Could Begin Next Month...

Senate OKs Draft Registration

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today approved President Carter's plan to renew peacetime draft registration as early as next month. After a seven-day debate and filibuster, the Senate joined the House in approving Carter's request for $13.3 million to register all 19- and 20-year-old men at post offices across the country. Before the final vote, the Senate rejected, 59-35, an amendment by Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., that would have chopped the money to $4.7 million simply to improve the present standby registration plan. If the House approves a minor amendment, the measure could go to Carter early next week. Selective Service Director Bernard Rostker said "we're shooting for mid-July" to begin registering 4 million men over a two-week period—one week for those born in 1961 and the following week for those born in 1960. Men now 18 would register next year and 18-year-olds would register each year after that. Failure to register could be punished by up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. Rostker said the president will issue a proclamation setting the date for renewal of registration. The Senate scheduled the vote on the plan today after opponents gave up their futile fight to derail it with a five-day filibuster and then an all-night session—the first in three years and the 14th round.

The clock filibuster in this century. The Senate invoked cloture Tuesday, limiting debate to 100 additional hours. When Hatfield vowed to try to use them all, Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., put the Senate in continuous session in an attempt to wear down opponents. The difference between that and the all-night session in 1977 was that the last one was an out-and-out filibuster, with no end in sight over deregulation of natural gas. This one was simply running out the cloture clock. Hatfield forced senators to answer roll call after roll call, and then his allies held the Senate floor with end-to-end, hour-long speeches both for and against registration.

The talkathon played to an almost-empty chamber. Some senators spent the night on cots set up in the cloakroom or couches in their offices. Many simply went home, trusting an agreement that there would be no votes after 1 a.m. There seldom was even a single visitor in the long public galleries above.

Leader In Japan Dies

TOKYO (AP)—Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira, a staunch U.S. ally battling growing political unrest at home, died unexpectedly early today after suffering a heart attack. That's politics, explained Mayor Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind., new president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

Hunts Deny Manipulation Of Market

DALLAS (AP)—The Hunt brothers today denied allegations made by one of their former top aides that they tried to manipulate the world's silver market. Nelson Bunker and Herbert Hunt issued a statement through their attorney saying they testified "candidly and forthrightly" before a congressional committee about their silver dealings.

In a related action, a New York congressman asked the Justice Department to look into differences between testimony given by the Hunts and that of their former top aide, Bill Bledsoe. Bledsoe said in congressional testimony released Tuesday that the Hunts worked together in a "concerted attempt to manipulate or control the world's supply of silver." Bledsoe, who left the Hunt empire last year to form his own consulting firm, also said the Hunt brothers had an "intent to mislead" Congress. A Hunt family attorney responded with a brief statement attributed to both Hunt brothers.

Fluvanna Homecoming Event... Rock Ledge Farm Again Site Of Old Settlers Tea

By MARGE MATHIS
Beautiful Rock Ledge Farm will once again be the scene of the Early Settlers Tea to be held in conjunction with the 1980 Fluvanna Homecoming. Mrs. Edith Whitley McKanna will open her home to several hundred guests who will honor early settlers of the Fluvanna area. The tea will be from 3 until 5 in the afternoon June 13. This event will be a repeat performance of the tea held in 1975 and hosted by Mrs. McKanna and friends at Fluvanna in honor of old timers. Located three miles south of Fluvanna on old Whitley property, this home is one of several in the area which boasts of elegance, yet extends the atmosphere of friendliness and cordiality to all who visit. If its walls could talk, they would echo surprise and great pleasure at the changes which have come about in the home since early in this century when it was occupied by Whitley sharecropper tenants. Referred to as a "shotgun house," it was like many in the area at the time—just two rooms and a lean-to shed designed for commonplace protection from the elements. As a result of extensive remodeling during the years, today the estate has grown to countless numbers of rooms, each reminiscent of a museum or gallery full of antiques and fine works of art.

Yet each room is designed for comfort and there is a pleasant blending of fine period furniture with carefully placed oriental motif and always delicate and planned flower arrangements. The rambling one-story home takes the visitor through at least fifty years of history, attested to by the plaques and awards on many walls of the house. Muted colors of ivory and old rose prevail in many of the formal rooms. A bright glassed kitchen beckons beyond the formal dining room. A solarium on the east side of the home reflects living things all the way from the green shag of its carpet to the climbing tropicals which partially screen the wide expanses of glass from morning sunlight. Sliding doors from many of the rooms lead to the artfully landscaped grounds of the home. Patios and walled outdoor areas filled with wrought iron furniture and huge ornamental plants are shaded by many, many trees which surround the property. From the road, the estate is protected by dense growth of shrubbery and cedars, and the casual traveler is hardly aware of the magnificent array of living quarters and guest cottages which surround the main house. More Testimony In Brilab Probe

HOUSTON (AP)—A federal grand jury heard additional testimony today in its investigation of an FBI probe into alleged insurance kick-back schemes. Tom Henderson, an Austin attorney and field director for President Carter's campaign, went before the panel shortly after it convened today. Also, attorney representing Texas House Speaker Bill Clayton went into the grand jury room. The speaker was expected to arrive in Houston today to await a decision by the grand jury on whether he would be indicted. Clayton is a key figure in Brilab, an FBI undercover operation. The jury began its hearing in February, continued into March, then April. Clayton spent 10 hours answering questions of the grand jury after his name was linked to the FBI undercover operation. The speaker's attorney, Roy Minton of Austin, said, "If I find out they are going to present it (an indictment), my partner and I are going to be at the courthouse to see what happens. If an indictment is returned, we will want to pick it up and bring the speaker in."

1980 Cotton Off To A Good Start

Scurry County's 1980 cotton crop is off to a start much like that of 1979. If it turns out as well, most farmers will be happy, because 1979 was a record year when Scurry County gins processed more than 95,000 bales of cotton. Billy Roach, county extension agent, estimates that at least 90 percent of the county's cotton land has been planted and that about 75 percent of it is up. Some of the latest to be planted is in the southeast part of the county which missed the big rains of May. Subsequent showers, however, have assured planting moisture for just about all of the county, and in some areas it has provided an extra boost to young cotton just beginning to grow. Roach says that generally the farmers would have preferred to plant earlier. However, nearly all of Scurry County's cost of bureaucracy

The words arrogant and bureaucracy do not always go together, but a Chicago-based mail order business found out to its dismay why many people think of the words as a single phrase.

In January 1979 a series of paralyzing blizzards struck the city of Chicago. JS&A Group, Inc., like other companies in the area, experienced incredibly high absenteeism as employees were unable to get to work. This went on for almost a month. Making the situation worse, one of the mail order company's computers broke down. The resulting backlog was in contrast to the company's usual efficiency. However, the circumstance required a certain amount of understanding.

It seems JS&A customers were much more understanding than the federal government. A few weeks after the blizzard Joseph Sugarman, president of JS&A, was notified by the Federal Trade Commission that his company was under investigation. It was explained that there is an FTC rule requiring mail order firms to notify customers if their orders will not be filled within 30 days. Although no official FTC complaint had been filed, the investigation was moving forward and the agency was seeking a $100,000 fine.

When the FTC investigator showed up at JS&A, Sugarman acknowledged that his firm had fallen behind schedule because of the blizzard and computer breakdown. The company was then doing everything in its power to fill the backlog and get back on schedule. The FTC staffer was unsympathetic; a rule is a rule, the fine would have to be paid. Backed against the wall, Sugarman decided to fight.

The importance of this case is that Sugarman did indeed fight this obscenely arrogant bureaucratic behavior. If he had simply paid the FTC off and passed off the cost on to his customers the public would never have known what happened. Sugarman, instead, placed full page ads in major newspapers across the country explaining his situation. Most businessmen are too afraid of bureaucratic retaliation to stand up to such harassment.

Actions by the FTC and similar federal agencies are inherently abusive. The FTC commissioners sit as judge and jury; the FTC staff act as police and prosecutor; in many cases FTC investigators are the chief witnesses. And even if a company is found innocent it will end up paying the enormous costs of defending itself.

