Health care pact discussed during managers meeting

Auxiliary aids recruiting

Cogdell Memorial Hospital board of managers on Thursday discussed the hospital's contract to provide health care for the Price Daniel prison unit, heard a report concerning doctor recruitment efforts by the auxiliary and decided to wait for cost estimates before acting on a capital renovation request.

The board also approved $750 for a fetal monitor for the emergency room and reviewed the financial report for June.

Trustees gave their approval to send a letter to Texas Tech University Health Science Center, outlining minor changes in its health care contract. Cogdell provides health care for the Price Daniel unit and pharmaceuticals to the Bill Clements unit in Amarillo under a subcontract with the Health Science Center, which contracts with the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

The contract expires on Aug. 31.

A meeting has been scheduled for Aug. 10 in Lubbock to further discuss the contract. Among those attending from Snyder will be Tom Hochwalt, hospital administrator; G.A. Parks Jr., board of managers chairman; and Roy McQueen, board manager. Also expected to attend will be Tech's Health Science Center Provost Dr. Bernhard T. Mittermeyer; James C. Lewis, executive assistant with TTUHSC; and Dudley McCauley, TTUHSC director of administrative services at Amarillo.

Thursday, Hochwalt said Cogdell is seeking to retain the basic contract, with only minor changes. Under the present agreement Cogdell provides staff and supplies for Price Daniel Unit inmates. In exchange for these services, the hospital receives a set rate of $1,224 per inmate per year.

The hospital provides nurses and support staff and supplies and drugs for the TDCJ clinic, infirmary-level care for inmates needing hospitalization, outpatient care treatment at the hospital and transportation. In addition, Cogdell provides emergency room service to inmates at the hospital's customary charge.

Cogdell also provides acute hospital care for inmates by the physician on call or specialists on a DRG or set-amount basis.

Hochwalt informed the board that the hospital auxiliary has elected to provide financial assistance to medical student Tom Tarkenton for two years, contingent upon Tarkenton's agreement to establish a family practice in Snyder when he completes his training in 1993.

Attorney Mike Reed, former Snyder school board president who was associated here with the family business, Southern Electric, is presently drafting a document outlining details of the agreement with Tarkenton. Reed, now with Jones, Flygare, Galey, Brown & Wharton in Lubbock, will also draft an "expression of interest" which will indicate financial incentive considerations when Tarkenton begins his practice here.

'Best of Texas' set for 2-day run here

Preparations are underway at Scurry County Coliseum for the "Best of Texas" Steer and Lamb Show, scheduled for Saturday and Sunday.

Officials are expecting more than 400 total entries for the show, which is open to 4-Hers and FFA members throughout the state. Livestock was to begin arriving today at the coliseum.

The show is sponsored by the "Best of Texas" committee and is supported by the board of county development, chamber of commerce, Bar-H-Bar Western Wear, West Texas State Bank and Snyder National Bank.

Local leaders are expecting over 1,000 people to visit Snyder for the show, including 4H and FFA members, their families, vocational agriculture teachers, county extension agents and guests.

The event is a Texas Club Calf Association (TCCA) and Texas Club Lamb Association (TCLA) event.

The lamb show is to begin at 1 p.m. Saturday and will be judged by Allan Turner of Ballinger. Steers will be judged at 8:30 a.m. Sunday by Jake Fite of Burkburnett.

TCCA-TCLA sanctioned shows are held all year with members accumulating points for awards at the end of the year. Awards are presented at the Houston Livestock Show in March.

This is the first state-wide show held in Snyder. The "Best of Texas" committee is considering making it an annual event.

CAREFUL PREPARATION — Kaley Ensor gets her sister Emily's steer, Big Red, ready for the "Best of Texas" Steer and Lamb Show scheduled to get underway Saturday at Scurry County Coliseum. The show is open to 4-H and FFA members across the state. Local leaders expect some 1,000 people to attend the event. (SDN Staff Photo)

Second quarter GNP up only 1.2 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. economy, continuing to skirt a recession, posted weak growth at an annual rate of just 1.2 percent from April through June, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said the gross national product, the country's total output of goods and services, was propped up entirely in the second quarter by a big buildup in business inventories.

Other major components of the economy, from consumer spending to business investment and housing construction, suffered declines during the quarter.

Stolen items are recovered by S.O.

The Scurry County sheriff's department Friday said they have identified four suspects and recovered most of the items reported stolen Tuesday.

Ted Billingsley of 409 33rd St. reported the theft of fishing equipment and tools from a carport at his home. On Wednesday, four juveniles were identified as suspects in the case and most of the items have been recovered. The case will be turned over to the district attorney's office for prosecution.

The 1.2 percent GNP increase in the second quarter followed a revised 1.7 percent increase in the first quarter and a barely discernible 0.3 percent advance in the October-December period last year.

This string of weak quarterly growth rates is raising concerns over whether the current economic expansion, which has lasted a peacetime record of almost eight years, is in danger of toppling into a recession.

Today's report offered little comfort on that score, given the fact that the only strength came in the restocking of store shelves and backlots.

In the face of falling consumer demand, those higher inventories could force production cutbacks and job layoffs in the second half of the year, one of the classic ways a recession begins.

In one encouraging sign, inflation slowed markedly in the second quarter, with a GNP price measure dropping to an annual rate of increase of 3.9 percent, down from a 6.6 percent rate in the first three months of the year. One-half of the improvement came from a slowing in food prices.

The Bush administration is counting on the Federal Reserve to come to the economy's rescue (see GNP, page 8)

Reduced lunch applications, requirements noted by SISD

Snyder Independent School District has announced its policy for free and reduced-price meals for children of families unable to pay for meals served on the National School Lunch Program.

Children from families whose income is at or below the guidelines are eligible for free or reduced-price meals.

Application forms will be available for all children when they or their parents register for school. Additional copies are available in the principal's office at each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

Again this year, school staff will be available to assist in completing applications, beginning registration day, Friday, Aug. 10. Assistance will be available through the beginning of school.

Applications may be returned to Elida Garza, School Community Office, Central Elementary.

The office will be open from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. each weekday from Aug. 10 through Sept. 7 and on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 5:30 until 8:30 on Aug. 14, 16, 21 and 23.

In certain cases, foster children are also eligible for these benefits, regardless of household income. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for the meals, the school which the children will attend should be (see LUNCHES, page 8)

K-6 teachers may register for creative workshop now

Teachers interested in attending a creative drama workshop should begin registering now, said Tom Scannicchio, Snyder public schools assistant superintendent.

The free workshop is scheduled for teachers in grades K through 6 and will be held from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 13, in the Fine Arts Theatre at Western Texas College.

Snyder Independent School District and Texas Educational Theatre Association, Inc. Creative Drama Network are hosting the Creative Drama Network Workshop. Teachers attending will receive AAT credit.

