Disney animator

A Disney animator will "show-and-tell" at the Target, 4001 N. Midland Drive, grand opening from 2-4 p.m. today. Nik Ranieri served as supervising animator for the character of Meeko, the mischievous racoon friend of Pocahontas. Ranieri will give families the opportunity to meet him and get a behind-the-scenes look at how he helped bring the movie "Pocahontas" to life. Ranieri has been the animating force behind other Disney characters including Lumiere in "Beauty and the Beast," Ursula the sea witch in "The Little Mermaid" and Wilbur in "Rescuers Down Under."

Unemployment figures trigger market plunge

Worried investors assume improvement in jobless rate from 5.8 percent to 5.5 percent means no more interest rate cuts by Fed.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Wall Street plummeted Friday in a major selloff triggered by what had seemed to be splendid economic news — a drop in the nation's unemployment rate and the biggest jobs gain in more than a decade.

Worried investors assumed that the unemployment news — an improvement in the jobless rate from 5.8 percent to 5.5 percent — was a sign of a strengthening economy that would mean no more interest rate cuts from the Federal Reserve.

The Dow Jones industrial average closed down 171.24 points, at 5,470.45, in the third-worst point decline in history, in a wild trading day that saw stocks down more than 200 points at one point.

There was a stampede to get out of bonds as well with falling demand pushing the yield on Treasury's benchmark 30-year bond up to 6.72 percent, compared to 6.46 percent on Thursday. It was the worst day for bond traders in nearly two decades.

The stark market reaction was in sharp contrast to the good news embodied in the Labor Department report. The gain of 705,000 payroll jobs last month — the biggest increase since September 1983 — was more than double what analysts had expected.

The February gain, while partially a rebound from a loss of 188,000 jobs in January, still reflected widespread strength in a number of areas. Jobs were up strongly in business services, construction, retailing and even in manufacturing, which had been pummeled by layoffs over the last year as factories cut back pro-

Bush Elementary students get lessons on 'Net

For the last two weeks, students in Hubert Schmidt's second-grade class at Bush Elementary School have been studying about St. Augustine, Fla. Assistant principal Bob Winston thought a better way for Schmidt's class to experience the culture and the feel of the historic town would be to actually take them there. So he did. Total travel cost to the taxpayers? Nothing. Zero. Zilch. Winston gathered the children in the Bush Elementary library Friday and took them all on a virtual vacation. Wired to the Internet, the class took a tour of the Florida town and neighboring Jamestown, Fla.

Gramm unveils new federal bill to track activity of sex offenders

By Joe Gaines
Staff Writer

U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm met with Midland police officials Friday to unveil federal legislation he is sponsoring that is aimed at protecting children from predatory sex offenders.

Sen. Phil Gramm unveils legislation during his meeting with Midland police officials Friday.

The law would require convicted sexual offenders to register with the FBI when they cross state lines. A nationwide FBI tracking system would track interstate movements of sexual predators, particularly in states that have no offender registration laws. Three states and the District of Columbia don't have such laws.

Gramm expects bipartisan support for the bill that he thinks will pass this spring.

The bill would require sexual offenders to register with the FBI when they are released from prison and for 10 years after their probation. Sexual offenders would have 10 days to notify the FBI of movement across state lines.

Two years after the bill's passage, Gramm plans to have a database running that would be able to notify local police, schools and youth organizations of sexual offenders who have entered their community from another state.

In five years, Gramm said the database would include a physical description — including pictures and fingerprints — of offenders.

The national database would cost an estimated $80 million, he said.

Sexual predators who fail to comply with the federal registration requirements could face a mandatory sentence of one year in prison and a fine of up to $100,000.

Sex-offender laws in Texas were strengthened after Ashley Estell of Dal-

Jury acquits Kevorkian for role in two 1993 assisted suicides

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Escaping conviction for the second time under a law enacted specifically to stop him, Dr. Jack Kevorkian was acquitted of assisted suicide Friday for helping two suffering patients kill themselves.

In a case that turned on whether Kevorkian's intent was to relieve suffering or to kill, the jury deliberated nine hours over two days before finding Kevorkian innocent in the deaths of Merian Frederick, 72, and Dr. Ali Khalili, 61. They died in 1993 by inhaling carbon monoxide through a mask.

Supporters in the courtroom cheered, and Kevorkian turned and waved to quiet them.

"I'd like to tell the jury the magnitude of what they accomplished there," the retired pathologist said. "It is not even a right, what we're talking about. It is an inherent essence of human existence."

Kevorkian, 67, could have gotten up to four years in prison on each of two counts.

It was the second time the nation's foremost advocate of doctor-assisted suicide has stood trial for his actions. In 1994, he was acquitted of helping a man take his own life.

Both times, he was charged under a 15-month ban on assisted suicide that was rushed into law by the Legislature in 1992 to stop Kevorkian. The ban was

Ex-sheriff's investigator names Kaufman, newspaper in lawsuit

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

Ronald Tucker, a former West Texas undercover narcotics officer who sought out drug traffickers, on Friday filed a $13 million libel-slander lawsuit against Mike Kaufman, a Republican candidate for sheriff of Midland County, and a $50,000 lawsuit against the Reporter-Telegram.

The Midland newspaper on Jan. 19 published a four-page, tabloid Kaufman advertisement alleging that Tucker was a "freelance Deputy Sheriff for the Midland County Sheriff's Department," a "mercenary," and a "convicted criminal."

Tucker denied the three-point labeling in a lawsuit that was filed by his attorney, Rick Harrison of Austin, in the Texas 238th Judicial District Court in Midland County.

"The Midland Reporter-Telegram was an innocent recipient of a paid advertisement," said Reporter-Telegram publisher Charles Spence, "and did not participate in the formation of the advertisement's wording."

Tucker also is alleging "slandering and defamatory" remarks that Tucker claimed Kaufman made about him on a Midland radio talk show on or about Feb. 14.

China's brinkmanship challenges new elections

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — The three Chinese missiles fired at Taiwan's doorstep on Friday inaugurated the latest round of a war of nerves between two countries in unsteady transition.

This strange and menacing drama in the Taiwan Straits is bound up in the 47-year-old dispute between the Communist government in Beijing and the Nationalist government that it overthrew and which took refuge in Taiwan.

But it's much more than a neighborhood scrap: It is being warily watched by Asia, which must live in the shadow of the Chinese giant. And it poses a critical challenge to the United States, the region's only counterweight to China.

The message of China's missile tests was simple: You belong to us.

China is using nationalism — the recovery of Taiwan, the lost province — to fill the void left by an enfeebled Communist creed. Taiwan is moving from disciplined authoritarianism to full-blooded democracy, and all its inherent uncertainties.

The Nationalists exiled themselves to Taiwan in 1949, and for decades afterward, through hot and cold war, shared only one common aim with China — that they should be one country.

But while China remained a Communist dictatorship, Taiwan became rich and democratic. A new generation grew up, questioning the holy writ of unification. Those who had never accepted it in the first place were now free to speak up and get elected.

Taiwan got its first native-born president, Lee Teng-hui, in 1988, and the grip of the mainland refugee class weakened. The dream of reunification was clearly imperiled.

China smelled trouble when Lee embarked on a campaign to boost Taiwan's diplomatic profile. When he made a private but unprecedented visit to the United States last June, China felt its worst suspicions being confirmed: The man was clearly bent on removing Taiwan from the embrace of the motherland.

Ignoring Lee's denials that he wanted independence for Taiwan, China fired its first round of missiles a month after the U.S. visit. The following month, another round landed closer to Taiwan. And Friday's salvo came within 50 miles of Kaohsiung, the world's third largest container port.

Fired just two weeks before Taiwanese elections, the newest missiles brought the war of nerves to a new, dangerous level. In an election campaign, candidates cannot afford to look weak.

In this first presidential election by universal suffrage, Lee is running against opponents from both sides: those who say he isn't doing enough to make Taiwan independent, and those who say he has already gone too far.

Making Lee the villain is almost certainly what China wants. Yet Lee will probably win the election. Many Taiwanese like his jibes at Beijing. But many are also uneasy with Lee's pugnacious style, and if the missiles can scare them off, he could emerge with less than 50 percent of the vote and be unable to claim a sweeping mandate for his policies.

Friday's missiles bracketed Taiwan's two main ports, raising suspicions that China may be rehearsing for a blockade of Taiwanese trade. If a missile were to stray into Taiwan proper, Taiwan, with its well-armed 400,000-strong military, could feel obliged to strike back.

New incarnation of Panchen lama to begin studies

BEIJING (AP) — The 6-year-old boy the Chinese government says is the reincarnated Panchen Lama is playing with toys and studying Buddhism and arithmetic, the China Daily reported Friday.

But it did not say where he is.

Chinese officials have refused to say whether the boy returned to Tibet after meeting with Chinese leaders in Beijing in January. Tibetan sources say the government plans to keep him in Beijing because many Tibetans do not accept him.

The Dalai Lama, Tibet's highest spiritual leader, recognized another 6-year-old in May as the reincarnation of the Panchen Lama, who died in 1989. The Panchen Lama is Tibet's second highest spiritual leader.

The Chinese government accused the Dalai Lama, who lives in exile, of using his choice to press for an independent Tibet and forced Tibetan monks to find another child. The communist government claims only it has the authority to recognize the reincarnation, and the Dalai Lama does not.

The boy "is living amid an atmosphere alive with Tibetan culture," the man who looks after him was quoted as saying by the state-run Xinhua News Agency.

He does not live with his parents but can see them often, said Senqin Losangjiam, who is known as a senior Living Buddha.

Senqin was in Beijing because he is a deputy to the National People's Congress, which is holding its annual session.

He did not disclose whether the boy was in Tibet. The seat of the Panchen Lama and the place where he traditionally is educated is the Tashilhunpo Monastery in Tibet.

He studies the Tibetan language, arithmetic and Buddhist scriptures.

No injuries from latest bombing

LONDON (AP) — A bomb exploded in a trash can near a Ministry of Defense building in west London early Saturday and suspicion immediately fell on the Irish Republican Army.

Police said there were no injuries, but the explosion at the entrance to a cemetery on Old Brompton Road shattered windows in nearby houses and caused some damage.

Officers cordoned off a two-square-mile area, and bomb-sniffing dogs were brought in to search for other possible devices.

"I was in my bedroom when there was a large explosion. The room shook and I was very frightened," said Ali Khan, 42, a businessman, who lives opposite the cemetery.

Old Brompton Road is a major thoroughfare between the trendy South Kensington and Fulham areas, whose restaurants and bars were crowded on Friday night.

No group immediately claimed responsibility for planting the device, but the IRA has targeted London since it ended its 17-month cease-fire on Feb. 9 with a massive bomb in the Docklands area that killed two people.

Israel lashes out at terrorists

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel blew up a suicide bomber's house Friday for the first time since the latest rash of bombings and warned it would return its army to the self-rule areas unless Yasser Arafat wipes out the radicals.

The warning from Foreign Minister Ehud Barak — a former military chief of staff — was the government's strongest yet in response to the bombings that killed 57 people and four suicide bombers in nine days.

"There is not a lot of time, and activity is necessary," Barak said. "We won't say more than that, but it is clear to Arafat that if he does not do what is needed, we will — and soon."

Arafat must "prevent the next operation ... and disarm those who are responsible for previous attacks," Barak said.

The warning came as the White House announced that President Clinton and other world leaders, including Russia's Boris Yeltsin, would attend a summit Wednesday in Egypt on countering terrorism. Clinton will then go to Israel to encourage the peace process.

Meanwhile, the military wing of the radical Hamas movement, which has claimed responsibility for the bombings, vowed to keep up attacks on Israel. It said a leaflet circulated a day earlier that talked of a cease-fire was a fake.

"We will not stop our holy fighting and we will continue carrying out our operations against the Jews, the occupiers of our land, until achieving our goals of victory and return," said the leaflet from Hamas' Izzedine al Qassam brigade.

In dynamiting the house where suicide bomber Raed Shaghoubi lived, the army revived a punishment it used hundreds of times in the Palestinian uprising, but not since the revolt ended in 1993 with the start of the peace process. Villagers in Burka, near Nablus, threw stones at soldiers and shouted "Allahu akbar" — God is great — after the blast leveled the two-room concrete house.

Shaghoubi and 18 other people died in a bombing last Sunday in Jerusalem. His family fled to a refugee camp near Nablus after the attack, and his father and a brother have been arrested.

The house was destroyed even though Shaghoubi's family did not own it. Villagers said a relative of the owner signed a paper in Hebrew under orders from an Israeli officer and learned only later that it was the order to tear down the house.

In the Gaza Strip, Palestinian officials announced they arrested Mahmoud Zahar, a professor at Islamic University.