Most consumers do not realize that the cost of coping with this bureaucratic monster is coming from their pockets. They are vaguely aware that their taxes pay the bureaucrats, but that is where most people think the cost stops. Unfortunately all the time Sugarman and employees used fighting the FTC was taken directly from the time they would have spent servicing their customers. The final product has to pay for that time, as well as the time in doing legitimate business.

It is in everybody's interest to get the government off the back of business.

Our homeland, even as our homestead, requires constant year-in-and-year-out renovation and repair.

We cannot do everything that needs to be done at once, but there are some things we can do — at once!

This is about one of them.

While most missionaries feel called to remote corners of the earth, few concern themselves with the dark and dangerous places in our own cities.

Frank Carr, a New York businessman, gave his spare time to the youngsters of Harlem. He secured a bus driver's license, borrowed a bus, and on Saturdays, took boys and girls of the asphalt jungles to state parks and beaches.

This fun-and-games effort expanded into helping ambitious young people train for and get jobs.

Now, home-based in Chicago, Mr. Carr is giving his full time to an organized effort called "Inroads." Its purpose is to assist talented, motivated minority youngsters.

His nonprofit organization, in cooperation with many of the largest corporations in America, selects and sponsors bright minority students who want careers in engineering and business.

The selectees get tutoring, counseling and summer internship with a local corporation. Corporations, under pressure to employ more minority workers, this way get a chance to identify and assist those with a potential to move up.

This year 600 Inroads college students are interning for 300 companies in nine cities.

Any student who does not measure up at all times during his four summer internships — is dropped.

Or if his grade point average sags below the standard — he is dropped.

And because many applicants are rejected for each one accepted, there is keen competition to get in — and keen competition to stay in.

Yet the pride of accomplishment that comes with demonstrated excellence and increased acceptance is tantamount to that of a West Point commission.

Inroads is avowedly elitist, will consider candidates only from the top 10 percent of high school graduates.

A corporate sponsor of one of these individuals pays $1,600 to $1,900 per year, plus the intern's summer salary and the time of any executive assigned to counsel the student.

The student attends 15 group seminars a year, learning time and money management, assertiveness training, decision-making, etiquette and grooming. Most lecturers are drawn from sponsoring companies.

Mr. Carr hopes to expand the Inroads concept into 15 to 20 additional cities over the next 10 years.

There is ambition and talent in the ghettos. And now, for those who want more than a handout, there is a hand-up.

(c) 1980, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

WASHINGTON, D.C. — For over 30 years, a general statute of limitations has protected individuals from prosecution in civil actions after a period of five years. The American businessman, however, has had no similar protection.

Recently, I introduced legislation, H.R. 7506, along with Congressman Jack Hightower (D-Tex.), which would establish a four-year statute of limitations for business on record keeping and alleged civil violations of federal rules, regulations or laws.

At present, businessmen are required to maintain records indefinitely and are subject to civil penalties without any time limitations.

The Department of Energy, for instance, is one of several federal agencies with open-ended enforcement abilities of regulations. An independent oil producer, as an example, could misread a price order and be held accountable to DOE for overcharges for any number of years. His children and grandchildren could, conceivably, be held responsible for an honest mistake and be required to come up with the paperwork 20 or 30 years later to defend their case. And, if their defense failed, the interest payments alone could wipe out a business.

Perhaps the clearest way to illustrate the burden caused by the lack of statute of limitations for business regulations is this: Imagine your own personal filing system if the Internal Revenue Service did not have a three-year statute of limitations for income tax returns. You would have blank checks and invoices filed in every nook and cranny of your home.

No business needs that kind of burden hanging over its head indefinitely. A statute of limitations placed on all government agencies will give the businessman some sense of certainty in operating his business.

This type of open-ended enforcement can happen to any other sector of the business community, across the nation in its dealings with various federal agencies and this legislation will have a beneficial impact on all businesses, particularly small businesses.

This legislation is one means to cut down the cost of doing business, and therefore chip away a little at the inflation rate as these costs are invariably passed along to the end-user of the product or service involved if that business is to remain solvent.

Excessive paperwork and excessive regulations are two inflationary problems that I have fought since coming to Congress. I am pleased that we have received a great deal of support from a wide cross-section of the business community across the country for this bill even before we introduced the measure last week. Various groups are joining together to enlist additional support and to assist in the passage of this bill. We are expecting backing from business and trade groups, oil and gas and agricultural sectors as we work toward passage of the bill.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In the last two weeks, the Reagan campaign has tried to broaden its base by bringing on board key professionals who have been identified with candidates from the Republican Party's more liberal wing.

A special invitation went out to Stuart Spencer and John Deardourff, the men most responsible for Gerald Ford's 1976 campaign. Their reply was "no thanks" or words to that effect. They are going to run their own separate campaign for Ronald Reagan.

Under federal election law, the government provides all general election campaign money for the Republican and Democratic presidential nominees. There is a limit on how much the candidates can spend; this year, it is $29.4 million.

But there is a loophole in the law: An independent committee can raise and spend money on behalf of a candidate as long as it has no direct contact with him. This is what Spencer and Deardourff are planning on doing — and doing in a very big way.

Independent committees are nothing new. They were formed early in this presidential campaign by backers of Sen. Edward Kennedy and former Gov. John Connally. In 1976, brewer Joseph Coors ran one to help Reagan in his unsuccessful effort to wrest the nomination from Ford.

The activities of these earlier committees were usually limited to buying advertising or supplying workers for door-to-door canvassing. But what Spencer and Deardourff have in mind is nothing less than a major national campaign, staffed at a level equal to the regular Reagan campaign and spending perhaps as much as $15 million to $18 million.

The Spencer-Deardourff group is composed of officials from the Ford and, to a lesser extent, the Nixon administrations. Much of its fund raising will be done by Peter Flanagan, a New Yorker who was an aide to President Nixon, and Thomas Reed, a California businessman who served as secretary of the Air Force. Both are well-known in Republican politics. Also reportedly involved in the project is Robert Teeter, probably the most respected pollster working for Republican candidates; Teeter used to do Ford's polling.

Spencer has refused to comment on the still-named committee. To do so now, he says, would be "premature." But according to sources close to its organizers, the committee is seen as a way to offset the advantages that President Carter will have from his incumbency and from the help he will receive from labor unions and other groups that traditionally support Democrats.

Election law permits individuals to contribute up to $1,000 to such an independent committee even if they contributed previously to the candidate's primary effort. Most observers believe the Spencer-Deardourff committee could raise $15 million given the fund-raising ability of Republicans.

The key to staying within the law is that the committee must keep books and file reports with the Federal Election Commission just like any other campaign committee. In addition, the committee must have absolutely no contact with the candidate or his regular campaign organization. To insure this, Spencer reportedly told his close friend Richard Wirthlin, a top Reagan aide, that the two cannot even talk until after Election Day.

Realistically, the two groups can and will communicate through the press. The independent group, for instance, could call a press conference to announce its decision to spend a couple of million for television ads in one area of the country. The regular Reagan organization would thus be advised to adjust its plans accordingly.

Perhaps most important, this independent committee will serve as a home for a number of experienced Republican professionals who, while badly wanting to see Jimmy Carter defeat, cannot or will not work under their old enemies who are running the Reagan campaign.

You can look for the Carter campaign to fight this independent committee before the Federal Election Commission and possibly in court. But when all is said and done, the Spencer-Deardourff effort could well become a major factor in the November election.

my turn

by john long

If a person does everything in moderation then he is immoderate in at least one thing — moderation. Take me, for example. I can go a long, long time without sweets. But if the truth were known, I have a weakness for pastries.

For some reason, however, my craving for doughnuts had been unusually strong for a few weeks. I found myself nibbling at doughnuts, very moderately to be sure, but nibbling away nonetheless. I decided I had to do something about it and that only drastic action could do the job.

I decided to glut myself on doughnuts, to eat so many that I would get sick and thus purge myself of the doughnut demon lurking within. I did just that.

