

Stern Warning Given Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Carter administration, declaring that the United States is not weakened just because it is changing presidents, is warning the Soviet Union that an invasion of Poland would cause "the most serious" deterioration of East-West and U.S.-Soviet relations.

Hostages Topic Of Lunch Meet

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher and his high-level U.S. delegation met at a "working lunch" today with Algerian Foreign Minister Mohamed Benyahia and other Algerian officials involved with the indirect negotiations to free the American hostages in Iran.

The two delegations met at a restaurant at the Algiers Zoo, some 15 miles from the capital. All outsiders were barred from the premises. It was the second meeting of the two groups since the Americans arrived early Tuesday.

Algeria has been acting as intermediary in the slow-motion negotiations over Iran's four conditions for release of the 52 hostages now held for almost 13 months.

The two delegations met for 4 1/2 hours Tuesday. Informed sources said Christopher submitted a detailed and documented explanation of the American position and the Algerians asked some questions.

A further formal session was scheduled following the luncheon. Christopher and his delegation were expected to fly back to Washington late today or early Thursday while the Algerians go to Iran with the American response.

Informed sources said Christopher told Benyahia on foreign policy adviser, Richard V. Allen, who said "the imagination would undoubtedly be the limit" in calculating how the United States might respond to a military strike against Poland.

White House press secretary Jody Powell, speaking with reporters Tuesday, refused to say what specific steps the United States might take. But he said, "An intervention or invasion of Poland would be most serious and adverse, both for East-West relations in general and in particular for relationships between the United States and the Soviet Union."

His statement came amid escalating labor strife in Poland and reports that Soviet army divisions have been mobilized on the Polish border.

Powell said President Carter has discussed the situation by telephone with key European leaders over the last few days and Reagan has been kept informed.

"I think it would be a serious mistake for any government under any circumstances to assume that in a period of transition between one administration and the next that the American government would lack either the will or the ability to respond," Powell said.

He added: "It's a situation that's being watched closely and with concern."

Carter, it was learned, had spoken with the leaders of Britain, West Germany and France.

Allen, in an interview Tuesday night with ABC News, said a Soviet invasion of Poland would have "grave overtones for our new administration. It would be one that would set the tone for a long time to come. It would be one from which the world would be a long time recovering, if indeed it would recover."

Asked what the new administration might do to retaliate, Allen replied: "I don't think it would be productive to speculate on specific policy measures, but the imagination would undoubtedly be the limit in terms of a reaction."

Powell refused to say whether warnings have been sent to Moscow via diplomatic channels, although it was disclosed earlier that Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin was called to the State Department Monday night to discuss the situation.

State Department spokesman John Trantner said only that Dobrynin conferred with David Newsom, undersecretary of state for political affairs.

Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie, meanwhile, told reporters the Soviets seem to understand that military intervention in Poland could be costly to their relationship with the West.

Mideast Border Crisis Continues

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Jordan's information minister said today that King Hussein had not accepted Syria's conditions for ending the border crisis, denying earlier reports by Jordanian officials that Jordan had agreed to Syrian terms for defusing tension between the two Arab states.

Mediation efforts were still under way and Syria was reported to have pulled back some of the troops it massed at the Jordanian border. But Information Minister Adnan Abu Audeh told reporters: "Syria has submitted no conditions and the king has accepted none."

The crisis had appeared to ease on reports that Jordan agreed to Syrian demands for a statement that Jordan was not aiding terrorists of the Moslem Brotherhood trying to oust the Syrian government of President Hafez Assad and that Jordan recognized the Palestine Liberation Organization as representative of the Palestinian people.

Syria pulled back some of the 50,000 troops it had concentrated on the Jordanian border when tension built up over conflicting positions the two countries have taken on the Iran-Iraq war and Syrian charges that Jordan aided the Moslem Brotherhood. Jordan sent 30,000 of its troops to the border and there was no word any of them had withdrawn. Meanwhile, Prince Abdullah Bin Abdul-Aziz, the Saudi Arabian deputy premier, flew to Damascus to continue his mediation efforts. He was reported carrying Jordan's response to the Syrian conditions.

Jordanian officials who did not wish to be identified, reported Hussein had accepted the Syrian demands, noting that Hussein has denied the Syrian charges. Hussein has said he was "open to all reasonable suggestions for resolving this pointless crisis."

But in saying that Jordan had not bowed to the Syrian conditions, Abu Audeh told reporters: "Acceptance of the two Syrian conditions would signify that we accept the Syrian assumption that we are guilty of the false charges leveled against us."

Other sources said Hussein signaled his readiness to accept a settlement provided it was not taken as a Jordanian capitulation to Syrian demands or an admission of the truth of the Syrian charges.

Political observers said the Syrian demands were a device for Assad to defuse the crisis he began last month without losing face.

Tehran Jolted By Earthquake

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—An earthquake measuring 5.2 on the Richter scale hit an area on Iran's Caspian seacoast 120 miles northwest of Tehran Wednesday morning, the Pars news agency reported.

The official Iranian agency said no reports of casualties or damage had been received yet.

Pars said the quake was felt in Tehran, but the tremor was not severe in the capital and there appeared to be no casualties there.

It said the quake occurred at 7:56 a.m. (11:26 p.m. EST Tuesday), and the geophysics department of Tehran University reported the epicenter was in the vicinity of the town of Langerud, on the coast of the big inland sea.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. An earthquake measuring 5 on the scale can cause considerable damage.

The San Francisco earthquake of 1906, which occurred before the Richter scale was devised, has been estimated at 8.3 on it.

Iraqi Tanks Batter Four Main Cities

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraqi tanks and artillery blasted the four main cities of Iran's oil province of Khuzistan today as the war on the northern flank of the Persian Gulf entered its 73rd day.