Iraq may start selling oil soon

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Iraq and Turkey agreed Friday to open an oil pipeline that could carry limited Iraqi oil exports to the world market under a possible United Nations deal.

The agreement, signed by Iraqi Oil Minister Amir Mohammed Rasheed and Turkish Energy Minister Husnu Dogan, involves a pipeline closed after the United Nations imposed sanctions against Iraq following its invasion of Kuwait in 1990.

An Iraqi delegation is due in New York on Monday to continue negotiating the deal. The U.N. Security Council has offered to allow Iraq to sell a limited amount of oil to buy food and medicine.

If Iraq agrees, Baghdad would be allowed to sell $1 billion worth of oil every 90 days for an initial 180-day period. Most of the oil would reach markets through the Turkish pipeline, but some would be exported from an Iraqi seaport in the Persian Gulf.

Proceeds from the sale would go to purchase food and humanitarian aid for all Iraqis, pay war reparations to Kuwait and to cover the cost of U.N. operations in Iraq.

Both sides have said the 600-mile pipeline will be ready for operation within days, once an agreement with the United Nations is struck. The pipeline runs from Kirkuk in northern Iraq to Turkey's Mediterranean Sea port at Ceyhan.

Some 11.8 million barrels of crude oil, which has deteriorated somewhat by sitting idle in the line, needs to be flushed through the pipeline.

Area to warm up to 60s today

Staff Report

Today is expected to be sunny and warmer with a high near 60 and winds from the south at 5-15 mph, according to the National Weather Service.

Tonight should be clear with a low near 30. Sunday is expected to be sunny with a high near 70. The high for Friday was 37, compared to the record high for that date of 86, set in 1951. Friday's low was 20, just 2 degrees shy of the record of 18, set in 1932.

STATE
It was clear and cold across Texas on Friday. However, brisk northerly winds that had caused sub-zero wind chills were somewhat diminished, averaging 5 to 10 mph across North Texas.

West Texas winds shifted to the south and southeast at 5 to 15 mph. Most high temperatures were in the 30s as Texans shivered in the sunshine following a night of record-breaking cold.

At 3 p.m., readings ranged from 26 degrees at Guadalupe Pass in Far West Texas to 58 degrees at Harlingen in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Record lows set early Friday included 33 degrees at Galveston, breaking the previous record of 37 degrees set in 1989; 23 degrees in Waco, breaking the record of 25 set in 1995; 22 degrees at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, breaking the 1995 record of 23 degrees; 30 degrees in Victoria, breaking the record of 32 in 1947; Abilene's 17 degrees tied the 1891 record and Austin's 29 degrees eclipsed the record of 30 set in 1995 and previous years.

The forecast for North Texas is for mostly sunny skies today and warmer temperatures. Highs will be from 43 in the northeast to 55 in the west. Tonight will be clear and cool with lows of 23 in the southeast to 36 in the west.

South Texas is to have fair skies and cool temperatures today. Highs will be near 50 in the Hill Country to near 60 in the Lower Valley. Tonight will be clear and cool with lows in the 20s to the mid 30s.

Forecasters said West Texas will be sunny and warmer with highs today in the 50s and 60s. Lows tonight in the 20s and 30s. Highs Sunday in the 60s and 70s.

NATION
Snow continued to fall on the Northeast Friday, closing schools and snarling travel. A cold snap lingered in several southern and Plains states.

More than a foot of snow fell in Boston by midday, snarling traffic and forcing about half of Logan Airport's flights were canceled.

In neighboring Connecticut, several schools were closed as snowfall pushed the season's total over the 100-inch mark. Snowfall also forced many Virginia schools to open late or not at all.

Up to 13 inches of snow was reported in some areas of New York state. Outside Syracuse, a tour bus filled with high school students overturned on a snow-covered interstate. No one was seriously injured.

Maine officials said the storm contributed to the drowning death of a man and the state recorded its ninth snowmobile death.

Unseasonably cold weather continued in the South, where the mercury dropped to 11 degrees at Jackson, Ky., breaking the old record low of 12 degrees. Huntsville, Ala., set a record daily low of 15 degrees, and Birmingham's low of 18 broke a 20 degree daily record set in 1920. Temperatures were in the 20s even on the Gulf Coast, with Mobile setting a new record at 28.

Daytime temperatures in North Carolina that normally range in to 50s to lower 60s, were in the 30s across most of the state Friday, the National Weather Service said.

Cold temperatures were also reported across much of the nation's mid-section. In Nebraska, a record low was set at Valentine where the temperature dropped to 16 degrees below zero, breaking the old record daily low of six degrees below zero.

PLUNGE: Investors worry news means no more rate cuts disappointing to financial markets," said Allen Sinai, chief global economist at Lehman Brothers in New York.

President Clinton, who must face voters this November, was quick to highlight the February job rebound, particularly because it pushed him through an important milestone — the 8 million jobs he pledged to create while campaigning in 1992.

But mindful of polls showing an unusually high level of economic anxiety despite the low unemployment rate, the president said, "Even as we celebrate the creation of 8.4 million jobs, we must remember that much more must be done to ensure that our economy is working for all of our working families."

Investors' reaction, meanwhile, was treated with irony by the White House. "Sometimes there's a disconnect between Wall Street and Main Street; that's not unusual," said presidential press secretary Mike McCurry, noting that the stock market is still up 7 percent so far this year.

Treasury Secretary Robert Rubin, Labor Secretary Robert Reich and other top economic advisers told reporters during a White House briefing that the February report confirmed the administration's belief that the weakness that gripped the economy for much of 1995 would end this year.

Republicans, who have struck a responsive chord on the issue of economic insecurity, noted that the Clinton gains may look impressive compared to George Bush's but not when compared with Ronald Reagan's.

Sen. Connie Mack, R-Fla., chairman of the congressional Joint Economic Committee, said that average job gains of 146,000 over the past 12 months compared with average gains of 250,000 per month from 1983 through the end of Reagan's presidency.

"Although the president seems to think that we are enjoying the healthiest economy in three decades, the American people know better," Mack said.

State Sen. William Van Regenmorter, a longtime opponent of Kevorkian, said he may change the wording of the latest ban he's introduced in the Legislature to make it clear when a doctor is easing pain and causing death.

"I think that the jury made the distinction in this case borders on the absurd," he said. "There should be a distinction in the law between allowing death and causing death."

meant to give the state time to come up with a position on assisted suicide, but it lapsed without the Legislature enacting something in its place.

Kevorkian has acknowledged taking part in 27 suicides since 1990, including six in the past nine months.

Kevorkian's attorney, Geoffrey Fieger, said the verdict showed that "the people of America are not going to allow certain governmental officials to tell us at the end of our life how much we have to suffer."

"This is not about the right to die. It is about the right not to suffer. The medical profession cannot be required by government to keep us alive against our will," Fieger said.

Prosecutor John Skrzyński said he believed prosecutors had proved their case. "It is an emotional issue and it's difficult to get the jury to focus on facts rather than their emotions," he said.

Fieger argued that the issue was Kevorkian's intent: The assisted-suicide ban exempts someone who provides medication or procedures that hasten death, so long as the intent was to relieve pain and not to kill.

That exemption was aimed at health-care workers who, for example, might provide a dose of a painkiller that inadvertently causes the patient to die.

Some jurors said the language in both the temporary law banning assisted suicide and the judge's instructions was unclear.

"These questions were extremely complex and confusing and in my judgment may have even been contradictory," said the foreman, Don Ott of Royal Oak.

"We had to sit down and dissect it," said juror Marcel Jefferson of Southfield, "... sentence by sentence. That word 'intent' was tricky."

Jurors said it took three votes before they decided unanimously to acquit.

"I understand why the jury got confused," said prosecutor Richard Thompson, who blamed Circuit Judge Jessica Cooper's instrucer and a retired U.S. Air Force fighter pilot and squadron commander, is seeking to oust the 48-year-old Painter from the sheriff's position that he has held since 1985.

Tucker, who in his petition is described as "an honest and law-abiding citizen and a very effective law-enforcement officer," claimed that Kaufman made printed accusations against him "without any semblance of proper and sufficient investigation."

Of Kaufman's alleged "skimming" remark, the Tucker lawsuit said that "a reasonable investigation" would have revealed that "all accusations of theft" against Tucker by the state of Texas and Dallas County were dismissed and that Tucker "has never been convicted of a crime."

However, the petition does note that Tucker, who did not contest the misdemeanor charge of "official misconduct" in Dallas County, was fined $4,000 and placed on probation for two years. Subsequently, the "case was dismissed and set aside," according to the petition.

The charge of "official misconduct" by a law-enforcement agent "did not encompass to any degree theft in any manner," the petition stated.

Tucker is seeking $1 million in damage for alleged libel from Kaufman and $50,000 from the Reporter-Telegram.

For Kaufman's alleged slanderous radio remarks, Tucker is asking $2 million in actual damage from Kaufman.

Additionally, Tucker is seeking $10 million in exemplary damages from Kaufman for the alleged libelous advertisement and the alleged slanderous remarks.

SURFING: Students at Bush Elementary take virtual vacation to study Florida

(From 1A)

Winston compared the trip to the fictitious adventures in the "Magic Bus" book series, a children's favorite.

"We see (the Internet) as a teaching tool and we've taken a giant step ahead," Winston said.

The class became the first known one in Midland to use the 'Net as an educational resource, according to both Winston and Betty Fowler, technology specialist with the Midland Independent School District.

"The students have the world at their fingertips (with the Internet)," Ms. Fowler said. "They can go anywhere."

Winston said the school is in the process of networking the entire campus. "Currently we have all the pieces here, the wiring, the hubs," he said. "All that we're waiting for is the district to run the wire for us. When that occurs we'll have the ability (to access the Internet) in every classroom."

Today was an effort to take a step ahead and utilize what we have at the moment — to get the rough edges off of it and to see how far we can go with it."

During the presentation, Winston asked the class of 18 children how many had experience with a computer, or who lived in homes where computers were used. At least 12 raised their hands, and most everyone in the class exhibited high interest and a desire to return to the new form of technology as a means of supplementing their educations.

Ms. Fowler said that last month Midland school trustees signed a telecommunication policy that will allow the district to take the next steps in getting the entire district onto the Information Superhighway. Training teachers in use of hardware and software is the next step.

The presence of darker, explicit areas of the 'Net not suited for children has led MISD to include in the telecommunications policy a requirement that all students, teachers and parents sign a user agreement.

"Like anything else the Internet has a good side and a bad side," Winston said. "From that point of view, use of the technology will require some definite monitoring and guidance as far as teachers are concerned. It's not a filmstrip projector and not something to take the place of teaching. It's something to be used to enhance teaching. It's unending and current knowledge."

"It's not like something out of a text book that might be five to 10 years old — and that's the problem we have now. With the Internet, it's current information, and we can make it relevant and excite the kids about the process of education."

Schmidt, the students' classroom teacher agreed, saying that the 'Net "provides good reinforcement for a teacher."

Added Winston: "We asked for questions at the end, and a number of the students wanted to know when we were going to do this again. They were excited and had a good time with it. This was an experiment for us, and an adventure out on the edge."

Winston said he has plans to next utilize the 'Net to teach fifth-graders about fossils. Not only will the project be equipped with visual aides, but audio as well. During the project, students will be able to actually hear a professor deliver a presentation.

"We need every tool we can use to get these kids interested in learning," Winston said. "We've got drug problems and gang problems and family problems, and this is one way to overcome a lot of that: Making them realize there's another avenue to life."

23,000 Texans have permits to carry concealed handguns

AUSTIN (AP) — More than 23,000 Texans now have permits to carry concealed handguns, the Texas Department of Public Safety announced Friday.

As of Monday, the department had issued 23,615 concealed handgun permits, the agency said in a new report.

Under the state's concealed carry law, information about permit holders is released by postal Zip Code only. Other information, including age, race and sex, is provided separately by the department.

No names or personal addresses of permit holders are released. The new report shows that white men continue to lead the pack of Texans who can pack concealed handguns. As of Monday, 19,313 white men had been issued permits.

Overall, whites have been issued 22,662 of the 23,615 permits. That group includes Hispanics, who are not counted as a separate group.

Blacks hold 438 permits, with black men carrying 397 of those. Sherri Deatherage Green, a DPS spokeswoman, said the agency continues to handle a large number of permit applications. Under the law, applications must be acted upon within 90 days.

The early March figures more than doubled the number of permits issued as of Feb. 13, the last time the agency reported such numbers. At that time, 10,043 permits had been issued.

For the first time, the DPS released information on rejected applications. As of Monday, only 16 people had been turned down for permits.

No reasons were made public for any of them.

Mike Cox, another DPS spokesman, said only permit applicants can release information from their application.

