MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — A massive 3D seismic project under way by Mobil could be the catalyst for launching a new technological era in the Permian Basin — one that many predict could do as much for recovering oil in the Permian Basin as waterflooding did in the 1950s. Mobil is now completing what is one of the largest 3D surveys ever undertaken in the Permian Basin. When completed the survey will cover 33 square miles of the Pegasus Field, 25 miles southwest of Midland, and will consist of 77,000 migrated seismic traces in a 110-foot-by-110-foot grid. While there are other 3D surveys being conducted by other major oil companies and the Pegasus will not be the largest, there is a suspicion that the Pegasus survey may unlock geological secrets that could have far-reaching applications for the Permian Basin. Three-dimensional seismic surveys use extensive geophone lines, many channels of recording equipment and high-powered computers to obtain a more accurate multi-direction view of the sub-surface. George Underwood, president of Geostrat of Midland and consultant to Mobil on the Pegasus 3D survey, says, "This is probably the one we have been waiting for. Everyone has wondered what technological innovation would come along to extend the life of the Permian Basin after waterflooding and carbon dioxide flooding. Now it looks like it will probably be 3D seismic surveys." Underwood says the surveys will be used to find fault traps, sub-surface channels, porosity stringers, stratigraphic structures, vertical fractures, over-thrust situations, reef detrital and cave situations in the Ellen-burger that a two-dimensional survey might not be able to detect. The technology also will look under old fields held by shallow production to determine if there is oil in deeper traps. One of the geological features the survey will be looking for is "caving" in the Ellenburger. (see MOBIL, page 9)

GRIND IT TWICE — Chris McDonald, left, and Bobby Cawthron are shown grinding fresh pork twice so that it can be made into the sausage which the Snyder FFA chapter has begun making for the first time. Original plans called for getting the sausage venture underway during the 1989-90 school year but the lengthy approval process for the bags ruled that out. (SDN Staff Photo)

With meat processing... FFA chapter goes whole hog

By Shirley A. Gorman
SDN News Editor
Snyder High School's Future Farmers of America (FFA) chapter has officially entered the sausage making business. This past spring, the local chapter received a permit to process and sell pork sausage through the Agriculture Education Meats Lab at the high school. The lab was inspected and approved for operation in April, according to Coke Hopping, vocational agriculture instructor and FFA adviser. Approval and printing of the sausage bags — a lengthy process — was finalized during the last week of school. Hopping said the sausage-making idea was first considered in November when the family of one of his students had sows with baby pigs for sale. They bought 22 head and FFA students took care of them on the high school ag farm. After the pigs reached an average weight of 235 pounds, they were butchered and chilled at Cox's Quality Meat in Colorado City. FFA students then boned the meat and froze it so it could be processed into sausage. Originally, Hopping said they had planned to get their fledgling operation underway before the end of the school year, but plans had to be changed due to the approval process for the bags taking several weeks. He explained that first, a computer sketch of the bag they intended to package the sausage in was made and sent to Austin for state approval. The sketch was then sent to a bag-making company in Kansas which drew up a preliminary label for the FFA chapter to approve. After that, the label was sent to a company in the East so that a rubber plate could be made of it. That plate was then sent to the bag-making company which made the bags and shipped them to Snyder. Once again, final approval for the bags had to be obtained in Austin before they could be used. The approval process took eight weeks in all. For the past few weeks, FFA members have been thawing some 200 pounds of pork at a time (to about 32-34 degrees), running it through the grinder, seasoning it, then grinding it again. They then place it in two-pound bags and freeze it. Since pork has a shelf life of from six to eight months, Hopping said their pork will still be (see SAUSAGE, page 9)

Banks to 'play ball' for SNS fundraiser

The "Bruisers" take on the "Crushers" here Saturday night in a light-hearted softball game to benefit Snyder Neighbors Sharing. Snyder Neighbors Sharing, or SNS, helps with major home repairs needed by mostly low-income and elderly citizens who are unable to afford or perform the work themselves. This past May, a group of about 500 SNS volunteers made repairs to a record 27 homes in the county. The widened scope of this year's work day is, in part, the reason for the Saturday softball game. Gametime is 8 p.m. at Winston Field as the Snyder National Bank "Bruisers" go against the West Texas State Bank "Crushers" in a five-man, five-woman co-ed game. Sponsors promise "at least six innings" of competitive softball. For the contest, the WTSB team will be captained by Shawn Ragland and the SNB crew by Scott Gassiott. Admission will be free but the hat will be passed for donations to benefit Snyder Neighbors Sharing. SNS officials note the local effort, which primarily benefits the elderly, is now some $850 short of "breaking even" for this year's projects. This year's effort of 27 houses was significantly larger than the two previous years, when seven and nine homes respectively were repaired. Concessions will be available at the game Saturday. Proceeds from the concessions will also benefit SNS. Donations are accepted throughout the year. These may be addressed in care of Snyder Neighbors Sharing, P.O. Box 1072, Snyder, Tx., 79549.

Cogdell board oks '91 budget Ad valerom taxes reduced

Cogdell Memorial Hospital board of managers approved the 1991 budget Thursday — a budget which calls for reduction in ad valerom taxes from $488,000 to $225,000. "The 1991 budget reflects the first annual gain from operations since 1983, thus allowing us to enjoy a much reduced dependence on county tax support," stated Tom Hochwalt, hospital administrator. In other business Thursday, the board also approved a 90-day contract with the physician recruiting firm Tyler and Company, okayed medical staff privileges for four emergency room physicians and tabled a request for $3,000 for a break power system which would give the hospital use of its telephones and paging system for 45 minutes in the event of a loss of power. After adjourning to a Foundation meeting, board managers also approved $3,000 to purchase an exam table. The 1991 budget — which still must be approved by county commissioners — represents a 54 percent reduction in ad valerom taxes from the 1990 budget. The budget is based on a total estimated patient revenue of $12,385,246. Total patient revenue deductions are estimated at $4,664,611, leaving a net patient revenue of $7,720,635. That revenue, added with $229,909 in operating revenue, provides a projected net operating revenue of $7,950,544. From that $7.95 million, total operating expenses are expected to be $7,849,370, leaving a total operating gain of $101,174. Ad valerom taxes ($225,000) and earned interest ($102,736) combine for $327,736 which results in a net of $428,910. The hospital is projecting a positive gain of $347,939 for 1990. Hochwalt pointed out that the (see COGDELL, page 9)

