For four of six entities...

Tax values show gain

For the first time since 1986, Scurry County taxing entities with oil property wealth have experienced an overall increase in value, according to figures released this week by the appraisal district.

The final figure is still subject to change since property owners now have the right to protest values (see related story), but the figures now listed are considered close to final.

The upswing in values for some is a re-direction from 1986, when the price of oil began a downward spiral which adversely affected the entire state's economy.

While Scurry County continues to experience a depletion of its oil reserves, a significant increase in the estimated price per barrel value has caused the increase.

Last year, the price per barrel was set at $16.50 for the benchmark West Texas Intermediate Crude produced here. The new value estimate set by Thomas Y. Pickett and Associates of Dallas is $21, a figure adjusted due to the "gravity" of locally-produced oil.

The news regarding values isn't all good, however.

While the county's oil values nudged upward, the value of real estate inside the city limits decreased for the fourth straight year.

This year also, many commercial and business properties had values downgraded.

Adjustments made by the appraisal district staff also saw the values of some Scurry County farm and ranch land downgraded, although Chief Appraiser Ray (see TAXABLE, page 10)

Changes in tax base

Figures below indicate the change in tax bases for the county's six taxing entities, according to information from the appraisal district. The figures shown are preliminary estimates, and will be finalized in July.

WTC College District:

Tax Base	Up From	Increase Of
$1,037,288,270	$898,850,896	$138,437,374

Scurry County:

Tax Base	Up From	Increase Of
$993,664,759	$854,418,032	$139,246,727

City of Snyder:

Tax Base	Down From	Decline Of
$238,053,159	$238,153,957	-$100,798

Snyder ISD:

Tax Base	Up From	Increase Of
$852,917,101	$720,700,698	$132,216,403

Ira ISD:

Tax Base	Up From	Increase Of
$122,426,807	$98,637,433	$23,789,374

Hermleigh ISD:

Tax Base	Down From	Decline Of

20-day notices out to property owners

Scurry County property owners will be receiving 20-day notices from the appraisal district this week, information which will inform them if the value of their respective properties have either increased or decreased since last tax year.

The notices are sent to give the property owner the opportunity to protest the tax value.

Hearings are now scheduled in July by the district's appraisal review board—the body which has the authority to change such values if it deems a mistake in valuation has been made.

Hearings for real estate and oil properties are scheduled on separate days. The review board will consider protests on real estate and personal property on July 12 and on oil-related values on July 13.

In year's past, these 20-day notices were sent to property owners only if the overall value either increased or decreased by more than $1,000.

Because of changes in the tax laws and because of a large scale re-appraisal of local property, the district is notifying all property owners of their values this year.

As a result, the mailing from the district, expected to be sent today, numbers more than 24,000 parcels of mail.

Overall in the county, oil values increased for the coming year while personal property decreased for the fourth straight year.

Appraisal district personnel ask any property owners with questions regarding values to contact their office prior to the July hearings. The district's telephone number is 573-8549.

Analysts say Oil price slide only temporary

by The Associated Press
A slump in U.S. oil prices to two-year lows is a short-term blip before prices begin to regain strength, say analysts who nevertheless admit the fall has been worse than they expected.

Tuesday's close at $15.65 for a 42-gallon barrel of West Texas Intermediate crude oil "is much lower than I thought it would go," said Maureen Allyn, chief economist at Scudder, Stevens & Clark Inc. in New York.

But Ms. Allyn and other analysts tended to stick by their forecasts, which predict the price of WTI, the benchmark U.S. grade, will average around $18 a barrel this year.

WTI for July delivery lost 29 cents in Tuesday's trading on the New York Mercantile Exchange, (see SLUMP, page 10)

Roby meeting views toxic waste disposal

A public hearing was scheduled this morning in Roby to discuss a proposal to pump toxic wastes into an underground saltwater well in Fisher County.

The hearing, which was to begin at 10 a.m., was being held in the high school auditorium and was being conducted by the Texas Water Commission.

On hand for the meeting were to be representatives from Sweetwater Resources, a Dallas-based company which is seeking to haul toxic wastes to the site. A number of opponents to the proposal were also planning to voice their opinion.

Comments from both sides are to be sent to a three-member Texas Water Commission (TWC) board by hearing examiner Mary Sals, who will also report her find-

Blood drive collects 119 pints

Tuesday's blood drive at Towle Park Barn accumulated 119 pints and had 125 registered donors.

Receiving "gallon pins" were Ida Stokes and James Day, five-gallon pins; Kim Hines, a three-gallon pin; Connie Fitzgerald, Kenneth Rinehart, Wanda Rinehart, Paula Kesner, Steven Bond, Vernest Tippens, Joe Rollins and Anson Luna, two-gallon pins; and Harold Buchanan, a one-gallon pin.

Winner of the buffet-for-two at Willow Park Inn was Harold Buchanan. Those who won dinners at Jaramillo's were Joe Carter, Linda Barnes, Lavella Turner, Jay Fiel, Debbie Tany, Ernest Salazar and Patricia Rosa. Receiving dinners from Spanish Inn were Anita Brown, Amy Floyd, Bob Sealy, Jimmy Lane, Ethel Head, Luis Aguilar and Wanda Rinehart.

The drive was sponsored by Cogdell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary and Scurry County Advisory Council for United Blood

Services of Lubbock.

Those who donated blood on Tuesday received a special card. The card can be redeemed for a T-shirt when the donor returns to donate for the Aug. 14 drive.

Donating incentives for the drive were Coca Cola Bottling Co., Dairy Queen, Sonic Drive In, Gandy's Dairies, Whataburger, Taco John's, Wal-Mart, Golden Corral, Long John Silver's, Gill's Fried Chicken, Jaramillo's, Spanish Inn and Willow Park Inn.

Cookies were provided by Lawrence IGA and orange juice was furnished by the hospital auxiliary.

Jury begins deliberating 'comp' case

Jury deliberations began at 10:40 a.m. today in the workman's compensation case involving Charles W. Clinkenbeard vs. Liberty Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of Dallas.

The 132nd District Court case began Monday and Clinkenbeard's attorney, Aubrey Roberts of Sweetwater, ended his case this morning.

Clinkenbeard suffered a heart attack on May 1, 1989, while working as part of an oilfield construction crew. At the time, he was employed by Morin & Son Construction of Snyder. He is seeking workman's comp payments alleging he is totally incapacitated as a result of the heart attack and that the attack was "produced by his work."

The jury will now decide specific charges given to them by presiding District Judge Gene Dulaney. Among these charges are did Clinkenbeard suffer an injury "due to exertion."

If the jury decides "yes" to this charge, they must then decide if the injury produced total incapacity.

Further, if total incapacity is found, the jury will be asked to decide both a beginning and ending date for the total incapacity.

Clinkenbeard's attorney contended in closing arguments that his client's heart attack was caused by an on-the-job incident where Clinkenbeard was assisting in "breaking down" a line of oilfield pipe. The attorney alleged further that his client "will never be able to work again."

The insurance company's attorney, E.F. Lohmann III of Abilene, pointed to a physician's testimony which indicated the work effort was "not enough (to produce) a heart attack."

In his closing argument, Roberts disputed this claim, (see JURY, page 10)

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "An athletic person is a guy who pays somebody to cut the grass so he can play golf for exercise."

Elizabeth Taylor either believes in staying young or believes that running with the young will keep her that way.

The movie star, who has been ill in recent months, is trying to regain her health and good feeling about herself by getting back with her 23-year-old boyfriend.

We know one local gal who says that you should be cautious about dreaming and making wishes because sometimes they may come true.

She said, "I always wanted to look like Elizabeth Taylor—and now I do, yuk."

Everybody has problems. The Wall Street Journal gave some insight into why playboy Donald Trump may well become the dud of the nineties.

In addition to the $25-million he has promised his estranged wife in a pre-marital agreement, Trump owes the following:

He owes $725 million for the Trump Taj Mahal in Atlantic City, $435 million on Plaza Hotel, $410 million on Trump's Castle, $380 million on Trump Shuttle, $273 million on Trump Plaza, $200 million on West Side Yards, $115 million on Grand Hyatt Hotel, $85 million on Trump Regency, $75 million on Trump Tower, $30 million on Trump Plaza of the Palm Beaches, $68 million on Alexanders Inc. stock, $70 million on homes, boats, and personal vehicles, and $120 million on miscellaneous.

According to old math, that debt totals more than $3 billion. Just the interest on the debt amounts to $35 million a year or about $6.73 million each week.

It might keep the average citizen awake each night knowing that he owes $1.3 million even before he gets to the office.

Q—Are there any groups formed to protest the proposal of having a hazardous waste landfill in Mitchell County? If so, how can we get in touch with them?

A—We know of at least one group called Texans Against Pollution, an affiliate of Texans United. You may write the group at Box 555, Colorado City, 79512.

In Brief

Bills signed

AUSTIN (AP) — Financially strapped social service agencies will get a $100 million funding boost under a bill signed Tuesday by Gov. Bill Clements.