Baghdad Radio said the Iraqi gunners kept up the pressure on Iran's oil refining city of Abadan, the town Susangerd, the military garrison town of Dezful and Ahvaz, the capital of Khuzistan.

The four cities have been heavily bombarded since the war began. The Iraqi command said Tuesday its forces were ready for a "final assault" to capture these cities once the Iraqi political leaderships issues the order.

Iran said its paratroopers fought to regain control of its western highlands from Iraq's invading forces and said it repulsed Iraqi jets attacking its main oil loading terminal in the gulf.

Tehran communiques said paratroopers fought for trenches and bunkers in the foothills of the Zagros mountains in Ilam and Gilan Gharb provinces at the northern end of Iraq's 300-mile invasion front. Iraqi communiques said its forces repulsed the Iranian attacks.

The long-contested highlands control the main highways from Iran's western border to the Iraqi capital of Baghdad about 100 miles farther west.

Ask Us

Q.—How much are county precinct employees paid and why are they furnished pickup trucks to drive to and from work?

A.—County precinct employees are paid $11,098.09 per year. Each precinct has a foreman who draws $12,539.11 per year. Commissioners say they prefer to have the county's pickup trucks parked at employees' residences overnight instead of the precinct barn because they are less susceptible to vandalism.

Also the pickups have valuable tools, and one commissioner reported several sets of tools stolen before employees began taking the vehicles to their homes overnight. Another reported that thefts of gasoline from pickup tanks were a problem when they were parked at the barn overnight. It was further noted that an employee's residence many times may be closer to where he will work the next day than the precinct barn.

Fund Started After Blaze Hits Dwelling

A fund has been started for Ada "Tiny" Andrews at Snyder National Bank and West Texas State Bank.

Mrs. Andrews' home at 2805 Ave. M was gutted in a fire Tuesday afternoon.

Living with Mrs. Andrews were two grandchildren, a boy of 9 and a girl of 10. Persons wishing to donate furniture or clothing to the family may call Jean Birdwell at 573-0888.

The call on the fire was received by Snyder firefighters about 4:45 p.m., and firemen reported they stayed at the fire until about 7:15. Four fire units responded to the call and seven lines were used in extinguishing the blaze.

Storm Pounds West Coast

By The Associated Press
A storm pounded the coasts of Oregon and Northern California with gale force winds as snow squalls hit the shores of the eastern Great Lakes.

Snow fell early today in the mountains inland from the coastal storm which flooded streets in Portland, Salem, Eugene, Medford and Grants Pass in Oregon. Several coastal rivers were at or approaching flood stage in sparsely populated areas.

Police in Brookings in southwestern Oregon said some residents of the Riverbend mobile home park left their homes when the Chetco River spilled over its banks.

Rain also reached through parts of New York, Pennsylvania and Connecticut.

The snow falling today in the eastern Great Lakes region followed storms Tuesday in the Midwest that sent hundreds of cars and trucks skidding, resulting in at least four deaths—two in Nebraska, one in Iowa and one in Wisconsin.

Cool Weather In Texas

Cloudy skies and cool temperatures dominated Texas' weather today after a cold front finished its trek across the state late Tuesday.

Skies over West Texas were to be mostly fair and it was windy in the Panhandle. Highs were to be in the 50s and 60s with a few readings reaching into the 70s in Southwest Texas.

Some light drizzle was reported along the lower coast early today and low clouds covered the southeastern third of the state.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the 20s and 30s in Northwest Texas to the 40s and 50s in Southeast Texas. Extremes ranged from 25 at Childress to 62 at Brownsville.

The Texas Forest service advises that it has copies of "Trees in the Bible" available again for this Christmas season.

It illustrates 227 familiar Bible quotations with photographs of Texas areas which are similar to those in the Holy Land.

A reference section cross-indexes the biblical, common and scientific names of most trees mentioned in the Bible.

You can order copies by writing the Texas Forest Service, College Station, TX. 77843. The price is 50 cents per copy, and that includes state sales tax.

Speaking of trees, the Israelis say they have come up with a peach tree that can regenerate its trunk and canopy within one year and produce export quality fruit. This enables them to use a newly-developed harvesting machine that clips off the trees at almost ground level. The fruit is then gently detached from the branches by a combine developed especially to do the job.

At the same time, they say that scientists at Tel Aviv University have developed a non-alcoholic wine that looks and tastes like the real thing. It comes in dry and semi-sweet varieties and is produced by a completely organic but non-alcoholic fermentation process. Because it requires no aging and few man hours to produce, it costs only about one-fourth the price of ordinary wine. It is expected to become popular with persons who, for health or religious reasons, do not partake of alcoholic beverages.

We have heard arguments for years as to whether the wine created by Jesus contained alcohol. The appearance of this new, non-alcoholic variety in the historic Middle East is not likely to help settle this controversy.

How long does it take to get a federal bureau to mend its ways?

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says that in 1963, the General Accounting Office recommended that the Veterans Administration and the Federal Housing Administration start using the same appraisal form for property instead of two different ones. But 13 years later they were still dragging their feet and some 50,000 American homeowners in 1976 still had to pay $75 to the VA for an appraisal and then turn around and pay another $60 for an FHA appraisal because neither agency would accept the other's appraisal.

There has been some success in more recent years, but Sen. Bentsen says that if you are shopping for a house, be prepared to add as much as $2,500 to the price to cover the cost of paper work caused by government regulations.

how women voted

Let us pause for a moment to consider one more casualty of the recent landslide, the "women's vote." Conventional analysts had opined that Reagan would have trouble getting the "women's vote" because of his positions on what they had chosen to call "women's issues." These included the Equal Rights Amendment, abortion, and the so-called "war and peace issue."

