Endless Possiblities

I love small towns. It's in small towns where the individual stands out.

Small towns nurture their own. I've yet to see or hear of a homeless person in any small town I'm affiliated with where attempts to help were not made. Simply put, the vast majority of rural Americans Business owners in small towns tend to be compassionate as well. They support schools, civic groups, athletic teams, etc... Believe me when I say small business owners take care of their own.

Over the past year, Blackburn Media Group has invested heavily in several small towns and counties including, Collingsworth, Cottle, Hall, Harmon, Okla., Childress, Knox, Garza and Floyd Counties.

Despite encountering a recession, a setback on oil, gas and wind exploration and a number of other sour economic factors, BMG has been shaped (sometimes kicking and screaming) into a conduit for small businesses to broaden their appeal - more specifically their market share.

Whether you sell used cars or candles, gifts or tractors - BMG can help provide a way to get your name in front of thousands of additional customers at very affordable prices.

For example: let's say you have a candle shop in Wellington featuring homemade candles and you've tapped your market. Did you know BMG can place you in seven newspapers and seven Web sites in an affordable package deal? You can have your business' name and what you sell for a fraction of the cost of having to call each paper. We can package your business in a number of ways using as many newspapers as you want.

In addition, we are able to make inserts. We can create a single page, glossy insert for a business and have it in front of over 20,000 readers for a fraction of what it would cost you to go through an agency for the same service. And not only can we create that item, but pretty much whatever you want, from

In an effort to help our other customers who may need to sell that antique or used "classic" car, we are in the process of changing the way we do our classifieds. Our thinking is that with one flat rate, a customer's classified ad will run in all BMG newspapers and on all of the Web sites.

We're just scratching the surface on how BMG can help you and/or your business. In coming issues, you will see house ads which demonstrate exactly what we offer and how we can best serve your business and grow your customer base.

If you are interested in what BMG can do for your business contact us at 1-888-400-1083 or email us at info@blackburnmediagroup.com.

CHANGE is a Bowl of Cherries... with a pitter

By Rob Kall

Pardon me if I stretch this metaphor too far.

to accept the fact that I had to deal with the cherry pits. Then I got a pitter. I can pit a dozen cherries in two minutes and add them to all kinds of out the "pits."

The cherry pitter is a very tee heads, are not helping to tesy OpEdNews.com simple but also wonderfully handy device that takes a fruit that forces you to bite, chew, then spit out one pit at a time and turns it into a fruit that you can add to all kinds of foods, with no fear of biting into a pit. Imagine if the Democrats were the same-- if we could trust them.

Then, I heard on one of the Sunday talk shows or was reminded of the phrase "life is just a bowl of cherries." In this case, they were saying it

So I took the cherries I bought last night, put 'em in a bowl and as an afterthought, since the cherry pitter has changed my relationship with cherries, threw the pitter into the image.

Then, I started playing with some of the one and two dollar and free iPhone photo image processing apps I've picked up recently. There's the one that creates the images that look like the Obama

I put the cherries with the pitter with the word hope. Nah. Then, I put it with the word CHANGE and it hit me. The pitter pulls the pits out of cherries. That makes it easy for me to add them to cereal, oatmeal, yogurt, pastries, ice cream, kugel (get it at Wegmans or a Jewish Deli,) etc. You have to try hot oatmeal with 15-20 cold pitted cherries. Same with yogurt with a dozen cherries-- forget about the eeny weeny bit of fruit soaked with sugar they put on

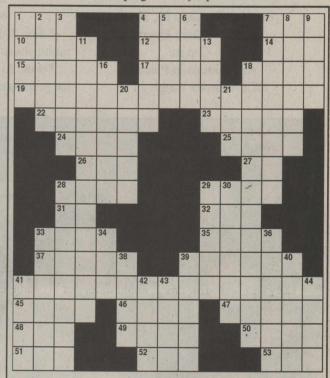

We need a "pitter" for the congress to get rid of the blue dogs and the sell outs to the banksters and insurers. Jane Hamsher's been doing extraordinary work on it. Markos Moulitsas has been standing up to the Democrats. This is where the nation needs to go. We need battallions of pitters in every state, way ahead of the primaries, to chop out the DINOs, bluedogs and sellouts-- the Liebermans and Baucuses, Mary Landrieus, Ben Nelsons, Barney Franks and Nancy Pelosis who have betrayed their base or operated in a cowardly, impotent manner or as failed leaders. Whoever says Harry Reid did a brilliant job is a whitewasher. If the health reform legislation comes out of conference with serious improvements, then I'll change my tune on Reid and Pelosi. So far, they fit the profile as backstabbers of the middle

the hole in the pitter. You have will speed up the process. to dislodge them, tear the improvements very fast, they will be simply decimated. They'll be replaced by disgusted voters who, justifiably,