Entries mounting for annual parade

Some 15 groups and individuals have entered the Fourth of July parade — including four with floats — and more entries are coming into the chamber office on a daily basis. The parade lineup begins at 9:30 a.m. on the 4th at Moffett Field and while last-minute entries are accepted at that time, officials urge pre-registration so that they can better plan the event. The parade starts at 10 a.m. First through third place ribbons will be awarded for the best parade entries. Among the groups and individuals already entered are the American Legion with a float, the West Texas Tae Kwon Do Academy with a float, and the Hermleigh Class of 1993 and the Hermleigh Junior Class with floats. The Key Club will be decorating a pickup and the Gay 20 Club will have marchers and a decorated car. Gordon Banks, speaker at the morning Prayer Breakfast, and Mayor Troy Williams will be riding in a decorated car, as will Our Lady of Guadalupe Church queen candidates. IGA supermarket will have a car and a walking "Uncle Sam" while Rick Howard will be driving an antique car. The Snyder Wheels will be in several antique cars while the Snyder Shrine Club will be riding scooters. Also registered for the parade are Morningside Baptist Church and the Scurry County Sheriff's Posse. There is no fee to enter the parade. Also involved in the parade will be participants in the annual bicycle decorating contest. They are to begin lining up for judging (see JULY 4, page 9)

Dorsey Johnson gets 60 years

COLORADO CITY — Dorsey Lee Johnson Jr., who is appealing his capital murder conviction in Scurry County, has pleaded guilty to attempted murder and was sentenced to 60 years in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice. Johnson, 22, was sentenced to death by a Scurry County jury for the 1986 shooting death of convenience store clerk Jack Huddleston during a robbery. That sentence is being appealed to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals. A former resident of Colorado City, Johnson was first charged with attempted capital murder in the shooting, stabbing and beating of Don Burrus, a store clerk in Colorado City. The charge was later reduced to attempted murder as a result of a plea bargain.

The SDN Column By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Most accidents are caused by motorists who put the car in drive and their mind in neutral." Keeping tabs on our neighbors: Today, Americans probably have obtained the greatest awareness for environmental concerns. However, when the federal government is part of the solution, it often over-corrects and becomes part of the problem. Stephen Henry, in the Levelland News-Press, is an admitted cynic about some of the recent hype associated with Earth Day. He told this story: One day the Lord summoned Moses and said, "Moses, I have some good news and some bad news. I'll give you the good news first. You will go into the land of Egypt and free your people from bondage. You will lead the Israelites from the land, and when you get to the Red Sea, I will command the water to part, giving you and your people safe passage through. Then I will cause the waters to close behind you, destroying the Pharaoh and his pursuing army." Moses was delighted and asked about the bad news. "The bad news," the Lord said, "is you have to file an environmental impact study." Atlanta columnist Lewis Grizzard observed that diaper technology has come a long way since the days of safety pins and cloth. "Believe it or not, a wet diaper doesn't feel wet anymore. They hide the water now in a secret compartment inside the diaper. The only way you know to change the diaper is, if it weighed less than an ounce when you put it on the baby and it suddenly becomes heavier than your bowling ball." Thoughts on disposable (?) diapers: Anyone caught tossing a used one onto a parking lot should be required to carry it with them everywhere they go for at least a month.

Q.—If Snyder's is a minimum security prison, why are people convicted of murder in it?

A.—The Price Daniel is minimum to medium security. Classification of inmates is not based on the crime committed, but rather — after extensive evaluation and testing — on the inmate's threat to himself, other inmates, staff and the general public. Conduct within the prison can also change an inmate's classification.

In Brief

Fatal fall

ABILENE (AP) — An Abilene Christian University student apparently fell to his death in a mountain waterfall while participating in a summer mission program in southern Africa. Ryan C. King, 18, is missing and presumed dead after the accident Tuesday. King was a freshman biology major at ACU last year. Other members of the volunteer mission group told family members by telephone that King was taking photographs near the edge of Mantenga Falls, near Manzini, Swaziland, when he either slipped or the ledge beneath him gave way and he plunged over the steep side.

Indicted

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Jefferson County Commissioner Dave Smith was indicted after being accused of sexually harassing a former county employee at a Port Arthur office. # Senate supports curbs on assault weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police groups who have campaigned against semiautomatic assault rifles are getting the credit following a narrow vote by the Senate to maintain curbs on nine such weapons in an omnibus anticrime bill.

"Why we won is that law enforcement did a better lobbying job than the National Rifle Association," Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., said Thursday after the Senate voted 50-48 to maintain the curbs. Tougher penalties for federal firearms violations, sexual abuse of children and selling the new narcotic drug "ice" also went in to the bill as senators worked past midnight this morning.

The Senate also rejected efforts to drop numerous death penalty provisions in the anticrime bill. It did vote to let Indians decide for themselves whether to impose capital punishment for murders committed on reservations.

Central provisions of the bill call for capital punishment for 30 federal crimes and streamline the appeals process with an eye to ending delays of up to a decade in carrying out executions.

The Senate, adjourned until after the Fourth of July recess, plans to vote on passage of the overall anticrime package when it returns.

Forty-two Democrats and eight Republicans voted to uphold the ban on import or manufacture in this country of the nine semiautomatic assault weapons while 36 Republicans and 12 Democrats voted against.

The result was a further blow to the National Rifle Association which has been fighting the restrictions.

The Fraternal Order of Police, the International Association of Chiefs of Police and an array of other law enforcement groups have been campaigning against assault weapons. They say the military-style rifles and semiautomatic pistols are too dangerous to be on the streets.

The anticrime bill had appeared dead when the gun provisions survived previous moves to scrap them and the threat of an unbreakable filibuster materialized. Two weeks of bargaining, however, produced agreement to resurrect the bill — once part of President Bush's anticrime package but now largely rewritten.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, led off Thursday's debate with a plan to scrap the assault weapons provisions in favor of mandatory sentences ranging from 10 years to life for firearms-related federal crimes and the death penalty in some gun killing cases.

"The sad, cold reality is that drug felons that are smuggling tons of illegal drugs into the country will smuggle firearms," said Gramm. "... They are going to have guns. The question is, are we going to have the stiff, mandatory sentences for those who violate the law?"

"We are talking about crime control on one hand and criminal control on the other hand," Gramm said.

The Senate's 50-48 vote to uphold the gun curbs came on a DeConcini move to combine both the restrictions and Gramm's tougher penalties.

Accused gunman carried grudge

HOUSTON (AP) — A man charged with the shooting death of a Houston police officer had vowed 19 years earlier to get revenge on police for killing his twin brother in a shootout, police said.

