Moonlighting

DALLAS (AP) — Wise County's top lawman is still drawing his full $28,000-a-year-salary, even though he's been in Tennessee pouring concrete for the last six to eight weeks.

But Wise County Sheriff LeRoy Burch, under fire last year for drunken driving and assault arrests and the target of a federal probe, says there's nothing wrong with the second job arrangement.

"I'm not doing anything illegal. I'm not doing anything I'm ashamed of," Burch told WFAA-TV in Dallas.

County fair to feature musical entertainment

Scurry County Fair has always been big on entertainment, but Friday's fare will feature a special performance — a father and daughter country music team.

Kent and Jenni Finlay of Martindale, Texas, will perform at 5 p.m. and again at 8 p.m. in the county coliseum.

The father-daughter team has traveled extensively throughout the Southwest during the past four years, performing everywhere from national political conventions to dance halls.

Kent Finlay has been performing and writing country music for a number of years, playing in such diverse places as the Luckenbach Store in Luckenbach, the Lone Star Cafe in New York City and at Willie Nelson's July 4th picnics. In May of 1987, his daughter entered the act at age 8. Jenni, now 12, sings and plays the fiddle. She has recorded one album, "Me and My Dad," and is currently working on a second.

In the four years they have been performing together, they have covered a number of states. They performed on Good Morning America during the 1988 Democratic National Convention in Atlanta, as well as The Today Show and numerous regional television programs.

Kent Finlay has had moderate success with his original songs, as recorded by other artists as well as himself. Finlay's own recording of "What Makes Texas Swing" did well, and his Delta album, "Christmas Time In Luckenbach" has become a perennial Christmas standard at radio stations throughout the country. He has also written songs for network television.

In addition to the Kent and Jenni Finlay Show, entertainment will be held throughout the three-day fair on the coliseum stage. Among those performing will be the Senior Citizens Kitchen Band, Sunshine Choir and Deep Creek Cloggers. A Tumbleweed Toastmasters Tall Tales Contest is set for 6 p.m. Thursday. Martial arts, dance and tumbling exhibitions are also scheduled during the fair.

Booth construction began this morning and art exhibits are to start coming into the coliseum this afternoon. Entries in textiles, handicrafts, agricultural products, educational and community exhibits, canned goods, container-grown plants and open beef, dairy and breeding sheep begin at 1 p.m. Wednesday.

Attempted murder trial...

Defense calls no witnesses

The defense rested just before noon today without presenting any testimony in the attempted murder trial of 28-year-old Elisello "Clyde" Delao. Delao is on trial for the June 2 attempted murder of Joe Martinez.

In testimony presented by the prosecution, Police Sgt. Trevlyn Pitner said he responded to a fight in progress call in the 2000 block of Ave. L. on the evening of June 2. Pitner said he entered the residence of Felipe Martinez, Joe Martinez's brother, and found Joe Martinez semi-conscious lying on the couch in a "pool of blood" with a towel wrapped around his head.

The injured Martinez refused initial medical attention but was eventually taken to the hospital by a relative, according to Pitner. Joe Martinez said he had been beaten with a bat by Delao and another subject, Pitner testified.

Joe Martinez was taken to Cogdell for initial treatment but later transferred to a Lubbock hospital where he was treated for several days for a head injury.

Terry Vasquez, a neighbor of Felipe Martinez, testified he had seen the defendant and two other subjects arrive at the residence. After hearing yelling and cursing coming from the yard, Vasquez said he called the police.

He also testified that before police arrived, he had seen the defendant with a bat chasing Felipe Martinez and later striking a vehicle with the bat.

The eight woman, four man jury was to begin verdict deliberations this afternoon.

Prosecuting is District Attorney Ernie Armstrong. The defendant is being represented by Lubbock attorneys Jim Aldridge and Chuck Lanehart. District Judge Gene Dulaney is presiding.

People scurry to get vehicle insurance now

AUSTIN (AP) — Applications for auto insurance through an agency for people who otherwise cannot get coverage more than doubled during the first week of September, according to figures from the Texas Automobile Insurance Plan.

The surge, from an average of about 5,000 weekly this year to 12,000 during the first week of September, was attributed to a new law that imposes tougher sanctions on those who fail to carry automobile liability insurance.

All motorists who cannot obtain coverage through the voluntary market are legally entitled to get it through the insurance plan, at a price that averages 22 percent higher than the rates set by the State Board of Insurance.

The new law requires motorists to show proof of insurance — or in some cases financial responsibility — when they renew their driver's license or their license plates, have their annual auto inspection or alter their vehicle title. In addition, the fines for not having coverage were raised.

The Texas Automobile Insurance Plan does not write insurance. It serves as a clearinghouse by randomly assigning applications for coverage to insurance companies, which must write a policy for those it is assigned.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Prosperity is something that businessmen create and that politicians take credit for."

Just on the north edge of Brownwood is a religious sign that had an interesting message. It reads:

"Work for the Lord. The pay is not much, but the retirement plan is out of this world."

We were telling someone in the coffee shop about seeing the sign and they recalled one that was posted on a school marquee. The sign read:

"In the event of atomic attack, the federal ruling against prayer in this school is temporarily suspended."

Former SDN editor Wacil McNair once told us about a sign he observed in a little restaurant while on vacation near Richmond, Va. It read:

"Excitement: Two women plus one secret.

"Bedlam: Three women plus one bargain.

"Chaos: Four women plus one luncheon check."

