Neutrality Act Repeal Facing Stubborn Foes

Demo Leader Says Defense Sabotage Must Be Stopped

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Representative Smith (D-Va.), speaking directly to administration leaders working to keep party lines intact for neutrality revision, declared today that he would vote against the legislation unless the government "puts a stop to the labor dictatorship" he said was sabotaging the defense effort.

Smith, who said he had voted for all previous defense legislation, declared that because of the "unruly elements in our midst" he was not prepared to support the proposed revision to permit merchant ships to travel to belligerent ports.

Rayburn (R-Min.) one of the two present House members who voted against the World War declaration of the Congress in 1917, and who called the meeting, told newspapermen:

"We figure there are four or five doubts on our side and if we can get these lined up there will be no question of the final vote."

The speaker told his press conference he felt "all right about this vote."

Other leaders had found some cause for apprehension in the possibility that continued defense strikes might cost them sorely needed votes for the administration legislation.

"When you have everybody in the executive departments, including Secretary of State Hull, and everyone in the army and navy believing that this action is necessary for the peace and safety of the United States," Rayburn declared, "I'm confident that this resolution will pass by a substantial vote."

In response to questions as to whether he thought the proposed amendments would take the nation closer to war, the speaker replied that he thought defeat of the resolution would "come a great deal nearer being provocative of war" than would its approval.

Three women en route to a Woman's Home League meeting at the Salvation Army hall were injured in a collision shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon at Fourteenth street and Avenue C.

They were Mrs. R. B. Price, 29, of 508 Cliff drive, who suffered deep cuts on her right elbow and hand when her arm was pinned under a pickup truck after the truck overturned; Mrs. Bud Winsler, 25, of 509 Cliff drive, a fractured right collarbone, and Mrs. Eunice Joffcoat of northeast of the city, a laceration on the right temple.

The three women were riding in the Salvation Army pick-up with Lieut. Fred Sanner of the Army staff. A car driven by W. T. Dickson was going west on Fourteenth street and the pickup was being driven south on Avenue C. The Dickson car was in collision with the left rear of the pick-up, which overturned, said investigators. Lewis Kittrell and Aubrey Fawver of the police department were investigating. Lieutenants Sanner and Dickson were not injured. Mrs. Joffcoat did not remain in the sanitarium.

Col. Thompson To Be Relieved From Duty

BROWNWOOD, Nov. 12 (AP)—Col. Ernest O. Thompson will be relieved from active duty Nov. 24 because of the importance of his civil duty as chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, 36th division headquarters announced today.

The release was directed by President Roosevelt. Col. Thompson is commander of the 36th division's 141st infantry.

Seal was fingerprinted, his handwriting checked and other identification verified. The sheriff said there was no question of this identity. He told mistakably he had worked for the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington and had practiced law in Indianapolis.

Seal told authorities he was "on a sort of vacation." He said he expected to return to his home in Indianapolis.

Finland's Rejection Of Peace Is Termed "Slap In Face" For FDR

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 12.—In an explosion heard 40 miles away, a powder mill operating under a war department contract blew up today in wooded hills west of Peoria, causing several casualties.

Four men were reported missing and presumably dead. Officials said another man might be dead and that several were injured.

Federal agents took charge and hunted for evidence of sabotage at the plant, located near Edwards, 12 miles west of here. It was operated by the Western Powder Manufacturing company, a subsidiary of the Western Cartridge company.

At least two buildings were destroyed in a double explosion, apparently starting in a hydraulic press unit and followed immediately by a bigger blast as the corning mill 600 feet away went up, touched off by a fragment.

Some Peorians thought broken windows and china were signs of an earthquake. In panic they put in calls for the fire department, jamming telephone lines.

The plant was composed of from ten to 15 small buildings, widely scattered and with collapsible walls intended to localize damage.

Those reported missing were Arthur Kendall, Lloyd Dalton, Harold Hoots and Harold Windish. The powder mill employed from 50 to 60 workers, but only a few (Turn to Page 7, Column 6, Please)

SHIP TORPEDOED

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP)—The admiralty said today it had received reports that the 6,600-ton Spanish steamer Castille Oropesa had been torpedoed off Melilla and added "no British submarine was within 100 miles" of that Spanish Moroccan port at the time.

Churchill Warns Of New Invasion Peril

NAZIS LOSE 70,000 MEN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—John Taxpayer and hundreds of his brothers who haven't had a pay raise in a long time poured protests into the treasury today against new tax proposals designed to "mop up" excess purchasing power.

The treasury admitted getting a "large number" of letters from citizens who generally said "what's this excess purchasing power? I haven't got any of it."

Answers are going out that the treasury is "aware" of the problem of the many people who haven't shared directly in the defense boom, and is trying to work out some tax system that will be easier on them than on the other workers who are making lots more money. But, one official commented, "we can't make promises. It's a difficult nut to crack."

The thing that started the indignant flood of mail was a statistical survey by Dr. Cael Shoup of Columbia university, a part-time treasury adviser, which predicted that the people would have between $5,000,000 and $8,000,000 of extra spending money next year, at a time when priorities and other factors would reduce sharply the supply of merchandise the people could buy. Shoup concluded that unless the treasury soaked up some of this spare change through heavy new taxes, the people would try to outbid each other for the available consumer merchandise and (Turn to Page 7, Column 5, Please)

Hitler May Be Forced Into Great Gamble

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Prime Minister Churchill declared today Adolf Hitler had failed to bring Britain to her knees through a starvation blockade and thus might be forced into attempting invasion "as soon as he can screw up courage and make arrangements to take the plunge."

The prime minister told a cheering House of Commons that it had been learned through Britain's No. 1 prisoner, Rudolf Hess, who flew from Germany to Scotland "that Hitler originally counted more on starvation of the British than on invasion."

Hopes Have Crumbled

Any such hopes, Churchill declared, crumbled through an improvement in Britain's shipping situation. This was high-spotted by the prime minister's report that:

"In 1943 we shall have sufficient shipping to undertake overseas operations."

2—Almost 1,000,000 tons of Axis shipping were sent to the bottom or damaged seriously in the four months ending in October.

3—During that same period Britain's shipping losses dropped almost two thirds.

He asserted the destruction of Axis shipping "is proceeding with Nazi attempt to invade Britain greater violence than before."

Nevertheless he warned that a still was possible and said Britain must have everything ready for a good weather of spring so that we can meet and check" any such attempt.

"In the Mediterranean," he said, "the enemy's losses have been particularly severe. There is evidence he has found it very difficult to reinforce or even supply his armies on African shores."

Earlier he said that British merchant shipping losses were cut from a 500,000-ton monthly average for four months ended in June to 180,000 tons per month in the four-month period ended in October.

He declared the last convoy sunk in the Mediterranean "was a particularly valuable one and its total destruction, together with the devastation wrought by our submarines, would certainly be some."

Could Identify Couple

Denton had said he could identify the couple who forced him at gunpoint to deliver to them $98.05 from the station's cash register.

Officials said one of the boys to be questioned had been sent to the state reformatory at Gatesville three times, the other twice. One had figured in a hijacking before he was 14 years old. The other had managed to be sent to another institution for medical attention twice and had escaped both times, once after having been registered only three hours.

Fort Smith Cut Off From Water Supply

FORT SMITH, Ark., Nov. 12 (AP)—Fort Smith was cut off today from its Lake Fort Smith water supply when a flood-gated bank at the Van Buren end of the Arkansas river bridge caved in, pulling apart a coupling of the 27-inch water pipe.

Reserve reservoirs, holding 14,000,000 gallons, immediately were connected with the distribution system and Commissioner H. S. Peck called on heavy industrial consumers to reduce their use of water.

The line may be back in service by nightfall, Peck said.

Red Cross In Big Roll Call

Approximately 200 workers scattered over Lubbock county to begin an intensive Red Cross membership drive this morning after a kickoff meeting at Hilton hotel.

Olen Stewart, roll call chairman, said the major portion of the membership campaign would be completed today, although work will continue later.

Questions To Be Answered

Mrs. Jack Reeves, office secretary for the roll call, will spend each day the remainder of this week and part of next week at the American Legion hall, where questions will be answered regarding the roll call and supplies will be issued.

Coffee and doughnuts were served this morning and supplies were distributed. Dr. Sam C. Arnett, Jr., chairman of the Lubbock county Red Cross, said more men had been present at any previous roll call kickoff meetings.

Mark A. Miller Is Claimed By Death

Mark A. Miller, 37, resident of Lubbock since 1924, died unexpectedly at 12:20 o'clock this afternoon at the 1212 Avenue W residence of his sister, Mrs. W. A. Myrick, Sr. Death was ascribed to a heart attack.

He had been in ill health several years. He had come to Lubbock from Little Rock, Ark., where a son A. C. Miller now lives. He was a retired business man.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed, at 2 o'clock this afternoon but relatives said rites would be sometime Thursday.

Russell Myrick and Walter A. Myrick, Jr., both of Lubbock, are nephews and Mrs. Charles Triplett of George West, Texas, is a niece.

Railroad Strike Is Called For Dec. 7

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP)—Chiefs of the five operating brotherhoods in the railroad industry ordered their 350,000 members today to strike beginning Dec. 7 for a 30 per cent increase in wages.

The men were instructed to leave their jobs progressively on Dec. 7, 8 and 9.

Recreation Is Studied Here

First investigations into specific recreational facilities that should be provided in Lubbock for men stationed at the air base under construction west of the city were begun at a meeting of the air base committee of the chamber of commerce this morning.

It was the consensus of members of the committee that suitable facilities should and will be provided.

To Work Out Details

They emphasized, however, that the complete details of what can and will be done in that connection must be worked out from the beginning.

The immediate result of the committee meeting was the designation by Homer D. Grant and Knox J. Thomas, the co-chairmen, of members of the group to make specific inquiries.

