Galyean, Gartman represent community at AL Boys State

Commander David Adams of Layne Kite Post No. 181 of The American Legion has announced that two high school boys will represent Snyder at the June 5-11 session of Texas American Legion Boys State at the University of Texas in Austin.

High school juniors selected to participate in the annual workshop are Tom Galyean and Kenneth Gartman.

American Legion departments across the nation are sponsoring 51 of these Boys States this summer. During Boys State sessions, the Snyder youths will participate in the organization of political parties, campaigns, elections and in the enactment and enforcement of their own laws within a mythical state. Elected state officials will function "for a day" at the Capitol, June 11, and conclude with a joint session at the Boys State Legislature.

Two outstanding youths from each Boys State will go to Washington, D.C., for study of federal government organization and operation in much the same format as Boys State delegates study government at the state level. Commander Adams said, "This outstanding American Legion program on local and state government teaches these young men that the important role of responsible citizenship can result in better government."

Snyder summer school dates June 11 to July 20

Snyder Independent School District will have summer school for 9-12th grade students from June 11 through July 20.

Classes will be for credit and students will pay $50 per 1/2 credit. Classes which are being offered are health, physical education and English. Students will need to contact the counselor in their school if they are interested in attending one of the classes. Students will be given the opportunity to sign up on June 11 for English after they have received their grades.

The district will also offer a class for 7-12th grade students

Proposed half-cent economic sales tax due second reading

A final vote to call an Aug. 11 election for a half-cent sales tax for economic development highlights the June meeting of the Snyder city council which begins at 6:30 p.m. today at city hall.

In May, the city council unanimously approved the election on first reading. The half-cent tax would generate about $380,000 per year in funds that could be used only for creation of new jobs.

Also under old business, the council will consider on second reading two zoning changes to allow the location of mobile homes. One is in the 2300 Block of 21st St., and the second is at 108 North Ave. Z.

Under new business, the council will consider a request from the public swimming pool committee asking the city to provide water and chemicals necessary to operate the Towle Park pool.

Sue Martini, representing a group of citizens, will appear before the council seeking a certificate and voucher program for Snyder through the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Councilmen are also expected to name a new mayor pro-tem. Current pro-tem Ralph William son has been transferred to Midland with Southwestern Bell Telephone and he is expected to resign his council seat following tonight's meeting.

Also, the court will consider bids for street paving material, and the council is expected to have an executive session to evaluate Municipal Court Judge Tommie Mills.

A native of New York, Lyons completed his military career at Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene. He then took refresher courses in electronics and computers at Texas State Technical Institute in Sweetwater.

He also worked briefly for a Wall Street bank before joining the military. As vice president he will continue to be in charge of the bank's data processing.

Lyons earned a bachelor's and MBA degree in business administration at Lincoln University in Pennsylvania and Golden Gate University in San Francisco.

He has two daughters, Nikki and Michelle, both of whom are students at Texas A&M University.

In Brief

Hearing today

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former Texas minister Walker Railey was to appear today in court here to explain why his marriage to his wife, incapacitated by a near-fatal choking attack, should be dissolved.

Railey, who was found liable for the attack in an $18 million civil judgment in 1988, wants a divorce from Margaret "Peggy" Railey, who lies in a vegetative state at a Tyler nursing home.

Lucy Papillon, a former Dallas psychologist who recently testified that she still maintains a relationship with Railey, has been subpoenaed as a witness in the divorce trial. Railey and Ms. Papillon both live in Los Angeles.

Victim angry

HOUSTON (AP) — The family of a man injured in an accident with the head of Houston's Drug Enforcement Agency is upset that Marion Hambrick is free on $500 bond on a second drunken driving charge in a year.

Hambrick, 49, was charged with driving while intoxicated after a Thursday night accident with Rup Tandan, 66, a bicyclist.

Tandan was in guarded condition at Hermann Hospital, suffering from a broken leg and ankle, fractured ribs, a cracked vertebra and a broken shoulder, his son, Ricky, said.

Officer injured

DALLAS (AP) — A 24-year-old police officer was injured when attempts to arrest a burglary suspect inside a woman's apartment turned violent.

Patrolman Todd Stewart was hospitalized Sunday night after officers were called to an apartment building in the city's northeast side about 9:45 p.m.

A woman had phoned the 911 emergency number to tell dispatchers a man was breaking into her apartment.

Co-inventor of semi conductor chip dies of heart attack at 62

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Computer pioneer Robert Noyce, whose co-invention of the semiconductor revolutionized electronics and helped to usher in the Information Age had died of a heart attack at age 62.

Noyce suffered a heart attack at his home Sunday morning and was rushed to Seton Medical Center, where he was pronounced dead, said hospital spokeswoman Elizabeth McDonald.

Working separately in the late 1950s, Noyce and Jack S. Kilby invented the integrated circuit, which made rapid gains in computer power possible by putting the power of multiple transistors on a single chip.

The Silicon Valley pioneer also was one of the founders of Intel Corp., the nation's third-largest semiconductor producer, and fought for the creation of a consortium to promote the American industry.

In 1988, Noyce was appointed chief executive officer and president of Sematech, which was set up to help the United States recover world leadership in semiconductor manufacturing.

In February, Noyce and Kilby were presented the first Charles Stark Draper Award by President Bush. The Draper award for engineering achievement is sponsored by the National Academy of Engineering. "Integrated circuits have enabled us to do the unimaginable," Bush said at the awards ceremony. "Now, it is unimaginable to believe we could ever live without them. The microchip ... helped America change the world."

Microchips are used in products ranging from medical equipment to calculators and watches.

Wives Have Mixed Message About Men Who Cross-Dress

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: This is in reference to "Peg," the 45-year-old divorcee who wrote for advice concerning her 48-year-old transvestite boyfriend.

When I was 20, I married the man of my dreams. He was charming, intelligent and masculine. A year later, he confided that he was a transvestite. (I didn't even know what the word meant.) He explained that he had the need to dress in women's clothes occasionally — especially underwear — for purposes of sexual or emotional gratification. This hit me like a ton of bricks, but I thought I could change him. I was wrong.

