Sen Cruz Rallies at Sterley

By Deon Fincher
 The Hesperian Beacon

FLOYD COUNTY- Incumbent Senator Ted Cruz will be holding a campaign rally at Sterley, Texas, Wednesday, October 31st. The meeting will begin at 3:00 p.m. and be held at Dan Smith's barn located at the intersection of FM 2286 and CR 119, just a bit north of Lockney, TX.

Persistence is the quality of continuing steadily despite problems or difficulties. It is one of the qualities of high achievers. Dan Smith takes this to heart, and thus continued his efforts to bring Senator Ted Cruz to Floyd County, even after a previous scheduled stop was cancelled at the last minute. Smith was able to persuade the office to reschedule before next week's November 6 election.

A strong ally of the Farm Bill, Senator Cruz has stated, "Agriculture and farming are vital to the fabric of our nation and are an enduring legacy of the great state of Texas. Resources like crop insurance provide farmers with an economic safety net for their efforts to feed and supply their fellow Americans, in good times and bad, and ensure food security for our nation."

From a rally in Gonzales, Texas, Cruz pitched for votes- "In November we're going to see record-shattering Democratic turnout. This election comes down to one word-turnout. Turnout, turnout, turnout. If we turn out freedom-loving Texas, we'll have a fantastic election."

Scoreboard in 26th year

Tony Ricketts, owner of KFLP radio, as he assists in hosting the West Texas Friday Night Scoreboard show. In its 26th year, the show continues to give Friday Night football scores for 200 teams all over western rural Texas.

If a microphone was placed in your face and you were told to read, on live radio, as many football game scores from the board on the wall as you could in 8 minutes, how many could you read? That is what the West Texas Friday Night Scoreboard Show is all about--football game scores--and there are a lot of Friday Night Games in this part of Texas.

It's Rob Snyder's job to read those scores; and during the 'Fastest 8 Minutes in Football' segment, he does just that! As many scores from the scoreboard as he can cover in, when sitting in the booth with him, See SCOREBOARD, Page 9

Trick-or-Treat, Lockney-Style

By Deon Fincher
 The Hesperian-Beacon

Trick-or-Treat opportunities will abound in Lockney this weekend, but not necessarily on Halloween's designated 31st date. Saturday, October 27th will be the city's "official" trick-or-treating night in and around the Lockney Community. Everything starts with the First United Baptist Church Harvest Festival. The Festival will house a Country Store which will open to the public at 10:45 a.m. on Saturday. This country store offers home-made canned and baked goods. At 11:00 a.m., lunch is served! A true harvest favorite: a home-cooked meal with turkey and dressing, sweet potatoes, green beans, cranberry sauce, a home-made roll, and peach cobbler will be the highlight. Those hungry people interested in partaking of this meal can dine-in (102 W. Poplar) or carry-out. The cost is $8.00 and tickets are available from the church office or from any church member.

During the meal, a silent auction will be available featuring handcrafted

Letter to the Editor

To Whom it May Concern;

I just want to thank the community, staff and administration of Lockney Health and Rehabilitation and Doctor Gary Mangold. My mom had been in another nursing home for a few years. I watched her decline sadly, almost passively. You just innately trust that someone will care and nurture your loved ones not only because it's their job but because it's just the human thing to do. In hindsight, there are so many things I should have questioned and even demanded. I trusted my mother was getting the care she needed, all the while seeing with my own eyes she wasn't. I had always heard the saying "There is no light left in their eyes". I actually saw that happen. Mom no longer had light in her eyes. She literally just existed. She became nonverbal and non-emotional. Without going into the details, there was an issue that "was the last straw" so to speak. My niece worked for Lockney Health and Rehabilitation and assured us that mom would get the best care and would also get to be around family more often. Lockney H&R picked mom up on November 30th, 2017 and the change has been miraculous. In less than a year my mother has "gotten the light" back in her eyes. She is happy, smiling and talking up a storm. Unknown to us she had a serious bed sore that had tunneled to the bone. The excellent medical care mom has received by the staff and Dr. Gary truly saved her life. I can't imagine the pain and suffering she went through in getting that sore. We also discovered she had a staph infection as well upon her arrival at Lockney.