I started one morning about 8 o'clock eating doughnuts. In one day of wild debauchery I consumed an astounding 10 of the things. I ate and I ate. But at last I accomplished my mission: I became sick of doughnuts.

Now I am free. No longer can I look at a doughnut without feeling nauseous, and a bit guilty, too, about my debauchery. But I am free, nevertheless. My craving for doughnuts is gone. I am clean, purged.

Moderation is fine, up to a point. But for a really bad case of the munchies there is only one thing to do: glut yourself. My advice for all who are contemplating similar action is to go ahead and do it.

Eat until you are sick, then the food demon within will be tamed.

While searching for a column concluding idea, I thought about writing a column filled with self-righteous indignation about apathy in regard to last Saturday's election.

Only 120 votes were cast in this county, and only a pitiful one vote was cast in Dunn. That one vote in Dunn cost the county $200, and overall, the cost to the county per vote was about $15.

Yes, I thought, I'd lay it on pretty thick and really make people ashamed of themselves. But after thinking about it for a little while, I decided to cool it.

I didn't vote in the election, either.

Last Monday I took my two young children to the local theater to see a Walt Disney feature. Before the show began, we were shown three or four previews of "R" rated movies. At least one of the previews was an "R" rated preview! (Horror movies.)

By the end of this horror bombardment, my children were too upset to enjoy the children's movie! This was inexcusable planning and has really upset many families. We would have gotten up and left, but after each preview, I felt sure the cartoon feature would be next — but another violent scene would flash on the screen. This should never be allowed to occur again.

That way you get on to the next deal quickly and have a chance to complain about the bad luck of having the same length in each suit in both your hand and dummy.

A slightly better approach is to draw trumps, then cash your aces and kings in the minor suits and then throw West in with a spade. In case West started with no more than two cards in each minor suit he had to lead another spade. Now you ruff in one hand, discard in the other and make your contract. This play fails because West holds three diamonds and can lead his jack to East's queen.

The best way is to make your contract. There is a play that is certain as long as West holds eight spades.

You draw trumps and cash the high side cards as before. Then you lead your last diamond, not your last spade. If East lets West hold that trick he can take one spade, but must then give you the ruff and discard. If East wins the trick he can take a club, but is then dead and buried.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

The hurry-up play of today's hand is to win the first spade and concede down one.

GS Brownies And Dads Campers At Booth Oaks

The June 6, 7, 1980, "Brownie-Dad Day Special Overnight" at Camp Booth Oaks was an unique camp-out for 100 Brownie Girl Scouts and almost that many dads. Some dads accompanied their daughters while a few were proxy fathers for a second Brownie.

All Brownies attending sold seven or more cases of cookies during the 1980 Cookie Sale. They earned the privilege to camp with their fathers at the resident camp of the West Texas Girl Scout Council. The girls slept in canvas platform tents while their dads slept nearby under the starry sky.

All groups participated in a campfire Friday night and spent a busy day Saturday hiking, canoeing, volleyball, archery, playing games, tying knots, making hankiechiefs, sliding down Tarzan's Bluff, and visiting Tajar Country Store.

Representing Snyder Brownie Girl Scouts were Diana Ballard, Holly Barkowsky, Lesli Flenniken, Juli Lay, Melanie Martinez, Lesli Melot, and Chasity Souther.

Helping the girls experience a taste of resident camp were the Camp Staff Director Linda Walker, Camp Ranger, Bud Chase, Kay Willbanks, Michelle Trull, Roselle McAvoy, Martha Bashford, Kim Bennett, Rebecca Burton.

Shultz Reunion

Set June 20-21

A large attendance is expected at the Union Community Center on June 20-21 for a reunion of the descendants of the late Walter Shultz.

He and his family moved to Snyder in 1915 from Emory and he resided here until his death in 1950. Two daughters, Mariel Shuler and Chan Moore, and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren still live here.

Relatives and friends from Dallas, Fort Worth, East Texas, Arizona, California and other areas are expected to attend the reunion.

If the 1980s prove to be a normal decade for tornadoes in the United States at least 7,000 of the violent storms will strike the nation and cause as many as 1,000 deaths.

Pam Caudill, Deidra Mary Farris, Joanna Finke, Teresa Franco, Elise Wheat, Dawn Chase, Mary Alice Ramirez, Penny Ramirez, Louise Ward and Janie Carter.

Volunteers assisting with the events include Pauline Wimmer and Teresa Scarber of Snyder. The WTGSC is a participating agency of the United Way.

LOOKING ANYTHING but matronly, Mrs. Ann McEwen, 1980 recently paid a courtesy call to New York City. She is 34-year-old Carol Ann McEwen of Austin, Texas. Married almost 15 years, she has two sons, ages 12 and 8.

Council Calls For More Use Of Nuclear Energy

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP)—An energy advisory council, touted nuclear energy and suggested a way it said the federal government could save electric customers in the Southwest $29 billion over the next decade.

The Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council adopted a committee resolution Wednesday emphasizing "the need to fully exploit nuclear energy—a proven domestic energy resource."

Another committee recommended re-examining national policy to determine if licensing and constructing nuclear power plants could be speeded up. It said a House proposal prohibiting funds for nuclear projects should be removed.

The second committee's recommendation, which also was adopted by the council, stated:

"Any project that has the effect of decreasing the dependence on foreign oil should be considered as being desirable from a public policy perspective because of the national security problems of higher oil imports."

The electric utility resolution was directed at the 1978 federal Powerplant and Industrial Fuel Use Act, which prohibits the use of natural gas as the fuel for electric power plants after 1989.

R.H. "Dick" Cory, a member of the council's Advisory Committee on Industrial and Electric Utility Fuel Use, told the council natural gas accounts for 75 percent of electric generation in Texas.

"He said Texas' electric utilities are voluntarily converting from gas to coal-fired boilers, but to comply with the federal law would cost the Southwest $29 billion—including $17 billion in Texas—by the year 2000."

The Northeast and western regions would only have to spend $6 billion to $9 billion to convert to coal, Cory said, and federal funds would pay about one-half the cost.

He said the average cost of electric utility service would increase by 10 percent in Texas by 1995 but would decrease by 5 percent in the Mid-Atlantic region and by 15 percent in the Northeast.

Also, Cory said, the federal law could result in the use of an additional 300,000 barrels of oil a day in the Southwest, rather than less oil as was the intent of the law.

The council's resolution says the Fuel Use Act should be amended so that "utility boilers that are not coal-capable without modification be allowed to burn natural gas or oil for the remainder of their useful lives or until a scarcity of natural gas can be demonstrated."

Council member Michel Halbouty of Houston, an independent oilman, said, "Washington doesn't know what in the hell it's doing" on energy, and Speaker Bill Clayton, another council member, added, "Can I second that?"

Halbouty said the Department of Energy proposes the conversion to coal, yet regulations of the Environmental Protection Agency prevent that conversion.

"The only way to convert to coal is to clean up the Clean Air Act," said Halbouty.

General Counsel Lynn Coleman of the DOE predicted the next Congress would review the act.

"Our room-to-wiggle has just about run out," said Chairman John Blair of the Texas Air Control Board, also a council member. "In some places it is impossible to live with the act."

Council member Ed Vetter, energy adviser to Gov. Bill Clements, said predictions that solar energy will provide 25 percent of the nation's energy needs by 2000 are "highly unrealistic."

Such forecasts, Vetter added, "give American people the luxury of sitting back and saying, 'I don't have to do anything about the Clean Air Act.'"

Clements told Coleman he would like to hear more "strong statements" from DOE that the American people cannot count on solar energy as an important energy source any time soon.

"Our perception is we say it almost every day," said Coleman.

"If you're saying it, you're whispering it," replied Clements.

"They (American people) are hearing what they want to hear and think as opposed to putting their nose to the grindstone."

Other recommendations of the Cory committee, which the council adopted, included the "timely" development of synthetic fuels and federal reimbursement for plant conversions of shut-downs that occur as a result of federal mandates.

