Fire victim...

Local man injured in morning accident

A 41-year-old Snyder man was transferred at 10:15 a.m. today to a Lubbock Hospital after suffering second and third degree burns in an oil field-related accident.

15 killed in explosion near Houston

CHANNELVIEW, Texas (AP) — An explosion and fire ripped through a section of a chemical plant "like a rocket just took off," killing at least 15 workers, authorities and witnesses said. One person was missing and five were injured.

The explosion occurred around 11:30 p.m. Thursday at the Atlantic Richfield Co. chemical plant in this Houston suburb. The 564-acre complex employs about 350 people.

"It's a terrible tragedy," plant manager Earl McCaleb said this morning, his voice breaking with emotion.

None of the victims was immediately identified. Four of the injured were treated and released from hospitals. One was admitted, but details surrounding the injured were not immediately available.

Harris County Sheriff's Department spokeswoman Linda Prouse said 15 fatalities were confirmed by late this morning. One worker remained unaccounted for, she said.

The blast occurred in a utility area, a remote section that provides cooling, water and steam for plant operations. The exploded tank contained wastewater and some hydrocarbons, McCaleb said.

Usually, only five ARCO employees are assigned there, McCaleb said. Outside contract employees also were there (see 15 DEAD, page 8) ing second and third degree burns in an oil field-related accident.

Jimmy Wilson received burns over 25 to 30 percent of his body after fire erupted as he was preparing to pump oil from a local well site into a hot oil truck.

At noon today, local fire officials said the exact cause of the fire was undetermined.

The accident was reported at 7:20 a.m. and three fire units were dispatched to the site 18 miles southwest of Snyder and approximately one mile south of Knapp, across from the Exxon Co. USA Sharon Ridge Unit.

The hot oil truck being operated by Wilson is owned by BHP Petroleum, fire officials say. Wilson also operates Jim's Welding Works here in Snyder.

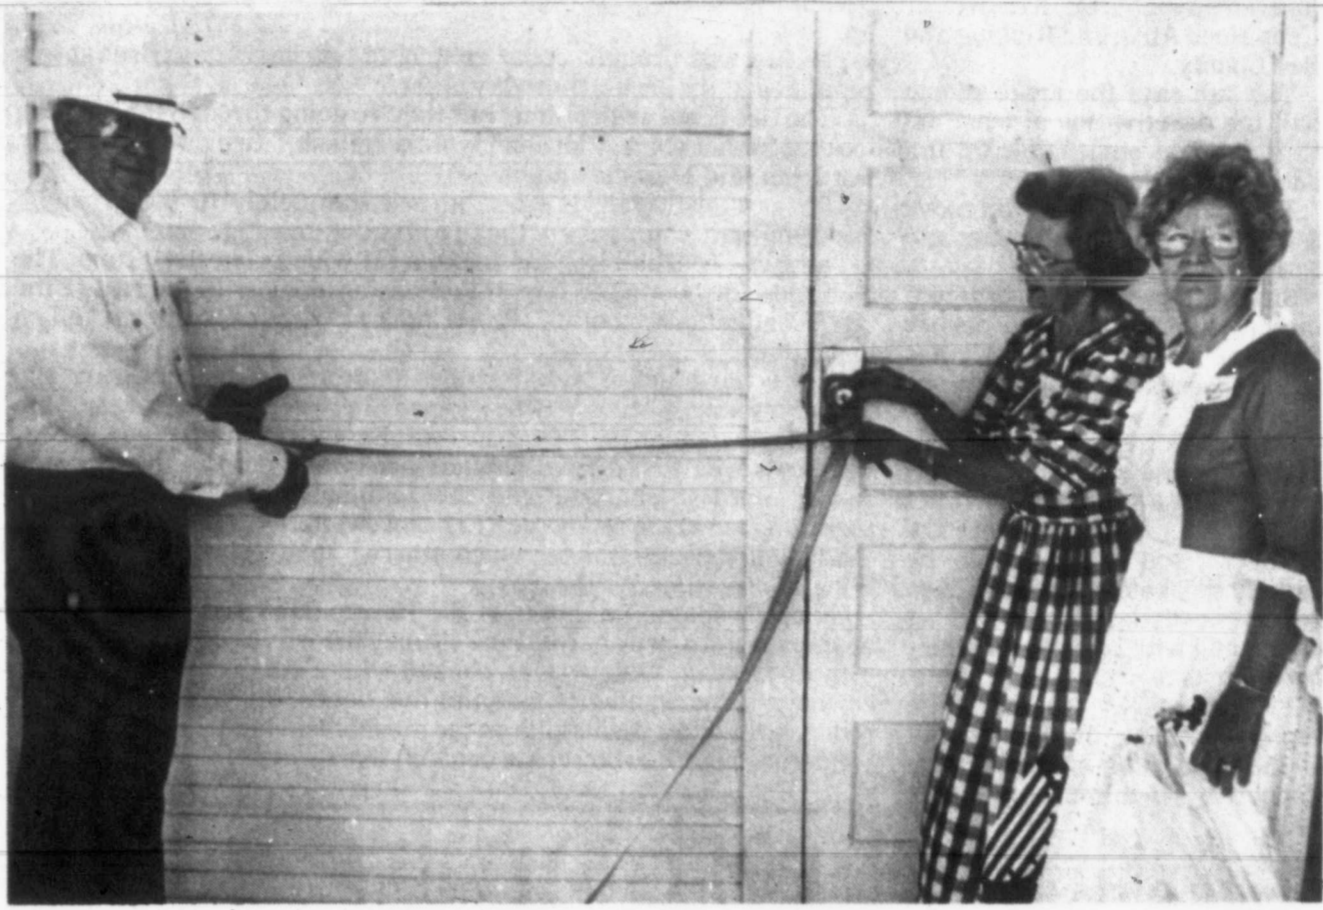

Fire units worked some 1½ hours to douse the burning truck and a minor grass fire which ignited as a result of the blaze.

Wilson reportedly was brought part-way into Snyder by an individual who happened on the scene. In the meantime, Snyder EMS had been dispatched and, after meeting the other vehicle, transported Wilson to Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

He remained in the trauma room there until being transported by emergency helicopter to Lubbock University Medical Center at 10:15 a.m. today.

Dermott School dedicated during July 4 ceremonies

Dermott School, now restored and renovated, was officially dedicated as part of local Fourth of July activities.

The brief ceremony included the transfer of keys to the building from the Scurry County Historical Commission, which acquired the school several years ago, to Historic Scurry County Inc., which will now maintain and operate it.

As the ceremony got underway, Billy Bob McMullan, past president of Scurry County Historical Commission, handed the keys to Bernhard Bartels, president of Historic Scurry Co.

Awards for "outstanding service" were presented to Roy and Geleska Baze and McMullan. Bartels presented the award to the Bazes and Earl "Hassie" Sneed presented McMullan's award.

