

Fair set to open Thursday

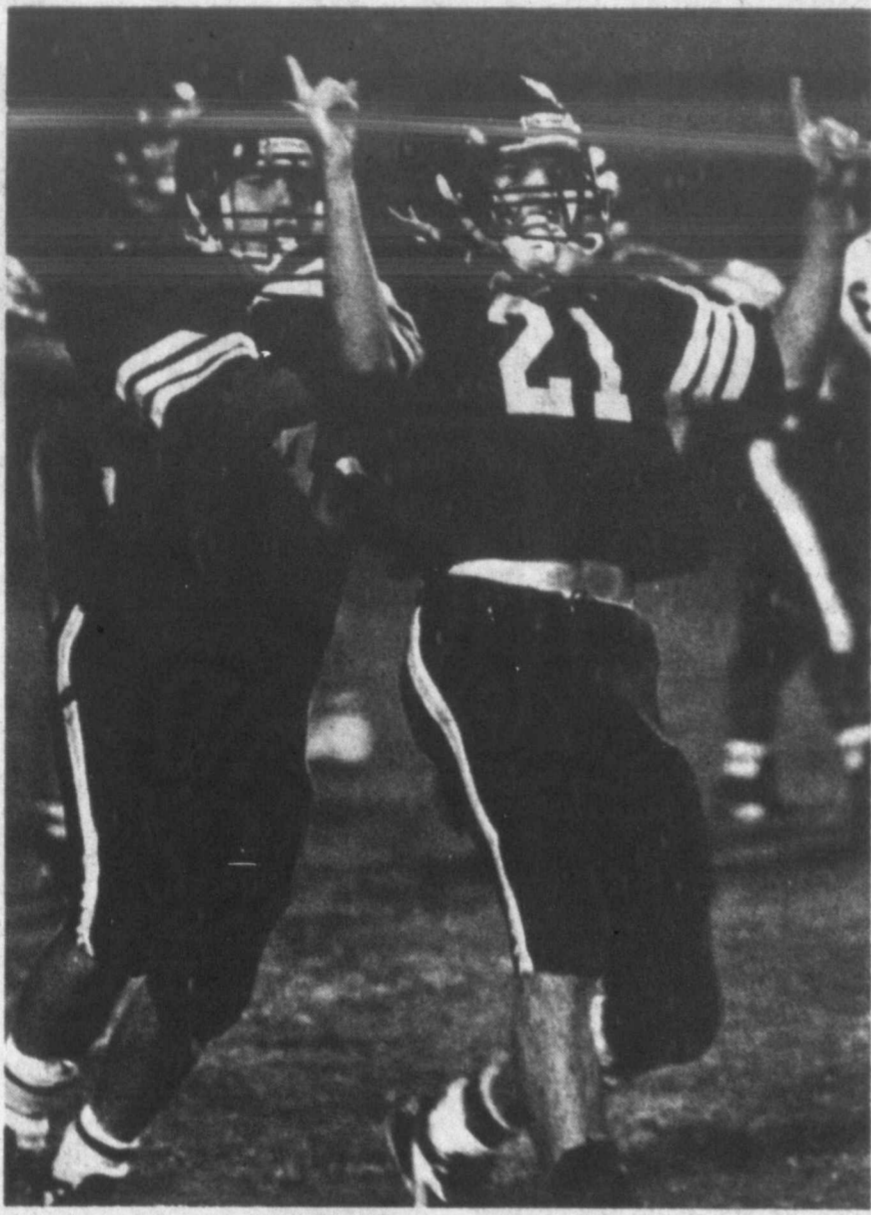

The Scurry County Fair — staged for its 25th year — opens Thursday at the county coliseum. From a "Kiddie Barnyard" to community exhibits, flower shows, livestock judging, music and a domino tournament, the annual three-day event promises something for all ages.

Booth construction begins at 8 a.m. Tuesday and entries for art exhibits will be accepted from 2-7 p.m. that day.

Beginning at 1 p.m. Wednesday, entries will be accepted for textiles, handicrafts, agricultural products, educational and community exhibits, canned goods, open beef, dairy and breeding sheep, and container grown plants.

Entries will also be taken for the flower show, agriculture, textiles, handicrafts, educational and community exhibits and livestock beginning at 8 a.m. on Thursday. Judging will be held from 9 a.m. until noon, at which time the fair will open to the general public.

Traditional fair highlights include a domino tournament, a mule show, the Critter Parade, a youth horse show, horseshoe (see FAIR, page 9A)

Service, illness take two MDs from local staff, temporarily

Cogdell Memorial Hospital board of managers was advised that general surgeon Tom Aycock has been called to serve in the military reserves, heard a prepared statement concerning Dr. Mario Ochoa, and gave approval to solicit bids for replacement of a deaerator tank for a boiler during Friday's noon meeting.

The board also gave its okay for the CEO and board chairman to work out a contract with a future family practitioner and approved $820 in funds to replace some carpeting.

Tom Hochwalt, hospital CEO, told the board that Dr. Aycock has been called to serve in the Air Force reserve and will leave Sept. 24. He is expected to return in mid-November unless the conflict in the Mideast escalates. Dr. Aycock expects to be stationed in the United States.

Hochwalt said hospital administrators are in the process of finding a temporary replacement for Dr. Aycock.

In a prepared statement, Hochwalt told the board, "Mario A. Ochoa, M.D., has announced that he has recently been diagnosed as having a chronic illness. No surgical procedure has been performed nor is any such surgery expected in the near future since treatment for his condition is medical.

"Dr. Ochoa will begin receiving medical treatment on Monday, Sept. 17, and it should last several weeks. He intends to be back in his OB/GYN practice on a full-time basis, in October. He appreciates all of the support and kind expressions for a speedy recovery that he has received from members of the community." Hochwalt told the board that Drs. Bursleson, Thompson and Cooper are currently handling Dr. Ochoa's patients. The board briefly discussed the possibility of hiring a physician through a firm to replace Dr. Ochoa, but unanimously decided to table that move and allow the other physicians to continue filling in as needed. Call 573-1987...

'Hotline' begins again

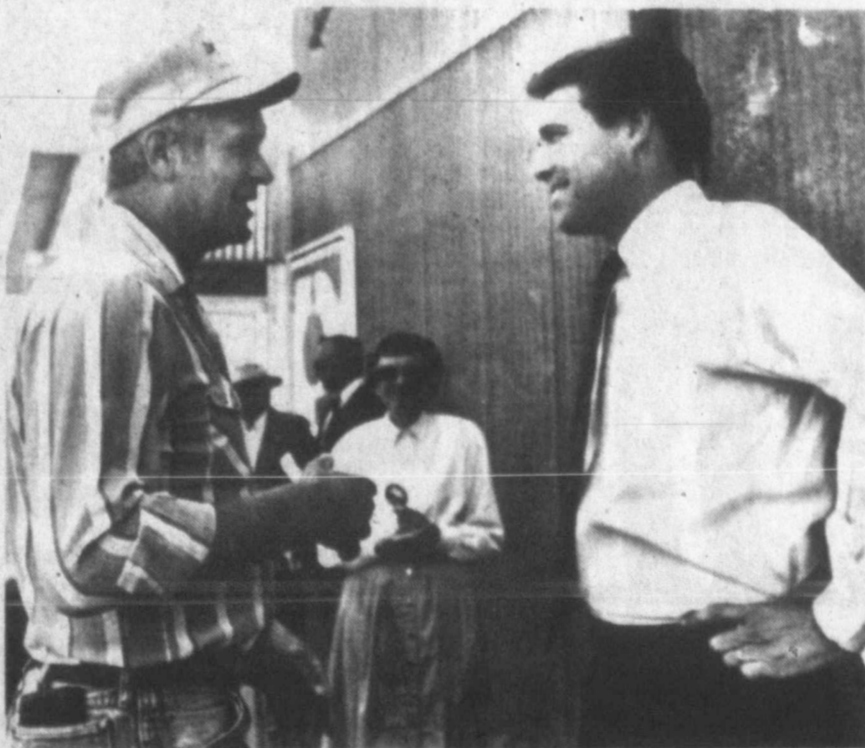

Snyder public schools will again sponsor its Homework Hotline for local students in grades 4 through 12.

The service will begin Monday. Students having difficulty with a math, English/language arts or history assignment can call 573-1987 from 6:30-8:30 p.m. each Monday through Thursday.

An experienced teacher is available to assist students. Hotline personnel were kept busy during the 1989-90 school year.

Elementary students placed 504 calls to the Hotline while some 192 came from junior high students and 401 came from high school students. In all, the Hotline received 1,097 calls.

Many local merchants have shown their support for the Hotline by displaying the phone number. Parents are urged to have their children call the number when they need homework help.

Employer seminar set for Tuesday morning

The West Central Texas Private Industry Council, in cooperation with the Texas Employment Commission, will be sponsoring a half-day seminar on hiring and firing Tuesday.

The seminar will be presented through the management training division of Texas A&M University and will be held in the Reddy Room of TU Electric from 8:30 a.m. until noon.

Dan Webster will be conducting the seminar.

Highlights will include: —How the courts are looking at the "Employment at Will" doctrine; —Dos and Don'ts of interviewing as related to the EEOC; —Grounds for termination; —How to conduct a proper termination to the benefit of both the employee and the organization.

The seminar is provided at no charge to local employers as a service of the WCTOG Private Industry Council. Attendance will be limited, however. To confirm attendance at the seminar, employers should call the Texas Employment Commission at 573-5745 or the District Appraisal Office at 573-8549.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The difference between a wise man and a fool is that a fool's mistakes never teach him anything."

A citizen called the office this week wanting to know how much tax money was spent by Snyder on the reception for retiring prison board chairman Charles Terrell.

The answer is none. Snyder's part of the reception was just over $800 and it came from privately-donated funds. Such a question again underscores the distrust which unfortunately is so prevalent in Snyder these days.

In view of the obvious current benefits of having 300 state jobs in Snyder, it would, however, be easy to justify a public expenditure to foster good relations. Future opportunities remain, especially for Western Texas College and Cogdell Hospital. The added out-patient volume at the hospital has substantially reduced the hospital's dependency on tax support.

James J. White...

Murder trial set to begin Monday

A 100-member jury panel has been summoned for possible duty in a murder trial scheduled to begin Monday in 132nd District Court.

A 37-year-old Snyder man, James J. White, is charged with the Feb. 10 beating and kicking death of his 25-year-old wife, Belinda.

Presiding at the trial will be visiting District Judge David Cave of Floydada. 132nd District Judge Gene Dulaney is in Europe.

District Attorney Ernie Armstrong will prosecute the case and White will be represented by court-appointed attorney Mark Piland of Colorado City.

White has been held in Scurry

County jail on $50,000 bond since the Feb. 10 Saturday night incident. White was indicted by a Scurry County grand jury on March 5.

The couple had been married only a month when police were called by Snyder EMS employees who had been summoned by White to assist his wife.

Mrs. White was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital where she was pronounced dead. White was first arrested at the couple's home for aggravated assault, and he was then charged with murder at the police station.

Judge Cave will hear pre-trial motions, including a defense request for a change of venue, starting at 10 a.m. Jury selection is expected to begin at 1:30 p.m.

Perry addresses group during brief stop here

Some 30 people were on hand at Winston Air Field Friday morning at campaign press conference for Rick Perry, Republican candidate for Texas Agriculture Commissioner.

The stop was originally scheduled as a joint press conference for Perry and Texas Railroad Commissioner Kent Hance, however, Hance was unable to attend because of an illness.

In his address to local citizens, Perry called the oil and ag industries the "backbone of the state."

Texas leads the nation in annual cotton production yet only 10 percent of it is processed in the state, said the Haskell native.

He outlined his plan of value added processing to revitalize rural economies and he pointed to the Littlefield textile mill as an example. Last year the plant did $270 million in business.

"That's real economic development," he said.

Perry, a fifth generation farmer and rancher, criticized Democratic incumbent Jim Hightower for increasing the ag business by only one-eighth of one percent in the past eight years.

Perry was named one of the 10 most effective legislators in 1989 by the Dallas Morning News.

A representative of the 64th District, he served three terms in the Texas House. Last session he was a member of the Joint Select Committee on Workers' Compensation Reform.

A graduate of Texas A&M University, Perry was accompanied by Republican State Rep. Troy Fraser of Big Spring.

Ask Us

Q—During the Effective Schools Conference, were alcoholic beverages in the hospitality room paid for by the local school system?

A—Gary Patterson, conference coordinator, said that the school system provided Cokes and chips for informal sessions held in the evenings at Willow Park Inn. Though alcoholic beverages may have been purchased from the motel club, the school system did not pay for them.

In Brief

Telecast

Due to a scheduling conflict, KTAB's telecast of the AJRA National Finals Rodeo which was to have been aired at 10:30 a.m. Saturday has been rescheduled for 11:30 p.m. Sept. 29.

KTAB did not notify local officials of the switch until Friday afternoon.

Commissioners

Three items are on the 10 a.m. agenda Monday when the Scurry County commissioners court meets.

The court will hear a request from Ray Herring to consider forgiving of the penalty for taxes on property in Fluvanna.

The court will also be asked to amend the sheriff's department budget for 1990. The court will also consider a request to sell infrequently used law books from the county law library.

Meetings

A meeting of the Board of County Development will be held at noon Monday at The Shack. The board of directors of the Snyder chamber of commerce will meet at 4 p.m. Monday at the chamber office.

AARP to meet

The local chapter of AARP will meet Monday at 1 p.m. The program will be presented by Larry Mitchell, minister of the 37th St. Church of Christ. Board members will meet at noon.

Ira PTA

Ira PTA will host an open house Tuesday at 7 p.m., beginning with an ice cream social in the cafeteria.

Circus

The annual Shrine Circus, presented by the Snyder Shrine Club and Mitchell County Shrine Club, will hold performances at 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. Sunday in the county coliseum.

Tickets are $5 for age 13-18 and $6 for adults.

Amended claim alleges bias

COLORADO CITY, Texas (AP) — A civil lawsuit alleging a police coverup in the death of an Hispanic man was amended to include a complaint that law enforcers here have a history of abusing Hispanics.

Six allegations of abuse by the police department, five against minorities, are listed in the amended complaint filed by San Antonio attorney Reuben Sandoval in U.S. District Court in Abilene, according to the Big Spring Herald.

The expanded claim filed Wednesday includes allegations that former officer Billy Ray Williamson and other Colorado City police officers assaulted Hispanic prisoners after arrests between 1978 to 1982.

"I haven't looked at any of that garbage," Williamson said late Friday night. "I don't plan to. I have never done anything wrong or violated anyone's civil rights or anything of that nature."

Colorado City police officers declined comment and referred calls to Colorado City Attorney T.L. Reese. When contacted by

The Associated Press by phone late Friday, Reese hung up.

Sandoval represents a group of residents in Colorado City who are monitoring police for possible civil rights violations. Residents formed the group after the May 1988 fatal shooting of Sammy Gomez, 27.

