

Bond Issue To Relieve Crowding In Lubbock Schools To Be Talked

Trustees Will Meet Tonight

Need for a bond issue to relieve the growing exigencies of overcrowding in Lubbock city schools probably will be discussed in the monthly meeting of trustees tonight, officials revealed late Thursday.

"There's no use beating around the bush," said Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, president of the board, last night. "Our schools are overcrowded, both as to space and numbers of pupils per teacher. For several years, little by little, the school board and executives of the system have known that sooner or later a major building program would have to be undertaken. The board feels it has waited as long as it safely can to start definite expansion of physical properties. Tonight, as a climax to months of thought on the part of the board as a whole, and of special committees of the board, we expect to evolve actual plans for enlarging our facilities."

The overcrowded school "shoe has pinched" in earnest this year, due to an unusually heavy influx of new citizens, many of whom were brought here by the Army Air base, now well under construction west of the city. About midwinter, when the Air base goes into regular operation, a further heavy increase of school children is expected. Many of the hundreds of officers and non-commissioned officers will have school age children who will attend Lubbock public schools.

Further Increase Coming
Noting the increase in school children brought here by the Air base at the opening of the school year, and anticipating an even heavier increase after the base personnel arrives, the board has lodged in Washington an application for a portion of federal funds allotted to cities whose school facilities have increased overtaxed due to institutions of national defense. A. C. Jackson, business manager and tax collector-assessor of the school system, and W. T. Strange, representative of the architectural firm assembling plans for the building program, recently spent nearly three weeks in Washington guiding the application through the various government channels and furnishing facts, figures and statistics in connection with it. Jackson said last night he believed the application would be "granted in some form."

"However," he said, "the amount of federal aid likely to be received here is as yet unknown." Joining Jackson and Strange in their Washington efforts was Chas. A. Guy, member of the board and of the trustees' building committee, who was in the capital to write a series of articles for the Avalanche-Journal, papers, of which he is editor-publisher.

Jackson pointed out that whatever funds are made available here by the federal government must be augmented by local funds. If the physical properties of the school system are expanded sufficiently to care for present needs, "The government is firm in the statement that it assumes responsibility only for those school children brought here because of the national defense project," he said.

Full Speed Anticipated
A special building committee of the board of trustees, composed of Walter R. Alderson, R. F. Bayless and Guy, have been studying both the present school plant and its needs "off and on for several months," starting shortly after the summer vacation began. Dr. Hutchinson said he expected the building committee to recommend "full speed ahead" at tonight's meeting.

Figures secured through the office of Dr. W. B. Irvin, superintendent of schools, spin a statistical picture of the over-crowded situation.

"For instance," Dr. Irvin said, "we are this very day caring for 1,112 more students than the present capacity of the school system should accommodate. We are even using 'book rooms,' which are scarcely more than oversized

Cradles Of Liberty Lose Historic Elms

LEXINGTON, Mass., Oct. 31 (U.P.)—Two historic elms, one here to which George Washington once tethered his horse and the other in nearby Concord, which was once used as a whipping post, have fallen.

Decaying inside, the 300-year-old Lexington tree snapped off during a northwest gale. However, the famous "Washington" spike remains intact on the jagged stump. President Washington tied his mount to the branch on Nov. 5, 1789, while he dined at Munroe Tavern.

Concord's famed elm stood in Monument Square. It was damaged in the 1938 hurricane and was cut down recently by the town because of the danger of its falling. Imbedded in the still-standing trunk is the iron staple to which victims of the whipping post were tied.

Whales Go Romping All Over Seven Seas As Europe's War Brings Curb On Harpooning

By The Associated Press
MADRID, Oct. 31.—A number of Spanish sardine fishermen, a Portuguese freighter captain, and whale pit merchants from Norway to Capetown would like to call the world's attention to the fact that the real winners in this war may be the world's whales.

A Portuguese freighter captain, who pilots his coastwise ship around the Iberian peninsula, reported that whales were becoming a greater danger to navigation than the mines floating into the Atlantic ocean and Bay of Biscay from fields near the English channel.

Tail Story Told
He claimed, by the way, to have seen a whale run smack into a floating mine and dissolve into bits of oil and whalebone. His crew embellished the yarn with details of the whale's efforts to swallow the mine.

Whale oil merchants are reported buying up all available whalers on the theory that war ship losses and the increase of whales during the involuntary cessation of whaling through the war period will enable them to bring in record catches after hostilities cease.

ROSE OF SHARON
The Rose of Sharon still is grown on the plain of Sharon, along the Mediterranean coast. Botanists know it as tulip montana. It bears deep red flowers, with black centers, and is a member of the lily family.

Found Far South
No one knows how the whales heard about it, but the fact is that they are now gambling in places they never dared visit before.

Sardine fishermen along the Mediterranean coast are particularly worried, for they have had little or no experience in dealing close, to care for the overflow—not to mention basement quarters which should not be used for classroom purposes under any save extreme emergency conditions.

Classes Too Large
Dr. Irvin also pointed out that present conditions in the Lubbock school system cause too many teachers to teach too many students per day.

"At present," he said, "71 of our teachers in the elementary schools alone are teaching classes composed of from 35 to 54 pupils. This is not an educationally healthy condition."

The present school system is comprised of 13 buildings, valued in the neighborhood of $2,000,000. There is definite need at the present time, school officials feel, for additions to several buildings—including the Senior High school and for the construction of at least one new ward school building in the northwest part of the city.

Tonight's meeting of the board will begin at 7 p. m. It will be held in the business offices of the district, 1007 Texas avenue.

Dr. Hutchinson said he expected a full attendance of the seven-man board.

Behind Urals, Crafty Russians Are Planning "Bomb Proof" Empire

Soviets' "Ace" New Industry

BY D. J. DALLIN
Written For NEA Service
NEW YORK, Oct. 31—A natural "bomb-proof shelter" sprawling endlessly behind the stormy peaks of the Ural mountains, gives hard-pressed Russia a vast industrial war base to serve as an ace-in-the-hole for the death battle with Germany.

Tens of thousands of square miles, protected from enemy bombers and land forces by the "blitz-proof" mountains, roll ever eastward over country now producing oil, wheat, coal, lumber, meat, limestone, fabrics and much-needed metals.

Loomed Far Ahead
Alert to the day when her western frontier might crumble under the crash of an invasion, Russians craftily started ten years ago upon a giant program to develop and exploit the land.

Tremendous capital investments, estimated in billions of rubles, were ordered after painstaking surveys. And today, on land that once was uninhabited—or even desert—great industrial plants with smoking chimneys stand as monuments to the achievement.

From this hideaway, Russia plans to ship an unending flow of tanks, guns and battleplanes to the men fighting at the front.

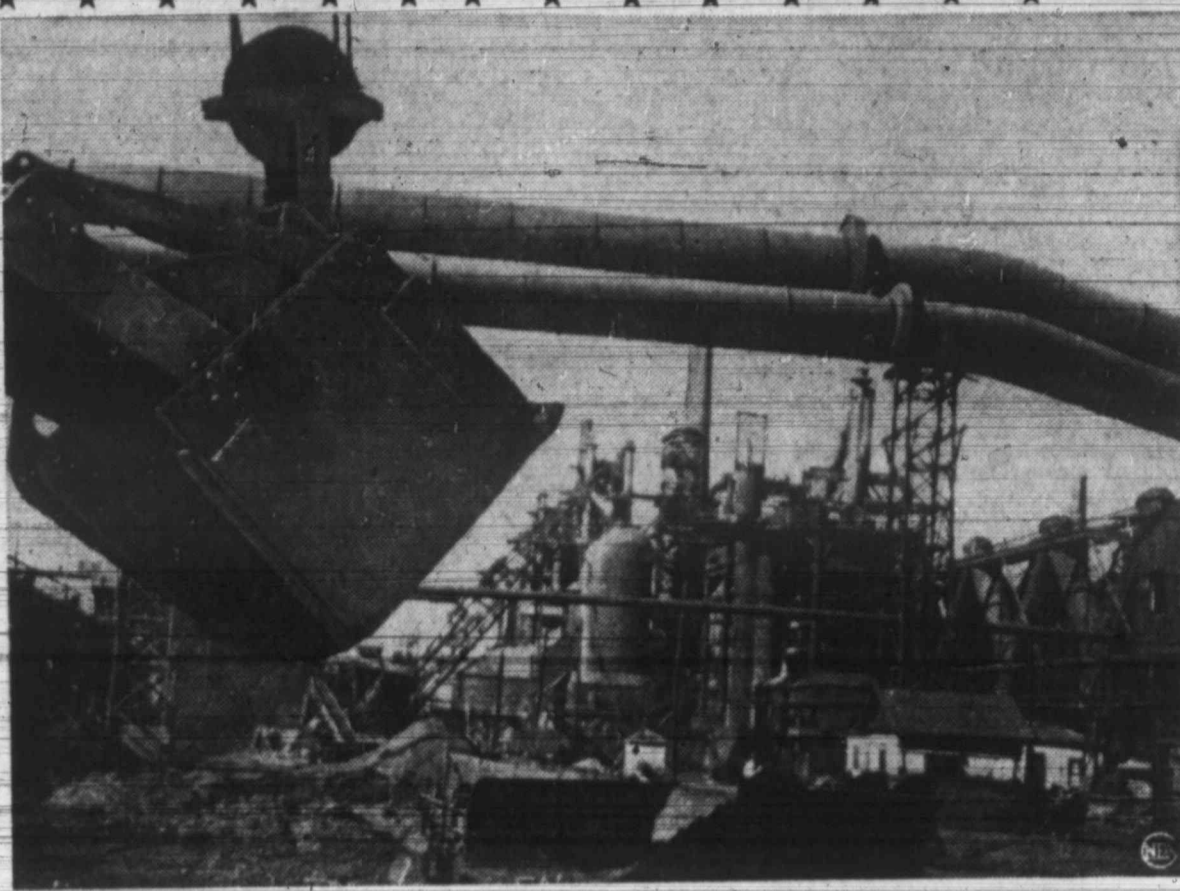

Already the government has left Moscow and set up operations 500 miles eastward in Kuibyshev, which lies on the banks of the Volga River at its easternmost point.