Carl Wayne Buntion, 46, was charged Thursday with capital murder for the Wednesday slaying of motorcycle officer Jim Irby following a routine traffic stop in north Houston.

Buntion, on parole since May 15 after serving only 13 months of a 15-year sentence for the sexual assault of a child, was being held without bond today, according to police spokesman Dan Turner.

Buntion's twin brother, Kenneth, was killed in an April 1971 shootout after he wounded two officers trying to arrest him for forgery.

"The first thing that comes to mind is, was (Irby's killing) for what happened to his brother 19 years ago? Was that the reason?" asked Doug Steffenauer, one of two police officers who killed Buntion's brother. "He ... said he was going to get revenge."

Carl Buntion was in prison when his twin brother, suspected of operating a forgery ring, was shot eight times and killed in a gunfight with police at an apartment complex in northwest Houston.

Months later, Steffenauer and officer Dale Dugger, who was wounded in the shootout, learned of Carl Buntion's vow to kill them, Dugger told the Houston Chronicle.

"Our boss called us in and said the warden in Huntsville had called him and said Carl Buntion had notified him that he better be locked down or he would break out of the penitentiary and come kill me and Steffenauer because we had killed his brother," said Dugger, now retired.

"It was a vendetta," said Steffenauer.

Carl Buntion has had previous prison terms for theft, parole violation, burglary, narcotics possession, burglary of a motor vehicle, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and most recently sexual assault of a child, records show.

Kenneth Buntion had been released from prison only a few months before he was killed.

Another brother, Bobby Buntion, 43, is in Montgomery County Jail awaiting a 10-year sentence for credit-card abuse and traffic violations. He was paroled from prison in 1988 after serving five years for robbery.

Witnesses said Irby, 37, was talking to the driver when Buntion got out, pulled a large-caliber revolver and shot the officer in the head.

Defense critical of mayor's sting

WASHINGTON (AP) — A woman who costarred with Marion Barry in a sting videotape shown at the mayor's drug and perjury trial is under defense attack as a drug addict and liar who cooperated with authorities because she needed money.

The tape of the incident, played to the jury on Thursday, showed the mayor smoking crack cocaine in Rasheeda Moore's hotel room at the urging of the former model.

A female FBI agent posing as a friend of Moore brought a bag of crack cocaine to the hotel room.

Barry told Moore, "I don't smoke no more, honey" and the undercover agent left the room. But Barry told Moore to call her back.

"Go get some. Go get it," the mayor told Moore, and the deal was consummated, with Barry paying for the drugs.

Barry and Moore each wanted the other to be the first to smoke the crack.

"I thought you bought this because you wanted to take a hit," Moore told Barry on the videotape.

"Aw, naw, you do it," the mayor replied.

"If you don't do it, I'm not going to do it," said the mayor, who finally walked over to a dresser and inhaled twice deeply from an FBI-supplied crack pipe.

Moments later as Barry and Moore prepared to go downstairs, FBI agents burst into the room and arrested the mayor.

Jurors also saw Barry attempting to rekindle what Moore has described as a longtime sexual relationship. "Can we make love before you leave, before you leave town?" the mayor asked.

She resisted, and he asked her twice, "I can't caress your breast?"

Barry, 54, has pleaded innocent to 10 misdemeanor cocaine-possession charges, one misdemeanor cocaine conspiracy charge, and three felony charges of lying to a grand jury about his alleged drug use. One possession charge stems from the night of his arrest on Jan. 18.

Barry acknowledged a month ago that he smoked crack that night, and said federal prosecutors were trying to kill him by providing a potentially lethal dose of the drug.

Defense attorney R. Kenneth Mundy contended that Barry was entrapped at the Vista International Hotel by an overzealous FBI that had been pursuing the mayor for five years.

During cross-examination of Moore after the videotape was played, Mundy told her that when she started cooperating with the FBI a few months before the sting, "you had reached the bottom as far as money and finances."

"Yes," agreed the former model.

Moore bought drugs with welfare money that was supposed to go for her children's care, Mundy said in an accusatory tone.

Bush to observe holiday in London

WASHINGTON (AP) — Of all the places to go on the Fourth of July, it's London that President Bush heads for while Americans at home pack their picnic baskets and take to the park to watch the fireworks.

London is where George III operated and, if you believe what they told you in the sixth grade, gave the orders oppressing the American colonists until they threw him overboard along with the tea and formed these United States.

Bush, who raised flag-waving to a campaign issue in 1988, is not the sort to forget such patriotic events as Independence Day. But the celebration he will attend on July 5-6 in London is of an entirely different sort.

After 41 years of nuclear standoff and tensions, the Cold War struggle with the Soviet Union is over. All that remains of the Berlin Wall is a cold slab that symbolizes the past but no longer blocks transit from East to West. Last week, the sentry post Checkpoint Charlie was hauled away.

The Warsaw Pact is disintegrating. East Germany is on the brink of absorption into West Germany. While some Soviet troops may remain on East German soil for a transitional period, the new and larger Germany appears headed for NATO membership.

The Soviets are trying to delay the process while also appealing to the Western allies to withdraw all foreign forces from Germany. The strategy is not succeeding, even though Russians are not the only people in Europe worried about German resurgence.

The Western leaders concluded the best insurance is NATO membership for Germany and letting the Germans decide whether they want Western troops on their territory.

Wedding Prank Doesn't Rate Toast From Parents of Bride

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter was recently married in a lovely church wedding with all the trimmings. All went well until the time drew near for the bride to leave the reception for their honeymoon. Their car had been decorated inside and out, when a friend tipped us off that a man was hiding in the backseat of the car — well-covered with balloons and planning to jump up and surprise the newlyweds when they were well on their way!

My husband and I thought this was in bad taste so we decided to ask the man to get out of the car. (He was not a close friend of the newlyweds.) The word spread rapidly among the guests, and my husband and I were criticized for having ruined what some people perceived as a hilarious, harmless prank. Needless to say, it spoiled the rest of the evening for us.

Please tell us if you think we did the right thing. We need an outsider's point of view.

PARENTS OF THE BRIDE

DEAR PARENTS: I think you acted wisely. The so-called hilarious, harmless prank could have had a tragic ending. Had a man jumped up and surprised the couple as they were driving along, the driver could easily have lost control of the car and hit another car or a pedestrian, or missed a turn. Have no regrets. Exposing the prankster rates a thumbs-up from me.