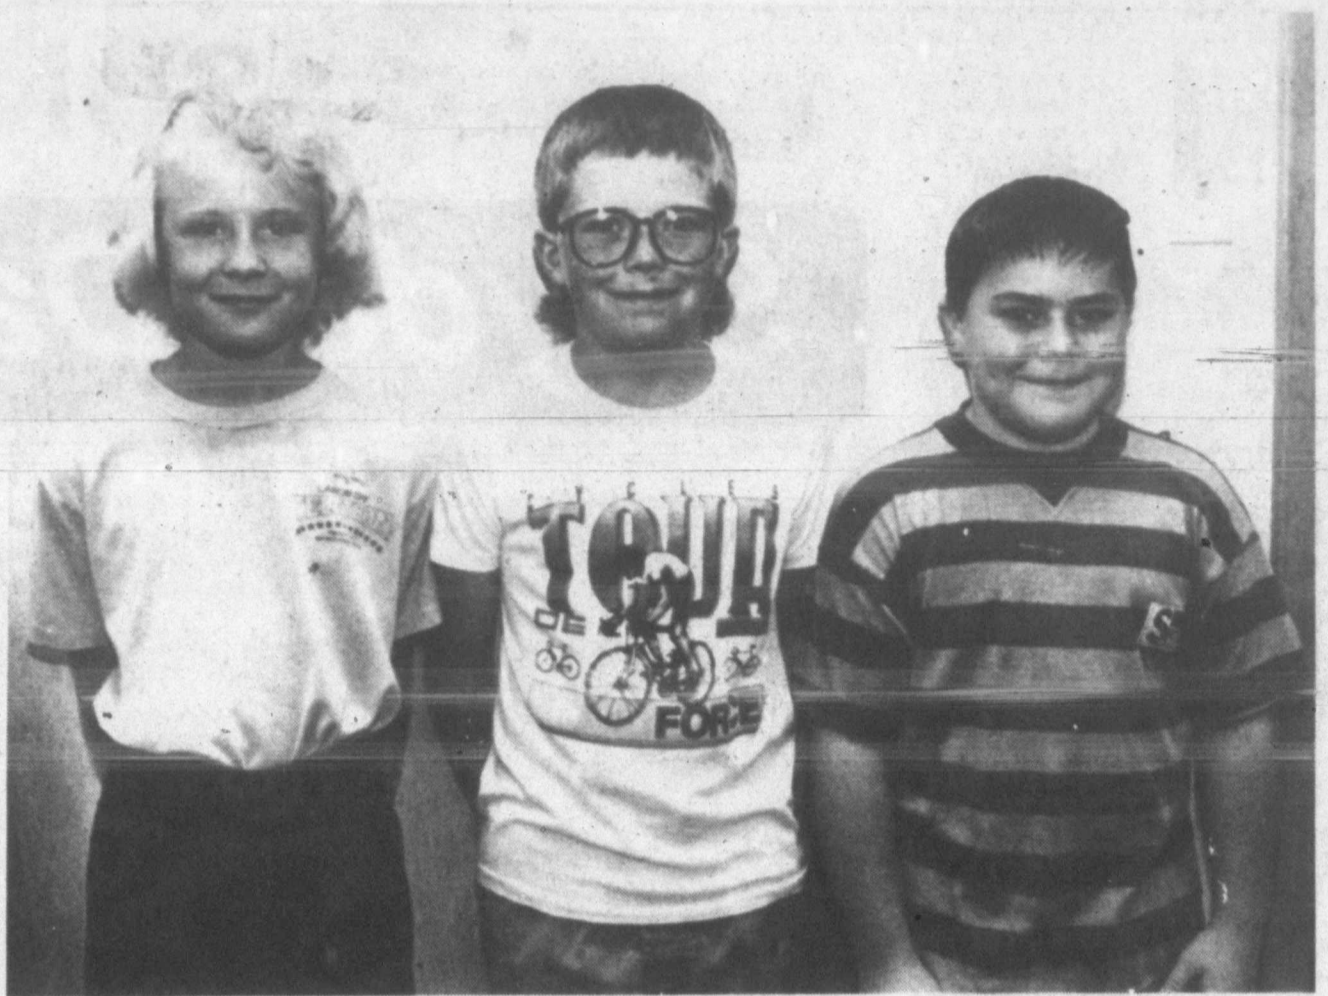

In a lawsuit filed in May against Colorado City, municipal officials and Williamson, residents allege a cover-up followed Gomez' shooting death and that a history of attacks shows officers here are ill-trained.

City officials deny the allegations.

Gomez, a sexual assault suspect, was shot three times, once in the back of the head, by Williamson, a part-time officer who is now the city fire marshal.

Jose Garcia de Lara, president of League of United Latin American Citizens, has said he believes Williamson killed Gomez to end a vendetta against him, and then planted a knife as part of a police cover-up.

Williamson denied the charges of a cover-up, saying, "It's a bunch of malarky. It is evident that we haven't covered anything up. We cooperated with the federal government down to the local authorities."

Senior Center busy with plans for booth at fair

Senior citizens will set up the Senior Citizens Center booth at the Scurry County Fair on Wednesday and invite fair goers to see it during fair days. A group from the center will visit the fair on Friday morning starting around 9:30.

A 42 tournament is planned in the center Monday starting at 9:30 a.m. AARP will meet in the center at 1 p.m. Monday, with an executive session of the chapter at noon.

Commodities will be distributed in the center Wednesday from 9-11:30 a.m. and from 1-2 p.m. Persons planning to pick up food items are reminded that the afternoon hours have been shortened.

The center's Sunshine Choir will sing for residents of Snyder Nursing Center at 11 a.m. Tuesday. Music will continue in the center with the sing along at 11:30 Friday morning.

Robert Allen and the Country Boys will play for a dance at the fair Thursday from 8-10 p.m. Senior citizens and others are invited to attend the dance, which will be held in the ag annex at the coliseum, and there is no charge for admission.

Senior citizens are invited to enter a scramble at the Western Texas College golf course on Sept. 26. Play will begin at 9 a.m. Men and women who want to enter can sign up at the Senior Center or at the WTC pro shop. Green fee for the scramble will be $3.

Groups say fraternities shirked jobs

DALLAS (AP) — A Southern Methodist University fraternity disciplined for holding an "illegal alien" party has shirked the community service work it was required to do as a result, community organization leaders say.

The school's Judicial Council ordered Phi Gamma Delta members to do 400 hours of work for organizations that serve immigrants and refugees. But directors of those groups say they got more excuses, headaches and frustration than volunteerism.

A "Fiji" leader says the problem was a failure to communicate.

Hispanic students complained that the party, held last November, featured fraternity members wearing hair nets, with their hair greased back or with red jalapenos painted on their chests.

The Hispanic students said the party was degrading and perpetuated stereotypes. The judicial council agreed and ordered the community service in February.

"It was only after great prodding, insistence and a lot of frustration that I got about 23 of the fraternity members to work some hours," said Vanna Slaughter, director of Immigration Counseling Services for Catholic Charities. "There were about 20 times when they said they would be here and didn't show up."

Your Birthday

Sept. 16, 1990

Unusual circumstances might develop in the year ahead that will give you opportunities to add to your holdings and resources. This may all come about in extremely mysterious ways.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You've made a much better impression than you think regarding someone you've felt hasn't noticed you. Today you might learn of this first hand. Virgo, treat yourself to a birthday gift.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't reluctant today about making your needs known to people who truly love you. They're as interested in promoting your well being as you are.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your greatest asset today is your ability to effectively deal with others and to get them to do your bidding without feeling they are being manipulated or used.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Interests which are of importance to you personally will be advanced today through the efforts of others as well as your own. People will help you because they want to, not because they have to.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you have to make an important decision today, choose the alternative that opts in favor of a solid protracted approach rather than a quick fix.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There is a possibility you might be asked to unravel a complicated matter for a close friend today. Gratitude may be your only, but ample, reward.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today you might have to make a decision about which you'll be dubious because you'll let your heart rule your head. Actually, you'll eventually discover you couldn't have selected a wiser counselor.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If conditions warrant it might be advisable to take a calculated gamble where your work or career is concerned to achieve your priorities today, but don't go overboard.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) People with whom you have close emotional bonds should be awarded the lion's share of your attention today. Both you and they could benefit in some unique manner.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A matter you thought might be rather difficult to deal with looks like it can be accomplished with relative ease today owing to a favorable shift in circumstances.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Let the one you love know how much you care today either with flowers or some tangible evidence of your affections. It doesn't have to be expensive, just visible.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This is one of those days when you might reap benefits in your overall dealings with others. It could be special consideration from a commercial vendor or a friend picking up your tab for lunch.

Japan and Communist China agree to re-establish diplomatic relations in 1972.

Your Birthday

Sept. 17, 1990

A number of interesting developments could be in store for you in the year ahead, but they are not likely to pertain to your work or career. Conditions in this area should be relatively stable with a few surprises.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You should be well received today by most people, outside of your immediate family. Unfortunately, relatives or in-laws might find flaws in your performance. Major changes are ahead for Virgo in the coming year.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your possibilities for achieving your career objectives look very good today, provided you do what needs doing without focusing too much attention on your intentions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In your anxiety to please and influence your friends today, you might be a trifle too insistent upon having them do things your way. You'll get better results if you loosen your grip a bit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You are presently in a good achievement cycle, but you might not attain that which you desire on your first try. The secret to your success is tenacity.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is a day when your hunches and perceptions should be trusted and acted upon. However, don't go overboard and give your logic and reasoning a leave of absence.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your greatest possibilities for meaningful gains today are likely to come from some form of collective endeavor. Remember there is strength in union.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Impulsive decisions you make today could return to haunt you. However, in matters where you take time to carefully analyze all of the aspects, future problems are unlikely.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It might take you a little extra time to get your act together today, but once you establish your plans and chart a course, you should be both industrious and productive.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You should be quite adept today at exchanges which require a quick wit and mental agility. Your attributes are likely to be most effective in your social involvements.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You might fare better today if you play a lone hand in your financial or commercial endeavors. If there are associates involved, however, you should be the one who sets the objectives.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Complex, theoretical involvements could be your forte today. You have the ability to visualize and grasp pertinent facts that might appear fuzzy to others.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your financial trends look rather encouraging today, but you're not apt to benefit from ventures or enterprises that are too chancy. Avoid taking flyers.

Inmates released from crowded jails

HOUSTON (AP) — About 45 inmates walked out of the Harris County Jail amid the glare of TV lights and shouts from protestors in the first wave of releases forced by continued overcrowding.

The group, released on personal recognition bonds to satisfy a federal court order, included 16 accused of writing bad checks, eight charged with driving while intoxicated and seven arrested on prostitution charges.

Others were charged with trespassing, criminal mischief and burglary of a coin-operated machine. All were being held because they couldn't make bail pending trial, and all eventually will be called into court.

U.S. District Judge James DeAnda signed the order freeing 74 inmates late Friday to begin easing jail crowding. About 20 were to be handed over to other law enforcement agencies on warrants and about 10 for various reasons were unaccounted for Friday night.

Another 180 were recommended for early release.

Officials warned that more releases are likely, as the three jail facilities remain chronically over both their designed capacity of 4,698 inmates and their federal court-ordered limit of 6,100.

More than 50 protesters, mostly relatives of murder victims, surrounded and shouted at the prisoners as they left the jail.

Chanting "can't do the time, don't do the crime," many protesters carried plastic tombstones labeled "victim" and the words, "I would like to be released early."

The release program was ordered because authorities missed an Aug. 31 deadline to lower the jail population to 6,100, and for 15 days maintained a count hovering at 6,354.

DeAnda and U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice ordered federal monitor J. Michael Keating to begin releasing inmates on Friday, starting with those awaiting trial for misdemeanors.

Keating spent most of the day in conference with county officials, poring over a list of 932 problems. candidates for release supplied by the sheriff's department. A Providence, R.I., attorney, Keating has administered similar release programs in other states with jail crowding problems. "The public gets very angry about this, and they ought to be angry," Keating told the Houston Chronicle.

Recruiting inquiries increased after crisis

DALLAS (AP) — Army recruiters say foot traffic and telephone inquiries have jumped since the United States sent troops to the Middle East.

The crisis in the Persian Gulf "is bringing them in," said Sgt. Dennis Show, commander of the Army's recruiting station in suburban Grand Prairie. "People are sticking their head in the door saying, 'I want to go.'"

"But that's not one of our enlistment guarantees, that they get a sand pail and shovel."

'Marconi' exhibit to open here Sept. 23

"Marconi," an exhibition presenting the life and work of Italian inventor Guglielmo Marconi, a major figure in the history of communication, will open Sunday, Sept. 23, in the Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College.

Members of the Museum Association will preview the exhibit from 7-9 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 22. Jeff Poland of Snyder Country Club will cater a light buffet for the evening. This event will signal the start of the association's annual membership drive and anyone who would like to attend is invited to pay dues at the door. Interested persons are invited to call the museum office at 573-6107 for more information.

Artifacts from the museum collection and on loan from local residents will be displayed with the photographs and 38 text panels which make up the Marconi exhibit. Artifacts traveling with the exhibit include a Signa Corps field radio transmitter (circa 1918), featuring a tuning helix on top. This instrument used spark telegraphy, the earliest kind of wireless transmission, to send messages over short distances. There is also a homebuilt crystal set made about 1922 to receive commercial broadcasts.

Local ham radio operators will set up an equipment display and demonstration.

The Marconi exhibit was organized by the Marconi International Fellowship with the support of RCA and Rockwell International. Local financial support came from KSNY. The exhibit is circulated by the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service (SITES).

The display will remain in Scurry County Museum through Oct. 21 and can be seen during regular gallery hours, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and 1-4 p.m. on Sunday. Admission is free but donations are welcome.

Marconi was born in Bologna, Italy, in 1874. While on vacation in 1894 he picked up an electrical journal containing an article describing the electromagnetic wave experiments of Heinrich Hertz and from this he conceived the idea of using waves for communications. Within several months he completed an apparatus to transmit signals through the air from one end of the house to the other, then from the house to the garden. Those experiments were in effect the start of practical wireless telegraphy.

The dawn of the 20th century found Marconi possessed with the idea of sending messages across the Atlantic. He built a transmitter 100 times more powerful than any previous station at Poldhu on the southwest tip of England and in November, 1901, went to America to install a receiving station at St. John's Newfoundland. Dec. 12, 1901, became a historic date in the annals of wireless when he received signals across the ocean from Poldhu. As news of the achievement spread around the world, he was acclaimed by outstanding scientists including Thomas A. Edison. The "radio" age had begun.

Wireless met its first big test on Jan. 23, 1909, when the S.S. Republic was rammed by the S.S. Florida 26 miles south of Nantucket Lightship. Rescue ships came from all directions and only six lives were lost. On April 12, 1912, the S.S. Titanic, bound for New York City on her maiden voyage, crashed into an iceberg in mid-ocean and its wireless frantically called for help. From that day no one argued that the wireless was just a dream or toy and honors were heaped upon Marconi as a benefactor of mankind. In 1909, his achievements were recognized by the award of the Nobel Peace Prize in physics which he shared with Karl Braum of Germany who pioneered in the development of the electron tube.

As his work continued, Marconi predicted that a revolution in wireless was coming with the harnessing of tiny waves that would vastly improve worldwide communication. Beyond that he foresaw the possibilities of sending radiophotos and eventually pictures in motion — that is television. The Marconi exhibit examines modern technological developments made possible by Marconi's work — satellite communications, radio astronomy, lasers and computer chips.

In 1929, Marconi was made a marquis by the Italian government. He continued his research and development activities until 1935 when his doctors ordered him to take complete rest due to ill health. He died of a heart attack in 1937.

TU Electric faces possible lawsuit over toxic paint

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The Texas Water Commission says it can't legally label as hazardous the toxic paint TU Electric sold to more than 100 North Texans, according to a published report.

Several people said they became ill after buying the surplus industrial paints and solvents, which had been originally intended for use on the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant near Fort Worth.

TU officials estimate that up to 5,000 gallons of paint were sold to people who didn't know they were toxic.

The commission has referred the case to Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox.

A group of former TU employees, residents who bought the paint and a government watchdog group presented documents, pictures and affidavits to try to get the agency to take action against the utility.

The groups contend that TU sold dangerous paints, some of which had expired their shelf lives, instead of disposing of the substances properly.

But Water Commission executive director Allen Beinke wrote a letter to Linda Porter, a former TU employee who raised concerns about the sales, saying the agency had to have more facts before it could consider fines against TU, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported Saturday.

Beinke suggested the company coordinate with the commission's Resource Exchange Network for Eliminating Waste to handle future sales of toxic substances.

But in a corresponding letter to TU director of Environmental Services Richard White, Beinke said the company didn't use good judgment when deciding to sell the paint to the public.

Financial Focus

Two stumbling blocks to successful investing are magazine mutual fund rankings and investment advisory newsletters.

Mutual fund rankings appear annually in most well-known financial publications. Of course, these rankings seldom agree because each magazine has its own unique rating system.

Investment advisory newsletters, on the other hand, can be published by almost anyone with enough venture capital to buy a mailing list. And the newsletters are usually so skillfully marketed that one often finds them hard to resist. Take, for example, my latest newsletter subscription.

The offering flier was a slick, multicolored piece. It raised enough economic questions that satisfying my curiosity might have been worth the special subscription price. Wrong. There was no mention of important economic issues. Instead, I read about some sure-fire foreign stocks and coin deals you couldn't refuse.

This month I finally got the worst—a newsletter that rates mutual funds. If you consider this sour grapes, far from it. The entertainment was worth the price.

The criteria used for the rating were:

1. Beat the Standard and Poor's Stock Index for the last three years.
2. Over the same period, show less volatility than the Standard and Poor's Index.
3. Cushion investors from bear markets.
4. Have a diversified mix of stocks.