The bill also contains $100 million in budget cuts and transfers, and provides for spending an additional $528 million on public education in the coming school year.

The measure was part of a school finance reform and social services package approved by the Legislature in a special session this month. Besides the budget maneuvers, the package is financed by raising fees and taxes, including a quarter-cent sales tax increase.

Without the new money for social service programs, state officials have said they would have to cut back in such areas as assistance for chronically ill children and the elderly.

To take effect

AUSTIN (AP) — Reports that a state judge is likely to allow Texas' new public education reform package to take effect for at least one year were applauded by Gov. Bill Clements.

"Clearly, if Senate Bill 1 is allowed to go into effect, planning for the upcoming school year can proceed uninhibited, funding can continue to flow smoothly and the critical reforms we fought so hard to enact can be put into place," Clements said Tuesday.

Faulty switch

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The company that manufactures monitors for people with breathing problems says no one has died from a faulty switch that the government and the manufacturer have recalled.

The breathing monitors are used by people, usually infants, who suffer apnea. Apnea sufferers temporarily stop breathing.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration issued what it calls a Class One alert for the switch, manufactured in Euleus by Electronic Monitors Inc. Class One alerts are issued in cases where death and injury could result.

Office shootings stir debate

MIAMI (AP) — The massacre of eight people by a man with a rifle could undercut the powerful gun lobby at a time when Florida voters are considering a constitutional amendment imposing a three-day wait on handgun purchases.

"Anytime you have a tragedy, those people with hidden agendas see any and every emotional opportunity to try to justify their erroneous position and try to deprive the people of their rights," said Marian Hammer, spokeswoman for the National Rifle Association's Florida branch.

The debate over the amendment on November's ballot intensified after James Edward Pough, 42, a day laborer, killed eight people Monday with a semiautomatic rifle before taking his own life with a revolver at an auto loan agency. Police said Pough also killed two people on the street Sunday with the rifle.

"How many messages do we send to the Congress? How many to the state Legislature?" Jacksonville Mayor Tommy Hazouri said Tuesday. "If it means seeking changes ... we're going to do that."

State Rep. Ron Silver, chairman of the House Criminal Justice Committee, said the fact the waiting period is being settled by a referendum rather than a vote in the Legislature shows many lawmakers still fear the NRA's clout.

But he added that polls indicate heavy support for the amendment, and he said passage could give legislators confidence to pass other gun-control laws.

"I think Florida is waking up," Silver said.

California passed an assault weapons bill in 1989 in the aftermath of the Stockton, Calif., schoolyard spree by a drifter with an AK-47 assault rifle who killed five children and wounded 30 other people. President Bush approved an import ban on assault weapons and a Senate bill would extend the ban to domestic manufacture of four weapons identified as used mainly in drug violence.

Florida has tackled gun legislation several times in recent years.

A 1987 law removed gun registration from county control in favor of statewide registration rules. A law taking effect Oct. 1 requires gun sellers to check all applicants through a crime computer in Tallahassee.

But lawmakers on a study commission on assault weapons failed to agree on which weapons should be banned.

U.S. Rep. Bill Nelson, a Democrat running for governor, has called banning assault weapons a priority.

"It is harder to rent a car in Florida than it is to buy an AK-47," he said during a debate Monday before he knew of the shooting spree. A Nelson aide needed less than 10 minutes to walk into a Miami gun shop and come out with an AK-47 and ammunition last month.

Gov. Bob Martinez, a Republican seeking re-election, said Tuesday the law requiring a background check by gun dealers is a responsible step, "but at the same time we must maintain the freedom to own guns which have useful sporting purposes." Pough's .30-caliber semiautomatic rifle would be banned under New Jersey's month-old law on assault weapons, considered the nation's toughest, because its clip held more than 15 rounds.

Nelson wants a seven-day waiting period on handgun purchases. Democratic front-runner Lawton Chiles also supports a waiting period.

Now, gun purchasers are required to have some identification, such as a driver's license, and fill out a questionnaire on arrests, mental illness and drug use.

But there is no way for merchants to confirm the information other than by investigating on their own.

It is illegal in Florida for a convicted felon to own a handgun. But technically, Pough wasn't a convicted felon.

In 1971, he was charged with manslaughter in the shooting death of a man; he pleaded guilty to aggravated assault and was sentenced to five years' probation, court records show. After probation, his record was wiped clean.

Fox breaks into Top Five

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fox Broadcasting won ugly, as they say in sports, breaking into the top five in the ratings with TV's most boorish families, "The Simpsons" and the Bundys of "Married ... With Children."

"The Simpsons" was the No. 3 show last week, and the equally grumpy but non-animated brood of "Married ... With Children" was No. 4, the A.C. Nielsen Co. said Tuesday.

It was the first time in Fox's four-year history that it broke into the top five, and the proud parents were jubilant.

"We're extremely excited about this," said Fox spokesman Michael Peikoff.

Fox's unprecedented ratings were helped by the Big Three networks being knee-deep in reruns.

They also benefited from 10-year-old Bart Simpson's sawtooth head blazoned across Rolling Stone magazine, T-shirts and the pages of news magazines.

But Fox's victory was far from sweeping. In overall ratings, NBC was still the No. 1 network, receiving an average rating of 10.4. CBS was second with 9.7 and ABC last with 9.3. Each ratings point represents 921,000 households.

In a top 10 where only one show — "The Seinfeld Chronicles" on NBC — was not a rerun, ABC's "Roseanne" was the top-rated program. The wisecracking bar-crowd of NBC's "Cheers" was No. 2.

NBC's "The Cosby Show," which will face off against "The Simpsons" in the fall, fell to fifth place.

Here are the top 10 shows, their network and rating: "Roseanne," ABC, 16.8; "Cheers," NBC, 16.7; "The Simpsons," Fox, 14.7; "Married ... With Children," Fox, 14.5; "The Cosby Show," NBC, 14.2; "A Different World" and "Empty Nest," tied, NBC, 14; "Coach," ABC, 13.8; "Designing Women," CBS, "The Golden Girls," NBC, "The Seinfeld Chronicles," NBC, tied, 13.6.

There was no news in the network news wars. ABC remained No. 1 by a wide margin with a 9.2 average. CBS had a 7.8 and NBC a 7.5.

Agency: 'killer' bees may have arrived

WASHINGTON (AP) — The long-awaited Africanized honeybee may have arrived in the United States, although the Agriculture Department says it is not certain.

A new "backgrounder" paper about the bees said Tuesday that "some may have arrived in southern Texas even as you read this. But it took more than 30 years for them to migrate from Brazil to the United States."

In an earlier paper on April 3, the department predicted the bees' arrival in Texas "sometime during 1991-92 by natural spread, although some swarms may arrive sooner."

The bees are the hybrid offspring of African bees brought to Brazil in 1956. Some escaped and mated with native bees.

"Because of the way Africanized honeybees have been portrayed in the media, some people believe these bees swoop down from the sky, en masse, causing death and destruction," the paper said.

"This is not true. In reality, the chances of being injured by an Africanized or any honeybee are far less than the chances of being hit by lightning."

The three-page paper is available from the department's News Division, Office of Public Affairs, Room 404-A, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250. Phone 202-447-4026.

Invitational Pairs held last spring in Toronto. Although most North-South pairs reached six diamonds, not many succeeded. One of the winning declarers was Ralph Cohen. Here is his line of play.

He won dummy's heart ace and cashed A-K of spades, pitching a heart. Next came the club king, followed by a low heart, ruffed. The king coming up was good news. He cashed the club ace and ruffed a club, then took the diamond king. When the heart queen came next, East had unpleasant choices. He could ruff and see his natural diamond trick disappear, or discard and have declarer get rid of his losing club. Either way the slam came home. What if the heart king had not fallen? Declarer would still have made two little trump tricks by ruffing hearts. He would still have cashed the king of diamonds in dummy. So he would make the slam whenever diamonds divided 3-2, or whenever the length in diamonds was to his right. In that scenario he would cash his diamond ace. When West showed out, he could get off lead with the club jack and wait to take the last two tricks with the Q-9 of trumps.

Twists and turns

By James Jacoby

If you wonder why North did not consider bidding a grand slam, the reason had to do with bidding logic. If South held good intermediate cards in diamonds and clubs, along with his known 6-4 distribution, he would have first rebid two clubs. But when he rebid his diamonds and later bid three clubs, he showed a minimum hand with 6-4 shape.

Plans announced

LONDON (AP) — Prince Edward plans to quit serving tea to members of composer Andrew Lloyd Webber's Really Useful Group and set up a production company of his own with five members of the theater company.

The 26-year-old prince, the fourth and youngest child of Queen Elizabeth II, joined Lloyd Webber, whose hit musicals include "Cats," "Starlight Express" and "Aspects of Love," as a production assistant in 1988.

Production assistant is the most junior job in theaterland. The prince's backstage work included making tea for co-workers.