All three recipients were commended for their work and dedication to the restoration process.

The inscription on the Bazes' plaque read, "...life membership to Scurry County Heritage Village in appreciation of undertaking the reconstruction of the Cornelius-Dodson House fence and of outstanding financial sup-

The feller on Deep Creek says, "We handled it better before somebody invented the chill factor and the heat index."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

Everybody's moaning about the heat, and W. H. Cooke of the Rockdale Reporter says the hot weather is caused by the Arabs.

"It's not enough that we are making them rich by buying their oil, but it's this very thing that is causing the heat."

"Think, the earth turns on its axis. So does a wagon wheel. And everybody knows that the old timers had to keep plenty of axle grease to keep it from getting so hot the wheel would refuse to turn. The earth's axis is no more than an enormous axle."

"The Arabs have taken so much oil out of the earth there is not enough left to drop down and grease the axle. What we have is an axis hot box that is heating up the whole earth."

"When we stop buying Arab oil, the earth cools off, and the weather follows suit."

James Roberts, in the Andrews County News, says the heat reminded him about three guys who died in a private plane crash in California.

The mortician decided to cremate their remains before shipping them back home. One from Alabama was thrust into the furnace and the heat adjusted. A couple of hours later, the ashes were deposited into a small box and returned to Alabama.

The same treatment was given to the man from Mississippi. Two hours later, his ashes were on the way back to Mississippi.

The third guy was from Lamesa. After two hours, the attendant opened the furnace door. He slammed it shut and turned up the heat control a couple of notches.

Two hours later, he looked inside and decided more heat was needed. Finally, after six hours, the attendant opened the door. Out stepped the Texan who declared: "Jumping Jehoshaphat! If it's as hot out here as it is in there, we're gonna kill all the cotton."

Vehicle nose dives over county bridge

A 16-year-old Snyder girl escaped injury Thursday evening after her vehicle jumped a 2-ft. high bridge curbing and ended up nose-down in the adjacent creek bed.

The mishap occurred around 7:10 p.m. on FM 1606 some 10.5 miles south of Snyder.

Troopers for the Department of Public Safety said Melanie Ann Carpenter temporarily lost control of the vehicle, a 1990 Chevrolet Storm, after attempting to recover spilled food.

She looked away from the roadway and, after looking back and seeing the approaching bridge, apparently overcompensated in attempting to right her auto.

As a result, she jumped the curbing at the north side of the bridge, according to DPS reports.

She was taken from the scene by a passing motorist and subsequently notified the sheriff's office.

The owner of the vehicle was listed as Joe Carpenter of 3403 Jacksboro.

Guard classes set to begin at college

The latest correctional officer classes at Western Texas College will begin within days of each other — with the first to hold registration Saturday.

Registration for the college's next evening guard class will be held on Saturday with eight students scheduled to enroll.

Seventeen students are expected to enroll Monday in the college's second daytime guard class. Some 16 students received certification in the first daytime class.

Students who complete the 120-hour guard classes are certified by the Texas Department of Criminal Justice for employment in the state's prison system. Sixty-one people applied for the two guard classes. Of those 25 were approved by the TDCJ.

Mike Thornton, dean of the college's continuing education department, said that eight is a small enrollment, but the evening course will be held anyway.

"Since there are 25 students in all and the classes are running concurrently, we were able to save some monies that way," he explained. "It's going to work out fine. We're pleased."

The daytime class will graduate July 27, while the evening class graduates on Aug. 2. Daytime classes meet Monday through Friday while the evening classes meet only three times a week.

J.D. Barham, correctional officer academy instructor at WTC, noted that the next daytime academy will begin Sept. 10. Prospective students may apply from July 30 through Aug. 10.

Some 154 people have been certified through the program at Western Texas College.

Q—When is the six-man all-star football game going to be held in Stephenville?
A—The game will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday, July 21. There will also be a boys' all-star basketball game at 8 p.m. on Friday, July 20, and a girls' basketball game at 3 p.m. on Saturday, July 21. Area all-stars include Jason Withers of Ira in football and Tisha Crumly of Hermleigh in basketball.

In Brief Brief strike

EAST BERLIN (AP) — Thousands of East German workers brought industries to a brief halt to press demands for better pay, as prices in this new free-market society skyrocketed in some places.

Prime Minister Lothar de Maiziere criticized the price rises and said costs of some foodstuffs varied by 100 percent from one region to another.

"There's no way that can be justified merely by higher transportation costs or overhead," he told legislators Thursday.

The East German news agency ADN reported price rises of 400 percent to 600 percent in the northern Mecklenburg and Pomerania regions and said there were long shopping lines in the southeastern city of Dresden.

Crash probe

SEATTLE (AP) — A single-engine plane that crashed into Mount Rainier earlier this week, killing all five people aboard, had a spotless safety record, a transportation official said.

"We went into our system, which goes from 1984 to the present, and there were no records of any incidents or accidents against this aircraft."

Economist tells of possible damage from deactivation

WACO, Texas (AP) — A federal judge considering a request for an injunction to keep the Army from deactivating the 2nd Armored Division has been told that the area around Fort Hood will suffer severe economic damage if the deactivation proceeds.

M. Ray Perryman, a Baylor University economist, said Thursday that the Killeen-Copperas Cove-Harker Heights area would lose between 41,000 and 45,000 people if the division is shut down as planned.

The move would empty almost a quarter of the area's housing units and open up commercial space equivalent to a large shopping mall, he said.

"Unlike Austin and Bergstrom Air Force Base, or the San Antonio area with its five military bases, the Killeen-Harker Heights-Copperas Cove area has almost every aspect of its economy tied to the military," Perryman testified. "Everything is intertwined with the presence of Fort Hood."

The hearing was conducted by U.S. District Judge Walter S. Smith Jr. on a request for an injunction sought by KHAKI, or Keep Hood Alive and Kicking and Bell County.

The suit says the judge should halt the deactivation at least until a detailed environmental impact study is done.

The Army has said it will move 3,552 soldiers by September and 8,000 more by July 1991.

Smith denied a government motion to dismiss the case earlier this week. He said KHAKI has raised issues that need to be heard.

Perryman's estimate includes the 12,200 soldiers in the 2nd Armored, 600 civil servants scheduled to be laid off with the soldiers and 6,591 jobs he estimated would be cut from businesses that make their living by trading with soldiers and their dependents.

The population figure represents more than 30 percent of the population of the Killeen-Copperas Cove-Harker Heights area.

Fire erupts in landmark Gilley's Bar

PASADENA, Texas (AP) — Gilley's, the landmark country western honkytonk left vacant for more than a year because of a bitter legal battle, was devastated by a fire that may have snuffed out any hope of reopening the giant club.

A fire erupted in the club Thursday afternoon, sending black smoke billowing through sections of the steel roof. The interior was gutted but the structure was left standing.