From this exacting criteria, the newsletter recommended 30 funds from a group of 175. Of course, there are about 3,000 mutual funds available.

By now you've probably realized that most of this article is a tongue-in-cheek observation. Although the facts are correct, it is alarming that many subscribers will blindly select a mutual fund from the "Top 30", call the convenient 800 number and invest money. They have no idea of the objectives, risks, history or management of these funds. They also know nothing about the newsletter editor or his or her qualifications to offer investment advice.

Investing is serious business. Serious investors should be serious about it.

Controversy surrounds Kent County JP

JAYTON, Texas (AP) — Some say Lewie Hilton is a lovable ol' man who, despite only having a sixth-grade education, gave everything to being a Justice of the Peace in West Texas.

The state says he took from the job.

"We're going to come after the judge even if he is a very good man," said Bill Hornung, an examiner for the State Commission on Judicial Conduct.

Hilton, a popular Kent County justice of the peace, was the target of a judicial conduct hearing this week. He is accused of five civil counts including falsifying records and failing to report and turn over about $4,500 in fines.

Hilton is also accused of Beard Van Lines is recognized

Hermleigh 4-H meets

Charles Sweatt presided over the recent meeting of the Hermleigh 4-H Club, due to the absence of the president and vice president.

Members discussed their booth for the fair and cut out letters for it. The next meeting will be Sept. 26. Refreshments were served.

Three new members joined. Three people visited. They closed with a recreation period.

tampering with government records and failing to report convictions to the Texas Department of Safety.

During more than three hours of a commission hearing Thursday, Hornung presented evidence showing Hilton submitted copies of criminal docket pages to the commission that didn't match original pages.

According to testimony, Hilton used correction fluid on several of the criminal docket pages to make the original pages match the docket copies he sent to the commission.

Commission members asked Hilton to appear before them with his criminal docket after receiving a complaint that Hilton was dismissing cases when defendants pleaded innocent.

But defense attorney Davis Scarborough argued that Hilton was merely a "poor bookkeeper" who had been educated only up to the sixth grade.

"Counsel is mistaken about criminal intent," Scarborough said. "Here is a man that has served this county and served it well.

"People from Austin are up here trying to deprive Lewie of a job he had."

Hilton was Kent County's only justice of the peace from 1979 until July 7, 1989, when the commission suspended him without pay.

He is awaiting trial on criminal charges of theft by a public servant, tampering with a governmental record and two counts of official misconduct.

Despite the charges, many residents in this farming county of about 1,300 support Hilton.

He won the Democratic nomination for his seat in an April runoff election. He has four write-in candidates opposing him in November's general election, including acting Justice of the Peace Jack Williams.

"The people of Kent County are better qualified to pass judgment on a person's honesty and ability to do a job," said Scarborough, who didn't call any witnesses in defense of Hilton.

But, commission staff attorney Kathy Beers testified Hilton admitted to her that he falsified one docket sheet submitted to the commission.

"He told me 'Yes,' he had made them up so he could have something to send to Austin," Ms. Beers said.

Evidence submitted to retired Judge Perry Pickett of Midland, who was appointed special master over the hearing, will also show Hilton failed to report and turn over about $4,500 collected from fines during 1986 and 1987, Hornung said.

"What happened to the money, we don't know," Hornung said. "If it is a result of bad bookkeeping, then we need a judge who can keep better books."

Pickett said he would submit his findings to the commission within 30 days.

The commission will decide whether to dismiss the civil charges, issue a public censure or file a petition before a seven-judge tribunal to remove Hilton from office.

Snyder blasts Bulldogs, 40-0

Tiger special teams account for two touchdown returns

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

It took a very short time for the tone to be set in Friday night's Snyder-Clyde football game played on the Tigers' home turf. Snyder return man, Shelby Bufkin, took a handoff in the starburst return formation from Jason Rios and scooted down the right sideline for an 88-yard touchdown on the opening kick-off touching off a 40-0 rout.

For Clyde, the game went downhill from there.

Coach David Baugh of Snyder complimented his special teams' effort in the contest.

"I thought the major difference tonight was the play of our special teams. The kick-off and punt return teams did a good job and we did a good job covering kicks.

"I was real tickled with them (special teams) because it's something we stress all the time in practice and we finally got something out of it."

Something, indeed.

The Tigers scored two touchdowns off suicide squad efforts, claimed a fumble on punt coverage on the Clyde 2-yard line, rushed and partially blocked a Bulldog punt and punter Brian Brunson averaged over 40 yards per kick.

The Snyder defense made its stifling presence known, also, allowing just 147 total yards.

Clyde did not penetrate the Tigers' 20-yard line until 2:48 remained in the final period.

Snyder defenders forced five fumbles and recovered three of them and claimed a pair of interceptions in the victory.

"This was a good win," Baugh said.

"It was what we needed. We got to play lots of people and have some fun.

"I was proud of our kids. They've worked hard and had some bad things happen to them. They really deserved this."

The lights in Tiger Stadium went dark for a 16-minute span in the first quarter but as soon as they were on again, the scoring resumed for the Tigers.

Snyder took a hefty 20-0 lead after the first 12 minutes on Bufkin's score, a 33-yard touchdown scamper by Paul Anderson at 5:09 in the period, with a two-point conversion on a pass from Ed Rios to Terry Snyder following, and a 50-yard punt return by Mark King for a third six-pointer in the stanza.

Bufkin was around the football in the second quarter, also, as Brunson's punt on fourth and 31 from the Snyder 48 was mishandled on the Bulldog 3-yard stripe by return specialist Bryan

Whiteaker and claimed by Bufkin on-the-spot.

The Tigers needed just one play, a slashing run by Anderson, to top the score to 26-0.

The tally continued to snowball in the third when Rios launched a 9-yard scoring strike to Terry Snyder deep in the corner of the Clyde end zone on third-and-goal.

The extra point by Brunson was successful and Snyder led 33-0 with 5:26 remaining in the third.

Will Clay, substituting for Anderson at tailback in the final period, took a Jason Rios handoff and galloped 57 yards around right end for the final points in the contest.

Brunson again tacked on the extra point and Snyder had moved to a 40-0 win.

Another TD in the first quarter was called back on a holding penalty. King rambled 26 yards down the right sideline across the goal line before the walk off by the officials.

Snyder, again this week, had problems with penalties as the Tigers victimized themselves with 16 flags for 100 yards.

Last week against Monahans SHS drew 11 markers for 90 yards.

Dropped passes were a problem for the Snyder offense, as well.

Four of Ed Rios' misfires were on target but muffed by receivers.

Rios ended the contest hitting two of eight passes for 16 yards, a TD and an interception.

Backup signal caller Jason Rios hit his only attempt, a 16 yarder to Michael Torres.

Anderson was the game's leading rusher picking up 61 yards on 13 carries. Ed Rios added 25 yards on five rushes.

Defensively, linebacker Blair Williams picked up two Clyde fumbles on the night and King and Jason Rios each came up with an interception off CHS starting QB John Anderson.

The Tigers will be on the road again next week visiting Littlefield in non-district action.

In other District 2-4A games Dunbar nipped Lake View 19-15, Frenship was bested by 5A Coronado 13-6 and Levelland dumped Canyon Randall 20-6.

Estacado was to host Big Spring and Lamesa was at Amarillo Caprock in Saturday games.

Snyder begins loop competition against preseason favorite Estacado on Oct. 11 in Lubbock.

HEADED DOWNFIELD — Snyder kick returner Mark King jukes a defender and heads to the goal line on a 50-yard punt return for a touchdown in Friday's 40-0 win over Clyde. The Tigers took a 20-

Hermleigh plucks Southland Eagles

HERMLEIGH — The Hermleigh Cardinals moved to 1-1 on the season with a 49-14 shellacking of Southland in non-district six-man action Friday.

The Cards scored 35 points before the visitors could cross the goal line.

Felix Martinez scored first on a two-yard run and followed with the conversion kick for an 8-0 lead. Andrew Sanchez, who made four Hermleigh TD's was next into the end zone capping a 63-yard scamper.

He later scored on a 53 yard run, a 25-yard pass and an interception return covering 30 yards.

The Eagles did not score until the final period.

Hermleigh hosts Rule next Friday at 7:30 p.m. as the Cards' non-district schedule continues.

Injured 'Dogs fall to Midland squad

MIDLAND — "It's gonna be a long season if we don't get some people healthy," said Ira Bulldogs' coach Don Jones after his team, picked to vie for District 6 six-man football honors, fell to Midland Christian, 50-22 Friday.

The 'Dogs were without seniors Brian Martinez, a quarterback and defensive back, and end-linebacker John Stewart, as well as junior center-linebacker Joe Luna, all of which were injured.

James Sturdivant scored once for Ira on a 10-yard toss from Chris Haynes and running back Mike Hughes took the football in twice, once on a 35-yard jaunt and one time from 55 yards out.

Ira dropped to 0-2 on the young grid season with the loss.

The Bulldog JV fell to Aspermont Thursday, 19-13, in spite of a pair of Tom Sanchez TD runs.

Ira's varsity is at Grady next Friday.

The scheduled junior varsity contest with Grady Thursday has been cancelled.

Borden is tripped by Wildcats, 26-8

LENORAH — Borden County was halted in their first road game of the 1990 football season, 26-8, by a tough Grady team Friday night.

The Coyotes could not penetrate the Wildcats' goal line until the fourth quarter when Kirk Jones rumbled over from two yards out. Shannon Smithie's kick wound up the Borden County scoring.

Grady end Danny Valle took a Len Garza pass 60 yards for the game's opening score.

The Wildcats rolled up 222 rushing yards in the win and scored in every quarter.

The Coyotes are on the road again next week visiting Wellman in a 7:30 p.m. Friday tilt.

2A Groveton wins

by The Associated Press

The two key players in Groveton's bid to repeat as Class 2A state champions each scored twice as the Indians — ranked No. 1 again in 1990 — shut out Corrigan-Camden 27-0 in one of the highlight games of the season's second week.

Running back Rodney Thomas, who ran for almost 3,000 yards last season, finished with 95 yards. Quarterback Gerald Farley, running his record as a starter to 29-1-1, also had two touchdowns runs, one of them covering 48 yards.

Elsewhere, the big schools' top-ranked team, Aldine, waited for an early-season showdown on Saturday against third-ranked Fort Bend Willowridge, while fifth-ranked Dallas Carter looked to a battle with ninth-ranked Marshall, also on Saturday.

The three other top-ranked teams all won. In 4A, No. 1-ranked A&M Consolidated clubbed Bryan 31-11. In 3A, Vernon routed Wichita Falls, 48-13. And in 1A, top-ranked Munday overwhelmed Holliday, 45-7.

In Class 4A, two teams ranked in the top 5 headed for a Saturday showdown — No. 2 Lubbock Estacado and No. 5 Big Spring.

Chadwick's Dusters gear up for campaign

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

Coach Kelly Chadwick was admittedly disappointed his Western Texas College Lady Dusters failed to earn a berth in the Snyder-hosted regional tournament last year.

So he went out and got some freshman talent that has the ability to put the WTC ladies back on top of the conference.

Ten underclassmen join three seasoned returnees to make up the Duster squad.

Sophomores Jill Forrest, 5-10, 5-10 Kelsey Koester and 5-11 Tracey Edmunds will all be counted on for experience and leadership for Chadwick's crew in 1990-91.

KELSEY KOESTER

They will be joined by Lorenzo's Becky Hinojos, Needville freshman Sherry Hoffpaur, Carla Marek from W.B. Ray High in Corpus Christi, Navasota's La'Shunta Jackson, Merry Brown of Del Rio, Knox City standout Kristi Risinger, Melissa Sutton of Central High in San Angelo, Canyon Randall's Diane Mendez, Cassie McNees of Canadian and Midland Lee talent Monica Ramirez.

Hinojos at 5-6 was the 1988-89 district MVP and competed in track and cross-country as well as basketball for Lorenzo.

She was a member of the National Honor Society and plans to major in journalism.

She was tagged the 1987-88 LHS Most Valuable Player in track and was selected Greatest Hornet and Basketball MVP three consecutive years beginning in 1988.

Hinojos averaged over 22 points and almost nine rebounds in her senior season.

She scored 42 points and snatched 14 boards in just over two quarters against Wilson last year.

"She is a very intelligent young lady," said Chadwick.

"She is an excellent shooter and can become a good college point guard. She's also a good defensive player."

Hoffpaur, one of Chadwick's first signees, boasts a list of basketball accomplishments highlighted by her being named all-district, district MVP and All-Greater Houston.

She was also voted all-district in volleyball three years running.

The Physical Education major scored 19.6 points per game in high school and pulled down 10 rebounds.

Her best outing was a 29-point effort against Palacios in which she also nabbed a dozen boards.

"She will play hard in college," Chadwick predicts.

"She's a good shooter with three-point range and has the ability to become a great defensive player. She's a diamond in the rough, very coachable."

Marek boasts a per game average in high school of 10 points and four rebounds with her best game against Victoria High when she poured in 17 including a pair of threes.

"She's a super shooter," Chadwick said. "She's very intelligent and a hard worker, dedicated."

"Carla is also very unselfish and has a great attitude." Marek was named first team all-district, first team all-metro, second team All-South Texas, the W.B. Ray Female Athlete of the Year and winner of the Gil Steinkamp Award as a schoolgirl.

Jackson, among many other athletic honors was a four-time all-district selection at Navasota High School.

She was also a first team all-state selection, an all-region pick, district MVP three consecutive years and a member of Who's Who in Basketball.

Jackson should see action this season as a post and possibly some as a guard according to Chadwick.

"She is a good athlete. A good shooter and an excellent rebounder. She will become a super defensive player."

The freshman Business major averaged almost 19 points per game in high school while dragging the glass for over a dozen rebounds.

Midland Lee product Monica Ramirez stands 5-11 and averaged about 26 points and 12 rebounds in high school.

Chadwick says of Ramirez, "She's a good rebounder and a quick jumper. She shoots the ball well around the basket and can be a tough customer."

She once scored 32 points in a game against Abilene High.

Ramirez, an Engineering major, was an All-District 4-5A pick, and a second team all-state choice as well as being named loop MVP as a senior.

Canadian High School standout Carrie McNees played basketball and track in the Class 2A CHS program where she earned all-district honors in basketball and was named Outstanding Track Player.

She is a P.E. major who plans to coach when college is finished for her.

McNees scored 13.4 points an outing as a high school cager, pulled in 4 rebounds and added five assists per game.

"She is a dedicated, hard worker," said Chadwick. "She's very coachable and a team player."

McNees scored 27 points and grabbed 11 boards in an Area playoff game against Crosbyton.

Diane Mendez played basketball and ran track and cross-country in high school earning MVP honors and a spot on the Golden Spread North All-Star team as a Canyon Randall basketball player.

Mendez, at almost 5-11, will pay the post for Chadwick's Dusters.

"She comes from a super basketball program," said Chadwick.

She contributed 11 points, six rebounds and three assists her senior year at RHS.

Melissa Sutton, a 5-8 guard for San Angelo Central's Lady Bobcats last year brings a 15 point, nine rebound average into her college career.

Sutton was the 1990 District 4-5A MVP, second team all-region and honorable mention all-state pick.

"She's another very intelligent young lady," said Chadwick.

"She has good speed and she's quick. She's a very dedicated basketball player."

Kristi Risinger joins Chadwick's crew from Knox City where she lettered in basketball, volleyball and track.

She was first team all-district three times, loop MVP as a junior and an honorable mention All-America among other athletic honors.

Risinger posted a 24 point, 11 rebound average as a high school player, scoring 27 in her best game against Munday in 1989.

MELISSA SUTTON

"She is a good shooter with a great attitude," Chadwick related.

"She has worked in the off-season on her ball-handling skills which will, hopefully allow her to play on the perimeter."

Merry Brown rounds out the Lady Dusters' freshman class.

She is a 5-11 freshman twice named all-district at Del Rio High School.

She was also a regional qualifier in track her sophomore season qualifying for state as a senior.

Brown is penciled to play at the post position for Chadwick.

"Merry has a good soft touch around the basket," he said.

"And her strength should make her a very physical player. With hard work and dedication she can become a good college post player."

While Chadwick is rightfully proud of his recruiting efforts and his freshmen acquisitions, he is still aware of the fact that experience can play a major role in a team's success or failure.