As it turned out, though men backed him by a higher percentage, Reagan got a majority of the votes cast by women for president in 1980.

Does this mean women are really warlike, anti-abortion and anti-ERA?

Well, not really. It turns out that women are closely divided on these issues. What we have here is a failure of analysis, largely perpetrated by advocates of particular positions who prefer to treat women (and other groups) not as individual people but as "blobs" to be mobilized for various social goals.

The analysts who assumed Reagan's positions would hurt him among women voters conveniently forgot to notice that the opposition to the ERA and liberalized abortion laws was largely led by women, and that most of the foot-soldiers in these legislative battles were women.

It has struck us as odd, and perhaps tragic, that many women seem to feel that they won't be fulfilled as individuals until some words are tacked onto the Constitution. It turns out that it's a burning issue only to some. As might be expected of a lot of different individuals, some are passionately for, some are bitterly against, and some are wildly indifferent.

We've noted that those most inclined to divide people into groups and appeal to them (not only women but Hispanics, Christians, blacks, WASPs, ethnics, workers, businessmen, etc.) are most often seeking to use these "blobs" for some social purpose or (as often as not) as tools to build their own personal power base.

Now that the election is over, perhaps we will have a short respite from this relentless categorization of people and begin to think of people, regardless of race, sex or whatever, as individuals rather than as the building blocks of political coalitions.

We don't claim that such a revolutionary mode of thinking is likely to last for long. But it might be refreshing for a few moments.

Stock exchanges aren't the only markets that have taken off following the election. According to reports from Los Angeles, a thriving business is developing in mementoes of Ronald Reagan's acting career.

Depending upon rarity and relative antiquity, among other factors, posters, still photos and other items associated with Reagan's 53 movies are bringing up to several hundred dollars.

Dealers are uncertain, however, whether the demand will hold or, once the novelty of an actor in the White House wears off, fizzle. At the moment, they say it could go either way.

Sounds familiar. Perhaps they're listening to the same polltakers who were at work in the election.

my turn

by korbi sanders

Santa lovers unite! We must do something about the few numbers of Santa Claus stand ins being hired to visit the children this year.

Did you read the article in Monday's paper which stated that fewer department stores are hiring Santa Clauses to entertain the children this year? Something must be done for these devoted December Santas.

The children of these times are going to have to do without many of the pleasures we grew up with—big cars, no gas limits, leaving the lights on in every room, money to burn, etc., etc.—but do they have to go without a visit to Santa Claus?

Snyder has been fortunate that this "cut back" crisis hasn't hit us this year, but what about next year? We all must do our part in seeing that this shortage does not become a permanent reality.

One of the best things about going shopping when I was small was visiting Santa. I can still remember some of those visits.

There sat the jolly Santa on his big wooden throne, surrounded by cute teenage girls in colorful "elf" costumes, helping Santa with all of those crybabys afraid of the fat little man with snowy white beard. As I recall, one of my first ambitions of "when I grow up" was to be one of those cute elves who helped Santa. So much for ambitions.

Now getting back to Santa, what other man has the courage to let hundreds of children climb up on his lap (many of them not housebroken), tell them their very long lists of Christmas gifts, pull his beard, punch his stomach, climb on his back, smile with the crying kid while a picture is taken, and then come back the next year for more?

And should the children be deprived of visiting such a man? Will they have no memories of asking Santa if he is real, of pulling his beard, of asking why he smells like cigar smoke, of asking him to please drink the milk and eat the cookies that they'll leave for him this Christmas?

And what about the parents? Now instead of leaving the kids to do their damage in Santa Land, they'll have to drag them with them while on their shopping sprees or leave them at home with a baby sitter. And they won't have any cute little pictures of Johnny or Susie visiting Santa to bring out year after year.

We must cut back on our use of energy—we must drive small cars, cut down on heating, use less lighting, walk instead of driving, take the bus, carpool. We must pay higher and higher prices for food, clothing and shelter. We can make these adjustments and learn to live with them. But can we live without the great tradition of Santa Claus?

We must do everything we can to preserve the image of St. Nick and the children. The budget cutbacks must not include the axing of the Santa stand ins.

We don't want to make the real Santa angry—he might quit coming!

"Wait a minute... Yes, I believe this two-thousand dollar total must be a computer error."

never like snead

I will never play golf in the sixties, rarely in the seventies. To that extent, compared to Sam Snead, I am "retarded."

Each of us, compared to others of us, is less agile, less coordinated, less eloquent, less perceptive. One way or another we are all retarded.

Recently I visited "The Lambs" north of Chicago and "The Meadows" near Oklahoma City, where less gifted individuals are given a chance to become as useful to themselves and to others as they can be.

And who knows how much more?

Son Paul, researching stories for THE REST OF THE STORY, remembers a boy named Al who attended only grammar school, and that for only three months, because he was considered by his teachers to be "addled," today we would say "retarded."

The boy characterized as an ineducable nitwit, a dunce, the bottom of the class, subsequently taught by only his mother at home—became Thomas Alva Edison.

Thomas Jefferson had a speech defect, John Adams was subject to extreme depression, James Madison was an epileptic. Luci's parents knew something was wrong with her but they did not know what.

Her high school grades were mostly D's. Luci could not comprehend, was chronically confused, became belligerent, suffered blackouts.

An optometrist discovered that Luci's problem was in her eyes. While she had 20-20 vision, she nonetheless suffered "visual decoordination." After appropriate therapy, L.B.J.'s daughter, Luci Johnson, demonstrated consistent scholastic excellence.

Less enlightened generations frequently looked away the inarticulate child or pre-doomed him or her to lifelong dependency.

A baseball player who will forever struggle with a speech defect was one of the heroes of the 1980 World Series—Willie Aikens.

