In Brief

Traffic deaths

AUSTIN (AP) — Traffic deaths in Texas dropped to the lowest level in 14 years in 1990, the Department of Public Safety reported today.

"Not since 1976 have traffic fatalities been this low in Texas," said Col. Joe Milner, DPS director.

Traffic deaths fell from 3,361 in 1989 to 3,243 in 1990, a decline of 3.5 percent.

Milner said the decrease was the fifth in the past six years, and well below the 1981 fatality total of 4,701.

As in past years, the leading cause of traffic deaths in Texas was alcohol or drug-related accidents.

Malpractice

HOUSTON (AP) — A Texas Supreme Court ruling that limits awards for wrongful death is delaying payments on medical malpractice claims, two terminal cancer patients say.

Robert Renton and Prem Gupta contend insurance firms are stalling in settling their malpractice claims until the two die because the monetary liability would be less.

Both men have sued their physicians in unrelated lawsuits, claiming they failed to diagnose the men's cancer in its early stages. Both have since been diagnosed with inoperable, terminal cancer.

Returns show support for union, Gorbachev

MOSCOW (AP) — Mikhail S. Gorbachev appeared today to have won strong endorsement for his efforts to preserve the Soviet Union, but referendum results showed him losing on an issue that could strengthen his chief rival.

Soviets voted Sunday on whether to back Gorbachev's efforts to keep the deeply divided country together under his leadership.

In the Russian republic, citizens also voted on whether to boost the Russian presidency. Preliminary returns from Moscow, Leningrad and other parts of the Russian Federation showed overwhelming support for the second measure.

If confirmed, the result would be a victory for Gorbachev's political rival, Boris Yeltsin, who leads Russia, the largest of the 15 Soviet republics.

Gorbachev, speaking to reporters after he cast his ballot Sunday, described the plan to (see RETURNS, page 8)

County oks purchase of grid roller

Scurry County commissioners court heard an equipment update, approved the purchase of a grid roller and set a date to accept liability insurance during its morning meeting today at the county courthouse.

Commissioners unanimously approved the $8,500 purchase of a grid roller from Martin County, pending the approval of Martin County Commissioners. The motion for purchase was made with the stipulation that Scurry County officials use the roller for one day before making purchase.

Commissioners explained they had yet to see the piece of equipment in use and they would want to confirm that it is in good working order.

James Aaron of Fluvanna Volunteer Fire Department attended the meeting to give the court an update on equipment currently used by the volunteer service.

Aaron said he would like to replace a 1966 fire truck, purchased from the city by both Scurry and Borden counties in 1976, "sometime in the future." He said he would eventually like to replace the vehicle with a used 2-ton truck and modify it for fire protection.

Aaron said the department had already purchased an 800 gallon tank that could be put on the truck.

Others items of business for the court included setting April 1 as the date to accept liability insurance for licensed county vehicles, approving the minutes from the previous meeting and the paying of bills.

Present at the meeting were County Judge Bob Doolittle and commissioners C.D. Gray Jr., Roy Idom and Jerry Gannaway. Absent was Commissioner Duane Davis.

Disabled vets eligible for property tax relief

Veterans with a service-connected disability can receive property tax relief in 1991 by filing out a simple exemption form at the Scurry County Appraisal District office, Ray Peveler, chief appraiser, has said.

The amount of exemption is based on the veteran's percentage of service-connected disability and can range from $1,500 to $3,000. Peveler explained who is eligible for the application:

- a disabled veteran;
- a surviving spouse of a deceased disabled veteran, as long as the spouse remains unmarried;
- a surviving minor child of a deceased disabled veteran, if the veteran's spouse does not survive the veteran and if the child is both under 18 and unmarried;
- a surviving spouse of a person killed while on active duty, whether the spouse is remarried or not at application time;
- a surviving minor child of a person who was killed on active

U.S. rejects Iraqi air request

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — The United States has rejected Iraq's request for permission to put warplanes in the air and is threatening to resume attacks if Baghdad does not comply, U.S. officials said today.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III acknowledged Sunday that grounding Iraq's warplanes would help rebels seeking to topple Saddam Hussein, but said the United States was not arming the insurgents.

The U.S. threat to attack pro-Saddam forces came in a meeting between Iraqi and U.S. military commanders in allied-occupied southern Iraq, said two officials with the U.S. Central Command in Saudi Arabia who spoke on condition of anonymity.

U.S. officials say Iraq has put military planes and helicopters in the sky in the past several days in its struggle against internal rebellion, heightening concern that allied forces could be attacked.

The U.S. Central Command said this was clearly a violation of the terms of a temporary cease-fire set two weeks ago.

At Sunday's meeting in Safwan, Iraq — the second since last month's cease-fire in the Persian Gulf War — U.S. officials told the Iraqis what "control measures" they needed to take to avert having their aircraft being shot down, the U.S. sources said. They refused to elaborate.

"Now, the Iraqi military has indicated that it intends to fly more airplanes, to move them around within Iraq," the command said. "This, too, would violate the terms of the temporary cease-fire."

"Baker said that the allies turned down Iraq's request at the meeting.

"That's a dangerous situation," he said Sunday in Washington. "We have our aircraft moving around there, and we don't want to see Iraqi aircraft there" until a permanent cease-fire is arranged.

Baker said allied officers told the Iraqis that aircraft "should be used for logistical purposes and not for the purpose of shooting and dropping bombs on your own people."

Iraq had 690 or so combat aircraft before the war, but allied commanders say 147 warplanes fled to Iran during the war and they believe Iraq lost more than 370 planes to allied attacks.

Baker acknowledged the prohibition on moving Iraqi aircraft had a "collateral effect" of hindering Baghdad from fighting the insurgents that took hold inside Iraq as the war ended. But he insisted the move was not intended to help topple Saddam Hussein's government.

"We would like to see a change in that government... (but) we did not adopt that as a war aim," open session at 5:45 p.m., then go into closed session to discuss personnel.

After reconvening in open session, the board is expected to discuss the basketball coaching job.

Tony Mauldin stepped down after four years as the Westerner coach last Tuesday to accept the head coaching position at Abilene Christian University. His resignation was effective immediately.

Some board members have voiced concern that the selection of Mauldin's replacement be accomplished quickly, in order for the new coach to have time to recruit players.

The recruitment of players could be a key issue in the meeting. In past years, Western Texas has attempted to limit recruiting primarily to within the state. Today, the board may discuss whether it wishes to expand those boundaries since many other programs in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference are bringing in players not only from out of state, but from overseas.