DEAR ABBY: I retired recently. My wife and I had hoped to enjoy our retirement years by taking some senior citizen tours and traveling to some foreign countries. Now the problem: Our daughter's marriage went sour, so she got a divorce. She has a child to raise, so she came to live with us, saying it would only be until she got on her feet.

Well, it's been five years, and she and our grandchild are still here. My wife doesn't go anywhere. She says, "Who will take care of our granddaughter?" (Abby, there's excellent day-care available.) My wife and I used to go places and do things, but now we don't go anywhere. Our daughter has it made with this setup and she refuses to move. She has a good job and makes good money, so it's not as if she would be out on the street. I feel that we are being taken advantage of. How do we get out of this trap?

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: Tell your daughter that she must absolutely find another place to live because you and your wife want to be free to travel and enjoy whatever time you have left. Plan a trip. Sign up for one of those tours you've been wanting to take, then tell your daughter she has to be out of your house by a designated date — and no ifs, ands or buts!

Everything you'll need to know about planning a wedding can be found in Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4. in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. ## Runaway couple returns married MONTICELLO, Ark. (AP) — After a 10-day journey that ended with authorities holding them at the Canadian border, Todd Brown and Lara Carpenter went back on the road, but this time to Austin, Texas.

The destination is not the only thing that was different. The couple which ran away on June 15 as boyfriend and girlfriend left for Austin as husband and wife. Brown, 22, and his 17-year-old companion were married Tuesday afternoon, according to Thomas Carpenter, the bride's father.

The couple ran away on June 15 after telling relatives they were going to rent a movie.

"I'm very pleased. I think this worked out well," said Carpenter. "Things are turning out a whole lot better than it might have."

The couple had been dating for six weeks when they disappeared. A search began when Miss Carpenter missed an 11 p.m. curfew set by her father.

The wedding occurred 14 hours after the couple returned from Sweetgrass, Mont., where they were stopped June 21 by customs agents.

Carpenter, who was teaching an English class at the University of Arkansas at Monticello when he found out his daughter had been found, flew to Montana the following day. Then he returned home in the car with his daughter and future son-in-law.

"I rode back with them and it was a good thing for all of us," he said. "We were able to talk things out and we pretty well got things planned."

Carpenter said the couple may move to Texas. If not, he said, he expects them to remain out-of-state.

Chefs tempt Bush with broccoli dishes

HOUSTON (AP) — A demonstration staged by broccoli lovers for the Houston economic summit will feature an attempt by three Houston hotel chefs who will prepare special dishes to show that broccoli can be tasty despite President Bush's dislike of the vegetable.

All because the president says he doesn't like broccoli.

"We just ask the president to give it another chance," said Ken Faour, an organizer of the tongue-in-cheek "broccoli summit" intended to benefit the Houston Food Bank.

The event, sponsored by the Houston Fresh Fruit & Vegetable Association in cooperation with California broccoli growers, is to be held July 6, three days before the economic summit meetings begin.

Faour said workers will unload 34,000 bunches of broccoli weighing 80,000 pounds in Hermann Park, across the street from the Rice University summit site.

Coast Guard heroism routine

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — The large, metallic, six-eyed beast roars as it hovers 300 feet above the churning waves of Corpus Christi Bay. Its every move is calculated, planned, and when it makes a descent, the victim thrashes below, arms waving in terror.

But this is not some hovering man-eating dragon — it is a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter, with two pilots and a crewman, on a search and rescue mission in the bay.

The Coast Guard, despite its lifesaving function, seems to escape the notice of most citizens; it is the catcher in the rye — always on the edge of disaster, waiting to snatch wayward boaters from harm.

While the Coast Guard is taken for granted until disaster occurs, no sight is more welcome than a Coast Guard boat, plane or helicopter if you've been clutching the hull of your overturned boat in rough seas for several hours.

U.S. Coast Guard Group Corpus Christi, headquartered at the Naval Air Station, is one of the Coast Guard's largest "super groups," consisting of three search-and-rescue stations, four cutters, and the air station. The group is staffed by 36 officers, and roughly 400 enlisted personnel.

Twenty six pilots at the air station operate three helicopters and three Falcon jets, standing duty once every four days for a period of 24 hours.

This year, the group ran 448 search and rescue cases, saving 23 lives and assisting 548 people. Air station personnel saved six lives of that total and assisted 20 people, according to Coast Guard records.

The task of saving lives is ac-

These are pilots from the "new guard" who dispute the old, fatalistic Coast Guard adage, "You have to go out but you don't have to come back."

While these young pilots are acutely aware of the hazards of airborne search and rescue, they have a more positive philosophy than their predecessors.

"We say, 'You have to go out, but you have to come back,'" Halligan says, as he walks toward a helicopter parked beside the Coast Guard hangar.

But the job is dangerous. In fact, Coffey says, nearly no weather is bad enough to ground the helicopters. They will go out on a search-and-rescue mission "as long as the rotors will engage. We can take off if the wind is 60 knots or more," he says. "There's really nothing we can't take off in."

Coast Guard pilots train with Naval aviators and receive their "wings" in the same ceremonies. But Coffey quickly distinguishes himself as a "coastie" — a breed apart.

"You ask those Navy guys, they'll tell you pilot training is tough, but you ask us and we'll say, 'Eh, it's not so tough,'" he says with a grin as he joins Halligan and Aviation Survivalman 1st Class Wayne Clayborne, in preparing the aircraft, the HH-65, for takeoff.

The aircraft, nicknamed the "dolphin," is the Coast Guard's newest air machine that represents the latest developments in avionics.

The pilots and crewman take their places, cranking the dual jet turbine engines. In seconds the whipping rotors propel the compact craft along the runway and suddenly up into the gusty Gulf winds high above Corpus Christi Bay.

For the crewmen, the ride is easy, routine. But for anyone else the ride is an adventure. Each gust of wind shakes, rattle and rolls the helicopter as it streaks across Mustang Island at 100 knots per hour on the beach-combing segment of the daily two-hour patrol.

"The airplane can navigate on the flight-management system, and the flight-direction system (the computer system). It takes a lot of workload off the pilot," Coffey says as he tells the computer what he wants the aircraft to do.

Republicans face abortion issue

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A fiery debate over abortion and gay and lesbian rights raged among Texas Republicans today as delegates gathered for the party's 1990 convention.

Earlier today, the GOP's temporary Rules and Resolutions Committee adopted an anti-abortion platform that was endorsed by party leaders but was attacked on two fronts.