Edward said in a statement Tuesday that he was grateful to Lloyd Webber and the Really Useful Group for the chance to work in the theater.

The prince and his five colleagues refused to discuss their plans.

Charges against 20-year-old will be dropped in murder of teenager, sister

CONROE, Texas (AP) — Montgomery County authorities say their case against a 16-year-old boy in the rape-slashing death of her 9-year-old sister came together after a 20-year-old friend of the assailant told some friends about the slayings and took them to see the bodies in a wooded area.

Officers said Tuesday the 16-year-old boy was arraigned on capital murder charges and sexual assault charges under the juvenile code after he gave officers a statement in the slayings of Gracie Purnhagen, 16, and her sister, Tiffany, 9.

Authorities said the boy told investigators in a videotaped statement that he "snapped" into a violent rage after Gracie Purnhagen broke off their relationship.

Charges will be dropped against Richard Scott Schuschu, 20, even though he conspired to help hide the bodies and even took friends to see them, Montgomery County District Attorney Peter Speers said.

But the prosecutor said he will ask that Schuschu be placed under a material witness bond to ensure that he's available as a witness if and when the 16-year-old boy goes to trial.

"It's clear he's an important witness to the whole thing. He saw the bodies," Speers said.

Sheriff Joe Corley said the boy told officers he raped and strangled Gracie Purnhagen, then stabbed her several times with a pocketknife, because she told him she was moving with her family to North Carolina and wanted to break off their relationship.

"They (the 16-year-old boy and Gracie) had a stormy relationship," Corley said. "It seems he's very possessive of his girlfriends. He became enraged."

Because of his age, authorities have not released the boy's name.

Corley said the boy said he picked up the girls at the bowling alley and drove to a wooded area.

"They got out of the truck to discuss their future and their problems," Corley said. "They fought. He stabbed her several times and choked her with his hands. The 9-year-old got out, and he strangled her with his hands."

Corley said he was uncertain of the exact chain of events, but noted that Gracie was sexually assaulted at some point during the incident. The younger girl was not sexually assaulted, he said.

The sheriff said the boy placed the bodies, head to head in the woods and drove to Humble to ask Schuschu to help him dispose of the bodies.

The pair returned to the woods in Schuschu's station wagon in the pre-dawn hours Saturday, planning to dump the bodies in water with wire and cinder blocks, the sheriff said. For unknown reasons, however, they did not dispose of the bodies.

While leaving, Schuschu was stopped by a sheriff's deputy a short distance from the site and arrested on outstanding traffic warrants. The younger boy was turned over to his mother.

The two later returned to the scene, but again did not move or hide the bodies, Corley said.

But the case came together for investigators because Schuschu told friends what had happened, and he took two friends to the scene and showed them the bodies, the sheriff said.

Judge rules against alleged heirs in Spindletop lawsuit

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — A federal judge has ruled that thousands of decendants of an early Texas resident have no claim to a share of the Spindletop oilfield fortune or the estimated $200 billion worth of oil pumped from it since the Lucas gusher came in in 1901.

U.S. District Judge Howell Cobb's ruling came in the latest of a long series of lawsuits brought by would-be heirs against oil companies.

The ruling came in a summary judgment in favor of Amoco Production Inc., Mobil Oil Corp., Phillips Petroleum Co., Texaco Inc. and Chevron Inc. in a suit filed by four relatives who claimed kinship to Pelham Humphries and asked for $200 billion in oil, gas and mineral rights from the companies.

The suit was filed in February in Tennessee by the four relatives who sought to have their case declared a class action suit in behalf of numerous other heirs. The case was transferred to Beaumont.

"This court desperately desires that the ghost of Pelham Humphries will no longer haunt the halls of the United States court system," Cobb wrote in his opinion. "The Pelham Humphries litigation is over ... requiescat in pace (rest in peace)."

Brown Peregoy, a Tennessee resident representing 3,000 members of the Humphries Heirs Trust Association, contended Pelham Humphries received a grant to the Spindletop property from the Mexican government in 1835, and left no will.

The judge said in his ruling, however, that Humphries conveyed the grant to William English, whose heirs conveyed it to William McFaddin in 1883.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals held in favor of the oil companies in a trilogy of Humphries' claims litigated in the 1950s and 1960s. The appellate court last ruled on a Humphries suit in 1968, and found the "Humphries heirs have no title in the league of land," Cobb said.

The judge will hold hearings later to determine if he will order the plaintiffs to pay legal fees for the defendants because of claims by the defendants that the suit was brought on issues which have been tried before.

Community Spirit Award Lets Citizens Stand Up and Cheer

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for telling your 90 million readers last September about the Midland Community Spirit Award, created to honor annually a community that best represents the American ideal of a community pulling together and helping one another. Also, thank you for joining us at the White House last November to honor the citizens of Sioux City, Iowa, who won the award for their compassionate assistance to the passengers and crew of United Flight 232 after it crashed into an Iowa cornfield.

Among the 88 communities nominated last year were many inspiring stories of community spirit. As one of the judges said, "It was difficult to select a winner, since through their efforts, all were winners." For example:

— When a building collapsed in Brownsville, Texas, citizens worked shoulder to shoulder for more than 60 hours, relentlessly clearing rubble to find those who died and rescuing trapped survivors.

— When a train derailed near Saco and Glasgow, Montana, the citizens of these two small towns graciously fed, clothed and cared for the waylaid passengers.

— When a blizzard halted traffic late one afternoon, members of the Valley View Methodist Church in north Texas walked from car to car inviting hundreds of stranded motorists to spend the night in their church. And townspeople brought whatever they had in their freezers to feed all of them.

— When Colonial Beach, Va. (population 2,500) needed to replace the old school built in 1912, the community raised half a million dollars to build a new school through bingo, bake sales and penny campaigns.

We are now seeking nominations for the Midland Community Spirit Award to be presented in October 1990. We have asked President Bush to make the presentation again at a White House ceremony.

Abby, won't you please ask proud citizens to nominate their communities now? Thank you for your help.

CARROL M. THOMAS,
MAYOR, MIDLAND, TEXAS

DEAR MAYOR THOMAS:
Here's your letter.

READERS: The deadline for nominations is Sept. 1, 1990. For a nomination form, write to: Midland Community Spirit Award, P.O. Box 1152, Midland, Texas 79702-1152, or phone (915) 685-7436. I am sure there are many communities whose citizens rose to the occasion this past year when tragedy struck.

Want your phone to ring? Get Abby's booklet, "How to Be Popular" — for people of all ages. To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Popularity Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. ## Hunt antiquities are sold during auction

NEW YORK (AP) — A 2500-year-old Greek vase and two ancient silver coins brought record prices as antiquities owned by the one-time billionaire Hunt brothers were sold off.

The 18-inch-tall vase, circa 510 B.C., sold for $1.76 million Tuesday during the auction at Sotheby's. The previous record auction price for an ancient vase was $493,000.

The gleaming black vase bears red figures depicting the death of Kyknos in battle with Herakles (Hercules). It was reconstructed from a vase fragment signed by Euphronius, one of the most important Greek artists of the period, said Sotheby's David Redden, an expert in the field.

Nelson Bunker Hunt and brother William Herbert Hunt, heirs to an oil fortune, lost more than $1.5 billion speculating in the silver market a decade ago.

Bankruptcy reorganization required the Dallas businessmen to sell off their antique collections and other possessions.

R. Carter Pate, the trustee in charge of liquidating Nelson Bunker Hunt's estate, expected all the sales, which will be held through 1991, to raise between $20 and $25 million.

But Tuesday's sale of 164 vases, coins and bronze figures generated $20 million alone, Sotheby's said.

Most of the money will go to the Internal Revenue Service, the Hunts' largest creditor.

The record-setting Greek coins were the Decadrachm of Agrigentum, circa 465 B.C., which sold for $572,000, and an Athenian decadrachm, circa 465 B.C., which sold for $528,000. The Athenian coin, with the goddess Athena on one side and an owl on the other, had set the previous record for a coin sold at auction in 1974 when it went for $272,000.

The Agrigentum coin is one of eight known specimens of its kind, Sotheby's said. It shows an eagle and four horses being driven by sun god Helios on one side and two eagles perched over a dead hare on the other.

A coin struck by Brutus to commemorate the assassination of Julius Caesar in 44 B.C. sold for $99,000. One side of the coin notes the day of the murder, the Ides of March, with the words EID MAR; and the method — a picture of two daggers.

The other side of the coin bears a picture of Brutus. Ironically, Brutus had opposed a coin bearing Caesar's picture because no Roman coin had ever before depicted a living Roman.

All prices include Sotheby's 10 percent commission.

Dealers from Europe, Japan and the United States were among those bidding Tuesday. Many items sold for two and three times their presale estimates.

On July 21, 600 items owned by Bunker Hunt — including bronze sculptures of bulls, Indians and horses and porcelain birds and waterfowl — will be auctioned at the Circle T Ranch in northeast Tarrant County, Texas.

