Reports indicate...

U.S. troops returning to positions

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Some U.S. troops have moved back to old positions they had abandoned deep inside Iraq, a senior U.S. military official said today.

However, the official, Marine Brig. Gen. Richard I. Neal, denied a report that the move was designed to pressure Iraq into signing a permanent cease-fire agreement.

"There are other ways to send signals," Neal said.

Neal was responding to a report in today's editions of the Los Angeles Times that elements of the 101st Airborne and the 1st Cavalry Army divisions are reoccupying their most advanced positions in the Euphrates River valley.

The Times quoted Neal as saying, "The purpose is to maintain a presence until the cease-fire is agreed to." It said the United States hopes to prod Iraq into agreeing to a permanent cease-fire.

In an interview with The Associated Press today, Neal confirmed that elements of the two divisions were told to reoccupy advanced positions. He said they moved back on Wednesday.

But Neal said the commander of allied forces in the region, Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, had ordered the move only because he believed that allied air forces were not doing a good enough job of controlling the territory.

Neal said commanding officers of the 101st and 1st Air Cavalry units had previously taken "a loose interpretation" of Schwarzkopf's orders and withdrawn ground forces from their most northern positions.

The officers thought they could cover the area well enough by helicopter reconnaissance, Neal said, but when Schwarzkopf learned what they had done, he ordered the troops sent back.

"He said 'No, I want you on the ground up there, not covering it by flying over it periodically,'" Neal said. He said Schwarzkopf "wanted them at those positions that they were at prior to the cessation of hostilities."

He had no estimate of how far back the U.S. troops had moved before Schwarzkopf ordered them back to their old positions.

Neal insisted that the reoccupation of the old positions was not intended to pressure Saddam to quickly sign the cease-fire. "I had nothing to do with that," he said.

City monitoring gasoline found beneath station

The City of Snyder is waiting to hear from the Texas Water Commission concerning the discovery of refined gasoline 35 feet below the former Texaco service station on the southwest corner of 37th St. and College Ave.

Officials have said that the gasoline has been pure enough to run in lawn mowers.

"At this point, we're taking daily test reports as we were directed and are waiting to hear from the Texas Water Commission," said City Manager John Gayle.

A test well installed at the site by Petro-Global Consultants revealed the gasoline's presence. The city has been bailing and recording the product since Feb. 21. A city employee said that the product samples were almost 100 percent pure gasoline at that time, but as the days passed, more and more water was present. On March 2, the product was 80 percent water. On Thursday of this week, however, the product was 100 percent gasoline.

The test well was originally installed not to monitor for gasoline, but for oil. The city purchased the station from Pride Petroleum in December of 1990. It had Echo Pump Co. of San Angelo remove the two gasoline holding tanks. Gasoline residue was discovered below the tanks, and the dirt was removed until tests at the Lubbock Christian University laboratory indicated acceptable levels.

Also removed was a 500-gallon waste oil storage tank behind the station. Oil was found under the tank, which prompted city officials to contact Petro-Global to perform the cleanup.

Petro-Global installed the (see GASOLINE, page 8)

Parade set tentatively for May 18

May 18, Armed Forces Day, has been tentatively selected by the Operation Storm support group as the date for a parade honoring Scurry County servicemen and women.

The date and route details are subject to approval by the city.

The support group is asking for input from groups and organizations which would like to participate in the parade so that it can get a better estimate of the planning involved.

For details and "sign up" information, contact Kay Abrahams at 573-9659 or Jeanie Pilgrim at 573-9052.

On March 28, the group will host Debbie McKessey from the Veterans Clinic in Midland, who will speak on "The Return of Soldiers: What to Expect."

Building permits reflect positive sign for Snyder

Building permits for the month of February reflect $332,500 in construction, indicating a positive sign for the city.

New additions to Y-Z Industries make up more than half of the amount.

Permits have reflected a total of $710,267 in construction for the current fiscal year, compared to $453,678 through the same period a year ago.

Snyder issued nine total building permits for the month, including those for a residence at 215 24th St., owned by Benjamin Orasco; an addition at 2710 25th St., owned by Mike Goebel; a roof at 1918 35th St., owned by the Scurry County Masonic Lodge; and an addition at 3712 Austin Ave., owned by C.W. Overhulser.

Others included an addition at St. Elizabeth Church, 3005 Ave. A; a storage building at 3402 43rd St., owned by William Blagg; a mobile home at 2408 O'Neil, owned by Gary Newman; and an addition at 2110 41st St., owned by Earnest Hollis.

The city made 75 inspections for February, including 27 plumbing, eight electrical, three each for housing and commercial building and 34 miscellaneous.

Swap meet, car show opens today in Snyder

Snyder Wheels Car Club's Early Bird Swap Meet and Car Show opened today at Scurry County Coliseum, and an estimated 2,000 people are expected to attend the three-day event.

The swap meet will be open from 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. through Sunday while the car show is scheduled for 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday.

