

Funds Cut Off For High Plains Rainfall Project

By LARRY SUTHERLAND
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A major weather modification research project that may some day lead to increased rainfall over the High Plains of Texas is slated to be without federal participation.

Jess Peppie, a budget official with the Water and Power Resources Service of the Interior Department said Tuesday that fiscal year 1982 funding of HIPLEX has been proposed to be eliminated.

HIPLEX — High Plains Cooperative Program — is a research project now entering its sixth year in Texas and has a longterm objective of producing more rainfall in the summer months over the High Plains. The project has research facilities at Miles City, Mont., and Big Spring.

Peppie said the plans of the Reagan Administration call for cutting a proposed 1982 federal funding of HIPLEX from $4 million to nothing, but because the budget cut would not take effect until Oct. 1, "this summer's work (of HIPLEX) will not be impacted."

Peppie said Interior Secretary James Watt supports the HIPLEX federal funding cut because he feels federal participation has gone far enough and now the state governments and private industry should pay for the research.

But Bob Riggio, chief of the weather and climate section of the planning and development division of the Texas Department of Water Resources, said he has doubts that private industry would help share in the HIPLEX funding because "there's not a quick turn around on the dollar" from the research. And he added that he doubts state government could greatly increase its funding of HIPLEX.

Herbert Grubb, another official with the Department of Water Resources, had previously indicated the HIPLEX project could end by June 1 if there is no new federal funding reinstated by Congress.

Even if that happens HIPLEX could end before Oct. 1. HIPLEX has been scheduled this summer to conduct research at and around Big Spring from June 1 to July 31 into better understanding of how rain comes from clusters of clouds.

Despite Peppie's assertion that the project would not be adversely affected this coming summer, Riggio said the loss of funds for 1982 may force a cutback in the scope of the project for the remainder of this fiscal year. And another state official said he now has doubts that this summer's field project at Big Spring will be carried out.

HIPLEX is a cooperative arrangement with the federal government, Texas Department of Water Resources, Colorado Municipal Water District in Big Spring, Texas A&M University and Texas Tech.

During this summer's work, if it goes through, researchers from the Texas participants would converge on the Big Spring area with sophisticated radar, air planes, upper air sounding balloons, rain gauges and other devices to study rainfall and natural cloud formations. Unlike prior years, there would be no cloud seeding to try and enhance rainfall.

Dr. Jerry Jurica, a Texas Tech researcher and director of the university's participation in HIPLEX, said Texas Tech focuses its involvement on rain gauge measurements and the use of radar to study rain-producing clouds.

"The majority of the precipitation that occurs naturally in the summer time when clouds become organized and form clusters of cells (clouds)," Jurica said. "Most of the rain produced by an individual cloud (in West Texas) never reaches the ground."

One aspect of this research looks at how cloud seeding affects a cluster of clouds. The old approach was a belief that cloud seeding affected directly the cloud being seeded to produce more rain. The new emphasis on cloud clusters "is a more complex problem than a modification of an individual cloud, but it does offer more potential to increase summer rainfall in West Texas," Jurica said.

Grubb said preliminary data indicates that cloud seeding may increase rainfall by 10 to 15 percent in the summer months.

Getting even a small amount more rainfall over the High Plains of Texas and other states served by the Ogallala Aquifer may some day be very important as research indicates the aquifer is being depleted more rapidly than it is being replenished. Grubb said water shortage problems may occur in the southern most portion — around the Permian Basin — within 12 to 15 years. For the Lubbock area, the aquifer may be feasible as a water supply for another 30 to 40 years, while north of the Canadian River in the Panhandle, the aquifer is believed good for more than 50 years.

Although much data on cloud seeding and rainfall has been collected, both Jurica and Riggio say it is important that the HIPLEX study continues.

Riggio said several more years are needed to study clouds, especially since there was very little cloud cover to study during the 1980 summer around the Big Spring area. "If we don't get the clouds there's nothing to study," Riggio said. Jurica said HIPLEX would need to continue through 1982 and beyond to get valuable data. Riggio said the previous five years has only established a data base for the project.

But now, future research with a full-scale project is very much in doubt. The state government for FY 1981 provided only $100,000 for HIPLEX, a sharp contrast to federal contributions that in the past have run between $500,000 and $1 million a year.

Although not directly related to HIPLEX, a hearing is expected to be held today in Plainview by the Texas Water Commission to gather testimony on whether the Plains Weather Improvement Association should get a permit to seed clouds over portions of the northern area of the South Plains.

An opposition group, Citizens for Natural Weather, opposes the permit to allow low cloud seeding, claiming it has inhibited rainfall in the past and does nothing to suppress hail.

Britain Negotiating Nigeria Arms Deal

LONDON (AP) — Britain is negotiating an arms deal worth more than $1.3 billion with Nigeria to bolster the oil-rich West African nation's defenses, official sources reported Tuesday.

They said the deal is likely to be completed later this month when Nigerian President Shahu Shagari visits London.

The sources gave no details but the authoritative arms market research organization DMS reported the package includes Jaguar ground attack jets, corvettes for fishery protection and offshore patrol duties and Rapier low level anti-aircraft missiles. DMS reported that Britain offered to set up joint ventures in Nigeria to manufacture ammunition, small arms and armored cars to help offset the cost of the deal.

Panel Advised To Cut Coliseum Fund Requests During Tech Negotiations

By PAT GRAVES
Avalanche-Journal Staff
City Manager Larry Cunningham advised the Civic Centers Board during a morning work session Tuesday to limit their funding requests from the city to maintenance expenses because of the possible sale of the Municipal Auditorium-Coliseum to Texas Tech.

Although negotiations are in the preliminary stage and the future of the facility is uncertain, Cunningham said the board should give priority to repairs and renovation, not improvements and expansion.

He estimated the sale could not take place in less than a year, if at all. The City Council, he said, has instructed the staff to explore the possibilities of selling the buildings, and he added Tech is to assign someone to study the matter soon.

Questions on the possible effect of the auditorium-coliseum's sale to Tech arose during a discussion of possible capital improvements projects the board is considering. The city manager suggested revenue sharing would be the best funding source, but advised the board to wait until October to approach the council.

Instead of applying this month during current revenue sharing hearings, Cunningham suggested board members wait to see what, if anything, materializes during the next few months with the proposed sale of the facility to Tech.

Nevertheless, during its afternoon session, the board requested the council consider at Thursday's work session four capital improvement issues totaling about $55,000 in this month's revenue sharing hearings. The board will take formal action on the items at its Tuesday regular meeting. Other projects have been postponed until the next revenue sharing period in the fall.

Board Chairman Al Couch and Vice Chairman Bill Armstrong both said the board has not discussed the proposed auditorium-coliseum sale nor been contacted yet about it by the city.

Armstrong said the board is concerned that if the coliseum becomes unavailable, the city will not have an arena to accommodate larger shows or concerts. He agreed the facility needs to be upgraded, but disputed the idea the city wants to get rid of it and the auditorium for financial reasons.

The university, Cunningham explained at Tuesday's meeting, wants to make sizeable improvements the city is unable to finance. Tech is primarily interested in renovating the coliseum to make it better suited for basketball, and possibly for indoor football workouts.

The auditorium and coliseum are owned by the city and a provision in the city charter stipulates the city may not "abandon" the auditorium-coliseum without the consent of voters.

However, the charter also provides that no election shall be required prior to "sale or other disposition of fixtures, equipment, furnishings or appurtenant structures which have become obsolete or which are no longer necessary or desirable to the continued operation..."

City officials say the second clause could be interpreted to mean no election would be required to negotiate transfer of the property to the university.

In a related development, the board instructed city finance director Robert Messengale to prepare a cost analysis update by the board's April 21 meeting to present to Tech for rental rate contract purposes.

During a discussion of proposed auditorium-coliseum rate changes, facility director Vicki Key said she did not feel the sale of the buildings to Tech would cause a substantial change in the Civic Center's business, although she acknowledged an element of competition would be introduced and some revenue might be lost.

Banks Nationwide Cut Prime Rate To 18 Percent

NEW YORK (AP) — With their cost of funds falling and demands for business loans off sharply, major banks on Tuesday cut their prime lending rates to 18 percent, the lowest in more than three months.

Citibank, the nation's second-largest commercial bank, led the move by trimming its prime rate from the 18.5 percent level that had prevailed nationwide for the past week.

Banks large and small were quick to follow, including No. 1 Bank of America in San Francisco.

The prime rate is what banks charge on short-term loans to their best-risk corporate customers. Smaller businesses usually are charged at least one percentage point above the prime.

The prime does not apply to consumer loans. Rates on those loans are limited by law in most states. But the prime is considered a weather vane of trends in all kinds of interest rates.

Economists have sharp differences on where the prime rate is heading, with predictions ranging from a 10 percent prime rate to an unprecedented 30 percent rate in the months ahead.

The prime lending rate had been at 18.5 percent or higher at major banks since Dec. 2, peaking at 21.5 percent on Dec. 19 before it began drifting lower.

The latest rate reductions were spurred by lagging demand for business loans from banks and declines in banks' cost of acquiring funds.

Business loans on the books of the nation's leading banks dropped $5.1 billion between Jan. 1 and Feb. 25, according to the Federal Reserve Board.

Some of that loan business has turned to less expensive means of financing.

Energy Researchers To Present Papers

PLAINVIEW (Special) — Seven Wayland Baptist College professors and students will present alternate energy research papers to the Texas Academy of Science March 19 to 21 at The University of Texas at Austin.

Dr. Bruce D. Dod, head of the Department of Physical Sciences, and Dr. Harold Temple, associate professor of chemistry, will lead the presentation for the West Texas school.

Dealing with alternate energy sources from farm-related waste products, Dod, along with Ray Nance of Carlsbad, N.M., and Dennis Carter of Little Elm, will discuss research including the Pennsylvania Permian Time surface slope.

In addition, Nike Akande of Ibadan, Nigeria, and Greg Wilson of Roswell, N.M., will assist Temple in the discussion of methane production from cattle rumen content.

Lorrie Greene of Albuquerque, N.M., will join Temple and Wilson on the utilization of cotton burrs for the production of ethanol.

Local Man Charged In Shooting Injury

A 24-year-old Lubbock man has been charged with attempted murder in connection with a shooting incident outside a North University doughnut shop Saturday in which Jack Edward Bryant Jr., 27, was felled by a single gunshot wound to the throat.

D.J. Turner, of 1119 E. Owens St., a former relative of Bryant's, is charged with shooting Bryant with a .22-caliber rifle. The Criminal District Attorney's office has recommended that his bond be set at $15,000 for the offense.

Police said the shooting was the culmination of two weeks of arguing between Bryant and his former in-laws. The shooting occurred outside the Dunkin Doughnuts Shop on North University where Bryant's mother works.

The victim was with his wife and child when the shooting occurred.

Bryant, of 5616 Quirt Ave., was listed in fair condition at Lubbock General Hospital Tuesday.

Bilingual Education Increases Sought

TYLER (AP) — Two education groups have asked a federal judge to order the state to more than triple the number of bilingual teachers employed in Texas schools by 1984.

The groups, plaintiffs in an education suit, also asked U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice to appoint two court masters and 20 regional monitors to oversee whatever bilingual education plan the court imposes.

The judge in January found that the state's system was wholly inadequate and said Texas must offer bilingual education to any Spanish speaking student needing it in any grade.

He had set Monday as a deadline for the plaintiffs and the state to submit recommendations about bilingual education if they were unable to agree on a plan.

The Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund and the Harvard Center for Law and Education met the deadline, submitting a single plan. The U.S. Justice Department was expected to submit its recommendations Tuesday, a clerk in Justice's office said.

The state has asked that the deadline be extended to June 15, two weeks after the state Legislature's current session ends.

Gov. Bill Clements, Lt. Gov. Bill Tobby and House Speaker Bill Clayton last Friday announced the formation of a joint task force to develop a plan beyond the third grade, the last grade for which bilingual education is required by the state.

The plan suggested by the two plaintiffs calls for training and certifying 20-100 bilingual teachers within six years, according to Norma Solis, a lawyer and negotiator for Legal Defense.

YOUR PERMANENT NUMBERS: Physical: 21, Emotional: 17, Intellectual: 19

Step 1 — Year of birth. Read down the left hand column to find the last number in the year of your birth then go across to the appropriate decade. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

1910-19	1920-29	1930-39	1940-49	1950-59	1960-69	1970-79

I	I	I	I	I	I	I

Step 2 — Month of birth. Find the corresponding numbers for the month you were born. If your month is February, and your year numbers were preceded by a B, your month numbers would be B for Physical, 3 for Emotional and 31 for Intellectual. Enter your own numbers in the figure chart for Step 2.

HEARTLINE: My husband is not expected to live more than three months. He is in a nursing home now. The fact that my husband is dying has been an emotional strain on myself and especially my children. I have at least come to accept it but my two children do not seem to want to face the fact. Everytime I try to talk to them they just don't want to discuss anything that reminds them.

I have no experience with funeral planning and cannot talk to them about it. I need some information about the prices of funerals and burial services. H.B.

ANSWER: We do understand your situation. We see it often, and it is always difficult to comprehend and coordinate funeral and burial arrangements, especially under the circumstances you describe.

First, remember that people who arrange funerals and sell cemetery lots do this for a living. They are there to make a profit and prices are very high.

It is also a fact that it is easy for a person to be swept into the emotional decision of buying the best for the loved one. Many widows and families simply cannot afford the best, and there are, in most cases, beautiful caskets priced a lot less. It would not be wise to assume that the funeral home always has your best financial interests in mind.

The price of each following item may vary considerably depending on the part of the country in which you live. The ranges are as follows:

Professional service and facilities — $700 to $2,000.

Casket: cloth-covered wood — $300 and up; mahogany wood — $2,500 and up; bronze metal — $2,900 and up; pine — $100 and up. Grave liner (usually bought from cemetery) $75.00 to $300. Headstone or bronze marker — $75.00 to $300. Headstone or bronze marker — $75.00 to $750. Transportation and taxes — $80.00 and up. Single burial lot in cemetery — $400 to $1,500, single occupant in mausoleum — $500 to $5,000.

