Ira, Borden ousted

The Sands Mustangs galloped past Ira's Bulldogs 50-0 and Grady nipped Borden County on penetrations as both District 6 six-man representatives were knocked out of the state football playoffs Friday. Borden County rallied from a 14-point, fourth-quarter deficit to tie Wildcats 20-20 with 1:07 left in the game, but Grady will advance to the area round via a 3-4 edge in penetrations. Borden County's season ends at 7-4 while Grady, 8-3, will meet No. 1 ranked Ft. Hancock next. Ira's Bulldogs, who lost for the second time this season to Sands, exit the playoffs with a 4-7 record. Sands' record stays perfect at 11-0. The Mustangs advance to play Marathon. Area stalwart Jayton also fell to defeat Friday, losing 52-40 to Strawn. ## Sales tax rebates remain up for both Snyder and county Sales tax rebates to Snyder and Scurry County remain up for the year, according to the state comptroller's office.

Tax rebates for the city were down for the month, as compared to a year ago, but are still up 1.60 percent for the year.

The checks reflect taxes collected on September sales and reported in late October by businesses filing monthly returns. Also included are sales taxes reported by quarterly filers whose collections reflect sales made in July, August and September.

Checks to the city in October totalled $74,695, down 10.19 percent from the same month in 1989 when the city received $83,174. For the year, Snyder has received $725,996.55, up 1.60 percent over last year's $714,582.72.

Scurry County continued to show gains for both the month and year. The county received $49,397.62 in October, a figure up 4.19 percent from the $47,409.52 received at the same time in 1989. For the year, the county has received $460,597.57, or 9.89 percent more than last year's total-to-date of $419,161.68.

Merchants collect the state and local taxes and send them to the comptroller's office with their tax returns. The state keeps its share and sends cities and counties the local portion of the sales tax. Sales tax rebates from around the area indicated the following:

Costilla Jr. sentenced to 40-year prison term

A 31-year-old former Snyder man was sentenced to 40 years in prison by a four-man, eight-woman jury Friday afternoon in 132nd District Court.

Gilbert V. Costilla Jr., now of Houston, was found guilty of aggravated sexual assault of child. After deliberating for less than an hour, the jury returned the guilty verdict around 6 p.m. Thursday.

Friday morning, the jury heard testimony in the punishment phase of the trial and started deliberations at 11:10 a.m. The jury then returned at 2:45 p.m. with the 40-year sentence.

Snyder police arrested Costilla in March after questioning him about an incident with a 10-year-old girl.

The trial began Tuesday afternoon with the selection of the jury. Wednesday morning the prosecution opened its case and continued testimony until Thursday morning when the prosecution closed its case at 10:30 a.m. After a brief recess, the defense opened its case.

Costilla could have received a maximum of 99 years or life imprisonment and up to a $10,000 fine for the conviction, which is a first degree felony.

District Attorney Ernie Armstrong prosecuted the case for the state. Costilla was represented by Lawrence Barber of Odessa.

District Judge Gene Dulaney presided.

Applications accepted for Neighbors Sharing

Snyder Neighbors Sharing is making preparations for its fourth annual workday by taking applications for home repair.

SNS has repaired 43 homes over the past three years, including 27 last year.

The homes repaired are those owned or occupied by elderly or handicapped residents who lack the funds and physical ability to make the repairs themselves. Anyone who knows of a member of the community who may qualify can pick up an application form at Robertson Insurance Agency, 1926 26th St. The forms will be available now through January.

The SNS work day is always the fourth Saturday in April, which will be April 27, 1991.

Snyder Neighbors Sharing began in 1988 with seven homes repaired. The project grew to nine homes in 1989, and to 27 in 1990. Almost 500 volunteers gave up their time last April 28, to help with the project.

All necessary materials are purchased locally and the labor comes entirely from volunteers.

SNS will be asking for volunteers and anyone who can be available on April 27, 1991, is urged to participate. SNS is also accepting donations to help purchase materials.

Sam Robertson is the president of SNS. Julie Sentell serves as treasurer.

WTC recital 2 p.m. Sunday

Western Texas College music students will be presented in a recital at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Fine Arts Theatre on campus.

Admission is free to the hour-long program. A reception will follow.

Food drive set Sunday

Boys Scouts will be going door-to-door Sunday to participate in "Scouting for Food Good Turns," a national food drive.

The drive will begin at 1 p.m. and last throughout the day.

The drive was originally scheduled for Saturday, and food collection bags state Nov. 17, but the drive was changed to avoid conflict with Snyder High School's bi-district playoff football game in Plainview.

Foodstuffs gathered during the local campaign will go to Gentle Dove Ministries food bank.

Snyder Jaycees will assist the scouts for the campaign, in which some 80 people are expected to participate.

The "teams" will go door-to-door throughout the city with food bags asking residents for non-perishable food items.

Last year, the campaign netted 6,000 pounds of food. Local organizers hope to double that amount this year.

BOB CLIFTON

... accepts position with KBYG in Big Spring

Local radio personality accepts Big Spring slot

After 27 years, Bob Clifton is ready for a new challenge.

Clifton has accepted the position of operations and sales manager at KBYG Radio in Big Spring.

"It's a chance to better myself, to stretch my wings, to try my wings as a manager. It's a better financial and career opportunity," said Clifton of the decision.

The move represents a return "home" for Clifton, who was born in Big Spring in 1943, moved to Snyder in 1947, to Abilene in 1949, back to Snyder in 1963 and is now headed back to Big Spring.

"I've just made a full circle," grinned the 47-year-old

Clifton, the on-air name for Bob Clifton Rumpff, began his broadcasting career in 1963. He shortened his name for radio, because, as he said, "The Fs in Rumpff are silent. I did not want to be a Rump on the air."

He graduated from Abilene High in 1961 and began his radio career in January of 1963 with a short stint at KCHS Radio in Truth or Consequences, N.M. He spent two months at KRBC Radio in Abilene before coming to KSNY on July 5 of 1963.

The "Round Mound of Sound," as he is also known, has spent the last 27 years at KSNY, most of

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "You know you're in a small town when a 60-year-old farmer is still known as 'Young Johnson.'"

Folks at the Hobbs and Dunn community reunions did a lot hugging and talking last weekend. Snyder's Bill Martin told us he thought he saw a woman with wrinkles in her stockings, but come to find out, she wasn't wearing stockings.

Time, fortunately, has a way of helping people forget. Folks at those community reunions have a knack for remembering only the good times.

Bill's brother, I.E. Martin, saw an old flame that came all the way from California to attend the reunion. I.E. was somewhat reluctant to strike up a conversation since he could still remember a disastrous date to the picture show.

Martin said the movie wasn't very good, and he started to squirm. His date, however, was enjoying the picture show and she admonished him to "Sit still, you're wrinkling my dress."

Martin admitted he left her in the picture show, went and shot a few games of pool down the street. He picked her up after the movie and drove her home. That, needless to say, was their final date.

Martin was relieved at the reunion. "She didn't even bring that night up."

Buck Casey said he figured the theme of the Hobbs reunion was simple: "Your 60s is the prime of your life, but it takes longer to get primed."

Delbert Downing uses the post office to regularly pass along tidbits. This one, Downing said, came from retired Ezell-Key Feed and Seed manager, Alvis Minton.

A long-time observer of Texas politics, Minton said, "There's two things you can never be certain about: how an election is going to come out and who a woman is gonna marry."

Horse humanely destroyed

BALTIMORE (AP) — Northern Dancer, a champion

thoroughbred who fathered champions, was humanely destroyed Friday morning, the second straight day in which a great sire died.

Northern Dancer was put down after an attack of colic at the advanced age of 29.

"If he were a younger horse we would have sent him to a veterinary hospital for an operation," said Rick Waldman, vice president of Winfields Farm, the largest shareholder in the horse.

"At his age, it would have been inhumane to subject him to an operation," Waldman said. "We tried to loosen the pain in hope that whatever was troubling him would pass."

On Thursday, Alydar, perhaps the greatest sire of the past 10 years, was destroyed after kicking his stall and breaking a cannon bone in his right rear leg the day before.

Northern Dancer, probably the greatest sire of all time, was destroyed around 6:15 a.m. at the Northview Stallion Station in Cheasapeake City, Md., his home since the early 1970s.

"It was a difficult decision, but he was going through a lot of pain and had become dangerous to himself and those working on him," Waldman said.

In 1964, Northern Dancer became the first Canadian-bred horse to capture the Kentucky Derby, winning the race in a record-setting performance that was ultimately beaten years later by Secretariat.

Northern Dancer, who followed his Derby triumph with a victory at the Preakness, won 14 of 18 starts, including 10 stakes. But he built his reputation after he retired from racing.

He sired 635 named foals, 467 of which won races. He produced 143 stakes winners (23 percent) and his offspring won an estimated $27 million, according to Waldman.

Caterpillar has new enemy in Valley

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of tiny wasps were unleashed on a Texas field this week as growers look for new ways of controlling a pesticide-resistant caterpillar that leaves cabbage heads "so full of holes they look like lace."

Four species of wasps, some smaller than the head of a pin, were sprinkled across a commercial field of cabbage in the Rio Grande Valley on Thursday. If the wasps are successful in protecting the crop from munching caterpillars, growers may be convinced to use the beneficial bugs in their cabbage fields and on other crops such as broccoli, cauliflower and kale.

Don Nordlund, a research entomologist at the USDA's Agricultural Research Service in Weslaco, said caterpillars of the diamondback moth — the cabbage patch's worst insect enemy — are resistant to almost all available insecticides.

Combine that with consumers' desire for more pesticide-free produce, and "we may be able to start convincing growers to switch to this approach after this first crop," Nordlund said Friday.

Although parasites have been used to control pests on the Valley's citrus and sugar cane crops, Nordlund said this week's test of the wasps is the first on a commercial cabbage crop in Texas, and nationally since the early 1970s. Growers failed to pick up on the idea then, but the diamondback moth has since become resistant to pesticides.

The wasps used on the Texas field this week were mass produced by a Mathis firm, Biofac, which has produced and sold beneficial insects since 1978. U.S. Agriculture Department scientists in Yakima, Wash., supplied Biofac with a few hundred wasps that were used to start the Texas population.

According to entomologist K. Duane Biever of the Agricultural Research Service's fruit and vegetable research unit Yakima, the wasps lay eggs inside the caterpillars.

"The larvae that hatch from those eggs feed off their caterpillar host, eventually killing it," he said.

Computer hackers stole phone service

HOUSTON (AP) — Computer hackers stole 18 months worth of government long-distance telephone service through the Houston offices of the Drug Enforcement Administration, agency officials said Friday.

DEA spokesman Thomas Lentini said hackers discovered an access code that allowed them to tap into the government's private phone lines. They then used the lines for phone calls and computer data telecommunications, he said. The access codes were changed immediately when the break-in was discovered last spring, but the thieves could not be found, Lentini said.

Richards vacations in Padre Island

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Texas (AP) — This island resort near the Mexican border will get a lot of free advertising while Ann Richards is governor.

It's her favorite vacation spot, where she plans to visit "every chance I get" after moving into the Governor's Mansion in January, Ms. Richards said.

"I think it's the most beautiful beach that I've ever been on, and I've seen beaches on both coasts and in Europe," she said Friday while winding up her post-election vacation at the island.

That means a publicity boon for the tourism-dependent resort. It has only 1,600 permanent residents, but takes in a million visitors a year.