Of those rejected for permits, 13 were white men, one was a black man and two were listed as other. All 16 were male.

Women continue to lag far behind men, carrying 3,444 permits. Men carry 20,171 permits, or more than 85 percent of the total.

Mark Seale, an aide to Sen. Jerry Patterson, R-Pasadena, a sponsor of the law, said the numbers show who is applying for the permits. "We still encourage everyone to take advantage of the concealed weapons law. And we hope that there will continue to be interest in the minority community. We wrote it for everybody to protect themselves," Seale said.

Patterson was traveling and was not available for comment. Seale said the number of rejected applications shows that people understand their criminal histories will be reviewed. "If they have a criminal history they aren't going to put up the $140 to get kicked out of the system," he said. "I think it is indicative of both that people realize their criminal history will come into play and it is indicative of the DPS' thorough research."

Under the law, permit holders may carry concealed guns in most public places. But many places, including churches, school activities and government offices are off limits to guns. Private businesses also may opt to ban concealed guns from their premises.

Permits became effective Jan. 1. Last month, permit holder Gordon R. Hale III of Grand Prairie became the first permit holder to be charged with using his gun illegally. Hale is accused of shooting to death Kenny Tavai, 33, after a minor traffic accident in Dallas. He has been charged with murder.

Death camp survivor saves history

ORANIENBURG, Germany (AP) — A concentration camp prisoner who had seen the body of his murdered child destroyed in a Nazi crematorium appealed to another inmate: Write a song to preserve the memory.

For the man who had just arrived at the Sachsenhausen concentration camp outside Berlin, Aleksander Kulisiewicz wrote, "Lullaby for My Little Son in the Crematorium" in 1942.

"Here he lies, my only little boy
Tiny fists pressed in his mouth
How can I cast you into the flames?"

Kulisiewicz, a Polish journalist with a passion for music, wrote 54 songs during the five years he was interned at Sachsenhausen for publishing an anti-Nazi article. He memorized hundreds more during illegal songfests, and after the war devoted his life to collecting music from other survivors.

Before his death in 1982, he compiled the survivors' songs and memories in a 2,200-page manuscript that is being published in Germany.

"I told myself while I was still in the camp that others would collect political documents about the prisoners who were killed. I would rather collect songs and lyrics that came from the soul," Kulisiewicz told an interviewer several years before he died.

In Sachsenhausen, as well as Bergen-Belsen,

Dachau, Auschwitz and other Nazi camps, the songs were a vehicle for prisoners to record their experiences. But they also helped prisoners cope with the miseries they suffered, said Guenter Morsch, director of the Foundation of Brandenburg Memorials, which oversees the preservation of Sachsenhausen.

"Very simply, they tried to remain human beings, and singing was a survival tactic," Morsch said.

They sang about home, about life before prison. Their repertoire included love songs, travel songs, patriotic songs. While prisoners sometimes composed their own lyrics and music, they mostly sang traditional folk songs.

Collecting the songs became a near-obsession for Kulisiewicz, said his son Krzysztof, a translator who later helped his father answer letters from their home in Krakow, Poland.

Kulisiewicz's job as a regional reporter for the government press agency in Poland allowed him to travel and visit other former prisoners. Later, he was able to trace others abroad with the help of survivors' organizations.

He stashed the reams of notes and tapes he collected alongside jackets and ties, filling 10 wardrobes in the cramped apartment he shared with his family.

Hijacked plane departs with unknown destination

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — A Turkish Cypriot airliner that was hijacked Friday and forced to land in Bulgaria took off from Sofia airport about one hour later for an unknown destination, airport officials said.

Four hijackers had commandeered the plane with more than 100 people on board after it left northern Cyprus bound for Istanbul at 7 p.m. (2 p.m. EST).

The hijackers were of Turkish origin, but their objective was not immediately clear, Hakan Tekin, a Turkish diplomat in Sofia, told the private Channel D television network in Ankara. They demanded fuel to fly to another destination, but did not say where, Tekin said.

It was not immediately known whether fuel had been provided in Sofia.

The head of the board of directors for the airline, Umit Utku, told Show TV in Ankara that the plane was headed for Munich, Germany.

"They say that they will give up the plane and let the passengers free," he said. "They just wanted to make their voices heard."

The Turkish Cypriot Airlines Boeing 727 was shadowed by Bulgarian MIG-23 warplanes as it descended into the Bulgarian capital of Sofia, airport authorities said.

The plane, parked on the runway, was surrounded by heavily armed special police forces. Police blocked all access to the airport about half a mile from the main entrance.

Reporters saw two ambulances rushing to the airport, but it was not known whether anyone was taken off the plane or hurt.

Turkey's ambassador in Bulgaria, Mehmet Irtamcelik, led the negotiations with the hijackers. He said the passengers included 47 Turks, 33 Turkish Cypriots, two Russians, and at least five Belgians. The others included an American, Japanese, Iranian, Dane, German, Ukrainian and Sudanese.

There were eight crew members aboard, Turkish media reported.

"The passengers are all in good health," Utku told the Anatolia news agency.

The plane left from the Turkish side of Nicosia, the main city in Cyprus, which is divided into Greek- and Turkish-speaking sectors.

Turkish troops occupied the northern portion of the Mediterranean island of Cyprus following a Greek-backed coup in 1974. The Turkish Cypriots declared an independent state in 1984, but it has only been recognized by Turkey.

Admiral Nelson's pigeons missing

LONDON (AP) — Right beneath Admiral Lord Nelson's imperious nose topping his statue in London's Trafalgar Square, two mystery men are rustling the pigeons.

So far more than 1,000 have been snatched by the boxful — and the suspicion is the pigeons that strut around one of the capital's most famous landmarks are ending up on restaurant platters.

"It is disgusting," said square cleaner Harold Beresford, who reported the avian abductions to the police.

"The pigeons are the main attraction for children and tourists who come down here," added Beresford, 41.

The pigeons, who perch in and around Nelson's towering column, are as much a part of the capital's life as the ravens at the Tower of London.

Now two pigeon snatchers are at large, scooping up the friendly birds in batches of 40 at a time and taking them off in a large box.

Beresford suspects they're being harvested for pigeon pie.

Bernard Rayner, whose family has sold seed for the pigeons in Trafalgar Square for three generations, says he has spotted one of the thieves a dozen times over the past two months. Recently, an accomplice showed up as well.

On Tuesday, Beresford went to the police, and Scotland Yard is investigating.

The two men are in their early 20s, one wears a red baseball cap, and they have south London accents. Otherwise, there's not much to go on.

"He takes 40-50 pigeons at a time," said Rayner, who estimated Trafalgar Square is at least 1,000 pigeons short now. "He takes away so many that I am sure he ends up breaking their wings (in the boxes)."

A spokesman at London's Scotland Yard police headquarters said there'd been no arrests, but bobbies on the beat have collected eyewitness reports about the pigeons being carted off in boxes.

"Police are still investigating," a police spokeswoman said.

Police officer Roy Riggs was quoted in The Sun on Friday as saying he told one of the men he was committing an offense under the Wildlife and Countryside Act, but the man took no notice.

"There is a strong suspicion these pigeons are ending up in pies rather than in pies," Riggs was quoted as saying. "They are probably being sold on to Greek restaurants as they are some sort of delicacy out there."

If caught, thieves could face fines of up to $1,500 per bird.

Wall Street reaction to unemployment news makes little or no sense

NEW YORK (AP) — They've got to be kidding. Wall Street's brain trust, the loud-tie-and-suspenders crowd that is paid extraordinary sums to make sense of the economy, got some of the best news in years Friday: The nation created a whopping 705,000 jobs last month. Pop the champagne? Run out and buy that new Mercedes? No way. Traders instead brandished the topsy-turvy logic that has come to symbolize Wall Street, furiously dumping stocks and bonds. The absurdity was not lost even on those who inhabit that world. "I'm old-fashioned," says William LeFevre, senior market analyst at the brokerage firm Ehrenkrantz King Nussbaum Inc. "I say if the economy is improving, then the companies that make up the economy are also improving." But in a stunning feat of reason, stock traders decided the companies doing all that hiring were actually worth less than the day before. They sold, driving down the Dow Jones industrial average, the stock market's most widely watched index, about 171 points, to a preliminary close of 5,470. Traders also dumped Treasury bonds, bills and notes, figuring an improving economy makes investments in Uncle Sam less attractive. It was a tough day for securities widely considered the toast of the globe. Understanding Wall Street these days is like peeling an onion, with the layers alternating between logic and illogic. Take the stock market. Traders sold shares Friday on the theory that the fresh signs of economic strength would prompt the Federal Reserve to shy away from further cutting interest rates, which it does to help stimulate growth. When the economy is doing well or inflation is rising, the Fed leaves rates alone. Traders figure that hurts companies, who depend on lower rates for cheaper borrowing, which allows them to build new factories, produce more goods — and hire more workers. Of course, if the economy is stronger and companies are hiring more workers — 705,000, for instance — companies are already doing better and have little need to borrow more cheaply. Their stock, it would seem, should be worth more, not less. "You can say we're a bunch of hysterical, manic depressives, and there's something to be said for that," says Hugh Johnson, chief investment officer at First Albany Corp., a brokerage firm. The reality, Johnson explains, is the stock market is a cold-headed, fickle beast, hoping the economy grows neither too fast nor too slowly.

"It wants things to be just right. This is the world of Goldilocks," he says.

Underweight Heinz Ketchup bottles removed

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — H.J. Heinz Co., which stakes its pride on selling thick, heavy ketchup that comes out of the bottle slowly, is in trouble for selling underweight products in at least 15 states. The nation's leading ketchup maker isn't pouring enough of it into its oversized plastic bottles, the federal government said Friday. Seventeen states have returned to Heinz 168,987 bottles, including nearly 81,000 in Philadelphia, that were below their advertised weight. The Pittsburgh-based company could face $15,000 in fines in Philadelphia for underselling consumers by about 2,500 pounds of ketchup, the city's Licenses and Inspections Commissioner Robert S. Barnett said. "They are getting a little less than they paid for" in Heinz' 28-, 40- and 64-ounce bottles, Barnett said. Heinz, which has $8 billion in sales of ketchup, tuna, Weight Watchers frozen dinners and pet food, offered Friday to replace any unopened, underweight bottles with fresh ones. It also said it had begun putting more ketchup than normal into the large-sized plastic bottles. "The average amount of underweight ketchup is approximately half a teaspoon per bottle," spokeswoman Deb Magness said, adding: "We're not tolerating any circumstances that affect the integrity of our products." Moisture loss from the plastic containers may have caused the weight problem, Magness said. Heinz, which has made ketchup for more than a century, met federal standards when the plastic bottles were filled at manufacturing plants in Fremont, Ohio, and Tracy, Calif., she said. A California consumer's complaint last month prompted a nationwide survey by the National Institute of Standards and Technology, which so far has found underweight bottles in 20 states. Fifteen of the 20 have removed the ketchup from the shelves. The institute, a division of the U.S. Department of Commerce, commissioned 43 states and three large cities — Philadelphia, Boston and Seattle — to test random Heinz bottles last week. The other states that have removed underweight ketchup include: Arkansas, California, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maryland, Massachusetts, Montana, North Carolina, Oregon, Tennessee, Virginia, Washington and West Virginia.

Privacy in workplace questionable after couple sues McDonald's

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Lisa Huffcut found out about her husband's affair by listening to his office voice mail. His boss at a McDonald's, she says, intercepted the steamy messages and had them played back to her.

The results were two-edged. The two-month liaison ended and the marriage stayed intact. But Michael Huffcut, believing his privacy had been violated, confronted his employer and was promptly fired.

Now, more than a year later, the epilogue: The Huffcuts, who each sued for $1 million, have reached an out-of-court settlement. Terms were not disclosed.

"The case has been resolved to the satisfaction of Mr. and Mrs. Huffcut" was all their lawyer, Raymond M. Schlather, would say Friday.

The federal case could have become the first in the nation to test whether conversations recorded on voice mail are granted the same confidentiality protections as live telephone calls or postal mail.

It also could have defined the scope of employers' rights in eavesdropping at work for "quality assurance" or other business reasons.

"We'll have to wait for another case to come along, and there is no case in the courts that I know of," said Robert Ellis Smith, publisher of Privacy Journal, a newsletter based in Providence, R.I.

Along with his wife, Huffcut sued McDonald's Corp.; Harry Harvey III, a fellow McDonald's supervisor who was a family friend; and Fred Remillard, who operates 12 McDonald's franchises in western New York.

The couple maintained that voice-mail messages are protected by the 1968 federal wiretap law and a 1986 amendment, the Electronic Communications Privacy Act, and that Remillard intentionally inflicted emotional anguish, embarrassment and loss of reputation and income.

