Mobil executives reassigned

Spokesmen for Mobil Exploration & Producing U.S. announced Friday that three key company executives in Snyder are being reassigned to Midland and Houston as part of Mobil's company-wide reorganization of its mid-level managers.

Burt Robbins, area operations manager here for the past 3½ years, is being transferred to Houston, where much of the corporation's administration is being centralized.

The changes become effective on Thursday, Feb. 1. Robbins came to Snyder from Lafayette, La., and he will become a joint interest advisor to the "Operated By Others" asset team leader in Houston.

Salt Creek Senior Production Foreman Rodney Bownds will transfer to Midland to become environmental-regulatory engineer for the company's Snyder Asset Team.

Midwest trip winners from Snyder area

Two Scurry County high school students have been announced as winners in Midwest Electric Cooperative's "Electric Youth Tour" speech contest, for a trip to Washington, D.C., and Nashville and Chattanooga, Tenn., this summer.

Q—How many schools statewide voted to keep taxing freeport property? What about counties?
A—According to a survey by the State Property Tax Board, 71 percent of the school boards across the state will continue taxing freeport property. Also, 72 percent of the counties, 60 percent of the junior college districts and 43 percent of the cities decided to retain the freeport tax.

In Brief

I sentenced
FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A 13-year-old boy who shot an assistant principal at his Arlington junior high school was sentenced to confinement with the Texas Youth Commission, where he could be held until his 21st birthday.

Guard killed

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Three suspected communists today shot and killed one of President Corazon Aquino's guards, then ran over and dragged his body for about 100 yards before escaping, police said.

One is fired

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The state's corrections commissioner fired the suspended superintendent of the Camp Hill prison for his actions during a three-day riot that left 123 people injured and much of the institution in ruins.

Christian outreach program will minister to Daniel Unit

Fifteen Christian couples from the Abilene area will arrive at the Price Daniel unit Sunday morning to inaugurate a bus ministry outreach in cooperation with Churches of Christ in Texas.

Volunteers will arrive at the Snyder unit of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice about 8:30 a.m. and each couple will have an hour-long session with specially-selected inmates.

The program has been underway since 1984. Four Sundays each month, couples travel to prison units throughout the state and work with the same inmate. The concept is called "counseling couples" whereby the couple provides a positive role model for the prisoner who likely is from a broken home or who possibly has a broken marriage.

A big black crossbreed steer shown by Angie Robinson of Ira and a Hereford exhibited by Jessica Eicke of Snyder were chosen grand champion and reserve grand champion Friday night in the Scurry County Junior Livestock Show.

In judging from 7 to 9:30 p.m., Billy Reagor of Ozona also picked Miss Eicke to receive the showmanship trophy.

There was a touching moment at the end of the night as one of the young exhibitors, Rana Eicke, was chosen to present the grand championship trophy to Miss Robinson in place of her grandmother, Wanda Eicke, who passed away this week.

Other 4-H and FFA members who took part were Cole and Tyrel Sterling, Ira FFA; Mandy Breuer, 4-H; M'Lys Lloyd, 4-H; Terry Leatherwood, Snyder FFA; Brady and Will Collier, 4-H; Brandy Oliver, Ira FFA; Raymond House, 4-H; Ben Wilson, Snyder FFA; Wendy Hart, 4-H; and Kevin Wilson, Snyder FFA.

1,015 enroll for spring term at Western Texas

Spring enrollment at Western Texas College is at 1,015, though that figure could change slightly between now and next week, noted Dr. Duane Hood, dean of student services.

Total credit semester hours are 10,518, compared with last fall's 11,145. Students were registered for 10,579 credit hours last spring.

The 1,015 — which includes 566 fulltime and 549 part-time students — compares to 1,044 last fall and 1,089 in the spring of 1988. Forty-three of the students enrolled for the spring semester are involved in quarterly nursing and cosmetology programs. Some 100 others are taking college courses at the Price Daniel Unit.

College housing facilities can handle up to 220 students and are currently housing 194, he reported.

The SDN Column By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Teams looking for a big-name in coaching may want to consider Schachtenschenider."

If you happen not to be into football, you may want to sit down by your hubby and watch Sunday's "Advertising Bowl."

Football gets most of the media attention, but the marketing industry really doesn't care who is playing, because their big game has to do with ratings.

The Super Bowl has evolved into the biggest and most important advertising showcase. It has also become the most expensive. Because of rising costs and lagging ratings, the number of firms due to air during the Super Bowl is 19, down from 30 last year.

Peak household viewing came in 1982 when almost 50 percent had tuned in for the big game. In 1988, the rating was down to 41.9 percent.

from the $650-675,000 fee charged last year by NBC.

Those in the advertising bowl today will include Nike, Anheuser-Busch, Gillette, Coke, Pepsi, Delta Airlines, McDonald's, American Express, AT&T, Federal Express, New York Life, General Motors, Nissan and Toyota.

Last year, beer commercials seemed to dominate the advertising messages, but this year will be the year of soft drinks—especially those of the diet variety.

Madison Avenue executives think the big play will be the new version of the 1971 Coke ad, "I'd like to teach the world to sing." For the closely-guarded, big play commercial, the soft drink company reunited 16 members of the original cast along with their children and more than 300 from other countries.

For that kind of money, nobody expects a dropped ball or a mixed signal.

Defense says Noriega a POW...

Judge denies bond

MIAMI (AP) — Manuel Noriega must remain in jail despite his claim that he is a prisoner of war and should be moved to a neutral country, a judge ruled. U.S. District Judge William Hoeweler's decision on Friday came after prosecutors portrayed the fallen Panamanian ruler as a wealthy and dangerous man with cash and armed supporters potentially hidden around the world.

"Mr. Noriega is a danger to the community," said Deputy Assistant U.S. Attorney Myles Malman said during the bond hearing. "He is a military man trained and skilled in the use of counter-terrorism, covert actions and weapons."

Prosecutors said the 145-year sentence Noriega could be given if convicted of drug trafficking, coupled with his "extraordinary wealth," made it likely he would flee the country if released on bond.

Investigators and U.S. troops who invaded Panama found up to $30 million in Noriega assets, including homes in Panama, a condominium in France, sports cars and bank accounts, Malman said.

On Noriega's ranch, soldiers found envelopes marked "Confidential for my general," and stuffed with $5.8 million in cash, he said.

But defense attorney Frank Rubino insisted the court has no jurisdiction in Noriega's case, and refused to participate in the bond hearing.

"To the best of my knowledge, this is the first time the United States has invaded a country, toppled its government and put its leader on trial," Rubino said outside the courthouse.

Rubino told the judge that a letter from Noriega to President Bush was delivered Friday to the White House and the State Department claiming status as a prisoner of war under the Geneva Convention.

The defense contended that an international tribunal, perhaps the World Court at The Hague or Geneva, must automatically be invoked by Noriega's alleged POW status.

Hoeweler did not consider the motion immediately.

Prosecutors emphasized Noriega's alleged dark side in their effort to keep him in jail, saying he was known for torturing opponents and personally ordered the execution of the leader of the failed October coup attempt against him.

They also said soldiers found the names of the four people on a sheet of paper in Noriega's Fort Amador office, which contained so much black magic paraphernalia U.S. soldiers called it the "Witch House."

DONNA DUNN

Donna Dunn on honor roll

Donna Deneen Dunn, daughter of Donnie and Linda Dunn of Ira, has been named to the fall semester honor roll at Angelo State University. She maintained a grade point average of 3.6. Dunn graduated from Ira High School in 1982.

Pollard named to Dean's List

BROWNWOOD—Joe Pollard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Pollard of Snyder, has been named to the Dean's List at Howard Payne University. To qualify, students must maintain a GPA of 3.65 to 3.99. Students become eligible for consideration after they have completed their first full-time semester of course work.

Calvin Coolidge, the 30th president, was born in 1872.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A South Texas detention center is releasing undocumented aliens to reduce the camp's population for budgetary reasons, federal immigration agents say.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service will allow the detainees, most from Central America, to leave its Port Isabel Service Processing Center if they can provide a name and address of a person with whom they will stay.

The Bayview center's new target population is 700, INS spokesman Verne Jervis said Friday. He said the move will allow the facility to stay within budgetary guidelines.

"We are reducing our detention center population to within budget levels," Jervis told the Brownsville Herald. "We're going to have to live within our budget."

Rumpff deployed to Egypt for joint exercises

Air Force Airman 1st Class Cheri L. Rumpff recently deployed to Egypt to participate in exercises "Bright Star '90."

The exercise provided an opportunity for U. S. and Egyptian forces to engage in combined land, naval and air training, enabling each to benefit from the exchange of experiences and information on modern weapons and tactics in a rugged desert environment.

Rumpff, the daughter of Robert and Diane Rumpff of Snyder, is a services specialist with the 56th Services Squadron at McDill Air Force Base, Fla.

Since the year began, more than 400 aliens have been released.

"They (the releases) are going to be controlled," Jervis said. "We're looking at those people being released very closely. We need to have a place that we can verify to contact them."

Jervis said the releases did not result from a 1989 policy of jailing asylum seekers until they resolve their cases, pay bonds, or are deported.

That policy took effect after an increasing number of asylum seekers obtained permission to travel, but never showed up at INS offices in their destination cities.

The agency then said all asylum seekers would have to wait in the Rio Grande Valley for 30 days while their claims were processed, resulting in an overcrowded refugee camps.

The INS will "maintain an enforcement posture that is not going to attract large numbers" despite the increase in numbers of people being released on their own recognizance, said Jervis.

Since 1905...

And we're just getting started!

During Snyder National's 85 years, it has been and been a part of many changes. In 1960, J.C. Penney manager Charles Hartman announced that it would move into the Dunlap's building on the south side of the square. Penney, part of the Snyder retail community since 1928, said the new store would be 2½ times larger.

Nation's oldest veteran dies

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP) — Louella Luhrman, a World War I Army nurse who was described as the nation's oldest veteran, died Friday at age 108.

Luhrman, who joined the Army in 1918 when she was 36 years old, spent her military service at Camp Lewis, Washington. She was discharged in 1919.

"She is going to be a great loss," said Jean Kohr, the head nurse at Luhrman's ward at the Veteran's Administration Hospital. "She had a wonderful sense of humor."

Luhrman was born in Germany on Dec. 8, 1881, and emigrated to the United States with her family two years later, coming across the Atlantic in a sailing ship.

The family first settled in Marysville, Calif., but after a few years moved to the San Jose area where Luhrman was to live off and on for much of her life.

"Up until 1986, Lou heard well enough to respond directly to questions asked by reporters," said her niece, France Malavos.

She was interviewed on Snyder students receive degrees

Three Snyder students at Angelo State University were among those who received degrees during fall commencement at the university.

Barry Joe Boudreau received a bachelor of business administration degree with a major in marketing. Allen Dan Fox received a bachelor of science degree with a major in computer science. Lisa A. Waller received a bachelor of science degree with a major in health and physical education.

Veteran's Day that year and was asked what advice she had for world leaders.

"Peace," she said. "Peace at any price. One people, we belong to one people."

Activities for Senior Center are scheduled

Senior citizens who enjoy playing dominoes are invited to bring a partner and play in a domino tournament starting at 9 a.m. Monday in the Senior Citizens Center. Play will be concluded in time for the serving of the noon meal.

With the opening of the spring semester at Western Texas College, swimming for senior citizens has resumed in the WTC swimming pool. The class meets from 10-11 a.m. each Tuesday and Thursday and class members can enter the pool at 9:30 a.m. on those days. A modified exercise class which emphasizes bending and stretching meets in the center at 11 a.m. each day.

The Browning Band will play in the center dining room, at 11 a.m. Tuesday. The Kitchen Band will perform there at 11 a.m. Wednesday.

A Tri-Chem textile painting class is scheduled in the center at 9 a.m. Thursday. Friday's activities include the Sing Along at 11:15 a.m. oldest veteran in 1987 when Jasper Garrison of Illinois died at the age of 107. Garrison served in the Spanish-American War.

Luhrman never married but was the aunt to nine nieces and nephews, grand-aunt to 30 and great-grand-aunt to 38.

In the 1986 interview, Luhrman attributed her long life to a balanced diet, being able to put aside worries and living life to the fullest.

"I hope people will think well of me," she had said. "That's all I wish for."

Avril reports state of seige to be lifted

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Lt. Gen. Prosper Avril said Friday his military government next week would lift a 30-day state of siege that was imposed as part of a crackdown on his political opponents.

Speaking in French on state radio and television, Avril said the state of siege would be withdrawn on Tuesday because the decree had achieved "positive results." He did not repeat the speech, as is common in Haiti, in Creole, the language of 90 percent of the islanders.

Avril imposed the state of siege on Jan. 20, one day after the killing of army Col. Andre Neptune, his wife and a housemaid by unidentified gunmen.

Airliner said low on fuel before crash

MELVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — The crew of a Colombian jetliner was worried about running low on fuel just before the plane crashed, killing 72 people, federal investigators say.

National Safety Board member Lee Dickinson told a news conference Friday that the crew, on a voice recorder recovered from the wreckage, expressed concern several times about fuel levels after an aborted landing attempt. But the pilot did not declare an emergency landing priority that would have required controllers to immediately clear Avianca Airlines Flight 52 for a landing Thursday night, he said.

Although many clues indicate the plane had little or no fuel when it crashed into a hill on the north shore of Long Island, federal investigators would not say that the crash was caused by the plane running out of fuel.

No homes were hit and there were no casualties on the ground, though one part of the plane came to rest on a home's patio. Dickinson said 89 people survived the crash.

Investigators picking through the wreckage of the Boeing 707 in the woods of the isolated, wealthy suburb of Cove Neck said the fuel gauges indicated the jet had 10,000 pounds, or 1,500 gallons, of fuel, Dickinson said. Investigators had not yet checked the tanks.

Boeing spokesman Jack Gamble in Seattle said that could have been enough fuel to fly the jet from the crash site to its destination, Kennedy International Airport, "but not much more." The airport is about 15 miles away.

The flight from Bogota tried to land in fog and rain at 9:24 p.m., but aborted the attempt because of electronic warnings that the plane was sinking too fast and approaching at an improper angle, Dickinson said.

The crew asked the airport's traffic controller for permission to try again.

"They said they ... were running out of fuel or they were low on fuel," Dickinson said.

The tower gave directions; the crew repeated that the plane was running low on fuel. The crew then reported two engines out.

The jet disappeared from the radar screens at 9:34 p.m., he said.

The Colombian radio network RCN has reported that the 23-year-old plane had been sent to the maintenance shop 37 times in the past four months. Dickinson said he had no information to confirm the plane's maintenance record.

More than 12 hospitals worked Friday to treat survivors. At least 25 of the injured survivors were either in serious or critical condition, and more than two dozen children were among the injured.