Larry Updike, director of the South Padre Island Visitor and Convention Bureau, said being the governor's regular retreat "will be a very, very big plus for us in a lot of ways."

"It's advertising for us because it brings more awareness of the island," Updike said.

Ms. Richards has frequented the island for the past 35 years, but doesn't plan to buy any property at the resort.

Politics, she said, is "personally expensive, so I doubt if I'll be able to afford a place down here."

She stays at places various friends own along the beach. For more than a week after the Nov. 6 election, she stayed at a house owned by Austin writer Bill Wittliff.

The easy-going island after the election afforded her some rest, solitude and "a nice re-entry into the real world."

Over-building on the island during the 1980s helped bring down some banks and savings and loans, and contributed to the massive financial woes of former Gov. John Connally.

And while some island regulars complain that the proliferation of high-rise hotels, condominiums and beach houses has ruined the natural charm, Ms. Richards said she likes the architectural hodge-podge.

"I love watching it grow," she said while walking on the beach Friday. "Everyone says, 'Oh, it's not the same, you know, it's spoiled.' I think it's wonderful."

"I think by and large, it looks just the way a beach place ought to look, kind of thrown together, lots of different architecture."

South Padre Island also is where, in 1975, she finally made the decision to enter politics and run for the Travis County Commissioners Court.

The day after she won the governor's race, she announced she was going to take time off to get some rest, "and where else would I get it but South Texas?"

Two days later, she was on the beach at South Padre Island.

Stubborn singer changes churches

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A church member who sang her own selections rather than what others were singing apparently has removed the temptation by attending Mass at another church where there is no singing.

Elojia Macias, 34, had been banned from disrupting the services at Our Lady of Sorrows Catholic Church in San Antonio with her freelance singing.

Father Alexander Wangler obtained a permanent injunction against Mrs. Macias last month, and when she came back with the intent of singing her independent choices, she was arrested.

"The last report I had she went to early Mass at San Fernando Cathedral where there was no singing and sat in the back of the church," Wangler told the San Antonio Light. "She's told some people she would not come back."

Wangler said he did not press the charge of disrupting a meeting against Mrs. Macias. County Court-at-Law Tony Jimenez dismissed the misdemeanor charge, but court records show the permanent injunction still is in effect.

A court official said Wednesday that Mrs. Macias, being permanently enjoined, could be arrested for violation of a court order if she reappears at Wangler's church and disrupts its services.

TEXAS TRAILS

LONE STAR STATE HISTORY by DAN BROWN

SWIFT JUSTICE . . .

Vigilante justice was prevalent on the Texas frontier following the Civil War. Probably the best-known and most active vigilantes were at Fort Griffin. On the night of April 9, 1876, they caught a cowboy stealing a horse. He was promptly hanged from a nearby pecan tree. A pick and shovel were placed beneath the corpse to assist anyone who might want to bury him.

Pipeline's approval draws criticism

DALLAS (AP) — Southwestern natural gas producers said Friday they were disappointed by a federal agency's decision to permit construction of a gas pipeline from Canada to New England.

Most said the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission's approval of the 370-mile, $583 million pipeline will be harmful. Some said there may be time before the pipeline is done for the agency to change rules to help domestic producers.

The irony is the cost of natural gas, including transportation, from the Gulf Coast of Texas to the Northeast is now about $1.70 per thousand cubic foot, the same as transportation costs alone for gas from Alberta in western Canada to the northeastern United States, said George Yates, a producer in Roswell, N.M.

"The FERC has again applied the domestic-producer-always-loses rule," said Yates, who also chairs the natural gas committee of the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

"We are disappointed but not surprised," said Robert Anderson, a Midland-based energy consultant who chairs the natural gas committee of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association.

The producers said the Iroquois rate structure requires local distribution companies to pay a fixed cost for transportation of the gas. Since that cost will always be present, distributors will feel pressure to buy natural gas they are paying to transport.

Canadian producers "have tremendous leverage once those fixed costs are in place," Yates said.

Approval of the Iroquois project also sets a precedent for proposed pipelines from Canada to the West Coast, the primary market of Southwestern producers, they said.

"We expect sale pipelines that buy gas in Canada for sale in the lower 48 and that are now restricted to same rate design as domestic pipelines ... those pipelines after this ruling can simply become transportation pipelines," Yates said.

Whitmore gets special invitation

W. Jean Whitmore, daughter of L.V. and Elsie Anderson of Snyder, received an invitation to attend a Labor Day picnic at the residence of the American ambassador to the Netherlands (Holland.) Her husband, Sgt. Eric Whitmore of Denton, works with the American Forces Network in Holland which supplies the embassy in Hague with state radio and television. The picnic was sponsored by the American Embassy Group, a group that organizes holiday gatherings for embassy staff and friends.

Earlier in the year, Sgt. Whitmore was awarded the Air Force Commendation Medal primarily because he had been the Armed Forces Radio and Television Service Airman of the Year 1988.

At the time Sgt. Whitmore received this award, he and his family were assigned to Lojes Air Force Base, the Azores, Portugal. They have since been posted to Soesterberg Air Force Base in the Netherlands.

The Whitmores have two daughters, Victoria born in the Azores and Katherine Anne born on July 24 in Amersfort, The Netherlands.

Lady Tigers place four on all-district volleyball squads

Four members of the 1990 version of the Snyder Lady Tigers volleyball team were honored by being named to the All-District 2-4A squads released Friday.

Mustangs trample Ira in playoff tilt

KLONDIKE — Ira's football season ended here Friday with a 50-0 district loss at the hands of No. 6 Gards.

The game was stopped at the 5:45 mark of the third quarter on the 45-point rule.

Eric Herm of the Mustangs rushed for 179 yards on 15 carries and teammate John Young added 81 on just nine tries.

Sands bolted to a 14-0 lead in the opening quarter and expanded the margin to 38-0 in the second stanza on Herm TDs covering 72 and four yards and a Pank Grigg score from four yards away.

The Mustangs went to 44-0 on a John Young touchdown from the Ira 4-yard line with less than three minutes gone in the third quarter and Young ended the game and the Bulldogs' campaign with a four yard score. A 47-yard run by Herm set up the scoring opportunity at the IHS 4-yard line.

The Bulldogs were limited to 64 total yards on offense. James Sturdivant managed 42 of those yards as a pass receiver.

Sands rolled for almost 300 yards on the ground and 31 through the air Friday.

Ira ends the season at 4-7 while Sands remains unbeaten at 11-0. The Mustangs will meet Marathon in Imperial Friday at 7 p.m. as playoff action continues.

B.C. season ends on penetrations

GAIL — The Borden County Coyotes staged a 14-point rally in the fourth quarter of Friday's six-man bi-district playoff game but could do no better than a 20-20 tie with Grady.

Grady will advance in the playoffs on penetrations, 5-4, and will face top-ranked Ft. Hancock at a time and site to be announced.

Danny Valle gave the Wildcats a quick 6-0 lead when he ran two yards for a TD after grabbing a Coyote fumble.

Borden's Clint Kemper evened the tally at 6-6 when he went three yards for paydirt with just over five minutes left in the half.

The Wildcats regained the lead in the third quarter on a 3-yard Baldomer Cortez run and a Len Garza kick that boosted Grady to a 14-6 lead.

Borden County scored 14 points in the final stanza on a 2-yard burst by Kemper and a 32-yard Shane Kemper to Cole Vestal TD pass.

Shannon Smithe's two-point kick knotted the score at 20-20 with just 1:07 left in the contest.

Garza hit 11 of 20 passes for 141 yards for the Wildcats and Cortez rushed seven times for 30 yards and a pair of scores.

The Coyotes were paced by Shane Kemper who completed 5 of 14 passes for 80 yards. He also rushed for 59 yards on 11 tries.

Borden County winds up the season at 7-4 while the advancing Wildcats move to 8-3.

Ederg sweeps Pete Sampras

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Late fall seems to be the perfect time of the year for Stefan Ederg. In addition to the two summer weeks in Wimbledon.

Ederg made sure of ending the year as the No. 1 tennis player in the world by beating Pete Sampras Friday to gain the semifinals of the ATP World Championships.

It was, Ederg said with typical understatement after his 7-5, 6-4 victory, "one of the more important matches this year."

Not only was a place in the semifinals at stake, but his No. 1 ranking also was on the line. Had Ederg lost, Boris Becker would have had a chance to top the rankings by winning the $2 million event.

Ederg broke Sampras, the fifth-ranked U.S. Open champion, once in each set. There were few rallies between two serve-and-volley specialists.

In addition to winning Wimbledon for the second time since 1988, Ederg also won seven other titles in 11 finals this year. The ATP championships were called the Masters until last year. The tournament pits the top eight players in the world.

Next year, Ederg said, he would like to win the two Grand Slam events that have eluded him: the French and the U.S. opens. He was a first-round loser at both events this year.

"I want to keep the No. 1 ranking as long as possible. I am still hungry. I still enjoy the game and working out every day," he said.

NFL roundup...

Denver to battle Bears

by The Associated Press
Just when the Denver Broncos thought things couldn't get worse, they did.

As if it wasn't enough to have a poor 3-6 record, last year's Super Bowl finalists just finished up a nerve-wracking week that included team dissension and individual legal problems, along with injuries and general frustration. On top of everything, they now have to play the streaking Chicago Bears on Sunday and face the possibility of falling even farther back in contention for a playoff spot.

"This week has probably been an all-time low with all that's happened," Denver coach Dan Reeves said.

Quarterback John Elway — upset at Reeves' game strategy and personnel decisions and the coach's alleged failure to communicate with the players — held a heated meeting with the head coach on Wednesday, one day after offensive tackle Gerald Perry came under police investigation for third-degree sexual assault.

Permian, OHS face no punitive actions

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — The District 4-5A Executive Committee has opted not to take action against either Permian or Odessa high schools for allegations concerning recruiting, a preseason meeting and distribution of outside income.

"No action was taken toward any member school, and these matters are closed," Ector County Independent School District Superintendent Gene Buinger said Friday.

With those words, Buinger concluded a specially called meeting of the executive committee in Big Spring. He also ended a season of allegations and investigations involving the football programs at rivals Permian and Odessa high schools.

The outside-income investigation concerned payments made to former Permian head coach Gary Gaines for his postseason television show last season.

Gaines, who left Permian in February for an assistant coaching post at Texas Tech University, received the undisclosed talent fee from the Permian Booster Club rather than the station that aired the broadcasts, KOSA-TV. That could have been ruled a violation of Section 481 of the UIL Constitution and Contest Rules.

But the committee, chaired by Buinger and made up of the Ector County, Midland, Abilene and San Angelo school district superintendents, decided not to penalize Permian.

Neither Buinger nor Permian head coach Tam Hollingshead would say if a private reprimand was given to any Permian coaches.

"It's over, we're happy and we're not going to Austin," Hollingshead told The Odessa American. "We're very pleased with the results."

If the 4-5A committee referred the case to the UIL Executive Committee in Austin, a Permian program already on probation could have received much stiffer sanctions. The Panthers were disqualified from playoff participation for holding organized summer practices in a Sept. 20 decision by the state committee, which also gave two-game suspensions to Hollingshead and head junior varsity coach Myron Schneider.

A similar investigation into the distribution of funds for Midland Lee head coach Earl Miller's 1989 postseason show also ended with no public penalties issued.

