Q—In the advertisement in last Sunday's paper concerning teacher salary, does this include coaching and/or other supplements?

A—No. The ad does not include supplements, career ladder or health insurance.

In Brief

MHMR suit

DALLAS (AP) — An attorney representing mentally retarded residents receiving state care says he will ask a federal judge to order more than $230 million worth of reforms.

David Ferleger, of Philadelphia says he will ask U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders of Dallas to expand a 17-year-old class-action suit to include residents of all 13 state schools. The court will also be asked to place monitors in each of the schools.

"My goal is to show the judge that the relief already granted is not enough," Ferleger said late Thursday. "We need new orders that focus on the individual person."

Local

No meeting

Due to conflicts, the chamber's tourism/retirement committee will not meet in April.

The committee does plan to schedule a May meeting.

Rescheduled

The meeting between Snyder City Council and Scurry County Commissioners Court for Thursday evening was rescheduled for April 4 at Western Texas College.

Egg hunt

Snyder merchants are sponsoring an Easter egg hunt at 2 p.m. Saturday in Towle Park.

Children will be divided into two groups — preschoolers and those kindergarten through the third grade. There will be special prize eggs hidden for each age division.

Children are to bring their own sacks or baskets.

Exit level tests begin April 2 at high school

Exit Level TAAS and TEAMS retakes for Snyder High School students are scheduled April 2-4 at the high school.

Juniors who did not master one or more parts of the Exit Level TAAS test during the October administration will retake the appropriate sections according to the following schedule:

- Writing—Tuesday, April 2;
- Reading—Wednesday, April 3;
- Mathematics—Thursday, April 4.

Juniors and seniors who have previously taken, but not mastered, the Exit Level TEAMS tests may retake the tests according to this schedule:

- English Language Arts—Wednesday, April 3;
- Mathematics—Thursday, April 4.

Others who are out of school, but still need to pass one or more sections of the TEAMS/TAAS in order to graduate may also retake the tests at this time.

In order to graduate from a Texas public high school, students must master all sections of the appropriate Exit Level test. Anyone needing additional information may contact Janie Brown at 573-9364, or the high school counselor's office.

'She Stoops' advances

Snyder takes Best Actor, Actress, too

Snyder High School drama department's production of "She Stoops to Conquer" was one of two plays to advance from District 2-4 UIL One Act competition at Western Texas College Thursday.

Local students also took home several individual honors, including Best Actor and Best Actress. The students were under the guidance of drama director Jerry Worsham.

Levelland's "Bus Stop" will join Snyder in advancing to Area competition which will be held April 5 at Snyder High School. Frenship's production of "And They Danced Real Slow in Jackson" was selected to serve as the alternate.

Snyder High's Kristi Mize was selected as Best Actress; J.K. Palmer was chosen Best Actor. Classmates Emily King, Jennifer Purcell and Casey Franks were all named to the All-Star Cast. John Conger received honorable mention.

Other All-Star Cast members were Rhonda Davis of Dunbar, Shannon Helms and Scott Rankin of Levelland, Michelle Tichy of Frenship and Penny Johnson of Estacado.

Honorable mention went to Conger, Danny Seely of Lamesa, Michael Williams of Dunbar, Gheslaine Cobb and Russ Roten of Levelland, Kyle Karpe of Frenship and Glen Branson and Michael Rutherford of Estacado.

Lamesa performed "Once Upon a Clothes Line;" Dunbar Struggs, "Where Have All the Lightning Bugs Gone?;" and Estacado, "Louder, I Can't Hear You."

The UIL ready writing contest was held Thursday with local students Amy Armstrong, Christy Christenson and Melissa Huddleston entered. However, results will not be posted until Saturday.

Literary events were to continue today with preliminary rounds in cross examination debate and Lincoln-Douglas (see PLAY, page 8)

Morales to seek delay of school finance deadline

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General Dan Morales today said he will ask the courts to give legislators more time to solve the school finance dilemma.

In a letter to lawmakers, Morales said he would seek to extend Monday's deadline until June 1.

"It is my belief that all participants in the difficult process of drafting an equitable school finance measure have worked with diligence and responsibility," Morales said.

Lawmakers aren't due back until Tuesday, the day after the Texas Supreme Court's deadline for legislators to devise a reform plan or face an order to halt state spending on public education.

The Supreme Court unanimously ruled unconstitutional the current $14 billion-a-year school finance system, which relies on state aid, local property taxes and some federal money.

Differences in local property wealth lead to wide disparities in

"You (lawmakers) deserve to be given the full length of the regular legislative session to complete the task," he said.

However, Morales said, he can't foresee "any legal justification" for getting any extensions beyond June 1.

Gray McBride, the attorney general's press secretary, said the motion seeking the two-month extension would be filed in Travis County District Court about mid-day today. Morales also is seeking a speedy decision from the judge.

The Legislature took a long Easter weekend, leaving the fate of 3.3 million school children up to state court.

education funding, and the court said poor districts must be equitably funded.

Poor school districts that sued over the funding system will ask that local as well as state spending be cut off, said their lawyer, Al Kauffman of the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund.

District Judge F. Scott McCown, who is overseeing the case, has scheduled a 9 a.m. hearing Monday to get a report on legislative action from Morales. McCown also may consider motions from other parties in the case.

Cogdell Hospital board hears favorable audit report for '90

Cogdell Memorial Hospital showed a positive income for 1990 and should stay aggressive to continue the upswing, Larry Anderson, representative of Mason, Warner & Co., P.C., told board members Thursday evening.

The presentation of the 1990 audit was the focus of March's board meeting, which included approval of the monthly financial and patient census statements and some informational items from CEO Tim Lancaster.

Lancaster told the board that the joint commission would be in Snyder May 13-14 for its review of the hospital. He also set a hospital strategic planning session for 8 a.m. April 23 in the board room.

The planning session goes hand-in-hand with recommendations from Mason, Warner & Co. that the hospital not fall into complacency.