If the Germans should press on beyond Moscow, observers believe, the river will form the next No. 1 line for defense. If, in time, the armies' lines here should be breached, too, the Ural Mountains—extending 1600 miles from the Barents Sea in the North to the Caspian Sea in the South—will form the next natural line for defense.

In Huge "Hideaway"
Provided that the Soviet government succeeds in preserving a powerful and well-equipped army, which will carry out its withdrawal in good order, this plan of continuing the war may open some interesting and rather promising prospects. The German army, in order to reach its new defense lines, would have to cover tremendous distances. It would have to occupy a country six times the size of all the countries it has thus far occupied put together.

The endless Russian plains which begin east of Moscow are sparsely populated, had been economically undeveloped and the means of communication were very poor.

To go farther east, beyond the Volga, is to enter a territory which could hold dozens of countries, but which is almost devoid of railroads and modern paved automobile roads. To receive its war supplies, in case of its occupation of this territory, the German army would have to maintain interrupted and inefficient communication.

Under crafty war preparedness plans of the Soviets, highly modern industrial plants, like the giant steel works pictured above, rose up in the endless reaches of trans-Ural Russia and Siberia. The map shows how they dot this once-barren area. Also shown are distances from the battle front to the "blitz-proof" Ural mountains.

tion with its base in Germany, 1500 to 2000 miles away.

Could Be Destroyed
One can state with complete confidence that if it is possible to lure the victorious German armies so far, they would be destroyed in the endless expanse of Russia.

To visualize the vastness of these distances and territories one should examine these figures. With Hitler occupying the entire western part of Russia, including not only Moscow and the Ukraine, but also the whole region down to the Volga, the remaining Russian territory would still measure 5,700,000 square miles. (Continental U. S. A. comprises 3,026,789 square miles.)

At the same time, the eastern territories of European Russia near the Urals, and the Russian territories in Asia, which would have to be defended against the Germans, possess characteristics that would permit prolonged resistance, extending probably over several years.

Western Siberia, like the region between the Volga and the Urals, has always been an exporter of huge surpluses of wheat and other foodstuffs. Consequently, in the matter of food supplies the Red army would be in a pretty favorable position.

There may be a considerable difference of opinion in appraising the general economic results of the three "Five-Year-Plans" carried out in Russia, but one fact is beyond dispute—Russia's predominant war-preparation aims have been achieved to a very substantial degree. And in no other section of Russia have the war industries developed with such striking rapidity as in the Urals and in Siberia.

Oil Reserves Behind Urals
A huge metallurgical combine has been created in Kuznetz district in western Siberia, where an extensive coal field is being exploited. The Magnitogorsk metallurgical combine, on the European side of the Ural mountains, is famous throughout the world.

The mammoth tractor plant in Chelyabinsk is working for defense by this time.

Whereas on the eve of the first World war this region provided only 2.7 per cent of the total Russian output of coal, today it provides 16.3 per cent. For cast iron the respective figures are 21 and 28 per cent.

New oil deposits have been found south of the Urals, and the old ones have been considerably extended. Oil fields on the river Emba, which have been nicknamed "Second Baku," have come under intensive exploitation, carried on, sometimes, at an excessively high cost. The oil fields in the northern Urals, near the Perm

Gannaway Rites Are To Be Held Saturday

TAHOCA, Oct. 31 (Special)—Last night, Thomas D. Gannaway, 81, who died at 10:45 o'clock Thursday morning at his home four miles west of New Home on Tahoka route 4, will be conducted at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon in Tahoka First Christian church.

Survivors are the wife, two sons, John D. Gannaway of Tahoka and Clifford Gannaway of Tahoka route 4; five daughters, Mrs. Dora Roper of Hillsboro, Mrs. Ethel Shelley of Seaburne, Mrs. Loretta Green of Seagraves, Mrs. Robert McMannis of Robertson and Miss Annie Gannaway of Tahoka route 4; a brother, Russell Gannaway of Dallas; a sister, Mrs. Leona Martin of Joplin, Mo.; and 47 grandchildren and 11 great-grand children.

Switzerland now has only one civil aviation company.

river, less rich than the others, are being exploited despite the wastefulness of such a procedure from the point of view of normal economic returns.

All this development has been carried out solely as protection in the event of war.

The oil production of the entire region, which only a few years ago accounted for six per cent of the total Russian output, was to be raised to 15 to 20 per cent during the last Five-Year-Plan. Even though those figures have not been achieved, there can be little doubt that there has been a very substantial increase in the region's output of oil.

Other industries, not directly connected with war, have also achieved considerable expansion in this region in recent years. For example, huge textile mills have been built in Tashkent, in Central Asia, at an expenditure of 170 million rubles.

BY RUTH MILLETT

Everybody knows that "dumb" women make poor mothers. But so do exceptionally bright women. Before you disagree, think about the women in our town who have the best brains.

Isn't it true that as mothers, many of them have these faults: They don't consider homemaking a full-time job and so try to combine it with a career. Either that, or they forego the career, only to have their restlessness lead them into taking on so many community responsibilities they might just as well have paid jobs.

They have "theories" about child training, which they follow religiously while they are popular, but throw over the minute the psychologists decide a theory is outdated, and do a complete right-about-face. They allow the child to "express" himself one year, and the next year he is strictly disciplined—because the psychologists decide that the world is becoming more and more regimented, and that to get along in such a world a child must know how to obey orders—even though last year they thought he ought not to ever hear any orders, only suggestions.

"NO" NEVER BECOMES "YES"
When Sally begins to reform her family, they know so well that she is only being a natural adolescent that they don't have enough sympathy for her. They find her merely an amusing study, and if they have any pity, it is for themselves.

They never let their hearts rule their heads when it comes to saying "Yes" or "No" to a child—and so take away from their children the exciting hope that with "whining" a parental "No" might be changed into a "well, all right—but."

They are so good at sensibly seeing their children's shortcomings that their children often develop terrible inferiority complexes.

Sometimes they are even so smart their children recognize it and are deprived of the rightful feeling that they know more than their parents. And that is certainly hard on a child.

Billy Jo Fleeman Given Party By His Mother

Mrs. Elizabeth Fleeman, 2417 Twenty-fourth street, gave a costume party for her son, Billy Jo Fleeman, Thursday night. Guests in costume enjoyed a series of games and were served refreshments.

Those present were Mary-Ruth Lang, Carolyn Glasscock, Karl Matties, Dale and Ronnie Tarpley, Jimmy and Bobby Lemons, June, Betty Jean and Joan Lang, Patsy Knight, Pete, Luma and Lloyd Thompson, Messrs. and Mesdames H. Coryell County Man Is Lodged In Jail Here On Narcotics Charge

Police Probe Minor Cases

A 51-year-old Coryell county man charged as Lee Rallsback literally walked into the arms of the law.

Rallsback, known variously in Federal Bureau of Investigation, Texas Department of Public Safety and police records as Vernon Rallsback, Lee Vernon Rallsback, Charlie Ernest Vernon and C. E. Vernon, is charged with having obtained narcotics by misrepresentation, under the following charged plea:

Asked For Prescription
He went into the office of a physician at a hospital Wednesday and said he had been getting narcotics prescriptions there in the past for his 31-year-old mother-in-law, represented to be a resident of Lorenzo, and asked for another.

A prescription for 10 quarter-grain tablets of morphine was written for him. Rallsback was represented as saying he had a back of cotton to gin and that he would return to the hospital and pay for the prescription after the bale had been turned out.

Doctor Was Suspicious
The doctor became suspicious after the man had left and telephoned Bill Mabray, assistant chief of police.

The man returned and said he had been caught in the rain and that the prescription had been effaced. He wanted another.

"I've been waiting for you; there is a police officer in the next room," the doctor informed Rallsback.

Mabray walked in and made the arrest.

The prescription, as expected, had been filled by a druggist; it is charged.

Not Yet Arraigned
The complaint was filed in the court of J. T. Inmon, justice of peace. Late this morning Rallsback, said to be "sick," had not been arraigned.

The three negroes of Meadow had been arrested Thursday night by Olsen Farris and Glynn Hudgens, squad car patrolmen, after E. B. Luke of 606 Thirteenth street had complained of them.

The negroes had figured in a wreck with his car and had gone to his place of business and, in a drunken state, cursed him and made threats against his life, officials were informed.

Two Other Cases
The same officers figured in two other cases reported this morning.

At 240 Broadway, M. G. Butler looked out and found an alleged dopehead prying pieces of metal from his car. Butler called the police but the suspect was gone when they arrived. Butler went with the officers and found the suspect had caught a city bus. He was arrested and found in possession of car parts, a full bottle of bay rum and a bottle almost emptied of the rum.