Five years and three children later, he was shaving his legs, wearing padded bras and lingerie to bed, and contemplating sex-change surgery. He became progressively depressed, feeling that he was a woman trapped in a man's body. He consulted a psychiatrist who specialized in gender disorders and sex-change therapy, and after extensive medical and psychological testing, he was told that he was a "transsexual."

The therapy for transsexualism involves changing the body to match the mind. This led to two years of electrolysis to remove all facial hair and the hair on his chest. He was given massive doses of estrogen, which softened his skin, enlarged his breasts and made him impotent.

When I turned 40, I decided to file for divorce. The children chose to come with me.

My ex-husband is presently involved in the social and cultural activities of a singles group. I don't know what his plans are, but he is 48, and on the surface he would appear to be a good "catch" for a 45-year-old divorcee. I hope he's not the person "Peg in Sacramento" speaks so lovingly of. I am signing my name and address in case you want to check me out for authenticity, but please do not publish it.

ANONYMOUS AND SINCERE

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Thank you for a helpful letter. Peg's letter inspired many responses such as yours, as well as some expressing the following sentiments:

DEAR ABBY: I appreciated your non-judgmental letter concerning men who cross-dress occasionally. I was especially grateful that you pointed out that not all men who cross-dress are gay. I have been married to such a man for 15 years, and we have a wonderful marriage. He's 45 and I'm 41.

I buy him wigs, makeup, jewelry and women's clothes — which he wears only in the privacy of our home. At bedtime, I wear men's pajamas and he wears sexy nightgowns. It does wonders for our sex life. Crazy? Like a ...

COUPLE OF FOXES

DEAR ABBY: Here is a suggestion for all of you dear people out there who want to give a gift to your priest, minister or rabbi. Please do not give him or her a Bible. We have all the Bibles we need in Hebrew, Greek, English, German, French, Spanish, etc.

Instead, give us a pair of tickets to some kind of entertainment, movie, play or a sporting event — something we can't afford to do on our own very often.

This is in no way insulting to the Lord; it is just a practical suggestion. FRANK DANIELLY, EVERGREEN, ALA.

State is in running for prison

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Jefferson County is in the final competition nationwide for a $150 million "super prison," says U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, who expects a decision from the Justice Department by September.

"Barring the environmental impact statement ... our dog is clearly not only in the hunt, but leading the pack," Gramm said. "But obviously we have work to do."

Gramm said he didn't know how many other communities were being considered.

"We have had several communities come forth with packages, but I believe the package put together in the Golden Triangle is our best package," Gramm, R-Texas, told the Beaumont Enterprise.

"If we are successful in Texas in landing a super prison, I believe that this will be the site," he said. The county is offering $2.4 million in free land, drainage work, water and sewage hookups and road improvements.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I had testing at a major medical center because of peripheral neuropathy. I do not have diabetes, and the doctors were unable to make a diagnosis. Finally, they said I might have vasculitis, yet my sedimentation rate was normal. Any comments?

DEAR READER: Peripheral neuropathy means that some of the nerves to your arms and legs are not functioning normally. Symptoms of the condition include numbness, tingling and burning pain in these limbs. Patients often complain of numbness in a "stocking-and-glove" distribution, meaning that only the hands, lower legs and feet are affected. Eventually, the affliction can progress, causing clumsiness, unsteady gait, loss of reflexes, dry skin and — finally — skin ulcers.

Neuropathy is a symptom, not a disease. As in your case, patients need extensive testing to determine the cause and, if possible, treat it.

The most common cause of peripheral neuropathy is diabetes. Diabetics develop premature arteriosclerosis; experts believe this progressive slowing of circulation to the hands and feet damages the tiny capillaries to the nerves. When nerves are deprived of nutrients and oxygen, they malfunction. The process and symptoms are akin to the sensations experienced by people who cross their legs and have a foot "fall asleep" because blood flow to the lower extremity is temporarily reduced.

Neuropathy has other causes, however, such as kidney failure, malnutrition, cancer and vitamin B-6 toxicity. These diseases can usually be diagnosed by appropriate testing. In many cases, treatment of the underlying disease will improve the neuropathy.

Vasculitis (inflammation of blood vessel walls) can cause neuropathy, if the affected arteries do not supply adequate oxygen to nerves. As you pointed out, the sedimentation rate — the speed with which red blood cells sink in a glass tube — is usually increased in the presence of vasculitis.

I would not presume to second-guess the corps of medical center doctors who examined and tested you.

However, I do suggest the following:

Medical center medicine has many advantages, including specialists who are up-to-date on the newest medical discoveries and the availability of sophisticated laboratory tests.

However, it does have one glaring disadvantage, a phenomenon I call "fragmentation." Medical centers often have too many cooks; usually no one person coordinates and oversees the investigation and care of each patient.

Therefore, I recommend you return to your family doctor and ask him or her to review, in detail, your records from the center. Perhaps a seemingly insignificant lab report got lost in the shuffle; this information could help diagnose your neuropathy. Or maybe one of the specialists inadvertently forgot to order a test that could have been a keystone in your diagnosis. Even if your records are in perfect order, your doctor will be able to advise you which step to take next.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Medical Specialists." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Woman dances to preserve her Indian heritage

LIVINGSTON, Texas (AP) — When Lana King dances, she is doing more than entertaining onlookers and winning awards. She is preserving her heritage.

Ms. King won the dancing title at the 22nd annual Indian PowWow held over the weekend at the Alabama-Coushatta reservation near Livingston.

"Her authentic dances keep alive what could vanish forever," Battise told the Beaumont Enterprise.

Man is pawn in squabble

NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico (AP) — A known sex offender who admits to molesting dozens of boys in the United States and Mexico says he lured his victims with toys, watches, clothing and money for video games.

"I would be considered a Santa Claus-type person in Romita, (Mexico)," said William Lee Heigel Jr., 43, of Ventura, Calif. Heigel has been jailed since April 30 when he was arrested after police searching his suitcase found a Polaroid camera and photos of nude boys, many of them engaged in sex acts.

Now Heigel has become a pawn in international law enforcement efforts because of continued disputes in the investigation of the 1985 kidnap-slaying of U.S. drug agent Enrique "Kika" Camarena, according to a published report.

