Old Saying Proves True

This year's wheat crop in Haskell and neighboring counties is an illustration of the truth of the old saying that this section of West Texas can "promise less and make more" than any country on earth.

Because of lack of winter rains, most wheat growers back in February and March considered the crop a virtual failure, and those few brave enough to hazard an estimate that five or six bushels per acre as optimistic.

With the start of the harvest, the picture was changed entirely, with producers and grain dealers hesitant to accept the exceptionally high turnout as a reality. Hundreds of acres of dry land wheat averaged from 16 to 20 bushels per acre, with a few scattered fields running as high as 30 bushels.

Altogether, the harvest is expected to net producers well over a million dollars, a pretty fair return from a crop which had almost been charged off as a loss a few months ago.

Called Session Nears End

The first called session of the 56th Legislature will end automatically June 16.

At Austin they say it would be hard to find anyone around the Capitol who would bet on the state's money problems being wrapped up by that date.

Senators began their work on the tax bills sent them by the House with an air of deliberative calm. They even waited 48 hours before beginning hearings to give everybody time to ready his presentation.

Main issue was a bill to raise new revenue for 1960-61 spending needs. Gov. Price Daniel appeared personally before the Senate State Affairs Committee in behalf of H. B. 7. This is the House-passed bill to tax natural gas, interstate corporation franchises, utilities, liquor, cigarettes, autos, etc.

Governor Daniel stoutly defended the bill on all counts, but said he would not "feel hurt" if the Senate wanted to make some changes.

Industry spokesmen and chamber of commerce representatives told the committee the bill would drive business away from Texas.

Others complained that H. B. 7 not only would tax the same groups that have been hit before, but would hit some from several directions at once.

Governor Daniel's reply to those arguments is that business should bear a portion of the tax burden to keep from dumping it all "on the family budget," as in a general sales tax.

How Sound Is A Dollar?

We've heard the old expression, "As sound as a dollar." However, as a leaflet issued by the Manufacturers Trust Company of New York points out, few of us have asked, "How sound is a dollar?" And the answer, obviously enough, is that the dollar is as sound as our national economy.

So the booklet observes: "Our national economy is sound. But there is no assurance that it will remain that way unless we think and act to make it so. A nation, like a person, must 'live within its means,' or it will soon be in trouble." And the same is true when it comes to state and local governments.

There is endless discussion about the federal budget—whether it will be balanced, unbalanced, or whatever. No doubt a great many people think this is a matter far removed from them, a problem which can be left to the people in high office whose duty it is to deal with great affairs. But the truth is that the federal budget is of the most direct personal interest to everyone in this country. Deficit spending—which follows unbalanced budgets—is the primary cause of inflation. So deficit spending—the failure of the nation to live within its means—reduces the value of every dollar you earn, and erodes your life insurance, your retirement pension, and all other savings.

The government is a reflection of the desires of the people. If the people want and demand economical government—government living within its means—and make their wishes known, they will get it. If they want spendthrift government, they will get that. These are the only two choices.

PEOPLE, PLACES AND THINGS

By A. PATE

The plan now being talked about cutting back the sidewalks around the square, and which will necessitate re-setting the street light poles in the business section, reminds Earl Carroll, WTU lineman, of an experience when some of the poles were being placed several years ago.

A new layout around the square made it necessary to change location of some of the poles, and Earl and a helper were working on the project.

On the north side of the square, in front of Hassen's Store, a hole had to be chiseled through the concrete sidewalk a few inches back from the curb.

Working with a star drill and heavy sledge, the men were making progress through the tough concrete, Earl holding the drill while his muscular helper did the pounding. After resting briefly, Earl set his drill and the helper dealt a mighty blow, there was a muffled crash and the drill disappeared from Earl's hand.

Unknown to the two men, they had drilled into the old basement under the sidewalk, unused for years, and which had been forgotten.

After discovering what had happened, they "staked" another site which provided a better setting for the light standard.

sister, Mrs. Walter Alderson and family.

H. E. Bland of the Sayles community says things are looking good for the farmers in his section. Most of the farmers have cotton and maize up to a good stand, there is a good season in the ground and prospects could hardly be better, he says.

M. O. Field and family returned Thursday from a visit with relatives in Johnson County. M. O. says they canned a winter's supply of blackberries and dewberries while there and brought them back. There is a big crop of berries and no market for them, he said.

50 Years Ago—June 12, 1909

Six persons lost their lives, and untold damage to property was caused when a storm struck this section Thursday night, followed Friday by heavy rains which flooded a large part of the business section and residence section northeast and east of the square. R. S. Middleton, who lives three and one-half miles northeast of town, with his family went to a cellar during the storm. The cellar caved in, killing his wife and four children and Miss Maggie Bishop, a school teacher who was visiting the family.