Some party activists, wanting tougher abortion restrictions, said the proposed plank was too weak while others said the GOP shouldn't interfere with a woman's decision on whether to have an abortion.

The committee also adopted a platform that would not allow a homosexual to adopt or take custody of a child.

Committee member Maurice Angly of Austin said the proposal was an example of "faggot-bashing" but Davis Ford of Hereford said gays should not be allowed to care for children.

aren't stable. They're sick," Ford said.

On abortion, the committee met until early today before adopting 14-12 a constitutional ban on abortion except when the mother's life is endangered.

The platform also outlines a legislative strategy for restricting abortions, although it would still allow most abortions up to five months of pregnancy.

George Whitting said the proposal weakens the 1988 GOP platform that has produced landslide elections for Republicans.

But Rita Palm of Fort Worth said the proposal strengthens the Republican's anti-abortion stand in light of last year's U.S. Supreme Court ruling that opened the door for states to restrict abortions.

He would then pitch a spade on dummy's ace of diamonds, cash dummy's spade ace, ruff a spade with the seven of hearts and then try to drop a singleton heart king. His only loser would be that king of hearts.

The trump lead posed some problems, but none of them too serious. Declarer's assumption was that East held the heart king. So he put up the jack in dummy. When that held, he played a second heart, finessing. But West now took the king.

At this point, if West did not hold the king of spades, a spade lead would shipwreck declarer. But West led a club. Declarer won the ace and was now saved by the strong diamond suit. He overtook his king of diamonds with dummy's ace and ran the jack of diamonds, discarding a club when East followed low. Another diamond brought the queen from East, and declarer got back to dummy with the spade ace to shed his black-suit losers on the good diamonds. Six hearts was a good contract, but West's imaginative lead deserved a better fate.

Astrograph

by Bernice Bede Osol

June 30, 1990

Once you commit yourself to a course of action in the year ahead, don't look back. Your ability to select the route will be good, so don't let self-doubts convince you otherwise.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Let sleeping dogs lie today, especially where volatile domestic issues are concerned. You might bring up an old disagreement you thought was resolved, only to watch it unravel before your eyes. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Losing your cool or getting aggressive over something you thought should have been taken care of by another will only generate a heated response. Suffer in silence.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Being either too tight fisted or too loose with your money today could bring about the same consequences: poor value received for the dollars you spend.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't let others get you involved in something today which you feel does not serve your best interests. It's better to say "no" up front than to nurse regrets later.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Inconsiderate treatment of others will invoke a similar response toward you today. Whatever you dish out you can bet on getting back.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Have fun and enjoy yourself today, but try to do it as inexpensively as possible. Pick pals and places you know you can afford and leave your credit cards at home.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If your objectives are not well defined today your progress could be impeded. Without direction you may take one step forward and two steps backwards.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today you might hear some rather juicy gossip. You'll know the greater portion of it is unfounded, yet you might be tempted to repeat it total.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Attention should be devoted today to discharging an old social obligation. If you fail to do so, it will only create anguish for you at a later date.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) An important decision you hope to make today could be stymied by a strong-willed opponent. This person's cooperation will be needed in order for you to proceed.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A greater portion of the day could slip by without you accomplishing anything of note if you allow yourself to be mentally overwhelmed by what needs to be done.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't waste time and effort today trying to change something you do not have the power to alter. Instead of beating your head up against a wall, use it to think your way around it.

Wimbledon...

Ivan Lendl advances

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Ivan Lendl returned to his roots to describe his passion for winning Wimbledon, and gave more signs that the dream may be about to become reality.

Lendl needed just 78 minutes to defeat Jakob Hlasek of Switzerland 6-1, 6-3, 6-0 Thursday to reach the third round. Both winner and loser said Lendl had improved on grass — and Lendl said he could get even better.

"I can definitely make more first serves, I know that," said the top seed, who added his game should improve as the courts get harder and quicker during the two-week tournament.

Unsuccessful in 10 previous trips to Wimbledon, Lendl has devoted his spring to winning this year, skipping the French Open to get more practice on grass courts.

Uncomfortable with English words such as obsession or fixation, the world's top tennis player looked to his native language for a proper term to express his desire.

Try "zazrany," he said, offering a word Czechoslovaks use to describe an ingrained yearning. That, he said, is how much he wants to capture the only major title to elude his grasp.

Zazrany, which is pronounced za-zhra'-nee, is based on the verb "zrat" that describes the way an animal devours its food. That pretty well describes what Lendl did to Hlasek.

Lendl lost just four games, the fewest he has given up in a match in his 11 years at Wimbledon.

Martina Navratilova, the women's second seed, also returned to her roots. She made her first appearance of the year on Centre Court, where she has captured a record-tying eight singles crowns.

Navratilova, a Czechoslovak native who has a touch of zazrany in her quest for a coveted ninth title, swept past Anne Smith 6-2, 6-3.

Seven other seeded players advanced Thursday with Lendl and Navratilova to the third round.

Fourth women's seed Gabriela Sabatini needed a tiebreaker to finish off Anke Huber 6-2, 7-6.

Perry claims first round Hartford lead

CROMWELL, Conn. (AP) — Chris Perry, winless in five years on the tour and a non-contender for months, said leading the Greater Hartford Open even after only one round feels good.

"It's nice to be in this spot for once," he said Thursday after posting a personal-best 7-under-par 63 to take a one-stroke lead.

"It's been a while since I've been anywhere near the lead."

Steve Jones was in second, followed by five golfers tied for third at 65.

Perry, 28, had seven birdies on the 6,531-yard Tournament Players Club of Connecticut course but credits a par-saving chip and putt with giving him the opening-round lead.

Perry, who started off the 10th tee, missed the green on the downhill 194-yard, par-3 11th hole.

He said he hit a "nearly impossible shot" to within 12 feet of the hole, then putted for par.

The hole was the key because five golfers were in the clubhouse at 5-under or better and he couldn't afford to fall a stroke back so early. He followed that with three straight birdies, and said he continued to push throughout the day.

"I have a tendency to want to not be as aggressive, but today I said, 'No, I'm going to keep going for it.'"

Perry said he's been hitting the ball well lately, but his usually consistent putting has failed him.

"I really haven't made enough birdies to do that well," he said. "Today I made a few putts, and that was the difference."

Snyder Bowhunter's Association has cancelled its monthly shoot for July.

The next event for club members is the Aug. 5 competition at the association's target range.