Dickinson said only nine of the dead had been identified. Only one member of the crew, the chief steward, survived the crash. Survivors said the plane circled for more than hour before the crash.

NBC News reported that the plane ran into delays along the East Coast and was put in a holding pattern over Norfolk, Va., and bace over New Jersey for 75 minutes. Dickinson and a FAA spokeswoman said they could not confirm that.

One passenger, Colombian businessman Jorge Lozano, said there was no warning before the crash.

WTC's women's program...

'Image' cranks up for new semester

Family relationships will be the focus of Western Texas College women's program, "Image," as its spring classes begin on Feb. 13.

Registration and information about "Image" will be held at 7 p.m. on Feb. 8 at the Snyder Savings and Loan Association community room. There are no fees for registering and child care is provided while mothers attend classes.

Classes will meet from 9:30-11 a.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays through April 26 in the Christian Student Center at WTC. Child care will be provided at Rainbow School at no charge.

Women who have been enrolled in "Image" are invited to join the group this spring, Pat Blakely, "Image" director, said.

"Several former students have told us they would like to be a part of the program again, and we are giving them a special invitation," she added.

Women who are not familiar with "Image" are encouraged to attend the meeting on Feb. 8. Mrs. Blakely and Don Osborn, WTC counselor who works with the program, will be there to give information and handle registration. Those who enroll do not have to have a high school diploma or GED.

"Image" began at WTC in the fall of 1986 and since then about 190 women have gone through the program," Mrs. Blakely said. It is designed especially for women who want to improve their lifestyle by learning more about relationships in their families and to explore opportunities for continuing education. The classes begin with a study of relationships between parents and children and them relationships with others.

"Image" members who have not graduated from high school are encouraged to get their GED certificates and can attend free classes to help them prepare for the GED tests. "Image" will pay for the GED tests.

To help class members understand the educational opportunities open to them at WTC, they are taken on guided tours of the campus and faculty members discuss their programs. "Image" class members can sit in on college classes to get the feel of the classroom.

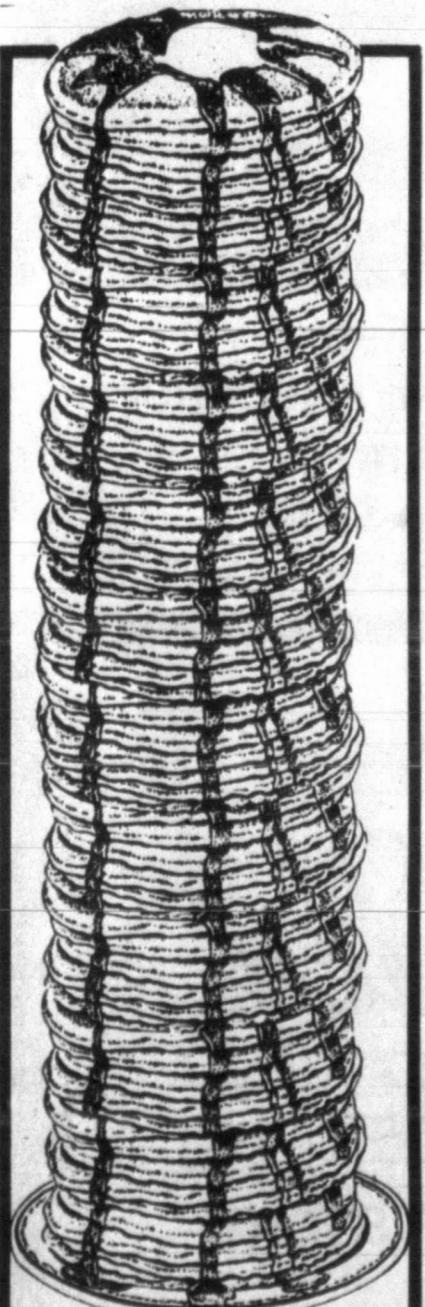

Career counseling is given and some vocational testing is done to help class members find their areas of greatest interest. Information on financial aid is given and Mrs. Blakely presents seminars on study skills.

"I invite anyone interested in "Image" to call me at my office or at home, 573-0907, for information," Mrs. Blakely said. "They may also contact Mr. Osborn in the WTC Counseling Center. If there are newcomers to Snyder who are just now hearing about 'Image' I hope they will feel free to call us. We like to talk about 'Image' and the success of the program in the past tells us that it has been of benefit to many people. Many women have told us how much they have gained through the classes and how they have improved their lives as a result. We have seen some of our 'students' go on to graduate from WTC."

Mrs. Blakely enrolled at WTC as an adult student and is a WTC graduate. She has been involved with "Image" since its beginning.

Three die in house fire

MOUNT ENTERPRISE, Texas (AP) — A woman and two 2-year-old children died in a house fire the children may have started, officials said.

The fire, which gutted the house a mile east of this East Texas community, began near a space heater in the living room, Rusk County Sheriff's Detective Garry Parton said.

Rusk County Justice of the Peace Jack Barrett said the identities of the victims had not been released early Saturday while officials tried to notify relatives.

Barrett said the 52-year-old woman was apparently asleep in a back room when the blaze occurred.

"She was burned, the fire got back there. She was lying in the floor by the door," he said.

The two children were burned virtually beyond recognition. Barrett said a swatch of red pants on the leg of one child helped investigators distinguish them.

The officials said they believe the children may have been playing with the space heater.

Storm-battered countries start cleanup

LONDON (AP) — Crews scrambled to restore power to a million homes and clear toppled cars from cluttered highways Friday after a fierce storm flayed Western Europe with hurricane-force winds, killing nearly 100 people.

The storm that paralyzed transportation and cut off communications in six nations finally blew out into the Baltic Sea on Friday, sinking a Danish ship and leaving behind an estimated $1 billion in destruction.

The storm Thursday spawned winds of up to 110 mph. It tore a hole in the roof of Parliament in London, toppled a nuclear plant chimney in France and smashed $29 million worth of greenhouses in Holland.

Official reports showed 93 dead and hundreds injured.

With winds diminished but still at gale force, the storm moved along the Baltic on Friday, striking Scandinavia, northern Poland and the Soviet republics of Latvia and Lithuania, Britain's meteorological center said.

The European Community said it would aid victims of the storm after it completes an assessment of the damage.

Hardest hit was Britain, where 45 people were reported killed by collapsing roofs, falling trees and many traffic accidents. Official reports said 19 people died in Holland, eight in France, 10 in Belgium, four in Denmark and seven in West Germany.

In the Baltic Sea, the Danish boat Jotun sank Friday off the East German coast in heavy seas. A Danish helicopter rescued three crew members, but one later died. Three others were missing and presumed dead after their lifeboat was found empty.

Dutch authorities said hundreds of Dutch were injured in the storm, the worst in a decade. Four main rail lines remained closed Friday.

The death toll in Britain was more than twice that of Oct. 16, 1987, when the country's worst storm in centuries left 17 people dead.

That storm struck late at night, when most people were indoors. The storm Thursday caught motorists on country roads where falling trees caused many deaths. Trucks flipped over on major highways, making them impassable. Children were at school, and two died and 16 were hurt when roofs collapsed.

Roof tiles, scaffolding and heaps of brick from collapsed chimneys littered sidewalks around London. The government said at one point 1 million people, mostly in western England, were without electric power.

Subway, rail, bus and air services halted in the London area Thursday but transport workers were out through the night clearing debris from the tracks and were able to restore much of the rail service by Friday.

HACER scholarships are available to local students

Students from Snyder and throughout Texas and Southern New Mexico can apply for $1,000 college scholarships to be awarded by McDonald's Hispanic American Commitment to Education Resource (HACER).

High school seniors can pick up applications from their high school counselors or participating McDonald's restaurants in Texas and New Mexico. Snyder's McDonald's will participate in this program Herbie Figueredo, owner, said.

HACER is designed to encourage and reward Hispanic high school students who are planning to attend college. This non-profit organization was established in 1985 by McDonald's franchises throughout Texas and Southern New Mexico. Since HACER's inception, Ronald McDonald's Children's Charities has committed over $360,000 to the program. So far, 361 students have each received a $1,000 HACER scholarship.

Scholarship recipients are determined through a selection process overseen by the National Hispanic Scholarship Fund.

WTC to offer special class on children's misbehavior

A 15-hour course designed to assist parents and professionals working with children will be offered by the Continuing Education department of Western Texas College starting Feb. 13.

"Reflecting Children's Misbehavior" is the title of the course, which will be taught by Dianne Price. Classes will meet from 7-10 p.m. on Tuesdays through March 13. Fees are $85 per person or $150 per couple.

For parents, the course offers help in reducing arguing and scolding or yelling, feeling positive about parenting skills, promoting change in behavior, and promoting agreement on discipline with a spouse.

Parents receive pointers on encouraging responsibility and good decision making, enhancing self-esteem, developing initiative, promoting cooperation and successful attitudes, and encouraging resistance to peer pressure.

"This course is for parents of children from toddlers to teens,"

Mrs. Price says. "It's never too early or too late to use effective parenting techniques."

Course content includes birth order and sibling rivalry, natural and logical consequences, and promoting agreement on discipline.

Mrs. Price has had training as a foster parent and she and her husband have served as foster parents. They have three sons. She served as president of the Oil Patch Foster Parent Association for three years and also held offices with the association.

She completed the Model Approach to Partnerships in Parenting offered by the Child Welfare Institute of Atlanta, Ga., and has attended numerous training conferences dealing with such subjects as human relations, stress management, organization management, drug and alcohol abuse, and physical and sexual abuse.

Super teams ready for NFL title game

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The 49ers' coach is new. So are most of the Broncos' defensive coaches.

San Francisco uses running back Tom Rathman on more pass patterns. Denver uses two new running backs, Bobby Humphrey and Mel Bratton, almost all the time.

Otherwise, the NFL champion 49ers aren't much different from the team that beat Cincinnati in last year's Super Bowl.

Otherwise, the Broncos are well, vastly different from the team that lost the 1987 and 1988 Super Bowls.

The AFC and AFC champions took divergent routes getting to Sunday's game.

With the rather large exception of George Seifert replacing Bill Walsh as head man, the 49ers haven't done much more than tinker.

The Broncos revamped their defense and restructured the offense.

"Last season, when we finished 8-8, what was more of a concern was how badly we lost four of those games," Coach Dan Reeves said. "In previous years, we had been competitive even when we lost. We were not competitive in those four games.

"We evaluated the situation and knew we had to do everything we could to build it back up."

First, Reeves made the toughest decision, firing defensive coordinator Joe Collier and most of his assistants. Then he hired Wade Phillips to install a simplified, more aggressive defense.

"It was a very difficult thing to do, but a change that had to be made," Reeves said.

Next, the Broncos aggressively used Plan B free agency, under which players not protected by their teams could look for employment elsewhere, and wound up with three key contributors in cornerback Wymon Henderson and defensive end Alphonso Carreker, both starters, and backup receiver Michael Young.

"We had no idea with Plan B," Reeves said. "We couldn't prepare for it because we weren't sure about how it worked. But we always had been active in going after free agents and this was another avenue."

So, too, was the supplemental draft, through which the Broncos got Humphrey, who was coming off a career at Alabama cut short when he twice broke a bone in his left foot.

"We felt Bobby was a No. 1 pick," Reeves said. "Our doctors felt his foot would be OK. I didn't think he'd last but I guess there was a lot of concern about his foot."

"When we got him on the 17th pick, I wondered why others passed him up."

He needn't have been concerned. Humphrey led all AFC rookies with 1,151 yards rushing.

Bratton was taken in the seventh round of the regular draft. The fullback missed a year after tearing up his knee in the 1988 Orange Bowl, in which Miami beat Oklahoma to win the national championship.

Bratton didn't sign with the Miami Dolphins, who had taken him in the 1988 draft, and it wasn't until the 14th week of this season that he took over as the regular fullback.

"It's a great tribute to how hard he worked that Mel made it back," Reeves said.

Denver also traded down in the first round and, at No. 20, took Steve Atwater.

"We gambled a little bit with that move, but it paid off because Steve still was available and we got a No. 2 and a No. 5 and those players made the team," Reeves said.

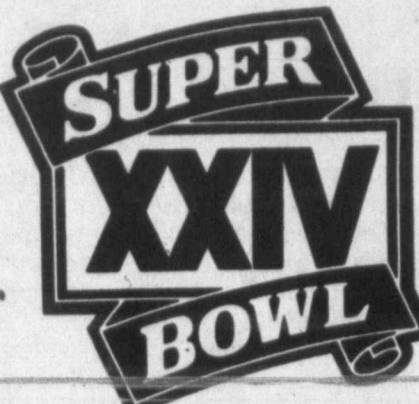

Atwater solidified the secondary with his work at free safety. Warren Powers and Darren Carrington were the others involved in that deal who will suit up Sunday.

"It was something we had to do and that worked out for us," Reeves said of all the moves.

The main move in the Bay Area, of course, was Walsh's retirement and Seifert being named as his replacement. Seifert had been defensive coordinator since 1983.

"I don't think we've had major changes in what we do," Seifert said. "This is a 49ers team. There's enough recognition to go around and it doesn't have to be my team as such. We're all involved in this."

And they're involved in basically the same schemes that they used under Walsh.

All-time title decided

Current 49ers and '78 Steelers vie for crown

EDITOR'S NOTE: What would happen if the best Pittsburgh Steelers team of the 1970s played the best San Francisco 49ers team of the 1980s? XOR Corp. of Minneapolis, which produced the computerized NFL "Dream Season" (televised last fall by ESPN, matched the 1978 Steelers and the current 49ers in a copyright computer-simulated game for The Associated Press.

By JIM LITKE AP Sports Writer

The football rises, above outstretched arms, ratcheting higher with every rotation, end over end over end. San Francisco kicker Mike Cofer unwinds his leg to find that Pittsburgh's Mean Joe Greene has landed at his feet and the answer to the question — who was better, Steelers or 49ers — is up in the air.

This is how the game got to that dramatic conclusion.

Roy Gerela lofts the opening kickoff toward the right side of the field where John Taylor receives it at the 8-yard line, slants 12 yards to the middle to pick up a wall of blockers, then cuts sharply back to the right sideline and down a corridor of daylight.

On this day, the quiet determination and the fluid stride are in full evidence as Taylor zooms 52 yards up the right sideline before being knocked out of bounds at the Pittsburgh 40.

Joe Montana lines up behind center and surveys the defense through clear blue eyes. The first play already has been selected by Coach George Seifert, in concert with offensive coordinator Mike Holmgren, from among almost two dozen appropriate to the situation. And even as Montana assesses the white Steeler jerseys in formation, he tries to predict the chances of its success.

