans, most scientists believe that when given the choice, most people would opt for living quarters somewhat larger than a coffin, and generally don't like taking Resort-style pool, hot tub, in-suite washer/dryer and spacious 1, 2, 3 & 4 bedroom floor plans. Keep suffering, or call 1-888-367-4342.

Men's tennis team prepares for start of spring season

The Texas Tech University men's tennis team will start the 1998 schedule at 6 p.m. Saturday at New Mexico when the Red Raiders battle New Mexico.

"I already feel that this spring is like no other spring at Tech," said Tech Director of Tennis Tim Siegel.

"I couldn't be more pleased with the attitude and work ethic from the team. But there really couldn't be a tougher opening opponent than New Mexico."

The top four returning men include sophomores Adam Baranowski and Ryan Shupe, who helped the Red Raiders garner their third NCAA Tournament birth in four seasons.

Rounding out the top four returning players are junior Petar Danolic and senior Tylir Jimenez, who will provide the much needed leadership on the relatively young squad.

Top newcomers to the squad include Casey Biorkman, a sophomore transfer from Arizona State, who helped the Wildcats advanced to the semifinals of the NCAA regionals last year, and freshman Borut Martincevic from Slovenia.

"We will definitely surprise some people this year," Siegel said of Tech's chances to improve on last season's 11-14 mark. "My won-loss record is insignificant to me as long as the players play hard and take care of business."

The Red Raiders will participate in their toughest February schedule in the history of the program when they face six ranked opponents in eight outings.

Red Raiders seek revenge against Bears

BY BRENT DIRKS
The University Daily

Coming off a huge 80-60 win against Missouri Wednesday, the Texas Tech men's basketball team will try to break the Baylor curse when the Red Raiders battle the Bears at 12:30 p.m. Sunday at the Ferrell Center in Waco.

The game will be broadcast by Big 12 TV and will be shown locally on KJTV-34 (Cox Cable Channel 10.)

After the win over the Tigers, Tech coach James Dickey said the Red Raiders (9-8 overall, 3-4 Big 12) need to focus on Baylor.

The Bears defeated Tech 90-78 Jan. 13 in Lubbock off the strength of 25 points from Baylor center Brian Skinner.

The game marked Baylor's second straight victory against Tech, with the first being a 77-76 overtime triumph last season in Waco.

"They came in here and beat us on our home court," Dickey said of the Bears. "You can't allow things like that to happen. We need to be ready on Sunday."

The Bears (10-8 overall, 5-3 Big 12) may be coming into the game licking some wounds of their own.

Baylor was pounded by No. 5 Kansas 94-47 Wednesday at Allen Fieldhouse off 21 points from Kansas forward Raef LaFrentz. Skinner could only manage a team-high 13 points.

The Red Raiders were dismissed in almost an identical fashion, 88-49, Saturday at Allen Fieldhouse while LaFrentz lit the court up with 31 points and 15 rebounds.

Skinner is fourth in the Big 12 in scoring, averaging 18.7 points per game while pulling down a Big 12-leading 10.1 rebounds per contest.

