Sub photographs object that may be part of shuttle

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) -NASA put two robot submarines overboard Friday to photograph a large metal object on the ocean bottom that could be Challenger's crew

But on a day devoted to a memorial service for the seven astronauts in Houston, NASA said that if bodies were found in the cabin, it would not immediately disclose that fact.

"No comment will be made by NASA officials...on anything concerning personal effects or human remains out of respect for the astronauts' families," the space agency said in a statement. By nightfall, the agency had stuck to its promise.

An investigating board met with Mission Control Center personnel Friday and a source said the board was studying a possibility that a tongue of flame from a leak midway in the right booster rocket triggered one of the explosive "destruct" packages on the shuttle's huge fuel tank

That followed a report from another source Thursday that the board studied liftoff films frame by frame and thought there was a possibility the flame had burned into the tank like a 6,000 degree blowtorch The explosive on the tank is there in case the shuttle goes off course and has to be destroyed by radio

The board has promised a report on Sunday about the direction in which the investigation is going.

The small submersible named "Sprint" was lowered into the water from the NASA booster recovery ship Liberty Star. It was buffeted by the current, which also prevented divers from going down, and it was pulled out for a while.

A second and larger submersible, a robot called "Scorpios," was sent to the scene aboard another NASA ship, the Freedom Star. It began its survey with black and white color movie cameras and a still camera about 5 p.m. EST.

Cmdr Robert Bender, pilot of one of the search helicopters, said pieces of debris "seem to be getting smaller all the time," as the days go by. "Every hour disperses the debris more and more," he said.

When NASA officials saw the size of fuseiage pieces that have been retrieved so far, they privately discussed the possibility that the cabin could have survived reasonably in-

Oil industry activity may fall by 5 percent

By FRANK TROMBLEY Staff Writer

ODESSA - World Oil magazine, in a 1986 Oil Outlook special report, is forecasting that with small exception U.S oil "industry activity will fall about 5 percent from the 1985

This forecast, according to the World Oil publisher's letter distributed following presentations by World Oil officials at the Odessa Hilion Friday, "presumes a further drop in oil prices this spring, but not to below $20 to $22/bbl and not for more than a few months.

Meanwhile, Mexico President Miguel de la Madrid announced that country would cut its crude oil prices $4 a barrel retroactive to Jan 1. This sends its heavy-crude price below $20 a barrel for the first time. down to $19.75 for a 42-gallon barrel. The price in December was $23.75, according to Pemex, the Mexican government oil monepoly.

World Oil editorial director R.W. Scott, saying that Saudi Arabian oil minister Yamani is probably the monly one who really knows what is going to happen to oil prices, related that "late last week he did lay his cards on the table for the first time. when he essentially said. If the North Sea producers don't cooperate on production the price is going to

According to Scott, several reasons prevail against prices remaining low for too long. A primary reason, he said, is that a prolonged price war would wreak havoc with the banking community worldwide and this would jeopardize Saudi Arabian investment in the United States and other countries.

Addressing the question of tax reform, Scott said reducing the tax rate from the current 50 percent level to the high 30s will probably reduce the availability of investment capital. Concerning an oil import tax, Scott noted some oil industry organizations oppose such a tax simply because they don't want the government monkeying around in their

Searle discontinuing IUD sales catches doctors by surprise

By RON GILMORE Staff Writer

Friday's national announcement by Searle Pharmaceuticals Inc. that it would be discontinuing sales of two intrauterine devices (IUD's) and an intrauterine sound (an examination device) caught area physicians and Planned Parenthood proponents

This is going to have a significant impact for those who want to have IUD's in Midland," said Dr. James Humphreys, a local gynecologist/obstetrician. "Since they're (one of Searle's IUD's) basically the only game in town, it will have a tremendous effect."

Humphreys was referring to the CU-7 intrauterine copper contraceptive. The other is the Tatum-T IUD. Also discontinued is the Mark-7 intrauterine sound. All three were taken off the market Friday.

The IUD's are used by more than 1 million American women

Intrauterine devices are birth control tools consisting of a bent strip of plastic or other material in the form of loops or coils, that are put into the uterus. It is not known how they

IN A LETTER addressed to Humphreys and doctors all over the country, Searle maintained the products are safe but would be discontinued due to an increase in lawsuits over IUD's in general and the difficulty of getting insurance to cover such litigation.

'After careful consideration-Searle announces that it will discontinue sales of CU-7...Tatum-T... and Mark-7...in the United States, effective Jan. 31, 1986," read the letter. We maintain full confidence in the safety, efficacy and medical utility of these products," said the letter. "We deeply regret this action be-cause it limits the choices of the American public in birth control methods. However, the escalating cost of defending unwarranted product litigation makes continuing in the IUD business in the U.S. no longer economically sensible for the company. Searle made this decision because of mounting unjustified litigation in the U.S. that has made future product liability insurance virtually unobtainable.

"Although Searle believes it has sufficient reserves and insurance to tinued the letter, "we are not in the business of defending lawsuits."

Searle also stated that in recent months it had successfully defended the CU-7 in four jury trials at a cost "exceeding $1.5 million — with one of those being the third successfully defended trial against the same attorney."

Tax proposal could jeopardize state water plan

By GARY RASP

Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Pending federal tax reform legislation has forced execution of the state's recently enacted water plan to a screeching halt.

Proponents of the comprehensive water package have bemoaned what they consider threatening aspects of tax reform proposals almost before the polls closed Nov. 5. Until voters approved the sale of $1.2 billion in bonds, Texas did not have the tools to deal with its numerous water

Now it looks like the tools might be taken out of their hands.

Lubbock Sen. John Montford, coauthor of the water plan Texas voters approved, said the federal tax reform would deliver "a crippling blow to our ability to fund these pro-

They're impeding our ability to help ourselves," he said. "We don't want any special favors, we just want the interest deductions left

The U.S. House has already approved legislation that would eliminate many of the current tax-exempt bonds states rely on to finance a va-riety of projects. The Senate is ex-pected to take up the measure this summer, and a conference committee will ultimately have to resolve any differences in the bill.

Midland Rep. Tom Craddick, who, along with Montford helped forge the state's omnibus water package, said he has not given up yet.
"Hopefully this will be a shorterm deal," Craddick said of the reform efforts. "I don't think the federal government will eliminate all the exemptions" contained in the House plan

On Thursday, the Texas Water Development Board took matters into its own hands when it put a hold on all new applications for water projects. That means bonds for reservoirs, pipelines and wastewater treatment plants might go down the

"This has brought everything to a standstill," said water board spokesman Sue Claybaugh. "It's really hard to run a program when you don't know whether you'll be issuing tax-exempt bonds or not."

Ms. Claybaugh said the agency will honor its existing commitments to cities and other local governments, but would not act on any new appli-

Removal of the tax-exempt status means taxpayers would pay higher interest on their bond indebtedness. Removal of the exemption would also make the bonds less attractive

"We have scheduled a meeting for Feb. 20," Ms. Claybaugh said, "but I assume that until something's final and we know exactly what we're dealing with, we won't issue any new commitments."

Gov. Mark White amplified those concerns earlier this month when he wrote Finance Committee Chairman wrote Finance Comm Sen. Bob Packwood.

The tax reform proposal now un-er consideration threatens to "drasder consideration threatens to "dra-tically impair the ability of state and local governments to meet our citi-sens' needs," White wrote.
"Clearly, if this erfort is successful,

Austin attorney David Shapiro, a member of the Audubon Society and the Sierra Club, characterised the Shapiro, who worked to defeat the water plan during the 65th session, said elimination of tax-exempt status on water bonds will prevent "water hustlers" from damaging the state's indicates 71,813 wells and about 33.6 million feet of hole, down 5.5 and 5.3 percent, respectively, from 1965. Only 13,199 exploratory wells are expected to be drilled in the U.S. in 1986, down 4.0 percent from last World Oil notes that "wildcats are still accounting for very nearly one-fifth of total drilling activity — the historic ratio.

The World Oil forecast is predicated on actual 1985 drilling estimates of 76,005 total wells, 352.1 million feet of hole and 13,749 wildcat wells. In 1986, the average U.S. rotary rig count is expected to be in the range of 1,840 to 1,860.

The annual survey of major and independent operators' drilling programs is described as "the keystone" of the World Oil 1966 forecast. This survey indicates 18 major operators plan to drill 10,640 wells, compared to 11,529 last year, a 7.7 percent reduction. World Oil observes 155 independents who responded to the survey plan 5,252 wells in 1986, compared to 5,357, a decline of only 2.0 percent from 1985. The survey 2.0 percent from 1985. The survey also revealed that, while the majors will devote only 12 percent of their drilling efforts to exploration, 26 percent of the wells drilled by independents will be wildcats.

World Oil concludes its U.S. forecast with the observation that, "In spite of all the potential problems, 1986 drilling should match the level reached during the 'good old days' of 1980. Trouble is," World Oil goes on to say, "we are on the back side of to say, "we are on the back side of the peak; we are drilling shallower, cheaper wells; and we must contend with over expansion and intense competition that resulted from the climb up. "Barring an oil price disaster or unforeseen political flasco," says World Oil, "There will be plenty of business to be had, but making a profit will continue to require astute management, a streamlined operation, hard work and, probably, some good luck."

Outside the United States and Eastern Europe, World Oil anticipates a completion record of 27,501 wells, an increase of 6.0 percent from 1985, with major contributors being Canada and China. South America is seen as posting a gain of 5.0 percent this year, in spite of massive foreign debt, stripped budgets and political instability in some high potential areas, with Brazil, Colombia and Venezuela being "stellar performers."

The Far East in 1986 should show a significant increase on the order of 6.7 percent. Middle Eastern nations, with the exception of Turkey, are expected to show decreases in activity, as well Pacific activity, with an expected decline of nearly 12 percent. Declines are also expected in Africa, with drilling down an estimate 6.1 percent.