Backing up, Montana sees that his primary target, Rice on a 15-yard sideline pattern up the right, has drawn double coverage and that Taylor, slanting across the middle, has been dumped unceremoniously by a still-bouncing Jack Lambert.

Slightly less than three seconds have elapsed and Montana can feel L.C. Greenwood pushing mightily a few steps to his left. He glides to his right, finds a third receiver, running back Roger Craig, waiting in the flat, and zips the ball there. Craig makes 8 yards and Mel Blount exacts punishment for each one with a jarring tackle at the Steelers' 32-yard line.

Typical of the 49ers, but more revealing of his own work ethic, Montana has spent countless hours in front of a video camera after practice, perfecting the fake handoff by placing it at the perspective of the defender he is seeking to freeze, and reviewing the film. Now, this investment, too, pays off, as he completes two of three short passes to three different receivers, mixing in a Craig run of 4 yards, to bring the ball to the 14.

And so, with center Jesse Sapolu pulling to lead the sweep — a new wrinkle to an old play — Craig picks his way 14 yards through a minefield for the game's first score and Cofer adds the extra point.

San Francisco 7, Pittsburgh 0.

The 49ers' rotating zone in the secondary is giving Bradshaw considerable problems, so the Steelers play a conservative style of football early. But in the closing minute of the first quarter, following a punt to their own 30, the Steelers open it up.

Bradshaw to John Stallworth for 32. Harris up the middle for 3, then around the left end for 6 more. Eight more on a quick-release to tight end Randy Grossman over the middle. Harris and Rocky Bleier pounding steadily away for 4 and 5 yards at a clip. Stallworth again for 10.

Now poised over center at the San Francisco 20-yard line, Bradshaw looks at Stallworth to his right and Lynn Swann to his left.

And so, with Stallworth drawing Lott to the right, Webster battling 49er nose tackle Michael Carter to a standstill in the middle, and the certifiably loony Lambert raging up and down the sidelines, Bradshaw goes over the top to Swann for 20 yards and a touchdown. Only to have the dependable Gerela miss the extra point.

San Francisco 7, Pittsburgh 6.

The second and third quarters of the Dream Game, like the middle round of a fight between two skilled boxers, settles into a pattern of punching and counterpunching, with the kickers serving as the surrogates.

Montana is harried, but not sacked, though twice he is hurried and the price is a pair of interceptions. The first of two by Mel Blount is returned 25 yards early in the second quarter. But after the drive stalls deep in 49ers' territory, the Steelers settle for a 26-yard Gerela field goal and their first lead of the game, 9-7.

Gerela is successful a second time, this one from 33 yards, then Cofer answers with one of his own from 31. Blount carries his second theft just 5 yards, but Bradshaw covers the remaining 32 in a single breath, Stallworth wrestling the rainbow throw away from Eric Wright for 19-10 lead at halftime.

Pittsburgh consumes the lion's share of the clock in the third quarter as well, but to little avail. The 4s and 5s that Harris and Bleier ground out at the start of the game are routinely being trimmed to 2s and 3s, and Bradshaw, the long ball taken away by the twice-burned San Francisco defense, is only moderately successful throwing underneath the zone.

The 49ers, meanwhile, move steadily if unspectacularly with two long drives in the period. On both, Montana runs off a string of completions, but each time the Steelers' defense stiffens and Seifert's patience is rewarded with field goals of 25 and 28 yards. The second, coming near the close of the quarter, draws San Francisco to 19-16.

Midway through the fourth quarter, it comes. Bradshaw, hoping to thread the needle and sew up the game, underthrows Swann. Turner steps in front of the pass at the San Francisco 22, and what follows is vintage Montana, made all the more remarkable by its familiarity.

Twelve plays, 78 yards. Seven attempts, six completions. It could be a high school game in Pennsylvania, a college game in South Bend, a playoff game on the frozen tundra of the North, a Super Bowl on a sweltering night in the South.

Even the punctuation is the same: Rice, 25-yard pass from Montana.

"You look at him from the sidelines and you're almost in awe," Seifert said. "You find yourself watching him like a fan would."

San Francisco 23, Pittsburgh 19.

Beginning at his own 20 with 4:53 remaining, Bradshaw circulates the nominations. Bleier catches his fifth pass of the day, an 8-yard screen, then Harris runs out of bounds after 6 more. Small fires are flaring all over the field, and Randy Grossman ignites the biggest of the drive by sliding into the vacant zone underneath Stallworth for 19 yards to the 49ers' 13-yard line.

From there, with 1:12 left, Harris breaks the 100-yard barrier and the bank.

Pittsburgh 26, San Francisco 23.

After a touchback, Montana brings the 49ers onto the field with an eerie calm.

Now, even the markers respond. Five yards, 8, first down. Twelve, 3, 6, 6, first down. Pass to Rice, pass to Taylor, pass to Tom Rathman, pass to Rice, Craig sweep for 4 and out of bounds. An incomplection, Montana's first of the drive.

Third-down-and-4 at the Steeler 18. Fourteen seconds left. Montana back to throw.

Greene does each in turn, notching Pittsburgh's first and only sack of the game and folding Montana up like a card table at the 21. Cofer drifts onto the turf with 8 seconds left. Greene lines up over center.

Finally, the ball is in the air, tumbling, tumbling, veering and tumbling, landing wide to the left.

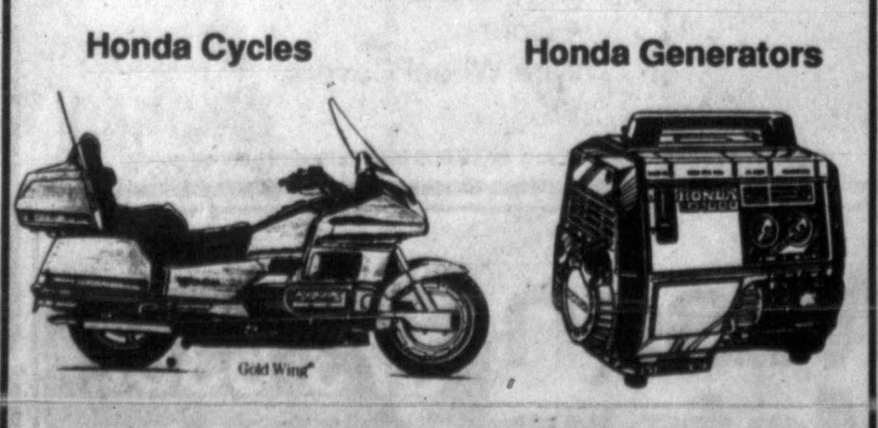

Pittsburgh, Team of the Seventies, 26
San Francisco, Team of the Eighties, 23.

JUMP SHOT — Robert Gray, 44, puts up a shot for two points between a pair of defenders in Friday's 62-59 win over Pecos. The win ties Snyder with the Eagles for the District 4-4A lead. (SDN Staff Photo)

Tigers move into tie for first

Snyder knocks off Pecos, 62-59, for 7-1 district record

The Snyder Tigers moved into a tie with Pecos for the District 4-4A basketball lead with their 62-59 win over the Eagles Friday.

The Pecos attack was supposed to have filled the air at the county coliseum with three-point attempts but it was actually the Tigers' Tracy Braziel who had the long-distance connection as he hit five of six three-pointers, the first giving Snyder the lead, 32-30 in the early part of the third quarter.

"We knew we had to win all our games at home," said Snyder coach Larry Scott.

"Hopefully, Pecos will falter somewhere else down the line and we can finish them off the last game of the season in their place."

"At the half we felt like we were playing their game, running up and down the floor out of control," he said. "We just had them slow it down."

Jason West scored 12 points on the evening on a single two-point goal. The remainder of his scoring was done at the free-throw line as he hit 10 of 12.

West and Robert Gray were good on six consecutive free tosses to give the Black and Gold a 17-11 lead after a quarter.

The Snyder lead dwindled to just two at the 4:46 mark in the second period when senior guard Dani Talamentez of Pecos drove the lane for a lay-up to make the score 21-19.

Tommy Cobos gave the Eagles their first lead in the game, 22-21, with a three at 4:10.

Pecos went up by three points when 6-0 senior Ricky Flores snapped the cords on a short jumper.

Jeffery Wortham brought Snyder back to within one point by making good on both ends of a one-and-one. Pecos 24, Snyder 23.

Flores hit another jump shot and a free-throw to put PHS up by three with less than two minutes left in the half.

West knocked down a pair of freebies and followed those two points with a steal off a stalling Pecos squad waiting for the last shot.

West dished to Hayward Clay who passed right back to a driving West who went in for the deuce.

With :01 left in the period, Cobos was fouled and connected on both shots to give the Eagles a 30-27 half-time lead.

Braziel got hot in the third.

He hit three treys to pass the Eagles and give the hometowners a 40-36 lead with under three minutes to play in the quarter.

Rios was successful on a free-throw attempt and Pecos went into a zone defense to try to stop the Snyder offense.

Flores brought Pecos back to 41-40 with two straight baskets by the 2:00 mark.

Rios hit one from the line to edge the SHS lead to two-points but the Eagles took the lead, 43-42, on a looping three-pointer from Cobos.

West tied the game at 47-all with another trip to the stripe but Pecos closed the quarter with a 45-43 advantage after Lemont Ephraim grabbed an offensive rebound and hit a lay-up with just seconds left.

Ephraim wasted little time boosting the Eagle lead to four points, hitting a bucket just inside the three-point line.

Clay, Snyder's sophomore post, knotted the game at 49 with two critical free-throws.

Lee Hamilton gave Snyder the lead with about four minutes left in the game with two free shots of his own.

After Talamentez was ticketed for charging, Pecos' Gary Moore fouled Rios and was booed and hissed heartily by the fans in the coliseum, a reaction that clearly bothered Moore's defensive performance late in the game, and seemed to spread to his teammates at the end, especially at the line.

Rios made the second shot from the charity stripe giving Snyder a three-point margin, 52-49.

Flores brought the Eagles back with a game-tying three-point bucket with 3:18 left in the contest.

Braziel tossed in a three of his own to put Snyder in front again.

Flores' crusade continued as he hit both ends of a one-and-one making it a one-point affair, 55-54, with 2:24 left on the game clock.

A Hamilton three and another free-throw from West put Snyder up by five with under a minute-and-a-half to play.

Pecos came back again. This time Ephraim, who was fouled in the lane by Clay, tossed in two from the stripe with :16 left in regulation to tie the score again, 59-59.

With 11 seconds in the game Talamentez fouled West before he could cross mid-court.

West coolly completed both shots, giving the Tigers a 61-59 lead.

Flores was fouled at the Pecos end of the floor with just :04 left to play.

The crowd yelled, booed and caused the Eagle cager to go wide on the shot and Clay, grabbing the rebound, was fouled.

Clay's free-throw with two seconds left finally ended the scoring.

Braziel paced the Snyder squad with 20 points.

Clay and West each contributed 12 points to the win.

With the win Snyder moves into a deadlock with Pecos at the top of the loop standings, each team at 7-1.

Snyder's JV made it a sweep for the SHS boys Friday, grabbing a 47-37 win over Pecos.

Jerry Don Tippiins had 15 followed by Barron Wesley with 11 and Eric West with nine.

Both squads will be in action again Tuesday when the Tigers go to Big Spring to battle the Steers.

Snyder girls claim 49-42 win over Lady Eagles in loop tilt

PECOS — Snyder's Lady Tigers upped their District 4-4A record to 5-5 with Friday's win over Pecos, 49-42.

Snyder fell behind early, 10-8, and was in a 24-17 hole by intermission.

A 15-8 third quarter by the Lady Tigers tied the game and Snyder cruised in the final period, outscoring the Lady Eagles, 17-9.

Freida Clay was the high scorer for Snyder in the win. She contributed 13 points on five buckets and a three of four performance at the free-throw line.

Teena Braziel added 12 points and Robbie Braziel tossed in nine.

Pecos' Sophia Terry burned the Snyder defense for 21 points on the evening including nine baskets from the floor and three of five from the charity stripe.

The loss evens the Lady Eagles district slate at 5-5 and puts them at 12-9 on the campaign.

Snyder entertains Big Spring Tuesday night as District 4-4A action resumes for the Lady Tigers.

Snyder eighth suffers losses

Snyder's eighth grade cage teams each lost in the Big Spring Tournament Thursday night.

The "A" team was edged, 56-54, by Andrews and the "B" team fell to Big Spring's "A", 40-21.

Eric Braziel poured in 31 points in the "A" team's loss.

Craig Lang and Brad Hart contributed nine and five points, respectively.

The eighth grade "A" squad is now 7-1 on the year.

Snyder's "B" group, 2-6 on the season, was led by Cory Lalik who scored nine points.

Marcelino Aguirre and Anthony Jones tossed in four apiece.

The "A" team was to have played at 2 p.m. Saturday against a team as yet to be announced and "B" teamers were to have faced Sweetwater's "A" crew in a 10 a.m. battle Saturday as the Big Spring tourney continued.

Lady Coyotes bash Sands for 6-0 mark

The Lady Coyotes of Borden County moved to 6-0 in District 16-A basketball Friday with a 53-24 win over Sands.

Borden County, 20-2 overall, held Sands under double figures in all four quarters of the game.

Lisha Sternadel tossed in 23 points to lead the Lady Coyotes followed by Amanda Anderson with eight and Shara Woodward with seven.

Borden County grabbed a 15-8 lead after a quarter and expanded on that to a 28-15 lead by halftime.

Coach Bill May's girls outscored Sands 25-9 in the second half.

"We have a tough week next week. We play in O'Donnell and in Grady, and they're always tough," said May.

Borden County's boys lost to Sands, 67-37, despite Cole Vestal's 18 points.

The Coyotes fall to 0-6 in loop competition and 6-13 in all games played.

Sands held a 28-18 lead at the half and exploded for 39 second-half points, limiting Borden County to just 19.

Officials concerned about finishing homeport project

INGLESIDE, Texas (AP) — Officials who have borrowed to make city improvements for Naval Station Ingleside are worried that looming budget cuts at the Pentagon and a moratorium on new construction leave the project with a doubtful future.

Ingleside has borrowed more than $2 million to fund public improvements for the base, homeport for the USS Wisconsin.

Officials are counting on an increased populace to help pay that back.

"We are counting on their sales tax and water revenues to help pay back some of the debts," said Ingleside Mayor Mark Crawford.

The Navy's constant changing of plans has chilled development needed to support the naval facility, which Navy projections estimate will draw 13,000 people into the area in the next five years.

The Department of Defense announced Wednesday a three-month freeze on all new military construction. A Pentagon spokesman said the move is designed to give military leaders time to examine how much money they will have in the 1991 budget and plan their programs accordingly.

On Friday, congressional sources warned that Texas military installations, including Fort Hood, Bergstrom Air Force Base, the Longhorn Army Ammunition Plant and Chase Field could be closed or cut back under a new defense budget to be submitted Monday.