Two Brownfield men were being questioned regarding a report of night patrolmen of police that they had slugged a negro at a downtown hotel and created a disturbance. The state highway patrol officer was asked them about a hit-and-run case on the Plainview road Thursday night, as well, police said at 11 o'clock this morning.

Charged With Drunkenness
A 49-year-old man was charged with drunkenness after being removed from a flop house.

Carl Rogers, Levelland deputy sheriff, asked Lubbock officials to arrest a 35-year-old man described as wearing rubber boots, khaki trousers, dark coat and a large white hat. The man is suspected of forgery, Rogers said.

Police sought men riding in a large automobile that allegedly was in collision at 7:15 o'clock Thursday night at Thirteenth street and Avenue J with a car owned by L. J. Cullar of 1826 Avenue Q and driven by a negro employed by Cullar. The men would not stop after the collision, Cullar reported.

A check with Austin authorities was being made by Solon Lea of the radio department of police to determine who owns the car sought.

Two Prisoners Here Released To Officers

Two prisoners of other jurisdictions had been surrendered to officials from a distance, the sheriff's department announced this morning.

Ermal Cenebaugh, about 45, was given over to Ohio deputies sheriff on a Mercer county, O., court of common pleas felony warrant charging desertion of two minor sons.

Bennie Smith, 34-year-old negro, was released to Cameron, Texas, officials a few hours after he had been arrested here by James P. Posey, chief deputy sheriff, and Grady Harist.

The Cameron sheriff, en route to another section of Texas, telephoned the sheriff's department here Thursday afternoon to arrest Smith, whose address was given, and the Cameron official came through Lubbock this morning for him. The charge was not known here.

Lubbock county officials were checking into the alleged swinging activities of a former Lubbock man, about 35, who is being held by Sheriff Buck Bennett in Lamesa. Checks for $11.10 and $50 have been turned up in the investigation, Bennett said. He had been informed, and two New Mexico points were represented as wanting the suspect.

Brazil's population is 42,000,000, according to census figures just published.

"Second War" Against Axis Forces Is Raging In Yugoslavia; Thousands Of Patriots Fight

LONDON, Oct. 31.—A spokesman for the refugee Yugoslav government reported today that an estimated 80,000 patriots were conducting fierce warfare against the Axis in the Serbian mountains after having killed hundreds of troops and forcing German soldiers to retreat some Italian occupation units.

The "second war" against Axis forces in Yugoslavia is being led by former army officers, who have organized a well disciplined force, to strike at Axis supply lines to the Russian front, the spokesman said.

Fierce fighting raged along the Belgrade, Paracin, Nish and Zajecar supply route from the west to the mountains, he said, and in some sectors the rebels are so strong that the Italian occupation authorities abandoned their posts, which were taken over by Germans.

Dynamite blasts have disrupted all communications between Belgrade and Paracin at various times, he said, and also between Nish and Zajecar. These are important lines for the Axis troops in Russia.

He said that Serb bands were raiding the lines in forays from the mountains and also were sabotaging important mines near the Rumanian border.

Yesterday's Stars Live On!

ONE SHINES AGAIN: Gloria Swanson faded from screen; makes good in come-back film.

TWO PLAY ON: Remember Francis X. Bushman and Clara Kimball Young? They still act.

BY ROBBIN COONS
Associated Press Staff Writer
HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31 — Harry Carey, an old-timer who's been making a name for himself, said recently:

"Take a fellow like Jim Kirkwood. Jim's as fine an actor as ever he was, but nobody seems to care. All he needs is a break, and he'll be going good again."

Well, Jim Kirkwood, once a top movie star and matinee idol, has his break. He's playing a role in the mystery film, "No Hands on the Clock"—and something may come of it.

Over on the set of "Mr. Celebrity" there are two other ex-stars: Clara Kimball Young and Francis X. Bushman. Two decades ago those names were in lights. There was a time when no name was "bigger" than dark-eyed, svelte Miss Young's, and few salaries bigger. There was a time when Bushman and his one-time wife, Beverly Bayne, were the great "romantic lovers" of the screen.

They're Still At Work
Every day, on a dozen or more movie sets all over town, many of the old-timers can be seen. Excitement, they play "support" to stars.

Phyllis Haver, Constance Talmadge and other stars who were rising when they themselves held thrones.

Remember Charlie Ray, the "country boy" hero of the 20s? Charlie works pretty steadily in the background of some I saw him on "Boom Town."

"The Shadow of the Thin Man" and other sets just recently.

Few actors, once they've known the camera, leave town for good. GIRL stars like Carol Dempster, Phyllis Haver, Constance Talmadge may leave when they marry, but most of them come back—if only for a visit. Esther Ralston, married and a mother in the east, was back for a couple of pictures not long ago—excited as an ingenue.

Gloria Swanson An Exception

J. Warren Kerrigan (remember "The Covered Wagon" of 1925?) lives in his roomy old home overlooking Cahuena boulevard, only occasionally mingles in the movie rush.

William S. Hart is a gentleman rancher at his place up Newhall way. William Haines is an interior decorator. Charles Farrell, with an occasional movie job gives a lot of time to running his exclusive tennis club at Palm Springs.

HUNTERS OFF FOR NEW MEXICO AREAS
Two parties of hunters left Lubbock this morning for the deer country of New Mexico, where they will stalk the wily game in the next two weeks.

In one group were George P. Livermore, and Bill Morrison, Lubbock oil men, Dr. Olan Key, local physician, Bob Tucker of Midland; Warren Scarborough of Fort Worth, Dean W. H. Carson, dean of engineering, Oklahoma university; Dr. W. H. McClure, Chickasha, Okla.; and Col. Giles, retired army officer from Norman, Okla. They left shortly before noon for Weed, N. M.

Mark Halsey, Charles Bacon and Pat Birmingham left early this morning for a ten-day hunt on the Hext ranch in the Fox mountain area north of Reserve, N. M. Mrs. Pebble Talley, 1510-B Avenue M, accompanied them and will visit with her daughter, Mrs. J. R. Hext, during hunting season.

British Expect Speedy Action

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Sinking of the American destroyer, Reuben James, was regarded by British sources today as the most flagrant incident yet in an apparently unrestricted German submarine campaign in the Atlantic.

Some British quarters believed the destroyer sinking might galvanize United States opinion more sharply than half a dozen previous incidents.

No Official Comment
No official comment was expected until full details are known. It was thought here that the sinking might shorten the debate in the United States Senate over repeal of United States neutrality act prohibitions against arming merchant ships and entering war zones.

It was also thought the sinking would activate the American war production program.

Regarding the U-boat which carried out the sinking, the comment was: "We hope we sank the bloody bandit—or what is even better, that the Americans did."

Committee Chosen For Campus Drive

A committee was named Thursday night by the Senate club of Texas Technological college to formulate plans for a campus-wide drive for a student union building. It was composed of Rev. W. G. Loesel, chairman, V. H. Britton, Carey Buie and Clovis M. Gordon.

The club conducted a debate on campus parking, Buie and Britton appearing for and against the issue, and a roundtable discussion followed, led by Mr. Loesel, faculty sponsor.

Hallow'een Party Scheduled Tonight

Reminder that a Hallow'een party for adults is scheduled tonight in the Community Center, Sixth street and Avenue B, under sponsorship of the city-WPA recreation project, was given this morning by project officials.

The invitation to attend includes everyone, they added.

A party for children was given in the center Thursday night, and attracted an attendance of about 150, officials said.

A party for negroes in the Dunbar school attracted more than 100.

Leo Durocher Taking Test For The Movies

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31.—Leo Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, today began screen tests for a part in Samuel Goldwyn's film version of the "Life of Lou Gehrig."

Durocher was a teammate of Gehrig on the New York Yankees from 1927 to 1929.

Motor Buses and Military Highways

In a country as large as the United States, broad, smooth highways are of primary importance in national defense. And highways are built by taxes, of which the motor bus lines pay their full share.

In fact, every year, the motor bus lines pay out enough in taxes to build a modern, streamlined highway from the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico.

Thus, entirely aside from service to the public, America's motor buses more than pay their way in taxes alone. Joseph B. Eastman, Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, says that thousands of buses pay more than double their share of the cost and maintenance of the highways they use.

Hunters Over State To Start Firing Sunday At Ducks And Geese

Canadian Trout, Hen Boost "V" Campaign
BOISTOWN, N. B., Oct. 31 (AP)—The "V-for Victory" campaign has reached the barnyards and trout streams of New Brunswick.

The local agent of the Canadian National Railways reports that recently a 10-inch speckled trout with a perfectly-formed "V" on its under side, was caught here, and a few days later, not to be outdone, a Boistown hen laid an egg with a "V" plainly visible on one end.

Warning Given On State Laws

By The United Press
AUSTIN, Oct. 31—(AP)—"More birds and more water than last season" was the word passed along today to the thousands of Texans who will be on the firing line at sunrise Sunday morning for the opening of duck and goose season. Owners of blinds and hunting camps throughout the state reported a brisk business for the opening week and this week's northern should "put the birds to flying" in the opinion of Will J. Tucker, executive secretary of the Texas game, fish and oyster commission.

Should Get Better
But the main influx of ducks to Texas' warmer climate won't happen until the ponds and streams of the northern states begin to freeze over. The freeze-up is just beginning and duck-hunting in Texas should get better as the season progresses. The Texas season ends Dec. 31.