CAREERS

By JOYCE LAIN KENNEDY

Dear Joyce: I'm 47, have a teen-age daughter and want to acquire job skills without spending too much time or money. I'm planning to attend a community college in Denver to get an associate degree in dietetic technology. Can you tell me about the nature of the work. If jobs are plentiful and what salary a beginner can expect to make?

N.G. Aurora, Colo.

The growing emphasis on health care and nutrition throughout the country and the need for skilled people to take over some of the dietitian's duties have improved opportunities for dietetic technicians.

But graduates looking for jobs may find the cupboard bare in some parts of the country where growth is slow. So ask employers in your area what the job prospects are likely to be when you've finished your training.

Before you enroll in a program at any community college, find out if it is approved by the American Dietetic Association; some employers hire only graduates of ADA-approved programs.

As a beginner you'll earn between $10,000 and $13,000 annually; the median is $11,000. Jobs are found in hospitals, nursing homes, child-and-geriatric-care centers, industrial food-service establishments, clinics and youth centers.

During your two-year training period, you'll gain experience through practicum arranged by the school and be expected to develop expertise in food administration or nutrition care.

If you choose food administration, you'll learn to assist a dietitian in managing cafeterias, developing standardized recipes and training personnel. You'll also learn how to control the budget, schedule employees and production and maintain safety and sanitation standards.

Should you decide on nutrition care, you'll learn how to work with a dietitian to calculate special diets, evaluate patients' diets and teach them sound nutritional habits. You'll also learn skills enabling you to help a dietitian direct food services and day-care centers or participate in community programs that teach low-income families how to buy and prepare nutritious, low-cost food.

The ADA recommends that technicians who want more responsibility and higher pay move up to dietitian status by completing an ADA-approved bachelors degree program in nutrition, dietetics, food science, food-service management or home economics.

Airline Postpones Meeting With Stockholders

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Continental Airlines, now largely owned by Texas International Airlines, Tuesday cancelled the special meeting it had called for stockholders to vote on a proposed merger with Western Airlines.

"Postponement of the meeting will allow management additional time to deal with the complex situation which has developed since Texas International Airlines announced its tender offer for six million shares of Continental's common stock and its commitment to vote those shares against our proposed merger with Western Airlines," Continental President A.L. Feldman said in a letter to shareholders.

"As you know, Texas International has announced that it has purchased 5,250,000 shares of Continental common stock tendered in response to its offer," Feldman said. "While Texas International has stated that these shares and the 1,452,200 shares previously purchased will be voted against the proposed consolidation of Continental and Western, Texas International has not received authority from the Civil Aeronautics Board to exercise control of Continental and may not do so without CAB approval."

Feldman said Texas International planned to buy more of Continental, but he hinted that the larger carrier may resist. Continental has already filed several legal challenges to the takeover bid by the Houston-based airline.

State Senators Approve 26 New Judges To Handle Criminal Appeal Cases

AUSTIN (AP) — State senators approved Tuesday 26 new judges to handle expansion of the state's criminal appeals courts, plus 18 new district courts to handle crime prosecution at the lower level.

The voice vote on creating intermediate courts of criminal appeals follows approval of a constitution change by voters in 1980 to let the 14 courts of civil appeals handle criminal cases also.

The measure went to the House where more controversy is expected over sharing the appeal authority of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals with the lower courts that now handle only civil cases.

Under the new voter-approved policy appeals of criminal cases decided in district courts — except capital cases — will go to the "Courts of Appeals." Appeals from these go to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Appeals of civil cases in district courts will go to the Courts of Appeals also, with a last appeal to the Texas Supreme Court.

The bill by Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, would cost more than $3.2 million a year with six new appeals judges in Houston, six in Dallas, three in Corpus Christi, three in Austin, three in San Antonio, three in Fort Worth and one more each in Amarillo and El Paso.

A major point of dispute in Farabee's bill was the disposition of a 3,200-case backlog in the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals. Sen. Jack Ogg, D-Houston, succeeded in eliminating Farabee's first plan to let the Court of Criminal Appeals keep 1,800 cases and hand down 1,400 other appeals to the new intermediate courts.

Farabee offered what he said was a compromise Tuesday that let the Courts of Criminal Appeals keep 1,800 cases but allocate 1,400 to courts that would get new judges. No court would receive more than 75 of the appeal cases for each new judge.

Twenty-one of the judges will be appointed next Sept. 1. Two others would be appointed for the Fort Worth district in 1982 and three new judges for the Austin court would be elected in 1983.

An effort by Sen. Pete Snelson, D-Midland, to provide that the judges of the courts of appeals would be paid a minimum of $3,000 less than associate justices failed 14-17.

Floyd Due Competency Hearing

Accused Lubbock sniper Teddy Glyn Floyd will have a hearing in April to determine if he is mentally competent to stand trial for several random shootings on city streets last month.

Floyd, 38, of Route 2, Lubbock, was indicted last week on three separate counts of attempted murder and one of unlawfully carrying a weapon after he allegedly fired into a car Feb. 12, injuring a 5-year-old child and his mother, and again fired into a vehicle Feb. 24 without injuring its occupant.

Defense attorney Dick Alexander claims Floyd is incompetent to stand trial because he does not have sufficient ability to consult with his attorney and does not have a rational understanding of the proceedings against him. Floyd has suffered from and been treated for various physical and mental diseases and defects in recent months, according to Alexander's motion filed in district court.

The defense intends to offer evidence of Floyd's alleged insanity at his trial, Alexander said.

Judge William Shaver ordered Floyd be examined by psychologist Dr. Preston R. Shaw and set a hearing date of April 15 to determine if Floyd is competent to stand trial.

Jury Finds Defendant Guilty Of Murder In Firecrackers Dispute

By KIM COBB
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Jurors Tuesday found a Lubbock man guilty of murder for fatally shooting his neighbor during a dispute over firecrackers. The jury took just over an hour to find

Byron Johnson Smith Jr. guilty of the murder of Amador Gutierrez, casting aside Johnson's explanation he shot his neighbor because he thought Gutierrez was going for a gun. The 140th District Court panel returns to the courtroom this morning to assess Smith's punishment for the first degree felony. The 39-year-old man could face from five to 99 years imprisonment. "Everybody thought they were going to a softball game except Byron Smith," prosecutor Travis Ware argued. Several witnesses had testified that Gutierrez, his brother-in-law Lewis Hernandez and Hernandez's son, Jose, were climbing into the car to go to a softball game when they noticed Smith leveling a gun at them. Ware disputed Smith's witness stand testimony he shot Gutierrez because he thought he had a gun, saying Gutierrez never had a weapon with which to threaten Smith.

that it appears he's in danger. He warned the jury that there are a lot of "rabbit trails" jurors could follow away from the facts, but that his client did have adequate cause to shoot Gutierrez. Earlier in the day 8-year-old Jose Hernandez, barely tall enough to see over the witness box, described to the jury the moments just before Smith shot Gutierrez. The child was called to the witness stand to rebut the defendant's testimony that he had shot Gutierrez because he thought he was reaching for a gun.

softball game when he saw Smith aiming a rifle at them. Jose testified that Gutierrez drove over to where Smith was standing and got out of the car to ask him why he had the rifle trained on them. His uncle asked Smith what he was doing with the rifle, the child continued, to which Smith reportedly answered, "Stop popping firecrackers 'cause you're scaring my goats." His uncle never moved as if to take anything from the car before Smith shot him, Jose testified.

Smith, who has authored a cookbook on western outdoor cooking, testified earlier that he had seen Gutierrez fire a gun out in the street at some time. The little boy told the court that he, his uncle and his father, Lewis Hernandez, were getting into a car to go to a softball game when he saw Smith aiming a rifle at them. Jose testified that Gutierrez drove over to where Smith was standing and got out of the car to ask him why he had the rifle trained on them. His uncle asked Smith what he was doing with the rifle, the child continued, to which Smith reportedly answered, "Stop popping firecrackers 'cause you're scaring my goats." His uncle never moved as if to take anything from the car before Smith shot him, Jose testified.

Household Blaze Fatal To Three Small Children

Jury Finds Woman Innocent In Shooting

A 72nd District Court jury took just less than an hour Tuesday to find Vivian Freeman innocent of attempted murder after hearing the defense's explanation the shooting of four-months pregnant Anette Mitchell was in self-defense.

Jurors delivered the acquittal after about a day and a half of testimony in the case against Miss Freeman, 35, of 3302 E. Baylor St. She was charged with attempted murder after a July 4 shooting incident outside an Idalou Road club.

 Mrs. Mitchell lost her unborn child as a result of the shooting.

A witness described to the court Tuesday how Miss Freeman had not talked to Mrs. Mitchell until she was leaving the nightclub the two women had been patronizing. Miss Freeman was walking out when Mrs. Mitchell spoke rudely to her, the witness said.

Mrs. Mitchell was preparing to get in to a car when she pulled a small gun from her purse, the witness continued. Miss Freeman shot Mrs. Mitchell in self-defense, the witness told the court.

"I don't know why she pulled that gun on me," the witness quoted Miss Freeman. "I just wanted to talk to her."
 Police found the woman lying in the seat of a 1976 Ford stationwagon, a single bullet hole in the door and a .38-caliber slug on the seat.

Witness Lewis Walker, who described himself as an unemployed man who had served prison time, told the court he knew both the victim and Miss Freeman.

He testified before the 72nd District Court jury that he had at one time dated Mrs. Mitchell.

He had talked with Mrs. Mitchell at the Idalou Road club, Walker testified, but she got up and left before he did. When he left the club, he walked into the shooting incident, he told the court.

He described seeing Miss Freeman as Mrs. Mitchell at a car arguing. He saw Miss Freeman reach down for her purse and then heard three shots, the witness testified.

Testimony was scheduled to continue this morning in presiding Judge Denzil Bevers' court.

Water District Vote Count Challenged

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

George W. Whitworth claims that local pharmacist Dale Miller is at least one — and possibly as many as three votes — short in his effort to have a new board election ordered for the Lubbock County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1.

Miller, a three-year veteran of the water board, filed suit against Whitworth last month, contesting the Jan. 17 elections.

An official canvass conducted by the water board Feb. 2 showed that Miller lost his re-election bid to Whitworth, a Lubbock fireman, by only 18 votes.

Also elected in that balloting was R.M. "Max" Wiser, who tallied more than a 50-vote lead over all other candidates in the race.

In his lawsuit, Miller contended that 20 of the 473 ballots counted in the board elections were cast by persons who were not registered to vote. Those 20 contested votes were enough to have changed the outcome of the election, Miller claimed.

But in his response filed Monday, Whitworth stated that some of the voters being contested by Miller were actually registered to vote and that Miller lacked a sufficient number of alleged illegal votes to have changed the election's course.

The response filed by Whitworth agreed with Miller's contention that 16 ballots cast in the absentee voting box were by unregistered voters.

However, Whitworth disputed Miller's allegations that at least four other unregistered voters were allowed to cast ballots at the Shallowater, Slaton and Lubbock Fire Station No. 6 voting boxes.

According to Whitworth's response, at least two of those contested voters were properly registered to vote but failed to sign their affidavits using the names shown on their voter registration certificates.

A third contest voter "presumed that she was a qualified voters" because she never received a voter registration renewal form, Whitworth said in the response.

Whitworth claimed that her vote did not change the election results because she did not vote for either candidate involved in the election contest.

The response from Whitworth agreed, however, that one contested voter at Slaton "probably is not a qualified voter."

By Whitworth's counting, that brings the total of alleged unregistered voters to 17. Even if all 17 of those contested voters cast their ballots for Whitworth, the response claimed he still would have won the election by one vote.

Whitworth further alleges "upon information and belief" that at least two of the alleged unregistered voters actually cast their ballots for Miller.

In his response, Whitworth asks the court to deny Miller's request for a new election and "find that said election was duly and legally held." Whitworth also asked that he be declared an elected director of the water board.

District Judge Robert Montgomery of Memphis has been appointed to hear the election contest suit, which was filed here in 72nd District Court.

Montgomery said this morning that he has not set a hearing date for the suit because he still had not received a copy of Whitworth's response.

This is the second election contest suit filed here within the past year. Last summer, defeated Precinct 3 commissioner candidate Eliseo Solis sued Franklin Dunn, contesting the outcome of the Democratic primary runoff.

Montgomery also served as the presiding judge in that lawsuit and ruled that 81 illegal votes were cast in the runoff. However, Montgomery decided that a new election was not necessary because Dunn defeated Solis by a 107-vote margin.

Conference Views Art Of Touch

Touching fulfills a basic need. Learning to touch can extend capabilities for meeting more than basic needs.

"Touch: Therapeutic use of Self" will be the focus of a six-hour continuing nursing education conference Friday at the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center in Lubbock. The conference is open to nurses, other health professionals and the general public.

"We will work beyond societal constraints on touching to help people use their own innate skills through touching," said course instructor Susan Newfield, R.N., M.S.N. Several practice sessions will be conducted throughout the course to help develop a level of confidence in each of the participants.

The course will review the theory of therapeutic touch and identify its uses. Particular attention will be given to using touch to help ease pain, to promote relaxation and to promote healing.

Fee for the course is $25. For registration information, contact the TTUHSC Office of Continuing Nursing Education at (806) 743-2734.

Area Board Approves Federal Funding Bid

By DESBI STALTER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

South Plains Association of Governments board members Tuesday approved without discussion a federal funding application by the region's health planning agency, although medical groups registered opposition in writing to the agency's continuance.

A $256,670 grant request from South Plains Health Systems Inc. was given favorable comment by the board. The health systems agency covers 15 counties and is charged with health planning, health care resource development and review of various medical projects.

Health systems agencies have been indicated as targets for Reagan administration budget cuts. And, the American Medical Association has publicly come out against the agencies because the responsibility of funding reviews lies with local board members, some of whom are not directly related to the medical field.

Several area hospital groups, including Lubbock's Highland Hospital, opposed the funding proposal in letters to SPAG. However, nearly as many proponents, including several county judges, and Crosbyton Clinic Hospital, wrote in favor of the agency.

Some in opposition agreed with the AMA position, while others said the agency does not meet local needs, instead serving as a local bureaucracy to carry out federal regulations.