Newly translated Bible may create interest in Navajo language

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The new Navajo Bible, painstakingly translat-ed in bits and pieces since 1910, may spark a new interest in the Indians' ancient tribal language as well as promote Christianity, religious lead-

The Navajo-language Bible was unveiled this month at ceremonies in Tuba City and Window Rock, Ariz., and in Farmington, N.M., on the sprawling Navajo reservation.

"It's the biggest thrill of my life. When I got it I just sat and cried," said Lois Martin, a missionary who began working on the translation with her Navajo husband, Geronimo Martin, about 40 years ago. Her husband, who was blind and read from an English Braille Bible to make his translations, played a part in the final proof corrections before he died in September 1984.

It is not the first time the complete Bible has been translated into an American Indian language, said Wil-liam Wonderly, translation consul-tant for the American Bible Society, publisher of the Navajo Bible. The Bible was translated more than a century ago into the Massachusetts Indian language, and also into the Dakota dialect of the Sioux language during the 1800s, he said.

But the introduction of the first full Navajo Bible was anxiously awaited by many members of the United States' largest Indian nation.

"The Navajo people, those who have become Christians, have an intense love, a fervent love, of the Bi-ble," Wonderly said. "There was a real air of enthusiasm at those ceremonies. It was a historic occasion which will never be repeated."

ROME (AP) — Pope John Paul II departed Friday for India on one of the globe-straddling pontiff's most controversial journeys.

Awaiting him were protesting Hindu militants and a small divided church sometimes accused of being a threat to the overwhelmingly Hin-

The 65-year-old pontiff, making the first official visit to India by a Roman Catholic pope, will plunge at once into a full day of activities, including four speeches, a Mass, meetings with covernment officials and a ings with government officials and a special tribute to Mohandas K. Gandhi, the prophet of non-violence who led India to independence from Britain in 1947.

John Paul said he is coming as a pilgrim of peace bringing a message of unity. That he is spending so much time in a nation where Catholics number less than 2 percent of the population is an indication of how much importance he places on the trip, Vatican officials say.

The Indian church is also important because it is the second largest

"Our Holy Father's visit is a real gift of God," said Mother Teresa, the Catholic nun who won the 1979 Nobel Peace Prize for her work among the poor and dying of Calcutta. John Paul will visit her house in Calcutta. John Paul has faced danger and demonstations on previous trips abroad, but rarely were the protests so vocal or from such a wide spec-trum of a country.

Vatican officials said one of John Paul's missions will be to try to convince Indians the church poses no threat to the state or its culture and that it has the right to expand. During the tour, John Paul will deliver 27 speeches and cover more than 12,000 miles.

Angolan rebel criticizes Chevron for dealing with government

WASHINGTON (AP) — Angolan resistance leader Jonas Savimbi criticized the Chevron Corp.'s Guif Oil subsidiary Friday for doing business with Angola's Marxist government and said his forces may sabotage the firm's oil field facilities.

"It is a target," Savimbi told a news conference, adding that his anti-communist rebel movement is looking for the appropriate time to strike. He said Americans working in the area will not be harmed.

"Gulf is helping the war contin-ue," Savimbi said. "We think this is

He said the revenues Gulf pays to Angolan authorities are used to pay Cuban troops, which he said number 45,000, about 10,000 more than U.S. officials have estimated.

Under questioning, Savimbi said his rebel group, known by its Portu-guese initials UNITA, has 10 Cuban prisoners and five defectors in its custody. He said the Cuban troops in Angola are "demoralized and discouraged."

On Wednesday, the Reagan administration indicated it believes American firms in Angola are not operating either in their own or the national interest by continuing to do

It cited the "great risk" they are undertaking by operating in a coun-try wracked by civil war and said the hard currency they help the government earn enhances its military

Savimbi, whose appearance was arranged by Foreign Policy magazine, is here seeking U.S. support. He declined comment on what commitments he has received in his meetings with President Reagan, Secre-tary of State George Shultz and Defense Secretary Caspar

However, Savimbi suggested he is not going back to his base of operations in southern Angola empty-Asked what promises he had re-ceived, Savimbi said simply, "I had a one-hour and ten-minute meeting

Privately, U.S. officials have said they intend to begin a covert assis-tance program of up to $15 million for Savimbi's forces, which now rely almost exclusively on South Africa for their support.

Much of the discussion with re-porters Friday centered on the pro-priety of Savimbi accepting assis-tance from South Africa. Savimbi insisted that he opposes apartheid but also said Soviet expansionism in southern Africa also must be

"We need decisive action against apartheid and decisive action gainst the Russians," he said. Asked if he was embarrassed about his association with South Africa, he replied, "We don't want South Africa to have influence (in Angola) and we don't want the Russians to have influence."

Asserting that his interests are the same as those of the United States,

Savimbi said the Soviet bloc, if unop-posed, soon will control all of southern Africa and the surrounding Indi-

Dogs couch their anxieties for pricey pet analysts

LOS ANGELES (AP) - It costs between $45 and $100 an hour to get pet analysts to unleash their knowledge and treat Fido's psyche, but many say they have plenty of cus-tomers and fewer people are laugh-ing at them these days.

"It's a booming business," said con-sultant Sandy Miller of The Tender

Tutor in Los Angeles

"People have extended the desire for self-awareness to think about the dog's mind as well," said consultant Sally Pearce of Claremont Dog

When Ms. Miller began her practice 13 years ago, there was little competition and limited interest, she said. Things have changed.

"The field has blossomed because the authenticity of these problems, which affect cats and dogs, has at last been recognized," said Dr. Michael Fox, scientific director for the Humane Society of the United States, based in Washington, D.C.

The status of animals in society has changed," Fox said. "It's not a trend or fad, but it's here to stay." As a result, pet therapy is no longer ridiculed, he said.

The prices might be, though, Ms. Pearce said.

Many callers, after asking about fees, will say "forget it," and hang up or suggest she do it for free, she said. But those who can afford it and consider their pets part of their families don't flinch at the price.

Thirty years ago, it was 'generally felt that animals did not have emotions and therefore couldn't have emotional problems," Fox said.

Fox, a veterinarian, helped pioneer ethology, the scientific study of animal behavior, and expressed his views in such books as "Understanding Your Dog" and "Understanding Your Cat."

If a rift arises between pet and owner, pet therapists must deal with both the animal and the owner, Ms. Miller said.

Fox compared pet partnerships to parent-child relationships. In the past, "the stick and discipline" method prevailed, but "now there is a greater sensitivity drawn into raising and educating children — the same with animals," he said.

But the counselors agreed that in most cases, people need therapy more than their pets do. "We actually psychoanalyze the owners more than anything else," Ms. Miller said.

Jury to decide whether or not to execute sailor

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Crew members of the USS Miller testified Friday that a lieutenant murdered at sea was crucial to the ship's opera-tions, a factor vital to the Navy's at-tempt to impose a death sentence on Petty Officer Mitchell T. Garraway Jr. was convicted Thursday of pre-meditated murder in the fatal stabbing of Lt. James K. Sterner. He had pleaded guilty to unpremeditated murder, but the Navy's prosecutor rejected the plea.

The eight-member military jury that convicted Garraway now must decide whether to sentence the 21year-old sailor to life imprisonment or death. The Navy has not staged an execution since 1849.

After a morning of hearing testimony, Judge John A. Studer early Friday afternoon granted a defense request to suspend the court-martial until Wednesday. Garraway's lawyer, Trevor L., Brooks, said that would allow time to bring six to eight defense witnesses from the eight defense witnesses from the Washington, D.C., area.

Garraway, from Suitland, Md., also is expected to take the stand next Lt. Cmdr. Anthony J. Abbruzzi tes-tified Friday in the Newport Naval Base courtroom that Sterner was the frigate's "main propulsion assistant," making him responsible for the ship's ability to steam ahead.

He tesified that Sterner, his roommate, would have been called to work in cases of engine problems even if he were off-duty.

The Miller was on maneuvers near Bermuda when Sterner, 35, died June 16, 1985, after Garraway stabbed him in the back. Under court-martial rules, the Navy has to show an "aggravating circumstance" makes the death penalty warranted.

The Navy lists 22 categories of such circumstances, including particularly vicious or brutal crimes, but only one is being brought up in the Garraway case: that Sterner was the execution of his office?" when "in the execution of his office" when he was slain.

The Navy maintains that was the case, because though Sterner wasn't actually on the job when he was killed, his work was so important to the ship that he was always on call. The defense contends Sterner was off duty when Garraway attacked

Also Friday, a defense witness tes-tified that of the stabbing was "com-pletely out of character" for a man he described as quiet and peaceful. Petty Officer Albert Santiago testified "he never had an argument... with anybody on the ship.

Defense witnesses are called to show that "mitigating circumstances" make capital punishment unwarranted.

