Juveniles cause school damage

Twelve people — 11 of them juveniles — have been identified in a weekend incident resulting in more than $4,000 in damage to Central Elementary School.

In addition to criminal mischief damage, several items taken from the school have been recovered. The case is still under investigation by city police and the case is being handled as a felony criminal mischief.

School officials found the damage Monday morning when they reported for work. Ink was thrown over the walls and floors of the hallways. Coke cans, books and musical instruments were scattered about. Damage was also done to a piano in the school's auditorium.

Police Sgt. Jerry Morgan said entry was made into the school at least four times during the weekend. Four persons were involved in the first entry, two the second and third times and 12 the fourth time. Entry was made through a restroom window in the school's patio area.

School Maintenance Director Lawton Taylor said Tuesday that crews are still cleaning up the damage. "We're having to repaint the walls and strip and bleach the floors."

Items recovered include a television, a VCR, a VCR tape, a converter box, a TV remote control, a radio and two speakers.

Morgan said the case will be referred to the district attorney's office for prosecution.

BC range tour slated Wednesday morning

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service and Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District will be sponsoring the 1990 Borden County Range and Livestock Tour, scheduled from 8:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Registration will be held from 8-8:30 a.m. in the county showbarn, located directly north of Borden County School in Gail. The tour group will depart the barn at 8:30 a.m. and will return at 10 a.m.

Following the tour, Ron Sosebee of the Texas Tech University department of range and wildlife management will discuss the history and control of broom snakeweed and comment on moss, a biological control that is still in research to assist with the control of snakeweed.

Dr. J.F. Cadenhead, range specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will also be on hand to discuss mesquite control by means of foliar and basal spray.

Moderator for the meeting will be Van York, chairman of the Borden County Range and Livestock Committee.

The program will conclude with lunch, which will be furnished by the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District and Dow-Elanco.

The range tour is held once every two years and is designed to showcase demonstrations and conservation practices applied by area producers.

Door prizes have been donated by Ezell-Key Feed Mills of Snyder and Dow-Elanco Chemical Company of Lubbock.

WTC board hires instructor; learns of water system woes

Western Texas College trustees approved the hiring of an assistant agriculture professor and learned that much of the institution's underground water pipes have deteriorated to the point of needing immediate attention during Monday's July board meeting.

Trustees also tabled bids for two vehicles, approved a bid of $4,850 for a coolant recovery system and accepted a plan for a mandated faculty English proficiency program.

As expected, the board unanimously approved the hiring of David Kattes as assistant professor of agriculture. Kattes, who holds a master of science degree from Texas A&M University, will begin his duties this fall. He will be involved in both the college's agriculture program and the Golf Course and Landscape Technology program. Trustees were also told that he would be involved in the science department and he may instruct an adult vocational course in pesticide management, upon state approval.

College officials also said Kattes is exploring grants for research on the college farm.

see related story, page 8

Trustees approved a bid of $4,850 from United Technologies Carrier Building Service of Lubbock for a freon recovery and recycling system, as requested by Leon Pettitt, building maintenance supervisor. They tabled bids for a 1990 12-passenger van and a 1990 four-door vehicle, however, when it was learned that those vehicles are not available. College officials are expected to make room in the 1990-91 budget and re-submit bids for 1991 vehicles at a later date.

During an information and discussion period, Pettitt told trustees that the steel galvanized pipe throughout the college's water system is in need of replacement. He brought several examples of pipe and connections to illustrate the urgency of the

Mid-year bank deposits show stable comparison to last year

Total bank deposits of $195 million at mid-year in Scurry County were stable when compared to 1989.

On June 30, deposits at three banks and one reporting savings and loan association were down just $300,000 when compared to the same period last year.

Total loans at the four financial institutions were $95.8 million compared to $104.9 million in 1989, a decline in loans of $9.1 million.

On June 30, deposits at West Texas State Bank were $81 million compared to $73.6 million at the middle of last year — an increase of $7.4 million. However, when compared to first quarter deposits of 1990, WTSB deposits were down $3 million.

Snyder National Bank reported deposits of $65.2 million, a drop of $9.9 million when compared to 1989's mid-year. Compared to the first quarter of 1990, SNB deposits declined by $1.7 million.

American State Bank showed deposits of $18.4 million, down $300,000 when compared to the first six months of last year, but down only $200,000 when compared to the first quarter of 1990.

Snyder Savings and Loan Association on June 30 had deposits of $30.4 million, an increase of $2.5 million when compared to the $27.9 total in 1989, and an increase of $200,000 when compared to the first three months of this year.

Loans at West Texas State Bank were $33.2 million, compared to $31.1 million at the end of June, 1989 — an increase of $2.1 million. When compared to first quarter loan numbers, WTSB's loan total was up $500,000.

SNB showed loans of $37.3 million at mid-year, down $11 million when compared to the same time last year, but down only $1.2 million versus the first three months of the current year.

American State's loans totaled $4.2 million compared to $3.9 million last year — an increase of $300,000. When compared to the first quarter of 1990, ASB's loans were down $100,000.

Snyder Savings' loans totaled $21.1 million compared to $21.6 million at mid-year in 1989 — a drop of a half million. When compared to the $21.8 million 1990 first quarter total, loans were down $700,000.

AmWest Savings, which operates a branch in Snyder, does not break out individual deposit and loan figures.

Bargain Time store will be closed here

Bargain Time, Inc. discount stores — including the one here in Varsity Square Shopping Center — will be going out of business, a spokesman for the parent company, E-II Holdings, Inc., has confirmed.

All 240 stores nationwide, including approximately 20 in Texas, will be liquidated.

According to a company spokesman, the stores are expected to begin holding going-out-of-business sales in September, and will be closed by the end of October.

David Polk, local manager, said a district manager's meeting is to be scheduled next week to learn more details on when individual stores may close.

E-II Holdings, Inc. of New York, the parent company of Bargain Time, McCrory's, TG&Y, Newberry's and other stores, made the decision to close the Bargain Time stores last week. Other stores owned by the company are not affected.

An official with the company cited a low return on investments as the reason the stores were being liquidated.

Bargain Time, Inc. headquarters are located in Oklahoma City and the stores are located primarily in the southwest. Florida has the largest number of Bargain Time stores with 38.

Because the stores are being liquidated and not sold, there are no plans at this time to reopen the stores under another name.

Polk said the building is still

Break eyed in search for inmate

Law enforcement officers were hoping for a break today in the search for inmate Travis Dale Gray who escaped from the Snyder prison unit on June 20.

Some promising leads on Monday failed to materialize, but officers today were hopeful that an anticipated development would put them closer to the capture of the convicted murderer from Big Spring.

Gray has been at large since leaving the Price Daniel unit in a van hauling furniture manufactured at the local unit of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice. The van was located in Abilene and a hole had been cut in the roof. Gray's white prison shirt was left inside

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "People should exchange problems since everyone knows how to solve somebody else's."