The council also adopted the committee's recommendation to permit automatic fuel adjustments after 1985.

The nuclear resolution proposed assessments for nuclear power customers to cover the costs of waste disposal.

The resolution, presented by Dr. William Fisher, director of the University of Texas Bureau of Economic Geology, also offered these recommendations, which were adopted by the council:

Making the governor solely responsible for concurring with the federal government on any high level nuclear waste disposal in Texas.

State legislation enabling Texas to manage low-level waste disposal sites in Texas.

Research to turn nuclear wastes into a less harmful form.

The use of state and federal funds to reclaim abandoned uranium mines.

Studies on whether a severance tax on uranium can be imposed without damaging the economic viability of the uranium mining industry in Texas.

Developing emergency plans to cope with radiation transportation accidents.

Congressional Leaders Predict Budget To Pass

By ROBERT PARRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—House and Senate leaders predicted today that Congress will adopt a new compromise 1981 budget despite only minor changes from the package defeated in the House two weeks ago and growing doubt about the chances of keeping it balanced.

"It's about the last train that's pulling out of the station," said House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas. "If we were to fail, it would present us with some very unpleasant alternatives. I think we're going to win."

Wright said that by approving the budget, already four weeks behind schedule, Congress could begin taking up pressing appropriations bills, including a $14.4 billion package of emergency funding for programs on the verge of going broke.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., and Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., also predicted that the revised spending plan would clear the Senate.

House and Senate conferees broke a 12-day stalemate over defense and social spending levels Wednesday and agreed to a $613.6 billion budget for the fiscal year that starts Oct. 1.

The new compromise trimmed long-term defense increases but left untouched the $153.7 billion in 1981 military outlays that had been part of the original compromise, which the House defeated by more than 100 votes two weeks ago.

The revised package also restored $300 million for domestic programs that the earlier compromise had shaved from President Carter's budget request.

The House was expected to vote on the new package late today. If passed, it would then go to the Senate for final approval. Carter's signature is not required.

The president and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., who both opposed the first compromise as providing too much for the military but too little for social programs, were expected to support the new proposal.

Meanwhile, congressional leaders, in their frankest comments to date, said they fear the deepening recession will kill plans to have the first balanced budget in 12 years.

O'Neill said that while Congress still intends to approve a balanced target budget resolution, he "can't conceive, with unemployment jumping, of keeping the budget in balance when the second, binding resolution comes to a vote."

Carter last March urged balancing the budget as part of his anti-inflation strategy. But, with the recession worsening, an increasing number of congressmen and White House aides believe it is no longer practical to wipe out the deficit.

Fund Established For Heart Patient

A medical fund has been set up at each bank for Eddie Kenney who has had open heart surgery and is suffering complications. Also, a jar is available for contributions at the Fina truck stop north of town.

Kenney, a local carpenter, has not been able to work since January and needs the support of his friends and neighbors in his hour of need, said a spokesman for the fund.

Dear Abby

G.E.D. Lets Dropouts Drop Back In

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: May I use your column to help all those kids who have dropped out of high school and wish they hadn't?

If you are a dropout and now regret it, you don't have to settle for the lowest-paying job all your life and be referred to as "uneducated." And you don't have to go back to high school for two or three years to get your diploma, either.

Every state in this country offers a high school diploma by examination. The exam is called the "General Education Development" test. It is offered to everyone and is even accepted for college entrance!

Abby, this may not be news to you, but it was news to me, and I'm sure there are thousands, maybe millions of people who have never heard of it. After kicking myself for five years for having dropped out of high school, I learned about G.E.D. from a friend. Exactly three months later I had my high school diploma. I then passed my college entrance exams and I'm now going to college.

I am very grateful to the person who told me about G.E.D., and I'm sure your readers will be grateful to you if you pass on this information to them.

SACRAMENTO READER

DEAR READER: Thanks for a helpful tip. Anyone interested in obtaining a high school diploma may call any high school in his community for the necessary information. Or write to: General Education Development Testing Service, American Council on Education, 1 Dupont Circle N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

DEAR ABBY: Recently our family stayed in a very nice motel overnight, and we ordered food from room service. Before checking out, my mom insisted on washing the dishes. I say that we paid for the room and that includes any dishes we dirtied when we ordered from room service. Who is right?

JUDY IN AZUSA

DEAR JUDY: Your mom is a super-neat lady in every sense of the word, but motel guests are not expected to wash their own dishes.

DEAR ABBY: My son who is getting married soon informed me today that my husband and I are not invited to the wedding breakfast to be given by the bride's parents. The reason (we are told) is that costs must be kept to a minimum. My two other children, a boy and a girl, will both be attending, as they are in the wedding party.

My son also informed me that as the groom's parents we are responsible for the rehearsal dinner, and we must include the bride's parents. What is your opinion of this? Are we wrong to feel slighted? Or should we accept the fact that as the groom's parents we can expect to be left out of the picture?

Please hurry your answer. I need your advice.

HURT IN CLEVELAND

DEAR HURT: The parents of the groom should be included in all the wedding festivities, just as the parents of the bride should be. If the bride's parents are not aware that this is so, they should be so informed.

Do you wish you had more friends? Get Abby's booklet, "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby, Popularity, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

4 Cubans Homesick

EL PASO, Texas (AP)—Four of 60 Cuban refugees remained isolated from the rest of the group today because they want to go back to their homeland, a physician says.

Dr. Pedro Ortega, who fled Cuba in 1960, was called by Immigration and Naturalization Service authorities to examine the Cubans sent here Sunday from Fort Chaffee, Ark.

He said the Cuban government forced the half dozen persons to come to this country, and they want to go back.

The other refugees apparently did not want the smaller group to talk about how much they missed home, Ortega said, so they asked that the six be separated to ease tensions.

Ortega said two of the six returned Monday to the main Cuban population at the service processing center here.

Cable Bribery Scheme Foiled

DALLAS (AP)—Police have accused a 35-year-old accountant of trying to solicit a $250,000 bribe from a cable television company in exchange for trade secrets he said could help the company win the Dallas franchise.

A spokesman for Warner Amex Cable Communications said the company called police after they received a call from a man promising inside information to help the company win the Dallas contract.

Warner Amex is one of six cable television companies competing for the Dallas franchise, estimated to be worth $200 million. A decision of the City Council is expected later this summer.

Formal charges were not immediately filed.

Police Capt. Richard Horn said the man originally sought $500,000, but later reduced it to $250,000 after several negotiating sessions on the telephone with Warner Amex.

Officers said they confiscated documents Annis carried representing work done for the city in connection with the television franchise. It was not clear how the man arrested obtained possession of the documents.

"The suspect gave more value to the papers than they actually were worth," Horn said. "As it turned out, they weren't as important as he thought."

Police said the company played along with the man, and a suspect was arrested Wednesday at a Dallas hotel where they said he went to hand over documents and receive the first installment of the payoff.

Officers arrested accountant Gary Annis of Paris and released him on $10,000 bond on investigation of theft of trade

SPCA Now Lending At Its Own Cost

It's not the sort of policy you're likely to find anywhere except at a Production Credit Association, but it surely is good news for members of the Sweetwater Production Credit Association.

As of June 1, Sweetwater PCA with offices in Stanton, Lamesa, Colorado City, Snyder, Roby and Sweetwater began lending money to its borrowers for exactly what it cost SPCA to borrow from the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Texas.

This is a first for Sweetwater PCA according to Billy Hallman, President of the organization since January 1, 1980. Sweetwater Production Credit Association had its beginning in 1934 and now has a loan volume in excess of $30 million dollars. The organization serves Andrews, Martin, Howard, Loving, Winkler, Ector, Midland, Glasscock, Dawson, Borden, Scurry, Fisher, Mitchell, Nolan and part of Kent counties.

Clyde Barrow Tombstone Missing Again

DALLAS (AP)—Thieves have carted away the tombstone from the grave of Texas outlaw Clyde Barrow for the fifth time in as many years, Dallas police reported today.