"We need to be able to come up with some guidelines so that when these coaches apply, we can tell them. They need to know what they are getting into," said Dr. Harry Krenek, WTC president.

Salary, budget and the possibility of an assistant coach may be other topics for the board to consider.

Trustees will also consider appointing a search committee to review applications and make recommendations.

Baker said, noting that the U.S.-led allied forces probably could have deposed Saddam had they so desired.

Land judging here Tuesday

Western Texas College will host teams from area high schools for the annual livestock and land judging contests on Tuesday.

The Upper Colorado Soil and Conservation District cooperates in staging the land judging events each year.

Registration will open at 4 p.m. and continue through 5 p.m. at Scurry County Coliseum. Contests are to be completed by 7 p.m., when the students will meet in the college cafeteria for dinner and the presentation of awards.

Some 200 students from 40 high schools are expected to participate. Bob Doty and Jim Judah, WTC ag instructors, will be directing the contests.

Guard forms are available

Applications for the latest daytime correctional officer training class at Western Texas College become available today.

The class will begin April 22. Students will attend classes for three weeks and three days. The fee is $300.

Anyone interested in becoming a correctional officer with the Texas Department of Criminal Justice is invited to enroll in the 144½-hour course.

WTC is one of nine colleges in the state offering the program and has graduated 259 students from the course since starting the program in 1988.

Applicants are to obtain forms in the Adult Vocational Office on campus. Details concerning applications and the course may be obtained by calling that office at 573-8511, extension 390.

Hispanics join the call for economic boycott

DALLAS (AP) — A city-backed redistricting plan has prompted Hispanic leaders to join forces with a black leaders who have launched a economic boycott against the city.

Although one in every five Dallas residents is Hispanic, none would have a chance at election under the 10-4-1 plan, which calls for 10 single-districts, four regional district a citywide elected mayor, leaders say.

City officials have been unable to draw up a predominantly Hispanic district under 10-4-1.

"10-4-1 means no Mexican-Americans are going to serve on the City Council in 1991," said Lawyer Domingo Garcia. "The Mexican community in Dallas will in no way accept 10-4-1."

Last week, leaders of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference said they will work to discourage tourists, entertainers and conventions from visiting Dallas to protest the city's stance on redistricting.

The Hispanic leaders on Saturday said they would write to the embassies of Latin American countries to urge them to oppose the city's bid to host the World Cup soccer tournament.

"We have been patient, but our patience is at an end," said Adelfa Callejo, chairwoman of the Coalition of Hispanic Organizations.

On Friday, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals canceled a May 4 election that would have meant a council chosen from 14 single-member districts and a mayor at large. The 10-4-1 plan, twice approved by voters, calls for 10 single-member districts, four regional districts and a mayor elected citywide.

Garcia said community leaders were preparing an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Garcia said he and other leaders were urging all minority groups in Dallas to file complaints with the U.S. Justice Department to charge the city with violating the federal Voting Rights Act.

The Rev. Marshall Hodge, chairman of the local SCLC chapter, said the Hispanic leaders strengthened the boycott effort. The NAACP has not joined the boycott.

"This is just the beginning of the progress and momentum," he said. "We join arms and hearts with you to say this is beginning of a thrust, and it cannot fail and will not fail."

On Saturday, U.S. District Judge Jerry Buchmeyer, whose decision ordering a city election under a 14-1 redistricting plan was overturned by the 5th Circuit Court, offered his only comments since the ruling.

In his opening remarks to about 50 high school students holding a mock-trial competition, Judge Buchmeyer said he had no hard feelings toward the court, but added: "It's somewhat embarrassing to pick up the paper and see the headlines that Judge Buchmeyer has been reversed again."

"I have now had a chance to read the opinion that the 5th Circuit wrote," he added. "The 5th Circuit did exactly what I would have done, and they wrote exactly what I would have written..."

The judge paused. "... if I hadn't heard any of the evidence and if I wasn't trying to follow the law."

Ex-DART member's firm received 7 lucrative contracts

DALLAS (AP) — An engineering firm owned by a former Dallas Area Rapid Transit Authority board member has received seven DART contracts worth more than $600,000, a newspaper reported Sunday.

Berry R. Grubbs, owner of Terra-Mar Inc. which now reaps 10 percent of his total business from DART, says he shouldn't be prohibited from doing business with the agency since he no longer works there, The Dallas Morning News reported.

"For 2 1/2 years I served on the board and my firm was not eligible to do any DART work during that period of time," said Grubbs. "When I came off the board, I didn't think that I should be penalized for giving up 2 1/2 years for DART."

Although there is no written ethics policy at the transportation authority, which recently awarded $24 million in contracts to build its $2.9 billion light rail system, officials are now studying whether one should be adopted.

"At no time that I was on the board did I violate any kind of conflict of interest," said Grubbs.

Although transit boards in Houston and Austin have codes of ethics, neither contains what is known as a "revolving-door policy."

Gov. Ann Richards is pushing for a state ethics package now before the Texas Legislature. However, that program, which bans former state officials and employees from receiving contracts on projects they were once involved in, would not apply to the state's seven metropolitan transit agencies.

Records also show that Grubbs had his company certified with DART as a minority business, in 1989, while he sat on the DART board.

Grubbs, who is white, was able to qualify as a "disadvantaged business enterprise" because he is one thirty-second American Indian.

Parents of slain officer still fight to keep killer in jail

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston police officer Johnny Bamsch was shot to death more than 16 years ago, but his parents continue an annual ritual to ensure his killer remains imprisoned.

Richard D. Kyles, now 34, was sentenced to life in prison for Bamsch's Jan. 30, 1975 murder.

The 27-year-old police rookie was shot twice when he and two other officers interrupted a convenience store robbery orchestrated by Kyles and Robert Lee "Bo" Thomas. Thomas was sentenced to life in prison for the robbery.

"We thought it would be over when the sentence came in," said Mickey Bamsch, 67, the officer's mother.

But Kyles became eligible for parole six years ago, after serving 10 years in prison.

"We were horrified," said Roy Bamsch, 63, the officer's father. "We thought, 'This is simply not enough time to serve for the life of our son.'"

Thomas already had been paroled, without protest. The Bamsches didn't want Kyles to have the same opportunity.

"We had no idea, what, if anything, we could do," Mrs. Bamsch said. "We just started making calls."

Since then, the Bamsches have followed a routine in their consistent battle with the parole board.

"It should have been that the state locks him up and he begs to get out," Bamsch said. "Instead, we spend the rest of our lives begging that they keep him in."