The geese, said Tucker, "seem to fly a time schedule" and the usual early-November quota is spreading across Texas. The best goose and duck-hunting during the early season is expected in the Panhandle and along the upper (eastern) gulf coast.

the state have given the ducks and geese a better-than-usual chance to spread out. But the number of birds is greater than last year, when water was scarce, and the hunting is expected to be at least as good as for the opening day of 1940.

Tucker reminded Texans that they need more than an ambition, a gun and some shells to hunt migratory waterfowl. Every hunter needs a federal stamp, purchased for $1 at a first or second-class postoffice.

A Texan hunting outside his home county must pay an additional $2 for a state license, and an out-of-state hunter must buy a $25 license.

Bag Limit, Set
The bag limit on ducks is 10 a day of all varieties except redheads and buffheads. The possession limit is six. The combined limit on redheads and buffheads is three. The possession limit on the two varieties is six.

The daily quota on geese is three, the possession limit six. Fortune hunters may be able to add three blue geese to their daily bag. Blue geese are not included in the regular limit, although Texans will find few of them outside the extreme eastern portion

Victims Of Accident Reported Improved

Two victims of a collision of pickup trucks on north outskirts of Lubbock about 9:00 o'clock Thursday night were improved and satisfactory in condition this morning in West Texas hospital, authorities said at the hospital.

William Werner von Folgenstein, 55, of Taylor suffered fractures of the left thigh and left foot, multiple bruises and lacerations and severe shock and exposure, but had recovered from shock for the most part this morning. Roy Wilson, 49, of Pampa, who suffered numerous lacerations of the face, right arm and both hands and shock, probably will be dismissed from the hospital today.

Wilson was reported to be driving of the state.

In addition to the above restrictions, Tucker advises hunters who want to stay on friendly terms with the warden to have their shotguns slung down to a three-shoot capacity and to do their shooting between sunrise and 4 p. m.

HOW THEY WERE NAMED

Joshua trees were so named by the Mormon immigrants, who regarded their presence in the desert as sentinels of the "promised land."

EXPLAINED

A balloonist cannot remain stationary in the air, and let the earth turn beneath him, because the atmosphere rotates right along with the earth.

The sapwood of a tree is the wood next to the bark.

er of the pickup in which he and von Folgenstein were riding. Name of the driver of the other pickup was not obtained immediately, but his truck was at the scene immediately after the accident and later was brought in to the city and the driver was expected to call for his pickup today. Billy Johnson and L. W. Wilhite of the Texas Highway patrol are investigating.

The two injured men were driving toward Lubbock and the other driver was going north when the mishap happened near the second underpass on Plainview highway.

Tech Student Would Have Job Trying To Attend Homecomings

J. R. Wright, jr., will have a job on his hands if he attempts to attend homecoming at all of the colleges in which he has been a student.

After commuting 1,800 miles in attending seven colleges in two states, Wright, whose home is in Omaha, expects to get a degree in agronomy and farm machinery next June at Texas Technological college. He plans to enter the naval air corps after graduation.

Colleges attended include the University of Texas, Arkansas A. & M. college, North Texas Agricultural college, John Tarleton Agricultural college, the University of Arkansas, East Texas State Teachers college and Texas Tech.

TO BE WELL DRESSED

Twenty suits, 8 overcoats, 12 hats, and 24 pairs of boots and shoes, with other garments in proportion, are necessary for the well-dressed man, according to American experts in male fashion.

DECREASING BIRD LIFE

Bird life is decreasing in London. Certain species, such as rooks and jackdaws, which formerly nested in the heart of Kensington, now cannot find food there.

Players Too Rough For Grid Referee

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 31 (AP)—J. W. Taylor will referee no more football this season. Enthusiastically, he hopped into a pileup during a high school game. He emerged with a broken leg.

"How will men look in 1975?" asks a women writer. Probably just as often as they do now.

Lufkin, Sweetwater, Amarillo And Lubbock Picked To Take Foes

Panthers Have Superior Line

Paris, Temple And Masons Look Good

BY TOM W. MILLER
United Press Sports Writer

The piney woods boys look a shade better than the visiting Panthers from the gulf coast, so this corner today picks Lufkin to defeat Corpus Christi in the No. 1 Texas schoolboy football game of the week end.

There is nothing lacking in either eleven's attack; the two teams have the best point-making records in the state. The East Texans get the nod mainly because they appear to have the superior line.

Only Six Points Scored

Just six points have been scored against Lufkin, and that touchdown was against substitutes. The Panthers forwards not only are big — from tackle to tackle the average weight is 185 pounds — but they are good also.

This is a game between unbeaten and untied teams and all the other ten squads with perfect records see action. Don't be surprised if they all come through.

Amarillo should take Fort Worth North Star over Lamesa Sweetwater seems far too good to be upset by Lamesa and galloping Gus White.

Paris over Texarkana — In a breeze.

Temple over Hillsboro — Take a winning margin from five to ten and quadruple it.

Masonic Home over Fort Worth Tech — Without a struggle.

Waco over Bryan — The Tigers are much better.

The four other perfect record teams should have stiffer opposition, but should overcome it. So our guess is:

Dallas Sunset over Longview.

McAllen over Brownsville.

Conroe over Livingston.

Goose Creek over Galveston — Best chance of an upset.

Outside the unbeaten ranks are some good games. We think Austin a little better than San Antonio Brackenridge and Houston Lamar an edge over Houston Jeff Davis in vital district 15 and 13 encounters.

Also —

Lubbock over Pampa.

Wichita Falls over Graham.

Highland Park over Sulphur Springs.

Gainesville over Burk Burnett.

Fort Arthur over Beaumont South Park.

Fort Worth Riverside over Arlington Heights.

Kilgore over Henderson.

San Angelo over Odessa — Week's four-star special.

Tyler over Nacogdoches — Remember the score on this for later reference.

Twenty-Four Hour Test Made On Well

Lubbock county's discovery well, the L. C. Harrison Naim estate No. 1, 3 1/4 miles northeast of Lubbock, tested 168 barrels in a 24-hour test made by the Railroad Commission of Texas Thursday. Harrison was quoted as saying: "The test was begun at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and was concluded at that hour Thursday afternoon, it was pointed out. With such a yield, the well was assured of being a commercial producer, oilmen said.

Intramural Sports Program Is Now Under Way At Texas Tech

BY R. G. EDWARDS
"Watch that guard, dribble the ball, now shoot that goal." Sounds such as these are coming from the Double T gymnasium at Texas Tech now that the intramural sports program is under way.

Sports planned for the coming year are basketball, softball, fencing and tennis. Lewis (Doc) Spears, instructor in physical education for men and trainer, has charge of the program.

Basketball Reigns Now

The only sport being followed at the present time is basketball. There are 21 teams competing. Softball and tennis have been postponed until spring due to the bad weather this fall.

George Bentley, new fencing instructor in Tech, has organized a fencing club but it will be some time before the members enter any competition.

Basketball teams are directed by Elvis Erwin. Of the teams there are seven social clubs and 14 independents.

Social clubs entering teams are: Kemas, Wranglers, College club, Silver Key, Las Comarades Socii, Centaurs.

Independents are: Hot Shots, Santa Fe Demons, Wanderer Creek Farmers, Tortoise, Country Boys, J. V.'s, Concrete Kids, Horn Hall, Aggie's, Knapp Hall, College Inn, Screw Balls, Plowboys, No-Stars.

Entrants in the tournaments are strictly amateur and no varsity players are on any of the teams.

Of the independents Joe Williams is the high scoring player with 18 points chalked up in the first game. Of the social clubs Orville Alderson is the highest scoring man with 15 points scored in the first game and 12 in the second.

The winning team will be awarded the championship of the college. As far as is known, money there will be no awards but later on there may be some prizes for the winning teams in each sport.

World Traveler To Talk Here Tonight

"The Defense of the Pacific" will be discussed by Don Bates, roving newspaper correspondent, who is to address Lubbock Knite and Fork club in the Hilton hotel tonight at 7:30 o'clock, according to Dr. O. W. English, club president.

In view of recent developments in the Orient, particularly our strained relations with Japan, Bates' appearance here will be of much interest to all students of current events.

Has Extensive Travels

Primarily Don Bates' career is that of a discoverer, recorder and interpreter of contemporary news. His material is first hand, accurate and inexhaustible due to his extensive travels. Twice he has circled the globe. He has made eight trips across the Pacific. He spent the summer of 1940 in the Orient. He has roamed the Far East from Singapore to Vladivostok and covered Europe from Moscow to Gibraltar. He has been in South and Central America, the Dutch East Indies, Thailand, French Indo-China, the Near East, Mongolia, the Philippines and Hawaii as a working newspaperman.

Because of his intimate knowledge of the situations and people making front page news, he is able to take his listeners "back stage" in order that they may better understand the driving forces behind tremendous world-shaking events. He has been associated with several national and international news-gathering associations.

Court Of Honor To Be Staged Tonight

Rev. John A. Winslow, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, will preside tonight at a 7:30 o'clock court of honor in 99th district courtroom, and 56 Boy Scouts will be awarded merit badges. Jack O. Stone, scout council executive.

The following awards and advancements are scheduled:

Alaskan Ruins Disclose High Culture Of The "Dark Era"

(By The United Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. — On a barren gravel spit 130 miles above the Arctic Circle a highly developed and complex civilization came into being before the dawn of history on the ancient migration route from Asia to America.