Some cherries have pits destroy the American middle so big they won't go through class, but the right wingers

Another weekend of watching great football. The Dallas Cowboys and Tech's Red Raiders games were so exciting. I loved both of them 'cause they both won their games.

I can't believe it is already year 2010. With Christmas and New Year coming on Thursday and Friday I have got my days all mixed up. Maybe this week will be better.

Lucy Dean called me this afternoon and said Turkey's "Henry Baker's Western Swing" that she plays with has been cancelled for the month of January. They will resume playing on every 2nd Saturday in February.

Guests with Durrel and Faye Fortenberry over this Christmas holidays were his mother Ruth Fortenberry of Hereford and his sons Donnie and wife Carla of Lubbock, Michael and Juany of Littlefield, Bryan and Juanita of Amarillo and John and Melanie of Lubbock, and John's grandsons Michael Shawn and Jordon.

Gladys Bobbitt enjoyed the Christmas holidays being with both her daughters Donna Mitchell and Susan Griggs.

Gay and Gale McPherson celebrated their Christmas on Monday, December 28. Guests were David and Darlee Foster and children Addie and Will and his guest Abigail Miller of Floydada, Steve and Becky and children Matt and Megan, Payce and Elle, J.W and his guest Stephanie Stephenson of Canyon. Also Gale's brother Robert.

While Jackie Spencer was spending Christmas with her daughters Donna and Sharon in Weatherford, Oklahoma she suffered a heart attack and was taken to Oklahoma City where she underwent a four bypass surgery. Wileta Isom said she talked with her on the phone and Jackie said she was still real sore and at that time was still in the hospital in Oklahoma City.

I talked to Pat Frizzell tonight and even though his voice was fairly strong he said he and this feeding tube he now has don't like each other very well.

Jr. Brotherton recuperating at home now after staying in the Lubbock ICU Hospital for a couple of weeks. One time when I put his name in the paper Jr. got mad at me and said a few things to me that hurt my feelings so I told him I would never put his name in V.J's News again, but since he wanted me to I did.

Please keep Pat, Jackie and Jr. and all our other ill friends in your thoughts and

Our sympathy is with Tracy Long and her family on the passing of her father Delbert Wiley December 26 in Dallas. Memorial service was held in Dallas followed with a memorial service in Ballinger where he was buried.

DRS. JOSEPH AND LEZLIE KUEBKER

Nee Lezlie Rene Warren

Warren and Kuebker exchange vows

Lezlie Rene Warren and Joseph Maurice Kuebker were united in marriage at 6:00 p.m. on December 5, 2009 in the sanctuary of the First United Methodist Church of Floydada, Texas. Rance Young, pastor of the First United Methodist Church in Silverton, Texas performed the ceremony.

Martin and Jill Warren of Floydada are the bride's parents; Dr. Craig and Jeanmarie Kuebker are the parents of the groom. The bride's grandparents are William and Faye Bertrand of Floydada, Robert Warren of Tahoka, Texas and Leta Warren of Lubbock, Texas. The groom's grandparents are Dr. William and Joan Kuebker of San Antonio, Texas.

While guests were seated by ushers, the Ellsworth String Quartet performed various selections of classical pieces. The quartet played "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring", and "Cannon in D" for the processional. "Trumpet Voluntary" was played as Lezlie was escorted down the aisle by her father.

She wore an A-line, ivory gown, with detailed, silver crystal beading and Battenberg lace featured at the hem. She also wore a cathedral length veil with a vanishing edge. For "something old" and "something borrowed", she carried her maternal great-grandmother's gold collar pin that she had received when she was 16. Her "something new" was her dress and veil. Her "something blue" was a ribbon which was sewn onto her petticoat, and was embroidered by her mother with the couple's names and wedding date. She carried a bouquet of red roses with accents of purple statice.