McDonald's maintained that the monitoring was carried out for legitimate business purposes. The defendants argued that, as a manager, Huffcut should have known his boss could gain access to his voice mail and, as a result, Huffcut had no expectation of privacy.

Nicholas D'Ambrosio Jr., a lawyer for McDonald's, and Edward Hooks, Remillard's lawyer, did not return calls Friday.

Buchanan's personal views differ from church

WASHINGTON (AP) — A pupil of nuns and priests, Pat Buchanan speaks with vigor of his Catholicism. But there is little meeting of the minds between the candidate and the church to which he turns on matters of the soul.

The Roman Catholic church wants "environmental justice." Buchanan says environmentalists "worship dirt."

Illegal immigrants enjoy a tender and "particular pledge of solidarity" with Catholic leaders, not least because so many are Hispanic Catholics. Buchanan sees them as a menace.

The Republican presidential candidate hasn't been called on to prove his independence from the Vatican, as Democrat John Kennedy had to do in the America of the 1950s and 1960s.

Not only have times changed. On most issues other than abortion, where he stands squarely with the church, Buchanan is so plainly far from Rome.

He has been since its 1960s liberalization and what he saw as the attendant squandering of moral authority by U.S. bishops.

"The Church Militant," he moaned in print, "has been superseded by the Church Milquetoast."

Yet it is still inescapably his church, wellspring of his faith, sponsor of his best memories, sparkplug for his intellect and unwitting agent for this political provocateur.

He and his sister, Bay, who runs his campaign, rose up in indignation at a media report they said slandered their family and the church in exploring Buchanan's roots, and touching on anti-Jewish Catholic traditions.

Government helps Alaska with pink salmon purchase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government will buy Alaskan pink salmon for school lunches and other food aid in an effort to boost the flagging industry, Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman said Friday.

Glickman said the department was taking steps because a record 1995 harvest has created record surpluses of canned salmon, with harvests this year also expected to be high.

The department will buy salmon that was packed during 1995 and make additional purchases of 1996 salmon if the harvest is as big as expected. Also, the department will set up a task force to work with the industry on how to boost sales.

Department spokesman Jim Petterson said the volume of purchases will be determined later once the Agricultural Marketing Service examines the industry's response.

FCC revamps regulations to allow media more access to local markets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Media companies will soon be permitted to own more TV and radio stations nationally and more radio stations in each local market, federal regulators said Friday.

The Federal Communications Commission's order will lift a long-standing rule that limits to 12 the number of TV stations one company can own. Companies will be able to own as many as they want as long as the stations together don't reach more than 35 percent of all U.S. TV households. The current limit is 25 percent.

The order, which carries out the most hotly contested provisions of a new telecommunications law, will take effect once it is published in the Federal Register, in about one or two weeks, FCC officials said.

The rule change will give ABC,

CBS, NBC, Fox and other TV companies room to grow and will help them compete against cable and new TV competitors, including telephone companies and direct-broadcast satellite providers.

Some TV companies will have more room to grow than others.

ABC's 10 TV stations, for instance, reach 24 percent of all TV homes nationally, according to FCC documents. This doesn't count a Los Angeles station that must be divested, and the new rules won't affect that requirement.

CBS' 16 stations, through new owner Westinghouse Electric Corp., cover 32 percent, FCC documents say. That's because the FCC last year gave Westinghouse special permission to temporarily exceed the national ownership limits. In this case, the new rules supersede the FCC's action.

NBC owns nine stations, reaching 23.4 percent of the national audience, and Fox owns 12 stations, covering 22.05 percent.

"As ownership consolidates, the public should be concerned that diversity of views, diversity of information flow could be compromised," said Gene Kimmelman, co-director of the Consumers Union's Washington office.

NASA decides to keep shuttle up

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — NASA broke one of its own flight rules to keep space shuttle Columbia in orbit an extra day with a failed computer circuit, in hopes the weather would improve at the Florida landing site on Saturday.

The rule has been around since the early years of the shuttle program, before the 1986 Challenger disaster, and is perhaps too conservative, mission operations director Lee Briscoe explained after NASA scrapped plans for a landing on Friday.

"We said, 'The orbiter is safe. It's got redundancy. We don't have any problems that are driving us really to absolutely have to land,'" Briscoe said.

On Thursday, one of four computer circuits that control the shuttle's wing flaps, rudder and brake failed. Although Columbia only needs one of these circuits to land safely, the rules require that a flight end as soon as possible when one fails.

It's Time for a Change.

Q: I recently installed America Online on my computer at work. When the president of my company found out about it, she expressed concern about security issues. I work for a company that services clients, and we guarantee the confidentiality of a client's database. Does she have a legitimate concern with respect to an outsider accessing these files as a result of me being online? She also expressed concern about viruses on the Internet infecting our network.

A: Your first concern — that logging on to AOL will give others access to your system — is needless worry. You use a specialized client program to get access to AOL's databases, but that program does not provide them (or anybody else) with access to your computers. In short, you can log in with confidence that your clients' data is secure.

As for viruses, you're pretty safe if you follow a few rules: Have virus protection software installed — and running — on all of your computers. This is important even if the machine never goes online, because many viruses are spread through those nasty little diskettes we're always using.

If you're downloading executable files — namely programs — try to take them from AOL or another major service where you know they've already been scanned for viruses. This, teamed with your virus software, gives you good protection. On the Internet, avoid downloading executable files from unfamiliar sites. You're probably safe grabbing an update from Apple's Web page, but you might be a little more careful if you're considering one from Joe's Site For Cool Programs.

You have to be careful, but a little common sense combined with a good virus protection program (notice how that keeps coming up) will serve you well.

Z-D hires editor

Ziff-Davis Publishing Co. plans to name Barry Golson, a former executive editor of TV Guide and Playboy, as editor in chief of Yahoo! Internet Life, a magazine and a site on the World Wide Web, the graphics-based portion of the Internet.

Since June, Golson has been editor in chief of magazine development and new media at News America Publishing, a unit of News Corp. His appointment by Ziff-Davis, a unit of Softbank Corp., is to be announced Thursday.

Unlike magazines that spin off their content to their World Wide Web sites, the content of Yahoo! Internet Life is generated from its web site, which reviews other web sites on the Internet.

The reviews are updated electronically every day and some are then printed in the magazine. The magazine, now published quarterly, plans to begin monthly publication later this year.

Texas Monthly unleashes 30 writers in Cyberspace

By Terri Langford
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON — Leave it to Texas Monthly to lead Lone Star State writing into the next dimension.

Beginning last Friday and all through the month of March, 30 native and adopted Texas scribes will display their collective craft on the Internet in the form of a 30-chapter virtual novel, part of the magazine's salute to Texas Writers Month.

It's a sort of radio serial for cyberspace, beginning with this succinct first line from Rice University professor and author, Max Apple:

"There were two women in his life, one in San Antonio, the other in heaven. At the rodeo Walker saw them both."

From there, readers will follow as computer repairman Walker Wocinski searches for just at the rodeo (with the very married San Antonio woman, Helen) and instead finds his long-lost, and long-dead, love Annabelle, a U.S. Army ranger.

Authors as diverse as sci-fi's Bruce Sterling, Renaissance woman Rosellen Brown and political columnist Molly Ivins will each take turns putting Annabelle, Walker and Helen through their paces in 30, 500-word chapters. Each writer will pick up where the last left off.

Others featured to script a chapter include nationally known sports-writer Blackie Sherrod, political columnist Liz Carpenter, western author Elmer Kelton, romance novelist Sandra Brown, screenwriter William Broyles Jr. and playwrights Jaston Williams and William Hauptman.

On March 31, the entire novel will appear on Texas Monthly's web site, The WWW Ranch (http://www.texasmonthly.com).

The project is co-sponsored by Earful of Books in Austin and the Southwestern Writers Collection at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos.

As first envisioned six weeks ago by Texas Monthly editors, the project was daunting.

"We had some real visions of disaster," explains Helen Thompson, "ranch editor" for the magazine's

Will the military eavesdrop on the Internet?

By Keay Davidson
N.Y. Times News Service

SAN FRANCISCO — The U.S. military should consider monitoring the Internet to watch for signs of attacks by terrorists and disinformation campaigns by hostile governments, a Pentagon analyst says.

Cyber Issues

Nations and terrorists may use global computer networks to wage psychological warfare, send secret messages or undermine foes by disabling their computers and military equipment, according to the unclassified internal report by Pentagon analyst Charles Swett.

Swett's suggestion that the military monitor Internet traffic troubles some political activists, who fear the Pentagon might use the Internet to spy on Americans as well as foreigners. The activists haven't forgotten how Pentagon agents spied on anti-Vietnam War groups in the 1960s and '70s.

A San Francisco-based political group is especially angry because Swett's report describes the group's political activities in detail.

The contents of Swett's 35-page report — "Strategic Assessment: The Internet" — became known recently after a Washington-based group, the Federation of American Scientists, downloaded it to the World Wide Web.

Swett depicts the Net as an important new source of intelligence data.

"Overseas segments of the Internet can be a useful tool for DOD (Department of Defense), both for gathering and disseminating information," wrote Swett, a Pentagon assistant for strategic assessment. "During larger-scale conflicts, when other conventional channels are disrupted, the Internet can be the only available means of communication into and out of the affected areas."

'Overseas segments of the Internet can be a useful tool for the Department of Defense, both in gathering and disseminating information.'

— Pentagon analyst Charles Swett

Also, Swett said, the U.S. military could wage psychological warfare with "e-mail conveying the U.S. perspective on issues and events ... efficiently and rapidly ... to a very wide audience."

But the Internet can also threaten U.S. national security, he said. For example: Terrorists could use the Internet to transmit coded messages.

Newspapers jump on web, some not sure why

By Iver Peterson

SAN FRANCISCO — Newspapers may be cutting costs and trimming staffs, but the prospects of selling their news and advertising over the Internet has opened their purses as never before, even though no one yet knows how, or even whether, today's plans to publish on the World Wide Web will ever make money.

At last week's conference on electronic journalism, Interactive Newspapers '96, the mood of the 700 people attending was "What's Next?"

To hear three days of speakers tell it, the answer was, "We don't know, but it's coming."

"This is all a little bit like the blind leading the blind, because none of us knows how all this is going to shake out," said Bill Densmore, president of the Clickshare/Newshare Corp. of Williamstown, Mass., which is developing systems for billing Internet users.

Yet it is a movement everybody has to join, the several hundred publishers and business managers who attended the conference were told. It was the seventh annual gathering here, in the suburbs of Silicon Valley, by the Kelsey Group, the weekly Editor & Publisher, the National Newspaper Association and several other newspaper trade groups.

"This is a matter of protecting one's market, protecting one's turf," said

Who's afraid of Good Times?

By Peter H. Lewis
N.Y. Times News Service

The Good Times virus is a hoax. For more than a year, people have been sending alarms to one another via electronic mail that an insidious computer virus called Good Times is spreading over the Internet.

According to the warnings, anyone who opens an electronic mail message with the words "Good Times" in its subject line risks all sorts of horrors, ranging from the erasure of hard disk drives to exploding video monitors. When things get slow on the Elvis beat, the tabloids occasionally offer tales about how Good Times has destroyed a laboratory somewhere.

Some of the more creative warnings say the Federal Communications Commission has issued an advisory about this digital scourge. If true, this would constitute a novel new sideline for the FCC, which, the last time I checked, had not yet assumed jurisdiction over viruses or the Internet.

The E-mail warnings about Good Times sound sufficiently dweeby to impress even experienced computer users. "If the program is not stopped, the computer's processor will be placed in an nth-complexity infinite binary loop which can severely damage the processor if left running too long," according to one warning I received last week. "Unfortunately, most novice computer users will not realize what is happening until it is far too late."

The warning itself is infinitely loopy. And for the nth time, the Good Times virus does not exist. It is a fraud, a cyber-ban legend, nothing more than an electronic chain letter.

"It's a lot easier to create a message panic than it is to create a good virus," said Jimmy Kuo, a senior virus researcher at the computer security concern McAfee & Associates.

Many computer security experts are reluctant to dismiss Good Times as stren-

Screen saver doubles as news source

By Bill Husted
N.Y. Times News Service

Screen savers — even the wildest and most creative — are pretty dumb.

For one, computer experts agree that modern screens don't really need saving. Originally, screen savers were developed to prevent "burn-in" when text on the screen literally burned its image permanently into the monitor.

With today's monitors, that's not much of a problem, and screen savers are mostly for entertainment. But no matter how cute your screen saver, the images are certain to get boring after a few weeks or months.