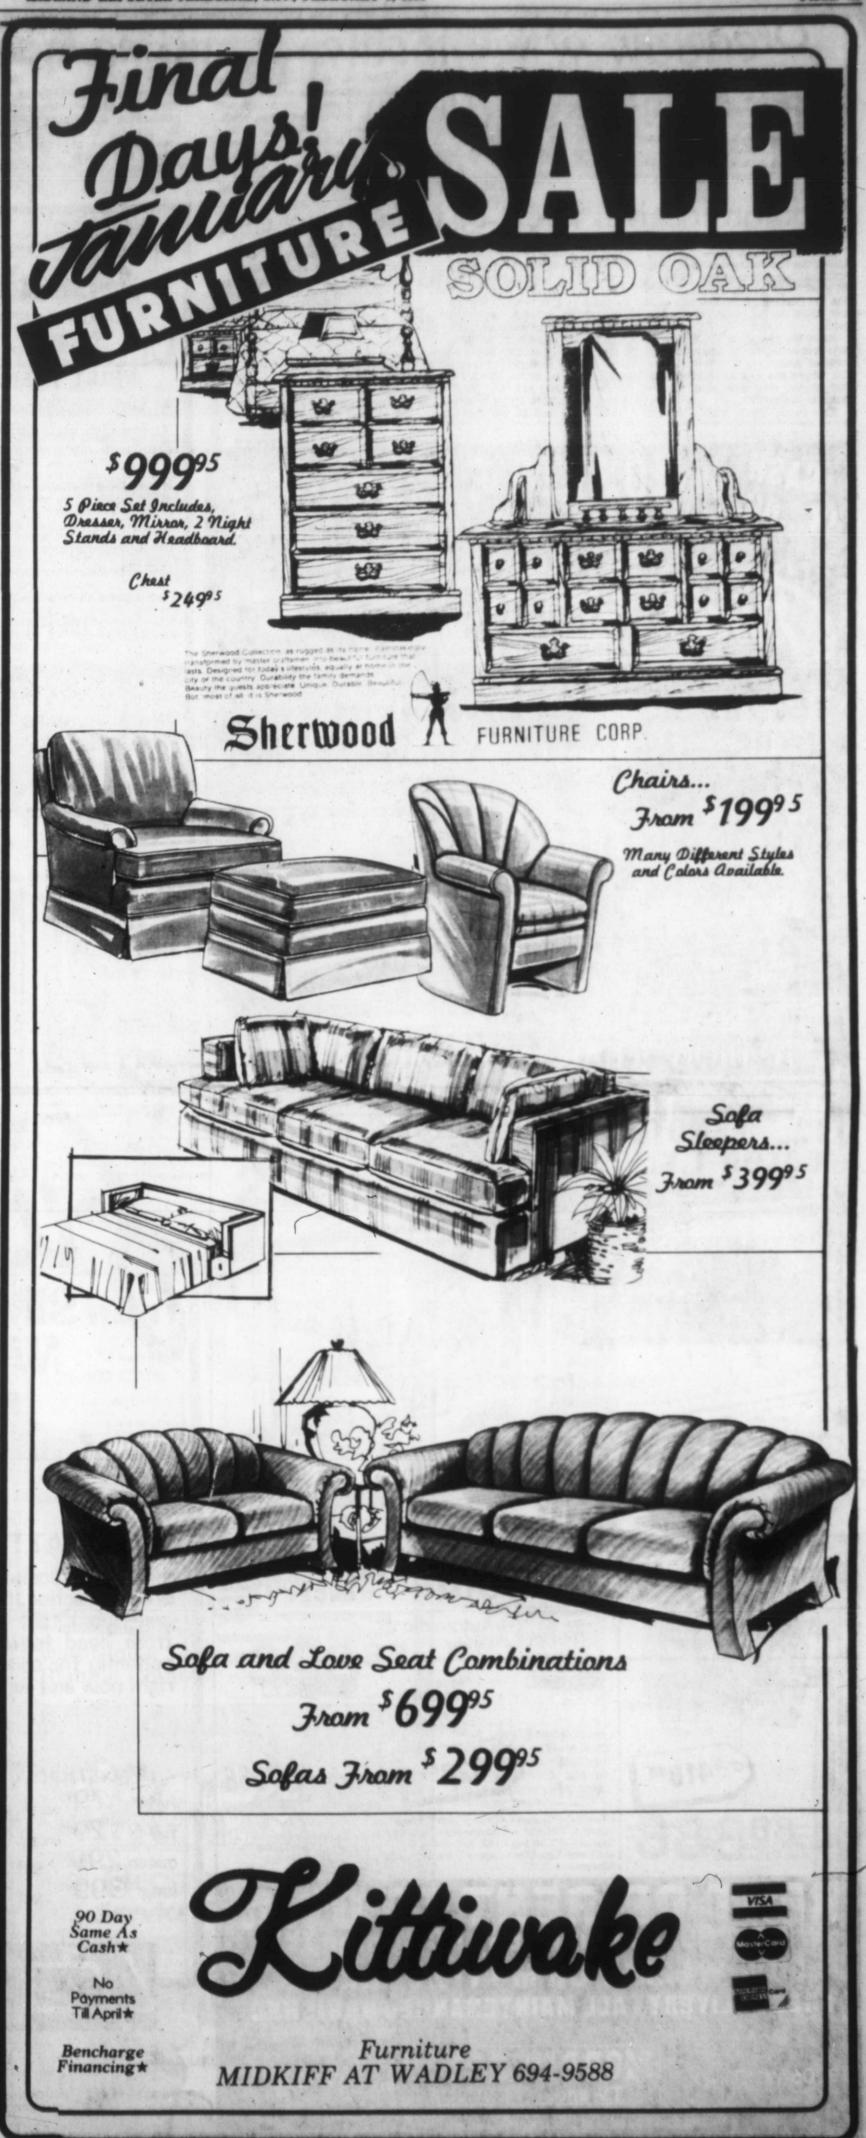

Brooks said he would try to show the jury that Garraway's youth, clean service record, clean criminal record and a paranoia-like personality defect make a death sentence inappropriate.

Both sides said one motive for the slaying was that Sterner blocked a promotion Garraway thought he de-

"We're trying to build a 65-foot snowman. And obviously because there's no snow on the ground, we're going to have difficulty," said Nick Nikolich, a spokesman for the Greater Woodfield Convention and Visitor's Bureau, an umbrella group for the 20 ChicaCarnival organizers called the Michigan travel bureau this week and were put in touch with officials in snowy Houghton, Mich. "We average 280 inches a year," said Bob Skugan of the Kewee-naw Tourism Council in Houghton. "We're at 236 right now."

"We're the beer belly of the snowbelt," he said. "We get 170 quadrillion snowflakes a year.

We're trying to figure out how many of those snowflakes are coming to Chicago." The snow will come from a runway at the Houghton airport. Skugan rounded up five rigs from a trucking firm and ar-ranged for the Michigan State Police to escort the convoy to the Illinois-Wisconsin border Wednesday. From there, the trucks will be escorted by police cars to Schaumburg, Nikolich said.

A dozen crack snowman builders from the Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity of Michigan Technological University will supervise construction. They won the recent snow sculpture contest at Houghton's winter carnival.

Woman receives heart of teen-aged girl

Lund, the first woman to receive an artificial heart, was given the heart of a teen-age girl Friday to replace the mechanical pump that has kept her alive for 45 days, authorities

After the operation, Mrs. Lund, 40, was recovering in the intensive care unit of Abbot Northwestern Hospital, where she was listed in critical, but stable condition, said spokeswoman Megan O'Hara.

The donor organ, which became available Thursday night, was flown to the Twin Cities on a private jet from Billings, Mont., where the 14year-old girl died. It was then taken by helicopter to Abbott Northwestern, where surgery began about 11:30 a.m. and was completed later in the afternoon, said Ms. O'Hara.

Mrs. Lund, a nursing home secretary from Kensington, received a smaller version of the Jarvik-7 heart on Dec. 18 after her own heart was damaged, apparently by a virus.

for Mrs. Lund to receive a human heart, said Dr. Fredarick Gobel. Mrs. Lund was "feeling good, very anticipatory" before the surgery, and her husband, DuWayne, was at the hospital with other relatives, Ms. Small said.

The donor heart came from Jyna Marie Forshee, who suffered from epilepsy and died Thursday after having a seizure, said Joanne Dodd, a spokeswoman for Deaconess Medical Center in Billings. Jyna had been on life-support systems.

Woman dressed as nurse kidnaps critically ill newborn

AUSTIN (AP) — A four-day-old baby girl's life was endangered Friday when she was taken from her mother's arms at Brackenridge Hospital by a woman dressed in what appeared to be a nurse's uniform, said the hospital's director of community relations.

Carolyn Hinckley Boyle quoted Dr. George Sharpe, hospital director of neonatology, as saying the baby was jaundiced, and if she does not receive medical care within 24 hours, she could suffer hearing loss, brain damage or possibly cerebral palsy.

Ms. Hinckley Boyle said a nurse, a nurse's aide and two housekeepers saw the suspect, who was described as a black woman over 5-feet-7 with short curly hair, in the hospital two hours before the baby was taken, about 10 a.m.

Hospital Administrator Tom Young said the woman apparently through a fire exit. Hospital and police officials would left the hospital with the baby not release the names of the mother or the child: Ms. Hinkley Boyle said the woman walked into the mother's room and told her the baby had to be taken to the nursery for a blood test. The mother asked if the test could wait, but the other woman said it could not. The mother, who was feeding the infant, handed over the baby, Ms. Hinckley Boyle said.

After a few minutes, the mother became worried when she realized the woman was not wearing a name identification. She notified nurses.

Young said the mother said she did not recognize the woman who took her baby.

"We're calling on the woman to return the baby to the nearest hospital, clinic or emergency center," said Ms. Hinckley Boyle.

Asked if the woman might ignore the plea to avoid being apprehended, Ms. Hinckley Boyle said, "She can just leave it on the steps. This baby needs some help."

Phillips announces plan to move houses on recently acquired land leum Co. announced details Friday of a $3 million plan to move about 400 houses located near the company's refining and chemicals operations near this Panhandle city.

Homeowners have until March 31 to take Phillips up on the offer, but the company said those seeking payment for damages need not apply.

The houses are on land owned by MM Cattle Co., purchased by Phillips last year to provide land for possible expansion of its operations in the Texas Panhandle.

The plan announced Friday includes a moving allowance, donation of land for relocation and money for development of the new lots.

The moving allowance is $5 per square foot of heated living space for houses owned and occupied by Phillips employees, retirees or surviving spouses and $4 per square foot of heated living space for houses owned and occupied by

A $700 moving allowance is provided for mobile homes. The company said it will provide special assistance for the elderly and infirm.

The moving allowance is not being offered to people seeking damages from Phillips or MM Cattle or those who are delinquent in rental payments to the cattle company, Phillips

Owners who have moved their houses since notice was given by MM Cattle Co. on Aug. 30, 1985, also are eligible for the moving allowance, Phillips said.