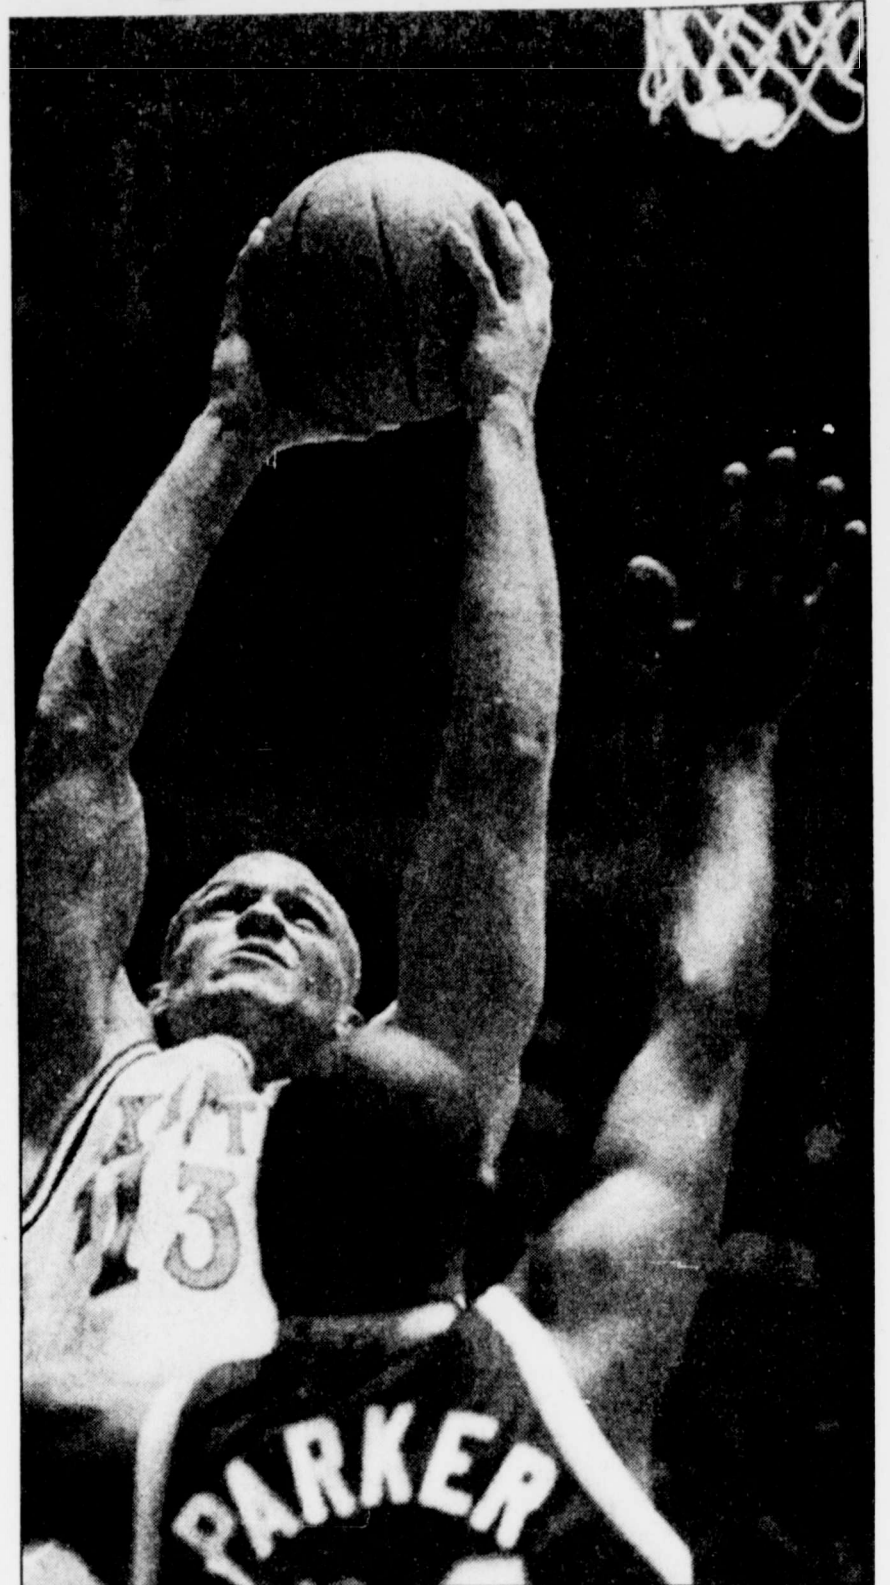

Aiding the Bears to their first possible trip to the NCAA Tournament since the 1987-88 season is guards Patrick Hunter and Rodrick Miller who are averaging 13.7 and 12.2 points per game, respectively.