"To have a year which shows $400,000 net is a refreshing change, but I would encourage you not to be complacent on where you are after this year," said Anderson, who presented the 1990 audit. "It's easy to sit back and say 'we've got the corner turned.'"

Anderson stressed that the board "Look at your facility and decide where you want to go, where you want to be in the next five to 10 years."

He told the board that it was imperative that the hospital build up its reserves to be prepared for depreciation, updates in technology and possible changes in Medicaid and Medicare.

Cogdell completed the 1990 year with a net income of $429,177 — a stark contrast to a negative $98,872 in 1989.

The hospital showed a fund balance, less liabilities, of $6,211,046 at the end of 1990 and cash at $1,458,667.

The February financial statement as presented by Lancaster indicated an operating income of $20,423, a net income of $46,010 and a hospital cash balance of $1,492,468.

For the month, Cogdell performed 50 surgeries, had 14 births and 593 emergency room visits.

There were 108 acute admissions for the month. The acute average daily census was 17.3. The long term average daily census was 28.9.

All board members were present to include Brenda Hedges, Doug Foster, Roland Longoria, Jim Palmer, Bill Wilson III and G.A. Parks Jr.

"For the uninitiated, that's the Environmental Protection Agency that has made an art form out of employing those anti-establishment demonstrators of the sixties and giving them high paying jobs to tell us what we've been doing wrong on this planet for the past 200 years.

Bentsen wants to know about free trade plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says the Bush administration could boost congressional support for a controversial free trade agreement with Mexico by revealing how labor and environmental concerns will be addressed.

Bentsen has asked President Bush to outline by May 1 how he would address disparities in wages and environmental regulations between the two countries during negotiations to create a free trade zone from the Yukon to the Yucatan.

The deadline is nearing for Congress to decide whether to give the administration "fast-track" authority to negotiate a non-amendable trade agreement with Mexico and Canada. Critics have mounted an aggressive campaign to derail the talks.

Bentsen, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he plans a hearing in April on a resolution to kill the two-year fast-track extension.

Asked Thursday whether he thought the administration was doing a good job lobbying Congress to extend the fast-track, Bentsen said: "They'll have done a better job when they answer some of the questions I've asked them."

Bentsen's House counterpart, Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., has also sought answers to those questions. On Wednesday, House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., announced his support for the free trade agreement was contingent on "the inclusion of assurances that American jobs will not be lost in droves."

Opponents of the fast-track extension, including textile industries, consumer activists like Ralph Nader, environmentalists, organized labor and some agricultural groups, claim a free trade agreement could prompt an exodus of jobs to Mexico, where wages are a fraction of U.S. levels.

Critics also claim lax enforcement of environmental regulations south of the Rio Grande would give companies that relocate in Mexico a competitive advantage over those that remain in the United States. Others fear Mexican produce grown with pesticides that don't meet U.S. standards would be entering the country.

Advocates say lifting tariffs and other trade barriers will create jobs in the United States by expanding markets for U.S. goods in a country of 83 million. Texas in particular stands to gain, being a gateway to the south.

Bentsen, who supports the fast-track extension, said Texas provided Mexico about one-third of the $29 billion worth of U.S. goods it imported last year.

Bentsen, who is also concerned about an exodus of jobs, said negotiating with Mexico gives the United States an opportunity to address such issues as wage disparities and pollution controls.

"But if we don't negotiate, those concerns will remain there, there will be no attempt to correct them," Bentsen said in an interview. "If you're going to have people going down to Mexico, they can do that right now."

On the question of pollution, he said, "How do you get rid of it unless you negotiate. If you don't negotiate, you lose that chance."

He said Mexican President Carlos Salinas de Gortari has done "very courageous things" in the environmental area, particularly in ordering the closure of a state-owned oil refinery blamed for polluting the air in Mexico City.

Charges dropped against accused rapist after DNA test performed

HOUSTON (AP) — A sexual assault charge has been dropped against a Houston roofer who spent five months in jail before genetic fingerprinting showed he was innocent, authorities say.

Jackie T. Dawson, 27, was arrested minutes after the May 27, 1990, rape.

A woman identified Dawson as the man who offered her a beer, then dragged her into some bushes and raped her. He spent the next five months in the Harris County Jail.

What won Dawson's freedom was a genetic technique known as "DNA fingerprinting."

The blood specimen Dawson voluntarily gave police in jail July 31 was compared with substances from the victim obtained for the police "rape kit." The test showed he was innocent.

At the urging of prosecutor Dave Pendleton, Dawson was freed Thursday when State District Judge Doug Shaver signed a dismissal order in the sex assault case because of "insufficient evidence."

"I never thought they'd get a conviction out of this," Dawson said.

Defense attorney Anthony Osso wasn't too confident, saying that if it hadn't been for the DNA test, "he'd have had a problem."

The negative DNA test result last summer convinced Shaver to grant Dawson a pretrial bond while surprised prosecutors decided what to do next.

On Oct. 4, weeks after he was freed from jail, Dawson agreed to give a saliva sample for more comparisons. But its outcome wasn't sufficient to establish guilt or innocence.

Pendleton asked Shaver to force Dawson to give more samples for another round of tests, but the judge refused.

Pendleton said he had to tell the victim the case had been dropped against Dawson.

Richards signs oil spill bill

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' new oil spill response law will be the nation's strongest, state officials say.

Gov. Ann Richards signed the plan into law Thursday, creating a $25 million spill response fund through a 2-cent per barrel fee on crude oil moving through state waters.

"It is a really landmark piece of legislation," Richards said, crediting cooperation of industry and environmental interests with its passage.

"This was a wonderful piece of legislation in that we saw the environmentalists, we saw coastal residents and we saw business working together to get it passed," Richards said.

One of the bill's authors, Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, noted that it was signed into law on the eve of the second anniversary of the disastrous Exxon Valdez oil spill in Alaska.