Judge rules against bank regulators

DALLAS (AP) — A federal bankruptcy judge has ruled against bank regulators who claim First Republic Bank Corp. owes them $1 billion.

The action came in a preliminary opinion made Tuesday by U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Steven A. Felsenthal.

It was considered a victory for First Republic creditors, who filed for bankruptcy protection soon after the government seized the firm's banking subsidiaries in mid-1988.

If upheld in First Republic's bankruptcy and related lawsuits, Judge Felsenthal's ruling could lead to a windfall for First Republic's private creditors, primarily bondholders. The company's bondholders are suing the government, specifically the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., in a related case that could pivot on the same issue.

"This is real positive for the bondholders," said Robert Rosenberg, an attorney for one group of First Republic's noteholders. "While only preliminary, the judge's decision reflects his view of the strength of the government's claim."

The government had wanted to use its $1 billion claim in voting on a reorganization plan for First Republic. The judge ruled that the government had no right to vote the $1 billion, making it likely that First Republic's private creditors will determine the company's course.

Civilians slay robbers

HOUSTON (AP) — The cases of two civilians who killed three burglars and a robber within 15 minutes in unrelated incidents will be referred to a grand jury without charges.

Detectives said preliminary investigations indicate the shootings were justifiable.

The owner of a valve repair shop shot three burglars after they tried to stab him inside his southeast Houston shop at 1:45 a.m. Monday. A few miles away at 2 a.m., a man waiting for his wife to close a convenience store shot and killed one of two teenagers who robbed the store.

At the convenience store, the boys convinced a 53-year-old clerk to unlock the door so they could buy cigarettes. The clerk's husband was sitting in his van in the parking lot when the teens entered.

The robbers told the woman to open the cash register, but she refused. A 14-year-old boy slammed the register to the floor, police said.

The husband got out of the van and aimed his .22-caliber rifle at the teens as they walked out. He told the armed teenager to drop his pistol, but the teen refused, telling the husband to leave or be killed.

SWC ADs concerned

Athletic directors react to Arkansas' choice

by The Associated Press
At least one Southwest Conference athletic director wants Texas and Texas A&M to say whether they intend to remain in the league if Arkansas departs. Arkansas said Tuesday it is talking to Southeastern Conference officials about leaving the SWC and joining the SEC. Some published reports have suggested the SEC might also be interested in luring Texas and Texas A&M into its fold. That has upset Texas Christian athletic director Frank Windegger.

"We're letting the Southeast Conference feed their egos on the Southwest," he said. "I hope Oklahoma will be at the door, knocking to come in, if Arkansas leaves." Windegger said he also hopes Texas and Texas A&M will soon state their intention about their futures in the SWC. "I would like for them to say something positive," Windegger said. "I think it would be prudent in their behalf and on behalf of the league to do so." Other SWC athletic directors say Arkansas will only be hurting itself with a move to the SEC. "They would be giving up a lot, historically," said Texas Tech athletic director T. Jones. "But I guess they're the ones that have got to make that decision." Windegger said the Razorbacks may not be thinking about the high cost of competing in another league. "Arkansas just has to travel in the state of Texas now," he said. "But they would have to send teams like women's basketball and baseball to Florida and other places. Their travel costs would escalate dramatically." "If they choose to remove themselves from our league, I don't know anyone who would be real crazy to play them." Baylor athletic director Bill Menefee said he regrets the talks are under way. "It certainly would be a break with tradition if they should leave us," Menefee said. Arkansas is a charter member of the 76-year-old SWC. Texas football coach David McWilliams said Arkansas might find other changes as well in the SEC. The Razorbacks, for instance, get a majority of top recruits from their own state and recruit freely in Missouri and Texas. "So, it's not a give-and-take, it's almost a take for them," McWilliams said. "They take from other states, from Texas and all, and yet they don't really have to give many up. I don't know if that would change if they go into the Southeastern Conference where now you're getting some schools that are a little closer." McWilliams added that Arkansas' recruiting might be adversely affected if the Razorbacks join the SEC and if they fail to win as frequently as they have in the SWC. Rice athletic director Bobby May said he faults Arkansas for listening. "They need to look at their options, and I think the Southwest Conference needs to look at its options," he said. "Hopefully everybody will end up where they want to be." Houston athletic director Rudy Davalos said he was puzzled that the Razorbacks chose to call a press conference to announce the talks. "It's a little anticlimactic," he said. "It's not an earth-shattering deal."

Tech mulls options

DALLAS (AP) — A Texas Tech official said the Red Raiders are considering their options — including jumping from the Southwest Conference to the Big Eight or Western Athletic Conference — now that Arkansas is considering a move to the Southeastern Conference. Options would include joining the Big Eight or Western Athletic conferences.

Another option, said Robert Sweazy, Tech's faculty representative to the SWC, "would be remaining with the remaining members and adding a couple of institutions and either calling it the Southwest Conference or creating a new conference." Sweazy said Texas Tech has not taken any action toward any option other than remaining in the SWC. Arkansas formally announced Tuesday that it will listen to an offer to join the SEC, and both scored both times. Ogris' goal came when he took a pass from Rodax at midfield and streaked down the left side, blowing past Banks and Michael Windischmann. Ogris then cut toward the net and lifted a 15-yard, right-footed shot over the left arm of goalkeeper Tony Meola, who had come out to cut down the angle. Rodax beat Meola 1-on-1 after Streiter found an opening on the right side, sprinted toward the corner and crossed past three defenders.

World Cup Soccer...

U.S. drops match to Austria

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — The look on Eric Wynalda's face was a cross between disappointment and disgust.

John Doyle said. Bruce Murray scored seven minutes from the end — his ninth international goal, tying him with Ricky Davis for the most by an American — but the United States never came close after that.

"Eventually, we'll be able to knock off a top team and surprise some people," he said. "That might be 1994 or 1998. But I thought we could do it now." The United States showed it's not capable of doing it now, losing to Austria 2-1 Tuesday night despite having a man advantage for the final 57 minutes. The Americans finished the World Cup on a dismal note, going 0-3 and getting outscored 8-2. Yet, the players were proud as they completed America's first World Cup appearance since 1950. "I'm not going to hang my head low," midfielder John Harkes said. "I'm going to keep it high." The results had been anticipated by everyone but the team. The U.S. offense was virtually nonexistent and defensive breakdowns led to goals in every game. "The United States needs to know we're not happy with it, and we don't expect them to be," Wynalda said. Yet what else could have been expected? The Americans were supposed to lose all three games, and they did. "You have to be satisfied," Paul Caligiuri said. "This has been a valuable opportunity. You can't go back; you have to go forward with it." Despite playing a man down, Austria pulled away after a scoreless first half. Andreas Ogris outran two defenders to score four minutes into the second half and, 14 minutes later, Gerhard Rodax made it 2-0 after Michael Streiter's pass beat three U.S. players in a defensive mixup. "It was very frustrating for us to have a man advantage and give up two goals," defender

"It's frustrating that we didn't make it to the second round," defender Jimmy Banks said. "We have the feeling we didn't play as well as we could have."

There was no consensus among the players. Despite the disappointment, there also was contentment. "If anything, we found out we're closer than we thought," midfielder Tab Ramos said. "We always knew we were far behind. If anything, we ended by a high note. We can be proud of some of the things we did. If you take away the first game, we had a very good showing."

In the opener, the Americans were blown away by Czechoslovakia 5-1. Then they went to Rome and lost to the Italians by only 1-0. The Austria game was a mix: a one-goal loss with a one-man advantage is hard to evaluate. "I'm not satisfied, I thought we could have done better," said forward Peter Vermes, who missed the net twice on good chances in the first half.

Since both teams came in with 0-2 records, much of the excitement and spectacle of the World Cup was missing. The announced attendance was 34,857, but there appeared to be many no-shows in Stadio Comunale. Many of the spectators were distracted by Italy's 2-0 victory over Czechoslovakia, going on at the same time in Rome. The United States, which hasn't advanced past the first round since 1930, played even with Austria in the first half. But the defense broke down twice in the second half and Austria scored both times. Ogris' goal came when he took a pass from Rodax at midfield and streaked down the left side, blowing past Banks and Michael Windischmann. Ogris then cut toward the net and lifted a 15-yard, right-footed shot over the left arm of goalkeeper Tony Meola, who had come out to cut down the angle. Rodax beat Meola 1-on-1 after Streiter found an opening on the right side, sprinted toward the corner and crossed past three defenders.

While co-favorites Ivan Lendl and Boris Becker got potentially easy opening opponents, McEnroe has to face former Stanford star Derrick Rostagno. Rostagno had two match points on Becker before losing in 4½ hours at the U.S. Open last year. The 24-year-old Californian celebrated his matchup with McEnroe by winning a three-hour tuesday on grass Tuesday at an exhibition tournament in Wirral, England, against Australian Wally Masur, 6-4, 3-6, 18-16. "I look forward to playing him," Rostagno said of McEnroe. "I've been playing well lately."