The six-hour development program is designed to help teachers to develop students' language and communication skills, to help encourage higher level thinking, motivate at-risk students, stimulate the creative process, build self-esteem and social responsibility, facilitate learning in other subject areas and to make the basics exciting.

Teachers should register by contacting the SISD Administration Building.

Teaching the workshop will be Deborah Jung, co-director and founder of Onstage Express Theatre in Fort Worth and "Kids Who Care" touring group. She taught for 13 years at Casa Manana Theatre in Fort Worth and founded and directed the Casa Kids touring group.

She was dean of the Shakespeare Acting Institute for upper school students for four years, designed and taught summer theatre workshops for the Gifted Students Institute, was general manager for 10 years with Shakespeare in the Park in Fort Worth and was a member of the resident/company at Casa Manana.

She has commercial television experience with Dallas Communications Center, has been director of the Neighborhood Playhouse summer theatre workshops and has conducted in-service workshops for K-12 teachers and students.

Partial support for the project has been made available by a grant from the Texas Commission on the Arts to the Texas Education Theatre Association.

Q—In regard's to Thursday's article noting 10,106 people employed for Scurry County in June, how many actually reside out of the county such as those working for roofing companies?

A—None. Texas Employment Commission figures reflect the number of workers who reside in the county, but do not indicate where those residents work. Therefore, according to the TEC, there are 10,106 Scurry County residents currently employed. Some, however, may be employed out of the county.

In Brief

Bill is vetoed

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Gov. Buddy Roemer today said he has vetoed what would have been the nation's toughest state abortion law, a measure thrown together in the final days of a tumultuous session of the Louisiana Legislature.

"I vetoed this bill because it does not meet even the minimum standards set forth by me long ago," Roemer said, reading from a prepared statement.

Roemer has long insisted that any anti-abortion bill must contain exceptions for rape and incest. The rape exception in the bill he vetoed wasn't strong enough, he said.

"The incest provisions are as I desire, giving a first trimester period of personal decision," he said. "Rape however is treated unevenly and unsatisfactorily."

The bill would have had doctors who perform abortions face sentences of up to 10 years at hard labor and fines of up to $100,000. The bill was designed to challenge the 1973 Supreme Court decision that legalized abortion.

2 found alive

BAGUIO, Philippines (AP) — Rescuers found two survivors today in the rubble of the Hyatt Hotel 11 days after it collapsed in a devastating earthquake that killed more than 1,600 people.

Rescuers and spectators cheered as Eliza Mallorca was pulled out from the wreckage about 9:50 p.m. (8:50 a.m. EDT). The second survivor, Arnold Calavia, was recovered about an hour later.

Both were employees of the state-run Philippine Amusement and Gaming Corp., which operated a gambling casino in the luxury hotel.

They were taken to the U.S. Air Force clinic at nearby Camp John Hay and were later transferred to the Baguio General Hospital.

Doctors said they were suffering from cuts and bruises and severe dehydration but were in surprisingly good condition after their ordeal.

Hereford's O.G. Nieman said a couple in that Panhandle city recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Friends at the reception made several comments about their faithfulness to taking a late evening walk together. It was even mentioned that the couple frequently held hands.

"Has holding hands helped hold your marriage together?" a younger woman inquired.

"Nope," said the wife, "holding hands makes it harder to hit each other."

Pornography crackdown continues in valley

PHARR, Texas (AP) — The state of Texas now owns about $75,000 worth of allegedly obscene materials, including explicit magazines such as "Nazi Lust" and an assortment of rubbery sexual devices.

They were officially forfeited to the state as part of the Texas Attorney General's office's yearlong participation in a crackdown on sexually oriented businesses in the city of Pharr.

Officials seized the items in raids last year at the Dolar Video store in Pharr. They were finally forfeited to the state in a municipal court hearing Thursday morning.

Later Thursday, the adult film "Femmes on Fire" had just begun when a raid led by Assistant Attorney General Al Alvarez managed to close the Texas Theater in downtown Pharr — at least for the day.

Alvarez, based in McAllen, said the city asked the state for assistance in fighting businesses he said violate "community standards" of obscenity.

City officials were concerned, Alvarez said, about the type of businesses moving into the Lower Rio Grande Valley city, apparently because of its prominent location at the intersection of U.S. 281 and U.S. 83.

Alvarez also succeeded in closing three massage parlors in Pharr earlier this year. He said that discouraged a fourth parlor from opening in the city.

One parlor owner pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor of operating the business without a license required under the state Massage Therapists and Establishments Act. Another parlor owner has a trial pending.

Alvarez said the state does not normally get involved in fighting sexually oriented businesses, but is authorized to help cities enforce laws.

Lt. Jesse Medina, with the Pharr Police Department, said he asked the attorney general's office to get involved because his department does not have enough officers for vice operations.

"In fact, I think we're a small city with big city problems," Medina said. "The attorney general's office has taken the bull by the horns and helped us deal with this problem."

Pharr has a population of about 25,000.

The attorney general's office originally became involved with the Dolar Video case last year under state consumer protection and food and drug statutes after learning it was selling an illegal chemical, known as poppers, which is sniffed to produce a brief high.

During raids to seize the chemical, isobutyl nitrate, officers observed the magazines, videos and sexual devices. They obtained warrants to seize them as allegedly obscene.

Alvarez said the state probably will burn the magazines and shred the inflatable, life-size dolls, artificial sexual organs and other devices.

Officials must use guidelines set by the U.S. Supreme Court that require obscenity to be measured by community standards. Some of the materials seized in Pharr, might not be considered obscene in larger cities, Alvarez said.

"In terms of Pharr, and it's probably representative of the Valley, this material's going to be found obscene," Alvarez said.

Officers went into the theater Thursday afternoon with a warrant to seize two specific items: the film "Femmes on Fire" and a magazine titled "Deep and Dark." Medina said after officers take inventory of the other titles at the theater, he planned to obtain warrants to seize every other video and magazine there.

Two cities are fighting over Budapest

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — For a while, it appeared that Fort Worth and Cleveland were headed for war. The spoils: Budapest, Hungary.

But now, the two cities have reached a compromise and apparently will share the eastern European capital.

Last month, Fort Worth consummated a sister city relationship with Budapest, after that city sought out Cowtown for its technology and economic development potential.

But then Cleveland, citing strong cultural ties to Budapest because of its large Hungarian-American population, said it wanted to have Budapest as its sister city.

Cleveland officials even went so far as to accuse Fort Worth of stealing the city on the Danube. Two weeks ago, August Pust, project director of Cleveland's Ethnic Affairs and International Relations office, vowed in a Cleveland newspaper to "take Budapest away from Fort Worth."