In a copyright story Sunday, the Houston Chronicle reported Mexican officials, infuriated by the United States' abduction in April of Guadalajara physician Dr. Humberto Alvarez Machain, have refused to allow Los Angeles authorities to question Heigel at the La Loma prison.

"Usually we don't have any problems talking to prisoners when they are in La Loma," said Lt. Pete Palacios, chief of detectives for the Laredo Police Department, across the border from Nuevo Laredo.

But the relations between the two nations' lawmen have been icy since former Mexican police officers were paid $50,000 by the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration to put Machain, a suspect in the Camarena's death, on a plane to El Paso.

And so Heigel's case is stalled. Heigel, an accused sex offender first arrested on charges of molesting young boys 25 years ago, is mildly retarded with an intelligence quotient of 60, authorities said. He spent much of his life in California mental institutions and later its prisons on sex-related charges.

In a two-hour interview last week, Heigel told the Chronicle he left 12 or 13 victims in Mexico, one in Fort Worth and so many in California he can't count them.

"Oh, there's a lot (victims) in California in the past years, so many, you know, I don't know. How many? Oh, a lot," Heigel said. "When I was a teen-ager I had sex with kids smaller than me, and that's where it all started.

Police say Heigel confessed on May 4 to raping 10 boys in three cities in the interior of Mexico.

HONORING VETERANS — This group of local scouts placed about 400 flags on graves of veterans during Memorial Day. The flags were donated by the VFW and American Legion. There are approximately 700 veterans' graves in the area, and Vickie Jones, coordinator of the effort, is hoping to place flags on all of them next year. She may be contacted at 573-1888 by anyone wishing to help. Pictured above are, back row, from left, Walter Reneau, Patrick Earles, Stanley Pepper, Tory

City to take over defunct track

BRADY, Texas (AP) — The city of Brady is expected to assume control Tuesday of defunct G. Rollie White Downs, the state's first pari-mutuel race track that was unable to open its 1990 spring race season on Saturday.

The Brady City Council will examine its options concerning future track operations during its regular meeting Tuesday evening, said City Manager Jack Caffall.

The city was notified by letter last week that Heart of Texas Racing Inc., the leaseholders of the track, has abandoned the property and has ceased to carry on its business of operating and caring for the facilities.

"Heart of Texas Racing Inc. regrets this action; however, as you are well aware, it is insolvent and does not have the financial ability to continue to maintain and operate the racetrack," read the letter signed by Clifford Grubbs, the racing organization's president.

"In addition, Heart of Texas Racing Inc. is in default of the Lease Agreement in that it has failed to make the $40,000 payment required under the Lease Addendum," the letter stated.

"At this time, it appears that it would be in the best interest of the citizens of Brady for the City of Brady to take possession of G. Rollie White Downs, as provided under Articles 12-13 of the Lease Agreement in order to preserve and maintain the premises and equipment so that the racetrack may be kept in good condition until a third party may be found to relet the premises," the letter continued.

Caffall said the city council has several options, including terminating the lease agreement because the racetrack operators have abandoned the premises and have acknowledged they are unable to make the lease payment, the San Angelo Standard-Times reported.

mistakes, let's first watch Willy Nilly misplay four spades. Diamonds were led and continued, and Willy ruffed. He played a spade to dummy's king and a spade back. Oops, a bad trump split! He now tried the club finesse. East won the king and played another diamond. Willy ruffed and later had to lose a trump trick for down one.

So how can trumps be managed better? After ruffing the second diamond, declarer should play the queen and jack of spades from his hand, leaving the spade king in dummy. Whenever trumps split 3-2 nothing will matter, but keeping the spade ag in the North hand can be crucial when trumps split badly. When declarer sees that West started with four spades, he plays no more trumps. Instead he leads the club queen, finessing. East wins the king and plays a third diamond. Declarer ruffs low and then plays the A-J of clubs. West has to follow. Declarer then cashes the A-K of hearts, and fortune smiles as West has to follow to both hearts. South can now play his last club and ruff with dummy's spade king. Yes, West will still make his long trump trick. Unfortunately he has to use it to ruff his partner's winning heart, and declarer South makes 10 tricks.

Pistons stop Chicago

Detroit earns berth in NBA Finals with win

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. (AP) — While the Detroit Pistons are dreaming of another NBA title, the Chicago Bulls are back to mainly daydreaming.

The Pistons, getting 21 points from Isiah Thomas and 33 points from their bench, defeated the Bulls 93-74 Sunday in the seventh and deciding game of the Eastern Conference championships.

Bidding to become only the third franchise in league history to repeat as champion, Detroit will open the NBA Finals at home Tuesday night against the Portland Trail Blazers.

"It was just another game in the playoffs for us," Thomas said. "Maybe their youth and inexperience showed. We felt confident coming into the game."

Michael Jordan, proving that a one-man team isn't enough in the NBA, scored 31 points for the Bulls. But the only other Chicago player in double figures was Horace Grant with 10.

"Some players didn't play as well as they're capable of, but you have to take your lumps and move on," said Jordan, whose chair-kicking temper tantrum was credited with helping the Bulls stave off a sweep after they dropped the first two games.

"Maybe the pressure got to us," Jordan said. "There was some nervousness. Nobody besides (Bill) Cartwright has been in this situation."

"You could see their killer instinct. They had us back on our heels. They overwhelmed us."

The Bulls, who shot only 31.1 percent, actually led 19-17 after one quarter. But the Pistons, as they always do, went to their bench.

With Mark Aguirre scoring 10 of his 15 points, the Pistons broke the game open in the second quarter, building a 48-33 halftime lead. The Pistons' bench outscored the Bulls' bench 33-17 in the game and 213-131 during the series.

"Before the game, we were relaxed, open and real loose," said John Salley, who chipped in with 14 points and five blocked shots for Detroit. "Like (Coach) Chuck (Daly) said, this team has 12 companies and each company sat down at the round table and decided to go for one objective. Everybody was here today."

The Bulls, who never have been to the NBA Finals, have lost their last eight games in Detroit, dating back to the first game of last year's conference finals. The Bulls won all three games in Chicago Stadium and kept saying they felt confident they could win in Detroit.

But when it came time to do it, they never came close. Chicago never shot 50 percent against Detroit and never scored 100 points in any of the four games at the Palace of Auburn Hills.