Individuals whose only struggle may be with words—who have a difficult time enunciating their thoughts—may be otherwise normal, even brilliant.

But thrust unprepared into an environment of what the world calls "normalcy" they may be abused, driven deeper into themselves.

Thus the most effective training programs allow them the association of others with similar problems while they learn to overcome.

Pauline Koch's son had difficulty speaking. Asked the simplest question, the response was agonizingly hesitant. He knew the answer but could not express himself.

The boy's father had given up, resigned himself to a son who was "not normal," would "never amount to anything."

The boy never uttered a word until he was three and was still having difficulty expressing himself at nine.

You remember him as Albert Einstein.

Now, as son Paul would say, you know THE REST OF THE STORY.

tightening the noose

NEW YORK (AP)— With the economy beginning to look like a plucked turkey, millions of dismayed and fearful Americans are wondering when Paul Volcker and his crew at the Fed will ask the magic question.

The prime rate is now at 18.5 percent and rising, which means only the strongest companies have a friend at the bank anymore. Car sales are off, homes sales are beginning to fall, construction is stalled, and soon you may hear complaints about Christmas sales.

And yet, the prime rate continues to rise toward the 20 percent range of April when record-high interest rates were considered necessary to stomp out what was left of a minor boom.

Now, the economy is squeaking along. But Americans seem unwilling to recognize the truth, which is that they expect just as much out of the economy as they did when it was functioning well.

This, the Fed concludes, can only lead to greater inflation. If Americans want to live well, they must produce well. They cannot borrow their way to wealth.

And so the Fed keeps the pressure on. People are groaning, but still interest rates rise and the Fed hasn't even asked the magic question, which is "Had enough?"

In fact, the folks at the Fed aver that you rather than they are the cause of high interest rates. They will say they merely react to and seek to correct credit markets, and the imbalances that force them to clamp down arise from your shenanigans.

From living beyond your means. From living off credit. From refusing to recognize that to live well you must work well, which is to say you must work productively, and save for a rainy day.

The messages in the form of high interest rates are these:

Productivity, or output per manhour, must be raised. The economy must run more efficiently to create something bigger than existed before. A bigger pie, some would say.

Now, the economy is not making a bigger pie, and the living standards of one person or one group can rise only at the expense of others.

If the economy isn't providing, those who make up the economy must cut. The day can be postponed, but the cost grows. Rising interest rates are said to demonstrate the inevitability of this phenomenon.

By far the biggest postponer has been the federal government, although some municipalities are also good at it.

If you cut back, you might be able to save. Higher interest rates are supposed to do this, but so far it hasn't seemed to work. But if you save, those savings in theory would go toward improving the economic machinery, making it more productive.

Until then, the Fed seems to be saying, it will be more and more expensive to live beyond your means. The Fed might back off rather than risk a serious recession. But as of now it hasn't even asked if you've had enough. It just keeps tightening the noose.

CLEVELAND (NEA)—One secretary was required to periodically clean her boss's dentures. Another was ordered to regularly slather mayonnaise on all the office plants because her boss believed it stimulated their growth.

Those chores are highly unusual, but thousands of other secretaries complain each year of being forced to perform more common yet equally demeaning tasks to satisfy their bosses and protect their jobs.

The list includes balancing his personal checkbook, picking up his dry cleaning, submitting to his amorous advances, fetching his lunch, brewing his coffee and buying gifts for his wife, children and mistresses.

All of those jobs have been cited in entries submitted to the Pettiest Office Procedure Contest, conducted annually by Cleveland-based Working Women, the country's only national association of female office workers.

"In Chicago, a woman was fired for refusing to make coffee," recalls Karen Nussbaum, the organization's president and executive director. That woman eventually had her job restored, but a veteran female employee of a Waterloo, Iowa, school district wasn't rehired after being dismissed for the same reason.

In Boston, says Ms. Nussbaum, a secretary was fired because she picked up a corned-beef sandwich on white bread instead of the rye her boss had ordered when he dispatched her for his lunch.

Battling against such indignities is only one element of Working Women's broad program to achieve higher pay, enhanced promotion opportunities, improved working conditions and increased respect for the country's approximately 20 million office workers, the largest single job classification in the work force.

Notwithstanding federal and state laws that supposedly prohibit sex discrimination, wide disparities remain in the salaries of male and female office workers.

Men holding full-time clerical jobs earn an average of more than $14,000 annually, while women average only $9,360 per year — and more than 5 million of those women are paid less than $7,800 annually.

Banks are notoriously stingy, says Ms. Nussbaum, noting that they pay 8 percent to 20 percent less than the national average in many job classifications in which they employ high concentrations of women.

Working Women relies upon a wide variety of measures to achieve its goals, including initiating litigation, conducting public demonstrations to embarrass employers and filing formal complaints with the Labor Department, Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and other government agencies.

In one case, the Labor Department ruled that the National City Bank of Cleveland was liable for $15 million in back pay to its female and minority employees victimized by discrimination.

In another case, the First National Bank of Boston responded to a public protest by agreeing to increase wages by 10 percent, post notices of job opportunities and provide on-the-job training for those seeking career advancement.

Founded in Boston in 1973, the organization now claims approximately 10,000 dues-paying members, including at-large members in all 50 states and those who have joined affiliates in New York, Boston, Baltimore, Atlanta, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Cincinnati, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle, Providence, R.I., and Dayton, Ohio.

Working Women's cause is about to receive an important boost — the release in late December of "Nine to Five," a film about the plight of office workers starring Jane Fonda, Dolly Parton and Lily Tomlin.

Much of the inspiration and technical advice for the movie was provided by Working Women, and the organization will receive the proceeds from three premiere benefits to be held just before Christmas in New York, Boston and Cleveland.