The groom wore his official military "mess dress" Air Force uniform with accompanying medals. The groom's father and grandfather were also dressed in military mess dress attire as they are both retired Air Force veterans.

Lindsey Cate, friend of the groom sang "In This Very Room" accompanied on the piano by Dr. Jane Anne Wilson. Later in the ceremony, the couple performed a "Unity Candle Ceremony" while the string quartet played "Oh Holy Night". Scripture readings were recited by Philip McKnight, friend of the groom, and by Shawn Dunn, brother-in-law of the bride.

As part of the recessional, the Sabre Flight Drill Team from the R.O.T.C. detachment at Texas Tech University performed a "sabre arch" as the couple walked under it, down the aisle.

The matron of honour was Rebecca Dunn, sister of the bride from Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. The other bridesmaids were Dr. Allison Boyareddigari of Houston, Texas, friend of the bride, and Jennifer Ramos and Emily Kuebker of San Antonio, Texas, both sisters of the groom.

The bridesmaids wore identical iridescent dark winter blue, taffeta ball gowns and carried bouquets of red and white

The best man was Dr. James Sander of Houston, Texas. Other groomsmen were Jason Linahan of San Antonio, Chad

Lady Horns Second At Littlefield Tournament

The Lockney Lady Horns traveled to the Littlefield Basketball Tournament December 29-31. They played a good three days of basketball, making it to the final game to play district opponent Anton. The Lady Horns came up 6 points shy of the Bulldogs to get the second place trophy. The games and stats are as follows:

The human condition. Novelists distinguish themselves and their work when they address it. But if you really want to know what makes people tick, read the classifieds.

Speaking of novels, I've been listening and listening and listening to Ayn Rand's "Atlas Shrugged" on compact discs -- 42 discs in all. I'm currently on the 37th. Rand has been on her sturdy soapbox from the start, using clearly drawn characters in her novel to get her survival-ofthe-fittest philosophy across definitively. Appearancewise, the main physical trait of the good guys and gals is a lack of flab. In fact, Rand is so firm on that point that I think someone could file a lawsuit charging her with discrimination or stereotyping or something. But as for my flabby self, I've got better things to do - like read the classifieds.

I've been reading all the ads through an Ayn Rand filter. After 40 hours of "Atlas Shrugged," you would be a quote from disc No. 37:

"... life is a value to be bought and ... thinking is the only coin noble enough to

(Forgive me, but the "Thrifty Nickel" logo comes the classifieds wearing my to mind.)

Rand, who is speaking through the voice of one of her heroic non-flabby characters, John Galt, expounds by stating the axiom "Existence exists" and saying the only choice people need to make off my Ayn Rand glasses, I is the choice "to live."

Well, I think I thought that already.

There's more. Reason, purpose and self-esteem are the three values that comprise morality. As for virtues, the Rand-Galt list names seven:

Devin Caballero - 8 Malory Johnson - 18 Syann Foster - 3 Lezlie Jackson - 2 Kortney Williams – 8

Lockney (51) vs. Dalhart (49) - OT Bethany Wilson – 16 Devin Caballero – 2 Malory Johnson – 17

rationality, independence, integrity, honesty, justice, productiveness and pride.

When you boil it all down (I'm saving you some reading), I think what Rand really admired most in people was gumption - "shrewd or spirited initiative and resourcefulness" in dictionary terms. All Rand's characters If you've never read seem to be defined either by Rand, let me clue you in with having it or not. The only two misguided characters who redeem themselves in "Atlas Shrugged" (at least so far) do it by having the gumption to

> Anyway, when I peruse Ayn Rand glasses, I see people Rand would have liked. It takes gumption to place an ad. see capitalism unfettered. Rand is known as a capitalist par excellence of the laissezfaire variety. When I take spot a few characters who probably have gumption but lack honesty and integrity con artists, if you please. Like I said, capitalism unfettered. Either way, the classifieds are the makings of a novel of Randesque proportions a description of the human spirit and essence of existence described by what people buy, sell and trade, meaning everything from artisan breads to wolf-American Pit Bull cross puppies to oil

Speaking of the human condition, it's a great time of year to buy a like-new fitness machine that somebody else bought a year ago to fulfill a New Year's resolution.