"They proved today that they're better on paper and better on the court," Jordan said. "They're the best defensive team in the league. In the playoffs, not too many people are going to get layups or dunks."

The Bulls staged a mild rally to narrow the score to 69-59 after three quarters. But with Aguirre and Vinnie Johnson each scoring a basket, Detroit started the fourth quarter with an 8-2 burst and the Bulls never recovered.

"We made a shot of it, down to 10 going into the fourth quarter, but we ran out of gas," Chicago coach Phil Jackson said. "We got beat by the better team at this time."

Braves slate open tryouts

The Atlanta Braves will host a baseball tryout camp on Saturday June 23 in Plainview.

The event is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. and will be held at the City Baseball Complex at 200 South East Beech Street.

Braves Texas scouting supervisor Joe Campise and all-time Braves hitting leader Ralph Garr will direct the camp.

Players will be expected to furnish their own equipment and are responsible for travel and living expenses with the understanding that such expenses would be reimbursed by the Braves should a player sign a contract with the Atlanta team.

Players must be at least 16 years of age and summer program participants need written permission from their coach or American Legion Post.

High school players may participate without endangering their eligibility.

College students whose spring terms have dismissed are also eligible to try out.

Jones blows Kemper lead

POTOMAC, Md. (AP) — Steve Jones left the Kemper Open complaining about how slow the play was. Certainly, 4 1/2 hours must have seemed like a day or two as he tumbled lower and lower on the leader board.

Jones entered Sunday's final round with a three-stroke lead over Gil Morgan and three others. But a 7-over-par 78 knocked him well out of contention and opened the way for Morgan to win his first tournament since 1983.

Surviving wind gusts up to 20 mph and the dawdling pace they produced, Morgan shot a 69 for a 10-under-par 274 total and a one-stroke victory over Ian Baker-Finch.

Jones, who started the day at 11-under, opened with a birdie and three straight pars. But a bogey on the 359-yard, par-4 5th hole started him on a slide in which he had five bogies and a double bogey over eight holes.

He bogeyed Nos. 14 and 16, too, to finish well behind the pack with a total of 280. When he finally left the TPC at Avenel course, Jones was wet from sweat and rain and more than a bit frustrated.

"I'm a fast player and it was an extra long round," he said. "It was tough. I guess you just have to learn from it."

If the slow pace bothered Jones, it was the wind that got to Baker-Finch.

Baker-Finch started the day in 13th place, seven strokes behind Jones. Five birdies and a bogey on the front nine got him to 8-under and two more birdies put him at 10-under.

Only 17 golfers broke par and 45 shot 72 or higher.

French Open... Seles captures win

PARIS (AP) — Monica Seles played near-perfect tennis today over the final 11 games to speed past Laura Gildemeister and into the quarterfinals of the French Open.

Down 1-4 in the first set and having trouble controlling her two-fisted shots, the 16-year-old suddenly exploded and blew Gildemeister away 6-4, 6-0.

Not only did the second-seeded Seles win the last 11 games, she did it with the loss of just four points in the second set, which took 16 minutes to complete. Of the last 30 points, 32 went to the Florida-based Yugoslav.

"I started winning a couple of important points and in the second set my game came together," Seles said.

The victory in the fourth round also extended Seles' winning streak to 29 matches and avenged her last defeat. Gildemeister, seeded 16th, was the last player to beat Seles, more than 2 1/2 months and five tournaments ago.

Most of Seles' extraordinary second set was watched by one of her prime challengers, 14-year-old Jennifer Capriati. The two will meet in the semifinals if they get past quarterfinal opponents — Capriati against Mary Joe Fernandez and Seles against Manuela Maleeva.

The tournament, already bereft of a half-dozen top players through early round upsets, lost another glamour player when fourth-seeded Gabriela Sabatini was upset by 11th-seeded Jana Novotna of Czechoslovakia 6-4, 7-5. It was the second year in a row that the 20-year-old Argentine was eliminated in the fourth round at the French, and the second year in a row that Novotna has reached the quarters here.

Novotna eased through the first set and was up 2-0 in the second when she twisted her left ankle. After court-side treatment, the Czechoslovak broke for 3-0 and went up 4-0 on serve.

Reaching the quarterfinals on a rainy Sunday were some of the tournament's top remaining competitors — defending champion Michael Chang and third-seeded Andre Agassi in the men's field, top-ranked Steffi Graf and Capriati in the women's.

Chang beat Javier Sanchez in straight sets and Agassi settled an old score against Jim Courier. That set up a quarterfinal meeting of Americans that should be awesome.

"I know Andre is playing well; he has been playing well this entire year," Chang said. "I know that (Tuesday) he will do the same."

Students hurl bricks at police during rally

BEIJING (AP) — Beijing University students hurled bricks and bottles at security forces and hundreds rallied early today in the boldest anti-government protest since troops crushed the pro-democracy movement exactly one year ago. The campus protest defied the heaviest security Beijing has seen since martial law was lifted in January, and several Western journalists who covered it were roughed up and briefly detained by police.

Thousands of soldiers and police were out in force in the capital. For a fourth straight day, Tiananmen Square was sealed off today by paramilitary police to prevent any attempt to honor the victims of the June 3-4 crackdown.

Hundreds and possibly thousands of unarmed civilians were killed in last year's army attack, which cleared the square and the rest of central Beijing of pro-democracy demonstrators.

Students had led last spring's pro-democracy protests, attracting workers, intellectuals and some peasants to their campaign for reform and official corruption. For weeks, they occupied Tiananmen, China's symbolic political center. Today, vanloads of police guarded streets near the 100-acre square.

The Beijing University campus was quiet this morning, and students went to class. Hours earlier, hundreds had at a midnight rally shouted, "Get rid of (Premier) Li Peng!" Of all the Chinese leadership involved in the crackdown, Li is the most widely blamed and hated.

"We're tightly controlled, but we haven't given in," one student said.

Thousands of political activists were arrested nationwide in the months that followed the June 3-4 assault and many remain jailed without charge.

The government has purged Communist reformers and staged a massive ideological campaign to stifle dissent. Only a few isolated protests have since been attempted, although anger over the army attack remains widespread.

