Lancaster new CEO at Cogdell Memorial

Tim Lancaster, assistant administrator at Southeastern Methodist Hospital in Dallas, has accepted the position as chief executive officer at Cogdell Memorial Hospital here.

The announcement was made this morning by Tom Hochwalt, current CEO at Cogdell. Hochwalt has resigned the post, effective Jan. 1, to take the position of senior vice president with St. Mary of the Plains Hospital in Lubbock.

"I feel that Mr. Lancaster is well qualified to serve as CEO of Cogdell Hospital," said G.A. Parks Jr., board chairman. "In addition to his administrative experience with hospitals in Lubbock and Dallas he has a background in financial management and marketing which will be valuable in his work here."

Cogdell's board of managers on Monday extended an employment offer to Lancaster. The terms include a salary of $65,000 to be re-evaluated annually. The board also agreed to pay Lancaster's moving expenses from the Dallas area and interim living expenses for 30 days.

Lancaster is expected begin duties the week of Dec. 10 and will officially take over as CEO on Jan. 1.

Lancaster, 36, has served as assistant administrator with Southeastern Methodist since September of 1985. He was previously employed as administrative director of marketing at West Texas Hospital in Lubbock from Nov. 1983 until Sept. 1985.

He was earlier employed by Republicbank in Lubbock while attending Texas Tech University, where he graduated in 1976 with a BBA degree in finance. He is currently working on his master's degree in health care administration at Texas Women's University.

He and his wife, Regina, have two children, 8-year-old Chad and 5-year-old Christopher.

Lancaster has served on the board of directors of the Southeast Dallas Chamber of Commerce where he is past vice president, has been active in United Way and the American Cancer Society and is past president of the Kiwanis Club.

Schools, offices close to enjoy Thanksgiving

Snyder, Ira and Hermleigh public schools were to dismiss early today, as was Western Texas College, as students and teachers enjoy the Thanksgiving holiday.

Students will not return to classes until Monday. Most city, county and state buildings throughout Snyder will be closed Thursday and some will remain closed Friday.

Snyder ISD students were to be dismissed at 2:45 p.m. today. Ira students were to begin the holiday at 2:30 p.m., while Hermleigh and Western Texas College's were to enjoy a 2 p.m. bell.

All school offices, including those at the community college, will also close early today and will not reopen until Monday morning.

Most county buildings will be closed Thursday and Friday, to include the courthouse, library, extension office, health unit and senior citizens center. The library, which normally opens on weekends, will remain closed through Sunday.

Scurry County Museum was to close at 2 p.m. today and remain closed Thursday and Friday. The museum will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday so that forms can be picked up for anyone voting in the merchant's Parade of Trees.

Among the businesses closing Thursday only will be the financial institutions and City Hall.

Snyder Daily News office will also close Thursday. The Thanksgiving issue will be delivered early Thursday morning.

Gorbachev asks for security meeting on crisis in Kuwait

By the Associated Press

Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev today urged that a meeting of the U.N. Security Council be held on the Persian Gulf crisis. President Bush said there were only minor differences between himself and Gorbachev on Iraq's occupation of Kuwait.

Iraq, meanwhile, promised to free 157 more Europeans it is holding, Western officials said. Many have said Saddam Hussein's policy of releasing hostages gradually is designed to break the world alliance against Iraq.

Bush left for the Middle East today after three days in Paris for a European security summit. He said he would tell U.S. troops in Saudi Arabia that they were "not there on a mission impossible."

In Paris, Bush met with Gorbachev and other world leaders on the gulf crisis but failed to win backing from the Soviets for a U.N. resolution on using force to drive Iraq from Kuwait.

However, Bush said he and Gorbachev saw "eye to eye" on the subject of Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait. He said any differences between the superpowers were "extraordinarily minor."

Firemen honored in annual banquet

Garry Kubena was honored as Fireman of the Year Tuesday night at the Snyder Fire Department's 61st annual Thanksgiving banquet at Snyder Country Club.

Kubena has been a member of the department for five years and serves as its assistant secretary-treasurer. He holds a basic EMT certification and is employed by Y-Z Industries Inc.

Kubena also received a five-year service pin and received an award for 100 percent attendance at department meetings.

A special award was presented to Perry Westmoreland for his "full measure of service and then some." Westmoreland is owner and operator of Snyder EMS and has been a member of the department since 1983.

Longtime department volunteer Kenneth Wood was recognized with a service pin for his 40 years of service to the department.

Others receiving service pins were Steve Whittenburg, 15 years; Jerry Dickey, Rodger Potts and Jack Callaway, all 10 years; and Kubena and his twin brother, Larry, both five years.

Those receiving awards for 100 percent attendance included Callaway, Wood, Larry Kubena, Garry Kubena, Darrell Doty, Sterling Williams, Stephen Williamson and Tommy Guynes.

Paula Gilbert was honored as Fire Department Sweetheart.

Paul Gilbert served as master of ceremonies and Billy Ray Mize, president of the State Firemen's and Fire Marshals' Association, of Wichita Falls, was the event's guest speaker.

Department makes 353 calls during fiscal year

Snyder Fire Department made 353 calls during the 1989-90 fiscal year, according to the department's annual report.

The calls included 163 within the city limits, 188 outside the city and two mutual aid responses to another county. Snyder employs 10 fire fighters, who are backed by 40 volunteers.

Some 107 of the 353 calls were in the nature of public service, most of which were reports of electrical shorts or gas leaks and were not actual fires. Public service calls are usually responded to by a limited crew and a call for volunteers is not made.

Grass fires took up most of the department's time during the past year. Firemen worked 13 grass fires in the city and 88 in the county.

The department also responded to 17 dwelling fires in the city, including three to mobile homes, and fought blazes at both the Western Texas College Dormitory and the Avenue D Baptist Church.

By classification, the fire department made the following calls in the city limits: 81 public service, 2 mercantile (businesses), 17 smoke scare, 13 grass, 19 vehicle, 1 dormitory, 14 dwelling, 3 mobile home, 1 church, 1 school, 1 transformer, 1 garage, 2 trash, 4 storage building and 3 false alarm.

Forty one calls were made in (see FIRE, page 8)

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "If we don't get lighter burdens, perhaps we would pray for stronger backs."

A recent SDN column provoked an anonymous Hermleigh woman to scold us about our comments about women. The unsigned letter asked, "Why do men always think they are so smart? The majority of them are more dumb than anything else that breathes."

Life is too short to take things so personally and so seriously. If you were offended, we apologize, but laughing at life makes it bearable.

We humans, both male and female, are funny people. We do funny things, often stupid things. Laughter is good medicine in a world which is burdened with taxes, health problems, environmental concerns, threats of war, etc.

Our efforts in the SDN column is to bring a little smile into the life of our readers. Obviously, we don't always achieve our goal.

Yep, we even like women. And we particularly like those who can't wait to get their barbs in on us men. Incidentally, the piece that offended was actually about men—not women.