U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm said he has been assured that Naval Station Ingleside would not be affected by this round of closings and realignments, but the uncertainty remains.

"Every time we get our feet on the ground, something comes up," Crawford told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times. "That's what's killing our community — the uncertainty."

At NSI, it means a halt until April on $20 million in contracts that haven't been awarded, most of them for onshore facilities.

Lt. Mark Walker, with the Navy news desk at the Pentagon, said it's too early to tell whether the Ingleside homeport, presently scheduled to house a battleship, a training aircraft carrier and eight other ships, will be scaled back.

But officials note that Ingleside won't be ready for the new Navy base when the USS Wisconsin is scheduled to steam into the port in 1991.

Vice-president resigns post

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Vice President Dumitru Mazilu resigned Friday because, he said, "Stalinist methods" are being used by the government that took over when the dictator Nicolae Ceausescu was deposed and executed.

Mazilu, who had been under pressure to quit because of ties he once had to Ceausescu, made the announcement on Radio Free Europe.

Also Thursday, Manea

Manescu, one of the four Ceausescu henchmen facing trial Saturday, said in an interview he was only a "simple executioner of orders."

Manescu expressed regrets that he did not try to prevent the thousands of deaths in the uprising that ousted Ceausescu on Dec. 22.

Ion Iliescu, president of the provisional government, has castigated critics of the decision by his governing National Salvation Front to run candidates in elections.

Iliescu denied in a national television address that the Front ever said it would not participate in free elections, now promised for May 20, the official news agency Rompres said Friday.

"It would have been absurd ... for the Front, as the engine of national stabilization and recovery, not to participate in the elections," he said.

On Saturday, the Front is to discuss financing, access to the media and a proposed electoral law with representatives of the 15 new and revived parties planning to contest the elections.

Gheorghe Copil, an adviser to the head of the Peasants Party, accused the Front of being a "destabilizing force" and said his party had not decided whether to attend.

Trial ends in fight over trade secrets

AUSTIN (AP) — A trade secrets trial between two electronics giants started out with promises of high-tech trickery, but drew to a close with the judge counting down the seconds and some attorneys snoozing in their seats.

The trial began Monday. Its hum finish came shortly before 1 a.m. Thursday with no decision.

U.S. District Court Judge Lucius Bunton of Midland, who heard the case, gave both sides until Feb. 5 to submit final written arguments. A decision is expected after that, the Austin American-Statesman reported Friday.

Motorola, the Illinois-based electronics company, sued Hitachi last January, accusing the company of stealing some of the secrets used to make the computer microprocessors that are designed and built in Austin. Motorola claims the alleged technology theft cost the company $8 million in lost profits.

Hitachi, a former Motorola partner, countersued and claimed Motorola swiped its patents and damaged Hitachi's reputation. On Wednesday, an accountant for Hitachi testified that Motorola owes the company $3 million in past-due royalty payments plus other damages for lost business.

Other testimony centered on the electronic makeup of the companies' chips — proving they are identical was crucial to Motorola's case — and on Motorola's motivations for suing.

Bunton, pressed for time because of two other trials this week, had imposed a three-day deadline on the case.

Never mind that the two companies came to court with dozens of witnesses, millions of pages of pretrial documents and at least 1,500 trial exhibits.

Nearly 40 hours of testimony was crammed into three days of work. On Wednesday, the trial began at 8 a.m. and continued uninterrupted, except for a few short breaks, until 12:35 a.m. Thursday. Closing arguments were canceled.

Bunton's demands proved frustrating for attorneys, the newspaper reported.

INS agents seize fake documents

HOUSTON (AP) — Two Mexican nationals were arrested and more than 25,000 fake identification documents were seized at a home where an alleged smuggling ring made the counterfeit documents and sold them to illegal aliens, immigration officials said Friday.

U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service officials said it was the largest such seizure for the Southern Region, a 13-state area stretching from New Mexico to Florida and along the Eastern Seaboard to North Carolina.

INS officials believe the Houston-based smuggling organization' network sold counterfeit documents to illegal aliens throughout the United States.

Financial Focus

Probably one of the most misunderstood features of the Tax Reform Act of 1986 concerns your Individual Retirement Account. Thousands of taxpayers have stopped contributing to their IRAs either because they believe they're no longer eligible for an IRA or because they believe they can no longer make deductible contributions. Both assumptions may be wrong and a valuable retirement program wasted.

Let's begin by separating fact from fiction on who's eligible for an IRA. The simple fact is that anyone under age 70 1/2 with earned income can make IRA contributions.

Whether or not these contributions are tax deductible is based on two things, (1) whether you or your spouse participate in an employer-sponsored retirement plan, and (2) your adjusted gross income.

If neither you nor your spouse is an active participant in an employer-sponsored plan, your IRA contributions, up to $2,000 annually, are fully deductible.

If you and your spouse are active participants, the deductible portion, if any, of your contribution depends upon your adjusted gross income.

Working couples filing jointly with an adjusted gross income of less than $40,000 can each fully deduct up to $2,000 in annual IRA contributions. The deduction is reduced by $200 for every $1,000 earned over $40,000.

For example, if our hypothetical couple has an adjusted gross income of $45,000, each can deduct $1,000 of their maximum $2,000 IRA contribution.

A single taxpayer with an adjusted gross income less than $25,000 is also allowed the full deduction for his or her IRA contribution. Similarly, that deduction is phased out by $200 for every $1,000 over $25,000.

The IRA is one of the most far-sighted aids to personal retirement that Congress ever introduced. Because of it, millions of wage-earning taxpayers realistically plan their retirement without fear of being denied company benefits or Social Security promises.

Unfortunately, Congress chose to sacrifice some long-term benefits for short-term taxes when they disturbed IRAs. The IRA may be wounded, but it's not dead.

Sunday," Wilson said of the 37th Street Church's program.

"They have a very consistent congregation of inmates."

Wilson said the TDCJ's "treatment division" of Windham School, the substance abuse program and chapel "form a triad that is unique to the inmate as far as opportunities for change and self-growth."

Asked if there is a disproportionate amount of agnosticism or atheism among penitentiary inmates, the chaplain said, "I was a pastor for 25 years, and I don't see a lot of difference in the cross-population of this unit than I would in the general population of Snyder."

"These men may be different in that a majority are in the lower level income-wise or in education, but in agnosticism or different denominations, they are very similar to any community."

The 37th Street congregation began preparing for the prison work soon after Snyder was selected as a location in 1987. In 1988, the church held a seminar for area church members interested in taking part in the bus ministry. In addition to Whitt, speakers included Marshall Herklotz, TDJC northern regional director and a strong supporter of Christ Prison Fellowship.

In the bus ministry, the couples build a relationship with the inmate and build on that friendship to teach Biblical principles.

Bill Looney, 37th Street associate minister, said he and other church members have observed the process in other units and believe it is an efficient and effective way to help change lives by teaching the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

Budget release pending

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush's 1991 budget recommends spending $264 million on military construction projects across Texas and millions more on public works ranging from cleaning up the Rio Grande to completing construction of Cooper Lake, say members of Congress.

Bush's budget is to be released Monday, but Sen. Phil Gramm said the massive document reflects the president's commitment to science, space and the future.

He also said the administration's budget proposes closing or making reductions at several Texas military installations.

"Overall, the president will again next week submit to Congress a strong science, space and future-oriented budget and Texas will be a beneficiary of that budget," Gramm, R-Texas, said last week.

Texas, however, also stands to lose thousands of military and civilian jobs under a sweeping list of base closings and reductions being proposed by Defense Secretary Dick Cheney, who also will release his recommendations Monday.

Texas congressional officials, briefed about the military budget Friday, said Cheney proposes closing Bergstrom Air Force Base in Austin, mothballing the Longhorn Army Ammunition Plant at Karnack, shuttering the Navy's Chase Field in Beeville, and dismantling the 2nd Armored Division at Fort Hood, with 12,204 troops.

Fort Hood's losses, however, could be offset by the return of U.S. troops from Europe should the United States and Soviet Union reach agreement on conventional force reductions in Europe, Gramm said.

The Pentagon also proposes shelving a $156 million plan to modernize the Red River Army Depot's central distribution center at Texarkana, while keeping the depot's maintenance facilities.

2 nabbed for DWI

Two men were arrested for DWI early Saturday in separate incidents.

A 29-year-old man was taken into custody on the charge at 12:16 a.m. in the 3500 Block of 23rd St., and an 18-year-old man was arrested for DWI at 3:14 a.m. in the 1800 Block of Fifth St.

A juvenile boy was taken into custody as a runaway during the second DWI arrest and was released to his parents at the sheriff's office.

A 46-year-old man was arrested for public intoxication at 4:30 p.m. Friday at the sheriff's office.

Grass, mobile home fires occupy firemen

Firemen put out four grass fires and a mobile home fire Friday night and early Saturday.

The mobile home fire, in a residence occupied by Nell Beasley four miles west of town off the Lamesa Hwy., started in an attempt to light a fireplace with gasoline, a department spokesman said.

He said the mobile home had fire damage to the carpet, a wall and the ceiling and minor smoke damage to the rest of the structure in the 11:55 p.m. Friday to 1:10 a.m. Saturday incident.

He said occupants had beaten the fire out with a broom.

The grass fires were nine miles north of town on U.S. 84, from 3:56 to 5:20 p.m.; 18 miles north on 84, from 6:06 to 7:40 p.m.; nine miles north on 84 again, from 9:30 to 10 p.m.; and 11 miles north on 84, from 11:55 p.m. to 12:45 a.m.

Toolbox theft

Police are investigating the theft of a man's toolbox and tools from the back of a pickup truck in a Western Texas College parking lot.

Richard Cooper told officers at 1:03 p.m. Friday that the items were missing.

Crash survivor says...

'I had time to say a prayer'

MANHASSET, N.Y. (AP) — Jorge Lozano felt the flight turn bumpy.

"The ladies and kids started screaming," the 59-year-old Bogota businessman recalled Friday, hours after he was rescued from the wreckage of Avianca Flight 52. "I thought we were going to crash."

"I had time to say a prayer. I put my attache case over my knees because I didn't have a pillow. I bent over in the crash position. In about five seconds we were crashing into the trees."

Dozens of people died when the Boeing 707 plunged into a hillside Thursday night on the north shore of Long Island. Lozano, a gray-haired man who works for the American Cargill grain company in Bogota, escaped with a cracked vertebra, a gash on his head and a swollen tongue.

Whispering in English from his bed at North Shore University Hospital, Lozano spoke about curious aspects of the disaster — a low pass over Kennedy Airport, a lack of communication from the cockpit and the possibility that the jet ran out of gas.

"I'm so lucky," he said. "My wife is flying in Saturday to see me from Bogota. When the whole thing ended, I saw a big hole. I took my seat belt off. I slid down the hole. It was an opening in the plane, right where I was. It was a miracle."

Lozano said Flight 52 was already running late when it reached the fog-shrouded metropolitan area.

"We were told 20 minutes from landing that because of congestion or airport conditions we were going to have an additional 20 minutes before landing," said Lozano, who sat in seat 4-F in the first class section.

William Shatner sued for palimony

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Star Trek" actor William Shatner says a woman suing him for palimony is a onetime friend trying to make some money off of his stardom.

Vira Montes, 28, contends in a lawsuit filed by celebrity divorce lawyer Marvin Mitchelson that she was the 58-year-old Shatner's "companion, confidante and homemaker" from 1984 until earlier this month.

"It's a shame this had to happen," Shatner said in a statement released Thursday. "The case she presents is ridiculous. She was a friend whom I tried to help. Someone obviously got to her and convinced her that she could possibly make a killing by suing me."

Shatner, on vacation with his wife, Marcy, and three daughters, was unavailable for further comment, said his publicist, Cheryl Kagan.

In a lawsuit filed Wednesday, Ms. Montes claims she gave up her career as a medical assistant in exchange for Shatner's promises to provide her financial support.

She claims that Shatner agreed to provide her a California house, a car, horseback riding lessons, an Arabian horse and another horse for her 8-year-old son.

Mobil executives to relocate said, "Normally, in many cities, those rumors begin, but that office remains open."

Robbins and Kimmitt said the total number of Mobil employees in the company's Salt Creek, Snyder-Iatan and Chalk-Ackerly production areas was not immediately available.

"Most of the reorganization is primarily affecting middle management," Kimmitt said. "In our property consolidation effort through the years, we have been reducing the number of fields in which we have an interest."

"This has resulted in an imbalance, a greater than normal number of middle-management people. The whole organization is making an adjustment in that respect."

The corporation had previously announced that the Snyder Asset Team in Midland would be headed by former New Orleans Division Production Engineering Manager Larry Bohot, who is now in place in the Midland office.

Asset Team leaders for the Pegasus and Hobbs, N.M., areas are also there, along with technical, land, accounting and employee relations support staff members.

The company's top-ranking executive in Snyder now will be Ernie Hanson, formerly Salt Creek senior production supervisor, who is now operations supervisor for the Salt Creek, Snyder-Iatan and Chalk-Ackerly areas.

Robbins said Hanson will be in charge of Mobil's operations in its nine area fields, with oil production of 35,000 barrels per day.

Reporting to Hanson will be production foremen Danny Odom and Jerry Webb, gas plant foreman Ron Pruitt and maintenance foreman Vernon Browning. Odom, Pruitt and Browning are already in those positions at Salt Creek, and Webb was formerly a Snyder area production foreman.