SPAG's comment is included with the budget proposal when it goes to the Department of Health and Human Resources for a final decision.

However, none of the group made spoken comments at today's meeting, and the board passed the favorable comment unanimously.

In another matter, board members gave approval to a technical assistance grant being requested by Texas Tech University from the federal Economic Development Administration. The grant would fund a feasibility study to determine whether products manufactured from mesquite could be economically marketed on the South Plains.

Packets of various mesquite by-products were distributed to the board for inspection.

The products are manufactured by a harvester designed by Dr. Willie Ulich, professor of agricultural engineering and technology at Tech. Ulich explained that the harvester is equipped with a tripper which can distribute herbicide after harvesting to kill off remnants of the bushes.

Products being considered by Tech range from mesquite logs to particle and fiber board.

Ulich estimated that the products could have a $25 million impact on South Plains economy, noting that each pound of mesquite produces one-fifth the amount of energy produced by gasoline. With 52 million acres of mesquite available in the state, he said, energy equal to 4 billion gallons of crude oil could be produced.

Texas Tech is asking for $9,000 in federal money to fund the study of the most feasible by-product.

The board also heard a report on an amendment proposed by U.S. Sen. John Tower to the Intergovernmental Cooperation Act of 1968. The amendment is being introduced to ensure regional councils of government have a voice in federal funding applications.

Tower claims the regional councils' opinions are too often ignored by federal funding agencies although the purpose of local reviews is to give the smaller entities an opinion in the decision.

Parents Of Gifted Children Hold Meeting

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The seeds of a parent advocacy group for gifted and talented children were sown Monday night at a meeting of Lubbock public school officials and parents seeking services for their exceptional youngsters.

"I guarantee we are going to have an advocacy group to talk to the school board," said parent William Thomas McClure after the information session that he organized at Texas Tech University.

School officials were invited to the monthly meeting of parents and teachers who have children with outstanding abilities in the pre-school Child Development Center experimental project at Tech. Parents quizzed administrators and principals about district services for gifted and talented children, while several school trustees invited the parents to organize and advise them on needed programs.

Supt. Ed Irons told the small gathering that the district has no "special program" for the gifted and talented, defined by the U.S. Office of Education as individuals capable of high performance in: general intellectual ability, specific academic aptitude, creative or productive thinking, leadership ability and visual and performing arts ability. But Irons indicated he hopes to start trying to identify such youngsters next year.

School officials also discussed programs such as the Iles Elementary, Hutchinson Junior High and Lubbock High (LEAP) magnet programs designed to offer individualized instruction.

But following the meeting McClure noted the programs are not consistent between schools and that the school district "has no long range plans to do anything about" helping the gifted and talented.

He criticized school officials who appeared to dismiss the possibility that the district has any super-genius children, saying, "How do they know there's not another Einstein or Beethoven there?"

Although school officials and other participants discussed developing programs at the least costly level, McClure, director of planning for South Plains Health Systems Inc., noted that funding is available for gifted and talented programs from the state education agency. He also chastised the state for downgrad-ing such services, saying the Texas Education Agency office for the gifted and talented is a one-person operation.

But Irons told the assembly of parents earlier that the school district prefers to make programs available at the local level.

The superintendent explained to the group that "our program is more of an individualized, prescriptive diagnostic program for children identified with special talents." He admitted the district has "had problems" with identification of the gifted, saying "the area has been neglected in public education since the beginning of public education."

However, Ed Stokes, director of elementary education for the district noted that his department currently is conducting two pilot programs that provide screening for developmental problems as well as acceleration.

Parents discussed the problems of gifted and talented children, who make up an estimated 3 to 5 percent of the school enrollment, and suggested ideas to meet their needs. Marky Cauley, the parent of a child in the Tech program noted that parents are eager for services

Shine On Polyester Blouse Won't Come Out

DEAR HELOISE:
This is really taking a long shot chance, but I'll never know if I don't ask...
I have a beautiful 100 percent polyester blouse. A too-hot iron was used mistakenly on the sleeve, consequently it left a shine spot, which I have been unable to remove.
Do you have a solution to this problem? — Mrs. Davis while watching my favorite TV program, then put them away during commercials.

Unrelated tip:
When my kids were younger, I had trouble getting the sheet to stay on the crib mattress so I made slip-on sheets, pillowcase style, out of twin-size sheets.
The baby couldn't pull the sheet off and if one side became damp in the middle of the night, I just had to flip over the mattress! — Linda

QUILTING CUE

DEAR HELOISE:
When making a tied quilt, sew up three sides of the top and bottom lining as you would when making a large pillowcase.

Leave the case wrong side out and lay the batting on top of it. Turn by rolling from sewn end, rolling to the underside of the case.

When finished rolling, turn the case right side out and un-roll. The batting will be inside the case and you have only one end to close. Tie the quilt as usual. — Mrs. R.E. Leisy

COLORFUL SLEIGH

DEAR HELOISE:
For anyone who has to have their arm

in a sling, here are a couple of suggestions which I have found to be helpful...
First of all, choose a soft material in a bright, cheery color — mine is red flannel. Then, instead of tying it at the neck, sew two small strips of self-gripping tape securely to the ends of the sling.
Eliminates that knot and is easier on your neck. — From one who knows

The late George Kaufman once said that there were two ways to tell when a certain bad player held a good hand. First, his face would light up and then he would misplay it.

South's face lit up as he opened two spades. The first club appeared when partner responded two no trump and a real frown appeared when he saw the dummy.

He ruffed the heart lead and slowly and carefully ran off all his trumps. Unfortunately for South, East managed to hang on to three diamonds and three clubs and while South got 100 points for his honors he was still down one.

Do you see how South misplayed the hand? Once that king of hearts was led South had been handed his contract on a silver platter.

He could set up a heart trick in dummy. He should ruff high, lead a spade to dummy's ten, note carefully that East had shown out, play either the queen, ten or nine of hearts from dummy and discard one of his minor suit losers. It wouldn't matter what West led then. South would lead a low spade, finesse dummy's seven if necessary, lead another heart from dummy, discard an appropriate loser and eventually get to discard one loser on what would become a good heart.

Spring Fashions Favor Flowers

NEW YORK (Special) — According to the latest reports from "W," bible of the fashion industry, American women will be walking gardens this spring. Forecast is for a bumper season in "English garden party" looks abloom with flower prints in flower colors.

Not to be outdone, interior designers and stylists are busy cultivating wall-covering collections from such leading stylists as Bonnie Bledsoe who has just finished major new "Secret Garden" collection for Kassel, blossoming with floral wallcoverings and correlated fabrics based on real life and story-book gardens.

Notes Bledsoe, "Secret Garden" is designed to unlock the doors to that fantasy world that is everyone's reality. What better backdrop for living than a garden wall? Why should any wall be painted wasteland? We in America are just beginning to realize what wallcoverings can do for a wall — and for a home!

Formal gardens. Wild gardens. Gardens plucked from an artist's canvas. Nature's own gardens nested in forests and springing up in clumps along pine-needled paths. Rock gardens. Ocean gardens. Story-book gardens. They are all captured in the "scentuous" designs in this collection of wallcoverings and fabrics to turn any room into a gazebo, no matter how dreary or sparse the architecture.

The titles themselves suggest the possibilities.

There's "Sea Anemone," an underwater fantasy garden shimmering in opalescent shades. There's "Pressed flowers," a pattern that looks as if it were plucked from a scrapbook and reminiscent of the stencilled designs on walls of old. There's "Bouquet," a pattern capturing the delightful whimsy the past in a palette of colorations of suit any present. There's "Tranquility," petals caught in crayon strokes. "Bamboo Floral," "Border Path," "Patches" — the designs bring the faces of nature to life in many casts.

Colors reflect the softness of spring, the brilliance of summer, the blaze of autumn in a pale and bright palette sprinkled with the shades that spell today's fashion news. Sky and sand, flax and fern, jonquil and lilac, burnished mum — these are joyous colors that are natural backdrops to any decorating scheme.

A decorating bonus is the inclusion of fabrics to coordinate with the wall-coverings, these of 100 percent cotton that has been scotchgarded for easy care. There are also correlated textured and sheers, these of polyester blends and color-matched to take the guesswork out of room planning and design.

New and newsworthy in this book are the group of borders which are offered. Long a favorite with interior designers, borders on walls, as in gardens, define and refine space.

Unfortunately no, dear heart, since the fabric of the blouse is made of synthetic fiber.

You see, when the threads of this material are subjected to an iron which is too hot, for instance, they actually melt and fuse together, causing a shiny spot which no amount of washing or dry cleaning will remove.

I have always suggested that a press cloth or something similar be used when ironing synthetic fabrics as it's always better to be safe than sorry later. What I do is make a "sock" to fit the iron out of some scrap material — wool is best if you can lay your hands on a piece.

Place the iron on the fabric and draw a pattern around it. Add one inch to this measurement, zig-zag a narrow piece of elastic, long enough to fit around the iron snugly, onto the edge of the material and you're finished.

These "socks" are especially good to use when pressing pants — especially those made of synthetic material. They also are really great to use when sewing with these fabrics, as a press cloth sometimes gets in the way and you are pressing blind.

But, back to shiny spots for a moment...

On some fabrics, you can use a terry cloth dipped in plain household white vinegar and rub the spot vigorously.

Afterwards, don't press the spot — just let it air dry. The vinegar odor will disappear along with the shine.

As I said, this works on some fabrics but in the case of polyesters, etc., the shine usually is permanent.

So, don't forget to cover these fabrics, or the iron, before pressing. An ounce of prevention is always worth more than a pound of cure, and even more so these days when replacement costs on most everything have sky-rocketed. Hugs. — Heloise

Congestive Heart Failure Condition Should Not Depress Male Patient

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.
Dear Dr. Donohue: My husband went into the hospital for 10 days. On his bill the hospital stated that his problem was "CHF" and edema. His doctor said he had dropsy. He's been told to take it easy. Some of our friends call it heart leakage. Is all this the same? My husband is depressed. —J.P.

They all refer to the same problem. That's the short answer.

Dropsy is the old-fashioned word for congestive heart failure (CHF). I'll try to explain it to you. Your husband need not be depressed.

The ventricle is a heart chamber where blood is stored between the beats that pump it out into the body. The chamber is constantly refilling itself by way of incoming veins that carry fresh blood from the lungs. Now, if you will, consider the ventricle to be a water-filled bucket constantly being refilled by a garden hose (representing the veins). Further, consider yourself as taking the place of the heart's pump by using a ladle to empty the bucket so that it won't overflow.

The heart has to pump 115,000 times a day, so your arms would get pretty tired in a short time and the bucket would begin overflowing and overflowing, in this case backing up into the hose, just as the ventricle blood backs up into the veins. That is dropsy (or congestive heart failure).

As the blood backs up, pressure rises in the veins and eventually its fluid leaks out into places where it does not belong. It can spill over into the lungs, causing shortness of breath. Or it can leak out into body tissue causing swelling (edema). This is all happening because the heart's pumping mechanism has become weakened. That is not unusual, since by age 70 the average heart has beat about 300 million mes.

Congestive heart failure can be treated successfully. Digitalis drugs can strengthen weakened heart muscles to eliminate the backup. Sometimes a bit of the extra fluid can be removed by diuretics. They allow the body to get rid of excess fluid (through urination). Your husband may have to limit salt use because, as you know, that tends to retain body fluid.

Your husband should follow his doctor's advice about salt and not overdoing things. If he gets short of breath or notices foot and ankle swelling, he should report that. It may mean further adjustments are needed in whatever medicine his doctor has prescribed. If he puts on weight that he cannot trace to calorie intake, that should be reported too. It can be a subtle sign that he is again retaining too much fluid. With proper medicines, lifestyle and diet, he can enjoy many productive years with his dropsy.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My mother has been diagnosed as having chronic obstructive pulmonary disease. Would you please explain? —Mrs. N.D.C.

There are three major illnesses that fall into the obstructive pulmonary disease category — emphysema, bronchitis and asthma. They all have in common an obstruction of air flow to the lungs. The chronic part denotes a long-standing condition. Even though the term chronic obstructive disease sounds ominous it does not imply hopelessness. There are many degrees of seriousness and many ways to treat each kind. If you'd like me to try to explain what is done for the articular chronic obstructive pulmonary disease your mother has, just write back.

Parents Of Gifted Children Meet With Public School Officials

 for their special children, adding that if the meeting had been advertised in the newspaper, the Municipal Coliseum would have been necessary to accommodate the crowd.
 Mrs. Cauley said that such children can soon develop into discipline problems if they have no guidance. "Somehow we are not meeting their needs." She suggested a resource room the youngsters can go to during the day for the individualized instruction they may need in some areas. "If you could just have one teacher per grade and have these children channeled toward them," she said.
 She said she would like to see the district provide a teacher "who would understand their problem rather than label them as a behavioral problem."
 Parent Pat Northington also called for in-service sessions to train teachers in the handling of gifted and talented youngsters. "Teachers don't know how to deal with the children; they're afraid of the children."

 At one point, trustee Liz Sisco turned the tables on the group, asking for the parents' total support and guidance to supplement any services provided by the schools. "If you have a gifted child, to a certain extent, you are cursed," she said, noting such a student's frustration and social problems.
 She warned the parents not to "dump" their children on the schools, saying that "teachers can't possibly help without your complete support." She added, "If your child is truly academically gifted...he probably will be on the outside socially. And you've got to be prepared to deal with that."
 But one parent called attention to her child's problem at school, rather than at home. She explained that her daughter could have gone right to first grade, but the youngster chose to go through kindergarten. As a result, the mother said, the child has ended up teaching her own classmates, but is not being challenged herself.

 "We're sending her to school and bringing her home to teach her," the parent, who asked not to be identified, said.
 Inadvertently touching on the age-old, controversial issue of school board meeting times, Mrs. Sisco suggested the parents come to board meetings and organize their efforts. "The group that's making the most noise, gets the attention first."
 She said she is "constantly amazed" that few people show up at the 7:15 a.m. monthly board meetings despite public notice in the newspaper.
 But one parent said it is "unrealistic for parents to show up at the morning meetings," noting that babysitters are not readily available at such an early hour.