Mr. Middleton and three of the children escaped with slight injuries. Heavy rain and one of the worst hailstorms in years virtually destroyed all crops in their path, and battered through roofs of numerous residences and stores. A passenger train on the Orient Railroad was blown from the tracks and several persons were killed and injured.

The city well in the south part of town has been completed. It is 26 feet in diameter and the water flows in from all sides in a stream. The tower for the reservoir is about completed and the ditching machine is ready to begin the ditches for the sewer system.

Miss Kathleen Wilfong has returned from Waco and resumed her duties as assistant in the post office.

Sterling Edwards and Miss Carrie Jones were married Sunday. The popular young couple will make their home in Haskell.

Burford Long and Jessie Foster returned Sunday from Austin where they have been attending the State University.

Walter Beavers got home Wednesday from Palo Pinto where he has been at school.

M. H. Goulet returned this week from Louisiana, where he has been for several weeks disposing of a lot of horses and mules.

D. G. Hisey sold this week to W. T. Hudson 60 head of yearlings at $15 and 31 head of two-year-olds to J. L. Jones at $20 per head.

Messrs. Bunkley and Jeffries, prominent cattlemen of Young County, are here this week for the purpose of leasing pasture lands in this county.

Prof. W. W. Hentz has been tendered the position of principal of the Woodward, I. T. schools at a salary of $100 per month, but has not decided whether he will accept the offer.

Three rains and numerous showers is the record for the week ending today. Pretty wet for a dry country, we'd say.

Miss Una Foster got home Thursday from Rome, Ga., where she has been attending school.

Charley Donohoo sold his place this week, being 200 acres of the George Harris League 10 miles southeast of Haskell, to J. G. Ward of Jones County. Consideration was $1,000.

Judge H. R. Jones closed a sale this week of 1,066 acres of fine land situated about seven miles northeast of town, to G. M. Clayton of Vernon. We understand Mr. Clayton intends to move to Haskell.

Because he is always willing to pitch in and help out on any kind of community project, Big Jim Byrd has accumulated a number of civic titles—but none of the high-sounding jobs has a salary attached.

For instance, Jim is currently serving as Fire Chief, City Alderman, Chamber of Commerce president, City Water Commissioner, and Mayor Pro Tem, to name a few of his titles.

On the City Council, Jim is head of the biggest municipal department as Water Commissioner. And to show you how luck has tagged the old boy, the Water Commissioner is the only one of the five Commission posts which pays no salary!

The others Commissioners, Street - Finance, Park, Fire, Police, and Sanitation, draw the "magnificent" stipend of $5 monthly as a token salary. But Jim, the hard luck guy, misses out on even a token!

We learned of the Water Commissioner's situation while looking over the annual city audit for 1958-59, and for the previous year of 1957-58. Up until then, the audit lists an annual "salary" of $60 for each of the five City Commissioners. Why the Water Commissioner was dropped from the "payroll" is something we haven't figured out.

Remodelling of the building owned by Mrs. Lee Pierson on the northwest corner of the square called to mind some of the problems which faced early-day builders.

Two heavy steel beams, each about 40 feet long, were removed from the front of the building temporarily while new brickwork was underway.

Lowered to the ground, the steel beams, or girders were in perfect condition. Plainly legible on the sides was the address of the contractor to which they were shipped, back in 1906 or '07, and addressed to Stamford, the nearest rail point then.

The heavy girders were hauled by wagon and team from Stamford, probably one to a wagon, over roads that would be impassable to any of today's trucks.

A few old-timers still remain who recall that "freighting" was a lucrative business in the early days, when all supplies had to be hauled by wagon from Abilene, Seymour, or Albany.

Bill Henshaw, who moved to Seymour around the first of the year, is still interested in Haskell happenings, especially those relating to farming conditions.

He was on the Plains the first of last week, and read in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram of the hail damage on the Sonnamaker, Tankersley and other farms north of town. Coming by here on his way home, he drove through the hail damaged area. Then he gave us a good-natured "bawling out" for overlooking some of the farms hit by hail, but conceded it would be next to impossible to give a detailed report that would be of interest to State papers.

The Texas Supreme Court's ruling last week reversing the status of local option elections in dry counties may have widespread consequences.

The court ruled that any city or precinct in the state can vote itself wet, although the county as a whole may be dry.

It recalls the hectic days and the extremely muddy status of local option back in the mid-30's, when the sale of beer was legalized in Texas, resulting in a rash of "beer elections" in almost every county in the state.