The company announcement said if the moves can be scheduled in a "reasonably short time span, the costs closely approximate the square footage allowance under the Phillips

Phillips will donate land immediately west of the Phillips Golf Course and will pay a portion of the development cost, the company said. Homeowners' will be required to pay $1,500 per lot for development and will receive individual deeds to the Phillips retirees and surviving spouses whose income from the Phillips retirement plan is less than $500 a month will be offered lots free during their lifetime.

"Our ability to acquire the land immediately west of the golf course enabled us to substitute this land for land we had originally planned to donate and develop."

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) - A Texas man and a Mexican were arrested Friday after the Texan sold 15 ounces of cocaine to an undercover

Warm weather will continue

From Staff and Wire Reports

Unusually warm weather will continue in the Permian Basin this weekend, but skies will be mostly cloudy with increasing chances of rain, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

Today's high will be near 70, with a 20 percent chance of showers which is expected to increase to 40 percent tonight. The wind will be blowing from the south at 10-15 mph. Tonight's low will be in the low 40s, and Sunday's high will be in the low 60s, with the chance of rain decreas-ing to 30 percent.

Friday's high temperature of 73 was 7 degrees below the record for the date of 80 set in 1963, while the overnight low of 42 was 50 degrees above last year's record of minus 8 degrees.

STATE

Unseasonably warm temperatures closed out January across Texas on Friday as forecasters expected rainless conditions to continue through the weekend.

The weather picture was a repeat of a month-long trend of above-normal readings and almost non-existent rainfall over some sections of the state.

Low clouds created by an abundance of moisture from the Gulf of Mexico covered the eastern twothirds of Texas as temperatures reached the 60s and 70s.

Over western sections of the state. fair to partly cloudy skies were the rule. Short of a last-minute storm, January will go into the record book as the driest ever across North Texas, the National Weather Service said Friday. The region has never had a rainless January, according to weather service records.

"This is the 50th day of the dry spell," said Bill Read, weather service meteorologist.

NATION

Rain deluged Southern California on Friday, flooding city streets and triggering rock and mudslides, while snow and freezing drizzle slickened roads across the northern Plains and the upper Mississippi Valley.

Balmy air from the south gave the southern Plains a break from winter. A second storm system in as many days brought windy and wet weather to the Pacific Coast, where ocean swells of up to 12 feet waves were

At least seven mudslides in the Los Angeles area temporarily stranded motorists and forced closure roads. the California Highway Patrol said.

Rebel girls clinch 4-5A title

By BOB BRUNDAGE Sports Writer

The best the Midland Lee Lady Rebels could hope for Friday night was the outright District 4-5A championship - if the ball bounced the right way in another game.

Abilene High was the only team that could possibly catch the Rebels, but the Eagle dream was dashed by San Angelo. The Bobcats stunned AHS 78-74 to knock the Eagles out of contention for the title and into a two-way tie for second with Midland day, especially Melissa Hart.

"To tell the truth, I didn't even want to play the game, that's how scared I was," said Hart. "Miss Stephenson talked me into it. She said it was good to have butterflys.

And, about the prospect of winning the title (before it was known Abilene lost), Hart added, "I'm excited, I can't believe it. I was so afraid something was going to happen and ing and only scoring six points, led the Lee defense in rebound domination with a game-high 11. Tina Swinney, eight points and eight rebounds was second high in the game as Lee won the board battle, 39-27.

LEE'S offensive spark came from Roz Eaden, a 7-for-9 effort from the field for a team-high 14 points. Permian countered with Chris Griffin's 18 points and Julie Blavier's 12.

Lee coach Shirley Stephenson credited the defense with gaining the victory, especially in the first

'We won because of the way our kids passed and played defense in the first half," said Stephenson. "Even if we didn't score off our press, we kept them from scoring and made them run up and down the court."

Lee's press accounted for 31 Permian turnovers, giving the Rebels a seven-steal edge for the game.

"I feel like if we keep playing like we have been, if we want it bad enough, we can go as far as we want said Swinney, who had a personal first for the season, playing four quarters without picking up a foul.

"Roz played a very good game for us," said Swinney. "She shot good, passed good and went for the ball. Overall she was great."

ABOUT THE lack of a big gun for Lee, Swinney said, "It's better that we don't have one dominant shooter because the team we go against can't say 'get their girl out and you've got them beat.' It's better having a whold team doing the scoring." As usual, the scoring was balanced with nine girls dropping in points. The game started out as a close contest with Permian taking three early leads, 2-0, 6-2 and 10-6. Each time, Lee came back to tie until, at 10-10, Vicki Smith hit a shot with three minutes to play to give the Rebs a 12-10 lead. Lee never looked Permian kept it close early in the second quarter, but went into a skid, scoring only five points for the frame. The Rebeis took advantage of time lead.

Permian eliminated most of Lee's lead in the third quarter, closing to within four with 5:05 left, 30-26. Lee quickly punched the advantage back to 10, 36-26 but couldn't put the game on ice until late in the fourth quarter.

In the final period, Permian got back within four points with 7:15 re-maining, but again was left behind as the Rebel defense kept swarming

EVEN WITH the title in hand and a ninth trip to the playoffs in the 10 ears Lee has fielded a girls basketball team, Stephenson isn't ready to think playoffs.

"I'm concerning myself with Monday night against Big Spring because Big Spring has some good talent, too," said Stephenson. "I don't think our kids are complete yet. They're not even thinking about the playoffs. They want to be the district champs."

Odessa Permian upsets Lee

By ERIC SCHURER Sports Writer

ODESSA-As Midland Lee assistant coach Bill Jordan was saying, there wasn't another defensive button the Rebels could've pushed to try and stop determined Odessa Permian here Friday

Though Jordan and head coach Paul Stueckler were constantly adjusting the Rebel defense, the hot shooting Panthers' never let up and came away with a 62-53 win, throwing the District 4-5A race into a three-way tie. Permian, Lee and Midland High are all perched on top with just four games remaining.

'We never got in a rhythm on offense, we were herky-jerky all night, of course they were changing defenses a lot as well," Stueckler said after he saw his team's eight-game district winning streak halted. Lee is now 8-2, 20-7.

Lee fell behind early as Permian hit on its first three shots of the game to start a pattern that would persist all night. The Panthers jumped out to a 12-3 lead with less than three minutes gone while the Rebs were still searching for their first field goal. Lee misfired on its first five shots.

THE REBEL shooting finally came around, but they never could draw closer than five on the Panthers, 8-2, 14-10. Jimmie Davis led Permian, scoring nine of his 17 points in the final quarter to hold off the Rebels. "They really jumped on us quick and got that early lead. They were running some combination defenses that seemed to throw us out of our rhythm," Stueckler said. "Some of our kids might have pushed the panic button a little bit when they got the lead that early."

In the final quarter, Lee pulled within five one more time, 50-45, before Permian spread out its offense to take some time off the clock. It was then that the Rebels began fouling in going for the steal. Though Permian hit only six of 12 free throws down the stretch, the Panthers came up with the big buckets when they needed them.

AFTER LEE Dixon had gone coastto-coast for an easy two to make the score 54-49 with less than three minutes to play, Permian committed an overand-back violation. But the Panthers' quickness created a steal and an easy back-door basket by Davis.

Moments later, Davis put the final nail in the Lee coffin with a hustling, fighting rebound of his own missed foul shot to make the score 61-51 with 1:02 to

The smaller Panthers seemed to be one step - and five points - ahead of Lee all night long. Several times the Rebs seemed on the verge of narrowing the gap to three, but a quick steal, a 20foot jumper or a hustling offensive rebound by Permian kept Lee at arms'

"We really had that intensity when we came out on the floor," admitted Panther coach Charles Pattillo. "We started off real hot and we got some timely rebounds.

"We've been hoping all year we could make the district race tight.'

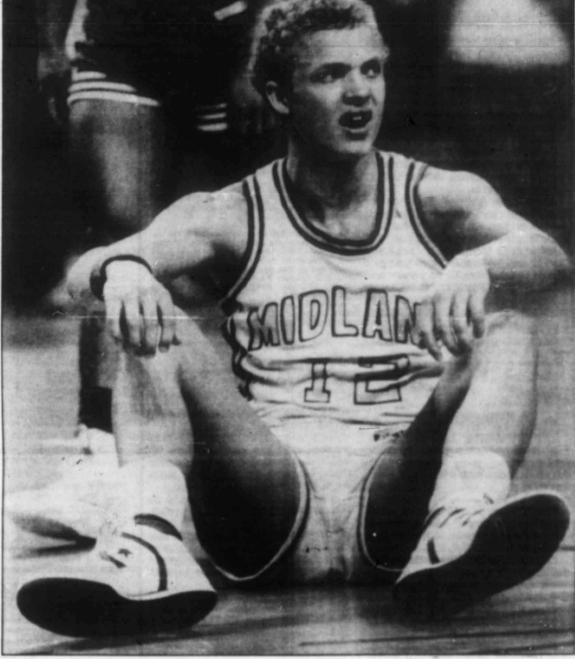

THAT'S ONE thing Permian did more than a good job of doing. Lee was hoping to stretch its winning streak to nine games, put some more distance between themselves and third place, and help out Midland High in the process.

Instead, it should be a three-way scramble to the wire, with one team left holding the bag, and sitting out the playoffs when it's all over. Dixon led all scorers on the night with 20 points. Eddie Riley was the only other Rebel to reach double figures with 10. Joining Davis in double digits for Permian was Parker Hager and Curly Alford with 13 points and Lance Watkins with 10.

In the junior varsity game, Lee went to 10-0, 23-3, with a 55-41 win over the Panthers. Anthony Pertile led Lee with 15 points and Wes Watson added 12.

Bulldogs escape pesky OHS

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Assistant Sports Editor

The Midland High Bulldogs limped back into a first place tie with Odessa Permian and Midland Lee in the District 45A basketball race at Chaparral Center Friday night with a 61-51 win over Odessa High's Bronchos.

