Tests to begin today for officer applicants

Applicants for the seventh and eighth correctional officer training classes at Western Texas College were to undergo the first series of tests today as the process to get early July classes "on line" begins.

An evening class is scheduled to begin July 7 and a daytime class will start July 9 at the college. Both are 120-hour courses.

Some 33 people were being tested for the evening class while 49 registered today to test for the daytime class.

Applicants were to be checked as to height and weight this morning. Those who met qualifications were to take a written test. According to the continuing education department at the college, testing was expected to be completed in the early afternoon.

Those who pass the written test will be interviewed Wednesday and Thursday by Texas Department of Criminal Justice officials, who will return to Huntsville with the information. Those who pass all of the tests and the interview will be notified on July (see TESTS, page 8)

Event set Saturday for SNS fundraiser

Two Snyder banks have challenged each other in the name of charity and sport.

The charity is Snyder Neighbors Sharing and the sport will be softball. The game will be held Saturday at 8 p.m. at Winston Field.

At that time, the Snyder National "Bruisers" will go against the West Texas State "Crushers" in a five-man, five-woman, co-ed game.

Sponsors promise "at least six innings" of competitive baseball. For the contest, the WTSB team will be captained by Shawn Ragland and the SNB team by Scott Gassiot.

While admission will be free, the hat will be passed for donations to benefit Snyder Neighbors Sharing, which completed a record 27 home repairs with some 500 volunteers this past April 28. The widened scope of this year's work day is, in part, the reason for the Saturday softball game.

SNS officials note the local effort, which primarily benefits the elderly, is now some $850 short of "breaking even" for this year's projects.

"This was the first year we weren't able to take care of all our bills," said SNS President Tom Aishman. He noted several last minute building additions to already approved projects caused the shortfall.

This year's effort of 27 houses was also significantly larger than the two previous years, when seven and nine homes respectively were repaired.

Concessions will be available at the game Saturday. Proceeds from the concessions will also benefit SNS.

Donations are accepted throughout the year. These may be addressed in care of Snyder Neighbors Sharing, P.O. Box 1072, Snyder, Tx., 79549.

Inmate search in 6th day

The search for an escaped inmate from the Price Daniel unit entered its sixth day.

The search is centered in the Big Spring and Abilene areas, and officers are following up on leads and other tips.

Travis Dale Gray, 31, is believed to have left the Snyder unit of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice about 1:15 p.m. Wednesday in a state truck hauling furniture manufactured at the unit.

When the truck was located in Abilene at 10:45 p.m. Wednesday, a hole was found cut through the roof of the truck. Also found was a white prison-issued shirt.

Officers theorized Gray was met by someone in Abilene. Gray was serving a 40-year term for murder in connection with the strangulation-drowning death of his wife, Tammy, on June 23, 1988, at Lake Colorado City.

Gray still has family living in Big Spring, including his present wife.

Mandela to address joint meeting today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nelson Mandela is delivering a historic speech to a joint meeting of Congress today amid some lawmakers' uneasiness about his support for radical governments and his refusal to renounce armed struggle.

Mandela came away from three hours of talks with President Bush on Monday satisfied that U.S. economic sanctions against the white-ruled South African government will continue.

The deputy president of the African National Congress was making his case to lawmakers today in a series of speeches and closed-door discussions.

Mandela is the fourth black man and only the third private citizen to address Congress. The others were Polish Solidarity leader Lech Walesa in 1989 and the Marquis de Lafayette in 1824.

But some in Congress said they were unhappy with Mandela's public support for Cuban President Fidel Castro, Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi and Palestine Liberation Organization chairman Yasser Arafat.

"I wish he (Mandela) had not said those things, very frankly. They were not helpful," said Rep. Howard Wolpe, D-Mich., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on Africa and a leading advocate of the 1986 legislation that imposed tough economic sanctions on South Africa.

Mandela closes his three-day visit to the capital with a sold-out speech tonight to 19,000 people at (see MANDELA, page 8)

Snake in tub gets the 'heat'

A garden snake took refuge indoors from Monday's 105-degree heat, but a Snyder woman thought it should cool off elsewhere.

Sandra Garcia of 123 25th St. called the Snyder police department at 1:35 p.m. Monday to report that a snake was in her bathtub.

Officer Ron Gloyd assisted Mrs. Garcia in removing the trespasser, but the snake did avoid "the cooler."

Early ticket purchases being urged for third Prayer Breakfast here

Master of ceremonies for the event will be Larry McAden, minister of the Calvary Baptist Church. The invocation will be given by Raymond Dunkins of the New Hope Baptist Church.

Jason Cooper, Eagle Scout from Snyder Boy Scout Troop 27, will lead the pledge of allegiance. Entertainment will be provided by Emmanuel United Methodist Church Spanish gospel group.

Also on the program is a trio from the Trinity United Methodist Church, featuring Cheri Stewart, Rebecca Thornton and Stacey Hardegree.

A highlight of the program will be announcement of the Layperson of the Year awards to be presented by Delbert Downing. (see BREAKFAST, page 8)

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The trouble with people who drink like a fish is they don't drink what fish drink."

It's peak vacation season, and the ideal spot for a rest may be in the comfort of one's own backyard—with the telephone disconnected.

Dunn's Othal Ellis told us the perfect location for a vacation is where the fish bite, but the mosquitoes don't.