For a time, due to conflicting legal rulings or interpretations of the law, beer was sold "legally" in Haskell County—or perhaps openly would better state the case—at virtually every cafe and eating establishment in town.

Also, pari-mutuel betting on horse racing was permitted. We recall at a three-day race meet held at Fair Park race track here, the Fair Association reputedly made more money from the sale of the beer concession than was netted from the races!

Space under the grandstands was utilized as a bar, and since the meet was held in July, the hot weather and novelty of buying "legal" beer contributed to a booming business for the concession.

The "wide open" conditions didn't continue long, however, and sale of beer openly in Haskell was soon outlawed, as technicalities in the local option laws were ironed out.

On a precinct basis, however, the sale of beer openly was permitted in Haskell County for more than a year, and possibly two years, before being outlawed.

The Sagerton Justice of the Peace Precinct, taking in the southwest corner of the county and extending to a point about five miles south of Haskell, voted "wet," legalizing the sale of beer in that area.

As a result, beer establishments and dance halls sprang up almost overnight, most of them in the vicinity of Stamford, since a part of the north city limits of that city were adjacent to Haskell County and inside the "wet" precinct.

One of the most notorious beer joints was the Black & White Inn, located near the Highway Y just north of Stamford. The establishment was crowded almost nightly, with officers being called frequently to quell disturbances.

Another night spot, closer to Stamford, was the Bluebird Inn, south of the Black & White, and located almost on the south line of the county. This joint "enjoyed" an unsavory reputation from the start, and this reputation was not helped when a killing occurred there, a man being bludgeoned to death with a ball pean hammer as he sat in a car outside the joint.

Also in that area was the Hill-top Inn, located near the northwest city limits of Stamford in Haskell County. The Hill-top had a short life, and never did gain the prominence of its two more notorious competitors, the Bluebird and the Black & White.

If this most recent State Court ruling stands up and becomes "the law of the land" we hope that it will repeat itself with conditions that prevail in the '30's.

Former Haskell Woman Retires After 41 Years In Wichita Falls Schools

Mrs. John (Billie) Wilkes, member of the Wichita Falls High School faculty since 1937, and who has taught in that city's school system for 41 years, retired recently to "travel and rest" as she expressed it.

Mrs. Wilkes, reared in Haskell, will be remembered as the former Billie Veazey, daughter of Judge and Mrs. H. R. Jones.

Mrs. Wilkes went to Wichita Falls in 1918 directly from college, and has spent her entire years in the teaching profession in the public schools of that city.

She began her teaching under Lee Clark as superintendent and has continued through all regimes in the Wichita Falls school system since that time. She has been in charge of the senior high school study hall for 22 years.

A number of numerous professional organizations, Mrs. Wilkes holds a bachelor of science degree from North Texas State College, as well as a master's from the same college.

When she first went to Wichita Falls, she taught English in Austin School. From Austin she went to San Jacinto for two years as reading instructor and then, from 1925 until 1927, was in charge of the study hall at the senior high.

For 10 years, between 1927 and 1937, Mrs. Wilkes was librarian at Reagan Junior High School in Wichita Falls. From 1937 until the present, she has been in charge of the high school's study hall.

Superintendent McNeil of the Wichita Falls schools, and O. T. Freeman, principal of the high school, both expressed regret at losing the services of Mrs. Wilkes, commenting that her position will be a difficult one to refill.

Mrs. Wilkes and her mother, Mrs. Connie Jones, live at 2202 Taft in Wichita Falls. The retiring high school teacher plans to travel to the West Coast and Canada this summer.

Keep Accidents Down By Keeping Safety Guard Up

"Keep your safety guard up and keep accidents down." That is the advice of the National Safety Council as America gets ready to celebrate the Fourth of July.

"People get a little too carefree simply because it's a holiday," the Council warned. "They forget to be cautious. They get 'holiday happy.'"

The Council added that holiday periods are among the most dangerous times of the year—25 to 30 per cent more dangerous on the highway, for example, than normal periods.

"And that's the time," said the Council, "when everyone should be more safety-conscious than ever."

"The fact that it's Independence Day doesn't mean we can afford to be independent on the highway. Cooperation and courtesy are the keys to traffic safety."

Some 45 million motorists are expected on the highways during the three-day Fourth of July weekend.

During the three-day Fourth of July weekend last year more than 650 persons died in automobile traffic fatalities led all other holiday fatalities with 650.

The Council feels it is possible to keep the highway accident toll down this year if drivers use simple common sense and courtesy.