It begins each Jan. 30, precisely at midnight when the couple delivers a bouquet of flowers tied with a black ribbon to Houston's Parkway Hospital emergency room, where their son spent his last moments of life.

BEST PERFORMANCE BY A LEADING GENERAL

Mature roles sought

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael J. Fox can still play 20-year-olds on screen, but with a 30th birthday in June, he no longer wants to.

The baby-faced actor has told his production company, Snowback Productions, to find him roles that match his age, Us magazine said in its April 4 issue.

Fox said marriage and the birth of his son, Sam, now 21 months old, have helped him mature.

"To be a happy, healthy, family-oriented person is more important than trying to be the boy prince of Hollywood," Fox said.

"You lose the arrogance of youth. You take a look at old people and say, 'Yeah, I can actually see that as a possibility now.' It will be fun to say 'I'm 30.'"

In his latest film, "The Hard Way," Fox portrays an actor who prepares for a role in a police movie by tagging along with a hard-bitten New York cop played by James Woods.

Law firms lawsuits cost county

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Law firm Heard Goggan Blair and Williams' tactic of using computer-generated lawsuits to sue a single delinquent taxpayer multiple times is costing Tarrant County, a newspaper reported.

Had the lawsuits been handled in the normal manner for civil actions, more than $330,000 would have gone to the courts during the past four years to help cover the costs of paperwork, according to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram's examination of court records.

For example, instead of filing a single lawsuit against MBank Grand Prairie for back taxes on one subdivision, Heard Goggan filed 324 lawsuits against the bank Jan. 23, 1989. The lawsuits were for about $20,000 in taxes owed on adjacent lots in south Fort Worth.

The San Antonio law firm is the county's collector of delinquent taxes.

At $154 per lawsuit, the bank owed about $50,000 in court costs. District Court Judge Albert White ruled that the court costs were excessive and reduced them to $5,000.

But time and money had already been lost on the case.

By doing so much work in Tarrant County, as well as in several other counties, Heard Goggan controls the payment of court costs in tax lawsuits because it represents the taxing jurisdiction.

'No-nos' don't discourage candidates

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — First of all, sports are out. Too risky. Dating is okay, but like personal phone calls, they are restricted. Curfews, weekly weigh-ins are a must, as is "good moral character."

The rules sound like those for a strict boarding school.

Instead, they are just some of the stipulations enforced upon the wearer of the Miss Texas crown, who must be unmarried, never been pregnant and between the ages of 17 and 26. Before entering, contestants must sign a 5,000 list of dos and don'ts.

Among the rules listed are the obvious — "Contestant has always been a female."

And there's those bordering on the prudish, like the ban on pantsuit wearing in public, unless "business manager or travelling companion consents."

Then there's the downright peculiar. On the list, contestants are barred from participating in 59 sporting activities, including the seemingly benign, aerobics, and the male-dominated sports of boxing and cricket.

The Texas pageant is one of few state contests requiring the state queen to move in with a chaperon.

But the contract rates vary a second glance from the contestants who think a year of restrictions is worth the most enviable title in the state.

"To give up those things for one year is nothing if it means accomplishing a dream you wanted ever since you were a little girl," said Nicki Anselmo, the 20-year-old reigning Miss Fort Worth.

Miss Texas executive director Barry Hall says the sports clause makes a lot of sense.

"We're not trying to be unreasonable," Hall said. "Appearances are booked a year in advance. You can't have a dancer sprain her leg. You can't have a pianist break her hand."

"If you are going into it with your eyes open, it's not so bad," said Leah Kay Lyle, Miss Texas 1989, who was nearly stripped of her crown after taking a ski trip during her reign. "Restrictions go with the job and help you focus on the role."

However, at least one Miss Texas crown-wearer had second thoughts.

"If I were a contestant again," said Miss Texas 1985 Jonna Fitzgerald, now a Dallas film producer, who earned $30,000 during her reign. "I would have certainly have a lawyer look at this contract before I signed. Some consider the Miss Texas pageant contract the most restrictive in the country."

Once the Miss Texas crown is cinched, only 15-minute phone calls are allowed, no friends, family or boyfriends are allowed to accompany the winner during public appearances and she must agree to surrender medical and hospital records upon request by pageant officials.

American victory

Tournaments that are open to all comers and that offer generous cash prizes have been popular in Europe for many years. Recently, though, there has been an increase in the number of invitational events, restricted usually to 16 pairs. The Netherlands has been at the forefront of this move. In the middle of January, The Hague hosted the Cap Gemini Pandata World Top Tournament, won by Benito Garozzo and Billy Eisenberg. Garozzo, who had won 13 world titles for Italy, is now living in Palm Beach, Florida. Eisenberg, a former member of the Aces now living in Los Angeles, won five Bermuda Bowl titles for the United States in the 1970s.

They scored heavily on today's deal. The bidding is a mixture of natural and artificial, with the first two bids fitting into the former category and the next two into the latter. After that, hearts were agreed on, and South used Roman Key Card Blackwood to discover that his partner held all four aces but not the queen of hearts.

West led a deceptive 10 of diamonds. Garozzo put up dummy's ace and immediately ruffed a diamond. Declarer cashed the heart king, learning about the bad split, and ran the heart jack through West. A club to dummy's ace and a second diamond ruff brought down the king. Now declarer was in control. He played a trump to dummy's ace and led winning diamonds. West could ruff whenever he liked, but the dummy was high.

Garozzo was the only declarer to bid and make six hearts. Everyone else in the slam went down. The other declarer to bring home 12 tricks was in seven hearts.

Lech Walesa will visit U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Visiting Polish President Lech Walesa, pressed at home to ease harsh wage controls, will implore U.S. government and business leaders to help finance his country's transition to a Western-style market economy.

When he arrives here Tuesday, the Nobel Peace Prize laureate and first democratically elected president of Poland will find the Bush administration sympathetic and ready to forgive a share of Poland's $46 billion foreign debt.

But Walesa also hopes to persuade American business leaders that the climate is now right for investing in the former communist state that has made East Europe's boldest — and harshest — break with its past.

U.S. officials and private economists worry that the former leader of the Solidarity labor union will bow to rising pressure from Poland's hard-pressed workers to break out of the wage restraints that have forced a decline in their already austere standard of living.

"If the government yields to this pressure, wages will shoot up, and Poland will be back in a wage-price spiral in two months," said writer Jan Nowak, a leading U.S.-based advocate of reform in Poland.

Clamping strict limits on wage increases while letting prices run free has dramatically slowed runaway inflation. But workers and their families suffered staggering losses in purchasing power, and popular support for the government's "shock therapy" approach to creating a market economy has begun to erode.