Despite a tough opening opponent, London bookmakers figure McEnroe's chances of capturing his fourth Wimbledon title are 50 times better than any British man but only five times better than an alien landing on Earth this century. McEnroe sat out the French Open after being thrown out of the Australian Open. Lendl and Becker are 5-4 co-favorites, Stefan Edberg is 6-1 and McEnroe is 22-1, according to Ladbrokes. The odds against a home win in the men's singles are 1,000-1, and in the women's singles 2,000-1. Ladbrokes offers 100-1 against an alien landing before the end of the century.

Wimbledon announces tourney draw

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Wimbledon officials gave John McEnroe a break in the seeding, but the luck of the draw did him no favors in the opening round. On Monday, McEnroe, a three-time Wimbledon champion, was seeded fourth, six places above his world ranking. But on Tuesday, the opening-round draw took away any advantage the high seeding might have given him. While co-favorites Ivan Lendl and Boris Becker got potentially easy opening opponents, McEnroe has to face former Stanford star Derrick Rostagno. ### FARM LEAGUE

Western Little League Tournament

Both Snyder entrants, the Giants and the White Sox, were eliminated from competition in the Western Little League Minor League Baseball Tournament in Abilene Tuesday.

The Giants were 14-2 losers to Key City No. 1 while the White Sox dropped a 15-2 tilt to Key City No. 2.

In other games played Tuesday in the tourney, Cisco defeated Dixie No. 1, 13-6, and Western No. 2 whipped Sweetwater National, 19-2.

Key City No. 1 scored five runs in the top of the first inning, added six in the second and three more in the third to halt Snyder's run in the tournament.

Brysn Galloway slapped two singles for the Abilene team. James Shields ripped a double while teammates Zack Briseno, Daniel Hernandez, Christopher Rodriguez and Eric Rodriguez each punched a single for the Giants.

The Giants, coached by Mario Hererra, ended the season as the Snyder Farm League champions with a record of 11-3.

Chad Stewart and Cory Mandrell smacked a single apiece for the White Sox and Jay Holley and Raymond Floyd scored the team's two runs in their loss.

JUNIOR TEENAGE LEAGUE

Bufs 13, Rebels 6

Winning pitcher Raymond House smacked a double and two singles to help the Bufs roll past the Rebels recently.

Brad Hart added three singles, Raymond Ware belted a triple and two base hits, Brian Lickey punched a double and Jason McAden and Greg McAden each lifted a single.

Matthew Cave and Steven Bollinger knocked a two-bagger apiece for the Rebels.

Padres halt Giant win streak

by The Associated Press

The San Francisco Giants finally went under, losing for the second time this month.

But the way they lost made it seem almost as if they'd extended their nine-game winning streak Tuesday night. They dropped a 4-3 decision to the San Diego Padres because former Giant reliever Craig Lefferts was too tough to handle.

He retired Will Clark with the bases loaded to end the seventh and Kevin Mitchell with two on to end the game. And, just for good measure, the former Giant left after the eighth inning and headed briefly for the wrong dugout.

Those things happen when the adrenaline is flowing.

"I probably have not been more up for a game than this," Lefferts said. "The Giants had won nine in a row and we'd won one of our last seven. So this was

Rangers edge Minnesota 5-4

Incaviglia's 7th inning homer proves to be game winner

ARLINGTON (AP) — With Pete Incaviglia, it's usually boom or bust.

In late May, the Texas Rangers slugger was struggling to keep his average over .210.

Now he's one of the toughest outs in the American League.

Incaviglia ripped a one-out solo homer in the seventh inning Tuesday night that pushed the Rangers past the Minnesota Twins, 5-4, making Incaviglia five-for-11 over his last three games and 10-for-21 with five RBIs in his last six games.

"I'm just trying to drive the ball hard and get on base," Incaviglia said. "If I do that, the homers will come."

Incaviglia nailed a 3-2 pitch off reliever John Candelaria, 7-3, 411 feet over the wall in center field. Candelaria yielded his eighth homer of the season, all against righthanders.

Incaviglia hit a fastball down and in for the home run and his team-best seventh game-winning hit the season.

"The ball was down where I can drive it," Incaviglia said. "He (Candelaria) came right at me twice and he fouled them off. Then he got the ball down and I got the head out on it."

Incaviglia is hitting .346 over his last 21 games to raise his average from .216 to .258. What's more, Incaviglia, always among baseball's strikeout leaders, hasn't struck out in 21 consecutive at-bats.

"He had homer on his mind tonight," Rangers manager Bobby Valentine said. "He went into that at-bat thinking there was a home run in there."

Scott Coolbaugh's two-out RBI single produced the tying run in a three-run sixth as the Rangers went on to take a 4-2 lead.

AL roundup...

Top relievers have off night

by The Associated Press

Two of baseball's best relief pitchers decided to have an off-night at the same time.

First, Cleveland's Doug Jones blew a save for only the fourth time in 25 opportunities when Baltimore scored the tying run in the top of the eighth inning.

Instead of a save, however, Jones (2-2) came away with a win when Gregg Olson, Baltimore's near-perfect bullpen ace, gave up the winning run in the bottom of the inning and the Indians edged the Orioles 5-4 Tuesday night.

Light-hitting Felix Fermin, who started the game batting .217 with only seven extra-base hits in 138 at-bats, doubled with one out in the Cleveland eighth and scored on Sandy Alomar's two-out single.

Fermin's double was only the third extra-base hit yielded by Olson (3-1) this season and the first by a right-handed batter since last Aug. 12.

In other American League games, it was Boston 4, Toronto 2; Detroit 7, Oakland 6; California 5, Chicago 3; Texas 5, Minnesota 5; Kansas City 2, Seattle 1; and New York 5, Milwaukee 1.

Red Sox 4, Blue Jays 2

Rookie Dana Kiecker limited Toronto to three hits and two unearned runs in 8 1-3 innings and Ellis Burks tripled home the go-ahead run in the ninth.

After Toronto's John Cerutti held Boston to two runs and eight hits in eight innings, Duane Ward (1-3) took over in the ninth. He started out by walking Dwight Evans, and Burks followed with his tie-breaking triple. Burks scored on a grounder by Tony Pena.

Tigers 7, Athletics 6

Alan Trammell drove in four runs, three on a first-inning homer, and Cecil Fielder singled home the tying and winning runs in the fourth inning.

Paul Gibson (2-1) was the winner with 3 2-3 innings in relief of Frank Tanana, who gave up six runs and eight hits in 3 2-3 innings. Dave Stewart suffered his second straight loss.

Yankees 5, Brewers 1

The usually punchless Yankees took a four-run lead for only the third time in 23 games and Chuck Cary pitched out of two big jams in six scoreless innings.

Reds to hold tryout camp

The Cincinnati Reds will hold an open tryout camp on Monday June 25 at Cooper High School in Abilene beginning at 9 a.m.

Players must be between the ages of 15 and 23 years and must supply their own personal equipment.

Members of American Legion teams must have written permission from the coach or the commander of the Legion post.

The camp will be under the direction of Ray Corbett, scouting supervisor for the Cincinnati Reds in Texas and Louisiana.

Expenses to and from the camp will be paid by attending players with the understanding that if signed to a contract, they will be reimbursed by the club.

a really big game for us."

And it was a big game for the Padres bullpen, which is leaning on the left-hander with 10 saves as the replacement for departed National League Cy Young Award winner Mark Davis. Leferts moved from the Giants to the Padres as Davis jumped to Kansas City via free agency.

Elsewhere, it was Los Angeles 5, Houston 1; New York 6, St. Louis 0; Philadelphia 2, Pittsburgh 1 in 10 innings; and Chicago 2, Montreal 1. Cincinnati and Atlanta split a doubleheader; the Reds winning the opener 4-2 and the Braves taking the nightcap 3-0.

Roberto Alomar got three hits and an RBI for San Diego.

San Francisco did not play like a winner of 16 of its previous 17 games, committing an error, a wild pitch and a balk in San Diego's three-run first inning. Alomar and Joe Carter drove in runs with singles and Mike Pagliarulo added a sacrifice fly.

Bruce Hurst (4-6) allowed five hits in five innings.

Dodgers 5, Astros 1
 Fernando Valenzuela ended a personal four-game winless streak as Los Angeles handed shaky Houston a club-record-tying 11th straight road loss with its fourth straight victory.

Valenzuela (5-5) allowed four hits in seven innings, struck out six and walked four while beating Mike Scott (4-7) as the Astros lost their fifth straight. Eddie Murray hit his ninth homer in the fifth for Los Angeles, which had lost five straight before its current winning streak.

Mets 6, Cardinals 0
 David Cone pitched a four-hitter and New York kept up its power show, beating John Tudor (5-3).