There are to be immediate conferences with Work Projects Administration officials here as to what, if any, contribution the WPA might be allowed to make toward such a project. Inquiries also will be made there as to the findings of WPA representatives when they made in-

Finns Claim Battle Is One Of Defense

HELSINKI, Finland, Nov. 12.—Finland rejected today the United States warning to cease fighting Russia, declaring that her war against the Soviet union still was defensive, that she saw no threat to her independence in her alliance with Germany and that she was unable to see how her fight imperiled United States interests or security.

This position was stated in a note handed the American minister after approval by a lengthy session of the cabinet; it replied to the warning announced in Washington Nov. 3 by Secretary of State Hull.

Prevented Own Doom

Finland said she had taken up arms after "two unjustified armed attacks on the part of the mighty Bolshevik terrorist state which neither the United States nor any other country able either to prevent them or provide guarantees that such attacks would not be provided."

Vichy War Minister Is Killed In Crash

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Nov. 12 (AP)—General Charles Huntziger, Vichy war minister, was burned to death today when a plane in which he was returning to Vichy from a tour of North Africa crashed in southern France.

Seven other persons lost their lives in the crash.

Death of the general, who signed the 1940 armistice between Germany and France, was reported shortly after officials had made known their concern for him.

His plane had been missing more than seven hours.

Workers in San Diego Area Return To Their Jobs At Noon Today

Armistice Day Truce Reached

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 12.—An Armistice day peace sends 2,164 AFL craftsmen back to work at noon today on $25,000,000 in navy and marine defense projects in the San Diego area.

At the request of Federal Conciliator Harry Malcom, the navy modified the ultimatum to the strikers that they be back on the job at 8 a. m. P. S. T. The four-hour grace enables the men to receive a report on the settlement.

Would Fill Jobs
The navy earlier had announced that if strikers did not report at 8 a. m., their jobs would be filled by available labor, and the union men given any jobs remaining at noon.

A spokesman said this concession constituted the only recession from the navy's original position as stated by Rear Admiral Charles A. Blakely, 11th district commandant.

The admiral had termed the strike as "open revolt against the United States government," a description that brought a reply from K. G. Bitter, building trades secretary, that "if any of our men were in revolt against the government, we would be the first to expel them."

In calling the strike Monday, Bitter said the action was directed at contractors awarded construction jobs on navy and marine expansion programs, but Admiral Blakely said the labor leaders were "defying only one contractor—the United States government."

The strike was called to enforce a demand for a dollar a day wage boost which union leaders said was justified because of a 27 1/2 per cent increase in the cost of living in San Diego in the last year.

John Murray of Los Angeles, international carpenters representative, said the settlement was based on a new interpretation by the navy on lump sum government projects which would permit contractors to pay the scale demanded by the unions.

Murray said that on cost plus contracts wage differences would be submitted to an OPM board of review for decision. A cost plus contract is one in which the government meets the labor and material costs and pays the contractor a fixed sum for executing the work. Under a lump sum contract, a contractor after competitive bidding, must pay all costs himself.

"Champagne For Ten"—Good-Time Charlie Is Back! Metropolitan Night Clubs, Small-Town Juke Joints Sizzle As Defense Money Pours In

BY TOM WOLF
NEA Service Staff Writer
NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Hold onto your wallets, boys, here we go.

At last the long-predicted flood of Uncle Sam's defense-spent folding money is trickling into Joe American's jeans. And Joe is blowing himself to a big dose of the oldest-home-remedy-for-a-world-headache entertainment.

A merriment impresario no longer refers nostalgically to the cash-lush Twenties as "the good old days." From Brownsville, Texas, to Bangor, Me., they are smiling the smile that comes from the pocket, because Joe American is spending his troubles away.

"Good-time Charlie is back again," said Billy Rose, whose Manhattan night spot, the Diamond Horseshoe, last year grossed well over $1,000,000. "I haven't seen Charlie since the speakasy days. But almost any night now you can hear his cheery call: 'Champagne for ten! There are no two ways about it. Defense money has hit New York at last.'"

Bigger, Better Shows
Night club owners throughout the country echo these Rose sentiments. They're all clapping hands because "here comes Charlie—good-time Charlie." They're planning bigger and better shows to keep Charlie spending. Even in Philadelphia, which practices being the City of Brotherly Love by having a few spots to take your girl to one enterprising showman is staging a special 10:30 p. m. floor show so that defense workers can be seduced by midnight.

Joe American has pulled all the stops on his pocketbook when it comes to musical entertainment. The nation's dancehalls just haven't been big enough when the name bands came to (and went to) town. Last spring, for example, before defense spending had become cash in Joe's pocket, Jack Teagarten's band tooted for a week in Morgantown, W. Va. Although there were no competing amusements in town, the Teagarten crew drew only 1400 dancers. But this fall the Teagarten band returned to this same town for a one-night stand. Then, although there were three competing entertainments (significant of a change in itself), three times as many swingers came to dance on this one evening as had shown up during the entire April week.

Music Pokes Them In
Or take some pages from Artie Shaw's note book. During a swing of swing through defense-busy New England, Shaw played successive one-nighters in three towns whose combined population totaled 1100. Some 11,000 local Ethans and Abigailis—or 10 times the town's population—turned up to swing the turkey right out of the straw.

It didn't take "live" shows to bring out the customers this summer. The nation's 300,000 juke boxes ground out "canned" music long hours after the cows came home. In 1940 these mechanical purveyors of Polyhymnia were gobbling nickels to the tune of $1,200,000 every month. Today that tune has swelled to an operatic chorus—$2,200,000 a month.

Smell-wonder...that trend-conscious New York operators have booked more orchestras for night spot appearances in Manhattan this fall and winter than ever before. Or that movie theatres the country over are budgeting hundreds of thousands of additional hours and dollars for dance band spots on their entertainment programs.

Other Entertainments Boom
Music is but one key to America's pleasure bent. All forms of summer entertainment prospered this season. Backers of the bang-tails were squashed to the stretch as they fought to get into the nation's racetracks. It was the fans who executed most of the baseball season's squeeze plays as paced by the fabulous Brooklyn Dodgers; attendance figures hung up new records, climaxing in world's record attendance at the Yankee Stadium during the first World Series games. First period returns from the nation's football stadia indicate that the old grads will this fall be lucky to get a seat at all—let alone on the fifty-yard line—as the season progresses.

The wheel-of-fortune smiled on fairs and carnivals this summer, too. "In many parts of the country, engaged in defense work, fairs and carnivals showed 75 to 100 per cent gross increases," said George Hamid, President of the National Showman's association. "In many cases a fair drew several times the population not only of the city, but of the entire county, in which it played."

Cash Deposited At Box-Offices
And so the money has flowed. Joe American and his cronies have flocked to the flicks. Movie attendance throughout the U. S. now hovers around $9,000,000 a week—a real double feature for the showmen's pocketbooks. One movie operator in Detroit, taking his cue from his manufacturing and fellow townsmen, is running his theatre on a steady 36-hour shift on week ends to take care of his line assembled from assembly lines.

Legitimate theatres, too, are having a dramatic renaissance. Time was when summer stock's par value was a red figure. But this year the majority of the country's "strawhats" a equally made profits. And despite the fact that the legitimate season on Broadway has produced only two hits in a dozen tries so far, the only "paper" that will get you into a Broadway house this fall is the kind with George Washington's picture on its green front.

Yes sir, so long as he can forget his and the world's troubles, Joe American doesn't seem to care how he spends his money. And you ain't seen anything yet.

Refresher Course For Young Men Seeking Entrance Into Air Corps Opens Tonight

A refresher course for young men who can pass physical examinations for enlistment as cadets in the army air corps but lack college credits will begin in room 184 at Senior High school tonight at 7 o'clock, according to Capt. Perry Eucher of Fort Bliss, district procurement officer.

The specific purpose of the courses which will continue until Feb. 5, is to enable young men with physical and age requirements to pass the next quarterly army educational examinations. These examinations will be given Feb. 12, 1942, at several air corps fields in Texas. Each consists of five required subjects and several optional subjects.

Subjects to be offered at the high school are English composition and grammar, arithmetic, algebra, through quadratics, plane geometry, plane trigonometry, general history and United States history.

To be admitted to the quarterly examinations, applicants must have first passed the required physical examination for aviation cadet; therefore it is desirable, but in no way obligatory, that men enrolling for a "refresher" course first pass a physical examination. However, in case there are more men desiring to enroll for the course than can be accommodated, first preference will be given those who have passed their physical examinations.

Under no circumstances, it was emphasized, does completion of the course guarantee acceptance of the

Other Entertainments Boom
Music is but one key to America's pleasure bent. All forms of summer entertainment prospered this season. Backers of the bang-tails were squashed to the stretch as they fought to get into the nation's racetracks. It was the fans who executed most of the baseball season's squeeze plays as paced by the fabulous Brooklyn Dodgers; attendance figures hung up new records, climaxing in world's record attendance at the Yankee Stadium during the first World Series games. First period returns from the nation's football stadia indicate that the old grads will this fall be lucky to get a

Important Defense Conference May Be Arranged For Two Americas

U. S. May Play Host To Meet

BY LAWRENCE S. HAAS
United Press Latin American Editor

Diplomatic circles in Buenos Aires again are talking of the possibility of a conference of foreign ministers of the American republics—possibly in Washington—to discuss continental defense.

Although Foreign Minister Enrique Ruiz Guinazu said he had heard nothing regarding such a project, it was recalled that he advocated a similar conference several months ago when he made a state visit to Brazil, and that Oswaldo Aranha, Brazilian foreign minister, concurred in this recommendation.

Site Is Tentative

Neither official statement specifically that such a conference should be arranged, but Mexico's Foreign Minister Ezequiel Padilla said last month that "it would not be difficult to conceive that a conference of American foreign ministers might be held in Washington on continental defense."

There Was No Indication as to why Washington should be chosen as the seat of the conference if it is called. Rio de Janeiro has been tentatively selected as the next meeting place of American foreign ministers, when and if they assemble.