But Sister City International stepped in to negotiate a truce and appears to have worked out an unprecedented agreement to have the two cities share Budapest. The compromise was hammered out at the Sister Cities International convention being held this week in Albuquerque, N.M.

Mary Palko, president of Fort Worth Sister Cities Inc., said relations between Cleveland and Fort Worth throughout the negotiations have stayed within the bounds of international pro-ocol.

"I told Cleveland Mayor Michael White that I was taken aback by how vocal Cleveland officials got over the issue, claiming we 'stole' Budapest and so forth," Fort Worth Mayor Bob Bolen said Wednesday.

Human rights figure critical of U.S. immigration policy

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — The United States should deport far fewer Central Americans and other asylum-seekers, the head of Amnesty International USA said on a visit to South Texas.

Human rights abuses and violence are well documented in Guatemala and El Salvador, and violence is increasing in Honduras, said John G. Healey, executive director of the human rights organization.

He said there is no debate that 72,000 have died in El Salvador's civil war during the past 10 years, and at least another 50,000 in Guatemala.

"What proof is proof after a while?" he asked during a speech in Harlingen Thursday night. "It reaches the theater of the absurd."

Healey planned to be in the Lower Rio Grande Valley through today visiting with Amnesty International volunteers and looking at detention centers where hundreds of Central Americans and others are detained.

The area is the closest land point to Central America and a popular entry point for people from that region.

Haitians also should be given special consideration because of widespread torture in Haiti, Healey said.

"We don't believe anyone should be sent back to an unsafe country, so if they're in fear of torture, execution, disappearance, they shouldn't be sent back," John G. Healey, executive director of the human rights organization, said Thursday night in Harlingen.

He accused the U.S. government of tailoring immigration policy to embarrass unfriendly countries by allowing more of their people in as bona fide cases of political asylum.

Restored battleship got $13 million facelift

LA PORTE, Texas (AP) — The Battleship Texas is moored at the San Jacinto Battleship Park after a $13 million facelift.

The nation's only remaining dreadnought ship and the only surviving combat vessel to have served in both world wars sailed down the Houston Ship Channel from Greens Bayou Thursday with about 60 former crewmen and another 150 journalists and dignitaries aboard.

"This is really a great day. It makes me feel proud to be a Texan!" said former crewman Beuron Boyd, 76, of Houston, as the "Mighty T" was greeted by about 750 people at its berth.

The refurbishing, which already has taken 19 months, will continue for several years, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife officials.

"We have no real time limit on the ongoing work. The big push was to get the restoration under way. We've succeeded," said Robert Miller, chairman of the Battleship Texas Advisory Board.

The Texas left its berth about eight miles from Houston on Dec. 13, 1988. Since then, officials have completed a $2 million new free-floating berth and landscaping project at the battleground park.

The vessel itself was transferred first to Todd Shipyards Corp. in Galveston for structural repairs of the hull and ship exterior. Restoration crews installed guns and mooring attachments and replaced 350,000 pounds of steel on the ship's main deck and hull — left rusted and leaky from the fuel oil, mud and silt of its old shallow berth.

On Feb. 23, the ship was moved to The Port at Greens Bayou on the Houston Ship Channel, where crews began installing a wooden deck expected to be completed by the ship's scheduled Sept. 8 public grand opening.

"I last saw her during a reunion in 1984 and it needed a lot of repairs then," said Charles Hamadik, a crewman who came from Solon, Ohio, for Thursday's event.

The 34,000-ton vessel, commissioned in 1914, sports a fresh Navy blue paint job designed to reflect the camouflage colors it carried into battle in the American invasions of Iwo Jima and Okinawa during World War II.

"They worked so hard to get the right color. But we were never that dark," recalled Donald Penner, 71, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who handled ammunition aboard ship from 1942 to 1945. "We were a lighter battleship gray."

The Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, "Oklahoma," opened on Broadway in 1943.

Your Birthday

July 28, 1990
In the year ahead you might be extremely lucky regarding things of a worldly or material nature. This could be a big year where earnings are concerned.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Business trends look very favorable for you today, especially if you're aligned with someone who is a bold entrepreneur. You're on a team that could do something dramatic. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This could be a good weekend to travel, especially if you have something romantic in mind. Go someplace familiar where you feel secure and comfortable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A financial condition about which you have been a trifle anxious looks like it will take a turn for the better today. You may learn not to worry about things that might never happen.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There is a probability of a pleasant surprise today when someone you've always admired but thought never noticed you becomes extremely attentive. It's about time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't dodge tasks or assignments today just because they look like they might be challenging. Your sense of self-esteem will be enhanced by overcoming obstacles.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you are presently unattached and have an opportunity to go to a social gathering this evening where you might meet someone new, by all means do so. Cupid's been invited to the event as well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) That which will be of real value to you today cannot be measured in dollars and cents. The wealth you'll be seeking will be found in loving relationships.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Although you won't intentionally act aggressively today, there will be something commanding about your mannerism. Others will find your demeanor worthy of imitation.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Providing for those for whom you feel protective is likely to be your primary concern today. A sense of responsibility won't be your motivation, love will.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The attribute that will distinguish you from others today is the fact you will be a doer as well as a talker. When you give your word, something will be done. The recipient can take it to the bank.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This could be one of those unusual days when your efforts will reap larger returns than normal. Pursue situations you feel will be meaningful for you materially.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your popularity could be at a high point with people of the opposite gender. If you've been looking for a new romance, something exciting might develop today.

Disabled Texans said happy with new civil rights law

AUSTIN (AP) — A new federal act barring discrimination based on people's disabilities was celebrated at the State Capitol by disabled Texans.

President Bush signed the Americans with Disabilities Act Thursday in an outdoor

Woods already questioned by El Paso police

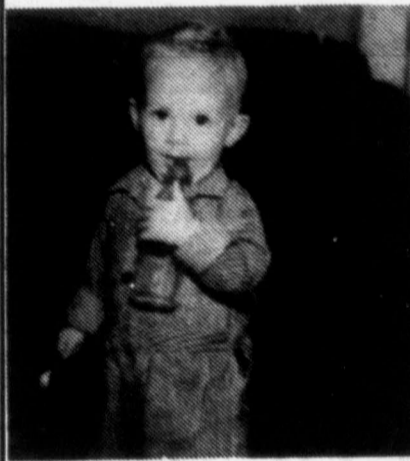

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Six months before police found the first of six bodies buried in the desert, they interrogated David Leonard Wood about the disappearance of some of the women, Wood contends in a lawsuit.

Wood, 33, claimed in a $20.5 million civil lawsuit against the El Paso Police Department that Police Chief John Scagno and other officers tried to pin the slayings on him.

Wood, who maintains his innocence, was indicted July 13 in the deaths of the women whose remains were found between September 1987 and March 1988. He faces a serial murder charge and could be sentenced to death or life in prison if convicted.