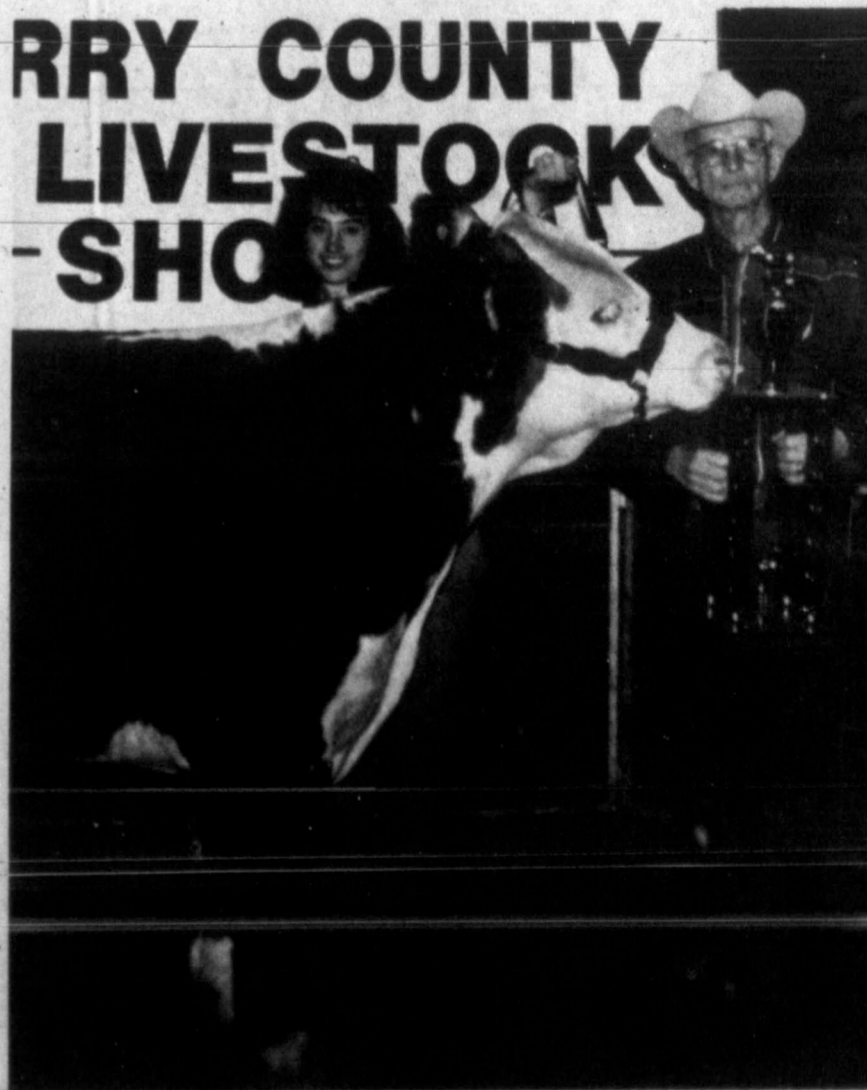

The Snyder-Iatan production foreman will be Johnny Gibbs of Big Spring, who is currently senior production supervisor for the Spraberry area. Gibbs will remain in Big Spring.

Gene Lame of Lamesa, currently senior production supervisor for the Ackerly Field, becomes production foreman for Chalk-Ackerly.

Stan Wright, currently production supervisor for the Snyder area, will become maintenance foreman for Snyder-Iatan and Chalk-Ackerly.

Also remaining in Snyder will be construction supervisor Jon Kelley, who will become construction foreman for all of Hanson's supervisory area.

Victim recounts fear of bikers

CANTON, Texas (AP) — Jurors who will begin deliberations Monday in a woman's bludgeoning death heard a taped conversation in which the victim told a friend her life had been threatened by motorcycle gang members. Attorneys gave final arguments in Ronald Mark Holloway's trial on Friday after a state district court jury heard the 15-minute taped segment of victim Jennifer Winegar talking with a Dallas friend.

Holloway, 39, is accused of bludgeoning Ms. Winegar to death and weighting her decapitated body to the bottom of Willow Lake, northeast of Wills Point, in 1988.

Ms. Winegar said in the tape that she was frightened because members of a motorcycle gang had threaten to kill her.

The victim said three men had beaten her, apparently for testifying against them in an Austin trial. Ms. Winegar said she escaped from them but now "they are looking for me."

The tape, produced in 1986, suggests the possibility of other suspects besides Holloway in Ms. Winegar's death, according to defense testimony.

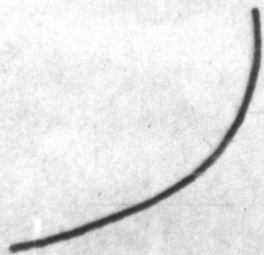

Ms. Winegar talked about cutting her hair, "changing her face" and getting new clothes to avoid being recognized. Ms. Winegar also left information about who to notify if something happened to her and a message to her family.

"Mom, Dad, Jo, Jay (sister and brother), I'm sorry, I couldn't help it. I had to do something to survive," she said.

Holloway, if convicted, could be sentenced to 5 to 99 years or life in prison.

By Shirley A. Gorman

Manuel Castillo is determined to beat the odds.

Time stopped for the 19-year-old Hermleigh senior Sept. 30, 1989, when he suffered a severe concussion during a football game at Paint Creek.

Doctors at Humana Hospital in Abilene, where he underwent brain surgery to remove a blood clot caused by the blow to his head, told the youth's parents, Madaleno Sr. "Mac" and Elvira Castillo, that it would be a "miracle" if their son lived; but if he survived it, he would be paralyzed for the rest of his life.

Those same doctors also told Manuel that he would never walk again, play football, or be able to do any kind of hard physical labor.

So far, Manuel has proved at least one prediction wrong. Even though he has limited use of his left side, he is able to walk with the aid of a cane, his slurred speech is improving, and he is learning to use his left hand again.

He realizes though that he cannot ever play football again and he admits that "it hurts not to be able to do something you always thought you would be able to do."

Manuel believes that he will fully recover and so does not rule out the possibility of someday having some type of manual labor job. But doctors have told his parents that the concussion and blood clot caused some brain damage that will affect Manuel for the rest of his life.

As a result of his traumatic brain injury (TBI), Manuel has other problems he has to deal with. For instance, he has trouble studying because he can't concentrate like he once did. In spite of this drawback though, Manuel has made up all the fall semester work he missed and he said he expects to graduate with his class this May.

The accident has also left a hole in his head and in about six months doctors will install a metal plate to correct this problem.

After he underwent surgery Manuel was "out of it" for about six weeks. During the time he remained in ICU he did not recognize any of his visitors except for his mother, whom he knew the first time he saw her after he regained consciousness.

"I knew I had been seriously hurt when I first woke up," Manuel said. "Because I thought I was in Hermleigh at first. That's pretty bad when you don't even know where you are."

While in ICU, Manuel remained on a respirator for several weeks before he improved enough to be transferred to a regular room. ICU regulations allowed his family to visit him one at a time only.

While in ICU, Manuel said he lost about 30 pounds because he developed a rash in his throat and could not swallow. He was also fed intravenously at first.

One week after being released from ICU Manuel said he confounded hospital staffers by taking his first unassisted steps. Naturally he could not walk normally but he was able to get out of his chair and take a few steps. He said they all asked him what he was doing and then they made him sit down for fear he would injure himself by falling.

Following surgery, Manuel had to enter into an intensive physical therapy program which is helping him to regain the use of his left side. Therapy began in Abilene, continued for a month in Dallas and is now arranged through Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

As a result, he can now walk with the aid of a cane, though he admits to being self-conscious about it, and he can attend classes part-time at Hermleigh. While at home he can walk without the assistance of a cane if he is careful. He also must follow an intensive series of exercises at home which are geared to restoring the use and coordination of his left hand and leg.

He also attends daily therapy sessions in Snyder, but even so, progress comes slowly.

Jeff Mason, a physical therapist at Cogdell Memorial Hospital for the past 10 years, is in charge of Manuel's therapy sessions. Mason was profiled in the Oct. 8, 1989, Folks for his work with Sarah Boyd who had suffered a crippling bout with Guillain-Barré Syndrome, a disease which can cause total paralysis.

Mason works with Manuel every day for one hour. He then attends classes part-time and continues his therapy at home. While at school, a speech therapist is helping him to improve his speaking ability. When he first woke up in the hospital he said every time he tried to talk his words came out slurred. But that has been improving over the past few months.

While a sophomore at Hermleigh, Manuel suffered a mild concussion in a football game with Trent. But that was not as serious as his 1989 injury.

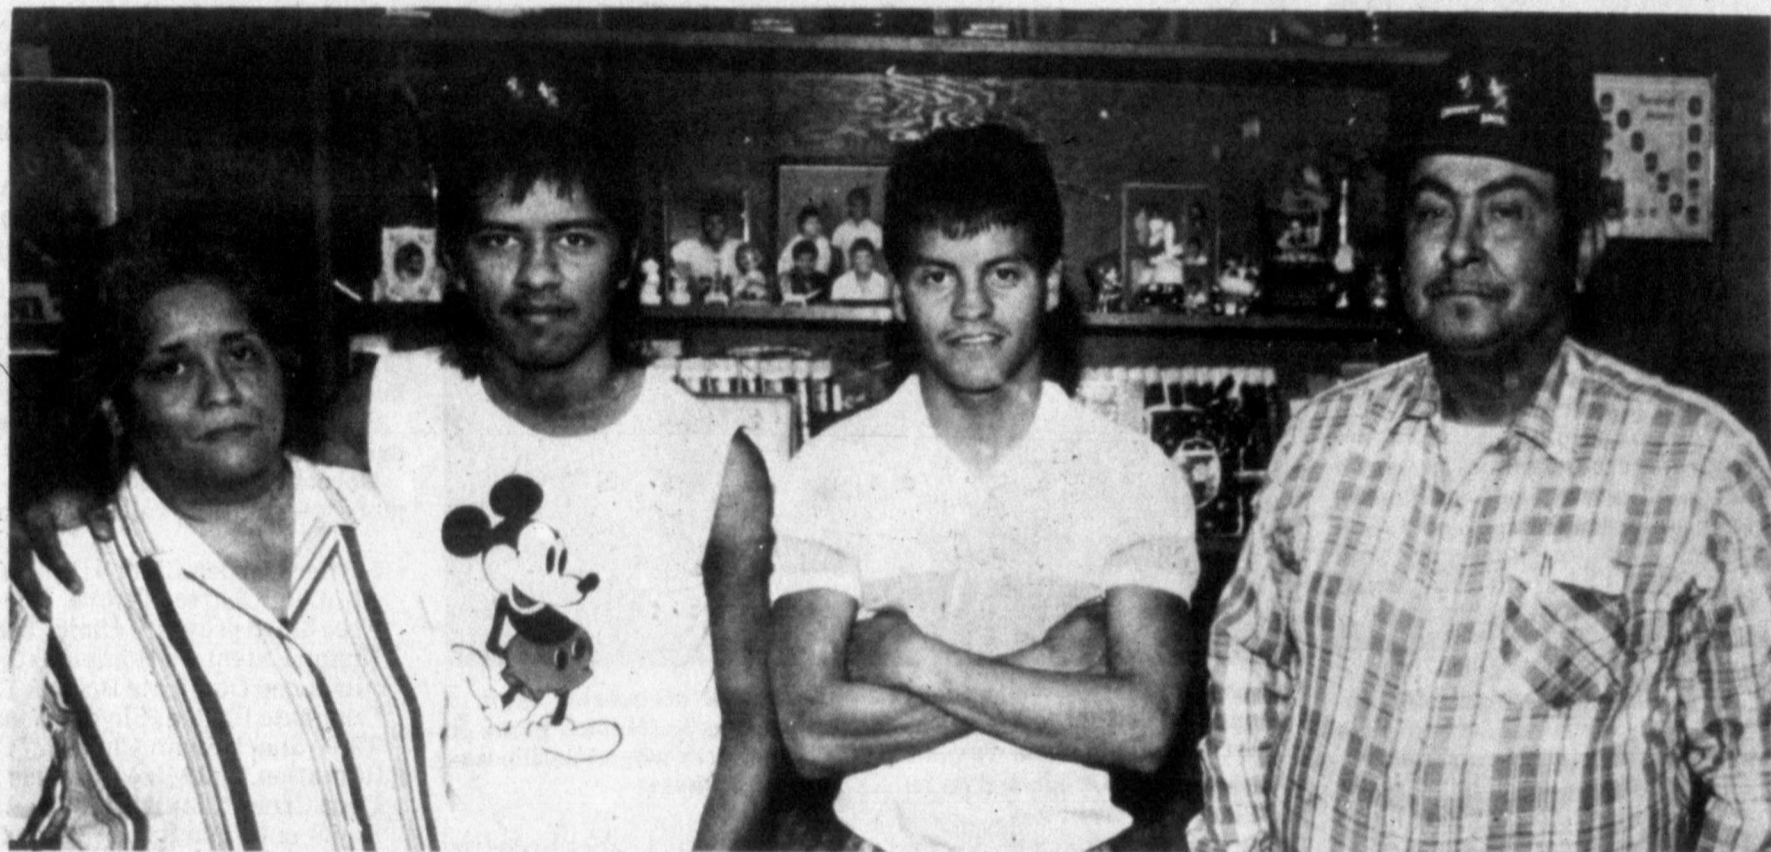

He does not blame anyone or the game of football for his accident and if it were possible he said "he would play again." At one time Manuel said he had been counting on getting a football scholarship to Texas Tech, but now he said he will have to do something else. He isn't in any hurry though, as he still has a semester of high school left and many more months of therapy. He thinks by this summer he will have a better perspective about what he will be able to do after he graduates from high school.

On that fateful night last September, Manuel said he had suited up even though he had the flu because he "wanted to play."

He remembers only "bits and pieces" of that Sept. 30 football game.

As a running back, Manuel had already scored three touchdowns, one interception and recovered a fumble, all during the first half at Paint Creek.

Just as the second half got See SCURRY Page 2B

YOU'VE COME A LONG WAY MANUEL — Manuel Castillo, second from left, has come a long way since being injured in a Sept. 30 football game in Paint Creek, but he still has to undergo daily physical therapy which is helping to restore mobility and movement to his left side. Pictured with the Hermleigh youth are his mother, Elvira, a brother, Mac Jr., who will graduate from Western Texas College this May, and his father, Mac Sr., who is employed at Grimmitt Brothers. underway he assumed the safety position during the kickoff. He remembers diving at another player's legs trying to tackle him, but instead the other player's knee came up and slammed into his helmet. That's when Manuel's world changed.

In spite of the severe blow to his head, Manuel said he walked off the field and, since everyone thought he had just had the wind knocked out of him, people were walking him along the sidelines. But he did not improve and soon reached the point where he could not walk.

Jackie Williamson, a registered nurse and a longtime family friend who now lives in Dallas, was in the stands and came to Manuel's assistance. Family members credit her with saving his life. They said she got Manuel breathing again twice (once on the sidelines and later in the ambulance on the way to the hospital) and when she recognized the signs of a concussion (his eyes were looking in opposite directions) she started slapping his face and calling his name to keep him awake. Hermleigh coaches also pitched in and kept slapping his face, anything to keep him awake while the ambulance was en route to the stadium. They also let him smell ammonia which made him throw up.

When the ambulance arrived, Manuel was taken to the hospital in Haskell, but, as it was not equipped to handle such an emergency, he was transferred to Abilene where he underwent immediate brain surgery to remove a blood clot.

Manuel's father said the blood clot had been growing and bleeding since the accident. He also said they have been told that Manuel's paralysis might not have been as extensive if he had gotten to the Abilene hospital sooner.

Manuel spent from two to three hours in surgery. Two and one-half months later he was released and allowed to spend a week at home before going to Baylor Institute For Rehabilitation at Gaston Episcopal Hospital for a month of intensive therapy.

While at home he traveled daily to Abilene for therapy sessions before going to Dallas.