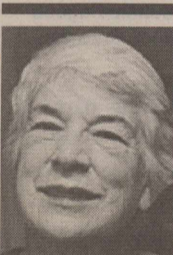

On my frequent visits I have seen the same staff as well as students in training.

Never did I see the same people twice at the other nursing home- I was there a lot! There is someone cleaning the building every time I go. Again, I never saw that at the other nursing home. I did see big carts with loads of dirty laundry piled in it. Lockney H&R has never once smelled like what I perceive a nursing home smelling like. It is very nice, clean, bright and welcoming. Mom is eating again and the food looks and smells amazing! I have visited when there has been a lady playing the piano and singing hymns with most of the residents in attendance singing along. I have been there when a lady and gentleman played their guitars and sang old county songs, again most residents clapping and singing along. One Wednesday morning I happened to be there when a large group of church members gathered to sing hymns with the residents!! It was amazing. I am just so overwhelmed by the community support and involvement. What a blessing they are to these residents! Mom has made friends and has gotten to go on outings. They do crafts and games and puzzles! She is living again! Everyone involved in her care has just been wonderful. Words cannot express my families' thankfulness to this facility, Dr. Gary and the community of Lockney. I know that decisions to place a loved one in a nursing facility are very difficult to make. I can unequivocally attest that if you are facing that decision, Lockney H&R is an excellent choice and one that you can trust in. Please go visit if you haven't and see for yourself.

Sincerely, Darla Forney, daughter of Bobby Sue Dempsey (Lockney H&R resident)

The 501 Vague about Vaguebooking

Vaguebooking. I had to look it up in the Urban Dictionary. That was yesterday. Today it dawned on me that it almost rhymes with Facebooking. Duh.

HANABA MUNN WELCH

And harrumph! That's a poor rhyme - vaguebook and Facebook. We studied poor rhymes in English class. Didn't like 'em then, don't like 'em now.

I'm not pro-vaguebooking either, now that I know what it is. Should it be capitalized? The jury's still out. I don't want to show vaguebooking that much respect.

By the way, a Google graph indicates interest in vaguebooking peaked in 2013. Where was I?

For those of you who don't know, here's what it means:

Vaguebooking describes posting the sort of Facebook message that is designed to pique everyone's interest but say nothing.

- Examples: "Why do I feel this way?" "I should have thought twice." "Is it all worth it?" "Asking for unspoken prayers."

Maybe those aren't the very best examples, but I didn't want to steal anything from the Urban Dictionary. You get the idea. If you use Facebook, you've probably been vaguebooked.

Just talking about the vaguebooking phenomenon makes me feel like I've been unwittingly sucked into something that deserves no attention.

Incidentally, what are unspoken prayers? If I talk to God either out loud or silently I think of my petitions as spoken.

THEOLOGICAL PAUSE. I just read several paragraphs written by a pastor in defense of "unspoken prayer" requests. Turns out the term refers to prayers requested for unspoken reasons. In other words, say a prayer for me, but I don't want to say why I'm asking. I can go along with that, even if it is a form of vaguebooking, but let's call a spade a spade and agree there's no such thing as an unspoken prayer, unless you're the Holy Spirit. Amen? Amen.

Back to Facebook. Most of my FB friends, thankfully, don't vaguebook. Neither do I. But lately I've been annoyingly the opposite, asking everyone to vote for my song and the Hard Knox City Band in the Don't Mess With Texas song contest. Sorry, but I just had to mention it. When it's all over but the shouting, I'm going to observe a period of silence. Remind me I said that. Once into the swing of constantly posting and chatting and messaging and Tweeting and texting, it's hard to stop. (Except I forgot to Tweet yesterday. My two followers are probably wondering what happened.)

A friend of mine once joined an order and stuck with it almost long enough to become a full-fledged nun. She could get letters but couldn't write any. She and her fellow-novitiates were allowed to chat only during their evening sewing sessions. Any other conversations during the day were supposed to be minimal and work-related. Hmmm.

Hie thee to a nunnery, You need to stop the blab, We're tired voting for your song, Even though it's fab.

That's my latest jingle. Sing it to me. Better to be tunelessly scolded and mocked than vaguebooked. Acceptably vague smiley face here.

About town

There are three things that really make the hairs on my neck prickle:

- 1) Community organizations that don't have open meetings. 2) Community leaders/board members that don't attend their meetings. 3) Community residents that don't attend the community's meetings.