"I've seen Gilley's club grow from nothing," said Pasadena Fire Chief Jay Boyer. "Now it's back to the ground again."

The blaze swept through the 70,000-square-foot warehouse-like structure, and fire units from several area departments rushed to the scene. Firefighters had trouble getting into the building because its doors were welded shut and its windows were boarded up.

The fire was brought under control in two hours, but firefighters remained at the scene Thursday night.

"The fire is out at this time, but they're going through the building looking for hot spots. The don't want a reflash," fire dispatcher J.D. Bordelon said Thursday night.

"It's not destroyed. It's not burned completely to the ground," Bordelon said. The cause of the fire is under investigation.

The story of Gilley's could make a hit country western tune. The club rode the boom-and-bust rollercoaster along with the rest of the oil-dependent area, but it failed to make a comeback after it fell on hard times.

It is the hard-luck story of fortunes made and friendships lost.

Country singer Mickey Gilley joined Sherwood Cryer in ownership of the club — which had been known as Shelly's — in 1971.

Gilley's was just a local popular honkytonk club in this Houston suburb until it charged into the national limelight after being romanticized in the hit movie "Urban Cowboy."

Much of the 1980 movie, which starred John Travolta and Debra Winger, was filmed in the club.

Gilley's became the hot spot for Houstonians and many visitors anxious to get a peek at what the cowboy life was like.

In its heyday, Gilley's was packed with thousands of "drugstore cowboys" who wanted to listen to live bands, dance alongside real rednecks and test their skills on the mechanical bull.

But the urban cowboy craze couldn't live forever.

According to Mickey Gilley, trouble began in 1983 when he complained to Cryer that the club was deteriorating.

"He said, 'Don't tell me how to run my club, and I won't tell you how to sing.' I told him, 'I helped you build this club, I can help destroy it.' It turned into a war," Gilley told the Houston Chronicle in an interview last year.

The friends' war advanced to the courtroom. Gilley emerged victorious, while Cryer left with a court order to pay almost $16 million in damages for breaching his financial duty to Gilley.

Cryer later declared bankruptcy.

The surprise shutdown of the world-famous club last March followed a break in and theft of electronic equipment at Gilley's Recording Studio adjacent to the club.

Mickey Gilley's attorneys and a court-appointed receiver, suggesting that the burglary was an inside job, obtained court permission to close the bar to protect assets.

After the club was shut down, Gilley said he was out of the club business for the moment. He added, however, that he might lend his name to another nightclub if the right investor came along.

But then the fire erupted Thursday, leaving behind a twisted, blackened mass of metal and wood that seemed to douse any thoughts of revival.

"It's history. It's not going to be there anymore," said one woman who went to see what was left of the Texas tradition. "It's sad."

"You know, I spent 18 years there," said resident Kathy Wahl. "It's like your home going up."

Johnny Garner was more optimistic.

"There'll always be a Gilley's. Nobody can change that," he said.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: For three years, I've experienced involuntary muscle contractions. They involve my legs, arms, head and sometimes my whole body. I've been examined for Parkinson's, thyroid, heart and nervous conditions, and all results have been negative. Muscle relaxants provide temporary relief, but eventually become ineffective. Do you have any suggestions?

DEAR READER: The symptoms you describe are challenging because they can result from a host of causes, ranging from alcohol abuse to multiple sclerosis, one of many neurological diseases characterized by loss of nerve-tissue insulation (myelin). Because your doctors have been unable to diagnose your condition, I believe you should be examined and tested by neurology specialists in a teaching hospital. Such specialists are trained to diagnose unusual conditions; in addition, they have sophisticated equipment that may not be available to ordinary practicing physicians.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Medical Specialists." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What is the cause and treatment of spinal stenosis?

DEAR READER: Spinal stenosis, an uncommon form of sciatica, is a condition marked by narrowing of the spinal canal in the lower back. This exerts pressure on the nerve roots before they exit from the spinal column. Symptoms include back and buttock pain that radiates into the thighs and calves. This pain is usually worsened by standing, bending and lifting; it is relieved by rest. As the condition progresses, numbness and weakness may appear.

Spinal stenosis is caused by several diseases that affect bones, such as osteoarthritis, Paget's disease (a metabolic disorder characterized by areas of rapid bone destruction and regrowth) and spondylolisthesis (forward displacement of one vertebra over another).

Initial treatment consists of bed rest, pain medication, physical therapy and special back-strengthening exercises. If these measures fail to relieve symptoms, patients must consider decompression laminectomy, an operation in which part of the vertebral bones are removed, to release pressure on the nerves. This operation (as well as the non-surgical therapy) is similar to the treatment for a herniated disc, a more common cause of sciatica, which also pinches spinal nerves.

Dear Abby

Woman's Positive Self-Image Lightens Burden of Her Weight

By Abigail Van Buren
1990 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "Looking Beyond Looks" — the fat woman who had been humiliated, insulted and ridiculed by total strangers because of her weight. I have a different story to tell:

As a 21-year-old bride, I weighed 126 pounds. (I'm 5 foot 3.) Over the years, I gradually put on weight. I'm now 65 years old and weigh 245 pounds. Although I'd love to be slim to have more choice in clothes, no diet ever worked for me, so now I just don't worry about my weight.

I've always been able to get any job I applied for, and I've never lost a day's work due to illness. People always guess my age to be at least 10 years younger than I am, and I've never experienced any rejection or rude comments because of my weight. I am well-proportioned, have a waistline — large as it is — and wear a 20 1/2 dress.

After 25 years of marriage, my husband died, and since then I've been having a wonderful love affair with a charming, slender man. I still get very positive attention from men, and I feel attractive. Last year, when I was at the beach in Europe with my boyfriend — if you can visualize me in a swimsuit — I was actually pursued by a good-looking Italian, much to the ire of my friend!

Abby, the point I want to make is this. I feel attractive, and am, therefore, treated that way. It's a matter of self-image. So let's dispel the myth that fat girls finish last. I'm fat, and I am ...

more than $30 billion a year on weight-loss products and programs. All too often the results are poor, and occasionally life-threatening. And federal regulators are doing very little to assure that products and procedures are safe, and that consumers aren't being ripped off by grossly misleading advertising.

According to the newsletter published by The National Association to Advance Fat Acceptance: "There are 65 million dieters in the USA — 50 percent are women and 25 percent are men. Sixty percent of all women are usually dieting in some manner. And 18 percent of all adults are constantly dieting."

I rest my case.

ENJOYING LIFE IN SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR ENJOYING LIFE: "Thin" may not be "in" much longer. Hear this:

In the first hearing of its kind, a congressional subcommittee held an informational hearing investigating the safety and effectiveness of weight-loss programs and products. Rep. Ron Wyden of Oregon said: "American consumers are spending

DEAR ABBY: Your column covers such a broad variety of interesting subjects. I find it fascinating. Please provide me with an answer to this mysterious question: Has anyone ever grown a third set of teeth?