Series Of Visits Made

There has been considerable discussion among South American foreign ministers this year, and new meetings are projected. Ruiz Guinazu, who was Argentine ambassador at the Vatican, made official visits to the United States, Colombia, Brazil and Uruguay on his way home to assume the foreign office portfolio.

Dr. Luis Lopez de Mesa, Colombian foreign minister, has completed a tour of several South American countries, visiting Peru, Chile, Argentina, Brazil and Venezuela.

EdUARDO ANZE MATEZCO, new Bolivian foreign minister, has visited in Peru and Chile.

Dr. Aranha will soon visit Chile, and may stop off en route to Santiago or on his homeward journey to make an official call in Buenos Aires and perhaps in Montevideo as well.

Finally, circles close to the Chilean foreign office said that Foreign Minister Juan B. Rossetti had been invited to Buenos Aires, and that he may go after the Aranha visit.

Views Are Exchanged

It is scarcely reasonable to assume that all of this traveling is for purely social purposes. The visits are more likely being made to exchange views among the South American governments regarding common problems, which include continental defense, inter-American trade, shipping and transportation, relations vis-a-vis the Axis powers, industrial needs in the face of difficulties imposed by United States priorities systems, and even possibly their stand regarding the border controversy between Peru and Ecuador. This dispute may be mediated through the good offices of Argentina, Brazil and the United States.

A Pan-American police and judicial conference is slated for some time this year in Buenos Aires. The purpose of the session will be to seek cooperation in combatting activities of agents of foreign belligerent powers.

Conference Work Important

The agenda of the conference is being prepared by a committee in Washington, headed by Felipe A. Espil, Argentine ambassador to the United States. The delegations to the conference are expected to be jurists, and they may be aided by technical advisers, including police specialists, such as, for example, representatives of such bodies as the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The scope of this conference may be of extreme importance to the American republics, as it can

West Texas Press Clinic Will Be Held Here This Week End

Arrangements are nearing completion for the fifth annual meeting of the West Texas Scholastic Press clinic at Texas Technological college Friday and Saturday. Joseph B. Cowan, member of the journalism faculty and director of the clinic, announced.

Reservations have been received from approximately 20 West Texas schools and others are expected.

Isard To Speak

The program will open with registration from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. Friday in the press building, following by the opening session at 2 p. m., with Howard Schmidt of Lubbock, president of the clinic, presiding. Group meetings on printed papers, advertising, mimeographed papers, and year-books will be held at 3 o'clock and a party will be given by the Tech chapter of Theta Sigma Phi honorary women's journalism organization, at 4 o'clock in the gymnasium.

A talk by Wesley S. Izzard, assistant to the publisher of the Amarillo News-Globe, will be the highlight of the program at a banquet at 7:30 p. m. Friday in Lubbock hotel. Dancing will follow.

Skits, writing contests, and election of officers are scheduled for Saturday morning's session, opening at 9:30 o'clock. Delegates are to be guests of the athletic council at the Tech-St. Louis university football game Saturday afternoon.

NICE QUESTION: Why can your skates skim over ice, but not on slickest glass? Because the stroke of the blade melts the ice slightly to provide lubrication.

And why can an ice-cold engine that's OIL-PLATED give smooth, slippy, lubricated starts, while lubrication that depends on fast flow alone can often mean harmful dragging starts? Because OIL-PLATING can be clear up to the topmost piston rings where it's vital, long before there fast flow could even begin to get there.

An OIL-PLATED engine is yours as you change to popular-priced Conoco Nth oil for Winter. Not an extra minute or motion needed. But in patented Conoco Nth oil you get the man-made extra substance that keeps OIL-PLATING close-bonded—as if "magnetized"—all over inner engine parts. They don't quickly shed their OIL-PLATING. It can't all drain down—not even from bedtime to breakfast. Then before the starter starts—before the oil-pump pumps—the OIL-PLATED parts are ready-lubricated against lots of grief that comes from oil-starved Winter starting...

But now what soon melts any snow on the hood? Certainly, the air underneath gets hotter than hotcha. And then you want the sort of oil economy that took first place for Conoco Nth in the sensational Death Valley Death-Test. Along with five other great quality brands, Conoco Nth got its fair and square chance to show how long it could stand high heat and speed. Each of the six identical everyday cars in the test got one strict 5-quart fill of some competing brand tested. All six brands were run under identical conditions, without one added drop, till each oil and engine gave out. The Certified Results:

- The 5-quart fill in Car No. 2 gave out when Conoco Nth was still up at 3.65 qts.
- The 5-quart fill in Car No. 4 gave out when Conoco Nth was still up at 3.55 qts.
- The 5-quart fill in Car No. 6 gave out when Conoco Nth was still up at 3.40 qts.
- The 5-quart fill in Car No. 5 gave out when Conoco Nth was still up at 3.20 qts.
- The 5-quart fill in Car No. 1 gave out when Conoco Nth was still up at 2.70 qts.

Town And School Folk Look Forward To Helen Keller's Lecture Thursday

P-T Council Is Sponsor

The visit of Miss Helen Keller to Lubbock Thursday is of keen interest to hundreds of school children and to town people alike. The famous blind woman will lecture on "Let There Be Faith" at 8 o'clock at Senior High school auditorium under auspices of City Parent-Teacher council.

Tickets are on sale in the Hilton hotel lobby and in the offices of the school principals. Reserved seats are $1.10 and other seats are $3 and $5.

When Mark Twain was asked to name the two whom he considered to be the outstanding figures of the 19th century, he replied: "Napoleon and Helen Keller." If we in the twentieth century had to reply to a similar question it is highly probable that all of us would retain Mark Twain's second choice as our own, regardless of the trouble we would have in naming our first individual.

Graduated With Honors
Helen Keller is more than an individual. She ranks as one of the epic achievements of our time. Despite all handicaps, academic as well as physical, she completed her collegiate course at Radcliffe college side by side with normal girls and was graduated by that institution with an A. B. degree, Cum Laude, in 1904. Even before her graduation, Miss Keller broke into print with an autobiographical prelude called, "The Story of My Life," published in 1902. From that time to this, her pen has not been idle or her typewriter silent.

She has written many books and has been a steady contributor to most of the nationally circulated magazines.

As a thinker and publicist, she has raised herself to the position where she stands before the world as the only deaf and blind person who has ever been received completely and without apology into the world of the seeing.

Throughout her career, Helen Keller has figured as an indefatigable traveler. She has lectured in behalf of the blind in every state of the union and in many provinces of the Dominion of Canada. She has traveled extensively in Europe and received at the hands of King Alexander of Yugoslavia the Order of St. Sava in recognition of the stimulation her example and presence had given to the work for the blind in that kingdom.

Miss Polly Thomson, Miss Keller's companion, will accompany her to Lubbock and will assist in the program.

We The Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

The average housewife shows less sense in hiring "help" than in the management of any other phase of the job of home-making.

A woman may pride herself on the fact that her children get the proper food, take their vitamin pills regularly, are always spic and span and that her house is always immaculate. Yet she may be as careless about the help she hires as the most slovenly housekeeper in the neighborhood.

A housewife will hire a girl to help with the cooking and the care of the children, and yet not know a thing about her except that she looks neat enough; she is willing to work for what the housewife can afford to pay, and she "knows her place."

How dangerous to the health of a family such careless choosing of domestic help can be is shown by the figures recently published by the Venereal Disease Control Program of a southern city.

DEMAND A HEALTH CARD

Thirty-one per cent of the domestic servants in that city who in 1940 applied for health cards were found to be infected with syphilis.

The control program of that city is doing a fine job by encouraging housewives not to hire servants without first seeing that they have health cards dated within a six-month period.

The health cards are of two kinds. One certifies that a blood test performed on such a date was negative for syphilis. The other states that the person applying for the card may, according to a blood test taken on a certain date, be safely employed under one or two conditions. One is that no further treatment is needed. The other that treatment must be taken each week.

DON'T WAIT FOR CLINIC SET-UP

Every town, large or small, needs some such set-up. But it is senseless for the housewives of a community to wait for the establishment of such a set-up before checking on the health of their own servants.

All that a woman needs to do to make certain that the maid she takes into her home can pass a physical examination is to demand such an examination before hiring a new girl. She can insist that the maid who has been with her for years go to the family doctor for a physical examination.

It is a little trouble, and it will cost the housewife a few dollars, but it is one precaution a family can't afford not to take.

Defense Housing In City Being Pushed

Condemnation proceedings against one property owner so as to obtain the site for a $315,000 improved housing project probably will be necessary, according to announcement Tuesday by H. C. Pender, chairman of the Lubbock Housing authority.

It recently was designated as a defense housing project and expectation is that many of the 130 units planned for construction will be made available to families of non-commissioned officers and civil service employes at the air base under construction west of the city. The site is located in the northeast part of the city bordering Mackenzie state park.

He announced that architects are redoubling their efforts to complete the plans for submission to the federal agency. Chief architect are Hayes and Strang. Associate architects are Walker and Atcheson and J. B. Roberts, all of Lubbock. H. N. Roberts of Lubbock is civil engineer and R. K. Werner, Fort Worth, mechanical engineer.

Change In Building Code To Be Talked

Further discussion of a recent amendment to the city building code which forbids the use of combustible materials for building insulation is scheduled at the semi-monthly meeting of the city commission in the city hall Thursday afternoon, officials said this morning.

The commission declined at its last meeting to change the amendment so as to except two specific brands of materials from provisions of the ordinance, which now requires that insulations must be approved as non-combustible.

City officials said that the amendment was drafted and adopted after complaints had been received that insulating materials of questionable types were being put in some of the new buildings here.

Considerable routine business also is scheduled for transaction at the meeting, officials said.