#1. Community organizations that have anything to do with the business of running the community, the growth and development of said community, and the promotion and unitization of the businesses within the community should have open meetings. Period. If residents want to attend meetings, they should be given an open door. It seems as though boards and directors tend to think that the business they are conducting is somehow private--Nothing could be farther from the truth! As citizens, the business of the city we reside in is as much our business as the minorities that make up the boards.

DEON FINCHER

Interestingly, board members treat its residents as toddlers that 'might get out of hand' if news gets out that someone is making inquiries into moving into a community. Shame on you! New jobs are good...desirous...imperative to small towns. Share the excitement!! Get feedback from your citizens! There just might be something that someone could offer that might turn the tables and create even more inducements to outside companies.

#2. As an elected official, it is imperative that meetings be attended. If at any time one's situation changes and the duties of the office (attending meetings) are not feasible, that individual should be responsible and resign. In small towns, and in large cities, too, being on a board becomes more a "feather-in-the-hat" than a serious undertaking of service. Oftentimes, there are others within the community whose lives are put on hold when quorums are not present. Those that don't attend the meetings, hold up progress. Meetings are not meant to be social gatherings. Important and most often, time sensitive, business should be conducted. Licensing, tax regulations, permitting--all of these segments of business require constant upkeep. The lack of attention to menial 'business' matters of these organizations will jeopardize opportunities--simply because the paperwork didn't get printed, filled out, filed or it wasn't a priority. Ridiculousness! Lazy boards should be re-established with members that care and want to prepare for any opportunities that might come to the community.

#3. Last May's election drew three percent of the county's registered voters. ONLY THREE PERCENT! That's what I said--Three percent of our population decided who would be in county offices, city offices and school offices. Friends, we live in a nation that allows our input--a freedom that, apparently, we take for granted. As citizens of a county, of a community, you have the right to be informed. Becoming informed starts with attending meetings of our governing bodies. Yes, I do realize that our elected officials are put in positions to represent the people; but if we, as the public, never attend those meetings, how do we know if that is truly the case? How do you know if your representative is even attending meetings?

It is my job to inform our readers as to the business at hand within the county and its communities. Attending every meeting that is posted is my goal--one that I continue to strive toward. Needless to say, I go to a lot of gatherings. Sadly, I am usually the only 'public' that is in attendance.

I am making a 'call to action' to each and every resident in this county: get involved--every organization needs good, honest, interested individuals to serve; become informed--attend meetings, get to know those governing and give your feedback; and, ask questions! If something doesn't seem right, it probably isn't. Don't allow negligence within our organizations' business to close doors of opportunity. Our county can't prosper without us--but, it can die with us. Let's not let that happen! The Lock]

The 1956 Study Club met October 9th at Don Hardy's Classic Cars in the Hesperian Building on the Floydada town square. Our hostesses Judy Dunlap and Judy Schacht served homemade Cheesy Chicken Rice soup and pumpkin pies, perfect for a chilly night. We ate in a cozy area surrounded by antique furniture, saddles and cars belonging to Carolyn and Don Hardy. Our program, Spurs & Saddles, was presented by Carolyn Hardy. On display were 26 saddles and a glass case filled with spurs. Carolyn talked about the various types of saddles, makers and the ones that were special to her. Saddle makers were from the surrounding areas of Paducah, Matador, and a very special one by Mr. Council from Lawton, Oklahoma. They varied in style, size, material and use.

During roll call members stated whether they had ever worn spurs or sat in a saddle. Most members had sat in a saddle whether it was on a guided trail ride, riding for fun, or growing up working with horses. None of the members present had worn spurs.

THE FLOYD COUNTY HISTORICAL MUSEUM MEMORIES 1979

THE JOHN KELLY FAMILY

Earnest Hays was born in Rusk Chem and old friends visit her. The immigrant ancestors of John Roster Kelley, who is a resident of the Cedar Hill Community in the northeast part of Floyd County, Texas, were Patrick and Margaret Nolan Kelley. They left their home in Ireland along with their three children, Henry, James, and Marcella about 1845 and were near Great Barrington, Berkshire County, Massachusetts, USA when John Roster's (John Kelly's father) was born in 1847. Henry and George were in the Civil War and the last time the two brothers saw each other was in New Orleans, Louisiana. Each went their separate ways and George Kelley later married Nan Littlefield, May 4, 1874 in Weatherford, Texas. They reared 10 children; James (Jim), George Jr., Martha, Marcella, Sam, Rosi, Walk, Baylor, Emma, Nona, Twins (John Roster and Callie Nan). John and Callie were born October 4, 1896 in Indian Territory, Johnson County, Oklahoma. Their mother died while they were young and John was reared in the Littlefield Bend, Parker County, Texas, by his mother's sister and her husband-Deedy and John Estes. All the children have passed on except John and Callie.