Speaking of signs, there's a story about a big-city homeowner tired of vandalism, who posted notice to stay away from his property. He placed a large sign out front which read, "Beware of Canary."

A neighbor inquired why anybody should be wary of a canary.

The homeowner had a simple reply, "This one whistles for the Doberman."

Triumphant reformers get holdings

MOSCOW (AP) — Proud golden letters have vanished from the facade of the building. Some doors are sealed with wire or red wax. But other offices are already filled, handwritten notes listing their new occupants.

Just days ago, this vast marble building on Moscow's Old Square was the Soviet holy of holies — headquarters of the Communist Central Committee and other branches of the all-powerful party apparatus.

Now, the Russian Foreign Ministry has moved in, to be joined by other Russian government offices.

It is happening everywhere in the crumbling union. The collapse of the Communist Party has begun a scramble for the vast property holdings of the elite that has ruled the Soviet Union for nearly 74 years.

Critics condemn the action as illegal and authoritarian, saying the confiscation of property is often committed by ex-Communists who jumped from mid-level bureaucracy to the upper echelons in new republican institutions.

"The Russian (Federation) leadership, its Council of Ministers, all this gang of property managers has crossed the line of decency in this process of grabbing," said Andrei Malgin, editor of the radical weekly Stolitsa.

Activities of the Communist Party have been suspended, pending investigation of its role in the abortive coup by Soviet hardliners last month. But that hasn't stopped the confiscations from continuing.

Russian President Boris Yeltsin was among the first. On Aug. 25, he ordered all party assets transferred to his government. Other republics followed suit.

Communist estimates have listed party assets of 5.3 billion rubles ($9.5 billion) in property, and 2.4 billion rubles ($4.3 billion) kept in the Soviet State Bank.

Those property estimates, which are 10 to 15 years old, are believed low. Press reports estimate that cash deposits of the party have just increased because of 1 billion rubles discovered in a commercial bank.

The party possessed 4,500 buildings and other installations.

It ran 114 publishing houses and 81 printing shops employing 80,000 people and worth $1.3 billion rubles ($2.34 billion).

The dollar conversions are according to the official commercial exchange rate, although the ruble is worth far less on the black market.

Central Committee dachas near Moscow housed 1,800 families.

The Central Committee also had 570 Volga cars, about 100 buses, 140 trucks and other vehicles, its own clinic and hospital for 500 patients, a furniture factory employing 200 workers, the Oktyabrskaya Hotel with three buildings in Moscow, a special kindergarten for 450 children and numerous other properties.

Also included are priceless historical documents in the Central Archive.

Authorities say they will never know about assets such as hard currency that may be invested in private enterprises.

Now, the hundreds of thousands of people paid by the party are jobless. Officials say they will draw wages for three months, or until a job is found.

In Moscow, city hall is moving to a skyscraper once owned by Comecon, the now-defunct Communist economic bloc, and will run the adjacent Mir Hotel.

For professor Valentin Martemyanov of the Moscow Juridical Institute, the takeover is simply "trampling upon the law."

Survey: church role declines in moral life of Europeans

LONDON (AP) — West Europeans make up their own minds when making moral decisions on issues like abortion and are no longer influenced by what their church declares is right or wrong, an international study says.

The European Values Study compiled by academics and social researchers said religion is now considered less important than family, work, friends and leisure time.

Traditional religious belief is declining and the influence of the church in daily life is diminishing, said the report, released Monday.

"Economic development, social change and a greater emphasis on the individual may explain this growing secularization," the report said.

The compilers also in part pointed a finger at churches, saying "one reason for the declining importance of religion may be the church's apparent failure to help people tackle everyday problems."

Belief in heaven was highest in Northern Ireland at 86 percent and the Irish Republic at 85 percent, while belief in hell was 68 percent and 50 percent respectively.

Belief in heaven in the United States was put at 81 percent and 67 percent in Canada, while belief in hell was at 65 percent in the United States and 38 percent in Canada.

The report drew on 1990 public opinion surveys of about 1,400 people in each of 31 countries and compared the findings with a similar survey in 1981. It concentrated on Western Europe but made some comparisons with the United States and Canada. No margin of error was given.

Opting for a C-section delivery

DEAR DR. GOTT: Our daughter is expecting her first baby in March. Last month her obstetrician advised her the placenta was lower than the baby, and he hoped the condition would correct itself. As she enters her third trimester, there has been no change and a C-section is very probable. What causes this condition, and what risks are involved?

DEAR READER: When a fertilized ovum reaches the womb, it can attach anywhere on the uterine lining. Usually, this happy event occurs on one side of the uterus, the baby grows and is eventually delivered without complications.

However, in about one out of every 200 pregnancies, the ovum attaches in the lower uterus, often near the opening (cervix). The cause of this abnormality is unknown. As the placenta (the tissue that supports the fetus' metabolic needs) grows, it can literally block the opening. Called placenta previa, the condition does not affect the growing baby. But, at term, the tissue can prevent a normal vaginal delivery.

Although the decision whether to allow a vaginal delivery should be made by a qualified obstetrician, most specialists opt for Caesarian section, where the baby is removed through an abdominal incision. This is safer for both the mother and the baby.

Therefore, if your daughter has a placenta previa, the odds are that she will need a C-section. This is a standard procedure and should not cause her undue concern or alarm.

DEAR DR. GOTT: For the past two months my 8-year-old grandson has had trouble with leaking urine in the daytime. He's the oldest of four, and his mother comes down hard on him. Could this be emotional? They have no money, and it's almost impossible to get him to a doctor.