Strikes Are Rare Under Great Britain's Progressive Labor Policy

Bevin Welding Solid Program

By PAUL MANNING
NEA Service Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 12.—A small typewritten document in the large mahogany desk, lower right-hand drawer, of Britain's labor boss Ernest Bevin, makes him a manpower dictator.

He can step into any 5:15 commuters' special and order every man to report to the following morning. And he can march into any strike-idi-factory, take over the plant with armed force, and send every man who refuses to work to prison for up to two years.

These he can do and more, too, but his whole idea of labor-capital relations is to carry a big stick and speak softly.

"I don't like force in my labor relations," he says today. "I like arbitration—arbitration, free discussion and the type of collective bargaining which will keep industry running smoothly."

This policy has paid big dividends to Britain's war effort. Only two million working days have been lost through strikes during the first two years of the current war. In 1917-18 twelve million working days were lost.

More important than this, however, has been the goodwill which has resulted in employer-employee roundtable conferences. Both labor and capital have sacrificed many things under the stress of this wartime emergency. Labor, for example, has voluntarily given up, for the duration of the war, some principles for which it struggled years.

The 400,000 members of the Amalgamated Engineering Union, wealthiest and largest group of skilled labor in all Britain, voluntarily voted to permit semi-skilled workers to be admitted into their ranks because this would increase armament production. At the same time this agreement was signed, government and employers promised they would respect all trade union rights immediately when the war ends.

Strike For More Work

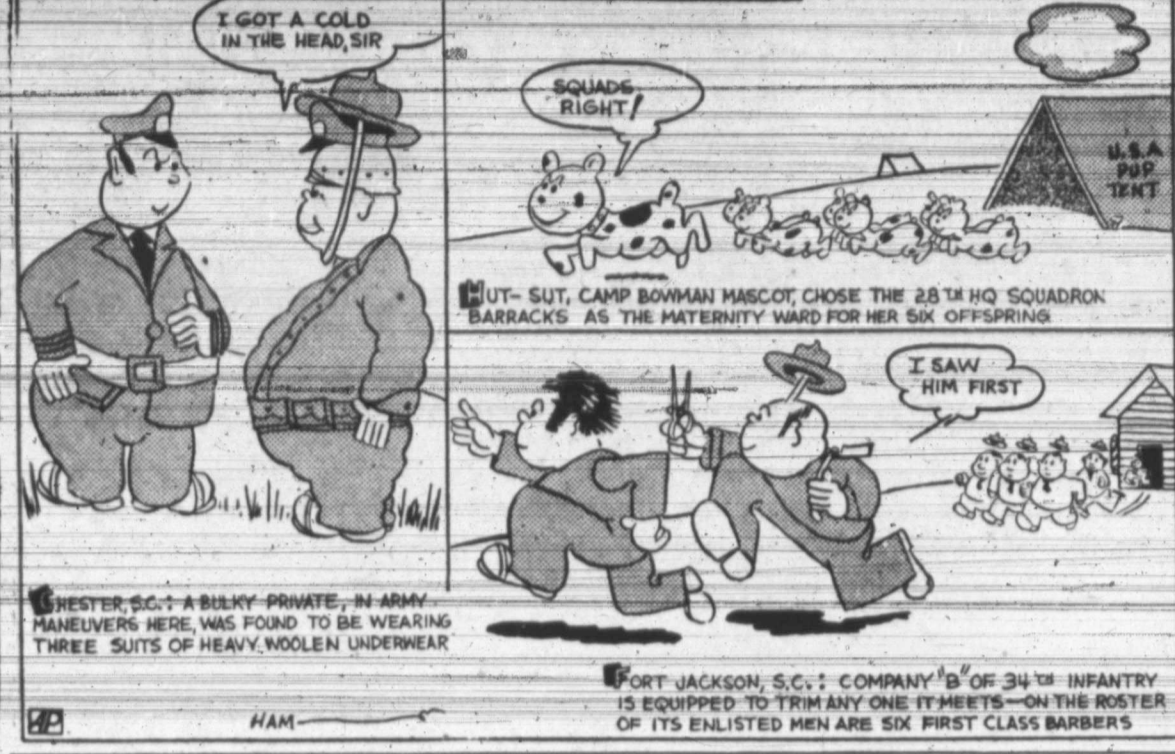

Cursus enough, the two million idle working days which have accumulated since 1939 have been the result of an almost too complete understanding by labor that when a nation is fighting for its life, the first thing to avoid is a split in the national front. That is what Sir Walter Citrine, general secretary of the Trade Union Congress, says and he echoes sentiment of organized British labor.

Most of the strikes which have occurred have been demonstrations on the part of the employees, who were dissatisfied with "mild" plans of management. That is why they will protest, they say, whenever they encounter muddled planning.

Demand Capacity Output

For example, the 54 skilled engineers in one Midlands factory, who staged a recent half-day strike—this was not a strike for more money, nor did they want different working conditions or a closed shop. It was simply a feeling that the plant should be working to capacity.

"We suspected bad internal planning," their spokesman said. "For instance, we were making army cars and trucks, and one day we required engines and back axles for the army cars. We were sent the car engines all right, but along with them came big truck axles, and we were then idle for a considerable time."

They're back at work again, of course, like other strikers who have briefly deserted their jobs for the same sort of reasons. For labor is working hard these days because laboring men know a British weakness is lack of abundant man-power, and they are determined that employers, too, shall not in the long hours of work which they themselves now have.

Protest To Government

Likewise, they want the government to do the same. For though the government has the upper hand always in a nation at war, labor leaders and the men of labor's ranks feel that any government action which does not go ahead justifies a strong protest. For despite the fact that throughout the war labor has voted its willingness to cooperate, laboring men do not feel they have surrendered their freedom of action, or right of criticism.

The London Daily Herald, official organ of British labor, writes: "Labor, while it does not cooperate completely in the national government, cooperates in the national purpose."

The result has been a constantly increasing production. Figures are not publishable, but at one small Midlands factory 300 women were producing electrical units for RAF bombers. Two of the RAF pilots, veterans of many raids over Germany, who visited that particular factory, asked them to give up still another week end and turn out an extra 500 finished units.

Give Up Week Ends

Monday morning, when they called with a truck to take the units away to their bomber station, they found 1,000 ready and waiting. It is like this in most factories, only pressure is often more constant, with men and women working seven days a week, getting time off only every third week.

That is the week end these girls gave up for the RAF pilots—and was the third such in nine weeks. However, many men and girls in England have been doing this too much for too long. Finally when production began lagging, the management and government finally had to cut the voluntary 30-hour work week to 70, as well as give some employees short rest cures.

Records Are Set

Up along Clydeside and Mersey, scene of bitter resentment last spring when dockers were forced to forego their traditional system of casual labor and become registered, full-time workers on wage scales set by Bevin and his ministry of labor, there is a steady purposefulness.

There is little friction there today. There are complaints about lack of food canteens and other similar items, but all such complaints are being ironed out rapidly by arbitration—as men continue at their work.

Public Opinion Strong

Liverpool dockers, for instance, hung up a record for unloading that will undoubtedly stand for some time to come. A large freighter from America was unloaded, turned around and joined with a new outgoing convoy a full six days ahead of schedule.

The willingness of British labor to refer all complaints and pay rises to the national arbitration tribunal, which is composed of one employer's representative, one trade union man, and three independent members, has gained them much. More pay, for one thing, though often less than asked for. Canteens at factories and docks, and better transportation facilities have been secured. On any one of these points they could have gone on strike and Bevin would undoubtedly have not called out troops, because in the final analysis, Britain's production depends upon the good-will of labor.

Yet none would dare strike for such reasons as more pay, better working conditions and a closed shop. With pilots, on tiny weekly salaries, losing their lives each day over Germany, with the whole nation tightening its belt and with merchant seamen enduring incredible hardships after being torpedoed in mid-Atlantic, the opinion of workers in other factories and the public in general would be too adverse.

Five Are Poisoned On Denatured Alcohol

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 12.—Five men died of poisoning yesterday—presumably from denatured alcohol—as police searched for other possible victims of a circumstance they described as a pre-Armistice day drinking party in a vacant lot on the outskirts of the city.

Police Inspector Manuel Morris said approximately a dozen men were drinking in the vacant lot yesterday afternoon and that "so far as we could learn immediately the party was held on denatured alcohol, such as could be purchased almost anywhere."

Police identified the victims, all Fall River men, as John Donnelly, who died at a hospital tonight after suddenly going blind; James B. Swain, 30, who was found dead in the Bigberry point field; Matthew Gibney, 58, whose wife called police when he was stricken ill at home, and John McNally, 30.

Steam Radiator Heat

Steam Radiator Heat provides complete, uniform heat distribution without drafts or overheated air. This helps prevent colds and other ailments due to inadequate, unbalanced heating. The even, penetrating warmth of Clow Gasteam Radiators is the most healthful heat you can get, and by heating the house uniformly, you don't pass from a warm room to a cold one and catch cold.

Clow Gasteam Radiators make their own steam heat with gas. They are installed under windows or near doors where they warm cold air as it enters the room. The heat is then distributed through the lower or "living zone" of the room instead of to the ceiling, as with other forms of heating. For commercial heating, Gasteam Radiators are durable, simple, and require small space. The vented type radiators are recommended for the prevention of excessive moisture on windows.

For industrial or commercial heating, investigate the Clow Unit Heaters.

Tech Beauties Being Chosen

Thirty-two co-eds from among more than 300 nominees were announced by members of a 10-member committee at Texas Technological college Tuesday as having been selected as the first step toward choosing the eight beauties who will be pictured in La Ventura, college yearbook.

Next step will be an election to be held soon in which 16 will be chosen from the 32 and the final step will be narrowing of the list to eight by some authority on beauty.