John attended school and church at Soda Springs in Littlefield Bend and at Grindstone School near Milsap, Texas. John enjoyed horseback riding and fishing on the Brazos River. He always looked forward to the coconut birthday cake baked by Aunt Deedy each October 5 for him and his cousin, Mattie Estes. Her birthday was October 6.

John came to Quitaque in the fall of 1915 to visit two of his mother's sisters and their families. He decided to try his luck at farming here. While farming on the Motley and Floyd County line, with his brother Walk Kelley, he was drafted into the army, during World War I, departing from Matador, Texas. He returned to Floyd County after the war in 1919 and began farming in the Cedar Hill Community, living with John and Callie Gilbert. Later he batched with Ace Monk and others. While batching, it was not uncommon for him to spend a portion of Sundays cutting hair for neighbors and riding horses with the boys.

John Roster Kelley and Nancy Evelyn (Peat) Fortenberry were married in Lockney, Texas, May 9, 1925, by rev. McCarthy, Peat was the youngest daughter of John Cephus I and Ann Riley (Skates) Fortenberry, who came from Denton County, to Floyd County, Texas in 2 covered wagons, October 1890. They brought their 3 children; Lillie May, Jackson Green, John Cephus II with them. Mary Elizabeth, Hugh, Ella Belle, twins (Joseph and Oliver), Jennie Lee, Nancy Evelyn and Thomas Bandy were born here in the Cedar Hill Community. All have passed on except Lizzie, Belle, Peat and Tom.

Peat attended school in both the old wooden and the ½ brick, ½ stucco school buildings at Cedar Hill. She also attended church at both the Baptist and Assembly of God. She enjoyed basketball, mumblety peg, horseback riding, crochet, tating and playing the piano.

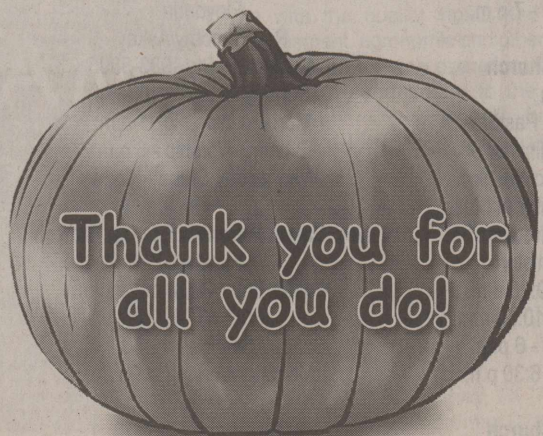

The first year John and Peat were married they lived northwest of the Alcino General Store and Post Office, operated by Mr. John D. Dillard. The next year they lived ½ mile Northeast of Cedar Hill School, two churches, and general store, operated by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dillard. Here their first child, George Milton was born March 16, 1926 and died 3 days later, buried at Lockney. They moved 1 mile north of Cedar Hill where their daughter Norma Deen was born May 19, 1928. About 1937 they bought more land and moved ¼ mile north of Cedar Hill. They drilled an irrigation well 2 ½ miles north of Cedar Hill in 1950, which was among the first to be drilled in the Cedar Hill Community.

Norma Deen married J. A. Welch and they have a daughter, Connie Elaine, who is the pride and joy of her grandparents.

Peat and John celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, May 11, 1975, and are still active in farming and ranching the Cedar Hill Community.

Ten Best Quotes from "It's the Great Pumpkin, Charlie Brown"

Lucy Van Pelt: "A person should always choose a costume which is in direct contrast to her own personality."

Linus: "You've heard of the fury of a woman scorned, haven't you?"
Charlie Brown: "Yeah, I guess I have."

Linus: "Well, that's nothing compared to a woman who has been cheated out of tricks-or-treats."