But this wasn't a bikini-clad sight that would make a sailor jump ship. This 10point victory reeked of Lady Luck. At least the Bulldogs have the old lady on

At one point, MHS held a rout-looking 36-18 lead in the third quarter of play. And those 18 points seemed to disappear with every trip down court as the pesky and quick Bronchos kept chipping away. In fact, by the time the clock had slipped down to 3:05 left to play, the Bronchos were trailing by a mere 52-49 margin. It was at that point that the Bulldogs looked like they were battling for a cellar berth instead of a share of the league lead. The sailor was looking for another port. But thanks to Matt Sears, the Bulldogs did show enough composure to put the game away. Sears scored 12 of his 19 points in the fourth period to ice the decision and move into the three-way tie for first with an 8-2 league mark.

of OHS, Anthony Deande fed Sears inside to open up a 55-49 lead. That was countered by an OHS bucket on the other end by Tracy Blaylock. Then the Bulldogs put the win in the hip pocket. Earnest Jordan hit the front end of a one-and-one and Sears rebounded the second errant shot and stuffed it in for a 58-51 margin. Sears came back with a three-point play and the final margin was complete. Still, the Bulldogs haven't played a complete game of basketball in four straight outings and have lost two of the last four. If the Bulldogs had blown this 18-point lead, there is no telling what MHS' cage future would be in 1986. "We're not playing well right now," noted MHS coach Jack Stephenson.

We're not shooting, dribbling or passing the ball well. The only thing you can say is that we're lucky."
Stephenson did add, "We did do some things there at the end to put the game away that was good. Odessa High isn't a bad team. San Angelo is the only team that has blown them out. They're certainly a lot quicker than us."

MHS post Elvin Mackey had an off With MHS reeling at the pesky attack night with 13 points and Deande had 10. Paul Chavez led OHS with 19 while Ed Rheams had 15 points off the bench and Blaylock had 10. Neither team shot the ball well, both shooting below 40 percent on the night.

At least the victory, keeps the Bull-dogs in the thick of the title hunt and Stephenson greeted the news from Odessa Permian with mixed emotions.

"We felt like if we won our game with Odessa, we couldn't come out a loser if either Permian or Lee won. If Paul (Stueckler) beats Permian, we have a one-game lead on a playoff spot. If Permian wins, we are back in the title hunt. I feel sorry for Paul because we traveled that road Tuesday in Abilene and I know how he feels. The Bulldogs came out rolling against the Bronchos, taking a quick 8-0 lead and increasing that margin methodically until 36-18 zenith. It was a comedy of errors after that as the Dogs almost seemed like they were trying to find a way to lose it. However, Sears deserves a lot of credit for picking up the team by the bootstraps down the stretch.

Midland, Bobcats notch district wins

From Staff Reports

ODESSA — While the District 45A girls basketball title is no longer in doubt, the question of who will claim the second league playoff berth is still a major issue.

The San Angelo Bobcats made it an interesting question Friday when they knocked off Abilene High, 78-74. At the same time, the Midland High Bulldogs defeated Odessa High, 63-53 to move into a tie with AHS at

Also, San Angelo still has a slim hope of post-season play at 7-5. But, for that to happen, MHS and AHS must both lose their final two games to force a three-way tie for second Needing the victory badly, Midland High came up with a strong offensive performance from Sebrenia Finch and Amy Cumings, 23 and 15 points, respectively. They countered the triple OHS threat of Charlotte Collins, 15; Nikki Graham, 12; and Melissa Tucker, 11.

Cooper, Abilene win

From Staff Reports

District 4-5A officially became a three-team race for two basketball playoff berths Friday night as the teams behind Midland Lee, Midland High and Odessa Permian beat up on each other.

Abilene Cooper escaped the cellar with a 71-51 win over Big Spring, despite another 31-point night for 4-5A's leading scorer Brian Mayfield. Cooper got 18 points from Terriance Bell, 16 from Byron James and 12 from Les Graves. Meanwhile, Abilene High won for the second straight time with a 69-62 win over San Angelo to move into fourth place. San Angelo got 24 points from Chris Lowry and 12 from Ricky Ryan, but the Bobcats scored a meager 15 points combined in the middle two quarters after taking an early 24-18 lead.

Cooper is 3-7 in league play while Big Spring is 2-8. Abilene High evened its mark at 5-5 while San Angelo fell to 4-6. With Lee, Permian and Midland High all at 8-2, the rest of 45A is only in a spoiler's role.

Okamoto opens three-shot lead

NORTH MIAMI, Fla. (AP) Japan's Ayako Okamoto, her back pain diminishing with each round of golf she plays, shot a 5-under-par 67 Friday to open a three-shot lead over Beth Daniel after two rounds of the LPGA's $200,000 Elizabeth Arden

Okamoto, from Tokyo, has been bothered by an aching back since last July and has been using acupuncture treatments to relieve the pain. She said the back hardly bothered her during a sixbirdie and one-bogey round Friday at the 6,103-yard Turnberry Isle Country Club

"I have a history of not playing well here," said Daniel, who had four birdies and a bogey in Friday's round. "Either I miss the cut or I make it by one shot. To be

AT&T rainout means later finish

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) - Continuing rains, flooded conditions and "a solid river" washed out Friday's play and set up a daylate finish in the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am.

"We decided to keep it to 72 holes and finish Mor.day," said Harry Crosby, son of the late founder of this renamed

Officials also had the option of reducing the tournament to a three-day, 54-hole affair and retaining the Sunday finish, but decided to stay with the original 72-hole format.

More rains are forecast for Sunday.

Don Ohlmeyer teamed with pro Bob Eastwood for a better ball 63, which shared

Pebble Beach under the format that has the 180 pros. each with an amateur partner, playing one round on each of three courses before the field is cut for the final round at Pebble Beach. Fuzzy Zoeller, John McComish and Peter Jacobsen were one shot back after the first 18 holes of play. Zoeller, however, may have had an edge on the others.

Olson, Coghlan spice field in Dallas track

DALLAS (AP) - By the time Billy Olson gets to the Dallas Times Herald Invitational Track Meet tonight, the holder of the world's best indoor pole vault should be a tired trooper.

Olson, who believes he can eventually go as high as 19 feet 10 inches, came in from a meet in Toronto Friday. The Athletics Congress announced that Olson's latest indoor best of 19 feet 4 inches at Albuquerque should be 19 feet 3% inches, because world records are measured in whole metric numbers. The closest 19-4 translates into metrically is 3.89 meters or 19-3%.

"This year's entries are without a doubt the best group of athletes we have ever assembled for the meet," said meet director Ted McLaughlin. "Most of our fields represent a 'who's who' in track and field.

"It wouldn't surprise me if Olson and Eamonn Coghlan is in his best physical condi-tion in years," he added.

The pole vault competition will include Pierre Quinon of France, the 1984 Olympic Games champion; Earl Bell, co-bronze medalist from the 1984 Olympic Games; Poland's Wladyslaw Kozakiewicz, the 1980 Olympic Games champion; and former NCAA champion Joe Dial of Oklahoma State.

BERN, Switzerland (AP) -Poor weather in Europe ranging from lack of snow to ferocious winds has upset the World Cup ski race cal-endar this season, the Inter-national Ski Federation said Friday.

Nearly half of 39 races planned until Friday had to be rescheduled. In the last few days, the worst storms in decades hit the Swiss Alps, forcing can-cellation of some races

Another featured event will be the men's 60-yard dash that will pit four-event Olympic gold medal winner Carl Lewis against former schoolboy standouts Roy Martin, Joe DeLoach and Henry Thomas.

Martin, now a freshman at Southern Methodist, was named by Track and Field News as the male high school athlete of the year last fall. DeLoach and Thomas are currently freshmen at the University of Houston and UCLA, respectively. Also entered are former Olympians Harvey Glance, Houston McTear, and Emmitt King, all of the United States; and Canada's Desai

Williams. Pushing Coghlan in the two-mile will be American Doug Padilla, Kenya's Sosthenes Bitok, Australia's Dietmar Millonig and England's fast-rising middle-dis tance men Jack Buckner and Eddie Wedderburn. Seven Romanian athletes including the 1983 Olympic Games gold medalists Maricica Puica and Doina Melinte, were scheduled to LANDOVER, Md. (AP) - Scott Wedman, starting for the injured Kevin McHale, scored 24 points as the Boston Celtics defeated the Washington Bullets 97-88 Friday and extended their winning streak to 10, the longest in the NBA this season.

The game was a turnaround of sorts for the Mavericks, who had beaten Cleveland only twice in their last 11 tries. With the win, 23-21 Dallas moved into third place in the Midwest Division by a percentage point over the idle San Antonio Spurs, 25-23.

Look for Joni Dunn today when pended on nature to heal her. Then she was fitted for full body braces that stretched from her head to her thighs. Over the next year, her body hours, 3 minutes, 26 seconds was a world record for her age group.

NOW DOCTORS offered an option. She could remain in the braces or submit to high-risk, no-guarantee fusion surgery on her thoracic spine. Without the operation, doctors thought she would eventually lose the use of her legs. With it, she might lose her life.

The surgery, fusing bone from her hip, took nine hours and required 16 pints of blood. She was then fitted into a full body cast from the back of her head to the tops of her legs. "There was no pain," she said. "I was like a turtle. My head, arms and legs stuck out. The plaster held me up for a year. I tried to lead a normal life in the cast. I was on the way to being myself again.

"The day the cast came off was as hard as the days after the accident. I felt vulnerable. I was terrified in crowds without support of the cast."

Swimming was prescribed as therapy. Dunn worked at that, eventually managing a half-mile at a time. Then, one day, she saw a pair of blue and yellow running shoes in a store window and, captivated by their color, purchased them. Soon she was running, long enough and hard enough to enter a pair of New York City Marathons.

Two years ago, she watched the Ironman on TV and saw one of the contestants crawl across the finish line after the 2.4-mile swim, 112-mile bike race and 26.2-mile run. That demonstration of raw courage trig-gered something in Dunn and 18 months later, she was there herself, competing and excelling.