Most editors fall into two categories: dumb and knows it or stupid and doesn't know it. Even ole what's-her-name knows which one we are.

There's a new board game for Christmas. It's called S&L Monopoly.

It's just like the regular game except you buy houses and hotels with other players' money.

Man on fire

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Authorities say they're amazed that a man who apparently poured gasoline on his body and set himself on fire is still alive after sustaining severe burns.

Roland Rodriguez, 24, of San Antonio was in critical condition late Tuesday at Wilford Hall USAF Medical Center. The incident left Rodriguez with burns over 95 percent of his body.

"It's amazing that he is still alive," San Antonio Police Sgt. Victor Martinez said. "He may survive."

Ten-year term

NEW YORK (AP) — Junk bond financier Michael Milken was sentenced today to 10 years in prison for breaking federal securities and tax laws in the most celebrated case of financial corruption in Wall Street history.

Milken stood with his head down as U.S. District Judge Kimba Wood pronounced the stiffest sentence yet in the financial scandals that have gripped Wall Street since the mid-1980s.

In addition, she sentenced him to three years' probation, plus full-time community service of 1,000 hours a year for an undetermined duration.

Austin jail

AUSTIN (AP) — A day after being sued over conditions at the city-county jail, police and court officials announced a detailed plan to eliminate crowding, improve sanitation and end unconstitutional jailing of people who cannot pay fines for minor crimes.

Austin and Travis County court and jail officials said Tuesday that they are planning to conduct hearings after a verdict and before sentencing to determine whether defendants are too poor to pay fines for minor crimes.

Sigma Nu charter revoked and students penalized

AUSTIN (AP) — Sigma Nu fraternity's UT-Austin charter was revoked after 104 years at the University of Texas, and the brotherhood was abolished as a campus group for at least six years following two hazing probes.

Seven students also face punishment ranging from disciplinary probation to suspension and permanent expulsion.

Penalties were announced a week after university officials were told by a parent that her son, a Sigma Nu pledge, was beaten and subjected to other abuse at the fraternity's off-campus house on Nov. 10, the university said.

University and national fraternity officials investigated the report separately.

"It's sad to lose a chapter that has historically been very outstanding," said Sigma Nu's national president, James Cherry. "But our fraternity was founded in opposition to hazing in 1869, and we will not tolerate any form of hazing today."

Cherry announced Tuesday that the fraternity was revoking the UT-Austin chapter's charter.

The university will ban Sigma Nu as a campus group, at least through 1996, and punish students judged responsible in the hazing probe, said Sharon Justice, assistant vice president for student affairs and dean of students at the university.

The university's investigation "indicates a continuing pattern of abuse and brutality including psychological and physical attacks on pledges," she said.

The individual students, who were not named, can accept the penalty or can appeal at a university hearing, she said.

Some of the alleged hazing is said to have taken place in a pit, a secret area with a dirt floor behind the fraternity's basement party room, the university said.

The investigation also indicated the house has an area known as the "hole," a crawl space entered through a closet that is less than two feet high, the university said. Some pledges were required to enter the area for varying lengths of time, it said.

Bittersweet memories flood back at orphan train reunion

NEW YORK (AP) — Time hasn't faded 77-year-old Harold Williams' memory of leaving New York City along with other orphans on a train taking them to new homes in the Midwest.

"I remember standing on the platform and then going into the train and sitting down with my teddy bear in my lap," he said Tuesday. "I recall looking out the window and seeing all the people and the buildings."

Many orphaned or abandoned children benefited from the Orphan Train Movement, which lasted from 1854 to 1929. Others merely had their suffering relocated.

Their tales, good and bad, were told at an Orphan Train reunion attended by about two dozen people who took part in the unusual social experiment that sent more than 100,000 children to foster homes far from the big city.

"In 1929, me and my twin brother were put on the last orphan train out to Kansas," said Alan Bankston, 64, of Dayton, Ohio.

"We wound up with adoptive parents," he said. "They gave us everything we needed, except love. And love is what we needed the most."

Bankston wept during part of his talk. He said although he and his wife had six children, they took in two foster children "because I knew how important it was to have someone love you."

The Orphan Train came at a time when New York City was inundated by European immigrants who crowded tenements on the Lower East Side. Poverty and disease were rampant. Many children were orphaned or left to fend for themselves on the streets.

Arthur Smith, 72, of Trenton, N.J., was only 49 days old when a well-dressed woman left him in a wicker basket in Gimbel's department store. When he was 4, he boarded a train for a new life on an Iowa farm.

Smith said he was lucky to be taken in by a loving family, but he admitted the mystery of the woman who left him behind haunted him.

"Then I sort of put it aside," he said. "I decided it was a door I wasn't meant to open. I don't feel bad about my mother. I assume she was in circumstances beyond her control."

Williams, of Magalia, Calif., said he is still angry at his mother. "I was a cute little baby, only 16 days old," he said. "How could she dump me?"

He said he spent most of his childhood with "an old lady who was a tyrant and her five daughters."

"I was scared to death of her," Williams said. "If I became sick, I got beaten. She had this theory that if you got sick, you'd done something bad."

Williams left that home at 17, after years of being "abused mentally, physically and sexually."

He became a homeless alcoholic but pulled his life together with the help of a job at a dairy plant. He later became plant manager and got married.

Seventy-one-year-old Winifred Williams, no relation, of Temple Hills, Md., looked at her husband, Lawrence, while she spoke to the group.

"To be an orphan means to survive," she said. "You don't have a parent or a mother to love you. You tell yourself you will survive until you find someone who will love you. I felt that way when I met my husband. He made up for all the love I didn't have as a child."

Alice Ayler, 71, of Oklahoma City, survived a nightmarish childhood in a series of foster homes where she was abused. She became a psychologist and has been married for 51 years.

Dr. Gott Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is there any medication that will help my husband with the seven-year itch? He's been to several doctors and hasn't gotten relief yet.

DEAR READER: I wish there were medication to help men with the uncomfortable and destructive desire to wander, a phenomenon called the "seven-year itch." However, I do not believe the average doctor is capable of handling this pervasive and complex behavior disorder — probably, in part, because doctors get the itch, too.

I've found marriage counseling to be a more realistic and satisfactory option. There are varied causes for men and women to seek out new partners after having been married for a few years. These reasons range from the mundane, such as boredom and fear of losing one's attractiveness, to the more serious, such as emotional disturbances that may be violently fueled by drug and alcohol abuse.

I suggest you ask your doctor to refer you to the best marriage counselor in your community. Then ask the counselor how to approach the problem of getting your husband into therapy. Remember that you are not responsible for your husband's behavior. He is. You need to focus on yourself first and then, if possible, the marriage. The therapist can assist and guide you.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 64-year-old male and I've been on Vicodin for the past three years for peripheral neuropathy. I began experiencing abdominal pain and stopped the medication, thinking that might be the cause. Now my feet and legs are giving me a great deal of trouble, and I wonder if I should go back on the medication once again.