OOPAH IN RAMONA, CALIF.

DEAR OOPAH: I asked Dr. Stan Golden, my dental consultant, who went to the root of the matter. His response: "Nature provides only two sets of teeth. Occasionally a person will grow a third tooth, but it is a rare occurrence. So, if a person is to have a third set of teeth, it will be made — by a dentist."

DEAR TED BIGHAM: Most teenagers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill.

Pleasure cruise has new meaning on Detroit River

WINDSOR, Ontario (AP) — sold. Lace and spandex peel away readily aboard the Wayward Princess, a Detroit River cruise ship where men delight in discarded G-strings and women watch musclemen shed double-breasted suits.

The 110-foot, three-decked vessel opened for a preview voyage Thursday with dozens of photographers and reporters getting the first peek at the sexy gyrations of one male and four female dancers.

"I'm doing it for the fun of it," said Jacques Beauchamp, who developed the nude-dancing cruises when his business of renting the boat for private parties waned.

Ontario strippers, unlike their Michigan counterparts, are allowed to remove all clothing in establishments where alcohol is Windsor, a city of about 195,000 people, lies across the Detroit River from Detroit. It regularly attracts U.S. visitors to downtown clubs where women dance nude on stage or, for $3 a song, atop a box next to the table.

Beauchamp had staged chartered strip shows on the Wayward Princess until Windsor officials revoked his license two years ago. The city grudgingly approved a license two weeks ago.

"Personally, I'd rather not see it," city licensing Commissioner Ronald Reaume said. "But we're not there to license the morality of the situation."

Await first child

LONDON (AP) — Viscount Althorp, the NBC television correspondent and brother of the Princess of Wales, and his wife are expecting their first child in January.

"We are both delighted," Althorp, 26, said Thursday.

Althorp and fashion model Victoria Lockwood, 25, were married last September at his family home near Northampton, 70 miles northwest of London.

Lord Althorp, Charles Edward Maurice Spencer, is the brother of the former Lady Diana Spencer, who is married to the heir to the British throne, Prince Charles. Lord Althorp joined NBC in 1987.

Texas tycoon said arrested in Barbados

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (AP) — Fugitive Texas tycoon Robert H. Walker has surfaced on this Caribbean resort island, where he was being held on a U.S. warrant accusing him of more than $50 million in insurance fraud.

Walker, 60, of Dallas, appeared briefly Thursday before Magistrate Sandra Mason, who ordered him jailed pending an extradition hearing next Thursday.

He entered no plea and made no request for bail.

Barbados police spokesman David Bourne said Walker was arrested at the request of U.S. authorities on an extradition warrant charging him with 29 counts of wire and mail fraud.

The warrant accused him of insurance fraud totaling more than $50 million between June 1987 and October 1988, Bourne said.

He said Walker was arrested Wednesday night at the Barbados Beach Village, a resort hotel he owns on the island's posh western coast where he has been living for the past three months.

Walker is wanted in Texas in connection with the multimillion-dollar collapse of his Dallas-based National County Mutual Fire Insurance Co. Walker also controlled and partially owned Western Fire and Casualty Insurance Company Ltd.

According to Texas authorities, National County Mutual, a property-casualty insurer, was more than $50 million in debt by the time it was taken over by the State Board of Insurance in October 1988.

A lawsuit filed by National County's state receiver accused Walker of concealing fraud and funneling premiums from National County to Walker-General Agency, his Dallas-based holding company that owned the insurance operation.

The state of Texas has seized some of Walker's property, including two sterling silver decorative saddles valued at $100,000 each.

A federal grand jury in Dallas indicted Walker June 12 on 29 felony counts charging he devised a scheme to defraud the insurance companies and their policyholders of millions of dollars. He is also charged with selling policies at a time when the companies did not have the means to pay claims.

The indictment ended a 16-month investigation conducted by the U.S. Postal Inspection Service at the direction of the U.S. attorney's office. The indictment was sealed until Walker's arrest.

The Supreme Court of Bermuda placed Western Fire and Casualty in liquidation and has estimated its deficits at $10 million.

If convicted, Walker faces a maximum penalty of 145 years in prison and a $7.25 million fine, and he could be ordered to pay restitution.

The size of National County's failure prompted a crisis of confidence in the state's insurance regulators, who were accused by some lawmakers of failing to act quickly enough to protect the company's estimated 100,000 customers.

Bankers will not push for second-mortgage legislation

AUSTIN (AP) — A consumer spokeswoman said bankers are smart to delay a legislative fight over allowing homeowners to take out second mortgages for such expenses as a child's college education.

"I'm not surprised at the bankers' move, because we're finding that consumers' mistrust of lenders is very high right now," said Annette LoVoi, Texas

Consumer Association president. "With the savings and loan crisis and predictions of other banking crises, bankers would be ill-advised to try to change the law to make it riskier for consumers," said Ms. LoVoi, whose group has opposed home equity lending changes.

The Texas Bankers' Association said Thursday it would not pursue second-mortgage changes in next regular legislative session, which begins in January.

The decision came after a survey showed many Texans didn't like the idea of second mortgages, probably because they fear losing their homes, the bankers said.

TBA president Robert Harris said the group decided to concentrate on an informational campaign about second-mortgage benefits before going to the Legislature.

"TBA will not pursue legislation and the necessary constitutional amendment until such time that we're convinced the majority of Texans support change," Harris said.

The case of the useless duck

By James Jacoby

Willy Nilly had been reading about ducking to break up the opponents' communications. Unfortunately he had not been reading Bill Root's "How to Play a Bridge Hand."

He was happy to accept the invitation to game with a 17-point no-trump opener and a good five-card suit. When West led the two of spades, Willy ducked in dummy. East won the king and promptly shifted to the king of hearts. Willy refused this trick also. East continued with the jack of hearts, and declarer again played low. Now East wisely changed direction, playing the 10 of spades. Willy won dummy's ace of spades and took the diamond finesse. West won the king and took two more spade tricks to set the contract two tricks.

Willy's error was failing to realize the danger of a heart shift if East was allowed to win the first trick. If the two of spades had been led from a four-card suit, declarer was safe in taking the ace of spades immediately and finessing in diamonds. If the spade two were some kind of tricky lead from a five-card suit, declarer would not be in a stronger position by allowing the opponents to win the first spade. The rule is simple: Do not avoid winning the first trick in the led suit when you can be hurt by a switch to another suit.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books. © 1990, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

LAFF-A-DAY

Memorial tourney to begin Saturday

The 1990 Snyder Country Club Golfer's Memorial Partnership tees off Saturday at 8 a.m.

The format for the event, formerly the Earl Fish Golf Tournament, is a two-man low-ball on Saturday with Sunday featuring a scramble.