"Hopefully, with this bill we won't have a two-year anniversary of such a tragedy in Texas," Parker said. "Now, Texas will have a well-ordered plan for an immediate response to oil spills that destroy the Gulf Coast and damage our fishing and tourism industry."

The new law follows by less than a year two major oil spills off the Texas coast.

In June 1990, the tanker Mega Borg spewed 3.9 million gallons into the Gulf of Mexico about 60 miles off the coast of Galveston. Then in July, a collision between a tanker and two barges dumped 700,000 gallons into Galveston Bay.

State officials said the new law will allow them to respond in hours, rather than days, when similar accidents occur in the future.

"We now have the best oil spill response plan in America," said Land Commissioner Garry Mauro.

Funeral Director Defends His Profession's 'Way of Death'

By Abigail Van Buren

1991 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: As a funeral director for 26 years, I had to reply to your recent column on the high cost of funerals and the American tradition of viewing the body.

One of the privileges of living in a free country is the right to make one's feelings known, as Jessica Mitford has done for years on the subject of funerals and funeral directors.

Concerning the "bizarre ritual" of viewing the deceased — funeral directors did not originate that tradition; the families of the deceased did.

Instead of writing to a memorial society for information on "dignified, low-cost funerals," as you suggested, why not call your local funeral director and tell him what you want? He will gladly go over your options and discuss price with you.

As for people going into debt to provide lavish, expensive funerals as an indication of the value they placed on the deceased — I am proud to say that I do not know of one funeral director who would try to take advantage of anyone.

DAVID B. RICHARDSON,
LYNN, MASS.

DEAR MR. RICHARDSON: Thank you for writing. I am pleased to give funeral directors equal time.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I just received what at first appeared to be a formal invitation to attend the graduation ceremonies of a young man whose father was "immensely" proud of his son's record.

Actually, it was not an invitation; it was more like an apology. It stated: "Since there is limited seating in the auditorium, there is no room for you, but we want you to know that our son is graduating from this fine old Virginia prep school." Then a "few" of the boy's accomplishments were listed.

How do you size this up, Abby?
APPALLED

DEAR APPALLED: Please don't blame the boy. His father was so prideful, he wanted you to know that even though "there was no room for you," his son was being graduated from a fine old Virginia prep school.

I would give the father an A for good intentions, and a D minus for taste.

DEAR ABBY: AIDS has reached epidemic proportions, horrifying numbers of crack babies are being born, abusive parents are slaughtering their children, tens of thousands of teen-agers are getting pregnant, homeless people crowd our streets, adolescent alcoholism plagues our schools, our elderly are sadly neglected, our mentally ill are vegetating because treatment is unaffordable, our banks are failing, our planet is badly polluted, our prisons are overcrowded and crime is rampant.

And "Mrs. Springer in Mesa" is completely pushed out of shape because five years ago, a clerk in a small business establishment asked what her first name was, and her priest called her "Sherri."

Tell her to lighten up, Abby. And thanks for the best laugh I've had in a very long time.

Teachers' retirement system is slammed for its extravagance

AUSTIN (AP) — The head of the Teacher Retirement System of Texas defended his agency from charges of extravagance leveled by State Comptroller John Sharp, who gave system leaders his office's first "silver snout" award.

Sharp on Thursday criticized top TRS management for having "their noses buried deep in the public trough" when they spent more than $700,000 on furnishings for the system's new headquarters in Austin.

The comptroller said officials "engaged in a truly profligate spending spree in which they exhibited the imagination and panache — and the sensitivity — of a Donald Trump or a Leona Helmsley."

"I do not think anything wrong was done," said Ronald Douglas, acting executive secretary of the Teacher Retirement System since Feb. 15.

Douglas took reporters on a tour of the year-old, $18 million building, used by about 360 employees.

"This is a very pleasant place to work. We don't make any bones about that," he said.

Sharp said pension fund officials do a good job of managing the $800 million the agency receives annually from the Legislature. But he characterized some of their operations as "downright ungodly."

"Clearly, these TRS bureaucrats place their own self-interest ahead of the financial best interest of Texas teachers, who have every right to squeal like a pig at the way their investment funds have been spent," Sharp said.

Ollie Besteiro, president of the Texas State Teachers Association, joined in the attack.

"Officials of the Retirement System have no business living like millionaires while thousands of retired teachers and school employees are living like paupers," Ms. Besteiro said.

"It is outrageous that the TRS has consistently resisted benefit improvements that TSTA and others have proposed over the years while its own executives surround themselves in luxury, including a first-class health and fitness center that TRS members can't use," she said.

The furnishings criticized by Sharp included: $272,000 in custom-made office furniture; $235,000 in artwork; $50,000 for custom exercise and gym equipment, for use by agency staffers but not by retired school teachers; $43,000 for plants and a greenhouse; $8,800 for china dinnerware; $5,000 for a custom, marble-topped credenza; and $2,600 for a Baldwin piano.

In addition, Sharp blasted the agency's 24-foot-long oval wood conference table, inlaid with state-of-the-art microphones, custom-made at a cost of $38,000. Twenty-four custom-made chairs matching the table cost another $41,400.

Douglas said the agency had tried to save money in the long run by purchasing furniture that would last.

"The question I would have is, what cost would be associated with furnishing a building?" he asked. "Obviously, you have to have desks and chairs and so forth and other equipment to provide service."

The china is used in the agency cafeteria, which is operated for a profit and open to the public, Douglas said. In addition, he said much of the building's artwork was purchased from active and retired credit union members, and could appreciate in value over time.

Douglas pointed out that nearly half of the money paid into the pension fund, some $650 million annually, comes from members. And some 55 percent of the benefits paid come from interest on investments by the fund, which totals about $27 billion.

The buildings and furnishings frequently are used by retirement system members, Douglas said.

Controversial pool issue goes to voters

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Voters go to the polls this weekend to decide whether to continue building a multimillion dollar aquatic center in an election that could be used as a catharsis for angry taxpayers.