Linus: "Each year, the Great Pumpkin rises out of the pumpkin patch that he thinks is the most sincere. He's gotta pick this one. He's got to. I don't see how a pumpkin patch can be more sincere than this one. You can look around and there's not a sign of hypocrisy. Nothing but sincerity as far as the eye can see."

Lucy: "All you have to do is walk up to a house, ring the doorbell, and say 'tricks or treats.'"

Sally: "Are you sure it's legal?"

Lucy: "Of course it's legal."

Sally: "I wouldn't want to be accused of taking part in a rumble."

Linus: "Have you come to sing pumpkin carols?"

Linus: "You don't believe the story of the Great Pumpkin? I thought little girls always believed everything that was told to them. I thought little girls were innocent and trusting."

Sally: "Welcome to the 20th Century!"

Linus: "There are three things I've learned never to discuss with people: religion, politics, and the Great Pumpkin."

Linus: "He'll come here because I have the most sincere pumpkin patch and he respects sincerity."

Linus [writing to the Great Pumpkin]: "You must get discouraged because more people believe in Santa Claus than you. Well, let's face it; Santa Claus has had more publicity, but being #2, perhaps you try harder."

Patty [as Linus is writing to the Great Pumpkin]: "You're wasting your time; the Great Pumpkin is a fake!"

Linus [writing]: "Everyone tells me you are a fake, but I believe in you. P.S.: if you really are a fake, don't tell me. I don't want to know."

In the fire

[Nebuchadnezzar] replied, "But I see four men unbound, walking in the middle of the fire, and they are not hurt; and the fourth has the appearance of a god."

—Daniel 3:25 (NRSV)

When I was young, I used to go with my grandmother to paint ceramics. She would let me pick out a piece to paint. After I finished painting, my grandmother would put the piece into the incredibly hot oven, then take it out and put a protective glaze on it before firing it again. This glaze would bring out the color, making the creation shiny and more durable. The ceramic pieces always looked more brilliant after having gone through the furnace.

When Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego were thrown into a fire for being faithful to God by refusing to worship

Nebuchadnezzar's golden statue, they had no certainty that God would save them. Yet, while peering into the flames, the king was astonished that they appeared to be unharmed, and with them was a fourth person who had a divine appearance.

Intense suffering can leave its mark on us. God does not promise to keep us from the fiery furnace, but God is with us in it. And like a ceramic piece that becomes even more beautiful after having been through the oven, God can take the most intense moments in our lives and form us into something different, too — something more beautiful, more durable, and more like Christ.

— Adam Benson (North Carolina)

United States Cattle on Feed Up 5 Percent

By Tony St. James
www.ALLAgNews.com

WASHINGTON, DC— Cattle and calves on feed for the slaughter market in the United States for feedlots with capacity of 1,000 or more head totaled 11.4 million head on October 1, 2018. The inventory was 5 percent above October 1, 2017. This is the highest October 1 inventory since the series began in 1996. The inventory included 7.09 million steers and steer calves, up 2 percent from the previous year. This group accounted for 62 percent of the total inventory. Heifers and heifer calves accounted for 4.31 million head, up 11 percent from 2017. Placements in feedlots during September totaled 2.05 million head, 5 percent below 2017. Net placements were 1.99 million head. Marketings of fed cattle during September totaled 1.72 million head, 4 percent below 2017. Other disappearance totaled 57,000 head during September, 2 percent below 2017. Feedlot inventories increased in every major state except South Dakota and the largest percentage increase was for California (20.9%) and Arizona (19%). Texas (2.66 million head), Nebraska (2.43 million) and Kansas (2.37 million) continue to rank as the largest feeding states in the country.

With 2.32 million head of cattle and calves on feed in the Northern High Plains, this represents 87 percent of the total on feed in Texas, while the 159 thousand head on feed across the Western South Plains is the second largest feeding region in the state.