 Lubbock school officials also revealed some new plans for next year to accommodate talented children, including the addition of a foreign language course during the regular school day at Iles, and the expansion of the Iles enrollment. Irons said school officials are considering

Police Find Bodies Of Slain Couple

BERGAMO, Italy (AP) — The bodies of a Roman nobleman and his wife, allegedly kidnapped 14 months ago, have been found buried in shallow graves in the countryside near this northern city, police said Tuesday.
 A cousin of the couple, in jail on a separate murder charge, is suspected of having killed the couple, authorities said.
 Carlo Federico Bianco di San Secondo, 58, and his wife Paola De Stefani, 53, were each shot in the head. Their bodies were discovered by a farm worker on the estate of the cousin, Eugenio De Paolini del Vecchio, 37.
 De Paolini Del Vecchio, a biologist, was jailed early last year and charged with murdering his stepfather.

'M*A*S*H' Tops List As CBS Wins Ratings Without 'Dallas'

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS pre-empted "Dallas," the season's No. 1 show, but still won the ratings race, as seven of its programs placed in the week's Top 10, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

CBS won the networks' three-way competition for the third week in a row and the 16th time in 19 weeks with a rating of 19.6. ABC, after a week in third place, regained the runner-up position with a rating of 17.3, and NBC was third at 15.8.

The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 19.6 percent of the nation's TV-equipped homes were tuned to CBS.

CBS ran back-to-back episodes of "The Dukes of Hazzard," a new installment in the series' normal timeslot and a rerun in the period belonging to "Dallas." The original episode finished third for the week ending March 8, behind CBS' "M*A*S*H" and last season's top-rated program, "60 Minutes," also from CBS. The rerun finished 10th.

The rating for "M*A*S*H" was 27.4. Nielsen says that means of all the nation's homes with television, 27.4 percent at least part of the program.

NBC's "Little House on the Prairie," a consistent hit, was the highest-rated of the non-CBS programs — No. 5. ABC's most-watched show of the week, "The Love Boat" was eighth.

All of the Top 10 shows were from continuing series. CBS' broadcast of its own "People's Choice Awards" show was No. 13, with a CBS made-for-TV movie, "The Pride of Jesse Hallam," tied for 18th.

NBC listed three of the week's five lowest-rated programs, including "Nero Wolfe" in 62nd place, a movie, "Death Ray 2000," 63rd, and "NBC Magazine with David Brinkley" 65th. ABC's "I'm a Big Girl Now" was 61st, and "First Love," a movie on CBS, 64th.

Here are the week's 10 highest-rated shows:

NBC's "Trapper John, M.D.," CBS' "Three's Company," ABC's "People's Choice Awards," CBS' "Laverne and Shirley," ABC's "Real People," NBC's "Hart to Hart," ABC's "CHiPs," NBC, and "Diff'rent Strokes," NBC. Movie: "The Pride of Jesse Hallam," CBS, and "That's Incredible," ABC, three-way tie.

Rather's Debut Racks Up Top Spot In Ratings

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dan Rather's Monday night debut as anchorman for the CBS "Evening News" racked up overnight Nielsen ratings in three key markets, keeping CBS at the head of the pack in news coverage.

In New York, CBS drew a rating of 9.6, with an audience share of 16 per cent. Frank Reynolds' competing ABC interview with President Reagan brought up the rear, with an 8.2 rating and a 13 share, and NBC's John Chancellor landed in second place, with a rating of 8.3 and a 14 share.

In Los Angeles and Chicago, the margins were wider.

Holbrook Film To View Death Of Teen-Ager

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "There are plenty of shows on television that give the police their due, even glorify them," observes actor Hal Holbrook. "When the police make bad mistakes, that should be shown, too."

The bad side will be seen tonight (Wednesday, March 11) when CBS presents "The Killing of Randy Webster," based on a real-life case. Webster was a free-spirited Shreveport, La., 17-year-old who escaped home problems for a spree in Houston in 1977. Captured by police after a high-speed chase in a stolen van, the young man was shot and killed by an officer.

Police claimed Webster threatened them with a gun that was found at the scene. Later evidence proved that the gun was a "throwdown," planted by police after the shooting.

Holbrook became enthusiastic about "The Killing of Randy Webster" after reading Scott Swanton's script — "it was the kind of subject I wanted to see get on television." While conceding the policeman's job is not easy, the actor contends that abuses such as throwdowns happen more than people know.

The actor made his comments after witnessing the film in a screening room in mid-Hollywood. A perfectionist, he grumbled at one of his scenes: "God, that's awful! So corny." But to a less subjective viewer, the movie seemed powerful, as well as disturbing.

Holbrook approached the role of Randy Webster's father with his customary thoroughness. He studied the Tom Curtis article from Texas Monthly, which provided the basis for the script. Holbrook also visited Randy's parents, John and Billie Webster, in Shreveport.

"I taped some conversations with John so I could duplicate his accent," said Holbrook. "It's a northern Louisiana accent, not related to Cajun, which is southern Louisiana."

Born in Cleveland, Hal Holbrook is not a stranger to Southern accents.

Cronkite Named To Board

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Cronkite, after sitting in front of the CBS evening news cameras for 19 years, will sit on the board of directors of Pan American World Airways, the airline announced Monday.

The veteran anchorman will be paid $10,000 a year plus $300 each time the 20-member panel meets, Pan Am spokesman James Arey said.

The airline said Cronkite was named to the Pan Am board on March 3, three days before his last evening news broadcast. Cronkite owns no Pan Am stock, and Arey had no comment when asked whether the TV newsmen planned to purchase shares in the company.

Cronkite, who had covered the U.S. space program since 1961, plans to remain with CBS as a correspondent and anchorman of the network's science program, "Universe."

Cabinet Official In Rodeo

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Don't look for Malcolm Baldrige on the tennis court or golf course when he unwinds this weekend. The nation's commerce secretary will be competing in the team roping event of the Phoenix Jaycees Rodeo of Rodeos.

"Mac and I have been off-and-on partners in team roping for 12 or 13 years, I guess," said his partner, Mark Schriker, of Florence, Colo. Schriker, twice runner-up for the world all-around cowboy title, said, "I'm the header and he catches the heels."

In recent years Baldrige, 58, has competed in about 10 rodeo events a year. He said this will be his first competition since joining Ronald Reagan's cabinet.

Asked why he doesn't go in for more conventional ways of relaxing, Baldrige replied: "I think it's strange that people play tennis and golf."

Show To Get New Producer

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Ebersol, who helped develop "Saturday Night Live" for NBC in 1975, will return as the program's executive producer, and the show will return to the air April 11 after a month-long hiatus, the network announced.

Ebersol will immediately replace Jean Doumanian, who has quit, NBC said late Monday. Ms. Doumanian this season had succeeded the series' creator, Lorne Michaels, who left to pursue other projects.

Ms. Doumanian was quoted by NBC as saying she had decided to hand the program to someone else "because the show has not yet attained the high standards I had set for it."

"I believe the show has a strong nucleus that is capable of wonderful things," the statement said. "Perhaps a fresh approach is what is required for 'Saturday Night Live' to realize its full potential."

Ebersol, who at 28 became the youngest vice president in NBC history when he was appointed in 1975 to oversee late-night programming, said he was "thrilled to again have the opportunity to be a part" of the program.

$66 Million Estate Sold

LONDON (AP) — Crown Prince Fahd of Saudi Arabia has acquired a $66 million estate in north London's fashionable Hampstead suburb, the Sun newspaper reported Monday.

The tabloid said the Kenstead Hall complex can accommodate 100 people and features a heated swimming pool with fountains and a push-button wave-maker, 12 main bedrooms with gold plated toothbrushes and tumblers in the bathrooms and sunken gardens outside the women's quarters.

The estate is protected by closed circuit television and bodyguards. Fahd, the 60-year-old effective head of the Saudi government and heir to King Khalid, visits Britain about once a year and stays for a month, the Sun said.

Singer To Battle Hunger

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — In a joint performance with the Mormon Tabernacle Choir, entertainer John Denver told an audience of some 8,000 people here that hunger could be stricken from the earth in 20 years.

Denver, joined by the choir, sang his hit song "I Want to Live" at Monday night's opening session of a two-day symposium on world hunger at Utah State University.

The event is sponsored by the National Association of State Universities and Land-grant Colleges and the Board of International Food and Agricultural Development.

"In a world which produces... almost twice as much as is needed to feed the entire population, 60 million people die every three years of starvation," Denver said.

Actor Rues 'Fistful' Rebuff

VALLEY CENTER, Calif. (AP) — Steve Reeves, the musclebound star of a series of Italian-made "Hercules" movies, says he made a mistake by passing up the role that made Clint Eastwood a star.

A one-time Mr. America and Mr. Universe, Reeves said Sunday he might have had more renown as an actor had he accepted the starring role in Sergio Leone's "Fistful of Dollars."

But Reeves said he didn't think an Italian director could make a successful American western from a Japanese samurai story.

The role went to Eastwood, who went on to become a major star.

"I'm not saying what happened to Clint Eastwood would also have happened to me, but it might have," Reeves said. "I just didn't have the faith it took at the time."

After an 18-film career, Reeves retired in 1972 and lives with his wife Aline on a 14-acre ranch northeast of San Diego.

At 54, as physically rugged as ever, Reeves keeps busy with his 12 Morgan horses, several dogs, goats and chickens. He has signed a contract to write a book on physical fitness.

Legislators Call For Plain Language

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate directed state agencies Tuesday to use plain, easily understood language in conducting written business.

Sen. Walter Mengden's resolution described some communications as "tortuous," and he was asked what he meant.

Mengden, R-Houston, said, "If you read a full chapter in the Texas Register, and if you're not a lawyer you're unable to understand page after page after page — that means to me it's tortuous."

The resolution said, "Confusing, unclear language leads to misunderstandings, wastes the time and patience of both state employees and the public, squanders state funds, frustrates the relationship between the public and state government, and contravenes the policy of the state of Texas as expressed by its public information law."

The resolution was sent to the House on voice vote.

Bank Attracts Customers By Offering Free Coffee

CORDELL, Okla. (AP) — Raymond Ernst never made a million-dollar loan or opened a savings account for a newlywed couple.

But there are lots of folks around this southwestern Oklahoma town who figure he's just about the most important man at the Cordell National Bank.

He's the bank's official, full-time, coffee maker.

But what makes him extra special to those who stop in for a sip and a bit of talk about oil, wheat, cattle or the latest town gossip is that all his beverages are free.

"It's one of our biggest drawing cards," says Harlan R. Hinds, the bank's president. "We want to keep our customers, and keep them happy. It's about the cheapest advertising there is."

Ernst is at his accustomed place behind the coffee counter by 7:30 a.m. Monday through Friday.

"You'll have to go around to the back door like everybody else," a first-time visitor is told by one of the regulars. "They don't open the front doors until 9."

"That's right," Hinds confirms. "We don't open for business until 9 a.m. Before that, you have to come in the back door where the coffee room is."

And quite a room it is, taking up — as Hinds explains — about one-sixth of the bank's entire space. Comfortable chairs nestle next to the round, plastic-topped tables while Ernst dispenses coffee, soft drinks and hot tea from behind the bar.

"I guess I probably give away 300 to 400 cups of coffee or soft drinks a day," Ernst says. "Some days it's more; some less."

Ernst is a rangy man who looks as though he'd be more at home riding the plains than the coffee bar. In fact, he admits, "I do a little farming on the side."

"I've got 80 acres and I run a few cattle — anywhere from 20 to 35 head."

Ernst, who has been the official coffee maker "six years this June," takes care of the farming after 3 p.m. and on weekends, with his wife and three children.

At any given time during the day, up to a dozen people are gathered in the coffee room, mainly men in jeans and cowboy boots, their broad-brimmed hats pushed back. An occasional lady customer stops by for a little... and youngsters pop in for a quick soft drink.

"It's free for everybody," Hinds says. "Some folks come in and have coffee and talk over the weather or the crops while they're waiting for the bank to open. Others will stop by for a cup before they leave."

The cups are unusual, too. Each bears the drawing of a dog standing by a fire-plug-shaped coffee pot and the slogan, "Cordell National Bank Coffeehound."

The bank was founded in 1903 and now is one of three national banks in the town of about 3,500 — meaning that competition is stiff. So although the past is honored, they're always looking to the future, Hinds says.

"Years ago, when we were in the old building, we used to pitch coins at a line to see who would pay for the morning coffee," Hinds said. "Finally we bought a coffee pot and made coffee in one of the back rooms."

COFFEE MAKER — Raymond Ernst presides behind the coffee bar at the Cordell National Bank in Cordell, Okla. Ernst, whose sole bank job is to make and give away coffee and soft drinks, figures he disposes of between 300 and 400 cups a day. (AP Laserphoto)

New Budget Considered Political Declaration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite all the numbers, the dollar signs and fiscal jargon, President Reagan's revised budget is as much a political document as any party platform, providing the clearest declaration to date of his view of the federal role in American life.

In a sense, the figures attached to Reagan's plan "to alleviate the grievous economic plight of our people" are almost secondary. The primary goal of his budget is a permanent reduction in not only the size, but the powers of U.S. government.

As Reagan put it so often during his presidential campaign, he wants to "get the government off the backs of the people."

As opponents of the Reagan cuts are certain to point out, the flip side of that goal means throwing a lot of people off the back of the government, people who, though employed, live on the edge of poverty. They are the people who lose their hold on food stamps, federal help for medical care, subsidized housing and jobs programs and tumble into a no-man's land beyond the reach of Reagan's Social Safety Net for the most needy.

The conservative Republican view is that the social concerns of society are best dealt with close to home rather than by a federal government that imposes requirements that often seem blind to regional differences.

So, despite the fact that the nation's governors recently met with Reagan and told him they remain convinced the federal government should pick up all the costs of traditional welfare programs, the president's budget moves in the opposite direction. Many of the other cuts in social programs are likely to force state and local governments to make their own tough budgetary decisions.

For the Pentagon, the increases are almost as dramatic as the decreases elsewhere. Reagan proposed cutting $48.6 billion from a broad range of programs in the Fiscal 1982 budget submitted to Congress by Jimmy Carter. At the same time, Reagan proposes increasing defense spending by $4.8 billion.