Dorsett tries '90 comeback

NEW YORK (AP) — Tony Dorsett, the NFL's second-leading career rusher who retired from the Denver Broncos last season after injuring his knee in training camp, is attempting a comeback, according to a published report.

Dorsett, 36, is working out at the Dallas Cowboys' facilities and has instructed his agent, Witt Stewart, to contact other NFL teams. The National reported in today's editions.

"I've still got the speed and the desire to play," Dorsett told the paper. "All I need now is a call — and the ball."

Dorsett rushed for 12,739 yards in 12 seasons. He had 703 yards for Denver in 1988, his first season with the Broncos after 11 with the Cowboys.

He won the Heisman Trophy and led Pittsburgh to a national championship in 1976.

Rangers' Witt nabs 8-6 win over Twins

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — When opponents make all the timely hits or the rally-killing catches, Texas Rangers pitcher Bobby Witt sometimes wonders if there's any other kind of baseball luck besides bad.

His teammates, however, provided both Thursday: A team record-tying seven doubles and Cecil Espy's homer-robbing grab of Kirby Puckett's fly ball to carry the Rangers over the Minnesota Twins 8-6.

Three of the seven doubles — by Jack Daugherty, John Russell and Mike Stanley — came in the Rangers' five-run, six-hit second inning. Daugherty collected four hits in the game, including another double and a triple.

Espy's catch of Puckett's near-homer in the fifth inning, on which the center fielder jumped and snared the ball from beyond the fence, preserved a 7-1 lead at the time and inspired the man on the mound.

"Cecil's catch on Puckett ... that was awesome," Witt said. "It pumped me up and pumped up the whole team. When I was going bad before, that would have been a home run. Maybe things are turning around for me."

Earlier, Espy drove in his first run since Sept. 25, 1989, with an RBI single in the second inning. It was his second RBI in 65 games.

Witt started the season 0-3 with a 6.75 ERA in his first three starts — dismal enough numbers for Texas manager Bobby Valentine to send Witt to the bullpen on April 26. He resurfaced in the starting rotation on May 6, and in his last nine starts before Thursday's game was 3-5 with a 4.92 ERA.

His last start before facing the Twins, however, was his shortest of the season — 3 2-3 innings in an 8-6 loss.

He rebounded with seven innings of one-run ball against the Twins before turning over the game to the ineffective hands of relievers Jamie Moyer, Brad Arnsberg and Kenny Rogers, who gave up five runs in the final two innings.

Dr. Gott Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband has emphysema and has difficulty breathing — primarily in the afternoon when he tires. What's your advice?

DEAR READER: Emphysema is a chronic lung disease marked by destruction of alveoli, the feathery air sacs that provide for the elimination of waste carbon dioxide and intake of fresh oxygen by lung tissue.

Patients with emphysema experience difficulty exhaling stale air; the lungs become over-expanded because of retained carbon dioxide. This leads to breathlessness and difficulty breathing on exertion.

Because emphysema patients have to work so hard simply to breathe, their respiratory muscles tire easily; hence, the affliction typically worsens as the day wears on or during exercise.

Emphysema is a common consequence of cigarette smoking, air pollution, repeated respiratory infections and asthma.

There are several ways your husband can improve his breathing.

First, he should be given antibiotics for any pulmonary infection, no matter how trivial, because even small areas of infection can further compromise his already overworked respiratory system.

Also, if he is prone to asthma (spasm of bronchial passages), he would be helped by bronchodilators, drugs to relax the airways and permit him to breathe more easily. Bronchodilators are available by prescription in pills, liquid and aerosols.

Second, your husband should have respiratory therapy by a qualified professional. Mucus plugs can be dislodged and coughed up by gravity drainage as part of a treatment program including nebulized drugs administered by vapor from a machine. Further, special breathing exercises, taught by an inhalation therapist, may enable your husband to learn how to use accessory breathing muscles (in the chest wall and between the ribs) to compensate for the over-work of breathing.

Third, low-flow oxygen, delivered from a tank or oxygen concentrator through a plastic tube to the nose, may make your husband more comfortable by supplying the extra oxygen he so desperately needs. The oxygen can be used constantly or, preferably, intermittently to control symptoms, relieve breathlessness and permit him more independence.

Fourth, you should make every effort to ensure clean air in your husband's environment. Prohibit smoking in the house or anywhere near him. Use air conditioners and air purifiers when applicable. If he has allergies, such as hay fever, consult an allergist to determine if treatment, such as desensitization shots, might be of benefit.

Finally, consider having your husband seen by a pulmonologist, a doctor specializing in lung disorders. This physician may be able to offer specific advice to assist your husband.

Although emphysema is permanent and incurable, there are many ways to treat the disease and make patients' breathing easier.

Oilfield theft reported Thursday

The theft of more than $800 in oilfield tubing was reported to the Scurry County sheriff's department on Thursday.

The theft report was made about 3 p.m. by Stanley Martin who said 1,100 feet of tubing was taken from an oil well location in the Shannon Ranch field just east of Fluvanna.

At 4:35 p.m., the sheriff's office received a report from Peggy Vernon of Circle Inn Drive-in Grocery that a customer had paid for $9 worth of gasoline, but had left with $10 worth of merchandise.

Cogdell budget approved

requested $225,000 in ad valorem taxes represents only 2.9 percent of the projected operating expenses of $7.85 million.

"All along, you have envisioned Cogdell as having the potential to become a regional medical center. This budget clearly indicates that we are making steady progress toward that goal," Hochwalt read from a prepared statement. "All of the key elements are coming together. Those elements include a top-notch medical staff of physicians who are committed to our community as well as a visionary board of managers who support aggressive but controlled growth."

Hochwalt told the board that the 1991 budget is strongly related on four key assumptions: 1) the retention of existing physicians; 2) favorable renewal of contracts with the Texas Department of Criminal Justice; 3) the recruitment of one family practitioner by July 1991; and 4) an increase of $10 in room rates (excluding long-term care), $10 in CCU rates, and seven percent in ancillary rates, effective Jan. 1, 1991.

The budget also calls for seven day/night emergency room coverage at $41 per hour. The present budget has a contract for six day/night ER coverage at $37.75, through Dec. 31.

The budget was unanimously approved, with all board members present.

The board later agreed to extend a contract for family practitioner recruitment with Tyler and Company for 90 days, for $4,500. Managers also gave their okay for members of the local medical staff to be reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses and lost wages when a staff member is actively recruiting for the hospital.