Co-Eds Are Listed

A. J. Kemp, Editor of La Ventura, announced Tuesday the committee had chosen the following 32 co-eds:

Ollie Sue Armstrong, Odessa; Patricia Lou Baker, Edna Earl Lineberry, Midland; Sara Bourland, Pampa; Elizabeth Bowden, Fabens; Ethel Burns, Houston; Fannie Dale Cheek, Berme Coconougher, Virginia Hall; Jane Prickett, Mary Ann Stephenson and Sylvia Wheelock, all of Lubbock; Rita Dunn, Mobeetie; Dorothy Lou Emmitt, Tulsa; Marjorie Hall, West Hartford, Conn.; Martha Herring, Hillsboro; Frances Hummer, Electric; Juanice Jones, Amarillo; Malvina Kelly, Lamesa; Marilyn Landrum, Joan Lewis, Dallas; Jerry Larrick, Wichita Falls; Louise Lewis, Fort Worth; Faith McNamara, Gladys McNamara, San Antonio; Roberta Owen, Winters; Harriett Price, Marlin; Price, Pampa; Marlin Rendall, Dallas; Jeanne Roco, Houston; Betty Carol Wood, Morton, and Jacquelyn Wilkison, Friona.

Pictures of the nominees will be displayed in the bookstore, beginning today, said Kemp. More than 200 co-eds were nominated by students recently, but only approximately half of that number appeared before the committee.

Members of the committee were Ed and Edward McCarthy, 30, who died at a hospital shortly after seeking treatment.

One Man Killed In Cafe Holdup

(By The United Press)

EL PASO, Nov. 12.—A holdup man attempting to rob a cafe at Las Cruces, N. M., Tuesday shot and killed a patron, and was captured after a running gun battle.

Salvador Gutierrez was slain when he walked in on the holdup. Witnesses said the robber whirled and fired one shot which was instantly fatal.

Officers Take Up Chase

He fled then and citizens poured out of business establishments and officers took up the pursuit.

None was hurt in the flurry of shots before the gunman was run down.

Sheriff Mike Apodoca said the gunman fled in an automobile identified as stolen from an El Paso taxicab driver in another holdup Thursday.

Apodoca said murder charges would be filed against the hijacker today at Las Cruces.

Cubs On Top In Class A

The burning question in West Texas Class A football today is: Who is going to stop those Brownfield Cubs?

There were those who thought that Slaton might do it, but the Cubs effectively disposed of such ideas Tuesday afternoon with a display of power that crushed the Tigers, 28-0.

Next on the Brownfield schedule is Tahoka. The Cubs play the Bulldogs in Tahoka Nov. 20.

Title Test Next

And after that comes the district championship game. It's generally conceded that Brownfield will win the south zone, because even if the Cubs should lose to Tahoka, they'll still be tied for the lead, and it's probable that they would be awarded the title.

Either Littlefield or Slaton will play the Cubs for the 5-A championship, and neither appears to pack the power to stop Coach Aubra Noncaster's outfit.

Winner of 5-A will play the District 6-A champion in the bi-district. Merkel's Badgers are the leading team in that sector, with a record similar to Brownfield's. It now appears that those two

Pass-Minded Southwest Conference Again Awed By Aggies' Smooth Aerial Wizardry

Amarillo Faces Pampa Nov. 20

Plainview To Get Crack At Champs

Amarillo's Golden Sandies ride all alone at the head of the District 1-AA football race today, unbeaten and untied, though often threatened.

The Sandies clipped the Borger Bulldogs at Amarillo Tuesday afternoon, 51 to 13, while Pampa's Harvesters were trimming Plainview, 19-12, at Plainview. Plainview had been tied with Amarillo for the circuit lead.

Nov. 20 West-Highlight

Now the eyes of the circuit's fans turn to games scheduled for Nov. 20, the first Thanksgiving day. Amarillo will roll against Pampa that day, and Lubbock will tackle Plainview.

The Sandies, of course, will be favored to romp over Pampa and Plainview to win the district title. But there's a possibility of upsets which could jumble the District 1 race in the same manner that other district title chases were jumbled by Tuesday upsets.

Sandies 22nd Straight

The Sandies won their eighth game of the season and their 22nd of a victory string that extends back to 1939 without a bit of trouble. Coach Howard Lynch used practically everybody on his squad, and the scoring was divided among eight players. There were eight touchdowns, scored by seven different backs, and three extra points, with Capt. Burrell Collins kicking one of them.

Borger had a passing attack and nothing else. The passes didn't go against the Sandie regulars, but worked well enough against the reserves to account for 233 yards and two touchdowns.

Pampa Wins Class One

Pampa, known 12-6 after a thrilling first quarter, rallied to push over the tying touchdown in the second period and won the game in the fourth when John Chesser, 222-pound tackle, intercepted a flat zone pass and ran it 60 yards for a touchdown.

Pampa had scored in the first period when Boyles went over from the five after a Plainview fumble on the 24.

Plainview deadlocked the game when Wick Mason, one-third of the Bronco family representation on the Plainview football team, scampered 52 yards for a counter. It was Wick Mason again a few minutes later, carrying the ball over to climax a 42-yard drive that put Plainview ahead, 12-6.

A 48-yard drive that ended on a second down before the halftime gun gave Pampa the tying score, and Chesser's run counted the winner.

While other teams of the district rest from their Armistice activities, the Lubbock Westerners go into action Friday against the Austin High team of El Paso, which played Amarillo a 20-19 game earlier this season.

Teams will meet in the bi-district round.

Petersburg "B" Champ

In the only other Class A game played in this area Armistice day, Paducah defeated Spur, 14 to 6.

Petersburg took the District 4-B championship with a 13-6 victory over Friendship at Wolforth, gained by scoring two touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

The Buffaloes will play the District 3-B victor in the bi-district. Amherst seems sure to win the 3-B title, though the Bulldogs have one more conference game to play.

Identifying A Billiken!

By Collier Paris

AN ESSAY ON "How Football Teams Got Their Nicknames" would be about as intriguing generally speaking, as a treatise on the evolution of the knitting needle.

A few specific paragraphs in such an essay, however, might hold the reader's attention, especially if the reader had a full stomach and was too lazy to turn the page. Such a situation might arise in the case of the chapter entitled: "What is a Billiken?"

Mrs. Dell Morgan, for instance, would like to know whatheck is a "billiken" and why are the St. Louis university teams called Billikens?

To settle any lingering doubt the name is not a derivation of "billy goat", nor has it anything to do with four-footed creatures. A billiken, like Yehudi, is the emblem of a non-existent never was that lives no where.

Things are not always as they should be with the St. Louis university teams, but the nickname the "right ball" of more recent times which represented "the god of Things as They Should Be." The strange looking little creature, reproduced in a simple sketch herewith, was the rage of the nation for a spell.

John Bender, the coach at St. Louis university at the time, was known as "Moon-face" to his close friends because of his roundish face, perennial grin and squinty eyes. A St. Louis Post-Dispatch reporter named Bill O'Connor and his chum, Cartoonist Charley McNamara, attended a workout one afternoon and the St. Louis eleven went through its paces with such zest and finesse that Coach Bender was all smiles. Things as far as St. Louis football was concerned, were as They Should Be, and Bender's broad grin and squinting eyes so impressed O'Connor that finally he exclaimed: "Why that guy's a regular Billiken!"

McNamara quickly took the cue and drew a cartoon of Bender in the form of a billiken, with the result that members of the football team soon became known as Bender's Billikens. The name was taken up by the sporting public with such enthusiasm that it soon became the official nickname of all St. Louis university teams.

The Billikens, incidentally, come to Lubbock for a game with Texas Tech on Saturday afternoon. If things are as they should be, Tech will earn the right to wear Billiken emblems, but large ones.

THAT WAS A RIGHT interesting game the Pampas and the Plainviews put on up at Plainview yesterday afternoon, a game between two well-matched teams.

The victory might very easily have gone to the Plainview Bulldogs, who certainly have the better backfield performers of the two teams. Pampa's heavy line made a mediocre backfield look pretty good. Plainview's tackling was not the best we have seen, and the team seemed a little slow. Both teams showed better offensive than defensive strength.

Either Plainview or Pampa is capable of scoring against Amarillo's Sandies. It is not hard to suppose that Plainview and Pampa have better backfields and more offensive punch than Amarillo.

We have not seen Amarillo perform, but, to relate, we can not see either Plainview or Pampa upsetting the Sandies. We had hoped for such an upset in either or both cases, in order that the Westerners might get back in the district race where they rightfully belong, because the Westerners can play rings around either Pampa or Plainview, and have demonstrated that in one instance. Conditions being different from those of October 25, the Westerners could play at least one ring around the Sandies.

The Mason boys, Mick, Wick and little Johnny, along with Dawson Malone, give Plainview one of the better backfields of the state right now, and if they had an adequate line in front of them, they would be tough competition for anybody. They may surprise somebody yet, including Lubbock. Put Plainview's backfield behind Pampa's line and inject a little "oomph" and get-up into the latter, and you'd have quite a football team.

MEADOW SEEKS GAMES

MEADOW, Nov. 12 (Special)—The Meadow high school football team is seeking to schedule games for Nov. 14 and Nov. 21 to round out its season's schedule. Coach L. A. Stephenson has announced. Any team desiring a game with the Bronchos is requested to phone either Stephenson or Supt. Charles L. Padgett.

Cadets Facing Rice Saturday

Texas Meets TCU; Porkers Play SMU

BY TOM W. MILLER
United Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Nov. 12—The forward pass, football's equalizer, it gives and it takes away.

Ask Texas and Texas A. and M. One true throw and catch by a desperate opponent in the dying seconds can put an indelible blot on a record it took weeks of work to compile.

Ask Texas.

Moser Leading Aggies

Its skillful application to problems of offense, on the other hand, can subdue opponent after opponent, keep a team unbeaten and untied, make it a football power in the land.

Ask the Texas Aggies.

Quotable authorities on the pass, these two teams are leaders in the Southwest, where the possibilities of passing probably have received a more thorough exploration than in any other section.