"Although it's a comedy, the film legitimizes the issues that millions of secretaries and other face every day," says Ms. Nussbaum. "In almost every office worker, there is an angry woman."

Honey Cake Cherry Roll Is Dish For Kindling Of Lights

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Hanukkah is an eight-day Festival of Lights observed by those of Jewish faith throughout the world. This year it begins Dec. 3. The holiday is often marked by a Hanukkah play by school children, followed by a dairy supper, with latkes and cheese dishes.

Each night in homes and temples, a candle is lit on the menorah as Jews celebrate their deliverance from the enemies of the Maccabees.

A honey cake cherry roll fits well into a dairy meal during these days of "Kindling the Lights."

HONEY CAKE CHERRY ROLL (Dairy)

- 1 can (16 to 17 ounces) dark sweet cherries
- 3 eggs
- 3/4 cup honey
- 2 tablespoons water
- 3/4 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

1/8 teaspoon each cinnamon, ginger and allspice
Powdered sugar
1/2 cup heavy cream
Cherry sauce

Grease jelly roll pan (15 1/2-by-10 1/2-by-1-inch). Line with waxed paper and grease paper very thoroughly. Drain cherries, reserving syrup. Halve cherries and blot thoroughly with paper towel; set aside. In small mixer bowl, beat eggs until thick and lemon-colored, about 5 minutes; gradually beat in honey. On low speed, beat in water, flour, baking powder, salt and spices. Beat just until batter is smooth. Pour into prepared pan; bake at 375 degrees 12 to 15 minutes or until cake springs back when touched lightly in center.

HANUKKAH HONEY CAKE—This delicious honey cake cherry roll will fit well into a dairy meal for the eight-day observance of Hanukkah which begins today. It also makes a tasty treat for holiday activities and gift giving.

Immediately invert cake onto clean towel liberally dusted with powdered sugar. Using spatula or table knife to help free edges, carefully remove waxed paper. While hot, and starting from narrow end, roll cake and towel together. Cool on wire rack 30 minutes.

In chilled bowl, whip cream until soft peaks form. Fold in 2 tablespoons powdered sugar. Carefully unroll cake; spread whipped cream over entire surface. Sprinkle halved cherries evenly on cream filling. Roll without towel. Sprinkle with additional powdered sugar. Serve with cherry sauce. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 to 10 servings.

CHERRY SAUCE: Add water to reserved cherry syrup to equal 1 cup. Gradually stir into 1 tablespoon cornstarch. Cook and stir over medium heat until thickened and clear. Stir in 1/4 teaspoon almond extract. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 1 cup.

The book of the 1979 world's championship is now out. The ACBL has done a really good job this time.

Today's hand is taken from one of the preliminary rounds in which each hand was played six times.

The bidding in the box seems logical and leaves South at a cinch four-heart contract for a score of 620. Two South players were allowed to play there, but at the other four tables the East-West pair defensively bid and played at four spades. At three tables it was played undoubled and West went down three for a mere 150 point loss. At the fourth table

Chagas of Brazil was doubled.

North led the king of clubs, cashed the king and queen of hearts, led ace and another club so that his partner's jack overruled East's eight. Now South led a trump which Chagas won.

He drew North's last trump and led a diamond. North played the seven and Chagas played low from dummy.

South was in with the eight and made things easy for Chagas. South led back the nine. Chagas played low and got out for 500 to gain 120 points or three IMPs for Brazil.

Gemstones offer many moderately priced gift possibilities. In birthstone charms, blue and white zircons replace diamonds and sapphires. Bone replaces ivory in traditional carved rose pendants hung on gold-fill chains. Tiny amethyst and gold-fill beads make a delicate necklace. Coral, sodalite, opal, lapis lazuli and malachite have all been called in to make necklaces, pins, earrings and pendants, framed or accented with gold-fill.

Dallas Wins Again For CBS

NEW YORK (AP) — Still riding the nation's fascination with "Dallas," CBS won the networks' ratings race for the fourth time in five weeks and bolstered its position as the No. 1 network in the season that began Oct. 27, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show.

Though "Dallas" lost more than a third of its record-setting audience for the previous week's "Who shot J.R.?" episode, the show continued as prime-time TV's highest-rated series for the fourth straight week.

The Nielsen rating for "Dallas" was 34, robust though down sharply from the all-time high 53.3 of the week before, Nielsen says that means of all the nation's homes with television, 34 percent saw at least part of the follow-up installment.

CBS had seven of the week's 10 highest-rated programs, and compiled a rating for the week of 19.7, compared to 18.8 for ABC and 16.4 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 19.7 percent of the nation's TV-equipped homes were tuned to CBS.

Both CBS and ABC maintain the 1980-81 season was delayed by the 10-week-long actors' strike and began Oct. 27. By that standard, CBS leads the three-way competition for the TV year with an average rating of 20.8, compared to 19.1 for ABC and 16.5 for NBC. NBC maintains the season started Sept. 15, and taking that measure, leads the competition by half a point over CBS.

ABC's top-rated show in the most recent survey was "Love Boat," in fourth place, with NBC's most-watched program, a movie called "Children of Divorce," No. 13. Four of the week's five lowest-rated shows were from Magazine with David Brinkley" 64th. CBS' "Linda Lavin Special" was No. 62.

If Texas Site Is Chosen...

15,000 Acres For MX Missile Base

DALHART, Texas (AP) — An MX missile site in the Texas Panhandle would need 15,000 acres of irrigated farmland and at least 20,000 acre feet of water to be built, according to an Air Force spokesman.

But Col. Bill Sims told about 100 farmers from the Panhandle and Eastern New Mexico Tuesday that military officials would prefer to build the site in the Utah-Nevada area, calling the Texas-New Mexico location a secondary choice.