Here's its code for the road this Fourth of July: 1. You drive, don't drink. 2. Look out for the other guy—and yourself. 3. Adjust your speed to conditions. 4. Take it easy—don't tire yourself. 5. Be considerate. 6. Use your seat belts. And if you don't have seat belts, get them. They can save your life.

"Remember," said the Council, "there are millions of others just as eager as you are for a happy holiday. 7. If you forget it you may not have a second chance to remember."

Changes Forecast For Farming And Rural Living

The old distinctions between farm and city are rapidly disappearing, said Reagan Brown, extension rural sociologist. Rural nonfarm people now outnumber farm people by a ratio of 5 to 3 and it appears certain that more nonfarm people will live in rural areas.

More than a third of farm operators work off their farms 100 days or more per year. In 1957, about 40% of net income of farm families was by non farm sources, he said.

Family operated farms will increase in size since technological improvements are by no means complete. Agriculture, said Brown, appears to be only in the middle of revolutionary changes both in size and capital structure. Larger farms means larger investments, not only for land and buildings but for all the machinery and non-agricultural supplies needed in modern farm production. Based on present trends, investments per commercial farm by 1975 may amount to over $80,000 in 1958 dollars compared to a little less than $40,000 now, he said.

The 269 U. S. Submarines which operated in World War II spent a total of 71,670 days at sea.

Many Factors Considered Judging Land

There are many factors for judging land, says a soil scientist. He says Jack H. Bartlett, conservationist.

What is beneath the soil may be just as important as whether it is fertile, well drained, the home buyer must know an uneven conservationist.

Soils are much the same in that both are inherited tendencies in the environment in which they are produced. This soil, which is the result of a definite makeup situation.

Soil scientists had examined many different Texas, says Bartlett, have many different uses which can be made of the individual soil.

"We cannot judge soil qualities easily or so we must apply practices to take the strong qualities and overcome the weak points out. We must be in tune with the soil, we can get good results," he said.

Helpful hints on soil are given in Bulletin Does Your Soil Rate? The information in a person can come a particular local county agent.

tainly makes for more tasty meals.

First hang the catfish while still on the stringer, from a tree limb or from a nail driven into the tree or post.

Next, cut off the tail, just above the tail fin, so that the fish will bleed freely. Then leave the fish hanging until all blood drains from the body. This should take but a few minutes.

Your next operation is to cut through the skin around the head and below the gills. Then take a pair of sharp nosed pliers, grab the skin, and pull downward, so as to peel the skin off the fish, all around its body.

After the skin has been removed, your next operation is to gut the fish. In performing this operation, you'll find that all blood has drained from the fish's insides, and the cleaning problem is not nearly so messy.

Removal of the blood from the body, before cleaning the fish, seems to add a much better flavor to the fish.

To kill a cat most fishermen take a sharp pointed icepick and thrust it through the soft part of the head, above and between the eyes, into the brain. This kills the cat quickly.

Others prefer to drive a large nail through the fish's head and into a tree or pole. This latter procedure, not only kills the cat quickly, but it also provides a firm anchoring base for the skinning operation, as well as the gutting process.

After the gutting the fish, cut completely through the meat, under the gills and around the head. Then sever the head with a sharp snap of the wrist or by means of a meat cleaver or butcher knife.

Final operation before washing thoroughly is to remove the fins so that all that is left of the fish is meat and backbone.

Some fishermen—as a matter of precaution against finning—either break or clip the sharp points off each of the fins. This eliminates the possibility of injury to the fisherman from a wildly flipping catfish—while boating, stringing or cleaning.

We've seen some pretty careless fishermen get badly finned while cleaning a catfish they already had killed. And we've seen plenty more who were finned while the fish was flopping around the bottom of the boat.

I know one fisherman who clips the sharp points off the end of the fins of every catfish he catches on his trotline—even before taking the fish off the line.

Furthermore, we've seen some even more careful souls who don't even make an effort to remove the hook from a well-caught cat until they have it on the cleaning block. This means cutting the stageon, after the fish is netted but it also brings greater assurance that there will be no personal injury from that member of the finny tribe.

Marriage Customs Changed Radically From Customs Of Caveman Era

The American bride sweeps down the aisle with all the self-satisfaction of a modern Diana returning from the hunt with a stag slung over her shoulder.

But this spring ritual wasn't always the victory celebration of the female. And everything about the wedding—including the word itself—is designed to remind her that she once was, at best, a marketable commodity—and at worst, fair game for any strong-armed marauder.

The best man, for example, is believed to be a relic of the days when a man simply carried off a girl who had wandered too far from home? The husband-to-be is usually brought along a muscular friend to fight off pursuers, according to The World Book Encyclopedia.

