Cogdell board hears positive financial report

Cogdell Hospital's steady financial rebound was again reflected in April's financial and census information presented by Administrator Tom Hochwalt during the board's regular monthly meeting Thursday night.

Calling April another good month for the hospital, Hochwalt noted that the month's average daily census of 32 was above normal and that the hospital had set a record in terms of gross business with total revenues of $875,278.

For the month, Cogdell financial statement showed a net income of $70,271. For the first four months of 1990, hospital net income is $198,109, an increase of 539 percent compared to the same time last year.

Hochwalt took special note of a 37 percent increase in acute admissions and that average length of patient stay had dropped from 5.4 days to 4.3 days. Hochwalt also pointed out a positive trend in the increased number of surgeries. In April there were 53 surgical procedures compared to 32 last year.

It was pointed out that almost 50 percent of Cogdell patients are either Medicare or Medicaid, resulting in fixed payment for services.

Hochwalt reported that several Cogdell representatives — including himself, board chairman G.A. Parks and vice chairman Jackie Smith — attended a leadership conference sponsored by St. Mary's and the St. Joseph Health System.

"All along, you have envisioned Cogdell as having the potential to become a regional medical center. We are making steady progress toward that goal. All of these key elements are coming together," Hochwalt said.

Parks gave his impressions of (see POSITIVE, page 8)

Policemen deal with all kinds

A policeman's job sometimes involves having to deal with "snakes in the grass."

Sgt. Robert Harbin of the Snyder police department has first-hand experience from Thursday night when he answered a call at 30th and Ave. Y to assist Fire Chief Terry McDowell.

Apprehended at the scene was a 6-foot python which Harbin incarcerated in a plastic trash can (with lid). Mike Price, owner of the boa constrictor, was out of town. Early Friday, police released the python to the custody of Price's friend.

Typos are a way of life in the printing business, and it's always a relief to observe some other newspaper's embarrassment. The following is a classic that appeared in a political ad in the Winkler County News in Kermit.

"My office is always open to the public, always has beer and always will."
The incumbent won in a landslide.

An Austin reporter for the Dallas Morning News noticed that the House and the Senate have different rules about public and press access to the floor of either house.

The Senate has what is called the 30-minute rule. For a half hour after the Senate adjourns each day, the public is barred access to the Senate floor. A senate aide explained the lag time:

"It's so members can get together and figure out what they've done before they have to talk to people about it."

Q—If a person was not a candidate during the county primary elections, can that person become a valid candidate as a write-in in the general election in November?

A—Yes. According to the Texas Election Code, any eligible citizen may become a write-in candidate, whether or not they were a candidate in the primaries. For county and precinct offices, a declaration of write-in candidacy must be filed with the county judge before the deadline, 5 p.m. Sept. 7. Write-in candidate's names are listed in the voting booths, but not on the ballots.

In Brief

Woman killed

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A 22-year-old Stephenville woman, who friends say was undaunted by having no arms, died after being dragged by a horse that was tied to her waist.

Stacey McInroe Conner died at 4:35 p.m. Wednesday at Harris Methodist Fort Worth Hospital of severe head injuries she suffered when her 2-year-old filly, tied to Ms. Conner with a lead rope around her waist, bolted.

The family was still trying to piece together details.

"Something spooked the little horse and she just took off, dragging Stacey," said Ms. Conner's mother, Lometa Reed.

Noriega trial

MIAMI (AP) — Manuel Noriega's defense lawyers, saying they were betrayed by the U.S. attorney's office in a botched deal to pay their fees, have threatened to reveal the details of the CIA's secret payments to their client.

A prosecution-sponsored proposal to have the government pay the lawyers as much as $350 an hour fell apart Thursday when a federal judge said he could find no legal basis for the arrangement. Opponents had called it a "legal slush fund" for Noriega.

As their part of the deal, Noriega's defense had agreed to postpone a showdown over $11 million they say their client received from the CIA and other intelligence agencies. That agreement is now void, lead defense attorney Frank Rubino said after a hearing on the issue.

Two persons indicted in child's death

AUSTIN (AP) — An Austin woman and her ex-husband have been indicted on charges of injury to a child in the beating death of her 2-year-old son, a case that has sparked demonstrations and several investigations.

The indictments against Robbi Zuliani and Gerald Christopher Zuliani, both 23, were returned Thursday by a Travis County grand jury in the death of Christopher Wohlers, Robbi Zuliani's son from a previous marriage.

The indictments accused Zuliana of using his hand, a wall and an unknown blunt instrument in beating his stepson. Robbi Zuliani is accused of murder by omission for failing to provide protection for the child and for failing to remove the child from her husband although she knew he "was a threat to the health and safety" of the child.

The charges are first-degree felonies, equivalent to murder, and carry a maximum sentence of life or 99 years in prison.

Robbi Zuliani, who has since divorced her husband, had said she was the victim of repeated abuse by her husband and did not intervene in the beating of her child because she feared for herself and for her 4-year-old daughter.

"The law provides for the same kind of punishment whether the crime is done by act or by omission," District Attorney Ronnie Earle said Tuesday.

Earle said prosecutors will not seek the same punishment for the two defendants.