Event organizers expect some 60 vehicles for the show in which 23 trophies in six categories will be awarded.

custom, wild custom and an open class for vehicles that are not street licensed such as race cars and boats.

Members of Snyder Wheels will judge the entries. Trophies, donated by local merchants, and door prizes for car show participants and vendors will be awarded at 7 p.m.

Also featured will be Steve Cox, a nationally known free-hand pinstriper from Abilene.

Admission to the car show is $4 for adults and $2 for children under 12. There is no admission charge for the swap meet.

Homestead exemptions will cut property taxes

Homeowners can reduce their property tax bills in 1991 by taking advantage of partial exemptions for residence homesteads. Application forms are available locally at the Scurry County Appraisal District office.

Ray Peveler, chief appraiser for the district, informs homeowners that Texas law allows them to make a single, one-time only application for residence homestead exemptions.

Property owners who have never received residence homestead exemptions on the homes in which they are living on Jan. 1, 1991, and those who became 65 or disabled during 1990, must apply this year to receive exemptions for 1991. Homeowners must file signed, completed applications at the appraisal district office by April 30.

A homeowner's principal residence and yard are considered the residence homestead. It can include up to 20 acres of land and improvements that have been made, such as a swimming pool, greenhouse or spa, as long as the owner uses them for residential purposes.

Peveler said that a property must meet four tests set by law in order to qualify for the residence homestead exemption. The person or persons claiming the exemption must own the property on Jan. 1; it must be designed or adapted for human residence; it must actually be used as a residence; and it must be the principal residence of an owner who qualifies for the exemption.

Kuwaiti treasures will be displayed

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Even the high-toned world of art museums benefits from just plain luck.

More than a hundred Islamic treasures in the Kuwait National Museum collection were saved from possible destruction or disappearance by the luck of scheduling.

And now Fort Worth's nationally renowned Kimbell Art

Museum is benefiting from another dose of luck in the time of its exhibit of the treasures.

The "Islamic Art and Patronage: Treasures from Kuwait" exhibit was shipped to the Soviet Union only days before Iraq invaded Kuwait.

"The exhibit was shipped to Leningrad on July 29, so these pieces just made it out," said Beverly Brown, curator at the Kimbell since 1990. "That is just a fluke of good fortune."

Seven months later, about 1,500 pieces housed in the Islamic wing of the Kuwait National Museum are now missing or destroyed — the victims of invaders who systematically looted the galleries and burned what they could not plunder.

"So in a sense, that makes these objects seem all the more precious because so much of the Islamic artwork was destroyed or stolen," Ms. Brown said.

The exhibit represents Muslim cultures spanning from North America and Spain to Pakistan and India.

Attorney is elected new judge

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston lawyer created quite a stir in legal circles when he used an 1876 law to get himself "elected" to a vacant judgeship and threatened to take over a felony trial from a retired judge who has been presiding in the vacant court.

Officials said that lawyer Walter Boyd used an 1876 law that lets attorneys who practice in a court elect their own judge if the governor fails to appoint someone.

Boyd got 10 attorneys to "elect" him to the vacant 208th District Court bench on Wednesday.

The court has been vacant since Jan. 3 when Judge Tom Rott died after a lengthy illness. A retired judge, William Hatten, has presided there since.

Boyd promptly put on black robes and announced he intended to replace Hatten at a trial involving injury to a child.

No jurors were present to see the performance, but it sent attorneys handling the case into a tizzy.

Prosecutor Scott Durfee called his bosses for advice. Defense lawyer Ron Mock told Boyd he'd better stop or else.

"Walter's insane," Mock said. "It's unprofessional and unethical. I can understand playing games, but not during a jury trial."

Boyd returned to the bench Thursday and announced that he'll be sworn in as judge Sunday night at a "judicial follies" where he'll parody Hatten.

Hatten has attracted attention on his own for wanting to retain his bench so badly that he filed an unsuccessful lawsuit in 1987 to keep his job when he reached the mandatory retirement age of 75.

The pieces are part of the 7,000-piece collection of Sheikh Nasser Sabah al-Ahmad al-Sabah, and his wife, the daughter of the former emir.

The display, considered one of the foremost collections of Islamic art in the world, began its five-city U.S. tour last month at Baltimore's Walter Art Gallery.

It includes 107 illustrated and illuminated manuscripts, jewelry, ceramics, glass, metalwork, textiles and rugs.

The artifacts range from the early Islamic period (622-1050) to the 18th Century, and are distinguished by the Arabic inscriptions found on many of the pieces.

"One of the kinds of things that link the pieces is the writing," Ms. Brown said. "It's as if the word itself has become as important as the object."

The plan to bring the display to North America was developed in 1988, Ms. Brown said.

But the Persian Gulf conflict caused museum officials to worry that the exhibit would open while the United States was at war. The war's quick finish, however, erased those concerns, Ms. Brown said.