Tabled was a request for $3,000 to purchase a break power system which would allow the hospital's telephone system to operate for 45 minutes on battery packs in the event of a loss of power. Board members expressed that 45 minutes might not be long enough, and asked Hochwalt to study other alternatives to providing emergency power. It was stressed that the hospital does have an emergency backup system for power in case of an emergency or disaster, but it does not include access to the telephones.

The monthly financial report indicated the hospital showed a net income of $41,397 for May as opposed to a loss of $100,946 in May of 1989. For the year-to-date, Cogdell indicates a net income of $227,506, compared to a loss of $146,032 over the same period of time in 1989.

The hospital's cash balance at the end of the month stood at $1,456,677.

The acute average daily census at the hospital for May was 16.8 patients. Acute admissions were 99. There were 47 surgeries performed and 13 newborns. There were 559 emergency room visits.

It was noted that surgeries have increased by 18.1 percent, from 203 to 241, over last year.

Also approved Thursday were medical staff privileges for emergency room physicians, the quality assurance and hazardous materials report and the minutes of past meetings.

Chairman G.A. Parks presided. Other members present were Jackie Smith, Bill Wilson III, Roy McQueen, Brenda Hedges and Jim Palmer. Present from the Commissioners Court were County Judge Bobby Goodwin, Commissioners Tommy Pate and C.D. Gray Jr., Auditor Linda Franklin and Treasurer Rita Staton.

Snyder firemen answer 2 calls

Snyder firemen responded to a pair of minor calls Thursday. The first came at 11:05 a.m. and was a fire inside a city garbage truck. There was no damage to the truck.

At 8:50 p.m., the department was called to 1000 33rd to put out a small grass fire.

An army of Texans led by Sam Houston defeated Mexican soldiers April 21, 1836, at San Jacinto, assuring the independence of Texas.

Sausage

good for another four to five months.

Hopping said the sausage is a whole hog sausage which means it contains all of the meat parts, including ham and pork chops.

He noted that sausage sold in supermarkets contains about 25-35 per cent fat, used to hold the meat together during cooking.

The FFA sausage is very lean and contains only about 10 percent fat. It is processed in such a way that the meat will hold together while cooking either as a breakfast meat or a sausage burger cooked on a grill.

Hopping stressed though that as with all pork, the FFA sausage has to be cooked to at least 140 degrees for 5-6 minutes.

He said they have approximately 500 two-pound bags of sausage which are now on sale for $5.50 each. Though this price is slightly higher than at the supermarket, Hopping stressed that it is whole hog sausage and leaner than most found in the supermarket.

Anyone wishing to purchase this sausage may contact the ag department at 573-0579. Also, Barry Cribbs at the Feed Store, will have a small supply of sausage at his store. In addition, he will take orders for the FFA chapter.

If time permits, orders will be delivered. Donations will also be welcome and if the donor so chooses, Hopping said, they will deliver the sausage to whomever the donor designates, such as needy families, shut-ins and the elderly.

The FFA chapter is hoping to raise about $3,500 to recoup its losses. Since the project started, expenses incurred include $25 a head for the sows and $1,500 for feed. Other expenses included having the meat butchered and chilled, in addition to the cost of obtaining the rubber plate and bags.

All monies will benefit the FFA chapter. In particular, Hopping said he wants to be able to pay the FFA members who won around $1,300 during their 1989-90 FFA stock show.

Hopping especially likes this project because producing sausage involves all of the classes he teaches as well as utilizes the ag department's meats lab. In the food technology class, students are taught how to process both livestock and vegetables. They learn how food gets from the producer to the processor and all about the middle man in between.

He also teaches a meats judging class, which helps prepare FFA students for involvement in the sausage making process.

The animal science class teaches the cost of production.

He said this is the first time that the meats lab has been used for a full scale operation. In the past, it has been used for smaller jobs such as processing a deer.

The FFA chapter has been issued a 90-day permit and during that time period they can only use the meats lab to process sausage.

The permit will be renewed in the fall. A three-month permit works well since the chapter is not involved in the process year around.

He said they are currently raising new babies of the first sows they purchased several months ago.

Hopping said very few FFA chapters in the state have this type of operation. He added that the Texas Department of Health in Abilene told him that Snyder's FFA chapter is the only one in this part of the state to offer the program.

Mobil 3D seismic project is underway

This is a phenomenon in which large sections of the limestone reservoir erode and collapse, creating "caverns" of high porosity and often prolific production.

If the "caving" concept, which was advanced by Mobil explorationist Bill Purves, proves valid, it could set off a flurry of 3D Ellenburger inspection throughout the Basin. "If it works here, it will work in almost any field," said geophysicist Lloyd Weathers.

Weathers said the geological concept evolved about two years ago, when a 2D survey indicated that the caving anomaly might exist.

He noted that the company now normally considers the more expensive 3D as a first choice rather than a second choice. Total cost of the Mobil project, which is being shot by Western Geophysical and was designed and managed by Geostat of Midland, is slightly under $1 million. But in the scope of extensive development plans for the field which could get under way in 1991, that amount is considered a bargain. Mobil calculates that the elimination of one dry hole could pay for the entire cost of the survey.

Underwood says the 3D seismic survey reduces the risk of drilling a well from about nine-in-one to four-in-one. He noted that it also can be used to guide the drilling bit in horizontal projects that can greatly improve production.

He predicts that sooner or later nearly every field in the Permian Basin will be subjected to a 3D survey in an effort to find additional trapped oil or by-passed oil. He said declining cost is bringing the 3D technology into the camp of the independent oilman, through the use of smaller and more powerful computers.

When completed in August, the Mobil survey will be delivered to Bill Purves and Andy Hooker of Mobil for processing on a Landmark work station.

Mobil says the seismic data will be used for many years to guide development of the field from the Ellenburger through shallower zones, and would be used to modify its waterflood project in the field.

Mobil, like most major oil companies, does not comment on reserves and declined to reveal potential reserve increases for the Pegasus Field after 3D-guided development. But there is anticipation that the survey and consequent development will yield significant production increases.

Enthusiasm for the project is running so high on the Geoscience Technical Team that Weathers hosted a barbecue to which all employees of the Midland office were invited for a briefing.

However, Dan Zivney, asset manager of the Pegasus Field, said seismic data collected from the field had not yet been analyzed and that it was too premature to become too optimistic. "At this point any speculation about potential recovery is pure speculation," he said.

"We will now be able to take a much closer look at all of the reservoirs with the 3D survey," said Zivney, "and we will be able to better optimize our waterflood."