But — lurking out here in cyberspace — there is a screen saver that actually does something useful. And it never offers the same thing twice. Whether you end up liking the notion or not, it's worth taking a look at this new kind of screen saver, because there's every possibility that it represents the future.

This screen saver is a personalized electronic newspaper. It is called the Pointcast Network and — instead of flying windows or toasters — it puts electronic news on your screen. When you download the free software from the Web and install it on your computer — it's easy to do — you'll be given the chance to tell it what sort of sports interest you, the stocks you follow, cities you care about for weather news, the kind of business news you want, even your astrological sign for a horoscope.

VIRUS: News of networking computer bug seems exaggerated

ously as it deserves, fearing that such scorn will only rile some virus writer into creating a real Good Times virus.

Goodness knows, there are already plenty of viruses around that are more worthy of concern. For example, the planet is inexorably spinning toward another March 6, the one day each year when a virus called Michelangelo pops to life. It can cause damage, but almost any antivirus program will catch it and kill it.

"Most people are running virus scanners on their computers, and the antivirus authors are doing a good job," said Marvin J. Christensen, a computer security engineer at the Computer Incident Advisory Capability, the Department of Energy's computer response team. "To me, it would be stupid not to run a virus checker. There are too many ways to get viruses today."

Christensen pointed to new generations of viruses and so-called Trojan Horse programs that can travel on the Internet and other computer networks, in some cases attached to electronic mail or documents that are downloaded from the net. (A computer virus is a piece of code that replicates and spreads from machine to machine; a Trojan Horse is a program that purports to do one thing, but really does another.)

"What the jet was to the biological virus, the Internet is to the computer virus," Kuo said. "You don't have to go to Hong Kong to get the Hong Kong flu."

The new viruses and Trojans are not well understood and are difficult to defend against. Most anti-virus programs look for excutable programs, but let electronic mail and other documents pass by unchallenged.

Does this mean that anyone who uses the Internet is in danger? Hardly.

With the exception of a little item called the WinWord macro virus, which primarily affects users of Microsoft Word for Windows version 6.0 or higher, these new bad guys are rare. And for now, at least, they are merely annoying, not destructive.

But the experts are concerned, because each new technology that is intended to make the Internet easier to use also makes it easier for these viruses and Trojans to spread.

For example, the current trend is to embed mini-programs, called macros, or simple applications, called applets, in electronic documents, mail files or Web pages. An

E-mail message to the boss might contain a snippet of a spreadsheet program that automatically opens when the message is read, or it might signal the user's own spreadsheet program to come alive.

Someday soon, Grandma might log on to the Knicks Web site to pull down an applet that constantly updates the NBA scores on her screen, perhaps with a little video clip of Patrick Ewing jamming it in Shaq's face. Surprise, Grandma! Hope you made a backup!

"Just by opening a document, things are executed before the user has a chance to check them out" for nasty attachments, Christensen explained.

And then there is the dreaded Boza virus, which an alarmed reader informed me is "the first virus that directly infects the 32-bit protected memory Windows environment." In other words, it infects Windows 95 and Windows NT, which were designed to be impervious to traditional computer viruses.

Unlike Good Times, Boza exists, but it turns out it is also something of a dud. Just as regular computer programs can have bugs, so can viruses. Boza's bugs make it virtually impossible to spread from computer to computer, which is what computer viruses are all about. It reminds me of the scare about polywater, a molecular mutant that scientists created in the laboratory years ago. If one drop of polywater escaped down a drain and made its way into a river, the story went, all the world's water would eventually turn into something like mucus.

We managed to escape certain death by polywater back then, and we will probably survive Boza, too.

WRITERS: Waiting list is ready just in case

(From 1B)

World Wide Web site. "But it's been a real great experience for everyone."

Corralling some of Texas' varied writing talents and marshaling that into a collective effort on a tight deadline was tough, Ms. Thompson said.

Texas geography and weather, as always, did it's best to interfere with the project.

Nonfiction writer John Graves lives in Glen Rose, about 45 miles southwest of Fort Worth. Graves had to fight off an ice storm while driving 15 miles to the nearest fax machine to get his chapter through to Austin, the magazine's home base.

And considering that some in the group still apply old-fashioned pen to paper when composing, there was a bit of a technology gap that needed explaining.

"A few did not understand what is going on and maybe never will," says a laughing Ms. Thompson.

For instance, Kinky Friedman, irreverent writer of mysteries and author of "God Bless John Wayne," considered the Internet a fad, said Lisa Lawrence, Texas Monthly spokeswoman.

"He kind of thinks it's a flash in the pan," she said.

There was also the fear that what could be a fun cohesive read, might be nothing more than an exercise in chaos.

"I was kind of worried that we might get a bizarre 30-piece novel," Ms. Thompson said. "But it's really good."

Chapters to be posted on the web site in the first two weeks of March are already in. Each author's submission is copied and distributed to the remaining authors who in their own distinctive style must pick up the story and move it along for another 500 words.

There is a Plan B if a case of writer's block strikes, Ms. Thompson said. The project has proved so popular, there is a waiting list of authors willing to step up to the plate.

"We have a contingency plan," Ms. Thompson admits. "So far, we did not have to employ it."

The first five episodes move along at a good clip, Ms. Thompson explains. Then historical writer Elizabeth Crook, author of "The Raven's Bride," takes a crack at it in Chapter 6.

"She comes back and stops the action and develops the characters," Ms. Thompson said. "It's what she's used to doing."

Broyles, creator of television's "China Beach" and 1995 Academy Award nominee for his "Apollo 13" screenplay, takes the characters to Mogadishu. Ms. Carpenter, Lady Bird Johnson's former press secretary, takes a stab at presidential candidate Pat Buchanan.

"They have enjoyed it," Ms. Thompson said. "I thought I would have to be pushing these people."

SCREENS: Pointcast information provider

(From 1B)

Then, it'll log on to the Internet as often as you tell it to and update the news. When your computer is idle, the Pointcast screen saver pops onto your screen with your personalized news.

You also can use Pointcast as a program and — at the click of a button — turn to any part of the news that interests you. There's no charge for the service. That's why you'll also see ads on your screen. Prodigy advertises there, as well as Fidelity investments.

So if you have an IBM-compatible computer — sorry, Pointcast doesn't yet have a version for Macintosh — you may want to try it out. Just head for the Pointcast home page on the Web at <http://www.pointcast/index.html> and push the on-screen button to download the software you need. Just tell your computer which directory to save the file in and, once the download is done, log off the Web.

Then go to the directory where you stored the file and click on it with your mouse. It contains several compressed files that will automatically decompress. Then you can simply follow the instructions for installation. As the program installs, you'll get a chance to tell it all about your preferences for news and also tell it how often you want the news to be updated.

If you're one of those lucky people who has a permanent connection to the Web, you can tell Pointcast how often you want it to automatically log on and get fresh news. But that'll mostly be business users; the majority of home users must dial in and connect to their Internet service providers.

But Pointcast has a provision for that too — you simply log on to the Net and then press Pointcast's "Update" button. Pointcast will log on and download the latest news, weather and sports.

Once you have Pointcast working, you'll be able to decide just how well the personalized news service fits your needs. Don't expect the depth of a newspaper. It's more like listening to a radio news summary — with your own horoscope and even the winning numbers for the lottery thrown in.

At worst, it's a pretty good screen saver and a way to keep up with sports scores and the weather. At best, it may be a small taste of how the news may be delivered in the future.

MILITARY: DOD, inventor of 'Net, may again find the technology useful ingly communicate via Internet discussion groups. That would make life harder for U.S. spies accustomed to gathering data as James Bond might — from printed newspapers, magazines and leaflets, or simply by overhearing a conversation at a consular cocktail party.

Foreign "disinformation" agents or pranksters might delude U.S. spies by feeding erroneous information into the Net.

Hackers and computer viruses could "seriously disrupt various operations if sufficient countermeasures are not built in."

The old saying "The whole world is watching" takes on a whole new meaning in the age of the Internet, when computer users can transmit TV-quality images and audio over the computer network.

"Video footage of military operations will be captured by inexpensive, hand-held digital video cameras operated by local individuals, transformed unedited into data files, and then uploaded into the global (Internet) information flow, reaching millions of people in a matter of minutes," Swett said.

As a result, "public opinion and calls for action (or calls to terminate military actions) may be formed before national leaders have a chance to develop positions or react to developments," Swett said. "These factors will greatly add to the burden on military commanders, whose actions will be subjected to an unprecedented degree of scrutiny."

The prospect of R107RC-Yprowled Internet worries some political activists.

One reason is that Swett's report details the activities of a San Francisco-based group, the Institute for Global Communications or IGC. The group links ecological, peace and other political activists via the Net.

"It's outrageous, the U.S. military is monitoring legal nonprofit organizations," said IGC director Geoff Sears.

But Swett said he had described the IGC, which he called a left-wing group, only to illustrate how foreign groups might use the Internet to rally political activists. He said he had obtained the information about IGC legally, by reading its free, public-access home page on the World Wide Web, a graphics-enhanced branch of the Internet.

Swett's report also cites Internet activities by groups as diverse as a white supremacist organization, a gay rights group, the National Association for the Reform of Marijuana Laws, People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals, the Northern California-based environmentalist group Earth First and a UFO buffs club that accuses the military of covering up flying saucer incidents.

PAPERS: Almost 500 dailies on web by year's end

(From 1B)

Chris Tucher, business manager for publishing at the Netscape Communications Corp. whose Navigator Web browser is the most popular Internet software.

"We believe that the Net is going to transform the way people get information," said Tucher whose company has a strong stake in the success of the Web. "To put it coarsely, if you don't do it, somebody else will. Whether it's finding a plumber or buying a car or selling your house, some one will find a way to make money using the Internet."

This was the thinking behind Philadelphia Online, a creation of The Philadelphia Inquirer and The Philadelphia Daily News, which are owned by Knight Ridder Inc.

"We're doing it because some day, when we're smart enough, it will be the answer to our prayers," said Tom Sims, who heads the venture.

The National Newspaper Association lists 162 newspapers that currently have electronic pages on the Web, triple the number in 1994. Admittedly, the list includes publications like The Bingo Bugle, of Vashon, Wash., which is more devoted to the board game and to dream interpretation than to the news. But the giants are also there, including The Wall Street Journal, The New York Times and The Chicago

John F. Kelsey 3rd, a Princeton, N.J., electronic media consultant whose Kelsey Group was a sponsor of the Interactive Newspapers 96 conference here this week.

Kelsey said a newspaper's fear comes from the new technology comes from the threat to an organization's advertising base, especially the classifieds, from the electronic world's point-and-click technology and ability to search through piles of information and get an answer complete with pictures and sound.

If a system is ever invented that accurately counts and categorizes each visitor to a newspaper's Web site, Kelsey said, publishing on the Internet could newspaper readership. The second problem begins with the first rule of the Internet, that everything on it is basically free. People pay the phone company for the use of the lines that hook their computers to the Internet, and they pay the access providers like CompuServe, or small local companies, to connect them to it, but efforts to get people to pay to visit a Web site have generally failed.

Just as they use advertisers to pay nearly three-quarters of the cost of publishing a daily newspaper, publishers on the World Wide Web hope that advertisers will pay for the cost of their Internet presence. Newspaper people at the conference heard estimates that advertisers spent $55 million in on-line advertising last year, and that that figure would reach $5 billion by 2000.

Hosiery firm finally gets its Hanes on legs of rock legend Tina Turner

LOS ANGELES — They finally got their Hanes on Tina Turner. The raspy-voiced rock legend just signed on the dotted line to be the new Hanes Hosiery spokesmodel, and a sexy advertising campaign is already in the works for debut this fall.

"There was a poll taken as to who would be the one chosen to do the Hanes commercial and from what I understand from the company, I was chosen," the 56-year-old Turner told TV's "Extra" in an interview for broadcast Friday.

She has no trouble endorsing the product: Turner wears Hanes Hosiery.

"It gives you a bit of contour. It's a very good line," she said.

with the city's Wednesday decision, said curator Mark Snider.

LAS VEGAS — The annual awards banquet of the National Association of Theater Owners isn't taken as seriously as the Academy Awards, so honorees John Travolta and Sandra Bullock could cut up.

The two started off the night Thursday by poking their heads through the curtains during an introduction.

Travolta, who was named male star of the year after he jump-started a stalled career with the blockbusters "Pulp Fiction" and "Get Shorty," chided an industry heavyweight about why he was ignored for so long.

"Well, why don't you answer that?" he asked James G. Robinson, who was named producer of the year for "Ace Ventura."

"I was waiting for the right moment," Robinson retorted at the post-banquet news conference.

Bullock, the female star of the year, quipped that her greatest hope in future movies was to wear more than just one dress, as she did in "Speed," a thriller about a daylong ride on a bomb-rigged bus.