The Mets, who have won nine of 11 games, got home runs from Kevin McReynolds, Orlando Mercado and Howard Johnson. New York has homered in 22 of its last 25 games to increase its league-leading total to 81.

Cone (3-4) didn't allow a hit until Milt Thompson's opposite-field double to left field with two out in the fifth inning.

Phillies 2, Pirates 1

Dickie Thon's single with two out in the 10th inning scored John Kruk from second base.

Kruk, who drove in the first Philadelphia run, singled to center and advanced on a single by pinch-hitter Randy Ready. Thon followed with his game-winning single, a liner down the left field line against Bill Landrum (2-1), making a winner of reliever Don Carman (4-0).

Cubs 2, Expos 1

Chicago's Shawn Boskie won a duel of rookies with Mark Gardner and Montreal's Spike Owen set a National League record for consecutive errorless games in a season by a shortstop.

ON THE HILL — White Sox pitcher Jay Holley delivers in Saturday's 18-9 win over Lone Star No. 2. The Snyder team lost last night to Key City No. 2, 15-2, to drop them from contention in the Western Little League Minor League Baseball Tournament in Abilene. Holley came in relief of starter Jason Bates in last night's game. (SDN Staff Photo)

Explosions rock U.S. aircraft carrier Midway

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP) — Two explosions rocked the U.S. aircraft carrier Midway today during flight operations at sea, injuring 16 crew members and leaving one missing, the Navy said. At least seven were seriously hurt.

A fire that broke out at the time of the first explosion continued to burn more than eight hours later, but the 980-foot-long ship was steaming under its own power about 125 miles northeast of Tokyo, the Navy said.

The Navy's Public Affairs Office said the ship would not return tonight to its port at Yokosuka, near Tokyo, and a decision would be made Thursday on whether it needs to come in.

Yokosuka city demanded that the Midway be barred from the port until its safety had been confirmed and the causes of the fire clarified, city spokesman Ryutaro Koizumi said. The demand was relayed to the Foreign Ministry.

The fire broke out in a storeroom four decks below the carrier's flight deck, and was confined to the storeroom for firefighting and emergency repair equipment, said Petty Officer 2nd Class Frank Mowry of the Public Affairs Office at the Navy base at Yokosuka. The Navy said firefighters were preparing to enter the storeroom.

There was no explosive material near the fire area, Lt. Jeff Gradeck said. The explosions were unrelated to routine flight operations under way at the time, Gradeck said. The cause was being investigated.

Among the injured, Mowry said, five were flown to Yokosuka. One was in critical condition, two in very serious condition, one in guarded condition and one in stable condition.

Four others, who were seriously burned, were taken by helicopter to the U.S. air base at Yokota, west of Japan, and then to two separate Japanese hospitals, Mowry said.

The Navy said the ship had 4,500 people aboard including fliers and aviation crews. The 67,000-ton carrier was launched in 1945 and was later extensively modernized.

The Navy statement said the first explosion occurred at 12:23 p.m., about half an hour after smoke had been reported. Firefighters were called, and a second explosion occurred about an hour later, it added. The public Japan Broadcasting Corp. photographed the ship from a helicopter and reported that no damage was visible.

Kyodo News Service said the Japan Council Against Atomic and Hydrogen Bombs, a private anti-nuclear organization, had demanded that the Japanese government refuse to let the Midway enter Yokosuka.

Japanese news reports said there had been concern in Japan because the Midway was capable of carrying nuclear weapons.

Japan, the only nation ever attacked with atomic bombs, bans all nuclear weapons from its territory. Critics contend that U.S. ships have brought nuclear weapons into Japanese ports, but the government says the United States would have to ask Japan's permission and never has done so.

As a matter of policy, the United States refuses to comment on the location of its nuclear weapons.

Taxable values show gain for four of six county entities

Peveler said this was in response to a re-evaluation of existing values rather than an actual loss in value.

Regarding totals, the district which comprises Western Texas College will again have the highest overall value—the only one which exceeds the $1 billion mark.

Scurry County, at the height of its oil-rich values during the early part of the 1980s, had a tax base estimated in excess of $2.3 billion.

Entities with value increases, with last year's listed in parenthesis, include:

- WTC College District: $1,037,288,270 ($896,850,896).
- Scurry County, $993,664,759 ($854,418,032).
- Snyder ISD, $852,917,101

($720,700,698).
—Ira ISD, $122,426,807 ($98,637,433).

For the City of Snyder and Hermleigh ISD, two taxing entities without the benefit of considerable oil reserves, losses in values were again noted, although neither were substantial.

For the city, the overall value dropped from $238,153,957 to $238,053,159.

Hermleigh ISD saw its value decline from $34,566,069 to $34,641,312.

As part of the information being provided the taxing entities, the appraisal district figures each "effective tax rate" also.

This is the amount each could charge to generate the same amount of tax dollars as last year.

The figure is provided as a guideline for "truth in taxation" laws and is the base calculation used to determine when entities have increased their tax rates more than either 3 or 8 percent.

If the 3 percent guideline is exceeded, the entity must schedule a series of public hearings to pushing the price down $1.93 in the last week. The price hit a four-year high at $23.68 on Jan. 3, but has lost ground steadily, despite sporadic increases.

The posted price, what refiners will pay for oil on the spot market, has fallen from as high as $21 a barrel in early January to as low as $15.

"We have not been surprised that it's fallen," said David Lee Smith, energy analyst at Eppler, Guerin and Turner Inc. in Dallas. "We're surprised that it has fallen as late as it did. It hung in there like a rock through the first quarter."

"We would have thought that it would not have fallen as far as it did," he said. Because of the slippage, Smith has dropped his estimate for the 1990 average price from about $19 per barrel to $18 per barrel.

Kent Hance, chairman of the energy industry-regulating Texas Railroad Commission, predicted the price will slip to $15 a barrel by next month's scheduled meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, which has said it wants world oil prices around $18 a barrel.

"That's not all bad news for us," said Hance, who will attend justify the rate. If 8 percent is exceeded, the entity invites the possibility of a rollback election, a situation faced by Scurry County this past spring.

Because some overall values have increased, these entities' effective tax rates are lower than the July 25 meeting in Geneva. "OPEC does not do a good job in their meetings unless their backs are up against the wall."

"I still stay by my prediction of $24- to $25-a-barrel oil within the next 24 months," he said.

Analysts have blamed the recent decline on concerns about a short-term world oil glut caused by OPEC overproduction.

Last week, OPEC president Sadek Bousseena warned the cartel that oil prices would collapse unless the members adhered to a May agreement limiting production to between 22.1 million and 22.6 million barrels of oil a day. It is generally believed that some OPEC members are producing more than their quota, although Saudi Arabia, the largest producer, closely follows the guidelines.

Norway, which is not an OPEC member, announced over the weekend it would increase its production.

"That will add production to the worldwide supply, but we're seeing lower production from the United States, lower production from the Soviet Union, so I think that the slide in oil prices is a short-term event," said John Hilton, analyst for Argus Research in New York.

the rate actually charged tax payers last year.

As an example, Snyder ISD, which charged $1.04 per $100 value last year, now faces an effective tax rate of just over 87 cents.

This indicates that by charging 87 cents, the same amount of tax would be generated as $1.04 brought in last year.

Also seeing their effective tax rate drop from last year's actual rate are Scurry County, the college district and Ira ISD.

The county would have to go from 34.7 cents to 29.8; the college from 19.6 cents to 17; and Ira ISD from 99.5 cents to 80.

Since the City of Snyder and Hermleigh ISD both experienced tax value declines, each effective tax rate is higher than last year's actual rate.

In the case of the city, it would have to increase taxes to just over 36 cents per $100 valuation to generate the same amount of taxes as brought in last year by a rate of 35.9 cents.

Hermleigh ISD would have to bump its taxes to approximately $1.13 in order to have the same income as generated by last year's $1.10.

The actual tax rate decision for most Scurry County entities will be made in the weeks ahead. For the majority of taxpayers, however, the overall increase in values will most likely generate a lower tax bill come next October.

By calculating the effective tax rates, a Snyder-based property would see its overall tax bill drop by almost 25 cents per $100 valuation.

Last year, the combined tax rates for the county, college, city and school district saw property inside the city charged at the rate of $1.94 per $100 value. The four effective tax rates for these entities in 1990 total $1.70.

Using this as an example, a piece of property valued at $50,000 could expect to see its overall tax bill drop from $970 to $850—a 12 percent reduction.

One of 2 wrecks said 'major' here

Two wrecks, one classified as "major" and apparently causing injuries to one driver, were reported in Snyder Tuesday.

The more serious accident occurred at 3:40 p.m. in the 400 Block of East Highway. Police report the driver of a 1981 Oldsmobile, Julian Gutierrez of 1404 Ave. K, declined treatment for injuries suffered as a result of the accident.

The Oldsmobile was in collision with a 1975 Lincoln driven by Guadalupe Auguriano of 905 27th St.