Today, the average Polish worker makes about $1,900 a year, and prices have soared in 15 months of decontrol to levels comparable to those in Western Europe. That means most people, including nearly all those in the big state-owned enterprises that still dominate the economy, make barely enough to live on.

"The situation is very precarious," Nowak said.

Tomazs Telman, an economist at PlanEcon, a consulting firm specializing in Eastern Europe, said Poland's inflation rate went from 80 percent in the single month of January 1990 to 1.8 percent last August. It has edged up since then, due largely to the oil price shock that followed Iraq's invasion of Kuwait but remains within acceptable limits, he said.

David Kemme, a U.S. economist tracking the Polish experience, said the indicators used to measure trends indicate the program "has been more successful in the first year than anybody expected."

Source claims millions squandered for repairs

HOUSTON (AP) — A $1.6 billion overhaul of the city's sewerage system has been fraught with unnecessary purchases, equipment neglect and understaffing that have squandered millions of dollars, according to a published report.

In a copyright story Sunday, The Houston Post quoted an unidentified source within the Department of Public Utilities as saying city officials purchased extravagant or poorly designed equipment to upgrade the system over the past four years.

So far, more than $700 million of the planned $1.6 billion overhaul has been spent. The improvements already have increased Houstonians' water bills from an average of $122 annually in 1986 to a current $233. That cost is expected to hit $352 by 1995.

"I pay taxes too," the source told The Post. "I want to see the city get a good return for the money they have to spend. And the city's always complaining they can't afford more employees. Well, hell, they can't because they waste all that money."

In its four-month investigation, the newspaper found the city spent:

- About $500,000 to install and program two large electronic maps at a Public Utilities building that duplicate information already available on several video monitors.

- More than $3 million for design and construction costs to renovate the Alameda Sims Wastewater Treatment Plant, a project city officials scrapped after an engineering study determined it was unnecessary.

- More than $2 million for the Supervisory Control And Data Acquisition, a computerized network of sensors installed throughout the system since 1985 to chart sewage flows that no longer works as intended.

- Between $8 million and $10 million to construct a multi-story brick building at Sims Bayou to house $600,000 in "belt presses," which squeeze moisture out of sludge.

Tests validate experimental treatment

DALLAS (AP) — A newly developed technique for measuring bone strength has given credence to an experimental treatment for a bone disease found chiefly in post-menopausal women, researchers say.

Osteoporosis is characterized by an overall reduction in the amount of bone, principally affecting the spine, which results in greater risk of fractures to the hip and vertebra, according to researchers at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas.

Doctors found that treatment with sodium fluoride causes formation of new bone, but patients complained of gastrointestinal discomfort. More important, other tests indicated that although new bone was being formed, a simple increase in mass was no guarantee of strength.

The new bone mass was found to be weak and mechanically defective.

Andrews nips Frenship for tourney crown

The Snyder Tigers and the Andrews Mustangs finished Saturday's round of the Snyder Baseball Tournament in opposite styles — The Tigers were ripped in a consolation-bracket contest, 18-2, by Wylie, and Andrews cooled off one of the hottest teams in the area, the Frenship Tigers, 8-7, to win the championship.

In other games in Saturday's final day of competition, San Angelo Lake View beat Levelland, 7-4, Canyon hammered Merkel, 22-3, Big Spring whipped Canyon, 12-5, and Brownwood won the battle for third place with a 10-2 defeat of Lamesa.

wrong," said Snyder starter David Patrick. "We didn't seem to be able to get any heat on the ball."

The Bulldogs' Brad Overton went the distance for his second win of the season over Snyder.

Patrick was tagged with the loss.

Snyder falls to 3-10 on the season, with one week left in non-district games. Wylie moves to 8-3-1.

Andrews knocked off Brownwood early Saturday morning, 8-7, for a berth in the finals, then turned to Robert Barrientes to pitch past the free-swinging FHS Tigers.

The Ponies snatched an early 2-0 lead and erupted for six in the top of the third to hold off Frenship.

Staven Day was sent to the mound in the seventh to quell a Tiger rally that closed the gap to 8-7.

Baseball resumes in Snyder Tuesday, when the SHS Tigers host Brownfield in a 4:30 p.m. non-district contest.

District action is scheduled to begin Thursday, March 28 at Frenship.

SHS girls take 3rd at golf tournament

HEREFORD — Amy Armstrong of Snyder High School captured second medalist and led the Lady Tigers to a third-place finish at the Hereford Invitational Golf Tournament Friday and Saturday here.

Armstrong carded a 78 Friday to tie with eventual medalist Lisa McQuatters of Andrews after a round.

The SHS senior fired an 88 in the cold on Saturday to finish with a tourney-total 166.

McQuatters took an 82 in the second round for a 160.

Andrews' Nikki Martin was the third medalist over the weekend, registering a 170 on rounds of 86 and 84.

The Defending Class 4A champion Lady Mustangs won the event with a combined team score of 685.

Pampa's 742 was second followed by Snyder at 751, Hereford A's 773 and a 781 from Borger.

Other Snyder scores include Kim Duncan's 84-88-172, a 99-105-204 for Amy Steakley, Wendy Miller's 101-108-209 and Tiffany Greene with a 217 on rounds of 109 and 108.

The Lady Tigers begin District 2-4A competition Friday when they host Levelland, Frenship and Lamesa in the first loop stop of the season.

Tee time is set for 9 a.m. at Snyder Country Club.

Medalists: Lisa McQuatters, Andrews, 78-82-169; Amy Armstrong, Snyder, 78-88-166; Nikki Marti, Andrews, 86-84-170.

Snyder scores: Amy Armstrong 78-88-166; Kim Duncan 84-88-172; Amy Steakley 99-105-204; Wendy Miller 101-108-209; Tiffany Greene 109-108-217.

The Tigers, coming off a 5-4 victory over Brownfield Friday, were optimistic as they took the field against the Bulldogs.

They put the Wylie team down in order in the opening inning and took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first when John Wright sacrificed to score Richard Morris from third.

Then the bottom fell out.

Wylie pushed across four runs in the second and third frames to go up 8-1 and then added 10 in the final two innings while holding the Tigers to just one more score in the fourth.

UNC Tarheels make "Sweet 16" ...again

by The Associated Press

For North Carolina, it's an annual affair. For Eastern Michigan, it could be a once-in-a-lifetime event.

Both teams advanced to the final 16 of the NCAA tournament on Sunday, setting up a showdown at the East Regional semifinals in East Rutherford, N.J.