DEAR READER: Urinary incontinence in an 8-year-old boy could be due to emotional upset and tension. It could also be caused by a urinary infection or an abnormality in the urinary tract. I believe the youngest should be examined by a pediatrician. The child needs a diagnosis. He probably also needs a well-child exam and to have his inoculations brought up-to-date. While I share your concern about financial matters, a lack of money should not deprive your grandson of proper medical attention.

I have never met a pediatrician who'd refuse to care for a child because of money. In this respect, pediatricians are a special breed; they are like doctors used to be: concerned more about the patient care than the fees. Therefore, I urge you to take your grandson to a pediatrician. I am sure the doctor would be willing to reduce the fee — or waive it — if the boy is truly needy.

To give you more information, I am sending you free copies of my Health Reports "Kidney Disorders" and "Bladder." Other readers who would like copies should send $1.25 for each report plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title(s).

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You are now in a financial cycle where you could generate funds from several different sources. Depending upon your level of involvement, the amounts could be rather large.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your influence over your peer group is growing stronger. Friends from different walks of life may soon begin to play helpful, prominent roles in your affairs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) At this time, you're extremely adept at working things out so the ultimate results will not only benefit you but help those with whom you're involved.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Fulfillment of your material objectives are likely to take precedence over your other interests today. Conditions look favorable, provided you are practical rather than emotional.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your intuition can serve as a helpful guideline today, but it shouldn't be the dominating force. For best results, sound out your ideas on a respected adviser.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be receptive rather than resistant to changes today, especially those that directly affect your work. Shifting conditions tend to work on your behalf, but you must give them a chance.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Character judgments you make today pertaining to individuals you're involved with should be quite accurate. Give them credence, even if you feel they're a trifle exaggerated.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't inhibit your material motivations today, yet be careful not to be too self-serving or hurtful toward others.

Keep the enemy guessing

By Phillip Alder

One of the arts of declarer-play is keeping the opponents in the dark about your exact holding in a suit. For example, you are playing in no-trump. West leads a low spade, dummy holds only low cards, and East puts up the jack. You have K-Q-4 in spades. With which card do you win the trick?
 The correct play is the king, which keeps the opening leader uncertain about the location of the queen.

Today's hand is a more complicated example. If you would like to test yourself, cover the East-West cards and plan the play in four hearts. West leading a low club.

Declarer had at least three certain losers: one in each suit except clubs. Assuming that there weren't two heart losers, declarer had to avoid two spade losers. In this year's European Championship, Soren Christiansen from Denmark found a good deceptive play. He won the club lead in hand with the king and immediately played a low diamond. Afraid that declarer had only two diamonds and one club, West rushed in with the ace and returned a diamond to dummy's king. Now Christiansen cashed dummy's club ace and discarded the spade jack. Next he led a low spade, East playing low.

After his discard of the spade jack, Christiansen was sure that East would assume he started with K-J doubleton in spades. If East held the spade ace, surely he would have put it up. Therefore, declarer finessed the spade eight. When this drew the ace and the trumps divided 2-2, Christiansen had made his contract.

There's a Whole Lot of Fakin' Going On in American Bedrooms

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1991 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "B in Dallas" her confession about faking orgasms made my day, my month, my year! I know that God will forgive me this small deception. Actually, it's an act of kindness; it makes my husband feel so virile and masculine. I truly love him, so it's no great sacrifice on my part.

MISSOURI FAKER

it." I'm a 55-year-old woman, married for 33 years, and I've had enough sex to last me a lifetime. But I'm starving for love!

BEL AIR FAKER

DEAR ABBY: I don't have to fake it anymore "just to get it over with." Sex is great now that the kids are out of the house and I'm no longer on the Pill.

PARADISE VALLEY, ARIZ.

DEAR ABBY: Those fakers out there should quit blaming the man. If they have to "fake it," they just aren't willing to figure out what feels good — and then explain it to their partner. The man is going to have a good time whether she fakes it or not.

Woody Allen once said, "The first organ a person must use to achieve sexual satisfaction is the brain."

TOM IN MICHIGAN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 55-year old woman and have been married twice, and I'm not sure I've ever experienced an orgasm. Oh, I may have had one once when I was 17, and I was so overcome, I nearly blacked out. It's just as well it never happened again.

(Postage is included.)

DEAR ABBY: Why "fake it"? Enjoy it! I was married to the same man for nearly 50 years and my sex life died when he did. I'm a great grandmother now, but if I could find a nice clean man between 70 and 80, believe me, I wouldn't have to fake it. Please don't use my name. I live in a senior citizens complex, and if my neighbors knew I wrote this, they'd have a coronary.

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: All the world is a stage, and everybody fakes enjoyment of something at some time. Some husbands fake enjoyment of opera, the symphony, ballroom dancing and other activities their wives relish. Unselfish people are accustomed to accommodating others.

A MALE'S PERSPECTIVE

DEAR ABBY: I simply submit to sex as my wifely obligation to "service" my lusty husband. To him, sex is just another bodily function. I always leave the lights on so I can read something until he's finished.

SUBMITTING, NOT FAKING

DEAR ABBY: Hooray for "B in Dallas" for admitting she's "faking

Army records reveal mistaken I.D. led to Gulf's worst case of U.S. fratricide

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the most disastrous U.S. "friendly fire" incident of the Gulf War, American gunners mistook the flashes of Iraqi grenades bouncing off U.S. tanks for enemy tank fire and launched a lethal barrage on their own troops, Army records show.