The charge against Robbi Zuliani, which was filed a week after her son was killed, triggered a courthouse protest by people carrying signs that said: "Stop Blaming the Victim" and

"Arrest Criminals, Not Battered Women."

A psychologist has testified that Robbi Zuliani suffers from a dependent personality disorder and post-traumatic stress syndrome, and her attorneys have said she suffered from repeated abuse and was powerless to protect Christopher.

Defense lawyer Frank Ivy has argued that Robbi Zuliani was strictly a victim in the case.

Earle said, "We disagree with that. We feel like the evidence in this case shows something quite different." Christopher, who had been abused a number of times by different men in Robbi Zuliani's life, was beaten and slammed into a bathroom wall on Jan. 2, investigators have said. He was declared brain dead the next morning.

The handling of the Christopher Wohlers investigation by the Department of Human Services was the subject of an inquiry and an investigation by the Texas Attorney General's office.

The child was hospitalized Dec. 22 after apparently being abused, but was returned to the Zulianis when he was discharged.

DEAR ABBY: About five years ago, I gave up my career as a pharmacist to become a police officer. It was a painful decision since I had become personal friends with many of my customers, and I knew I would miss them. However, the attitude of many customers at the pharmacy was too discouraging.

One of my customers was a very obese woman who came in faithfully for her amphetamine pills every 30 days. She used them for weight loss. After a few months, I asked her why she didn't try a weight-loss program. She said she had a "slow" metabolism and ate only one meal a day. Well, I happened to see her at an "all you can eat" buffet, and she put away three times as much food as I — and I'm a man, 6 feet tall and weigh 215 pounds — and I play handball three times a week!

Abby, America has become a society of "excuse makers." No matter what a person does wrong, there's always an excuse to justify it.

I have sold medication to drug abusers, bodybuilders, married spouses with VD and people with emphysema who still smoke while using oxygen. They all had excuses!

I am now a police officer, and do you know what? Many people we arrest have "excuses" for breaking the law. America did not become the great country it is today by making excuses.

If one day we are taken over by a harder-working, better-educated country, I wonder what our excuse will be. Sign me ...

NO EXCUSES

DEAR NO EXCUSES: I tried hard to find an excuse to junk this painfully honest letter, but I couldn't find one. So, here it is, warts and all.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the Census Bureau urging everyone to fill out and return the 1990 census forms.

Living in a small country town, I received and filled out my census form. In 11 places it stated, "Do not mail the form — it will be picked up by the census taker."

Well, I am still waiting. An article in our local newspaper said that the census people were disappointed in the number of forms that had been returned. I called the local newspaper and asked if they knew whether the forms would be picked up — or should we mail them back? They said they would get back to me with the answer.

I'm still waiting. Two of my neighbors never received a form to fill out. A couple of other neighbors have their forms completed and are waiting for the census taker to come by to pick theirs up. They're still waiting. Maybe 10 years from now, when they take the next census, they'll think it's important enough to be counted.

STILL WAITING IN QUEEN CREEK, ARIZ.

DEAR STILL WAITING: Move over — hundreds of others are also waiting, including this writer who lives in California.

Everything you'll need to know about planning a wedding can be found in Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61064. Man charged with burning teenagers

HOUSTON (AP) — A man who police say burned youths' forearms with a cigarette lighter to initiate them into a gang was jailed on charges of injuring children.

A Marshall Junior High student told authorities that Edward Tobar Torres, 24, burned the forearm of several teenagers as an initiation rite to a social gang begun several months ago.

Assistant Fire Chief H.G. Torres Jr., no relation, is investigating the incidents through the department's arson bureau. He said six boys and two girls aged 13 to 16 have told investigators they were members of the gang and have signed affidavits that their former leader was a neighborhood man they met at the school track.

"It all started very friendly," Torres said. "The kids told him they wanted to start a social group and he said, 'I'll get you all some T-shirts and we'll do this and we'll do that.' But then he starts introducing violence into it."

Chief Torres said the students reported the 240-pound, part-time handyman convinced them they had to learn to fight to be tough and he began beating them. Later, the youths told investigators, he began burning symbols on the boys' forearms with a cigarette lighter, telling them not to flinch or they would be ousted from the group, Chief Torres said. The girls were made to pierce their noses, he said.

"He burned them under the threat that their families would be killed if they told anyone," Chief Torres said.

"The only evidence we have is the scars that are on these kids," he said. "We know he's hurt the children and that's what we're concerned about."

The man told investigators he later convinced group members to accompany him to a cemetery, where they dug up corpses.

"He said he got his power by going to a grave with a teen-age girl, digging up the grave and doing something to the body," Chief Torres said, adding that authorities have had no reports of disturbed graves in the area. Group members, however, confirmed the account.

The fire investigator said authorities were alerted to the case May 4, after one of the boys sought medical attention from a school nurse.

Man sentenced after third trial

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A his own attorney. The guilty plea rape victim who saw her attacker's convictions and punishments overturned twice is hoping the man will finally go to prison for attacking her.

Pascual Sambrano San Roman, 27, was sentenced Thursday to 75 years in prison by State District Judge Mary Anne Bramblett. Two weeks ago, San Roman was found guilty for the third time of sexually assaulting the woman, who was 42 years old when the rape occurred.

His previous two convictions — including his guilty plea the second time — were overturned by appeals courts.