Top-seeded North Carolina overpowered Villanova 84-69 to reach the Sweet 16 for the 11th straight year, while 12th-seeded Eastern Michigan edged Penn State 71-68 in overtime and moved into the regional semis for the first time.

"All the streak means is that I'm old and I've had a lot of good teams," said North Carolina coach Dean Smith.

While Smith took the victory in stride, Eastern Michigan's Marcus Kennedy was stunned by his team's achievement.

"It hasn't sunk in yet," he said. "North Carolina won't be satisfied unless it reaches the Final Four, a goal that has eluded the Tar Heels since winning the national title in 1982.

"I want to accomplish one more thing in life, and that's getting a regional championship," senior Rick Fox said.

The North Carolina-Eastern Michigan game will be part of a doubleheader Friday at East Rutherford, N.J. Temple plays Oklahoma State in the other game.

The Midwest semifinals also will be played Friday, with Ohio State meeting St. John's and Duke facing Connecticut at Pontiac, Mich.

On Thursday, UNLV plays Utah and Arizona meets Seton Hall in the West Regional at Seattle. In the Southeast Regional at Charlotte, N.C., Arkansas plays Alabama and Indiana meets

The top-ranked Runnin' Rebels passed their toughest test of the season on Sunday, beating Georgetown 62-54 to extend their winning streak to 43.

"It was a really tough game, one of the toughest games I can remember being in," said UNLV coach Jerry Tarkanian.

It was the second-closest game this season for UNLV, but this one was even more competitive than the Rebels' seven-point victory over Arkansas on Feb. 10. The Rebels led Arkansas by 23 points before a late Razorback rush closed the gap.

Georgetown never folded, fighting back from UNLV surges that would have put away most teams.

"We're not in the moral victory business at Georgetown," said Hoyas coach John Thompson. "But that's a great team Vegas has, and in all probability they'll win it."

Arkansas downed Arizona State 97-90 and Alabama defeated Wake Forest 96-88 to reach the final 16, while Ohio State beat Georgia Tech 65-61 and St. John's topped Texas 84-76.

No. 4 N. Carolina 84, Villanova 69

At Syracuse, N.Y., George Lynch had 19 points and 10 rebounds and the Tar Heels used a 7-0 run to pull away from the Wildcats in the second half. North Carolina made its move after Villanova cut a 15-point Tar Heel lead to 66-59 with 8:24 left, a spurt that featured two 3-pointers by reserve Lloyd Mumford.

After calling timeout, North Carolina (27-5) responded with a 7-0 spurt that started and ended with baskets by Lynch.

Lance Miller scored 17 points and Greg Woodard 15 for Villanova (17-15), which shot only 41 percent from the field.

E. Michigan 71, Penn St. 68, OT

Lorenzo Neely scored five points in overtime as Eastern Michigan prevailed in a seesaw game.

The Hurons (26-6) were first-round losers in their only previous NCAA appearance, in 1988. Penn State (21-11) hasn't advanced beyond the second round since 1954.

Penn State had several opportunities to win, but James Brown missed two free throws in the final 63 seconds of regulation and Freddie Barnes missed a pair of 3-pointers in the final four seconds of overtime.

Southeast

No. 19 Alabama 96, Wake Forest 88

At Atlanta, Melvin Cheatum, Gary Waites and Latrell Sprewell each scored 21 points for Alabama (23-9).

Waites scored 19 points in the first half, including five 3-point baskets, as Alabama took a 48-45 lead. Then Sprewell and Cheatum took over in the second half. Sprewell scored 16 after intermission, including six straight free throws in the final 1:30, and Cheatum added 13.

Chris King scored 29 points for Wake Forest (19-11), which was making its first NCAA appearance since 1984.

No. 2 Arkansas 97, Arizona St. 90

Arkansas started quickly, then held off Arizona State to set a school record for victories in a season.

The Razorbacks (33-3) took a 12-0 lead in the first four minutes as the Sun Devils missed their first eight shots. Arizona State rallied to tie it at 30 and later went ahead by one point, but Arkansas took the lead for good shortly before halftime on a free throw by Ron Huery.

Oliver Miller had 19 points and 10 rebounds for Arkansas, while freshman Jamal Faulkner led Arizona State (20-1) with 29 points.

Midwest
No. 5 Ohio St. 65, Georgia Tech 61

At Dayton, Ohio, Perry Carter had 19 points and 18 rebounds as Ohio State held off a late charge by Georgia Tech.

Jim Jackson added 16 points for the Buckeyes (27-3), including three free throws in the final 17.4

Bo is seeking 2nd opinion

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Bo Jackson's matchless career as one of the world's most celebrated athletes will make one more bid today for a medical reprieve.

Amid growing reports that a hip injury is threatening to keep him on crutches for at least nine months, Jackson was scheduled to be examined in Birmingham, Ala., by Dr. James Andrews, an orthopedic surgeon.

He has already been examined by Dr. Steve Joyce, team physician for the Kansas City Royals, and a team official said the two would issue a joint diagnosis.

The Royals also said an announcement would be made regarding Jackson on Tuesday. But sources in Kansas City said Sunday night an announcement could come as early as today for the only man to win football's Heisman Trophy and baseball's All-Star MVP award.

News cameras captured a hobbling, uncommunicative Jackson boarding a plane in Kansas City Sunday night and then getting off in Orlando, Fla., near the Royals' spring training complex.

"You'll have to wait and see tomorrow," Jackson brusquely told reporters in Kansas City. "Don't mess with me now. Don't mess with me now."

Area all-star squad named

LUBBOCK — Levelland's Twylana Harrison and Lamesa's staidout Bert Butler were named top Class 4A boys and girls basketball players in the area as the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal released its annual All-South Plains teams Sunday.

Harrison, a 5-10 senior post for the state champion Lobosettes, averaged 20 points and nine rebounds a game to lead Levelland to the Texas girls' crown and a 30-5 record on the year.

Butler hit 23 points an outing and contributed six boards to the 31-4 Golden Tors who lost to Pampa in the Region I title game.

Butler is also a 5-10 senior. The remainder of the girls' squad, including coach of the year Dean Weese of Levelland, features Saresa Butler of Lamesa, Estacado's Patrice Conwright, Marsha Johnson of Dunbar and Sweetwater standout Nikki Heath.

Levelland's Craig Black follows Butler on the boys' roster, which also includes Gregg Ruffin of Sweetwater, Lamesa's Brandon Sheppard and Rod White of Big Spring.