In the early-morning darkness of Feb. 27, the flashes of light created by the grenades' relatively harmless impact made some gunners in the 3rd Brigade of the 2nd Armored Division think the American tanks whose armor was deflecting the projectiles were actually Iraqi tanks firing their cannons.

So they fired back. The gunners didn't actually "see" the tanks or the flashes. They detected them in their thermal sights, which can distinguish variations in heat, such as that given off by vehicles or guns, from distances of more than 2 miles.

The projectiles were fired from shoulder-held weapons called rocket-propelled grenades. The Army says none managed to pierce U.S. tank armor.

Even now, the Army says it is not sure exactly how many U.S. soldiers were killed as a direct result of this confusion. Six soldiers of the 3rd Brigade were killed and 25 were wounded in the Feb. 27 battle, which raged almost uninterrupted for about five hours, ending just before dawn.

The confusion over the Iraqi anti-tank gunfire apparently did not play a role in each of the American casualties, but it was a major contributor to the "friendly fire" problem that day, according to Army investigation reports released to The Associated Press in response to a Freedom of Information Act request.

The Pentagon has acknowledged that a major problem for U.S. ground forces in the war was their occasional misidentification of enemy combat vehicles. The Army lost 21 soldiers to friendly fire in the course of the 100-hour ground war, but it had been unwilling to disclose details of exactly how the mistakes were made.

At just past midnight on Feb. 27, the 3rd Brigade of the "Hell on Wheels" 2nd Armored was pushing eastward through southern Iraq, clashing repeatedly with elements of an Iraqi Republican Guard armored division. The Iraqi forces were no match for U.S. armor, but they fought hard.

The Iraqi rocket-propelled grenade was a mainstay of the Republican Guard infantrymen who popped up from trenches, ditches and bunkers to fire from every direction at passing American tanks and other armored vehicles.

When an Iraqi projectile hit a U.S. M-1A1 Abrams tank, the impact created a small flash of light that could be detected in the thermal sights of other Abrams tank gunners far in the distance who were unsure where the Iraqi forces were positioned.

"It was confusing, it was dark, it was scary," said Col. David S. Weisman, commander of the 3rd Brigade, whose three armored battalions fought an almost non-stop battle that for many of the Americans was their first taste of combat.

Weisman's brigade of 4,400 soldiers lost only six men in the ground war — all in the friendly fire incident of Feb. 27, which was the last full day of the war.

Weisman, in a telephone interview Monday, defended his troops' actions, saying that although mistakes may have been made, the brigade fought brilliantly under extraordinarily difficult and chaotic battlefield conditions.

"We knew that control (of friendly tank fire) was going to be a problem," he said. "Our equipment is so lethal that there is no room for mistakes."

Western fire season said surprisingly quiet this year

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Don Martorello wanted to concentrate on his studies this winter. Instead, the Boise State University junior will have to balance his biology classes with a part-time job.

As a firefighter, Martorello said his summer as a firefighter wasn't as hot as he had hoped — he earned only half as much as in 1989.

Planning and rain helped keep Western wildfires from becoming the disasters experts predicted.

"In a good summer for a firefighter we start having fires right off," said Martorello, who worked for the U.S. Bureau of Land Management. "This year we expected to be a good fire season, but we just didn't have the starts."

"The bulk of the fire season has passed us by," said Rick Ochoa, a fire-weather meteorologist for the National Weather Service in Boise.

But after five years of drought, land managers — especially in California — are hesitant to say that the fires of 1991 are behind them. It was the drought-scattered landscape that prompted the early dire predictions.

"A combination of skill and luck has kept the numbers much lower than expected," Matt Mathes of the U.S. Forest Service's Southwest Region said Monday from San Francisco.

"But the potential is still there," Mathes said. "A few hot days with low humidity and high winds would put us into a severe situation."

Nationally, 58,954 wildfires had burned about 2.2 million acres through last week, the Boise Interagency Fire Center said. By the same time last year, 57,600 fires had scorched more than 4.4 million acres.

During an average year, some 2,000 fires burn about 80,000 acres in California's national forests alone. So far this year, 3,100 fires have blackened only 3,900 acres.

Part of the credit goes to a wet spring and a cooler, unusually humid summer in Southern California. And storm systems throughout the West included rain hard on the heels of lightning strikes, which often ignite blazes.

Planning also was crucial. Firefighters and equipment were positioned in the path of the storms — and expected lightning — to douse fires before they got out of hand.

As a result, few fires grew more than an acre or two. Many were stopped cold by "initial attack" teams after burning only one or two trees.

Residents in Sierra Blanca oppose nuke dumping site

SIERRA BLANCA, Texas (AP) — Sierra Blanca residents are guinea pigs in an experiment to store radioactive waste in an underground dump and at stake is their water, land, health and livelihood, a dump opponent said during a town meeting.

About 40 residents attended a two-hour meeting Monday night organized by a group that calls itself Alert Citizens for Environmental Safety.

The meeting, whose purpose was to explain the organization's opposition to the low-level radioactive waste dump, was calm until residents began discussing the state's proposition to also store waste from one or more other states.

The Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority is probing part of the 16,000-acre Faskin Ranch about seven miles southeast of Sierra Blanca to determine its suitability for storing Texas' low-level radioactive waste.

The state also is considering offers from other states to store their waste in exchange for between $20 million and $60 million.