A current movie, "Crazy People," has driven the advertising guys on Madison Avenue nuts. The movie makes two points: Ads lie and ads that tell the truth would be revolutionary.

The movie is about a creative type who makes up ads that his boss rejects. By mistake, some of the ads show up on TV, and the public loves 'em.

The actual ad which says, "Never let them see you sweat," is replaced by, "For people who don't want to stink."

For years the Federal Trade Commission has attempted to ride herd to ensure truthful advertising. One soup company's commercials didn't have as many meat chunks as it bragged, and one juice company changed the wording on its label after "food energy" was determined to be a code word for calories.

One of the all-time favorites is "contains the ingredients most often recommended by doctors." The key is the ingredient; not the pain reliever.

Here's some more examples of tricky ad lingo: —"Degradable" on plastic trash bags is true only if disposed in sunlight. However, most trash bags have their final resting place in landfills.

—"Calorie free" on mineral water labels is true, but all water is calorie free.

—"Cholesterol free" on peanut butter labels probably means the after-school snack had no cholesterol in the first place.

—There will be "no salt added," but don't forget about products that are naturally salty.

—"For as long as records have been kept," really means since September of 1987 for one major airline.

Lying seems to be a part of the American way of life. Some people who are out and leave messages on answering machines don't really call back.

The check is rarely in the mail, and we've never known an IRS agent who turned out to be helpful. And always beware of someone who says, "I'm telling you this for your own good."

Q—What city officials are appointed by the city council?

A—The Snyder City Council appoints the city attorney, city manager, municipal court judge and city secretary. Other city officials are appointed by the city manager.

In Brief

Bulletin

Lamesa, Pampa and Hondo were selected today for locations of a 1,000-bed prison unit. Selected as a site for a 2,250-bed unit was Polk County (Livingston).

The decision was made Tuesday morning at the meeting of the board of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice in Austin.

Sudan quake

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — A strong earthquake struck a sparsely populated region in southern Sudan, earthquake monitors in neighboring Egypt said today. There were no immediate reports of damage or injuries.

The quake, which measured about 6.6 on the Richter scale, jolted a jungle-covered area about 50 miles north of Juba in southern Sudan on Monday night.

Ella exhausted

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — Jazz great Ella Fitzgerald was treated for exhaustion at a hospital today after becoming ill in her hotel, according to the organizer of a festival she was to headline.

Miss Fitzgerald, 72, who was here for the North Sea Jazz Festival, was admitted to the Bronovo Hospital Monday and was in good condition, Dr. Clifford Booker, a physician accompanying her, told The Associated Press.

New clashes

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Security forces clashed with stone-throwing gangs in a city north of the capital today, a day after the government ordered the use of lethal force to quash spreading anti-government protests.

It was the fourth straight day of unrest. Eight people have died since Saturday, when police used tear gas and gunfire to break up a pro-democracy rally in the capital of the East African nation.

The protests quickly spread from Nairobi to other cities. On Monday, demonstrators stoned cars and clashed with security forces in Nakuru, Muranga, Nyeri and a few smaller towns.

Man given probation in kidnapping charged with murder in victim's death

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — A man who received a probated sentence on a kidnapping charge two months ago in a plea bargain agreement insisted upon by prosecutors has now been charged with murder in the death of the kidnapping victim, authorities say.

Court records show that Alfred Kenton McCray, 38, was charged with murder in the stabbing death last Friday of Muriel Narcisse, 29, of Groves.

In the earlier case, McCray pleaded guilty April 18 to kidnapping Ms. Narcisse in February. He was accused of holding her in an apartment at gunpoint.

District Court Judge Larry Gist gave McCray a seven-year probationary sentence on May 14 at the recommendation of Assistant District Attorney Bruce Hoffer and defense attorney Gaylyn Cooper.

Gist wrote in the margin of the sentencing document that Ms. Narcisse opposed the plea bargain worked out between Hoffer and Cooper.

The judge also wrote that the plea bargain was granted "only at insistence of the (district attorney)" and that McCray had served two weeks in jail.

Hoffer and Cooper worked out a plea bargain in which McCray, who originally was charged with aggravated kidnapping, would plead guilty to a lesser offense of kidnapping in exchange for a probationary sentence.

"If memory serves, I spoke to Miss Narcisse and I explained that since he was probation-eligible and that they were boyfriend-girlfriend, that typically has an effect on what the jury tends to believe," Hoffer said.

"I think she realized and understood it," he said. "I don't want to say acquiesced... not happy with it, but accepted it."

Ms. Narcisse's body was found in her bedroom late Friday with 17 stab wounds to the upper chest and back. Police say she and a Port Arthur man were watching television in her bedroom shortly after 11 p.m. Friday when they heard the door being kicked in.

The man escaped and called police to report that McCray was in the apartment with a knife, police said.

McCray was arrested after he was admitted to St. Mary Hospital in Port Arthur after he apparently ingested a hair-removing powder in what police say may have been a suicide attempt.

McCray is being held in the Jefferson County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bond on a murder charge. A hearing on a motion to revoke his probation is scheduled for Friday.

Clayton Williams back on TV again

AUSTIN (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Clayton Williams is back on TV again.

Williams, hoping to capitalize on an early lead in gubernatorial opinion polls, this week began airing commercials in several smaller television markets.

"We think the season's starting a little early this year," said Williams adviser Bill Kenyon when asked about the timing of the latest advertising blitz. "We always try to be one step ahead of the curve."

Williams aired two other commercials late last month, nearly five months before the November election.

So far, Democratic candidate Ann Richards hasn't returned any televised fire. Campaign spokesman Glenn Smith said the state treasurer sees no reason to begin advertising so soon.

"We're out talking to the people," Smith said Monday. "The audience for those ads is greatly diminished in the summertime. But the rates are lower, so it doesn't cost him as much to advertise."

Williams' new commercials are filmed in a style similar to those which helped him win the GOP nomination. Both spots are biographical, emphasizing his business background and family.

In one, he sits by campfire and talks about a career where he "created a lot of jobs, made a lot of friends, drilled wells, built pipelines, raised some cows, raised some hay."

Kenyon refused to specify where the commercials would be shown or divulge how much will be spent buying air time.

He said the Republican's strategists believe only a small number of Texans remain undecided on their choices for governor, so now is a good time to try to win them over.

The most recently published opinion poll, released in May, showed Williams with a 46 percent-38 percent lead. Seventeen percent said they were undecided.

"There's a fairly small number of people who are undecided," Kenyon said. "We feel that right now we have a lead. We would like to harden that lead."

Ms. Richards' spokesman contended that Williams is hiding behind a television screen rather than making public appearances.

"He's got to hope that somehow, he can fool all of the people all of the time with his high-priced TV ads in ways that he's not able to fool them in person," Smith charged.