That's where his three sophomores come in.
Jill Forrest, a 5-10 forward and post, Kelsey Koester who at 5-10 fills the guard slot and 5-11 post Tracy Edmunds make up the nucleus of the Duster squad.

Forrest, a Bay, Miss. talent, is a Business major who averaged over 20 points and a dozen boards in high school.

"Jill, as a freshman, played admirably," said Chadwick.

"She has undergone shoulder surgery which slowed her considerably during her freshman season but she has great abilities and a great attitude."

"She plays extremely hard," he continued, "and is very physical for her size (5-10, 155)."

Richardson Berkner cage star Kelsey Koester drew lavish praise from the WTC coach after her performance last season.

"She played well toward the end of last season. She has a good attitude and good work habits and her confidence level should be up this season."

"Hopefully the past year has made her stronger physically as well as mentally."

Koester plays Chadwick's No. 2 guard position at 5-10.

As a schoolgirl she registered an average of 14 points per game and swiped seven rebounds.

Hawley High School's Tracy Edmunds is, according to coach Chadwick, very physical around the basket.

He calls her "pleasant to coach".

The WTC coach also feels Edmunds will be able to score more this season and could be a stand-out defensive player.

She dropped in 12 points per game in high school.

LA SHUNTA JACKSON

The Dusters schedule begins with a Nov. 5 date in Snyder's Scurry County Coliseum against Cisco Junior College. They will compete in the South Plains Classic in Levelland Nov. 8-10 and the Hawk Queen Classic in Big Spring Nov. 15-17 and are set to host the Turkey Day Classic Nov. 23-24.

Conference action begins Nov. 29 when the Lady Dusters travel to Big Spring to tangle with Howard College.

WTC golf team set for Grayson event

Western Texas College golfers are slated to leave Sunday to participate in the Monday and Tuesday Grayson Fall Invitational at Tanglewood Resort in Denison.

Approximately 15 teams are entered in the 36-hole tournament including host Grayson County College, Paris Junior College and San Jacinto Junior College.

WTC is the lone entrant from the Western Junior College Athletic Conference.

The Westerners will compete on two teams with Pampa's Ryan Teague, Darren Waters of Levelland, Austin talent Clint Winn, Brandon Benedict of Bartlesville, Ok. and Sapulpa, Ok. native Brad Stewart on one unit.

Teague, Waters and Winn are classified as freshmen at WTC and Benedict and Stewart are sophomores.

The other team for the Westerners consists of sophomore Tony Lara of Sweetwater and freshmen Jon Roseberry of Austin, Midland's John Gatlin, Pampa native Mark Wood and Greg Slicker from Houston.

San Angelo native Tony Smith will travel with the WTC team and play in the tournament as an individual.

Iraqi raids draw condemnation by France

By The Associated Press

Iraq's raids on diplomatic compounds in occupied Kuwait have drawn swift and sharp protests from the United States and other Western nations. Efforts to force an Iraqi pullout grew as countries pledged more troops and military hardware.

Evacuees from Kuwait said Iraqi troops are wiping out the Kuwaiti resistance fighters. An animal rights official in Britain today accused the Iraqi occupation force of eating most of the animals in Kuwait's zoo.

French President Francois Mitterrand, stung by the attack Friday on the French diplomatic compound, called an emergency meeting of his Cabinet Saturday. He characterized the break-in as "an aggression, and we will respond to it."

Also raided Friday were Belgian and Canadian diplomatic compounds.

President Bush pledged to support any French response.

Bush also said the U.S. Navy fired warning shots and boarded an Iraqi tanker in the Gulf of Oman on Friday as part of the effort to enforce trading sanctions against the Baghdad government.

Asked by reporters if his words and the U.S. actions were meant as a "saber-rattling" threat to Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, Bush said: "When I rattle a saber, the man will know it."

Four citizens, including a diplomat, were seized at the French ambassador's residence, France said. Iraqi troops also burst into the Belgian compound and the Canadian ambassador's residence, briefly detaining the consuls from the United States and four other nations.

Iraq denied its soldiers entered the foreign compounds and said the troops were under strict orders not to enter the compounds.

Saddam's troops invaded Kuwait on Aug. 2 and annexed the oil-rich emirate, after the Baghdad government demanded Kuwait relinquish border territory, compensate for billions in oil pumped from disputed land and forgive billions in loans.

The invasion prompted a U.N. embargo and a multinational military effort to deter possible Iraqi aggression.

Late Friday, an Iraqi Airways jetliner landed at London's Gatwick airport with more than 350 evacuees, mostly American women and children. The Americans, believed to be among the last who agreed to leave behind their husbands and fathers in Kuwait, were to leave for Baltimore this afternoon.

About 2,200 Americans remain captive in Iraq and Kuwait, and some Western men have been transferred to strategic Iraqi installations to deter attacks by Western forces.

Galina Suliman of San Francisco, who arrived on the Boeing 747 from Baghdad, said: "The Kuwaiti resistance has been put down ruthlessly by the Iraqis in the past day or two."

Another passenger, Andrea Hanson from Portland, Ore., said Kuwaiti groups did not have enough weapons to fight the Iraqis.

The Times of London today quoted Victor Watkins, an official of the World Society for the Protection of Animals, as saying Iraqi soldiers in Kuwait have eaten 70 percent of the edible animals in Kuwait's zoo. The newspaper did not specify how Watkins got his information or how many animals were in the zoo. "It is a dreadful situation. Things are desperate enough for the people, so anyone might understand how bad it is for the animals," he was quoted as saying.

Iraq has an estimated 265,000 troops in and around Kuwait.

The United States has led the multinational buildup in Saudi Arabia and the gulf, with 150,000 troops and more than 30 warships in the region.

Souter will not reveal abortion stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Judiciary Committee members on both sides of the abortion issue have failed to extract from Supreme Court nominee David Souter his view of how he would approach the subject on the nation's highest court.

But the responses from the New Hampshire judge could make either side nervous.

In his second day of testimony Friday, Souter denied he would join the Supreme Court with any decision already made on overturning the 1973 abortion rights ruling in Roe vs. Wade.

"I have not got any agenda on what should be done with Roe vs. Wade. I would listen to both sides of that case. I have not made up my mind," he said.

He later strenuously declined an invitation from Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., to express his view, legalisms aside, on the morality of abortion.

Feminist groups, convinced by his remarks that Souter would join other conservatives on the court in voting to overturn Roe v. Wade, held a protest Friday calling for his rejection.

But during the hearing, Souter also gave some pause to the anti-abortion side.

Explaining his vote in favor of allowing abortions at a hospital on whose board he served, Souter spoke of the health risks women would face if they had no such facility and sought abortions anyway.

The discussion sounded much like the rationale of people who object personally to abortion but still oppose making it illegal. But Souter said the vote did not necessarily reflect his moral outlook.

Souter also lavished praise upon Justice William Brennan, the liberal pro-choice justice whose retirement created the vacancy Souter would fill if confirmed.

Whatever his personal feelings, Souter insisted they "will play absolutely no role" in his decision-making once on the court.

Just before the hearings broke for the weekend, the questioning got testy for the first time in the two days as Kennedy pressed Souter on the nominee's defense of a New Hampshire literacy test for voters.

Three accidents keep police busy

Snyder police were kept busy Friday with three traffic accidents.

At 9:45 a.m., police were called to 25th St. and College Ave. where a 1975 Dodge driven by Bennie Parker of Midland was in collision with a 1983 Oldsmobile driven by Ola Long of 2111 Ave. O.

Long was transported to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Snyder EMS where she was treated and released for minor injuries. Her car was towed from the scene.

Damage to the Parker vehicle was minor.

A minor accident occurred at 4:50 p.m. in the 3800 block of College Ave. Involved were a 1986 Chevrolet driven by Terri Sue Henry of 3013 38th St. and a 1988 Mercury driven by Lillie Sullivan of P.O. Box 147, Snyder.

The day's final accident occurred at 6:21 p.m. at the traffic circle. A 1985 Chevrolet driven by Connie Baumgardner of San Angelo was in collision with a 1978 Chevrolet driven by Donald Smith of P.O. Box 505, Snyder.

No injuries were reported, however, both vehicles were towed from the scene.

Purse items taken

Scurry County sheriff's office is investigating the theft of a checkbook and several credit cards.

At 9:25 p.m. Friday, Tammy Swigert reported that the items had been taken from her purse while she was at Furr's Supermarket.

pitching and a pedal tractor pull.

Regular musical performances by local and area bands and choirs will be joined by the South Plains College Faculty Dixieland Band this year and cowboy poetry by Snyder High School agriculture instructor Coke Hopping.

Other regular features are the "Kiddie Barnyard" and a nightly carnival.

Booth reservations are available at the chamber of commerce on a space-available basis.

Units extinguish two vehicle fires

Snyder fire units were called to two separate car fires Friday.

The first call came at 1:05 p.m. Firemen were called to 1312 28th St. to extinguish a 1977 Oldsmobile owned by Tommy Eubanks.

At 5:59 p.m., units were dispatched 3 miles south of town on Pleasant Hill Road where a 1975 Chevrolet pickup owned by Larry Nachlinger was on fire. Fireman extinguished the blaze.

Country, western dance lessons planned locally

Country and western dance lessons will be offered at the VFW starting at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday.

Lessons will include the Cotton-Eyed Joe, Cowboy shuffle, waltz, and schottische. Cost is $30 per couple and $18 for singles. For more information, call 573-5978.

Local police clear recent burglaries by two juveniles

Two juveniles were taken into custody Friday, clearing three recent burglaries.

At 5 p.m. at the police station, police took into custody two male juveniles, ages 13 and 15, for burglaries of a Coke machine at Varsity Square, laundry machines at City Automatic Laundry and the Boys' Club.

At 11:02 p.m., police were called to the 3600 block of Ave. V where a caller said that five juveniles had overturned a city dumpster. Police were unable to locate the subjects.

Jerry Tatum of 1802 Scott reported at 11:27 p.m. that juveniles were soaping his car. No subjects were located.

At 5:24 a.m. Saturday, a woman called and reported a prowler outside her residence in the 1500 block of Ave. I. Upon searching the area, officers found the woman's ex-husband.

The 29-year-old subject was taken into custody for criminal trespassing. The woman also advised that the tires on her vehicle and another had been slashed.

At 6:12 a.m. Saturday, Karl Humble reported the theft of a radar detector from his vehicle while parked at 313 34th St.

Cogdell board meets

Hochwalt told the board he is continuing talks with the Texas Department of Criminal Justice in regards to the system's referring patients to UTMB in Galveston for treatment. Local physicians say that a number of the patients can be treated at Cogdell.

The board also gave Hochwalt and board Chairman G.A. Parks Jr. permission to extend a contract to physician candidate Tom Tarkenton. Tarkenton has agreed to practice in Snyder when he finishes his medical studies in July of 1993. The contract is subject to board approval.

Board members were also informed that the relocation of clinic offices to the first floor should be completed in one to two weeks. Five rooms are currently being renovated.

Board members present for the meeting were Parks, Brenda Hedges, Roy McQueen, Bill Wilson III and Jim Palmer. Jackie Smith was absent.

Local horseman shows grand champion mare

Cade Walton, a junior at Snyder High School, won top honors last weekend in the Open Horse Show of the West Texas Fair and Rodeo in Abilene.

Walton, who was riding Carla Straw, an eight-year-old quarter horse owned by Todd Rabon of Novice, Tex., was named high point individual in the 14-18-year-old division of the Open Horse Show.

He was awarded grand champion honors for the entire open show for mares during the show. Walton placed first in halter, first in showmanship, first in western pleasure, second in express trail, and third in horsemanship with his mare in his age division.

He was presented a silver tray for grand champion and a silver and gold belt buckle for being the high point individual.

Ice is volcanic on Neptune's moon Triton, where it melts to a slush when warmed; is forced to the surface, flows much the way lava does on Earth, and then quickly refreezes.

TODD IGLEHART

Iglehart makes Who's Who

Todd Iglehart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Iglehart, has been selected to be included in the 24th annual edition of "Who's Who Among American High School Students."

Only five percent of all students from the nation's 22,000 high schools are selected each year.

'Best' announced

BIG SPRING — Ninety-five dogs from Texas and New Mexico competed in a recent match at the Big Spring Evening Club building.

Best in match honors went to Bouvier de Flandres "Bella," owned by Lynne Russell of Midland.

Two Snyder residents assisted with the match including Mel Gilbert, match chairman, and Janna Jones, assistant chairman.

Scurry County Folks

By Shirley A. Gorman

Si Steinberg was born in Missouri, but he became a Texan by choice. This Sunday, Sept. 16, will be a special day for the longtime Snyder resident, not only because it will mark his 91st birthday, but also because the annual Shrine Circus, performing in the coliseum that day, has been dedicated to him.

Steinberg's 79-year association with Masonry dates back to Dec. 20, 1921 when he joined the Masonic Lodge in Corning, Ark. Four older brothers, now deceased, were members of the same lodge. The Steinberg brothers, which then included Nathan N., Sol S., Jacob Jr., and Harry C., were recognized in 1958 for their combined 159 years of Masonry.

In addition, Steinberg is a longtime Rotarian who first joined the service organization in 1945.

He is also a lifetime member of the Elks Lodge in Hot Springs, Ark. In 1923, Steinberg joined the Elks Lodge in Paragould, Ark., but after it disbanded he said he joined the one in Hot Springs. Anyone who has been a member for 35 or more years becomes a lifetime member, he said.

Steinberg was born in 1899 in Neelyville, Missouri, the youngest of five boys. Texas, especially Snyder, was in his future — but no one knew that then.

It took a five page spread in the October, 1949 issue of "Look" magazine to draw Steinberg's attention to the fledgling oil fields then being developed in the area.

He called a friend of his wife Ruth, who lived in Snyder and was encouraged to "check it out." Steinberg looked beyond the sand and roughness of a rapidly growing "wild and woolly" oil town and realized that he wanted to be a part of Snyder's future.

At that time, Steinberg said they were in the wholesale tobacco business in Steele, Missouri, which was quite a change from anything else they had done before. But the change was necessary because they could not obtain the large appliances which they needed to open their own store.

Though it was after World War II, Steinberg said stores in larger cities were getting the large appliances first and they knew they could not make a living selling small appliances which were all that was available then.

Steinberg's wife had been a nurse in Sweetwater, so she was at least acquainted with this area, he said. But when they arrived in Snyder in 1950, they found some 18,000-20,000 people living in shacks and no place for them to stay so they stayed with Mrs. Steinberg's friend for a short time.

Steinberg returned to Arkansas and purchased a mobile home and that is what they lived in their first two years in Snyder. Eventually they bought a home on 40th Street in the Towle Park area which they sold in 1959 when family illness called them away for a few years.

Harry Steinberg, who lived in El Dorado, had a stroke and the Steinbergs took care of him for awhile. When Sol, who owned a cotton gin in Paragould, was seriously hurt in a wreck, Steinberg and Ruth helped to take care of him. Steinberg knew nothing about cotton gins, but he learned. Sol's health deteriorated following the accident and he died in May of 1961. The Steinbergs lived in Paragould for about two years before they were able to sell the gin.

Harry lived for several years, dying in November of 1971.

Steinberg's two other brothers died within 90 days of Harry. He had to make all the arrangements for the funerals as well as take care of their business affairs. Both had been merchants.

When Harry's condition worsened, the Steinbergs returned to El Dorado to care for him. After his death, they tried living in Dallas for about six months, but preferred to return to Snyder as the people were "so friendly." They built a home on Denison then.

In 1950, fresh from Missouri, Steinberg immediately began to scout the city of Snyder looking for some land to purchase. His first choice was a lot on what is now College Avenue and the Big Spring Highway, but then was nothing but dirt and caliche. Everytime it rained everyone would "slip and slide." Keaton Kolor occupies the lot today.

His transaction was the second one recorded for that area of town, with the first being Gordon Voss who would build Gordon's Drive-In where the Pizza Hut is located today.

Steinberg recalled that during its heyday, Gordon's Drive-In was so popular that pilots would taxi up to it and order a soft drink. At that time, the land where Lawrence IGA is today was a vacant field and pilots had no trouble finding access to the drive-in.

Since the location of his lot was not then within the city limits, Steinberg was instrumental in getting residents in the area to sign a petition for annexation which was approved by the City of Snyder. Because of Steinberg's involvement he said some people referred to him as "the mayor of the Big Spring Highway."