Officers said the 500-pound tombstone that serves as the grave marker for Barrow and his older brother, Marvin "Buck" Barrow, was stolen from Western Heights Cemetery. The theft was reported by Barrow's sister, Marie Barrow.

In past years, the tombstone was stolen in early October about the same time as the annual University of Texas football game played here.

Barrow and his girlfriend, Bonnie Parker, both of Dallas, were wanted for murder and numerous bank robberies in 1934 when they were shot to death in a police ambush near Arcadia, Louisiana. Barrow's older brother died following a shootout with police in Iowa about a year earlier.

46 Missing Believed To Be Volcano Victims

STEVENS, Wash. (AP)—On the day Mount St. Helens blew, Tom Gadwa "shouldn't even have been up there." Scientific curiosity got the best of Bob Kasewetter and Beverly Weatherall. Harry Truman was just too stubborn to leave.

Their stories were told Wednesday to a county coroner considering issuing presumptive death certificates for the 46 people missing since the volcano erupted May 18.

Such certificates would be needed for probate of estates and payment of life insurance policies. Friends and relatives of seven of the missing appeared Wednesday, and at least seven more of the missing will be discussed when hearings resume Monday.

Melvin Kasewetter, who has not seen his son and prospective daughter-in-law since the night before the eruption, said he and his wife had come "to relieve our minds more than anything else, to get some sort of confirmation that he's really dead."

"I'd like to go up there right now and look for him but I don't think they'd let me," he said.

Bob Kasewetter and Ms. Weatherall, both chemists for Portland General Electric Co., had permits from the U.S. Geological Survey to remain close to the mountain to conduct their own geological studies.

"They were going to get married this month," said Kasewetter.

He said he last saw the couple when cabin owners went into the area to check their property and remove some possessions. The cabins were located at the north foot of the mountain. Kasewetter said he understands the area is under 100 feet of mud and debris now.

Melvin Kasewetter also talked to Truman, a cantankerous 84-year-old who won national attention when he scoffed at fears of an eruption and refused to leave the mountain lodge where he had lived for 50 years. Truman has not been seen since the blast.

"We mailed his last letters," Kasewetter said. Donald Crick spent three days looking for Gadwa, his son-in-law, who was spending the fateful weekend as a timber cutter to help Crick. That weekend, the volcano blew with the force of an atomic bomb, toppling acres of trees and sending hot mud coursing down the mountainside. It was the first volcanic eruption in the contiguous United States in 60 years.

"He was just helping out. He shouldn't even have been up there," said Crick. "He had a very good family life. He had a 6-year-old son he wouldn't have left for the world."

He said the only traces of Gadwa and another employee, Wally Bowers, were some pieces of Gadwa's pickup blown apart and carried two miles downstream by floodwaters.

"I believe he'd dead," Dennis Bowers said of his brother.

"There's no way a person could have survived up there."

Crick swore he would return and find the bodies. "I figure we've got to have something to bury," he said.

Testimony Heard On Elderly Abuse

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Bad breath possibility

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR LAMB I'm writing in regards to your columns about bad breath. I suffered for years with this problem and nothing could help me. Finally, I started eliminating certain things I ate and to my amazement, I found out that vitamins with iron were the cause of my bad breath. Whether this information will help anyone else or not I don't know but I wanted to pass it along in case it would I can't believe I'm rid of that horrible problem that caused me so much concern.

DEAR READER — Thank you for your helpful suggestion. Many people use vitamins all the time and never develop bad breath from them. However, I have received more than one letter raising the point that vitamins may have been associated with bad breath. I suppose this could happen if the chemicals in the vitamins or the particular vitamin preparation you were using are carried in the bloodstream and eliminated through the lungs, just as alcohol in the blood gives an alcohol odor to the breath when a person exhales.

In any case, people who have unexplained bad breath might want to eliminate vitamin tablets to see if it helps in their particular situation or not. Meanwhile, I'm sending you The Health Letter number 9-4, Halitosis: The Breath Problem and What to Do about It. You may be able to use the information in it to help other people. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR LAMB — We hear constantly that calories consumed in the evening all go to fat. Does the body actually convert calories to fat that quickly or does it keep them in suspension for a period of 24 or 36 hours to see if they're needed for physical activity? Does it really make any difference when in the 24-hour period food is consumed?

DEAR READER — Calories are a lot like cash in a checking account. The balance in your checking account doesn't depend on what time of day, week or month you deposit your money. Similarly, the balance in your fat deposits doesn't depend on what time of day or week you deposit the excess calories. A dollar is a dollar whether it's morning or afternoon (but if inflation gets any worse, that may change). A calorie is a unit of energy and it's the same amount of energy in the morning, at noon, in the evening and even at midnight. There is a tendency for people who eat big evening meals to be fat but that's because of the total number of calories they eat. People with such eating patterns sometimes tend to eat more calories than those who tend to eat lighter evening meals.

Sugars and starch are rapidly absorbed into the blood. Fat is also absorbed within a few hours. These and the amino acids from protein are all found in solution in your body fluids. Your cells draw from this mixed pool for energy or to store fat. So it is possible for the excess calories that you eat to be converted to fat rather quickly.

WASHINGTON (AP)— "She told me I was senile and paranoid and my brain was all shriveled up."

The 79-year-old Massachusetts grandmother identified only as "Mrs. X," told a House committee Wednesday that her 44-year-old daughter also abused her in other ways.

"Kicking me, pushing me, grappling with me, telling me to get out, at one time throwing a drawer down the stairs at me, calling me names, telling me I belonged in a nursing home and why didn't I go to one."

It was testimony like that that prompted two influential members of the House Select Committee on Aging to vote to gain passage of legislation that would help protect older Americans from abuse and exploitation by relatives and guardians.

William Jones, 86, of Washington, D.C., told how his son exhausted his bank account and otherwise mistreated him. "I had only one meal a day, and that was greens, turkey wings or noodles with maggots," he said.

Jones and Mrs. X eventually went to adult protective service workers to seek help. Mrs. X obtained a court order to keep her daughter from abusing her.

Delores Roberts, an adult protective service worker who accompanied Jones to the hearing said the man's son had "threatened to put embalming fluid in his food" if he sought help.

Mrs. Roberts told the committee "you would not believe the horror she has seen in visiting homes to help the elderly."

"I saw an 84-year-old woman who was sexually abused by her son-in-law for six years. There was an old man lying on a bed that had springs through the mattress. The bed was so infested with fleas that it looked like a beehive."

The committee chairman, Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., estimated at the hearing that up to 2.5 million cases of maltreatment of the old occur each year.

However, he said many abuses aren't reported to police because of fear, embarrassment or loyalty to the people — often their own children — who committed the violence. Pepper, 79, said abuses inflicted on the elderly include beating, rape, withholding medication or food, verbal assaults, robbery and forcing oldsters out of their homes or tricking them into nursing homes against their will.

Rep. Mary Rose Oakar,

D-Ohio, said it is a "most serious national problem" that needs a legislative solution.

She introduced a bill with Pepper that would provide protective services and legal recourse for the abused elderly. It would offer protection similar to that now furnished to children under 18 who suffer abuse.

The new legislation, called the "Adult Abuse Prevention and Treatment Act," would create a National Center on Adult Abuse to fight abuse, neglect and exploitation of the elderly, women and the mentally and physically handicapped.

It would also set in motion federal aid for states to operate adult abuse prevention programs.

Police Raid Carrot Patch

DALLAS (AP)—Dallas police, armed with a search warrant, swooped down on a garden in southeast Dallas this week, preparing to raid some growing marijuana.

What a young police officer signed and believed was marijuana growing amidst the onions and cabbages in the garden turned out to be carrots. The police were as surprised to discover the carrots as the residents were to find that police wanted to raid their garden.

Between laughs, a superior of the young police officer said the officer is getting some additional training in how to recognize marijuana plants.

Officers didn't pull up all the carrots, just enough to be sure what they were.