DEAR READER: The active ingredient in Vicodin is a narcotic, hydrocodone. Thus, the risk for habituation and abuse is high. Hydrocodone, like codeine, causes drowsiness, sedation, depression, constipation, nausea and vomiting; the drug accentuates the depressive effects of alcohol and tranquilizers.

Peripheral neuropathy (malfunction of the nerves in the extremities) can cause numbness, tingling and pain that are difficult to control, unless the underlying cause of the neuropathy, such as diabetes or poor circulation, is addressed. If your doctor has been unable to control your symptoms with non-narcotic drugs, the use of Vicodin is appropriate, provided you use the medicine strictly as prescribed under medical supervision.

The problem with any strong analgesic is that it can mask the pain of serious disorders. For example, your abdominal pain could reflect intestinal infection, liver inflammation or similar conditions, which should be investigated and treated. Abdominal pain is not caused by neuropathy (or by the Vicodin), so you should bring this symptom to your doctor's attention. Also, you should ask your physician whether safer, non-addictive drugs, such as Indocin, could be substituted for the Vicodin.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Managing Chronic Pain." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their names and addresses to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

NASA prepares for next shuttle's astronomy mission

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — After being grounded half a year, Columbia appeared headed for an early December liftoff with an observatory despite scientists' pleas that NASA wait another week for better viewing.

The space agency turned its attention to Columbia after Atlantis ended a secret military mission Tuesday with the first shuttle landing at Kennedy Space Center in five years.

Columbia is expected to blast off around Dec. 2 with the $150 million Astro observatory on a mission that has been on hold since May because of hydrogen leaks. Scientists, however, are pushing for a launch on Dec. 10 or so.

"The science will be much better if it's a few days later," said mission scientist Ted Gull.

Certain objects of extreme interest, like the brightest visible quasar, won't be as close to the sun in mid-December and will thus be more distinguishable.

Also, there will be a full moon Dec. 2, and an astronomy mission should take place under a dark sky, Gull said.

Because of the delays in getting Columbia off the ground, "We've always jokingly said it's going to be a full moon" when the shuttle finally goes up, Gull said.

NASA officials are expected to set a launch date after a review on Tuesday. It will be the fifth countdown since May for the mission, originally scheduled for 1986 but delayed until this year by the Challenger accident.

Columbia's seven astronauts, four of them astronomers, are eager to get going. They will work around the clock in shifts during the 10-day flight, the first shuttle mission in five years devoted entirely to scientific research.

"We're going to be the best trained crew you've flown," mission commander Vance Brand jokingly told shuttle directors recently.

Ed Begley Jr. named chairman

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ed Begley Jr., who played a doctor on television's "St. Elsewhere," is being called on to try to cure some of the traffic ills plaguing smoggy Southern California. Begley was named chairman Tuesday of an advisory committee to the Southern California Rapid Transit District, which runs buses and is building a subway system in the nation's most populous county.

Holiday: more hurting, fewer helping

NEW YORK (AP) — When it comes to Thanksgiving hunger in America this year, more people are hurting and fewer people are helping.

"Some of the people who had been giving are people who need help this year," said Wiley Cooper, director of the United Way of America's emergency food and shelter program.

The slumping national economy and fears of war in the Middle East are cutting into donations, charity groups say.

Joseph Zalenski, director of the Brotherhood Mission in Philadelphia, said some people are disheartened because they can't give.

"The only thing I can do is to graciously back off and say, 'I appreciate your plight,'" Zalenski said. "I understand and I only hope it doesn't get worse for you, so that you don't come down to where these people are right now."

The National Coalition for the Homeless estimates there are 3 million homeless people nationwide. Cooper said there is no reliable way of counting the hungry, but "the people who are providing the services are reporting to us their demand is up greatly."

"The economy and the Saudi Arabia thing have hurt us the most," said Ron Cool of the Kiwanis Club of Little Rock, Ark. Donations for Thanksgiving food baskets are off 10 percent to 15 percent, he said. "People are a little afraid, and they're hanging onto their bucks."

munity Food Bank have gone out of business, said Eileen Welly, executive director. A drive last week collected 300,000 pounds of canned foods — 100,000 pounds less than last year.

Salvation Army Lt. Col. Ferraez said demand for Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday relief services is up nearly 20 percent at the army's 9,000 centers.

"We just pray that the resources come in," said Ferraez, Salvation Army spokesperson.

Five-thousand households will celebrate Thanksgiving with canned hams and chickens from the Maryland Food Bank, even though the agency's holiday food drive has collected 180,000 pounds of food, far short of the 650,000 pounds it had hoped for.

Feed the Hungry in Atlanta will serve 23,000 to 25,000 Thanksgiving dinners and deliver an additional 4,000. It served 21,000 last year. Its organizer, the Rev. Hosea Williams, said he needs $100,000 but has collected just $3,000 so far.

"We always bail ourselves out at Christmas," said Williams. "(But) we've never been this short before."

In Ohio, 547 turkeys were donated by Tuesday after the Toledo Seagate Food Bank announced last week that some 700 families would get only bologna and tuna for Thanksgiving. Alice Mosiniak, food bank executive director, said plant closings and layoffs have heightened the need as donations and surplus food dwindled.

First aides are announced

AUSTIN (AP) — Governor-elect Ann Richards and Gov. Bill Clements met to talk about state issues and the transition of administrations.

"We had a very good exchange," Richards said Tuesday after the 40-minute meeting in the office that she will soon take over.

Although Richards, a Democrat, criticized Clements, a Republican who did not seek reelection, during the campaign, she had kind words for him after their meeting.

"Bill Clements will be remembered as someone who cared about Texas a lot. He believed in trying to bring about economies and efficiencies," she told reporters.

Earlier Tuesday, Richards announced her first appointments as she prepares to take office Jan. 15.

The Democrat said her longtime spokesman, Bill Cryer, would serve as her press secretary.

Another veteran adviser, Jack Martin, will serve as chairman of her transition team.

She said she hoped to have her main staff selected by the third week of December.

Cryer is a former news reporter with the Austin American-Statesman and has served as public information director for Richards at the state Treasury since 1984.

TI will charge its smokers

DALLAS (AP) — The price smokers pay to light up on the job at Texas Instruments Inc. is going up.

The Dallas-based microchip and defense equipment manufacturer has announced a plan to begin charging a "smokers' premium" on health insurance for employees.

Beginning in July, smokers will pay at least $10 monthly for the privilege. The extra charge may affect as many as 10,000 of the company's 50,000 workers nationwide, a TI official said.

"We determined that smokers are costing more under the TI health plan than non-smokers," said Sue Nelson, TI's corporate insurance manager.

Ms. Nelson said the company pays out more than $4 million annually for claims on "smoking-related diseases," such as heart ailments and cancer. She said a smoker costs the company 50 percent more to keep on the plan than a non-smoker, but declined to provide the statistics to support that assertion.