The day's other wreck was reported at 1:49 p.m. at the Wal-Mart parking lot. Involved vehicles were a 1986 Ford pickup driven by Albert Kuss of Rt. 2, Hermleigh; and a 1989 Ford Astro van driven by Dale Neves of Evanston, Wyo.

Rural resident lists theft items

Scurry County sheriff's deputies received a report of a rural theft Tuesday involving household items.

The SO was contacted at 2:30 p.m. by Robin Phillips of Rt. 1, Hermleigh, who reported the theft of items from a residence located on FM 1606 east of Dunn.

Among the items listed as missing were a microwave stand, fish aquarium, lamp, telephone and an Atari game set.

One arrest occurs

Police reported a single arrest Tuesday, a white male arrested for an outstanding warrant involving expired license plates.

The 58-year-old suspect was taken to county jail and then released after payment of the fines.

Fire run here

Snyder fire units were dispatched to assist with a minor fire reported at China Grove Tuesday.

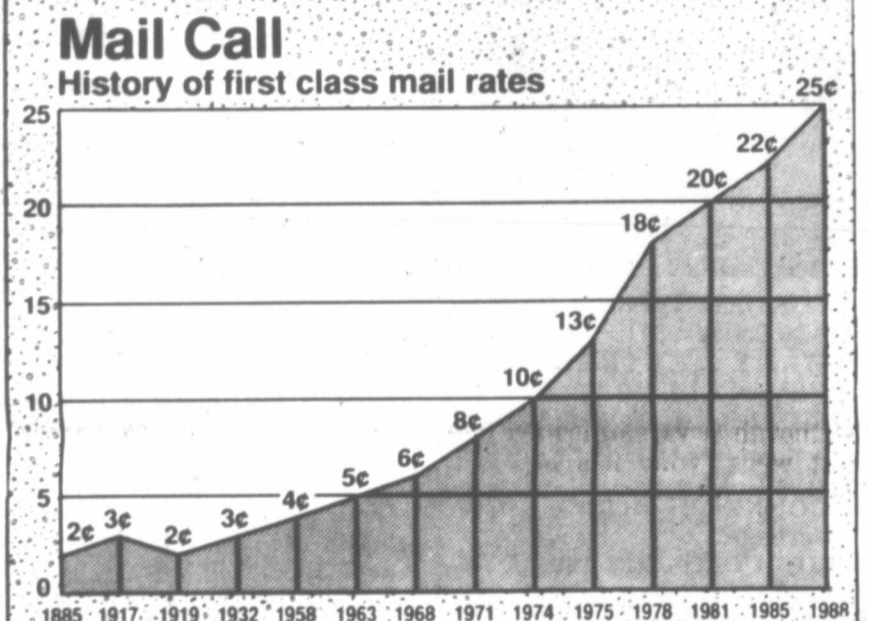

Firemen left the station at 7:01 p.m. and returned at 7:20 p.m.

Inventory ordered of stolen art treasures

DALLAS (AP) — A federal judge has ordered a secret inventory of medieval artwork believed stolen by a U.S. soldier from a German mineshaft during World War II and stashed in a small-town bank vault in Texas.

U.S. District Judge Sidney A. Fitzwater ordered Tuesday that the time and place of the inspection be kept secret to protect the inspectors and the rare objects, valued in the millions by German art experts.

Fitzwater dictated the circumstances of the inventory down to the placement of cameras and a requirement that all inspectors wear cotton gloves. He ordered the objects to be photographed in the room where they are kept or as nearby as possible.

The president of the First National Bank branch in Whitewright said he never knew the art had been stolen and has been trying to mediate the dispute over its ownership.

The Lutheran cathedral in Quedlinburg, East Germany, is suing to recover the artwork from First National and the family of Joe T. Meador, a former Army first lieutenant who is believed to have stolen the objects and stashed them in his hometown of Whitewright, about 60 miles north of Dallas.

The treasure disappeared in 1945 from a mineshaft in Quedlinburg, a castle town occupied by U.S. troops at the end of World War II.

Meador died of cancer in 1980, and his family put the objects in the bank for safekeeping, Farley said. He oversees the Whitewright branch but is based at Denison, approximately 70 miles north of Dallas.

Farley told The Associated Press the bank will ask to be dropped from the lawsuit because First National never claimed to own the relics. He declined to answer further questions about the case.

A church representative met with Farley recently to demand return of the treasures. The lawsuit alleges at least 14 objects were taken by Meador, including a silver, ivory and gold reliquary from the 9th or 10th century, a 10th century Byzantine rock-crystal flask with sides shaped like birds and an ivory comb inlaid with precious stones.

Also listed in the lawsuit as stolen are two manuscripts, one from about 1300 and the other from 1515, bound in precious metals and encrusted with gems.

Farley and his attorney, Timothy Powers, told The Denison Herald the bank had been negotiating with the church and the Meador family.

Wildcatter comes in with another gusher

by The Associated Press

Oil gushers continue to erupt in South Texas's Pearsall Field, where horizontal drilling has turned a played-out area into an oilman's playground.

The newest discovery was announced Tuesday by Winn Exploration Co. Inc., which said its latest well tested at a potential of 19,568 barrels of oil a day. The average Texas well produces just 10 barrels a day.

Recent wells are considered good producers at 100 to 200 barrels a day, said Kent Hance, chairman of the Railroad Commission, which regulates the state's petroleum industry.

The wells are in the Austin Chalk formation of South Texas Pearsall Field, whose fickle nature earned it the name "Heartbreak Field."

manager.

All the wells have been on the same 8,891-acre lease in Zavala County about 60 miles southwest of San Antonio.

Wildcat oilman Charlie Winn said his latest find has produced 35,078 barrels of oil. The state eventually will limit its output to about 1,400 barrels a day, Hance said. Other Winn wells are easily meeting their "allowables" of about 1,300 barrels, he said.

"With the allowable being less, that well should produce a long time," Hance said.

Texas has about 200,000 wells producing between 100 barrels and 200 barrels a day.

The Austin Chalk contains oil in vertical fractures, narrowing the chance a traditional vertical well would strike crude. With horizontal drilling, wells take a 90-degree turn a mile or more underground, allowing the wells to tap into more than one fracture and increasing the chance of success.

The well is the second in three weeks to come in at startling numbers, higher than any well recorded in the last 50 years of record-keeping at the Texas Railroad Commission. Meridian Oil Inc. said on May 29 it had a well with a potential of 12,254 barrels a day.

Although far short of the 100,000-barrel Spindletop gusher which kick started the Texas oil industry in 1901 and the 200,000-barrel Yates Field finds in West Texas in 1926, the wells are far

Although Oryx had drilled the most wells, Winn has had the spectacular results.

In November, Winn drilled a well with a 5,472-barrel potential. In December, the company added one at 3,600 barrels. Last week, another started producing with a potential of 5,388 barrels.

"That's not too shabby," said Michael Calley, Winn Exploration vice president and general

West Texas town planning 2nd annual Orbison tribute

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — The time is August 1989. The place: Wink, Texas, hometown of rock 'n' roll great Roy Orbison. The event: a concert at Wink High football stadium.

Garbed entirely in black, right down to an ebony guitar, dark glasses and jet black pageboy coiffure, the performer stands on a makeshift stage of two flat-bed oilfield trailers and pours his soul into "The Lonely One." The 3,000 fans packed into the football stadium scream, whistle and stomp their pleasure.

Suddenly, the performer's ear catches an echo from behind. He turns, smiles widely and winks to a lanky 24-year-old, male backup singer.

The smiling backup singer leans into the mike and adds his own nod of approval.

The audience catches on and the roar of applause intensifies.

The backup singer is Wesley Orbison, eldest son of Roy Orbison, and he is making his first public appearance only a few hundred feet from the high school auditorium where his famous father made his public debut.

Roy Orbison's stellar career was launched in 1953, when the 17-year-old took the stage as leader of the Wink Westerners, a country music band.

But the man in black is not Roy Orbison.

Rather, he is Kenny Morrill, an Orbison look-alike and sound-alike who has been wowing sellout concerts in Las Vegas since Orbison's untimely death in 1988.

"When I saw that exchange between Morrill and Wesley, I literally had to choke back the tears," said Dennis Grubb, a friend of the late Roy Orbison and promoter of the annual Roy Orbison Memorial Music Festival.

"It was almost like a father and son bond. They seemed to be tuned together into something spiritual."

Afterwards Grubb would tell the nervous young performer: "I felt like your father was present on that stage tonight." Wesley, one of three sons Roy Orbison had by his first wife Claudette, answered: "So did I."

The other two Orbison brothers were killed in a tragic Nashville fire.

Electrifying happenings such as Wesley Orbison's stage debut have earned the Wink music extravaganza a reputation, in only one time out, as one of the prime musical events of West Texas, said Grubb, who also promotes concerts by major recording artists in Midland and Odessa.

"It wasn't exactly intended to be an annual affair but the chemistry and spirit that was created at last year's concert almost dictated that it continue." Attendance is expected to double this year, he said.