A vacation is designed to remove stress. But getting through a major airport and dealing with the vacation crowds will cause even the most patient person to become tense and long for the security of the idiotic work place.

The cost of getting away is another reason for stress. Our friend Martha Gist has made two observations. "That motel could lower its prices if they would just turn off that light that they leave on."

Concerning the price of airline tickets she says, "I don't understand why they make you pay. Those airplanes are going there anyway."

Recreation is designed to make you feel better, but there are those who find a round of golf actually has the opposite effect.

Leon Autry says keeping his own score is not cheating, it's therapeutic. "The doc told me to play golf for my health, and low scores make me feel a lot better."

But in 1990, the jet age puts the world at your doorstep. You can have breakfast in New York, lunch in Los Angeles, dinner in Hong Kong and suit cases in London.

Q—If fireworks aren't allowed in the city limits, as Monday's Ask Us stated, why is there a stand on 37th Street?

A—Much of the area bordering 37th St. on the south has not been incorporated into the city and is therefore out of the city limits. This would include the area where the stand is, and, for instance, Winston Park.

In Brief

Budget talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush said today that "tax revenue increases" must be included in any deficit-reduction package that the White House works out with congressional negotiators.

Bush's written remarks did not explain whether he was considering an actual tax increase or whether he was talking about higher revenues from the current system.

Delays likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush has decided to impose long delays in offshore oil leasing off California and Florida, with moratoriums of up to a decade in some areas, an administration official said today.

The White House was expected to announce Bush's long-awaited decision today.

Plane down

DALLAS (AP) — A single-engine plane crashed about 100 yards from a retirement home in South Dallas today, killing the pilot and another person on board.

The plane, a single engine Bellanca craft, went down at about 9 a.m. across the street from the 350-bed Grace Presbyterian Village nursing home. No one was reported injured on the ground.

Witnesses said they heard a sputtering sound or heard a boom and saw the plane go down.

"We immediately went to the plane to see if there was anything we could do," witness Dwight Bell told WFAA-TV.

Texas Death Row inmate executed

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Convicted killer James Smith fulfilled his own wish early today when Texas prison officials put him to death for the 1983 robbery-slaying of a Houston insurance office manager.

Smith, who insisted for years he wanted to be executed, was pronounced dead at 12:31 a.m., 11 minutes after the lethal drugs began flowing into his arms.

In a final statement that took several minutes and after exchanging greetings with reporters he knew, Smith denied being a killer, but said he would refuse to plead for mercy.

"I've already spoken the truth, but because the truth was spoken by the one accused, the truth is not respected," he said.

"I am not the one who is the killer. I myself did not kill anyone. I go to my death without begging for my life," said Smith whose victim, said witnesses, pleaded for his life. "I will not humiliate myself. I will let no man break me."

He also said that when people "wake up to the reality of executions, the price to be paid will be a dear one."

Then he winked, smiled to reporters and added a "Hare Krishna" as the lethal drugs began being administered. He coughed or gasped four times and stopped breathing while thunder boomed and lightning crackled as Huntsville was hit with a thunderstorm. Outside the prison, about a half dozen death penalty opponents carrying an Amnesty International banner stood in the driving rainstorm.

The 37-year-old Smith, a former tarot-card dealer in New Orleans, had come within six hours of dying in 1988 before death penalty opponents convinced his mother, Alexine Hamilton of Indianapolis, to seek legal help to save her son. The U.S. Supreme Court stayed that execution, but since then has ruled inmates have the right to refuse appeals and may volunteer to be put to death.

On Monday just moments before he was placed on the death chamber gurney, the high court voted 5-4 against Smith on each of two appeals that were filed on his behalf and against his wishes.

In his final interview with reporters last week, Smith repeated his desire to die and complained about his mother and other "do-gooders" robbing him of time in the next world.

"After all this unnecessary suffering and abuse here on death row, I'm not going to change my mind," Smith said. "These people know my position well. My position has not changed. I have no intention of changing my position at any time. I don't want them to interfere."

Jefferson County might get prison

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — The U.S. Bureau of Prisons is looking at three proposed sites in Jefferson County for a new $150 million federal prison that would create 1,500 construction jobs, about 550 new permanent jobs and an annual operating budget of about $25 million.

A team from the U.S. Bureau of Prisons arrived in the county Monday to tour the area and study three proposed sites.

"We're not in competition with anybody," County Judge Richard LeBlanc said. "If we pass the test, we'll get the prison. If we don't pass the test, we won't get the prison."

"The U.S. Bureau of Prisons advises me the prospects look good that a large, new federal prison will be built in the Beaumont area," Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said Monday.

The federal government plans to build a 2,750-bed prison that would include minimum-, medium- and maximum-security units in one complex.

Members of a consulting firm toured the three 1,000-acre sites, all between Beaumont and Port Arthur.

One of the sites is just north of Snyder students earn ASU degrees

Four Snyder students at Angelo State University were among students who received degrees during spring commencement at the university.

Edward Francis Fisk received a bachelor of science degree with a major in elementary education. Deanne Hood received a bachelor of science degree with a major in elementary education. Dale Clinton Moseley received a bachelor of business administration with a major in management. And Deborah Leigh Shaw received a bachelor of science degree with a major in elementary education.

the Jefferson County Airport and adjacent to the planned site of a state maximum-security prison. Another runs alongside Hebert Road and the third is off Erie Street near West Port Arthur Road.