The players association filed an unfair labor practice charge with the National Labor Relations Board when the owners withdrew from the agreement.

The union also was set to file a grievance charging the owners with violating the collective bargaining agreement by acting in collusion regarding the signing of free agents during the offseason.

Donald Fehr, the association's executive director, said the basis of the union charge is that the clubs acted in concert by not trying to sign free agents from other clubs. Only two of the first 28 free agents who have signed contracts for the 1986 season have joined new clubs, Juan Beniquez with Baltimore and Dane lorg with San Diego. embodiment of his team's collective frustration in the Super Bowl. The first time he carried the ball, he was stopped cold. On his second carry, the normally sure-handed James fumbled the ball away on the Patriots' 13-yard line.

THE BEARS scored two plays later to make it 13-3 and mark the beginning of the end for the Patriots.

"We made so many mistakes and turnovers, there was no way we could make it close," he said.

Looking back over the Putriots' season, James said: "We're happy about some of the accomplishments we had, and nobody expected us to be in a position to win the Super Row!

"But there was no way for any of us to come out of that game happy." James, who led the Patriots with 1,227 yards rushing in 1965, wound up the Super Bowi with just five carrice for a net of one yard, as the Patriots went to their passing game after failing behind.

But he's not discouraged for himself or his team, saying, "We're a young team and we have a great head coach. As long as we keep our determination, we're going to be a very good ball club."

PUC recommends rate hike for Bell

AUSTIN (AP) - Public Utility Commission judges Friday recommended a $14.4 million rate hike for Southwestern Bell, including a 15-cent jump in the price of basic monthly home phone

The recommendation is about 5 percent of the $277 million increase Southwestern Bell says it needs to pay for expansion and improvement to "It's going to cost people jobs and it's going to cost the state economy very dearly," Bell Vice President Royce Caldwell said of the PUC judges' The three-member PUC will listen to arguments in the case Feb. 21 and rule Feb. 25.

Bell's last rate hike - $816.7 million in 1984 -

The bottom line was dropped to $277 mil-lion after a change in state law regarding phone taxes. But the residential increase amount remained the same.

The case brought heated opposition from con-sumer groups, including Public Utility Counsel Jim Boyle, who represents residential and small business customers. He argued that home phone rates should go down by about $1.50 a month and Bell's overall Texas revenues should be cut by $156 "They're crying all the way to the bank," he said Friday of Bell's reaction to the $14.4 million recommendation.

The recommendation would allow Bell to earn

14.5 percent return on equity in Texas. The company wants a 16 percent return.

Boyle is particularly miffed about the judges' recommendation that would substantially cut the payments long-distance companies make to Bell for the use of the local network. AT&T Communi-

Letterman celebrating fourth anniversary with 'normal' loony show

NEW YORK (AP) — For the uninitiated, "Late Night With David Letterman" is nothing like "Nightline" or "The Tonight NBC's zany college campuses, successfully combines Letterman's comic genius, creative bits like Stupid Pet and Human Tricks, and a new breed of talk-show guests.

Traditional talk shows invite celebrities to plug their movies, show clips from same and chat about Hollywood life and their latest cause.

The irreverent Letterman whose fourth anniversary show, taped aboard an in-flight 747 jetliner, is on tonight — disdains most of that. In the beginning, some guests got upset when Letterman forgot to mention their movie or didn't run their film clip.

Celebrities who do come on, including frequent guests Susan Saint James and Teri Garr, must be spontaneous and know how to give and take comedically. Letterman can never remember whether Miss Saint James, co-star of "Kate & Allie," is Kate or Allie, but she doesn't mind.

"We weren't looking for a pilot-in-training on this. That part of the trip was serious and in keeping with FAA regulations," Sand said. "There was no bailing out, no throwing stuff out

"We Do Windows." You don't see that phrase on many cleaningservice trucks, and you don't hear it from the lips of many people. What we usually hear is 'We DON'T do windows. It has become a slogan that summarizes too well our society. Because "doing windows" (washing and cleaning them) is hard work. Yet, it is one of the most impor tant jobs in life, both literally and figuratively. Wholes in the house need cleaning from time to time and, windows of the soul need daily cleaning or we end up seeing life totally out of perspective. Everything becomes blurred, and we get wrong signals about people and duty and responsibility are all about. Plus, it simply feels good when you can see through clear Real people do windows. And Cleaning windows gives focus.

Austin police OKs entire wagon train to visit Capitol

AUSTIN (AP) — The Sesquicentennial Wagon will visit the Capitol after all.

Threats of bypassing the Texas capital disappeared Thursday when Austin police gave their approval for the column of covered wagons to circle the Capitol and proceed south down Congress Avenue.

Bypassing Austin was discussed as one way to avoid hurting anyone's feelings after police said 30 wagons — not an entire train of up to 150 wagons — could go downtown to the Capitol for a ceremony Tuesday, the Austin American-Statesman

Someone would have had to choose the 30 lucky wagoneers, and those not chosen would feel hurt about missing the hoopla, wagon train officials said.

"They've got four to five months to live together," said an official who asked not to be identified. 'That would not be good for their community harmony."

The wagon train began a sixmonth tour of Texas cities and towns Jan. 2 in observance of the state's 150th anniversary of independence. Some wagoneers plan to make the

The touchy question of who could go to the Capitol was avoided Thurs-day when city police determined that the dwindling size of the wagon train and the speed it was moving Thursday will not pose uncontrolla-ble traffic problems.

The train had 42 wagons Thursday as it entered Central Texas, and more are expected to join for the Austin-Travis County portion of the ride, said police Lt. John Ross of the traffic division.

Police will allow 60 wagons to go to the Capitol after determining Thursday that it will take the train 15 minutes to pass any given point along the route.

"It's going to tie traffic up a little bit (but) we don't see any big problem," Ross said.

In a departure from earlier plans, the wagon train will not stop once it gets to the Capitol. The wagons will keep moving down Congress Avenue while a mounted detachment goes to the Capitol for the ceremony. The train will be at Manor northeast of Austin County from about 1 p.m. Sunday until early Monday. The wagons will roll to the Texas Exposition and Heritage Center east of Austin Monday, and much of Tuesday will be spent driving to the Capitol.

After circling the Capitol, the wag-on train will go south on Congress Avenue to Ben White Boulevard, east to U.S. 183, and south to the Sheriff's Posse Arena for Tuesday

Nelson's body contained cocaine when he died, newspaper reports

DALLAS (AP) — Entertainer Rick Nelson's body contained a small amount of cocaine when he died in a New Year's Eve plane crash, the Dallas Times Herald reported Friday.

Toxicology tests showed no evidence that "freebasing," a method of cocaine use that involves heating the drug with an open flame, the newspaper quoted an unidentified Feder-al Aviation Administration toxicologist as saying.

The Times Herald quoted an unidentified official at the Civil Aeromedic Institute in Oklahoma City as saying traces of both metabolized and unmetabolized cocaine, as well as a compound of the painkiller Dar-von, were found in Nelson's blood and urine samples.

Calls placed to the institute Friday by The Associated Press were not

"I can't confirm that, because it is not public information. We have not released any data, and we are not prepared to comment on reports that are not ours," said Ira Furman, a National Transportation Safety Board spokesman.

The NTSB "sent blood samples and urine samples from the victims and the flight crew to two different laboratories for analysis," he said. "We now have, but have not released, the toxicological results from those two

On Friday, Furman said the agency had test results in hand, but would not make them public until

"I don't think there is anything to say about this," said Oscar Arslanian, Nelson's manager, in Los Angeles. "I don't know what to say. What could the family say? There will be no comment on this."

The singer, his fiancee and five members of his band were killed on their way to a performance in Dallas when their smoke-filled DC-3 crashed near DeKalb, Texas.

The Dallas County medical exa-miner's office has listed the official cause of death for the victims as thermal burns and smoke inhalation.

The newspaper said forensic tests were unable to determine how recently the cocaine had entered Nelson's system or how it was introduced into the body.

The Times Herald said a small account of cocaine also was found in the body of another passenger. But the Civil Aeromedic official would not identify the person.

NTSB officials, according to a previous published report by the Washington Post, have been looking into the possibility that freebasing caused the fire that broke out in the passenger area of Nelson's plane. Authorities also have examined several other possibilities, including a fuel line leak or malfunction in the plane's heating system.

"The key thing is there was an irresponsible report that freebasing was the cause of the plane crash," Arsianian said. "There is absolutely no evidence that happened."

Freebasing involves mixing cocaine with a flammable liquid such as ether or ammonia. After the chemicals evaporate, the cocaine is smoked in a glass pipe held over a steady flame. Propellants from aerosol cans sometimes are used to aid

Eighteen aerosol cans were found in the wreckage of the DC-3, mostly in the baggage area, but federal investigators said they were unable to determine their contents.

"We have no evidence of when the (cocaine) was used or whether they were freebasing it or smoking it or whatever," the FAA official told the

"Normally, unmetabolized cocaine means recent use," he was quoted as saying. "But when there is just a small amount of it (in the bloodstream), it may be the result of some residual amount."

Papers filed in a California court show cocaine use was an issue in Nelson's 1981 divorce case, but his family members have denied earlier reports citing cocaine use by the former teen idol.

Archaeologists find wooden gates that may have been part of Alamo

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Archaeologists have discovered a pair of wooden gates they believe may have been part of the Alamo's original exterior.

The gates, found leaning against a house in South Bexar County, are 4 feet wide by 8 feet high and weigh about 300 pounds each. The house itself was built partly from scrap wood taken from the Alamo, said Al McGraw, a research associate at the University of Texas

The gates are authentic Spanish colonial style but age, McGraw said Thursday. They are constructed with fitted slots instead of nails.