The charges will apply to the company's basic health plan, for which TI pays 100 percent of its employees' premiums. The charges also will apply to the company's alternate health plan that uses health maintenance organizations and features smaller deductibles and other charges.

Make a new plan, Stan

By James Jacoby

The four-heart contract was not easy to play, but declarer might have done better. He won the ace of hearts in his hand, and then played dummy's A-K of clubs and ruffed a club. East throwing a spade. A spade was played to dummy's king, and then a diamond back to the king. West took the ace and played ace of spades and a spade, ruffed by East. East still had the queen of hearts to take, so the contract was down one.

Of course South has a lot of work to do in the slightly ambitious game contract, but the bidding holds some clues to the right approach. West, a passed hand, came in with a takeout double over one heart. Almost surely that denied a five-card spade suit. (With five, most practical players simply make a one-spade overcall.) So declarer can take the heart ace and play queen of spades from his hand. West will take the ace. When West fails to play a second heart, that is a strong indication that the opening heart lead was a singleton. So declarer can cash two spades and then lead a diamond. West will win the ace and perhaps play a second diamond, ruffed in dummy. Now South can safely play A-K and ruff a club, ruff another diamond, and ruff still another a club. It does no good for East to ruff in with the queen of hearts, since that will be the only trick left for the defense. This time the eight of hearts in the South hand is as good as a face card.

Coaches cite Clay for effort vs. PHS

Snyder defensive end Will Clay is the winner of three coaches' awards this week for his performance in the Tigers' 28-14 comeback victory against Pampa in last Saturday's Class 4A football playoff game.

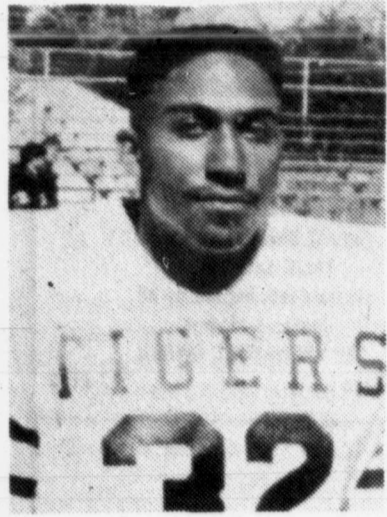

Clay wins helmet decals for sacking Harvester quarterback Logan Hudson, for causing Pampa running back Wayne Cavanaugh to fumble in the second quarter of the game, and for recovering Cavanaugh's drop.

Defensive teammates Terry Stephens, Hayward Clay and Joe Martinez all earned awards this week as well.

Stephens gets decorated for his team-high 10 1/2 sacks and for a trap of Hudson for a loss Saturday.

Clay's decal comes as a result of a knocked down pass and Martinez wins a prize for intercepting the PHS signal caller and setting up Snyder's go-ahead touchdown in the third quarter.

The Tiger offensive line moved the Pampa defenders off the ball a great deal, recording 112 knockdowns.

WILL CLAY

Chad Fox and Jeff Black each win a pair of awards for taking down 22 and 21 opposing tacklers while Charlie Richardson's 19, 16 from Clint Haywood and eight by fullback Bryan Brunson were all good for helmet decorations.

Haywood also received this week's Big Hit of the Week Award. To win a coaches' award for knockdowns, a lineman must get 10 and a back needs seven.

Wingback Mark King got into the act, as well, winding up the contest with two pins, enough for a decal in that category.

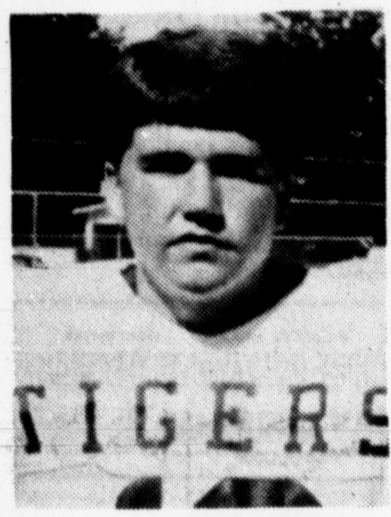

Fox also recorded a pair of pins from his tackle spot. Quarterback Ed Rios and tailback Paul Anderson, for the third consecutive game, win the Great Fake Award for pulling at least four defenders away from the play on a false move.

Kicker Brunson, holder Jason Rios and long snapper Bay John Long were special team award winners with three consecutive extra points.

The coaches' awards are given for excellence during Tiger football games. They are presented in a Tuesday team meeting each week.

Gregg announces resignation

DALLAS (AP) — Forrest Gregg says he would have preferred to remain on as football coach and athletic director at Southern Methodist, but he was forced to "play by the rules" set down by university administrators.

Gregg announced Tuesday that he will step down as the school's football coach after Saturday's season finale against Arkansas. He will remain on as the school's athletic director.

Gregg replaced Doug Single as athletic director in April with the stipulation by SMU President A. Kenneth Pye that he relinquish his coaching duties after the season.

That requirement later changed, so that he would have to give up one position or the other.

"I would like to have stayed in both jobs," Gregg said. "I will make no bones about that. I think President Pye knows that. The philosophy of the university is that one man not do both jobs. When you're on a field, you play by the rules."

Gregg, a lineman for the Mustangs in 1953-55, said the decision to quit coaching was a grueling one.

"This was a difficult decision for me and my family, and I came back to SMU because we care deeply about the university," Gregg said.

He said notifying his players of his decision during Tuesday's practice was "the hardest thing I think I ever did. I told myself I wouldn't bawl. I did."

Gregg said a search for his successor as football coach would begin immediately. He refused to name any possibilities.

Henderson tabbed AL MVP

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Rickey Henderson put it all together this year performing in his hometown before fans "who keep me happy, make me feel like a kid playing again."

The Oakland Athletics' left fielder and leadoff man was at his happiest Tuesday as winner of the AL Most Valuable Player award, having edged Detroit slugger Cecil Fielder in the voting by members of the Baseball Writers Association.

Henderson had 14 of the 28 first-place votes and 317 points. Fielder, the first major leaguer since 1977 to crack the 50-homer mark, had 10 first-place votes and 286 points.

"I haven't been as excited since I broke Lou Brock's (single-season) stolen base record," Henderson said at a news conference, referring to the 1982 season in which he went past Brock's old record of 118 steals and finished with 130.

"My next big moment will be when I break Brock's all-time record," he added.

That probably will come in the opening week of next season. Henderson's total of 936 steals over 11 1/2 seasons is two short of Brock's record. His 32nd birthday is next month. Brock was 40 years old when he stole his 938th.

Rebels edge Tigers, 55-48

MIDLAND — The Snyder Tigers hung with the Midland Lee Rebels for three quarters Tuesday before dropping a 55-48 non-district basketball decision.

Snyder was outscored by a single point in the opening period, 11-10, and was down 25-24 at intermission. A 30-24 second-half surge lifted the Rebels to the win.

Snyder's Ertu Tuylu paced the Tiger attack with 16 points. Senior post Jeff Wortham added 12.