Merchandise prizes are expected to top $1,200 in each flight. Along with the golf tournament, other activities have been planned at the club for participants and their families.

A long-drive contest is set for 6 p.m. today from tee No. 1 with special entertainment following at 7 p.m.

Rolls and coffee will be served golfers at 7:15 Saturday and Sunday and a 6:30 p.m. barbecue dinner and dance will highlight Saturday's activities.

President's and Championship Flights will tee off at 8 a.m. Saturday and 12:45 p.m. Sunday while First, Second and Third Flights take the course at 12:45 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. Sunday.

A free practice round is scheduled for participants today.

Wimbledon... Tourney finals taking shape

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — She's one victory from her most cherished goal. Her chief tormentor is gone. All that remains is an opponent she routinely clobbers.

It's almost too good to be true for Martina Navratilova.

The eight-time champion put herself on the brink of Wimbledon history Thursday by defeating Gabriela Sabatini 6-3, 6-4 in the women's semifinals.

But her biggest step toward an unprecedented ninth title may have come in the other semifinal, in which Zina Garrison ousted defending champion Steffi Graf, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4.

The final will be a Texas shootout. Garrison hails from Houston, while Navratilova, based in Aspen, Colo., owns a home in Fort Worth.

Navratilova had lost to Graf in the last two Wimbledon finals. She's beaten Garrison 27 of the 28 times they've played.

Graf, the deposed queen, wasted little time in anointing Navratilova as her successor.

"I think now it's pretty sure Martina's tournament," said Graf, who will be watching a women's Grand Slam final for the first time since 1986. "Zina doesn't have the game to beat Martina."

The women's champion will be determined Saturday, one day after the men's finalists were to be decided.

Ivan Lendl's eternal quest for the Wimbledon title reached its annual dead end today as the top seed lost in straight sets to the serve-and-volley artistry of Stefan Edberg.

The third-seeded Edberg did not lose his serve in the 6-1, 7-6, 6-3 victory and never was seriously threatened by a man who has made no secret of his burning desire to win the only major title to have eluded him.

Edberg, the 1988 Wimbledon champion, will play the winner of the Boris Becker-Goran Ivanisevic contest in Sunday's final.

Lendl never seemed to warm up on a chilly day and at times exhibited the wooden, mechanical play he has struggled to overcome.

Despite dedicating months of hard work to developing a serve-and-volley game, Lendl showed he still is no match at Wimbledon for a natural grass-court player such as Edberg.

It was not a case of Lendl playing poorly, however. It simply was that Edberg was too good. The Swede continually rocketed service return winners past Lendl and sent unreturnable low returns to the net-rushing Lendl.

Edberg overwhelmed an erratic Lendl with two service breaks in the opening set. After each player held his serve throughout the second set, the Swede closed out a 7-2 tie-breaker with a pair of service return winners past a shell-shocked Lendl.

Edberg broke Lendl's serve in the sixth game of the final set.

Navratilova, 33, entered Wimbledon in the shadows of Graf and teen-age sensation Monica Seles. She skipped most of the clay-court season to prepare for Wimbledon but was dismissed by some critics as too old to hold off the younger generation.

But Garrison took care of that for her, ousting Seles in the quarterfinals and then eliminating Graf. Now Navratilova is an odds-on favorite in British betting shops.

"Obviously, my record is overwhelming," Navratilova said, referring to her 27-1 mark against Garrison. "But she has beaten me before and this is the surface on which she has the best chance to do it again."

"She has beaten Steffi, so she can certainly beat me. She beat the No. 1 player in the world."

unveiled a serve-and-volley game against Navratilova but could not match the veteran's attack.

Navratilova won the opening four games to take a comfortable lead in the first set and then held her serve throughout the second set to finish off the fourth seed.

Garrison, the fifth seed, used her athletic ability and aggressive play to overwhelm Graf in a two-hour match. She sagged in the second set, but rebounded with the only service break of the final set in the third game. She closed the match with her fourth ace.

"I've played two really good matches to beat Monica and Steffi back-to-back," said the 26-year-old. "This has definitely been my best consistent tournament against some top players."

"I'm sweating already just thinking about it," Navratilova said.

Graf, who failed to make the final for only the third time in 42 tournaments since she became No. 1 in the world in August 1987, refused to make any excuses.

Journalists offered her the chance to blame everything from sinus problems to blustery winds to a distracting bird that fluttered onto the court, but she said the reasons for her loss were more basic.

All-Star managers fill spots

NEW YORK (AP) — First-timers will be well represented at the All-Star Game Tuesday night in Chicago. So will the Alomar clan.

Filling out their rosters Thursday with pitchers and reserves, managers Roger Craig and Tony La Russa named a total of 16 first-timers — including San Diego's Roberto Alomar to the National League team.

That set up a family reunion for the Padres' second baseman — his brother, Sandy, a rookie catcher for Cleveland, was voted to the American League's starting lineup by the fans.

"We're going to see each other, look each other right in the face, and talk to each other as brother to brother and one baseball player to the other," Roberto Alomar said.

The Alomars will be well represented in the stands at Wrigley Field as well.

"Everyone in my family will be there," Alomar said. "The game is going to be something."

Craig said there were some "tough choices" in filling out his team.

Lenny Dykstra of the Philadelphia Phillies was picked in the fans' vote. Craig took Darryl Strawberry and Tony Gwynn as two of his outfield reserves.

"Strawberry was on such a tear, I had to take him," Craig said of the New York Mets star who has 21 homers, including four in his last three games.

Seven of the NL's 10 pitchers, including 35-year-old Dennis Martinez of Montreal and 22-year-old Ramon Martinez of Los Angeles, were selected for the first time. Relievers Gregg Olson of Baltimore and Bobby Thigpen of Chicago and no-hit man Randy Johnson of Seattle are new to the AL staff for Tuesday night's game.

They join three other first-timers who were elected by the fans to start — Sandy Alomar Jr., Dykstra and Ken Griffey Jr. of Seattle.

Oakland, the top team in the AL, and Cincinnati, the best in the NL, each have the most players with five. Outfielders Jose Canseco and Rickey Henderson and first baseman Mark McGwire are starters and La Russa named pitchers Bob Welch and Dennis Eckersley from his own team.

Cincinnati third baseman Chris Sabo was elected to start. He will be joined by Reds pitchers Jack Armstrong, Rob Dibble and Randy Myers — each named for the first time — and shortstop Barry Larkin.

Cecil Fielder, leading the majors with 27 home runs and 71 RBIs, and Detroit teammate Alan Trammell were added to the AL infield, as were Kelly Gruber of Toronto, Julio Franco of Texas and Ozzie Guillen of the White Sox. Also named were California catcher Lance Parrish, for the eighth time, and outfielders George Bell of Toronto, Ellis Burks of Boston, Dave Parker of Milwaukee and Kirby Puckett of Minnesota, a five-time selection.

