1923 - 1967 SEMINOLE GROWS

Board Meets

LONG HOURS--LITTLE PAY

The School Board, on August 21, began their meeting at 8:00 p. m. The parents of School children should be pleased to know that although there were a few applications every School member present (Coats was absent) went over at length the qualifications, the grades and recommendations of every teacher hired. We should indeed be proud, for without pay, they deeply feel the weight of an educational system; our way of life and the importance of every child receiving from this community and this society an education.

The next time you see one of these men, a word of appreciation would not be out of order. Let us all be thankful to people who care enough to donate their time and stay until morning hours to fulfill this responsibility. Theirs is a big job and one well done.

Following is an exact agenda of the regular Board meeting of August 21:

Fairview News

BY MRS. OPAL
(R.M.E.) HUGHES

In the passing of Lela Pearl Hughes, we have lost our dear church member at Fairview. But our Lord left the church clerk job to some one younger.

She was a good Christian mother and a friend. If we could live the life as a christian, how happy we could be and I don't think God would be ashamed of us and would accept us in his home.

As she prayed, she would pray for the wasted life or lives that were in sin.

Brother Bill Klinglesmith of Three Rivers, Texas and Brother P. A. Mitcham preached the funeral and another old pastor of Fairview came. That was Brother Pate, he is retired now on the account of his health. We know God took Lela Pearl for a purpose but my greatest prayer is that He will take care of her family, and they will follow in her foot prints.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Hughes had Mr. and Mrs. Edger Fair from Fort Worth, Texas, and Mr. and Mrs. Hurshell Ray Hughes and two sons from San Angelo, Texas, to visit them over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Isler Jr. from McAllen, Texas, and Mrs. Charlene Cocke, from Hobbs, New Mexico. Billy and Charlene used to live here when they were younger, they went to High School in Seminole.

HOW A COTTON PLANT GROWS

Fast growth--Cotton plants should be healthy, about 8 inches tall, and have eight normal leaves 30 days after they are up to a stand. They should have taproots at least 20 inches long with well developed feeder roots. The top number of plants in a stand depends on amount of water normally available. To keep plants on schedule, minimum temperature should remain above 6° degrees F.

Plants must be healthy, have adequate moisture, sufficient plant food, and receive needed protection from thrips, armyworms, cutworms, and other early-season pests that delay growth or reduce stands during this period. In areas where thrips are a problem, protection is a must if plants are to develop on schedule. Weeds and grass should be controlled without "plow damage" to roots. Heavy rains, cloudy days, hail, and high winds or drouth can seriously damage a crop during this period.

Fast squaring--The one-third-grown square stage is the "make or break" period insofar as the economical production of quality cotton is concerned. A bale-per-acre bottom crop should be set during the first 10 days after squaring starts and before squares reach the one-third-grown stage. When temperatures are favorable (70 to 100 degrees F.), moisture and plant food adequate, well developed plants should set over 18 squares per foot of row. If only 70% of the squares mature bolls, crop should produce a bale per acre. A boll per inch, or 150,000 to 160,000 bolls per acre, is required to produce a bale-per-acre crop. (Generally, 100 normal bolls will make a pound of seed cotton.)

Number of squares that mature as bolls is determined by the health, vigor, plant food, moisture, and protection from insects the crop receives. In most sections, protection must be provided to prevent damage from fleahoppers, lygus bugs, and overwintered boll weevils before they cause damage or lay eggs. Failure to set a bottom crop encourages vegetative growth and delays maturity. Growers should never forget: There is no sure way to make profitable dryland cotton after the bottom crop is lost to insects.

Fast blooms--Fields with clean, healthy, well fed plants and adequate protection from insects begin to "strut their stuff" during the bloom period. Under dryland conditions, bale-per-acre or better crops should be produced from blooms (300,000 blooms--50% of them maturing normal bolls) put on during the first 21 days.

If irrigation is available and a 2-bale crop is desired, it can be produced during a 30 day bloom (500,000--60% maturing normal bolls) period. Three-bale crops should be produced during a six-weeks bloom (800,000--60% maturing normal bolls) period. Bolls held on plants 10 days after blooms fall usually mature if protected from insects. A crop of uniformly good quality, matured during a short bloom period, can be harvested mechanically early in the season with little loss in grade.