"We don't want to be in this experiment," said Bill Addington, opposition organizer. "Our lives, our land and our children are at stake."

Opposition group members said the public has been led to think that low-level waste is low risk, but they said the majority of what will be stored in the dump will come from nuclear power plants.

"More than 90 percent of the waste will eventually come from power plants in East Texas serving East Texas consumers," said Sandra Griffin of El Paso, a member of the protesting group. "If they (East Texans) are going to build these power plants, we feel they should accept the responsibility of dealing with their own waste."

Group members also said they feared the site could become a federal dump site because of a clause in federal legislation.

"Not only can West Texas be dumped on by the rest of the state, but it can be dumped on by the rest of the country," Ms. Griffin said.

The state must find a place to dump its low-level waste by 1993, when it will no longer have access to the three dumps that have been accepting such waste from throughout the United States.

Rick Jacobi, the authority's general manager, accused the group of trying to scare the residents.

"You're misleading the people when you tell them you're going to have to accept federal waste in an emergency situation," Jacobi said.

A golf scramble to benefit the medical fund of Reba Erwin will be held Saturday at the WTC golf course. Entry fee will be $25 per golfer with all proceeds going to the medical fund established for cancer patient Reba Erwin, Snyder school nurse. ### Charlton draws fine and suspension

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cincinnati Reds pitcher Norm Charlton was suspended for seven days and fined $1,000 by the National League for deliberately hitting Los Angeles Dodgers catcher Mike Scioscia and saying he might try to hit him again. The suspension was effective immediately, but Charlton appealed the ban and fine levied by NL president Bill White, making the left-hander eligible to play until a hearing is held. Charlton hit Scioscia on the arm in a game at Cincinnati on Sept. 9 because he said he thought Scioscia was stealing signs. Charlton pitched in Monday night's game against the Dodgers and gave up a two-out single to Scioscia.

Canseco is AL Player of the Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Oakland's Jose Canseco, who hit four home runs, was named American League player of the week and Cincinnati infielder Mariano Duncan and Atlanta pitcher Steve Avery shared National League honors. Canseco hit .429 with 13 RBIs and a league-leading slugging average of 1.048 during the week. Duncan hit .467 with six home runs and 10 RBIs, and Avery was 2-0 and allowed only one earned run in 17 2-3 innings.

Injury shouldn't sideline Ismail

TORONTO (AP) — The concussion Raghieb "Rocket" Ismail sustained Sunday probably won't keep him out of any games, Toronto Argonauts general manager Mike McCarthy said. Ismail was injured when he was speared by Calgary's Dan Wicklum during a kick return in the Stampede's 33-24 victory. He spent the night in a Calgary hospital and returned home with the team. McCarthy said he will send a tape of the second-quarter incident to the league office today.

Cowboys deal Solomon to Patriots

IRVING, Texas (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys traded linebacker Jesse Solomon to the New England Patriots for an undisclosed 1992 draft choice. Solomon, who came to the Cowboys in 1989 from Minnesota as part of the deal for Herschel Walker, walked out of the Cowboys' camp Aug. 21 after being demoted to the second team.

Braves' Nixon faces 60-day penalty

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Atlanta Braves refuse to be knocked off stride by the loss of Otis Nixon, who was suspended for 60 days for violating baseball's drug policy. The Braves did not falter a step when Dave Justice and Sid Bream were sidelined by injuries earlier this season. Although they will lose a dimension of speed without the major league's leading basestealer, the Braves don't expect Nixon's absence to slow their march from worst to first. "Everybody still has the attitude that we've got to go out and play hard," Bream said Monday night before the Braves lost 8-5 to the San Francisco Giants at Candlestick Park. The Atlanta Constitution reported in today's editions that Nixon was contacted at the San Francisco airport but would not comment in detail about the penalty. "It's something that really hurts, but I have to catch my flight," Nixon told the newspaper. "Someday I'll tell the whole story ... gotta go." The paper said major league baseball sources said Nixon, 32, tested positive for cocaine from a sample taken Sept. 7 in New York. The results reached the commissioner's office Monday morning. The paper also quoted "one high-ranking baseball official" as saying that Nixon tested positive in July but avoided suspension after having the Players Association file a grievance on his behalf. Atlanta loses Nixon with three weeks left in the season, forcing the Braves to play their final 19 games without him as they battle the Dodgers for the NL West Division championship.

Oilers beat KC, 17-7...

Houston remains undefeated

HOUSTON (AP) — Warren Moon was patient, Haywood Jeffries was surprised and the Kansas City defensive backs were caught out of position. It all added up to the crucial play — a 4-yard TD pass from Moon to Jeffries at the end of the third quarter — breaking a 7-7 tie and giving the Houston Oilers a 14-7 lead enroute to a 17-7 victory over the Chiefs in the Monday night NFL game.

"We didn't keep our poise," Kansas City safety Deron Cherry said. "We had busted coverage and guys out of position," added cornerback Kevin Ross. Moon had clicked on seven straight passes in a drive that started at his own 7. After a mediocre first half, he got rolling. He hit Jeffries for 6, then running back Allen Pinkett for another 6. Ernest Givens caught a pass that gained 19 and Tony Jones pulled in another for 8. Then Drew Hill gained 11 yards and Jeffries picked up 5 more.

Moon connected with Jones for an 18-yard score that was negated by a holding penalty. But Moon found Jeffries again — twice — for 8 yards each. A 1-yard run by Pinkett took it to the 8.