The bridegroom had to hide out for a while until the girl's family got tired of searching for them. This was the beginning of the honeymoon.

Of course, these tactics didn't foster togetherness, and may have started the continuing battle between a husband and his mother-in-law.

The practice of buying a wife left a girl with fewer bruises. But it didn't do much for her pride, especially when some African tribes thought she was worth about one ox.

The betrothal of children was common among early Anglo-Saxons. The bridegroom's pledge of marriage was accompanied by a "wed"—security for the purchase price of the bride. From this comes our word "wedding."

Giving the bride away merely represents the time when the father delivered his daughter to her fiancé, who paid up.

Among some modern tribes, however, notions of romance have persuaded the father to renounce his loot, and the bride gets the traditional gifts.

Weeds And Grass In Cotton Can Be Controlled

Favorable moisture for cotton production also calls for a close look at good mechanical and chemical weed and grass control practices to reduce or eliminate costly hand hoeing.

Of the numerous weed control choices available, three are outstanding, says Fred Elliott, extension cotton specialist.

These include the rotary hoe, lateral oiling of grass and weeds in young cotton and spot spraying with oils and fortified oils or spot spraying of grass with sodium dalapon in water.

The rotary hoe has been and still is the key weed control practice. In 1958, 44,496 rotary hoe equipped tractors were operated in 157 counties, resulting in a saving of over $13 million.

The pull-behind or broadcast types proved very popular and easy to operate at the required high speeds. Rotary hoeing alone, not in combination with sweep cultivation, permits fast coverage and getting into fields quicker after repeated rains, Elliott said.

If continued rains prevent getting into the field with the rotary hoe and cause heavy growth of annual grasses and weeds, lateral oiling or post emergence oiling with unfortified naphtha is an excellent way to get out of the grass for about $1.00 to $1.50 for the five gallons of oil needed per acre. This practice was carried out in 47 counties in 1958.

The naphtha is applied with parallel action oiling shoes at 15 to 25 pounds pressure, with 2 fan-type horizontal nozzles staggered and placed 10 inches apart—one nozzle on each side of the row. Direct the spray pattern at the lower 1 to 7 1/2 inches of the cotton stem, below the leaves, advises Elliott. Natural wax on young cotton stalks shed the naphtha without injury to the cotton until the bark roughens and cracks. Annual grasses up to 3 to 5 inches tall can be controlled, he said.

Spot spraying established Johnson grass is faster, easier and cheaper than hand hoeing and Johnson grass can be eradicated in one year. Use the jet-gun sprayer. Apply the oils in small amounts to the stem of the grass at the ground line. Kerosene fortified with C-56, 1/2 gallon to 100 gallons oil, does an excellent job, Elliott said.

Sodium dalapon in water is a systemic foliage spray and the leaves of the grass must be wet. Again, the jet-gun sprayer is ideal equipment for the job. The specialist suggests that you ask your county agent for Bulletin 902, "Spot Spraying Johnson Grass," and other information on how to fight weeds and grass with machines and chemicals.

VISITS PARENTS DURING WEEKEND

Dr. and Mrs. Douglas Smith and son Mark of Waco were weekend visitors in the home of Dr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jason M. Smith.

On June 15, 1975, the Rhode Island State Assembly passed a law authorizing the fitting out of two sloops. This was the first time armed vessels were ever commissioned in America and was the start of the U. S. Navy.

Prevention Best For Weed Control In Pastures

Weeds often cut improved pasture and hay yields by 50 percent or more. This, says E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist, is the reason why weeds should be controlled in improved pastures.

Weeds cut yields by stealing moisture, plant nutrients and light from the pasture and hay plants, and some weeds prevent grazing and lower hay quality.

Prevention is the best means of weed control. Pastures that are properly grazed and fertilized usually do not have a severe weed problem, said Trew. Fence rows and road sides should be kept clean and weed seed should not be brought in by combines and other machinery in feed or in planting seed.

Mowing is an effective means of pasture weed control when properly timed. Weeds should be mowed before they produce seed. Some weeds, such as eastern bitterweed and yankeeweed will require at least two mowings in one season, he said.

Only spraying of 2,4-D with ground equipment costs about the same as one mowing, but if the spraying is properly done it is often as effective as three mowings. One properly timed application of 2,4-D often gives control for the entire season.

Weeds should be sprayed when they are in the young, rapid growth stage. When crops susceptible to 2,4-D are nearby, pasture spraying may have to be done before these crops are planted, the specialist said. When pasture legumes, such as clovers are to be protected, spraying may be delayed until the legumes have formed enough hard seed to insure a volunteer stand the next fall.