Bankruptcy Court Awards Sorghum Company to Alfalfa Firm

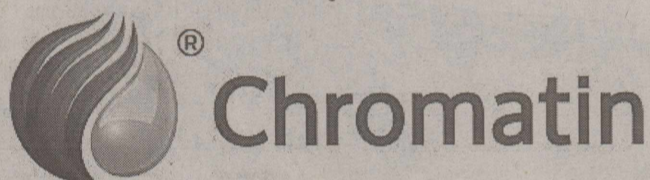

By Tony St. James
www.ALLAgNews.com

SACRAMENTO, CA— Tight economic times for farmers and ranchers are hitting those in agribusiness as well. On September 23rd, a Federal bankruptcy court in Chicago awarded the assets of Chromatin seeds to S&W Seeds for $26.5 million dollars. Founded in 2001, Chromatin developed sorghum varieties for the domestic market and was able to gain market share during a resurgence in seedings over the past ten years. When the sugarcane aphid appeared in Texas and Oklahoma in 2222 and prices began to retreat though, farmers began to switch out ed row crop in the U.S. (behind soybeans, corn, wheat and cotton). Though established more than 40 years ago, in 2010 S&W opened new markets, expanded alfalfa and biotech varieties as well. The company acquired Imperial Valley Seed in 2012 to expand production in the Imperial Valley growing region of California, and in 2013 acquired Seed Genetics International, expanding its production capabilities into Australia. SV Genetics was added in 2016, bringing extensive R&D in sunflower and sorghum species across five continents. Chromatin's seed facilities are located in Texas, just outside of Lubbock (New Deal).

of the crop which contributed to Chromatin falling into receivership in 2017. Sorghum is the fifth largest cereal grain in the world and is the fifth most plant-acreage dedicated to the production of alfalfa, and expanded its research and development focus beyond its roots in non-dormant varieties, into dormant al-

Dallas Fed Reserve Sees Continued Concern for Ag

By Tony St. James

DALLAS, TX) Bankers responding to the third-quarter survey noted some easing of drought conditions across several regions of the Eleventh District. However, many contacts continued to note significant difficulties with dryland crop production due to lack of moisture. Hay inventories remain very tight, which continues to put pressure on livestock production. Demand for agricultural loans overall decreased for a 12th consecutive quarter. Loan renewals and extensions rose slightly, while the rate of loan repayment largely stabilized after declining in the prior two quarters. The volume of non-real-estate farm loans was slightly lower compared with a year ago, while the volume of farm real estate loans declined more significantly. The volume of operating loans declined modestly, while volumes of all other loans declined sharply in the third quarter. District dryland values ticked up this quarter, while irrigated cropland and ranchland values declined. According to bankers who responded in both this quarter and third quarter 2017, Texas nominal dryland and ranchland values increased year over year. Southern New Mexico respondents indicated an increase in cropland and ranchland values, and northern Louisiana respondents reported an increase in dryland and ranchland values but a slight decline in irrigated cropland values. The anticipated trend in the farmland values index was positive for a sixth consecutive quarter, inching up to its highest value since 2014 and suggesting continued expectations for farmland values to trend up in the upcoming months.

What's Up?
by Deon Fincher

Even after a long, warm fall, the cold always comes, bringing freezes and frosts. What do those terms mean? And what do they mean to trees and other plants?

A freeze is a period when it's cold enough to cause ice crystals to form inside plants. Plant cells are filled with water. When that water turns to tiny shards of ice, they slice open the cell walls and ruin the plant tissue.

In weather reports, a freeze is any air temperature below 32 degrees, the freezing point of water. Whether that cold air actually damages plants in your garden will depend on how low it goes, the species of plant, whether it is in a sheltered spot in your yard, how long the low temperature lasts and many other factors.

"Frost" technically refers to the silvery coating of ice crystals that forms on plants if a freeze occurs when there's lots of water vapor in the air. However, gardeners often use "freeze" and "frost" interchangeably to refer to a cold spell.

In gardening terms, a "light freeze" or "light frost" refers to temperatures that fall just a few degrees below freezing for a few hours. Some hardy plants may not be damaged. A "hard frost" or "killing frost" comes when the temperature drops further, below 28 degrees, for a longer time. It will kill the top growth of most perennials and root crops.

You can often protect plants against cold temperatures by covering beds with an old sheet or floating row cover, a product sold for this purpose. Shield individual plants with an up-turned flower pot. Remember to remove the protection in the morning so the plants can get warmth and light from the sun.

These measures will only protect plants against a couple of degrees of cold, so harvest your vegetables and move tender plants indoors before a hard frost.

A hard frost doesn't mean all plants are done for the year. The soil doesn't freeze as quickly as the air. Even after plants have died back to the ground, the soil may be warm enough, that the roots can still grow.