Sims made his remarks at a public hearing that was held as part of federal requirements for an environmental impact study on possible locations for the missiles.

He said about 20,000 acre feet of water would be needed during the peak of project construction, adding that the sprawling complex would cover 16,500 acres of Panhandle farmland.

Asked by an audience member if the site couldn't be built on federally-owned grassland in the same area, Sims replied that federal laws prohibited such construction on government land.

Sims told the audience that if the project were located in the Panhandle area, it would produce an estimated $250 million in revenue annually and create about 14,000 new jobs.

Although it was billed as a public hearing, no statements were allowed at the meeting.

Panhandle Regional Planning Commission Spokesman Tom Plumee told the audience that only "informational" questions would be answered.

Following the meetings in Texas and New Mexico, an environmental impact statement will be released by the government concerning the impact of building the sites in the proposed areas.

The first such statement is due to be released later this month.

Sturgeon once was so plentiful in the Hudson River that steaks made from the light, almost-boneless meat of the big fish were called "Albany beef."

Dear Abby

Boy Can Be Father, But Not Husband

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My 15½-year-old grandson is nearly 6 feet tall and looks like a full-grown man, but he has two years of high school left. I'll call him Billy. Billy has always been a good boy and never gave his mother (my daughter) any trouble. Now it turns out that Billy has been seeing a friend of his mother's. She's a 30-year-old divorcee with two children. She claims she's 4 months pregnant with Billy's child!

My daughter says that this divorcee has had several affairs with other high school boys, but she's blaming this pregnancy on Billy. He admitted he had been skipping his first class at school every day and going up to this woman's place to have sex with her. He says he will quit school and marry her if that's what she wants. Abby, he is only a child himself, and this would ruin his life.

I know there's a law against having sex with a minor girl. How about sex with a minor boy? Can't this woman go to jail? And isn't there some way to find out if the baby is really Billy's?

Can you see a way out of this mess? And how can I help Billy?

BILLY'S NAMA

DEAR NAMA: Having sex with a minor — girl or boy — is punishable by law. Billy needs legal advice and counsel. The best person you can give your grandson is a competent lawyer to represent him.

DEAR ABBY: I just had to respond to FAT, FEMALE AND MISERABLE, as my lovely wife is also overweight. I am 6-4, she is 5-4, and we weigh about the same, but I wouldn't trade my darling for a dozen size 9's.

We've been married for 15 years and she has given me two beautiful children and more happiness than one man deserves in a lifetime.

They say there is someone for everyone in this world. I thank God that I have found someone special, and FAT, FEMALE AND MISERABLE will find hers, too. Not everyone measures people by the size of their waistline.

CAROLE'S JERRY

DEAR JERRY: What a lovely man you are. You should be cloned.

DEAR ABBY: Boy, did you ever blow it with your answer to CONFUSED, whose fiance wanted to keep his possessions in his name for the first five years of their marriage.

As a self-employed, hardworking man of 25 who has owned his own business for the last three years, owns a house, a nice car, is negotiating on an apartment building and has a comfortable little nest egg in the five-figure area, I would not share my acquired assets with the woman I marry for at least five years either.

Nowadays, with divorce so easily obtainable, I'd be a fool to let a woman walk into my life and claim half of what I've amassed alone through hard work.

In this day of women's lib, my approach is simple. If a man finds a woman he thinks is for him, before discussing religion, future children or anything else, they should agree that what's mine is mine, what's yours is yours, and what we build together during our years of marriage is ours — to be split 50-50 in case of divorce. That's fair, simple and easy. And the woman who is unwilling to accept it is clearly after a man's money — not his love.

Andersons Won't Run If...

CHICAGO (AP) — Former congressman said following an independent presidential television appearance here Monday.

Anderson said he had "not ruled out" another presidential bid. He said "much depends on the thrust of the new administration."

"If everything is going along all right with Reagan, I'll be the first to praise him," Anderson said he probably would not accept a Cabinet position if it were offered.

Suicide Suspected In French Writer's Death

PARIS (AP) — Despondent over the death of ex-wife Jean Seberg, French novelist Roman Gary died of a gunshot wound in the head, apparently a suicide.

The body of the 66-year-old writer was found in his apartment on the Left Bank Tuesday with one bullet wound in the head, police said.

Close friends said Gary had been depressed since the discovery of Miss Seberg's body in the trunk of her car on Sept. 8, 1979. Medical examiners said the 44-year-old actress died of a combination of alcohol and barbiturates.

Gary charged Miss Seberg was driven to suicide as a result of a news item planted by the FBI in 1970 saying the blonde, Iowa-born film star was pregnant by a member of the American Black Panther Party.

The FBI later admitted it spread the rumor to "cheaper her image with the general public" because she supported the Black Panthers financially.

Shortly before her death, Miss Seberg told an interviewer the shock of reading the story was so great that she went into labor and the child was stillborn.

"Jean became psychotic after that," Gary said at a news conference after her death. "Every year on the anniversary of this still birth she tried to take her life."

Gary said the child was white and believed it was his. A family member who had visited Gary shortly after the first anniversary of Miss Seberg's death found him brooding over it.

NED BYRD

Snyderite Promoted By Exxon USA

Exxon Company, U. S. A. has announced the promotion of Ned Byrd of Snyder from maintenance foreman to field superintendent.

He is assigned to the Mid-continent Production Division, Midland District, Dorward and Howard-Glasscock areas.

Joining the company as a roustabout in 1941 at Talco, Byrd's production field assignment followed in various areas of East Texas. In 1950, he transferred to West Texas. His original home was in Winnsboro.

Byrd is married to the former Mollie Reeves of Hawkins.