Levelland made a clean sweep of coaching honors when Dean Harris was named Coach of the Year for the boys' team by the Lubbock paper.

Texas leads nation

In investigations of police brutality

DALLAS (AP) — Concerns over police brutality may be focused on the West Coast right now, but Texas has investigated more cases than any other state in the nation, a new study shows.

More Texas law enforcement officers have been investigated and prosecuted for alleged brutality than officers in any other state, The Dallas Morning News reported Sunday in a copyright story.

Texas, the nation's third most populous state, had 2,015 investigations of alleged police brutality between 1984 and 1989.

Police brutality has come under intense scrutiny in Los Angeles, where police officers were videotaped beating a black motorist. But California, the nation's most populous state, ranked second behind Texas with 1,294 investigations.

In third place was Louisiana, with 1,050 investigations. Vermont was last, recording just three investigations during the five-year span, the newspaper reported.

The U.S. Justice Department has launched a nationwide review of police brutality, prompted by the March 3 beating of Rodney King by Los Angeles police officers.

But a Texas Civil Liberties Union official said the newspaper's analysis shows the Justice Department should be focusing its attention on Texas.

"I would think, just given the volume, that (U.S. Attorney General Dick) Thornburgh should turn his attention first to Texas in investigating cases," said Suzanne Donovan, TCLU director.

The newspaper cited figures from records obtained from the Justice Department under the Freedom of Information Act. The records didn't include a state-by-state breakdown of convictions.

Texas had the fifth-highest rate of investigations into police on a per-capita basis. Louisiana led the nation with 25 investigations per 100,000 people, the newspaper said. Texas had 14.1 investigations per 100,000 residents.

Records also showed that 50 cases, involving about 125 officers accused of civil rights violations, were prosecuted in Texas between 1980 and 1989. Texas cases accounted for 19.2 percent of the total civil rights cases filed against police nationwide.

The next highest was Louisiana, with 21 civil rights cases, or 8 percent.

Few rural police agencies have internal affairs departments or resources to conduct extensive background investigations of applicants. The Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education, the agency charged with licensing police, is not staffed to investigate complaints against officers, the newspaper reported.

The Morning News said it examined records of more than 600 Justice Department investigations during 1987 and 1988. Also reviewed were more than 500 lawsuits, 200 reports filed with the Texas attorney general on persons who died in police custody, disciplinary records for the state's 2,600 police agencies, and thousands of documents obtained from more than 500 requests under the Texas Open Records Act.

"We're a big state with a violent history, violent toward each other, violent toward the police," said Ronald G. DeLord, president of the Combined Law Enforcement Associations of Texas.

Law enforcement officials said the high rate of alleged brutality in Texas is caused by inadequate training, education, pay and background checks.

"If you look at the whole state of Texas, we are still not putting the type of money into police to get the type of product you would like," DeLord said.

"I'm a big supporter of training and standards. I wish they were 50 times tougher than they are."

Judges want shorter, plainer briefs filed

DALLAS (AP) — Lawyers would best be advised to keep it short and to the point if they want to impress judges with their legal briefs.

That's what a majority of judges said in a recent statewide survey, which found that those on the bench are frustrated with lawyers who use obscure legal language.

Write in plain English, the judges declared.

In a word, legalese, a specialized language of the law profession, is the problem. And the Plain-Language Committee of the State Bar of Texas is seeking to eliminate unclear writing that litters court papers, legal documents and consumer contracts.

"We're on the side of the angels," said Bryan Garner of Dallas, head of the committee.

The panel is redrafting state legal forms used by consumers, producing a 10-point "Plain Language Charter," sponsoring programs that teach lawyers to write better and presenting "Legaldegook Awards," for especially bad examples.

"Legalese is using unnecessary terms that are nothing more than bloated, pompous expressions with no meaning," said Garner, who teaches principles of legal writing at Southern Methodist University.

He said half of the briefs presented to judges are poorly written, making it difficult to understand the lawyer's case.

Garner said that lawyers are writing thoughtlessly and stringing together meaningless ideas because it is a tradition that has been passed on for generations. He disputed assertions by some critics that lawyers are keeping their language out of reach to protect the price of their legal fees.

The State Bar of Texas sent surveys to 500 district and appellate judges across the state.

Given several examples, the judges were asked to choose between two ways of making the same statement: one with commonly used legal jargon and the other in plain English.

More than half of the judges responded, and 80 percent favored the statements in plain English.

Bush says...

War erased doubts about U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush, leading the cheers at a thunderous South Carolina welcome-home for Desert Storm forces, says that after the Persian Gulf War, "No one in the world doubts us any more."

Bush now must assess the next steps in the Middle East and on arms control with the Soviets after weighing what Secretary of State James A. Baker III learned on his 10-day mission to the Middle East, Moscow and Turkey.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Baker probably would give the president a firsthand report today.

Bush returned to the White House on Sunday evening from his own five-day trip abroad to consult with the leaders of Canada, France and Britain about the Middle East and other matters.

Besides world affairs, he was turning his attention today to domestic politics, giving an Oval Office welcome to Louisiana Gov. Buddy Roemer, a newly converted Republican, and addressing a luncheon for major GOP donors.

He later was heading to Capitol Hill for a belated St. Patrick's Day luncheon with House Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash.

On Sunday, en route home from a three-day stay in Bermuda, Bush stopped in Sumter, S.C., to attend a celebration for 2,000 fliers and support personnel from Shaw Air Force Base just back from the war.

Bush had been plagued by rain in Bermuda, where he met with British Prime Minister John Major on Saturday. But a threatened downpour held off in Sumter for an enthusiastic football stadium crowd of 12,000 that included scores of airmen still in their desert camouflage fatigues.

"You not only helped liberate Kuwait, you helped this country liberate itself from old ghosts and doubts," Bush told the troops.

"When you left, it was still fashionable to question America's decency, America's courage, America's resolve," he said. "No one, no one in the whole world, doubts us any more."

Bush draped his arms around the shoulders of Air Force Capt. Spike Thomas, a pilot shot down behind Iraqi lines, and Lt. Nick Dodson, who led the mission that rescued him.

C-Springs woman slain; husband arrested in Vega

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A woman was found stabbed to death in her apartment here Sunday morning and her husband was arrested later in the day in Texas after he made a 600-mile motorcycle ride, authorities said.

Peter Ray Caraway, 40, was held without bond late Sunday for Colorado authorities at the Oldham County Jail in Vega, Texas, authorities said.

Vega is 30 miles west of Amarillo, where Caraway apparently was headed.

Caraway was arrested on a warrant for investigation of murder. No formal charges had been filed Sunday.