In Dallas, he underwent speech therapy to correct his slurred speech, physical therapy for his left leg and occupational therapy for his left arm and hand.

Therapists, trying to stimulate his memory, also kept asking him what he remembered and how he felt etc., he explained.

During the month he was in Dallas, Castillo said his brother, Mike, who lives there, encouraged him to keep up with his therapy. Williamson also visited Manuel regularly and once took him out for pizza, he said.

Castillo said during that four week period he underwent intensive therapy for several hours each day. While there he missed his home, but the intensive therapy program he was started on has helped him.

Now that Castillo is home he will continue therapy sessions at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Currently the Texas Department of Health for Chronically Ill and Disabled Children's Services is paying for Manuel's therapy, but that coverage will end by Sept. 9, 1990.

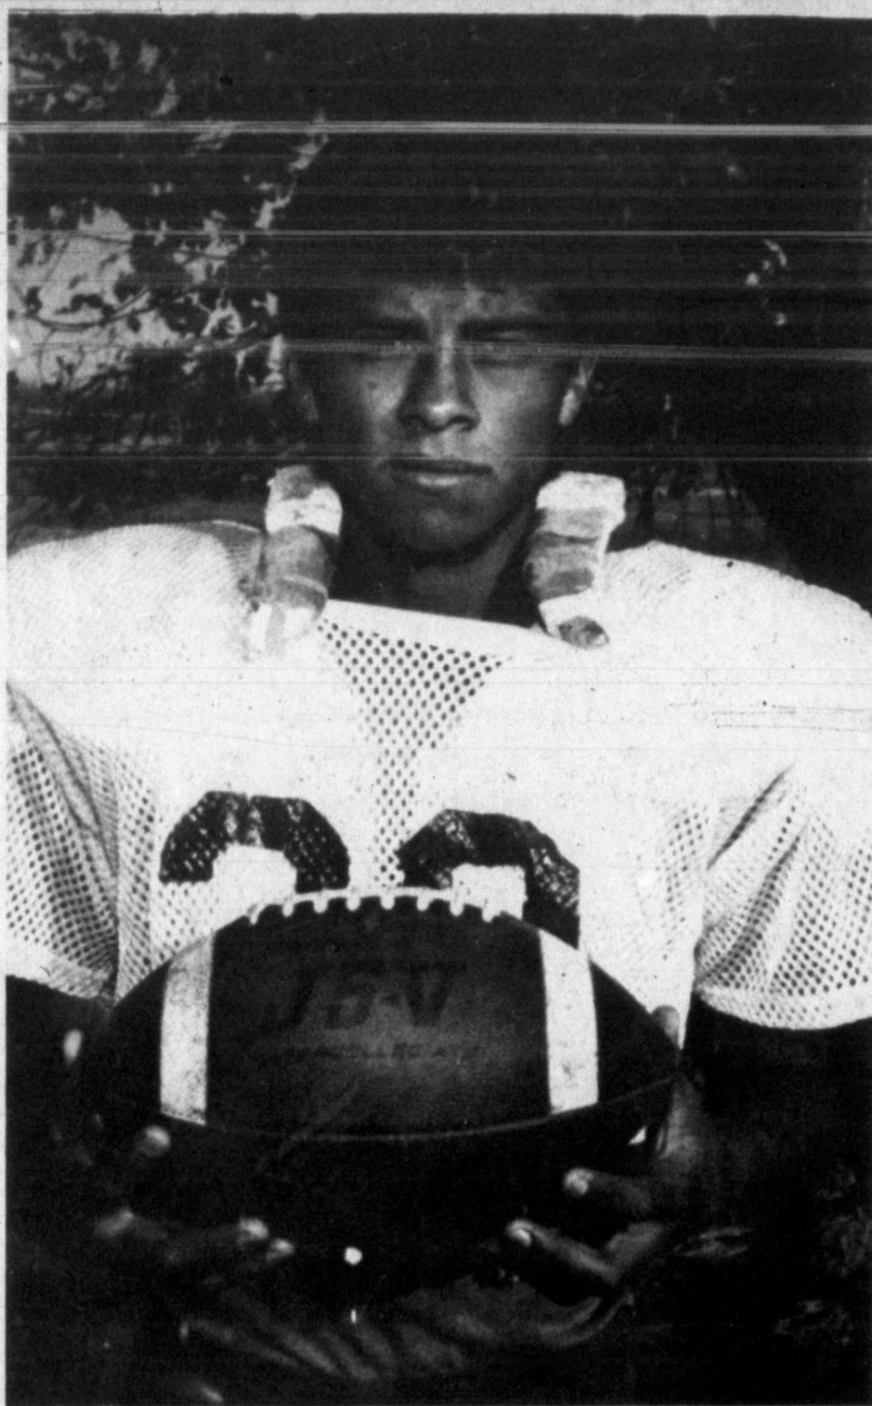

In order to insure that his son can continue therapy, (which doctors have told the family will be needed beyond that date) Castillo said they have applied to the Texas Rehabilitation Commission for a disability determination, but as yet have not heard whether Manuel has been accepted or not. He said he has been told that the process involves a lot of paperwork and that it will be several weeks before a determination is made.

Manuel's bill at Humana hospital is in excess of $80,000 and of that sum, insurance obtained through the school has paid a little more than $8,000.

Castillo said they have spent their savings and they have also applied for other assistance. In addition, he said the people in Hermleigh have donated funds towards his son's medical bills and have helped the family in other ways, too. He said they are very grateful for all the support they have received from the school and the community.

Neither of Castillo's parents were present for the Paint Creek game and since they do not have a telephone, a Scurry County deputy came to their home in Hermleigh to tell them they needed to call Paint Creek because their son had been injured.

Castillo said he and his wife were prepared to drive to Paint

Creek but when they learned that Manuel had been taken to Abilene they drove to Humana Hospital instead.

Both parents remained with Manuel for the first two weeks he was in Humana Hospital. And since then, Castillo, who works for Grimmitt Brothers, said he has not been able to work very many full weeks because of being with his son.

While Manuel was in Abilene, Castillo said he and his wife drove back and forth because they felt it was cheaper to do that than to rent a room. A free room was provided for them in Dallas.

Now that Manuel is back in school, he is determined to make the most of his life. This school year he has been elected football hero, Mr. HHS, and senior class favorite.

Manuel looks ahead to his future with the same hope and courage he has displayed since being hurt last September. He isn't sure why he got hurt. "I guess it was my destiny. I guess it was the way God wanted it."

GUM DISEASE
90% of Americans have gum disease. It is caused by the build-up of plaque on the teeth. It leads first to gingivitis (inflammation of the gums), which is curable if the plaque is completely removed. If neglected, it will cause destruction of bone supporting the roots of the teeth - periodontitis - which is responsible for 70% of all loss of teeth. Avoid gum disease by brushing and flossing after every meal, and regular dental checkups to remove all plaque.

Couple weds in afternoon

GEORGETOWN — Cassandra Cay Crownover and Christopher Matthew Plourd, both of Round Rock, were united in marriage at 1 p.m. Dec. 9, 1989, at Lois Perkins Chapel on the campus of Southwestern University. Ben Warton of Lake Whitney, former associate pastor of First Baptist Church in Snyder, officiated the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Marilyn Crownover of Snyder, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Plourd of Killeen.

The couple was united before candelabra adorned with teal bows and ribbons and white poinsettia. Greenery adorned the altar and the aisles.

Zane Crownover of Midland, nephew of the bride, lit candles for the ceremony.

Vocalist for the occasion was Angie Crook of Dallas. She sang "Candle on the Water" and "The Wedding Song." She was accompanied by an organist.

Given in marriage by her brother, John Carlton Crownover of Midland, the bride chose a hand-made gown by her sister-in-law, Norma Crownover of Midland. The fitted bodice of embossed lace tulips and candlelight satin had a graduated hemline. The gown featured a jewel neckline with puffed peek-a-boo sleeves.

The bodice was detailed with candlelight satin at the dropped waist. Her hair was adorned with a romantic cluster bow of satin ribbon with sprays of pearls in the back. The bridal bouquet was of white calla lilies with white trailing ribbons.

Mrs. Kellye Stuart of Austin served her cousin as matron of honor. The bridesmaid was Kelley Bagwell of Ft. Worth, cousin of the bride. They both wore ballerina-length gowns featuring black velvet bodices, sweetheart necklines and teal taffeta skirts. Each carried two fresh-cut calla lilies with matching teal ribbons.

Jason Crownover of Midland, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer.

Matt LaRoche of Beaumont

MR. AND MRS. CHRISTOPHER MATTHEW PLOURD

served as best man, and Mark Spear of Dallas was the groomsman.

The groom chose a black tuxedo by Christian Dior with a white cummerbund and bow tie. His attendants wore black Christian Dior tuxedos with teal cummerbunds and bow ties.

Corsages and boutonnieres were made of white steffanotis, sweetheart roses and tree fern. They were created by Nichole Hahn of Dallas, sister of the groom.

Following the ceremony, a champagne buffet was served at the couple's new home. Brass candelabra accented with teal bows adorned the bride's table. An arrangement of white calla lilies served as the centerpiece.

The two-tiered white wedding cake had insets of teal ribbon.

The confection was adorned with white silk calla lilies. Stephanie Winter of Plano served at the bride's table.

The groom's table featured a German chocolate cake adorned with white carnations and tree fern. Nichole Hahn of Dallas, sister of the groom, served the cake.

The bride is a 1980 graduate of Snyder High School. She attended Angelo State University and Texas Tech University. She is employed with Southwest Airlines.

The groom graduated from Ellison High School and attended the University of Texas at Austin and Richland College in Dallas. He is currently employed with United Airlines.

The couple will make their home in Round Rock.

SCS Notes

By MICHAEL SQUIRES
Range Conservationist

FSA compliance plans, do you have yours? On Jan. 1, 1990, the regulations for the Food Security Act went into affect. If the farm that you are operating has "Highly Erodible Land" and if you do not have a conservation plan on file at the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) then you will be subject to forfeiture of all benefits provided by the Department of Agriculture. If you are not sure whether you have a current plan(s) on file, contact the local SCS office for assistance.

If you did not get a plan developed on a farm that you own or operate, then you still have options open. However, you must act now in order to avoid losing all program benefits for 1990.

After Jan. 1, 1990, as part of the process of applying for USDA program benefits, a person will be required to annually certify to ASCS that his or her plan is being actively applied to the land as planned. However, producers are not tied to the same plan every year. They may revise and modify their plans as their needs change but there are minimum standards which must be met in order to remain in compliance with the farm programs.

For further information about Conservation Compliance Plans, contact the Soil Conservation Service at 573-6317.

played the queen of spades, not with any specific design at the moment. Declarer won the ace of spades and led the queen of hearts, playing low from dummy. When that won the trick, South continued with the jack of hearts, again finessing. Now East won the king. He was left with 9-6 of hearts and knew that declarer had the 10-8 remaining in his hand. If dummy was forced to ruff with the ace of hearts, East would build a trick for his nine-spot. So he underled the king of spades. When declarer put in the nine, West won the 10 and had no trouble figuring out what was happening. He led back a spade and dummy ruffed with the ace of hearts. That established Zeke Jabour's heart nine for the setting trick. Playing standard bridge, South had a choice in the bidding after North's one-no-trump rebid. A bid of only two hearts would be weak, showing a second suit and not forcing. That's why

South, with 11 high-card points and some 10-spots, took the more aggressive stance of forcing with a jump in hearts.

Home filter is alternative for safer drinking water

NEW YORK (AP) — Are your sinks stained green, blue or brown from tap water? Do you drink bottled water because you think it's safer? Have you considered installing a home water filter?

"Turning on the tap water and getting safe, drinkable water is something most of us take for granted," says Anastasia Schepers, a nutritionist and assistant editor of Environmental Nutrition newsletter. "But according to the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta, about 7,400 cases of drinking water-related illness are reported each year."

According to Dr. Robert Tauxe of the Centers for Disease Control, parasites, bacteria, chemicals and viruses are responsible for about 50 percent of the cases of waterborne illness; the causes of the remaining 50 percent are unknown.

Schepers says, "While many consumers believe that bottled water is purer than tap water, this isn't necessarily the case. Several surveys of bottled water have revealed that many do not comply with U.S. water drinking standards. For example, a 1987 Massachusetts study revealed that 13 out of 15 brands of mineral water exceeded one or more federal or state guidelines."

How can you be sure that the water in your home is safe? Environmental Nutrition offers these precautionary tips:

— Check Pipes: Plumbing installed before 1930 may contain lead, which can cause unhealthy amounts of lead to leach into drinking water. Also, houses built before 1986 with copper pipes may have lead solder. Water coming from suspect pipes or solder joints should be tested by a competent laboratory.

— Check Sinks for Stains: Any stain can suggest corrosion and possible lead leaching. Brown stains mean high iron content of water, which ordinarily does not pose a health risk. Green-blue stains mean high copper content which is toxic only in extremely high amounts. Both copper and iron give water a metallic taste.

— Flush the Cold Water Tap: Allow water to run until it has reached maximum coldness.

Hayes, Sisson...

Noon ceremony unites pair

Deborah Lynn Hayes became the bride of Dr. Gary Neil Sisson in a noon ceremony Dec. 17, 1989, at Central Baptist Church of Hermleigh. Jim Townsend, pastor of the church, officiated the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Larry Hayes of Austin and Susan Hayes of Lewisville, and the granddaughter of Howard and Viola Gracey of Snyder. The groom is the son of Bobby and Ruby Sisson of Bonham.

The groom sang "Don't Send Me No Angels," to his bride. Jamie Roemisch of Hermleigh served as pianist. She performed "Wedding March" and "Faith of Our Fathers."

The bride was attired in a royal blue evening gown. She carried a bouquet of long stemmed red roses with Christmas holly and ivy.

Brenda Anthony of Snyder served as matron of honor, and Nicole Anthony of Snyder was the bridesmaid. Aubri Danae Sisson of Snyder, daughter of the groom was the flower girl. Aaron James Sisson of Snyder, son of the groom, served as ring bearer.

Ken Anthony of Snyder served the groom as best man, and Shawn Anthony of Snyder was the groomsmen.

The groom was attired in a navy blue pinstripe suit.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table was decorated in mauve and oyster by Virginia Townsend. The wedding cake, made by Viola Gracey, grandmother of the bride, was also decorated in mauve and oyster.

The groom is a 1976 graduate of Dawson High School in Welch. He attended West Texas State University for two years, and received a bachelor's degree in 1980 and a doctorate of optometry degree 1982, from the University of Houston. He served as an officer in the U.S. Navy from 1982-85, and has been a partner in the private practice of Nesbit and Sisson for over four years.

Following a honeymoon trip to London, England, the couple is at home in Snyder.