On second down and goal at the 8, Derrick Thomas was called for encroachment, moving Houston to the 4.

"When you get in that situation, you can't give them a second chance," Cherry said. Two wide receivers went into the end zone, one deep and one short. Jeffries, who already had four receptions in the drive, was the short man.

"We were going to take what they gave us," Moon said. "We went to the short stuff and that worked. They played a lot of deep zone and it forced me to be patient." "It was an underneath route where we had an intermediate route planned."

Safety Lloyd Burruss said the Chiefs' game plan was not to allow the big bomb like a year ago, when Moon shredded the Kansas City defense for 527 yards, the second-highest passing total in NFL history.

Instead, it was a little toss into the end zone that provided the edge.

"He ran a slant and we were in zone coverage," Cherry said. "It was a good throw and a good catch."

WTC golfers in 2nd place

SHERMAN — Western Texas College begins today's second round of the Grayson College Golf Invitational just five strokes behind first-round leader Navarro Junior College. Navarro fired an opening round 293 followed by WTC's 298. Leading the Western Texas assault is Pampa sophomore Mark Wood, who registered a 4-under-par 68 Monday to tie for medalist honors at the halfway point. Ryan Teague, also of Pampa, turned in a 73 followed by a 76 from Midland's John Gatlin, Darren Waters of Levelland with an 81 and an 83 by Austin talent Jon Roseberry.

SJHS volleyball teams claim two over S'water

Eighth grade spikers from Snyder Junior High took two out of three matches from Sweetwater Monday while seventh graders were swept by the visiting Mustangs, 3-0.

Snyder's eighth grade Gold team registered a 15-3, 15-2 win over Sweetwater followed by a 15-0, 11-15, 15-5 win by the eighth grade White.

Eighth black fell, 15-11, 15-11, Seventh Black was beaten in three games, 6-15, 15-6, 11-5, Seventh Gold fell, 10-15, 7-15 and Seventh White lost, 15-7, 8-15, 7-15.

Adrienne Bailey scored 10 points to lead the Eighth Gold in its win, followed by Monica Harbin with six. Sharon Gulseth added four, as did Hydie Robertson. Heather Ward served three, Michelle Ewing slapped two and Kelly Kallemeyn got one.

Bailey and Harbin were the contest's MVPs. Patricia Cunnington served all 15 points in the White team's first-game shutout over Sweetwater, then added four more in Game Three to lead Snyder scorers. Adrienne Harrison smacked six, Rosemary Escobedo served five, Laura Bernal and Rashawnda Inks put in three each and Elena Duke, Kristy Dodson, Denise Tovar and Twyla Peppers each hit one.

Eighth grade Black lost despite a six point effort by Jessica Rocha, three each from Mendy Winter, Lindsey Griffin and Mandy Baker, Jami Brown and Jina Miller with two each, and one apiece by Michelle Spencer, Edwina Brooks and Jodi White.

Samantha Trevino, who wound up with 13 points, and Lisha Leatherwood, who served for two, were offensive and defensive MVP's for seventh grade Black in its loss to the young Lady Mustangs Monday. Coach Vanessa Gutierrez said of the Black team's effort, "The team continues to grow and improve every day."

Tiffany Garza slapped four points, Rachael Wenken and Shawn Purcell each lashed three. Joanie Wenken, Devon Reed and Brandy Roberge managed two apiece and Monie Pena had one.

MVP Erica Garvin punched four points in the Seventh grade Gold loss, trailed by teammates Nicole Lyons and Dietra Jackson with three each, two apiece from Claudia Hinojos, Sha Marricle and Shawna Huddleston and one each by Christy Whitney and Mollie Wilson.

Kris Grant, coach of seventh grade Gold, said, "We were very pleased with their performance. They played very well."

Defensive standouts for the game, as chosen by the coaches, were Hinojos, Marricle, Huddleston, Whitney and Lyons.

The seventh grade White squad was led by Angela Rodriguez' seven and six service points by Bianca Sims. Jessica Perkins' four, three by Missy Ward, two each from Naomi Ubando, Kathy Hoyle and Cara Clayton, and one by Velda Simmons wound up the Snyder scoring in the match.

Snyder's spike teams are idle next Monday. Eighth grade Black, however, will compete in Saturday's Big Spring tournament.

ch." Jeffries floated underneath and slanted toward the right side of the end zone. Moon found him for the score. "I didn't expect that," he said of Moon's pass. "We went out there and they played zone (defense). And Warren really hooked up."

Jeffries credited a week-long study of Kansas City game films for the preparation that led to the key play's success. "We watch more films than anybody else in the NFL," Jeffries said.

His nine catches matched a career high, also against Kansas City. "I'm really proud of myself," he said.

Howard blast beats Astros

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Thomas Howard drove in five runs, including a three-run homer to break a scoreless tie in the seventh inning as San Diego beat Houston, 6-1.

Howard spoiled the major league debut of starter Brian Williams (0-1) when he hit his fourth homer of the season.

Greg Harris (6-5) allowed one run and eight hits in 7 2-3 innings for the victory and Larry Andersen finished for his 10th save.

Child-care facility is a success

AUSTIN (AP) — Officials say the first state-operated child-care center for state employees is so successful that a second one is being planned.

The facility on the University of Texas at Austin campus takes care of 88 children of UT employees and students.

"It's very unusual for a center to open its doors with that many children enrolled," Sandra Briley, director of the facility, said.