"Now it's turned into a very joyous occasion, and it gives us a way to participate in the celebration," she said.

The celebration at the Kimbell Museum will run from Saturday through May 12 before moving to Atlanta, Richmond, Va., and St. Louis.

Each period covered in the exhibit is represented by a key object which exemplifies patronage and artistic development.

Among the highlights is an inlaid brass basin, made in Egypt or Syria during the first half of the 14th century. The basin has been raised from a sheet of brass, engraved, and inlaid with silver.

Girl Showered With Baby Gifts Found Fertile Soil for Growth

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1991 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: The letter you published from the office women, in conflict over whether a baby shower should be given for an unwed mother-to-be, revived a long-forgotten memory.

In 1962, I was 17 and had just graduated from high school. I had to give up two scholarships to college and take a job because I was pregnant and unmarried. In those days, most unwed mothers were sent away to have their babies, then gave them up for adoption so that no one in the family would be embarrassed. I chose to stay home and keep my baby.

I'm sure my parents were embarrassed and disappointed in me. The baby's father and I were immature, and a silly quarrel had caused our breakup. I was so depressed that I considered suicide on a daily basis.

In my seventh month of pregnancy, 30 women from my office gave me a baby shower! I can't begin to tell you how much it meant to me to have those wonderful women shower me with their good wishes and much-needed gifts. They literally saved my life and my baby's life.

That shower turned my life around. After that, I was able to hold my head up. When my son was a year old, his father and I got together and were married. Five years later, we had another son. I worked while my husband finished college, and after he graduated, I went to college and graduated in 1977. Today, our first-born is married and has a son of his own.

Abby, when I think of how close I came to ending my life, I shudder. I also thank God for those wonderful co-workers who didn't ponder whether it was proper to give a baby shower for an unmarried girl. That shower brought me out of the worst depression of my life.

Your advice was right on, Abby. Keep up the good work.

Smoke-filled air over Kuwait may cause health problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — The noxious fumes spewing from the burning oil wells of Kuwait could cause lingering health problems for American forces and Kuwaitis breathing the mucky air.

A U.S. military doctor in Kuwait said members of his unit were coughing continuously, complaining of sore throats and of nose and skin irritation from the sooty clouds blanketing the region.

Health experts say the Kuwaiti people, as well as the thousands of American troops in Kuwait and in southern Iraq, are being exposed to gases that could cause respiratory illness, stomach and skin disease, and possibly cancer.

The Bush administration was so concerned it sent a team of experts led by the Environmental Protection Agency to assess the health risks.

The group, which left for Kuwait last Saturday, is monitoring the types of gases being released into the air, their concentrations and the risk they pose to U.S. personnel, EPA spokesman John Kasper said.

The six or seven specialists will take up to three weeks to complete their measurements and will share the data with Kuwaiti officials if asked, Kasper said.

A group of senators also is heading to the region this week to study, among other things, the effects of the fires on the environment and on human health.

"Crude oil is dangerous, carcinogenic," said Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., chairman of the Senate subcommittee on environmental protection. "Prolonged exposure could lead to lung disease."

Military physicians with units in Kuwait have been warning senior commanders of the danger but feel their concerns are being ignored, one doctor said.

"They tell us, 'Let's get the job done, and the quicker we do that the sooner we can get out of here,'" said one doctor who asked that his name not be used.

He said among the petroleum-based chemicals — known as hydrocarbons — being released into the air are benzene, xylene and toluene. All are considered to carry a serious cancer risk when breathed in high concentrations, health experts say.

The soot probably reflects the presence of tar and some hydrocarbons, "which will undeniably have human carcinogens in them," said Robert Frank, a professor of environmental health sciences at Johns Hopkins University.

Such particles can be so tiny that they invade the deepest recesses of the lungs, too small to be filtered out by the nose, he said.

"The effects of such exposure can be significant even in the short term," said Marc Schenker, an expert on environmental medicine at the University of California and for the American Lung Association.

Asthma and other respiratory diseases can result from breathing the fumes, and if any of the particles land on food and are ingested by humans, they can cause stomach disturbances and other illness, Schenker said.

By James Jacoby

Is bridge a simple game? Of course not. There are so many facets to it; and I don't just mean bidding, play and defense. When you are declarer, you are busy counting your tricks, checking your losers, watching the opponents' cards and trying to count their points and suit distributions. It is tough to do everything simultaneously. And then, just when you thought it was safe to go back to the table, you run up against a hand like today's.

After this straightforward auction, West leads the heart king. How would you try to bring home three no-trump?

It looks too simple. Unless diamonds are 4-0, there are nine guaranteed winners: three spades, one heart and five diamonds. But there is a snag that is easy to overlook.

When this hand was given to a class, all Souths won the first trick with their ace of hearts, cashed the three top diamonds and then stopped dead in their tracks. When they led a fourth diamond, it was won by dummy's nine-spot. They still had the four-spot in hand as their ninth trick, but there was no way to get back to cash it. They couldn't do better than cash the top spades and concede one down.