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — Hoo-ah! Al Pacino plans to star in and direct a revival of Eugene O'Neill's two-character play "Hughie" and then bring it to Broadway.

Pacino will play Erie, a small-time gambler down on his luck who tells his tale to a sympathetic soul in a rundown hotel lobby.

Al Pacino plans to star in and direct a revival of Eugene O'Neill's "Hughie."

The drama is scheduled to open at the Long Wharf Theater from July 2 to 21, then move to New York's Circle in the Square after 24 performances in New Haven.

Pacino won an Oscar for best actor in 1993 for "Scent of a Woman." He plays the mayor of New York in the current film "City Hall."

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — Elvis may be gone, but the party at his honeymoon hideaway lived on — until neighbors put a stop to it.

The City Council has ruled that there will be no more tour buses and parties at the home Elvis Presley leased for a year. He brought his wife, Priscilla, there for their honeymoon in May 1967.

Boston-based Tri Villa Trust owns the five-bedroom, five-bathroom home, and had made it available for tour buses and occasional short-term leases. Neighbors complained for years about the noise and traffic.

Compiled from Reporter-Telegram wire services.

It was a Sunday piece on "Murder One" in The New York Times, recalled Kamel, critically praised for his portrayal of the shadowy Dr. Graham Lester in ABC's season-long murder mystery.

"The writer singled me out as 'the epitome of slime.' My first reaction was, 'Excuse me, have we ever met?'" Kamel said. "Once one has been reassured by friends and colleagues, one still has to convince one's family that it's a great honor to be called slime by the Times."

Kamel said his career breakthrough came on "L.A. Law" — not as a bad guy, but as a noble, dying AIDS activist lawyer. It won him bad-guy roles as Luke Perry's homicidal father-in-law on "Beverly Hills 90210" and Heather Locklear's evil boss on "Melrose Place."

"Maybe one of the reasons I do them so well is that I never think of them as the bad guys," said Kamel, who studied with acting teacher Sanford Meisner. "He taught me not to judge my character, but to justify his behavior."

The Rev. J.H. Anderson, pastor of New Jerusalem Church of God in Christ, San Angelo, will be the speaker.

Man to preach

Gary Hall will preach Sunday at Ranchland Heights Baptist Church, 3203 S. County Road 1211, for the 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. services.

Hall is the son of Midlanders Bill and Pat Hall. A nursery will be provided for children 3 and younger. Sunday School is at 9:45 a.m.

Those needing a ride to services are asked to call Ben Hart, 684-3909, or Sterling and Betty Farris, 685-0007 before tonight.

Ministry set

ODESSA — The Xtreme Team of Christian Heritage Church, Amarillo, will be at Odessa's New Beginning Church, Bluebird at University, March 14-16.

This group of young people minister in live music and drama. Services will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday.

Free pizza will be served at noon Saturday, March 16, to those attending the youth service. For more information call Cathy Wood, 1-806-376-8715.

Son returns home

Christopher A. Bauer, son of Bruce Bauer and the late Elizabeth Bauer of Greenwood, has returned home following two years of service in the Carlsbad California Mission of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Taipei, Taiwan.

Friends and family are invited to attend a special 9 a.m. service Sunday at 2101 Tarleton. Bauer will give his mission report.

There are more than 50,000 missionaries in the church who serve worldwide, primarily at their own expense. As proselytizing missionaries they spend their time teaching the gospel and performing community service in their assigned areas.

Of his mission, Bauer said, "This has been the greatest privilege of my life, to teach people about Jesus Christ." Bauer plans to continue his education at Brigham Young University where he will major in medicine and law.

Celebration set

The First Baptist Church will host a Community Easter Celebration March 28-31. The dramatic musical, "At the Name of Jesus," will be presented by the combined efforts of the 100-member Sanctuary Choir, Orchestra and Drama Cast.

The pageant is directed by George A. Koehl III, minister of Music at FBC since August 1993 and a native Midlander. The drama director is Janna Boyd. Stage manager is Alan Bryant. Orchestra director is Stan Hamblin. The assistant musical director is Doris McSparran.

The principle narrators of the pageant will be John the Disciple and a young slave boy. John, the older, will be played by Bear Mills, and the slave boy by Jason Dunton. John is about to be exiled to the island of Patmos and is under house arrest in Ephesus. As an old man, he is writing his gospel about his experiences with Christ as a young man.

Jesus will be played by Robert Martin and John the Disciple (the younger) will be played by Mike Goeke.

Others in the cast include Al Faychak, James; Judy Goggins, Mary, the mother of Jesus; Greta Rigney, Mary Magdalene; John Murray, Judas; Bob Crawford, Caiaphas; Josh Arrambide, Joseph; Mark Leaverton, Pilate; Doug Noah, David Smith and Al Pond, the three Wise Men; Keith Poe, the Roman Centurion; and Mike Reeves, Doug Roper, Chris Whigham, Dennis Johnson, Mark Lloyd and Jim Sale, the soldiers.

The sanctuary will be transformed into a First Century Judean village with authentic period pieces. Live animals and birds will add to the realism of the setting.

The work for the pageant is being done by volunteers - all FBC members.

The public is invited to attend performances at 7:30 p.m. March 28-30 and at 6:30 p.m. March 31 at the church, 2104 W. Louisiana Ave. Free child care will be available for ages birth through 3 years old. No admission will be charged. For more information, call the church office, 683-0600.

Services planned

Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 5400 N. Big Spring St., continues its observation of Lent with special Thursday services at 7 p.m.

Each week a different symbol of sin and salvation will be added to the cross. This week's special service utilizes a wash basin where people can either wash their hands of Christ or wash the feet of others in service to Christ.

Revival planned

DENVER CITY — Denver City Community Building will be the site of the Holy Ghost and Fire Revival beginning at 7 p.m. Friday and continuing Saturday, March 16.

Evangelist will be the Rev. Jerry Murphy of Jesus Way Ministries.

"Her songs reflect the joy, happiness and excitement of His love," said a release from the Rev. Jerry Don Cheshire, pastor of Asbury UMC.

She has taught and worked with many children's choirs and has been the director of a puppet ministry for two years.

The public is invited to attend.

A series of special interest conferences will be held following the breakfast April 13. Subjects include "How to Have Joy on the Journey," "How to Survive Supper," "The Biblical Truth About Angels," "Fast Cleaning Tips," "What We Need to Know About AIDS" and "Learn a New Craft Idea."

Cost for the weekend, which includes lodging, conference fee and two meals, will be $40 for four people per room, $45 for three people per room, and $50 for two people per room. Registration is underway and continues through March 27. After March 27, a late fee of $5 will be added.

All women from the community are invited to attend. For more information or to make reservations call the church office, 694-7701.

The course offers 1.5 semester hours credit for the WTBI. Enrollment is $12. There is no enrollment for students presently enrolled at WTBI. Those taking the course for credit will be required to purchase a book associated with the subject and to submit an assigned research paper.

To enroll call, write or fax 694-7515. Those planning to fax information need to call first.

Baker WJCAC MVP, women get only one honored

Staff Report

Midland College sophomore D'Juan Baker headed the list of Midland College basketball players who picked up post-season honors from the Western Junior College Athletic Conference.

The preseason all-American was named as the conference's Player of the Year. Baker joined sophomore Devon Phillips, who was named to the men's first team, and freshman Ndiaye Ndiaye, who earned first team honors on the women's side.

On the women's side, Ndiaye was the lone Lady Chap chosen to the first team from a team that placed third in the WJCAC, one game behind Frank Phillips and Howard College, and second in Region V.

Coin has been flipped and the girls District 5 soccer playoffs will get underway today with a certain Midland flair. The Midland High and Midland Lee girls soccer teams will meet for the third time this season at 2 p.m. at the Midland High Soccer Field.

The two Tall City teams joined Abilene Cooper as the tri-champions with a 10-2 in district, and the winner of today's game will travel to the Lee Complex in Abilene for Tuesday's 5:30 p.m. showdown for the district's No. 1 seed in the upcoming UIL soccer playoffs.

Midland High and Lee could not be more evenly-matched coming into this game. Both are 15-4 for the season, splitting 1-0 shootout games during the season. Their leading scorers are within points of each other (Lee's Christi Johnson 35 points and MHS' Jacque Ketter 32 points).

What differences are there? Not many.

A&M women will battle Texas Tech

By Jaime Aron
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS — Lisa Branch had just finished helping Texas A&M turn an 18-point deficit into a one-point lead when she ran blindly into a moving screen by Amie Smith with 7:34 left in Friday's Southwest Conference semifinal against Texas.

Rolling on the court in pain, then sitting alone at the end of the bench with an ice pack pressed against her frowning face, Branch — and maybe the Lady Aggies — seemed done for the day.

Not even two minutes later, though, the 5-foot-4 sparkplug returned to finish what she had started. With an assist on her first pass, Branch kept A&M in con-

Tech, Texas men battle in last SWC showdown

By Denne H. Freeman

DALLAS — Texas Tech likes to run but showed against Rice it is equally adept at winning slowdown, halfcourt games.

The 3-point shooting of Koy Smith and Cory Carr over Rice's tight zone defense carried No. 7 Tech to a 68-53 victory over the Owls Friday night in the semifinals of the Southwest Conference tournament.

"This time of year teams start playing games closer to the vest," said Tech coach James Dickey. "Teams know we like an up tempo so they try to take that away from us. But that's OK. We can adjust. A game like this is good for us because we'll face some teams playing that way in the NCAA tournament."

Tech will play Texas in the championship finals at 1 p.m. Saturday in Reunion Arena. The Red Raiders were the regular SWC champion with a 14-0 record.

McAfee rips top time in WT Relays' 300 hurdles prelims

By Amy Wolfenbarger
Sports Writer

ODESSA — Midland Lee's John McAfee blazed to a preliminary time of 37.95 seconds in the 300-meter hurdles to highlight the Tall City entries in the first day of the 52nd Annual West Texas Relays here Friday at Ratliff Stadium.

And it's not even his favorite race. "I like it now," said the Lee senior, who also qualified for the finals with a top time of 14.55 in the 110 high hurdles. "I hated it last year."

But McAfee, who just missed a trip to the UIL State Track and Field Meet last year in what he considered his specialty, the 110 hurdles, ignored the cold and his dislike of the longer race to rip off what is probably one of the best times of the year in the state.

"I ran a 13.6 in the 110s in the first meet of the year but I've been chopping (taking too many steps between hurdles) real hard on the 300s lately," McAfee said. "Lately in practice I've just been working on a sprint workout and then doing my 300 workout and I guess it's paid off."

The Lee boys and girls as well as the Midland High girls are Midland's entrants in the meet which continues today with the remaining field events finals and the running event finals. Some field events start at 10:30 a.m. while the running finals begin at 11:45 a.m. with the 3,200 run.

The opening ceremonies are at 12:40 p.m. before the 400 relay finals kick off at 12:55 p.m. Besides four divisions of

Knicks fire Don Nelson, replaced with Van Gundy

■ Don Nelson is fired less than one year into job, making it his second firing in one year of coaching.

The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Don Nelson was fired by the New York Knicks today, failing to complete his first season with the team, and was replaced by assistant coach Jeff Van Gundy.

The Knicks, who play the 76ers tonight in Philadelphia, said Van Gundy will coach for the remainder of the season.

"It became very obvious that we needed to go in another direction. The team was in a downward spiral, we're not the same as we used to be," general manager and team president Ernie Grunfeld said.

"You want a coach to have a passion for the game and a competitive desire for it. We've lost the work ethic. We lost our signature, defensive rebounding, and we have to get back to that," Grunfeld said.

This is the second straight season Nelson was forced out. Last season, he was ousted by the Golden State Warriors following ongoing conflicts with players, particularly Chris Webber.

Relations with his new team weren't much better. With the team in a 4-9 skid since the All-Star break, Nelson became embroiled in a well-publicized feud with shooting guard John Starks, who

Bills look to replace Bennett with Spielman

By John Affleck
Associated Press Writer

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — Attempting to fill the hole in their defense created by the departure of Cornelius Bennett, the Buffalo Bills have agreed on a contract with four-time Pro Bowl linebacker Chris Spielman.

"He's a perfect fit," Buffalo general manager John Butler said Friday. "It's almost like he has a sixth sense to be able to find the football."

Spielman, who played eight seasons with the Detroit Lions, agreed Thursday night to a four-year, $8 million contract with the Bills. The 30-year-old free agent had also been negotiating with the New York Giants and Green Bay Packers.

The deal will be signed later this month after the Bills finish some contractual negotiations to fit Spielman under the salary cap and Buffalo officials return from league meetings, Butler said.