MAKING THE MOST OF YOUR FOOD DOLLAR
Using your food money wisely means more than cutting your food bill. It also means making sure you get good nutrition and eating pleasure for the money you spend on food. Wise use of food dollars is a challenge, requiring planning and the use of basic tools to make sound cost comparisons. Here are some tips to help you sharpen your food money management skills:

- Plan meals first, then make a shopping list. Use your list to save trips to the supermarket and help you avoid buying items you don't really need.
- Shop at a store that gives you the best price and quality for products you typically buy. Make sure the cost savings from shopping at several stores justifies the extra time and transportation cost.
- Try to avoid shopping when you're tired, hungry or rushed.
- Use unit pricing to find best buys. Large packages, store brands, and sale items are often, but not always, cheaper than other brands or container sizes.
- Use itemized receipts from computer-assisted checkout systems to help track food costs. This is especially helpful when prices aren't marked on products.
- Make substitutions for items on your shopping list if you can save money or get a higher quality product, and if the item will fit into your meal plans.
- Use coupons for products you usually buy. Stock up on store specials in reasonable amounts.
- Buy store brands and generic items when their taste and quality suit your needs.
- Salad bars can be costly — buy only those items you need in small quantities. Pick up basic ingredients — lettuce, cabbage, celery, carrots, cucumbers, onion — elsewhere in the store.

- Buy bulk foods (when available) for high quality, lower price and the exact amount you want.
- Make sure convenience foods are worthwhile buys. Some (packaged mixes, canned vegetables, frozen juice concentrates) are good buys, while others (frozen dinners) cost much more than home-prepared versions.
- Avoid overbuying (particularly perishables) to minimize food waste.
- To protect food quality while you shop:
- Pick up perishables (salad bar ingredients, frozen vegetables, meats, dairy products) last.
- Pack frozen foods and meats in insulated bags. Keep cold items together.
- Minimize time foods are in the car. Keep perishables out of direct sunlight.
- Put foods away promptly.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I've been reading you for years, and your advice is to-the-point and most useful. Among other things, I've always been impressed with is that you nearly always can come up with the name and address of a national organization to help those who have physical, mental, emotional problems, etc.

Do you have a list of these organizations that is available to be sent to the public? I do volunteer work and often wish I could direct someone to a national group (often self-help) that could be of assistance. I get all kinds of problems thrown at me, and sometimes feel saddened that I can't refer people to others with more experience in a particular field.

If you can help, it would be wonderful.

BETTY GEISMAR,
MISSION VIEJO, CALIF.

DEAR BETTY: For your information and the information of others, there are directories for help organizations. Your public library should have them. The United Way also maintains a complete listing of agencies in each area, and it is happy to refer people.

The federal government funds the National Health Information Clearinghouse Hotline (800) 336-4797. Inquire at any of these sources, or call your 800-information operator to inquire if there is a toll-free number for the organization that might be helpful to your clients. Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I have been living together for early two years. Randy is 25. I am 23. He had given me a diamond ring (one carat), which I recently quit wearing because I wasn't sure where our relationship was going. Also, too many people kept asking me when we were getting married, and I couldn't handle it. When Randy gave me the ring, he said we would be getting married "in about a year," but I never could get him to set a date.

Abby, in order to plan a wedding, a bride needs at least three months' notice, right? Well, I never was able to get Randy to tell me which month — let alone which day. That's when I quit wearing his ring. Do you blame me?

I just discovered that the ring was missing. (I kept it hidden in the bathroom.) I asked Randy if he had taken it, and he said yes — since I wasn't wearing it, he just took it back.

Abby, I feel robbed — not so much in a material way; it's more like an emotional loss. What do you think? I need advice.

ROBBED

DEAR ROBBED: I think you and Randy never had a meeting of minds. You became engaged to be married, and he became engaged to be engaged. He is clearly not ready for marriage — at least not to you — so my advice is to quit living together.

After you put some distance between yourselves, you will be able to think more clearly.

He should not have taken the ring; he should have asked you to return it, since you were no longer wearing it. And since the ring was an "engagement ring" only in your eyes — but not in his — you should have had the opportunity to return it.

Maybe one day you and Randy will be ready for marriage. But the time is not now.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Peter Booras in Rock Island, Ill." brought back memories of the Depression years. In 1933, my father, who was 45, was told he was too old to work, so he and my mother started a boardinghouse in Alton, Ill. They catered to working-class men who were big eaters. I was only 9 years old, but I still remember what they charged. Three meals a day and a place to sleep was $7 a week. This included a hand-packed lunch of three sandwiches, a piece of fruit, and coffee — if they provided the jug. They also fed people who came in from off the street for 25 cents a meal — all they could eat, family-style. Please print my letter so Peter will know that at least one person related to his letter.

WILLIAM R. REED, PHOENIX

DEAR WILLIAM: One person? I called Peter, who told me that he had received hundreds (by now, thousands) of letters from people with Depression stories to tell. He said his biggest problem was thanking all those wonderful people who wrote. I assured him that I would express his gratitude through my column — so if you don't hear from Peter Booras personally, please understand.

Meanwhile, here are some excerpts from readers recalling the Depression years:

... I was born on a farm in Illinois, but was lucky enough to get a government job in Washington, D.C., in 1934. I lived in a boardinghouse full of young men who had just come there to work. I paid $28 a month for room and board ... The Economy Act Law reduced the salaries of all government employees by 15 percent — this included U.S. senators, whose pay was reduced from $10,000 a year to $8,500. Also, no two members from the same family could hold a government job. One had to resign.

HARRY G., CLEARWATER, FLA.

... I will never forget the Depression years. My mother died when I was 6 years old. I baby-sat for a dollar a week when I was 7. I went to school with cardboard in my shoes, but my feet got wet through the snow and slush. We were poor, but never worried. In summer, we slept in peace with our doors wide open. Times have sure changed.

MILLIE IN PHOENIX

... I'm a 79-year-old widow. In 1932, when my daughter was born, I had only $1 for baby clothes, so I bought 10 yards of outing flannel for 10 cents a yard. I made some gowns and used the rest for diapers. In winter, I washed the diapers on a washboard and dried them by an open fireplace. The "baby" is now 57 and a nurse in Urbana, Ohio.

CARRIE IN MECHANICSBURG

... I'm 70 now, and I still remember double-dip ice-cream cones with chocolate topping for 5 cents, and trolley car rides over an open trestle for a nickel. A brand-new Chevrolet cost $600, dresses were $2.98, shoes were $1.98, and you could buy a whole week's groceries for $7. I never regretted those Depression years because they taught me how to manage money.

MARIAN IN NORWALK, CONN.

... I just turned 83. As a young man, I drove a truck days and worked as a barber in the evenings. No electricity — just clippers and a shears. A haircut was two bits — half the time it was "charged," but never paid off. The blacksmith across the road did a big business pulling people's teeth — with nothing to kill the pain.

RAY IN W.VA.

... I was a nurse in Huron, S.D., during the Depression. I worked a 10-hour shift for $4.25 — a dollar extra for the graveyard shift. I rented a three-room cottage for $7 per month — no bathroom or running water. In July 1933, we had the worst dust storm in history; then it rained — and we had mud balls!

Coppola film will continue

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — Filmmaker Francis Ford Coppola and one of his film companies sought bankruptcy protection from creditors, but his filming of the third "Godfather" movie continued in Rome.

Coppola and Zoetrope Productions filed separately Thursday in U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Santa Rosa under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Act. That allows them freedom from creditors' lawsuits while they try to work out a repayment plan.

Drug-phone mixup leaves Dallas man feeling helpless

DALLAS (AP) — John Page is against drugs as much as the next guy. But he didn't lose any sleep over the problem until Tuesday night.

During Tuesday night's "Texas CrackDown!," a joint television production by network affiliates in the Dallas-Fort Worth area to combat drug abuse, viewers were given a toll-free number to call for advice.

But some callers failed to dial 1-800 first and they reached Page's Dallas residence instead.

Page returned home from a basketball game Tuesday night to find his phone ringing and his answering machine filled with messages.

All the callers wanted help. "Some people sounded really bad, too," Page said.

He later discovered that the calls were meant for a hot line set up to direct people to agencies offering drug abuse counseling.

Page, 27, called a local TV affiliate to report his problem and said "the lady laughed her head off" over the mix-up.

Wednesday morning, after at least 30 more calls, Page called the Greater Dallas Crime Commission — which sponsored the two-hour show — and said the response there was laughter, too.

"Everybody was laughing except me," Page said.

Page said a woman at the Crime Commission promised to call him back with a possible solution, but her message was not among the 50 he found when he returned home Wednesday night.

"I'll probably have to change my number," he said. "People have probably scribbled down the number ... and will call when they have problems again."

Ironically, Page said he paid $60 to have his number unlisted three weeks ago.

"It's kind of funny," he said. "I just changed my number ... and now it's probably going to turn out to be a lot more problems than the other."

Hopkins will direct play

PITTSBURGH (AP) — For actor Anthony Hopkins, the chance to direct a one-man play about poet Dylan Thomas is an opportunity to reconnect with his heritage.

Hopkins will direct "Dylan Thomas: Return Journey," featuring Bob Kingdom based upon the Welsh poet's work, anecdotes and letters. The show makes its U.S. debut Feb. 16 in Pittsburgh.

Buffalo Reef

By Bill McClellan

We get a lot of Ask Us questions that simply aren't answerable or don't deserve to be answered.

Q—Is it true the "Commissioners Court" is trimming (sic) the fat off the White Buffalo?

Obviously, this is supposed to be cute, but the only reaction I can conjure up is here's a guy (gal?) who is more interested in poking fun at the county and the recent rollback election than in providing productive input. Help like this, nobody needs.

When I think about budget cuts — some already made and others almost sure to be made — I can see the Ask Us questions piling up:

Q—When is the swimming pool at Towle Park going to open?

A—It's not, unless some private enterprise wants to take it on. It was one of the budget cuts made by the commissioners court — prior to the audit and the rollback election, by the way.

The swimming pool has lost money for years, but the county has kept it open, to give kids a place to swim in the summer. No more. The old adage "go jump in the lake" was never more true.

Don't be surprised if you see this one:

Q—How come registration fees for the youth baseball programs have tripled since last year?

A—Because now, only the kids and parents involved in these programs will pay instead of the entire county.

Instead of all county residents paying upkeep and utilities on the ballparks, it is likely that "user fees" may be implemented by the commissioners court. In other words, you use it, you pay for it. Whereas in the past, several thousand people shared in the expense, now several hundred will.

Let's see, fees shouldn't go up much more than...say, 50-100 percent.

Of course, if you don't have ballplaying kids or grandkids, this will not affect you. Well, wait a minute...

It COULD affect you because if the county ends up charging the school to play high school games at Moffett Field, then the school will have to recoup its losses by adding a penny or two to school taxes.

SDN Opinion Page

And, it COULD affect you because it might mean that holding a state teenage league or girl's softball tournament would be cost prohibitive, in which case those seven or eight teams will go to Sweetwater, stay in Sweetwater motels, shop in Sweetwater stores and eat in Sweetwater restaurants.

And if you are naive enough to think that doesn't affect your personal pocketbook, you don't understand the scope of the situation.

Take the coliseum, for instance. It's largely a money-losing proposition. In a city this small, it's very likely impossible for the coliseum to pay for itself. It simply isn't used often enough.

"So, who needs it?" you say. "I don't care about basketball games and rodeos and such."

Consider this: When the AJRA National Finals comes to town the motels fill up. Restaurants fill up. Most retail stores see an increase in profits.

When the Region V basketball tournament comes here in May, most of the motels will fill up. The players and coaches and college scouts — over 250 of them altogether — will eat in local restaurants.

When the boy's Little Dribbler's National Tournament is held here later this year it will bring about 700 players to town for three or four days. I think 300-500 parents is a conservative enough estimate. Say 1,200 people in all; an increase in Snyder's population of 10 percent.

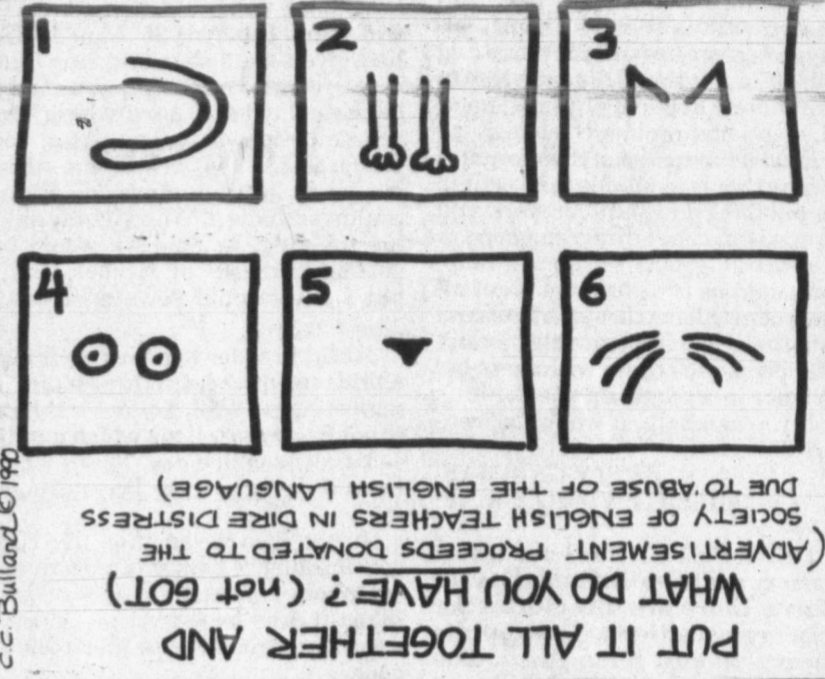

They buy. That helps businesses prosper. They pay sales tax. That helps the city and the county prosper. And that helps take some of the tax burden off of you.

Now, I'll "Ask Us"...

Q—Could Snyder host activities such as the AJRA National Finals, the Region V tournaments and the Little Dribbler's National Tournament if the coliseum were closed?

A—What do you think?

PUT IT ALL TOGETHER AND WHADDA YA GOT?

SDN Letters to the Editor

To the editor,

We would like to thank the ambulance service and the police department for the quick and efficient response to our accident Sunday, Jan. 21, at 1:53 p.m.

Thank you to the gentleman who came to our aid immediately after the accident. We would also like to say thanks to the wonderful emergency room staff for being so caring and efficient during an emergency.

Last, but not least, a big thanks to our wonderful friends and pastor for being there for us and our family at the emergency room.

To the editor,

Well, I see the Scurry County Berlin Wall tax rate came tumbling down. Yes, the voters of Scurry County lowered the wall a little bit.

I want to go back to when the rollback was first mentioned. Our county auditor said, "OK, if we have a rollback we will have to cut some social programs like the senior citizens center," but the commissioners court said, "We want to do what the people want."