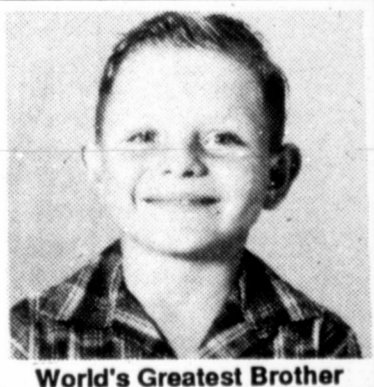

The answer is to look more closely at those diamond spots before playing to trick one. If you unblock the six, eight and nine under the ace, king and queen, you can stay in hand because the four will draw dummy's two, leaving you able to cash the three-spot.

Would you have seen the danger in time?

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books.

Tigers fall in opener

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

The Snyder Tigers were dropped from the winners' bracket in their first game of their own baseball tournament Thursday, losing to San Angelo Lake View, 6-2.

The loss sets up a Snyder-Brownfield contest at 1 p.m. today at Snyder High School.

Brownfield lost its opener, too, 13-5 to tourney favorite Frenship Thursday.

In other opening-round contests, Lamesa upset Sweetwater, 5-2, Levelland drilled Abilene Wylie, 7-0, Borger outlasted Big Spring, 6-5 in 11 innings, Andrews shut out Canyon, 4-0, and Brownwood slipped past Pecos, 6-5.

Snyder pitcher Daniel Espinosa gave up a pair of runs in a shaky first inning, walking Zach Villareal and Cory Stephens and allowing singles by Art Elkins and Raymond Rodriguez to put the Chiefs up 2-0.

Lake View added two more in the fourth before the Tigers got on the board.

SHS second-baseman Brian Crawford moved to first on an error by shortstop Elkins, followed by a single from Shelby Bufkin and a base hit by Richard Morris that pulled Snyder to within 4-2.

The Chiefs pushed two more across in the fourth and one each in the fifth and sixth while shutting down the Snyder offense.

The Tigers' top producer

Thursday was third-baseman Morris, who got on base three times, beating out an infield hit, driving a single into left and getting to first on an error.

"He's an exciting player," said coach Albert Lewis of Snyder.

"He just seems to do what it takes to get on."

"He plays good defense, and he can play anywhere. He's kind of our table-setter."

Cory Stephens of Lake View accepted the win Thursday while Snyder's Espinosa was saddled with the loss.

Terry Stephens will take the mound for the 2-10 Tigers against Brownfield today.

Lamesa 5, Sweetwater 2

The Golden Tors came up with three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to break a 2-2 tie against the Mustangs.

Lamesa's Michael Lucio was the winner and Sweetwater hurler Tim Holsey was the loser.

Sweetwater catcher Willie Norman nailed a home run his first at-bat.

Levelland 7, Wylie 0

The Lobos upset Wylie on the strength of a 5-run first inning and a 1-hit shut-out by winning pitcher Steven Ochoa.

Ochoa also rapped an RBI-double in the opening frame.

Abilene Wylie, a state quarter-finalist a season ago in Class 3A, faced Sweetwater at 11 a.m. today at SHS in the consolation bracket.

Levelland was to take on District 2-4A foe Lamesa at 10 a.m. at Moffett Field.

Frenship 13, Brownfield 5

The FHS Tigers moved to 12-3 on the season with their win Thursday.

They scored in every inning but the sixth, including the fourth when three runs tagged the dish.

First-baseman Robby Douglas and Robert Krier each hammered a homer for Frenship.

Brad Cade was the winning pitcher while the Cubs' Richard Gonzales was credited with the loss.

Frenship faced off against San Angelo Lake View at noon today at Moffett Field in the championship bracket.

Borger 6, Big Spring 5

11 innings

The Bulldogs scored five runs in the last of the fifth stanza to tie the Steers then added one more in the 11th to advance to today's 2 p.m. battle with Brownwood in the winners' bracket.

Shannon Coots was the loser for the Steers and Trent Tucker of Borger earned the win.

Big Spring's second-round contest will be against Pecos at 3 p.m. today at SHS.

Brownwood 6, Pecos 5

The Lions' Will Dillard walked to lead off the seventh inning and went to second on a free pass to teammate Brad Riker.

Dillard scored the winning run when shortstop Greg Harriss smacked a sacrifice fly to right-center field.

Jess Rathke struck out four and allowed four hits in his win for Brownwood.

Pecos' Oswaldo Hinojos fanned eight in a losing cause.

Andrews 4, Canyon 0

Staven Day whiffed 11 Canyon hitters and gave up only two hits going the distance Thursday to earn the shut-out.

Andrews, which will battle Merkel at 6 p.m. today at Moffett Field, staked Day to a 2-0 lead after an inning and added insurance runs in the sixth and seventh.