For spraying improved pastures in areas of 30 inches annual rainfall, use 1 pound of 2,4-D amine to 10 to 25 gallons of water per acre. Add 1/2 to 1 cup of liquid household or laundry detergent per 100 gallons of spray mixture as a wetting agent.

For stands of such grasses as buffel and blue panic in areas of less than 30 inches rainfall, use 1 pound of 2,4-D amine or low volatile ester, with a wetting agent, he said. For summer temporary pastures of Sudan and the like, use 1/2 to 3/4 pound of 2,4-D amine in 10 to 25 gallons of water per acre. Do not use wetting agent on these grasses.

Boom-type sprayers give the most accurate placement of the spray but are more troublesome, Trew said. Boomless-type sprayers using a single nozzle or a cluster of nozzles are faster and less trouble, and they have a minimum of 15 gallons of mixture per acre for good coverage. Airplanes may be used effectively, with spray output at 5 gallons per acre.

Before spraying get a copy of the State Herbicide regulations and study them to see how they apply to you, as they are for your protection, Trew added.

Proper Fishpond Management Aids Good Fishing

Farm and ranch ponds in this area built primarily for livestock water or irrigation can become the scene of many pleasant and relaxing hours of fishing. Several farm families already enjoy the benefits of well managed fish ponds while many suitable ponds in the area remain undeveloped, according to Robert Willis, local Soil Conservation technician.

Whether you now have a suitable livestock tank or irrigation reservoir, or you plan to build one soon, some thought should be given to developing the water supply to produce large quantities of pan size fish.

For a new pond, careful consideration should be given to site selection in order to protect the pond from sediment and to insure an adequate supply of water. A small spring flow or relatively small watershed with good grass cover provides a good silt-free supply of water. The site should be adequate to obtain at least 12 feet of depth over one-third of the water surface area to insure a year-round supply. A pond that fills and overflows frequently is difficult to manage properly. Good fertile fish water is pushed out and replaced by runoff water.

Wide spillways are necessary for good fish ponds. When flow of water through the spillway is more than six inches deep many usable size fish will escape. Small fish will escape easily during low spillway flows but are replaced by others being hatched.

Shallow water at the edges is troublesome. It grows too many weeds and protects too many little fish from the larger fish that feed on them. Very few pounds of fish are produced in shallow water. Edges should be made from two to three feet deep.

A fish pond must be stocked correctly and with the right kinds of fish if it is to provide good fishing quickly and continuously. Established ponds should first be cleared of rough fish and small stunted fish and started over with a balanced stocking.

A combination of large-mouth bass and bluegills is dependable for warm water ponds larger than one-fourth acre. Bluegills spawn frequently in warm water. Large-mouth bass feed largely on small fish thus they prevent overpopulation and also grow rapidly when stocked correctly with bluegills. Crappie and channel catfish can be stocked satisfactorily with bass and bluegills in some larger ponds but in most cases the bass-bluegill combination produces the best fishing and the most pounds with least trouble.

Fertilization is important to maintain a well balanced stock of pan-sized fish. The average pond require around 1000 pounds of fertilizer per surface acre per year. A good mineral fertilizer such as 8-8-2 should be applied.

Contact your local SCS technician for further information, service or application.

New Law Provides For 15 Potential Governors

Wherever you live in Texas, after August 12, a potential successor to the office of Governor will be living near you.

A new law, passed by the 56th Legislature and signed by Gov. Price Daniel, becomes effective on that date. It extends by 13 the number of persons who can legally succeed the governor without a special election. Most of the 13 live outside of Austin.

The purpose is to assure the state a chief executive in case of calamitous occurrence, such as atomic attack.

Previously the only legally designated successors to the governor were the lieutenant governor and president pro tempore of the Senate. Added to those now are the speaker of the House, the Attorney General, and the chief justices of the 11 court of civil appeals in their numerical order.

"Enactment of this law is a significant milestone in Texas' survival preparedness program," said James M. Garner, acting state coordinator of civil defense and disaster relief. "Continuity of government at all levels is basic to civil defense, and the short line of succession to the governorship here has been a matter of serious concern."

The civil appeals judges represent an extra safety margin since they are scattered geographically over the state. Their courts are located at Galveston, Fort Worth, Austin, San Antonio, Dallas, Texarkana, Amarillo, El Paso, Waco and Eastland.

Senator Culp Krueger of El Campo, a long-time proponent of civil defense, introduced the measure, and Senator George Moffett of Chillicothe was co-author. Rep. Stanley Boyesen of Yoakum was House sponsor.