In his lawsuit, Wood says he was first harassed and questioned by police about the deaths in March 1987. Wood filed the lawsuit in October 1989 and then amended it May 9 in state district court.

Look who's fifty... Yeah - it's Dickie!

We love you, Pop. Sandy, Bryan, Kathy, Joe, Bonnie, and Poco ceremony at the White House.

"We should now have civil rights equivalent to those rights guaranteed by the 1964 Civil Rights Act to other minority groups," said Redge Westbrook, legislative chairman of the Coalition of Texans with Disabilities.

The Americans with Disabilities Act bars discrimination against the disabled in employment, public accommodations, transportation and telecommunications.

Texans with disabilities and their supporters also cheered the announcement of a new nationwide cable television channel dedicated to people with disabilities.

"America's Disability Channel is far more than a television network. It is... a symbol of freedom — freedom from discrimination, freedom from silence, freedom for equal rights," said Bill Nichols, America's Disability Channel president.

There are 2.2 million disabled Texans, Westbrook said. There are 43 million people with disabilities in the United States.

DALLAS (AP) — A project to broaden a freeway running through the heart of town has uncovered a forgotten layer of Dallas history — hundreds of unmarked graves belonging to generations of former slaves and black settlers.

Clearing a path for the expansion of the North Central Expressway earlier this year, a backhoe scraped across portions of caskets, wooden markers and gravestones. Archaeologists were brought in to relocate some of the graves, an excavation that was supposed to take a few weeks to complete.

That was three months ago. "That was a naive estimate I made last spring," said Jerry Henderson, the archaeologist overseeing the project for the State Highway and Transportation Department.

As more and more graves at Freedman's Cemetery are uncovered along the freeway — where they've been covered for years — some containing fascinating relics, officials now say the dig may take two years.

"It's an emotional, archaeological and historical issue," Ms. Henderson said. "You didn't do it and I didn't do it, but let's face it: The people who were buried here were wronged. And it's up to us to see that their final resting place is restored and their memories preserved."

About 800 graves have so far been marked off with twine, and Ms. Henderson said the final count may exceed 2,000. She said no more than 500 graves will have to be moved to make room for the highway expansion.

There is little written record of the cemetery, located just north of downtown, but Ms. Henderson said most of Dallas' blacks apparently were buried there from 1861 to 1925.

"When you're looking at black history, it's very difficult to track down because you have no paper trail to follow — unlike white history," said Steve Mabry, a local preservationist.

Underlining this fact, Freedman's Cemetery is bordered on one side by an equally old, but well-kept Catholic cemetery.

More than a century ago, the area was dubbed North Dallas Freedmentown, for the emancipated slaves who lived there, Mabry said. Many of the community's residents worked on the nearby railroad and others worked for well-to-do whites.

Freedmentown was virtually wiped out in the 1940s when North Central Expressway was built right through the middle of the cemetery. In the 1960s, a memorial park was built over part of the remaining cemetery.

The relocation of the graves will be difficult because most are bunched together in what appear to be families, Ms. Henderson said.

"We don't want to disrupt the internal integrity of the organization," Ms. Henderson said. "For example, we don't want to move the mother right here and then move the baby over there."

The sensitivity Ms. Henderson and her crew have displayed is one reason the excavation hasn't caused controversy. In fact, local historians and preservationists say they're excited by the prospects.

CDC: woman apparently got AIDS from infected dentist

ATLANTA (AP) — The American Dental Association charged that a government report of a patient apparently contracting AIDS from her dentist was premature and could cause undue public alarm.

The Centers for Disease Control reported Thursday that a young woman who went to have two molars pulled came away infected with the virus, the first time this is known to have happened in dental surgery.

The CDC said that while the possibility of another source of infection could not be ruled out, all evidence was consistent with the patient being infected by her dentist.

"We think it is not a totally conclusive case of transmission," countered Dr. Enid Neidle, director of scientific affairs for the Chicago-based ADA. "We are not happy at any report that could raise fears on the part of the public that the dental office is a place of danger and infection."

The dentist had been diagnosed with AIDS three months earlier and was wearing protective gloves and a mask as recommended, the CDC said.

"We don't know exactly what happened during that procedure," said Harold Jaffe, deputy director for science in the CDC's AIDS program. "We have to assume there was some kind of an accident that exposed the patient to the dentist's blood."

There was no indication of such an accident, however. The patient didn't remember the dentist being cut, the dentist didn't recall any accidents — such as sticking himself with the anesthetic needle — and the procedure "should have been uncomplicated," the CDC said.

A long investigation found no risk factors for AIDS in the woman's past, such as intravenous drug abuse or numerous sex partners. She said she had two sex partners prior to her diagnosis; both tested negative for the AIDS virus.

Furthermore, molecular tests on the dentist and patient led investigators to believe their viruses were closely related, the CDC said.

The case has prompted the government to review its recommendations for AIDS prevention in medical settings.

"We will be looking at the guidelines to see if they need to be modified to decrease the chance this might happen again," Jaffe said.

Paul Sathrum, program director for the National Association of People With AIDS, said he feared the report would prompt a new round of AIDS hysteria.

"Any little thing like this always brings it back to the surface," he said.

The report came only two days after the CDC published a study in the Journal of the American Medical Association that said physicians with AIDS were unlikely to spread the disease to patients during surgery.

CDC officials Thursday stressed there is no reason to believe the virus was transmitted just because a dentist with AIDS came close to a patient.

"And we're certainly not suggesting to people they should be afraid to go to their doctors and dentists," Jaffe said.

Acquired immune deficiency syndrome damages the body's immune system. It is spread most often through sexual contact, needles or syringes shared by drug abusers, infected blood, and from pregnant women to their offspring.

After North had made a negative double, South cue-bid three clubs, intending to next jump to four hearts. That would describe a club control as well as a potential slam-going hand in hearts. However, North, with a long and attractive diamond suit, saw fit to leap to four diamonds. No matter. When South bid four hearts, North remembered the club cue-bid and risked a raise to five hearts. South, of course, went to six.

Without West's overcall, a declarer in six hearts might well attempt to ruff two clubs in dummy. He would be set when East overruffed the third club. But West's vulnerable two-club overcall served as a warning. So declarer ruffed only one club and then ran his hearts. His intention was to play several rounds of trumps and then take the diamond finesse. But West read his partner's high-low in clubs as showing four rather than a doubleton. So defender West threw away all his clubs except the queen as declarer played out four rounds of hearts. Even though the diamond queen was onside, declarer now had a safe and certain play for 12 tricks. He played dummy's A-K of diamonds while shedding a spade, came back to his spade ace and gave up a club trick.

Greenbelt Bowl slated Aug. 10...

Iglehart chosen for bowl

Ex-Snyder Tiger defensive end Jody Iglehart has been chosen to play in the 41st annual Greenbelt Bowl All-Star game slated in Childress Aug. 10.