"He (San Roman) is the one with all the rights," the victim said. "I'm the one whose life has been turned upside down."

San Roman was first convicted in 1982 and given a 50-year prison term for the attack, but an appeals court threw out the conviction, saying San Roman was inadequately represented.

He pleaded guilty in a second trial in 1986 but appealed again, saying the 50-year prison term he got was not the one he expected. The state Court of Criminal Appeals agreed, ruling that he'd been misled by prosecutors and was thrown out. A jury convicted him in the third trial. His attorney plans to appeal.

Despite the appeals, San Roman has been in prison since 1983 on a separate rape and a robbery conviction. Nonetheless, his victim is bitter.

The attack on the woman occurred the afternoon of February 22, 1982, in her home.

According to court testimony, San Roman — who was then awaiting trial for the 1981 rape of a 13-year-old deaf girl, a rape for which he was later convicted — forced his way inside the woman's home after asking to use the phone.

Unusual tactics required

By James Jacoby

Three no-trump is the most appealing contract with the North-South cards and no doubt would have been reached had North bid three clubs at his first opportunity after cue-bidding hearts. South was afraid to try no-trump when clubs had not been heard from, and so the side arrived at the less appetizing minor-suit game contract.

British player Alan Kay had the task of making 11 tricks, even against the unfavorable 4-1 trump split. He solved the problem with an unusual tactic. Forget that a spade opening lead would be best; East had opened one heart to get what seemed to be the best lead against any contract, and his partner obliged him. Declarer ducked the first trick, and East switched to the jack of diamonds. Declarer won and played a low club. When West played low, he put in the 10 from dummy. East did win that trick, but the defense was now helpless. A heart return was taken by declarer's ace, and declarer ruffed his third heart. A low club was ruffed and declarer now drew trumps, throwing away dummy's Q-7 of spades. A spade was led to dummy's ace, and the A-K-7 of clubs took the rest.

The key to this play was giving up a club to East so that the A-Q of spades in dummy could not be attacked. Ruffing out the clubs without losing a trick would not work because West would be left with a long trump trick.

Dr. Gott, Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Five years ago, I had a lengthy sinus infection. I now have another, and no medication appears to be helping. What can I do for this problem?

DEAR READER: Some people seem to be prone to repeated attacks of sinus infection. This tendency is often related to allergies, air pollution and tobacco smoke. Therefore, if your present infection is not clearing up, your doctor may wish to address these issues.

For instance, if you are allergic to dust or pollen, they can cause chronic nasal congestion and sinus blockage. You may need antihistamines to promote sinus drainage.

Similarly, air pollution and tobacco smoke inflame the tissues around the sinus openings.

The sinuses are air-filled cavities behind the nose; when these chambers become blocked, infection sets in and is difficult to eradicate until the sinus openings can be unplugged. Therefore, to aid healing, you'll want to avoid air pollution — and, if you're a smoker, stop.

I should also mention antibiotics. Sinus infections are caused by many different types of bacteria, some of which are resistant to the usual antibiotics, such as penicillin. Therefore, the antibiotic that cured your first sinus infection might be totally ineffective treatment for a repeat attack. If you haven't responded to your current antibiotic, the doctor will have to experiment with others.

Also, remember that some sinus infections are associated with thick mucus that is trapped inside the sinus cavities and reduces the effectiveness of antibiotics. In such cases, the sinuses may have to be rinsed or surgically drained to eliminate the infection.

If you have a resistant sinus infection, I suggest you request referral to an otolaryngologist, an ear-nose-and-throat specialist, who will examine you and offer advice.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm planning on becoming pregnant in the near future. I have a history of extreme morning sickness, which I would like to avoid. Should I begin daily doses of vitamin B-6, and how much? Is there any other way to alleviate some of the nausea?

DEAR READER: Morning sickness, the nausea affecting some women early in pregnancy, can be unpredictable; no one knows why it occurs in some women and not in others, or why it may appear during one pregnancy and not during a second or third.

Therefore, while I understand your wish to prevent morning sickness, I think you're better off not worrying about it until it happens: Perhaps you'll be lucky and avoid it this time around.

In any case, I advise you to take no medicine, vitamin supplements or over-the-counter drugs early in pregnancy unless your obstetrician has approved. During the crucial first weeks of growth, the developing fetus is especially vulnerable to substances that can interfere with the formation of new tissue. I am not aware that any vitamin will prevent morning sickness.

Unfortunately, drugs to ameliorate nausea and vomiting have historically been among the worst offenders in causing birth defects. For this reason,

I urge pregnant women to follow their obstetrician's advice about taking medication, both prescription and over the counter. Also, I think it's prudent for pregnant women to avoid alcohol and tobacco.

When you become pregnant, you will put yourself under the care of an obstetrician. This would be an ideal time to ask the specialist about what medicines or vitamins would be safe to use.

Because of your interest in a vitamin supplement, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Fads I — Vitamins and Minerals." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Lions take 7-0 win in 4A playoff game

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

Brownwood pitcher Mike Smith hurled a four-hit, 7-0 shutout of the Pecos Eagles Thursday night at Moffett Field in a Class 4A regional semifinal baseball clash.

The win gives the Lions a 1-0 lead in the best-of-three series that is to continue Saturday in Abilene.