He said he never doubted that he was doing the right thing. He always believed that it was a good part of town to invest in.

LONG TIME MASON-SHRINER — Si Steinberg, 91, long time Mason and Shriner, holds a picture of himself and four brothers, now deceased, who were honored in 1958 for their longtime membership in Masonic Lodges. Sunday's annual Shrine Circus has been dedicated to Steinberg, who has lived in Snyder since 1950. (SDN Staff Photo)

In the beginning, there was also no water or sewer service either, but after the area was annexed those services were eventually acquired. Steinberg said he had installed all of his own pipes and line so that all the city had to do was to hook his property to the existing system.

After he had a building constructed, Steinberg rented part of it to Al Lieb and R.S. Hardee, who opened a store, while Steinberg opened Highland Park Cleaners in the other part.

A few years later, around 1958, Steinberg recalled that Lieb bought some property and had his own building constructed. With Lieb gone, Steinberg rented that space to Sterling Parker and Associates who opened a grocery store. They later closed because it wasn't profitable.

Steinberg then sold the building and relocated his tailor shop to where Highland Bakery is today. Shelby Coker bought that first building from Steinberg.

Snyder continued to grow as more buildings were being built. Steinberg purchased a lot where the now closed Dr. Robert Kidd's veterinary clinic, the antique store and Eddie's Pharmacy are located today. He paid $100 down and $100 a month at five percent interest.

It was nothing but "tall grass surrounded by a barbed wire fence", but Steinberg constructed two buildings on that lot and had another one moved in as well.

RUIDOSO WEDDING — Shana Koonsman and Bob May of El Paso were married on Wednesday, Aug. 25 in Ruidoso, N.M. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Billy Koonsman of Snyder. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph May of Plainview. Bob is a racehorse jockey at both Ruidoso Downs and Sunland Park and Shana is an equine veterinary assistant.

Steinberg said some people thought he was making a mistake but he didn't let remarks like "darn fool from Missouri will lose everything he's got," deter him from his goal.

The lot proved profitable in the long run because the Burgess brothers, Roy and Rayburn, opened a pharmacy and a dentist established his practice in those buildings.

During the early days of the oilfield boom, Steinberg said Snyder lived up to its "wild and woolly" reputation, but people managed okay as long as they avoided certain streets after dark, such as what is now called 25th Street. Snyder was a bit rough in those days, but its friendliness and opportunities seemed to outweigh any negativism. Circumstances called the Steinbergs away periodically, but they always returned because Snyder had become their home and they never found any other place to live that they liked as well.

Steinberg branched out into real estate while living in Snyder. He recently said that of all the work he has done throughout his life, he enjoyed real estate the most because it "kept him in touch with people." He said he has always enjoyed people, perhaps because he had always been taught how to meet people.

He still has his broker's license and when it expires next year he said he has every intention of renewing it.

When the oilfield crunch of the 1960s hit the city, the economy slowed down and the FHA (Federal Housing Administration) had to repossess some 146 houses.

Steinberg went to work for the FHA, maintaining those houses and/or selling them when possible.

But times were tough in the early 1960s and a "$1 was a $1."

In 1965, Steinberg, who was semi-retired by then (he had sold his tailor shop), and his wife decided to travel, and travel they did in a big way. They decided to cover the U.S. by car and they eventually visited all 50 states, including Alaska and Hawaii. They also took two trips to Europe, one to Russia, another to the Scandinavian countries and Mexico.

Steinberg said he also attended a total of 10 international Rotarian conventions.

As a boy, Steinberg loved to fish. It was nothing for him and a friend to pack sack lunches and spend hours at the fishing pond. In past years, he would drive to Eldorado, Ark., one of his favorite fishing holes, and return with lots of fish.

He said he doesn't have much time for fishing anymore though.

When asked, Steinberg said he attributes his longevity to having always lived an active life; he loves to walk, but can't do too much now because of foot problems. Years ago, he said it was nothing for him to walk some 10-15 city blocks in St. Louis, Missouri, when he didn't own a car.

After Steinberg's birth in 1899, his family moved to Corning, Ark., which was located just across the stateline.

That's where he attended school. After high school he expected to be drafted because he already had three brothers in the service and World War I was still

SHRINER HONORED — Mayor Troy Williamson, front left, signs a proclamation which says that the local Masonic Lodge has dedicated Sunday's annual Shrine Circus to Si Steinberg, front right, for his 79 years of service. Sunday is also Steinberg's 91st birthday. Standing are Bob Ivey, Shriner president Phil Ragland and Jim Simpson. Steinberg purchased his hat in 1952. His four brothers, all deceased, were Masons as well and his nephew, Joe Steinberg, is a member of the Suez Temple in Little Rock, Ark. (SDN Staff Photo) being fought in Europe. But the draft ended before his name came up. So he chose to attend a business college in St. Louis, Missouri.

After business school, Steinberg returned from St. Louis and went to work for his father who owned a general mercantile store in Corning.

In 1921, Steinberg accepted the manager's job for a men's furnishing store in Tusculum, Ala. The next year, Steinberg and Sol opened a general store and cotton gin in Cardwell, Missouri. Steinberg operated the store while Sol tended to the gin.

Then in 1929, shortly before Black Tuesday, the day the stock market crashed, they sold their businesses. Steinberg admits they were very lucky to have sold out when they did.

Steinberg then went to work as a buyer for Nugent's Department Store in St. Louis. But in 1931, he moved back to Cardwell and went into business for himself, this time opening an appliance store. He sold Frigidaire refrigerators and Philco radios until World War II started and he could no longer get appliances. He sold out and opened a tent movie house in Milan, Tenn. where a munitions factory was located. Business was good at first, but a strong wind tore up his tent, putting Steinberg out of business.

Next, Steinberg took a job as a foreman of the contracting company which was building a large munitions plant in Pine Bluff, Ark. He was in charge of the plant's water pumps, which he remembers as being very large.

The Steinbergs had married in May of 1937 in Carothersville. Ruth was employed as a nurse at the same plant.

When that job ended, Steinberg said they moved to Hitchcock, Texas, where they worked for another contractor who was building a blimp base for the Army. As superintendent of transportation, he was in charge of all lightweight vehicles.

The Steinbergs' next jobs were with another contractor, Dupont Company, who was building an A-bomb plant in Hanford, Wash.

He started out as the transportation foreman but was later promoted to assistant superintendent. Mrs. Steinberg was employed as a nurse at each of the plants.

When that job was finished, Steinberg and his wife wanted to open an appliance store on the Arkansas and Missouri state line. However, they discovered that they could not get any large appliance so they abandoned that idea and moved to Camden, Ark., where another munitions plant was being built. He started in the personnel department and was later made superintendent of equipment. Ruth was employed as a nurse.

When the war ended in 1945, Steinberg said they moved to Steele, Missouri where they opened an appliance store which they later sold because large appliances were still scarce after the war.

After their brief stint in the wholesale tobacco business, the Steinbergs were more than ready to make a new beginning in a young, vibrant and growing oilfield town which has been home to them ever since.

Rumpff and Clark united in marriage

Dorothy Jeanette Rumpff became the bride of Richard Keith Clark in a double-ring ceremony at 3:00 p.m., Saturday, Aug. 11 in the Colonial Hill Baptist Church with Bro. Miller Robinson officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Terry and Ellen Rumpff of Snyder. The groom's parents are Ron and Jo Ann Clark of Snyder.

Grandparents of the bride are Dorothy Williams and the late Claud Williams of Abilene. George and Ruby Clark of Snyder, and Ed and Dorothy Adams of China Grove are grandparents of the groom.

Four floral arrangements of mauve and blue flowers with greenery decorated the stage, and featured a heart-shaped candelabra with votive candles in the center. The front pew was decorated with white flowers and alternating pews held mauve and blue ribbons. The decorations were created by Travis Flowers.

Paula Howard of Snyder accompanied Kinney Robinson of Gatesville as he sang, "You Light Up My Life" and "The Rose", before the ceremony. He chose the numbers "You and I" and "Nothing's Gonna Change My Love for You" for the ceremony presentation. Paula Howard played the traditional processional on the organ.

A brass ensemble made up of Angela Franklin of San Angelo, Blane Hinton of Brownfield, Walter Reneau, David Cozart and Abel Garza all of Snyder, played "Prayer," "Ode to Joy" and "Canon in D" before the ceremony, and played the "Trumpet Voluntary" after the processional.

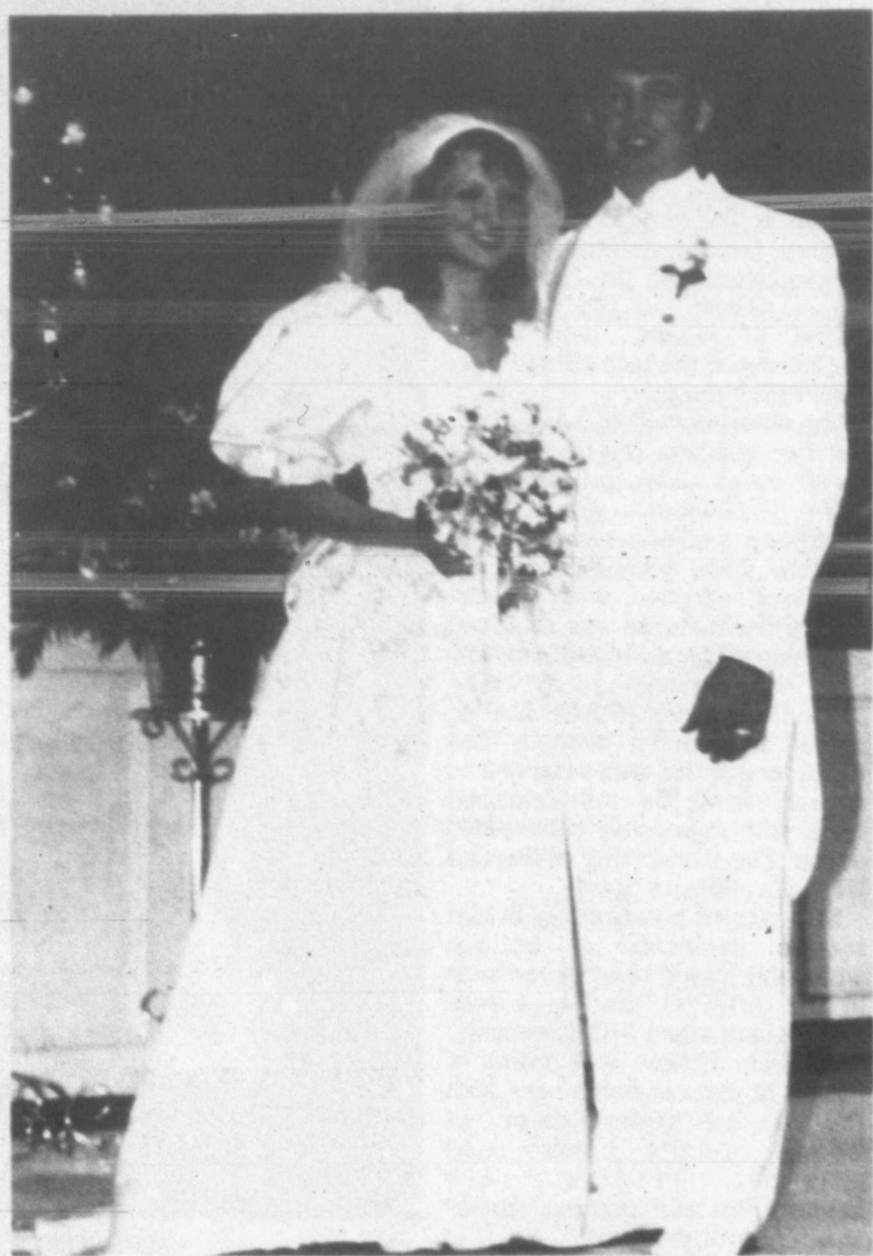

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Her gown of white satin was fashioned by her mother. The floor-length gown with a short train, featured a V-neck and puffed sleeves. Lace motifs were hand sewn on the bodice front and back. The low V-back featured a bow with hand sewn lace and ruffles down the back with a lace motif on every point. The shoulder length veil, created by her mother, was made of lace and net sewn onto a headband.

She carried a cascading bouquet fashioned of white silk roses and mauve and blue carnations. In the tradition of something old, she carried a small white Bible that her mother carried in her wedding, something new was her dress, something borrowed was diamond earrings belonging to the groom's mother and something blue was a garter. She also wore a 1971 penny, the birth years of both the bride and groom, in her shoe.

Kelly Pace of Snyder was maid of honor. Stacy McDaniel of Lubbock was bridesmaid and Mollie Rumpff attended her sister as junior bridesmaid. The maid of honor and bridesmaid both wore dresses of mauve, with blue underskirts. For accessories, they chose blue shoes and they each wore blue bows in their hair. Mollie wore a pink dress with a blue underskirt, blue shoes and a blue bow in her hair. The maid of honor and junior bridesmaid carried bouquets of blue silk flowers. The bridesmaid's bouquet was made of mauve silk flowers.

Katie Howard of Snyder, wear-

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD KEITH CLARK

ing a blue dress with ruffles down the back, that matched the bride's gown, served as flower girl. She carried a straw basket filled with mauve and blue flower petals, accented with mauve and blue ribbon.

Attending the groom were Stephen Williamson of Snyder as best man, Malcolm Crawford of Snyder as groomsman and his brother, Timmy Clark as junior groomsman. The ushers were Andy Rumpff, brother of the bride, of Snyder and Jerry Dickey of Snyder.

The groom wore a white, with very light pen stripes, tuxedo with tails. His attendants wore gray tuxedos with tails. Their cumberbunds and bow ties matched the dress of the attendant they escorted. The ushers each wore black suits, with one wearing a mauve bow tie and the other a blue bow tie. The cumberbunds, and bow ties were created by the bride's mother.

Julie Zeck of Snyder registered the guests at a table decorated with the bride's throw-away bouquet. It was fashioned of white roses and mauve and blue carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall.

The bridal table featured a silver punch fountain at one end and the traditional wedding cake at the other end. The center of the table held the bridal bouquet with an 8x10 baby picture of the bride and groom on each side of it. Mints were served from a crystal bowl. The white wedding cake was decorated with pink and blue flowers and featured a top with a bride and groom in white, standing on a white pedestal surrounded by lace. The cake was created by Reta Graham of Reta's Cake Shop. The cake server was engraved with the bride and groom's names and featured a crystal handle, decorated and given by the groom's mother.

Serving at the bridal table was Kay Kennedy of Snyder, Amy McDaniel of Snyder and Chris Rumpff, cousin of the bride of Snyder.

The groom's table featured a silver coffee service, silver heart-shaped bowl with nuts and a wooden fire truck as the centerpiece. The cake was made in the shape of two hearts decorated with blue icing and accented with mauve and blue flowers. It had "Ricky and Dora Jean" inscribed on it.

Tonya Williams, cousin of the bride, of Abilene and Leticia Ledesma of Snyder served at the groom's table.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at Reta's Cake Shop.

Wedding photography was by George Clark, grandfather of the groom, and Joe Row of Azle videotaped the ceremony.

After a honeymoon trip to Puerto Vallarta, Mex., the couple is at home in Snyder.

The bride is a 1990 graduate of Snyder High School and is currently employed as a secretary at Clark Communications. She plans to attend Texas Tech in the spring.

The groom is a 1989 graduate of Snyder High School and is employed as sales manager at Clark Communications. He also plans to attend Texas Tech in the spring.

Out of town guests were from Azle, Abilene, Gatesville, Big Spring, Midland, Colorado City, Brownfield and Tulsa, Okla.

FALL WEDDING PLANNED — Mrs. Laura Wade of Long Island, N.Y., announces the engagement of her daughter, Patricia Ann English, to C. Marshall Lyons. He is the son of Mrs. Alma Lyons of New York, N.Y. The couple is planning a fall wedding in Abilene.

Candlelight service unites couple

Joann Marie Vernon and Thomas H. Grytza exchanged nuptial vows in a candlelight service on Sept. 8 at Dyess Air Force Base chapel with the Rev. Bill Scott of Clyde officiating.

The bride's parents are Joe and Joyce Vernon of Abilene. The groom is the son of Henry and Deanne Grytza of Granger, Ind. Grandparents of the bride are Marie Aaron and the late Bill Aaron of Snyder, and Jerry DeShazo and the late Ulmer Vernon of Hermligh.