Early blooms usually produce more and larger bolls than do later blooms on dryland farms. A study showed 94.1% of the first week's blooms made bolls, while only 13.3% of the fifth week's blooms matured bolls. It required 87 bolls to make a pound of seed cotton from bolls matured from "first week" blooms; 146, from bolls matured the fifth week.

During the bloom-to-maturity period, failure to provide enough plant food and moisture (see chart) or to prevent damage from diseases, weeds, and insects shows up in lost yield and income. When plants do not get a balanced supply of each essential plant food nutrient, bolls shed, usually within 10 days after a bloom drops.

About 70% of total seasonal requirements for water and plant food must be available to the crop during this period to prevent excessive shedding. Unfavorable weather, or failure to protect plants from insects and diseases will also reduce yield and quality to a great extent. Temperatures above 100 degrees F., accompanied by hot winds (over 10 miles per hour), often play havoc with an excellent crop prospect. When water is limited, transportation of plant food is slowed, bolls are smaller, and the fiber shorter.

The payoff comes from harvesting maximum yields of uniformly good cotton early in the season. This can be done when the crop matures during a short period. In the southern part of the Southwest, harvest should be completed during a 150-day period; planting through harvest.

In northern sections, harvest usually starts after the end of a 150-day period. The time required from bloom to maturity varies from 40 to 60 days, influenced largely by temperatures. For example, at Lubbock it required 48 days (open bloom to open boll) when the mean temperature averaged 80 degrees F., and 68 days when the mean temperature averaged 71 degrees F. It is highly desirable for harvest to fall during dry weather so crops can be harvested soon after maturity--dry (8% or less moisture), loose, and clean. Harvest-aid chemicals should be applied just as soon as the crop is fully matured--80% or more open bolls--not before. When chemicals are applied to cotton before the crop is fully matured, yields and quality are reduced.

Nobody knows the exact age of the human race, but most of us agree that it is old enough to know better.

Jackie Squires was in Hobbs, New Mexico last week.

FARM INCOME

USDA reports the 1967 total net farm income, based on second quarter estimates at $14.5 billion. The Department's second quarter estimates of $14.5 billion is 10.5% below the 1966 annual figure of $16.2 billion.

Cash receipts from farm marketings based on second quarter estimates of $42.4 billion is 1.85% below the $43.2 billion reported for 1966.

The President's Joint Economic Committee reports the net income per farm (which includes net inventory changes) for 1967 based on second quarter figures and 1966 prices at $4,490.00 compared to $4,988.00 for the year 1966. These figures reveal that the per farm income estimated for 1967 is 9.98% below what it was for 1966 expressed in 1966 prices.

Terri Bingham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Bingham, 709 N. W. I, will be a second grader this year. Her first grade teacher was Mrs. Lillian Timmons. Today's illustrated story was Terri's work when she was in the first grade.

RAYMOND J. SMITH

Raymond J. Smith, 10 years old, has killed four rattle snakes this summer. To date the family has killed ten this year. Last year, 18 rattle snakes were killed on the Smith farm. Jay killed two, three rattler snakes in a 30 minute period. The other two killed by him had four rattlers and Jay commented that he was ready for a five rattler snake now! Jay is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Smith, Route 4.

BEWARE!! SNAKES on the RUN

The above pictures were taken on the Barney Elam farm on a field that had been in cultivation since 1902. This is the time of year when rattle snakes are on the run and a great deal of caution should be used by hunters and others out in the open spaces.

LIBRARY REVIEW

"Salute to Sandy" by Dale Evans Rogers

The story of Sandy, the third child of the Rogers household to die. It is a story of his struggle to find his place in the sun, his tragic death on military duty in Germany, and of what his famed father and mother did about it. Not in frustrated mourning at home, but in a tour of Vietnam to entertain other young soldiers far from home.