In the final analysis, there's no excuse for flab.

USDA Enhances Integrity And Defensibility of Farm Programs

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31, 2009 - Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack today announced that USDA is partnering with the Internal Revenue Service to reduce fraud in farm programs and streamlining payment limits for family farmers. The actions are intended to strengthen the integrity and defensibility of USDA farm safety net programs and help the agricultural industry to meet requirements included in the 2008 Farm Bill.

"Today's announcement will ensure that the producers who depend upon the safety net of USDA programs will have future access to these programs by enhancing the overall integrity of the programs," said Vilsack. "It will also provide more flexibility for family farm operations across the country.'

As part of today's announcement, USDA has finalized a Memorandum of Understanding with the Internal Revenue Service to establish an electronic information exchange process for verifying compliance with the adjusted gross income provisions for programs administered by USDA's FSA and Natural Resources Conservation Service. This agreement will ensure that payments are not issued to producers whose adjusted gross income (AGI) exceeds certain limits. The limits set in the 2008 Farm Bill are $500,000 nonfarm average AGI for commodity and disaster programs; $750,000 farm average AGI for direct payments; and $1 million nonfarm average AGI for conservation programs.

The electronic process that USDA developed with IRS reviews data from tax returns, performs a series of calculations, and compares these values to the AGI limitations from the 2008 Farm Bill FSA and NRCS will receive a record that indicates whether or not the program participant appears to meet the income limits. Written consent will be required from each producer or payment recipient for this process. No actual tax data will be included in the report that IRS sends to USDA. As part of the review and evaluation process, participants whose AGI may exceed the limits will be offered an opportunity to provide third party verification or other information to validate their income.

Keeping winter skin at bay

HOUSTON - Just because the temperatures are dropping doesn't mean you should drop your skin care routine. Dermatologists at Baylor College of Medicine say continuing to wear sun block and moisturizers during the colder months is important for healthy skin year round.

"It's very common to have dry skin during winter due to the colder, drier weather and the use of heaters," said Dr. John Wolf, professor and chair of dermatology at BCM. "Going untreated, dry skin could lead to discomfort or even an itchy, painful rash known as winter itch."

The key to prevention is moisturizing the skin. Wolf recommends starting with a lukewarm shower using a mild soap for sensitive skin. Before completely drying off, apply lotion or hand cream to damp skin.

"This traps moisture onto your skin," Wolf said. "If you are adding lotion or hand cream to dry skin there will be some relief but you aren't hydrating the skin as well as you could be."

Wolf said the type of lotion isn't as important as when you put the moisturizer on. As long as you like the brand and it doesn't irritate your skin then it will work. For dry skin that needs extra help, Wolf suggests using a lotion or cream that contains petroleum jelly.

"For your face, make sure to find a lotion that includes some type of sun block (SPF) protection," Wolf added. "The sun's rays can still be harmful during the winter."

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Neugebauer Urges Democrat Leadership To Air Health Care Negotiations On C-Span

Washington, DC - Congressman Randy Neugebauer issued the following statement in support of a request by C-SPAN that all future health care negotiations be open to the public through media coverage:

"People from the 19th Congressional District and across the country continue to speak out against the Democrat plan to pass a massive government takeover of health care. Instead of listening to the will of the people, a handful of House and Senate Democrats plan to meet behind closed doors to draft their final health care bill. I don't think the American people want the future of their health care being determined by a small group of leaders from just one party without an open conference committee process. Now is not the time to play politics with healthcare. Now is the time for everyone to work together to achieve what matters most: more affordable, more individualized and

promised voters that health care negotiations would be televised live. How many more promises will the President continue to break? Recently, C-SPAN wrote congressional leaders asking that all future health care negotiations be open to the public through media coverage. The people of the 19th Congressional District deserve a seat at the table, and so I strongly support this request by C-SPAN, and urge Speaker Pelosi and the Democrat leadership to do so as well. "Families and small businesses struggle during these difficult economic times, it is important that Congress pass responsible health care reform that lowers costs and provides greater access to affordable care. We need to fix what is broken in our health care system but we must be cautions of proposed government fixes that increase government spending, raise taxes and increase health care costs. We need targeted reform with measurable results that improves patient care-

Cotton Market Weekly

A service provided by Plains Cotton Cooperative Association

On the tail of a rally in China's futures market, cotton futures prices on the Intercontinental Exchange (ICE) rose However, quiet, range-bound activity characterized the market for the rest of the week as traders squared their positions ahead of the New Year's holiday.