The Communist Party's official People's Daily, in a front-page editorial today, said the government's decision to use force to end last year's demonstrations was "absolutely correct and necessary" to preserve stability.

Despite the tight security, a middle-aged Chinese man attempted to pass out leaflets near the entrance to the Forbidden City across the street from the square, foreign witnesses said. He was quickly taken away by police.

A Buddhist monk and a disciple who were chanting and beating a drum on a bridge at the entrance to the Forbidden City were also chased off by police. It was not clear if they were detained.

On Sunday, two people were arrested near the square for trying to deliver protest messages to Western television crews.

Witnesses said the Beijing University protest began when a small group of students hurled bottles, rusty bicycle wheels and other objects at security forces on the street beneath their dormitory windows.

Volunteers help

DALLAS (AP) — City officials say they're pleased with a weekend flood cleanup effort, despite the fact that turnout was less than half what was expected.

More than 60 people fanned out across South Dallas Saturday to help victims of recent flooding clean up damage caused by the rain-swollen Trinity River.

Dallas Housing and Neighborhood Services Department officials had hoped for 150 people to volunteer in the hard-hit Rochester Park and Cadillac Heights neighborhoods.

"We put just a small dent in the problem, but there is so much more that needs to be done," said special services section manager Ramiro Lopez.

Volunteers lugged waterlogged furniture and household goods from the flood-ravaged homes, and ripped up ruined carpets and wood flooring in an estimated 40 homes.

Most of the residents are elderly and had no way of ridding their homes of heavy items, said Neighborhood Services inspector Russell Wyman.

"There's no way we could have done what they did," said 72-year-old resident Minnie Speed as a crew removed rotted flooring and wall material from her house.

Jim McSwain made the hour drive from Benbrook, southwest of Fort Worth, to spend the day ripping up carpets and moving mattresses with a crew of three other volunteers.

"I've driven this far to go drinking, so coming to help someone was no big deal," McSwain said.

The South Dallas residents are among thousands of Texans whose lives were disrupted by flooding along the Trinity and Red rivers.

Texas officials estimate that approximately 10,000 people statewide were forced from their homes by spring storms and flooding that began April 15.

Towns celebrate drug raid anniversary

SAN AUGUSTINE, Texas (AP) — This town of 3,000 residents has already celebrated Independence Day — from drugs.

About 500 people rallied with school bands at the town square Saturday to observe "Drug Independence Day," the one-year anniversary of a massive drug raid that busted three narcotics rings and resulted in 56 arrests.

Forty-eight of those arrested have been convicted.

Lillian Higgins was among those celebrating the day lawmen swooped down in helicopters and broke up the rings operating in this rural East Texas community once dubbed a "cocaine boomtown," near the Louisiana border.

"Everybody is certainly appreciative of everything (law enforcement officers) have done," Ms. Higgins said. "I came in a year ago and thanked them too when they were leaving."

On June 2, 1989, more than 1,000 residents turned out at the square to watch the massive raid. More than 200 law enforcement agents from the FBI, the Texas Department of Public Safety, the Texas Rangers, the Drug Enforcement Administration and other local authorities mad some 50 arrests and seized property worth more than $1.1 million.

"It was unbelievable," recalled Mayor Curt Goetz. "There were helicopters flying over and officers were bringing in all these people in handcuffs."

Three residents report tires cut on cars during weekend

Criminal mischief — including three cases of tires being cut — highlighted activity by the Snyder police department during the weekend.

At 8:51 a.m. Sunday, W. W. Mitchell of 3001 Ave. U reported that a tire had been cut on his vehicle. At 10 p.m. Sunday, Brent Smith of 3100 Ave. U reported that tires on his vehicle had cut. The third incident was reported at 2:40 p.m. Saturday by Charlie Reynolds at 3107 Ave. T who said that two tires had been cut.

At 1:17 p.m. Sunday, Mike McLeod of 2500 30th St. reported the theft of fishing equipment from his boat.

At 2:09 p.m. Sunday, Debbie Delce of 4400 Ave. U, Apt. 2B10, reported criminal mischief done to her vehicle. At 6:40 a.m. Saturday, Charlie Stone of 2501 28th St. reported that someone had ransacked his vehicle. At 9:01 a.m., Billy Gant of 2405 27th St. reported that someone had tried to remove the stereo from his vehicle.

At 10:41 a.m., Margie Sawtell of 2411 29th St. reported that two U-joints had been taken from her vehicle. The missing items were reported found at 4:40 p.m.

Larry Martinez of 1000 13th St. reported the theft of hubcaps from his vehicle. At 7:35 a.m., two juveniles were seen breaking a windshield of a vehicle owned by James Gray and parked at Extracurricular...

Supreme Court says student prayer meets legitimate activity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Student prayer groups must be allowed to meet at public schools that permit other organized extracurricular activities, the Supreme Court ruled today.

The justices, voting 8-1, said a 1984 federal law aimed at permitting religious clubs in public schools does not violate constitutionally required separation of church and state.

The court overruled Omaha, Neb., school officials who refused to approve a high school Bible-reading club.

Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, writing for the court, said the Equal Access Act of 1984 passes the court's long-standing three-part test aimed at assuring separation of church and state.

The law grants equal access to both secular and religious speech, but does not have the primary effect of advancing religion and does not cause excessive entanglement between government and religion, she said.

O'Connor said there is little risk that students will view an extracurricular Bible-reading club as indicating school officials endorse religion.

"The possibility of student peer pressure remains," she said. "But there is little if any risk of official state endorsement or coercion where no formal classroom activities are involved and no school officials actively participate."

Congress in the Equal Access Act said public high schools accepting federal aid must not discriminate against groups based on "the religious, political, philosophical or other content of the speech at such meetings."

The law requires access to school facilities for religious clubs if other "non-curriculum-related student groups" are allowed to meet.

At Westside High School in Omaha, officials authorized some 30 such activities, including chess, scuba diving and photography clubs.

The officials said the clubs are related to classroom work or other aspects of the school curriculum. For example, they said chess helps students learn mathematics and logic, and that scuba diving is tied to the school's physical fitness program.

The officials said the 1984 act, therefore, should not apply to them. But they also argued that if the law does apply, it should be declared unconstitutional as a government-sponsored establishment of religion.