This extra time to establish roots can be crucial for trees, shrubs and perennials that you planted this year. To insulate the soil and keep it warmer longer, spread a layer of mulch around new plants. Don't forget to water them until the ground freezes.

difficult it would be to teach a younger grade, to the stress that the teachers experience in their highly demanding field.

The Floydada High School has adopted a new learning course called Principles of Education. This class teaches its students what the life of a teacher is like. Students make their lesson plans and teach their lessons to a grade of their choosing as their fellow peers

Mrs. Trevino, the teacher of the course, said that the students "are performing really well," and that she foresees them going out and being in the teaching field.

Several of the students suggested that the course has given them great experience and showed them a lot from how

Lockney Longhorns

Longhorns fall to New Home 16-6

By Charles Keaton
The Hesperian-Beacon

LOCKNEY – New Home forced three turnovers by the Lockney Longhorns as the Leopards picked up their first victory in 11-man football, defeating the Longhorns 16-6. New Home improves to 1-6 and 1-1 in their first year of 11-man football while Lockney falls to 0-7 and 0-2.

New Home found the end-zone with 8:06 left in the first quarter on a 30-yard pass from Kaleb LeClair to Blake Buckelew. Following a two-point conversion, the Leopards took an 8-0 lead after the first quarter.

With 11:06 left in the second quarter, the Leopards intercepted a Longhorn pass then on the first play from scrimmage, Buckelew scored on an 80-yard run and after the two-point conversion, New Home had a 16-0 lead they took to the half.

Neither team found the end zone in the third quarter.

In the fourth quarter, with 6:18 left in the game, Nathan Cenicerros scored on an eight-yard run for the Longhorns to make the final score, 16-6 in favor of New Home.

Offensively, Lockney had 281 total yards including 239 yards rushing and 42 yards passing. New Home had 185 total yards including 148 yards rushing and 37 yards passing.

Individually for Lockney, Anson Rendon had 16 carries for 109 yards and Cenicerros had 20 carries for 115 yards and a touchdown.

Individually for New Home, LeClair was 4-9 passing for 25 yards and a touchdown and had nine carries for 22 yards. Kash Starkey had five carries for 26 yards, Buckelew had 16 carries for 121 yards and a touchdown and had two catches for 22 yards and a touchdown.

“We had too many turnovers and too many penalties,” Head Coach Stacy Ward said, “those were the keys to New Home winning.”

Around the District, Ralls (6-1, 2-0) defeated Smyer (1-6, 1-1) 54-0 and Tahoka (4-3, 2-0) defeated Crosbyton (0-7, 0-2) 55-0. Lockney travels to Smyer this week, New Home hosts Crosbyton and Tahoka hosts Ralls.

“We just have to keep playing and keep working,” Ward said.

Nathan Cenicerros, #8, pushes through to score against New Home's wall of defense.

The fun only starts there! October 27th, Saturday, is the city's official trick-or-treat night. Ghouls, goblins, princesses and pirates will be roaming the streets, knocking on doors, and shouting, "Trick-or-Treat!" Typically, it is easier to just hand them the bowl of goodies, and wish them good fortune, but there is always that chance to get a trick out of one of the characters.

The Floyd County 4-Hers will be doing their own kind of "Trick-or-Treating" this night in Floydada and in Lockney. Not for candy, these 4-Hers will be asking for canned or non-perishable goods for donation to the South Plains Food Bank. Hopefully, these civic-minded youngsters will be able to fill a truck-load of cans and food-stuffs from our two communities. When you are filling your candy-bowls and arranging them near the door, don't forget to gather a couple bags of beans, corn, cornbread, and noodles to give to this worthy cause.

Friday, October 12, Snyder made it through 143 contests within those eight minutes... impressive.

West Texas Friday Night Scoreboard Show officially started in 1996, and at the time, "it was all on paper," described Tony Ricketts, owner of KFLP Radio. "It was like, 'Here are some games to-night,' and we read the scores from the games." After a few years, the scoreboard moved to a dry erase board-Nick Long was the host during that time.

One Friday night, the Littlefield station owner called in to report the score from the local game. It just so happened that the call came in during an 'on-air' segment and was put on hold. When the caller was again picked up, the voice on the other side stated, "That's the greatest thing I've heard! Can you just put me on hold and can I put it on the air?"