Father Was Obsessed With Family He Killed

DALLAS (AP) — Thomas Ray Walker Jr. was so obsessed with his children he often accompanied them to school and sat for hours in the back of their classrooms.

That obsession, the fear his family could not survive after his planned suicide, led him to kill the children, gniting them to their deaths with the promise of a "surprise."

And in the hours Monday after he shot his wife, Linda Jo, and children — Traci, 13, Tammi, 11, Tommy Joe, 9, and Nicholas, 8, he tried to describe his motives and his agony to a local television reporter during a series of disjointed phone conversations.

Tortured by what he had done, Walker drove from phone booth to phone booth until — as police rushed in with weapons drawn — he burst from one booth screaming, "Shoot me! Shoot me! Shoot me!"

As Walker reached for his back pocket, three officers opened fire, and he fell mortally wounded on a supermarket parking lot. He died an hour later.

"I've got a story, and it's a bad story. I need to tell it," Walker told KDFW-TV reporter Tom Steyer during one of many conversations Monday afternoon and evening. "I'm potentially dangerous. I'm armed. I'm mentally ill — obviously. I'm not joking."

"I've killed my wife, and I've killed my four kids," the 36-year-old self-employed paint contractor told Steyer. "I want the world to know I know now it wasn't right. I know I was wrong — I love them. I loved them more than anything in the world. But I couldn't cope with it anymore."

During the rambling, tape-recorded conversations — first with KDFW executive producer Kenny Boles and later with Steyer — Walker described a grisly, day-long killing spree at his southeast Dallas home.

He said he watched his wife, Linda Jo, shower Monday morning and as she began to wash her face, he stepped up on the toilet and fired over the shower stall, striking her in the back. He fired again, he said, hitting her between the eyes.

Next he went to Rylie Intermediate School and took Tammi from her Talented and Gifted class, telling school officials he was taking his family on a trip.

"I shook hands with him and talked with him when he came to get Tammi," Rylie principal Richard Allen said Tuesday. "I saw nothing to be alarmed about."

Tammi's teachers said Walker attended classes with his daughter "two to three times a week" in the months before the slayings.

Walker told Steyer when he and Tammi got home, he told her to turn around and close her eyes because he had a surprise for her. When she did, he fired a single bullet into the back of her head.

It was the same with his two sons, who closed their eyes and were shot in the head, he told Steyer.

The hardest one, he said, was his oldest daughter, Traci. When she came home from school Monday afternoon, he gave her $5 and told her to go buy some candy. Watching through a window, he waited until she walked back into the living room, he left from the dining room and shot her in the head.

She let out a little scream, he said, and he fired again to make sure she was dead.

"He killed those kids because he loved them," Walker's grieving mother, Mrs. T.R. Walker said Tuesday. "My son had lost hope. That's all."

Neighbors said Walker was broke and recently had moved from a home he owned in suburban Birch Springs to a rented house. He became "paranoid" about his children and refused to let them play outside unless he was with them, said Mrs. James A. Williams, who lived across the street.

He rarely left his house, except to see his children at school, where he was almost a daily visitor, school officials said.

His paint contracting business began to go downhill, but neighbors and teachers all said the family was very close-knit and "spent a lot of time together."

"I just want the world to know that my wife and my children ... that they weren't used," Walker told Steyer during one of their last conversations. "I loved them, I swear I loved them."

Meanwhile, Steyer had called police, who traced the call to a phone booth in northeast Dallas. As Walker talked of his job failures, his busted bank account, his deep depression, police cars were racing toward the parking lot.

"I've never done anything right in my life and I didn't do this right," he said. "I always wanted to be with my family. I missed work on days I could have worked and should have worked, but I wanted to be with them."

"I never made any money. It was because of my weakness. I never was able to control myself. I always wanted my family to have everything," he said, explaining he kept one job for a while, despite an erratic attendance record.

"But that eventually ended, and I did lose that job," he said. "And it wasn't a case of ..."

As Walker paused, screeching tires could be heard in the background.

"Wait, here is a car, and it is ...," he said.

The voice of Dallas police officers are heard on the tape yelling, "Put your hands up right now!"

"No! Shoot me! Shoot me! Shoot me!" Walker screamed.

Lubbock Woman Killed During Affray With Cop

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — An off-duty police officer says he shot a Lubbock woman to death after she pulled a pistol from her coat and threatened to "blow his head off" for trying to arrest her son.

Vannoy Dotson, 39, was shot once in the chest. She was pronounced dead at Lubbock General Hospital shortly after the Tuesday night shooting, said police information officer Bill Morgan.

Mark Kirkpatrick, 27, a two-year veteran of the force, said he shot the woman after she pulled a loaded .22 caliber pistol from her coat and tried to point it at him during a struggle.

Police said Kirkpatrick, who was working at his off-duty job at a Lubbock supermarket, had taken the woman's son to a storage room, questioned him and placed him under arrest for criminal trespass. Kirkpatrick then requested an on-duty officer to transport the man to city jail.

Kirkpatrick said while he was talking to the man, the woman came into the room and demanded her son be freed. He said when he tried to explain why her son had been arrested the woman became angry and began hitting him on the head with a broken ashtray.

Witnesses told police the man took the ash tray away from his mother, but she continued to battle with the officer.

Kirkpatrick said during the struggle he saw the woman draw a small pistol from her coat pocket and try to aim it at him. He said he stepped back, drew his service revolver and shot the woman.

Police said at least three employees witnessed the incident. An autopsy has been ordered and District Attorney John Monford said the incident will probably be referred to a grand jury.

Feds Crack Down On Coal Mine Tax Shelter

BOSTON (AP) - During three frantic months in 1976, a thousand well-heeled investors ranging from Elvis Presley to the attorney general of Maryland eagerly laid down $20 million to get in on a coal mining deal.