Some groups who supported the school officials, such as the National School Boards Association, said the 1984 law is a thinly disguised move to return prayer to the public schools. The Supreme Court in 1962 banned organized, school-sponsored prayer sessions for students.

The Bush administration defended the 1984 law as a legitimate attempt to protect religious liberty for students.

On Saturday, some of those same helicopters hovered low over the square and landed in vacant fields for the celebration.

James Bean of San Augustine told the Beaumont Enterprise he hoped the celebration "will make people more concerned about drugs in this town. If you let it die down, (the drugs) will come back. You got to keep it on people's minds."

U.S. Attorney Bob Wortham of Beaumont said San Augustine seemed an unlikely location for such a major effort.

Located in the heart of rural East Texas, the town is known more for its lush, piney woods and two lakes — Sam Rayburn and Toledo Bend — for hunting and fishing enthusiasts than for its drug problem.

"Yet, under this pleasant veneer lurked a sinister presence, that overwhelmed and corrupted the fabric of life in this community," according to a report issued by Wortham's office.

"Three separate but cooperating cocaine rings coordinated an operation that turned San Augustine into the cocaine boomtown of East Texas."

Officials began investigating a drug transit system operating through Louisiana and East Texas in the fall of 1988 after Charles Bryan, who would take office as sheriff in January, asked federal authorities for help with a drug program.

Cocaine was being imported from Colombia through Houston into San Augustine for distribution throughout the region, including the massive U.S. Army facility at Fort Polk, La., Wortham said.

"This case had everything," Wortham said. "It had the richest guy in town, there was a law enforcement officer involved, drug dealing in a government housing project and even Colombians bringing in drugs."

Dubbed "Operation White Tornado," the investigation netted federal indictments against 47 individuals in three separate drug rings by May 1989.

Another assault was reported at 11:23 p.m. Saturday in the 2200 Block of Gilmore. A woman reported being assaulted by her husband.

At 2:04 a.m. Sunday, another woman reported being assaulted by her husband, but would not give officers any information.

At 12:21 p.m. Saturday, a female juvenile was arrested in the 1800 Block of Ave. T for being a minor in possession. She was released to her parents.

A 21-year-old male was arrested at 7:53 p.m. Sunday on three outstanding warrants — including failure to appear and public intoxication.

Four treated, released after mishap at traffic circle

Four persons were treated and released at Cogdell Memorial Hospital following a two-vehicle accident at the East Traffic Circle.

A 1986 Chevrolet driven by Nina Moss of 300 31st St. was traveling East on U.S. Business 84 when it struck a 1990 Ford driven by Charley Clary of Breckenridge which had failed to observe a stop sign. The Clary vehicle, which was traveling north on Texas 206, came to rest on its side.

Moss, 41, and a passenger in her vehicle, Evelyn Osborne, 34, of 3725 Ave. U were taken by Snyder EMS to Cogdell. Also taken to Cogdell were two passengers in the Clary vehicle. They were 60-year-old Evelyn Clary of Breckenridge and six-year-old Toby Williams of Odessa.

At 9:09 a.m. Sunday in the Eastridge Apartments parking lot, a 1987 GMC pickup driven by Mark Taylor of 4100 Brick Plant Road was in collision with a 1987 Pontiac driven by Celia Herrin of Route 2, Snyder. There were no injuries and damage was minor.

Mechanical problems taking toll on shuttle's schedule

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Mechanical problems are starting to take a toll on NASA's shuttle schedule, and the space agency is wondering whether the troubles are random or somehow related.

Columbia stands silently at Launch Pad A this week, grounded first by a bad cooling valve and now by a mysterious hydrogen leak that threatens to push its astronomy mission into July or later.

Hardly a month before, one of Discovery's power units had to be replaced at NASA's other shuttle launch pad, an unprecedented job that delayed the Hubble Space Telescope's ride into orbit.

Despite the breakdowns, few blame the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "Imagining you can fly the shuttle without any problems is like trying to imagine you can drive to work without hitting any red lights," said John Pike, director of the Federation of American Scientists' space policy project.

David Winterhalter, director of systems engineering and analysis for NASA, said the life of the shuttles — the fact "they've been around a while" — may be at the heart of the mechanical problems.

Gorbachev both salesman, showman in Midwest trip

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — In his first trip to the nation's heartland, Mikhail Gorbachev charmed and cajoled, then got down to business — the business of renewing old corporate ties and building new ones to revive the Soviet economy.

In a seven-hour visit to the Twin Cities on Sunday, the Soviet leader, fresh from the Washington summit, was both showman and salesman, making impromptu forays into crowds chanting "Gorby! Gorby!" and then urging corporate luminaries to invest in his country.

Raisa Gorbachev, meanwhile, took an unexpected shopping trip, stopping at a Mexican deli and a drugstore, where she bought bubble gum and macadamia nuts, but turned away a Snickers bar, saying, "Nyet, Nyet, I'm on a diet." She also got some insight into the mechanics of capitalism, questioning workers about salaries and work policies.

The Gorbachevs flew late Sunday to San Francisco, where they'll spend the day today before heading back to Moscow in the evening.

Their Minnesota visit included a luncheon at Gov. Rudy Perpich's mansion, a Twin Cities tour, a meeting with more than 100 business and agricultural leaders, and a stop at Control Data Corp., which is planning to sell $32 million of computers to John Logsdon, director of the Space Policy Institute at George Washington University, says NASA should keep plugging away.

"What's the alternative? Quitting? We deal with the system we've got," he said.

Problems with the thousands of components that comprise the shuttles — nearly 90 tons without solid rocket boosters and external tank — normally are discovered in the hangar.

On Columbia and Discovery, the troubles were not spotted until they were at the launch pads.

Replacing Columbia's cooling valve and Discovery's auxiliary power unit was the first time such work had ever been performed at the pad. Both resulted in two-week delays. And a shuttle launch had never been scrubbed during fueling until last Wednesday's Columbia scratch.

"I see it as the odds," said Brewster Shaw, deputy director of shuttle operations for NASA. "It's complicated hardware. It's going to break once in a while. I don't get too depressed over that."