"So, it was by accident that the show broke out of our station...because we put somebody on hold and they liked it," reminisced Ricketts. From there it grew to about 5 or 6 stations.

The real growth came when Steven Orr came to work at the station. He was new and didn't know who, within the broadcast circles, not to call. All of the sudden, station owners were bypassing the staff and proclaiming, "It's gonna be on our station." That year, the show's syndication grew to 20+ stations. The growth continued with each new year, and then, technology reared it head. It was a different time in 2006 than it is now, and 'internet streaming' was unknown. Everything up to that point was delivered via phone or satellite; however, costs associated with that vehicle increased exponentially. The choice was to end the show or find a new way of doing things. A new transfer medium was needed.

Ricketts tells the story, "There was a guy in Sweden that had this little idea--to move audio over the internet, and that transmission would be in real-time. Plus, the sound quality was really good. But, they had never done what we were trying to do." Orr stepped in, contributing endless hours of research and development that became instrumental to the progress and unveiling of the transmission system known as BARIX.

"BARIX is a small device that is put into radio stations," described Ricketts, "It hooks into the internet, and this box provides the audio. Within a second, our receiver stations have our broadcast." Technologically it was well ahead of jumped on this "Trick-or-Treat" bandwagon, and much like the 4-Hers, are doing things a bit different. This year's Trunk-or-Treat will be a 'glow-in-the-dark', lighted affair. Glow bracelets and necklaces will be handed out to tricksters and treaters. Awards will be given out to the best costume, as well as the best decorated trunk. All the fun and activities on Mainstreet will begin at 7:00 p.m. Everyone--including the trunk owners--are encouraged to dress up and fully immerse themselves in the hilarity of the night's events.

Again, the Chamber of Commerce wants Lockney's residents to know that the city-wide trick-or-treating will take place, Saturday, October 27th. The FUMC's Harvest Festival begins at 10:45 a.m. that day and will be serving a home-made, traditional turkey dinner for dine-in or take-out. The Floyd County 4-H will be 'trick-or-treating' and asking for canned and non-perishable food items for donation to the Food Bank; please have those items gathered and ready to give to those 4-H members. The night will culminate with the Glow-In-the-Dark Trunk or Treat on Mainstreet. Decorate your trunk, put on your best wig, and join the community in this annual tradition.

the phone and satellite transfers at the time. "Based on the work that Steven has contributed, he probably knows the workings of the device as well or better than those inside the company--He really knocked it out of the park!" This revolutionary technology gave the Countdown a second life, and that life continues every Friday Night during the months of September, October and early November.

Initially, the show covered games in the panhandle, the south plains, and the rolling plains, but as more stations joined, those at the station found themselves stretching the borders. Officially, the game coverage area spans not south of I-10 or East of I-35. "We try to stay out of Mountain Time zone, but with the El Paso area, we inevitably have a few schools we report on." But the need outgrew the original scope: to provide a scoreboard of rural school scores. "Once you get into the metropolitan areas, our listeners are only going to hear their school's scores once in 2 hours--Nobody wants that," added Ricketts.

"Today, we get scores from callers and through emails and texts. But, a long time ago, we would get some really great stories from the mail," stated Ricketts. "We got one letter from a man who used to travel around the state with his wife, just going to football games. In their travels, they always tuned into the show. As time went on, he lost his wife. He wrote us the letter during the first season that he was travelling without her. He just wanted us to know that we were a part of that memory. Its interesting, you find these stories of how much something means to somebody... and it's just a show to us. It brings things into perspective." A touching example of the impact that KFLP's West Texas Friday Night Countdown Show has--not just within our community's limits, but across Texas.

Currently, the show airs on over 50 stations, reaching a footprint of 1.25 million people. Yes--1.25 million people. Air-time begins at 10:00 p.m. Throughout the two-hour show, scores from 200 schools will be announced--numerous times, background on the competitions given, and some play-by-play snippets of various contests are provided.

And when midnight rolls around, the crew and staff of the show start again for the next week's broadcast.

The West Texas Friday Night Scoreboard Show airs through the first game of the playoff season. The Scoreboard Show can be found on KFLP-106.1 FM radio station every Friday night at 10:00 p.m. through 12:00 midnight.