"The Senator's Lady" by Shirley Seifert

The lady is Addie Cutts and the senator is the "Little Giant," Stephen Douglas. This is the love story of the beautiful Addie and the rich, handsome widower she met in the election year of 1856. It is told against a background of political conflict in the tragic decade of the 1850's, when men of good will, Douglas among them, tried but were powerless to avert the coming civil war. Although their happiness is clouded by Addie's childlessness, she makes a home of the fine house that Douglas builds and opens her arms to his two little sons.

"That Pellet Woman!" by Betty Pellet

This is the funny and fabulous true story of Betty Pellet, a real life "Auntie Mame," who, with rollicking humor, has been a Broadway and silent film star, politician and legislator, housewife, and hard-rock, bonanza hunting miner. Where wise men feared to tread (and women were forbidden) Betty Pellet has always plunged in, and the fun and the fur flew high. Through it all Betty's spirit of independence and sense of humor shine bright.

"Let my Heart be Broken" by Richard Gehman

This is the story of World Vision, one of America's most vital missionary organizations. It records in moving detail the stirring accomplishments and sacrifices of missionary heroes who operate hospitals, clinics, schools, and missions throughout the world today. It is also the story of Bob Pierce, who has dedicated his life to helping those who help others in the most remote corners of the world. "Let My Heart Be Broken" is a living mosaic of radiant men and women. Its pages are crowded with stories -- true stories -- that will break your heart too.

Letter from the Ft. Worth Kinnery

Living in the country, we recall that we didn't have an ice-box or refrigerator, but our milk and butter were kept cool by hanging them in our cistern that was filled with rainwater caught by troughs affixed to the eaves of the house and it was especially desirable, might say almost a necessity, to catch this water from snows or Winter rains, otherwise the water eventually had "Wiggle-Tails" in it. Later our Father bought a newfangled thing they called a "Coolerator", consisting of a number of shelves, usually 4 to 6, made of galvanized iron, held together and properly spaced by galvanized brackets that hung from an arm extending out from the wall of the porch, around which we wrapped a cheese-cloth curtain that was kept wet by water constantly dripping from an overhead bucket which, with the wind blowing on it kept the produce cool, not cold, but cool enough to keep it from spoiling. Our folks bought sugar, flour, salt, and apples, the latter of course available only in the Fall, all by the barrel. Most of the rest of the things we ate were produced on the farm. We dug our Irish potatoes and spread them out in the loft of our barn, the onions were tied in bunches and hung from the barn rafters; the sweet potatoes, we called them "Punkin Yams" were in the fall and piled in a hill in the corner of our garden, corn stalks were placed around them in the form of an Indian Tee Pee, then dirt banked around them to keep them from freezing in the Winter. The smaller potatoes we kept for seed to be planted the following year. Our Mothers preserved a lot of fruit, dried peaches and apples in the Sun on the top of the porch and although we never had much money, we do not recall ever being hungry. Our clothes, as long as they were useable, were handed down from the older to the younger children as the older children outgrew them and the younger ones grew large enough to wear them. Few people were any better off than we were and we were never in a big race to outdo the "Jones". The Jones were in the same boat. Big events in our lives were taffy pullings in the Winter and ice-cream parties and the 4th of July picnics in the Summer. These parties were held on Friday and Saturday nights so that they didn't interfere with our school or farm work. We never asked our parents, "What can we do now to pass the time away?" We knew before hand what the answer would be, as there was never a time when there wasn't some chore to be done around the place and our parents appeared to just be waiting for us to get caught up with one chore, before assigning us another.

PIPE-LINE LAYOUTS THROUGH SEMINOLE

One of the best by-products of the Permian Oil Basin is the natural gas being shipped to northern cities. Shown here is a picture showing the scope of the operation and a picture of the size pipe being used. The above line starts at Kermit, Texas, and will tie in to the Great Northern system extending to Minnesota and Wisconsin. During the summer of 1966 they were completing the lay-outs of the line through River Falls, Wisconsin and other small area towns and were talking about the big line coming from Kermit, Texas.

Dayton Elam and son, Paul stand in an opening ditch 10 to 12 feet deep. Note the line above their head. One of the problems of laying line through Gaines County is the depth the line has to be laid to clear other lines.

Paul Elam, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Elam and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Elam, tries to fill up the 30" opening in the gas line.