For a few thousand years it thrived. Then it declined and ultimately died, leaving behind a mystery as deep as that which once shrouded the pyramids.

Relics of the ancient lost civilization, which once made Point Hope, Alaska, a place of animation where industry, commerce, art and religion flourished, were discovered only two years ago.

A full report on what is known about it became available when Dr. Harry L. Shapiro of the American Museum of Natural History released details of discoveries made on the site during the past summer.

Center Called "Ipiutak"

Much as Dr. Shapiro and his predecessors discovered about the Point Hope culture, more remains to be learned. Science does not yet know what race laid out the ancient city now referred to as "Ipiutak." It only knows that the Ipiutak civilization was more highly developed than either ancient or modern Eskimo culture, that the inhabitants of Ipiutak were deeply religious, highly artistic and skilled in the crafts of daily living, and that, wherever they came from and why, the dwellers on Point Hope believed in a life after death.

In 1939 and 1940 members of an American Museum-University of Alaska expedition headed by Dr. Froelich G. Rainey located the vast ruins of the prehistoric town. Dr. Shapiro extended their discoveries last summer.

He found that Ipiutak—which is the Eskimo name of a small spit of land near the site—had five long avenues on which some 600 dwellings, since buried, housed about 3,000 persons.

In 500 log-walled tombs, rectangular shaped and extending six miles outside the town, he found hundreds of well-preserved skeletons and evidence that the city was inhabited for more than 2,000 years.

At nearby Tigara the anthropologists found more recent ruins indicating that the second site was established after the first was abandoned, probably 2,000 years ago.

The tombs of Ipiutak gave up arrowheads, finely chipped flint tools, needles, gear for hunting on land, and beautiful ivory carvings—all different from the artifacts of known Eskimo cultures.

The "most exciting" of Dr. Shapiro's discoveries, he reported, were skulls with large ivory eyeballs inlaid with jet pupils and fantastic ivory carvings, together with implements for use by the dead in an after world.

In one tomb the expedition found the bones of a man, a woman, and a child, with the body of the child resting on the knees of the man. A large, beautifully carved ivory mask, made in several sections and with inset ivory eyes, covered the skeleton of the child.

The significance of the mask and of the carvings found in other tombs, Dr. Shapiro said, is unknown—so strange to the living Eskimos on Point Hope as it is to anthropologists.

There Goes Harrington . . . Showing Off His New Rambler Coat Again!

WE SHUDDER TO THINK of the musing-up Harrington's let himself in for . . . but we're not one whit worried about his coat . . . for Rambler can take it.

IT CAN TAKE TWISTING, dodging, squirming, weaving, and say, speaking of weaving, you should see that Rambler weave . . . It's remarkable . . . and because of the way Rambler is woven you can crush a piece of it in your fist and it won't even wrinkle.

RAMBLER'S SECRET is that it's a special blend of alpaca, mohair and wool . . . and these three types of fiber combine perfectly to maximum warmth with minimum weight . . . that's the winning point, we think.

Five Minutes Of Silence Asked In France

Reproach For Nazis Urged

BY FRED VANDERSCHMIDT
The druids thought that Hallo-wear was the vigil of Saman, lord of death. On this Halloween, just before the inky fingers of the blackout close over their tragedy and despair, Frenchmen are being summoned to five minutes of silent reproach of the new lords of death for the mass killing of unconvicted hostages.

Prepare For Vengeance
Gen. Charles de Gaulle says the French nation will show, by standing silent for five moments beginning at 4 p. m. French time, "that despite insult, torture and treachery, despite her imprisoned youth, her little children who are dying, France is preparing for vengeance."

The French, who know now that their armies never had a chance to fight the invader, thus are called upon to prove by national silence that the battle now is on, even though 1,500,000 French soldiers are in German prison camps.

Unfortunately, the world cannot get anywhere near a true picture of the response. All except subterranean news from the occupied zone, where the demonstration may be expected to be the most fervent is funneled through both the German censors and the authorities at Vichy, who have a pistol at their heads.

From the zone which is not actually occupied the immediate report will likewise be hampered by the censorship and by difficulties of general observation, for both communications and travel within the country are stringently restricted.

No one who knows very much about the French can doubt, however, that within the homes of France and even in the open, especially in such places as Bordeaux, Nantes, Marseille and Lille, there will be a general reply to the call from the radio.

It is no accident that today, final instructions on the silence period are being broadcast from the London radio.

The Germans themselves, at last cognizant of the fact that the mass-killing had no other effect than cementing French resistance and arousing the abhorrence of the outside world, have found excuses to call a halt to the executions.

Recreation Projects Are Being Studied
An intensive study is being made of the practical operation of Work Projects administration recreation projects in cities where army training centers of various kinds are located, according to information given this morning by J. O. Jones, manager of Lubbock district of the WPA.

He reported that Ed Strout, recreation projects supervisor of Lubbock district, and Miss Imogene Douglas, superintendent of the city-WPA recreation project, are now making an inspection tour of such cities.

Their itinerary includes Abilene, Fort Worth, Wichita Falls and Amarillo. Much information also has been obtained for other cities in the nation where such projects are operated.

While no official assurance has been received that such projects will be established in Lubbock following completion of the air corps training school west of the city, officials said, the possibilities are considered very strong that one will be.

The present inspections and other work are preparations against that possibility, the district manager said.

Yoakum Test Has Showing

Showings of oil and gas were reported here Thursday in the Sinclair-Prairie No. 1 Charles J. Kiener wildcat test four miles east of Plains in central Yoakum county.

The well now is drilling at 5,230 feet in lime, with some softening of formation expected within the next few feet. It encountered a slight showing of gas at 5,140 feet and an increase in gas at 5,160 feet. First slight showing of oil was picked up at 5,225 feet.

Pipe Being Pulled
The test is located 330 feet out of the northwest corner of section 436, block D, John H. Gibson survey, three and one-half miles northwest of Yoakum's Ownby pool, discovered by George P. Livermore, Inc., Lubbock. It is running 32 feet higher structurally than the Ownby pool discovery well.

Pipe is being pulled preparatory to abandoning Honolulu Oil corporation No. 1-13 L. H. Wright, eastern Yoakum wildcat failure 467 feet out of the northwest corner of section 13, block D, Gibson survey. Total depth is 5,410 feet in lime, where the well had 3,500 feet of salty sulphur water in the hole.

Terry Wildcat Unchanged
A steel line measurement corrected 5,396 feet to 5,390 feet. At 3,390 feet the hole was bailed down but filled 1,900 feet with water in six hours in drilling to 5,396. As drilling progressed to 5,410 feet water rose to 3,500 feet in 10 hours.

Latest reports from American Drilling corporation, Hobbs, N. M., No. 1 W. T. Hufnall, western Terry county wildcat, stated it was drilling unchanged at 5,150 feet in lime.

Depth of 3,770 feet in hard lime has been reached by Anderson Richard Oil corporation and Osege Drilling company, Inc., No. 1 Pure Oil company, A. M. Clayton, northwestern Borden county wildcat.

Hockley Area Active
Anderson Prichard and American Drilling No. 1 W. L. Ellwood estate, northeastern Hockley county wildcat 15 miles northeast of the Slaughter field, is drilling below 1,325 feet in sand and red beds.

In the Hockley county part of the Slaughter field, Stanolind Oil and Gas company No. 22-A Slaughter flowed 1,149.49 barrels of oil per day plus 2.7 per cent water, while Magnolia Petroleum company No. 8-E Mallet Land and Cattle company flowed 1,393.20 a day.

Devonian Oil company No. 9-A-13 Duggan, on the Cochran county side of the field, flowed 1,178.32 barrels of oil per day.

Amerada Petroleum corporation has completed two more wells in the Seminole pool of central Gaines county. Its No. 13 Walter Turin rated daily potential flow of 740 barrels and No. 8 Emma J. Austin 535.44 barrels a day.

F. H. Daniels, Indianapolis sculptor has been selected to create these panels. Daniels was born in Owosso, Mich., in 1905, and lived in Cadillac and Grand Rapids, Mich., before moving to Indiana. His father, H. J. Daniels, was associated with newspapers in Michigan cities.

Daniels has located a studio near the memorial and expects to complete the work in 1943. A Lincoln bust which Daniels created in 1940 will be featured in the Lincoln hall of the memorial.

Pair To Live With Eskimos

(By The United Press)
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 31.—City housewives who think they must live with three blocks of a neighborhood grocery should take note of the case of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Page.

The young Kansas City couple, wed only a year, are enroute to the interior of Alaska where they'll be isolated in an Eskimo village for a year, 50 miles south of the Arctic Circle.