The owners of the garden didn't appear to be overly upset by the mistaken identity and the raid, police said.

"I heard that the people had a hard time staying on their feet because they were laughing so hard," a police spokesman said.

Funeral Robber Gets 985 Years

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Mourners at the wake said Ronald Palmer threatened to shoot the corpse if they didn't give him their cash and valuables. The defense said he was insane. The judge said 985 years. Broward Circuit Judge Mel Grossman considered the crime so bizarre, he ruled he personally must approve Palmer's parole petitions for the next 328 years. Palmer, 25, won't be eligible for parole for 42 years. I thought it (the sentence) was appropriate in this case. Grossman said Tuesday, ignoring the pleas of Palmer's family that Palmer be given psychiatric help. Assistant State Attorney William Dimitrouleas said the long-term consequences of the robbery were drastic, though no one was directly hurt. Palmer, who said he didn't remember the robbery, pleaded innocent by reason of insanity. Two victims had heart attacks, Dimitrouleas said, and several victims feel that these people died as a result of Mr. Palmer's actions.

The Oakland Park man was convicted of robbing about 20 mourners at the Aley Memorial Funeral Home in the Fort Lauderdale suburb of Oakland Park on July 26 during a wake for Zelma Brownell. A jury found him guilty Tuesday night of 13 counts of armed robbery, aggravated assault, possession of a concealed weapon and possession of a firearm during a robbery. There was no immediate word on whether Palmer a mechanism to escape prosecution—this is the real thing," assistant public defender Kendall Phillips said of the insanity plea. "It happened because of problems—problems that are deep-rooted."

However, four court-appointed doctors said Palmer was competent when they examined him and probably was competent during the robbery. Palmer's family testified about "strange" things he had done in the past. His older brother, Steve, said Ronald once set a field ablaze, then frantically and falsely reported a sister was burning in the fire. Another time, he said Ronald brought him a glass of urine when he asked for water.

To remove rust from scissors, let them stand in ammonia for a few minutes and then wipe them off with a paper towel.

Navy Family Seeks Aid In Form Of Food Stamps

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Navy Petty Officer Paul Fineberg, his uniform still crisply creased despite the muggy heat, sat at a kitchen table and tried to explain why he is applying for food stamps. "We can't really live on my salary. We have one child and another on the way. I've got to pay the bills." Fineberg's wife, Monica, fanned herself and nodded agreement to her husband's lament. "If we're lucky, sometimes we can afford to go out to Burger King," she said with a short laugh. The new baby will, ironically, ease the Finebergs' money pinch by making the family eligible for food stamps. Department of Defense and Navy spokesmen in Washington readily concede that a growing number of servicemen and women, probably numbering in the thousands, must rely on food stamps to supplement government-paid incomes battered by inflation. "It makes me feel like I'm on welfare or something. But we need the extra $50 food stamps will give us," said Mrs. Fineberg, whose child is due any day. Their son, Brad, is 2. Her husband, home for lunch, added, "There's only so much reimbursement you can accept in the form of pride. It isn't putting food on the table." Fineberg has applied for officers' training school. Failing that, he will not re-enlist for a third hitch because of the low pay, he said. And many of his fellow "career men" feel the same way, he added. Navy command has urged sailors to use food stamps, he said, "and more of us are doing it." Major Erik Opsahl, a Department of Defense spokesman, said of the roughly 2 million men and women in the armed forces, about 62 thousand are "potentially eligible for food stamps."

The Pentagon doesn't know exactly how many are using the federal program now, he said, but they appear to number in the thousands. Opsahl said it was impossible to say at what income a serviceman qualified for food stamps. "That depends on other factors," such as the number of dependents and other sources of income, he said. Last year, about $2.2 million in food stamps were redeemed in Navy commissaries alone.

Candidates' Stand-Ins Square-Off

squared off today on economic issues in the final round of hearings to shape the Democratic party's 1980 platform.

The two candidates are backing sharply different solutions for the nation's economic ills of high inflation, rising unemployment and a deepening recession.

Kennedy supports a $12 billion spending program to curb the recession and create jobs, while advocating mandatory wage and price controls to cope with inflation.

Carter so far has warned against anti-recession spending, saying it would worsen the fight against inflation, which has been the chief focus of his economic policies. He strongly opposes mandatory controls as unworkable and disruptive.

However, Carter has indicated some flexibility in his policies in recent weeks as the recession has worsened. He told the nation's mayors in Seattle Tuesday that if the recession continues to deepen "we will take other steps which may be necessary."

Carter had admitted surprise that the recession is worse than expected. Administration economists say the downturn will make it impossible for Carter to deliver on his March 14 commitment to balance the budget in 1981.

Whatever position Carter takes on economic issues, they are likely to dominate in the preparation of the party's platform even among those members of the platform committee who may question his stand.

Carter has rolled up substantially more delegates than he needs to win the party nomination, and the platform is traditionally written to reflect the views and priorities of the party's presidential nominee.

Also likely to be debated at the platform hearings are the party's position on defense spending, Middle East peace negotiations, relations with the Soviet Union, human rights, abortion rights, gay rights, draft registra-

Snyderite Graduates At Baylor

David Bradley Vaughan, son of Mr. and Mrs. L.T. Vaughan of 2909 34th St. graduated Magna cum laude from Baylor University May 16. Vaughan's overall grade point average was 3.87 from a possible 4.00.

Because of his academic achievement, he was elected by the music faculty to be one of five students initiated into Gamma Tau, the Baylor chapter of Pi Kappa Lambda, a national music honor society. He received the Bachelor of Music Degree in Piano Performance. Vaughan has been on the dean's honor list three semesters and was of the dean's distinguished honor list two semesters.

tion which Carter supports and Kennedy opposes—and energy issues.

Carter was represented at the hearings by Stuart Eizenstat, his chief domestic adviser, and Zbigniew Brzezinski, his national security adviser.

Kennedy's representative was Peter Edelman, his chief issues adviser. Edelman told a reporter Wednesday he hopes there won't be a great deal of argument on the shape of the platform, but added, "There obviously is a lot more we have to see before we're clear just how much room there is for agreement on various of these matters."

Sweetwater Savings To Change Name

Sweetwater Savings and Loan Association, an applicant for a branch in Snyder, has received approval for a name change and for an additional location in Abilene, according to Watson Moore, vice president.

No decision has been announced, however, on the firm's request for a Snyder branch. It was reported that the hearing officer who conducted the hearing several weeks ago has been ill and that final action on the application for a branch in Snyder has been delayed until he returns to duty.

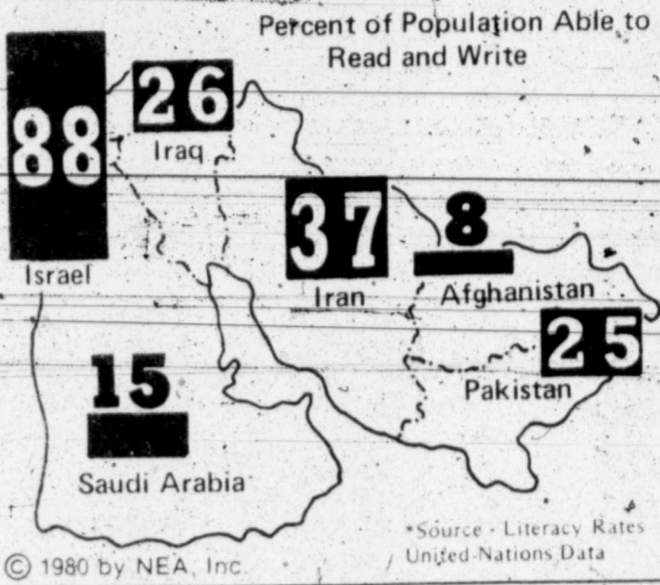

Beginning July 1, Sweetwater Savings and Loan will officially become Homestate Savings Association. The State Savings and Loan Department approved the name change recently.

Speaker's Race More Intense

AUSTIN (AP)—The numbers game in the 1981 House speaker's race grew more intense Wednesday, with Rep. Gib Lewis claiming victory and Rep. John Bryant accusing him of deception.