Spielman led Detroit in tackles every season since coming out of Ohio State as a second-round draft choice in 1988. He and Mark Maddox will become Buffalo's starting inside linebackers in the Bills' three-linemen, four-linebacker

UMass gets win over George Washington

By The Associated Press

Massachusetts finally found a way past George Washington, the only team to beat the Minutemen this season.

It wasn't easy Friday for second-ranked UMass. It never is against the Colonials, who had won four straight over the Minutemen but fell 74-65 in the Atlantic 10 semifinals.

Top-ranked Kentucky, which dominated the Southeastern Conference during the regular season, did the same thing in its first game of the league tournament.

Antoine Walker scored 21 points as the Wildcats (27-1) beat Florida 100-76 for their 26th straight victory.

New Mexico needed three overtimes to subdue Fresno State 104-99 in the Western Athletic semifinals.

Monmouth squeezed past Rider 60-59 to win the Northeast Conference's automatic bid.

Eastern Michigan downed Ball State 87-71 in the Mid-American semifinals and will play Toledo, a 75-55 winner over Miami, Ohio.

SOUTHEASTERN

No. 25 Mississippi St. 69, Auburn 58
Marcus Bullard scored 19 points as Mississippi State (20-7) won its second SEC tournament game in 10 years. Pat Burke had 16 points and 11 rebounds for Auburn (19-12).

Arkansas 80, South Carolina 58
Pat Bradley scored 23 points and broke a conference tournament record with seven 3-pointers for the Razorbacks (18-11).

BIG EAST

No. 13 Connecticut 85, No. 13 Syracuse 67

Ray Allen, the conference Player of the Year, rebounded from a 4-for-17 shooting game the previous day to score 29 points and tied a tournament record with seven steals. Doron Sheffer had 22 points as the Huskies (29-2) pulled away from the Orangemen (24-8).

No. 6 Georgetown 84, No. 9 Villanova 76

Victor Page had a career-high 34 points and backcourtmate Allen Iverson contributed 38 for the Hoyas (26-6). Page, a freshman, got 20 points in the first half and then came through with 10 points in a 12-1 run as Iverson sat on the bench with four fouls.

CONFERENCE USA

No. 8 Cincinnati 92, No. 22 Louisville 81

The Bearcats (24-4) hit four of their first six 3-pointers against the Cardinals (20-11). Darnell Burton and Danny Fortson each had 21 points in leading Cincinnati, which had five players in double figures.

ATLANTIC COAST

Clemson 75, No. 20 North Carolina 73
Greg Buckner's slam dunk with 0.6 seconds left lifted Clemson to its first postseason victory over the Tar Heels.

Buckner finished with 20 points, including the last four in the final 1:05.

Maryland 82, Duke 69

NCAA Roundup

With LaRon Profit and Mario Lucas leading the way, Maryland's reserves outscored Duke's 44-3. Profit scored 19 points and Lucas had 11 for the Terrapins (17-11). Ricky Price had 21 points for the Blue Devils (18-12).

No. 18 Georgia Tech 88, N.C. State 73

Stephon Marbury scored 23 points and Matt Harpring added 21 as top-seeded Georgia Tech (21-10) beat N.C. State for the sixth straight time. Todd Fuller led the Wolfpack (15-16) with 17 points and 10 rebounds.

No. 12 Wake Forest 70, Virginia 60

Tim Duncan tormented Virginia night with 19 points, 15 rebounds and six blocked shots. Defensive pressure by the Demon Deacons (21-5) was too tough for undermanned Virginia.

BIG EIGHT

No. 5 Kansas 88, Colorado 55
Raef LaFrentz had 22 points and eight rebounds for Kansas (25-3), which beat the Buffaloes (9-18) for the third time this year.

Kansas St 58, Oklahoma St 55
K-State (17-10) won a battle of mistakes as both teams shot 38 percent and committed 18 turnovers.

Oklahoma State (17-10), a Final Four contender, won 66-55.

Kelvin Cato scored 16 points, blocked two shots and hauled in a rebound in the final minute for Iowa State (21-8).

Kimball thumps San Antonio Jay in 5A semis

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — Patrick Gusters scored 20 and Brandon Burney added 19 Friday, leading Dallas Kimball to an 83-55 victory over San Antonio Jay in their Class 5A semifinal of the boys state basketball tournament.

Euleus Trinity and Humble played in the other semifinal to determine who will play Kimball in Saturday night's championship game.

Jay (26-11), one of the field's biggest surprises after a third-place finish in district play, had heavily favored Kimball (37-2) worried as late as the 2:41 mark in the third period. Jay's Carlton Brown sank a layup to cut Kimball's advantage to 51-45.

Kimball blasted off to a 22-2 run over the next 5:10 to take a 73-47 lead early in the fourth and effectively take one more step toward winning a second state championship.

Current Texas Tech star Jason Sasser, whose younger brother is on this Kimball squad, helped the 1990 team win a championship trophy.

Jay never got closer.

Class 5A Semifinal
Euleus Trinity 63, Humble 54

AUSTIN — Landry Kosmalski scored 24 points and Dylan Osean added 19 Friday night to lead Euleus Trinity to a 63-54 victory over Humble in their Class 5A semifinal game of the boys state high school basketball tournament.

Trinity will play Dallas Kimball (37-2) for the second time in seven games in Saturday's state championship game. Kimball advanced earlier Friday with an 83-55 victory over San Antonio Jay.

Trinity (31-3) beat Kimball 89-83 in the final game of the regular season.

Osean and Kosmalski, who also pulled down a game-high 11 rebounds, moved to the fore of the game's crucial stretch in the third quarter. Osean scored seven and Kosmalski six in a 15-2 run to end a third quarter burst that proved insurmountable for Humble (31-5).

Class 2A Semifinals

East Chambers 67, Vanderbilt Industrial 61

AUSTIN — Tyrone White scored 31 points to lead East Chambers to a 67-61 victory over Vanderbilt Industrial Friday in their Class 2A semifinal of the University Interscholastic League tournament.

East Chambers will face Krum (36-1), a 63-50 winner over Haskell Friday morning, in Saturday's championship game.

East Chambers (25-8) mounted a 47-21 lead on a Pat Guillory 3-pointer with 5:52 remaining in the third period. But Industrial rallied, outscoring East Chambers 32-10 over a 6:35 stretch and eventually closing the gap to 59-58 with 2:20 remaining.

White proved to be too much in the end, however. He scored two straight field goals to rebuild the lead to 63-58.

East Chambers finally sealed its first state championship berth by going 4-for-6 from the foul line in the last 43.7 seconds.

Krum 63, Haskell 50

AUSTIN — Chris Arledge scored 20 points and Krum defenders wreaked havoc today for a victory over Haskell in a Class 2A semifinal.

Krum will face East Chambers in Saturday morning's championship game.

Arledge's inside presence and consistent scoring by his teammates made up for the two-pronged attack of Haskell (28-7). Casey Burgess and Cody Cooley each scored 21, but the rest of the team only could muster eight.

Krum (36-1) created its scoring off a tenacious defense that solved Haskell's offense until halfway through the fourth quarter. Haskell didn't record its first assist until the 4:22 mark when Mik Everett fed Burgess for a jumper.

Krum scored 27 points off 22 Haskell turnovers.

snub of the other players.

"I am proud of Jazz and the job that she did," said Jones. "I don't agree with the coaches' decisions. Our team is underrated. We had a good year and had players that made big contributions. Sometimes they get recognized and sometimes they don't."

Three Lady Chaps were named to the honorable mention team. Fatou Cisse, Shannon Jordan and Pam Hicks were selected to that list.

Baker, a native of Fort Worth, led the WJAC in scoring with 21.7 points per game. That mark ranks as the third highest in Midland College history. The shooting guard also pulled down 6.6 boards to rank in the top 10 in that category.

In fact, Baker ranked in the WJAC's top 10 three-point field goal percentage (second), free throw percentage (sixth) and steals (fifth). It was the second straight season Baker has led the team in scoring.

Baker, an all-WJAC and all-Region V performer in 1995, is the second straight Chaps player to take the conference's top honor. Last season, Kevin Rice took the conference's top prize after averaging 15.9 points a game and dishing out 126 assists for the season.

Another player for the 17-12 and 5-7 Chaparral basketball team to be honored by the WJAC is Devon Phillips. The Chicago native was second on the team in scoring for the second straight season. His 20.1 points per game was good for No. 2 in the conference and the sophomore was the WJAC's top free throw shooter in 1995-96.

Ndiaye, a native of Senegal, West Africa, led the Lady Chaps in scoring with a 16.2 average for the regular season. She also pulled down a team-high 17.9 rebounds, just under six a game. Cisse was the team's second-leading scorer at 15 points a clip.

Jordan had 46 three-point goals in the regular season, ranking her among the top three in the conference but that was not good enough to get the two-year part-time starter on the first team. Jordan averaged 7.4 points a game in the regular season and finished with 65 assists.

Hicks, another two-year part-time starter, finished with 7.9 points a game in regular-season play and had 70 assists. She also had 33 treys in the regular season.

Freeman's 34 pushes Texas into SWC final

The Associated Press

DALLAS — Reggie Freeman scored 28 of his 34 points in the second half to carry Texas past Southern Methodist 89-67 Friday and into the Southwest Conference tournament finals for the third straight year.

The Longhorns (20-8) have won the last two SWC postseason titles but will have to get by No. 7 Texas Tech in Saturday's championship to earn the league's final crown and an automatic bid into the NCAA tournament.

Texas Tech advanced to the finals by beating Rice 68-53 in the other tournament semifinal match.

Texas, the third seed, was never really threatened by the seventh-seeded Mustangs (8-20), but the Longhorns had trouble pulling away.

Texas was comfortably ahead after staving off a brief SMU rally early in the second half, then finally sealed the victory with a 14-0 spurt in the final minutes.

Freeman, an all-SWC selection, was the difference, shaking off a 1-of-3 first half to hit 11 of 19 second-half shots. He had stretches where he scored 10 and 11 straight Texas points. He also had a game-high 14 rebounds.

Freshman Kris Clack also had a double-double for Texas with 17 points and 12 rebounds. Carlton Dixon scored 11 points.

Jemeil Rich was the Mustangs' only bright spot, scoring a career-best 30 points despite being at least six inches shorter than most his defenders.

Mohammed Tijjani had 12 points and 11 rebounds for the Mustangs before fouling out. Jay Poerner and Troy Matthews each scored 10.

Officials called 45 personal fouls and two technicals. The teams combined to shoot 59 free throws.

high schools, Odessa junior high teams will also compete today.

Lee's Toya Clater was the only Tall City girl to actually bring home points Friday as just a few field event finals were contested. She had a superb second-place jump of 17 feet, 7 1/4 inches in the long jump.

Clater was first last week at the Concho Belle Relays with a leap of 17-1. She just missed first place by 3/4 of an inch behind El Paso Burges' Alex Valles (17-8). The improvement of 6 1/4 inches, however, is a huge one for Clater.

Lee's John Norman also claimed second in the boys long jump with a leap of 21-6 1/2. Midland High's Tami Zachery pulled off a double in individual competition, recording the best prelim time in the 100 and second-best in the 200.

Zachery, who also anchors Midland High's 400 relay, crossed the line in a prelim time of 12.3 in the 100 and 27.01 in the 200. The 200 prelim, however, was late Friday night after the sun went down, making for much colder conditions.

"I felt real good about the 100 but I was concentrating more on the 200," Zachery said. "I like the shorter race but I try to put all my energy into the 200."

The 100 today will feature five Midland girls out of a total eight competitors. Lee's Toya Clater qualified with the third-best time while Toya Zachery, Tami's older sister, qualified fourth. Midland's Ogonna Merritt had the fifth-best time while Lee's Amanda Douglas rounds out the field.

Also in girls action, Midland's 400 relay recorded the best time Friday with a 49.42 while Lee qualified third with a 50.44. Lee also had the third-best 800 relay team with a 1:48.02 and the third-best time in the 1,600 relay at 4:17.49 in what turned out to be the coldest race of the night.

But the Lady Bulldogs were bitterly disappointed with being disqualified in the 800 relay, one of two they took to regionals last year.

MHS was DQed after making the first baton exchange out of the zone. But second leg Toya Zachery said there was some confusion when one of the meet officials told her to move her mark from what she originally had. She did and Merritt, who led off the relay, could not tell where the exchange zone was and held the baton too long for fear of handing off too soon.

"She was right in the first place," said MHS coach Susan Nix. "I told the girls that from now on to trust themselves. They know where they are supposed to be."

Nix said she didn't make a formal protest because decisions like these are usually not overturned. They can't run the race again and they can't replace Midland with a team that finished legally. Nix said. She did, however, let meet officials know that one of their own gave the wrong information to her team and that it shouldn't have happened.