He will be a member of the West Team, which includes high school standout players from Panhandle and West Texas communities.

Coaches for this year's clash between East and West Teams will be Rick Frazier, head football coach for Cisco Junior College; and Bill Anderson, head football coach for Howard Payne University.

Iglehart, a 1990 graduate of SHS, was named All-District this past season at his defensive end position.

He was a two-year starter for the Tigers and led the team in quarterback sacks, tying the all-time Tiger season record with nine.

Tiger Head Coach David Baugh said he plans to attend the Greenbelt Bowl game, calling Iglehart, "A real steady ball player, one of our best defensive players."

"Jody made the switch at mid-season from defensive tackle to defensive end, and still made All-District. Not every player can do that," Baugh said.

Iglehart plans to attend Sul Ross University in Alpine and will be a member of the football team there.

Players are to report for a week of workouts for the Greenbelt Bowl Aug. 5.

This year's game will mark also the first presentation of the Darrell K. Royal Leadership trophy, named in honor of the former University of Texas football coach.

Royal, a native of Hollis, Okla. and a longtime supporter of the Greenbelt Bowl, is expected to be on hand to present the trophy at halftime of the All-Star contest.

It is to honor an outstanding Southwest Conference player and was endorsed by the athletic directors of the conference in early March.

The award will be presented this year to Mitch Gleiber of SMU, a wide receiver for the Mustangs. He was named to the SWC All-Academic team and was the 1990 SWC Sportsmanship Award winner.

All-Stars set to try Ballinger

The Snyder Little League All-Stars, winners for Area 2, will challenge the Area 4-winning Ballinger All-Stars tonight in a game to decide the championship of District 5.

The winner of the Snyder-Ballinger game will move on to the three-day Wichita Falls Region Little League tournament scheduled to begin July 31. It will be played at a site still to be named.

From the regional tournaments, teams for state-level competition will be decided.

Today's district contest will begin at 8 p.m. and will be played at Scarborough Field in Abilene, the site of Snyder's victory Monday over the Abilene South All-Stars.

Snyder won that contest 6-2 behind the pitching of Jeremy House. That same evening, Ballinger won the right to advance by beating the Breckenridge All-Stars.

Snyder will go into Friday's championship game with a perfect 4-0 record while Ballinger has one loss. In district Little League play, two losses by a team means disqualification.

If Ballinger wins Friday's game, a second game will be required, to be played Saturday at the same site.

Manager for the Snyder All-Stars is Mike Jordan and coach is Alton Patterson.

AT ABILENE AGAIN - The Snyder Little League All-Stars will be at Abilene's Scarborough Field again tonight as they play in the championship game for District 5 against Ballinger. The team played there last Monday, defeating the Abilene

Jones to change radio coverage of Cowboy games

AUSTIN (AP) — Dallas Cowboys owner Jerry Jones made another break with the Cowboys past, signing a 5-year contract to change radio stations for game broadcasts beginning in 1991.

The contract with KVIL-FM (103.7) is reportedly worth $3.5 million per year and marks the end of the NFL team's 19-year affiliation with KRLD-AM (1080) after this season.

"This decision was made with all positives. There were no negatives," Jones said Thursday, praising the performance of KRLD.

But he said the switch "is an opportunity for the Cowboys to broaden the interest in listening to the Cowboys."

Jones refused to disclose how much the radio broadcast deal brought but newspaper reports said it was worth $3.5 million per year. The broadcast rights are now estimated to be worth $2 million annually.

Ron Chapman, KVIL program director and on-air personality, said, "We're not going to have any gaps in coverage."

"We are not here to throw a grenade in the room and when the smoke clears see what we have left," he said.

Chapman said his station will institute new features, including 8-hour coverage on game day, routing reporter interviews with fans in the stadium, and incoming toll-free numbers for listeners to comment on the game.

He noted that KVIL will be able to offer the broadcast in stereo to those stations with that capability. "When you hear it, it is a blow-away. You go, 'sports just changed,'" he said.

Jones said KVIL would handle marketing the broadcast to other stations. KVIL general manager Jerry Bobo said details on that hadn't been worked out.

"The options are many. The mechanics of how it will work out will be discussed in the future," Bobo said.

Chapman said the station may even institute a three-member broadcast team, adding a member to the Brad Sham-Dale Hansen team that broadcasts the games for KRLD.

The Cowboys broadcasting duties are separate business arrangements for Sham, who is employed by KRLD, and Hansen, who works for WFAA-TV (Channel 8) in Dallas.

HS finals rodeo headed for third round tonight

SHAWNEE, Okla. (AP) — Melissa Smith of Blanco jumped into the lead in the girl's breakaway roping Thursday night in the National High School Finals Rodeo.

Smith, who finished the first round Wednesday in second place after recording a 2.7 seconds time, caught her calf in 4.670 in Thursday night's performance for a combined time of 7.459 on two head.

Smith almost is assured of qualifying for the final round on Sunday that takes the top 20 back in each event.

Leading both the second round and the average in the pole bending is Julie Giles of West Jordan, Utah.

Wade Watkins of Kim, Colo. has taken over the lead for the average in the boy's calf roping, with a total time of 21.101 on two head. Watkins sits third in the second round with a time of 10.609.

Duncan's Blair Burk, Oklahoma's All-Around champion, is seventh in calf roping with a total time of 30.714.

Jason Fenhaus, Rapid City, S.D., is in the lead in the breakaway roping. He has a total of 147 points on two rides. His 72 in the second round has him third.

Barr's screeching national anthem not funny, patriotic board for the monthly medical staff report, expressed the medical staff's appreciation to the auxiliary for its help in physician recruitment.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — O'er the ramparts rained criticism of Roseanne Barr's screeching, off-key rendition of the national anthem at a baseball game, but the comedian defended her conduct even if her wailing solo struck out.

After adjoining to a Foundation meeting, the board tabled a request for funds to renovate five rooms on the first floor until cost estimates could be determined. Hospital officials are hoping to move the clinic area from the fourth floor to the first floor, where the extended care unit had been. The extended care unit, presently on the fourth floor, is expected to need the extra space.

In his financial report, Hochwalt noted that the acute average daily census at the hospital was 16.4, up from 10.9 last June. Acute admissions were up 62.1 percent, from 66 to 107. There were 62 surgeries performed at Cogdell in June as compared to 36 one year ago. Other monthly patient figures indicated 10 newborns and 532 emergency room visits.

The hospital showed a net income of $24,096 for June and a net income for the year of $251,602 as compared to a negative $248,946 last year. Hochwalt did note, however, that indigent care costs amounted to $51,628 for the month and was already at $172,527 for the year.