Snyder's junior varsity nipped the Midland squad, 71-69, in the evening's early game.

The Tigers will be off until Friday when they meet Andrews, there. Junior varsity action tips off at 3 p.m. followed at 4:30 p.m. by the varsity contest.

Leading scorers: Snyder — Tuylu 16, Wortham 12, Lee Harrell 13, King 11. Records: Snyder 1-2. Snyder 10 14 10 14 48 Lee 11 14 14 16 55 base in 1979. Henderson, whose career batting average is .293, hit only .267 while running wild on the basepaths in 1982. In 1986, playing with the New York Yankees, he hit a career-high 28 homers but batted just .263. He returned to the A's in a 1989 mid-season trade and helped them go on to the World Series title.

This season Henderson matched his career-high home run total and had a career-high .325 batting average to go with it. He also won his 10th stolen base title.

Holiday workouts set

Snyder coach David Baugh and SHS cheerleaders are asking Tiger football fans to attend Thursday and Friday workouts as a show of support for the team.

Practices begin at 2:30 p.m. each day. According to SHS Booster Club spokesperson, Paula Fox, fans wishing to have their cars decorated for the Sweetwater game may have it done by coming to the Thursday practice between 2 and 3:30 p.m.

A free noisemaker will be given out that day to use during the playoff tilt.

A pep rally has also been scheduled for the football team. The rally, slated for 10 a.m. Saturday, will be held on the sophomore parking lot near the field house at SHS.

The Tigers will play archrival Sweetwater in Class 4A playoff action Saturday in Sweetwater at 2 p.m.

WTC takes victory in Howard tourney

BIG SPRING — Sophomore scoring phenom Dominick Byrd poured in 25 points Tuesday as the WTC Westerners hammered Wharton Junior College 131-105 in the final day of competition at the Hawk Classic hosted by Howard College.

Western Texas moved to 8-2 and won its sixth in a row against Wharton.

A total of six Westerners were in double figures in scoring paced by Byrd. Jeff Shelley was good for 19 points including a pair of three-pointers and a 3 of 3 night from the free-throw line.

Guard Allen Smith scorched the nets for 17 followed by 16 from Michael Richardson, Paul Johnson's 15 and 13 from Doug Brown.

Former Snyder High School standout Tracy Brazier hit nine for the Westerners Tuesday.

The WTC men were successful on 21 of 28 free-throws for 75 percent. They had moved out in front of the Wharton five, 76-56, by halftime.

The Westerners' next action is a Friday contest to be played at Reunion Arena in Dallas where they will battle Navarro JC in a 4:30 p.m. meeting, just before the night's Dallas Mavericks-San Antonio Spurs regular season tilt.

WHARTON — Ardoin 3 10-10 16, Smith 6 2-2 14, Brandao 2 0-0 6, Dominique 1 1-3 3, Ploetz 1 0-0 2.

Clemens gets suspension

BOSTON (AP) — Because Boston Red Sox pitcher Roger Clemens had such a good, long view of the last game of the American League playoffs, he will miss the first five games of the 1991 season.

American League President Bobby Brown announced on Tuesday that Clemens also was fined $10,000.

Clemens was ejected by plate umpire Terry Cooney in the second inning of Oakland's 3-1 victory that completed the A's four-game sweep Oct. 10.

In his announcement, Brown cited Clemens for making "... significant physical contact with an umpire (Jim Evans), for threatening umpire Cooney, for verbally abusing umpire Cooney with personal obscenities and for not leaving the dugout immediately after the ejection."

Clemens was not immediately available for comment.

The announcement came a week after Clemens earned a $50,000 bonus for finishing second in the AL Cy Young Award voting and on the same day he earned another $50,000 for finishing third in the AL Most Valuable Player voting.

Although Clemens can appeal, Red Sox general manager Lou Gorman said, "Dr. Brown's statement and subsequent fine and suspension of Roger Clemens speaks for itself. Although we are not in agreement with the severity of the league's action, we are satisfied that the issue has been addressed."

Holyfield-Foreman fight set for April

NEW YORK (AP) — Evander Holyfield will fall in Round 2, George Foreman vowed. Foreman will wilt under the pressure, Holyfield promised. And that was the friendliest room Donald Trump had been in for quite a while.

Trump reportedly owes banks $3.2 billion, and his wife of 13 years, Ivana, said early this month that she finally will file for divorce. Then, last week, Trump had to give half of his Taj Mahal casino in Atlantic City, N.J., to bondholders after missing a $47.3 million interest payment.

On Tuesday, he was at his Grand Hyatt Hotel in New York to help announce Holyfield's undisputed heavyweight championship defense against Foreman on April 19 at the Trump Plaza Hotel and Casino in Atlantic City. Even under those seemingly happy circumstances, there was trouble brewing.

"There is one major problem with the fight," co-promoter Dan Duva said. "Trump had to go to his bankers and get permission for one more major expenditure — George Foreman's meal allowance."

The 27-year-old, superbly conditioned Holyfield is expected to weigh 210 or less for the fight. Foreman, 42 going on immortal, will weigh 250, 260, 270 or whatever he feels like.

"There'll be some real eating going on down there," Foreman said. "There'll be buffets everywhere. I'll grab me some legs of chicken, roasts of beef, porks of chop and chickens of liver."

The fight is a co-promotion between Duva, who handles Holyfield's fights, and Bob Arum, who handles Foreman, with Trump lending the site and providing up-front money. It's billed as "The Fight of the Ages."

"It promises to be one of the greatest events of all time," Duva said ... if only it can live up to the news conference that inwith 65, and his slugging average of .577 was second only to Fielder's.

"It's a dream come true. It took a lot of hard work and dedication," Henderson said. "I'm very proud of this award."

He added that he knows how Fielder, who had 51 homers and 132 RBI, feels as runner-up.

"I remember 1961, when Rollie Fingers edged me," Henderson said. "I always felt the MVP award should go to an everyday ballplayer."

Fingers, the relief pitcher who began his career in Oakland, was with the Milwaukee Brewers in 1981. He got 319 points to Henderson's 308 in the MVP voting, and he was the first of three AL pitchers to win the MVP award in the 1980s.

Boston's Roger Clemens, the 1986 MVP, had three first-place votes and finished third this year with 212 points. Oakland reliever Dennis Eckersley had one first-place vote and was the sixth-place finisher, behind infielder Kelly Gruber of Toronto and reliever Bobby Thigpen of Chicago.

"Rickey and I both helped our teams. We're two different type teams. In power stats, I did better. For average, he did better," Fielder said Tuesday. "Of course I feel like I should have won it."

Henderson noted, "The game has changed since I got into baseball. The public and the sports writers are seeing now that it's more than just hitting home runs."

roduced it.

Foreman, who began a comeback in 1987 after 10 years' retirement, entered Ballroom D at the Grand Hyatt as loudspeakers blared out the tune to "Happy Days Are Here Again." He was accompanied by a group of oldtimers carrying signs that read: "Eat 'Em Up, George," "Life Begins At 40," and "Respect Your Elders."