"People have just been extremely positive about the center being here and have bent over backwards to help us with anything we've needed so we could get open and do a good job," she told the Austin American-Statesman in Monday's editions.

The state is planning to open a second center in January for the children of all state employees. That center will be located near the Capitol building.

State funds were allocated to start the two centers, but once open they must run as self-sufficient businesses. The UT prices are "on the high side," Ms. Briley said. But the $310 to $375 monthly charge per child is partly due to the low ratio of staff members to children, she said.

Ms. Briley said that the state, like the private sector, is discovering that helping its employees out with child-care is a good business move.

"Parents need to feel comfortable about where their children are so that they can concentrate on their work," she said.

"More and more employers are beginning to see that employees need help with family issues, and child care is one of them," she said.

In 1989, a new agency, the Texas Child Care Development Board, was created to research the need and support for child-care centers for state employees. Response to the proposal was overwhelming, and officials are hoping a third center will quickly follow the second.

"The success of this effort will probably influence future centers," said Mary Fero, secretary of the Child Care Development Board.

Study shows hereditary link between alcoholics, offspring

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A new scientific report says more than half of 20 offspring of severe alcoholics in San Antonio have a gene pattern associated with their parents' problem.

The evidence, announced Monday, is the first showing an association between the children of alcoholics and the suspected gene pattern, which was discovered last year by two scientists — Kenneth Blum of San Antonio and Ernest Noble of Los Angeles.

In previous large population studies, alcoholism has been shown to run in families but without specific genetic associations. The new results support the idea that the gene pattern, called A1 Allel, is linked to severe alcoholism.

"It may not necessarily mean you'll be alcoholic if you have it, but it puts you at higher risk," said Blum, co-author of the study published in the September-October issue of the international journal "Alcohol."

Blum, a professor of pharmacology at the University of Texas at San Antonio, cooperated in the research with Noble, a professor of alcohol studies at the University of California at Los Angeles.

More than 18 million Americans are said to be alcoholics.

Last year, Blum and Noble reported finding the first evidence of a long-sought genetic link to alcoholism in the DNA of the brains of deceased alcoholics.

DNA, present in all cells of the body, contains the molecular basis of all inherited characteristics.

Subsequent research by others, particularly at Washington University in St. Louis, Mo., also found the gene pattern associated with alcoholism.

"So it looks like the original finding is holding up nicely," Noble said.

In the new research, the scientists studied 139 adult males and females in San Antonio and 20 young children of alcoholics. The children had no history of alcohol or drug abuse or psychiatric problems.

Fifty-five percent of the children — whose average age was 12.5 — had the A1 Allel pattern in the DNA of their blood.

Judge reconsidering ruling in child's drowning death

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Toxicology reports on an 8-year-old who drowned last month in Buffalo Springs Lake have led a justice of the peace to reconsider his ruling that the child's death was an accident.

William Simpson drowned Aug. 2 after he and his twin brother, Martin, crawled through a culvert and into deeper water while on an outing with their uncle, Johnny Claude Simpson, 59.

Martin survived after being hospitalized.

Justice of the Peace Jim Hansen ruled William Simpson's death an accident, but toxicology reports released Monday showed his blood-alcohol level at .068, according to forensic pathologist Ralph Erdmann.

It is illegal in the state of Texas for minors to consume alcoholic beverages, or for alcohol to be furnished to minors.

Johnny Claude Simpson had been charged with two counts of abandonment of a child after the drowning, but the charges were dismissed Aug. 5 due to an incomplete investigation, authorities said.

"I'm going to have to think about it," Hansen said of the case.

Erdmann said the blood-alcohol concentration could have affected the child's behavior in the water by diminishing judgment, control and attention.

ASCS Report

By Joe Heimer
County Executive Director

Secretary of Agriculture, Edward Madigan, recently announced there will be no adjustment in the 5 percent acreage reduction program for wheat in 1992 that was announced May 31.

The secretary is authorized to make adjustments in the 1992 program by July 31 if it is determined that the total supply of wheat has changed significantly since the 1992 acreage reduction program was first announced.

"We received positive responses regarding our initial announcement of a 5 percent acreage reduction program for the 1992 wheat crop," Madigan said. "The expected supply-demand balance has changed little since the end of May and we see no need to change the program level. We continue to believe that the 5 percent level provides the best balance for producers and consumers of U.S. wheat and for U.S. taxpayers." Additional information for 1992 farm programs will be released when available.

Holding calves over requires serious study

By KENT MILLS

With the abundant summer rains we have had this year, many producers are asking questions about keeping some of their heifers or steers through the winter to take advantage of the extra forage they have. Since the markets have shown some shakiness in the last couple of weeks, this concept has some merit. However, you need to study a few aspects before committing to this decision.

First and foremost, you need to be sure that you have enough forage to run the extra livestock. Granted, we have had lots of rain this summer, but if the pastures were short from last year's grazing, not utilizing the forages completely will help the forages become stronger plants and get more early growth next spring. Also, a rancher needs to try to estimate his forage quantity to be sure that it doesn't just look like he has more forage, and to get an idea as to how many extra animals he can carry through the winter. Jumping in without proper planning can cause a producer to overestimate his grazing potential, run short of forage in the dead of winter, and end up having to supplement more than he planned. If that happens, running these extra calves could actually cost the ranch more than it makes.