Canyon's Padilla, (no first name listed), was the game's losing pitcher.

Tarkanian looks past first round game

by The Associated Press

If Montana was a stock, Wall Street would be bearish on the Grizzlies.

After all, why back a team that has a first-round date tonight against the General Motors of college basketball, UNLV?

Jerry Tarkanian, coach of the defending national champions, certainly doesn't sound like a man interested in taking stock of Montana.

"I don't know anything about Montana," he said. "We'll get some film of them."

Tarkanian, in fact, is guilty of something coaches always preach against: looking ahead. He's upset that the Rebels, winners of 41 consecutive games, might have to play a second-round game against Georgetown, a team whose 12 losses are exceeded by only two teams in the 64-team draw.

"People have been asking me all week who I feared the most, and Georgetown was one of the two I feared," Tarkanian said.

Montana coach Stew Morrill hasn't wasted a thought on a 12-time loser. He's been consumed with the idea of facing a zero-time loser.

"I would be less than honest if I didn't say we were a bit shocked to find out we are playing the top-ranked team in the nation," Morrill said.

plays Northeastern (22-10) in the East Regional at Syracuse, N.Y., and Ohio State (25-3) opens against Towson State (19-10) in the Midwest at Dayton, Ohio.

Realistically, there's no reason for UNLV to be the least bit bothered about playing Montana. But the early rounds of the NCAA tournament are never without upsets.

Such was the case Thursday night when Richmond, seeded 15th in the East Regional, shocked No. 2 Syracuse 73-69. It was the second major upset for Richmond in an opening-round game. The Spiders of coach Dick Tarrant beat defending national champion Indiana in the 1988 opener.

East

Curtis Blair had 18 points and six assists to lead the Spiders (22-9) over Syracuse (26-6), which closed its season with first-round losses in the Big East Conference tournament and the NCAA. Richmond led throughout, but had a 10-point lead sliced to one with 32 seconds left. Eugene Burrough's two free throws with 21 seconds to go pushed it to 72-69 and Syracuse then misfired on two 3-pointers. All-American forward Billy Owens scored 22 for the Orangemen.

In other games, Byron Houston had 21 points and 17 rebounds as Oklahoma State beat New Mexico 67-54, Rodney Monroe and Chris Corchiani scored 25 points apiece in North Carolina State's 114-85 rout of Southern Mississippi, and Mik Kilgore scored 25 points as Temple eliminated Purdue, 80-63.

Southeast

Brian Shorter scored 21 of his 23 points after halftime and Sean Miller made four clutch free throws in overtime as Pitt shaded Georgia 76-68, Kansas held New Orleans without a field goal for 6½ minutes of the second half and beat the Privateers 55-49.

Douglas Edwards outscored USC's Harold Miner 24-16 and had 10 rebounds in Florida State's 75-72 victory over the Trojans, and Indiana withstood Brian Penny's 23 points in the last 10 minutes to beat Coastal Carolina 79-69 behind Eric Anderson's 22 points.

Midwest

Christian Laettner scored eight of his 22 points during a 23-6 second-half run as Duke beat Northeast Louisiana 102-73, James Moses made two free throws with 2.8 seconds left to give Iowa a 76-73 victory over East Tennessee, Brian Grant made three free throws and Michael Davenport hit a 3-pointer in the late going as Xavier beat Nebraska 89-84, and Chris Smith scored 25 points as Connecticut shackled Shaquille O'Neal for much of the game in beating LSU 79-62. O'Neal got 14 of his 27 points after the Huskies had built a 22-point lead.

West

Terry Dehere scored 26 points as Seton Hall battered Pepperdine 71-51, Chad Gallagher scored 18 points as Creighton beat cold-shooting New Mexico State 64-56, Shawn Bradley set an NCAA tournament record with 10 blocked shots in BYU's 61-48 victory over Virginia, and Matt Othick scored a career-high 25 points to pace Arizona's 93-80 victory over St. Francis, Pa.

Rebels claim Iraqi troops attacking civilians

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Kurdish rebels said today that Saddam Hussein's loyalists used warplanes and helicopter gunships to attack civilians in an effort to crush a spreading rebellion.

President Bush warned Saddam that using combat helicopters could delay a formal cease-fire in the Persian Gulf War. A U.S. newspaper reported that American troops were retaking positions they abandoned deep within Iraq, seeking to pressure Saddam.

While the troops have moved back to old positions they'd left inside Iraq, a senior U.S. officer said today this was not as a signal that Iraq should sign the permanent cease-fire.

Meanwhile, Shiite Muslim leaders accused the Iraqi president's Republican Guard soldiers of damaging some of Islam's holiest shrines during clashes in southern Iraq on Thursday.

Since the allied offensive that crushed Saddam's army in Kuwait and seized a large portion of southern Iraq, Baghdad has been struggling to maintain control over numerous insurrections.