The Pentagon's share of the budget rises from 24 percent this year to 27 percent during the fiscal year beginning next Oct. 1, and 38 percent by the fiscal year starting Oct. 1, 1985.

To anyone who followed Reagan's campaign speeches, the tilt toward defense spending is no surprise. The one clear role he sees for the federal government is to "provide for the national defense," and in providing for that defense, Reagan believes this nation must have the military power to deter provocation the suburban tax revolt, is questioned by many in Congress, including Republicans, and is the portion of the Reagan program given the least chance for approval.

Cutting government spending is a goal with almost universal support in Washington. Democrats join with Republicans in calling for belt-tightening, for sacrifices to combat inflation.

But for most Democrats and some Republicans, budget-cutting is an interim necessity dictated by economic conditions. They look ahead to a time when economic conditions will permit a restoration of the federal government's role in helping individuals and communities deal with problems, whether they are mass transit and housing or medical care and nutrition.

It is a view in sharp contrast to the Reagan belief that the federal government is the problem.

Decontrol Of Prices Of Electricity Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the nation's largest power system called Tuesday for decontrolling electric rates like oil and natural gas prices as the only way to use vast U.S. coal and uranium reserves in place of imported oil in the next two decades.

"The price of electricity is being held at an unrealistically low level," said S. David Freeman, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority. "Cancellations and long-term deferrals of new generating plants have become epidemic in the last couple of years...because current prices will not provide adequate funds for new construction."

The government-owned TVA is not experiencing the problem of investor-owned power systems because it can raise its electric rates to finance new plant construction without having to go through state public utility commissions.

"I certainly have no interest in feathering the nest of private power companies but, recognizing the need for some form of restraint on their monopoly, I think they ought to have the same opportunity," Freeman said.

Freeman made the remarks during an energy technology conference here sponsored by the Electric Power Research Institute, the American Gas Association, the Gas Research Institute and the National Coal Association.

After displacing the oil and natural gas that now accounts for 36 percent of the nation's electric generation, substituting coal and nuclear-generated electric power in fueling automobiles, railroads and industrial processes offer the most immediate promise, he said.

Cars propelled by coal-generated electricity will be 50 percent more energy-efficient than vehicles powered with synthetic fuels, he said. About 26,000 miles of railroad track could be electrified with the equivalent of five nuclear reactors.

TVA is negotiating with the Southern and Louisville & Nashville railroads to electrify the track between Atlanta and Cincinnati with 200,000 kilowatts, about one-fifth the capacity of one nuclear reactor.

"Additional sales of 2 billion kilowatt hours would result, creating a market for almost 1 million tons of coal a year to substitute for imported oil," Freeman said.

TVA estimates the annual cost of operating an electric car in 1990 will be about $450 compared with $900 for an internal combustion engine.

"On the TVA system," Freeman said, "we estimate up to 400,000 electric cars could be operated without building additional plants since most of the charging would be done at night during off-peak periods."

SHUTTLE CONFERENCE — The United States' first space shuttle astronauts, Robert Crippen, left, and John Young answer questions during a press conference at the Johnson Space Center in Houston Monday, in front of them is a scale model of the space shuttle "Columbia" which they will pilot on its first orbital mission, scheduled for the week of April 5. Space Programs Face Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration has decided not to cut funds for the launch-ready space shuttle program, but most other projects on the space agency's drawing boards are being reduced, postponed or dropped in the president's budget squeeze.

With the first shuttle being readied for its initial flight in the coming weeks, the administration told Congress it doesn't want to tinker with planned development and procurement of a fleet of four and perhaps five orbiters.

Former President Jimmy Carter, in his January budget, proposed that $7.6 billion be spent by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1. The revised budget that Reagan sent to Congress Tuesday cuts that amount by $428 million.

Reagan called spending increases proposed by the Carter administration "incompatible with a program of overall restraint" and said his downward revision "still provides the significant increase over 1981 needed in the space shuttle program to meet civilian and critical defense needs."

Among NASA programs to be slowed is Spacelab, a laboratory built jointly with the European Space Agency, to be carried in the cargo bay of the shuttle orbiter. Carter had proposed $140.7 million spending in fiscal 1982. Reagan's budget would cut that to $110.7 million.

A project to be dropped is development of the solar propulsion system, scheduled to begin this year. The system would be a propulsion stage that would use ionized mercury driven by electric power from a solar array instead of conventional propellants. The stage would be used for missions requiring long duration maneuvering capability, such as an interplanetary mission.

New flight projects would be deferred in the revised Reagan budget.

The Gamma Ray Observatory, a free-flying satellite designed to be carried into earth orbit by the shuttle, would be funded with $8 million, instead of the $52 million asked by Carter. Development would be delayed by two years to 1988.

The Venus Orbiting Image Radar, a mission to map Earth's nearest neighbor by using radar to see through the thick clouds enveloping the planet, also would be delayed two years to 1988. The Carter request for $40 million was revised to $10 million.

A cut from $58 million to $5 million was made in the request for continued development of the International Solar Polar Mission, another joint venture with the European Space Agency scheduled for launch in 1985.

Interim Report Pledged On Long-Range Bomber

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger said Tuesday the Pentagon will give Congress an interim report within a few days on its search for a long-range bomber capable of penetrating Soviet air defenses.

Weinberger made the statement to members of the House Armed Services Committee, who urged him to hurry up with weapons studies ordered by Congress.

Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill., chairman of the committee, warned Weinberger that "failure to provide requested reports in a timely manner could result in failure to obtain appropriations" at the level the administration is seeking.

The first of these studies, which is to recommend one of several alternative aircraft suggested for long-range bomber development, is due March 15 — Sunday.

The final report will not be ready until "somewhere near June," Weinberger said, but an interim report bringing Congress up to date on the study will be delivered by the original deadline.

"We owe it to Congress to get our reports to you as soon as possible, but we want to approach this carefully and should not just accept what has been done in the past," he said.

Weinberger said the Pentagon expects to have a report by May 1 on a new cargo plane to carry heavy military equipment into battle zones.

He said a decision has been made to proceed with the MX missile and a recommendation is expected by the end of June on whether it should be launched from submarines or from bases in western states.

"I know that is late, but it is a very vital subject," he told the committee.

Weinberger's request for a $32.6-billion surge in military spending got a warm reception from the committee, as it did from the corresponding Senate panel last week.

"You are singing our song," said Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y.

But Rep. William L. Dickinson of Alabama, the senior Republican on the committee, urged Weinberger to take a more realistic view of inflation in seeking added military spending.

Dickinson said budget estimates underlying the administration's request are "not realistic."

"I have seen year after year of hopeful estimates instead of estimates based on fact," Dickinson said. "I hope you personally will direct your people to use realistic inflation estimates."

The administration has scaled down its inflation estimate from the 9.7 percent in the Carter administration budget to 8.7 percent. Weinberger told the Senate Armed Services Committee last week he believes this is realistic in view of President Reagan's plans to curb inflation by cutting taxes and domestic spending.

If things don't work out that way, he said, he will ask for more money.

Foreign Aid Increases Sought By President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Swimming against his own tide of foreign aid reductions, President Reagan asked Congress Tuesday to approve a $900-million increase in military and economic assistance to friendly nations.

El Salvador, Turkey and Egypt are among those to receive increases which he deemed necessary "to meet critical security assistance objectives" — meaning the countering of Soviet moves around the globe.

Reagan proposed hiking spending authority for international security assistance to $6.3 billion, up from $5.4 billion proposed by former President Carter for fiscal 1982.

Reagan asked for $66 million in aid for El Salvador, including $25 million in military aid. He previously had increased aid to that Central American nation by $25 million for fiscal 1981.

The president also requested $704 million for Turkey, with $404 million in military aid, and $11.7 billion for Egypt, including $900 million in military aid.

There also is an increase of $4 million for Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty, Inc. "to improve broadcasting to Eastern European countries."

While other programs were cut, the increase in security assistance reflects a victory for Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., who succeeded in protecting foreign aid programs from the deeper cuts first envisioned by the Office of Management and Budget.

Haig argued publicly that foreign economic and military aid is important in helping achieve U.S. foreign policy objectives.

The $900 million increase in security assistance is for spending authority, some of which will be paid out in future years. The increase in fiscal 1982 outlays would total $407 million.

Reagan requested total foreign affairs outlays of $11.2 billion, down from Carter's proposed $12.2 billion. While significant, the saving is much less than OMB had initially wanted.

International security assistance is one component of the nation's overall foreign aid program and is provided to nations to which the United States is closely aligned militarily.

It includes funds for direct military assistance, up $105 million from Carter's budget; arms sales credits, up $632 million; military training, up $12 million; and economic support, up $150 million.

Clayton Throws Support Behind Ethics Proposal

AUSTIN (AP) — Speaker Bill Clayton threw his support Tuesday to at least part of a Common Cause package of ethics bills and frankly admitted it was because of his Brilab experience.

"I came in touch with the reality of what happens when you don't have clear and distinct guidelines to go by," Clayton said at a news conference with Common Cause and sponsors of the legislation.

Clayton said he had some doubts, however, about one part of Common Cause's ethics program, a bill placing a $3,000 limit on donations to statewide political campaigns and a $1,000 ceiling on contributions to races that are less than statewide.

The speaker said chances of passing the Common Cause bills through the House are "relatively good," and he will embrace some of them in an "omnibus" ethics bill of his own.

Common Cause's program includes bills that would:

- Prohibit the use of officeholder accounts, consisting of leftover campaign contributions and other donations, for personal expenses. There have been reports of legislators buying cars and other personal items with their accounts.

Clayton paid his Brilab legal bills with his officeholder account but said that was legitimate and probably would be legitimate under the bill.

was legitimate and probably would be legitimate under the bill.

"If it had not been for holding the office, those legal fees would never have come about," he said.

Clayton was acquitted in October of FBI charges he took a $5,000 cash payoff in exchange for a promise to help get a lucrative state insurance contract for a man posing as an insurance agent.

• Require political action committees (PACs) to disclose fully their identities and purposes. Many PACs register only as a set of initials and a post office box.

• Require PACs to identify their contributors by occupation so the composition of a PAC can be more readily ascertained.

• Create a six-member, nonpartisan State Ethics Commission to administer political campaign finance disclosure, officeholder reporting and lobby control laws.

The laws, mostly passed during the 1973 "Reform Session" of the legislature, are administered by the secretary of state.

Broncos Name Dan Reeves New Coach

DENVER (AP) — Just 11 days after saying he anticipated no immediate front-office changes, new Denver Broncos owner Edgar F. Kaiser Jr. has replaced head coach Red Miller and general manager Fred Gehrke with former Dallas assistant Dan Reeves and ex-Viking Grady Alderman.

At a press conference Tuesday, Kaiser confirmed he had fired Miller and Gehrke on Monday and hired Reeves to be his new head coach and Alderman to be general manager. The appointments of Reeves, 37, and Alderman, 42, are effective immediately.

Kaiser, who purchased the National Football League franchise late last month, repeatedly touched on the themes of youth and offense in explaining his decision to make the staff changes.

"I think there are two key factors involved here," said the 38-year-old Kaiser. "First, I think it's clear the Denver Broncos need a stronger offensive organization. Secondly, unless I get hit by a bus, I plan to be here a long time. This isn't a short-term opportunity for me. I want an organization close to me in age which I can grow up with.

"I believe we need a young management organization and a young coaching organization, and I think Mr. Alderman and Mr. Reeves are the two best men to fill those positions.

"Our objective is to try to build an organization that will be a regular playoff contender over the long term. Grady and Dan bring to the job youth, energy and long experience in the NFL."

Reeves played eight years with the Dallas Cowboys as a running back, becoming a player-coach his final three seasons. Since 1970, with the exception of one year in private business, he has been an assistant coach with the Cowboys, including the last four years as offensive coordinator. His name consistently has been mentioned when NFL head coaching vacancies occurred, and he confirmed he was offered the Atlanta job four years ago.

"I don't think that from a maturity standpoint I was ready for the Atlanta job," he said. "I'm better prepared now, and this is a better opportunity for me. Most of the time a new head coach comes into a situation where the team is not doing well, but this team has been in the playoffs three of the last four years."

"I've had some great training under coach (Tom) Landry, and it's tough to leave Dallas. But this is a great opportunity for me — a dream come true, really, since I was player-coach in 1970."

Reeves said he is committed to the multiple offense employed by the Cowboys but probably won't use Dallas' flex defense. "I don't know anything about the flex," he said.

"My No. 1 priority is to find a defensive coordinator," said Reeves, who expects to be deeply involved in Denver's offense. He said he has talked with Miller's assistant coaches to ascertain their interest in staying here, and said he hopes to assemble a staff soon.

Alderman, a former All-Pro offensive lineman with Minnesota, has been the Vikings' director of planning and development since December 1979 and also is a certified public accountant.

He said his goal since 1965 has been to become an NFL general manager and added, "I don't think there's a better place for me to get that opportunity."

A believer in group problem-solving, he said he expects to reach accord with Reeves on major trades and other matters. He said he prefers to "build through the draft, but there are some trade situations where if you get a bargain, you have to take a hard look at it."

The staff changes come less than two months before the NFL draft, and Alderman conceded there wasn't much time to prepare. "But I've already looked at information from our scouts and I expect we'll be prepared — if only because we'll work hard."

Miller, 53, compiled a 40-22 regular-season record in four years with Denver, including three playoff appearances.

NEW BRONCOS HEAD COACH — Dan Reeves talks about his plans as the new head coach of the Denver Broncos at a news conference in Denver Tuesday. No. 1 Demons Ready For Pressure

By The Associated Press

Ray Meyer has a little announcement for the 47 other teams in the NCAA basketball tournament — DePaul is ready to be No. 1.

And if that needs any explanation — look under the words "national championship."

"We're in a better position to favor No. 1 this year than ever before," Meyer said in a telephone interview after learning the Blue Demons had regained the No. 1 position Tuesday in The Associated Press' final college basketball poll for the 1980-81 season.

"Last year, we went into the NCAA tournament ranked No. 1, but we just didn't know how to handle it. The hoopla, the press and all that," said Meyer, who is in his 39th season as head coach of the Blue Demons. "The kids had their heads in the sky and didn't believe they could be beat. They didn't practice with any intensity. We deserved to get whipped by UCLA."