With clear eyes, calculating Derrace Moser doing most of the tossing, the Texas Aggies have used deadly passing attack to slap down seven straight opponents this year and reach the heights as one of the nation's four undefeated and untied major teams.

Home Of Aerial Wizardry

With a great running attack, a good passing game, a fine line and a wealth of reserves, Texas swept past six opponents, not once falling below a score of 34 points. Then the Longhorns met Baylor and were outplayed, running, passing, blocking and tackling. But it was an 18-yard fourth down pass, straight to a receiver kneeling in the end zone, that gave Baylor a tie and cut short Texas' hopes of a perfect season.

This is the Southwest where 72 passes have been thrown in one game, where some of the brightest stars have been great passers—Sammy Barge, Davey O'Brien and others. Still it is with open-mouthed awe that the Southwest today watches the aerial attack of the Aggies and Derrace Moser.

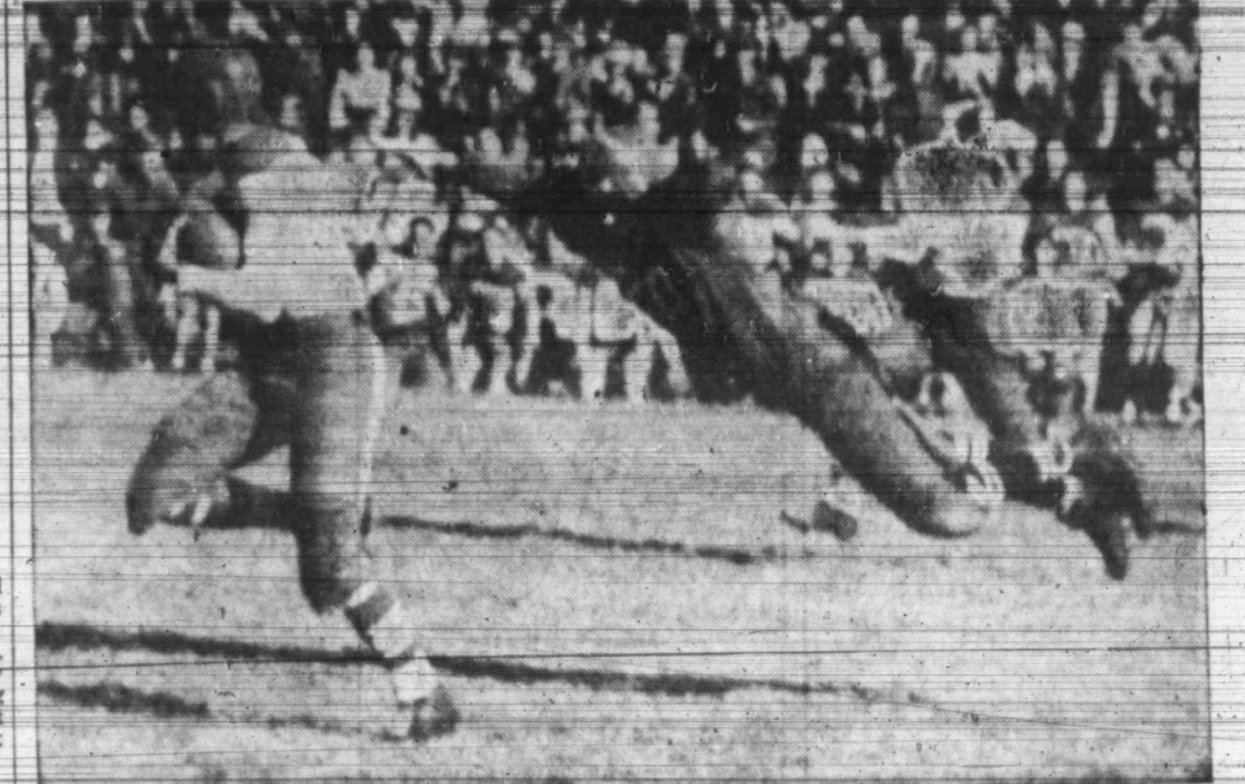

Three of every five yards the Aggies have gained have been with passes, 1,235 yards in all. Moser has pitched 53 completions for 771 yards.

And M. plays Rice at Houston this week, and Moser and his favorite receiver, Bill Henderson, a 6-foot, 4-inch end, will once more be pitching and catching them for the big Maroon team that has lost just one game in its last 28.

With Texas, the one major weakness seems to be its defense against passes. The Orange wave has yielded just five touchdowns, but in each of them passes turned the trick, directly or indirectly.

Texas plays at home this week, meeting Texas Christian, another team that likes to pass. Sophomore Emory Nix, who pitched for 335 yards against Baylor, will be tossing them against Texas. The Longhorns are expected to bounce back after the Baylor tie, but they will have to watch those aerials.

Arkansas entertains Southern Methodist at Fayetteville in the third conference game, and Baylor goes to Tulsa for an inter-sectional scrap.

Two Games In Spotlight

Tech, Lubbock Elevens Busy

The regularly scheduled high school football season in Lubbock comes to an abrupt end late Friday afternoon.

The Lubbock Westerners will meet the Austin High Panthers from El Paso at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon in the final home game of the season for the Lubbock eleven.

It's a non-conference game that holds promise of developing into an interesting offensive battle.

The Panthers almost ended Amarillo's victory streak a few weeks ago, going down by a 20-19 count after driving the Sandies almost pass-crazy.

The Westerners have developed fast, offensively speaking, during their last two games. Friday's game could be a touchdown battle royal.

That's not the only game on the local gridiron card this week end. For the second time this season, the Texas Tech Red Raiders and the Westerners play at home—the same week the Raiders will meet St. Louis here Saturday afternoon.

The St. Louis Billikens, third member of the Missouri Valley conference on the Tech schedule, is expected to put up a fight along the order of Creighton university's fine battle here last Saturday.

Odessa's bigger band of Bronchos, bigger in size and number, whipped Sweetwater 26 to 21. The Bronchos had been given a fair-to-good chance, but it was

League Race Again In A Jumble—Sweetwater, Lufkin Crash In Startling Schoolboy Upsets

The boys who play football for Sweetwater and Lufkin High schools today know how their older contemporaries who play football for the University of Texas felt last Saturday night.

They too knew the despair of an unexpected setback.

Gone were championship aspirations, smashed were records laboriously compiled.

"Iron Men" Stop Lufkin

Left were the brown-taste of defeat and mocking press "slippings" detailing their early-season greatness—their success on the gridiron up to Armistice day, when two underdog teams rose and knocked them spinning.

The day of peace was a bloody one for Lufkin's Panthers and Sweetwater's Mustangs.

Thirteen "iron men" from Nacogdoches—really 13 boys under 18 years old—whipped Lufkin 7 to 6 in a game they supposedly had no chance to win. But they gave Baylor 24 points against Texas. Remember?

Title Hopes Fade

Odessa's bigger band of Bronchos, bigger in size and number, whipped Sweetwater 26 to 21. The Bronchos had been given a fair-to-good chance, but it was a stunning upset nevertheless. Lufkin, with the fastest scoring backfield in the state, had been tied before, but not beaten. But with Sweetwater—no team had even come close before.

These two teams, looked upon as champions-to-be in Districts 3

That Girl on Broadway says it begins to look now like the only earth the meek will ever inherit is that thrown over them with a spade!

A ray of hope! An astronomer says the moon may soon fall to the earth. If it does, we hope it will hit in such a way as to split the Eastern and Western Hemispheres!

FOR the past day or so, The Plainsman has been living pretty much in the past—looking back across the nearly 18 years during which he has lived in Lubbock.

And as he has looked back, remembering the sweet with the bitter, the fun with the sadness, the successes with the failures, the good times with the bad, he finds his mind being inexorably drawn back to a fresh new mound in Lubbock cemetery.

First of the triumvirate to go away was Mrs. Florence Posey. Next was Mrs. Henry T. Kimbro.

Then early Tuesday the last of the three went away, after a gallant fight against overpowering odds. She was Mrs. W. B. Powell. The Plainsman lived with Mr. and Mrs. Powell at their residence at 1202 Avenue N. Upon occasions innumerable he was recipient of their generosity, their overwhelming kindness, their ever-present encouragement when he needed it most in those early days. And whatever his faults—albeit they are numerous—of ungratefulness to Mabel and "Kid" Powell, and of other old friends, is not one of them.

It is because we remember those numberless favors, and demonstrations of friendship and affection, from Mabel and "Kid"—when they freely gave so much and we so shabbily—returned that the Plainsman's thoughts have been pulling, pulling—pulling back to the days of yesteryear and that newly made mound in Lubbock cemetery.

You see, we've lost another friend out there.

THE eyes of the world have recently been riveted upon the happenings of the Crimea and the North Atlantic. Therefore, little thought is given to another theater of war—in blistering Africa, where opposing forces are writing a grim history of human combat.

One of the chillingly dramatic sagas of World War II remains to be chronicled after the siege of Tobruk has terminated either in defeat or victory for the British garrison in that community of 25,000 souls. Tobruk is a British-held stronghold in an Axis sea of Libya—sand, threatened by Italy, which previously held the city, and by fresh German divisions which seemingly appeared out of nowhere. Tobruk's strategic importance is so great that it may be the prize in a continuing tug-of-war until the sanguinary war is brought to a close.

The town is absolutely dependent upon outside food supplies, because the surrounding territory yields little or nothing edible. British destroyers from Alexandria have undertaken to keep the commissary going. They sail under cover of darkness for the besieged port, slip into harbors at night, quickly drop their precious shipments on docks, and dash back to their Egyptian base.

All this is no answer to the Germans. Swift Nazi scout planes, accompanied by a few bombers, make nightly reconnaissance flights over the harbor, playing a lethal hide-and-go-seek game with the British destroyers. To date, in these moonlit battles, Nazi aircraft have sunk at least three of the mercy ships—the Water Hen, the Defender, and one other unidentified "tin can." The Defender was not struck directly by a bomb, but was ripped almost in two by a near miss, which in heavy parachute bombs, which in missile struck so close that the explosive impact was sufficient to send the vessel to Davy Jones' locker. The popular impression that a bomb which misses a vessel is wasted has proven fallacious in this war. "Near misses" often are more costly than direct hits.