Stanton's Todd Davis qualified with the best time in both the 100 and 200. He finished with an 11.0 in the 100 and a 22.84 in the 200. The Buffaloes' 400 relay team also qualified with a second-best 44.85.

TECH: No. 7 Raiders will play Texas in SWC finale

(From 1C)

The win was the 20th in a row for the Red Raiders. They have won a school-record 27 games against a lone loss in December to Eastern Michigan in the Sun Bowl tournament. Only Kentucky (26) has a longer winning streak.

With Rice sagging, on Jason Sasser and Tony Battie, Smith and Carr each hit four times from 3-point range. Smith had 12 points and Carr 16.

Sasser, the SWC player of the year, began getting his shots once the zone loosened and finished with 12 points. Darvin Ham scored 10 points and Battie got nine points and nine rebounds.

Tommy McGhee scored 12 points for Rice and J.J. Polk contributed 10 for the Owls (14-14). Robert Johnson had 12 Shaun Igo added 11 points with seven rebounds.

Tech was never seriously threatened in the second half as the snip-ing by Carr and Smith discouraged the Owls every time they tried to make a run.

Rice coach Willis Wilson said Tech showed it can have good patience against a zone.

"Tech has the ability to do a lot of things and that's an intangible that will go far in the tournament," Wilson said. "When they need a 3-point basket they go out and get one. Tech is a vastly underrated team."

Rice, hounding Tech with a 2-3 zone defense, stayed close in the first half until Smith and Stanley Bonewitz hit consecutive 3-pointers for a 31-22 halftime edge.

The Owls led 17-12 when Tech regained control with an 8-0 run ignited by Ham's two dunks and Sasser's two baskets.

Tech beat Rice 79-57 and 84-70 in the regular season and whipped Texas A&M 85-57 in the first round of the tournament. Rice got to the semifinals by ousting Texas Christian 78-67.

SWC women

the final 3:42.

Tech (25-3) will play Texas A&M in the tournament final on Saturday. The Lady Aggies upset No. 24 Texas 75-61 in the semis.

Pat Luckey scored 16 points for Houston and Fleeceia Comeaux added 15.

It was Tech's 14th straight win over Houston.

AGS: Texas Tech survives Houston scare

(From 1C)

Texas A&M deserves to be one of the 64," A&M coach Candi Harvey said.

Fourth-seeded A&M, which lost twice to top-seeded UT (20-8) in the regular season, didn't look like it early Friday as Branch went scoreless for the first 19 minutes and Texas led by as much as 18.

Then scored the last five minutes of the first half to shrink the UT lead to 34-25 at halftime. The Lady Aggies got within two midway through the second half before the Lady Longhorns went back up 51-43.

But that was it for UT as the Lady Aggies took over, going on an 11-0 run to put them ahead for good 54-51 with 5:43 to play.

A&M, however, got a big scare when it led 52-51 and Branch slammed into Smith.

Texas made it 54-53 on a layup by Vanessa Williams, but it was too late. Angel Spinks followed with a three-point play then another layup, and a Melissa Rollerson layup put the Lady Aggies up 61-53.

Atkins, the SWC player of the year, was held to 10 points, half her average. However, she grabbed 14 rebounds and scored six points in

Carnett makes junior swim cut

COLLEGE STATION — City of Midland Aquatics swimmer Susie Carnett qualified for Junior Nationals competition in the 200 butterfly with a 2:08.48 time Friday in the Texas Age Group Swimming state championships. The competition was conducted at Texas A&M. Carnett qualified for Junior Nationals in the 400 individual medley last summer.

COM ninth-grader Andy Kapchinski also had an impressive preliminary swim in the 500 freestyle. His time of 4:42 is three seconds off the Junior Nationals qualifying time. It would have won the high school Region I meet last weekend, coach Ted Carson said.

Lee boys playoff set

The Midland Lee boys end their four-year playoff absence March 16 at the Lee Complex in Abilene at 2 p.m. The District 5 Rebels (13-4) will play the last-place team from District 6, 4-12-2 Brownwood. Brownwood makes its first playoff appearance. District 6 has only three teams.

The Class 4A Brownwood Lions lost to Abilene Cooper 3-0 this year. Lee beat Cooper 5-0 and 2-0. Abilene High will play Cleburne at the Lee Complex after the Brownwood-Lee game in another bi-district game. Midland High will play either Burk Burnett or Wichita Falls High in its first playoff in the area round March 18 or 19.

Spradlin slam lifts Christian

CLYDE — Bethany Spradlin smacked two home runs, including a grand slam, as the Midland Christian softball team rolled to a 14-1 drubbing of Ballinger Friday in the Clyde Invitational tournament.

The Lady Mustangs (11-4) also got a triple from Mindi Sheppard and a double from Lacy Moore in the 13-run rout.

April Sheppard pitched a complete game, four-hitter and struck out six to pick up the victory as Midland Christian broke the game open with an eight-run second inning.

Midland Christian advances to today's semifinal game against the winner of the Clyde-Abilene Cooper JV. The championship game is set for 8 p.m. Saturday.

Dunlavy foils no-hit bid

LUBBOCK — Midland High's Russell Dunlavy broke up a no-hit bid Lubbock Monterey's Mark Martinez in the seventh inning as the Plainsmen beat the Bulldogs

6-2 in the Lubbock Invitational tournament.

Martinez finished with a two hitter and struck out 18 as Dunlavy broke up the gem in the seventh with an RBI single. Jason Rogers followed with another RBI single for MHS' only two runs.

Joseph Hudson (1-1) went the distance on the mound for MHS, giving up seven hits and striking out five to absorb the loss.

The Bulldogs (10-4) play in the third-place today at 1:30 p.m. at Texas Tech's Lowery Field.

Earlier in the day, Midland High sent 11 men to the plate in a five-run sixth inning to beat Frenship 7-2.

Catcher Jeff Perez went 3-4 for the Bulldogs with a double and Eric Clark allowed just six hits in seven innings to pick up the victory.

In the JV division, the Bulldogs picked up a pair of wins, 12-3 over Muleshoe and 10-1 over Plainview.

A seven-run fifth proved to be the difference in the win over Muleshoe as Rafael Romero and Ross Nobles had multiple-hit games. The Bulldogs scored in four straight innings to beat Plainview as Clay Zachery had a triple and Jeff Lawson had a double and struck out 11 on the mound to earn the win.

The JV Bulldogs take on the Lubbock High-Abilene Cooper winner today at 2 p.m.

Midland Lee softball travels to Central

By Stewart Doreen
Sports Writer

The Midland Lee softball team travels to the San Angelo for its District 4-5A matchup with San Angelo Central.

Lee (14-3 and 2-1 for the season) is playing its best ball and much like Tuesday's win over Odessa High, the Lady Rebels go into the game as a heavy favorite. Midland Lee coach Perry Young, however, thinks the Central team (8-8 and 1-1) will not roll over for the defending District 4-5A champions.

"Central is playing better," said Young. "They are hitting the ball and pitching well. Anyone can win on any given day."

"Our players realize they are not the gods to softball and we have to play hard."

Lee is riding a six-game winning streak into the game, and the Lady Rebs have not lost since the West Texas Classic.

"We are pretty up beat," said Young. "The hitting has come on of late."

"The expectations are high and we have to grow as a team. We will do that."

The Rebels bats have been a key in the team's better play. Lee is hitting .400 for the season and have six players hitting over .400 for the season.

Expect junior hurler to take the mound for the Lady Rebels. Smith is 12-3.

son. "We know they are a good team. Something has to give. We will practice shootouts today."

Lee, who went 6-0 in the second half of the district play, wants a win today but also to keep up their solid play going into the playoffs.

"In the second half, we have improved every game," said Lee coach Van Gravit. "That is what we want to do tomorrow. We're not putting too much pressure on ourselves."

Lastly what makes this matchup so intriguing is that the teams know each other all too well. The girls on both teams have played with each other in club play and against each other on school teams. But this is the rubber match for the 1996 season and don't think that any team wants to get on the short end of the stick.

"It is the other school, the cross town rival and we want to beat them," said Lesley Keel. "This is big. It will help for us in the playoffs. We have to keep on Sonya (Lackey), Jacque (Ketter), and Anna (Laengberg) and mark them tight."

The Lady Bulldogs carry the same feelings about the game and its importance.

"We have a chance to prove we are better than they are," said Heidi Moore. "It (winning the whole playoff) would prove to many that MHS could be the district champ instead of it being three ways."

The game also has the all-important playoff ramifications. The winner will go on to the final district playoff game and clinch at least the second place spot in the district. The loser will play Wichita Rider (champion of District 7 with a 10-2-3 record) in the area round on March 18 or 19. Rider defeated Cooper last season 1-0 in the sectional round.

The second place seed will play Wichita Falls High (second place in District 7) in the sectional round on March 22 or 23. This spot is especially inviting because of the two byes that will proceed it.

The first place seed will play Sherman (third place in District 7) in the area round. Both first and third place in District 5 get one bye before their first game and will meet each other if they win their first games.

DON: Nelson sent packing after half-year stint with the New York Knicks communication and light practice schedule.

(From 1C)

Nelson signed a three-year guaranteed contract worth more than $5 million after Pat Riley resigned at the end of last season.

"The team just did not respond to his style of coaching. We made this decision to give the team its best opportunity for the stretch run and the playoffs," Grunfeld said.

After Thursday's practice, Nelson acknowledged he was coming under fire.

"I've been kicked in the teeth ... roughed up and I'm still standing," he said. "That's what's it all about, right? You've got to get tough."

"Change has to happen to this team, and I could very well be part of that change. And that would be acceptable on my part. I've been around long enough now to understand those kinds of things. There has to be a lot of changes, and there will be," Nelson said.

With Nelson out, the Knicks turn to longtime assistant Van Gundy, 34, who has no head coaching experience on the pro or major college level.

"I really didn't see this move coming at all," Van Gundy said. "I feel badly that it didn't work out for Don, but at the same time I'm really honored that the Knicks placed their confidence in me. Ernie came by to talk to me this morning, and I was shocked really, and he told me it won't be an interim label. I'll be evaluated at the end of the season."

"He's hungry, he's extremely respected and he's been with this organization for seven years under some great coaches. He's hard-working, and the players respect that and can relate to that," Grunfeld said.

Entering tonight's game, the Knicks (34-25) had lost six of their last eight road games.

Hot Herron not backing off at Honda

CORAL SPRINGS, Fla. (AP) — A northwest wind that made the TPC at Eagle Trace play tougher and reduced the number of low scores Friday didn't seem to faze rookie Tim Herron in the second round of the Honda Classic.

Herron, who tied a course record with an opening-round 62, turned in another outstanding round with a 4-under-par 68 for a two-day total of 130.

His six-stroke lead over Olin Browne is the largest in a PGA event since Jose Maria Olazabal led by nine at the halfway point of the World Series of Golf in 1990.

Browne also shot a 68 and was alone in second at 136, one stroke ahead of Michael Bradley, New Zealand's Michael Campbell and Mark McCumber. Nick Price was at 138 after a 72 in which he made five straight putts from 4 to 6 feet for par or bogey.

Herron had plenty of chances to come back to the field. He saved par four times from about eight feet, and he made a 20-footer for par on No. 2.

All of those holes played into the wind, which came from the opposite direction and was gustier than it was on Thursday when 64 players broke par. The number of players under par on Friday was 42, although the wind was not steadily strong, which made the course more forgiving.

The last time Herron found himself near the lead was when he shot a 66 in the Nortel Open in January, only to shoot 79 the next day and miss the cut.

BILL: Spielman signs 4-year, $8 million deal defensive scheme.

The Bills came to terms with Spielman a week after losing Bennett, a five-time Pro Bowl selection, to a lucrative deal with the Atlanta Falcons. Bennett signed a $13.6 million, four-year contract with Atlanta, including a $5 million signing bonus.

The Lions replaced Spielman by signing free agent linebacker Michael Brooks to a two-year contract.

In another move on Friday, the Bills officially signed former New Orleans Saints wide receiver Quinn Early to a four-year, $8.8 million contract. Like Spielman, Early said he was attracted to Buffalo because he thinks the Bills have a chance to make it to a fifth Super Bowl.

Sims Stays With Miami

MIAMI — A day after the Miami Dolphins lost their third free-agent, they signed guard Keith Sims to a five-year contract.

Sims, a three time Pro Bowl player, had reportedly been seeking $2.8 million per year from Indianapolis or Cincinnati.

On Thursday, the Dolphins failed to match San Diego's $9.5 million offer sheet for defensive end Marco Coleman. Previously, cornerback Troy Vincent signed with Philadelphia and linebacker Bryan Cox signed with Chicago.