Jalal Talabani, head of the Patriotic Union of Kurdistan, said Iraqi troops rounded up residents from government-held parts of Kirkuk and then strafed them with helicopters. He claimed hundreds of people were killed or wounded.

The rebels claims have been impossible to confirm, because no Western reporters have been able to reach the fighting in recent days.

Talabani, who spoke to The Associated Press in Damascus, Syria, also claimed that the government used warplanes to attack protesters in other parts of Kurdistan. He said Iraqi forces set four oil wells ablaze before being forced out of eastern Kirkuk, a major oil center.

He said Dohuk province bordering Turkey "has been liberated" by the rebel forces fighting for autonomy from the central government.

President Bush on Thursday cautioned Iraq against using combat helicopters to crush internal unrest. It was his second such warning in as many days.

Such action, he told a news conference on the Caribbean island of Martinique, "makes it very, very complicated" to arrange a permanent cease-fire.

The radio, "Voice of the People of Kurdistan," appealed for discipline. It asked people in rebel-held areas to obey the instructions of the Kurdistan Front in order to get public services working again. The Front is the umbrella organization of all Kurdish rebel groups.

Talks stall on implementing force cuts in Europe

MOSCOW (AP) — U.S. and Soviet negotiators are making little progress on implementing an already-signed treaty to reduce tanks and other non-nuclear weapons in Europe, Secretary of State James A. Baker III said today.

The wrangling is delaying action on another treaty to curb long-range nuclear missiles and could impact on setting a date for the next superpower summit between President Bush and Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

Baker and Soviet Foreign Minister Alexander Bessmertnykh instructed their aides Thursday to work on differences between the two countries in implementing the Conventional Forces in Europe, or CFE, agreement and report back today.

"I don't think there was very much progress ...," Baker told reporters this morning while posing for pictures with the Soviet foreign ministers. "We've got to thrash through that and straighten it out."

He said negotiators will continue working on resolving the disputes through his three-day stay here.

The treaty was signed by 22 North Atlantic Treaty Organization and Warsaw Pact nations last November. Baker told Congress last month it would not be submitted to the Senate for ratification until the disputes over its implementation are settled.

Meanwhile, Baker gave Bessmertnykh a report on his five-nation trip to the Middle East. The Bush administration is determined to have the Soviets play a role in efforts to reconcile Israel and the Arabs.

On that front, Baker's visit already is productive. He was scheduled to meet later today with Gorbachev after the morning session with Bessmertnykh, their second since Baker's arrival Thursday from Syria.

Bessmertnykh said that during talks Thursday night, the two sides found "a lot of common ground." He said both sides were eager for a settlement and had similar approaches to the problem while also having "differences, which is natural."

"We talked for two hours, devoting practically 90 percent of the time to discussing Middle Eastern issues and the gulf situation," Bessmertnykh said.

The United States, which long sought to keep the Soviet Union out of Middle East diplomacy, has promised the Kremlin a postwar role in the Middle East peace process, but has not defined what it wants that role to be.

Some Soviet military officers have voiced concern about the potential growth of American influence in the region following the victory of the U.S.-led international coalition that drove Iraqi troops out of Kuwait.

Subjects identified in theft, forgery

Local police activity from the last 24 hours included the investigation of a forgery case, a reported theft and an arrest.

At 12:57 p.m. Thursday, police were called to West-T-Go where Lea Phillips reported a forgery. A suspect was identified and the case was forwarded to the county attorney's office.

City employee Bobby Kenner reported at 3:15 p.m. the theft of a "Men Working" sign from Y-Z Industries. A report for Class B theft was filed.

A suspect was identified in the March 1 theft case reported by Snyder Cablevision. No arrest was made, however, the case was forwarded to the county attorney's office.

A 39-year-old male was arrested for driving while intoxicated at 12:39 a.m. today in the 1500 block of 27th St. He was transported to Scurry County Jail.

Police investigated a criminal mischief report at 2:03 a.m. at Huffman and College Ave. Two vehicles had been damaged at a residence.

Police investigate morning mishaps

Snyder police worked a minor accident this morning at 13th St. and College Ave.

Police were called to the accident at 6:33 a.m. where a 1980 Chevrolet driven by Ward Baze of Ira was in collision with a 1987 Ford pickup driven by Alejandro Tavarez of 2803 Ave. C.

Another morning mishap was investigated by police Thursday in the 2900 block of 37th St. at 7:49 a.m. Involved were a 1987 Chevrolet driven by Jeannie Smith of 1308 23rd St. and a 1982 Ford driven by Petra Comacho of Route 3.

Damage in both accidents was described as minor and no injuries were reported.

Germany denies letting Honecker go

BONN, Germany (AP) — Germany today denied intentionally letting former East German leader Erich Honecker flee to the Soviet Union, but acknowledged not taking immediate action to try to stop him.

Dieter Vogel, spokesman for Chancellor Helmut Kohl, rejected speculation that Kohl agreed to let Honecker leave as a part of a deal to ensure the Soviets don't renege on their promise to withdraw Red Army troops from former East Germany.