Odessa High head coach Jerry Taylor faced an accusation that he held a July 23 meeting with players on the school's campus. The meeting was allegedly observed by a Permian assistant coach.

But after the first of the 4-5A committee's two executive sessions Friday, Buinger said, "The ... committee has met and determined that no action concerning Odessa High School is warranted."

The school district also investigated charges of possible player recruitment at both Odessa high schools and Midland Lee. But the committee said it found nothing involving the players in question that merited action under UIL rules against either school.

ECISD Athletic Director John Wilkins presented to the committee copies of a district-wide football policy manual mandated by the UIL committee in its penalties against Permian.

After the meeting, Wilkins also released a copy of a proposal which would tighten district guidelines for all booster clubs for Odessa's two high schools.

Taylor, whose August allegations against Permian triggered the investigations, left the meeting early for the Bronchos' bi-district playoff game against Amarillo Palo Duro in Lubbock. The teams tied 20-20, but Palo Duro won the game on first downs.

"The entire year has been very traumatic," Taylor said. "There have been a lot of disruptions to several teams in our district, but at the same time, you have to do what you have to do."

Cornerback Elliott Smith was arrested for drunken driving and cornerback Alton Montgomery was arrested in a domestic dispute.

Chicago Bears coach Mike Ditka, a friend of Reeves, empathized.

"Dan is feeling a lot of hurt mostly, along with some anger and some bewilderment," Ditka said. "Dan is a good friend. I respect him as both a coach and a person, and that's more important than any game we're playing on Sunday."

Meanwhile, it's a different story this season for the San Francisco 49ers, the team that beat the Broncos in last year's Super Bowl. In hosting the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, the 49ers have the opportunity to make NFL history. Dating back to last season, they have won 17 straight games and a victory will tie the NFL record for the longest winning streak in history.

Elsewhere Sunday, it's Detroit at the New York Giants; Houston at Cleveland; New England at Buffalo; New Orleans at Washington; Philadelphia at Atlanta; San Diego at Kansas City; Dallas at the Los Angeles Rams; Green Bay at Phoenix; Minnesota at Seattle; the New York Jets at Indianapolis and Pittsburgh at Cincinnati.

The Los Angeles Raiders play at Miami on Monday night.

The Bears (8-1) are riding a five-game winning streak. They boast the NFL's top rushing attack (166.6 yards per game) and are fourth in total defense (258.8). They rank first in turnover differential at plus-16.

Neal Anderson stands fifth in the league in rushing (648 yards) and leads the league in touchdowns with 12. Quarterback Jim Harbaugh ranks fourth in passing efficiency.

San Diego possible site for GOP convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Houston is the president's home town. New Orleans is fun. Cleveland is blue collar. Tampa-St. Petersburg is senior citizens and the Sun Belt. San Diego boasts the biggest cache of electoral votes.

That, in a nutshell, sums up arguments for the five contenders to play host to the 1992 Republican National Convention.

Current handicapping makes San Diego the front-runner to win that competition.

In part, the southern California city benefits from problems peculiar to two of its rivals — problems named David Duke and Ann Richards.

GOP officials insist that former Ku Klux Klansman Duke's standing as Louisiana's most prominent — if unwanted — Republican does not disqualify New Orleans, nor does the prospect of Ms. Richards as the newly elected Democratic governor of Texas eliminate Houston.

But they concede that Duke and Ms. Richards are among the political factors that will be weighed as the party decides where to gather to open President Bush's re-election campaign.

So far, President Bush has expressed no public preference and aides say he isn't likely to do so. All it takes is a nod from the president toward one city to insure its selection.

"He has said he wants to go to the place that makes the most sense," said Mary Matalin, executive director of the Republican National Committee. "He has not given us a preference one way or the other."

The party's site-selection committee plans to make its recommendation at the end of this month. But the final decision won't be announced until early next year.

The Democrats already have chosen New York as the site of their 1992 convention.

No one disputes the importance of California, which will have 54 electoral votes in 1992, one-fifth of the 270 needed to win the presidency.

Neither is there any argument with San Diego's ideal weather.

The problems cited most often are the size of the convention hall and money.

San Diego's hall is the smallest of the five in contention, but backers contend it is as large as the hall in Dallas where Republicans met to nominate Ronald Reagan in 1984. There also is talk about holding the final session of the convention in the California city's Jack Murphy Stadium.

Money could be a greater problem. Normally the major exporter of political money to both major parties, California will have little to spare in 1992 when the state will have two Senate races as well as contests for seven new House seats.

When Republican Pete Wilson takes office as governor in January, one of his first acts will be appointing someone to succeed him in the Senate. Wilson's choice then will have to run in 1992 for the remaining two years of his Senate term.

In addition, 1992 is the year the seat held by retiring Democratic Sen. Alan Cranston comes up for election.

Thanksgiving meal slated Tuesday

A traditional Thanksgiving dinner will be served for senior citizens in the Senior Center on Tuesday. Serving is to begin at 11:30 a.m. and will continue to 1 p.m. The center will be closed Thursday and Friday for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Hoss Clayton and his band will be playing in the center's dining room before the start of the Tuesday meal. The Sunshine Choir will meet for a rehearsal at 10 a.m. Monday. The Kitchen Band will rehearse at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday.

The Senior Citizens swim-nastics group will meet at the Western Texas College swimming pool at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday but will not meet Thursday since the New Orleans was the site of the 1988 convention that nominated Bush for president. The Superdome is big enough for two conventions. Also working in the city's favor is what one party source called "the fun factor."

But the Republicans are concerned about the potential for Duke, a state legislator and former Klan leader, to grab too big a share of the television coverage.

Despite efforts by national party officials to repudiate him, Duke ran for the Senate in 1990 as a Republican and garnered 44 percent of the vote in an unsuccessful bid to oust Democratic Sen. J. Bennett Johnston.

If Bush had a favorite, most Republicans assume it would be Houston, his adopted home town. But if the Republicans meet there, Richards would be the governor who would greet them.

Could the news media resist writing and broadcasting excerpts from her scathing keynote address at the 1988 Democratic convention?

"Poor George," she said. "He can't help it. He was born with a silver foot in his mouth."

Cleveland has its supporters, especially after Ohio elected a Republican governor in 1990. Choosing it would enable the party to showcase its commitment to blue-collar Americans, a voting group that felt more comfortable with Reagan than with Bush.

Tampa-St. Petersburg has the drawback of bringing the convention to a state that is considered a Bush stronghold, even though Florida voters ousted their Republican governor in 1990 in favor of Democrat Lawton Chiles.

college will be closed for the holiday.

Senior citizens are reminded that the WTC Lady Dusters will host a basketball tournament Friday and Saturday (Nov. 23-24) in the Scurry County Coliseum. There will be games at 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. each day, with the Lady Dusters playing the game starting at 7:30 p.m. each day. Senior citizens will be admitted to tournament games free of charge by showing their ID cards and are also admitted free of charge to all WTC's home basketball games.

A representative of a hearing aid company will be in the center on Wednesday and there will also be a representative in the center on Nov. 27.

Financial Focus

While reviewing his annual mutual fund statement, an investor once noted that the net asset value of his mutual fund shares had increased only 36 cents per share in a 12-month period. "this investment is going nowhere fast," he protested.

The man had failed to consider accumulation of shares, a very important feature of mutual funds that is achieved by reinvesting all income and gains into additional shares rather than taking them in cash. This feature is so often overlooked or misunderstood by mutual fund shareowners that a brief review is always beneficial.

Mutual funds are required to distribute at least 90 percent of all investment profits. This is done by paying dividends, which consist of (1) capital gains recognized by the fund from the sale of securities and (2) income paid to the fund from interest or dividends on the portfolio.

The choice of whether to accept these mutual fund distributions in cash or to reinvest them in additional shares of the fund is yours. Regardless of the choice - cash or reinvestment - taxes are due on the distributions during the tax year they are declared. And if you elect to receive all distributions in cash, the number of fund shares you own remains constant.

If, on the other hand, you choose to reinvest the dividend distributions in additional shares, the number of shares you own increases and compounds.

When measuring the performance of your fund, these distributions must be considered. Because the fund distributes most of its profits and income relatively unchanged while you continue to receive dividends.

In our shareholder's case, he owned 720 shares valued at $12,556 at the beginning of the year. At the end of the year, by reinvesting income and gains, he owned 773 shares, 53 shares more, valued at $13,759. This represented a dollar increase in value of $1,203 or a 9.58 percent increase. As our shareholder pointed out, however, the value of each share had increased only 36 cents.

This example illustrates the importance of considering the number of shares owned or accumulated, any dividends received in cash, and finally, the power of compounding when measuring the performance of your mutual fund.

Economic downturn deletes caviar from office parties

By The Associated Press

In a footnote to a year of corporate layoffs and cutbacks, a slew of companies are cutting back on the all-expense-paid, end-of-year Christmas bash.

This year, corporate partygoers will find less caviar and French pate. Shrimp has gone out to sea. Bid adieu to open bars and champagne. Grab a beer or a glass of wine.

Many employers, pressed by tight budgets and economic uncertainty, are telling employees they'll have to pay for their own celebrations. Some extravagant company affairs have been eliminated.

"I'm finding, and a lot of people in the area are finding, that a lot of companies are canceling parties because they have layoffs and can't justify spending money on a party," said John Caruso, owner of one of the biggest corporate caterers in the economically hard-hit Boston area.

In New York, NBC, squeezed by an industry-wide advertising slump this fall, has axed its Yule parties for news and other network divisions.

"I certainly think economics played a part," said one NBC executive, who spoke on condition of anonymity. However, the executive added, "I think everybody's sort of relieved" from not having to make the round of parties. "It was getting out of control."

"Basically in the downtown district—the law, bank, security and financial services industry—there's a major statement being made on holiday parties," said Adam Weiss, director of sales at the swank Bridgewater's restaurant in lower Manhattan's South Street Seaport, which generally plays host to 18,000 party-goers in December largely from Wall Street.

Noticeably absent from this year's roster of bash-throwers: fallen junk-bond giant Drexel Burnham Lambert, which threw a fancy 350-person party at Bridgewater's last Christmas.

In Atlanta, a spokesman at Turner Broadcasting System Inc. said partly because the company owns its favorite party spot, the Omni Hotel, it can still afford this year to throw its usual big bash for about 1,700 employees.

But one major Atlanta caterer said the company has slimmed its budget for smaller departmental parties, many of which require party-goers to pick up the tab for items like soft drinks.

throwing increasingly has become a wait-and-see affair. Instead of reserving catering halls and holiday bands several months in advance, many companies have yet to commit themselves.

Shearson Lehman Brothers Inc., informed workers it was canceling its major divisional Christmas party and then announced it would have it after all, caterers said—but in February instead of December.

With caviar costing up to $395 for 14 ounces, a fish-egg-laden party supplied by New York's Zabar's delicatessen can cost $30 to $40 a head. But for a mere $20 a pound, smoked salmon might slice the overall cost to $10 a head.

"Instead of chateau briand it might be top sirloin," said Lori Moser, one of New York's top party-throwers. "We have even done some wonderful beef stews this year."

Experts think wind power could eventually produce 10 percent of the U.S. energy supply, with another 10 percent coming from solar energy.

Gorbachev developing new plan

MOSCOW (AP) — President Mikhail S. Gorbachev today proposed a government overhaul that would give republics more influence and could force out Prime Minister Nikolai I. Ryzhkov, who has resisted rapid reform.