El Paso County voters will be asked Saturday to approve or defeat $11.5 million in general obligation bonds. They would be used to finish building an aquatic center that when completed would boast an Olympic-size pool, a diving well, under water viewing room, classroom space and other features.

The dilemma voters face, however, is if they defeat the bonds, they will be agreeing to take about a $6 million loss on completed construction. But if they approve the bonds, there is question whether the pool will support itself or mean paying much more to cover operating costs.

Despite the potential losses, Commissioner Charles Hooten has been urging voters to defeat the bond proposal.

"I think the voters should send a message to all politicians that they should never try to ram something down their throats again," Hooten said.

The pool was a project approved in October on a 3-2 vote by the El Paso County Commissioners court. Former County Judge Luther Jones, former Commissioner Martie Georges and Commissioner Orlando Fonseca supported the project. Jones and Georges were defeated in March primaries and left office in December.

The center, originally financed with revenue bonds, led to a lawsuit against the commissioners, and a grand jury investigation and a lot of shouting matches. The suit and indictments were dismissed. But the bickering continues.

"I think it (the center) has become a yardstick that will serve as a caution sign for future office holders," said Tom DiMaond, attorney for eight citizens who sued the county. "No one's going to want to come close to doing anything like this again."

Despite its history, the center has won the support of area competitive swimmers.

"I don't think they can spend $11.5 million on anything that can make everybody happy," said Leo Cancellare, director of the El Paso Aqua Posse.

Cancellare said it is difficult to schedule training at the eight El Paso pools. And the city can't attract national swim meets because existing pools don't meet all competition requirements.

Cancellare wants voters to forget the political history of the pool and look at its merits.

Ex-mayor seeks asylum in the U.S.

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A popular Mexican politician who made history by defeating a member of the ruling government party would be killed if he returned to his homeland, a state legislator testified.

Ernesto Poblano, who walked across the border in January 1989, is seeking political asylum in the United States, a rarity among Mexican citizens.

A second day of testimony in Poblano's immigration hearing was held Thursday. A third is scheduled May 3.

"It's even more rare that Mexican political figures are here testifying (on Poblano's behalf)," said Carlos Spector, Poblano's attorney.

Poblano, elected mayor of Ojinaga, Chihuahua, in 1974, was the first member of the National Action Party or PAN to defeat a mayoral candidate of the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, PRI. Ojinaga is across the border from Presidio, Texas, about 200 miles southeast of El Paso.

Saul Ruiz Arriaga, a state congressional delegate in Chihuahua, testified in the hearing before Judge William Nail Jr. that Poblano and several of his political cohorts are accused of being drug traffickers by the Mexican government.

Ruiz said Poblano probably could return to Mexico and become involved in politics again.

"But I'm convinced that later we would be attending his funeral," Ruiz said.

Ruiz said Poblano's troubles began in 1980 when Poblano was a popular candidate for mayor of Nuevo Casas Grandes, about 100 miles southwest of El Paso. Although Poblano's name was removed from the election ballot, he still won the election, defeating the PRI candidate.

But Ruiz said the government forced Poblano to step down.

Give it to 'em

By James Jacoby

There is an excellent general principle that if you must lose two tricks in a suit, you should lose the first as quickly as possible. This applies to both the declarer and the defenders.

On today's hand, most declarers would see overtrick signs light up once the dummy appeared. They would win the first trick with the king of spades and lead a diamond to dummy's king. If they were playing against their relatives, they might survive because East would probably win immediately with the ace and fire back a spade, hoping partner had led from a suit headed by the A-Q-J.

Enemies think more clearly. There are 10 points in the dummy, and East holds nine. At best West will have five or six points, depending on the range of South's opening one-no-trump bid. A good East will duck the first diamond trick to the king and will duck the diamond queen as well. Now the diamond suit is dead, and the contract finishes one down.

A better declarer counts his tricks before starting the play. He sees six top tricks, and so realizes he needs only three diamond tricks, not four. He wins the first trick because he doesn't want West to switch to a heart, threatening to remove dummy's entry to the long diamonds. Then he leads a diamond to the dummy's nine. The defenders have no answer. East wins with the 10 and returns a major suit, but declarer wins in hand and leads a second diamond, eventually dislodging the ace. There is still an entry in the dummy and nine tricks roll home.

Wind postpones Tiger baseball tilt

WOLFFORTH — The District 2-4A baseball opener scheduled for Thursday here between Snyder and Frenship was postponed until today at 4 p.m. due to windy conditions.

The contest, slated for Frenship High School Field, will pit Snyder's Tigers, 4-12 on the season, against the 14-5 Frenship Tigers.

Starting pitchers are expected to be Terry Stephens of SHS and Frenship's B.J. Krier.

In games played within the loop Thursday, Lamesa shut out Levelland, 2-0, and Estacado hammered Dunbar, 19-5.

Green selected new Midland coach

MIDLAND — Howard College basketball coach Steve Green was named the new head coach at Midland College Thursday night, replacing Reggie Franklin, whose contract was not renewed following the just-completed season.

Green forged an 81-19 record with the Hawks and wound up the last two regular seasons ranked No. 1 in the nation.

He was also a candidate for the vacant Texas Tech coaching position.

"This is going to be a new, exciting challenge for me," Green said.

Green has also served at Arkansas, Lamar and Houston.

Reports give Raider post to Evans

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Texas Tech Athletic Director T. Jones is expected to name Rob Evans, a Texas Tech assistant for 15 years, to be the Red Raiders' new head basketball coach early next week, according to a published report.

Evans, who spent this season as an assistant to Eddie Sutton at Oklahoma State, could be named as early as Monday, the Houston Chronicle reported Thursday quoting an unidentified source.

Evans reportedly will name current Tech assistant James Dickey as his top aide, the Chronicle reported.

Evans is scheduled to return from the NCAA Final Four at Indianapolis this weekend. He and Dickey were considered the top candidates for the job.