According to data released Wednesday, ICE March cotton futures had risen 18.5 percent in the last quarter of 2009 as tight world cotton supplies prompted buying. USDA now projects world cotton production will fall short of consumption by almost 12 percent in the ongoing 2009-10 marketing year, and U.S. producers hope exports will increase.

Additionally, recent market chatter implies that China's 2009-10 cotton crop will come in lower than the 31.5 million bales estimated by USDA. Adding credit to the rumors, China, the world's leading cotton producer, importer, and textile producer, now has doubled its import quota for 2010 to curb the rise of cotton prices there and to help bridge a domestic shortfall.

Some in the industry say the announcement of China's 2010 import quotas rallied ICE futures early in the week and underscored demand expectations as mills sought purchases. However, others believe the increased quota was anticipated, and the market volatility came from traders "squaring positions".

"It's not unusual for cotton prices to see wild swings between Christmas and the end of the year as thin trading volume exaggerates price moves," a trader commented.

Meanwhile, U.S. export figures remain strong. USDA reported net export sales of U.S. cotton reached a marketing year high in the week ended December 24. At 349,600 bales, the figure was 64 percent higher than the previous week and 47 percent more than the four-week average. China, Turkey, Thailand, and Vietnam were the week's top buyers. Net sales of 5,300 bales for delivery in 2010-11 were for South Korea.

Export shipments of 124,900 bales were up 14 percent from the previous week and 15 percent from the four-week average. Primary destinations included China, Turkey, Vietnam, and Taiwan.

Spot cotton sales also were higher as growers in Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas sold 33,369 bales online in the three trading days ended Dec. 30. One week before, just 7,976 bales were traded in five trading days. Prices received by producers ranged from 65.04 to 66.35 cents per pound versus 63.50 to 65.18 cents per pound the previous week.

In other news, virtually all of the 2009-10 U.S. cotton crop now is out of the field, and much-needed moisture has been received in most of the nation's cotton growing regions. The entire Cotton Belt has been showered with precipitation in one form or another in the past two weeks.

Several winter storms have moved across the state of Texas bringing much needed precipitation to South Texas. After severe drought destroyed much of the 2009-10 crop ing winter forage growth and stressing cattle and plant life, according to Texas AgriLife Extension Service personnel.

For the most part, the cold has not been too hard on livestock as long as they've got shelter and hay, but the up-and-down temperatures have been hurting them. Much of the cold has been accompanied by moisture, either as rain or snow. The moisture has generally been good for wheat and small grains already planted, but bad for those producers who were late getting small grains planted, according to reports from AgriLife Extension offices throughout the state.

In other areas, notably South Texas, the wet weather has greatly improved the agricultural situation, stimulating cool-season forage growth and raising soil moisture levels in anticipation of spring planting.

But it's not a blessing in wetter areas, such as Trinity County, southwest of Lufkin, reported Armon Hewitt, AgriLife Extension agent.

"Cold, wet weather in Trinity County is creating an environment in which producers are having to feed hay, which is in very short supply, at an alarming rate," Hewitt said. "Thus far, the winter has been the worst we've had in many years. Hay feeding sites must be changed frequently because of the abundance of rainfall and muddy

The situation in McLennan County is also wet, and similar to that throughout much of the Central AgriLife district, Shane McLellan, AgriLife Extension agent, Waco.

"We've had an up-anddown of cold weather," McLellan said. "We had a few cold spells, then we had several days of warm weather, then back into the cold spells, with non-traditional, non-historic, arctic weather later in the week."

It's not as hard on the cattle as it has been on plant life, he said. McLennan County and the Waco area are in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's plant hardiness zone 8a. Plant hardiness zones are geographical regions defined by climate ranges.