The victim was Herta Tate Caraway, 29. She was stabbed several times with a knife, said police spokesman Bob Hayden. He said Peter Caraway's mother called police about the killing shortly after he stopped by her house Sunday morning.

Police said they found a knife in the apartment that may be the murder weapon.

Caraway left Colorado Springs on his motorcycle and was arrested about 600 miles away in Vega, when he stopped at a convenience store about 6 p.m.

Authorities said a store clerk called them and said the man was "acting funny." A routine check found the Colorado Springs warrant for Caraway's arrest and he was arrested without incident by the Texas Department of Public Safety and local authorities.

Police said Caraway and the victim were married and have a 2-year-old child who was safe with grandparents.

Neighbors said the suspect had lived irregularly at the apartment during the past few months.

"About a week ago he said his wife was making him move out, so he wouldn't be around much longer," said neighbor Thomas Blizzard. "I hadn't seen his motorcycle here since."

you're back." "You know, he's been in the same situation before," Thomas added. "He knows what it's like to come home."

Bush, a Navy bomber pilot in World War II, was shot down in the Pacific in 1944 and rescued by a U.S. submarine.

And the president paid tribute to the families on the homefront. "You don't have to wear a uniform to be a war hero."

enhance the Russian presidency as "very dangerous."

"We cannot talk about the preservation of the union... if we accept this proposal," Gorbachev said. He also said, however, he would "respect the opinion of the Russians" on the issue.

Although Yeltsin often is described as the Russian president, he is actually chairman of the Russian Federation parliament. But he would be a favorite in any popular election for the presidency.

Hanging in the balance in the first nationwide referendum in Soviet or even Russian history was not only the fate of the vast country and its more than 100 ethnic groups, but also Gorbachev's future.

Early returns indicated strong support for preserving the union in 90 percent of the country, although the governments of six small republics refused to back the measure and boycotted Sunday's vote.

But the question also appeared to have been defeated in Leningrad and the Ukrainian capital of Kiev, where sentiment was strong for reform and reducing the power of the central government.

The vote totals for Kiev and Leningrad confirmed the results of earlier elections and public opinion surveys that showed greater support for radical reforms in big cities than in the countryside.

"It's quite natural for Leningrad to vote this way," said

Leningrad lawmaker Sergei Berezensky.

"At least here, people have more information and have more freedom to express their real views than somewhere in the village district," he added.

The day after the referendum, it remained unclear what political capital Gorbachev might try to make of his apparent victory in the national voting.

The Soviet president had lobbied heavily for approval and predicted victory in the referendum, which asks citizens whether they want to stay together in a renewed federation.

With all 15 republics having endorsed some sort of independence, Gorbachev wanted to appeal directly to the people to restore a national unity shattered by sometimes violent ethnic, legal and political disputes.

Sunday's election was marred by scattered violence and charges of irregularities. In some districts of the Ukraine and Russia, officials lured voters to the polls by selling such scarce goods as beer, fruit and sweets.

On Sunday, Gorbachev repeated his warning that if the national referendum fails and the union breaks up, civil war could erupt. "I don't think our people are suicidal," he told reporters after casting his ballot. Pro-democracy reformers tried to turn the referendum into a vote of no-confidence for Gorbachev and his fellow Communists, saying they feared a vote backing the union would be used to suppress separatists with violence.

The Soviet leader has said republics voting "no" in the referendum may pursue secession under Soviet law.

However, the law requires a lengthy waiting period and says any secession must be approved by the national parliament. Independence-seekers say it would be nearly impossible to achieve their goals by that route.

Members of the Class of '91, from engineers to marketing majors to budding young business executives, are finding that a degree doesn't guarantee a job — especially in a recession.

"We get a double whammy in recession time, because fewer companies are coming to campus to recruit, but more students are coming in for our services," said Jack Rayman, director of career development and placement at Penn State University.

Since June, 1.6 million Americans were added to the unemployment rolls as the jobless rate grew from 5.3 percent to 6.5 percent.

"These people who got laid off had college degrees, and now they're competing against the new college grads," said Patrick Scheetz, director of the Collegiate Employment Research Institute at Michigan State University.

Scheetz recently completed a study that found job offerings for college graduates have declined by about 23 percent over the past two years.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Army today released the names of two soldiers from Fort Polk, La., who were killed in a helicopter crash last week in the Middle East.

Hanging in the balance in the first nationwide referendum in Soviet or even Russian history was not only the fate of the vast country and its more than 100 ethnic groups, but also Gorbachev's future.

Early returns indicated strong support for preserving the union in 90 percent of the country, although the governments of six small republics refused to back the measure and boycotted Sunday's vote.

But the question also appeared to have been defeated in Leningrad and the Ukrainian capital of Kiev, where sentiment was strong for reform and reducing the power of the central government.

The vote totals for Kiev and Leningrad confirmed the results of earlier elections and public opinion surveys that showed greater support for radical reforms in big cities than in the countryside.

"It's quite natural for Leningrad to vote this way," said

Leningrad lawmaker Sergei Berezensky.

"At least here, people have more information and have more freedom to express their real views than somewhere in the village district," he added.

The day after the referendum, it remained unclear what political capital Gorbachev might try to make of his apparent victory in the national voting.

The Soviet president had lobbied heavily for approval and predicted victory in the referendum, which asks citizens whether they want to stay together in a renewed federation.

With all 15 republics having endorsed some sort of independence, Gorbachev wanted to appeal directly to the people to restore a national unity shattered by sometimes violent ethnic, legal and political disputes.

Sunday's election was marred by scattered violence and charges of irregularities. In some districts of the Ukraine and Russia, officials lured voters to the polls by selling such scarce goods as beer, fruit and sweets.

On Sunday, Gorbachev repeated his warning that if the national referendum fails and the union breaks up, civil war could erupt. "I don't think our people are suicidal," he told reporters

after casting his ballot. Pro-democracy reformers tried to turn the referendum into a vote of no-confidence for Gorbachev and his fellow Communists, saying they feared a vote backing the union would be used to suppress separatists with violence.

The Soviet leader has said republics voting "no" in the referendum may pursue secession under Soviet law.

However, the law requires a lengthy waiting period and says any secession must be approved by the national parliament. Independence-seekers say it would be nearly impossible to achieve their goals by that route.

Members of the Class of '91, from engineers to marketing majors to budding young business executives, are finding that a degree doesn't guarantee a job — especially in a recession.

"We get a double whammy in recession time, because fewer companies are coming to campus to recruit, but more students are coming in for our services," said Jack Rayman, director of career development and placement at Penn State University.