The second aspect to consider is the market, especially if a down market is the primary reason you are leaning towards keeping your calves in the first place. If, as seems to be the case now, the market seems to be in a temporary decline with high prospects for recovery within the next six months, then keeping the calves may be the most money you'll make this year. However, livestock markets are not the most predictable things in the world, and this area should be given more research than just the current wisdom at the coffee shop. Time should be spent in determining a "break-even" price for this endeavor. This is the price at which you recoup all of your costs of this particular enterprise, and should include labor, vehicle, supplement, and any other cost directly associated with keeping the calves. A cost often overlooked is the opportunity cost of using the forage. This is what you could lease this same forage for if you didn't use it for your own calves. If you cannot make this cost back from retaining your calves, then maybe you should consider leasing the forage rather than using it yourself.

Holding your calves over and retaining ownership can be a very profitable part of your ranch operation. However, serious thought should be put into the decision to try it. If you determine that you have enough forage, and that it is an economically sound decision, then keeping your calves offers you an opportunity to get a little more profit out of the calves that you raised and utilize the extra forage from these great August rains.

Two recent studies indicate that the diets of American children show drastic changes are not necessary to achieve diets lower in total fat, but there is room for improvement.

The National Health and Nutrition Examination Study II (NHANES II) collected food intake data from more than 7,400 children (ages 1-17 years). The consumption of total fat averaged 35 to 38 percent of total caloric intake. A large number, 37 percent to 55 percent, of American children consumed more than the recommended amount of total fat. Saturated fat made up a large proportion. For black children, 14 percent of calories came from saturated fat; for white children, it was 13 percent. Carbohydrate intake was lower than recommended levels and protein intake was adequate. However, about a fourth of adolescent females in the study

SCS Notes

By Mark McDaniel,
Soil Conservation Technician

Terraces are the most popular and the most important conservation tool that is used in this area. They are earth embankments, or a ridge and channel, constructed across the slope at a suitable location to intercept surface runoff water. They may be constructed with an acceptable grade or with a level channel and ridge. Terraces are constructed to reduce erosion by shortening the length of slope and conducting the runoff water on a nonerosive grade to a stable outlet. They are also used to conserve moisture; reduce floods by means of level closed terraces, or by increasing the time of concentration with graded terraces; and to control gully heads downstream.

There are several general objectives to be kept in mind in terrace planning. These are erosion control, farmability, topography improvement, and moisture conservation where level terraces are used. Erosion control is the prime objective, but terraces must be as farmable as possible in order to have them accepted and maintained.

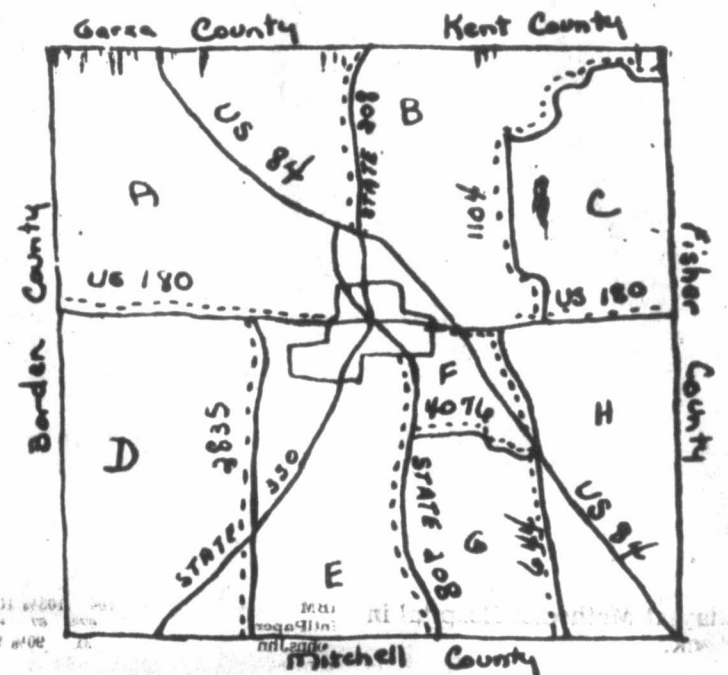

Planning ahead will make it worthwhile to you, the farmer, and to us at the Soil Conservation Service in designing the best terrace system available on your farm. Timing is very important because of the increased workload and the shortness of time that cotton is off the fields. If you have any questions, contact the SCS at 573-6317.

In each advertisement on this page you will find the contestants in a prominent football game being played around the country this weekend. On the entry blank at the bottom of the page, fill in your selection of the WINNING TEAM only...opposite the name of the business firm on the entry blank. Then clip out the entry blank and send it to FOOTBALL CONTEST EDITOR, Snyder Daily News, Box 949, or bring it by the news office at 3600 College Ave. Entries must be in the hands of the editor by 5:00 p.m. Friday. Games ending in a tie must be specified as a tie or else it will be considered a miss.

To avoid splitting the prize money a TIE-BREAKER slot will be provided on each entry blank. Pick the total points of the score for that game and in case of a tie the one who picks the winner and the nearest number of total points will receive the prize money. The same formula will apply to second and third place winners. In the case of a perfect score, the formula would apply for that cash prize.

There will be fun for the entire family. Only one entry blank will be permitted for any one person. More than one will disqualify all that person's entries. Entries must be on the official entry blank (No Copies Please). Scores listed on the entry blank will have no bearing except in the case of the tie-breaker. Sign your entry blank and list your address and phone number and watch for the winner's story in next Tuesday's SDN. Employees of the SDN and their families are not eligible to enter.