The county is offering $2.4 million worth of free land, drainage work, water and sewage line hookups and road improvements for the prison.

Federal officials said the prison bureau will select one of the sites by the end of the summer and then begin an extensive study on how the prison would affect the environment and surrounding community. The initial study will cover items like irrigation, closeness to highways and airports, quality of life and availability of housing and schools.

"We would study the environmental findings of the consultants to see if the site is suitable and meets our criteria for further points," said Lloyd McMillan, site acquisition specialist. "If we find a site that meets our needs and we can develop a project on it, I believe the funding is there."

The prison proposed for Jefferson County is one of 30 new prisons the federal government plans to build over the next five years.

Penwomen receive awards

Scurry County Penwomen met June 20 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Bryant of Ira. Chaplain Christine Kilgo gave the invocation.

In a short business session, Garnet Quiett, president, appointed a program committee with Janelle Burke as chairman and Jean Everett and Mary Westmoreland.

Westmoreland reported that she attended the Abilene Writer's Guild Awards program. Her poem "Regrets" won third place with a monetary prize and white ribbon.

The program was the reading of poems and discussion of critiques which members had sent to be critiqued and judged by Harriet Stovall Kelley. Burke read a letter from Kelley and announced the winners.

The winners were Quiett, first place, with her "Autumn Rhapsody" and Burke, second and third, with "Stones Cry Out" and "About Light."

Honorable mentions went to Estelene Murphy, first, with "Towhead;" Westmoreland, second and third, with "Country Roads" and the "Best of Summer;" and Quiett, fourth, with "The Mysterious Wind."

In the reading session, members read their own works. Sherry Bryant read her poem "Reign on Me;" Westmoreland read her article "Recycling in the Olden Days;" Betty Kellam read her poem "Dieter's Despair;" Murphy read her poem "The Scrapbook;" and Quiett read her article "I Remember a Beautiful Snow in Timber Country."

In a secret ballot, Murphy won the hostess gift for the best reading. Dorothy Cox brought the word of encouragement entitled Planting and Reaping. She said some seeds to plant are:

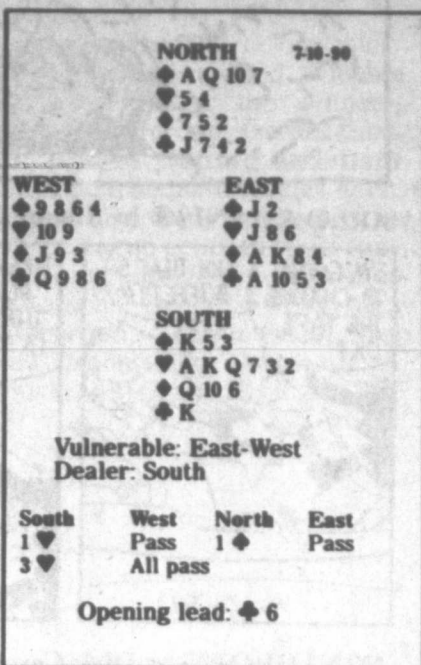

1. Seeds of friendship — to have a friend, be a friend.
2. Love — love for others.
3. Study — to make your life better and a better world.
4. Good Health — for well being.

She concluded with a quote by author Amy Bolding "Look well to the seeds in your hand and plant them with care, for as you plant, so will the harvest be."

The meeting adjourned and refreshments were served.

The society dismissed for the summer. The next meeting will be Sept. 19 in the home of Cox.

East gets the picture

By James Jacoby

It's not often that the bidding gives such a clear picture to a defender of what needs to be done to set the contract.

Put yourself in the East position after partner has led the six of clubs. You play the ace, and declarer drops the king. Although it is barely possible that declarer holds K-Q-9-8 of clubs and is making a clever deceptive play, it is more likely that declarer had the lone king of clubs. He cannot have more than nine points in hearts (A-K-Q), and the problem for East is to picture the rest of declarer's hand. Of course if declarer lacks the king of spades, he should have the Q-J of dia-

Age increases effect

NEW YORK (AP) — As we get older we become less able to handle alcohol, according to a recent study on the effects of alcohol on the aging.

Because of this, says AIMplus magazine, many older people can become problem drinkers even if they don't increase the amount of alcohol they had been drinking previously.

Dr. David Bienenfeld says many of the symptoms attributed to getting older, such as insomnia, decreased sex drive and depression, might instead be caused by alcohol. Bienenfeld, director of the Division of Geriatric Psychiatry and director of the Center for Adult Development at the University of Cincinnati Medical Center, suggests abstaining from drink can be an effective way to eliminate many of the so-called "old age" symptoms.

monds. But if he holds the king of spades, he would easily have the values to jump to three hearts without the diamond jack. Do you get the drift?

East's best chance to take five tricks and set the hand is to find declarer with three losing diamonds and West with the 10 of hearts. If South has the diamond queen and not the jack, defender East must give him the chance to go wrong. So at trick two East should lead a low diamond. Unless declarer is looking into East's hand, he will put in the 10 of diamonds. (This wins when East is leading from A-J or K-J and only loses when East holds A-K and is brave enough to underlead.) West will win the jack and return the suit, and East will take the A-K and play a fourth diamond. Hapless South's fate is sealed before he can even get started playing the hand.

Play July 10...

Snyder LL All-Stars chosen

Snyder Little League All-Stars were announced Monday evening at Logan Field, following a coaches' softball game and the naming of league champions.