"It's dangerous for kids to walk the streets now," Foreman pronounced above the hubbub. "The senior citizens are taking over."

Moments later, the same loudspeakers began to crackle with rock 'n' roll music that a man of Foreman's age probably couldn't recognize. Holyfield came into the room with 20-30 children wearing T-shirts that read: "Evander's Army."

"They said I was too small to be a heavyweight," Holyfield said. "So I'm dedicating my heavyweight championship to disadvantaged kids everywhere."

Holyfield knocked out Buster Douglas in the second round on Oct. 25 in Las Vegas, winning the undisputed title that Douglas had taken from Mike Tyson eight months earlier in Tokyo.

"I'm honored to give my first defense to George Foreman," the 27-year-old Holyfield said. "I respect him for what he's done, and because he believes in Christ."

Since his comeback, Foreman is 24-0 with 23 knockouts, 14 of them in three rounds or less. His overall record is 69-2 with 64 knockouts.

Holyfield is 25-0 with 21 knockouts.

Prime Minister Thatcher now faces critical vote

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher returned home early today from a 34-nation summit in Paris to fight in Parliament for her political survival.
Mrs. Thatcher suffered one of the sharpest defeats in her 11½ years in power on Tuesday by failing to stop a party leadership challenge by former defense minister Michael Heseltine in the first round of voting among Conservative Party lawmakers.

With Mrs. Thatcher weakened politically and her long-governing party severely split, the opposition Labor Party — leading in opinion polls — is scenting victory.

Heseltine said today he expected to gain support as he presses his challenge to Mrs. Thatcher's 11-year-old government.
Mrs. Thatcher, Europe's longest-serving prime minister, fell just short of the 15 percent margin she needed to avoid a second round of voting.

She received 204 votes to 152 for Heseltine in the secret ballot, with 16 lawmakers abstaining.
Conservative Party legislators, who hold 372 seats in the 650-seat House of Commons, will vote for a second time next Tuesday, and Mrs. Thatcher would be expected to step down as prime minister if she does not emerge victorious.

Crisis security meeting urged

Asked if the United Nations might act this month on a U.N. resolution to use force against Iraq, Bush said: "Stay tuned. There's certainly a chance."
Later, Gorbachev seemed to move closer to Bush's position. The Soviet leader urged an immediate Security Council meeting to address a "very dangerous" situation in the gulf "and take a decision there."
"We can't just leave things this way without giving them closer analysis," the Soviet leader said after meeting with Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney.
Gorbachev did not elaborate on what any U.N. Security Council meeting might discuss, or what any solution might involve.

A day earlier, Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze said the Security Council should "take stock of things and pass appropriate judgment on what it has been doing."
Then, if necessary, he said, the body should "adopt new resolutions with a view to implementing all the previous decisions."

Resolutions already approved by the Security Council impose an economic boycott on Iraq and occupied Kuwait, call for Iraq's unconditional withdrawal, insist upon restoration of Kuwait's deposed government and demand Iraq free Western hostages.

Iraq is holding hundreds of Westerners, many as human shields at strategic sites to deter attack by the 350,000-strong U.S.-led multinational force in the Persian Gulf. Those troops are arrayed against an estimated 460,000 Iraqi soldiers, deployed in southern Iraq and Kuwait.

French right-wing politician Jean Marie Le Pen will take 83 European hostages to Strasbourg, seat of the European parliament, a member of his delegation said. Captives released included Britons, Italians, Germans, Irish, Dutch, Danes, Belgians, Portuguese and Greek.

The head of a Swiss parliamentary delegation said today that 36 hostages would leave Thursday afternoon on a Swissair charter flight to Zurich. Those hostages were Swiss, Irish and British.

Also today, the head of personnel for foreign workers at Ibn al-Bitar Hospital said 38 mostly Irish staff members would be allowed out of the country. The group would include two Britons and a Dane, said Gerry Fitzgerald of the Irish PARC company that runs the hospital.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater, in Paris with Bush, said Baghdad's moves to free hostages gradually instead of immediately was another effort to chisel away international solidarity against Iraq.
"Our answer is simply, 'Sorry, it won't work,'" said Fitzwater on Tuesday.

Suspect in jewelry theft identified

A 16-year-old female was identified late Tuesday night as a suspect in the case of jewelry reported missing earlier in the day at Wal-Mart.

Police received the Class B theft report at 1:51 p.m. Employees said a wedding ring set was missing. At 10 p.m., Snyder police reported the case closed with the identification of the suspect. The case will be turned over to juvenile authorities.

At 1:45 p.m. Tuesday, Richard Dupree of Jack's Used Cars on 27th St. reported the theft of license plates. At 11:50 a.m., Celestina Guerra of 2004 Ave. O reported the theft of clothes from her clothes line.

At 8:54 p.m. Tuesday, a woman in the 2800 Block of Ave. F called to report that her son-in-law was causing a disturbance. Police were asked to advise the man to stay away from the residence.

At 12:37 a.m. Wednesday, officers were called to the Plaza Truck Stop to investigate a disturbance. Two subjects were advised to stay away from the business, or charges would be filed.

Two traffic accidents were investigated Tuesday by city police.

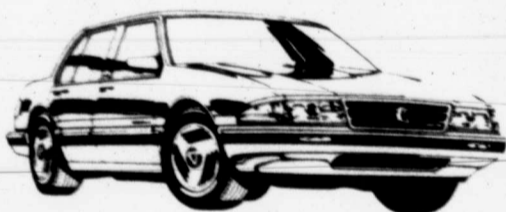

The first occurred at 8:17 a.m. in the Snyder High School parking lot. Involved was a 1983 Ford pickup driven by Blair Williams of Snyder and a parked 1984 Lincoln owned by Karen Brewer of 3307 40th Place. There were no injuries and damage was minor.

At 12:10 a.m. at the intersection of 9th St. and Ave. R, a 1988 Buick driven by Angela Babb of Route 3, Snyder, was in collision with a 1983 Oldsmobile driven by Lori Perez of 403 33rd St. A passenger in the Perez vehicle had minor injuries but refused medical treatment. The Babb vehicle was towed from the scene.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR READERS: Here's an update on my traditional Thanksgiving column:

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving, so why not take a few minutes to count your blessings?

How's your health? You have a few minor complaints? Well, thank God they're not major. Obviously you're still alive. You can probably think of at least one person who isn't around this year. (I can.)

If you awakened this morning and were able to hear the birds sing, use your vocal cords to utter human sounds, walk to the table on two good legs and read the newspaper with two good eyes (or even one), praise the Lord! A lot of people couldn't. (Say a prayer for those who perished in a fire, a flood, an earthquake or an accident.)

How's your pocketbook? Thin? Well, most of the world is a lot poorer. No pensions. No welfare. No food stamps. No Social Security. No Medicare. In fact, one-third of the people in the world will go to bed hungry tonight. Would you rather be in Poland, the Soviet Union or Iraq — God forbid!