Speaking to the Supreme Soviet legislature, Gorbachev also said an emergency program will be drafted within two weeks to deal with growing food shortages, but he did not elaborate.

Gorbachev's proposals aim to calm growing discontent over the and increasing rebelliousness among the republics, all but one of which have made declarations of sovereignty.

"I appeal to citizens of all 15 republics to support these undelayable measures," Gorbachev in a 12-minute speech. He said the separatist movement must be stopped. "We cannot break up (the union). We cannot go down this path."

them as program manager. During that time, he received an associate degree in mid-management from Western Texas College.

His final day at KSNY was Thursday and he is to begin his duties at KYBG on Monday. Currently, the 1,000 watt AM station plays a country format. Clifton said he has no plans to make changes right away.

"I want to get acquainted with the staff and the city. Then we'll see which direction we need to go," said Clifton, who is excited about the move.

"It's a challenge to provide a good, strong second radio station in Big Spring. It's a personal challenge to see if I can make that happen."

Leaving Snyder, he admits, will be tough.

"After 27 years, Snyder will always be home. I met my wife, fell in love and got married here. All three of our children were born here. I have made a lifetime of friendships that will never cease to exist," he said. "My work with civic clubs such as the Jaycees and Kiwanis, the chamber and various other organizations in Snyder has allowed me to grow and mature and has provided an invaluable learning experience."

"The 'I Can Do' spirit that prevails in Snyder has been deeply ingrained in me. Without that spirit I wouldn't have even been able to consider the move to Big Spring," he said.

Clifton and his wife Diage have three children, 24-year-old Terry, 21-year-old Cheri, and 16-year-old Chris.

Friday police activity quiet

Two arrests for public intoxication topped Snyder police activity during an otherwise quiet period which began at 7 a.m. Friday.

At 10 p.m. at the 250 Club on East Highway, a 25-year-old female was arrested for public intoxication. At 3:21 a.m. Saturday in the 100 Block of Birch, a 29-year-old male was also jailed for public intoxication.

The early Saturday morning incident came after police had been called to the area twice previously beginning at 2:03 a.m. Police were first called to a family disturbance and again when a woman said her husband had let the air out of her tires.

Police investigated one minor traffic mishap Friday. At 7:35 a.m. in the 2600 Block of 42nd St., a 1986 Chevrolet driven by Marium Ornelas of 2608 42nd St. was in collision with a 1987 Pontiac driven by Raymon Walker of 3003 42nd St. There were no injuries and damage was minor.

At 8:07 a.m. Friday, Paula Brown called from the Busy Bee Grocery on East Highway to report criminal mischief to an employee's vehicle.

At 10:54 a.m., Richie Gradney said she had lost her purse while at Everybody's Thriftway.

Police were called shortly after 5 p.m. Friday to a possible fight between juveniles in the area of the Coleman Apartments. Police found all in order.

At 8:39 p.m., police were called to the Cinema in Snyder Shopping Center where juveniles were reportedly causing a disturbance.

At 12:48 a.m. Saturday, a clerk at Allsup's on College Ave. reported a subject had stolen two packages of cigarettes.

At 1:59 a.m. in the 2600 Block of 48th St., police were called to a reported fight between two females who had left the area. Police also investigated a family disturbance in the 2900 Block of Ave. Y at 2:01 a.m.

Obituaries

Albert Ray

1906-1990

ABILENE — Services were set Saturday morning at Elliott-Hamel Funeral Home Chapel for Albert Franklin Ray, 84, of Clyde who died Thursday in an Abilene nursing home. Burial was to follow in the Hamby Cemetery.

He was the brother of Floyd Ray of Snyder.

Born in McCulloch County, Mr. Ray moved from Hamby to Clyde in 1970. He was a farmer and was a member of the Clyde Church of Christ. His wife, Frankie Eugenia Ray, preceded him in death.

Other survivors include three daughters, Gayle Ray, Cheryl Ray and Nona Ray, all of Clyde; a sister, Gladys Key of Abilene; and several nieces and nephews.

Ruby Watkins

1938-1990

COLORADO CITY — Graveside services are set for Ruby Watkins, 52, at 2 p.m. Monday in the Westbrook Cemetery under the direction of Kiker-Seale Funeral Home. Officiating will be Rev. Fred Smith.

She was born Nov. 8, 1938. She died Friday from injuries sustained in a three-vehicle accident occurring about 5:15 a.m. three miles southeast of Snyder on the Colorado City Highway.

Surviving are one son, GERALD Watkins of Colorado City; one brother, Joe Dearing; and one grandchild.

account for more than 100 million days of lost productivity per year, exceeding the total caused by work stoppages, lockouts and strikes. In other words, "The frequency of minor illnesses dwarfs the frequency of major illnesses," the editorial concluded.

In a recent study, investigators discovered that only 16 percent of patients with common symptoms (fatigue, headache, back pain and cough) had a physical cause for their complaints; 10 percent were assumed to suffer psychological disturbances; and in 74 percent, the origin of the symptoms was never discovered. In all fairness, this may reflect the non-specificity of medical testing. For example, before appropriate diagnostic tests were devised for lupus, Lyme disease and multiple sclerosis, patients with symptoms of these disorders were often considered to have emotional complaints.

Furthermore, patients with minor illnesses usually obtain little benefit from their encounters with physicians, who may thoughtlessly dismiss such patients with little explanation. In this respect, we doctors may be failing our constituencies.

How can the public and the health-care industry achieve a balanced approach to the problem of minor illness? Unfortunately, there is no ready answer to this question.

It's no secret that a cure for the common cold is elusive; however, lethal conditions, such as heart attack and cancer, can be helped — even cured — by modern drugs, surgery or high-tech medical advances, such as angioplasty and radiotherapy. Thus, doctors really have few tools with which to combat minor illness; ordinarily, healers try (by a process of elimination) to rule out treatable serious conditions. The end result may be a big bill and a frustrated patient.

On the other hand, American patients seem unwilling to put up with petty, self-limiting symptoms. Although untreatable, most common ailments run their courses within a few days. Therefore, it is inappropriate for people at the onset of picayune upper respiratory infections, for example, to crowd already overburdened emergency rooms, clamor for cures, demand chest X-rays and put when they are told to stop smoking and tough it out.

Because of the huge cost of minor ailments — much of it borne by Medicare and private insurers — experts predict that sooner or later, restraints will be mandated. When this occurs, I predict a public hue and cry that will be heard all the way to Washington. At present, the R word, rationed medicine, is being batted about by state legislators.

In the meantime, perhaps we all ought to take a look at the problem and do what we can to alleviate it. Doctors need to exercise restraint in ordering tests, express sympathy with their patients, be forthright about the limitations of medical science and educate their patients about how to differentiate between significant symptoms and inconsequential complaints.

Dr. Gott

By Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A while back you printed an article regarding PMS and a combination of vitamins that helped substantially. Can you reprint this for me?

DEAR READER: Actually, I said that premenstrual syndrome (moodiness, fluid retention, malaise and depression) cannot be helped by vitamin supplements. Although some practitioners advocate vitamin B-6 (pyridoxine) for this condition, no reputable scientific study has shown such a supplement to be beneficial. Nor has magnesium, another dietary supplement, been found to be effective, despite claims to the contrary.

At present, the cause of (and treatment for) PMS remains undiscovered. Experts recommend that women with PMS undergo thorough gynecological examinations and work with their gynecologists to discover methods, such as the judicious use of hormones or diuretics, to control symptoms.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Will calcium tablets help the pain of arthritis? I'm hesitant to try this because my doctor has told me I have calcium deposits on my spine. What effect would this have on my condition?

DEAR READER: Calcium tablets will not affect the pain of arthritis. This pain is due to stimulation of nerves around and in joints, resulting from inflammation, such as seen in rheumatoid arthritis and gout, or wearing-down of the joint surfaces, as in osteoarthritis. In general, therapy for arthritic pain consists of anti-inflammatory analgesic drugs — for example, aspirin, ibuprofen and prescription drugs, such as Motrin and Indocin.

As we age, calcium in the body shifts location, leaving bone and appearing in blood vessels and tendons. This phenomenon is unrelated to calcium intake and the total amount of body calcium; rather, it is due to poorly understood age-related changes in tissue metabolism.

Because bone-calcium deficiency (osteoporosis) is common in older people, physicians have experimented with various ways to prevent this loss. Exercise, a balanced diet, hormone pills (for women) and oral calcium supplements have been shown to retard loss of bone calcium. Therefore, depending on your age and the condition of your bones, 1,000 to 1,500 milligrams of extra calcium a day may slow the onset of osteoporosis. Thus, you may choose to take calcium supplements for this reason, not for arthritis.

As a consequence of aging, calcium deposits may appear around the spinal bones. This is related to the shift in calcium (from bones to other tissues) that I mentioned above. These deposits can be painful, but they are not influenced by calcium supplements. The pain is usually treated with anti-inflammatory medicine, which can be taken with calcium.

I believe you can safely take additional calcium. If you are having pain — or if you have osteoporosis — ask your doctor for advice about which medications would be suitable to relieve your symptoms.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Osteoporosis." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their names and addresses to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Traditionally, adults in Britain and on the Continent have been bemused by Americans' preoccupation with trivial illness. For Europeans long accustomed to a rationed system of socialized medicine, medical attention for minor ailments has been viewed as a selfish overutilization of already burdened resources. This view is, of course, changing — but the lines are still drawn: Europeans regard minor symptoms as part of the human condition, whereas Americans believe the same symptoms reflect underlying illness needing treatment. When is a symptom an illness? The answer to this disarmingly simple query depends on cultural milieu as well as on anxiety — this symptom may indicate a potentially serious disorder for which I should get help.

With a burgeoning U.S. health-care budget, experts are now beginning to examine the American proclivity to seek attention at the drop of a hat. This habit costs money, a lot of money — and, as you may realize, budget-cutting is the issue of the 1990s.

The data about minor illness are disturbing. According to an editorial in the Archives of Internal Medicine (August 1990), the National Center for Health Statistics reported that in one year, there were 62 million office visits for minor ailments (respiratory tract infections, headache and back pain), compared to 17 million visits for heart disease and diabetes. Low back pain is estimated to cost American society more than $16 billion a year. Common respiratory infections

Scurry County Folks

By Shirley A. Gorman

Ruth West may be retired, but that doesn't mean she has quit working. In fact, quite the contrary is true.

Since she first threw her hat into the Silver Haired Legislature ring, she was kept busy campaigning in 12 counties, including Scurry, and now that she has been elected to office she continues to keep up with issues which relate to senior citizens.

She likes being involved. Besides being newly elected to the SHL, she is also president-elect of the local AARP chapter and vice-president of the Golden K Kiwanis.

Mrs. West is the second SHL representative from Snyder to serve in this capacity, replacing Delbert Downey, who resigned after serving two two-year terms.

Mrs. West was elected to her new post on May 21 of this year. Orientation was held Aug. 5-8 at the University of Texas. She and the others were sworn in on Sept. 17 by Chief Justice Joe Greenhill. From Sept. 21-24, SHL reps met to decide on committee resolutions.

State Rep. Steve Carriker addressed the SHL body, emphasizing how important and necessary the group is to the Legislature and senior citizens in Texas. A reception for all SHL representatives was held during that week in the rotunda of the capital.

Committee assignments were also made, and Mrs. West was named to the Human Services Committee. As a newly elected SHL representative, Mrs.