Rangers give Inky walking papers

PORT CHARLOTTE, Fla. (AP) — Texas Rangers outfielder Pete Incaviglia was placed on irrevocable waivers, the team announced today.

If Incaviglia, 26, is not claimed by Wednesday, he will become a free agent, a statement from the Rangers said. The move leaves 36 players on the Rangers' active spring training roster here.

Rangers general manager Tom Grieve said it was a very difficult decision.

"Pete has been an integral part of our ballclub for the last five years," said Grieve. "He's given us great effort during that time, and we appreciate it very much."

But Grieve said with the emergence of other offensive players, the Rangers felt it was in the best interest of the team to "go another direction."

Incaviglia batted .233 with 24 homers and 85 RBI in 1990. In five years with the Rangers, his average was .248.

In spring training this year, Incaviglia was batting .231, with one home run and one RBI in 14 games, the Rangers said.

Pokes want draft selections signed

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys say they plan to require all their three first-round draft choices to sign contracts before they are officially chosen by the team.

But the pre-draft contract plan, which is drawing opposition around the National Football League, could be blocked by Commissioner Paul Tagliabue.

The plan by coach Jimmy Johnson and owner Jerry Jones to get pacts before their choices are officially made in the April 21-22 draft would ensure that all could participate in minicamps and training camp.

The Cowboys might negotiate with as many as 10 to 15 players on draft day to fill the three draft slots for 11th, 12th and 14th overall, Jones said.

Broncos ink Ker to Plan B contract

DENVER (AP) — The Denver Broncos signed Crawford Ker, a Plan B free agent from the Dallas Cowboys, to a contract. The Broncos now have signed two players during the free-agency period.

Ker was a third round draft pick for the Dallas Cowboys in 1985. The 6-foot-3, 285-pound Ker had been a starting guard for Dallas since 1986.

Rebels staying under wraps

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — How different are UNLV and Duke?

Forget about basketball styles and recent performances in NCAA championship games. Let's talk approach to the Final Four weekend.

UNLV, the team which has a chance to join the greatest teams of college basketball history, has suddenly become the Hidden' Rebels. Coach Jerry Tarkanian is keeping his defending national champions from the media and autograph seekers. You may see the Runnin' Rebels as they prepare for Saturday's semifinal against Duke, but you won't talk to them.

"At the Big West tournament and in the NCAA, that's all we did," Tarkanian said of interviews and autographs. "It was good to get away from basketball for a couple of days."

He gave the players two days off and guard Anderson Hunt needed them after a minor auto accident on Sunday. Hunt did practice Thursday, although the high school gym the Rebels used had the windows covered so no one could watch.

The sudden concern with keeping the players focused seems appropriate considering the Rebels can make history with two wins this weekend.

They are looking to be the first repeat champions since UCLA in 1973 and the first undefeated champions since Indiana in 1976.

"It has not been a problem," Tarkanian said of keeping his team focused. "There is more hype and excitement surrounding the games. We are required to go to press conferences and that can cause some distractions. But this is exciting and a challenge. Every kid dreams of getting to and playing in the Final Four."

Most Duke players have had their dreams come true over and over. This is the Blue Devils' fourth consecutive trip to the Final Four and fifth in six years. Yet, they have never left with the trophy, losing to UNLV 103-73 last season.

Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski

took just the opposite approach to the weekend than Tarkanian.

Krzyzewski said he was disappointed his team was situated in a hotel away from downtown Indianapolis.

"I would have like our players to stay in the downtown area instead of the airport area so they would be able to experience the Final Four and feel a part of it," he said. "This is a great event in their lives. The challenge of maintaining focus in the midst of all the excitement is something which will help the players grow."

Krzyzewski knows he will have matchup problems, but that doesn't mean he will stray from his defensive theories.

"We will stay with our usual man-to-man defense because our kids are more comfortable with it," he said. "We do have matchup problems because of their size, but we hope to make up for them."

North Carolina and Kansas open the semifinal doubleheader, and those are teams which know each other well because Kansas' Roy Williams served as an assistant to North Carolina's Dean Smith for 10 years.

"Roy and I have found our system to be very successful," Smith said. "I don't think the fact we run the same system will have a big bearing on the outcome. It will be like an intrasquad game in a sense with both teams run-ing basically the same thing."

This is Smith's first trip to the Final Four since winning it all in 1982.

Bob Bullock unveils proposal for income tax

AUSTIN (AP) — A 5 percent personal income tax could raise more than $12 billion for state government by 1994-95, according to a draft proposal from Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock.

Bullock has proposed starting both personal and corporate income taxes to raise additional money for a state budget that is projected to run at least $4.6 billion short for 1992-93.

But Gov. Ann Richards said again Thursday that it is too soon to talk about tax hikes, insisting that lawmakers wait for state auditors to complete a study of government spending and for a panel of experts to make tax recommendations.

"I really think it is premature to be talking about any kind of taxation until those two issues are resolved," she said.

According to a draft of his tax plan, Bullock's proposal could reduce the state sales tax levy, limit local property taxes, give homeowners and renters income tax credits for school property levies they do pay and eliminate the corporate franchise tax.

"The net effect of this proposal is that the state will provide a fairer tax base for the citizens of Texas," the proposal says, adding that an income tax would grow with the state's economy and be more stable than the current tax system.

Texas today is one of the few states with neither a personal nor corporate income levy. State government relies on numerous taxes, including the sales taxes, corporate franchise tax and severance taxes on oil and gas production.

According to the draft of Bullock's plan, a 5 percent state tax on personal income above $25,000 for a family of four would raise $8.2 billion in 1992-93 and $12.1 billion in 1994-95.

The proposal would exempt from taxation any retirement, Social Security and disability income, plus armed services pay.

It would give property taxpayers a direct credit against their income tax bill for local school taxes paid. That would be phased in, beginning at 33.3 percent in 1992 and rising to 100 percent in 1996, said Rafe Greenlee, Bullock's press secretary. Renters also would be given a form of property tax credit.