Rupert Short

1910-1990

LULING — Graveside services for former Snyder resident Rupert Short were held today at 2 p.m. at Luling City Cemetery with Rev. John Berkley, pastor of First United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial was under the direction of O'Bannon Funeral Home.

Mr. Short died at 12:30 a.m. Thursday at Presbyterian Hospital in Dallas following a lengthy illness.

He was born April 6, 1910, in Luling and married Virginia Short in 1940. She preceded him in death June 11. Mr. Short was employed by Sun Pipeline from 1935 until his retirement in 1969. He was a member of the Methodist Church.

He is survived by three daughters, Gretchen Molmen of Houston, Daphne Jones of Atlanta, Ga., and Deborah Hall of Dallas; a brother, Raymond Short of San Antonio; two sisters, Joyce Strain of San Antonio and Emma Bea Oltersdorf of Del Rio; and six grandchildren.

The family suggests that in lieu of flowers, memorials be made to a fund established for Mr. Short's step-grandson who is in intensive care at Methodist Hospital in San Antonio after being critically injured in a recent accident. Memorials can be made payable to Ronald Molmen and mailed to First Gibraltar Savings, 414 Uvalde, Houston, Tex., 77015.

Petroleum museum shows area's oil heritage

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — The creature on the rock has several sets of legs extending in front of his rather odd-shaped shell and head. Laying beside it is something that looks like a prehistoric bug.

To the left, right and rear of the pair are other strange looking animals, plants and rocks.

Directly in front of the odd assortment of creatures is a little boy peering through his glasses and scratching his head.

"My aquarium doesn't have any of these," Joey Woodfin, 7, said.

Joey and his father, Joseph Woodfin of Dallas, recently toured the Petroleum Museum and spent much of their time in the Marine Diorama.

The exhibit replicates life of creatures of the Permian Sea about 230 million years ago.

The Marine Diorama exhibit was popular with young Joey, but older sister Sharly, 12, decided that the paintings depicting the history of the Permian Basin were the most interesting.

"I like the cowboy and Indian paintings," she said. "I like the pictures of the cave drawings, too."

The Woodfins started the tour by listening and watching the Living Map, located at the front of the museum.

A circular platform holds the Living Map and visitors can look down into the circle and see how the Permian Basin formed and what area it now encompasses.

About 60,000 visitors visit the museum a year, said Edward Rowland, director of the museum.

Fourteen people are employed with the museum and the volunteer work force numbers about 175.

After leaving the Living Map, visitors can choose a stroll through the early cultural history of the Permian Basin. Ranching and the railroad are tied into the exhibits that describe the beginning of the oil boom in this area.

One exhibit that Woodfin was busy pointing out to his children was the Santa Rita No. 1 painting and exhibit area.

"Santa Rita was the patron saint of impossible tasks," he read from a marker. "That well was supposed to have been the one that brought the first big oil boom to this area."

Rowland said the well was recently closed after being in use since 1923. The last oil from the well was given to the Petroleum Museum and will soon be on exhibit.

The Woodfins were able to observe how the geologic development of the Permian Basin took place and how cable-tool and rotary drilling techniques were used.

The Boomtown and Memorabilia Room shows what oilfield life was like in the 1920s and a Multi-Screen Theatre gives a fast-paced overview of oil from ancient uses to future needs.

Touring the museum alone or in small groups without a docent is no problem. Recorded voices activated by a button near the exhibit explain the display or painting in view.

"Well, hello there," a voice said before describing an airplane on display that was used for "leak-looking."

The indoor exhibits also include a chance to play the "Oil Game." Pushing a button causes an arrow to spin until it lands on one of several possible oil outcomes. Try again, bust and large oil well are a few of the categories.

Texans not fond of Yanks

DALLAS (AP) — Like New York? Take I-30 east.

Noticing bumper stickers like this on cars with Texas plates, many newcomers from the Northeast suspect that Texans, as a rule, don't think much of them. Now there's a scholarly work to back up that hunch.

Native Texans were surveyed by two professors from Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos to find out how they feel about folks north of the Mason-Dixon Line.

"The term Yankee just conjures up something unpleasant for Texans," said Bryon D. Augustin after getting responses from 787 Texans.

After a student accused him of failing to understand a point because he is a Yankee, Augustin was inspired to perform the survey. A Texas resident for 12 years, Augustin admits he was born in Nebraska.

Dennis E. Fitzimons, a California product, was his survey partner. The two, members of SWTSU's geography and planning department, published their conclusions in the Geographical Bulletin, a journal printed in Michigan.

Questionnaires to be completed by native-born Texans were given to 110 of the professors' students during the Thanksgiving holiday. The students returned surveys from folks living in 127 of the state's 254 counties.

Listing the 50 states in alphabetical order, the questionnaire asked respondents to place an "X" next to those they thought Yankees hailed from. It then asked them to jot down one word that best described a Yankee.

But some words used to describe Yankees defied publication.

Willie didn't always have IRS on mind

WASHINGTON (AP) — Willie Nelson didn't always have the IRS on his mind when he rose to music fame in the 1970s and early 1980s.

A settlement Nelson reached with Internal Revenue Service over disputed taxes dating back to 1972 found him in violation of tax code sections on negligence, failure to file a tax return and failure to pay taxes.

Nelson will pay $6.5 million in personal and business taxes and penalties, according to U.S. Tax Court documents made available Thursday.

Among Nelson's best known songs are "You Were Always On My Mind," "On The Road Again," and "My Heroes Have Always Been Cowboys."

Nelson did not return phone messages left at his motel in Powell, Wyo., where he will perform tonight. Nelson's attorney, Charles Meadows Jr. of Dallas, said he would not discuss the case.

Tax Court Judge Mary Ann

Cohen approved the settlement June 6.

Nelson's tax trouble began in October 1984 when Internal Revenue Service investigators alleged he owed $1.6 million in back taxes for 1972 through 1978. In May 1988, the IRS charged he owed another $9.4 million for 1979 through 1983. The IRS assessed hundreds of thousands of dollars in penalties both times.

The singer disputed the charges in lawsuits filed in U.S. Tax Court in 1985 and 1988.

Documents indicate Nelson must pay $5.8 million in personal taxes and a penalty of about $500,000. His music company must pay about $139,000 in taxes plus a penalty of about $29,000.

The IRS initially charged Nelson with civil tax fraud, saying he understated his taxable income through unreported earnings and improper deductions.

But Judge Cohen assessed no penalty under the fraud provisions of the tax code.