"We can historically expect an average annual minimum temperature of between 10 and 15 degrees Fahrenheit," McLellan said.

COLLEGE STATION -- A "Duration of cold, especially big chill came to Texas, stall-temperatures below freezing, can allow plant tissues to be more deeply penetrated by low temperatures. This can harm what I will refer to as plants marginal to our area such as oleander, some palms and even perennials such as lantana."

McLellan said the extent of the damage may not become apparent until March or early April when buds open. He did not expect oaks, pecans, hollies and others plants to be damaged because "they are well suited to the extremes of our area." The following summaries were compiled by AgriLife Extension district reporters:

CENTRAL: Soils remained soggy, making it difficult for farmers and ranchers to get into fields. Some wheat was not planted because of heavy rains. Some producers planted oats in place of wheat. Cold weather increased the need for beef producers to provide supplemental feed to livestock. Hay was in short supply

COASTAL BEND: The outlook for the 2010 crop season was much improved by recent rains. However, below-normal temperatures and rain held up most field work. Producers continued supplemental feeding of livestock because standing forage was scarce due to freezing temperatures a couple of weeks earlier.

EAST: Cold temperatures across the region slowed winter forage growth to a crawl. Most counties reported from adequate to too much soil moisture. Livestock were in fair to good condition with producers providing supplemental feed. Feral hogs continued to be a problem.

FAR WEST: Pecan harvesting fell behind schedule because of a late freeze. All cotton was harvested and processed by gins. Soil moisture was very low due to high winds and cold weather.

NORTH: The soil moissurplus. Because of cold temperatures and waterlogged fields, farming activity came to a stop. The weather hit dairy and beef producers hard. Some producers reported they lost calves. The weather necessitated livestock being fed considerably more hay and supplements than in previous winters. Hay supplies were currently holding, but a shortage was PANHANDLE: Weather was cold with some snow. Soil moisture levels were short with little moisture received from the snow. The cotton harvest was nearly complete, and some producers were starting to prepare fields for spring planting. Irrigated wheat was reported in good condition, and stockonly allowing limited grazing on it. Cattle were in good condition, but rangeland was in poor condition. Most producers were providing supplemental feed.

ROLLING Winter hit hard, bringing several inches of snow and blizzard-like conditions. Two snow storms helped to replenish soil moisture levels. This moisture was needed by some of the more mature stands of winter wheat that have been grazed as well as the emerging stands. Winter wheat began to perk up after receiving some moisture, but some producers worried that it came too late. The northern part of the region had light rain followed by cool, dry conditions. Wintery weather in the eastern part of the region limited forage production except for winter oats. The wet and cold weather stressed livestock, but they remained in fair to good condition. Beef producers continued supplemental feeding.

SOUTHEAST: Bermuda grass pastures went dormant. Winter-annual grass growth was good thanks to plenty of moisture. Clover was emerging in many pastures. Rain continued to replenish the groundwater supply. Topsoils were saturated. Pastures were in poor condition in some area because of continued overstocking. Wet conditions continued to delay spring crop preparations. Livestock were doing well, considering the conditions. A hard freeze aged many trees.

SOUTHWEST: Close to 70 percent of the 17 inches of rain that fell during the year came in the last four months of 2009, making a big difference to the agricultural situation. The forage situation significantly improved. The rain made both small-grain and early spring row-crop planting possible. The rain delayed the fall vegetable and pecan harvest. A hard freeze in early December damaged some spinach that was ready for harvest. However, growers were able to quickly resume the harvesting of spinach, cabbage, carrots, lettuce followed. The pecan harvest remained behind schedule but was nearly complete.

WEST CENTRAL: Days and nights were very cold with snow reported in many areas. The snow improved soil moisture levels, though the low temperatures slowed melting. Producers continued supplemental feeding of livestock because of the bad weather. Livestock were in fair to good condition.

in South Texas, producers there now are optimistic about planting cotton in the spring after receiving an abundant amount of rainfall in the months of November and December.

"We have a long way mained in the fields. Pastures to go, of course, but South Texas cotton growers have not been this excited about the upcoming crop since the fall of 2005 when crop conditions were ideal," said a local analyst. "In my opinion, if we don't get a single drop of rain from now until planting time, we will still have the opportunity to make a crop."