West intends to be active in issues which involve senior citizens. She said that the most important issues for senior citizens today involve money, health and transportation.

Though Mrs. West did not have an opponent, she campaigned aggressively because she wanted to be in tune with what senior citizens in the 12-county area thought. Also, she said it was important for each senior center and AARP chapter to hold an election because the more votes a candidate has the more leverage the representative has when presenting issues to the Legislature.

She serves as secretary of the Human Services Committee and is also a member of the Election and Credentials Committee, and the Executive Committee which meets quarterly.

Mrs. West will return to Austin on Nov. 29 for the Special Legislative Session due to begin the following day. She will return in January also.

SHL representatives bring issues of importance to senior citizens to the attention of lawmakers. Since David Counts was recently re-elected as State Representative, Mrs. West said he will present the SHL resolutions to the Legislature.

The SHL received help from the Texas Department on Aging in drafting the resolution and special needs of senior citizens. Nutrition is a vital concern of SHL reps as Mrs. West said funds might be cut in favor of home services.

She explained though, that senior citizens in Texas need hot meals and companionship. In many instances the only hot meal senior citizens get on a daily basis is served at their local senior center or delivered to their door for lunch. Snyder alone has two vehicles which deliver hot meals to shut-ins.

DEDICATED — Ruth West, who has recently been elected to the Silver Haired Legislature, is very enthusiastic about her new position and eager to do what she can to help senior citizens living in her area. (SDN Staff Photo)

Mrs. West also said the SHL is also interested in establishing better training for aides who work in nursing homes. For instance, one plan might be for nursing homes to help pay for LVN and aides' training in exchange for a firm commitment for continued employment for a certain period of time.

She pointed out that recreation is very important to senior citizens, but added that as long as permits for camping in state parks remains full price, then as many as 50 percent of the people over age 65 cannot afford to go. Mrs. West also said that senior citizens need supplemental insurance policies to be used in conjunction with Medicare because dual coverage is usually necessary in order to pay for adequate medical needs.

Also, regarding Medicare, Mrs. West explained that the SHL is interested in having equal reimbursement for both rural and city hospitals and physicians.

The Texas Legislature created the Silver Haired Legislature several years ago because legislators wanted to know what citizens over the age of 60 needed. Mrs. West has nothing but praise for her fellow representatives and is very excited to be have been elected to the position.

She and her colleagues are also interested in the establishment of an SHL foundation which would offer some financial support for expenses incurred while attending legislative sessions and other SHL business. SHLs in other states have some type of funding set up for their representatives.

Currently, all members of the SHL pay their own expenses. Sometimes they will share living quarters at the Guest Hotel in Austin which helps to cut down on living expenses. A few months ago, Mrs. West roomed with an SHL member from Morton and another one from El Paso, both of whom she found very compatible.

She said though that some senior citizens might be prevented from seeking election to the Silver Haired Legislature because of the personal expense involved.

Mrs. West had been interested in the SHL since she and her husband, James, moved to Snyder from Hot Springs Arkansas in 1984. When Downey chose not to run for a third term, she decided to seek election.

FAMILY FOCUS

STRENGTHENING TEXAS FAMILIES

SURVIVING FAMILY CONFLICT

Conflict is an unavoidable part of family life. Conflict is never pleasant, but it is not something to be overly concerned about. It is normal and it can be a healthy part of family life if it is used to help family members learn to manage conflict and to be aware of other's views.

Conflict is not the same thing as a fight or an argument. A conflict is simply a difference of opinion between people that creates a problem to be solved. A fight is a personal attack; its purpose is not to solve problems but to vent feelings. Whether a conflict becomes a fight depends on how it is handled.

There are constructive ways of dealing with conflict which lead to problem solving. Learning these skills can make family conflict a good deal less trying and improve the family atmosphere considerably.

First, pick a time and place to deal with conflict. Avoid trying to deal with conflict during "hassle times" or when people are tired, tense, or preoccupied.

Second, use communication skills to help resolve conflicts. When families listen well, describe their feelings clearly, and ask clarifying questions they are better able to solve problems.

Finally, know which conflicts to avoid. There are some family conflicts that cannot be resolved even with the most sensitive handling.

The thing that strong families have going for them is not that they don't disagree, but that they know how to make up. Developing patterns of reconciliation is an important step in building family strengths.

A conflict is really no more than a problem to be solved. The goal is to solve the problem. Strong families keep this goal in mind as they deal with conflict.

She was gratified to be elected, but though she had been preparing for her new role for some time, was surprised to discover how formal the SHL is with all business being conducted according to Hoyle. Mrs. West said she has learned a great deal about the Texas government. The SHL is made up of 118 members, with each district in the state being represented according to population. Though her first two-year term has just begun, she is already "gearing up to run again." For the future, she said she would like to be the Speaker Pro Tem, if the present office holder should advance.

Mrs. West has nothing but praise for the local Senior Citizens Center and for all the support its members and staff give her. Both before and since election, she said, she has never had trouble locating senior citizens from the center willing to accompany her as she goes on speaking engagements throughout the district.

She continues to keep in touch with her senior citizens in her district because she feels it is important for her to be up to date on issues which concern them.

According to Mrs. West, some 1,500 senior citizens are active at the local center. And the over 60 age group has been increasing also.

She supervises a weight control program at the center which concentrates on stabilizing and maintaining weight. She also counsels class participants on how to cut down on caloric intake without hurting themselves.

Mrs. West is a native of Brownfield. For a number of years she and her husband lived on a lake near Hot Springs, Ark. and operated a combination real estate and insurance business. But they were no strangers to Snyder, as they had visited on a regular basis before deciding to move here after they retired.

Mrs. West's brother, Otto Parrish, has lived in Snyder since the 1950s and the Wests have visited here many times over the years.

She said they are happy with their choice of city to retire in. "Snyder is just big enough so that the traffic isn't bad, it has good stores and it's economical," she said. "We love it here. We feel like we came home."

The Wests have two daughters, five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, all living in Arkansas.

Formal ceremony unites Davis, Berry

Denise Diane Davis and Scott Reeves Berry, both of Arlington, exchanged wedding vows at the First United Methodist Church Saturday, Sept. 8 at 2:30 p.m. with Rev. David Robertson, minister of First United Methodist Church of Big Spring, officiating.

Tommy and Carol Davis are parents of the bride and Jack and Frankie Berry of Bossier City, La., are parents of the groom.

Vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with arrangements of gladiolus, white spider mums and tiger lilies. White bows with greenery and baby's breath marked the pews.

Jane Womack performed organ and piano music for the double ring ceremony.

The groom escorted his parents to the altar to light a memory candle before escorting his mother to her pew. Terry Davis, brother of the bride, escorted his parents to the altar to light the memory candle and his mother to her seat. The bride and groom each took their family's candle to light their own memory candle.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a silk organza over bridal satin gown designed and made by her mother. The gown bodice, re-embroidered with pearls and sequins, adjoined a collar of silk organza. Her cathedral-length train was bordered with lace outlined with pearls and sequins. Her floor-length veil with a short blusher, was held by a cap of pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of cascading white roses.

The bride also wore a gold ring given to her great-grandmother Caudle on her wedding day by her father. Around her neck were pearls she received as a high school graduation gift. She also carried handkerchiefs from her three great-grandmothers. Her garter was a gift from the groom.

Kathy Tabor of Houston was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Kim McGuire of Arlington, sister of the groom; Gail Brandley of Arlington, Chris Self of Lubbock, and Diane Arrington of Arlington. Junior bridesmaid was Amber Ward of Mabank, cousin of the bride. They wore street-length dresses of peacock blue chintz and carried bouquets of tiger lilies and pink flowers.

Jack Berry, father of the groom was best man. Groomsmen were Tony Hobson of Bossier City, Terry Davis of Lubbock, James Tabor of Houston, and Bob McGuire of Arlington, brother-in-law of the groom.

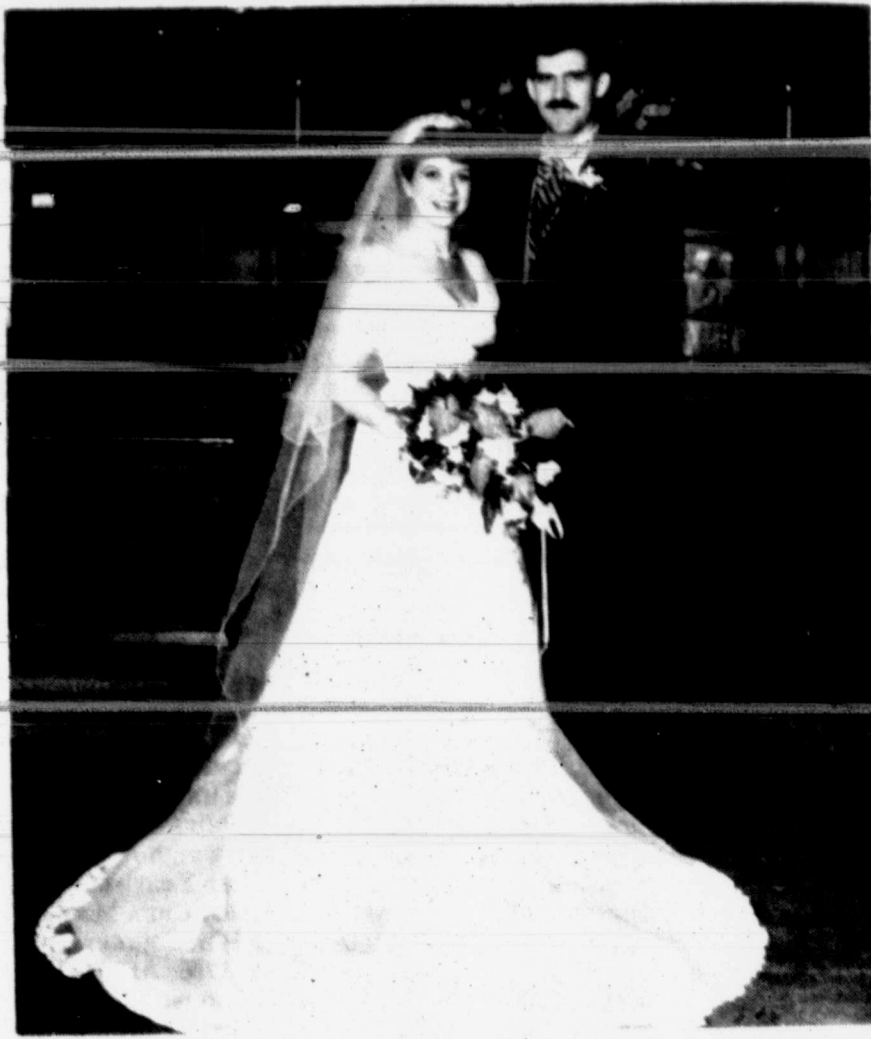

Brad Ward, cousin of the bride, was usher.

Male attendants wore morning cut away coats of dark gray with striped trousers and pink rose boutonnières.

Guests were registered by Julie Brown at a table covered with Battenburg lace, using a pen decorated with lace and a rose. The centerpiece was a throw-away bouquet of white spider mums.

A reception was held at Martha Ann Woman's Club decorated with pink, peacock, silver and white balloons. Individual tables were centered with bouquets of balloons in bridal colors. Pot-pourri was thrown as the couple left.