"They don't want him out there (in public). The times they've let him out there, he's made terrible mistakes and displayed how little he knows about the issues — not just government but the issues facing all of Texas. He can say two or three key words in a TV spot and make people believe he knows something," Smith said.

Kenyon said Williams has been campaigning more actively than Ms. Richards.

"Clayton understands the power of television, but I doubt if any candidate has made as many campaign stops as Clayton Williams has," Kenyon said.

"We've got a very heavy schedule through most of the summer. A lot of political people sit back on their haunches during the summer. Clayton Williams is not going to do that," he said.

Kenyon also said he expected to agree soon on a plan to meet in two debates before the election.

Astronomers name asteroid

AUSTIN (AP) — An asteroid has been named for Deborah Byrd, who originated the Star Date astronomy radio show that claims 5 million daily listeners.

The show took root about a dozen years ago, when an Austin radio station began broadcasting short messages on astronomy by Ms. Byrd. She was a staff writer at the University of Texas astronomy department.

Star Date now is on more than 200 public and commercial radio stations in the United States and Canada, according to the university.

Ms. Byrd's devotion to amateur astronomy led to the designation of "3505 Byrd." The asteroid was discovered Jan. 9, 1983, by B.A. Skiff of the Lowell Observatory near Flagstaff, Ariz.

In addition to serving as writer and producer of Star Date, Ms. Byrd writes for the monthly "Eye on the Sky" column in Astronomy magazine.

She is special assistant to the director of UT Austin's McDonald Observatory.

Ms. Byrd in 1979 organized the first Texas Star Party, an annual weeklong gathering of amateur astronomers from throughout the nation.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 71-year-old with a constipation problem. Will Metamucil taken twice daily harm me, or is there something else more effective?

DEAR READER: Constipation is common in older patients. It can result from increasing inactivity and a change in diet. It is a side effect from many medicines, such as drugs for heart disease and hypertension.

You should discuss your problem with your family doctor because your constipation may be easily treatable. In general, the following suggestions usually help patients:

- Eat more roughage and fiber, such as bran, fruit and salads.
- Snack on potassium-rich foods, such as apricots and prunes. These fruits (and their juices) stimulate bowel action. In particular, eight ounces of hot prune juice a day will usually keep things moving.
- Consume extra fluids, especially in warm weather.
- Exercise regularly.
- Use non-habituating laxatives, such as magnesium or glycerine suppositories, on occasion, when needed.
- If you're taking medicine that causes constipation, ask your doctor to lower the dose or consider an alternative.

Metamucil is not a laxative. Rather, it is a bulking agent (made of psyllium mucilloid) that maintains regularity by adding body to the stool. It will not harm you; in fact, recent reports have shown that regular use of Metamucil may lower blood cholesterol.

If this product solves your problem, fine. If not, try the suggestions I mentioned above.

I discourage older people from using laxatives — especially strong ones such as mineral oil — because the bowel can become dependent on them. Also, chronic use of high-potency laxatives may damage the intestinal lining. Therefore, you're probably better off treating constipation in more "natural" ways.

I'd like to add that a change in bowel habits should alert people to check with their doctors. The first sign of an intestinal tumor may be constipation. Therefore, in pattern or progressive alteration in usual — especially toward constipation — needs medical attention.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Which vitamins might affect nail growth and splitting?

DEAR READER: Nail growth and splitting may be related to a person's general nutritional state. Inadequate protein consumption results in nail abnormalities, as can deficiencies of vitamin D, vitamin E, vitamin C and B complex vitamins. Nail disorders are usually secondary and relatively trivial manifestations of protein-vitamin deficiency, however, and are rare in the United States.

Nail-growth problems are more commonly caused by injury to or infection of the nail-bed — the growing portion of the nail. Splitting of the nails is a frequent and normal consequence of the aging process; also, it occurs in normal young people, especially during cold weather. Patients with severe nail-splitting should check with their doctors.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Fads I — Vitamins and Minerals." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Vote set today for Rogers Auditorium

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Voters will decide today whether to pass $40 million in bond issues, half for renovations to the Cultural District that includes renovating the Will Rogers Auditorium.

The other half would pay for street repairs. The issue garnered a record 4,572 absentee votes under a new, less restrictive system.

"That's an incredible vote for a bond election," city secretary Ruth Howard said. "A bond election has never generated this kind of a vote."

If the proposal passes, $20 million in public funds would be added to $30 million from private foundations and donors.

The private funds will be used for the auditorium project, refurbishing Casa Manana and Scott Theatre, and establishing a $5 million endowment for managing the Cultural District performing arts facilities.

Another proposition would authorize the sale of $20 million in general obligation bonds. It would pay for street repair and reconstruction projects on 75 city streets.

The $40 million is the smallest amount for a bond proposal since 1975.

Proponents include the Allied Communities of Tarrant, an ecumenical coalition of 21 churches active in neighborhood issues.

Opponents include Ted Cue, who heads the Committee for the Preservation and Restoration of the Will Rogers Auditorium. Cue objects to plans to leave only the facade of the 1936 structure intact and bulldozing and rebuilding the rest.

Some neighborhood associations said they believed that the city had more pressing priorities than passing a bond issue, which Cue said "would provide the rich a place for cocktail parties."

Some neighborhood associations cited a need for more drainage projects throughout the city and for needed street repairs that could require a $150 million bond issue within the next two years.

Videodiscs among items considered

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas education officials are again conducting textbook hearings, but this time they're also being asked to consider something more high-tech: videodiscs.

A New Jersey company is hoping Texas will become the first state in the country to put the laser video technology in the classroom.

Videodiscs are the video version of compact discs used in audio recordings. Optical Data Corp. says the videodiscs can be used instead of or as a supplement to standard science books.

The State Board of Education textbook committee opened hearings Monday on 1991-92 teaching materials and was expected to look at Optical Data's proposals.

"If Texas chooses to adopt our program, it will be the first time in the country that an electronic instructional media such as videodisc has been recommended on a statewide basis. No other state has done this," said Pam Herber, spokeswoman for Optical Data.

The textbook committee plans to make recommendations to the full State Board of Education Aug. 20. The board is scheduled Nov. 10 to choose the books that will be used in public schools for the next six years. Texas Education Agency spokesman Joey Lozano said Texas schools will purchase $120 million to $135 million of the adopted books and materials during the first year.

Optical Data says its videodiscs have a big advantage over filmstrips, slide shows, overhead projectors and video tape because the operator can move quickly from picture to picture without fast-forwarding or rewinding.

The high-tech approach to teaching science means a teacher wouldn't have to wait more than 10 seconds to move from one subject to another — on a disc that holds 54,000 images on a side.

Freeze-frame and slow-motion features also are possible. The teacher operates the videodisc system with a television remote control.

The technology already is having a trial run. More than 400 schools in Texas and some 5,000 nationwide are using it, Optical Data says.

Ms. Herber says the videodiscs help students learn better.