The 8 percent corporate earnings tax would replace the current franchise tax, which is paid by only some of the state's businesses, Greenlee said.

Bullock's proposal estimated that a corporate earnings tax would gross $2.1 billion in 1992-93, although the net income would be only $400 million due to elimination of the franchise levy. No estimate has been made for the 1994-95 corporate tax, Greenlee said.

The proposal recommends setting a limit on local school property taxes at a level below where they would be on Sept. 1, 1991, plus a combined limit on all local property taxes.

And it suggests the "option" of reducing the current 6 1/2-cent state sales tax by either one-fourth or one-half a penny.

Air chief fears victory is making war attractive

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — The U.S. general who masterminded the air war says he worries that the allies' crushing victory over Iraq is glorifying war to Americans.

"Because we made it look easy, people think it was easy — but it wasn't," said Air Force Lt. Gen. Charles A. Horner, head of Central Command Air Forces.

"This was a violently fought war, and we seized everything we got," he said.

In an interview Thursday at his headquarters in Riyadh, the 54-year-old general from Davenport, Iowa, bristled at media reports that the Iraqis didn't fight and the war was "just a cakewalk, a rollover."

Americans can't be allowed to forget that pilots faced intense anti-aircraft artillery and surface-to-air missiles, and soldiers were confronted by Iraqi tanks and artillery barrages, he said.

In the euphoria of victorious troops returning home, Horner said, he is concerned that Americans are going to forget the terror and tragedy of war.

"I worry that people will think war is attractive, that technology is what war is all about, my electronics vs. your electronics, or my guided bomber against your bunker," he said.

To combat the wave of instant glorification, he said, the American public should be reminded of the devastation in occupied Kuwait that led to the allied intervention, and the suffering of many Iraqis now fleeing their country to escape President Saddam Hussein's regime.

"The real question is not why his air force didn't fight. The question was how was his air force defeated," Horner said.

The key to the quick allied mastery of the skies, he said, was the decision to attack Saddam's military command and communications network, which the Iraqi leader needed to run the war from Baghdad.

Bombing raids cut communications between Iraqi troops in the field and their commanders in the Iraqi capital, disrupting military operations. Horner said the Iraqis' fatal flaw was not being able to improvise and decentralize operations after their main command operation was knocked out.

"You can't run a country the way he (Saddam) runs it and then expect people to be flexible," the general said. "When he created a system, it was 'You do it my way or that's it.'"

"We exploited that weakness right at the start ... and he never had a chance," Horner said.

Horner said Saddam miscalculated the allies' will and strength to retaliate for his Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

"If Saddam had been convinced this was going to happen to him, he probably wouldn't have invaded," the general said.

He said the Iraqi leader's decision to take on the Americans in the ground war "defies logic."

Saddam should have bargained for the contested Rumallah oil field and Bubiyan Island where he wants to build a port, Horner said.

Instead, Saddam watched the devastation of his military machine. "The man is incompetent," Horner said.

Services are pending for Lee Atwater

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lee Atwater, the rough and tumble political tactician who managed President Bush's 1988 campaign and went on to head the Republican Party, died today.

The 40-year-old South Carolinian had battled a brain tumor for more than a year.

Atwater died at George Washington University Hospital at 6:24 a.m. EST, according to Mary Matalin, chief of staff of the Republican National Committee.

President Bush mourned his longtime friend's death, and said Atwater "will always be in our memories."

"I'm very saddened. Barbara and I are heartsick about it. Our whole family is," Bush said during a picture-taking ceremony in the Oval Office. "Lee was very close friend to my sons and daughter as well as to Barbara and me. He suffered a lot."

He said Atwater "was doing a superb job" before his illness and had "practiced the art of politics with zeal and vigor."

Paul Kirk, who was chairman of the Democratic Party during the 1988 presidential campaign, said the Republicans had lost "a tenacious political gut-fighter."

Lee gave no quarter in pursuit of victory," Kirk called Atwater's death "a personal tragedy. Those feelings cross party lines."

A wiry, driven man constantly in motion, Atwater was at the peak of an extraordinary career when he was stricken.

But it was in politics that he made his mark and it often was a controversial one.

pointing a court master to come up with a new school finance system.

Senate Education Committee Chairman Carl Parker said Wednesday night that the Senate could end the legislative impasse by simply adopting an earlier House-passed school finance bill and sending it to the governor instead of the compromise plan.

The Dallas Morning News reported today that Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock would push such a maneuver when lawmakers reconvene on Tuesday. The House OK'd the measure in February, after being given a $1.2 billion cost estimate for two years. But the newspaper said Senate analysts estimate the cost at $2.2 billion.

Kauffman said poor school districts aren't eager to shut down schools. "We're saying that no money should be spent on an unconstitutional system ... We just want to make sure that we have the attention of everyone."

Even if only state money is cut off, some school districts have indicated they may have to close before the end of the school year. The state's next payment to school districts, a total of $534 million, is due to be sent out April 25.

Gov. Ann Richards said that schedule may buy the Legislature more time.

Two accidents reported to police

Snyder police worked two minor accidents, took a report for criminal mischief and made an arrest for assault Thursday.

An officer was called to a minor accident at 12:25 p.m. to the 2500 block of Ave F where a 1982 GMC driven by Augustine Garcia of 610 34th St. struck a parked 1980 Toyota owned by Don Light of 3005 Austin.

A second accident occurred minutes later at C&W One Stop on the Lamesa Hwy. A 1984 Ford pickup driven by James Phillips of Box 571 struck the building and a trash can.

Both mishaps were described as minor and no injuries were reported.

At 1 p.m., an officer was requested at Western Texas College Apartments. Cullen Johnson advised of some damage. A report for Class A criminal mischief was later filed.

Police were called to a domestic disturbance in the 1400 block of 20th St. at 11 p.m. A 27-year-old male was arrested and charged with the Class C assault of his wife. The subject was taken to Scurry County Jail.