Brownwood, ranked No. 8 in the state, holds a 22-5 record after Thursday's win while Pecos sits at 18-8.

The Lions started with a sacrifice fly from Will Dillard that drove in Rob Beal in the top of the second inning. They then added two more in the third when Gene Brandstetter walked followed by a single from Kurt Jones and a base hit from Smith that drove in Brandstetter. Mitch Stovall rapped his second single of the contest and Jones touched home on an error by the Eagles to put the Lions up 3-0.

Brownwood blew the game open with a four-run effort in the fourth inning on a two-RBI double by Brian Davis and run-scoring singles from Jones and Beal.

The game was stopped in the top of the sixth inning due to last night's lightning storm.

Officials called the game after the delay had gone an hour and forty minutes, giving Brownwood the win.

Game two of the set will begin at 6 p.m. Saturday at Hunter Field on the campus of Hardin-Simmons University.

If a third game is necessary, it will follow at 8 p.m.

In other baseball playoff action Thursday night, Andrews, District 4-4A champion, took a 6-4 decision over Belton in that regional semifinal matchup.

Andrews held off a four-run rally in the top of the sixth to win the

SWC coaches at gathering

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The Southwest Conference's part-time supervisor of officials won't be able to do the job if it is made a full-time position, a newspaper reported.

Only four of the 30 conferences with an automatic bid to last season's NCAA tournament have a full-time supervisor.

The Arkansas Gazette on Thursday quoted a source saying that the SWC coaches would recommend to the league's athletic director that Paul Galvan be retained as supervisor on a part-time basis.

Galvan is a high school principal in Fort Worth, Texas.

"If we did go to a full-time supervisor, he wouldn't be able to do it," the source said. "The coaches want Paul, and he wouldn't be able to go full-time because of his job."

One of the strongest supporters of a full-time supervisor, Texas basketball coach Tom Penders, missed Wednesday's meeting because he was in Hawaii for a wedding. Penders was recently given a one-game suspension for next season for his outburst after a loss to Houston in the SWC tournament.

"My gut feeling is nothing like that is going to happen (in the SWC)," Arkansas Coach Nolan Richardson said. "That's the athletic directors' job."

Also Wednesday, football coaches spent most of their meeting reviewing cost-cutting measures that may be introduced at the NCAA convention in January. That includes a measure to reduce football scholarships from 95 to 85 by the 1994 season.

"I think that's the worst of the whole deal," said Jack Crowe, the UA's new football coach. "You take 10 scholarships from every major college and about 150 colleges, that's denying 1,500 opportunities for young men to get a college education."

The meeting winds up on Saturday with a news conference by SWC Commissioner Fred Jacoby and SWC President James Vick of Texas.

one-game affair and advance to the regional title game next week against the Pecos-Brownwood winner.

Brent Leffingwell took the win for the Mustangs.

Other area results include Lamesa's 13-0 trouncing of Alpine Tuesday, and Wall's 6-4 win over DeLeon Thursday night.

Lamesa advances in post-season play on a one-hit effort by pitcher Dimas Borrego that ousted Alpine.

BACK IN TIME — Pecos pitcher Cruz Abila tosses to first baseman Luis Villescas in a pick-off attempt of Brownwood's Rob Beal. The Lions took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-three series with a 7-0 win Thursday night in Snyder. The remaining games will be played on Abilene's Hunter Field Saturday beginning at 6 p.m. (SDN Staff Photo)

NFL snubs expansion

49ers structure is high priority to owners

IRVING, Texas (AP) — The NFL owners left expansion talk high and dry in their two-day spring business meeting.

"We had other things of a higher priority," said commissioner Paul Tagliabue, who said expansion probably won't be possible until at least 1993.

Things of a "higher priority" included the ownership structure of the world champion San Francisco 49ers. Tagliabue said on Thursday he will host a hearing in New York in mid-June to discuss the existing financial structure of the 49ers.

"I don't have as hysterical a view of the subject like some people do," Tagliabue said.

However, he admitted there was deep concern by some owners.

Tagliabue said, "We're trying to improve the ownership structure. The owners feel we should be traditional and conservative with our ownership structures."

In 1988, the world champion 49ers became subsidiaries of the DeBartelo Corp., which included shopping malls, race tracks, and real estate. There has been a question of whether the corporation gives the 49ers a financial advantage over other NFL teams in signing players.

Tagliabue said his personal opinion is "that it's doubtful that it does. It (the corporation) wasn't formed until Sept. 30, 1988, and that was after the 49ers had won two Super Bowls with a quarterback named Joe Montana and a coach named Bill Walsh."

"I'm skeptical that it has produced a competitive advantage to the 49ers," he said.

But he said he would give other owners their say.

"The league put in a policy many years ago that an NFL team should be owners only by companies in football," Tagliabue said.

Tagliabue has the power to levy a $500,000 fine and take away draft picks if a team is found in violation of the policy.

He hinted that wasn't likely in the 49ers case, saying, "I'm doubtful that the 49ers situation is anti-competitive."

Tagliabue said a specific date in June hadn't been set for the hearing.

On other topics, Tagliabue introduced two doctors who will be consultants for the league.