A person who is interested in you is invariably interesting to you.

For The Love Of Pam

BY VIVIAN GREY (Copyright, 1941, For The Journal)

CHAPTER 20 MAY FRISBEE Alone in his own room, Jerry wondered vaguely just how much difference this development would make with Pam and himself. Not that he doubted Pam. Money would make no difference to her. If she cared for him with money, she would care for him without it.

But he was concerned about his own share of the thing. He would have nothing to offer her now. He had wasted his years pretty generally. He had made no start in business at all, due to the fact that he had always supposed his father's money would be enough to keep him.

And there were other things. His thought lingered darkly on that May Frisbee. May had been one of the gay companions of his lighter and more careless hours. And May had refused to forget. With his allowance cut off he would be unable to appease May with expensive gifts. He wondered vaguely just what her reactions would be. Probably not pleasant.

May, whom he had met at a Greenway Village cocktail party, had fastened to him with eager good nature after their first meeting. Jerry wasn't in love with anyone, so he hadn't minded. May was quite lovely to look at. She was a dancer, she explained, because the show was closing. And she had found that Jerry was the son of the very rich Winthropes. Jerry hadn't minded. She had been an amusing and agreeable companion. That would have to stop now, and Jerry was glad.

He'd write May, he reflected, and tell her what had happened. May was a good sport and she would understand. They had added the nation's having to go to war, added cost of government and the mounting tax burden have done nothing else, it has sobered us all up at least a little bit.

Perhaps you hadn't realized it, but the fact remains that for the first time in many years his name was Jerry. It was a screwy form of dance craze.

The jitterbugs have just about jittered themselves—and every one else out—the rumba is still linked too closely with private lessons and a dress suit; and the new dance craze is quickly recognized as a has-been.

In some quarters, the fact that we have no current dance craze may be considered as nothing short of a national calamity. But when one recalls the frenzied days of Charleston, the Black Bottom and the Big Apple, the present outlook is something less than gloomy. Even if it is only a breathing spell we're getting now, it is to say the least—enjoyable!

Of course, almost any day the younger generation may be expected to break into a new variation of a nervous breakdown, intended to jeopardize the physical safety of all those within striking distance.

But even so, in times like these the older people—who usually try to follow the youngsters—cannot be expected to lend their ancient bones to carrying a new dance craze to the point of fanaticism. They've got priorities, the servant question—not to mention the necessity of buying such prosaic things as meat and potatoes on a rising market—to keep their minds off of the human desire to look and act silly.

It looks like now there'll be no popularity of ballroom gyrations reminiscent of St. Vitus' dance until "after the duration."

Which proves that not everything is all bad—even national and world emergencies!

RESIDENTS of the 19th Texas Congressional district will be glad to know that their representative in the lower house in Washington—has become one of those in the capital's charmed circle whose words command attention of the thoughtful in high places.

A recent edition of the Saturday Evening Post, which is about a dozen times harder to break into than Alcatraz is to break out of, quotes at some length a recent speech in the House of Representatives by George H. Mahon, of Colorado City and Lubbock. Furthermore, our Mr. Mahon's remarks landed, of all places, right slap, bang on the Post's editorial page—an area always stonily reserved for the favored few.

Hold Everything!

It's me birthday, lady—would you deem it bold of me to ask for a piece of cake?

GET YOUR RED CROSS 'BADGE OF HONOR' An appeal in behalf of the annual Red Cross roll call now in progress should not be necessary at a time like this.

We don't think it is necessary. We believe that it will be sufficient to call the membership drive to the attention of the American people to insure that its objective will be reached and surpassed.

All of us know of the Red Cross. We know that it does an indispensable work—a work that probably would not be done if the Red Cross was not here to do it. We know that, probably in all history, there never has been such need for an organization like the Red Cross as that which exists right now.

So, if you haven't joined, do so at once. Look the campaign workers up if they don't look you up. The little button with the Red Cross upon it is a badge of honor and a badge of patriotism at this time.

Fifty-second Street in New York, that rendezvous of night clubs, of the exploits of his children, that was not the sort of thing he wanted them to be known by. Winthropes had always had their gay young moments, but in the main they had stood for the finer, more enduring things of life. Bart liked that as a memory. He wanted it to continue, so future Winthropes would have the happiness of such a memory.

He woke to the sound of Lenore's voice rising in a sort of melodic anger. He lay motionless, listening for a space. Lenore was taking it badly. He had never heard her voice so edgy, never known her to be quite so ruthlessly unkind.

"And I suppose you think this is going to help me," she was telling her mother. "A nice flop I'll be. You know I've asked the girls to be my maids, and everybody's expecting a big wedding. Gervase isn't an ordinary man! He expects things when he marries!"

"My dear child, it isn't our fault. Your father couldn't help this. It's our part to be kind about it. Mrs. Winthrop spoke up, repeatedly, wearily, as if she had been repeating it over and over to herself.

"Kind!" Lenore snapped. "Well, it isn't very kind to me." Bart Winthrop, in the next room, felt himself drawn out of bed and into his dressing gown by the very force and bitterness of Lenore's voice.

"After this, Lenore was saying, 'I don't care what happens! I'll be the end of everything for me!'" "But Lenore, it needn't be," protested her mother. "You still have Gervase. You're engaged to him. We'll manage a wedding for you somehow. There are my jewels—we can sell part of them, and the rest can buy you dowry. There are lots of poor girls who get happiness out of life. You're young."

"Oh, stop! Stop!" Lenore cried impatiently. "I can't stand any more of that sort of stuff. Love in a cottage never appealed to me." Jerry, standing in the hallway, turned away. He didn't want to hear more. He was sorry for Adele, offering to give everything to Lenore. That's the way she'd be of course. And he was sorry for his father. He and Lenore were pretty useless to their parents in this crisis, and that wasn't the way things should be. But it was too late to do anything much about it. As he walked away, he heard his father enter the room; heard his father's voice saying: "Oh, no, you won't, Adele. You won't sell a jewel or give so much to a chip diamond to a daughter who talks to you as Lenore has been talking."

He turned to his daughter. "I don't know what to say to you, Lenore. There's no excuse for your attitude. It's beyond me. I needn't tell you how surprised I am."

Lenore looked at her father for a moment, then turned and fled. "But I love her" Edmund Antoine, early about doing some errands on Duval Street, met Vin Barolli, who thought you were coming around to see me," Antoine said. Vin looked at him doubtfully. (Continued on Comic Page)

RED CROSS ANNUAL ROLL CALL NOVEMBER 11 TO 30

Office Of Fun And Frolic Might Be Nation's Need Everything Has Been Much Too Serious

BY PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—May be what this country needs to get everybody hipped on the war is, instead of an Office of Facts and Figures which the President set up a couple of weeks ago, an Office of Fun and Frolic.

So far, all has been too serious, too serious. Aside from a few good cracks by Sen. McNamara or Connally and a really good speech by Senator Vandenberg, the debate on revision of the neutrality act has been so dull and heavy that if any of the orators were accidentally dropped on the foot of the Achilles tendon to the great

If a Ministry of Fun and frolic were to be set up, this department, with tongue wadded in cheek, would like to suggest that the "Mein Kampf" for propagandizing the faith of frolicsome should be the prophecies of Nostradamus. Maybe you're already up on this cult, but it was only last Sunday that the Washington, D. C., supporters of the Free French hired themselves a hall and held a benefit meeting during the course of which a certain Nostradamus, way back about 1550, prophesied the rise and fall of the League of Nations, the coming of Hitler and Mussolini, the building and capture of the Maginot line, the emergence of Petain, the part a second A.E.F. would play—and no kidding—the rise of the du Pont family as makers of munitions that would save the world.

MEETING FOR MITTENS THE meeting must have been a success for the benefit raised $113,500 to buy wool to be knitted into things that could be sent to the Free French soldiers in Africa. What particularly interested the Free French supporters in Washington, however, was the revelation that Nostradamus had also predicted the coming of General Charles de Gaulle.

Against a background of potted palms and oak leaves dipped in henna dye, the speaker stood at a rostrum over which fell the tricolor in graceful folds with the Stars and Stripes on the left and the Union Jack on the right. He told how Nostradamus said it was all going to end. To let you on the secret without further ado, the end isn't going to come till June, 1941, but when you consider that a doctor of medicine could predict things 400 years ago, you have to admit he was pretty good. The country needs more men like this in government.

Nostradamus wrote his stuff in quatrains. He was a mystic sage, as well as a doctor. His real Gram Swing's cartoon chronicle ("Broken Turtles") in the newspapers. . . . The Love Of Pam

"There probably wouldn't be any use in coming now. You wouldn't want to help me now, wouldn't want me around," he said.

"What do you mean?"

"Well," Vin hesitated, "I'm out now. Lenore and I are washed up. I'm tired. We had a quarrel last night."

Antoine laughed. "Of course!" he said. "I expected that. Every one quarrels with Lenore. But don't worry about her. She won't always be warbling the same snooty tune. Anyhow, my good man, I'm doing this for a swell musician; not for the friend of a friend. There's nothing like that about it."

Vin looked at Antoine doubtfully, but said nothing.

"But when did you quarrel with the high and mighty Lenore? You did a beautiful twosome at the yacht party. Everything looked like sunshine and roses to me then," Antoine said.

"It was after that. That day Bellefort took her home and then she slipped back to South Beach to meet me. We'd made a date. She gave me the works. It seems de Bellefort got sore because she made what he called an exhibition of herself with me, and Lenore told him in plain English that I should have kept away from the yacht. In other words, away from her when she's with her gilded crowd." Vin's eyes were sullen. "Well, I don't want her that way! I don't want any girl that way!"