After defeating the Tigers, who had beaten such quality teams as Kansas, Maryland, Iowa and Illinois this season, Tech guard Cory Carr said the Red Raiders are beginning to show more intensity on the court.

"We're just hoping for the best," said Carr, the Big 12's leading scorer with 23.4 points per game. "We thought we hadn't been playing with intensity the whole season. This game (Missouri) was very intense. There was a lot of emotions riding on this game."

Along with Carr, Red Raiders point guard Rayford Young is beginning to find his shooting stroke for Tech.

After scoring a combined eight points in the previous two Red Raider games, the sophomore from Pampa scored a team-high 27 points against the Tigers.

Slam time: Texas Tech's Cliff Owens goes up for a guaranteed two points. Greg Kreller/The University Daily

Old faces return for alumni game

BY HEATH ROBINSON
The University Daily

Texas Tech baseball fans can get their first peek at this season's squad and cheer for some old heros Saturday when the 1998 Red Raiders take on an 18-member alumni team.

The game is scheduled for a 1 p.m. start at Dan Law Field. Admission to the game is free.

Headliners on the alumni team are recent stars Joe Dillon and Matt Kastelic.

Dillon led the 1997 team to a No. 1 ranking while hitting .393 with 33 home runs. His performance earned All-America honors, and Dillon was named the first-ever Big 12 Player of the Year. Dillon will play first base in the game.

Kastelic will play outfield. He is well-remembered for his stellar 1996 season, when he led Tech to an NCAA berth. Kastelic won the 1996 Southwest Conference batting title and was named All-American. He remains Tech's all-time leader in career stolen bases.

Coach Larry Hays said it will be entertaining to see some of the old faces back again.

"We always have a good time with this game," Hays said. "A lot of the alumni come back in great shape, and some don't. But it's always a lot of fun, and it's usually competitive."

Other alumni team members are Ryan Brewer, a pitcher from 1995-1996, pitcher Jimmy Frush, 1994-1997, and outfielder Chris Shuffield, 1997. For the 1998 team, this will mark its first chance to swing the bats in a game, although it won't count in the standings.

The Red Raiders may wish to sneak Dillon's power back into the lineup, as this season's starting nine may not pack the punch from last year. However, there may be more team speed.

"I'm not so worried about the power," Hays said.

"Obviously, we are going to miss what Joe Dillon gave us last season. Most teams would, but there are areas where this squad can make up the difference."

Some of the players aren't worried about seeing Dillon again.

Pitcher Shane Wright, who may not see action in the game, said he will be looking to strike out some of his old friends.

"It'll be a lot of fun to see the guys again," Wright said. "Some of them we still know really well. I know there will be a lot of pride on the line. This is a game you don't want to lose."

It also will act as Tech tune-up for Tuesday's opener at New Mexico. Coming into the season, Tech is ranked eighth by Baseball America, ninth in the USA Today Baseball Weekly/ESPN preseason coaches poll, 10th by The Sporting News and 17th by Collegiate Baseball.

"That stuff doesn't mean anything," Hays said of the preseason rankings.

"It's nice to see you're getting noticed as a program, but as long as the season is, there are too many games to be worried about where you are before they even start. We're just looking to get out to a fast start."

Dallas coach search expected to continue

IRVING (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys coaching search carousel is expected to spin into next week with owner Jerry Jones still trying to replace Barry Switzer and now needing an offensive coordinator to fill Ernie Zampese's job.

Green Bay Packers offensive coordinator Sherman Lewis interviewed with Jones for a second time Thursday.

It brings Lewis even with former San Francisco coach George Seifert and former UCLA coach Terry Donahue with two interviews each.

Jones also has another staff opening to fill because of Zampese's departure to the New England Patriots with one-year left on his Dallas contract. Dallas was 20th in the NFL in offense last year and next-to-last in the league in scoring touchdowns inside the 20-yard line.

Zampese came to Dallas three years ago after Norv Turner left to take the Washington job. Zampese got a Super Bowl ring when Dallas beat Pittsburgh 27-17 in Tempe.