Are you lonely? The way to have a friend is to be one. If nobody calls you, pick up the phone and call somebody. Go out of your way to do something nice for someone. It's a sure cure for the blues.

Are you concerned about your country's future? Hooray! Our system has been saved by such concern. If you don't like your elected officials, you can go to work and vote them out of office. We still have the soapbox and the ballot box.

Freedom rings! You can still worship at the church of your choice, or not worship at all if you don't want to. You can cast a secret ballot, or criticize your government without fearing a knock on the head or a knock at your door in the middle of the night.

And if you prefer to live under a different system, goodbye and good luck. You are free to go. There are no walls or barbed wire fences to keep you here.

In closing, I'll repeat my Thanksgiving prayer. Perhaps you will want to use it at your table tomorrow. Let one of the children read it.

"O, heavenly Father, we thank thee for food and remember the hungry.

"We thank thee for health and remember the sick.

"We thank thee for friends and remember the friendless.

"We thank thee for freedom and remember the enslaved.

"May these remembrances stir us to service

"That thy gifts to us may be used for others.

"And, dear God, please bless and watch over our men and women in the Persian Gulf and bring them home safely — and soon. Amen."

Have a wonderful Thanksgiving, and may God bless you and yours.

Love, ABBY

P.S. Special greetings to those of you in the military who wrote from Korea, Okinawa, Japan and the Philippines to tell me you are using my Thanksgiving prayer.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from "Kansas Sunflower," the bride-to-be who wanted a man instead of a woman to stand up for her at her wedding. Abby, that was one of the most touching letters I have ever read. She said "Leon" had seen her through the death of a parent, an attempted suicide, a bout with cancer and chemotherapy. Add to that 10 years of loyal friendship. What a beautiful tribute to pay her friend.

Her mother, however, objects to her choice, saying having a "man of honor" would make her the laughingstock of the town. Abby, who cares what the townspeople think? I don't know the bride, but I would love to send her a wedding present.

A MAN FROM TEXAS

School isolates boy because he refuses to cut his ponytail

BASTROP, Texas (AP) — Zachariah Toungate is a typical 8-year-old, hunting for rocks and playing with Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles, and his grades are excellent.

But his school says Zach is a disciplinary problem because he refuses to cut his 7-inch ponytail, and confines him to a 10-by-13-foot isolation room all day.

His parents are backing him up.

For more than six weeks, Zach has been parting with his third-grade classmates when they get off the bus at Mina Elementary School and stepping into what school officials call an "alternative education setting."

The room has two windows facing into a bigger classroom, but they are covered.

To Zach, it is a prison that has given him nightmares about being trapped in a room that shrinks until it crushes him.

"They put me in jail, so why shouldn't we put them in jail," he says of school officials.

Zach is taught alone. His mother, grandmother and aunt take turns going to school and eating with him because he is not allowed in the lunchroom.

His parents, September and Stanley Toungate, were told the ponytail did not comply with the school's dress code.

"I like the way my hair is. I think the rule stinks because girls can have long hair and boys can't," Zach said Monday.

Mrs. Toungate said she offered to pin the ponytail up, or even have Zach wear a short-haired wig. Aside from the ponytail, Zach has a crew cut.

"I've tried to compromise with them in every way," she said. "All I want for my children is to go to a school in a place that doesn't discriminate."

The Toungates appealed to the school board, and it refused to budge. They took their case to state district court, claiming sexual discrimination.

The judge denied a temporary injunction that would have returned Zach to the classroom and back into the choir and art classes he misses. The Toungates' attorney, Charles Beall, said they will appeal to the 3rd Court of Appeals.

"I told Zach that if this is ever too much of a problem, we will drop it," Beall said. "He says, 'No, I don't want to cut it.'"

Zach is taught by substitute teachers. He makes excellent grades, but would rather be with his classmates. Occasionally another student is sent to the room for detention, but they eventually leave. Zach remains.

School superintendent Paul Fleming said Zach's case has gained more attention than it deserves.

"It's a matter that has a rather simple solution. The mother has a right to try and get a policy changed. The logical solution would be to get the youngster in compliance with the dress code and then pursue her battle," Fleming said.

"One of the things that students have to learn is that there are rules and regulations in life that you may not necessarily agree with but you have to live with," he said.

Mrs. Toungate, who grew up in a military family, says she understands some rules are tough to abide by, but adds that she has learned "you are an American first, and the rest of it doesn't matter."

Ironically, Mrs. Toungate, who is studying to be nurse, and her auto mechanic husband moved 30 miles from Austin to this town of 5,700 people so that Zach and his 5-year-old sister, Linzi, could benefit from the country lifestyle.

Now, they have become the focus of attention.

Mrs. Toungate said some parents side with her, saying the school's dress code is ridiculous. But she said others accuse her of trying to usurp school rules.

Hunters making donations

CLEVELAND (AP) — A Salvation Army officer is looking forward to roasting 130 pounds of venison donated by deer hunters hoping to improve their image. But opponents of hunting say the image-polishing attempt will fail.

"They gave me some recipes and they said we could roast it and make stew with it," said Maj. Alice Stahl of the Salvation Army's Elyria community center. The venison will be cooked next week, she said Tuesday.

The venison was donated by hunters who killed deer during the bow-hunting season that began Oct. 1.

The idea of donating a portion of venison to the Salvation Army began last year in Texas, where two tons were contributed.

The sponsoring Safari Club International hopes the more popular gun deer hunting season that opens Monday for six days will generate more venison donations statewide to the Salvation Army.

Last year, 76,117 deer were killed during the gun season in Ohio, where there are more than 325,000 deer hunters.

"We've had a really good response," said Michael Samsel, 29, of Cleveland, a Safari Club member.

The club hasn't taken pledges but has set a goal of donating one ton of venison statewide, according to Samsel, who said the average deer provides 50 to 60 pounds of meat.

Samsel said the effort was aimed at improving the image of hunters.

Astro-Graph
By Berrice Bede Osol

Nov. 22, 1990

Your earning potential is much greater in the year ahead than it has been for some time. However, it will be up to you to expand upon and develop each opportunity.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Things have a way of eventually leveling out. A situation that has been a liability for quite some time might do an about face today and start producing benefits. Try to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your determination will increase considerably today once you set your mind upon a specific objective. Your success will be predicated upon your ability to establish goals.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You should do well in commercial situations today, because you're not apt to take things at face value. You'll be equally as interested in what's behind the facade as well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't let titles, trappings or appearances intimidate you today if you have to deal with influential persons. In fact, you'll be a lot luckier dealing with big wheels than you'll be with the little guys.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Even though you may be the key player in bringing something of significance off today, let an insecure associate who had only a small hand in the matter take some of the bows.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A repeat performance on a grander scale is possible at this time regarding something with which you were moderately successful in the past. Get out the old play book and try again.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your greatest successes today are likely to come from endeavors you work on with others, especially if it is a venture from which you're trying to generate extra income.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Instead of demanding that your mate do this or that, first set the proper example. Your spouse will cooperate with you if you show him/her you're willing to pull your share of the weight.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If something in which you're involved hasn't been working to your advantage, make positive changes today. It's time to be the victor, not the victim.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You have a valuable social contact who can play an instrumental role at this time in helping you advance a personal interest. Don't be reluctant to solicit his/her assistance.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The requirements of those you love should be given precedence over your own interests today. Think of these duties as opportunities and not sacrifices.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Personal benefits can be derived today if you move in the areas in which you're most effective. If possible focus on the social and take care of worldly interests tomorrow.