Selected to the All-Star squad were Jeremy House, Lee Idom, Page Patterson, Wayne Braziel, Jeffrey Hobbs, Patrick Jordan, Patrick Cumbie, Tommy Torres, Ben Wells, Brock Gard, Kevin Hildebrand, Matt Parker, Brandon Rollins and Ramsey Castillo. The manager is Mike Jordan. Alton Patterson is the coach.

The All-Stars begin Area II tournament play July 10 in Hamlin. Snyder drew a first-round bye and will face the winner of a Rotan-Hamlin contest at 8 p.m.

In other ceremonies Monday, the Cubs were recognized as Little League champions with a perfect, 14-0, record, while the Giants were Farm League champs at 12-2 and the Mets took 8-9 Year Old League honors with a 13-1 mark.

All-Stars were not chosen this year in the Farm League and 8-9 Year Old League.

League festivities opened Monday with a coaches' softball game, which saw the Little League coaches edge the Farm League coaches 9-6.

Ben Fuentes cracked a double and a single for the winners, while Mike Jordan, Israel Hinojos, Russell Gafford and Gary Smith punched two singles each. Getting one single apiece for the Little League coaches were Ronnie Lewis, Jackie Murray, Alton Patterson, Lee Castillo, Max Hildebrand, George Page, Norman Canon, Mike Carter, Jerry House and Grady Gafford. The LL squad managed 20 hits in the slow-pitch contest.

Ricky Hopper led the Farm League squad with a triple, a double and a single. Gary Chesser smacked a double and a single while Bob Doolittle added a double. Adding one single each for the team were Jay Roemisch, Sid Wall, Jerry Jackson, Jeff Brown, Lee McNair and Tom Skellenger. The FL group got 12 hits for the contest.

Haskins scoffs at allegations

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Texas-El Paso basketball coach Don Haskins scoffed at claims by a former recruit who said he was given housing, transportation and money.

"We've done nothing illegal," Haskins said. He has called a news conference today to discuss the allegations.

John Stagers told the NCAA that he received favors from UTEP in 1988, the Los Angeles Times reported. Stagers also implicated UTEP assistants Rus Bradburd, now at Ball State, and G. Ray Johnson.

"I came out to (El Paso) with money, but I never spent my money because ... I didn't have to pay for anything," Stagers told the Los Angeles Times.

The charges come six months after the NCAA began an investigation of UTEP's basketball program.

During his senior year of high school in California, Stagers was considered one of the top 50 college prospects in the nation. But he had so many unexcused absences that he failed to graduate.

Stagers signed a letter of intent to play for UTEP, even though other schools looked at his transcript and shied away. But Stagers failed a General Equivalency Diploma certificate test.

He now attends Columbia Community College in California. Officials of that school said Stagers, faced with virtually no other options, buckled down and did the work for his GED.

"You know," Haskins said, "had John Stagers passed his GED here, I think the NCAA would be a lot more concerned we'd done something illegal."

Stagers was not at home when called Monday by The Associated Press. Haskins did not return calls from the AP Monday.

Bradburd refused to respond to the allegations Monday. Johnson denied buying meals or giving rides to Stagers.

The Times has also reported that former UTEP player Shelton Boykin boasted of boosters loaning luxury cars during the 1987-88 school year. A March 1989 story in Newsday said some players talked of a "sugar daddy" program through which athletes received favors from fans.

BoSox stop Blue Jays' run; Texas tumbles to Twins

by The Associated Press
Finally, the Boston Red Sox had some fun at Fenway Park with Toronto in town.

The Blue Jays won 15 straight games in Boston until Monday night, when the Red Sox held on to 10-8. Toronto came within three games of the major league record for most consecutive victories at an opponent's field, accomplished three times.

"We tried not to make a big deal out of it," winning pitcher Dennis Lamp said.

Neither did the Blue Jays. "We didn't even talk about it," manager Cito Gaston said.

Anyway, Boston moved back into first place in the American League East, one-half game ahead of the Blue Jays.

Elsewhere, Oakland defeated Detroit 4-3, Chicago stopped California 2-0, Cleveland clubbed Milwaukee 10-5 and Minnesota topped Texas 9-1.

Toronto seemed ready to roll again in Boston, scoring three times in the first inning. But the Red Sox bounced back, shelling Dave Stieb for six runs in their half.

Stieb threw 36 pitches and did not retire a batter. He gave up three hits and walked four, and reliever Willie Blair allowed Wade Boggs' two-run single.

John Olerud hit a two-run homer in the third that pulled Toronto even at 7. Jody Reed broke the tie in the sixth with a two-out, solo home run off Blair (0-5).

Reed also doubled and singled. Mike Greenwell doubled twice and got four of Boston's 13 hits.

Twins 9, Rangers 1
Scott Erickson pitched six impressive innings in his major league debut.

Erickson, 8-3 with a 3.03 ERA at Orlando, became the first starter to go directly from Class AA to the Twins since Brad Havens in 1982. He gave up one run on four hits, struck out four and walked two.

John Candelaria pitched three innings for his third save. Mike Jeffcoat (1-3) was the loser.

Kirby Puckett hit a three-run homer in the fourth.

It's not pretty but...

Lendl, Becker get job done

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Ivan Lendl won ugly. Boris Becker won dirty.

The top two seeds survived surprisingly tough challenges in Monday's first round at Wimbledon. And they weren't particularly concerned about the lack of beauty in their efforts.