She should have said, "We won't do it until we are voted down by the people."

Tommy Pate, commissioner, said (quote), if it was what the people wanted it suited him. He should have said, "We are not planning to do it unless we are voted down."

Mr. C.D. Gray (Can Do) of the court said (about the district judge) that he can't tell us how to run the county business.

Well, I want to tell Mr. Gray if he will look at the outcome of the election, (I am sure he did, he helped count the votes.) I am sure he will find some people who can tell him how to run the county business and those are the voters of Scurry County.

About the audit that our district judge ordered, I think it was the best money the county ever spent because it made the citizens of Scurry County aware of how our elected officials (the court) have been tossing our taxpayers' money to the four winds.

Now it is left up to (lame duck) the commissioners court to do something about it. Yes, I call them lame duck because they are not doing what they were elected to do — represent the people.

Why can't the county judge or the court realize that the majority of the people put them in office where they are now? When they have to be voted down on issues by the people, they are not doing their jobs, and if I were the judge or the commissioners I would step down and let the people put someone in there that would represent the people. (Not just a click.)

I wonder if the judge is still "biting the bullet?"
A.L. "Jack" Dunn
R.R. 1 Box 154

To the editor,

Can you imagine all the people that go out of town to see a doctor. About the only ones who don't are the ones that can't afford to. We have Bobby Goodwin claiming responsible county government, and a commissioners court that requests to "look at" or CUT the one thing that is 56 percent of the county budget.

I wonder why this responsible commissioners court "claimed no authority at all over the hospital," and advised me to hire a lawyer. Now, they say it is their "top priority, and will not consider a cut of any kind." If you have a complaint where the hospital is concerned, you can forget being heard by them.

Even the auditors told them that the commissioners court must be involved with and informed of details of hospital activities, "and a falter for any reason, the county is very much at financial risk."

Now, according to Goodwin, they are going to look at everything but the hospital to cut. The voters made a good cut by voting out the tax raise.

Lawmakers question source of U.S. aid set for Panama

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some lawmakers are reacting cautiously to President Bush's proposed $1 billion aid plan for Panama, with one senator saying Congress wants to help the country but predicting a "tough battle" on how much to give.

"That's a substantial amount of money for a tiny country," said Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., echoing questions that others also raised about the amount Bush is proposing for the country he ordered the U.S. military to invade on Dec. 20.

"Where's it going to come from?" asked Rep. Peter Kostmayer, D-Pa., a member of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on Western Hemisphere affairs. "It's too much."

Deputy Secretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger provided additional details of the plan to senators Friday, the day after Bush unveiled it. To spend the money, the administration must submit a supplemental appropriation requiring congressional approval.

"These programs will give as close to instant relief as we can expect here," Bush told reporters on Thursday.

The package will include $500 million in humanitarian assistance for housing, emergency public works, business assistance, loans and export opportunities. Some money would be used to rebuild houses destroyed in the military invasion.

Another $500 million would go to balance-of-payment support, public investment and economic restructuring in a country whose economy was tattered by Manuel Antonio Noriega's corrupt regime. Noriega, who surrendered to U.S. troops, is in jail in Florida facing drug-trafficking charges.

Bush said some of aid money would be siphoned away from other countries' foreign aid programs, but he and other administration officials did not give specifics.

Simon said he had learned that $30 million would come from programs originally designed to help Somalia and the Sudan. He said he would oppose redirecting the money.

If the aid is approved, Panama would become one of the largest recipients of U.S. foreign assistance.

Jan. 29, 1990

Conditions that have a bearing upon your financial well being look very encouraging for the year ahead. You may be able to make more money than you have previously, but you'll have to work for it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A good will investment could pay off in handsome dividends a little further down the line. Follow your instincts today if they take you in this direction. Aquarius, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The enthusiasm you display for things in which you're vitally interested will encourage others to get involved in them as well. It won't be necessary for you to use the hard sell.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If there is something you really want or need that someone else can help you acquire, this is the day to make the request. Your benefactor should be receptive.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Conditions look very promising for you today in any involvements or dealings you have with close friends, especially if you're collectively working on something that's new or novel.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Situations you feel can improve your financial position should be given top priority today, even those that thus far are untested and unproven.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Because you'll optimistically look for the bright side today you're not apt to have too much trouble finding it. No adverse influence will dare cast a shadow over your affairs.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Someone you've gone out of your way to help recently could repay you in a generous manner today. This individual has been chaffing at the bit to square up the account.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your social acceptance will be peaking towards a high point today and persons with whom you'll be involved will find you a pleasant companion with whom to share time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This could be a red-letter day for you where your ambitious interests are concerned. Lady Luck might engineer something very big on your behalf.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your wit and wisdom serve to make you a fun person to be around today and you'll leave a favorable, lasting impression on persons who meet you for the first time. They'll want to see you again.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't be upset today if something important to you suddenly gets all changed around. Shifting conditions tend to work in your favor and you should come out on top.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There's a possibility good news will be trying to get through to you today. Be sure to thoroughly check your mail and return all phone calls you find on your answering machine.

Several material things you have been secretly desiring could be acquired in the year ahead. This could come about through a chain of unusual circumstances triggered by outside influences.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Chance could play a big role in matters at this time that pertain to your career and material security. Lady Luck might start rolling sevens on your behalf. Major changes are ahead for Aquarius in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Involvements either social or business that have political overtones should turn out to your liking today. It looks like you'll be backing the right horse.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Accept favors that others want to do for you today as graciously as you granted them. Let them know the same joy from giving that you've previously experienced.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're now in a cycle where you will exert an extremely strong influence over your more intimate circle of friends. Don't be surprised when everyone starts looking to you for answers.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You could be exceptionally fortunate in joint ventures at this time, especially those where you've already done considerable spade work. The time for reaping is getting closer and closer.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Several alliances you have already formed will begin to take on greater significance at this time. Although unrelated, they could start moving towards a common objective.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) As of today, important changes could begin to take place where your work or career is concerned. These will be of a favorable nature, even though it may not be obvious at first.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't attempt to do on your own today that which can be more effectively achieved by working in tandem with someone as efficient as yourself. There's strength in partnerships.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your possibilities for personal gain look very strong at present, so don't leave situations dangling that can fatten your bank account. You're a lucky closer.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something in which you're presently involved that has pronounced elements of chance looks like it's going to work out advantageously for you, even though it didn't do so for others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Financial trends are moving in your favor at present and your possibilities for personal gain look hopeful, provided you do not treat your opportunities indifferently.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Enterprises or ventures which you personally manage should workout to your satisfaction. Be careful, however, not to delegate responsibilities to partners or associates who are inept.

Nardil therapy includes restrictions

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My daughter has been prescribed Nardil for severe depression. What are the side effects of this drug? He also told her not to eat cheese or any aged foods. What's the connection?

DEAR READER: Nardil is one of a group of drugs called monoamine oxidase inhibitors. MAO is a complex enzyme system, distributed widely throughout the body. No one understands precisely whether Nardil exerts its anti-depressant effects through the MAO system or through other reactions.

The most serious complication of Nardil therapy is extremely high blood pressure. This dangerous side effect is more common in patients on Nardil who take additional drugs, such as cocaine, amphetamines, L-dopa (for Parkinson's disease), methyldopa (for high blood pressure) and L-tryptophan (an over-the-counter amino acid that recently has been implicated as a cause of a dangerous blood disorder).

Also, foods — such as cheeses, beer, wine, yeast extract, caffeine, chocolate, luncheon meats and yogurt — containing the chemicals tyramine or dopamine can trigger a hypertensive crisis in Nardil patients. Therefore, when Nardil is prescribed, the physician usually takes great pains to outline the various food and drug prohibitions.

Although Nardil is useful in alleviating depression coupled with anxiety, it must be administered with caution; patients must be alerted to the substances that react adversely with it.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Consumer Tips on Medicines." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My boyfriend's testicles are bigger on one side than the other and hang a lot lower when he stands. He says there's nothing wrong with him, but I think he should see a doctor about this.

DEAR READER: One testicle is normally in a lower position than the other; this serves to protect these sensitive organs. In situations where the testicles are forced together, one slides under the other. Also, one testicle is usually bigger than the other.

Men show enormous variation in how low their testicles hang. This is due to the cremasteric muscle fibers that attach to the testicles. When the muscles contract, the testicles are pulled upward. Again, this serves a protective function. For example, when a man is cold, the testicles are drawn closer to the body to warm them.

If there's nothing wrong with your boyfriend's sexual abilities, I think he is exhibiting a normal anatomic variation and medical evaluation is unnecessary.

Non-pilots are in 'dogfights'

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — You've seen "Top Gun" more than once. You crave the thrill of streaking across the sky on the enemy's tail, targeting their fighter jet, making the kill. Savoring the victory.

But you've never flown a plane. Welcome to Air Combat USA where, for $495, anyone — would-be Red Barons or combat veterans nostalgic for the past — can take Italian-made propeller aircraft up for dogfights over peacetime Southern California.

"It takes nothing but a desire to get into the airplane," said Greg Sloan, one of eight pilots who fly with Air Combat customers in the dual-control planes.

The 2-year-old enterprise, started by commercial airline pilot Mike Blackstone, has pitted friend against friend, son against father, spouse against spouse.

"We've had everything from high school students to 50th wedding anniversary husband-and-wife air combat," said Blackstone. In that encounter, he said, "The woman shot him down over and over again."

The one-day fighter fantasy includes an hour of ground school, an hour of flying and a debriefing. There's also a keepsake: A videotape of the adventure made by a cockpit camera.

Customers take the adventure as far as courage, and their instructor, will allow. They can perform a ballet of rolling scissors, high and low yo-yos, lag rolls and loops in pursuit of their opponent.

The so-called "kills," simulated by a trail of smoke emitted by the victim aircraft, are verified by a tracking system developed by Blackstone, an aeronautical engineer.

The invention was spurred by a friendly rivalry with pilot Bill Bancroft, who helped him get the business going. Now arguments over whether a kill was good are settled electronically — followed by triumphant shouts of "Yeeehaawww!"

Air Combat's three planes, decked out in Navy stripings or the markings of a gray Russian MIG, fly out of Fullerton Airport 25 miles south of downtown Los Angeles.

The missions take place over unpopulated areas, outside of federal airways and above 1,500 feet, as required by Federal Aviation Administration regulations, Blackstone said. The planes remain 500 feet apart.

He doesn't dismiss questions about safety.

"There's always danger — it's flying," Blackstone said.

Air Combat has had no accidents, he said.

Sloan, a 20-year Marine veteran who flew nearly 300 missions in Vietnam, said he isn't nervous about his novice charges: "I've been instructing air combat maneuvers since 1973. There's nothing they can do that I haven't seen. I'm having as much fun now as I did then."

Business has boomed in the six months since Blackstone installed his kill tracking system in Air Combat's three planes. Sloan said the company has more than 700 bookings.

Psoriasis is treatable

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

Psoriasis, a common skin disease of unknown cause, usually appears between the ages of 10 and 40. It is marked by patches of redness and scaling that may progress to thick, crusted plaques.

The disease tends to run in families. Although a genetic predisposition is the rule, psoriasis can be aggravated by several factors. These include: serious illness, emotional upset, trauma to the skin, streptococcal infections, stress, low humidity and certain drugs, such as lithium and beta-blockers.

Psoriasis ordinarily affects the skin of the scalp, extremities, back and buttocks. Some patients develop psoriasis of the nails (pitting and discoloration), eyebrows, underarms, umbilicus or genitals; occasionally, the disease involves large areas of the skin.

Psoriasis is incurable. However, many therapies are effective in controlling the disease's activity. The affliction is often characterized as mild, moderate or severe.

Mild psoriasis refers to scattered lesions over a limited area, such as elbows or knees. As in more extensive cases, the lesions are embarrassing but cause no symptoms. Treatment consists of topical preparations, applied periodically as needed.

Initial therapy often includes low-potency hydrocortisone creams (Kenalog, Valisone) or tar emollients (crude coal tar in a soothing cream base). Hydrocortisone creams are not suitable for long-term management of psoriasis because they can cause thinning and scarring of the skin; also, their benefits are temporary, and patients quickly relapse following withdrawal of treatment. Coal-tar derivatives are appropriate for continued use, but they are messy and, in some patients, lead to sun sensitivity.

Moderate psoriasis is more likely to cause cosmetic disfigurement because the plaques are larger and more numerous. The scalp is frequently affected. Self-esteem, sexual activity and occupation may be affected. Low-potency hydrocortisone or coal-tar creams are usually ineffective. However, two other treatments are useful.

Anthrakinone is an agent that markedly reduces inflammation and scaling. It is marketed as Drithocreme and is applied to the plaques, left in place for one or two hours and then washed off with a detergent-based soap, such as Dial or Zest. Some forms of anthrakinone can be applied to the skin and exposed to ultraviolet light; this UV-light therapy will significantly improve psoriasis.

The second treatment consists of occlusive dressings with laminated polyurethane outer layers and a cortisone inner layer. When properly placed over the psoriatic plaques and left for two or three days at a time, occlusive dressings often lead to remission.

Scalp lesions are most effectively treated with special shampoos, (such as Neutrogena T/gel), anthralin liquid, zinc pyrithione shampoos (Danex or Head & Shoulders) or selenium sulfide shampoos (Exsel, Selsun).

Severe psoriasis is widespread and disabling; it is often causes arthritis. Treatment is best left to specialists. Therapy includes Methotrexate pills, etretinate pills, calcitrol (in pills or lotion), cyclosporin pills or PUVA — a highly effective treatment using oral psoralen followed by exposure to high-intensity UV light. The arthritis of severe psoriasis often improves as the skin lesions heal.

The treatment of psoriasis, one of mankind's most troublesome skin conditions, consists of reducing skin irritation, scaling and crusting. Some experts believe that psoriasis is caused by chemical abnormalities and disordered immunity of skin tissue.

Eventually, scientists may discover a method of combating these abnormalities by using a single antidote. Until then, however, treatment is complicated and must be individualized because the manifestation of the disease is extremely variable.

To give you more information, I suggest you request a copy of my Health Report "Eczema and Psoriasis." Send $1.25 with your name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Graham notices surge in faith

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The Rev. Billy Graham says the political upheaval in Eastern Europe is overshadowing another revolution there — a surge in Christian faith.

"This is something new," said the 71-year-old evangelist. "They have a freedom to talk and preach and have Bible classes."

"They are beginning to print thousands of Bibles in the Soviet Union, and in many places I understand that Sunday schools are being opened, which have been forbidden through all these years. They've had 70 years in which none of these things happened."

Graham said the growing religious fervor in Eastern Europe was evident in July when 100,000 packed a stadium in Budapest, Hungary, to hear him.