NASA officials said they do not intend to scale down future flight plans as a result of this year's disruptions. Nine shuttle missions were scheduled for 1990, the same number as in 1985, which was the year before Challenger exploded and put the program on hold for 2½ years.

One of the remaining six missions — possibly Columbia's — likely will slide into next year.

"You cannot anticipate all the problems," said NASA launch director Bob Sieck.

A test is set for Wednesday in which Columbia's external tank will be partly filled with super-cold liquid hydrogen. Officials want to duplicate the conditions under which hydrogen escaped into the rear engine compartment during fueling for the scratched launch last Wednesday.

Shaw said he doubts the test will pinpoint a cause that can be fixed easily at the pad. If so, Columbia will have to be returned to the hangar for repairs, making it July before the shuttle can lift off with seven astronauts and the $150 million Astro observatory.

Columbia's last-minute problems would have halted the launch even if more stringent checks had not been added following the Challenger accident, NASA officials said. The same is true of Discovery's auxiliary power unit failure.

NASA officials still believe each shuttle is capable of 100 flights. With a goal of 12 flights a year, that would keep the fleet aloft until the year 2020, said Keith Hudkins, chief of NASA's shuttle orbiter program. After that, he said, no one knows where the future lies.

"If tomorrow makes the anti-gravity machine that's always been in all the comic books, where you just push the button, obviously we would start working on that the day after tomorrow," Hudkins said.

the Soviet Union to improve nuclear power plant safety.

A scheduled trip to the Brand family farm in Farmington, south of Minneapolis, was canceled because of time constraints and blustery weather — steady drizzle, strong winds and 50-degree temperatures.

The family, however, met the Gorbachevs on the airport tarmac before their departure. "You could see why they are loved as they are. They're very personable," said Richard Brand.

The Gorbachevs also dazzled the thousands who lined up 15 to 20 deep in some spots, cheering, squealing and waving white handkerchiefs called "GorbaChiefs," reminiscent of the "Homer Hankies" brandished by Minnesota Twins fans during the 1987 World Series.

The couple left their limousine three times to work and woo the crowds with handshakes, waves and smiles — and, for a lucky few, a word or two.

Another local family, the Watsons, had a personal audience with Mrs. Gorbachev, who spent nearly an hour in their home chatting about such matters as mortgage and food costs. Their 13-year-old daughter, Lisa Watson, is in a children's theater group that has traveled to the Soviet Union.

"I felt love in that woman," Mrs. Watson said. "She looked you right in the eye and locked you right in."

Women, children may be hurt by elimination from program

HOUSTON (AP) — Three-year-old Fabian Maldonado was dropped from a federal food program because he is too healthy. Now, his mother doesn't know how she is going to feed him.

Another mother, Kellie Brillhart, estimates she will lose about $200 a month from her food budget because her oldest daughter has been cut from the same program.

They are among some 27,000 women and toddlers in Texas who will be struck from the Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children by July because of rising food costs and increased demand, said Debra Stabeno, program director for Texas.

"WIC has helped us a lot," said Mrs. Brillhart, 23, the mother of three children who are all on WIC. "My 3-year-old daughter, Lisa, was cut off the program last week. She came up to be renewed and they just said, 'Sorry, she can't get back on it.' But she's been cut before. I told them, 'Well, I'll be back in six months.'"

Fabian Maldonado also was cut from the Houston program.

"They told me there would be no more (food voucher) cards," said his mother, Fortino Maldonado, 37. "I don't know how I will be able to buy food now."

Mrs. Maldonado said in Spanish that her son has been on WIC since he was an infant.

The 12-year-old program was designed to curb the infant mortality rate and ensure that pregnant women at risk for nutritional deficiencies delivered healthy babies.

WIC serves lower income women who are young, anemic, smoke, use drugs, have poor dietary habits or other problems. It also is for poor children up to 5 years old who have nutrition problems.

Participants receive vouchers they use at grocery stores to buy milk, cheese, cereal, juice, infant formula, peanut butter, eggs and dried beans.

But higher food costs and increased demand resulted in a budget shortfall this year, forcing WIC officials to implement cuts in at least 36 states.

Healthy children and mothers are primary targets.

"We serve 330,000 people a month in the state," Ms. Stabeno said. "We're not shutting the doors or anything. We want to encourage mothers to keep their appointments, even those in the lowest priority, because they still may be eligible."

Pregnant women who are accepted to the program remain eligible until six weeks after they deliver.

Killer who wanted to die executed after stay is lifted

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Thomas Baal ate pizza and jelly donuts and sent love to his parents before he was put to death by lethal injection. It was an execution he fought for over his parents' court objections.

Baal, 26, was executed Sunday for fatally slashing a Las Vegas bus driver. His parents had tried to intervene, saying he was mentally incompetent and should not have been allowed to decide for himself to die or appeal.

"Send my love to my mama and my papa," Nevada State Prison Warden Pete Demosthenes quoted as Baal's last words.

State Prison Director Ron Angelone said Baal told him to tell his parents, Edwin and Doris Baal of Mesa, Colo., that "Jesus was taking him home and he was not scared."

The execution came 10 hours after the U.S. Supreme Court voted 5-4 to allow it.

At Baal's parents' request and his objections, the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco had stayed the execution Saturday, saying a lower court erred in not holding a hearing on whether Baal was mentally competent to appeal. The Supreme Court majority held there was no basis for that conclusion.

Baal was executed for the Feb. 26, 1988, killing of bus driver Frances Maves, 34. She was robbed and stabbed while inspecting her bus at an airport in Las Vegas.

Baal spent a sleepless night in a cell next to the death chamber and made a last confession to the prison chaplain, prison spokesman Glen Whorton said.

Baal had a last meal of pizza, apple pie, chocolate ice cream, jelly donuts and soda pop, he said.

Baal's execution was Nevada's fifth and the 129th nationally since the U.S. Supreme Court in 1976 cleared the way for states to resume use of the death penalty.

People report illnesses after buying chemicals

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A Washington, D.C., watchdog group is questioning how some people were able to purchase toxic paints and solvents from the newly-opened Comanche Peak nuclear power plant.

Several purchasers have reported nosebleeds, dizziness, headaches and other maladies they believe are linked to the chemicals.