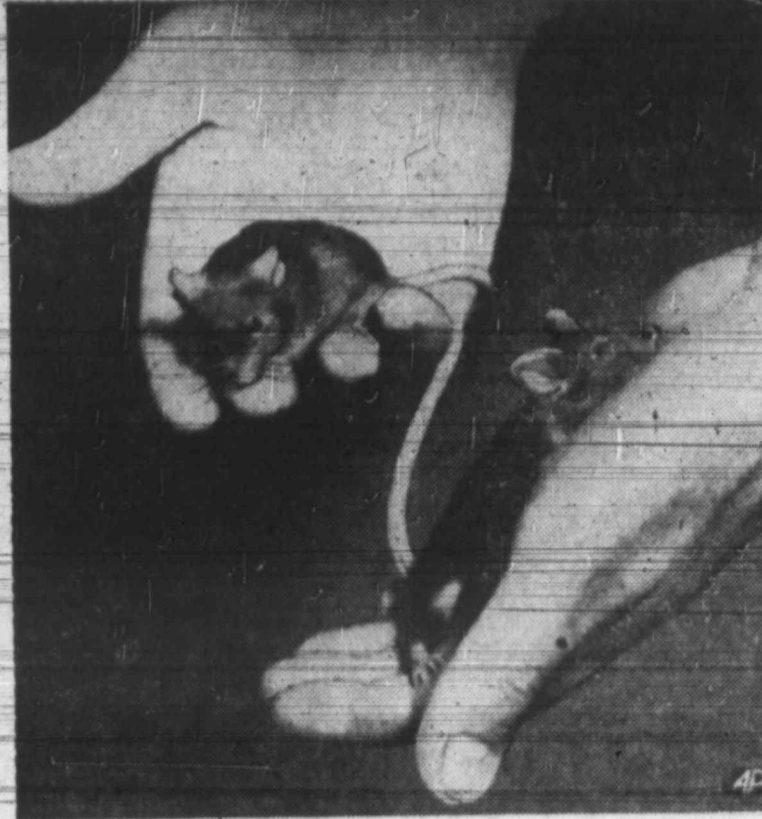

Base Is Isolated
In a country where neighborhood stores are almost as rare as stars in the sky, the Pages will live on supplies shipped north weeks ago. Two tons of foodstuffs went early because their Buckland, Alaska, base is isolated from river communication and transportation after late August.

Amagot supplies bought by the Pages were 600 pounds of flour, 90 dozen eggs preserved in wax, 60 pounds of butter in brine kegs, 30 pounds of honey, 25 pounds of onions, 50 pounds of lard, six canned chickens for festive occasions, 150 cakes of soap, 10 pounds of candy and 20 pounds of bacon.

"This is a kind of dream come true for me," Mrs. Page said. "I've wanted for years to go to Alaska, and I've even kept an Alaska scrapbook."

In Government Service
The couple will work for the interior department in connection with the Alaskan settlement development program. Page will serve as an assistant government community worker and his wife, a school teacher, will instruct the children of the community.

"We won't be entirely alone," Page said. "I understand there is a Quaker mission there with probably a white man in charge. A doctor visits Buckland once every three months and a district nurse is supposed to come through every two months."

Mouse Becomes "Glorified" Aristocrat In Brilliant Colors Under Scientific Care

(By The Associated Press)

CHARLES CITY, Iowa, Oct. 31.—So you don't like mice!

Well not many people do. But that may all be changed shortly if the efforts of Dr. J. E. Salsbury of Charles City are successful.

Dr. Salsbury is glorifying the American mouse, and has progressed to a point where Mickey and Minnie, who come to us on the screen in many colors, already have their counterparts in actuality.

Pied Piper A Piker
Yes, colored mice, so varied in their bright, sicken hues that they would have matched the brilliant colors in the coat of the Pied Piper of Hamelin.

On his mouse ranch, otherwise a poultry research farm, Dr. Salsbury has more than 2,000 mice in several dozen different color patterns scampering about in little wire screen houses, or hanging from ceilings and rooftops when they are tired of playing on the floor, or eating their poultry mash or grain.

Dr. Salsbury brought a few specimens of each color pattern from England in 1937 when he exhibited at the World's Poultry Congress, and when American poultry dealers and others showed an interest in the purchase of the colored rodents for display purposes, he sensed a profitable sideline.

Studied In Schools
Many of the mice have been sold to high schools, where students study the laws of genetics.

"Why have mice that are pests when you can have so much fun raising mice that are pets?" asks Salsbury.

Many of the spotted mice look like pinto ponies. Others have the same color spotting as Poland China hogs. There have been about 75 color combinations, all traced back to the common gray house mouse.

Dr. Salsbury's mice eat cheese? Hundreds of visitors to the mouse cages ask that.

"No," says Dr. Salsbury. "Our mice wouldn't know what cheese was if they saw it."

Cost 20 Cents A Year
The colored mice receive a standard diet of dry chick mash, to which has been added cod-liver oil and wheat germ oil for maximum fertility and health. Dr. Salsbury says that it should not cost more than 20 cents a year to feed a mouse.

Mouse breeders lack nothing in imagination when it comes to seeking new varieties, and Dr. Salsbury thinks there should be a prize for the first breeder to create a mouse with the markings of a panda bear. A rainbow-hued mouse was sold in England for $400.

Tech Professor Develops Instrument That Measures And Tests Yarn Before Its Use

While wrapping bundles did you ever think about the strength of a piece of string and wonder if it would stand up under strain? Dr. C. C. Schmidt, associate professor of physics at Texas Tech, can tell you.

Five years ago Dr. Schmidt began working with different pieces of yarn and through experimentation has developed an instrument that will record every variation in the entire length. The technical name of the string measurer is "a machine for the application of photo-electric cells in the measurements of the variation in yarn."

Variations Are Picked Up
The yarn is placed on a revolving drum and passed in front of a photo-electric cell. The variations are picked up by the cell, stepped up through an amplifier and then recorded on photographic paper.

According to Dr. Schmidt, the advantages of the measurer would be that yarn and thread can be measured and tested before it is woven. The process is relatively simple and the strength of the thread can easily and quickly be tested.

Dr. Schmidt developed the machine with equipment of the physics department. The string measurer has attracted attention of various people interested in textiles.

Inquiry Is Received
On Sept. 22 Dr. Schmidt received a letter from S. H. Sherman, United States Rubber company tire cord division, with general ofices at Hogansville, Ga. Sherman had heard about the machine and wished to have more details about its operation. Sherman said that his company needs such a machine, and wished to know something of costs and method of construction.

With the letter were three samples of tire cord which Sherman wished to be tested. Although Dr. Schmidt has not yet run the samples he plans to do so as soon as possible.

The instrument is not patented, yet there is little danger of its being stolen, for it is still in the process of development. Dr. Schmidt is now working on a method of recording the variations with ink instead of on the more expensive photographic paper.

THE WATER CURE
BALTIMORE (AP)—The water supply at a boys' school was threatened by drought, and the situation became critical when faucets were left running overnight. Thought the headmaster, "the boys think school will close if there's no water." So he announced that if the water supply gave out, each boy would have to carry a five-gallon jug of water from nearby sources. No more faucets were left open.

Argentina Has Officials Here

By LAWRENCE HAAS
United Press Latin American Editor

A new approach in United States-Latin American relations, with implications of sound, practical value, is seen in the visits of United States congressmen to Latin American countries, and the current official tour of an Argentine congressional delegation in this country.

Members of the appropriations sub-committee on state department expenditures of the house recently ended a two months air tour of most of the Latin American countries. The ostensible object of the trip was to inspect United States embassies, legations and consulates to view for themselves the needs for increased personnel and more adequate quarters to guide them when new state department appropriation legislation is prepared.

However, the congressmen, most of them visiting Latin America for the first time, met legislative leaders and high government officials in the various countries, and they had an opportunity to observe conditions of which they hitherto had learned at second hand, and to discuss problems that have an increasingly important bearing upon inter-continental relations.

Civil Aviation Studied

Another house group, the sub-committee on civil aviation, is on a somewhat similar tour. Part of the tour is concerned with an investigation of air accidents and air operations, but it was believed that the principal purpose is a more important one.

It has been pointed out that air traffic between the United States and Latin America has expanded enormously in recent months and will continue to grow within the next year or two. The Pan-American Airways has launched a program of construction of modern landing fields, many of them dotting recently inaugurated air routes that parallel those operated by the German-controlled Condor line and its affiliates. These fields may be used as military air bases in event of a major emergency, some quarters believe.

Italy Keeps Air Link

The scope of Axis-controlled airways operation in South America undoubtedly came under the scrutiny of the congressmen, especially the operation of the Italian trans-Atlantic airline known as LATI, which provides the only direct transport communication between South America and the European Axis countries.

Several members of Congress visited Mexico City last month during the Pan-American Highway and Tourism conference, and they established close contact with Mexican legislators.

Eight Scientific Articles By Texas Tech Professor Published In Last Two Years

In the past two years Dr. Merrill A. Stainbrook, Texas Technological college professor of geology, has published eight scientific articles, or an average of one every three months.

Since 1940 Dr. Stainbrook has published the following articles:

"Oribolite Brachiopods of the Cedar Valley Limestone of Iowa," printed by the American Midland Naturalist, March 1940.

"Prismatophyllum in the Cedar Valley Beds of Iowa," Journal of Paleontology, May 1940.

"Gastropoda of the Klamichi Shale of the Texas Panhandle," Separate from the University of Texas Publications issued June 1940.

"Elytha in the Cedar Valley Beds of Iowa," The American Midland Naturalist, September 1940.

"Terebratulacea of the Cedar Valley Beds of Iowa," Journal of Paleontology, January 1941.

"Biotic Analysis of Owen's Cedar Valley Limestones," Pan-American Geologist, June 1941.

"A Deep Subsurface Permian Fauna from Hockley County, Texas," Jointly published with Rutherford F. Madera, Shell Oil Company, Houston, in the Journal of Paleontology, July 1941.

"Last of Great Phylum of the Cystids," Pan-American Geologist, September, 1941.

Writing For 20 Years

Dr. Stainbrook has been writing articles for the past 20 years. He published his first article while still a college student in Iowa.