Fire extinguished

Exxon employees were able to contain a small grass fire Thursday afternoon before local firemen arrived at the scene.

Units of Snyder Fire Department were called to the fire 18 miles southwest of the city at 3:45 p.m. However, Exxon employees using maintainers extinguished the small fire before local firefighters arrived at the rural location.

Commission agrees to increase park fees

AUSTIN (AP) — The cost to take a hike in a state park is about to take a hike.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission on Thursday gave tentative approval to raising more than 100 state fees for hunting, fishing, camping and entry to state parks.

The fees will be voted on one more time by the commission.

The fee package, scheduled to take effect Sept. 1, would generate about $74 million per year — an increase of $27.4 million, or nearly 60 percent.

State officials say more money is needed to improve the state parks, offset slumping or flat revenues from hunting licenses and the cigarette tax, and wean the agency from general tax funds.

With 20 million state park visitors per year, commission chairman Charles Nash of San Marcos said, "We need to open up more state parks. We need to get those on line."

Parks and Wildlife executive director Andrew Sansom said the increased fees will spread the cost of the parks system to the growing numbers of hikers and birdwatchers.

Both the Lone Star Chapter of the Sierra Club and the state Audubon Society support the fee increases.

Sansom said that public demand for more and better parks and wildlife protection has increased the need for stricter environmental enforcement. He said now the agency's legal staff is often pitted against attorneys who earn more than the entire department.

The course you presently set for yourself looks like a good one, and results should bear this out in the year ahead. Don't make changes without having valid reasons.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Usually, you're the type of person not easily swayed by dissenting opinions. However, today you may be pressured by purveyors of bad advice and make an unwise decision. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be tolerant today when dealing with people who don't grasp ideas as quickly as you do. In this case, it might be due to the way you convey instructions or information. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's best not to borrow tools or special equipment today that you don't know how to use properly. There's a possibility you might have to repair or replace what was loaned to you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you are indecisive about buying a big ticket household item today, perhaps you need more time to think it over. Don't rush in where bill collectors are likely to tread.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't worry so much about how individuals you're involved with are going to perform in a specific situation today. In actuality, they may be more uncertain about you than you are about them.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Developments that could be financially beneficial must not be treated indifferently today. If you do, there's a good chance what you had within your grasp could slip away.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Should you get careless closing a deal today, you may let two individuals, who could have been directed to do something to your advantage, off the hook.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Usually, you're good about keeping secrets, but today you might discuss something you shouldn't with individuals who didn't even have to probe you for this confidential information.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your sale's resistance could be rather low today, so it might be wise to steer clear of stores that offer unique merchandise. Once inside, you might end up buying gadgets you don't need.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Traditionally, you're a tenacious person who sticks to the course until your objective is achieved. However, these qualities may not be functioning today, and you might quit too early.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Subdue any inclinations to act upon impulse today, especially in your financial or business affairs. What sounds good at first might not stand up later.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you have recently become involved in a project, don't take shortcuts in the hope of getting things done quickly. You've heard that old bromide, "Haste makes waste." Heed it.

Death claims controversial archbishop

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Followers of rebel Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre, who died this week in Switzerland, say they are saddened by his death, but remain optimistic that his movement will continue to flourish in South Texas.

"It's a very sorrowful time, but we knew he was growing old, and that we would someday have to go on without him," said Glen Florance of Seguin, a longtime member and treasurer of St. Joseph's Traditional Catholic Chapel on San Antonio's North Side.

The French-born Lefebvre, whose campaign against Vatican reforms provoked a historic split in the Roman Catholic Church, died Monday of cancer at the age of 85.

His struggle with the Vatican culminated in 1988, when he consecrated four traditionalist bishops. The Vatican condemned the ceremony as an act of schism, a formal break with the Holy See, leading to the automatic excommunication of Lefebvre and the four new bishops.

Lefebvre resigned as titular head of his St. Pius X Fraternity of Priests in 1984, naming a German priest, the Rev. Franz Schmidberger, as new superior general. Schmidberger was not ejected from the church.

Lefebvre's followers reject most reforms decreed by the Second Vatican Council of 1963-65, particularly the Declaration on Religious Freedom and the new Mass that superseded the Tridentine Mass used from 1570 to 1969.

The movement has followers worldwide, particularly in the United States, France, Australia and South America. Independent reports have estimated that one out of four practicing Catholics sympathizes with traditionalist ideas.

"As far as our people are concerned, they're still in good standing," Florance said. "We never left the Catholic Church. We've been using the same Mass that has been said for the past 2,000 years."

Membership at the San Antonio chapel has grown from about 40 people five years ago to between 250 and 300, and is expected to continue growing, particularly after it receives its first resident priest, officials said.

The Priestly Society of St. Pius X, based in St. Louis, plans to send at least one priest by the fall of 1992, they said.

"People always say we're a splinter group of the (Roman) Catholic Church, but we consider ourselves part of the church," said Gene Garza, coordinator of the chapel. "Lefebvre used to always say, 'If it's Catholic, do it; If it's not Catholic, don't do it.'"

"There are a lot of traditional groups, but the society has never given up on working with Rome to resist modernist influences," said Garza, whose brothers-in-law, the Rev. Albert Gonzales of El Paso and the Rev. Richard Gonzales of Phoenix, Ariz., were ordained by the society in the mid-1980s.

Court: brothers' confessions may be used at their trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Erik Menendez told his brother, Lyle, "I can't kill anymore" after confessing to a psychologist that they shot their millionaire parents, a court disclosed in ruling the confession can be used as evidence.

The 2nd District Court of Appeal ruled Thursday that tapes and notes of conversations between Erik and Lyle Menendez and the psychologist may be used as evidence against the brothers at their trial.

The brothers' lawyers had argued that using the information would violate doctor-patient privilege. Defense attorney Joel R. Isaacson says the decision will be appealed to the California Supreme Court.

The three-judge appeals court ruled unanimously that doctor-patient privilege ceased on the grounds that the life of the psychologist, Jerome Oziel, was threatened.