"First of all, there's always been value in being able to show visuals to enhance their understanding of a concept," she said.

Singer hospitalized

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tammy Wynette has been hospitalized with bronchitis but is expected to be allowed home in less than a week, a spokesman says.

The singer went to the emergency room of Breech Medical Center in Lebanon, Mo., on night and was transferred to a hospital in Nashville, said Fletcher Foster, a spokesman for Epic Records in Nashville.

The family asked that the hospital not be identified.

Ms. Wynette, 48, canceled a performance Saturday in Branson, Mo., because of the illness.

12 counties included...

RC&D expands boundaries

Sponsors of the Big Country Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) Area approved expansion of the area boundary to include a total of twelve counties. The board of directors meeting June 19 at First Baptist Fellowship Hall in Sweetwater was attended by 105 sponsors and interested parties.

The purpose of the RC&D program is to accelerate the conservation, development and utilization of natural resources to improve the general level of economic activity and to enhance the environment and standards of living in the authorized RC&D areas. Authorized areas are locally sponsored areas designated by the Secretary of Agriculture for RC&D technical and financial assistance program funds.

County Judge Bobby Goodwin, Commissioner C.D. Gray Jr., city manager John Gayle, Chamber of Commerce director Bill Moss and district conservationist for SCS Terry Hefner attended the meeting along with SWCD directors Charlie Henderson, Burl Belew, and W.L. Wilson Jr. to discuss expanding the areas and review the current status of the application. The counties included are Garza, Nolan, Fisher, Borden, Glasscock, Howard, Jones, Kent, Mitchell, Scurry, Sterling and Taylor.

The RC&D program was created on the assumption that local citizens, primarily in rural areas, with coordinated assistance provided through the USDA, could develop and carry out an action-oriented plan for the social, economic and environmental betterment of their communities.

The updated application including the 12 counties has been delivered to the state office of the Soil and Conservation Service to assist the RC&D Area in carrying out the objectives and goals they establish once the project is authorized.

Underground Water District Formation

At the request of numerous SWCD's, the North Rolling Plains RC&D Council and the North Plains Water District have developed a slide show on the formation of an underground water district. This slide show outlines the functions and services of a water district and discusses ways an underground water district can be created.

Mock receives society award

Helen Mock received the meritorious Alpha State Achievement Award during the 61st annual convention of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society International held in Lubbock. She was one of four Texas members honored for exhibiting extra effort while working on the state level.

She received a diamond-centered Texas gold pin.

A member of Snyder's Zeta Lambda Chapter, Mock, who will serve the local chapter as president, has played an active role at the state conventions and has held numerous offices and committee chairmanships on local, area and state levels of the organization since her initiation in 1964.

Mock earned a BS degree from Texas Tech University and an MED from Sul Ross State University. She has taught in elementary grades for 30 years. She holds membership in National Education Association and Texas State Teachers Association.

In 1989, the Scurry County Masonic Lodge awarded her a scholarship to study techniques of teaching reading at the Scottish Rites Learning Center in Lubbock.

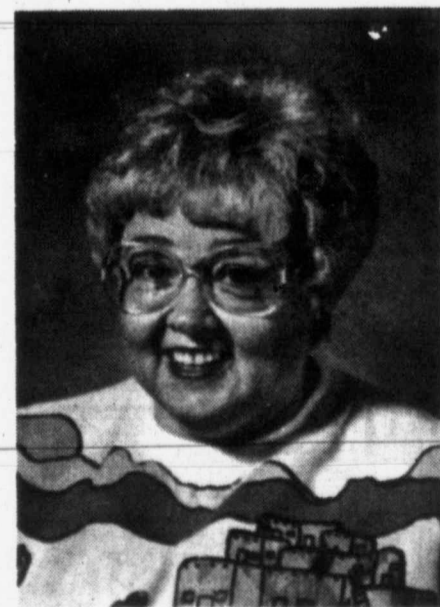

Mock is an active member of Colonial Hill Baptist Church where she is a member of the choir and director of the singles department.

This international society of women educators was started in Austin in 1929 when Dr. Annie Webb Blanton invited eleven teachers from around the state to join the new organization.

The organization has grown to over 18,500 Texas members and 176,000 international members in 3,100 chapters throughout the United States, Canada, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Iceland, Great Britain, the Netherlands, Mexico and Central America.

One of the main purposes of the organization is the awarding of scholarships to members and world fellowships to teachers in non-member countries.

Fort Worth area chapters will host the 1991 convention. An international convention will take place in New Orleans July 31-Aug. 4.

Bridge by James Jacoby

When a ruff is not enough

By James Jacoby

Many times it is right to kill an established side-suit winner in dummy by letting partner ruff, even though declarer will overruff. But that approach is wrong when it fails to set the contract.

When South passed North's jump invitation to game, he marked himself with a very minimum opening bid. Now place yourself in the West position after the opening lead of the king of clubs. East follows with the seven, either a singleton or a doubleton. If West continues with ace and a club, East will ruff and declarer will overruff. Declarer will then proceed to force out the ace and king of spades. Eventually South's good diamonds will take care of two of the small hearts in dummy, and the contract will make.

There is a good case for West to switch to the 10 of hearts at trick two. First of all, it may not be necessary for East to ruff even if declarer started with J-10-4 of clubs. If East holds A-10-7-x or K-10-7-x in trumps, he will score two natural trump tricks anyway. But if he holds strength in hearts, it is likely that the switch to hearts must be made immediately. If West plays a heart, the defense will take five tricks. If West continues clubs, nine tricks will be made.

Lesson: Even when your partner can ruff the suit you have led, be aware that the best defense may still require attacking another side-suit.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books.

Pair honored as SWC's best

DALLAS (AP) — Heisman Trophy winner Andre Ware has another award to go with his record-setting 1989 season in which he set 28 NCAA records and 15 more Southwest Conference marks.

Ware was named SWC male Athlete of the Year for the 1989-90 school year.

Delmonica DeHorney, who helped Arkansas crack Texas' dominance in SWC women's basketball, received the female award. Ware and DeHorney were chosen by a panel of media representatives who cover SWC teams.

Ware, a junior from Dickinson, Texas, who decided to forgo his senior season at the University of Houston, was the seventh selection overall in the 1990 NFL draft.

The Heisman Trophy culminated a record-setting season in which Ware completed 356 of 578 passes for 4,699 yards and 48 touchdowns in leading the Cougars to their second straight 9-2 record.

DeHorney, a 6-4 junior from PotEAU, Okla., led the SWC in scoring (20) and led the Lady Razorbacks to the NCAA West Regional finals. She also led Arkansas in rebounds (7) and blocked shots (2.9).

All-Star game tonight

Fans should watch for special 'moments'

CHICAGO (AP) — The results in All-Star games really don't matter. What matters are the moments.

Quick, what was the score of last season's game?