The bride's table was covered with a white handmade cloth from Belgium belonging to her mother, a gift from the bride's brother when he was there as an exchange student. It held a silver punch bowl, bride doll arrangement and finger sandwiches. A folding screen framed the table and cake. The three-tiered white bridal cake with butter cream icing was decorated with pink roses and fresh flowers from the bridal bouquet. Crystal swans and hearts topped the cake, matched the crystal columns. Serving were Gayle Henderson and Michelle Derouen.

MR. AND MRS. SCOTT REEVES BERRY

The groom's table was placed in the atrium. It was covered with a blue cloth and centered with an arrangement of greenery containing Louisiana memorabilia. Serving German chocolate cake, made by the groom's mother, and punch were Delayne Hartman of San Angelo, and Amy Richardson.

A rehearsal dinner was held at Reta's Texas Barbecue.

Following the couple's trip to Cancun, Mex., they will be at home at Fort Worth where the groom is manager for Sky Chefs at DFW Airport and the bride is secretary-accounting assistant at Cambridge Companies, Dallas.

The groom is a graduate of Northwestern State University and member of Sigma Tau Gamma. Mrs. Berry is a graduate of Texas Tech and a member of Sigma Kappa Sorority.

Special guests were grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Don Blassingame of Colorado City, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Davis and Mrs. Ruby Anderson. Another special guest was the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Helen Lambert of Robeline, La.

Out-of-town guests were from Alexandria and Bossier City, La., Arlington, Fort Worth, Abilene, Lubbock, Colorado City, Odessa, Big Spring San Angelo, Crockett and Houston.

Tips for transportation in the city

If you're coming to New York City, come footloose.

The city's public transportation system can get you into and around town, anywhere you want to go. And with better than 100,000 visitors arriving every day to join more than seven million New Yorkers, do you really want to look for a place to park on Manhattan streets?

Getting into town to start with is easy enough, with three major airports, two major train terminals, and one major bus terminal, all connected with local buses and taxis and most with the subway system.

LaGuardia and John F. Kennedy International airports, both in Queens, are linked to Manhattan by limousine, taxi, or minibus; JFK additionally has a bus-subway connection. Newark International, across the Hudson River in New Jersey, has buses and bus-train combinations to bring passengers into the city.

Both Penn Station (Seventh Avenue and 33rd Street on the West Side) and Grand Central Terminal (Park Avenue and 42nd Street on the East Side) bring rail passengers directly into the heart of the city. Those who come by intercity bus arrive at the Port Authority Bus Terminal (Eighth Avenue at 42nd Street on the West Side). From any of these, you can get to your hotel with a short taxi, bus or subway ride.

Once in town, you can get around by subway (230 miles of lines), buses (1,745 miles of routes), taxis (12,000 licensed yellow cabs), or on foot to any place in Manhattan or four other boroughs — Brooklyn, Manhattan, Queens, and the Bronx. Reach Staten Island by the bargain-priced (50 cents) Staten Island Ferry. Bus and subway fares are $1.15, and taxis make a $1.50 initial charge plus 25 cents for each additional one-fifth mile.

Subway and bus route maps are available on buses, at subway token booths, and the New York Convention & Visitors Bureau Information Center at 2 Columbus Circle. The bureau also has an information phone, (212) 397-8222, staffed from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. to give you route advice and answer other tourist and logical game, relatively gimmick-free. As students progress and become more experienced, they adopt a few bidding gadgets to improve their results. Some of these gadgets come to the fore in today's bidding.

Three spades was an artificial response to two no-trump, promising length in both minors, plus values to play at least a game. So South duly bid his four-card club suit. By partnership agreement, North's bid of four hearts now showed a singleton heart and implied interest in getting higher than five clubs. So South just went right to slam. What could he hold better than A-x-x of hearts facing a singleton?

Care was required in the play. West led a club. If declarer ever made the mistake of leading a second club, he would come up short in his quest for 12 tricks. The winning play is to win the club, cash the A-K of diamonds, then cash the ace and king of spades. After that, declarer can crossruff for 12 tricks. At trick 13, he will lose a spade to a long trump in West's hand.

This particular use of three spades as a response to two no-trump is an adjunct of Jacoby transfer bids. The method can be played only by partnership agreement, and of course the opponents are entitled to be informed of this special agreement.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Phoenix Books.

Voss appointed council volunteer

A meeting was held recently by three members of the West Texas Girl Scout Council. Attending were Nancy Henderson, Margaret Lloyd and Lou Voss. They made plans for the 40th anniversary of the council's Camp Boothe Oaks in Sweetwater. Mrs. Voss is a co-chairman for the event. The date has been set for April 27, 1991 at the campsite at Sweetwater.

Voss has been appointed local council volunteer. She has served in various capacities for the council for over 26 years.

Mrs. Voss' research for the camp's upcoming celebration led her to Margaret Lloyd, former executive director who served in that capacity when Camp Boothe Oaks was originally developed.

The camp continues to provide girls in 16 counties with positive experiences by teaching them environmental awareness and outdoor skills, sharpening their decision-making skills, and helping them develop life-long friendships, according to Mrs. Voss.

The WTGSC is a participating agency of the United Way.

Recipe Box

NEW YORK (AP) — Glace fruit adds sweetness to cakes, cookies and candies — perfect for holiday baking.

Chop or slice glace fruit when adding to bread, muffin or cake batter so that the fruit will be distributed evenly.

Cookies, breads and cakes made with glace fruit can be frozen in freezer bags, plastic wrap or aluminum foil for up to 3 months. Glaze and frost after defrosting. To warm defrosted breads: wrap in aluminum foil and place in a preheated 300-degree F oven for 15 to 20 minutes.

Glace cheesecakes are best prepared no more than three days in advance. Refrigerate, loosely covered.

The following recipes for Pineapple Cheesecake and Cherry Sticky Buns are provided by The Glace Fruit Processors:

PINEAPPLE CHEESECAKE
1½ cups graham cracker crumbs

1 tablespoon sugar
1-3rd cup melted butter or margarine

½ cup (4 ounces) glace red pineapple, diced or wedges

½ cup (4 ounces) glace green pineapple, diced or wedges

Two 8-ounce packages cream cheese, softened

½ cup sugar

2 eggs

½ cup whipping cream or half-and-half

2 teaspoons vanilla extract

¼ cup all-purpose flour

Option for garnish:

½ cup (4 ounces) glace red pineapple rings

½ cup (4 ounces) glace green pineapple rings

Combine graham cracker crumbs and 1 tablespoon sugar in bottom of ungreased 8½-inch springform pan; mix in butter. Pat mixture on bottom and one-half-inch up side of pan. Sprinkle glace fruit on bottom of crust.

Beat cream cheese and ½ cup sugar in medium mixing bowl until fluffy; beat in eggs, cream and vanilla until smooth. Beat in flour. Pour mixture over glace fruit in springform pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree F oven until set, about 45 to 50 minutes. Cool in pan on wire rack. Carefully loosen side of cheesecake with sharp knife; remove side of pan. Refrigerate until chilled before serving, 4 to 6 hours. Garnish with optional red and green pineapple rings. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Tips given for selecting fall vegetables

Crisp apples, mellow squash, tart cranberries — that's just the start of the list of wonderful fall produce. These tips will help you select and store the best of the harvest.

APPLES
— Firm texture is the key when selecting apples. Those that yield to slight pressure on the skin are probably mealy or soft inside. Also check for smooth skin that is relatively bruise free.

— Keep apples chilled in a vented plastic bag. Those stored at room temperature quickly lose flavor and juiciness and become mealy.

CRANBERRIES
— Look for glossy, plump, firm, fully red berries. Those that appear dull or shriveled are past their prime.

— Chill cranberries in their original package or loosely covered for up to two months. Or freeze in the package for up to a year. You needn't thaw the berries to use them.

PARSNIPS
— Small to medium-width roots usually have the best flavor and texture.
— To store, wrap tightly in plastic wrap and refrigerate for up to two weeks.

DEAR ABBY: The holiday season is approaching and I am faced with my annual problem about Christmas.

My husband and I have been married for four years; we have no children as yet, but we both have busy careers. Every year since our marriage, my husband wants us to spend a peaceful Christmas at home, but each year so far, we have given in to my family's wishes that we spend Christmas Day with them.

This involves our driving 250 miles round trip, since my family's Christmases are always held at my brother's home because he has young children.

Last year, I suggested that the family get-together be held on either the weekend before, or after, Christmas. My parents and my brother promptly vetoed my suggestion.

Trying to solve this problem without making someone angry makes my holidays miserable. Can you offer some advice?

DREADING CHRISTMAS

DEAR DREADING: You and your husband have the right to spend your Christmases in a manner that pleases you. Give your family and brother notice immediately, and don't be meek or apologetic when you tell them you've decided to stay home for Christmas.

Once you make your declaration clear, perhaps your suggesting of visiting the weekend after Christmas will receive a merrier reception.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the father who started to give his son an allowance at age 3 rang a bell with me. He urged his son to put half of his allowance in a piggy bank, and the other half he could spend. That's an excellent way to teach a child how to save.

I am a single mother who took this one step further with my 4-year-old daughter. Near the holiday season, she emptied her piggy bank and personally carried the bag of coins to the local Salvation Army representatives with the understanding that this was to help the less fortunate to have a happier holiday.

Last year was the first year, and she's already talking about all the money she has saved for "the needy" this year.

Now she has learned not only how to save, but also how to give.

A PROUD MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: You have every right to be proud. Your daughter is lucky to have a mother such as you.

***

DEAR ABBY: How would you define success?

PHILOSOPHY MAJOR, UCLA

DEAR STUDENT: Succinctly and simply put: "To succeed is to achieve one's goal." However, Ralph Waldo Emerson (1803-1882), my favorite American poet, essayist and philosopher, said it best when he wrote:

"To laugh often and love much; to win the respect of intelligent persons and the affection of children; to earn the approbation of honest citizens and endure the betrayal of false friends; to appreciate beauty; to find the best in others; to give of one's self; to leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child, a garden patch or a redeemed social condition; to have played and laughed with enthusiasm and sung with exultation; to know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived — this is to have succeeded."

DEAR ABBY: I just finished reading the letter from "Happy at Last in Oklahoma," the 85-year-old woman who changed her eating and health habits at age 80. What an inspiring letter!

I am 31 and happily married to a wonderful guy. We have a preschool-age son. Like "Happy in Oklahoma," I have also doubled my weight and am very uncomfortable with my shape.

After reading that letter, I am encouraged to try harder. My moods dictated my eating habits. Whenever I felt bored, lonely, sad or unhappy, I'd eat. Every Monday, I would begin a new diet, then I'd fall off it and try again. Abby, that lady's inspiring letter has changed my life forever. No more starving myself, overexercising and beginning again for me. I will begin right now to change my bad habits.

I cut her letter out of my newspaper and plan to keep it handy for reinforcement when I'm tempted to "cheat." May God bless this wonderful Oklahoma lady. Thank you, Abby, for running her letter.

CHANGING FOR GOOD AT 31

DEAR CHANGING: Many other readers were inspired by that letter. And for those who missed it, here are the highlights: "My advice to people who want to do what I did: Remember, you didn't get fat overnight. Ease into your new habits. Never talk about what you are doing, just do it! Let others discover that you are losing weight."

"First, cut down the size of your servings, then limit your meals to healthy foods such as fruits, vegetables, cereals, lean meat and non-fat milk. Drink at least 10 glasses of liquid a day (most of it should be water). When you cut out the fats and sweets, you will be surprised at how good the other foods taste. Even a baked potato can be great. Start exercising. Begin slowly, then gradually increase the time, but do it so regularly that it becomes a habit.