"There was never any arrangement — any discussions — that led to this. That is clearly not the case," said Vogel.

Vogel said Kohl first found out about plans to fly Honecker to the Soviet Union about an hour and a half before he left Wednesday. The Soviet ambassador in Bonn told the government that Honecker would be leaving a Red Army hospital near Berlin for medical treatment in the Soviet Union.

"It was not possible within this time to decide on a measure" to try to stop Honecker, Vogel said.

Earlier today, Germany's justice minister demanded that Moscow immediately hand over monitoring well to a depth of 45 feet. At 35 feet, the gasoline was discovered.

The consulting company advised the city to monitor the well and keep a daily log of how much product was being removed, and the ratio of gas to water.

Petro-Global then notified the Texas Water Commission of its finding.

"This is phase one of the problem," said Gayle. "Now we'll wait to hear from the TWC as to what we are to do next. Presumably, the next step is to try and find out where the gasoline is coming from."

City officials will not speculate as to the source. It is known that there are at least eight present or former filling station sites within a 1 1/2-block radius of the monitoring well, including the city-owned Texaco station.

Bill Colbert, director of public information for the Texas Water Commission, said the next step would likely be to determine the source of the gasoline.

"We would check inventory records, available records of when pumps were tested and other information and try to make a determination on where the leak, if there is a leak, is occurring," he said.

Don Smith, petroleum storage tank coordinator with the District 2 office of TWC in Lubbock, said the first step usually involves determining the extent of contamination. This might be determined by drilling several test wells, he said.

He also said the slope of the water table is frequently used to determine source flow.

Smith said he does not have a date for when the TWC would begin an area determination phase, but expected that to be within a few weeks.

Colbert confirmed that there have been many similar cases reported in Texas and the TWC is handling them on a priority basis, noting that if the product, gasoline in this case, is entering the drinking supply, the priority is much greater.

The City of Snyder receives its water through Lake J.B. Thomas and does allow any wells to be interfaced into the district's water system.

The city has spent $10,470.20 for site clean up, including $3,930.20 to Echo Pump (tank extraction and disposal), $2,790 to LCU (soil testing) and $3,750 to Petro Global (site cleanup, contamination monitoring and consultation).

Honecker. He is wanted on charges related to the deaths of East Germans who were shot while trying to flee Honecker's Communist regime.

But a newspaper quoted Honecker's lawyer as saying the former leader plans to spend the rest of his days in the Soviet Union.

The Cologne-Bonn Express newspaper also quoted the lawyer, Friedrich Wolff, as saying he believes the German investigation of the 78-year-old Honecker will be dropped.

"I am nearly convinced that the proceedings against Mr. Honecker will soon be discontinued — for a lack of substance," the lawyer reportedly said.

Asked if the former Communist leader would ever return from the Soviet Union, Wolff reportedly replied: "No, I don't count on that. He will probably spend the autumn of his life in the Soviet Union."

In Moscow, Soviet Foreign

Minister Alexander A. Bessmertnykh today defended the Soviet decision to move Honecker, saying it was medically necessary.

"It's not a visit," Bessmertnykh told reporters while posing for pictures with Secretary of State James A. Baker III.

Honecker's medical condition had deteriorated drastically in his last 48 hours in Germany, Bessmertnykh said. "He needed some medical support which that particular hospital couldn't provide, so he was brought here to be given that extra care," the foreign minister added.

Honecker's transfer to Moscow seems likely to spare him the fate of toppled Bulgarian Communist dictator Todor Zhivkov, who is on trial on corruption charges in Sofia.

Union happy with new weight policy

EULESS, Texas (AP) — American Airlines' new weight policy, which ends a 17-year battle between the flight attendants union and the Fort Worth-based carrier, is being praised by union representatives.

"This agreement represents a step in the right direction," said Cheryl Leon, president of the Association of Professional Flight Attendants on Thursday. "It is our conviction that all weight standards must be eliminated in the airline industry."

Final approval of the agreement struck between American and the union earlier in the week is still needed from U.S. District Judge Eldon Mahon of Fort Worth.

However, Ms. Leon and an American spokesman say the carrier is already using the new standards.

"Obviously, we're very pleased," said Tim Smith, a spokesman for American. "We think the settlement is a good compromise. We have said all along that we want a reasonable set of weight and appearance standards for our flight attendants."

The new policy guidelines make allowances for both male and female flight attendants. As they age, they will be allowed increases in their weight limits to continue flying.

Also, overweight flight attendants will be given more time to lose extra weight if they are over the company's required standard.

Richards objects to waste dump site

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A lawmaker's attempts to designate Fort Hancock the state's official site for a nuclear waste dump is another effort to force the dump down the throats of West Texans, an El Paso official says.