They are Dr. John Lombardo, whose specialty is steroids and performance enhancement drugs, and Dr. Lawrence S. Brown, who is an adviser on street drugs.

Palmeiro solo HR gives Rangers win

DETROIT (AP) — When the teams with the two highest team ERAs in the majors meet, the last thing one expects is a pitchers' duel.

But that is exactly what 11,834 Tiger Stadium spectators got Thursday night as the Texas Rangers defeated the Detroit Tigers 3-2.

The teams combined for just

Suns seeking record effort

PHOENIX (AP) — Now it's the Phoenix Suns who are in need of a record-tying comeback in their Western Conference championship series against the Portland Trail Blazers.

Portland equalled the second-biggest comeback in NBA playoff history by erasing an 18-point halftime deficit and beating Phoenix 108-107 Wednesday night for a 2-0 lead in the best-of-7 series.

Only six teams in league history have ever come back to win a playoff series after losing the first two games.

Heading into Game 3 tonight, Suns coach Cotton Fitzsimmons said he hasn't lost faith in his club's chances.

"I said going in that we needed to win one of the four games on Portland's floor and take care of our three games at home," Fitzsimmons said before Thursday's practice. "It works out to four wins. That's the only math I can give you. A seven-game series is a seven-game series."

After winning Game 1 Monday night 100-98 in Portland, the Blazers rallied Wednesday night from deficits of 57-35 in the second quarter, 59-41 at halftime and 70-50 in the third quarter.

"At halftime and during the timeouts, all we talked about was chipping away at their lead. I told them to get them back two points at a time and not all at once," said Portland coach Rick Adelman.

Terry Porter scored 23 of his 28 points in the second half, including a 3-point goal to tie the game at 106 with 28.4 seconds remaining and a winning 13-foot jumper with 12.7 seconds left.

"I think we got kind of a wake-up call at halftime," Porter said. "Our worst enemy was our first-half offense."

Michael Jordan stays silent

CHICAGO (AP) — Everybody is talking about Michael Jordan. For a change, Michael Jordan isn't talking to anybody.

Jordan left practice Thursday without saying a word, just as he did Tuesday night in Detroit following a 102-93 loss that left the Bulls down 0-2 to the Pistons in their best-of-7 NBA Eastern Conference final.

"It's not my idea to put words in his mouth," said Bulls coach Phil Jackson. "That's his decision. He has to think for himself. He has been a willing participant with the press all throughout his career."

Jordan reportedly criticized his teammates at halftime Tuesday before the Bulls put on a scoring drive that gave them a one-point lead before the team collapsed.

"I only heard the final five or six words from Micheal," Jackson said of his halftime tirade. "He was demanding that his teammates get together and make an extra effort. What's wrong with that?"

General Manager Jerry Krause also spoke on Jordan's behalf. "He is probably the most widely quoted and widely talked to athlete among the media in sports today," Krause said. "He has a right as a human being to have a night when he needs to be by himself."

"I think our team was insulted by Tuesday night's effort, and now we have to use it as a weapon."

Detroit coach Chuck Daly expects Jordan's blowup to spur the Bulls.

Ladies report golf winners

The team of Esther Guelker and Carolyn Greene came away with first place in the Championship Flight of the Snyder Country Club Ladies Golf Association Match Play Partnership played Tuesday and Wednesday.

Finnie Seale and Bobbie Hargrove teamed up to claim the consolation spot.

Second Flight winners were Norma Crowder and Evelyn Thomas while Suzy Reed and Donna Stehley finished as runners-up.

Jana Talbott and Tina Long combined for a Third Flight victory in the tournament with Beverly Knipe and Sally Jordan taking second place.

Anita Talbott captured first in the long-drive competition followed by Reed in second and Jana Talbott in third place. Kaye Cypert won the closest-to-the-pin on No. 18.

Owner didn't know about car's recall

CLOVIS (AP) — The owner of a station wagon in which a 6-year-old boy was found dead says he did not know the car had been recalled by General Motors in 1979 because of a self-latching compartment considered dangerous to children.

Phil Mercadante said Thursday he loaned his 1978 Chevrolet Impala station wagon to the family of Matthew Roberts several months ago because one of their cars was disabled and he was not using the station wagon.

Matthew Roberts' body was found Wednesday curled up in a fetal position inside an 18-by-18-by-12-inch compartment in the back of the station wagon outside his family's Clovis home.

Police Chief Caleb Chandler said the time and cause of death were not immediately determined, but an autopsy was scheduled in Albuquerque, and preliminary results might be available today.

"To my knowledge the car has not been recalled," Mercadante, 38, said. "I have no evidence of that. I was never notified."

General Motors spokesman Jim Crellin said Thursday night in Detroit that the 1978 Chevrolet Impala station wagon had been recalled to replace the latch on the rear storage compartment with a redesigned latch.

Clarence Ditlow of the National Center for Auto Safety in Washington, D.C., said 476,245 full-size Chevrolet, Pontiac and Oldsmobile station wagons, model years 1977-1979, were recalled in June 1979.

"It's an outrageous failure of the recall system for these cars to be still on the road 10 years later," Ditlow said in a telephone interview Thursday night.

"Owners were notified at that time of the recall," Crellin said. "I'm assuming they were notified by mail. We notify the owners and urge them to bring their car into the dealer to have it fixed."