Started by Wink residents as a means to raise funds for a Roy Orbison Museum and a life-size bronze statue of the singer, there is now great expectation that the tribute will one day be an event of major proportions.

"We are hoping that the Roy Orbison Music Festival will one day be to Wink, what Bob Wills Day is to Turkey, Texas," said Wink Mayor Maxie Watts, who is also principal of Wink High School.

Nostalgia, in the form of appearances by the Texas Playboys, played a hand in building the Turkey event. It also is playing a role in building the reputation of the Orbison affair in Wink.

Last year members of the Wink Westerners and the Teen Kings, Orbison's first recording band, were present. They will be back this year with Morrill, Wesley Orbison and other musical acts from across the state.

The concert is set for July 21 at Wink High football stadium, with the music getting underway from 5 p.m. to midnight.

"We had a hard time getting acts to appear for nothing the first year, but this year we have had terrific acts calling us, wanting to perform for free. That's how the festival's reputation has grown," Grubb said.

Rock 'n' roll great Carl Perkins, an Orbison contemporary, wanted to appear at the festival, but had to decline because of a scheduling conflict.

One of the hottest acts on this year's lineup is the Austin-based Rotel and the Hot Tomatoes, which performs '50s and '60s rock 'n' roll.

Stephen Pride, younger brother of Charley Pride, will also be appearing with a number of performers from the Making Texas Music Festival including: Tim Thompson, 1990 winner of the festival, The Medder Sisters, John Secord, and Stuart James Project.

Billy Dee and the Debonairs, a well-known '50s rock 'n' roll band, will head up the bands along with the Showdown Band and the Bad Breaks Band.

As for young Wesley Orbison, many agree that he may have what it takes to follow in his father's footsteps.

"There's no doubt that he has his father's voice," said Morrill, who has made a career of sounding like Roy Orbison. "With a little more training and confidence, he just might be able to follow after his dad."

Those who grew up with Roy Orbison agree that the vocal similarity between father and son is uncanny.

"When I talked to Wesley on the phone," said Ronnie Slaughter, a local rancher who once sang with Roy Orbison in a high school quartet, "I nearly flipped. He sounded just like Roy."

Things To Check Before Choosing A Roofer:

- Are they asking for money up front? Giving money before the work is completed is the easiest way to get ripped off.
- Do they have copies of Workman's Compensation & Liability Insurance? Without these the homeowner becomes responsible for any damage to property or injury to workers.
- Always check with your Better Business Bureau for a reliability and performance record.
- Do they offer current references?
- Do they offer free valuations to protect the homeowner from subcontractors' liams? Without a firm under the homeowner can still be held responsible for paying for the materials.
- Are they really cheap compared to other reader's proposals? Remember, the lowest price is not always the best deal. You generally get what you pay for. Discounts are generally problems in disguise?

Dr. Gott
Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I recently suffered a massive heart attack and went into cardiac arrest. The doctors used electric shockers and restored the heartbeat. I now have a 2-inch burn on my left side. Is this a normal occurrence?

DEAR READER: A heart attack may lead to cardiac arrest: sudden heart stoppage or the development of a rapid, ineffectual pulse. If not promptly corrected, this complication is fatal.

Therefore, a heart attack with cardiac arrest is often treated with defibrillation (electric countershock); hand-held electrode paddles are placed on the patient's chest, and a brief but powerful electric shock is delivered. This short-circuits the heart's natural electrical charges, after which the normal heartbeat is restored.

Countershock sounds like a desperate maneuver — and it is. But the technique is often lifesaving, as it was in your case.

Occasionally, if the doctor fails to apply the electrode paddles firmly enough to the chest during countershock, the electric current causes an arc or spark that may burn the skin. This causes no particular health problems — except, as you discovered, an uncomfortable burn. The skin will heal without scar tissue.

You are fortunate to have had your cardiac arrest where medical help was readily available; in other circumstances, the outcome might not have been as favorable.

DEAR DR. GOTT: At least once a year, I get a large ringworm on my right hip, always in the same place. I use an anti-fungal cream to clear it up, only to have it return some months later. Why does this happen?

DEAR READER: Ringworm is a fungal infection that affects the skin. It typically appears as an enlarging, round, itchy patch with a raised, reddish border and a scaly, cracked center. It usually responds to the application of anti-fungal creams or lotions.

However, in some cases, the fungus may persist in the skin, despite the use of medication. The rash may become inactive, even fade away, only to return some months later. In this instance, repeated use of anti-fungal cream may be necessary for several weeks.

I suggest you see a dermatologist because your ringworm seems resistant to treatment. You may need a change in medicine — or tests, such as a fungal culture, to determine the type of microorganism causing your rash. Also, other skin diseases, such as psoriasis, sometimes mimic ringworm.

In the event your rash may not be caused by a fungus, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Eczema and Psoriasis." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Motorola earns temporary reprieve

AUSTIN (AP) — Motorola has earned a temporary reprieve allowing it to continue selling its popular computer chip. But analysts say ongoing legal battles could shake customers' confidence.

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit granted the company a temporary stay of a federal judge's ruling that would have forced it to pull the chip from the market, said Motorola spokesman Tim Kellogg. The court is a special appeals court for patents in Washington.

U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton had banned the production and sale of Motorola's MC68030 microprocessor, and Hitachi Ltd.'s H8-532 microprocessor.

A microprocessor is a computer chip that handles the processing functions in a computer.

The two companies, once partners, are embroiled in a legal battle over trade secrets.

Some analysts said Bunton's decision would pose problems for Motorola.

"It's certainly going to shake the confidence of companies that have been designing with Motorola's microprocessor all along," said Alice Leeper, associate director for Dataquest, a market research company based in San Jose, Calif.

"People who were considering doing a design based around the 030 would certainly be thinking twice, and possibly looking at an alternative product," said Ms. Leeper.

Motorola's 68030 has had 17 percent of the market of the 32-bit microprocessors, based on unit shipments, one analyst said.

Analyst Jack Quinn said the order would pressure the companies to reach a settlement in the case.

"The main motivation that Motorola has for settling is not the immediate economic impact, but the confidence that customers in general have in their semiconductor suppliers," said Quinn, a senior analyst with In-Stat, a market research company in Scottsdale, Ariz.

There is no substitute for the 68030 microprocessor, Quinn said.

The injunction also could cause companies to reconsider designing products around chips that only can be supplied by one company, he said.

House oks super collider funding

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas supporters of the superconducting super collider say the House's approval of $318 million in funding is a sign that the SSC is winning over its detractors.

The SSC funding for 1991 was included in a $20.8 billion measure for federal energy and water projects. The first appropriation vote in the House this year was approved Tuesday on a 355-59 vote. Three amendments calling for across-the-board cuts were overwhelmingly defeated.

The vote ends the super collider's breezy trip through the House.

"Today's strong stamp of approval says that in the year since the SSC gained the initial approval of Congress, the SSC Laboratory has proven itself worthy of the commitment America made to it," said Rep. Joe Barton, R-Ennis, whose district includes Ellis County, the collider's home.

"I do not think the SSC opponents have completely given up, but they are starting to realize that they are outnumbered," he said.

Rep. Howard Wolpe, D-Mich., deplored the supercollider as the "emergence of a scientific industrial complex to replace the military industrial complex," but offered no amendment to scale back spending on it.

Officials estimate that by its expected completion in 1998, the giant atom smasher will cost $8 billion, nearly double the $4.4 billion predicted three years ago and $2.1 billion above last year's forecast.

DOE is expected to revise the collider's cost estimate later this summer.

Some scientists say the super collider, the largest science instrument ever built, will divert federal money from other important science projects.

The bill now moves to the Senate. But Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, said little action will occur there until participants in the budget summit reach an agreement on a figure for all of next year's government spending.

The House made its appropriation based on a total budget figure that is $17 billion over last year's level. Preliminary Senate figures have assumed the budget would remain the same.

"Our view is it will be easier to go up than go down" if the final budget total is different, Gramm said.

Both Gramm and Bentsen are participants in the summit.

Alton job shakeup expected to continue

ALTON, Texas (AP) — Several city employees in this South Texas town who were suspended have been reinstated by a district judge, but the employment of many of them is expected to be short-lived.

Many of the problems swirling around Alton's government have been blamed on the after effects of the state's worst school bus accident, in which 21 school children were killed.

Mayor Salvador Vela has posted a notice announcing a meeting today in which the employment status of many city employees would be discussed, the Valley Morning Star reported.

That announcement comes only days after state District Judge

Donald W. Allee ruled that several special meetings of Alton's Board of Aldermen were illegal under the Texas Open Meetings Act.

On Friday, Allee invalidated all action taken at those meetings. Since it was at those meetings that city employees were dismissed, they were given their jobs back.

Employees whose employment status will be discussed today include the city administrator, city secretary, finance director, municipal court clerk, director of crime prevention, custodian, senior citizens center aide and street and two maintenance employees.