What mattered last year at Anaheim Stadium was Bo Jackson leading off the game against Rick Reuschel with a monster home run into the center-field batter's eye. Then, Wade Boggs hit another homer.

In 1970, Pete Rose crashed into catcher Ray Fosse to win the game in the 12th inning and a year later, Reggie Jackson hit the light transformer on top of the right-field roof at Tiger Stadium.

The score? Look it up.

While taking batting practice on Monday, Jose Canseco speculated what he might do for a moment to remember at Wrigley Field.

"If the wind is blowing out I might be able to hit one 600 feet," Canseco said. "This park is a tempting target."

Canseco, the leading vote-getter, is good at finding stationary targets.

On Sunday night in Cleveland, he hit a gate attached to the wall of the bleachers in left-center field about 460 feet from home plate. No one has ever hit a ball into the Cleveland Stadium football bleachers. Earlier in the season, Canseco also hit the roof of the restaurant in center field at the SkyDome and last year he landed a rocket in Monument Park at Yankee Stadium.

Before Canseco took his shot at hitting baseballs out of Wrigley, teammate Mark McGwire took his swings.

"This All-Star game is special for me because it's a National League city and I don't get to play here," McGwire said. "I just wish the wind wasn't blowing in during the home-run hitting contest and that I could of hit a couple more."

When Canseco stepped into the batting cage all eyes in Wrigley Field were directed on him. His best shot of the day landed in the street outside the left-field stands and took a high bounce onto the balcony of a green house about 455 feet away.

The owners of a two-story house next to the green house on Waveland Avenue had removed all the upstairs windows. They must have heard advance warnings the bash brothers were in town.

"Playing at Wrigley Field, I think you'll see a lot of guys trying to crank one out," Mets outfielder Darryl Strawberry said. "Even Ozzie (Smith) is going to try and hit one out."

The weather report is favorable for the pitchers for tonight's game, though. There's a chance of rain and the wind will be blowing in.

"My experience is these games are dominated by pitching," said Cubs second baseman Ryne Sandberg, who won the Home Run Derby with three on Monday. "But if the wind is blowing out..."

Extra draft is one-man show

NEW YORK (AP) — Wide receiver Rob Moore hopes the NFL supplemental draft carries the kind of financial payoff for him that it did for a couple of his agent's other clients.

Moore's representative, Gary Wichard, secured big money deals for quarterback Timm Rosenbach — $5.3 million for five years from Phoenix — and linebacker Brian Bosworth — $11 million for 10 years from Seattle — in previous supplemental drafts. Moore has the record-breaking credentials in three years at Syracuse that could enable him to cash in as well.

Athletes may require exams

Snyder High School athletic trainer Steve Krueger reminds prospective SISD student-athletes that University Interscholastic League forms need to be completed by all interested in competing in sports for Snyder schools during the 1990-91 academic year and some will require a physical exam before beginning.

Students needing a physical include incoming seventh graders planning to play on junior high teams, ninth graders wanting to compete at the high school level, all students new to Snyder Independent School District expecting to compete in athletics, any current SISD student who has not been a part of the sports program but plans to be this year and any student who answered yes to questions 1, 4, 5, 6 or 7 on school medical history forms.

Exams will be paid for by the school until Aug. 15 and are currently being given by Drs. Nelson Brice, James Burleson, Bid Cooper, Robert Pierce and Paul Thompson.

Athletes not requiring an exam still must file completed forms with the athletic directors' office or with Krueger at Snyder High School, 3801 Austin Ave.

Forms are available at the SHS office or field house.

Krueger reminds those needing an examination to schedule appointments early to avoid problems later. Forms must be completed prior to the doctor's exam. Physicians cannot perform physicals without the signature of a parent on the paperwork.

A redshirt, Moore graduated in June after catching 106 passes in three years and setting school records with 2,122 yards and 22 touchdowns. Last season, he caught 53 passes for 1,064 yards and nine TDs.

Wichard thinks the supplemental draft — scheduled today — is nothing but positive for candidates who qualify. "He's my third in four years," the agent said. "My philosophy is I like my guys to get all the attention. Moore is virtually alone in this draft. It gives the guy the attention he deserves."

Actually, two other players are available, but neither carries Moore's credentials. The other eligible players are tight end Willie Williams of LSU, who caught 13 passes for 183 yards and one TD in three years, and Ricky Martin of Grambling, who filed as a defensive back but did not play college football.

Wichard feels his players have benefitted greatly from the supplemental spotlight. "I don't believe it's right for everyone, but if it's available for premier players, it can only help," he said. "I believe my guys made more because of it."

Wichard said teams are unable to "slot" salaries in the supplemental draft, that is pay a 10th pick slightly more than an 11th pick and slightly less than a ninth. "Teams hide behind slotting," he said. "What it really breaks down to is the bare essentials, what he means to his team."

The draft is conducted in three tiers, weighted to favor the teams with the poorest records.

More Cowboys are in off-season drills

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Dallas Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson hopes his team can improve from season to season as they have from off-season to off-season.

When Johnson first took over the team during the off-season before the 1-15 season of 1989, he wondered where the players were.

Only a handful of players, such as Herschel Walker, Jim Jeffcoat, Steve Folsom, Danny White, Tom Rafferty and occasionally Bill Bates would be working out. Vince Albritton came by to play racquetball, but most players stayed away.

Johnson admits he had hoped to see more off-season dedication from a team that had finished 3-13 the year before.

"I was about ready to climb the walls," he said as the final quarterback school of the year opened Monday. "I had regular conversations with our people about why we didn't have more players working out."

The coach said he was told that the team didn't have an indoor weight room and they would rather work out at spas and had their own specialized programs.

"Everyone had excuses," Johnson said. "There were even comments from our people like, 'These guys are pros. They're not college players. You can't make them work out.'"

"I was catching enough flak about, 'Hey, we don't do it that way in professional football,'" Johnson said. "I said, 'Oh, OK.' Then we went 1-15. That's when I said, 'Hey, this is the way we're going to do it.'"

Johnson then enclosed the weight room and had it air conditioned. He hired a new strength and conditioning coach and started paying players to work out and dangled attendance bonuses.

It all made a dramatic difference. Johnson said Monday that the average number of players from the team's 84-man roster jumped from about 6 to about 65 with more than 70 players attending some days.

"I emphasized time and time again that the guys are going to make the club are going to be the ones who work," he said. "I think I got my point across."

BILL HODGES

Hodges inks with Angelo

Snyder football standout Bill Hodges has recently signed a letter of intent to play for the Rams of Angelo State University.

Hodges, a 6-3, 255-lb defensive tackle for the Tigers, was named first-team all-district and second-team all-area for his efforts during his senior year.

The SHS grad will join his uncle, Kyle Freeman, a fifth-year senior at ASU, on the Rams' defensive line.

Hodges' major is undecided. Asked about being excited at the prospect of going away to college, Hodges replied, "I'm excited about going but I'm more excited about getting to play football."