She was escorted by her father. For her wedding, the bride chose an off-the-shoulder antique white satin floor-length gown. The neckline, puffed sleeves and hemline were accented by antique lace adorned with pearls. The cathedral train was attached to the gown by a large satin bow and was accented by lace medallions, covered with pearls, placed at random over it. The waist-length veil was attached to a pearl headpiece that featured white silk roses and tulip pearl drops. The silk netting of the veil was adorned with pearls.

She carried a cascading bridal bouquet fashioned of antique white silk roses and carnations in the different shades of rose and teal entwined with greenery.

Amanda Stokes was maid of honor. Matron of honor was Jodi Chavez, the bride's sister, of Odessa. Celeste Landry and Elizabeth Torres were bridesmaids and Sabrina Turner was junior bridesmaid.

The maid of honor and matron of honor both wore rose colored satin tea-length dresses. The bridesmaids were attired in teal colored satin tea-length dresses. All of the attendants carried bouquets identical to the bride's, except smaller.

The junior bridesmaid was attired in a rose colored satin tea-length dress and wore a wrist corsage of baby rosebuds made of antique white and teal attached to a rose colored satin ribbon. In her hair she wore a halo hairpiece fashioned of silk roses accented by rose colored rosebuds and rose colored satin ribbon.

Terrance Grytza, brother of the groom, was best man. Steve and Scott Grytza of Granger and Greg Grytza of Lansing, Mich., all brothers of the groom served as groomsmen.

Jason Landrum, Steve and Greg Grytza were ushers.

The groom was attired in a black tuxedo with tails, accented with an antique white pleated shirt. His boutonniere was an antique white silk rosebud accented by baby rosebuds in teal and rose, the bride's colors. His attendants all wore black tuxedos with antique white pleated shirts and teal and rose colored bow ties and cummerbunds, to match the bride's colors. Their boutonnières were fashioned of antique white silk rosebuds accented with baby's breath.

Jason Landrum of Prattville, Ala., and Sabrina Turner were candlelighters. Jason wore a dark navy suit and had an antique white silk rosebud boutonniere. Sabrina wore a rose colored satin tea-length dress.

Kasey Chavez, niece of the bride, and Jennifer Turner were flower girls. They wore teal length satin dresses of teal and rose. Their halo hairpieces were white silk roses with dark rose and teal baby rosebuds accented with teal and rose colored satin ribbon to match their dresses.

They carried antique white baskets, filled with silk teal and rose colored flowers and adorned with bows to match the flowers.

Christine Norris, ring bearer, wore a rose colored satin tea-length dress. She wore a halo hairpiece of white silk roses with rose colored baby rosebuds and carnations accented with rose colored satin ribbon. The ring pillow was antique white satin covered with lace and adorned with silk teal and rose colored flowers and streamers. White doves holding the rings in their beaks were attached to the streamers.

A reception was held at the NCO club at Dyess Air Force Base following the wedding.

After a trip to San Antonio, the couple is at home in Abilene.

The bride is a graduate of Abilene High School and is employed at Eckerd Drugs.

The groom is a graduate of Penn High School in Granger and is stationed at Dyess Air Force Base.

As a nation, we are generating more garbage all the time and we don't know what to do with it.

Ineffective or irresponsible disposal of this waste can pollute the environment and pose a health risk to the public. We are running out of space in existing landfills. Additionally, no one wants a landfill, combustion or recycling center in their neighborhood.

Waste disposal is an immediate, critical issue for communities all over the country. Citizens are discovering that there is no easy way to get rid of the garbage they once assumed could be buried or burned and forgotten. We now have to look at the real problems that our nation faces.

Just as types of waste are changing, as chemically-based products multiply, so must our attitudes towards waste disposal change. Waste disposal costs are escalating and demanding an increasing percentage of community budgets. Current disposal methods threaten our health, safety and environment.

Most industrial, commercial and household waste are now being placed in landfills or surface impoundments, or burned in incinerators. Waste buried in this manner may contaminate ground-water, rivers and streams. When burned, they release hazardous gases into the air and leave toxic residues in the form of ash.

Landfills which provided a deceptively simple solution are closing either because they are full or because they do not meet new federal or state standards. One third of the landfills in the country will be full in five years.

Siting of new landfills is difficult because of public opposition. As landfills close and costs of landfilling escalate, the pressure to incinerate mounts. Incinerators are costly to build, and they too do not meet favorably with public opinion.

People are beginning to realize that the solution lies in using garbage as a RESOURCE rather than refuse to be destroyed. Localities, by their own choosing, or by government mandate, are now choosing to recycle to reduce the waste stream.

In order to manage waste, the EPA favors an integrated solid waste management strategy that includes four parts: 1) reducing the amount of solid waste generated; 2) recycling as much refuse as possible; 3) incinerating some garbage with appropriate environmental controls and usually with energy recovery; and 4) continuing safe landfilling.

Reducing and reusing are the most viable alternatives. However no single method will solve the waste problem as effectively as a comprehensive program that relies on a number of solutions for different situations. Source reduction (eliminating unnecessary packaging, and buying and using fewer toxic products) and recycling are the methods of choice and direct involvement of citizens is essential. Landfilling and incineration are used only for the waste that cannot be used as a resource.

Babar tours art museums

NORFOLK, Va., (AP) — Art work featuring a beloved elephant is on view at the Chrysler Museum through Sept. 16, in "The Art of Babar: Drawings and Watercolors By Jean and Laurent de Brunhoff."

The exhibition covers nearly 60 years of illustrations, and includes 145 from the 37 books about Babar.

The de Brunhoffs' children's stories have been translated into 18 languages and have sold more than 55 million copies. "The Story of Babar" originated as a family story invented by Cecile, wife of the post-Impressionist painter Jean de Brunhoff. Jean penned the first book in 1931, and after his death his son Laurent, who has written the catalogue for the exhibition, has continued the series.

After its showing in Norfolk, the exhibition will be seen at the Museum of Fine Arts, Springfield, Mass., Oct. 6-Nov. 25; the Winnipeg (Canada) Art Gallery, Dec. 8-Jan. 20, 1991; the Frick Art Museum, Pittsburgh, Feb. 9-March 24, 1991; the Memphis Brooks Museum of Art, April 13-May 26; J.B. Speed Art Museum, Louisville, June 15-July 28; the National Academy of Design, New York, Sept. 19-Nov. 3, 1991; and the Royal Ontario Museum, Toronto, Nov. 23-Jan. 5, 1992.

Safety On The Farm

Since a farmer is his own boss, he also must be his own safety director. The Agriculture safety record in the 1990's could be greatly improved if every farmer would cut farm safety risks. The National Safety Council and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service recommends the following tips to help reduce risks on farms and ranches:

- Make accident prevention a management goal. Realize that you are responsible for safety and health instruction.

- Reduce your risk of injury and illness with prevention. Read and follow instructions in operator's manuals and product labels and use personal protective equipment.

- Conduct routine hazard checks on equipment, buildings and grounds. Correct problems immediately and avoid hazards that can't be eliminated.

- Instruct employees and family workers on the proper way to do their jobs and to take care of their health, both on and off the job.

- Do what is necessary to protect children, the elderly and others in your care.

- Be prepared for each activity. Keep fit, respect your limitations and seek proper care for health problems.

It's up to everyone associated with agricultural machinery to use safe working practices. All family members and employees can contribute to their own and other's safety. Develop a safety program on your farm or ranch, before it's too late.

Charles Anderson speaks at Altrurian Daughters Club luncheon meeting

The Altrurian Daughters Club opened the new season with a luncheon at the Snyder Country Club, Wednesday, Sept. 12. Hostesses for the occasion were Margaret Birdwell, Claudine Atwood and Joyce Bass.

In-coming president, Evelyn Davis presided at the business meeting and was assisted by her new officers: Jean Sealy, recording secretary; Beth Teal, corresponding secretary; and Lee Falls, treasurer.

June McGlaun introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Charles Anderson, noted author. He discussed writing in general, but more specifically, the techniques that he had used in producing his latest book, "Reflections: An Album of West Texas History, 1840-1990."

Doing it the easy way

It was quite aggressive for South to bid a grand slam. Two aces and a king in the North hand could absolutely ensure only 11 tricks, but South gave extra weight to his partner's four-club bid. South was right in that North did have important values in clubs, enough to make the grand slam a favorite, but declarer erred in the play.

Declarer won dummy's ace of diamonds and quickly played five rounds of trumps, discarding two hearts and a diamond from dummy. West let go of two diamonds and the 10 of hearts. Next came three rounds of clubs ending in dummy. Since West still had the club jack, declarer threw a club on dummy's diamond king and played a heart back to his queen. Down one.

The right play makes taking 13 tricks seem simple. Win dummy's ace of diamonds and ruff a diamond, and then play the five top spades, throwing three hearts from dummy. West has to make three discards as declarer runs his trumps. A diamond and the 10 of hearts can be disgorged without too much pain, but what next? Almost surely West will let a club go, not expecting South to have a concealed four-card club suit. If not, he'll throw away the king of hearts. If declarer doesn't blink at the wrong moment, he will claim.

Out of the soup bowl and into the salad bowl, split peas are the surprise ingredient in this easy pasta salad. The peas and pasta complement proteins to make this a meatless main-dish option as well. Substitute crisp-cooked green beans, chopped zucchini or yellow summer squash, or chopped and seeded tomatoes for part of the peppers, if you like.

WARM PASTA, PEA PEPPER SALAD

1 cup green or yellow split peas
2½ cups water
2-3rds cup reduced-calorie bottled Italian dressing or bottled Italian dressing with cheese
6 ounces bow noodles
1½ cups cubed red, green and/or yellow peppers
¼ teaspoon salt
Pepper
Rinse peas. Place peas in a medium saucepan with water. Cook over high heat until boiling. Reduce heat; cover and simmer 20 to 25 minutes or until peas are just tender. Drain off any excess liquid. Stir salad dressing into peas and set aside. Cook noodles in boiling salted water according to package directions, adding peppers during last 2 minutes of cooking. Drain. Toss noodles and peppers with peas. Serve warm. Makes 8 side-dish servings.

CHUNKY SPICY TOMATO SAUCE

2 ripe tomatoes
1 small onion
1 tablespoon chopped cilantro or parsley
Garlic powder
Salt and freshly ground black pepper
Hot pepper sauce
One 8-ounce container sour cream
Cut up and dice the tomatoes and onion. Mix in cilantro or parsley. Add a dash of garlic powder, salt, black pepper and hot pepper to taste. Slightly press down on tomatoes to release juices; stir. Let stand at least 30 minutes.
Just before serving, fold in the sour cream. Serve with corn chips. Makes 2 to 3 cups dip.

Irena Chalmers includes this recipe for fresh tomato sauce in her new cookbook, "Irena Chalmers' All-Time Favorites: A Lifetime of Recipes for the First-Time Cook" (Prentice-Hall Press, $19.95).

FRESH TOMATO SAUCE UNCOOKED

2 pounds fresh, fully ripe plum tomatoes, peeled, seeded and chopped
6 garlic cloves, peeled and finely chopped
One 4½-ounce jar green olives, pitted and chopped
¼ to ¼ teaspoon crushed dried hot red pepper flakes
1 tablespoon capers
2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh parsley
1-3rd cup olive oil
Combine all ingredients and let stand at room temperature for 4 to 6 hours.
Note: To make the sauce a little sharper, add a touch of freshly squeezed lemon juice.

An old city

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Worcester, which is midway between Boston and Springfield, was established as a town on an old Indian camping ground in 1684.

It is the home of the College of the Holy Cross, Assumption College, Clark University and Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

During Revolutionary days, Isaiah Thomas published the Massachusetts Spy newspaper here, encouraging the move toward independence.

In 1828, a canal connected Worcester with Narragansett Bay and the city grew as an industrial center.

Robert H. Goddard, the father of modern rocketry and space flight, was born here and conducted his first scientific experiments with rockets in Worcester.

Western Texas College's decision to look into the feasibility of a baseball program has some local citizens smiling and others casting their doubts, but it is an intriguing idea.

Baseball will never outgun football as the top sport in West Texas, but it is highly popular.

At a glance, the prospect of bringing intercollegiate baseball to Snyder seems good. The probability of good fan support is here, and the area has a wealth of solid, if not outstanding, talent.

Getting the program off the ground in terms of players wouldn't be difficult. Scholarships could probably be at a minimum for the first several years until the program was established. Presumably, a run at a championship would take some fairly serious dollars and heavy recruiting, but not at first.

No, the two largest problems are facilities: namely, where to you house a baseball team, and were does it play?

As WTC President Harry Krenck pointed out during Monday's

SDN Opinion Page

board meeting, a lot of area college baseball teams — such as the one at Howard College in Big Spring — came about as an answer to fill up vacant dormitory space. At Western Texas, however, just the opposite is true. There is no available dormitory or apartment space.

A playing field? Well, there's Moffett Field in Towle Park, of course, but it's home to both the high school baseball team and the Junior Teenage League. There's North Park, which could be renovated without much trouble, but it's all the way across town from the college. Winston Field, which is closer, has been set up as a softball field, and a popular one at that.

There are some definite hurdles to be cleared, but that's what the feasibility study is all about.

The addition of a baseball program could work in hand with another goal the college is working on — to increase its recruitment of students, particularly minorities.

Other goals include improving relations between the golf club and the community and to explore the possibility of building a walking path as a part of the new intramural field. But lest you think all of WTC's goals are centered around athletics, don't worry, they aren't. Most are concerned with better communications between the students, faculty and staff; developing its preparatory sequence and exit examinations; following up on students who transfer; and campus repair, upkeep and renovation.

Other goals involve interaction with the community. Since hazardous waste and recycling are "hot" topics confronting everyone across the country, including Snyder, one goal of the college is to initiate efforts to make students, faculty and staff and the community more aware of ways in which they can help protect the environment. This will be done through an environmental concerns committee.

All in all, the goals show the college is interested in taking positive steps far into the future.

Country Life

Did you know that there are some people who actually keep their houses clean ALL THE TIME, and not just when they're expecting company?

I recently made this shocking discovery when I dropped in on my friend Rebekah one Saturday afternoon — unannounced — and she literally VACUUMED her way to the door to answer it! I could only surmise from this that they keep their carpet vacuumed as a matter of course and not just for special occasions.

Upon reflection, it occurs to me that there must be people in the world who choose flooring and wall covering by way of interior decorating, rather than on the basis of what hides dirt best. Me, I brought home four kitchen floor samples, spread them out on the floor, and dumped little bits of sand, gravel and straw on them. When those test items disappeared on sample, that's the one I chose.

I know, I know. My mama taught me better. Of course, Mama never sat around all day, reading treatises with titles like, "Criminal Profiling from Crime Scene Analysis" and "Reconstructing Skulls: Techniques, Materials, and Interpretation."

Why, just yesterday, I couldn't wait to sink my teeth into a new book I just bought, "Bizarre Diseases of the Mind." (I figured I might come upon a few case histories of some of my relatives).

But, after visiting Rebekah, I came home badly shaken. I knew I'd bought a new mop just a few little months ago, but I couldn't think where I'd put it. The mud room seemed a likely spot, but the prospect of a foray into such forbidden territory was too frightening.

I decided to vacuum instead.

After all, I just finished three tight deadlines for my publisher bangbangbang back-to-back and had a little time to kill. So to speak.

Couldn't hurt.

But first, I needed to check the mail. I mean, I NEEDED to. Sure enough, there were galleys to proofread for an article I did for "Writer's Digest." Oh boy! REAL work!

Naturally I had to sit right down and do it. They needed their right back. They really did.

Unfortunately, the magazine did a super job of editing the piece and the galleys only had a couple of little words to fix, which only took a minute or two. Still, I thought I'd better read it over a few dozen times, just to make sure.

Let's see now...what was I going to do?

Oh yeah. Find the mop. Or was it vacuum?

No! I know what I REALLY need to do!

Write a COLUMN! That's it! That's the ticket!

Whew. Saved. Just in time, too.

To the Editor,

Earlier this week I was appalled to discover that the salaries of our U.S. service people in the Persian Gulf and Saudi Arabia have been cut by $160.00 a month. This amount is for food subsidies allowed for service personnel. Now, because they are away from home, their families will not receive this amount.