"The race to succeed Bill Clayton is over," said Lewis as he laid out a list of 92 House members and candidates he said had pledged their support to him in writing.

"I am confident I am going to be elected speaker," Bryant said a couple of hours later.

Lewis, D-Fort Worth, is running only as a second choice to Speaker Bill Clayton, who might abandon his quest for an unprecedented fourth term.

Bryant, however, is running for speaker against all comers, including Clayton.

Clayton said Wednesday he expected to be indicted in the FBI's Bribe investigation and was giving himself until "early fall" or "before it gets too cold" to be acquitted. Without such vindication, he said, he would quit the speaker's race.

The House elects the speaker on the opening day of a regular legislative session—in this case, January 1981—and it takes 76 votes to win if everybody is present.

Bryant said Lewis' list was full of soft spots and accused him of "deception" and a "less than honest manipulation of House members and facts and figures."

For one thing, Bryant said, Lewis included 15 Republicans whose chance of election is poor because they are running against Democrat incumbents in traditionally Democratic districts.

Another 33 names are legislators or incumbents who have opponents in November, including seven Republican legislators targeted by the Democratic Party for defeat in November, he said.

Bryant said five are "pledged to me or someone else or uncommitted," including Rep. Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale, who had been scheduled to endorse Bryant at a Wednesday morning news conference.

Kubiak later issued a statement saying he was committed to Lewis. He said he signed pledge cards for both Lewis and Bryant because "I think the pledge card system is a farce."

Others who Bryant said were uncommitted or pledged to others are Reps. George Pierce, D-San Antonio, and Charles Finell, D-Holliday, and Candidates Larry Broder of Shepherd and Dave London of Leonard.

Bryant also charged that eight persons named by Lewis were "stamped" into signing on by Lewis' claim to have 90 pledges.

They are, he said, Reps. Bob Simpson, D-Amarillo; Bo Crawford, D-Beaumont; Frank Gaston, R-Dallas; Al Edwards, D-Houston, and Frank Tejeda, D-San Antonio; and candidates Dee Miller, Amarillo; John Gavin, Wichita Falls; and Bruce Gibson, Godley.

When only legislators and candidates who likely will be sitting in the 1981 House are counted, Bryant said, Lewis has about 62 solid pledges and Bryant has about 65.

He said it was "flat appalling" that Clayton was present for Lewis' news conference and called Lewis Clayton's "chosen successor." He said it was "very cynical" for Lewis to stage a "blitz" on the eve of Clayton's expected indictment.

Armstrong Plans To Lead Followers From U.S.

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A blueprint for mass emigration of Worldwide Church of God followers to a foreign land allegedly has been drawn up by controversial evangelist Herbert W. Armstrong, a former employee said. The plan parallels the emigration of the Rev. Jim Jones and his People's Temple followers to Jonestown, Guyana, Tulsan David Robinson alleged. But Robinson said it may be some time before full details of what he knows about the plan on Armstrong's operation are revealed. He said he expects a court gag order soon will bar him from discussing the church or its founder.

Robinson, a 57-year-old former Worldwide minister, has written a book about Armstrong and the California-based evangelical group. The book has become the center of a $2 million lawsuit involving conflict between freedom of speech and freedom of religion.

Five thousand copies of "Herbert W. Armstrong's Tangled Web" are stored in a Kansas City, Mo., warehouse following a June 2 restraining order signed by District Judge William Means preventing the book's distribution. Means granted the temporary injunction after two Worldwide Church members filed the lawsuit against Robinson, claiming publication of the book interferes with their freedom of religion.

Means was to have presided over another hearing on the matter Tuesday, but legal maneuverings have put it in another judge's courtroom Friday for a decision on whether Means' restraining order should be lifted.

Meanwhile, Robinson said he fears Worldwide Church members are being "led into cultism" by Armstrong. Robinson alleged the 87-year-old church leader has drawn up plans to evacuate his followers to Petra, a small community in Jordan, to "await the end of the world."

Robinson said Armstrong is looked upon by his followers as a God. He said followers are being taught Armstrong is infallible and he said "they have gotten a lot of people ready to leave the country now."

Robinson said he has no quarrel with the membership of the Worldwide Church, but alleges "it is the leadership which has jumped the track into cultism, just like Jim Jones did." Jones and his People's Temple followers died in a ritualistic mass suicide. The lawsuit was filed by Washington, D.C. Worldwide minister Sherwin McMichael and Phoenix, Ariz., associate Henry Cornwall. The suit claims Robinson's allegations, both "true and false" against Armstrong, were intended to intrude on their private affairs and religious beliefs, jeopardizing church members' freedom of religion.

The production of steel from scrap metal requires 74 percent less energy than the production of steel from iron ore, so that 1,000 tons of recycled steel save the energy equivalent of 140,000 gallons of gasoline, according to National Geographic.

Richard Snaps Cubs, Record At Houston

HOUSTON (AP)—Chicago third baseman Lenny Randle definitely has headaches when it comes to batting against 6-8 Houston right-hander J.R. Richard.

He starts out throwing Alka-Seltzers and ends up throwing Anacins," said Randle following the Astro's 3-0 win over the Cubs Wednesday night — their eighth straight win.

Cage Clinic Alters Times

Little Tiger Basketball Clinic, scheduled for two one-week sessions this month, has announced a time change for the June 16-20 session.

The former time (9:30 noon and 1-2:30 p.m.) has been altered to 8 a.m. through noon each day of the session.

Registration for the week session will be held 8:30 a.m. June 16 at Snyder Junior High School Gymnasium. The fee is $40 and includes individual and group instruction, scrimmages, a clinic T-shirt and insurance. Boys ages 9-13 are eligible to attend the morning clinic.

Director of the clinic is SHS basketball coach George Byerly.

Although not as overpowering as on some occasions, Richard, now 8-3, kept the Astros solidly atop the National League West with a six-hit shutout. Combined with the Mets' 6-2 win over Los Angeles, Houston opened up a 1½-game lead over the Dodgers.

Richard struck out only eight and walked three, but established club records of 31 and a third consecutive scoreless innings and three straight shutouts.

Even so, Richard said "I got a little lucky out there. I got behind on a lot of guys."

Catcher Alan Ashby, who singled and scored the Astros' final run in the second inning, confirmed Richard wasn't as sharp as he has been, "but he had great stuff for most people."

Manager Bill Virdon and Cubs skipper Preston Gomez agreed "he struggled a little."

Gomez said, "He's had better stuff, but he still intimidates you."

Virdon, who admitted he was keeping a close eye on the towering Richard at times and, in fact, had two relievers warming up in the eighth, said "but he's learned to cope with his erratic spells. He doesn't fight it as much. That's the difference in him now and in the past."

In breaking the previous club mark of 29 shutout innings pitched set by the late Don Wilson in 1967, Richard lowered his earned run average to 1.50.

Brewers Soak Texas; Oglivie Zap Keys It

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Not many hitters through the years have figured out how to handle Sparky Lyle's tantalizing sliders, but Ben Oglivie is an exception.

Oglivie, who won a game with a towering homer off Lyle last August, clubbed a three-run homer — his 15th this season — off the Texas relief ace in the Milwaukee eighth inning Wednesday night to clinch a 7-1 Brewers victory over the Rangers.

Sixto Lezcano, whose batting average had dipped to .225, drove in three runs earlier with a pair of homers, and third baseman Sal Bando contributed two superb defensive plays to back the five-hit pitching of Larry Sorensen, 6-4, who has won four of his last five decisions.

Cecil Cooper led off the Brewers' eighth inning with a single, extending his hitting streak to 20 consecutive games and chasing loser Jon Matlack 3-3.

That brought up Gorman Thomas to face side-arming relief pitcher Bob Babcock, and Thomas suggested to Brewers Manager George Bamberger a bunt.