"Much of the success that this decade has enjoyed in this decade can be credited to Ernie's philosophy, both prior to his arrival and in the last few years," Cowboys spokesman Rich Dalrymple said.

Red Raider track teams travel to Colorado for Rocky Mountain Cup meet

The Texas Tech men's and women's track teams travel to Colorado Springs, Colo., this weekend to compete in the Rocky Mountain Cup.

The meet is hosted by the U.S. Air Force Academy and will run this afternoon and all day Saturday.

This will be the first meet of the season away from home for the Red Raiders, who last weekend swept the Red Raider Indoor Invitational. The conditions will be more adverse in Colorado, where the elevation is 7,048 feet.

In Saturday's Red Raider Invitational, the Tech women defeated second-place UTEP by 30 points, while the Tech men tied Texas for first.

Among those teams competing in the Division I category are Air Force, Alabama, Tech, Wyoming, Colorado, Wichita State, Long Beach State and Utah State. Arkansas' women's teams also will compete.

The Tech men's and women's squads each will suit up 14 healthy members. It will be the first appearance this season from junior runner Amber Affeldt. Last year, Affeldt was Tech's lone NCAA qualifier, when she competed in the 800 meters.

Also returning for the men's team will be sprinter Desmond Johnson. Last season, Johnson earned All-America honors in both the indoor and outdoor 400.

The Challenge

Four top women's basketball teams square off in Big 12/Pac 10 Challenge

BY BRENT DIRKS
The University Daily

This time around the Kansas women's basketball team may hope the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum is a more hospitable place.

After receiving a 72-56 pounding by the Texas Tech Lady Raiders Jan. 24, the Jayhawks hope to have better luck when they take on No. 10 Arizona at 3 p.m. Saturday in the first game of the Big 12/Pac 10 Challenge.

The game will be televised locally by the ESPN-2 cable channel.

Tickets for the entire event are not included in the regular student season ticket package and can be purchased for $10 at the Tech ticket office or at the door.

The Jayhawks (13-4 overall, 5-3 Big 12) are coming off 63-58 defeat of Texas A&M Tuesday at Allen Fieldhouse in Lawrence, Kan.

Kansas forward Lynn Pride led the Kansas scoring effort with 16 points while contributing six rebounds.

Like the men's program, the Arizona women's basketball program also has been successful this year, garnering a Top 10 ranking in both the Associated Press and ESPN/USA Today Coaches' Poll.

The Wildcats starting five are forwards Reshea Bristol and Adia Barnes, center Marte Alexander and guards Lisa Griffith and Monika Crank.

Off the bench for Arizona is Felecity Willis, DeAngela Minter, Mikko Giordano, Shontey Hambrick, Monique Page and Amber Phoenix.

The University Daily

For the No. 5 Texas Tech Lady Raiders, revenge has been sweet this season as they have defeated four teams that handed them a loss last year by an average of 26 points per contest.

Revenge will definitely be on the minds of the Lady Raiders as they host the No. 9-ranked Stanford Cardinal at 5 p.m. Saturday in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum in the second match of the Big 12/Pac 10 Challenge.

Tickets for both games of the challenge are not included in the regular student season ticket package and are $10. They can be purchased at the Tech ticket office or at the door.

Stanford eliminated the Lady Raiders from the 1997 NCAA Tournament last March after a convincing 67-45 thrashing of the Lady Raider squad.

"Last year, we weren't supposed to win, and we didn't," said Tech junior guard Rene Hanebutt on last year's loss to the Cardinal. "We're a completely different team this year."

The Lady Raiders are coming off an impressive road victory against Oklahoma State, in which the Lady Raiders outbounded Oklahoma State 42-25.