Tests Made Of Tranquilizer Use On Calves

By F. W. Martin, County Agent

We have been hearing a lot about tranquilizers and their use with cattle. The following experiment was conducted by George F. Ellis Jr. and J. P. Smith near Panhandle, Texas.

This trial was conducted at Pan-Tech Farms near Panhandle to explore the possibility of reducing weight loss during weaning by the use of a tranquilizer.

Forty-two Hereford steer calves were weaned Nov. 12, 1958. All calves were weighed individually immediately after being separated from their mothers. Twenty-one head received intramuscular injections of 50 milligrams of perphenazine each and 21 head were left as controls with no injections.

The calves were kept in a corral and were fed 10 pounds of sorghum fodder, 2 pounds of oats and ½ pounds of cotton seed cake per head per day. The calves had eaten sorghum fodder before, but had not eaten oats or cotton seed cake. There was no difference in the amount of feed consumed by the two groups. They were handled identically except that the tranquilized calves were in one pen and the controls in another.

Individual weights were taken as the calves were placed on wheat pasture after 9 days in the corral. The calves were weighed again individually after 12 days on wheat pasture.

Results: Calves were divided into two lots with 21 head in each. Calves with no treatment lost 20 pounds in 9 days. The calves getting tranquilizers lost 32 pounds in 9 days.

The tranquilized calves were quieter and walked the fence less, but lost slightly more weight than the control calves. Thus no benefit resulted from the use of the tranquilizer under the conditions of this trial.

Mrs. Claud Gordon left Monday to visit her sons, Jimmy R. Gordon and family in Lubbock, and E. T. Gordon and family in Brownfield.

Rains that fell in this community last week totaled from five to six inches. All the stock tanks are full, and all the farmers agree that they have enough rain for a while. Some of the cotton that had been planted and was up, will have to be replanted because it washed out or drowned out where the water stood. Many farmers tried to drain their fields where it was possible.

August Stremmel suffered a heart attack at his home Saturday afternoon and was taken to the Hamlin Hospital. He is feeling better now.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. August Angerman Saturday evening June 6, were Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kainer, Emma Lammert of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Werner Tichelman, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stremmel, Hilda and Emil, and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schaahe. Stamford GI In Missile Battalion In Alaska

Markham, Stamford, is serving in Alaska with the 2nd Missile Battalion, 562nd Artillery, which recently was converted to a Nike-Hercules unit. The 562nd is the last artillery unit in Alaska to change from 120 millimeter anti-aircraft cannons to Nike-Hercules missiles.

He is a 1955 graduate of Stamford High School and attended Hardin-Simmons University.

John Wayne Heads Cast Of Exciting Western Drama

Howard Hawks' "Rio Bravo," presented by Warner Bros. in Technicolor, coming Saturday to the Texas Theatre, is an undiluted, straight from the shoulder drama in the best tradition of the Old West, with an outstanding cast headed by John Wayne, Dean Martin and Ricky Nelson.

The story builds up terrific suspense unfolding the courageous efforts of the sheriff of a small border town to keep a wanted murderer in jail despite the prisoner's powerful and unscrupulous brother.

For John Wayne, "Rio Bravo" is a logical and worthy progression from such other western triumphs as "Stagecoach," "Red River," "Hondo" and "The Searchers." With the exception of one picture, Dean Martin's previous film work had been with his comedy partner, Jerry Lewis, but in his present role as Wayne's ex-deputy sheriff, Dingo's career as a dramatic star appears assured.

An event anxiously awaited by American teenagers is the appearance of 18 year old Ricky Nelson in the role of Colorado, youthful gun slinger who comes to the aid of John Wayne when his enemies close in. Although his motion picture background is limited to two films made when he was a small boy, Rick's years of experience in front of television cameras have made a seasoned actor of him—a fact which becomes evident in "Rio Bravo."

VISITS SISTER

Mrs. Frank Pace of Saginaw, Mich., has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Claud Gordon who was in a car accident three weeks ago. Mrs. Pace left Saturday for San Antonio to visit a daughter at that place.

Northwest Texas Methodist Youth Plan Assembly

Methodist youth fellowship members of the Northwest Texas Methodist Conference will gather June 29-July 3, at McMurry College, Abilene, for the annual youth assembly.

Rev. Allen Adams will serve as assembly dean. This assembly is a traditional experience for the youth of the conference. It is a time of "personal enrichment. Christian fellowship and a challenge to personal dedication to Christ and the church."

The program is not essentially a training experience for an officer in the MYF, but it is an experience in which each youth will be better disciplined for a Christian "witness" in the local church, in the home and community. Features of the program include a speaker, worship services, study courses, skill-workshop groups and Bible study groups.