But Meyer isn't worried about that this year.

"After we got beat last year," Meyer said, "the players came up to me after the game and said it would never happen again."

And Meyer has every reason to believe them.

DePaul is currently riding a 14-game winning streak and is 27-1 on the season — the only loss coming to Old Dominion.

"I don't worry about them this year," Meyer added. "They've matured. We're ready to play."

The Blue Demons, who held the top slot for six weeks early in the season, collected 55 of 61 first-place votes and 1,214 points of a possible 1,220 in the balloting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Oregon State, which had held the No. 1 position the previous two weeks but was upset by Arizona State last Saturday, collected five first-place votes and 1,132 points in falling into No. 2 slot.

Arizona State, ranked fifth last week, jumped two spots and was right behind the Beavers with 1,073 points.

The other first-place vote went to defending national champion Louisville, which is No. 12 this week. The Cardinals share the nation's current longest winning streak at 15 with Virginia Commonwealth.

Louisiana State and Virginia both fell a notch after being upset in post-season tournament play and held the No. 4 and 5 positions, respectively. The Tigers got 1,073 points, while the Cavaliers received 929 points.

North Carolina, the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament winner, jumped

Red Raiders Pound Chap Hurlers Again

By RAY GLASS

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

It's 90 feet from the home dugout, across the mud, chalk lines and artificial turf to the pitcher's mound at Lubbock Christian College's Chaparral Stadium. And it's a path well worn in the past two days by LCC baseball coach Larry Hays.

The Chap coach, who made the short walk several times Monday when LCC went through six pitchers in a double-header split with Texas Tech, was again on the move Tuesday on the "hook" trail as the Red Raiders battered Chap pitching 14-0 and 9-3.

Hays made the jaunt half a dozen times during the double-header as Tech roughed up four LCC hurlers in the opener and another pair in the nightcap, banging out 24 hits and drawing 14 walks in the two contests.

But for Hays, whose Chaps have 60-odd games still to be played this season, the pounding by Tech at least provided an opportunity to look at more than one pitcher.

"Our whole problem is pitching," he said candidly. "We have room for improvement everywhere but when we get out of games in the first or second inning, it points to the pitching. It's going to take us time to work it out. Today, in the first game, I wanted to look at some other pitchers (he used three in the seventh inning). We're a long ways from ready."

The Red Raiders, now 12-2 with the sweep, are working with a different pitching problem. Tech has quality starters — Kyle Fahrenthold and Gene Segrest each went at least six innings to pick up wins Tuesday — but its search is more for relief pitchers.

Fahrenthold threw a seven-inning shutout in the first game and became the first four-game winner on Tech's staff while blanking the opposition for the second time in four starts.

Segrest won his first game of the young season with six strong innings in the nightcap before giving way to Robert

Federal Jury Begins Wells Fargo Investigation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Justice Department has begun taking evidence before a federal grand jury in the probe of an alleged $21.3 million embezzlement from Wells Fargo bank, an attorney said Tuesday.

Albert M. Sheppard, an attorney for boxing promoter Harold J. Smith, was scheduled to appear before the grand jury in Los Angeles Wednesday afternoon on Smith's behalf, Sheppard said. The U.S. attorney's office and the FBI declined comment on the grand jury probe, and neither agency would say Tuesday whether arrest warrants have been issued in the case.

"I am just not at liberty to discuss any aspect of the matter," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Dean Allison, who is handling the case for the Justice Department.

Wells Fargo chairman and chief executive officer Richard P. Cooley has said he expects indictments this month. Smith has been in hiding since January, when the embezzlement was first alleged. Smith, who promoted fights for Muhammad Ali Professional Sports (MAPS), is among the defendants in a civil suit filed by Wells Fargo in an effort to recover the $21.3 million.

Sheppard represents Smith on criminal matters and another attorney, Jennifer King, has been Smith's counsel in the bank's civil action brought against Smith and others. The suit seeks $46.3 million, including the $21.3 million allegedly embezzled plus $25 million in punitive damages.

Cooley has said since the suit was filed that one bank employee, L. Ben Lewis, found a way to crack the Wells Fargo auditing system and carried out the embezzlements over a period of two years, by transferring funds that flow between Wells Fargo branches into accounts belonging to MAPS.

MAPS paid former heavyweight boxing champion Ali a fee for use of his name, but Ali was not directly involved in its promotions.

Lewis, who was a board member of Muhammad Ali Amateur Sports (MAAS), also has been missing since late January.

An attorney for Lewis, Virgil Roberts, said recently that Lewis is "in a safe place" but not in law enforcement custody.

Asked about reports that the grand jury is hearing evidence, a spokesman at the Wells Fargo headquarters in San Francisco, George Caulfield, said only that "the bank is cooperating fully with law enforcement agencies."

Cooley, said two weeks ago that after the fraud was discovered Lewis just walked out of the Wells Fargo Beverly Drive branch in Beverly Hills at lunchtime and never came back. Lewis was operations officer at the branch.

Smith, chairman of MAPS, has claimed in taped statements left with members of the media that his son was kidnapped as part of an effort to keep Smith from telling what he knows about illegal operations inside Wells Fargo.

Smith also surfaced again recently to deliver flowers to the home of a MAPS employee, Jimmy Lennon, who filed a charge overheard by a reporter.

Lennon told Los Angeles radio station KNX Monday that Smith had told Lennon's wife that MAPS — a consistent money loser in its fight promotions — was about to turn the financial corner before the Wells Fargo embezzlement case caused cancellation of a major MAPS fight card in New York's Madison Square Garden.

"They figured the closed circuit television, the movie rights and the live gate would take them out of the hole. They were in and probably put them $10 to $15 million in front," Lennon said.

Lennon said Smith was a generous man who paid him "too much money."

Canyon Squeaks Past Snyder

By RAY GLASS

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
LEVELLAND — Point guard Kendall Walling hit a pair of free throws with seven seconds to play Tuesday night to lift Canyon past Snyder 58-56 in a Class 4A bi-district playoff game at the Levelland High School gym.

Walling, a 6-3 senior who finished the night with 25 points, hit the crucial free throws after stealing the ball from Snyder's John Wilson and drawing a foul in the process. The theft blunted a Tiger rally that saw them tie the game at 56-56 after trailing by six points with two minutes to play.

Canyon, now 27-8, will play the winner of the Cleburne-Iowa Park bi-district showdown for a spot in the March 19-21

Class 4A state basketball tournament in Austin.

Snyder, a state semifinalist last year, finishes the season at 20-13.

Canyon, District 1-4A champions, led 56-50 with 1:58 to play in the game before Snyder reeled off the next six points to knot the score.

Chris Seale hit both ends of a one-and-one to bring the Tigers within four, 56-52, with 1:44 showing on the clock. Snyder got the ball back 10 seconds later when Walling turned it over. Wilson then hit a 20-foot jumper and was fouled after the shot by Steve Beck. His pair of successful free throws with 1:25 to play completed a four-point play and tied the game.

On the next Eagle trip downcourt,

Walling's 18-footer was off-target and Seale was fouled by Butch Bearden on the rebound. But Seale missed the front end of his one-and-one and, after Tiger Eric Arnold fouled Canyon's David Harbin on the rebound, Harbin missed the first end of his charity try.

Snyder got the rebound and ran the clock down, calling time out with 13 seconds to play. After inbounding the ball to Wilson at midcourt, Walling forced the junior guard to pick up his dribble and then swiped the ball.

After the successful free throws, that gave Canyon a 58-56 lead, the Tiers worked the ball into Wilson in the lane. But his desperation shot was blocked by the 6-8 Bearden, sealing the Eagle victory.

"We were trying too hard, wanting it too badly," Canyon coach Judy Richardson said. "We were not calming down and playing. We were trying to hold the ball."

"Snyder pushed us out of our offense in the second half," added Richardson, whose team had a height advantage but failed to work inside in the final two periods. "The kids really came through on defense. We forced them to shoot from the outside. Just like I thought, it was a battle of two fine defensive ball clubs fighting it out. We just got one more in the hole."

Walling led Canyon in scoring and rebounding, with eight boards. The majority of his field goals came on 20-foot jump shots.

Steve Beck added 13 points and Bearden tossed in 12 for the Eagles.

Eric Arnold and Barry Blackman scored 18 points apiece for Snyder, while Wilson tossed in 14.

Canyon opened a 21-11 lead at the end of the first quarter by scoring the final 12 points of the period. The Eagles stretched their lead to 32-19 with 3:23 to play in the half before Snyder scored the last 10 points of the first half to pull back into contention.

Shallowater Floods Vega 64-47

By RICHARD DAY

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
PLAINVIEW — It's been quite a year for the Shallowater Mustangs.

The Mustangs went all the way to the regional playoffs in football and Tuesday night they won big in Class 2A bi-district basketball play, avenging last year's bi-district loss to Vega with a 64-47 victory.

Shallowater dropped a 56-52 decision to Vega's Longhorns at this stage of the season last year.

With the victory, Shallowater, 22-6, will play the winner of the Crowell-Winters bi-district game Friday at 5:30 p.m. at Lubbock's Coronado High School in the first round of the Region 12A tournament.

"I think the difference (between last year's game and Tuesday night) is that our two seniors, Robert Sanders and Willie Johnson, matured a lot more than Vega's players did," Shallowater coach Keith Kitchens said.

"Vega's a good team with some great players, but we matured more than they did over the summer."

The difference Sanders made Tuesday night as compared to last year was like night and day. The 6-2 senior was suffering from a knee injury last year and played sparingly. Tuesday he was all over the court, playing tough defense, dribbling through Vega's full-court press and scoring a game-high 31 points.

Johnson, the Mustangs' 6-4, 220-pound center, was a dominant force under the basket. There were very few times that Vega could take more than one shot on a trip downcourt. Offensively, Johnson chipped in 12 points before fouling out late in the game.

Tommy Garland, a 6-2 junior, scored 14 for the winners.

For Vega, it was all Bobby Arnold and Scotty Cook, just as it was all season long as the Longhorns built a 30-5 record.

Arnold, who averaged 18.5 points during the regular season, hit 24 and Cook, with a 23.0 regular-season average, was limited to 15, due largely to a special defense Shallowater played to keep the ball away from him.

"We used a box-and-one to keep him (Cook) from getting the ball," Kitchens said. "And when he did get it, he was a long way from the basket."

Just as the football team did, the Shallowater cagers had a tough time in non-district but went undefeated in Dis-

Nazareth Downs Whiteface 69-62

LEVELLAND (Special) — Bryan Schulte poured in 22 points and Bryan Huseman canned 20 Tuesday night to lead Nazareth to a 69-62 Class 1A bi-district basketball victory over Whiteface that advances the Swifts to this week-end's Region 1A tournament here.

Joining Schulte and Huseman in double figures for the Swifts was Dale Hoeltling with 14 counters.

Nazareth took a 15-11 lead after one period of play, but couldn't shake Whiteface. The Antelopes outscored the Swifts 17-15 in the second period to make it a two-point contest at halftime, 30-28.

The contest remained a nip-and-tuck affair during the third and fourth quarters. Nazareth went up by three points, 48-45, after three periods. The Whiteface attack suffered a bit midway through the fourth stanza when Randy Richardson and Robert Demel both fouled out, and the Swifts took advantage of the situation.

Joe Don Elam led the Antelopes with 20 points. Demel and Richardson each scored 11. Ricky Sehon added 10.

Nazareth advances to regional action with a 28-3 record. Whiteface ends the season with a 20-7 ledger.

The Matadors, now 27-4 on the year, will play Wellman at 4 Friday afternoon in the first round of the Region 1-1A tournament at Levelland.

Motley County jumped to an 18-14 advantage at the end of the first period as Smyer missed seven free throws, including the front end of a one-and-one, in the initial quarter. After that, the Matadors just rode to the final margin.

In addition to Campbell's 26, Harvey Lee scored 14, Charles Campbell tallied 11 and Wesley Stafford knocked in 10.

For Smyer, which ended the year with a 25-4 record, Kerry Rackler scored 17, Brian Fowler 15 and William Moseley 11.

Morton Squeezes By Marfa 61-60

ODESSA (Special) — Morton squandered a nine-point halftime advantage but managed to pull out a 61-60 Class 2A bi-district basketball victory over Marfa in the Permian High School gym Tuesday night.

The Indians started the contest strong, jumping out to a 41-32 lead at intermission. But in the second half, Morton just couldn't find the basket and — with Marfa outscoring the Indians 14-6 in the third quarter — the teams battled back and fourth the final eight minutes of play with neither squad taking more than a three-point advantage.

Morton, now 26-10 on the season, will play the winner of the Sanford-Fritch-Candadian bi-district tilt in the first round of the Region 12A tournament in Lubbock's Coronado High School gym at 4 p.m. Friday.

Billy Cadenhead and Todd Willingham combined for 28 points, scoring 14 each, to lead the Indian scorers. Bruce Johnson totaled 12 and Kelly Taylor added 11 for the victors.

Marfa, which was led in scoring by Manny Parras' 21 points, trimmed the lead to a point with 13 seconds remaining in the game, but Morton successfully stalled the remaining time.

Reynolds To Return To Familiar Stance

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — Houston Astros shortstop Craig Reynolds, who suffered through a .226 batting slump last season, says his old batting stance is good enough after all.

"Last winter, I decided I wanted to drive the ball more, so I changed my style and began hitting off my back foot," Reynolds said. "I picked up habits I couldn't change. I've had a winter to think about it and I've decided to go back to hitting the way I used to — off my front foot."

Hitters Highlight Bursts In Exhibition Openers

By The Associated Press
The pitchers are supposed to be ahead of the hitters in the early part of spring training, but that wasn't the case Tuesday as more major league teams opened their exhibition schedules.

Runs came in bunches at games throughout Florida and Arizona, topped by the New York Mets' 10-7 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays and the New York Yankees' 9-2 pounding of the Texas Rangers.

Elsewhere, the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Cleveland Indians 6-2, the Kansas City Royals downed the Boston Red Sox 8-3, the Montreal Expos defeated the Atlanta Braves 5-2 and the Minnesota Twins edged the Detroit Tigers 5-3.