"Check, maestro! And speaking of exhibitions, that was a pretty swell one, if anyone happens to be asking me. You gave that girl something she certainly never could have got for herself—class and temperament and style. Without which an entertainer is just so much debris on the landscape. You really have done something for her, because I happen to know Lenore has been eating her heart out to get up in the spotlight and show her pretty little self off."

"She can keep on eating her heart out, for all I care!"

"Listen, lad," Antoine began, "women and a musical career don't mix. Keep them separate."

"I suppose I have been a fool to take her so seriously."

"Of course. Lenore's a spoiled brat."

"Sure, she's a spoiled brat," Vin said with feeling.

Then he added: "But I love her. What does a fellow do about a thing like that?"

Motor Buses and Military Highways

In a country as large as the United States, broad, smooth highways are of primary importance in national defense. And highways are built by taxes, of which the motor bus lines pay their full share.

In fact, every year, the motor bus lines pay out enough in taxes to build a modern, streamlined highway from the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico.

Thus, entirely aside from service to the public, America's motor buses more than pay their way in taxes alone. Joseph B. Eastman, Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, says that thousands of buses pay more than double their share of the cost and maintenance of the highways they use.

Axis Dreams Of Conquest In India Given Impetus

Gandhi Favors Allied Victory

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Journal War Analyst

The Hitlerian threat to India, long the coveted dream-land of German expansionists (not to mention Japanese), comes to the fore again through the official announcement at New Delhi that Subhas Chandra Bose, Indian leftist political leader, "has gone over to the enemy" and is believed to be in Berlin or Rome, pledged to assist by fifth column methods any German invasion of India.

This creates a situation which must cause Britain uneasiness, especially since India has become one of the world's chief arsenals. However, there is no suggestion that the government won't be able to handle any difficulties which may arise.

Bose—a fiercely burning brand—has been head of the left wing of the all-India congress, Mohandas Gandhi's organization which represents untold millions of followers of the ascetic little Mahatma. Since the war, however, Bose and Gandhi developed a fierce controversy over policy.

Both the Mahatma and Bose are out for "puras-swaraj"—absolute independence—from England. But Gandhi, though after his own fashion he can be as tough as they make 'em, has his own code of fair play and under this he refused to take advantage of Britain's extremity. Bose, on the other hand, took the attitude that England's extremity was India's opportunity, and wanted to exact independence while the going seemed good.

Then there is the Fakir of Alingar—Robin Hood of the northwest frontier. For a generation he has been leading his followers against the British outposts, and some nasty shows these barbarians put on, too. I saw some of it myself during the last war, when I rode with 4,000 British cavalry and foot soldiers while they rounded up over 600 savage Mohammedans near the Khyber pass.

These two factors are but two of many leaders operating throughout the vastness of India.

Actually, any fifth column drive is likely to encounter tough sledding. Oddly enough, Gandhi may be the one who will give the government its best protection, for thus far he has been able to hold his people in line in any emergency. Also Mahendra Nath Roy, former international revolutionist, has decided that smashing Fascism is the most important task of the moment and is leading his large labor following in support of the government.

and 12, faded from the title picture—unless equally starting upsets erase their conquerors.

Odesa has only weak Midland left. Narcoedoches and Henderson are tied for the top in the East Texas district, neither defeated in conference play.

Sandies Rolling On

The two toppled giants had company in their misery. Gainesville, another team tied but not heretofore beaten, was downed, and decisively, by Denison 13 to 0 in District 5. But with Gainesville it may have been just as well. The team has to face all-victorious Paris soon and few had given Gainesville much chance against Buryl Baly and company.

The upsets left just eight teams with perfect records—Amarillo, Dallas Sunset, Paris, Goose Creek, Temple, Waco, Conroe and Masonic Home. Corpus Christi has not been beaten, but was tied in the mud by Lufkin.

Amerillo's Sandies, only other undefeated team in action yesterday, made it 22 straight victories, trouncing Borger 51 to 13.

Buddy Baer Is Set For Louis

(By The Associated Press)
SACRAMENTO, Calif., Nov. 12—Ham-fisted Buddy Baer, the biggest prize fighter in the market today, thinks he's hit on a sure-fire way to separate Joe Louis from his title when they meet again in New York, Jan. 2.

(The date for the fight was announced by Baer's manager, Ancil Hoffman, but has had no official confirmation from Promoter Mike Jacobs at New York.)

Has Refought Fight

Baer says it won't be with a comic punch like Lou Nova flopped or any other freak stuff either, merely a flock of old-fashioned jaw busters. The technique lies in applying them correctly.

"Louis beat me once but I learned a lesson and when we meet this time I think I'll win the championship," Baer said. The 6 foot 8 inch giant was deadly serious.

"I've refought that fight with Louis many times in my mind and decided the way to beat him, so far as my case is concerned, is to punch with him. Every time he throws one, I'm going to let fly with one of my own. Those six rounds in the ring with him convinced me that's the way to do it."

Without boastfulness, Baer continued: "I can punch just as hard as Louis. I know it. Not many know that Louis became nervous in our last fight. It was when I cut his eye. I could sense his feelings. It surprised me because I never expected him to be affected that way."

Meadowbrook Women Country Club Guests

Play, in twosomes and threesomes, is to begin at 10 o'clock, and prizes will be awarded on the basis of best scores on three "blind" holes on the front nine. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock at the clubhouse, with Mrs. Al Finnell as hostess.

Pairings for match play, as announced last night, are as follows, with Meadowbrook women named first:

Bihl vs. Akey; Toler vs. C. L. Dean; Kinard vs. Widener; Hill vs. Freeman and Geiger; Ohnesmus vs. Eisenberg; Davis vs. C. E. Dean; Webb vs. Crawford and Duggan; Waite vs. Murray and Wall.

Tornadoes Romp Over Midland Nov. 12

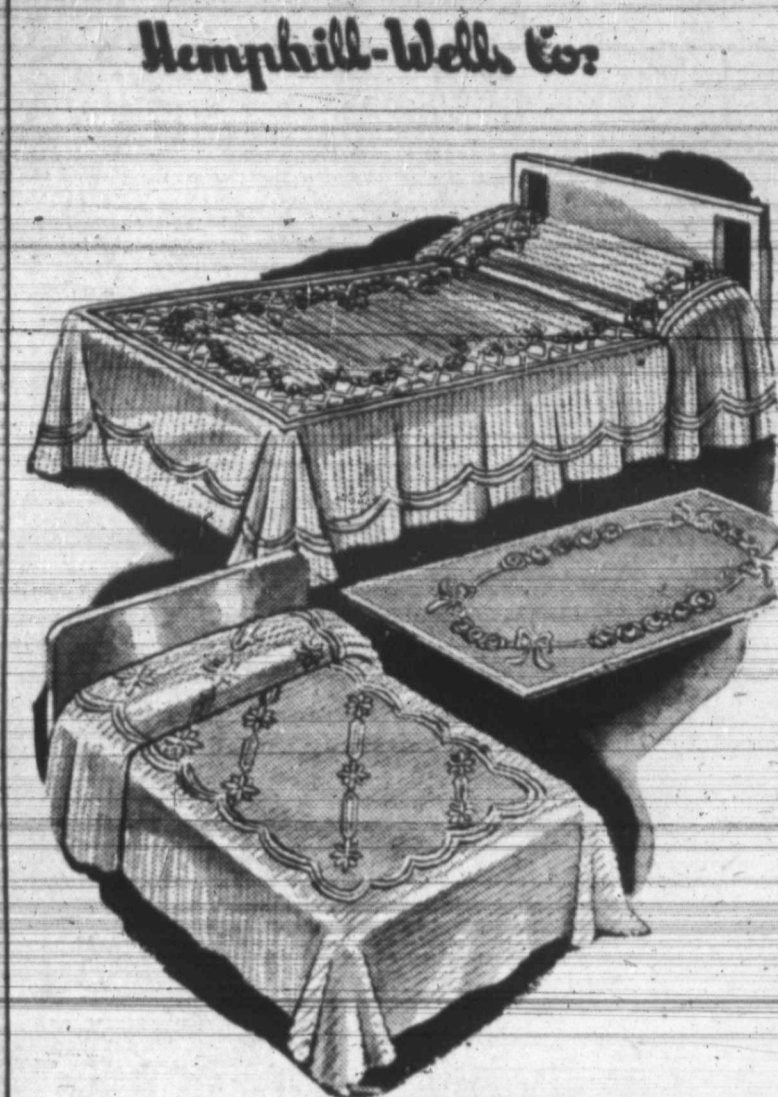

MIDLAND, Nov. 12 (Special)—The Lamesa Tornadoes and their star backfielder, Gus White, hit the victory trail here Tuesday afternoon by rallying to cap an 18-7 triumph over Midland.

White ran 89 yards for touchdowns on an end sweep in first quarter after a Midland punt went out of bounds on the 11. Midland retaliated in the second with a touchdown pass, Bill Richards to Charlie Kelly. Robert Wheeler, Midland fullback, place-kicked the extra point to give the Bulldogs a 7-6 lead.

Taylor, Tornado fullback, intercepted a pass on the Midland 45-yard line in the third and ran for a touchdown. The South Plains crew tallied again in the fourth on a 59-yard drive with White carrying the mail. He bruised over from the one-yard line for the counter.

Lamesa led in first downs, 11-9, in yards rushing, 264-125.

RUPTURED?
THE DOBBS IS DIFFERENT. IT'S Bulbless — Beltless — Strapless

No matter what Truss you wear, you owe it to yourself to see the "WONDER" DOBBS.

- It does not strait the ruptured.
- It holds with a concave pad—like your hand.
- It is guaranteed to hold any rupture.
- It gives nature a chance to heal itself.
- It only touches the body in two places.
- It can be put on in five seconds.
- It can wear white bathin.
- It can be washed with soap and water.