"In Spanish colonial times, the only structures large enough to fit the size of the gates would have been one of the five missions," McGraw said. "Very likely what we are looking at is the exterior main entrance gate to a

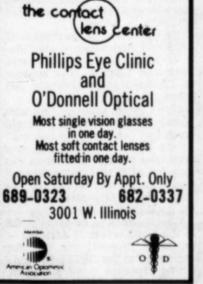

"It suggests association with not only the Spanish missions, but particularly the Alamo," he said.

The gates were discovered in 1984 when a university archivist found houses built from Alamo scrap wood in the area, but news of the discovery was kept quiet to ensure the gates' safety, McGraw said.

The badly deteriorated wooden gates have been left uncovered where they were found because archaeologists feared they would fall apart.

On Wednesday, Paul Storch, conservator of the Texas Memorial Museum in Austin, arrived in San Anto look at the gates and to determine how to identify and date the wood.

He also is trying to devise a way to stabilize the wood. The Alamo, a Franciscan mission at San Antonio, was the scene of a siege and massacre of Texans by Mexican troops in 1836. Among those who died in the fighting were frontiersmen Davy Crockett and Jim Bowie.

American AIDS victims make pilgrimage of hope to Mexico

EDITOR'S NOTE — More than 7,500 people are dead of AIDS in this country, and science has yet to find a cure or treatment. Many experimental drugs offer hope to the thousands who live in fear of the incurable disease, but none has federal approval. Two of them, however, are readily available in drug-stores across the Mexican border, and pharmacists, drug makers and U.S. Customs agents says hundreds, perhaps thousands, of Americans visit the border towns each month to take home these tablets of hope.

By TAMARA JONES Associated Press Writer

TIJUANA, Mexico - The gaunt, pale men with desperate eyes stand out amid the throngs of tourists passing through U.S. Customs gates laden with gaudy pinatas, oversized sombreros and duty-free tequila. These men have come to this seamy border city to buy something else: hope.

Americans dying of AIDs, exposed to the deadly virus or merely afraid of catching it are streaming by the thousands across the Mexican border for two over-thecounter drugs they hope might combat the incurable

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has not approved Isoprinosine and has conditionally approved ribavirin with a request for more information. Formal approval of either could take time.

But time is not something the men at the border

John Lounsbury, a 41-year-old Californian who has been battling AIDS for two years, began taking the unsanctioned drugs in August. The risk, he feels, is

The worst that can happen to me if I take it is that I might die," he said with a shrug. "If I don't take it, I know I will die.

This rationale seems clear, but it could be dangerous. It "might start killing AIDS patients right off the bat," because such patients respond unpredictably to drugs, warns Dr. Anthony Fauci of the National Institutes of

The treks to pharmacies in the border towns started quietly about a year ago, after medical reports about the possible benefits of combining the immune-booster Isoprinosine and the anti-viral ribavirin began circulating among homosexuals.

The drugs, developed by two Southern California companies, have been available for years in scores of countries for use against influenza, herpes, kidney stones and measles. A favorable exchange rate in Mexico means Americans pay only pennies per tablet of Isoprinosine and about 70 cents per tablet of ribavirin.

Even if they are approved in the United States, people will still come here to buy them because it's cheaper and you don't need a prescription," said Lucy Sanchez of the Le Drug Store pharmacy in downtown Tijuana.

Because of the social stigma attached to AHDS and the consequent aura of secrecy, no one knows how many Americans make the journey, or how often.

However, Newport Pharmaceuticals International Inc., the Newport Beach, Calif., manufacturer of Isoprinosine, reports that booming sales in Mexican border towns indicate some 10,000 to 12,000 Americans are buying the drug each month.

Nine Tijuana pharmacists who were interviewed all

"The worst that can happen to me if I take it is that I might die," he said with a shrug. "If I don't take it, I know I will die."

- John Loundsbury, AIDS victim

said 15 to 20 Americans came to their counters weekly to buy the drugs. Customs estimates that 150 Americans declare supplies of the drugs at the San Diego crossing each week, and AIDS organizations estimate that 1,000 to 3,000 people currently take them.

Initially, AIDS patients had to become amateur smugglers. They tell tales of nervously passing through Customs with medication concealed in cheap Mexican pottery, of stopping in Tijuana to have their pictures taken with zebra-painted donkeys in hopes the souvenir snapshots would convince border inspectors they were just run-of-the-mill tourists.

Authorities say no one has been arrested or fined, and confiscations remain rare. Stopping the smuggling, in short, was not a task that Customs relished.

They're standing there looking meek and pale and real skinny. You look at them and know they're desper ate," said Gurdit Dhillon, chief Customs inspector in the San Diego district.

'We're the ones out there on the lines and we see the hopelessness," he said. "You get someone looking at you and saying, 'You're going to take this away from me?' and you're the only one standing between this dying person and their hope.

'We wear a badge and we will enforce the law, but then...there has to be some compassion.

The FDA agreed, telling Customs in August it would not interfere if small quantities of the illegal drugs were allowed into the country, Dhillon said. The unusual move also was aimed at preventing black marketeering

The new guidelines allow individuals to bring an unspecified amount of Isoprinosine and ribavirin into the United States for personal use once every 30 days. No prescription or doctor's note is needed.

Customs and the FDA hedge when asked what constitutes a "personal use" quantity, but AIDS organizations and people who have brought the drugs back say they are allowed about 300 tablets per drug - less than a one-month supply.

Many still find ways around the restrictions. Tijuana pharmacists say their American customers often bring friends along to help carry more tablets

Others declare a small amount but hide a bigger stash in their cars or in bags of tacky souvenirs, according to veterans of the pilgrimage. Others reportedly stuff extra pills into the 12- and 20-tablet boxes. Dr. Barry Gingell, an internist in New York City's Greenwich Village, admits he smuggled in a year's supply of Isoprinosine and ribavirin for three patients, visiting a dozen Tijuana pharmacies in two days in October. He is monitoring eight other patients who got their own supplies in Mexico. "I don't know that this is the answer," he said, but added that he and other physicians he knows had grown tired of waiting for the FDA to test the experiTesting for AIDS virus antibody

"We've wasted a whole year putzing with the FDA," Gingell complained. "I'm very angry that it's taking so long for these drugs to be put on the marketplace."

Isoprinosine is intended to stimulate the weakened immune systems of AIDS patients, and ribavirin is an anti-viral drug, aimed at killing the virus. Many researchers now believe that combinations of such drugs will be necessary to treat AIDS, although that has not yet been shown.

No federally sanctioned trials on the drugs used together are under way. FDA-sanctioned trials of ribavirin alone are expected to begin in January with about 300 patients, according to its manufacturer, ICN Pharmaceuticals Inc. of Costa Mesa, Calif.

Newport Pharmaceuticals began federally approved 'compassionate use" tests of Isoprinosine on AIDS patients in June and already has filed results of trials on pre-AIDS patients.

Newport president Alvin Glasky said those results were encouraging, but stressed that Isoprinosine at this point should be considered a possible treatment for AIDS, not a cure. The FDA maintains that no one need go to Mexico for Isoprinosine because its "compassionate use" protocol issued last May means any doctor who wants to use the drug to treat AIDS patients can obtain it by participating in the Newport trials.

But Newport turned down more than 200 doctors who asked for the drug, citing the cost of the program. The company said it distributed Isoprinosine only to the first 12 doctors who asked.

Glasky said administrative costs of the project -"just FDA paperwork" — ran about $2,000 per patient for the company, which may not profit on the drug since it is experimental.

That Catch-22 is what sends AIDS patients across the

Jim Smith — not his real name — is a homosexual Brooklyn, N.Y., businessman considered a prime candidate for developing AIDS or AIDS-related complex tem a year ago his condition has improved. "This is a disease of down time and up time," he said. The percentage of up time is greater now and I honestly have hope I will get over it. Surprisingly, AIDS workers and users of the drugs in California and New York say there appears to be no significant black market in the drugs.

After his Mexican trip was publicized, Gingell said, he received letters and telephone calls from "would-be couriers offering to supply the drugs at a 500 to 1,000 percent mark-up. AIDS foundations report getting similar proposals, but an informal gay underground railroad appears to have dampened the prospects for profiteers. When people are too sick or impoverished to make the trip to Mexico, "word gets out," said Martin De-laney, an AIDS activist in San Francisco.

'It's an informal networking by phone," Delaney explained. People going down to buy the drugs for themselves arrange to pick up extra tablets for others unable to make the trip.

Outside California, he said, groups of people using the drugs may pool their resources and send one member as a courier. Friends who work for airlines and can travel free also volunteer to ferry the drugs, he said.

Everybody who is doing it is doing it out of compassion and losing money at it," Delaney stressed.

Doctors examine rise of AIDS in Africa

EDITOR'S NOTE: Researchers in Africa, where homosexuality is almost invisible, are studying the incurable disease AIDS, which in Western countries has stricken mostly homosexual men. They hope to pin down the disease's origin and determine whether it will spread beyond certain high-risk groups in the West.

By PAUL RAEBURN AP Science Editor

BRUSSELS, Belgium - New reports on the nature and spread of AIDS among heterosexuals in central Africa are giving researchers a glimpse of the possible future of AIDS in the United States.

AIDS was first recognized in homosexual men in the United States, and although it has now spread beyond the gay community, it is still confined mostly to them and several other high-risk groups: intravenous drug abusers, hemophiliacs and the sexual partners of AIDS patients.

Some scientists contend that it will soon spread into the general heterosexual population.

If it does, it will be mimicking the course it has taken in Africa, where open homosexuality is almost unknown and AIDS is well established. Research in Africa has already helped broaden a once-narrow view of the disease. The AIDS virus is now increasingly seen not as the cause of a single disease but as one of a family of dramatically different illnesses.

That was apparent from reports presented at the recent International Symposium on African AIDS, held "This virus causes much more than AIDS," said Dr. Robert Gallo of the U.S. National Cancer Institute. 'And most of it goes unreported."