A summary of the recall on file at the Center for Auto Safety says there was "the possibility that the child could open the rear side storage door and enter the compartment. If the compartment door then were to be closed, the child could become entrapped, as the door cannot be unlatched from inside," Ditlow said.

"If outside help were not available in time, the child could suffocate," said Ditlow, reading from the summary.

Mercadante said he is a close friend of the Roberts family and employs Matthew's mother, Debbie, at his Colonial One Stop food store.

"If I had known it (the car) would be recalled, I would have taken care of it," Mercadante said. "Obviously this is the first I have heard of it."

Matthew's partially decomposed body was found in the station wagon's rear "glove compartment-type" space around 7:45 p.m. Wednesday wearing the same clothes he had on when he disappeared, Chandler said.

Two passersby had smelled a strong odor emanating from the car and called police.

Senate oks 1/2-cent sales tax increase

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas senators today passed 24-6 a half-cent sales tax increase to help pay for the Legislature's school finance reform bill, which lawmakers are trying to enact over Gov. Bill Clements' veto.

Legislative leaders have said their bill, while not perfect, is the best they can pass to meet a Texas Supreme Court order to make more money available to poor schools.

Graduating eighth graders in addition to the valedictorian and salutatorian include Norma Alfaro, Buddy Atkinson, Jay Harty, John Harty, Freddie Martinez, Kim Matthews, Leon Mireles, Eric Romero, Sheri Sandefur and Monica Verdine.

Rev. Rex Reynolds, pastor of First Baptist Church in Hermleigh, will give the invocation. Cheryl Beeks will play the processional and Doug Cook, senior class sponsor, will be in charge of the tassel ceremony.

Senior class members will conduct the Red Rose Ceremony at the end of commencement exercises.

High school ushers include Melissa Anderson and Robert Romero. For the junior high, ushers will be Lori Anderson and Charles Swaett.

But Clements — a Republican who also opposes the tax increase — said he is convinced the Democrat-controlled Legislature will not be able to override his veto.

The Senate voted Wednesday to reject Clements' veto of the school finance reform bill. Speaker Gib Lewis said the House will try next week to follow suit.

"We already have more than enough House members committed to sustain my veto," Clements said Thursday. "It boils down to we can have a better (school finance) bill if we will reject the one we have."

the conference and noted that Wilma Dillard, patient relations coordinator for Cogdell, was honored with an Opportunity to Service Award. She was one of four persons among more than 10,000 connected with the St. Joseph system to be honored.

Smith said he has been impressed with the financial progress of the hospital, but that health care at Cogdell has also been improved.

The only action taken by the board was approval of the financial statement. Dr. Bid Cooper, chief of staff, gave the medical staff and quality assurance report, and Hochwalt gave the risk management report, noting that an unlevel portion of the emergency drive is being marked. He added that "right-to-know" stations for hazardous material information have been established.

Hochwalt further reported that Will Adams, medical director for the TDCJ southern region, inspected the clinic at the Daniel unit and gave a "very favorable report."

Hochwalt further reported that the second year of school tours of the hospital have been completed. During the school year, the hospital was visited by almost 350 Scurry County third graders.

Board member Roy McQueen asked that consideration of a policy dealing with local purchasing be placed on the board's next agenda.

The board then adjourned into a Cogdell Foundation meeting, and that board approved the purchase of an ENT chair at the cost of $3,200.

Parks presided at the meeting and other board members attending were Smith, McQueen, Brenda Hedges and Bill Wilson. Absent was Jim Palmer. A guest at the meeting was District Judge Gene Dulaney.

Bill to have vast impact on Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — A decade of legislative wrangling has yielded a clean air bill that will cost billions but also boost Texas' natural gas industry, some of the state's congressmen say.

The legislation will cut pollution, particularly in Houston, which ranks as one of the nation's most smog-ridden cities.

"It has to be helpful," said Rep. Martin Frost, D-Dallas. "That's true of all metropolitan areas, particularly ones like Dallas where we don't have much mass transportation."

The bill was approved Wednesday night, 401-21, with three Texans voting against it: Rep. Dick Arney, R-Copper Canyon, Rep. Larry Combest, R-Lubbock, and Rep. Tom DeLay, R-Sugar Land. "I think it will have a very negative impact," DeLay said. "I think it's going to cost the state of Texas thousands of jobs, a lot of money, and get very little cleaner air."

The bill requires cities to comply with federal air standards within 15 years, factories and utilities to reduce acid rain pollutants and sulfur dioxide emissions. It also requires smog reduction through tailpipe controls, cleaner fuels and alternative fuel use by fleets.

The Senate approved a similar bill in early April and a conference committee will hammer out differences.

Texas' members on the Energy and Commerce committee — Republican Jack Fields of Humble and Democrats Ralph Hall of Rockwall and John Bryant of Dallas — were active in discussions leading to key compromises in the bill.

But Bryant said the compromise in the most contentious provision, on alternative fuels, was hammered out between the two lead figures in the House debate — Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif. and Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich.

Texas natural gas producers will gain because of the provision, which requires vehicle fleets to switch to alternative fuels by the late 1990s.

"I think the alternative fuel of choice for fleets is going to be natural gas," Bryant said.