The AL pitching staff also includes Roger Clemens of Boston, Chuck Finley of California, Doug Jones of Cleveland, Bret Saberhagen of Kansas City and Dave Stieb of Toronto.

Saberhagen has a 5-7 record with a 2.98 ERA and was the only Royals player picked.

San Francisco's Matt Williams, leading the NL with 66 RBIs, will back up Sabo at third base. Giants reliever Jeff Brantley is another first-time All-Star.

Along with Atlanta's Olson, Mike Scioscia of Los Angeles was named to the NL's catching corps. Scioscia, a veteran, is likely to start in place of Benito Santiago, who was elected but is injured.

Craig also named infielders Shawon Dunston of Chicago and Tim Wallach of Montreal and outfielders Barry Bonds and Bobby Bonilla of Pittsburgh.

The pitchers also include Frank Viola and John Franco of the Mets, Neal Heaton of Pittsburgh and Dave Smith of Houston.

Area students place in Ft. Worth event

FT. WORTH — Four Snyder Taekwondo students placed in the top three of their respective divisions during competition at the 10th U.S. National Junior Olympic TKD Nationals at Tarrant County Convention Center here.

Shane West, fighting in the black belt, bantam weight division of 6-12 year-olds, captured a bronze medal for his third-place performance in free-sparring.

"To place as a black belt on a national level is really an impressive feat," said team instructor Greg Gafford in a telephone interview this morning.

West won his first four fights before losing in the event.

Others placing and representing Snyder in the meet's opening day include 6-12 year-olds Debra Radican, Debbie Foster and Greg McAnaw.

Radican took third as a green belt in the bantam weight class while McAnaw earned a bronze medal fighting as a red belt bantam weight.

Foster finished second and received a silver medal for her efforts in the green belt fly weight division.

"The first day went pretty well," said Gafford, who runs West Texas Taekwondo Academy in Snyder.

"It is a really nice tournament. We're having a good time and the kids are doing great."

"There are almost 3,000 participants here with all 50 states represented," he concluded.

The nationals continue today with Snyder 13-16 year-olds Chris Post, Sean Duncan, Jessie Martinez, Jennifer Kime and Jessica Brooks fighting in afternoon bouts.

Plano brewery goes dry

PLANO, Texas (AP) — The Reinheitsgebot Brewing Co. has tapped the bottom of its barrels.

After selling more than 1 million bottles of beer in five years, the state's first microbrewery is going dry because it couldn't produce enough suds to meet demand and turn a profit.

"We have ceased production and we're out of beer," said Mary Thompson, president of the brewery and co-owner with her husband, Don.

Mrs. Thompson said the brewery could bottle 10,000 beers a day, but their fermenting tanks were too small to produce the 3,000 barrels they needed yearly to break even.

"Pardon the pun, but there's a bottleneck out there in the thing," Mrs. Thompson said.

To be classified as a microbrewery, a brewer cannot make more than 15,000 barrels of beer per year.

Reinheitsgebot made only 1,000 barrels of beer annually during its peak in 1987 and 1988, Mrs. Thompson said. By the end of last year, the amount was down to 890 barrels. Each barrel contains about 330 bottles of beer.

The Thompsons named the company for a 16th century German law that allowed only malted barley, hops and water to be used in brewing. Reinheitsgebot means "purity command."

The Thompsons say they are planning a comeback and are looking for investors to put up $1 million for a bigger and better brewery at Plano's Fairview Farms Marketplace by next summer.

Thompson won first place at an American Home Brewers Association contest for his beer recipe, which the couple began selling in 1985. Their last batch was bottled April 24.

Memorial service held today for advocate for homeless

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mitch Snyder was eulogized today as a "man of action" who answered a moral call to help the nation's homeless.

Snyder, 46, was discovered dead Thursday afternoon in a 1,400-bed homeless shelter in a ragged neighborhood a few blocks from the U.S. Capitol. Autopsy results were not made public but police called his death by hanging an apparent suicide.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson told a memorial service at the Bible Way Church today that Snyder was a man who heard and answered a "moral call" to help the homeless.

"The fact that birds have a home, foxes have a home, and yet men and women, veterans of foreign wars, mothers and fathers, working poor people, have no place to lay their head. He found that to be a moral disgrace," Jackson told the mourners.

A funeral is scheduled for Tuesday outside the homeless shelter. The gray, three-story building where Snyder's body was found symbolized the cause in which he achieved national prominence and the tactics he used in his fight.

His group — the Community for Creative Non-Violence — was given the rundown government building by the Reagan administration only after he staged a hunger strike in 1984 to demand federal aid and publicize the plight of the homeless.

Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Texas, chairman of the House Banking Committee, which handles housing issues, called Snyder "a man of action" who at times became depressed by the problems of the homeless.

He was a "man on the edge — at the cutting edge of the homeless and the street people and his own ethos and rationale for existence," said Gonzalez.

A police statement called the death "an apparent suicide by hanging." Spokesman Lt. Reginald Smith said a note containing "suicidal references" was found near Snyder's body.

"It was a domestic situation, something to do with his girlfriend," one source said. "The note indicates there were problems there."

Carol Fennelly, Snyder's companion of 15 years and partner in running the shelter, said in a statement that the community was "greatly shocked and saddened." She did not return telephone calls seeking further comment.

Actor Martin Sheen, who portrayed Snyder in a 1986 television movie, said he was devastated by the news of the activist's death.

"I just pray that a very special angel meets him at the gate and escorts him to paradise," Sheen told the Star-Banner in Ocala, Fla., where he was filming a movie.

Snyder first received public attention on Christmas Eve 1974, when he announced he would live with three other community members in plastic boxes on the streets to honor four homeless people who had died of exposure.

It was the first of many hunger strikes, sleep-outs and other protest actions he would be involved in over the next 16 years.

In recent weeks, he came under pressure from some volunteer staff aides at the shelter to fire other workers who they said were engaged in illegal activities such as drug use. Eight staff workers were fired, The Washington Times reported.

Water system hearing needs and to determine what projects were desired by citizens in the community.

Also present were Kay Howard with the consulting firm of Jerry R. Traylor and Associates of Lubbock, and David Todd, professional engineer from Abilene.

Howard said her firm's role would be to assist the county in making the grant application while Todd would do the engineering study if an upgraded water system is chosen as the primary project.

Most people present expressed a desire for improved water pressure, with some housewives present saying it was impossible to run a faucet in the kitchen and shower at the same time.

Some residents, especially those on fixed incomes, expressed concerns about increases in water rates. However, Mrs. Howard and Judge Goodwin assured them that any capital improvements would not result in a rate increase.

Hermleigh residents currently pay $8 per month for the first two thousand gallons. Goodwin said only increased operating costs would require rate hikes, not capital improvements.