All board members were present for the meeting, to include Parks, McQueen, Brenda Hedges, Bill Wilson III, Jim Palmer and Jackie Smith.

"Geez, gimme a break. I was just trying to sing a song," the caustic star of the ABC sitcom "Roseanne" told Los Angeles-area television station KCAL in a telephone interview broadcast Thursday night. Barr conceded she was "no Beverly Hills," referring to the famed opera singer. She said she has a naturally shrill singing voice.

"I apologize that people were so appalled," she said. But she added: "If this is the worst thing they ever heard, they've had it really easy." Barr said if she ever sang the anthem again she'd "want to do it for a hipper crowd."

Fans at Jack Murphy Stadium, where the San Diego Padres were playing a doubleheader with the Cincinnati Reds, booed Barr after the shrieking performance Wednesday.

After screaming the final notes, she grabbed her crotch and spit on the field.

Barr told KCAL the crotch-grabbing gesture and spitting were meant to parody mannerisms common among some baseball players, not to show disrespect for the anthem or booing fans.

The comedy actress had been invited to sing "The Star-Spangled Banner" by her boss, Tom Werner, the co-creator and executive producer of "Roseanne." Earlier this year, Werner led a 15-member investment group that bought the Padres for $75 million. He is now chairman and managing partner of the team.

Padres headquarters were deluged by 1,200 calls Thursday, mostly complaints. The team issued an apology and said in the statement that they "recognize their obligation to ensure the national anthem is sung with respect and dignity."

National League President William D. White said: "We have discussed it with the Padres and are in agreement with their apology. We are satisfied that they will take all necessary steps to assure it will not happen again."

Barr's caterwauling rendition was the subject of much of Johnny Carson's "Tonight Show" monologue Thursday night.

by switching its attention from fighting inflation to worrying more about keeping the recovery alive by lowering interest rates.

In addition to reporting on weak economic growth in the just completed second quarter, the government sharply revised down its estimates of past growth.

It reduced the growth estimate for every quarter in 1989 and trimmed growth for the entire year to an annual rate of 2.5 percent, down from an earlier forecast of 3 percent.

The revision meant that the U.S. economy in 1989 grew at its slowest pace since an actual decline of 2.5 percent in the recession year of 1985.

The government blamed the big downward revisions on mistakes that overestimated wages and salaries in 1989 by $57.9 billion.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 74-year-old husband is healthy, despite the fact he had one kidney removed six years ago because of cancer. Now his urologist has diagnosed prostatic cancer that requires immediate attention. We know our sex life will be modified because of his newest problem, and this is a major concern to us. Should we opt for surgery or radium treatments?

DEAR READER: The answer depends on whether the prostatic cancer has spread and how malignant the tumor is. Follow the urologist's advice. In general, surgery is used for local, limited malignancies, while radiation or radium therapy is appropriate if the tumor has metastasized (spread to surrounding tissues), making surgery technically more difficult and less likely to be curative.

In either case, your husband will probably be advised to take medicine (such as female hormones) to retard the tumor's growth or prevent its recurrence. This, as well as other treatments for this condition, will certainly affect his sexual interest and performance. Therefore, given the options, he will undoubtedly experience a marked modification of sexual activity.

Although intercourse may become impossible after treatment for prostatic cancer, your husband will still be able to pleasure you by other means. Ask the urologist about what consequences to expect following the treatment.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health

Report "The Prostate Gland." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: While traveling in Britain recently, I learned that due to the AIDS epidemic, a law has been enacted prohibiting barbers from using the old-fashioned straight razor on their customers. Instead, a one-time disposable must be used. Speaking as one who has, on occasion, been nicked in the barber's chair, I'm curious as to why a similar law hasn't been established in the United States.

DEAR READER: About the only positive thing that can be said about the human immunodeficiency virus is that it is easily killed outside the body by most antiseptic solutions (especially those containing chlorine) and by heating (such as boiling). Although the issue you raised has theoretical implications, most practicing barbers carefully clean their razors between customers. If they don't, they should.

In order for you to contract AIDS infection from a straight razor, you would have to be nicked by the same uncleaned razor with which the barber had just nicked an AIDS patient. This scenario is highly unlikely — but, of course, it is within the realm of possibility. The solution? Shave at home with your own razor.

I cannot comment on the reasons why U.S. health authorities have not adopted the British policy. This decision would have to be made by qualified public health officials.

Beaumont man claims using false identity was very easy

DALLAS (AP) — A Beaumont man said it was just too easy to assume the identity of a dead man and pull off a check-kiting scheme that cost at least three Dallas-area banks thousands of dollars and added to the grief of a mourning couple.

David Brian Pugh, 22, on Monday was sentenced to four years in prison for opening checking accounts under the dead man's name and writing dozens of hot checks.

He said Wednesday that he was sorry for the crime. "But to be honest, it was overly easy," Pugh told the Dallas Times Herald in a phone interview from the Lew Sterrett Justice Center.

Pugh said he began searching for a new identity in September, while working as a salesman for a Beaumont computer and office equipment company. He said he was facing divorce and financial problems.

One month later, an obituary reported the Oct. 10 death of 23-year-old Christopher Storey of Dallas. Posing as an employee of the Dallas County clerk's office, Pugh called Storey's mother and asked for personal information about her son.

"I was feeling guilt and remorse, along with elation about being able to be such a con artist," Pugh said of the conversation with Carolyn Storey.

Mrs. Storey, who lives with her husband in Kaufman County, said she remembers receiving the call while still reeling from her son's death.

She said that normally she wouldn't give personal information over the telephone. But she said she was dazed, and because officials had notified her of her son's death over the phone, she didn't question Pugh's call.

In a four-page confession to police, Pugh said he got enough information from Mrs. Storey to obtain a copy of her son's birth certificate from the Harris County Department of Vital Statistics.

With Storey's birth certificate, Pugh obtained an updated driver's license for the dead man, and later, a new Social Security card.

But he told police he first called the Department of Public Safety to see if the department's computers showed Storey as deceased. They didn't.

In November, Pugh opened an account under Storey's name at First Interstate Bank in Mesquite.

He also used Storey's name to open accounts at two Dallas banks, funding all the accounts with hot checks from Pugh's own closed account at a Beaumont bank, said Assistant Dallas County District Attorney Ted Steinke.

Pugh then wrote about 75 bad checks for more than $25,000, Steinke said. He said he purchased, among other things, a 1990 pickup, a diamond engagement ring and a ski trip to Winter Park, Colo.

"My intentions were to get what I needed, especially cash, adopt a new lifestyle and move away and start over," Pugh said. Mesquite police detective Neal

Baker said it's not unusual — or too difficult — for people to assume false identities and commit fraud. He said one way to prevent it is for a friend or family member to turn in a deceased individual's license to the DPS.