"Moderation is the key to success. Substitute common sense for bad habits. Life for me didn't begin at 40. It began at 80."

***

DEAR ABBY: Recently at an amusement park, I noticed a group of people waiting in the middle of a line, when one of them broke in. By the time we were even with them (it was a double, divided line), they had all broken in at that spot. When the lines merged, my group was immediately in front of them. Then, one of them crowded in ahead of us. Shortly thereafter, all of them tried to push through.

Thinking they did not understand that this is rude, I began to politely explain, asking if they felt that we had crowded in front. "No, but one of our party is ahead of you," was the reply, "so we can all go." Any further explanation from me was met with anger and insults.

Please clarify this for me, Abby. I always thought that latecomers should go to the end of the line and wait their turn. If I am joined by a friend, instead of causing hostility by letting my friend in, I give up my place in line and join my friend at the end.

Was I ... OUT OF LINE?

DEAR OUT OF LINE: You were not out of line, but you were outnumbered. Too bad there were no security guards present at the time. Free-for-all fights have been known to erupt due to that sort of rudeness, but given today's climate for unpredictable violence, you used good judgment in not making an issue of it.

Milli Vanilli did not sing on popular album

NEW YORK (AP) — Milli Vanilli, the dreadlocked pop duo whose debut album sold 7 million copies, could become the first act to be stripped of a Grammy after it was learned they didn't sing a single note on the record.

"If there's been a substantial, fraudulent, misrepresentation of the entity, I think there is a high likelihood that the academy would have to take some action," said Michael Greene, president of the National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences. The academy administers the Grammy Awards.

He said the academy's action could include taking back the group's 1989 Grammy. He said no one has ever been stripped of a Grammy in its 33 years.

Frank Farian, the German producer who turned a pair of anonymous pretty boys into an international phenomenon, revealed in an interview this week that hunky dudes Fab and Rob — Robert Pilatus and Fabrice Morvan — were actually the fabulous bunko boys.

Farian said the bare-chested vocalists once described by The New York Times as "exotically sexy" did nothing more than look good and lip sync for videos and TV and concert appearances while others did all the singing.

"The record company never knew that I never told them anything," said Farian. "Later on, after the record was out, there were some people who raised some questions."

The Vanillis won a Grammy for Best New Artist and Rob and Fab became international stars. "Girl You Know It's True" and

"Blame It On the Rain" were both huge hit singles for the band. At the MTV awards, the boys boasted they were better than Elvis or Bob Dylan.

Farian would not say who the real singers were but added that they will appear on his next album — not a Milli Vanilli album.

The Los Angeles Times said sources have suggested that a Dallas native, Charles Shaw, was one of the singers on the Milli Vanilli albums. In a telephone interview from Germany, Shaw told the Times, "once you hear me sing and then you have the Milli Vanilli record in your hand, even if I told you it wasn't me singing, you wouldn't believe me."

"Do I resent that Milli Vanilli made so much money and all I got was studio fee? In the beginning I was very, very upset ...," Shaw said. "But I put it to the side, and at the present moment I plan to succeed on my own."

Farian said Wednesday he was forced to go public with the revelations when the boys told him they wanted to sing on the follow-up to "Girl You Know It's True."

"I said, 'No, I don't go for that.' Sure, they have a voice, but that's not really what I want to use on my records," said Farian.

In a statement Thursday, the two said they "have been ready, willing and able to record our own vocals and have been prevented by Frank Farian from doing so."

And in an interview with the Los Angeles Times, Pilatus called Farian a "control freak" who "would not allow us to enter the studio."

"He's a white German guy who has a big complex about black artists," said Pilatus, a black native of Germany.

"The last two years of our lives have been a total nightmare.

We've had to lie to everybody," he said. "We are true singers, but that maniac, Frank Farian, would never allow us to express ourselves."

"We were afraid for two years that this day would come," Pilatus said. "We've cried about it sometimes ... But deep inside, we wanted it to happen." Pilatus said he and Morvan planned to sing on their next album.

The revelation didn't bother Arista, the label that raked in the cash when "Girl You Know It's True" topped the charts.

'Privatized' school established

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A new public school in a blighted neighborhood is being turned over to a corporation that will run it for profit, in its own unusual fashion: no grades, no desks and a phone in every classroom.

"We have an opportunity to change education in America, and we're going to use all the strength and love and energy we have to make it happen," Pat Parham, principal of the still-uncompleted South Pointe Elementary School, told an overflow crowd of about 150 teachers at a meeting last week.

Educational Alternatives Inc., which operates private schools in Paradise Valley, Ariz., and Eagan, Minn., plans to open South Pointe with 550 students next fall and run it for five years. Dade County school officials approved the plan this summer.

EAI Director Kathryn Thomas said the school will create an atmosphere that celebrates learning by reducing student-teacher ratios to 12-1, tossing out multiple-choice exams and letting students pursue personal goals at their own pace.

South Pointe won't have desks, but it will have computers. Classroom telephones will let students call their parents during school hours to share their successes.

"What we've done is try to empower children," Thomas said. "Learning becomes contagious when everybody is actively involved in the process."

Buffalo Reef

By Bill McClellan

The Hettermeyer place is back to normal now. If you can call Crazy Joe Hettermeyer normal.

Seems Joe was convinced the world was coming to an end and was preparing for it by taking in every animal he could find. It's true.

Uncle Elber, Smitty Thompson and Tyrone Matthews were talking about it when I got to Elber's place last week. The conversation started when Smitty asked Elber why he had given Joe some chickens the week before.

"Joe had it in his head that animals were gonna take over the world," said Elber. "He figured if he got in good with 'em, he'd be spared."

"Where'd he get that notion?" Smitty asked.

"From ol' Judge Slappy Bottoms. Slappy still thinks Joe tried to poison him with that tumblewine a couple months back," said Elber. "So, he got to puttin' in Joe's head about killer bees and readin' him stories 'bout that deer that killed a man in Central Texas."

"Taint ethical to rile up a crazy man," said Tyrone. "There's no tellin' what Joe would do."

"Well, for one thing, he rounded up animals all over the county and took 'em back to his place," said Elber. "That's why he was here. To borrow some chickens. He planned to make friends with 'em. Said if he could get in good with 'em then maybe they'd talk the others into lettin' him live when animals start takin' over the world."

"I wondered what he was up to," said Smitty. "He come by my place and askt' me if them coons was still livin' out near the creek bed. He got real upset when I tol' him I hadn't seen 'em lately."

"You shoulda found 'em' for him," grinned Elber. "Joe said he'd put in a good word with the rest of the animals if I let him have those chickens. Maybe you could make it up by givin' him that boar of yours, Smitty."

"Hogwash," spat Smitty.

"How many animals did he have?" I asked.

"I don't know, but from all the barkin', squawkin', quackin', mewin', mooin', and cooin' comin' from his place, I'd say enough to shame Noah hisself," said Elber.

I could just picture a couple hundred animals running around the Hettermeyer place.

"Didn't somebody tell Joe there ain't no killer bees around these parts yet and that the deer was probably ruttin' — or maybe sick, like rabies or sumpin'?" asked Tyrone.

"I tried to tell him that but Slappy got Joe convinced that there was no such thing as a rabid skunk or dog," Elber explained. "Said they was just rebel animals. Terrorists of the animal kingdom, Joe said. Leaders of the revolt against man."

As the story goes, Joe vowed never to eat meat, and to prove it he grouped all the animals together and had them watch as he buried his butcher knife, just in case they couldn't understand English.

A week later, he showed up at Elber's house again.

"What's up, Joe?" Elber said.

"Here's your chickens back, Elber."

"What happened?" said Elber. "I thought you was makin' friends with the animals so they'd let you live when they decided to take over the world?"

"You know, Elber, I think that was a bunch a nuthin'. The game warden stopped by the other day and said I had to get rid of all those animals. And you know what else he tol' me? He said that deer attacked them people 'cause he was tame, not 'cause he was wild. Said a wild deer would run like crazy. But a tame deer ain't afraid. You know, Elber," Joe said, "I think ol' Slappy lied to me."

"So the game warden convinced you that the animals weren't going to take over the world?"

"No, but it don't matter no more," said Joe.

"Why not?" Elber asked.

"Well, the cats began to gettin' after the chickens and the dogs was gettin' after the cats and it got even worse when I ran out of feed for

'em. I finally decided that if the animals couldn't get along with each other jus' at supper time, it was real doubtful they could get together long enough to take over the world. And besides, they make a terrible mess."

"I bet," said Elber.

"If the good Lord sees fit for me to be eaten by squirrels and scorpions then so be it. I'll have the satisfaction of knowin' that they'll go after Slappy, too."

"Well, I'm glad you let the animals go," said Elber. "Say, Joe, I gave you three chickens but you only brought these two here back."

"Well, tell you the truth, Elber, I was so tired of eatin' vegetables and oatmeal that I fried it up for Sunday dinner."

"Aren't you a little bit afraid the other chickens will come after you sometime?" said Elber.

Joe got up real close and whispered in Elber's ear. "I thought about that. So, I told your two chickens that Slappy came and got the other 'un. Teach that ol' man to mess with me."

Recently I had the honor to serve on a panel with some of Snyder's most skilled communicators, for Snyder High School's Career Day. Sharing the podium with me were Donny Brown, former managing editor and award-winning columnist for The Snyder Daily News, now instructor of mass communications at WTC; Donna Fowler, sales manager for radio KSNY (and the most enthusiastic supporter of this community I know); and Paul Gilbert, station manager of KSNY and successful freelance photographer. Each of us supported a branch of the tree known as "mass communications" — a catch-all phrase for the whole grab-bag of print and broadcast journalism.

I don't know if any of the other speakers presented a more en-passioned program, for each of the four speakers on our panel possessed an infectious love of his work and a heartfelt desire to impart to today's young people the importance of communications as a way of life — no matter what their chosen career.

My mother had to force a high school speech class on me before I learned that the ability to express yourself in clear, concise tones and to present your case to others in a stand-up manner is a skill absolutely invaluable to achieving any kind of success in life — or even to getting hired in the first place.

All of us on the panel — including the radio people — went out of our way as well to urge the young people to join the staff of their school newspaper. No where else, we insisted, could you learn to write, again, in clear, concise direct sentences that get the point across with, as Donny put it, "fairness, truth and accuracy." More and more big corporations are favoring entry-level applicants who possess the skill to communicate, particularly to write. ### TUESDAY

November 13

A 37-year-old Snyder man was sentenced to 20 years in state prison on two convictions shortly before noon Tuesday by District Judge Gene Dulaney in 132nd District Court.

A four-man, eight woman jury deliberated just 50 minutes in 132nd District Court Thursday before finding former Snyder resident Gilbert V. Costilla Jr., 31, guilty of aggravated sexual assault of a child.

The search for a new chief executive officer for Cogdell Memorial Hospital was extended following the withdrawal of two candidates interviewed for the position.

Learn (and fix?) your credit rating

By the Editors of Consumer Reports

In an economy where a car loan is standard equipment, where a credit card can be more acceptable than cash, and where a mortgage figures in most families' dreams, your economic well-being can rise and fall on your credit rating.