The grant would require 10 percent matching funds from the county, and the funds would come from general revenues and not from the water system fund, residents were told.

The grant must benefit low- to moderate-income families, and a preliminary survey conducted by Jerry Gannaway, Democratic commissioner-elect, indicates that that condition has been met.

Residents present were also asked to fill out a survey asking how grant money should be spent. Listed on the survey, in addition to water system improvements, were sewer system improvements, housing rehabilitation, street improvements, handicapped accessibility projects for public buildings, drainage, fire protection, social service centers, demolition and clearance and waste disposal.

Hermleigh presently is served by three wells, and some residents expressed concern about the possibility of being tied onto "bad lake water."

Another positive would be to improve or increase the number of fire hydrants in Hermleigh, thus possibly reducing fire insurance rates.

Mrs. Howard said application is made through the West Texas Council of Governments, and that funds are approved on a competitive basis.

A second public hearing is set for 5:15 p.m. Thursday, July 12, in the Scurry County courthouse. Grant applications must be made by July 24 and a final decision could be expected in November.

Labor sometimes goes at a leisurely pace in a Chinese factory, since all workers receive the same basic wage and find that earning a bonus can bring envy and even wrath from co-workers.

port by Historic Scurry County, Inc."

Following the mid-morning ceremony, McMullan cut the ribbon and guests were welcomed into Dermott School officially for the first time. Open house continued until mid-afternoon.

Dermott School was moved to the coliseum ground several years ago and Sneed and McMullan planned and guided the renovation work which was recently completed.

Part of the building will retain the old-time school atmosphere, but the rest of the schoolhouse has been converted into a meeting room, dining area and kitchen which can accommodate larger groups than those which have used the Cornelius-Dodson House. The kitchen will be available to approved catering services.

When the schoolhouse was relocated next to the Cornelius-Dodson House, the name Scurry County Heritage Village was adopted and June McGlaun has been serving as a paid docent-director and activities coordinator.

Both historic buildings are available for tours and gatherings. For more information or to arrange tours, contact Mrs. McGlaun at 573-9742.

Thursday night, but McCaleb was not sure of their numbers.

"I don't know why there were so many other people there," McCaleb said. "It's an overwhelming sadness, the loss of friends and co-workers."

Authorities had not determined a cause for the explosion. Assistant Secretary of Labor Gerard F. Scannell was en route to Houston this morning, the U.S. Department of Labor said.

Kathryn Cox, a member of a plant cleaning crew, said she and several fellow workers had just finished working when they heard the blast.

"We didn't look back," she said. "We just started running and we just kept running."

"We just heard a big explosion and everybody said 'Run!' and we all took off," Marlene Viscus said.

"We didn't have time to talk to anybody," Dean Delgado, a worker who was inside the plant, said. "They told us just to run. We started running toward the gate."

"I seen a big flash cross in front of my eyes. I looked over to my left and I saw a big ball of fire. ... It looked to me like a tank run off, you know, like a rocket just took off," Mike Zugel, a truck driver who witnessed the explosion, told Cable News Network.

Initially, authorities had described the blast and fire as relatively minor and said no injuries were reported. Shortly after midnight, Channelview fire dispatcher Karen Ragsdale said that the plant's own firefighters were putting out the fire and added: "It's not really a big fire."

Ms. Ragsdale said the fire was handled by the plant's fire department.

Survey: most local governments retain tax

AUSTIN (AP) — Concerns over local property tax bases have prompted a majority of local governmental bodies to continue their taxes on "freeport" property, or goods in transit, state tax officials say.

Nearly three-fourths of the local taxing units eligible to keep their taxes have done so, the State Property Tax Board reported Thursday.

Freeport property is goods acquired or brought into the state by manufacturers, distributors and other companies and held no longer than 175 days before being shipped out of Texas.

The tax board said its new survey showed that 74 percent of the local taxing units elected to continue taxing the property after 1990. A total of 1,738 of the 2,333 eligible units kept the levy.

State legislators had argued that eliminating the tax on such items would be a good economic development move. Voters amended the Texas Constitution last year to exempt freeport goods from property taxes, effective Jan. 1.

Cities, counties, school districts and junior college districts were allowed to continue taxing such goods, but they had to determine their policy for 1991 and future years by April 1.

Taxing units which pass resolutions stating their intention to continue taxing the property may later eliminate the tax, officials said. In those districts which failed to reserve this right, freeport goods now are permanently exempt.

Jim Robinson, the property tax board's executive director, said he believes the majority of local governments preserved the right to continue taxing freeport property because of uncertainty about their local tax bases.

Across the state, the recent real estate bust drove property values down.

"While Texas is now recovering from the recession in real property values, most taxing units have seen considerable erosion in their tax base since 1985," Robinson said.

"Local government revenue needs have continued to increase, however, and governing bodies appear reluctant to further reduce the tax base by exempting freeport inventories," he said.

Robinson predicted that more local governments would begin exempting freeport goods from the tax as their real property values increase.

Hackman told to eat better, exercise more

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Actor Gene Hackman has been told to exercise and improve his diet after he narrowly avoided a heart attack.

Hackman was listed in good condition early today at St. Vincent Hospital & Medical Center, said nursing supervisor Marymae Zimmerman.

"He feels much relieved," said Dr. Herber Semler, the cardiologist who treated Hackman. "The pain is gone. He is up and around and ready to make another movie."

An artery leading to Hackman's heart narrowed dangerously and doctors had to reinflate it with a balloon catheter, Semler said a news conference Thursday.

If Hackman hadn't entered the hospital when he did, "the artery would have completely shut down and he would have possibly had a heart attack," Semler said. "We think we got him just in the nick of time."

Hackman, 60, was admitted to the hospital Tuesday.

Semler said the rest of Hackman's coronary arteries look good and the actor can return to an active life. He said Hackman is not overweight, doesn't smoke and has no history of medical problems.

However, Semler said he is recommending an exercise and diet plan for Hackman, who lives in Beverly Hills, Calif.

Hackman had just finished filming a movie in Europe called "Dinosaur" and was vacationing on the Oregon Coast when he began suffering chest pain.

His film credits include "The French Connection," "The Conversation" and "Hoosiers." Upcoming releases include "Postcards from the Edge" and "Narrow Margin."

Astronauts' reunion set July 26

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — American and Soviet space travelers who had a historic rendezvous in space 15 years ago will return to the Kennedy Space Center for a reunion July 26.

Former astronauts Tom Stafford, 60, and Deke Slayton, 66, will rejoin cosmonauts Aleksey Leonov, 56, and Valery Kubasov, 55, to celebrate the only international joint manned space mission.

The third U.S. participant in the 1975 flight, Astronaut Vance Brand, 59, commander of the currently grounded Columbia Astro-1 mission, may participate if his schedule permits, said NASA spokesman Karl Kristofferson.