Snyder's Jody Iglehart, another SHS all-district DT, signed earlier in the year to play football with Sul Ross State University in Alpine.

WADE HATTER

Ervin drives hole-in-one

Snyder's own A.A. Ervin slapped a hole-in-one during a recent round at Sundown Municipal Golf Links.

Ervin's ace came on the course's 152-yard par 3 hole No. 7. The Snyder linkster used a 7-iron to score the June 3 feat.

John Drew of Atlanta had 14 turnovers in an NBA game in 1978 to set a league record.

Hatter signs with UMHB

Wade Hatter, former golf standout at Snyder High School and Western Texas College, has signed a letter of intent with the University of Mary Hardin Baylor in Belton.

Hatter just completed two years of attendance at WTC where he played golf in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference.

The Snyder native plans to work towards a degree in physical education while at UMHB.

According to golf coach Mac Hickerson Hatter should be able to contribute right away.

"We look forward to having Wade on the team next year," said Hickerson. "His experience and dedication to the sport and to his academic endeavors will prove to be good for the team."

Hatter is the son of Travis and Helen Hatter of Snyder.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Two veteran astronauts trained to accept the life-threatening risks of space exploration have been grounded by NASA for daredevil off-duty stunts.

In an unprecedented move Monday, space shuttle commanders Robert L. "Hoot" Gibson, a Navy commander, and David M. Walker, a Navy captain, were grounded for violating Johnson Space Center flight crew operation guidelines, NASA officials said.

"This is the first time we have removed crew members from flights for disciplinary reasons," NASA spokesman Jeff Carr said.

Gibson, 43, was pulled from the shuttle flight assignments and grounded from T-38 jet trainer flight status for violating a policy that restricts high risk recreational activities for astronauts named to flight crews, Carr said.

The move followed a weekend air show race near New Braunfels, Texas, in which Gibson's aircraft collided with another jet, sending the other pilot hurtling to his death in a cornfield. Gibson landed his plane safely.

Walker, 46, was suspended for 60 days "due to infractions of our own JSC aircraft operating guidelines," including an incident last year in which he allegedly came within 100 feet of a Pan Am Airbus 310 in a "near mid-air collision" outside Washington, Carr said.

Space experts say astronauts must hold their daredevil instincts in check in their private lives.

"They're jet jockeys, no doubt about that. But they're also naval officers who are used to discipline," said Lloyd Swenson, a space history expert at the University of Houston.

Swenson chronicled NASA's history from 1963 to 1973, providing framework research for Thomas Wolfe's book on the Mercury Seven astronauts in "The Right Stuff."

"It's a special breed of man who wants to climb to the top of the heap in the most dangerous profession there is," Swenson said.

Swenson said astronauts realize "working with high performance aircrafts in a test capacity is putting the human body as well as the human mind at risk. Unfortunately, sometimes those people who like to do those tests make an error in judgment."

Harlan J. Smith, a space expert at the University of Texas at Austin, said the first astronauts were 100 percent daredevils.

"They were test pilots. That was a pretty tough school," said Smith, the former director of the McDonald Observatory.

Smith, who has taught science to training astronauts, said they will take any risk in the line of duty, but off-duty "they're very sane, sensible, family-type people."

"The work is so fascinating that they volunteer for a duty where they know the risk every time the rockets are lit, and they rather cheerfully take that risk," Smith said.

But Smith said NASA must keep them from daredevil conduct off-duty because "an awful lot has been invested in these people."

Last year, another space shuttle astronaut was killed in a stunt plane crash. Witnesses said astronaut S. David Griggs was performing aerial stunts when his World War II vintage plane crashed in an Arkansas wheat field on June 17, 1989.

Don Puddy, the space agency's director of flight crew operations, on Monday cited a June 1988 NASA policy against astronauts participating in high risk recreational activities that hold the potential for "major or fatal injury." One of the examples cited in the policy is racing.

Pilot Henry W. Jones Jr., 69, a retired fighter pilot from Newport News, Va., was killed after his plane collided with Gibson's near New Braunfels on Saturday.

Walker's grounding, meanwhile, came as a recommendation "from a flight evaluation board that looked at his record," Carr said. The suggestion, originally offered last week, was "based on the number infractions of JSC guidelines," including the near collision with the Pan Am aircraft in May 1989, he said.

"The specific infractions are matters of his personnel record and as such are confidential. He's the only person that could discuss those," Carr said.

A man answering the telephone at Walker's house this morning said he was unavailable for comment. Gibson has an unlisted number.

Carr said the timing of the two groundings was "an incredible coincidence."

The decision to ground Walker was made a week ago.

Gray's current wife and other relatives live in Big Spring, and much of the search has focused on Howard County.

Gray, 31, was indicted for escape on July 2 by a Scurry County grand jury.

situation. Noting that the Fine Arts department has no hot water now and is losing cold water, Pettitt outlined a plan to replace pipe in that department, 7B and the Learning Resource Center with PVC pipe. The plan would bypass the former system, which is nearing 20 years old, and would bring as much of the system as possible above ground.

Pettitt said he met with a company in Lubbock and was quoted a turn-key price of just over $28,000 to replace pipes under three buildings.

During the discussion, Pettitt told the board that his staff could handle the situation but that it would mean leaving other necessary projects undone. The board authorized him to obtain the PVC pipe and lay it in place. Trustees expressed that a special meeting may have to be held prior to the next regular board meeting to see what direction to take as to the actual hook-up of the system.

The board also approved a personnel policy which establishes a means to instruct non-English speaking faculty in the English language. The requirement is mandated by the law.

Western Texas College currently does not have any non-English speaking faculty members.

College officials set Aug. 13 — the date of the next regularly scheduled meeting — as a public hearing on the 1990-91 budget. A special meeting has also been set for Aug. 20 to adopt the tax rate.

Trustees last month approved the current fund budget for 1990-91 in the amount of $6,065,851, and okayed a tax rate of .1841 cents per $100 in valuation. Estimated tax revenue at .1841 cents is $1.9 million.

The budget includes a three percent cost of living raise and a one percent merit raise for faculty and staff.

Trustees also approved two other budgets for 1990-91 — the student housing system fund budget of $625,272, and the student services fee fund of $42,012.

Aggravated assault is probed after man treated at Cogdell

City police officers investigated a case of aggravated assault — a felony — shortly after midnight Monday.

At 12:59 a.m., officers were called to Cogdell Hospital emergency room where William H. Osborn Jr. reported that he had been assaulted by a subject at 2808 Ave. K.

An offense report was taken for aggravated assault and the case will be referred to the district attorney's office for possible charges. Officers said he had been hit in the face with a glass mug. He was treated for a laceration above his eye and to his cheek.

At 2:08 a.m., city officers responded, along with county officers, to a reported fight on Round Top Road. No arrests were made.