Pugh's luck finally ran out in December, when he was involved in an accident in Kaufman County. He gave the name Christopher Storey to a DPS trooper, who later that day discovered that Storey had died.

The next day, the same trooper arrested Pugh for speeding, and investigators learned of his scam.

Battle over new farm bill continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bipartisan coalition of lawmakers mostly from urban districts has had little success slicing the 1990 farm bill in the House of Representatives.

But the group's leader, Texan Dick Arme, said Thursday things are moving along about the way they did when he sponsored the base closing legislation for which he's best known.

"We didn't pass the base closings on the first time around, either," Arme said. "But I sure learned a lot."

The House is expected to pass the five-year, $55 billion measure today.

The Arme-led coalition of about 100 House members proposed cost-cutting changes in the peanut, honey, sugar and cotton programs of the bill. But the House only changed the wool and mohair and dairy programs.

It rejected, by a 263-169 vote Wednesday, the cornerstone of the coalition's effort: stopping all subsidies to farmers with adjusted gross incomes of $100,000 or more.

That would have saved $900 million annually from the approximately $10 billion a year spent to support wheat, corn, cotton, soybeans and rice in the next five years, Arme said. It would have affected about 20,000 farm operations.

The bill's chief architect, Agriculture Committee Chairman Kika de la Garza, D-Mission, said he thought the vote on that amendment was going to be closer.

"But we did have an impact," Arme said, pointing to the frenzied debate the idea sparked.

"The issue is that we have a good system. It is working and if we dismantle it with a meat axe approach it's like sending a mechanic who works on diesels to do brain surgery," de la Garza said in the debate.

Panel named to investigate forgeries

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas' city manager has named a three-member panel to investigate allegations that top-level Dallas police officials altered documents to support last year's firing of an officer.

Officer Patrick LeMaire was fired July 14, 1989, for violating the department's deadly force policy in the shooting of unarmed Mexican national Jose Hilario, 34.

City Manager Jan Hart on Wednesday appointed to the panel former civil service board member Judy Neal Stubbs; former assistant city attorney Ron Kirk; and assistant Austin police chief Ray Sanders.

The panel is charged with determining whether police followed proper procedures in the investigation of LeMaire.

LeMaire was fired for violating department policy by shooting Hilario without "authorization to use deadly force" and without exploring "reasonable alternatives."

He has said Hilario ignored orders in English and Spanish to remove his hands from under his clothes, and lunged at him.

During an appeal hearing that ended last week, Internal Affairs detective E.J. Brown testified that language in his final report on the shooting was changed without his knowledge. A police lieutenant told attorneys his signature was forged on a report.

Attorneys also discovered three separate versions of Brown's "final report." The original report had cleared LeMaire of one of two charges against him, while two subsequent reports sustained both allegations.

LeMaire appealed his firing and was ordered reinstated last week by an administrative law judge. But he announced Thursday that he is employed elsewhere and will not return to the force.

Also Thursday, the Dallas Police Patrolman's Association rented a billboard on Vines' route to work that read, "Chief Mack Vines: Who altered the IAD (Internal Affairs Division) report on Pat LeMaire?"

Museum plans to store stolen art until ownership decided DALLAS (AP) — A trove of medieval art treasures missing since late in World War II will be stored in the Dallas Museum of Art while a court decides who owns the 1,200-year-old objects.

The Quedlinburg treasures will remain hidden from public view while stored in the museum vaults, but museum director Richard R. Brettell said they likely will be on public display after ownership is determined.

"Each party was interested in eventually displaying the art for the people in Texas," Brettell said.

The treasures are now stored in a bank vault in rural Whitewright, Texas, the home town of the former U.S. Army officer accused of stealing the art from their hiding places near the end of the war.

Attorneys for the heirs of Joe T. Meador and Stiftskirche-Domgemeinde, a Lutheran church in Quedlinburg, Germany, reached agreement on the move Thursday.

Meador, who died in 1980, bequeathed the artwork to his siblings, Jack Meador of Whitewright and Jane Meador Cook of Mesquite. They claim to have several, but not all, of the 14 treasures sought by the church.

They say they have a 9th- or 10th-century wood reliquary of Germany's second king, Henry I, decorated with silver, gold, ivory and precious stones; a jeweled ivory-and-gold comb of Henry I; a Byzantine rock crystal flask; four small reliquaries in the form of turrets; and a small reliquary in the form of a heart.

Two jeweled medieval manuscripts believed held by the Meadors for several years were sold recently on the European art market.

Brettell said the transfer would take place within a week.

"Anybody knows that when one is transporting important works of art, one doesn't talk about the mode of conveyance or the timing. That would be grossly inappropriate of the museum," he said.

Brettell said professionals and scholars might be allowed to see the treasures, but that would be subject to approval by the court and both sides in the lawsuit filed by the church over the ownership of the art.

Brettell said he did not know how many objects the museum would receive, but they include articles of gold, silver, ivory and crystal dating from the 8th to 14th centuries.

Brettell said no one at the museum has seen the treasures, but "there's no doubt" that they are the Quedlinburg artwork. He said an inventory of the treasures had been agreed to by both sides, but would be rechecked when they arrive at the museum.

"The Quedlinburg treasury is undoubtedly the most important Carolingian treasury of the Germans," he said. "The objects were made for important kings. They were in a repository which was among the three or four greatest medieval repositories."

"They have importance not only to the Germans but to Europe and to European medieval art," he said.

The Carolingian period refers to the reign of emperor Charlemagne and his successors in the 9th through early 10th centuries.

"The Dallas museum maintains no permanent interest in these works, but is happy to assist in being a temporary, neutral custodian," Brettell said.

Brettell said the Dallas museum was picked as custodian and agreed to the responsibility because both sides separately asked the museum to hold the art works.

Mary Kay considers large debt

DALLAS (AP) — Mary Kay Corp., the cosmetics company known for awarding pink Cadillacs to top salespeople, said Thursday it is considering refinancing $172 million in debt left over from a 1985 leveraged buyout.

"Operating results have been such recently that they feel that they can use better financial terms than they've been getting," said spokesman Dwight Smith.

Sales reached $450 million last year, a growth of about 20 percent per year since founder Mary Kay Ash and her son took the company private in a $469 million buyout in 1985.

Vice Chairman John P. Rochon said the primary objective of the refinancing would be to improve financial flexibility.

Ortiz wins homeport battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Solomon Ortiz, D-Corpus Christi, fought off a Florida congressman's attempt to halt construction at Naval homeports in 1991.

Rep. Charles Bennett, the Democratic chairman of the House Armed Services subcommittee on seapower, had instructions in the 1991 Defense authorization bill to stop building the Navy bases and close one in New York.

The panel, in a 10-4 vote Thursday, adopted an Ortiz-written amendment that took those instructions out of the bill.