In games involving Japanese teams training in the United States, the Los Angeles Dodgers trimmed the Tokyo Giants 5-4 in 12 innings, the Seattle Mariners dropped the Hanshin Tigers 6-3 and the Taiyo Whales and the Chicago Cubs tied 6-6.

Lee Mazilli, Rusty Staub and Dan Norman homered to pace the Mets' 13-hit attack against the Blue Jays. Toronto collected 11 hits, including home runs by John Mayberry, Willie Upshaw and Lloyd Moseby.

Oscar Gamble hit a pair of two-run homers and Jim Spencer added a solo blast for the Yankees in their defeat of the Rangers. Pump Willis and Al Oliver each had two hits for Texas.

Amos Otis had a 3-for-4 day, knocking in two runs and scoring one himself, to lead the defending American League champion Royals past the Red Sox. Jim Rice and Dwight Evans hit solo home runs for Boston.

Milwaukee beat the Indians with the help of two players trying to come back from shoulder ailments — Jim Slaton and Larry Hisle. Slaton gave up a two-run homer to Mike Hargrove but retired the last five batters he faced in two innings, and Hisle slammed a home run.

Andre Dawson's two-run double paced Montreal's victory over the Braves. Atlanta's Bob Horner hit a two-run homer.

The Twins and the Tigers wound up a four-game series 2-2 with Sal Butera leading the Minnesota attack with a pair of run-scoring sacrifice flies. Lou Whitaker had a two-run triple for Detroit.

A three-run double by Willie Norwood sparked a five-run fourth inning that lifted Seattle past the Hanshin Tigers. Rob Dressler was the winning pitcher with an impressive three-inning performance.

Newcomers Steve Henderson and Leon Durham led the Cubs in their tie with the Taiyo Whales. Henderson, obtained from the New York Mets last month, hit a home run and two singles, while Durham, acquired from the St. Louis Cardinals, drove in the game's first run with a single. The ninth inning ended with the score tied and, since extra-inning games are not played in Japan, the Cubs went along.

The Dodgers had to come back in the bottom of the 12th inning to beat the Tokyo Giants. Mickey Hatcher doubled home Mark Bradley with the tying run and Jay Johnstone drove in the winner with a bases-loaded single.

Elsewhere around the major leagues, Ron Pruitt hit the first home run of the spring for the Chicago White Sox Tuesday in the final intrasquad game before the start of the exhibition season.

Pruitt, a utility player who is expected to make the squad because he can serve as a backup catcher, lined a homer over the left field wall in the fourth inning to tie the game 1-1.

It came off Nardi Contreras, the eventual loser in the abbreviated five-inning affair, in which a team managed by Sam Ewing defeated an Art Kusnyer-coached squad 4-3.

Lefty Ross Baumgarten, giving his injured left shoulder a full test for the first time this spring, pitched three good innings, yielding only a single by Marc Hill, who also had a double.

Rookie Rod Allen had two hits and Ron Perry, a non-roster player who was better known as a basketball star at Holy Cross, drove in two runs with a single.

Rich Dauer collected three singles and drove in two runs and three pitchers combined on a one-hitter Tuesday as coach Elrod Hendricks' team defeated coach Cal Ripken's club, 5-0, in the Baltimore Orioles' second intrasquad game of the spring.

BACK IN SAFELY — Monterey's Mike Reed dives back into second base, avoiding the tag of Midland Lee's Barry Blackwell in the 6-1 Plainsman victory Tuesday. The Plainsmen now boast a 5-0 record for the young season and will take on Big Spring today in a makeup of their rained-out date last week. (Staff photo by Bob Sigmon)

Monterey Snubs Midland Lee

By RICHARD DAY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

The Monterey Plainsmen ran their 1981 baseball record to 5-0 with their second victory in a week over Midland Lee Tuesday, winning 6-1 at Lowrey Field.

Monterey defeated the Rebels 7-4 in Midland last Friday.

In other baseball games involving city squads Tuesday: Coronado pushed its record to 5-1 with an 8-5 victory over Midland, Brownfield turned back Lubbock High 5-3, and Dunbar's scheduled game with Andrews in Andrews was rained out.

Tuesday's Monterey-Lee clash began much the same way the first meeting between the two teams did. The Plainsmen scored first and continued adding to their lead until allowing Lee to score late in the game.

Travis Walden was the winning pitcher for the second time this season. In his five innings, Walden allowed only one hit, a double, to Randy Velarde in the first while striking out four and walking five.

MHS coach Bobby Moegle removed Walden in the sixth inning, not because his pitcher was throwing badly, but because he needed to get his entire staff ready for this weekend's Midland tournament.

"We're going to have to pitch everybody going into the tournament," Moegle said. "There's a chance of us playing six games in two days."

Rick Dillman finished the game for the Plainsmen and allowed a run on four hits in two innings.

MHS opened the scoring in the bottom of the first inning when Scott Reid led off by reaching base on an error. He advanced to second base on a passed ball and was sacrificed to third by Darrell Kitten. Walden then hit a sharp grounder to the shortstop, who fired to the plate in an attempt to cut down Reid. But the Plainsman center fielder slid under the catcher's tag for the initial run of the game.

Walden, in a nifty display of base running, went all the way from first to third on Steve Coleman's grounder, and scored when Nathan Swindle singled to center.

The Plainsmen added another run in the fourth by combining two hits and two bases on balls.

Monterey added three runs in the fifth on two hits, an error and a walk. The big blow was a looping double into shallow right center field by Kitten that scored Reid all the way from first base.

The Rebels scored their lone run in the sixth on three hits and a base on balls. The inning ended with the bases loaded.

"We didn't make any errors and kept the ball in play," a happy coach Moegle said after the game. "Lee's a tough team, and I'm very pleased to have beaten them twice this early in the season."

Though they scored six runs, the Plainsmen stranded nine runners. The Rebels left eight runners.

Moegle plans to start Reid on the mound in today's make-up game against Big Spring. Action begins at 4 p.m. at Lowrey Field.

Alan Harp drove in two runs with a double in the top of the sixth inning to lead Coronado over Midland.

The Mustangs took a 4-0 lead in the first inning with the help of two Bulldog errors. Donald Ewing blasted a doubled to drive in the first CHS run. Russell Young's sacrifice fly made it 2-0. Back-to-back run-scoring singles by Bryan Brock and Mark Gilham.

The Bulldogs rallied to tie the score at 4-4 in the bottom of the fourth and went ahead 5-4 in the fifth inning.

Coronado, with the aid of a two-out Midland error, took the lead for good in the top of the sixth.

Dean Jackson led off with a single. With two outs, Ewing's infield grounder resulted in a two-base error, putting Jackson on third and Ewing at second. Harp followed with a long double to left-centerfield to bring home both runners and put the Mustangs on top.

The Mustangs added two insurance runs in the top of the seventh.

Brock, who relieved Jay Lindstrom in the fourth, picked up the win for Coronado. Mike Hewitt was the loser.

Lubbock High took a 2-0 lead in the top of the third inning, but couldn't hang on for the win in Brownfield against the Cubs.

The Westerners will be on the road today as they travel to Amarillo for a 4 p.m. contest with Palo Duro. The game was rained out last Thursday.

Tech Pummels LCC In Twinbill Sweep

Bryant, who worked the final frame.

"That was the best I've seen him (Fahrenthold) throw," Tech coach Kal Segrist said. "But we're still not where we need to be; we're struggling. We're getting in five strong innings and then we struggle. We need to get in seven strong innings."

The left-handed Fahrenthold eased through the opener, giving up singles to Gordy Gesell and Karl Mahan in the third inning while walking one and striking out three.

"I have a lot more confidence this season," Fahrenthold said. "When you've got guys (teammates) who can score 10 runs a game, that makes it easier. I didn't really have any problems. I was just pressing at all."

The Raiders put Fahrenthold at ease early in the game, scoring five runs in the second inning and coming up with one more in the third.

Kevin Albritton walked in the game's first run and Andy Dawson followed with a double down the right-field foul line for two more runs. Pat Moore singled in the final two runs in the second.

Loser Rod Cline, 1-3, worked six innings for the Chaps and left trailing 8-0. The Raiders then pounded three hurlers in the top of the seventh for six additional runs, highlighted by Kevin Rucker's two-run single and a pair of Chap errors.

In the nightcap, Segrest seemed intent on duplicating the shutout performance and carried a 8-0 lead entering the bottom of the sixth inning.

But a pair of walks and doubles by Jeff-Craig and Mitch Mackey, a pinch-hitter, drove home all three LCC runs of the evening and Segrest didn't come out to the mound at the beginning of the next inning.

"Originally, we were going to have Gene go four innings and Tweety (Robert Bryant) pitch three," Segrist said. "But Gene was working so well, we decided to let him go another couple of innings. We didn't want him to have to struggle to finish the game because we need him to come back on Saturday against Texas."

The early-bird Raiders, who like to score early, pushed across a pair of runs in the first inning and three in the second of the nightcap.

Dan Hejl singled home the game's first run and Albritton walked with the bases loaded for a 2-0 lead. In the second, a single by Steve Roper, double by Dawson, singles by Scott Nethery and Jeff Turner, and wild pitch brought across three tallies.

Bowa Plans To Remain Starter

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Larry Bowa admits he may be a step slower and a little of the zip could be gone from his rifle arm, but he insists he has enough left to play as a better-than-average shortstop for the Philadelphia Phillies.

"To be honest with you, after you've played 12 years, you're not going to be the same as you were when you first came up," said the 35-year-old Bowa. "Sure, I've probably lost a step and a little bit off my arm."

But the fact remains that for the Phillies to win the National League East, the playoffs and the World Series, they had to be strong up the middle. "And I feel that I'm still very good defensively, and now do a good job offensively."

"For me to sit here and tell you that I run just as fast from home to first as when I was a 22-year-old, I would be lying to you. It's human nature. But I don't think I've lost that much."

"As far as the defense goes, I probably have lost half a step to a step, but I think I've made up more than that in knowledge of the hitters. When I first came up, I had no idea where to play the hitters," Bowa observed.

He is as cocky as ever. He has some interesting statistics to support his supreme confidence. For example, in postseason competition last fall, he set a World Series record of starting seven double plays. He batted .375 in the Series. .315 in the NL playoffs, and fielded flawlessly in the postseason.

"As far as me being able to play, there is no doubt in my mind I can play another three or four years," Bowa contended. "I feel great, take care of myself. That's all I can ask for. If I can stay healthy, I can help the Philadelphia Phillies."

Bowa, who has a radio show in Philadelphia, was openly critical on occasion of manager Dallas Green, but insists that's all in the past. "I got along with Dallas. I think he did a heck of a job. Because personalities conflict doesn't mean they don't like each other. I think that happens on all baseball teams, but it's not published in every city like it is in Philadelphia. Everything we do in Philadelphia is magnified 10 times what it would be in, maybe, Houston, San Francisco or Los Angeles. That's just the way it is."

He said his only gripe with Green was that when a player did something wrong, he read about it in the newspapers instead of being called on the carpet by the manager.

"I think he did a heck of a job managing the first year. It's very difficult to blend 25 different personalities in with a new manager. The bottom line is what we had to do and we did it," Bowa said.

Long Island Returns To College Cage Spotlight

NEW YORK (AP)—On the Long Island University campus, basketball truly is "the city game." And LIU, a power in the sport before the point-shaving scandals of the 1960s hit, is taking its game south.

The Blackbirds, seven times an entry in the National Invitation Tournament — the last time in 1968, just before being granted Division I status — but never before invited to the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament, is right in there with the big boys, the DePauls, UCLAs, Notre Dames.

While Syracuse grouches that it's only in the NIT, LIU is NCAA-bound. Specifically in the first round of the East Regional, playing Virginia Commonwealth Thursday night at Charlotte, N.C., with the winner playing 15th-ranked Tennessee next Sunday.

Charlotte is no sleepy little southern town. It's a big textile and financial center — but for the Blackbirds it's a long way from home, geographically and just about every other way.

LIU's home court sits in what was once the Brooklyn Paramount, a cavernous motion picture theatre. Each Christmas and Easter it was home to Alan Freed and Murray the K, a pair of disc jockeys who introduced to shrieking teen-agers the rock 'n' roll idols of a generation ago.

Step off the campus and you're on an extension of Flatbush Avenue, a traffic-snarled, pothole-pocked thoroughfare in the middle of downtown Brooklyn. A few miles away, a guy named Snider was known as the Duke of Flatbush. He used to hit baseballs out of Ebbets Field onto Bedford Avenue.

LIU is a commuter campus. Few of the 6,000 students live there. For most, it's a subway-or-bus ride away from home. A few blocks away, the Manhattan Bridge spans the East River. You can almost see Wall Street, the World Trade Center and all the rest of what most people outside of Manhattan proper call "the city."

Brooklyn? People used to laugh at the name. William Bendix and all that. The Dodgers. A tree grows in Brooklyn these days only with the permission of some of the locals.

And in almost any playground, any driveway, where there's a hoop, that's where the city game is played — one-on-one, juking, jiving basketball. A jump shot is nice, but "in your face" is what counts.

That's not necessarily the kind of basketball they play at LIU, although finesse doesn't seem to be in coach Paul Lizzo's lexicon, either. The Blackbirds' style is flat-out speed, run-and-gun, undisciplined, sometimes outright wild and physical.

Riley Clarida, LIU's 6-foot-5, 230-pound center, was thrown out of the team's 77-72 victory over Iona last Saturday for fighting. That victory gave LIU an 18-10 record and the championship of the East Coast Athletic Conference Metro Division.

The team leader is senior guard Rudy Johnson. Another guard, sophomore Robert Cole, is the key to the Blackbirds' speed and a pure shooter as well, says Lizzo. Also on the team is reserve Earl Fuller, the ECAC Metro tournament's

Most Valuable Player.

"Instead of watching my friends in the playoffs, this year they'll be watching me," Fuller said. "And that's something else."

The members of LIU team weren't born when the Blackbirds were a national power, when near-legend Clair Bee was their coach for 18 years before resigning in 1951, when Bee guided them to two perfect seasons and two NIT titles (when the NIT was THE tournament).