Lendl, the top seed, lost four of the opening five games against 22-year-old Christian Miniuksi, an Argentine ranked 116th in the world. Though he recovered to win 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4, he seemed to struggle at times with the low bounce of the ball off the carefully manicured grass courts.

"I just had a terrible time with the timing," said Lendl, beginning his annual quest for the only major title that has eluded him. "Every court plays differently and I just couldn't get any rhythm on the return of serve."

Lendl skipped the clay-court season and has concentrated on grass for the past few months to prepare himself for Wimbledon. But he seemed to be suffering from his traditional aversion to grass in the opening set.

"I was a bit nervous at first," he said. "I was not feeling comfortable with the low bounces I was getting. But I got used to it a little bit and I hit some good returns."

While Lendl was battling the bounces, Becker was simply trying to stay on his feet. The three-time winner repeatedly slipped and skidded on the grass, often while charging the net.

"It was very, very wet and soft," Becker said after his 7-6, 7-6, 7-5 Centre Court victory over Luis Herrera of Mexico. "The first round is always difficult, but on such a court it is more difficult."

Becker made his task more complicated by getting off to a slow start with 10 double faults in the opening set. But he came through in crucial moments, capping the first tie-breaker 7-2 with a pair of aces and claiming the second tie-breaker 7-4.

The second seed got so used to flopping on the slick grass that he even took an extra dive late in the third set to mimic Herrera, who had lunged for a shot.

Herrera, 18, ranked 199th in the world, displayed fine touch but did not have the power to contend with Becker.

Lendl and Becker were not the only men who struggled Monday. Former champion Pat Cash recovered from a 2-1 deficit in sets and a leg injury to defeat 253rd-ranked Dimitri Poliakov of the Soviet Union.

Martinez extends lead for strikeouts

By The Associated Press
Ramon Martinez did only half as well as the last time he pitched against the Atlanta Braves. But he was a tough act to follow.

Martinez, the Los Angeles Dodger's 22-year-old right-hander, struck out nine Braves in a 5-2 victory Monday night. The last time he faced Atlanta, on June 4, Martinez fanned 18 to tie Sandy Koufax's Dodger club record.

By fanning nine Braves, Martinez (9-3) extended his major league lead in that category. He now has 121 strikeouts.

"He was good tonight, but he was awesome the night he struck out 18," Los Angeles manager Tom Lasorda said. "He gets two strikes quick. Then he strikes them out. You have to get the two first."

Martinez's performance was not lost on the Braves.

Atlanta's Ron Gant, who had two of the Braves' eight hits, was impressed.

"He's right there with any of them," said Gant, who touched the slender Dominican for a home run. "At 22, he has a great career ahead of him."

Elsewhere in the National League, it was Cincinnati 5, San Francisco 0; Pittsburgh 5, Philadelphia 0; New York 3, St. Louis 2; Houston 5, San Diego 3; and Montreal 7, Chicago 3.

It was the fourth straight winning decision for Martinez (9-3) and his league-leading sixth complete game.

Astros 5, Padres 3
Mike Scott continued to baffle San Diego in the Astrodome, improving his career record at home against the Padres to 14-1 while pitching Houston to victory.

Scott (5-7) worked 5 2-3 innings, giving up two runs on five hits while walking two and striking out three.

O'Connor apparently holds key to future abortion rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — The future of abortion in the United States, more than ever before, appears to hinge on the views of one woman — Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor.

And her latest word on the divisive issue is cheering anti-abortion forces while alarming abortion-rights advocates.

The court, ruling in cases from Ohio and Minnesota on Monday, upheld state laws making it significantly more difficult for girls to obtain legal abortions without first telling their parents.

Although the decisions did not directly affect the abortion rights of adult women, the court again indicated a willingness to reconsider its landmark 1973 decision in Roe vs. Wade that legalized abortion.

O'Connor cast the key vote as the court upheld, 5-4, a Minnesota law banning abortions for most unmarried girls under 18 unless both parents are notified or a judge's permission is obtained instead.

She also voted with the 6-3 majority to uphold an Ohio law that said minors must notify a parent before having an abortion.

O'Connor provided the critical vote in a 5-4 ruling that struck down a version of the Minnesota law that would have required two-parent notice without allowing the judicial bypass option.

She played the same role in July 1989 when the court, also by a 5-4 vote, gave states greater power to regulate abortions.

How far can states go in imposing new restrictions? "Precisely as far as Justice O'Connor will let them go," Roger Evans of Planned Parenthood said Monday.

Four high-court members — Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist and Justices Byron R. White, Antonin Scalia and Anthony M. Kennedy — seem ready to reverse Roe vs. Wade. That would allow states to outlaw virtually all abortions.

Four justices — Harry A. Blackmun, William J. Brennan, Thurgood Marshall and John Paul Stevens — seem determined to defend women's right to abortion.

Left in the middle is O'Connor, who has criticized the 1973 ruling and until Monday had never voted to strike down a state regulation making abortions less accessible.

She soon may get another opportunity to reassess Roe vs. Wade. The U.S. territory of Guam recently passed a restrictive abortion law, and the Louisiana Legislature is considering similar legislation.

O'Connor's votes Monday, and the thrust of a concurring opinion she wrote in the Minnesota case, drew fire from abortion rights advocates but praise from abortion opponents.

"Women still have a right to abortion, but that right is becoming emptier and emptier," said Janet Benshoof of the American Civil Liberties Union.