The articles are written entirely in Dr. Stainbrook's spare time and concern regions in which he has done research. At the present time Dr. Stainbrook is writing an article which will be entitled, "Strophomenacea of the Cedar Valley Beds of Iowa."

the Chamber of Deputies, headed by the presiding officer, Jose Luis Cantilo, comprise the first Latin American congressional delegation ever to visit the United States. The visiting deputies are being conducted on a three-weeks' tour of Washington and of the principal military and defense industry areas. They are conferring with government leaders, and are expected to return to Buenos Aires well equipped with a first-hand knowledge of this country's defense aims and efforts.

An ambitious program to bring the legislators of the American republics together in an inter-American parliamentary union has been launched by a group of members of the Chamber of Deputies of Mexico. Committees soon will be designated, under the plan of the organizers, to visit various other American capitals and invite the legislatures to send official delegates to Mexico for an organizational meeting of such a union.

Nation's First Bank Relics On Display

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31 (AP)—A reproduction of the office of the nation's first bank is on display at the Atwater Kent Museum in Philadelphia.

Desks, safes, ledgers, strong-boxes and a cashier's cage taken from the Bank of North America, founded by Robert Morris in 1781, have been presented to the museum by William Fulton Kurtz, president of the Philadelphia Company, "lineal descendant" of Morris' bank.

Beavers rarely stray farther than a hundred yards from the stream where they have made their home.

That Girl on Broadway says the average person learns to economize in about the same way a man learns to get along with a little water when on a desert tide.

An astronomer has perfected a device by which he can measure the heat of a burning candle 20 miles removed. If he'll improve this device, he may be able to measure the affection the average American holds for "Miss" Frances Perkins.

EVER since the Germans and their allies have taken almost undisputed command of Western Europe, military campaigners arm-chair and otherwise have been studying maps trying to figure out where, eventually, will be fought the biggest and final land campaign of the current war.

In this regard, one of our Washington correspondents reports: "An Army mission has been dispatched to Africa to study that continent as the most likely theater of war against Germany."

Every time a successful strike is pulled off in Detroit, New York, New Jersey, or Pittsburgh, the people of Lubbock and the South Plains along with other Americans everywhere—pay part of the bill. Towering, forced wage increases are reflected in the prices the consumer pays for refrigerators, radios, automobiles, furniture, clothing and all the other items you may name.

SO just because our sidewalks are not littered up with pickets carrying banners and shouting imprecations at passersby who turn in to patronize the picketed place of business, you don't think you aren't paying through the nose as the result of labor disturbances 1,000 or more miles away.

ALTHOUGH some outstanding public officials in Washington recently have reiterated their opposition to "another AEF," and the President, himself, promised the nation a year ago that American soldiers would not be sent to fight on foreign soil, don't be surprised if, before the current conflict is over, U. S. troops go half way around the world to fight.

For The Love Of Pam

BY VIVIAN GREY (Copyright, 1941, For The Journal)

CHAPTER 12 BONER BY BRUCE Antoine was dwelling on the exceptional talent of Young Boner. It was rare to find a voice of such pleasing natural quality and a definite gift for direction in the same person.

"Pam Queller? Is she the most beautiful thing you've ever seen? Does she make you think of all the lovely places you've ever been and lovely things you've ever done? Is she more like a flower than any girl you've ever known?" Antoine smiled.

"If you do mean Pam Queller, that's a masterpiece of understatement about her. But it sounds like her all right. But your raving is going to be just an empirical area, the happier I am that I live out here. At least, domination by organized labor hasn't touched us—yet."

"But he is only partially correct in his statement. To be sure, men still can work on the South Plains without having first to secure the approval of some labor boss who lives off the sweat of the worker's brow.

Today's Journal Editorial...

CONNALLY CHARTS THE WAY As encouraging as any statement by any recognized and respected national leader in this nation beset by labor troubles was that recently by Senator Tom Connally of Texas. He said: "We (the Senate) are busy with the Neutrality bill right at the moment, but when we get that out of the way, then we'll deal with the fourth member of the Axis."

There was no doubt as to whom he meant in referring to the "fourth member of the Axis." It was labor bosses and hoodlums of the John L. Lewis, Harry Bridges, Willie Biuff stripe. Senator Connally's declarations were encouraging to those who are sick and tired of selfish labor's attitude for several reasons. One reason is that Senator Connally is not the sort of man who makes promises he cannot keep. He is the sort of man who can and does get things done. He has the respect of his colleagues in the Senate to a degree as high as that of any man in that body. He has tremendous influence where it counts most.

SO just because our sidewalks are not littered up with pickets carrying banners and shouting imprecations at passersby who turn in to patronize the picketed place of business, you don't think you aren't paying through the nose as the result of labor disturbances 1,000 or more miles away.

ON BROADWAY (Copyright, 1941, for The Journal)

THE first Christmas tree of the season. On 58th Street west of 5th Avenue, outside the French War Relief headquarters... The Broadway lunch counter which you enter by dropping two-bits into a turnstile. All you can eat for that... The majestic cluster of Radio City skyscrapers—mountains of windows... If you don't think prices have gone up—try to buy a Broadway hot dog for less than 6c.

THE out-of-town newsmen in Times Square after the premiere of a sitting... The whacky Oriental customer usually being the mothers of chorines and players or envious competitors... The marquee movie lights saying: "Bobby Goodbody Here Comes Mr. Jordan"... The lifted-pinky foot shoppes on Lexington Avenue where each tomato is wrapped in cellophane. Such a thing... The realistic jungle effect of the remodeled Bronx Zoo. Almost as real as the scenes in a "Zanza" movie.

THE sign in the window of an 8th Avenue barber shop... The tough talk of the Timesmen doing trucks with their typewriters... The daily drama enacted at Children's Court on 22nd Street—hundreds of kids on the wrong track being re-routed by black-robed sages... The two RAFliers inspecting the stiffs of the Battle of London, outside the Translux newsreel.

Pages from Horatio Alger... The austere, old-fashioned buildings on Nassau Street, starting scenes of many a financial great... The 57th Street daily drama enacted at Children's Court on 22nd Street—hundreds of kids on the wrong track being re-routed by black-robed sages... The two RAFliers inspecting the stiffs of the Battle of London, outside the Translux newsreel.

THE 12-year-old sign high over the Capitol Theater building, advertising "The Best in Vitaphone Movies"... The lady named Janice Fell who runs a place on Central Avenue, Westchester. He calls it "Johnnie Fell Inn"... The life-like statue of a panther about to pounce on you overlooking Central Park road on the east side. Scars the dickens outta you. Me, anyhow.

Statement From A Friend

Despite World Conditions, Alien Inventions OK's Here How Granting Patents To Germans Aids U. S.

BY PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Recent award of a U. S. patent to a German citizen for a propellerless airplane driven through the skies like a rocket brings to light some interesting background on the international granting of patents on military devices.

As a matter of fact, it's a distinct advantage to the U. S. to have the Germans registering their patents in this country now, particularly on military gadgets of destruction. The way it works out is the advantage of the United States to receive and publish these patents since this makes the information available to U. S. military services.

When war on Germany was declared in 1941, the U. S. government seized all patents awarded to German citizens and appropriated everything of military value for the use of the U. S. services. The same thing would probably happen in case the U. S. should declare war in the present emergency.

JONES HAPS THE GUN WHAT happens in Washington starts taking without having all his benches around to keep him straight on details was demonstrated the other day by Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones. Usually when the administrator holds a press conference he is flanked by a row of dignified gentlemen who do the work on the dozen or more government corporations of which Jones is titular head. They laugh at the boss's jokes and answer questions he can't.

On this particular occasion, however, when a question came up about new loans to Latin-American Jones said one had been granted to Mexico for road improvement when, as a matter of fact, the loan had not yet been agreed to or signed. Negotiators were still at work on it, in secret. Warren Lee Fleson, head of Export-Import bank, wasn't there to correct the announcement, with the result that there was much confusion and covering up to be done in Mexico City, for Washington had agreed for simultaneous announcement should the loan be granted and signed.

ists and has found them to be, on the average, fully as honest and as decent and as fair as the average of our citizens outside of trade unionism.

Apparently, the mounting troubles in labor must be laid at the doors of a handful of grasping, selfish leaders—many of whom maintain their positions by typical gangster methods—who operate on the dictator theory that "we must keep things in an uproar to deflect attention from our own shortcomings, thus keep our jobs and our power."

Organized labor MUST continue in this country. But if the nation is to prosper and progress, labor must clean up its house from the top down, and its control must be wrested—one way or another—from its swaggering overlords and given to the rank and file of the workers, themselves, where it belongs.

edness of "only" $19 billion more than in 1929. But interest charges, because of lower interest rates, will be $3 billion less in 1941 than in 1929, or $6.3 billion in 1941 against $9.5 billion in 1929.

Carrying this argument to a conclusion, the country could go into debt approximately 20 per cent more than it is already and still be paying no more interest than it did in 1929.