"I thought the NIT was great," Bee, now 85, blind and confined to his home in upstate Roscoe said recently. "We were in it a lot. The NCAA in those years was not as big as the NIT. I really didn't care about it. The Garden (Madison Square Garden, home of the NIT) was the big thing for me then."

For now, though, the biggest four-letter word on LIU's campus is NCAA. Said Lizzo: "I told the players, 'If we're gonna be in this thing, we might as well win it.'"

Sports In Brief

Shula Ponders Csonka Comeback Try

MIAMI (AP)—Miami Dolphins head coach Don Shula says he'll "just have to wait and see" before making a decision on fullback Larry Csonka's talk of returning to his professional launching ground one more time.

Shula, in a telephone interview with The Miami News, said a Miami comeback for Csonka would be the "longest of longshots," but he's not ready to rule out the prospect.

"Larry said he was trying to get in shape and if he got in shape he was going to ask about coming into mini-camp," Shula said Monday from meetings of the National Football League's competition committee in Hawaii.

The fullback became a free agent after team owner Joe Robbie denied him demand for $250,000 before the 1980 season. Robbie had offered $20,000 less, and Csonka received no offers from other clubs.

At 34, Csonka is down from 280 pounds to under 260, said team equipment manager Dan Dowe. His normal playing weight was about 240.

The collegiate draft April 28-29 also is a matter of concern for Csonka. A fullback drafted in the first or second round could considerably weaken his chances.

Miami also has three returning fullback candidates — Woody Bennett, Terry Robiskie and Steve Howell.

Preakness Draws 338 Nominees

BALTIMORE (AP)—A record 338 horses have been nominated for the Preakness Stakes, the second of the Triple Crown series for 3-year-olds, it was announced Tuesday by Pimlico Race Course.

The 106th running of the Preakness, a 1 3/16-mile test, will be held at Pimlico on May 16, two weeks after the Kentucky Derby.

The number of nominees breaks the previous record of 253 set in 1979, the year Spectacular Bid won the Derby and Preakness but was stopped in the Belmont Stakes in a try for the Triple Crown. Last year, there were 245 nominees.

Heading the list are the top dozen colts and fillies who appear on the Experimental Free Handicap, a recognized rating of the ability of the 3-year-old prospects.

Topping the candidates are SKS Stable's Lord Avie, the 1980 2-year-old champion, and his main rivals, Bertram R. Firestone's Cure the Blues and Leone J. Peters and Arthur B. Hancock III's Tap Shoes.

Also nominated were the three top fillies, Ryehill Farm's Heavenly Cause, the 2-year-old champion filly of last year, Fleetwood Stable's Rainbow Connection, and Windfields Farm's Truly Bound. Bud Delp, the trainer of Spectacular Bid, handles Truly Bound.

Four nominees are offspring of Triple Crown winner Secretariat, including Bertram R. Firestone's Executive Order, John Nerud's Pahaska, J. Louis Laviesque's Sain et Sauf and Aaron Jones' Swoon.

Allen Plays Down Rumors Of Move

TORONTO (AP)—George Allen is playing down reports he might become coach, general manager and even part owner of Montreal Alouettes.

Vancouver millionaire Nelson Skalbania, who purchased a 50-percent interest in the Canadian Football League club last month, acquired full ownership from Sam Berger on Monday. Reports quickly surfaced that Allen, a former National Football League coach and general manager, would become involved in the operation of the Alouettes.

"I talked vaguely about running the club with him (Skalbania)," Allen said in a telephone interview from California. "But there are so many loose ends right now."

"I think it is remote that I will become involved with Montreal, but we'd have to wait and see. I might sit down and discuss it further."

Allen was coach of Los Angeles Rams from 1966 to 1970, then moved to the Redskins as general manager and coach from 1971 to 1977. He returned to the Rams in 1978, but was fired after the second pre-season game and since then has worked as an NFL television commentator for CBS.

In addition to the feature, David von Erich will tussle Mr. Chan; Kabuki will counter Kerry von Erich; Raul Zapada will wrangle Brian Blair; Jesse Barr will darken Billy White Cloud and Little Tokyo will tangle with Lone Eagle in a midget match.

Ticket prices for this evening's 7:30 performance are set at $4 for ringside, $3 for reserved bleachers and $1 for the balcony.

Owner Denies 'Uterior Motives'

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Philadelphia Phillies owner Ruly Carpenter insisted Tuesday there were no ulterior motives in his offer to sell the world champion baseball team.

There appears to be a popular conception among so-called baseball experts covering the training scene in Florida that there is more than meets the eye in Carpenter's surprising action.

"Not so," said Carpenter as he stood on a tower at the Phillies' training site watching his players run through their daily drills.

Carpenter contended that his original statement Friday, which said he disagreed with the philosophy of his peers in the way the game was being run, escalating salaries, and labor problems, was the only motivation in the family decision to unload the club after 37 years of ownership.

It was suggested to the Phillies' owner that it was out of character for him to walk away from a fight.

"It really isn't a fight," Carpenter replied.

"When you get into pro sports, a player's association is a fact of life. It's my peer group with which I have some differences. That's what makes it so difficult," Carpenter said in an interview.

"We're just paying salaries that are too high," he added.

Carpenter vigorously denied that there was any dissension within family ranks. He said that his brother, Keith, his father, R.R.M. Carpenter Jr., and his sons owned 100 percent of the Phillies' stock and that they were all in agreement on this course of action.

"This just didn't happen overnight," said Carpenter. "It's built up over a five-year period. We kept hoping that realism would take over. Instead, it's getting worse."

Carpenter sort of shuddered when it was mentioned that within another year a new contract would have to be negotiated with third baseman Mike Schmidt, the 1980 National League Most Valuable Player.

Carpenter wondered what Schmidt would be worth if outfielder Claudell Washington got $3.7 million over five years from the Atlanta Braves and outfielder Dave Winfield in excess of $20 million over 10 years from the New York Yankees. Neither has the statistical credentials of a Schmidt.

Carpenter also said he was distressed about arbitration decisions such as the one that granted reliever Bruce Sutter a $700,000 a year contract.

"I can't blame the arbitrators," Carpenter said. "All they have to go on is salaries and statistics. And who controls salaries? The owners."

Carpenter was asked if perhaps he saw economic ruin down the road and that prompted his decision.

"No, actually I'm encouraged about the economy. If (president) Reagan can do half of what he wants to do, he's going to help the working man. And pay television is going to be a bonanza in the future," he said.

Carpenter reiterated that his original statement contained all that prompted his decision to unload the Phillies.

"I point the finger at myself as well as my fellow owners. I've paid a few high salaries," Carpenter said.

"The trouble is, you give a guy a contract and he's happy at the time. Then, in the next free-agent draft, a guy in the same position gets three times as much Now my guy wants to renegotiate. He's upset," he said.

The Phillies president said he didn't expect the club to be sold in a hurry.

"It's not like some guy is going to walk in with a bag of money," he said. "I told my players that it might take six months to a year and that I expected them to conduct themselves as professionals and that I wanted to win again."

"Some of them may be torn up inside, but they're playing well down here. They're doing their job. We'll have a competitive team and I think we can win again," Carpenter said.

Carpenter was asked about the reaction of baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn and National League President Chuck Feeney, who several weeks ago were the first to know about his decision.

"They said they could understand my feelings but were sorry to see an established baseball family getting out of the game. They were understanding and sympathetic," he said.

six spots and took the No. 6 slot with 806 points.

Notre Dame and Kentucky, ranked seventh last week, both lost ground. The Irish fell one spot to No. 7 with 784 points after losing to DePaul, while the Wildcats, upset by Vanderbilt, were eighth at 734.

Big Ten champion Indiana moved five slots to No. 9 with 638 points, while UCLA, No. 13 last week, rounded out the Top 10 with 577.

Eight members of last week's Top 10 were upset during the week.

UTEP, San Jose To Battle In NIT

EL PASO (AP)—San Jose State and Texas-El Paso will try to out-defend each other tonight when the two basketball teams meet here in a first round playoff of the National Invitational Tournament.

The contest will pit one of the most effective defenses in the nation, San Jose's "match-up" zone, against UTEP's basic man-to-man.

"I guess our defense is better than average," said a modest Bill Berry, coach of the San Jose State Spartans. His team has given up an average of only 56.4 points per game and ranks fourth in the nation in that category.

"We'll fast-break some," promised Berry, who worked on the match-up zone while a top assistant at Michigan State where the combination of man-to-man and zone defense was created. "We don't take the air out of the ball, even though we have had some low-scoring games."

Texas-El Paso coach Don Haskins claims his reputation as a defensive coach is over-emphasized.

"There have been a couple of years that we've led the nation in defense, and, yes, I know I've always been accused of building strong defensive teams in the past, Haskins said.

"But we certainly haven't been that good a defensive team ourselves this year." The Miners gave up an average of 62 points a game.

"If we have a strong point it's our rebounding," Haskins said. "If we don't rebound, we don't win."

Wake Forest was No. 11 followed by Louisville, Iowa, Utah, Tennessee, Brigham Young, Wyoming, Maryland, Illinois and Arkansas. Last week's Second 10 was Wake Forest, North Carolina, UCLA, Indiana, Arkansas, Illinois, Louisville, Brigham Young, Wyoming and Maryland.

Rally Fades On Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned lower Tuesday as a modest rally faded after President Reagan submitted to Congress his proposed 1982 budget.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, up nearly 7 points shortly before 2 p.m., reversed its course to finish down 3.76 at 972.66 in active trading.

Outnumbered gainers by a narrow margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

One analyst, in noting the Dow's late-afternoon drop, cited a lack of demand in the oil sector. Energy stocks were mixed, with Standard Oil of California down 1/4 at 83 and Atlantic Richfield off 1/2 at 54 1/4.

INVESTORS' GUIDE
By BILL DOYLE

Q. I will retire next month. My employer has a retirement plan, into which the company puts 50 cents for each $1 I put in. My account in the plan now amounts to $25,000. I can take that money either in lump sum or in my choice of two monthly payment methods through an insurance company annuity.

One of the monthly payment methods would give me an annual return of 11.6 percent for life. The other would return 13.9 percent, "10 years certain." Even though this would be guaranteed, the rates of return are low.

Q. Couldn't I do better by taking the $25,000 in a lump sum; paying the income tax; investing the balance at a higher rate?

A. There's little doubt that you could do much better. And, if you handle things properly, you can keep the tax bite low.

In these days of high interest rates, the returns you mention are terribly low. Also, through an annuity, only part of each check you receive would be interest. Part would be some of the $25,000 in the account being sent back to you.

You can get higher interest elsewhere — including such things as insured savings certificates — and keep your capital intact.

If you take a lump sum distribution from a qualified retirement plan, you can use the special 10-year averaging method of calculating federal income taxes on the money you receive.

Ten-year averaging gets a bit complicated. You must use Internal Revenue Service Form 4972. If you get hung up on the calculations, get individual help from a good accountant.

Q. If I use the 10-year averaging method of reporting a lump sum distribution from a qualified retirement plan, do I then pay one-tenth of the income tax due in the year in which I receive the lump sum and one-tenth of the tax in each of the nine following years?

A. No. You pay all the income tax in one year. But the ordinary income part of the lump sum distribution is taxed as if you were to get it in equal parts over 10 years.

The result is a much lower tax bite. That leaves you with more money to use and enjoy your retirement years.

Q. Is the interest received from Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA) and Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) bonds and other such issues free from federal income tax?

A. Interest from GNMA, TVA and other "federal agency" securities is subject to federal income tax. Interest from GNMA bonds is also subject to state income tax. Interest from TVA bonds is not.

On some of the federal agency securities the interest is subject to state tax. But some are free from state tax.

You have to check each one.

Q. We have 182-day savings certificates that expire next month. I understand that some banks are not going to continue offering these certificates. If they don't renew them, what do you suggest we do?

A. Shop around until you find a bank or savings and loan association continuing to offer these certificates.

It's a competitive world, banks and S&Ls that pull out of the 182-day certificate business will soon lose deposits to institutions continuing to offer them.

And make sure the bank or S&L at which you get a certificate offers the highest interest rate. Some institutions have put "caps" on their certificates and pay interest at less than the highest rate allowed by federal regulation.

The maximum allowable rate on newly issued 182-day certificates changes each week.

Motorists Ignore Woman Escaping Scene Of Robbery

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—A woman who was bound by robbers but escaped and hopped along a road seeking help for five other captives apparently was ignored by passing motorists, police said Tuesday.

Winifred and Thomas Arland, their two children and two guests were taken hostage Monday in a home in the wealthy Broadmoor suburb of Colorado Springs by four men wielding small pistols and wearing halloween masks, police said.

The six captives were tied and blindfolded while the men ransacked the house. Police said they stole jewelry, two cars and the family parrot.

Mrs. Arland escaped and hobbled down a road where her pleas for help went unheeded by motorists. Lt. Bill Thiede said. She eventually came to a nearby church and called for help about 9:20 p.m.

Mrs. Arland told police the robbers, one wearing a gorilla mask, took rings, jewelry, cash, a television set and two vehicles — a Cadillac and a station wagon, according to Lt. Don Bjornrud.

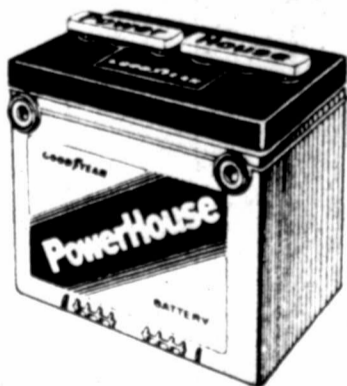

The other captives were Timothy Arland, 10, his 15-year-old sister Cassandra, and guests Frank Haigler, 61, and his 47-year-old wife Patricia, of Fullerton, Calif.

None of the victims was harmed in the ordeal.

BUILDING REPAIRS

AUSTIN (AP)—The Senate voted Tuesday to appropriate $76,083 to repair Texas State Technical Institute buildings damaged at Harlingen by Hurricane Allen and at Amarillo by a tornado. A total of $55,142 would go to the Amarillo school to repair one building. The Harlingen school would get $20,941 to repair seven buildings.