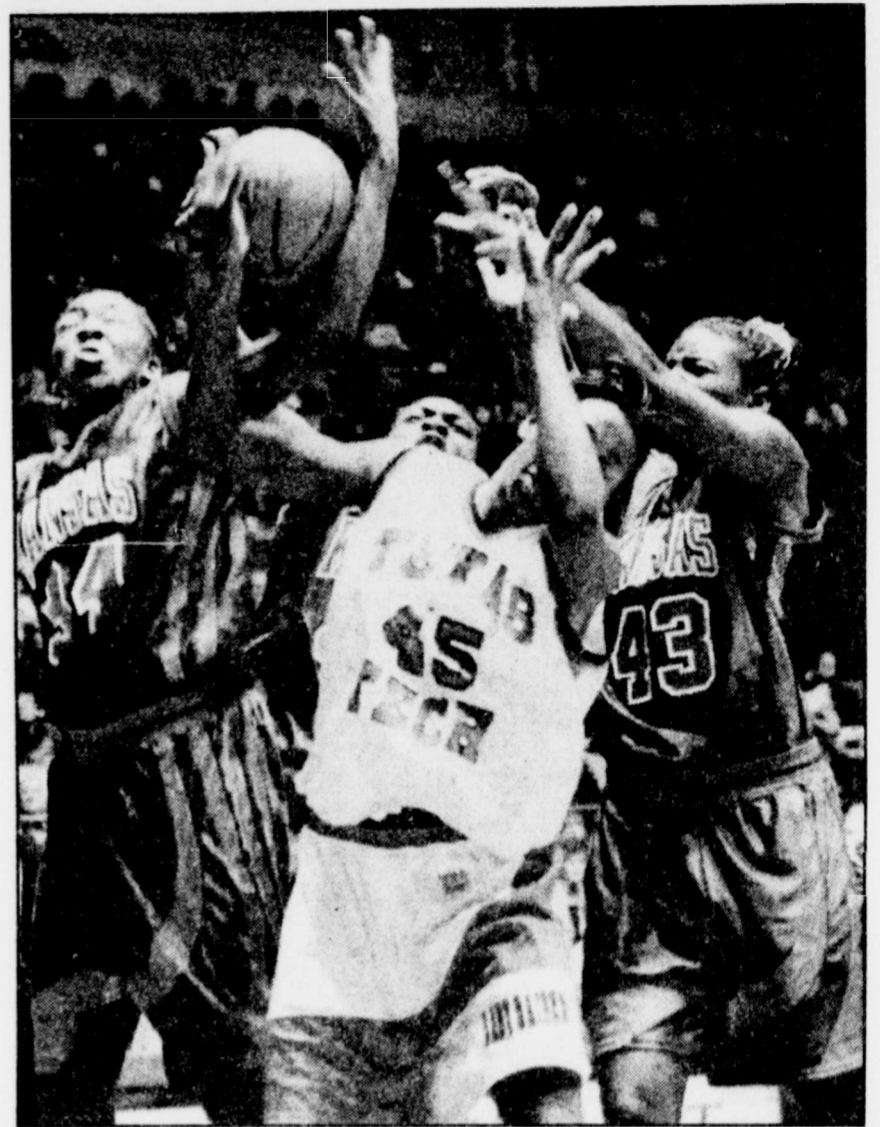

"For us to win, we will need to keep them (Stanford) off the offensive boards because they are so big down low and at the three-spot," Hanebutt said.

Big 12/Pac 10 Challenge

Game 1: Arizona Wildcats vs. Kansas Jayhawks, 3 p.m. Saturday.

Game 2: Texas Tech Lady Raiders vs. Stanford Cardinal, 5 p.m. Saturday.

All games played at the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum.

Traffic: Lady Raider Angie Brazier fights through a flock of Jayhawks in Tech's 72-56 victory Saturday. Kansas returns to Lubbock to battle Arizona at 3 p.m. Saturday in the first game of the Big 12/Pac 10 Challenge. The Lady Raiders will battle Stanford in the second game of the challenge at 5 p.m. Both games will be played at the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum. Tickets for both games of the challenge cost $10.