We are a country known for coming to the aid of others, which is great. But how about helping our own? Although our soldiers are trained for situations such as the Persian Gulf crisis, it must be very difficult to leave their struggling young families behind. Let's let them be assured that their families are taken care of.

I think that whether or not we agree with our nation's involvement in the Middle East crisis, the fact remains that our United States military personnel are there and ready to do what ever is necessary. The least we can do is show our support to them and their families. We can start by reinstating their full salaries, INCLUDING the food allowance. I would like to challenge each person in Snyder and Scurry County to contact Senator Phil Gramm at 202 224-2934 and demand immediate action. I have! Will you?

Sincerely,
Mrs. Doyle Scott

To the Editor,

A while back I read an article much like the one you are reading. It said that there were girls who could not be Girl Scouts because there were not enough adults willing to be leaders.

It made me remember my scouting days as a girl and how much fun I would have missed, how many adventures I would not have had, and what knowledge I might not have gained if an adult had not been willing to share her talents and time with me. It makes me sad to think girls would miss these types of opportunities. So I did what I hope you will do after you read this. I picked up the phone and said I was willing to share.

What the Girl Scout adult I spoke with forgot to tell me was that all the paperwork had to be done in triplicate, that it would take time to not only attend meetings, but to plan them and other activities; that I would need to take training; that I would give up some of my free time, and that at times it would be hard work with very little thanks. So are the woes of a volunteer.

What else she did not tell me, and I do not really think she could have explained it, were the rewards of being a Girl Scout volunteer. It is hard to explain the look on a girl's face when she accomplishes something she

Who is eligible to register to vote?

Editor's Note: The following is the first of a three-part series on voting.

The United States is one of the few countries in the world where free elections are routinely taken for granted. Voting is one of the most important rights and privileges of American citizenship. Unfortunately, many take that right and privilege for granted and fail to vote. Millions of Texans who are otherwise eligible to vote aren't even registered.

In the past, the voter registration system was blamed for low registration rates. In addition, such obstacles as literacy tests, poll taxes, requirements that a voter be a land-owner and other barriers served to discourage or prohibit registration.

Today, however, voter registration is easy and convenient. You may register in person or simply fill out and mail in a postcard application. Voter registration cards are available at the county courthouse, or by calling 1-800-252-VOTE. It takes just a few minutes to fill it out, sign it and mail it back, or deliver it in person to the voter registrar.

—Who is eligible to register to vote?

Anyone may register to vote who is (1) a U.S. citizen; (2) 17 years and 10 months of age or older on the date the registration is submitted to the county voter registrar; (3) a resident of the county in which application is made; (4) has not been determined mentally incompetent by a final judgement of a court, and (5) has not been finally convicted of a felony from which the registrant has not been pardoned or otherwise released from the resulting disability to vote.

—How do you register to vote?

Complete a registration application which asks your name, sex, residence, address, date of birth and birthplace. If you are a naturalized citizen, you must also provide the location of the court of naturalization. You sign the card, indicating all the facts are true, date it, and return it to the registrar of voters in your county.

You may register to vote at any time, but your application must be postmarked or received by the registrar at least 30 days before an election in order for you to vote in that election. After the registrar receives your application, you will receive your voter registration certificate within about 30 days.

—If you don't vote in an election, do you need to re-register?

No. Voter registration in Texas is continuous as long as you remain living at your registered address, even if you fail to vote. You need to re-register only if you move to another county. However, if you move within the county, you must notify the voter registrar in writing of your new residence address, and if you change your name, you must also notify the registrar in writing of your name change. New certificates are mailed to the address shown, and cannot be forwarded.

—Do I have to register with a specific party?

No. State law does not provide for party affiliation when you register to vote.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A member of my family has seasonal allergies that cause nasal congestion. He's regularly used long-acting nasal spray for at least three years. Now the nasal congestion is daily with increasing obstruction. Would you please comment on the dangers of excessive use of nasal sprays and the remedies for correcting the damage done?

DEAR READER: Most inhalational allergies, such as hay fever and seasonal rhinitis, are marked by sinus congestion and nasal obstruction. These symptoms result from swelling of the nasal lining and, in many cases, increased mucus secretion. Patients with such allergies often complain of excessive stuffiness, trouble breathing, headache and snoring.

Nasal sprays may be used for the temporary relief of symptoms; the medicine shrinks swollen nasal linings, decreases mucus secretion and relieves sinus congestion. In general, nasal sprays are safe and effective. However, they must be used cautiously in patients with hypertension because the decongestant compounds in most sprays can worsen high blood pressure.

Despite their benefits, nasal sprays have one glaring drawback: a phenomenon called "rebound." After continuous application (for more than a week or so), they stimulate, rather than relieve, nasal congestion. Thus, patients who rely on aerosol nasal decongestants eventually discover, with dismay, that the medicine actually worsens their symptoms. The natural inclination to use more spray sets in motion a vicious cycle of temporary relief followed by more pronounced stuffiness.

At this point, frustrated patients usually give up and seek medical attention. Otolaryngologists (nose and throat specialists) are very familiar with this syndrome and almost always are successful in treating it — by recommending discontinuation of the sprays.

From your description, I conclude that your family member is suffering from drug-induced rebound rhinitis, known by the medical term "rhinitis medicamentosa." I suggest he follow these steps:

- Stop the sprays.
- Purchase over-the-counter antihistamine/decongestant pills, such as Sudafed or Actifed. Use the pills regularly until the congestion has subsided. There is no danger of rebound from the pills. However, like the sprays, these drugs must be used cautiously (or not at all) in patients with hypertension, who should check with their doctors before taking any non-prescription medicine.
- Attempt to define the cause of the seasonal allergies. An allergist should be able to determine, by examination and testing, what substances cause your family member's nasal congestion. Such a specialist can then offer recommendations about a program of environmental controls (avoidance of allergens, if possible) and prescription desensitization injections, if needed.
- If the congestion continues, your family member should see an ear-nose-and-throat specialist for an examination, because chronic nasal congestion can be the hallmark of sinus infection (which would require antibiotics) or nasal polyps, benign growths in the nasal lining that may have to be removed.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Consumer Tips on Medicines." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their names and addresses to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Are drug companies committing murder? Every year, 125,000 people are killed by prescription drugs. You recently advised a reader with costochondritis to use Indocin, yet my copy of "Worst Pills, Best Pills" tells me it can cause depression, mood changes, confusion, epilepsy, and Parkinson's disease can be worsened. Now what do you think?

DEAR READER: With this issue — as with many others in medicine — it's important to examine the risk-benefit ratio before making a blanket condemnation.

I don't know how you arrived at the figure you quoted. Such a figure would be next to impossible to compile. Surely, thousands of people die every year from prescription drugs, but many of these patients suffer from incurable diseases for which potent medicines offer the only hope. Some patients have unpredictable allergic reactions; other people may use the drugs improperly. In good conscience, I couldn't blame the medicines' manufacturers for these unfortunate outcomes.

More important, all medicines — both prescription and over-the-counter drugs — are dangerous and have side effects. When we take these medicines, we do so with the knowledge that we might be one of the few people who will experience difficulty. This is the way it is; this is one of life's risks.

Penicillin is one of the most dangerous drugs. It is associated with a high incidence of complications and side effects, such as severe allergic reactions and shock. However, it has saved millions of lives. Are we going to deprive a child with pneumonia of the very drug that could return him or her to health? Of course not. We — the doctors and the patients — weigh the benefits vs. the risks and give the drug (or withhold it) based on a rational analysis.

Similarly, in the example you give, Indocin (an anti-inflammatory drug) has predictable side effects, such as rash and gastric bleeding. Yet costochondritis (rib-cartilage inflammation) is an extremely painful condition for which most patients request medicine. The side effects you mention are exceedingly rare. Should we refuse to prescribe an effective drug if the benefits outweigh the hazards? I wouldn't. I'd leave the decision to the patient, after I've explained the potential side effects.

Here's another example: Prednisone (purified cortisone) is a powerful drug for treating inflammation and acute allergic reactions. If taken long enough, it causes side effects in every patient who uses it. What's more, these side effects can be life-threatening: for instance, susceptibility to infection, diabetes, brittle bones and adrenal insufficiency. However, prednisone is widely — but cautiously — prescribed for many afflictions. It helps control disabling symptoms. Patients who need it must examine the risk/benefit ratio.

I'm familiar with the book "Worst Pills, Best Pills." Because I am a patient advocate and believe people need as much information as possible about drugs' side effects, I believe the book is a valuable resource. But — and this is a big "but" — I encourage readers to see the forest as well as the trees. Most serious side effects are, fortunately, rare, and the benefits of a certain drug often override the risks.

Thus, I recommend that resource books be used for resource only. Trust your doctor to give you sound advice; at the same time, ask for — in fact, demand — a coherent description about a medicine's benefits and hazards. Then — and only then — will you, the consumer, be able to make an intelligent decision about which therapy is right for you.

Remember the benefit/risk ratio. It will help you decide about surgery, drugs and other treatment; whether to fly or to drive, to be fat or thin, to use tobacco or alcohol — even, perhaps, when and where to cross the street.

Mom blames messages, God for killing daughter

ANGLETON, Texas (AP) — A woman accused of killing her 4-year-old daughter by stabbing her 23 times heard messages on radio and television broadcasts and believed she would disappoint God if she didn't follow through with the killing, the woman's mother and a psychiatrist testified.

Valerie Taylor, 27, of Rosharon, is on trial in Angleton, charged with the Nov. 8 death of her daughter, Meara.

Ms. Taylor told police she slashed the girl's throat and stabbed her with an Army knife after the girl broke an inexpensive music box and tried to climb into a baby brother's crib.

Houston psychiatrist Fred Fason testified Wednesday the woman appeared mentally ill at the time of the stabbing and that she told him she began feeling funny after smoking a marijuana cigarette that day.

Ms. Taylor's mother, Ruth Vaughn, testified that her daughter had listened to ads and believed there was a message in them for her.

Fason, reading to the jury notes of his interview with Ms. Taylor, said she believed God planned the killing.

"I thought at the time that I didn't want to let God down," she said in the psychiatrist's notes. "I thought that I just had to do it."

Defense attorneys are trying to prove the woman is innocent by reason of insanity.

A pathologist testified the girl bled to death from the throat wound and was stabbed after she already had died.

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Rodney Dangerfield left 'em laughing after three days of testimony in his lawsuit against Ceasars Palace.

The comedian's lawyers surprised a federal judge Thursday by resting their case after calling only Dangerfield and a hotel employee as witnesses.

Dangerfield contends he suffered a serious eye injury in a steam bath at the resort in March 1988. He completed his combative and contradictory testimony with a flourish, getting jurors and spectators to laugh as he told a joke to demonstrate how he uses his eyes in his stage act.

"My dog found out we look alike. So he killed himself," Dangerfield said, his eyes bulging for effect.

17 are honored for heroism

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Joseph Predl won a race against his train to save a 17-year-old boy sitting on the track.

"I'm just glad I saved the boy's life," said Predl, one of 17 people recognized Thursday as heroes by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission.

The winners were recognized for risking their lives to save, or attempt to save, the lives of others. Six of those honored Thursday died trying to save others.

In all, 7,477 Americans and Canadians have been honored by the commission since its founding in 1904 by Pittsburgh industrialist Andrew Carnegie. More than $18.6 million has been awarded in one-time payments and pensions to the heroes or their survivors.

Among those honored Thursday was Sergio A. Munoz, 26, of Juarez, Mexico, who was shot to death trying to overpower a man who shot his boss in an office in El Paso on Oct. 16, 1989.

Predl, 49, a train fireman from Akron, Ohio, spotted the teen as his freight train came around a bend in New London, Ohio, on May 21, 1989. He said he jumped into action when the train was about an engine-length away from the youth.

"I jumped off the engine and ran in front of it," he said. "The engine was right on us. I just had enough time to get my hands on his head and yank."

Predl said he doesn't know where he got the strength to run so fast or throw the boy off the tracks with one yank.

"When you're in a situation like that you can do things that you ordinarily couldn't do," he said.

Others recognized Thursday were: — Albert T. Moroni, 39, of New City, N.Y., rescued a woman from her burning car moments before it exploded on the Tappan Zee Bridge in Nyack, N.Y., on May 31, 1989.

— James R. Kilby, 42, of Conestoga, Pa., died trying to save two teen-age girls thrown from their raft on the Conestoga River on May 15, 1989.

— Gene D. Prock, 68, of Gravois Mills, Mo., died trying to help save a woman from drowning in a cove of the Lake of the Ozarks in Laurie, Mo., on April 27, 1989.

— Robert P. Stchur, 17, of Troy, Mich., saved a 13-year-old girl from drowning in the Sturgeon River in Sidnaw, Mich., on July 5, 1989.

— Dwain Hammond, 44, of Jackson, N.J., died trying to help save a woman trapped in her car following an accident in Whiting, N.J., on Aug. 16, 1989.

— Gregory A. Fornia, 26, of Philadelphia, helped save a 9-year-old boy from drowning in the Schuylkill River in Philadelphia on Feb. 7.

— Patrick K. Magee, 20, of Nesconset, N.Y., and Anthony D. Ambrosio, 22, of Smithton, N.Y., rescued two women from a car that struck a utility pole and overturned in Smithton on Aug. 11, 1989.

— John V. Monheim, 56, of Orrville, Ohio, and John A. Mizener, 40, of Canton, Ohio, helped save a woman trapped in a burning car following an accident in Orrville on Jan. 5.

— Ronald T. Peters, 27, of Keizer, Ore., rescued two young boys from a burning apartment in Salem, Ore., on Oct. 21, 1989.

— William D. Bradshaw, 36, a security officer from Valdese, N.C., averted a possible explosion when he entered a cloud of escaping propane gas and turned off the valve outside a cottage in Morganton, N.C., on March 21, 1989. — June A. Mauro, 32, of Boca Raton, Fla., helped pull a man from his car after it plunged into a pond and began to sink in Boca Raton on Feb. 21.

— Scott Krueger, 19, of Olivebridge, N.Y., was shot to death helping to protect his mother from a man with a shotgun in Ulster Park, N.Y., on Aug. 25, 1989.

— Frank S. Swisher, 35, of Springfield, Mo., died trying to save an 11-year-old boy from drowning in the James Rivers in Nixa, Mo., on May 27, 1989.

Boy dies on rope swing

HOUSTON (AP) — A 4-year-old boy was killed when he accidentally hung himself while playing on a tree swing, authorities say.

Adam Gustafson was playing with some other children at his grandmother's house Thursday evening when he was found hanging from the tree, Harris County Sheriff's Department Cpl. John Denholm said.

Emergency crews tried to revive the boy for about 30 minutes before taking him to a hospital.

"It looked like it was just a rope swing that kids play on," Denholm said. "Apparently it got out of control."

HEALTH TIP from DEAN Stinson Drug

HOUSEHOLD HAZARD

A safety hazard occurs when you combine chlorine bleach with acids or ammonia; it produces chlorine gas that irritates the eyes, skin, and respiratory tract. In large doses, it can be fatal. This can happen when bleach is mixed with some toilet bowl cleaners containing acid. To clean the toilet bowl, use bowl cleaner, or an in-the-tank sanitizer, but not both.

Hubble error attributed to upside down rod

DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — A worker accidentally inserted a 2-foot metal rod upside-down in a measuring instrument while making the Hubble Space Telescope's primary mirror, causing a flaw that blurred the $1.5 billion scope's view, NASA officials said.

"This particular day, he didn't notice that the rod went in upside-down," said Charles Pellerin, director of astrophysics for NASA. "So he made an ... error and never knew it."

Pellerin spoke Thursday at a news conference at Hughes Danbury Optical Systems Inc., where a NASA investigative team had concluded two days of meetings. The company manufactured the Hubble's primary mirror in the late 1970s and early 1980s when Hughes Danbury was a division of Perkin-Elmer Corp.

There was no way the person who inserted the rod could have known it was upside-down, said Lew Allen, director of NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, who led the investigative team. Allen declined to identify the person.

"It was a technical error made by people of good will who made a mistake," he said. The rod, made of the temperature-insensitive metal invar, was used in a measuring device that guided the polishing of the mirror, Allen said.

Because it was inserted incorrectly, it caused a 1.3 millimeter spacing error that led to the mirror being manufactured with a flaw, he said.

The flaw, called a spherical aberration, has blurred the view of the much-acclaimed Hubble. The orbiting observatory was supposed to take razor-sharp pictures of the outer reaches of space.