A Class B criminal mischief report was taken at 9:22 a.m. Monday at the Windridge Village Apartments where a man had complained that a subject had kicked the side of his car.

At 12:19 p.m., France Jasso of 1914 Coleman reported the theft of her child's bicycle.

A minor accident occurred at 2:10 p.m. in the 2700 Block of College Ave. A 1988 Ford driven by Doris Terry of Big Spring was in collision with a 1989 Ford pickup driven by Curtis Cox of 2100 Huffman Ave. About two hours later, Terry was treated and released at the hospital's emergency room. Damage was light.

At 5:59 p.m. Kristi Strong reported that her Mercury Cougar had been struck while parked at Wal-Mart by a vehicle which left the scene.

At 9:12 p.m., Michele Alexandra Garza of 300 20th reported she had lost her wallet.

At 9:28 p.m., city officers searched for, but were unable to locate, a Suburban on College Ave. after receiving a complaint that occupants were yelling obscenities. In other police activity, police investigated three complaints of loud music.

Kattes named assistant professor of ag at WTC

David Kattes has been named assistant professor of agriculture at Western Texas College and will begin his duties in the 1990 fall semester.

He will be involved in both the college's agriculture program and the Golf Course and Landscape Technology program.

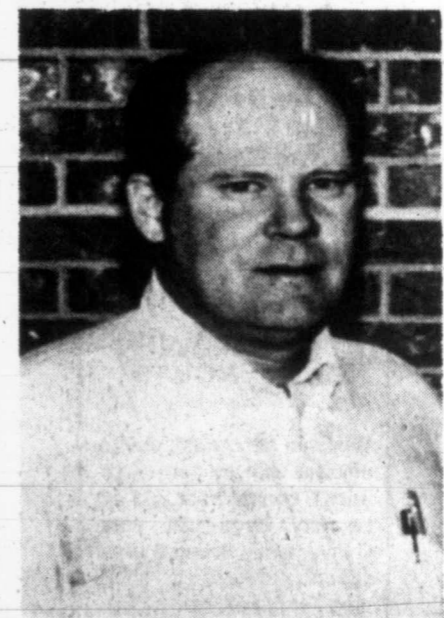

Kattes holds a bachelor of science and a master of science degree from Texas A&M University with a major in entomology. He has done advanced studies in plant genetics at Texas Tech University.

He has served as research director for Von Roeder Seed Farms, Inc. and as a cotton insect consultant. He served as the bi-county extension entomologist for Scurry and Mitchell counties from 1976-79, assisting in developing the largest single county fall Diapause Boll Weevil Control Program. He also served as a USDA technician in 1976, assisting in the release of natural enemies for the control of musk thistle and leafy spurge. In 1975-76, he was crop consultant in the Muleshoe-Plainview area concerning corn, cotton and grain sorghum.

He is a past president of the Scurry County Producers Association, Snyder Chamber of Commerce and Snyder Lions Club, and a past director of the Scurry County Farm Bureau. He is a member of the American Registry of Professional Entomologists, the Texas Registered Plant Breeders, the Entomology Society of America, the Southwest Entomological Society, and the Agronomy Society of America, and a director of the Private Industry Council.

The Kattes live west of Snyder where he produces cotton, small grain, grain sorghum and livestock.

Hancock wins 'clue' tourney at library

Youngsters in grades fourth through sixth had a chance to play in a "clue" tournament last Thursday at Scurry County Library.

When competition ended, Jennifer Hancock had emerged as the tournament champion as well as a first and second round winner. As champion, she received a magnifying glass.

Other first round winners included Ben Boyd, Robert Woods and Consuelo Salinas who each received a two-piece set of magnifying glasses.

Company seeks to enforce 13-year-old patent for chip

DALLAS (AP) — Five semiconductor makers illegally are using a process patented by Texas Instruments Inc. 13 years ago, the company claims in complaints filed in court and with the International Trade Commission.

"TI is taking these actions to prevent the unauthorized use of its technology and protect the significant investments the company has made in development of intellectual property that is used in integrated circuits around the world," company general counsel Richard J. Agnich said after Monday's filings.

The lawsuit, filed in U.S. District in Dallas, says Integrated Device Technology Inc. in Santa Clara, Calif., Analog Devices Inc. of Norwood, Mass., Cypress Semiconductor Corp.

and VLSI Technology Inc., both of Sa Jose, Calif.; and LSI Logic Corp. of Milpitas, Calif., are violating a 1977 patent. The suit asks for unspecified damages.

A companion complaint filed with the trade commission says the five companies also are importing and selling semiconductors made using the process without licensing.

The actions are the latest in the Dallas-based company's 4-year-old campaign to benefit from its technological advances, which are protected by more than 5,000 patents. Among the company's breakthroughs was the invention of the computer chip in 1958. TI has earned $574 million in royalty income since 1987, when it first challenged nine Asian companies for using the same process, which involves covering computer chips with plastic.

One of the accused companies suggested the lawsuit is a far-fetched bid to grab revenue.

"Texas Instruments has been demanding some incredibly high royalty rates," said Jack Menache, general counsel at Integrated Device Technology Inc. "I guess they're not making any money from operations."

Jews like offer of sanctuary

AHRENSFELDE, East Germany (AP) — Three months ago, East Germany's new democratic government invited Jews worldwide to return to the land where they once faced Nazi persecution.

Since then, hundreds of Soviet Jews who say they are facing a resurgence of anti-Semitism at home have taken the government up on its offer and are seeking sanctuary on German soil.

Now, the government says Soviet Jews may not qualify for refugee status under the immigration laws East Germany is likely to enact as it merges with West Germany.

"We are no longer a state that can decide its own affairs," said Gabriela Lubanda, an official in the foreigner affairs office of Prime Minister Lothar de Maiziere.

The situation has caused some soul-searching in East Germany, which has had to close its doors to foreigners from some countries and changed its relationships with others as it realigns its loyalties and laws to mesh with West Germany's.

The government, sensitive to the historical burden of the Holocaust, has avoided any decision on the Soviet Jews who have been entering the country on tourist visas and declaring their intention to stay permanently.

More than 300 Soviet Jews have arrived in the country, most of them at the invitation of the small East German Jewish community in East Germany, said community spokeswoman Irene Runge.

Scores have been put up in a church in Ahrensfelde, a small town about 16 miles north of Berlin, and hundreds of others are staying in buildings in Potsdam, Halle and Magdeburg.

Klaus Pritzkeleit, another official in the foreigner affairs office, said he believes up to 380 Soviet Jews are in the country.

Unemployment still persists in some rural areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment in rural America has eased since the harsh times of the early 1980s, but an Agriculture Department analyst says there are still pockets where jobs are scarce.

Moreover, said Leslie A. Whitener of the department's Economic Research Service, the general improvement in the rural job picture apparently has stalled, at least temporarily.

After declining for four years, the rural unemployment rate remained unchanged from a year earlier in the first quarter of 1990, averaging 6.6 percent.