We were very sorry to hear from Mrs. Hubert Wallace of the tragic death of her step-sister, Doris Williams, and her son, Paul, who were killed in a head-on collision near Hillsborough two weeks ago. Mrs. Williams was the daughter of Mr. A. O. Peterson of Denver City, Texas. We extend our sincere sympathy.

WHAT IS A GIRL?

Little girls are the nicest things that happen to people. They are born with a little bit of angel-shine about them and though it wears thin sometimes, there is always enough left to lasso your heart--even when they are sitting in the mud, or crying temperamental tears, or parading up the street in mother's best clothes.

A little girl can be sweeter (and badder) oftener than anyone else in the world. She can jitter around, and stomp, and make funny noises that frazzle your nerves, yet just when you open your mouth, she stands there demure with that special look in her eyes. A girl is Innocence playing in the mud, and Motherhood dragging a doll by the foot.

God borrows from many creatures to make a little girl. He uses the song of a bird, the squeal of a pig, the stubbornness of a mule, the antics of a monkey, the spryness of a grasshopper, the curiosity of a cat, the speed of a gazelle, the slyness of a fox, the softness of a kitten, and to top it all of He adds the mysterious mind of a woman.

A little girl likes new shoes, party dresses, small animals; first grade, noise makers, the girl next door, make believe, dancing lessons, ice cream, kitchens, coloring books, make-up, cans of water, going visiting, tea parties, and one boy. She doesn't care so much for visitors, boys in general, large dogs, hand-me-downs, straight chairs, vegetables, snow suits, or staying in the front yard. Who else can cause you more grief, joy, irritation, satisfaction, embarrassment, and genuine delight? She can muss up your home, your hair, and your dignity--spend your money, your time, and your temper--then just when your patience is ready to crack, her sunshine peeks through and you've lost again.

Yes, she is a nerve-racking nuisance, just a noisy bundle of mischief. But when your dreams tumble down and the world is a mess--when it seems you are pretty much of a fool after all--she can make you a king when she climbs on your knee and whispers, "I love you best of all!"

One year later a 'Super Rack' is being pulled out filled with new honey.

And the keeper removes one half of the honey (thirty pounds) this time of the year to keep bees from 'swarming again' and so they will fill the box again before the winter of the year. (And I did not know that our son-in-law, James Hugh Wilson, was that smart).

CITIZENSHIP SEMINAR

Gaines County Farm Bureau sponsored three Gaines County High School students to the 1967 Texas Farm Bureau Citizenship Seminar which was held at Baylor University in Waco, Texas August 8 through 11.

Those attending from Gaines County were: Chris Wicker of Seagraves, Skeet Doss of Seminole, and Andrea Hand of Loop.

The goal of the Seminar is to convey to the students a better understanding of the American System and the way of life, and that they, in turn, will pass it along to others.

Following the students return from the Seminar, Chris Wicker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wicker of Seagraves and a Seagraves high school Senior this fall, wrote the following letter to the Gaines County Farm Bureau.

Chris's letter (with her consent) is being published because the officers and Directors of the Gaines County Farm Bureau want to share with you the thought contained therein.

To the Gaines County Farm Bureau:

I would like to express my thanks to you for sending me to the Citizenship Seminar.

This was a wonderful experience for me and it is something I will never forget. I had no idea our world was in this shape until I had been down there. I am going to do everything I can to tell others what I learned. Besides meeting so many wonderful people, we also had many good times.

You will never know what this meant to me. Again I thank you for this wonderful opportunity.

Sincerely,
Chris Wicker

CAR THEFT

Brady Hemphill Reeves, 52, from Lubbock, stole a 1966 Chevrolet in Andrews. He abandoned it in Loop where he stole a 1967 GMC PKP parked behind the Post Office belonging to Earl Owens. Reeves drove it to the Carbon Plant north of Seagraves where is ran out of butane. He abandoned it and hitch-hiked to Seminole and stole a 1967 Buick Wildcat, belonging to Richard Timmons.

Reeves was apprehended in Lovington, New Mexico, by Deputy Mel Lovin. Reeves signed Waiver of Extradition and was returned to Seminole August 21, 1967.

If we would give more attention to the high chair we would soon put cobwebs on the electric chair.