In the United States, acquired immune deficiency syndrome can take several forms. It frequently causes Kaposi's sarcoma, an otherwise rare cancer. Or it can produce bizarre "opportunistic" infections, normally seen only people with damaged immune systems. More recently doctors have identified mental disorders caused by AIDS virus infections in

IN AFRICA, THE spectrum of possibilities is even greater. Doctors in Uganda, for example, have seen rapid, unaccountable weight loss in an AIDS-related illness they've called slim disease. Eleven of its 34 victims have died, according to Dr. S.I. Okware, deputy director of the national medical services.

In Lusaka, Zambia, Dr. Anne Bay-ley, an AIDS researcher at University Hospital, has identified a galloping form of Kaposi's sarcoma that is unresponsive to established treatments and is rapidly fatal. Not all the news from Africa is bleak, however. Research in Senegal, on the westernmost tip of the continent, has uncovered an unusual benign AIDS-related infection that could be crucial to the development of a vaccine to prevent AIDS. The infection is caused by an AIDS-related virus that may have originated in African green mon-keys, according to Max Essex of the Harvard School of Public Health in Boston. The reason for excitement over the discovery is that people infected with the virus seem to be healthy.

Infection with this apparently benign virus might make people immune to subsequent infections with AIDS. If so, the monkey virus could form the core of an AIDS vaccine.

The smallpox vaccine, the world's first, was based on exactly that principle. Cowpox, an animal version of smallpox, protected humans against smallpox without making them sick.

SEVEN HUNDRED SCIEN-TISTS from 51 countries attended the Brussels symposium, held in late November. It was the first open meeting devoted to AIDS in Africa. (A World Health Organization meeting last October in Bangui, Central African Republic, was closed to the

Dr. Nathan Clumeck, one of the symposium organizers, said some African governments had asked scientists working in their countries not to participate. "The big fear of the African governments is being made the scapegoats," said Clumeck, a researcher at St. Pierre Hospital in Brussels:

African officials have said that publicity surrounding AIDS might discourage tourism. Some researchers say laying the blame for AIDS on Africa is a kind of racial discrimination.

Nevertheless, some African scientists did take part, and a substantial amount of new information about African AIDS was presented by both African and Western scientists. These were some of the findings:

AIDS in Africa is a disease of the cities, and prostitution makes an important contribution to its spread.

Blood donations and the repeat use of needles and hypodermic syringes, a common practice in some areas in Africa, may also be a contributing factor. The jump in the number of AIDS cases in Africa occurred in the early 1980s, at approximately the same time it happened in the United States, even though the virus may have been present in Africa for sev-

MANY OF THE figures coming from Africa show very high rates of infection in certain populations.

On Dec. 26, Rwanda reported that 319 cases of AIDS, including 86 children younger than 15, had been diagnosed among its population of 6 million since 1983. It was the largest number of victims disclosed thus far by an Africa nation.

A joint Rwandese-Belgian research project determined that 106 victims had died and that all the children had contracted AIDS in the Another collaborative AIDS project, in Kinshasa, Zaire, reported 190 cases of AIDS in Kinshasa from July to November 1984. Almost half of the cases were in women, and none occurred in homosexuals.

Based on those findings and other research, Jonathan Mann of the U.S. Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta, a member of the Zaire AIDS project, estimated that AIDS strikes at least 300 of every million Zairians each year. Zaire has an estimated population of 32 million, and thus Mann's projection would translate into about 10,000 new cases a year.

Numbers of actual AIDS cases in other countries in equatorial Africa are sketchy, but several report high rates of exposure to the virus, Clumeck said.

Evidence of exposure has been found in 20 percent of those tested in Uganda, 5 percent in Kenya and 2 percent in Zambia, Clumeck said. Seven percent to 12 percent of Zairians have been exposed to the virus, in the past five years.

IN THE UNITED States, about 10 percent of people exposed to the virus will develop AIDS, said Dr. John Ward of the Centers for Disease Control. It is not known whether the same holds true in Africa.

One study that showed an unexpectedly high prevalence of AIDS antibodies in Zairian patients sick with malaria led researchers to speculate that screening tests for AIDS antibodies may be less accurate in Africans or that malaria does somehing to the blood that produces pos itive AIDS test results.

Female prostitutes have some of the highest rates of exposure of any groups in Africa. Philippe Van de erre of the St. Pierre Hospital in Brussels found that 29 of 33 prostitutes tested in Butare, Rwanda, had antibodies to the AIDS virus. In contrast, antibodies were present in only four of a group of 33 women who were not prostitutes, Van de Perre reported.

Dr. Herbert Nsanze, a Ugandan now working in the Fiji Islands for the World Health Organization, said prostitution in Africa was a "serious and important problem" that had led to high rates of gonorrhea and syphilis. "There is a very strong relation between sexually transmitted diseases, prostitution and probably AIDS," Nsanze said. Nsanze said

Van de Perre said the prostitutes were not bisexual and did not abuse intravenous drugs, and thus it was likely they contracted the disease through heterosexual contact - as did their customers.

VAN DE PERRE also reported that 10.5 percent of 258 blood donors tested in Rwanda had evidence of exposure to AIDS, suggesting that transfusions are another important route of AIDS transmission in Africa.

When asked whether the heterosexual spread of AIDS in Africa presaged what is likely to happen in Western countries, Clumeck said there were reasons to think it did

The number of heterosexual cases in Europe and the United States has so far increased fairly slowly, he noted. And some doctors theorize that the AIDS virus passes only with difficulty from women to men, who are not exposed internally to the virus during intercourse as women are, although this theory conflicts with growing evidence that AIDS spreads heterosexually in Africa.

There is a dark side to the speculation, however. Clumeck cited a study by Dr. Robert Redfield at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington that showed heterosexual transmission of AIDS in 15 of 41 cases of AIDS evaluated.

Furthermore, Clumeck said, studies have shown that 30 percent of prostitutes in Miami have been exposed to the AIDS virus, and 21 percent of homosexual men in San Francisco - where the disease is widespread - say they have had sexual contact with at least one woman

An optimistic scenario says AIDS won't spread very far beyond the people now at high risk; the pessimistic view leads to the opposite conclusion.

Clumeck didn't take sides.

Africa fights label of AIDS scapegoat

EDITOR'S NOTE: African polticians and scientists are unhappy with the increasingly accepted view that the AIDS scourge originated on their continent. They challenge the scientific evidence and assert they are being made racial scapegoats.

By PAUL RAEBURN AP Science Editor

BRUSSELS, Belgium - As AIDS has spread from a few homosexual men in Los Angeles and New York in 1981 to 15,000 Americans and 2,000 other victims around the world, it seems reasonable to ask how and where the epidemic began. Early in the AIDS epidemic, a high incdence of the disease among Haitians suggested the illness might have originated there, but scientists have with increasing frequency pointed the finger at Africa.

That has angered African scientists and politicians. The governments worry they will lose scarce tourism income if they are identified too closely with the incurable disease. With some African economies on the brink of collapse, such a loss of foreign currency could be catastrophic.

Some of the scientists who quarrel with the theory of an African origin of AIDS see racial factors as well as economics at stake.

"The theory is not bad, if it's based on real scientific ground, not racial grounds," said Dr. Ally Kombe, who works in Lubumbashi, Zaire, with a health service at the state-owned mining company, Gecamines. So far, however, scientific evidence is confusing at best, he said.

Kombe recalled research in the 1940s aimed at demonstrating the inferiority of the African brain and warned that racial biases could "prevent us from learning the truth" about AIDS.

Dr. David Serwadda, a Ugandan living in England, envisioned disastrous social consequences if Africa were to be branded as the source of the AIDS scourge. "Without very, very careful-studies that are fair to Africa, I can foresee Africans being quarantined," Serwadda said. "People are entitled to know where this disease is coming from. But there are long-term repercussions."

Kombe and Serwadda were among African participants at the International Symposium on African AIDS, held in November in Brussels.

The symposium was organized not by Africans but by three researchers from Belgium, a former colonial power in Africa that retains many ties to the continent. The official languages at the symposium were English and French. Three-fourths of the research presentations were made by Europeans.

"Much of the research presented here is our research, our caspeak.

On the second day of the symposium, the African participants cooperated, meeting through and beyond the morning coffee break to try to counter the prevailing theory that AIDS had racial origins in Africa. Reporters were later given a group statement, in which the researchers asserted there was no evidence of an AIDS epidemic in Africa.

The evidence of association of AIDS and Africanism is absolutey lacking," said Dr. Herbert Nsanze of Uganda, who became an informal spokesman for the

"It's a global problem," he said, and trying to determine its origin does not contribute to control." 'We also note that there is a high false positive rate when you look for AIDS in African serum, said Nsanze, who works for the World Health Organization teaching medicine in Fiji. Experiments to look for AIDS in the blood serum of Africans - or, more properly, to look for antibodies to the AIDS virus, indicating exposure - have suggested that as many as 20 percent of certain African populations have already been exposed to AIDS. The numbers range from highs of 20 percent in Uganda and 7 percent to 12 percent in Zaire to lows of 5 percent in Kenya and 2 percent in Zambia, said one of the organizers of the symposium, Dr. Nathan Clumeck of St. Pierre Hospital in Brussels. The Africans suggested that many of those positive individuals might not have antibodies to AIDS but might instead have some substance in their blood that makes the test wrongly appear positive.

If they are right, they will have undercut one reason for thinking AIDS originated in Africa — the high prevalence of exposure to the virus. The argument is that the virus would not have had time to spread that widely unless it had been present in Africa long before it appeared in the United States, in about 1979.

The suggestion of an African origin has also been based on antibody studies showing evidence of AIDS in blood samples that have been frozen for years. For example, a research group led by Dr. Andre Nahmias of Emory University in Atlanta reported evidence of an AIDS-relat-ed virus in blood samples obtained in Central Africa in 1959. The key phrase is "AIDS-related virus." There may exist AIDS-related viruses that do not cause AIDS, and the virulent virus that causes the disease might have originated anywhere as a mutation of these hypothetical viruses. Such a scenario was suggested by Max Essex of the Harvard School of Public Health.