State Rep. Dan Shelley, R-Crosby, is sponsoring a bill to make Fort Hancock the state's choice for a planned low-level nuclear waste dump. The site was ruled unsuitable for storing nuclear waste by an El Paso judge earlier this year.

"This bill, which must have been generated by them (the Texas Low-Level Waste Disposal Authority) is once again illustrative of their determination to cram (the dump) down the throats of these people out here in West Texas," said Gayle Garner, El Paso County assistant attorney.

El Paso and Hudspeth counties won a lawsuit against the state that alleged the authority had picked a substandard dump site when it chose Fort Hancock. The counties contended the site was prone to earthquakes and flooding.

In January, 34th State District Judge Bill Moody agreed, ruling the state searched for a dump site with "tunnel vision." A state appeal of the ruling is pending.

"As soon as I get to Austin, I'm heading to the governor's office and the lieutenant governor's office and start beating the drums," Garner said. Garner said he planned to be in Austin on Monday.

Shelley was catching a plane to his Houston office when called by The Associated Press and was not available for comment.

His bill, HB 2665, also would require lawsuits against the authority and connected to the waste site be filed in Travis County and would provide for automatic suspension of injunctions against the authority.

In his January ruling, Moody issued an injunction that stopped construction of the dump.

State Sen. Peggy Rosson, D-El Paso, called the bill, filed March 8, an attempt to repeal the entire judicial system.

Hypertension drugs cause side effects

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 64-year-old male with hypertension, controlled by medication. My problem is bad dreams and loss of concentration because of the medication. I've tried several different brands and find they all give me the same side effects. Is this my imagination, or is there a connection?

DEAR READER: The syndrome you describe can be the result of medicines for hypertension, all of which affect the nervous system.

For example, Inderal (propranolol, a beta-blocker) can cause insomnia, nightmares, depression, memory loss and confusion. Calan (and other calcium-channel blockers) are associated with headache, insomnia, confusion, imbalance and psychiatric disturbances. Serpasil (reserpine) often leads to severe depression, anxiety, nightmares and nervousness. Vasotec (enalapril, an ACE inhibitor) may cause headache, dizziness, vertigo and blurred vision. Thiazide diuretics can initiate vertigo, dizziness and restlessness.

Catapres (clonidine) can lead to dizziness, headache and nervousness. Minipress (prazosin) may cause vertigo, depression and nervousness. Aldactone (spironolactone) is associated with lethargy, headache, confusion and imbalance. Aldomet (methyldopa) can cause emotional disturbances, nightmares, depression and dizziness. The list goes on.

Although all the drugs for hypertension have the potential for causing mental side effects, in practice the complications are, fortunately, relatively rare. Also, most patients who react badly to one class of medicines may not react to another.

Therefore, I advise you to work with your doctor to discover a form of therapy that won't affect your concentration or sleep. You say you have tried different brands; this may not be enough. Simply switching brands (as opposed to changing the type of drug entirely) may not be effective; you need to try several classes of medication. Eventually, you will probably find one that agrees with you.

Remember, too, that you can lower your blood pressure "naturally" by losing weight (if you are heavy), avoiding salt in your diet and obtaining regular exercise.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Hypertension." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their names and addresses to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Bank customer leads police to suspect

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston police are crediting a windshield repairman's quick thinking with the arrest of a bank robbery suspect.

Joe Ralston, who works for Windshields of America, trailed the suspect in his company truck, after the alleged bank robber held up tellers at an NCB bank branch in southern Houston early Thursday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas congressman says Democrats on the House Budget Committee are considering substantial cuts to the $8.25 billion super collider and the space station.

While there is an "underlying current of concern" about the need for the super collider, said Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, the focus of discussions this week has been balancing the shrinking federal budget and finding money for domestic needs.

"In the midst of a long list of domestic budget items, which have already had cuts, some of which, clearly require more money — education, Head Start, the drug war — sit two items that are scheduled to receive enormous increases, and members from other states obviously are not enthusiastic about this," Bryant said late Thursday.

President Bush has asked Congress to increase the budget for the superconducting super collider by 119 percent next year — from $243 million this year to $534 million in fiscal 1991, which begins Oct. 1.

"It looks pretty clear to me that the chairman and a majority of the members are not enthusiastic about allowing the increase to take place," said Bryant, a member of the committee who has been attending meetings this week of the panel's Democratic caucus.

"I'm working to get back as much as I can, but we don't have many allies in there," Bryant said. "It is very clear that the sentiment is very strong to not permit this size of an increase."

If built the SSC would be the world's largest scientific instrument. The Energy Department wants to build a 54-mile ring under the city of Waxahatchie, where scientists hope to learn more about the origins of the universe by watching collisions of high-speed beams of protons.

The president's budget request for fiscal 1991 includes $374 million for construction of the tunnel and surface facilities. If built according to the current timetable, construction would be complete by the end of 1999.

The budget also seeks $15.7 billion for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, of which $2 billion is for the space station — being built partly in Texas.