Fields said there are environmental problems with ethanol and methanol, the other widely promoted alternative fuels.

"This bill is going to touch just about every American one way or another," said Rep. Jim Chapman, D-Sulphur Springs.

Constituents and lobbyists besieged House members with letters, telegrams, phone calls and visits this week. "The file in this office is a foot thick from letters, lobby contacts, constituent contacts," Chapman said.

Fields and DeLay both expressed concern that industry's cost of compliance with the stricter emission regulations will be too high. Their Houston-area districts are home to some of the state's largest oil and chemical complexes.

"I would like to have seen more tax incentive to reward those industries that are doing a good job with their emissions," DeLay said.

"I think many companies under this are ... going to look at the prospect, when there is an expansion or a modernization, of going outside the United States," Fields said.

But he added, "It is not incompatible to have a cleaner environment and a vibrant petrochemical industry."

Fields said he hopes to be chosen for the House-Senate conference committee because there are a few provisions he would like to modify in the final version of the bill.

The conference committee is expected to be named next month and work through the summer. President Bush has said he wants a clean air bill finished this year.

Congressmen find merit in think tank

WASHINGTON (AP) — A research group's tax study is a useful model of economic forecasting because it assumes changes in public behavior, say four Republican congressmen.

Two of the congressmen, Rep. Bill Archer of Houston and Rep. Bill Frenzel of Minnesota, said they will show the study to fellow participants in the budget summit talks.

They were joined by Reps. Dick Arney of Copper Canyon and Tom DeLay of Sugar Land at a news conference Thursday to discuss the study.

All four congressmen reiterated their opposition for a tax increase. But Archer said it would be foolish to prejudice the outcome of the budget talks, where President Bush has said any deficit-cutting measure could be considered.

The Institute for Policy Innovation study says that misleading official revenue estimates is one reason deficit projections are often inaccurate.

Government economic estimates often use static analysis, or assume that "people are going to do what they did last year," Frenzel said.

"In the past, traveling on static analysis only, we have been in fact walking on one leg," he said.

"If you're going to have a pro-growth, long-term summit agreement, you must use dynamic analysis," said Arney, who chairs the Dallas-based research group.

By using "dynamic" analysis that assumed individuals will spend less if taxed more, the research group concluded that a tax hike would not reduce the deficit.

Frenzel said the study exemplified the differences between static and dynamic analysis because "tax laws drive people to make different kinds of decisions. They change behavior."

A Congressional Budget Office staff member said static analysis developed as a convention years ago so budget estimators in CBO, the Treasury Department and Joint Economic Committees have a common base of measurement.

"It really makes a great deal of pragmatic sense," the staff member said, saying dynamic analysis is very elastic because the underlying assumptions are much more subjective.

But the staff member said none of the agencies endorse static analysis as a "correct representation of economic reality" and said the debate between the two is legitimate.

Hackers infiltrate computer

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Two college students who broke into the Fort Worth police computer and at least 20 other systems across the nation represent a growing problem, authorities said.

"These guys are not unusual or unique even for Tarrant County," said Davis McCown, chief of the Economic Crimes Section of the Tarrant County district attorney's office. "I would say they represent a small percentage."

Authorities said they are only beginning to unravel the damage done by the two University of Texas at Arlington students, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported Thursday.

The investigation began in March when the district attorney's office was informed by U.S. Sprint Telephone Co. that someone was illegally using access code to the company's long-distance service from two Arlington phone numbers.

Investigators are sifting through computer printouts and disks trying to determine which computer systems were illegally entered.

Reynolds taught students how to say "no" to drugs and alcohol. Making the presentation were Angela Gonzalez and Jeremy Howard. (SDN Staff Photo)

Appointees will now get reprieve

AUSTIN (AP) — The chairman of the Senate Nominations Committee says hearings will start immediately on a backlog of gubernatorial appointees now that Attorney General Jim Mattox has given them a reprieve from legal limbo.

Mattox's latest legal opinion covered 76 officials appointed by Gov. Bill Clements, including the chairman of the Public Utility Commission, appointees to the pesticide regulation board and all seats on the Board of Pardons and Paroles.

"This is a positive step," said Sen. Chet Edwards, D-Waco, the nominations chairman. "I am very happy that state agencies won't be paralyzed. I think the attorney general acted with good judgment."

Mattox's second opinion Thursday clarified a legal opinion he issued May 1, which many officials said threatened to throw state agencies into havoc by disqualifying board members and possibly invalidating some of their past official acts.

The May 1 opinion said that if the governor makes an appointment when the Legislature isn't in session, the Senate must confirm that nomination during the next legislative session. If the Senate fails to confirm an appointment, that nomination is considered rejected.

The Senate, relying on legal opinions dating to 1917, had assumed that appointees continue to serve on boards and commissions in the absence of a confirmation vote.

Officials were concerned that appointees who were not immediately confirmed were serving illegally, and their official acts therefore invalid. Mattox eased the concern by saying those nominees who were confirmed before his May 1 opinion were legitimately in their jobs.

The 76 nominees whose appointments still are pending must be confirmed by the end of the current special session, on May 31, or be considered rejected, Mattox said.

Edwards said his Nominations Committee would begin hearings Friday on the 76 pending appointments. He said he believed all could be confirmed or rejected by Senate vote before the current special session ends.