"I believe that it would be extremely premature for this subcommittee to immediately stop completion of these homeporting sites," Ortiz told the panel.

One of the homeports under construction is in Ingleside, north of Corpus Christi.

Defense Secretary Dick Cheney imposed a moratorium on all military construction in January. The freeze is to continue through mid-November. The Pentagon is considering halting the homeport project completely.

Both the Navy and the General Accounting Office are studying the feasibility of homeports. Ortiz argued that congressional action now would prejudice those studies.

The Ingleside homeport, started in 1985, is expected to be home to the battleship USS Wisconsin and aircraft carrier USS Lexington.

Local officials estimated the base would bring 11,000 new residents to the area, including 4,700 uniformed Navy personnel.

Eager Wife Wants to Go Solo To See Husband Flying Home

DEAR ABBY: I need some advice. My husband is stationed in England with the U.S. Air Force, and he's coming home for a 30-day leave next month. My problem is that his parents want to go to the airport to meet him, and I would prefer they didn't because I'd like to have him all to myself when he arrives. Besides, he's coming in at 11 p.m. on a weeknight, and his parents have to go to work the next morning. Anyway, I don't know how to tell them that I would rather meet my husband alone.

He hasn't been home in 13 months, but I flew to England to see him last November — so I've seen him more recently than his parents have. But he is my husband and we've been married only four years. My parents are not going to the airport.

I'm not sure how to handle this. What would you do, Abby?

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: I would say absolutely nothing to his parents to discourage their meeting him at the airport. As you know, a man can have more than one wife in a lifetime, but he will never have more than one set of parents. So put your nose back in joint, grow up, and don't make an issue out of who or how many people meet your husband at the airport.

DEAR ABBY: I am an attorney. Last night I received a telephone call from one of my clients, and his story might prevent many similar situations if it's shared with your readers.

Before leaving the United States, he took his prescription medications out of their original pharmacy containers and placed them in a moisture-proof pill box. While out of the country, he purchased some overthe-counter pain pills which, had they been purchased in the U.S., would have required a prescription.

When he re-entered the United States, all of his medications were on top of his clothing in his suitcase. He is presently in custody in the Dallas County Jail, where he has been held for two days for "importation of controlled substances" — a felony!

Hopefully, he will be granted bail today, and possibly the court will eventually dismiss the charges on a showing of the facts — but it is not certain.

Abby, advise readers who travel abroad never to remove prescription drugs from their original containers, because some that may be over-the-counter medicines in a foreign country may be considered controlled substances in the United States.

If a medication is purchased in another country — even something as seemingly innocuous as a cough medicine (which may contain a narcotic) — do not assume that it can be brought into the United States.

Whatever the outcome for my client, he has learned a costly lesson he will never forget.

SAN FRANCISCO ATTORNEY

DEAR ATTORNEY: Thank you for bringing this valuable information to the attention of my readers. You may have prevented countless headaches.

Most funerals involve casket burials — their average cost last year, according to a survey, was nearly $4,000. Only 14 percent involve cremation, which cost less than half as much.

AIDS rate in Travis County increases

AUSTIN (AP) — Travis County and the city of Austin were urged to nearly double their spending on the fight against AIDS.

Officials say the county alone has 593 cases of acquired immune deficiency syndrome, ranking it ahead of 20 states.

The Austin Travis County HIV Commission, a coalition of AIDS services providers, asked for $586,225 in a new report to the Austin City Council and the Travis County Commissioners Court.

That would be in addition to the $620,031 that the city and county have budgeted for the epidemic in the current fiscal year.

"We are at a critical stage," said Christine Aubrey, commission chairwoman. "People should start thinking of our epidemic in terms of New York and New Jersey."

Austin's incidence rate of AIDS per 100,000 population is now higher than Los Angeles' and, in Texas, is second only to Houston, according to the federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta.

According to the agency, only nine of 93 U.S. metropolitan areas with a population of 500,000 or more have a higher incidence rate than Austin. The ranking marks a jump from 11th to 10th.

"We're moving up in company that we don't want to keep," Ms. Aubrey said.

In 1988, according to the HIV Commission, the human immunodeficiency virus that causes AIDS became the fifth leading cause of death in Travis County, outdistanced only by cancer, heart disease, accidents and homicide.

The county's 593 AIDS cases, reported as of July 19, are an increase of more than 62 percent in one year, according to the Austin-Travis County Health Department.

Nobody has offered an official explanation as to why there is such a high rate of AIDS in Travis County.

But AIDS is only the end-stage of a mainly sexually-transmitted viral disease that can take more than 10 years to progress to serious illness.

The commission has identified an additional 1,500 county residents who are infected with the virus and experts fear there are about 10,000 more who are unaware of their status because they resist being tested for the virus.

Shorts banned at secondary schools

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Comfort and style lost out to discipline when Tyler school board members voted to ban shorts for secondary school students after giving them six weeks to get adjusted to the change.

Trustee John Payne said during the meeting Thursday night that the policy should be delayed for six weeks because it was approved so close to the beginning of school.

But before approving the measure, board members heard opposing views from those who packed the meeting room.

Shannon Skelton, executive secretary of the Robert E. Lee High School student body, reminded board members that dress codes have been overturned by federal court rulings.

"The purpose of short pants is not to distract," Skelton said. He the comfort of the students is the main concern.

Student John Bockman said shorts should be allowed because the air conditioners at Lee High School break down regularly.

"It is disgusting to buy clothes and find out they are unacceptable, though they were last term," said Brenda Newland, a parent. "I believe this code is too strict and does not meet the needs of our present day."

Shorts are acceptable among professional women and a pair of walking shorts is more modest than some skirts, said Virginia Finn, a retailer and mother of two students.

"This is 1990, we're talking 1990," she said.

J. Donald Gentry, an assistant superintendent, said a stricter dress code is in order.

"The way kids dress reflects in how they act," Gentry said.

"It's a matter of making an appropriate academic environment," said Payne.

Trustee Phil Hurley, who voted in favor of the six-week enforcement delay, said, "Personally, I don't have any problem with walking shorts, but I do have a problem with discipline."

Son born to rock star

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (AP) — It may take a while to know if Bruce Springsteen's new son was "Born to Run," but he certainly was "Born in the U.S.A."

Patti Scialfa, the rocker's girlfriend and a backup singer in his E Street Band, delivered the 7-pound, 9-ounce boy at a California hospital, Barry Slott, a lawyer for The Boss, said Thursday. The boy is Springsteen's first child.

Slott said the child was born sometime since Tuesday, but he did not know the boy's name or the hospital.

Springsteen, 40, and Scialfa, 38, were linked romantically after she joined his E Street Band as a backup singer in 1984. Like Springsteen, Scialfa is a New Jersey native.

Springsteen married model-actress Julianne Phillips in 1985. They divorced in 1989.