District quotas have been established and are allocated to local churches by the district directors of youth work. All delegates must be 15 years of age on or before June 29.

Registrations should be sent to Youth Summer Activities, 1702 Ave. R, Lubbock.

Bond Purchases In County $23,271 During April

J. M. Crawford, County Savings Bonds chairman announced this week that Savings Bonds sales for the first four months of 1959 totaled $125,721 which equalled 39.2 per cent of the county's 1959 goal. April sales in the county were $23,271.

"Savings Bond purchases play an important part in the U. S. Treasury's task of wise debt management. Each individual who buys a bond is helping to provide for his country's future security as well as his own. Secretary of Treasury Robert B. Anderson pointed out recently that any person who buys a Savings Bond is putting real meaning in the slogan, Share in America." Chairman Crawford said.

More car than this Impala Sport Coupe is hard to find at any price.

clings to curves like a cat on a carpet!
the travel-lovin' Chevrolet

Nothing else but a dyed-in-the-wool sports car like the Corvette can take a turn with such solid assurance!

It's easy to see where Chevrolet gets its road sense. With big coil springs at every wheel, a firm, wider stance and all its pounds distributed with painstaking care, Chevy's born with it.

The only thing that may be hard to understand is how it can offer the ride it does, along with so many other luxury-car virtues, and still compete in the low-price field.

We use the word compete only in the sense of price. For with a ride as special as Chevy's, real competitors are hard to come by. There's a world of difference between Chevrolet's coil springs at all four wheels and the leaf springs that most other cars still use. Take a Chevy down a snaky back road and you'll feel the difference in the sure way it holds through curves and shoots over rough spots with hardly a ripple.

This one's really made to travel and loves every minute of it.

Stop by your local authorized Chevrolet dealer's and sample Chevy's road sense!

NOT AS CAUTIOUS AS THEY SHOULD BE Reader Who Loves Children Pleads With Motorists To Drive Carefully

A recent editorial in the Abilene Reporter-News has prompted a plea from a Haskell mother and teacher that motorists exercise more caution in driving on the streets of our city, now that children are enjoying carefree vacation days from school.

The Reporter-News editorial read, in part:

"Now that school is out and the kids left with nothing much to occupy their time and drain off their energies, they will be playing in the streets more than commonly, and adventuring into strange places and situations."

"Have a care for the kids, you good people at the wheels of motor vehicles. Kids are kids, unpredictable and irresponsible. Some of them even dare you to run them down."

"But the primary responsibility of preventing a tragedy is the driver's. Keep a sharp eye on the curb where the children are at play. One of them may dash right in front of your car in pursuit of a ball, and curtains!"

"Please be alert and careful now that school is out. The kids are everywhere at all hours of the day during the summer. You may not like kids in general, but somebody loves them."

Enclosing a clipping of the editorial, the Haskell mother wrote:

Editor, The Free Press: I read this editorial in the Abilene paper this past week and it impressed me very much. Since I am a mother and a teacher, I love children and young people, and am deeply interested in their welfare.

There are drivers in our town who are not as cautious as they should be when driving their cars. I hope many read this, and if you have space in your paper you will print this article.

In our little store we enjoy the 'chit-chat' among the young people. Right now it is Little League 'lingo' but soon it will be football. These youngsters seem to enjoy using our store and grounds as a meeting place. Roy and I love for them to come, talk, laugh and play. Our street has heavy traffic, and I do hope the drivers will be cautious as they drive down our streets (especially Avenue H) so that our 'good times' can continue.

Sincerely, Mrs. LeRoy O'Neal.

On June 4, 1944, the destroyer escorts Jenks, Chattelain and Pillsbury, with the escort carrier Guadalcanal, captured the German submarine U-505 in the Atlantic. This was the first time in 130 years that the U. S. Navy boarded and declared a prize of war, an enemy vessel on the high seas. The U-505 is presently displayed at the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago, Ill.

On June 8, 1927, the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., instituted a short three-month course for midshipmen in ground and flight instruction as a preliminary step toward qualifying as naval aviators.

Credit is not a substitute for income and Extension Economist A. B. Wooten says that credit should be used only when some income is reasonably certain. He adds that credit can help many farm families attain a desirable level of living, but misuse, often results in much unhappiness.

Don't get panicky if you think you have termites in your house. They aren't going to eat it down right away, says J. H. Hawkins, extension entomologist. Before beginning an extensive control program, take time to make plans for a good one but first make sure you have termites. It's easy to mistake ants for the wood-eating pests.