'Right to die' ruling leaves open the possibility of living wills being ok'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court's first "right to die" ruling contains good news for proponents of living wills that allow people to assure their lives are not prolonged against their wishes.

Already adopted by most states, living will laws allow people to specify in writing that, should they ever become mentally incompetent and severely disabled, no extraordinary medical treatment may be used to keep them alive.

In its 5-4 decision Monday, the court said states may block family members from ending the lives of permanently comatose relatives who have not made their wishes known conclusively.

The ruling bars the parents of a 32-year-old Missouri woman, Nancy Cruzan, from ordering removal of a feeding tube that is keeping the irreversibly unconscious woman alive.

But Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist, writing for the majority, suggested the court might uphold a constitutional right to choose death for those who put their wishes in writing in living wills.

"For purposes of this case, we assume that the United States Constitution would grant a competent person a constitutionally protected right to refuse lifesaving hydration and nutrition," he said.

Also, Rehnquist said, the court was not deciding what would happen if a competent person designated in writing a surrogate who would be empowered to make life and death decisions if the individual became mentally incompetent.

"The differences between the choice made by a competent person to refuse medical treatment and the choice made for an incompetent person by someone else to refuse medical treatment are so obviously different that the state is warranted in establishing rigorous procedures for the latter class of cases which do not apply to the former class," Rehnquist said.

Those words were somewhat heartening to Justice William J. Brennan, who dissented in the Cruzan ruling.

Brennan said the majority seemed to suggest that existence of a living will would be adequate proof of a person's intention to choose death over life for those, like Ms. Cruzan, in a persistent vegetative state.

But the problem is that relatively few Americans have taken the time or trouble to draw up living wills even though they are legal in most states, Brennan said.

"Too few people execute living wills or equivalently formal directives ... to ensure that the wishes of incompetent persons will be honored," he said.

For them, he said, "The testimony of close friends and family members ... may often be the best evidence available of what the patient's choice would be."

M. Rose Ganser of the Society for the Right to Die in New York said her organization will continue to lobby for stronger living will laws.

"Although we're sorry for the Cruzans," she said, "in terms of the decision's effect on the law, we'll just have to keep doing what we've been doing, which is working state by state to get laws passed."

European leaders fight off Franco-German efforts for quick Soviet aid

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — West European leaders have agreed to consider helping the sickly Soviet economy but fended off a Franco-German push for an immediate $15 billion aid package.

The leaders of the 12 European Community nations were winding up a two-day summit today that was overshadowed by concerns about the chances for success of Soviet President Mikhail

S. Gorbachev's economic reform program.

The troublesome question also will be at the top of the agenda of next month's economic summit of the seven leading industrialized nations in Houston.

In a draft of their final statement, the trading bloc's leaders asked their executive staff to come up with urgent proposals covering short-term loans and long-term assistance to Moscow.

The draft statement was obtained by The Associated Press as the leaders went into a final round of talks.

The leaders said their talks "underlined the interest of the community in the success of the political and economic reform initiated by ... Gorbachev."

But British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd said in local broadcast interviews, that funneling money into the Soviet economy now would be like pouring water into a leaking bucket.

"Until you can be pretty sure that any help you give is actually going to be useful, then there's no point in making it," he said.

The community leaders also praised reform efforts in South Africa but made no move to ease the economic sanctions imposed against the white-led government in 1986.

In a separate statement, the leaders expressed their "deep revulsion" at recent signs of anti-Semitism in Europe. Since May 10, there have been numerous incidents of vandalism at Jewish cemeteries, although non-Jewish cemeteries have also been targets.

Mandela to address Congress

the Washington Convention Center after a nontime rally at a downtown plaza. The rest of his stay has focused on talks with U.S. officials on issues such as economic sanctions.

Mandela, 71, was honored at a dinner Monday night hosted by Sens. David Boren, D-Okla., chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, and Terry Sanford, D-N.C.

"I am so deeply touched by what has been said here that I find it difficult to express my gratitude to the senators," Mandela told the group, which included about three dozen senators from both parties, their spouses, plus Jesse Jackson and other prominent blacks.

Couple's Love Is Loud, Lusty Even After 20 Years of Marriage

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from "Losing Patience" whose husband announced that his 14-year-old daughter (by a previous marriage) will be spending the summer with them, so they'll have to put their lovemaking on "hold" all summer because he's not comfortable making love if there's anyone else in the house.

You suggested counseling to get rid of his "hang-ups." Abby, he doesn't need counseling. I'm willing to bet that the majority of couples feel the same way.

My wife and I have been married nearly 20 years, and we enjoy sex as much now as we did when we were first married. However, we must have total privacy, because my wife gets very carried away. Bluntly put, she moans and sometimes cries out loudly from sheer ecstasy. And I love it!

She's tried stifling her feelings, so our kids — ages 16, 11 and 9 — can't hear, but that only leads to frustration. We make love in the mornings, afternoons or whenever we have the house to ourselves, so we can really let loose and enjoy ourselves.

So, Losing Patience, send your stepdaughter to a movie or whatever, and take advantage of your private time and enjoy yourself.

Abby, if you print this, go ahead and use the name of my town. The people here will go crazy wondering who the "Moaner in Cohasset" is.

LIKES PRIVACY IN COHASSET, MINN.

DEAR LIKES PRIVACY: Unless you live on a 20-acre estate, chances are your neighbors already know who the "Moaner in Cohasset" is.