The Government Accountability Project, a group which frequently monitors the nuclear industry, contends the products are highly toxic hazardous wastes, and that TU Electric illegally dumped them on the public.

The Accountability Project said it knows of at least eight people who purchased the products.

"They've been essentially auctioning the stuff off at a token price simply to get rid of it," said project spokesman Mick Harrison. "It's pretty clear under the circumstances that TU was getting basically a cheap disposal method here."

The residents had no expertise in using such industrial products, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported Sunday.

Utility spokesman Mark Manroe said the company sold about 5,000 gallons of epoxy paints and sealants, which contain traces of highly toxic chemicals, to the highest bidder in 1987 and 1988.

Manroe said, however, that the products, which he said were sold because their shelf life had expired, are not dangerous if used properly.

Manroe said purchasers were warned of the dangers. But many buyers said they received no such warning.

"They didn't say anything about what was in it," said Max Boyd, a rancher in Hico, about 30 miles south of Comanche Peak. "They just said it was real good paint."

Boyd and others said the labels were missing from many of the cans they bought. They said the only instructions from the utility dealt with how to mix the chemicals.

Manufacturer Imperial Professional Coatings of New Orleans issues federally required "Material Safety Data Sheets" with its coatings that recommend extreme caution in their use.

The data sheets warn of headaches, dizziness, nausea and loss of consciousness from overexposure, and of the possibility of reproductive disorders and birth defects. The company recommends protective clothing, goggles and, in some cases, special breathing gear for handling the products.

Manroe said the data sheets were made available to the buyers.

Kids Kampus has something for all ages

Kids Kampus, a family-owned child care business, has two child care centers in Snyder. The center located at 111 37th Street cares for children from birth to 12 years, while the center at 1807 27th Street caters to children of school-age only.

Jim and Mary Petrie, owners of Kids Kampus since 1981, have developed a philosophy of child care that creates an emotionally secure environment. By incorporating kindness, love, respect, education and nutrition, they are able to meet the needs of the individual child.

Care is provided on a regular basis. Children may come for one day per week up to five days per week, or as parents are scheduled for work. By limiting the number of children who may attend, the care-giver is able to develop a strong nurturing relationship with each child. This is rewarding for both the child and the caregiver, thereby further increasing the bonding that is necessary to create the loving, secure environment and staff stability that parents want for their child.

Education begins with infants by using age-appropriate developmental learning programs that encourage physical, intellectual and emotional growth. A series of individual activities for babies foster healthy social and emotional development, as well as language acquisition and motor control.

Toddlers build on these skills and move toward independence. Problem solving, understanding abstract concepts and cooperation are introduced. At this stage of their development, all of the activities help the children to express their feelings and ideas and develop a sense of success and self-confidence.

The two-year-old program opens the door to language development with colorful flannel board stories and puppets. Take-home art pages develop the senses and encourages individual expression. The children learn through the use of music and movement, and parents receive a monthly letter that includes the words to the songs and fingerplays which can be enjoyed at home.

The three-year-old Preschool Program is designed so children easily and eagerly develop basic skills. Children are taught how to listen, a skill they need in order to become good learners. With fun-filled songs, games and stories, they begin building a solid foundation for reading success. Children develop reading readiness in oral, auditory and visual skills and learn left-to-right progression and phonics. Through the use of math manipulatives and concrete learning activities, children are given an understanding of math. An endless variety of stimulating activities introduce, strengthen and reinforce math-related skills. The program includes labeling, categorizing, problem solving, matching, memory games and countless other cognitive activities. Science is a time of fun and discovery as children explore and manipulate properties of the physical world. Personal identity and social skills are further developed during "circle time." Circle time allows each child an opportunity to share something with the class, as well as provides an opportunity to learn the days of the week, the calendar, seasons and about our country. Each week a take-home parent letter explains that week's activities, giving details which include not only the concepts and skills to be developed, but also describes each activity. This letter also includes the words to the fingerplays and songs and can be used by the parents to demonstrate to their child their interest and approval.

The four-year-old Pre-kindergarten Program is taught by a certified teacher and expands the concepts and skills children learned by participating in the earlier programs. Since there is nothing more important than children who can confidently approach the challenges of life, this program is designed to provide the child with successful experiences that strengthen their self-image. A positive self-image can make children feel good about themselves and their relationships with others. Those feelings affect a child's entire life, including the ability to learn in school.

The center's Kindergarten Enhancement Program offers morning and afternoon classes that are taught by a certified teacher. This program is not intended to replace the normal curriculum taught in the public schools. An active learning environment provides the children opportunities to explore, investigate, discover and experience a variety of activities in their own individual way. Hands-on activities teach health concepts and promote independent thinking, problem solving, creativity, and decision making — all keys to enhancing children's self-esteem. Teaching strategies and procedures help children build higher-level thinking skills. Imaginative stories, songs, discussion pictures, career activities, and problem situations are designed to teach children to understand behavior, listen reflectively, express their feelings, and deal with conflict. The Manipulative Center contains a rich resource of real-life objects for children's exploration and observation of mathematical relationships. The Discovery Center provides an opportunity for children to learn about Earth, life, and physical science. The low child-staff ratio allows a great deal of individual attention for each student. Transportation is provided to and from the public school.

Kids Kampus also provides an After-School Program for school-age children that allows the child to select their own daily activities. They can watch a movie, read a book, do homework, play outdoors, or play indoors with their choice from a wide selection of age-appropriate toys. The variety of activities and the freedom to choose has made this a most successful program.

Transportation is available to extra-curricular activities, such as dance and gymnastics, so that children can take advantage of community services.

Adequate nutrition is an important part of the child's overall development, and Kids Kampus has an excellent nutritional program. The center provides hot, home-cooked lunches and use only fresh fruits and vegetables, never canned or frozen foods. Morning and afternoon snacks are provided daily, again, using fresh fruits and vegetables. Sweets are served only on special occasions, such as birthdays, holidays, etc.

The end result is that Kids Kampus offers a very well-balanced environment for the care and education of children. In the nine years since its beginning, Kids Kampus has developed its programs through extensive research and study into all aspects of child development. Jim and Mary Petrie invite you to inspect the centers at anytime to discover what Kids Kampus has to offer the parents and children of our community.