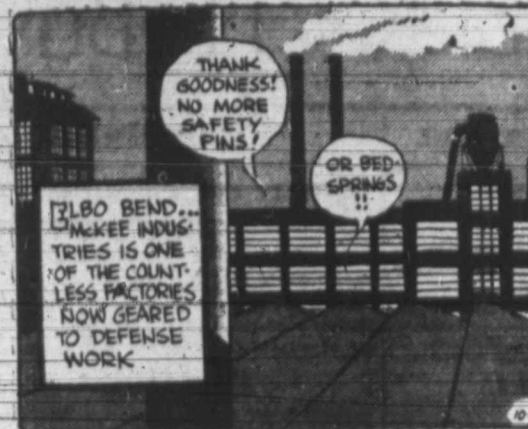

SPECIAL ACT OF CONGRESS

In Cuba for his health at the time, William R. King of Alabama received the oath of office as vice president of the United States at Havana. Running mate of Franklin Pierce, King was permitted the oath on foreign soil by special act of Congress.

nervousness, looking from one to the other, wagged her tail slowly, thoughtfully, a trace dubiously. "Pam," Jerry said with unexpected gentleness, "you're magnificent in this mood. I like a fighter! This settles it. You're my girl." But whatever she had thought would have said died a-borning for Pam's furious voice broke in: "Fighter? You like a fighter? Then why don't you show a little fight yourself? You'll live your whole life out without a single thing that you can point to as an accomplishment. You'll never do a useful thing!"

"Are you trying to goad me?" Jerry was trying to keep calm. He didn't want to quarrel with Pam. But her words were assailing him again: "Goad you? Why should I be interested enough to try to goad you to anything? What have you that I'd want? Why, you haven't even honor! You—"

The Love Of Pam

when a voice spoke to her.

"Hello, Pam." She looked up to see Jerry, and swiftly, against her wish, all of the anger of the night before washed from her.

Hard Words

"Oh, Jerry," she cried, blushing, as she spoke, the shamed fudge that rose to the roots of his dark hair.

"Pam, forgive me for rushing away in temper last night," he begged. "You were right. I was wrong. I've been walking around the block trying to get up courage enough to do this. Blaze was bold enough to walk right in and make our apologies. If you knew how hard this is—"

"I suppose it would be hard for you, Jerry," Pam broke in coolly, having gotten possession of herself again. "You've had so little practice in such things."

"What do you mean, Pam?" Jerry was obviously startled at her mood.

"Oh, Jerry, why did you come here when you know you don't mean anything you say or do?"

"But I do, Pam. I don't understand you at all."

Pam was silent for a moment, looking at him with eyes darkened by pain and anger.

"Please go, Jerry," she said finally. "I have work to do, and I can't do it with you here."

Jerry moved toward her, but his hands on her shoulders.

Pam freed herself from his grasp.

"Jerry, please!" she begged. "If you want to be kind to me, if you want me to like you at all, please go. Now. This is my life—these coconut ironies, these dyes, these fish scales. I have orders that I must get out and deliver. Don't take what little I have from me. Don't!"

"But I want to give you everything, Pam. Believe me, I wouldn't take one little thing from your life. I want to give to it! But since you ask it, I'll go now and give you time for the things you think are so important to you. But I'll be back. I'll be back!"

"Exactly what I said," she answered quietly. "I have no use for people who don't give me some reason to respect them. Who haven't some reason for living and taking up space. What are you, Jerry Winthrop? Just another useless, easy-living man?"

Jerry's face was white with anger under its tan. He looked for an instant as if he might strike Pam. Then his hands relaxed. A slow smile lighted his face. Blaze who had been sitting in obvious

Auto Industry Accused Of "Apathetic" Preparation In War Effort

Industry Said Short-Sighted

BY ANTHONY G. DE LORENZO
United Press Staff Writer

DETROIT, Oct. 31.—Ranking officials of the United Automobile Workers (UAW) have challenged the adequacy of the automobile industry's preparations for shouldering its share of the defense armament program.

R. J. Thomas, president of the UAW-CIO and spokesman for 250,000 auto workers, charged in a report to the Tolan congressional committee investigating migration of labor that members of his union will "pay the penalty" for what he called "apathetic" preparation for defense by automobile manufacturers.

Haven't Hit Capacity
He declared that machine tools adaptable for defense work in the Detroit industrial area are being operated at "no more than 35 percent of capacity" and demanded "immediate steps" by the army, navy and other government departments to coordinate, unused machine tool equipment "for full and immediate transition of the automobile industry as a whole to defense production."

Meanwhile, Allan Macauley, president of the Automobile Manufacturers Association and board chairman of the Packard Motor Car Co., announced that the motor car industry is "making good" on more than $3,500,000,000 worth of defense orders, three-fourths of which he said were released to manufacturers "within the first eight months of this year."

Change-Over Takes Time
At the end of December, 1940, he said, total military orders in the hands of car manufacturers amounted to $915,000,000. Filling two-thirds of these orders, Macauley explained, required building new manufacturing facilities. Coincidentally, he said, there has been "too much dependence upon the false assumption that once an industry's civilian production is cut, its capabilities automatically are transferred to defense work."

It takes time, he emphasized, to swing into defense work. There must be designing and making of special tools, rearrangement of factory facilities and selection and education of subcontractors.

Union officials and industry leaders apparently disagree on the proportion of machinery and equipment available for early change-over to defense work. Although some industry spokesmen estimate that only 10 to 15 percent of present machinery can be used in producing armament, Thomas says that "at least" 50 percent of the industry's productive equipment is available for change-over within three to six months.

Reuther Plan Indorsed
This swift change-over to defense production, Thomas believes, can be achieved by putting into effect the plan advanced last December by Walter P. Reuther, head of the Union's General Motors Division. Reuther's plan provides for coordinating the industry's tooling facilities for production of the jigs, fixtures and tools essential in defense work.

If the re-tooling for defense work could have been accomplished last spring, Thomas told the congressional committee, automobile workers today would not be faced with unemployment.

"But," he declared, "the conception of 'business as usual' triumphed in governmental agencies as well as in industry itself. New models were allowed. The largest group of skilled workers in the country labored long hours to produce sleeker curves and fancier grille work."

"As a result," he continued, "we are only now beginning the program of re-tooling for defense production which should have been initiated early in the winter of 1940."

A LOW TRICK
INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—James M. Tucker, Indiana secretary of state, has a solution to the annual and scramble for low automobile license numbers—he hopes. He has announced "the lowest-numbered tag for 1942 will be 10,000."

"INFLAMMABLE BRIDGE" is fueled by a huge storage tank, buried in the ground and connected with sprinklers on the floor of the span. An electric device controlled by a switch, ignites the fuel mixture. Interference by shell with either tank or feeding system automatically blows up the structure.

"DEATHTRAP AIRPORT" mined to the teeth. Explosives are set off simultaneously, blowing from position huge concrete runway sections and making an enemy landing suicidal. Where runways cross, circular machine-gun nests rise from ground level, expose parachutists to withering crossfire.

This Is What Modern Warfare Looks Like When Styled By An Expert U. S. Designer

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Raymond Loewy, industrial designer who became prominent through styling streamlined trains and ultra-modern ocean liners, is busy these days thinking up new and formidable instruments of warfare.

Heated are two of them, and here are some others:

"Blood Bombs" Suggested
"Blood bombs" which would contain a sticky, vermilion liquid, highly odorous and almost impossible to remove. Designed for aerial release, they might drive city dwellers into panic.

A camouflaged tank trap, particularly effective in a warm climate, would be made of soft, spongy material to appear as natural terrain. Treads of an enemy tank, once in the trap, would be knotted up a gooey mess, rendered useless. Loewy also envisions a troop train, that could be converted into a motor truck with a flip of the wrist. It would travel on rails or highway with equal ease. Loewy has suggested also "noise" bombs, strange packages of thunder grinding out in indescribable cacophony sounds calculated to make hearers lose their minds. And soldiers, in his scheme of attack, might well be painted to appear as monsters—much as the fluorescent, green-hued parachutists whom Germany sent against Crete.

All of these things, and more, have moved across the drafting board of this engineer-designer whose services and advice are being used by the army ordnance department and other government agencies.

The famous white fish of Lake Patzcuaro in Mexico are made available to many parts of the world by the establishment, by cooperative fishermen of a modern packing house and cannery.

Aged School House Holds Strange Story

GENEVA, N. Y., Oct. 31 (AP)—One of the nation's most curious school houses stands near this Western New York village overlooking Seneca Lake.

Known as the "Priory," the low L-shaped structure was at one time the main structure of the Endymion Military Preparatory School, established in 1865 by the late Charles D. Bean, Geneva attorney.

It was known the school had a board of governors, a staff, classrooms, dormitories, a running track and a gymnasium, which still contains equipment, but little can be uncovered concerning its students. Although records were found which said classes were graduated before the turn of the century, some residents assert the school never had a student.

The old school house is a paradise to the curious visitor, seeking a brief glimpse of the past. Class lists are found painted on walls, class mot as carefully lettered over doorways, and sage precepts painstakingly inscribed along the passageways.

Residents say everything is real except the students and claim they were pure fiction which was kept up year after year to gratify the whims of the founder.

Process To Salvage Alloy Steels Found

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 31 (AP)—A new process of reclaiming hundreds of tons of stainless steel and alloys of other vital defense metals now wasted as scrap is reported by Dr. John Wulff of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The process converts stainless steel, tungsten, chromium, nickel and magnesium scrap into powder and they then are molded into new objects.

Dr. Wulff already has discussed the reclamation process with representatives of government arsenals and navy yards and with defense industry officials at a Tech metallurgy conference.

It is estimated the process will reclaim more than 3 per cent of the 100,000 tons of stainless steel annually discarded as waste because there has been no economical method of salvaging it.

Dr. Wulff says his process is limited primarily to powder and shavings from alloy steel resulting from boring and cutting the metal. The process consists of heating the scrap enough to allow addition of materials which separate impurities from good metal.