DEAR ABBY: Can you stand one more letter of complaint about hairdressers? I quit going to my neighborhood beautician whose work I like and whose prices are unbeatable.

Why? Because she kept stopping her work to use her hands to gesture while she talked to me. That was bad enough, but while she talked and gestured, she kept looking at herself in the mirror! That used to drive me crazy. I don't have time to waste while she "talks to herself" in the mirror, as I have to get back to work at 2 p.m.

Now I go to another shop. It costs more, but I get out faster. I suppose you wonder why I just didn't say something to her? Well, I didn't have the nerve and was afraid of hurting her feelings.

LOUISIANA LADY

DEAR LADY: You could have done her a big favor by telling her what was driving you crazy instead of dropping her cold and taking your business to another shop. Had she known that her time-consuming gesturing irritated you, she might have corrected it, and by so doing kept a good customer. And you could have saved a little money.

People are eating them up! For Abby's favorite recipes, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

In fighting robbery wave...

Restaurant managers face 'Catch 22'

DALLAS (AP) — Authorities in suburban Arlington say a 20-year-old man and two other men were involved in at least seven of a string of 17 restaurant robberies in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Ron Christopher Jackson, 20, a former Grand Prairie High School football player, was arrested last Saturday hours after a Taco Bueno restaurant was robbed. Warrants have been issued for the other two men, officers said Monday.

Police said Jackson and the others are believed to be responsible for two robberies in Irving, four in Arlington and one in Cedar Hill.

Dallas police said Monday that they are investigating, but have nothing to connect them to the Dallas robberies.

"We cannot stress enough how dangerous these men are," said Arlington police spokesman Dee Anderson.

Arlington detective Ann Thompson said Jackson has admitted his role in the robberies, saying that he told her he used money from fencing jewelry taken from customers to buy expensive clothes.

The robbers had made it difficult for all-night restaurants to hire employees and had scared off some late-night business.

In addition to the 17 robberies in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, similar sprees have been reported in San Antonio, Austin, Phoenix and Mesa, Ariz., said Michael R. Amos of Phoenix, who frequently writes and lectures on restaurant security.

Amos is vice president of operations for Sandia Holdings, Inc., which operates Applebee's Neighborhood Grill & Bar restaurants in Arizona.

Robbers are getting more brazen and dangerous as they look for places to get quick cash — video parlors, convenience stores and, now, restaurants, Amos said.

"Why restaurants? We have nice night lights out to attract patrons and those beacons are almost a Catch-22," Amos said. "The assumption is made by a perpetrator that here we have a well-lit place in the evening. ... There's patrons inside, and there's money."

Errol Turner, 53, and his wife, Lou, of Dallas said the rash of robberies at late- or all-night eateries in Dallas haven't deterred them from dining out at a Denny's 24-hour restaurant. They go about once a week, usually after church on Wednesday nights. But they have begun leaving all their jewelry at home and taking only a small amount of cash along.

"We only take enough money to pay for what we're going to eat," Turner said. "Why expose yourself to unnecessary risk?"

"Look at me," Mrs. Turner said as she held up her bare wrists and fingers. "I don't have on any jewelry. I left it all at home. If someone wants to rob me, they can have my glasses."

They said they hide their car keys on their person. "If they ask how we got here, we'll just tell them we took the bus."

But Turner added that he doesn't worry excessively about the robberies because "you can stop at a red light and someone can hold you up. It can happen almost any place."

Despite the increase in restaurant robberies, eateries are still fairly safe, says a Dallas police analyst.

"Your chances (of being robbed) would be pretty remote," said Bill Hamby, robbery analyst for the Dallas Police Department.

Brothers imprisoned for kidnapping now eligible for parole

DALLAS (AP) — Two brothers who in 1973 were sentenced to 5,005 years in prison for kidnapping a Dallas socialite are eligible for parole.

Franklin Ransonette, 50, and Woodrow Ransonette, 48, could be freed by the end of the year, state parole officials said Monday.

The brothers' sentences — won by then-District Attorney Henry Wade and recognized as the longest assessed by a U.S. jury — made the case famous.

Now the prospect of their freedom after 17 years makes the victim of their crime nervous, The Dallas Morning News reported Monday.

"It makes me very uncomfortable," said Amanda "Mandy" Dealey, who on Dec. 19, 1972, was kidnapped from the parking lot of her apartment and held for ransom.

Ms. Dealey, who then was the 22-year-old daughter-in-law of Dallas Morning News president Joe M. Dealey, was held for 60 hours, bound and blindfolded, in a vacant duplex in North Dallas.

During her abduction, family members were told she had been submerged alive in a watertight container in a well. At another point, the kidnapers implied that she was dead.

Ms. Dealey was released physically unharmed after the Dealey family and Ms. Dealey's father, wealthy Sunnyvale industrialist Charles Mayhew, paid $250,000 ransom. The Ransonettes were caught and the ransom money recovered.

On April 6, 1973, a Dallas County jury took only 15 minutes to return the two 5,005-year sentences. The jury had deliberated only 29 minutes before finding the brothers guilty.

Dallas County Sheriff Jim Bowles said he probably would write a letter opposing parole.

DAT sales kickoff revives royalties & copying fight

CHICAGO (AP) — Music publishers are threatening to go to court to stop Sony's hot-selling new digital audio tape deck, complaining it will rob them of royalties by allowing customers to make near-perfect pirate recordings.