The court's 24-page ruling quoted Oziel's girlfriend as saying she overheard Lyle Menendez, 23, tell Erik — the first to confess — that Oziel would have to die because he knew they had slain their parents.

She said 20-year-old Erik replied, between sobs: 'I can't stop you from what you have to do, but ... I can't kill anymore.' Jose and Kitty Menendez were shot to death in their Beverly Hills mansion on Aug. 20, 1989. Their sons were arrested a year later.

The brothers, who told police they came home to find the bodies, are being held without bail pending trial. They could face the death penalty if convicted.

Prosecutors have said the brothers killed their parents because they feared their father was changing his will to keep them from inheriting his $14 million fortune. Jose Menendez was an executive with Live Entertainment Inc., a video distribution company.

But the appeals court said the pair told Oziel, "They didn't kill their parents for money, but rather out of hatred and out of a desire to be free from their father's domination, messages of inadequacy and impossible standards."

The court also said Oziel had his girlfriend, Judalyn Smyth, eavesdrop on one of his sessions with both brothers after Erik confessed.

She said she posed as a patient in Oziel's waiting room and heard the two talking near the elevator. She said Lyle Menendez told his brother: "I can't believe you did this! I can't believe you told him!

I don't even have a brother now! I could get rid of you for this! Now I hope you know what we are going to have to do ... We've got to kill him and anyone associated to him."

It was then that Erik replied that he couldn't kill anymore, she said.

The court also said Lyle Menendez once asked Oziel if he was afraid.

"Dr. Oziel replied that ordinarily he didn't choose to live in fear," the court documents said. The ruling quoted Oziel as saying: "Lyle looked at me coldly and said, 'Neither did my father.'"

Oziel became so afraid that he armed his family with shotguns and considered leaving the country, the court said.

Baylor regents threaten to start seminary

By The Associated Press
Fundamentalist leaders of the nation's largest Protestant denomination are unimpressed with the threat by moderates to establish a Southern Baptist theological seminary at Baylor University.

"Conservatives within the Texas Baptist Convention have never called for Baylor to be a Bible school. But conservatives have called for Baylor to be true to the Bible," Southern Baptist Convention President Morris Chapman said Thursday. The Baylor Board of Regents announced Thursday the incorporation March 22nd of the George W. Truett Theological Seminary.

"It is designed as a contingency plan to be invoked if the fundamentalists continue to destroy the Southern Baptist seminaries," said Michael E. Bishop, Baylor vice president for communications.

The nation's largest Baptist-supported university could begin seminary operations on its Waco campus if regents determined the six seminaries run by the SBC were "being led away from their historic mission by extremist elements," Baylor president Herbert H. Reynolds said in a statement.

Truett, an 1897 Baylor graduate, was pastor of First Baptist Church of Dallas for 47 years until his death in 1944.

Rev. Jimmy Draper of Euless said the idea for the new school is based on unfounded assumptions.

"They (moderates) have been crying like Chicken Little for years and I think it's more of the same," said Draper, chairman of the board of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

"I think we have an adequate seminary system and certainly don't think the kind of education they would give at Baylor would enhance the education system," Draper said.

SBC executive committee chairman Paul Pressler agreed with Draper that there was no need for another seminary.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been diagnosed with peripheral neuropathy. Can this be treated and cured?

DEAR READER: Peripheral neuropathy means that one or more nerves in your legs or arms are not working properly. This is caused by nerve irritation, inflammation or injury, such as trauma, autoimmune diseases, infection, toxic agents (for example, antibiotic allergies, industrial poisons and lead), vitamin deficiency (especially the B group), diabetes, hypothyroidism and malignancies. The cause of the neuropathy must be identified before treatment can be considered.

Fortunately, many causes of this affliction are curable.

Neuropathy causes pain, numbness and weakness in the distribution of the affected nerves. For instance, carpal tunnel syndrome is neuropathy of the hand, produced by compression of the nerves in the wrist; it is treated with cortisone injections, physical therapy and surgical decompression. The neuropathy of diabetes usually affects the feet and may improve once the blood sugar is brought to normal with medication and/or diet. Metabolic neuropathy (caused by dietary deficiencies), which affects the hands and the feet, will usually improve once the deficiencies are corrected.

Therefore, in answer to your question, peripheral neuropathy has a legion of causes. Your problem can be successfully treated — and very likely cured — when the cause(s) have been identified.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Help I — Physical Illness." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their names and addresses to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: When my elderly friend is stressed and suffering from a rapid, irregular pulse, she inhales and exhales into a brown paper bag. How can inhaling carbon dioxide be therapeutic?

DEAR READER: I believe your friend has confused two common medical conditions: palpitations and hyperventilation syndrome. Healthy people, as well as those with heart ailments, may experience episodes of rapid irregular pulse. Such a "maverick" rhythm can often be arrested by stimulating the vagus nerves to slow the pulse.

During the so-called Valsalva maneuver, the patient briefly but vigorously strains, as though he or she were having a difficult bowel movement. This increases pressure in the chest which, in turn, stimulates the nerves to the heart, which slows the pulse. Gagging produces the same effect but is more unpleasant. The Valsalva maneuver is not related to re-breathing carbon dioxide; rather, it's the increased pressure that produces the effect.

Hyperventilation, on the other hand, is a frequent consequence of nervousness and anxiety. It is marked by rapid breathing that causes excess loss of carbon dioxide from the bloodstream, leading to numbness and tingling of fingers and lips, lightheadedness and fainting. Because carbon dioxide, once exhaled, is normally lost in the air, practitioners traditionally treat hyperventilation syndrome by having patients breathe into a paper bag. This re-circulates exhaled carbon dioxide into the lungs, prevents symptoms and is a harmless practice. Thus, paper-bag breathing is appropriate for hyperventilation syndrome but not necessarily for rapid pulse — unless the rapid heartbeat is a consequence of the hyperventilation.