But prosecutors say they were buying income tax deductions, not mining rights, in a scheme intended solely to cheat the federal Treasury.

Now, 15 people are under indictment, including seven lawyers, two investors and two producers of the Broadway show, "Annie."

Some two dozen other investors will probably face criminal prosecution, and authorities say they are looking into similar investment deals people used to avoid paying federal income taxes.

Presley was the biggest investor in the coal deal. Like other prominent entertainers, doctors and businessmen involved in the deal, Presley claimed huge losses. The late rock 'n' roll singer paid $505,000 and deducted $2.6 million from his taxable income in 1976.

According to court records, other buyers included singer Alice Cooper, actors David McCallum and Margaux Hemingway, professional basketball players Earl Monroe and Spencer Haywood, "Candid Camera" host Allen Funt, former Maryland Attorney General Francis Burch and Frank G. Wells, president of Warner Bros.

None of these celebrities has been indicted and no charges are anticipated against them. But the Internal Revenue Service is expected to insist that they pay their taxes, for the government claims the deal was marred by a critical flaw: In their haste to avoid taxes, they bought mining rights that did not exist.

The deal began to crumble two years ago when the Securities and Exchange Commission charged in a civil suit that the organizers owned grazing rights, not strip mining rights, to most of the 22,000 acres of ranchland they claimed to control in Wyoming.

Criminal indictments were returned by a federal grand jury in Boston last month, identifying the key men in the scheme as George Osserman and Paul Garfinkle, partners in a suburban Newton law firm, and Irwin Meyer and Stephen Friedman, Broadway theatrical promoters and producers of "Annie."

In a memorandum filed in U.S. District Court, the SEC described the venture as "a device to generate vast amounts of cash for Osserman, Garfinkle, Meyer and Friedman and their associates in return for the distribution of fraudulent tax deductions in connection with a sham mining venture."

According to the government, the scheme worked this way:

The promoters bought the land rights from ranchers for $300,000 through one company, then transferred them to Prodamat, a corporation controlled by Osserman and Garfinkle.

Next, they set up a limited partnership, called S-J Mineral Associates, and sold interests in the partnership for $30,000 each.

Osserman and Garfinkle organized other tax shelters and set up a nationwide network of salesmen, lawyers, accountants and investment advisors, says the SEC. Meyer and Friedman used contacts in show business to sell interests to actors, singers and backers of Broadway shows.

Money flowed in.

"As demand for more and more participation in the coal tax shelter deal mounted, the defendants created one sham limited partnership after another to accommodate people seeking to avoid personal tax liability," according to the indictment.

In the last three months of 1976, the backers created three more partnerships and took in $20 million in cash, investigators say.

"It was getting near Christmas, and people were trying to find tax deductions," said one government lawyer. "People were jumping to get in on this."

Blaffer Art Show Booked At Museum

"A Golden Age of Paintings," masterpieces from the Renaissance, will be shown in the Abilene Fine Arts Museum from Dec. 4 through Jan. 15.

This exhibit, on loan from the Sarah Campbell Blaffer Foundation of Houston, is scheduled for the Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College in 1982.

The 41 paintings in the exhibit feature 16th and 17th century Dutch, Flemish and German artists. Jerome Collins, director of the Abilene Fine Arts Museum, calls it "the biggest show we'll have this year," adding that "we are lucky to be able to exhibit such quality paintings."

The Scurry County Museum will be featuring another Blaffer Foundation collection, "American Abstract Expressionist Paintings," starting early in January. "Old Master Paintings" were shown in the museum last summer through the courtesy of the Blaffer Foundation, and the exhibit was well-received.

The date for the opening of the American Abstract exhibit will be announced in the near future, Sharon Sutton, museum director, said. Persons wishing more information about the exhibit may contact the museum office at 573-6107.

WTC Journalists Win High Awards

Several Western Texas College journalism students have been recognized for awards in journalism and photography competition of the Rocky Mountain Collegiate Press Association.

Newspaper individual winners were notified earlier this semester, while photography recipients were named this week. The students won honors in categories of Division E, small junior colleges, according to Bob Wakefield, RMCPA executive director at Adams State (Colo.) College. The contests were judged by the staff of the Colorado Springs Sun.

Journalism award winners from WTC are: Feature writing, Lois Gleason, first, and Linda Belvin, second; sports news, Rocky Alexander, first, Gerald Colbert, second, and Darlene Neatherlin, third; sports feature, Rudy England, first, and Colbert, third; editorial writing, England, third; news feature, Monette Sentell, first, Debra Littlepage, second; general-specialized column, Sentell, third.

Also, sports column, Luis Rios, second, Colbert third; critical review, Sheila Sandbothe, first and second, Sentell third; editorial cartoon, Ken Grimm, first; humorous cartoon, Grimm, first; illustration, Dana Hanna, second; single ad, WTC staff, first and third; page makeup, Sandbothe, first; special section-supplement, WTC staff, first; design-layout-typography, WTC staff third.

All judging was delayed several months because entries were sent to Utah State University where they were kept and not sent to RMCPA headquarters.

In all, members of the Western Texan, WTC's campus student newspaper, collected 32 of 63 individual awards given, a record for the journalism department in a single competition and the most of any college in the division of RMCPA. This included 13 firsts, nine seconds and 10 thirds, more than half of the total number presented.

WTC was represented at the annual RMCPA convention last spring in Denver. This spring, members of the department will go to Cheyenne, Wyo., for the 1981 conference and contests. It is scheduled March 27-29 at the Hitching Post Inn.

Publications advisor at WTC is Dr. Michael McBride, associate professor of journalism.