"We will seek court relief from the equipment being brought into this country," said Edward Murphy, president of the National Music Publishers Association in New York.

The Sony DAT recorder — the biggest thing to hit the recording industry since the compact disc — made its debut over the weekend, and by Monday many stores were sold out.

Sales figures were not available Monday, but Sony and store owners were pleased.

Sony's DAT recorders, which sell for at least $900, can copy CDs with breathtaking clarity on tapes that are about half the size of conventional cassettes and about twice as expensive — $18 for a 120-minute blank tape.

Sony became the first to offer popularly priced recorders to U.S. consumers Friday. Matsushita Electric Industrial Co. — which produces the Panasonic, Technics and Quasar brands — hopes to have a competitively priced DAT recorder in U.S. stores by September.

A version of the DAT recorder has been sold in Japan and parts of Europe since 1987 and has been available through unofficial channels in the United States.

But manufacturers held back from launching the machines openly in this country because of a dispute over copying. In a concession to record companies, the manufacturers agreed to offer machines that can make only copies of CDs, not copies of copies. That seemed to remove the threat of lawsuits from record companies.

But the accord, and bills in the House and Senate that would write the agreement into law, did not resolve the issue of royalty payments for home taping.

Three corrections officials fired after prisoner escapes

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Three veteran prison officials have been fired and eight more suspended in the wake of a weekend murder authorities believe was committed by an escaped killer from El Paso, Texas, who walked away from a minimum-security catering job.

"The incident could have happened to anyone in here, including me," Gov. Bob Martinez said Monday.

Donald David Dillbeck, 27, was charged with first-degree murder in the slaying Sunday of Faye Lamb Vann, 44, at a Tallahassee shopping mall, less than 48 hours after he slipped away from officials.

Dillbeck, convicted in 1979 of murdering a Lee County sheriff's deputy, escaped Friday evening while catering a dinner at Gretna Elementary School about 35 miles northwest of Tallahassee as part of a detail from the Quincy Vocational Center.

"The decisions that led to his placement in the work detail are inexcusable," said Martinez.

"The people who made the terrible judgments that put Donald Dillbeck in a community work detail have no place continuing to make those judgments," Martinez said.

Dillbeck was transferred in January to the Quincy center, which offers programs including a cooking school, according to corrections spokesman Bob Macmaster.

The three DOC officials dismissed by the governor were Quincy supervisor Clyde Keels, 56; correctional probation officer Phillip Adams, 40; and Tom Cockerell, 68, classification supervisor in the department's regional office at Marianna.

Keels, who had worked for DOC since 1959, earned $35,892; Adams, hired April 10, 1981, earned $23,506, and Cockerell, a 23-year employee, earned $35,900 annually, the agency reported. The men can appeal their dismissals, said DOC Secretary Richard Dugger.

Eight employees were put on 10 days administrative leave with pay. They were Katherine Cavendish, correctional services assistant administrator at the department's Tallahassee headquarters, and seven officials at the Avon Park Correctional Institution who participated in a decision to move Dillbeck to minimum-custody status earlier this year.

The seven were: Assistant superintendents James Prevatt and Marion K. Sawyer; correctional probation officers Ken Cribb and Frank Carey; classification supervisors Greg Albritton and Brian Hendrickson, and correctional officer II, R.E. Turner.

Dugger, who met with Martinez for three hours Monday, said more dismissals could be forthcoming.

Treating chronic lung infection

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can you provide information on bronchiectasis? I've been bothered for years with coughing and phlegm, and feel I probably have been given every antibiotic imaginable. What would you recommend?

DEAR READER: Bronchiectasis is a form of localized, chronic lung infection, often associated with emphysema and chronic bronchitis, that causes increased sputum, cough, wheezing and — sometimes — hemoptysis (blood in the sputum).

Specialists are not sure why bronchiectasis develops in some patients and not in others. It is more common after severe pneumonia, inhalation of injurious material (such as silica) and bronchial obstruction. It is frequently a complication of cystic fibrosis (a chronic, inherited lung condition marked by thick mucus and a susceptibility to lung infection).

Bronchiectasis causes portions of the bronchial passages to stretch and dilate. The bronchial tubes are normally shaped like straight pipes, much like a car's exhaust system; bronchiectasis alters this shape. The muffler (bronchiectasis) bulges between two pipes of uniform diameter (bronchial tubes).

Early bronchiectasis causes no symptoms. More advanced forms produce the symptoms I mentioned above. Severe degrees are associated with respiratory insufficiency, heart failure and significant scarring of pulmonary tissue. The diagnosis is usually made by a bronchogram, a type of special lung X-ray.

Doctors seek to improve breathing and eradicate underlying infection. For example, most patients are aided by breathing exercises, antibiotics, avoidance of air pollution and discontinuation of smoking. Postural drainage, during which a patient leans head down over the side of the bed several times a day, improves breathing by ridding the lungs of mucus.

In cases of repeated bleeding or resistant infection, the segment of bronchiectasis may have to be surgically removed.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Living With Chronic Lung Disease." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Would iron supplements or a multi-vitamin cause dark stool?

DEAR READER: Oral iron supplements turn the stool black. This can be quite a shock to someone who is unprepared for the change, but it is a harmless consequence of iron therapy.

On the other hand, intestinal bleeding can cause darkening of the stool. This can be differentiated from the effects of iron by a stool analysis that checks for blood.