The flaw will be corrected during a previously scheduled 1993 space shuttle mission to replace the Hubble's most powerful instrument, the wide-field planetary camera, said Pellerin.

It will cost an extra $15 million to build the new planetary camera to make up for the flaw, Pellerin said. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration originally estimated the new camera would cost up to $65 million, he said.

Many tests could have been done to detect the error during the manufacturing process, but Perkin-Elmer scientists and engineers didn't do them because were under tremendous pressure to finish the project, Allen said.

Residents object to tomato plants on Chicago avenue

CHICAGO (AP) — Steven Balourdos was tired of the glitz along the city's Magnificent Mile, so he did what he used to do back home in Greece. He planted tomatoes. Some of his neighbors are less than enthusiastic, but Balourdos says he's standing by his fruit.

"I feel very strongly to do what I do back home," Balourdos said Thursday. He emigrated from a tomato-growing region in the 1950s and runs a business on Michigan Avenue.

"You see a lot of diamonds, you see a lot of mink coats, you see a lot of Rolls-Royces, but you don't see any tomatoes on Michigan Avenue," he said.

Earlier this summer, Balourdos had a yearning for some earthiness to counterbalance the downtown shopping street's glitter and haute couture.

He planted about 30 tomato plants in square granite containers on the sidewalk outside a high-rise where he runs his second-story real estate development company. Only four spindly plants remain. The rest have been ripped out by unknown foes.

The building's association of condominium owners contends tomatoes may be fine in deep dish pizza sauce but a makeshift garden has no place on Michigan Avenue.

"I do not believe that those tomato plants are an asset to the front of our building, bearing in mind the beauty of all of the other buildings on the Avenue," said the association's president, Marilyn Lewis.

Planters outside other buildings on the street contain exotic flowers, neatly pruned trees and shrubs.

"We just don't fit in," Mrs. Lewis said of the tomato plants.

The majority of the association's nine board members agreed that the tomatoes are an affront to the avenue's aesthetic standards, Mrs. Lewis said.

"I don't know whether he thinks he's a comedian or what," said resident, Eleanor Folta, 81. "I guess he thinks he can do whatever he wants."

Saloon cannot use 'Spanky' in its name

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — George McFarland, the chubby child star Spanky of "Our Gang" and "Little Rascals," wants about $100,000 from a saloon that he says used his name and face for 13 years without permission.

Federal Judge James Rosenbaum on Thursday ordered the saloon not to use the "visage or name" of Spanky. It's not enough for McFarland.

In March, seven months after McFarland filed a lawsuit, the

"We can pray for a quick frost and that'll take care of that," she said.

Balourdos has refused to back down. The condo association is considering complaining to the Greater North Michigan Avenue Association, which has guidelines recommending plants on the street be "beautiful and low-key," spokeswoman Jane Driscoll said.

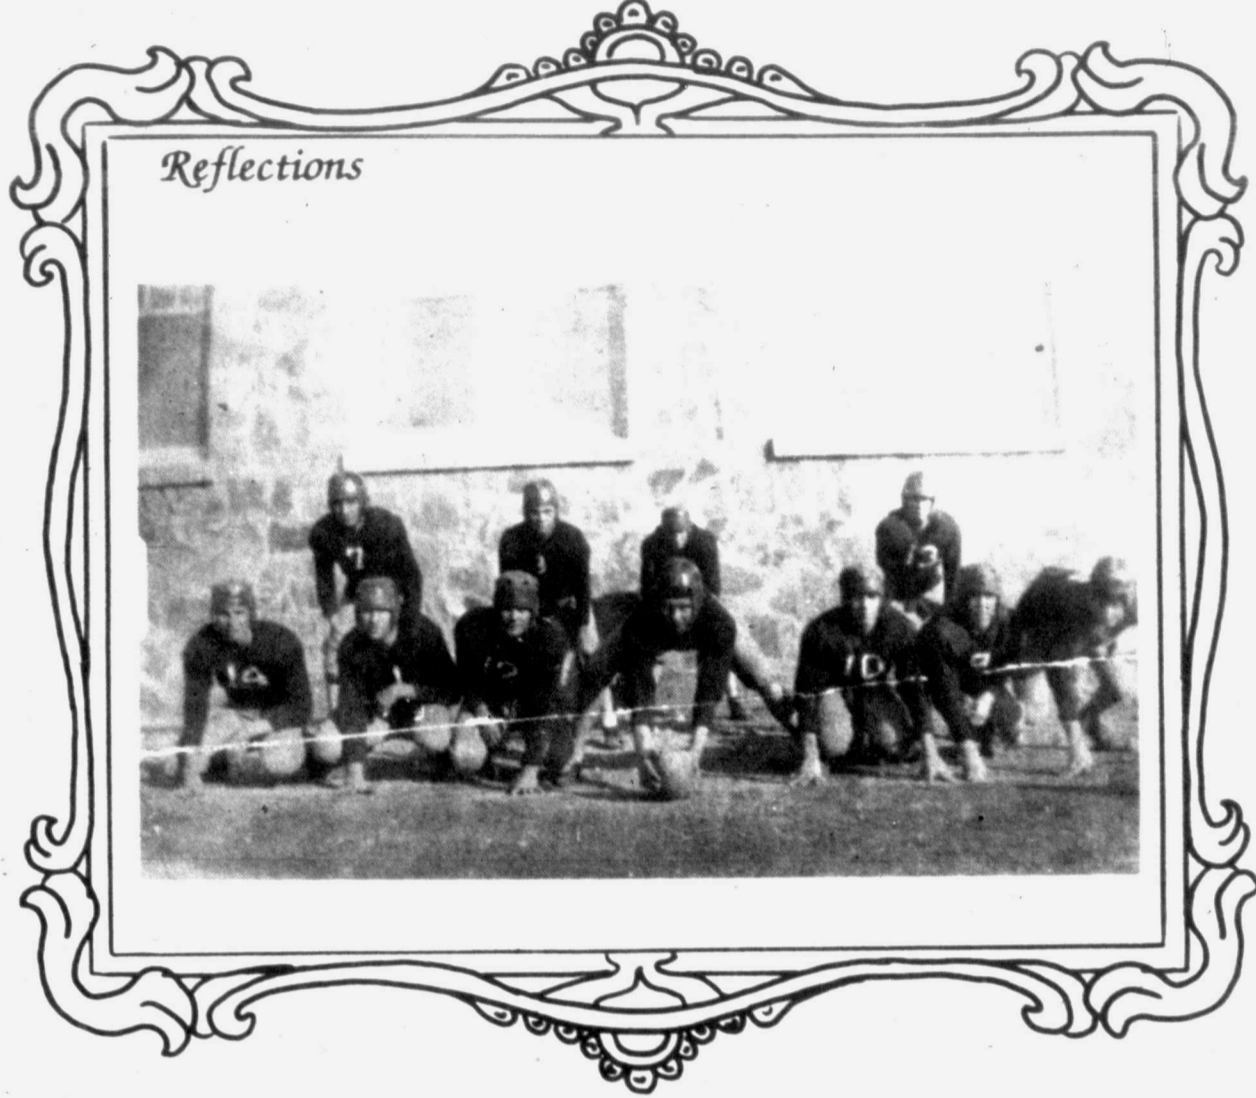

Ms. Driscoll said she didn't know if her organization would formally object to the tomato plants. The group can issue only recommendations and has no enforcement powers, she said.

The owner of a nearby jewelry store can't understand the fuss.

owner of the bar changed its name from Spanky's Saloon to Checker's Nightclub.

Drawings of a round-faced kid wearing a beanie came down from the front of the building and from interior walls. Patrons no longer could buy jackets, T-shirts and hats imprinted with the Spanky's Saloon logo.

Other businesses pay McFarland, 62, who lives in Fort Worth, Texas, for the right to use his name and childhood face.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor has seven kids, and they say that no two of her kids have the same father. She is not married now, and they say she never has been married. They say she is not on welfare, and nobody can figure out how she manages. The mailman says she gets no bills, which means she pays cash for everything. She and her kids have good clothes, good furniture and three TVs. I would sure like to know how she does it.

This horrible House of They.

Though you cannot get in, yet they get out.
And spread their villainous tales about;
Of all the rascals under the sun
Who have come to punishment, never one
Belonged to the House of They.

DEAR ABBY: I sent for your cookbooklet and am writing to thank you for the recipe for that wonderful Gourmet Rice Pudding. I make it often. It's the goodie I take to several elderly friends when I visit them. They all love it. It's sweet, soft and nutritious. When are you going to bring out another cookbooklet?
MRS. RUDOLPH O. OBERG,
QUINCY, MASS.

DEAR MRS. OBERG: It's in the works. I'm hoping to get it out before Thanksgiving.

THEY SAY
by Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Have you heard of the terrible family They.
And the dreadful venomous things They say?
Why, half the gossip under the sun,
If you trace it back, you will find begun
In that wretched House of They.
A numerous family, so I am told,
And its genealogical tree is old;
For ever since Adam and Eve began
To build up the curious race of man,
Has existed the House of They.
Gossip-mongers and spreaders of lies,
Horrid people whom all despise!
And yet the best of us now and then,
Repeat queer tales about women and men
And quote the House of They.
They live like lords, and never labor;
A They's one task is to watch his neighbor,
And tell his business and private affairs
To the world at large; they are sowers of tares —
These folks in the House of They.
It is wholly useless to follow a They
With a whip or a gun, for he slips away
And into his house, where you cannot go;
It is locked and bolted and guarded

DEAR ABBY: Because you sent me to Alcoholics Anonymous 23 years ago and I have been dry (with only two slippups) ever since, I want to share something with you that helped me make it.
It's in the Al-Anon book. And I have it memorized:
"Today is mine.
"It is unique.
"Nobody in the world has one exactly like it.
"It holds the sum of all my past experiences and all my future potential.
"I can fill it with joyous moments or ruin it with fruitless worry.
"If painful recollections of the past come into my mind, or frightening thoughts of the future, I can put them away.
"They cannot spoil today for me."
POSITIVE THINKER
Together with the above, I've kept another piece. A fellow A.A. member had copies mimeographed and distributed to all of us at the meeting. I hope it makes your column.
HIGH ON A.A.

DEAR HIGH: It did:
"I drank for happiness and became unhappy.
"I drank for joy and became miserable.
"I drank for sociability and became argumentative.
"I drank for sophistication and became obnoxious.
"I drank for friendship and made enemies.
"I drank for sleep and woke up tired.
"I drank for strength and felt weak.
"I drank for relaxation and got the shakes.
"I drank for courage and became afraid.
"I drank for confidence and became doubtful.
"I drank to make conversation easier and slurred my speech.
"I drank to feel heavenly and ended up feeling like hell."

DEAR ABBY: Have the rules of etiquette changed insofar as proper wedding attire is concerned — for the guests, that is? I was always under the impression that it was improper to wear black when attending a wedding, yet I noticed a few women dressed in black at a recent wedding, and I must say, they looked rather stunning. But were they incorrectly attired for the occasion? Or have times changed?
GLADYS JONES,
GLASSBORO, N.J.

DEAR GLADYS: Yes, times have changed. It is no longer considered improper to wear black to a wedding. (In recent years, some brides have opted for a black and white wedding, and it's now considered quite fashionable.)
Guests may wear any color they wish to a wedding these days. There is only one cardinal rule: Do not upstage the bride.

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was a historic moment the other day when representatives of the four victorious World War II powers, meeting in Moscow, took the steps that will permit Germany to become a sovereign reunified state.

Too bad they couldn't savor the moment more than they did. The perils of the Persian Gulf crisis were perceived to be too great for more than a perfunctory celebration.

Just hours before the ceremony, President Bush spoke to Congress and the American people in a formal setting for the first time about the crisis.

The close timing of the two events symbolized the transition from the ideological conflict of the Cold War to the new and different type of struggle that the gulf conflict represents, at the heart of which is economics.

In some ways, the East-West conflict was easier for Americans to swallow. After all, the survival of democracy was at stake in the U.S. commitment to the defense of European and other partners. In the gulf, the issue is somewhat less majestic: the survival of cheap oil.

The administration, not without cause, has been saying that high principles are at stake in the gulf. Few dispute the contention of Bush and most other world leaders that Iraqi President Saddam Hussein violated international law when he devoured Kuwait six weeks ago.

But the episode showed once again how selective governments can be in deciding when to be indignant. How many governments would have lifted a finger in Kuwait's defense if it were not sitting atop a huge pool of oil?

Indonesia did much the same to East Timor in 1975 that Iraq did to Kuwait this summer. The Timorese found themselves invaded one day and annexed the next. International protests were limited largely to human rights groups. The fuss was contained because too many countries prized their relationship with Indonesia — an oil country, by the way.

Americans feel more comfortable about defending democracy, but they don't have that luxury in the gulf crisis. The Kuwaiti leadership, by Western standards, was more benign than rulers elsewhere in the region, but no one has ever detected a Jeffersonian streak in them.

But as Secretary of State James A. Baker III sees it, the stakes in the gulf are too high to allow moralistic concerns about multi-party democracy to transcend other interests.

AP analysis

The issue, he said last week, is not just a narrow question of the flow of oil from Kuwait and Iraq.

"It is about a dictator who, acting alone and unchallenged, could strangle the global economic order, determining by fiat whether we all enter a recession, or even the darkness of a depression," Baker said.

EDITOR'S NOTE: George Gedda has covered foreign affairs for The Associated Press since 1968.

Harris County warns of potential mosquito problem

HOUSTON (AP) — The number of encephalitis-infected mosquitoes is at an all-time high, raising fears that the illnesses carried by the pests also will increase. Harris County authorities say.

"What we have now is something that concerns the district very much because of the higher possibility of people getting sick," Norman Gruenzner, a spokesman for the Harris County mosquito Control District, said Thursday.

Gruenzner said county spraying efforts appeared to be working but recent heavy rains are complicating the problem.

"We have people raising the darn things in their back yards," he said. "They want us to get rid of the mosquitoes, but they won't get rid of the water. It just defeats the purpose."

At least two deaths this summer have been linked to the mosquito problem.

The Culex mosquito carries the St. Louis encephalitis virus, which causes potentially fatal inflammation of the brain. Symptoms include sleepiness, fever, headache and mental confusion.

The Culex attacks only at night. Gruenzner said the mosquito will continue to be a problem until the temperatures drop to at least 55 degrees and remain there.

What you might not know is that a Girl Scout leader is many things. She can be married or single; she can be a mother, aunt, grandmother or never have attended college. She can be young or older. She doesn't have to have children. She doesn't have to have been a Girl Scout as a girl. In other words, she could be you.

Come share in the fun of being a Girl Scout.

In the past years the number of troops in Snyder has fallen, not because of the lack of girls, but because of the lack of adults. And if we don't get the adults this year we will have even less troops.

Employees file lawsuit

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Some employees fired or demoted earlier this year at the government's Pantex nuclear weapons assembly plant have filed a lawsuit alleging they were victims of age discrimination.

The lawsuit filed Thursday in federal court alleges the 38 plaintiffs were older than 40 and had an average of more than 21 years' service with Mason & Hanger-Silas Mason Co. Inc., which manages Pantex for the Department of Energy, when they were fired or demoted.

Eggs should be well-cooked to avoid salmonella bacteria

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is urging that people cook their eggs well to prevent the spread of potentially fatal food contamination caused by salmonella bacteria.

Cooks who use raw eggs for Caesar salads, bearnaise sauce, eggnog and ice cream risk serious food poisoning, the FDA said.

The agency, in 3,500 notices sent to state and local food regulatory agencies, recommended that intact-shell eggs be redesignated as a "potentially hazardous food" because of increases in illnesses linked to consumption of egg products.

FDA spokesman Chris Lecos said today the designation "doesn't imply that a food is inherently unhealthful," only that precautions are needed in storing and cooking it.

The notice advises that eggs be refrigerated at temperatures of 45 degrees fahrenheit or less and thoroughly cooked at 140 degrees fahrenheit.

It says whole eggs should be cooked until the white is completely coagulated and firm and the yolk begins to thicken. Scrambled eggs need to be cooked until firm throughout.

Department of Agriculture figures show there were 6,604 illnesses and 43 deaths attributed to salmonella enteritidis bacteria between January 1985 and October last year. Eggs were implicated in 73 percent of 189 recorded outbreaks.