"This may mean that non-metro (rural) employment rates are leveling off as rural areas complete their recovery," Whitener said. "Or it may reflect the recent slowdown in the national economy."

Whitener said current indicators "do not point to a substantial weakening of the rural labor market," although there will probably be a "more moderate job growth and stable unemployment rates" for the remainder of 1990.

On an annual basis, rural unemployment rose to a peak of 10.1 percent nationally in 1982 and 1983. It dropped to 6.2 percent in 1988 and 5.7 percent in 1989.

Whitener said that compares with a metro unemployment rate of 5.2 percent last year. Before the slump of the early 1980s, rural rates were lower than urban rates, he said in the July issue of Agricultural Outlook magazine.

"Non-metro employment conditions are increasingly important for farmers, as greater numbers of farm families turn to off-farm earnings to supplement farm income," he said.

According to the 1987 census of agriculture, more than half of all farm operators held off-farm jobs that year.

"While rural joblessness has declined overall, many pockets of high unemployment persist," Whitener said. "Unemployment in non-metro counties in 1989 ranged from 1.2 percent in Faulk County, S.D., to 34.5 percent in Starr County, Texas."

Also, he said, some population groups, particularly minorities and teen-agers, continue to dominate the unemployment picture.

$20 a pound steaks sold in Tokyo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tokyo, where sirloin steak is more than $20 a pound in grocery stores, continues with the highest retail food costs, according to an Agriculture Department survey.

The informal survey involved a marketbasket of items checked in May by the department's Foreign Agricultural Service in 18 world capitals. The survey has been conducted periodically for many years to show how U.S. food prices stack up against those in other countries.

Cost of the Japanese grocery list of 15 items was $117.33 against 13th-ranked Washington, D.C., at $52.69.

Boneless sirloin steak was $20.75 per pound in Tokyo, compared with $4.43 in Washington. The least expensive was $1.07 per pound in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Your Birthday

July 11, 1990

Partnership arrangements you establish in the year ahead for very specific reasons should work out rather well. On the other hand, loosely structured alliances may crumble.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Mentally you should be sharp as a tack today, but you might be a trifle clumsy with your hands. Focus on intellectual assignments and avoid using tools if possible. Cancer, treat yourself to birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Make your responsibilities and duties priority matters today instead of relegating them to a lesser position on your "must do" list. Beneficial surprises could be in the offing.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll know how to make things fun for your companions today by keeping a flexible agenda. If everyone plays things by ear, a good time can be had by all.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Several matters that haven't been resolved properly thus far can be concluded to your satisfaction today if you have a mind to do so. You'll feel better after things are in place.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This should be a fun day for you owing to some unusual circumstances that could spice things up. Have a ball, but try to put a lid on your spending.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Lady Luck might play an active role in your commercial or financial affairs today. Don't take any foolish gambles, but be bold enough to capitalize on fast-breaking developments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Do not be too rigid or forceful in arrangements today where you are required to play a leadership role. Everything will run more smoothly if you don't take yourself or events too seriously.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There is a possibility to may gain in some manner at this time from an endeavor that has been sitting idle for quite awhile. Unusual circumstances might infuse it with new life.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be extra attentive and friendly toward new people you meet at this time, because one or two of these acquaintances could blossom into permanent relationship.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You inherently possess imagination and resourcefulness and today these attributes will be accentuated. Use your gifts to further your personal ambitions in a responsible manner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Interesting involvements could be in the offing for you today. You may learn of something you can use to your advantage and you will also dispense information or know-how friends find helpful.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll respond effectively today to unexpected developments that will have advantages others might overlook. Even though they may lack your foresight, try to include them in the picture.

Agency oks 25 percent discount

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission has approved a 25 percent discount on state trucking rates, the largest ever allowed under a 3-year-old state law.

The discount affects all general freight shipments in Texas weighing more than 10,000 pounds, officials said Monday.

The new rule allows competitive rates between trucking companies and should lower trucking costs for Texas businesses, commission officials said.

"The action today by the commission will move more businesses and warehouses into Texas and goes a long way towards finally solving trucking problems in Texas," said Commissioner John Sharp.

The new discount takes effect July 31.

Living Their Longtime Lie Taxes Common-Law Couple

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We need help with a problem we can't ask anyone else about, and when I tell you what it is, you will understand why.

Forty years ago, I became pregnant and I wasn't married. My boyfriend and I told our parents (and everyone else) that we were secretly married, and we have been living this lie ever since.

We subsequently had more children — and now grandchildren — but we never had any kind of marriage ceremony because we didn't want it known that we had never married.

My husband and I were both born and raised in Pennsylvania and have never lived in any other state. We know that Pennsylvania recognizes common-law marriages, but here's our question: Does the IRS feel the same way about common-law marriages as the state of Pennsylvania? We've been filing joint tax returns all these years.

Call it a mental block or whatever, but we have never really faced this problem. Can you help us?

TWO FRIGHTENED OSTRICHES

DEAR OSTRICHES: Have no fear. Since the state in which you have been living for 40 years recognizes common-law marriages, you are married for the purposes of filing a joint federal income tax return. If you are still concerned about how the IRS feels about common-law marriages, consult an attorney who is familiar with tax law.

DEAR ABBY: Our only daughter is being married soon. We have been planning this wedding for nearly a year. It will be a traditional wedding in our church, and a lot of time and money has gone into it to make it an exceptionally lovely occasion. In the basement of the church is a large room for such celebrations, and we are having it professionally decorated with flowers, balloons and ribbons.

The problem: The groom's niece is going to be celebrating her 10th birthday on the day of the wedding, and they (the groom's family) want to know if it would be all right to bring a birthday cake to the wedding and celebrate "Jennifer's" 10th birthday. At the same time — since all the flowers and decorations will be there anyway! It was suggested, too, that the band play "Happy Birthday," and all the wedding guests could sing "Happy Birthday to Jennifer."

Abby, I am not in favor of combining my daughter's wedding celebration with Jennifer's 10th birthday. It just doesn't seem fair for them to expect it. Is there a nice but firm way to say "no" to this nervy suggestion?

MOTHER OF THE BRIDE

DEAR MOTHER: Yes. You could politely say that birthdays come every year, but a wedding is a once-in-a-lifetime celebration.

***

DEAR ABBY: A so-called friend of mine talked me into doing something that I really didn't want to do.

I didn't want to do it because I knew we would get into a lot of trouble if we were caught. I wanted to tell him "no," but I just didn't have the courage to. I regret it now, because I'm in jail. I guess I just don't know how to say "no!"

Is there an easier way to say "no" than just "no"?

IN JAIL IN ARIZONA

DEAR IN JAIL: The word "no" is probably the easiest word to pronounce and the most difficult to say in any language. Fortunately, you know your limitations. Since you lack the courage to say "no," in the future, you would be wise to avoid the person who would lead you into temptation.