Colored Currency?

The question of different colors for our paper money is again being raised in the United States, with polls being conducted and politicians speaking out on the subject.

In many European countries paper money is produced not only in different colors to prevent mistakes but in different bill sizes to well. And visitors to the United States often express surprise upon seeing all our bills green--and the same size.

In addition to preventing confusion and costly mistakes, different colors for bill of varying denominations would greatly ease the clerical and bookkeeping load in banks and businesses.

The advantages far outweigh the disadvantages. In the event that such a step forward is taken, however, one would suggest the color red be avoided. That would be too close to the truth about the financial condition of the LBJ Administration to be comfortable.

There is not a more accurate test of the progress of civilization than the progress of the power of cooperation.

IN OUR FAMILY KITCHEN

MRS. JAKE HARRELL

The Jake Harrell's reside at 703 S. W. Avenue J. They have three children: Tommy 15; Dixie, 13; and Sammy 11. The Harrell's have lived here for 17 years. Jake is Head Coach at Seminole High School. Emily has been employed at the Gaines County Farm Bureau for the past four years. Tommy and Sammy are football enthusiasts. Dixie is a band member and loves track. The family attend the Avenue B Church of Christ. Emily is very creative and enjoys refinishing furniture (and she builds some of it). She also enjoys sewing and has recently refinished a bedroom. She made drapes, and a matching bedspread. She also made a headboard and finished in Mediterranean style. Her next project is to cover a chair in a black fur fabric for the bedroom. There is evidence of Emily's creative ability throughout the Harrell home. Emily also enjoys cooking and this is a family favorite....

I think it is some kind of stone. I can see it through the window of my study. Now, what is there to say about a neighbor living in a new house? Well, for one thing, I can say that I hope I am not envious of him and his house. He probably has worked hard and deserves to have a good place. Perhaps he saved for years before being able to build it.

Again, it is not really any concern of mine. I have a place to hang my hat, and I am grateful. If he is not satisfied with as humble abode as mine, we are not enemies because of it. He seems to have what he wants, and I am glad for what has been provided for me.

There is a school of thinking being developed today, con't on Page 27

DISTRICT VI QUEEN CONTEST AND TALENT FIND CONTEST

The Texas Farm Bureau District VI held its Queen Contest and Talent Find in San Angelo, Texas on Saturday, August 19, 1967.

Representing Gaines County Farm Bureau in the Queen Contest was Miss Chris Wicker, winner and Miss Kay Freeman, runner-up of the local contest. David Fox, Gaines County Talent Find winner, represented the county in the District contest. Miss Dianna Block of Tom Green County was named District Queen and Miss Della Dean of Coke County was named the District Talent find winner.

Those attending from Gaines County were: Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wicker, Mr. and Mrs. Hearne Freeman, Mrs. S. M. Hanson, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Mills, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Fox, and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Fowler.

Men are not always what they think they are, but what they think, they are.

The world is full of beauty, as other worlds above, And if we did our duty, it might be as full of love.

con't from Page 24 MY NEIGHBOR LIVES IN A NEW HOUSE that says I should go over and break his window, or maybe, just burn the place down, in protest to the fact that he has a nice house, and I live in a lesser one.

Or, I could demand that someone give me a house as good as my neighbor's. Of course, I might not have ever tried to save for one; and I never really cared, but, now, as I look at his, I suddenly realize that I am underprivileged, and the world has not been fair to me. The jobs and opportunities I have shunned do not seem important now. I at once have decided that it is the fault of others, maybe this neighbor that I missed all those chances of bettering myself.

Seems to me, best of all, I could say, Thank the Lord for the privilege of having a well-to-do-neighbor. It makes me feel that I live in a community, not only made up of poor and middle class folk like myself, but here is a fellow of means, who has chosen us to be his friends, because he built his house near us; and this indicates he desires to be one of us.

Say, I have a neighbor. He lives in a new house. I think it is some kind of stone. But, you know, when I meet that man down town, I don't think of him as being so far above me. He is my next door neighbor. Just the other day he told me to go into his field and pick all the peas I wanted. New house and all, he is a pretty good neighbor. H. Smith