If you have ever used credit, there is probably a file on you at one of the nation's 1,200 consumer credit bureaus. Normally, whenever a new account is opened, a credit clerk types into a computer the relevant information from the customer's application, along with details about the initial credit transaction. Once a month, the accumulated contents, stored on magnetic tape, are transmitted electronically to one or more of the three big national credit bureaus — Equifax, TransUnion and TRW Credit Data. Each of these three national bureaus has credit records on about 150 million people.

The promptness of consumers' payments goes into those files, along with notices of any judgments against them for unpaid debts, liens against their property or personal bankruptcies. (Federal law requires credit bureaus to erase most adverse information after seven years, however. The major exception is personal bankruptcy, which can remain on file for 10 years.)

The system is far from perfect. Creditors and other contributors of information sometimes send in erroneous data. Mistakes made by borrowers in filling out credit applications add to the misinformation. Mistaken identities occur by accident or, sometimes, through criminal activity. Computerized data banks accessible by telephone are inherently vulnerable to electronic intruders.

The credit-bureau industry says it has no idea how many errors reside in its files. But available data suggest the number is substantial. Industry data on credit records challenged by consumers indicate that at least 2 million people each year become victims of mistakes.

These days, most lenders decide whether to grant you credit through a process called credit scoring. To score you, statisticians study the personal traits and payment histories of previous customers of a given lending institution. Each trait that proves pertinent (excluding gender, age, race, religion and nationality, all of which are illegal grounds for refusing credit) is then assigned one or more points, depending on its apparent importance in identifying desirable borrowers.

No single profile of the faithful borrower emerges from credit scoring. Indeed, scoring systems can differ remarkably from city to city, even among lenders in the same vicinity. However, the traits that help to determine your acceptability are likely to include the following:

- How long you have lived in the same place, worked for the same employer or practiced the same profession.
- How old you are: People in their 40s and early 50s, the peak spending years, tend to lose points here.

front of a TV camera?

If so, then who will be around to be, as Donny put it, "the conscience of the community?" Who will express the soul of a nation? Will we become, as Paul put it, "a society of sound-bites?"

Who will be around to put our thoughts into words for us if we no longer take the time to think?

Democracy is planted firmly on the foundation of thoughtful discourse, debate and free exchange of ideas; i.e., communication. As long as our young people can realize that and begin to pump their fresh bright talents into circulation, then it's not too late to save the rest of us. I wish them all Godspeed.

- How much you have in the bank.
- How much you owe, and to how many lenders.
- How promptly you pay your installment debts.
- Your score, or course, is based on data provided by credit bureaus. If the data are wrong, so is the score.
- Fortunately, federal law provides some correctives. Among them: The right to know why you have been rejected; the right to know what's in your file (if you are denied credit, you have 30 days to demand to see — free of charge — the information in your report. Consumers who haven't been denied credit can learn what's in their file for a fee, typically $10 to $20); the right to correct errors.
- Here are some precautions to take:
  - Pay your bills on time, of course.
  - If you ever paid a court judgment, make sure that courthouse and credit-bureau records list it as satisfied.
  - At least once, ask all three national credit bureaus whether they have a file on you. Inspect your files and ask that any errors or omissions be corrected.

Physicians might be wrongly evaluating heart disease risks

DALLAS (AP) — Doctors may be giving bad advice about the dangers of heart disease by not considering the interaction of risk factors such as high blood pressure, high cholesterol and smoking, a doctor said Thursday.

"Based on single factor determinations, they may be needlessly alarming or falsely reassuring patients," said Dr. William B. Kannel of Boston University.

Kannel is one of the principal investigators with the Framingham Heart Study, a 40-year-long study of 5,209 people in Framingham, Mass., 25 miles west of Boston.

The study has provided the information researchers use to determine how much an elevated cholesterol level, for example, or hypertension, increases a person's risk of heart disease.

Kannel and the American Heart Association announced the development of a "risk factor prediction kit" that will enable doctors to better estimate patients' heart disease risks.

The kit, based on the Framingham data, allows doctors to calculate the heart disease or stroke risk associated with a given combination of risk factors, Kannel said.

"We need a more efficient profile to pick out the ones who are truly in jeopardy," Kannel said at the heart association's annual meeting.

He said 30 percent to 40 percent of Americans, for example, have cholesterol levels high enough to require treatment.

Many of those might not have substantially increased heart-disease risks, however, Kannel said.

A patient with mildly high cholesterol and no other risk factors may have only one-tenth the increased risk of a patient with the same cholesterol level who also has high blood pressure, is overweight and smokes, Kannel said.

"The problem everybody hasn't fully appreciated is that the risk varies over a 10-fold range" for each single risk factor, depending upon what other risk factors are found in combination with it, he said.

The major controllable risk factors for heart disease are cigarette smoking, high blood pressure and high cholesterol, the heart association says.

Other risk factors can't be changed. Increasing age raises the risk as does a family history of heart disease. And men have substantially higher risks than women.

The risk factor prediction kit takes into account age, sex, cholesterol, blood pressure, smoking and the level of high-density lipoproteins, the so-called good cholesterol.

It shows, for example, that a 60-year-old man whose only risk factor is an elevated cholesterol level of 240 has a 13 percent chance of having a heart attack during the next 10 years.

If his blood pressure is high, that risk could jump to 18 percent or 20 percent, and if he smokes it would be even higher.

The risk factor prediction kit, which is intended for use by doctors, will be followed by a similar kit intended to give patients some idea of their risks so they can decide whether to see a doctor for a better evaluation.

"Feeling well is no guarantee against a heart attack," Kannel said. "One in five men have heart attacks before age 60, and one in three of them aren't going to make it out of the room," he said.

About 1.5 billion cans of spray deodorant were sold in the United States in 1989.

State defends school finance system

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' revamped school finance system is "a good faith effort by the 71st Legislature" and should be declared constitutional, state lawyers said in a brief filed with the Texas Supreme Court.

Attorney General Jim Mattox's office said in the brief filed Thursday that State District Judge Scott McCown was wrong to rule the system unconstitutional before it had a chance to work. "In the end, the trial court's judgment was based upon the fact that it did not trust the various elected officials involved in the process to make the right decisions," the state said.

It cited such phrases by McCown as "the Legislature has given itself plenty of room to do nothing" in future years under the new law.

The Supreme Court has scheduled arguments in the case for Nov. 28. Poor school districts are asking the court to again declare the state's public education finance system unconstitutional.

McCown ruled the system unconstitutional in September, after lawmakers passed a law meant to reform it this summer.

The law, Senate Bill 1, gave an additional $528 million to schools for 1990-91 in what was called the first step to an equitable system.

SS benefits to affluent might be cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bush administration, scrambling to regain the upper hand in the tax debate, is studying a proposal to cut Social Security and other benefits paid to affluent Americans and funnel the savings to the poor and middle class.

While an effort to trim such popular benefit programs as Social Security, Medicare and farm subsidies would be certain to provoke a firestorm of protest, a White House official said Thursday the idea was being "contemplated very seriously."

Under the proposal being reviewed, the savings obtained by trimming payments for well-to-do recipients would be used to provide tax cuts for less-affluent taxpayers.

The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, stressed that the benefit-cut proposal was at a very preliminary stage of review as the administration begins work on its fiscal 1992 budget, to be submitted to Congress in February.

The proposal would offer the tempting political benefit of allowing the administration to trim government spending and cut taxes while at the same time blunting Democratic charges that the Republican White House favors the rich.

In the past, the administration and Congress have shied away from trying to reduce the budget by trimming popular government benefits. The benefit cuts are receiving a new look because the administration believes last month's deficit reduction agreement gives it new leverage, the White House source said.

That agreement, which calls for $500 billion in savings over five years, has a new pay-as-you-go mechanism that will trigger automatic benefit cuts unless Congress reduces benefits in line with any tax reductions it approves.

Thus, the administration could be assured that if it links benefit cuts and tax cuts in its budget, Congress won't be tempted to pass the politically popular tax reductions while simply ignoring the recommended benefit reductions.

White House budget director Richard Darman has said he believes the new deficit-enforcement mechanism will shift the debate from one simply over how much to spend to one over where the spending offers the best return.

As part of the budget-drafting exercise, President Bush has held a series of meetings in the past week with his advisers and top business executives to help gauge whether the economy is in a recession and what the appropriate government response should be.

Cocaine crossed border in car trunks

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The 21.4 tons of cocaine found in a Los Angeles warehouse crossed the border in automobile trunks at a time when inspectors were ordered to lessen their searches of car trunks, a newspaper reported.

Immigration and U.S. Customs Service inspectors at the primary inspection booths on international bridges were barred from opening car trunks by an Oct. 10, 1987 order, the El Paso Herald-Post reported Thursday.

The policy, according to an Immigration and Naturalization Service memo, was ordered by the commissioners of the southern regions of the INS and U.S. Customs. It was intended to speed traffic at ports of entry in Texas and New Mexico.

The order went into effect at a time when Juarez cocaine smugglers began smuggling 600- to 700-pound loads of cocaine into the United States that were hidden inside the trunks of specially modified Gran Marquis sedans, according to court documents.

The cocaine was later shipped by tractor-trailer to a suburban

Los Angeles warehouse where 21.4 tons were discovered on Sept. 28, 1989.

Authorities estimate that was part of 250 tons of cocaine that crossed international bridges in El Paso over two years.

Inspectors also were ordered not to scrutinize documents, open hoods or enter any passenger vehicles at booths. The order said suspicious vehicles were to be sent to a secondary area off to the side.

Cars crossing international bridges must stop at a booth on the bridge and declare their citizenship to an inspector. The policy was not rescinded until Aug. 21, 1990.

INS El Paso District Director Al Giguini defended the practice.

"Every time you pop a trunk and inspect a car in the primary lane, you can take two or three minutes if you do a thorough job that ties up the lanes, and I'm not sure the community would accept that," he said.

He said he does not believe the policy assisted cocaine smugglers who shipped the cocaine to Los Angeles.

Nov. 19, 1990

Factors that are presently screened from view will come into play in the year ahead in helping you advance personal interests, especially those which are of a material rather than an esthetic nature.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Advice from a well-intentioned friend will not be on par with your own thinking today in matters that pertain to your reputation or material security. Heed your own counsel. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Several elusive and hard to see people you've been trying to contact regarding a matter of importance should be available today. Stick with it until you open the lines of communication.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) That which you do on your own today is not likely to be as rewarding for you as something that will be prearranged by another on your behalf. Stick with your best bet.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Two friends who aren't getting along too well might indirectly contribute to your social prominence. Each will use you as their intermediary in delicate dealings with others.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Perseverance and fortitude could begin paying off for you starting today in an endeavor you've been working on that drew little encouragement from others.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you feel a bit luckier than usual today, it's probably predated upon some solid justification. However, thinking positive goes a long way toward tuning you in.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Something to which you've been dedicated lately may take a big turn for the better today owing to favorable outside factors. Capitalize on prevailing circumstances.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You could be exceptionally lucky in partnership arrangements for social or commercial purposes today, especially in situations where your ally is a member of the opposite gender.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The tried, true and traditional tactics are the ones that'll bring you the best results today in your financial affairs. Departures from tested procedures will be less effective.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll be more successful today if you make it obvious to people with whom you're associated that the good things you want for yourself, you also want for them.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today you might get a new, positive perspective on a situation you have thus far viewed rather negatively. Now you'll be able to see opportunities where you previously saw opposition.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You are presently in a rather fortunate cycle where good things you have going for you tend to get better. However, if you take your luck for granted, you might regret it later.