Since June, 1.6 million Americans were added to the unemployment rolls as the jobless rate grew from 5.3 percent to 6.5 percent.

"These people who got laid off had college degrees, and now they're competing against the new college grads," said Patrick Scheetz, director of the Collegiate Employment Research Institute at Michigan State University.

Scheetz recently completed a study that found job offerings for college graduates have declined by about 23 percent over the past two years.

Large supplies to continue to depress prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Low wheat prices may discourage larger plantings in some countries this spring, but there is so much grain already on hand that few observers expect a quick rebound.

"It's going to take some bad weather here and overseas to put any life back into the wheat market," said Carl Schwensen, executive vice president of the National Association of Wheat Growers.

The Agriculture Department won't issue its first official forecast of 1991-92 world wheat production for another two months. That will include winter wheat planted last fall and other varieties sown this spring.

"Winter wheat crops in the Northern Hemisphere generally appear to be in good condition," says the department's Economic Research Service.

But USDA analysts add that yields for the global 1991-92 crop probably will be lower and that plantings in several major wheat-producing countries are expected to decline because of low wheat prices this season.

Schwensen said in an interview Friday that a major factor in the market will be the condition of the crop in the Soviet Union. As yet, he said, "we don't really know the condition" or extent of winter wheat plantings for the 1991 harvest.

"We expect there's a good deal of disorganization, economically and politically, within the country," Schwensen said. "So we don't know how the spring crop is going to go, either."

USDA said winter grain in the Soviet Union "is likely to be down" this year, partly because of wet condition at planting time last fall. But the weather was said to be mild through January in most Soviet winter wheat areas.

Schwensen agreed with the tentative USDA assessment that plantings for the 1991-92 marketing season will decline in some countries, but he noted that acreages "will continue to be large" overall.

"Collectively, the world's major producers have the ability to over-supply the world market," he said. "And until we get some trade reform, I think we'll continue to have some stress in the marketplace, and stress on wheat farmers worldwide."

Schwensen referred to the current Uruguay Round of trade talks under the auspices of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. An objective — so far elusive — has been to eliminate or reduce trade-distorting practices among the member nations. Among such targets are the export subsidies used by the European Community and the United States to compete in certain international markets.

"We can't do enough unilaterally here in the United States to turn the world wheat situation around," Schwensen said. "There's too much wheat in the world. It's going to take some multinational effort."

For House GOP leader...

Gulf war has made quite a difference

WASHINGTON (AP) — By last Christmas, Bob Michel was thinking maybe he should call it quits.

The House Republican leader was tired of getting crushed by the Congress' majority Democrats. And those noisy conservative activists within his own party kept nipping at his heels.

He couldn't get President Bush's budget agreement approved in October, and then in November the Republicans lost even more seats in Congress.

"A few days prior to Christmas, I was really in the downers," Michel said during a break in a GOP conference in Plainsboro, N.J., last week. "What's the use, we were so divided."

He told his old friend and Illinois colleague Ed Madigan that if reapportionment forced the two of them into one congressional district next year, he'd step aside and retire, play more golf.

But what a difference a war makes.

"I've got a different feeling about it now, to be perfectly frank," Michel said with a grin.

Michel, the longest serving of the four party leaders in Congress, has seen his status raised more by the Persian Gulf victory than perhaps anyone in office except Bush himself.

Nearly a half-century after he enlisted as an infantryman in World War II and earned a Purple Heart for combat wounds, Michel led his Republican troops in the House to near-unanimous support for giving the president war authority.

Following the cease-fire with Iraq, he pushed through a Republican-sponsored resolution commending the U.S.-led operation. Then, in an almost unheard-of occurrence, the GOP version of a savings-and-loan bailout bill passed last week.

All this took place when the Republicans have 100 fewer members in the House than the Democrats. Michel hasn't seen such success since, as a new leader in 1981, he pushed through President Reagan's economic program.

"It's just the kind of thing that becomes kind of infectious," he said.

Michel's prose may be as plain as ever, but the lawmakers who work with him say he has changed.

"He's back in the saddle," said Rep. John J. Rhodes III, R-Ariz., a loyal supporter.

Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., the deputy leader who fought Michel and Bush on the budget, long viewed Michel as someone who was holding things up.

U.S. Congressmen send campaign money to Harrisburg

WASHINGTON (AP) — Every 10 years, U.S. House members become nervous spectators as their district lines are redrawn by state legislators back home to reflect population shifts.

At least this time, the federal lawmakers are not sitting idly. Some have been donating money to the campaigns of the people in whose hands their district boundaries rest.

While it is not unusual for members of Congress to make occasional election-time donations to their state counterparts, this is a time when the members of Congress have a stake in the outcome.

"I don't think there's anything wrong with them paying extra attention. Every elected official is out there trying to survive," said Robert Jubelirer, R-Blair, president pro tem of the Pennsylvania Senate.

Rep. Martin Frost, D-Texas, said he established a special political committee that made $40,000 in contributions to state legislative candidates, as well as candidates for governor and lieutenant governor.

Reps. Joe McDade and Curt Weldon, both R-Pa., invited Pennsylvania Republican leaders and Bush administration Cabinet members to a fundraiser last year that collected $50,000 for GOP state legislative hopefuls.

Rep. Bill Paxon, R-N.Y., gave $20,000 to his party's legislative campaign committees between October 1989 and October 1990. Of that, $17,500 went to the New York State Senate Republican Campaign Committee.

Texas, Pennsylvania and New York are all among states that will see congressional seats shifted as the result of the 1990 census. State lawmakers will be redrawing the district maps.

The nation's 435 congressional seats are divided up every 10 years to reflect population shifts and ensure that states remain properly represented. California, which will gain seven seats, is the big winner along with Florida and Texas, which will gain four and three, respectively. New York will lose three seats and Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan and Ohio will each lose two.

House members have reason to be concerned about redistricting. They could find their district deluged with voters of the opposite party. Worse for some, states losing seats must merge neighboring districts, often forcing an election between incumbents.

Jubelirer said the goal is for state and federal lawmakers to communicate more, even when redistricting is not going on. "Some of them (congressmen) we hear from every 10 years, some we never hear from at all. In the last several years, we have tried to establish a dialogue with them and we have," he said.

The effects of redistricting can last years. Former seven-term Democrat Doug Walgren, D-Pa., blamed his election defeat last November partly on the GOP-dominated state Legislature that redrew his district boundary lines eight years earlier. "This district was designed in 1982 to elect Republicans," Walgren said.