"I thought, yeah, if the infielders are all playing back, if they give him the bunt, take it," Bamberger said. "Otherwise, I want him to swing away. If Gorman bunts Cooper to second, they walk Oglivie, and I want Oglivie to swing away, the way he's been hitting the ball."

Leaves Stepien Fuming... Albeck Coaching Spurs

CLEVELAND (AP)—Stan Albeck's decision to quit as head coach of the Cleveland Cavaliers has team President Ted Stepien fuming, but Bill Musselman is happy as a lark.

Albeck announced his plans to accept the head coaching job with the San Antonio Spurs on Wednesday, after he had previously signed a three-year pact with the Cavaliers. It was revealed at a press conference in San Antonio, however, that previous Cavaliers President Nick Mileti had released Albeck from that pact.

"That stinks," said Stepien, who recently became the Cavaliers' major owner. "That stinks to me, the city and the fans."

"Why didn't Nick tell me?" He brought up all the other contracts at the board meeting, but never mentioned Albeck. Why did they go through this charade?"

Musselman, a former coach in the American Basketball Association and at the University of Minnesota, has been elevated to the head coaching job in Cleveland.

Stepien and Albeck had been at odds since Stepien purchased a 37 percent interest in the club in April. After that purchase but before Stepien had been named team president, Albeck signed the three-year deal with the team's previous management, headed by Mileti.

Stepien immediately made it known he would have preferred to sign Albeck to a one-year contract, getting the relationship off to a bad start from which it has not recovered.

Stepien, a Cleveland businessman, said he still wants to see Albeck's release from Mileti in writing.

"Stan had a good relationship with Mileti," said Albeck's attorney, Armond Arnsen. "But unfortunately, the new owner made it untenable for him. He (Stepien) said to West Coast writers that Bill Musselman would be the coach within six months. There is no way Stan could work under those conditions."

Stepien denied ever making such a comment, and as late as Wednesday morning, insisted Albeck was still the Cavaliers' coach. But after a morning meeting with Stepien, Albeck took off for San Antonio and the announcement came that he would be the next Spurs coach.

"If Ted had a say, Stan wouldn't be here now," Spurs President Angelo Drossos said in introducing Albeck to the Texas media. "The agreement (with Albeck) was made Thursday of last week."

Albeck's three-year agreement with San Antonio reportedly calls for $100,000 a year.

Wrestling Tonight At Coliseum, 8:30

Wrestling returns to Scurry County Coliseum tonight with El Halcon battling Professor Toro Tanaka in the feature event.

Tickets for the 8:30 start are $4.50 ringside, $3.50 general admission and $2 for children ages 3-11.

The masked El Halcon is a national hero from Mexico who has a large fan following where ever he appears. He is the former American champion.

He will be pitted against one of manager J.J. Dillon's "Asian Army" trio, Toro Tanaka, a professor in the art of karate and judo.

The second main event features Mr. Hito against masked sensation Sweet Sugar Brown, followed by Mr. Sagaruda against Gary Young.

Jonathan Boyd takes on Tommy Yates in the opening match.

Watson Picked Open Favorite

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (AP)—Tom Watson says he's ready for the U.S. Open championship, the one golf title he wants to win more than any other in the world.

Watson, the most outstanding golfer in the game the last three years, went into today's opening round of the 80th Open at Baltusrol Golf Club as the favorite among the field of 156.

The entries include Jack Nicklaus, who won the Open here in 1967, two-time Open winner Lee Trevino, defending titleholder Hale Irwin and Seve Ballesteros, the Masters champion from Spain.

"I put a lot of pressure on myself," said Watson, winner of five tournaments this year and the leading money-winner at $359,525. "I can't treat the Open as just another golf tournament because I don't see it that way."

"It's the Super Bowl, the NBA's championship and the Rose Bowl. It's impossible to say, 'It's just another golf tournament,' because it isn't."

Watson teed off today in the 16th threesome over the historic Lower Course at Baltusrol, a demanding and long par 70 that plays between 7,013 to 7,076 yards, depending on the tee placements.

Most of the players believe that even par 280 would be a good score during the four rounds, with Watson, Trevino and Nicklaus, among others, saying that one or two below par should win the $55,000 first prize in the $350,000 tournament.

The field includes 138 professionals and 18 amateurs. Among them are 10 former Open champions, including three-time winner Nicklaus and two-time winners Trevino and Irwin.

Most players agree that Baltusrol rewards accuracy from the tee, combined with length and pinpoint putting.

This weekend, starting with a twilight double-header Friday, Martin will be thinking about how to beat the Yankees.

More than 100,000 are expected to be at Oakland Coliseum during the three days and Saturday's game will be a national television offering. The following weekend, the A's will visit Yankee Stadium and the crowds will be even bigger.

Martin said last week he didn't expect to participate in the Yankees' annual Old Timers game June 21, explaining: "I guess I feel the way I do because of the way I was fired and everything."

But he said early this week, when asked if he'd put on his old Yankee uniform No. 1, "I haven't decided yet."

Martin added: "I don't have any hate in me. Besides, George set me

MERCANTILE BUILDING—Early Settlers returning to Fluvanna this weekend for its every-five-year homecoming will remember the mercantile building. Founded in 1915 by D.A. Jones and John S. Staveland, the store handled general merchandise freighted in by the Roscoe Snyder and Pacific Railroad. During the depression of the 1930s bartering was common. Local people traded cream, eggs, etc. for "store bought" supplies. (SDN Staff Photo)

Months Go Into Planning Of Tea

Plans have been under way for many months for the second Early Settlers Tea to be held at the home of Mrs. Edith Whalley McKanna at Fluvanna Friday. Special guests will be the senior residents of Fluvanna and the area who will be referred to during the tea as old settlers.

General chairman for arrangements has been Maybelle Ainsworth. She has been assisted by Mrs. McKanna and many other residents at Fluvanna.

In charge of the invitation committee is Opal Beaver, assisted by Lynda Beaver, Shirley Jones, Mrs. Ainsworth, Ina Lou Smith and Esma Kingston. Azlee Reeder is chairman of the refreshments committee; Marge Mathis, publicity; Lynda Beaver, square dance arrangements; parking cars, Joe Thell Belew, Weldon Lloyd, Bob Daugherty, and Max Jones.

Mrs. Ainsworth will register guests at the door while those greeting callers will be Rosa McDonald, Pañch McDonald, Leo Beaver and Burl Belew.

Other hostesses assisting Mrs. McKanna at the tea are Virginia Belew, Margaret Drum, Jacqueline Wills, Jo Landrum, Nelva Jones, Shirley Jones, Carolyn Reeder, Lanette Patterson, Mary Ellen Keith, Nanette Belew, Sue Lloyd, Carla Jones, Beth Jones, Donelle Hensley, and Nell Stimson.

FLUVANNA

(Continued From Page 1) grounds which are punctuated here and there with fountains, statuary and an occasional giant seashell housing a fern or a dracena. Flowers and attractive ground cover abound where flagstone terraces and walks give way to elevated lawns to the north and the south.

Curving driveways wind in and around the house itself and the guest areas. On the grounds may be seen giant planters of philodendron, masses of iris along retaining walls, honeysuckles climbing over high walls which protect the home from West Texas winds.

When guests arrive for the Old Settlers Tea, they will be invited into the home through the living room and library and into the formal dining room where they will be served from a carefully appointed table. For those who would enjoy visiting outside on the patios, hostesses will serve old-fashioned tea cakes and a lemonade from the back of an early day chuck wagon. Square dancers will entertain during the afternoon and a live western fiddle band will be offering country music as old friends renew acquaintances.

Organ and piano music will be offered inside the house during the party hours.

Housing Bill Action Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—A housing discrimination bill President Carter calls "perhaps the most important civil rights bill" in a decade is headed for an uncertain fate in the House after surviving by the margin of a single last-minute vote switch—an attempt to kill its main provision.

House leaders scheduled final action on the bill today.

The measure passed a major test Wednesday when Rep. Joseph Gaydos, D-Pa., switched his vote from "no" to "yes" after the time given members to vote had expired.