Families of 16 children killed in bus mishap settle for $4.5 million per death

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — A company whose truck was involved in the state's deadliest school bus accident has agreed to pay $72 million to families of 16 of the dead.

Settlements finalized Thursday call for Valley Coca-Cola Bottling Co. Inc. to pay $4.5 million per death, lawyers for the families and the company said. Parents will receive the bulk of the money, but trust funds valued from $50,000 to at least $250,000 will be established for 30 surviving brothers and sisters. The trust funds will come out of the $4.5 million total paid per dead child, lawyers said.

Some of the minors will not have access to their trust funds until the age of 25, lawyers said. Attorneys Thursday packed the small court room where Judge Juan Partida of the state's 275th District Court in Edinburg approved the settlements Thursday. The otherwise out-of-court settlements were taken before the judge because siblings receiving trust funds are minors.

"They (the families) are not going to want for many things," said attorney Abel Orendain, who was appointed to represent 8-year-old Omar Garcia, brother of deceased Abdon Garcia Jr., 14. "At least all of these kids will get educated."

Mike Mills, an attorney representing Valley Coca-Cola at Thursday's hearing, declined to say how many of the soft drink concern's insurance companies would share in paying the damages.

A truck owned by Valley Coca-Cola ran through a stop sign and knocked the school bus into a water-filled pit in the Hidalgo County city of Alton on Sept. 21, 1989. Twenty-one students drown-

FBI agent speaks out

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — An FBI agent based in Laredo is warning children on both sides of the U.S.-Mexico border that they should say no to drugs.

Raul G. Salinas, senior agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation in this border town, said pressure on both U.S. and Mexican children to try drugs is immense.

"Now they're saying one out of 10 Americans have tried drugs at least once," he said. "The peer pressure is really frightening."

Salinas said there's a 1-in-6 chance that any Texas youth is using drugs. He said that makes it virtually certain that someone sitting in his lectures on the dangers of drugs can reach out and touch someone who is or will become a drug abuser.

But Salinas, who was scheduled to appear at a middle school in La Joya this morning and at an elementary school in Sullivan City this afternoon, said he is optimistic that efforts similar to his can turn things around.

"I think things are getting a little better," he said. "I think there's a little more awareness."

Well-traveled priest likes small town life

By Missy Trull
SDN Staff Writer

It must be the luck of the Irish that Father William Costigan ended up in Snyder — lucky for the parishioners of St. Elizabeth Catholic Church.

The native Irishman came to Snyder almost three years ago. "I prefer smaller towns. One can get to know the people," he said. "The people of Snyder behave like the people of any small town with their own culture."

He did study the Baptist and Church of Christ faiths during his first trip to Texas because they were something he hadn't encountered in other parts of the country and world.

Costigan has traveled extensively throughout the world. "I've been very lucky to travel a lot." He found eastern Africa especially interesting. "Their countries are not highly developed but they are very cultured. The country is beautiful. They have National Parks with animals that we only dream about."

He was a chaplain in Her Majesty's Merchant Navy for a brief time where he had the opportunity to sail along the European Coast and to South America. However, traveling is not just something he used to do, last week he went to Michigan and he plans a trip back home to Ireland next month.

He holds an interesting religious philosophy. "Churches are like tapestry, they weave into one another. If they didn't, we would question Christianity, wouldn't we?"

"The whole interaction between churches here is interesting... the spirit of cooperation." Costigan adds that this is something you don't find in larger communities.

"The inter-communication between clergy is good. Churches are moving closer together than they used to be.

"The tapestry continues to unfold... it's nice to be a part of it," he said.

In addition to his responsibilities at St. Elizabeth, Costigan serves St. John's Catholic Church in Hermleigh and works eight hours a week at Price Daniel Unit mostly counseling.

"There are some (inmates) that are very serious about their religion.

"Unfortunately, most of the people of town will never get to know the staff out there. They do a good job."

It has been 36 years since Costigan left Ireland where he received all of his formal education. ("I still hope I'm getting an education," he said.) Prior to coming to the United States, he spent seven years in London.

Real estate scam costs victims in the millions

NEW YORK (AP) — A key figure in a $150 million real estate scam whose victims included Eddie Murphy and actress Kirstie Alley has been sentenced to 16 to 48 years in prison.

Louis Rosen of University Heights, Ohio, was sentenced Wednesday on 37 counts, including grand larceny and securities fraud. Prosecutors said he was the comptroller in deals set up by tax-shelter hustler John Peter Galanis, prosecutors said.

District Attorney Robert Morgenthau said Rosen made about $1 million from a variety of schemes, including one involving the sale of limited partnerships in hotels and store space in Atlantic City, N.J.

Murphy, Cincinnati Bengals quarterback Boomer Esiason, and Alley, of the TV series "Cheers," were among 1,300 people drawn into the Atlantic City scheme in 1985, Morgenthau said.

Gerald McKelvey, a spokesman for the district attorney, said Esiason lost $79,800, Alley lost $93,500 and Murphy lost $240,375.

Rosen, 64, is free on bond pending appeal.

Galanis, from San Diego, earlier pleaded guilty and is serving a sentence of seven to 21 years in prison, along with a 27-year sentence from another case.