The Soyuz and Apollo spacecraft docked July 17, 1975, and during the next two days, the crews visited each other's ships, shared meals and performed joint scientific experiments.

Mauro addresses American GI Forum

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — College attendance figures and dropout rates for Hispanics make up a "recipe for disaster," Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro said.

Mauro on Thursday told the predominantly Hispanic American GI Forum that only 12 percent of all Texas Hispanics who graduate from high school enroll in college. And 44 percent of those who do enroll drop out, usually for economic reasons, he said.

Texas' state universities offer a total of 709 doctoral degree programs, including 300 in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, but only two on the border, he said. Mauro also noted there are no certified professional schools near the border.

"That should tell you something about equity, or the lack of it, in higher education," Mauro said.

Mauro said the state gives Dallas-Fort Worth universities $177 per student but gives South Texas universities only $70 per student. "The numbers don't lie."

Baptist editors to discuss takeover

DALLAS (AP) — Baptist newspaper editors will meet in Dallas today to "ensure the free flow of information to the Baptist people" in the wake of an apparent attempt by the denomination's fundamentalists to control the news.

The editors of Baptist state newspapers are angry about recent firings of the two top staffers at the Southern Baptist news service and will consider other options for gathering news for their publications at the meeting today.

The purpose of the meeting is to "ensure the free flow of information to the Baptist people," said Dr. Presnall Wood, editor of the Dallas-based "Baptist Standard," a weekly newspaper for Texas Baptists.

Fundamentalist Baptists last week asked for the resignations of news director Al Shackelford and news editor Dan Martin of the Baptist Press, the denomination's news service. They accused the two newsmen of bias against the fundamentalists.

Editors of state newspapers, which are not owned by the denomination but rely on its news service, have accused the fundamentalists of seeking to control the news.

Shackelford and Martin "have come under fire from some who would desire to control Baptist Press," Wood said in an editorial in the current issue of the "Baptist Standard." The "Standard" is owned by the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Fundamentalist and moderate Southern Baptists have been in a political battle for control of the 14.9 million-member denomination for more than a decade.

Fundamentalists, who now control the offices and agencies of the denomination, have vowed to purge its staff and institutions of staff members who do not proclaim belief in biblical inerrancy, the doctrine that the entire Bible is the literal word of God.

Shackelford, however, said fundamentalists have ignored his requests to talk with them about his scriptural beliefs.

Members of the denomination's executive committee, who sought the resignations, have called "an emergency meeting" July 17 in Nashville, Tenn., where the Baptist Press is based.

to discuss the firings of Shackelford and Martin. The two were given until Sept. 1 to resign.

Executive committee chairman Sam Pace of Lawton, Okla., said Thursday that the two had been "given an opportunity to resign with dignity."

Pace said that contrary to reports, Dr. Harold Bennett, president of the executive committee, was not instructed to request the resignations. Nor, Pace said, was Bennett told to tell the pair that they would be "dealt with harshly" if they did not resign.

Bennett participated in the discussions and took appropriate action, Pace said.

Farah is blamed

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The chairman of apparel manufacturer Farah Inc. blamed the company's largest stockholder for its financial troubles.

Farah Inc. Chairman Thomas Wyman has written a letter to other stockholders asking them to vote against William Farah's proposal to oust six of the nine members of the board and regain control of the company.

A shareholders meeting has been called for Aug. 3 to vote on the proposal.

Wyman said the letter represents his views and the views of six other directors in the company, including Farah's daughter, HALEEN ZWEIFEL.

Farah has said he believes company president and chief executive officer Richard Allender is inexperienced and should be fired. The board of directors has refused that request.

Wyman wrote that Farah has interfered in day-to-day operations of the company. Three months ago, Farah Inc. tried to bar him from the El Paso apparel plants. But that was stopped by a court-ordered temporary injunction.

Ira Baptist pastor changed his life

By Missy Trull
SDN Staff Writer

At the age of 37, when others might feel they have settled into life, Don Auten, pastor of Ira's First Baptist Church, said his life did a 180 degree turn.

It was at this time that Auten was "saved" and, only one month later, he "surrendered" to preach.

"My family just couldn't believe the change. Before I had a bad attitude and a bad temper. God threw out all that junk and put the right kinda stuff back in," said Auten.

Auten had reached a low point in his life shortly after the death of his father. He was no longer sure just what he wanted out of life.

Unable to reach his Catholic priest (he had been a Catholic for 19 years) for counseling, he called a Baptist minister. They met several times but the introduction of Auten's "radical change" happened when he came home one afternoon from work with a friend. They were both drinking beer. The minister was waiting for Auten when he arrived.

"I was so embarrassed. It was then that I decided that something had to change."

Auten admits that at that time his knowledge of the Bible was at best limited. He began to study diligently and enrolled in some classes at New Mexico Junior College in an attempt to brush up on his study skills.

Today, 15 years later, he still studies several hours a day and has a library of over 2,000 books.

Talking in front of people had never been a problem for the Ira pastor. "I've always been one who could meet people and talk," he said. It was pronouncing all those long names in the Bible that intimidated him most.

"I had a preacher tell me the trick is when you come to one of those words is to stop and clear your throat. Then go on to the next word."

Auten especially likes to counsel couples and work with dysfunctional families. "I think because of my own past I understand how they feel."

He added that he hasn't done much of this type of counseling since moving here in December from Taylor but hopes that as he meets more people they will become aware of his "specialty."

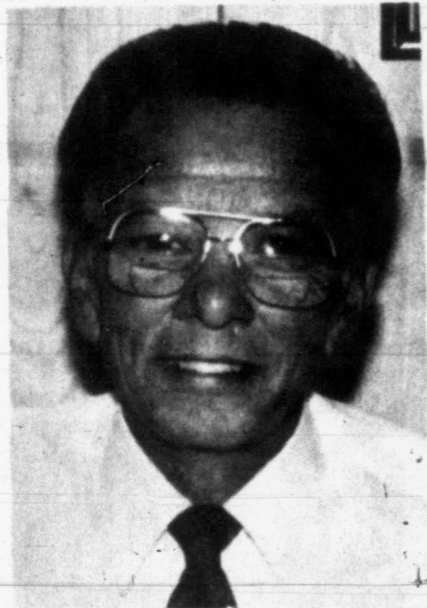

Since becoming a pastor, Auten has spoken at revivals and gospel meetings in several states including Oregon, Arizona, Kansas and New Mexico. He has also had the unique pleasure of baptizing his mother and his brother and "witnessed" to all his family in California.

One might say Auten turned his family on to religion since he described his family, at one time, as "not very religious."

After almost seven months in Ira he says it is beginning to feel like home.

Auten and his wife, Dortha, have two married daughters — Valerie of Lovington, N.M., and Kirsten of Plains.

And as for the first 37 years of his life — "I wouldn't trade one second of my life today for all the 37 years I had before."