Family business produces turkeys year-round

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Thanksgiving was still young when Ben Franklin proposed the turkey as a national symbol.

Eventually the bald eagle won out, but that matters little to Sam and Zelik Greenberg, owners of Greenberg Smoked Turkeys of Tyler.

Turkeys reign supreme this time of year, but instead of serving the national bird, they serve the bird nationally.

Sam is the latest of three generations producing the family's smoked turkeys. His grandfather, the late Sam Greenberg, founded the venture in the mid-1930s, passing it on to his son, Zelik.

Along with co-manager Tracy Lisner, "a brother with a different last name," they oversee the production and distribution of more than 100,000 specially smoked turkeys a year.

"We sell them year-round, but nearly 75 percent of our sales comes in the two weeks after Thanksgiving," Sam Greenberg said. "On an average, this time of year, we sell around 1,000 a day."

A frantic, feathered caricature posted on the wall of the sales office describes the holiday pace in only three words, "Poultry in Motion." Because of seasonal demand, many of Greenberg's 100 part-time and seven full-time employees work into the late evening hours, completing orders so they can be shipped on time.

Through the years, most Tylerites and East Texans have heard about Greenberg's birds. Little advertising is done.

Greenberg lets his turkeys — and customers — do the talking. "Our customers are our best salesmen, because they'll have a turkey at their house or at a party with friends, and those friends will leave and tell other friends, and so on," Greenberg said.

"We also stress service and quality all the time," he added. "Anybody can have a product, and we will bend over backwards to accommodate our customers. But if the quality's not there, we won't have to worry about customers because we won't have any."

Customers seem to be the least of Greenberg's worries. Throughout the company's history, he estimates "several million" turkeys have gone to all 50 states and points abroad, including Great Britain, Spain and even Saudi Arabia.

But because turkeys are a perishable product, he tries to discourage buyers from shipping them overseas.

With their widespread acclaim, the Tyler gobblers have even tempted the palates of a wide variety of celebrities. Some recent clients have included actors Don Johnson and Melanie Griffith, golfer Raymond Floyd, and musicians Daryl Hall and John Oates.

Entertainer Sandy Duncan, a Henderson native and former Tyler resident, came in person "a couple of years back," to pick up her order.

But Greenberg, a self-described "big racing fan," said one of his more memorable moments was meeting 1985 Indianapolis 500 champion Danny Sullivan.

"Each year, me and a few friends go up to Indianapolis for about three days and watch the time trials," Greenberg said. "We were going up this year anyway, but he called here the Wednesday before time trials and ordered four turkeys. We took them there ourselves, but it looked pretty funny when we brought them in. The pit-crew and the mechanics didn't know what was going on."

Greenberg turkeys also have winged their way into the administrations of three presidents.

Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan had them delivered to the White House and, before George Bush's inauguration, a Greenberg turkey made its way to one of his key advisers.

"One of his top men, I forget who, used the box to store resumes from people applying for posts and offices in the new cabinet," Greenberg said.

"Whenever a new resume came in, he would tell his secretary, 'throw it in the Greenberg box.'"

Since his father first sold smoked turkeys to some Dallas friends, Greenberg said some parts of the business remain unchanged.

"We have more freezers and storage facilities today, and our shipping is automated and the office is a lot bigger, but we prepare turkeys just the same way we always have."

"The actual smoking process is the same," Greenberg said.

"Turkeys themselves have been plentiful. In the last 10 years, we've only raised our prices 30 cents a pound from what it was 10 years ago. And shipping has been easier since 1985, now that UPS goes interstate. We used to battle several other companies here for trucks to send our turkeys out of state (to nearby Shreveport, La.) just so they could be shipped back in."

Depending on the size of the bird, Greenberg said it only takes "up to four days" to smoke a turkey. Before entering one of 10 smoke rooms, the turkeys, bought from a wholesaler, are soaked in tubs of water and trimmed of any nonedible excess fat.

After the legs are tied and wing tips treated to prevent "shriveling up," the birds are smoked, then removed and allowed to cool in freezer rooms. Excess grease from the smoking process is removed, then the turkeys are bagged and boxed according to weight. Some are put in cold storage and shipped later, while others are sent immediately.

Greenberg said the company sits on the exact same grounds his grandfather started on.

"My grandfather started it all here about 54 years ago. He had a dairy and he kept a smokehouse inside it," Greenberg said. "It burned down in the early '50s, but was rebuilt at the rear of the building we now have."

Asked about the company's future goals, Greenberg modestly replied, "just staying in business." But he was quick to single out those who over the years have been responsible for the company's success.

"We have been fortunate enough to have the most loyal employees you could ever ask for," Greenberg said. "Without them, we just wouldn't be here today."

State school fails accreditation

DENTON, Texas (AP) — The Denton State School narrowly failed its first accreditation survey under a new set of standards despite high marks in a number of areas.

School spokeswoman Sue Ramsey said the school received 73.2 percent on approximately 600 standards necessary for accreditation. A passing grade is 75 percent.

Two other schools, in San Antonio and Austin, recently passed by narrow margins. This is the first year for schools to attempt to pass new standards by the Accreditation Council for Persons with Developmental Disabilities.

Ms. Ramsey told the Denton Record-Chronicle that the school scored low in two areas of the testing that ended Friday.

However, she said, the survey team did applaud several programs at the facility including a planned $7 million renovation that will substitute bedrooms for the current group quarters, and a work program that sends residents into the community.

Faith Daniels to host own show

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC newswoman Faith Daniels, who appears on the early morning show "Today," will have a longer work day after New Year's with her own show, network sources say.

The program will occupy the daytime slot now filled by the low-rated soap opera "Generations," sources who spoke on condition of anonymity said Tuesday. Daniels will continue on "Today," sources said.

NBC refused to confirm the report of Daniels' new job or the cancellation of "Generations."

Nutrition experts say you can survive eating season

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Ahhh, the holidays.

Turkey, sweet potato pie, egg nog... and calories.

With Thanksgiving and Christmas approaching, it is open season on eating. And if you are like most folks, those hefty holiday servings will add 7 pounds to your physique by New Year's Day.

"The national eating season lasts from Halloween to New Year's Day," said Steffany Brich, dietitian at the Texas Tech Health Sciences Center's TRIM program in Lubbock. "It's two months of free-for-all eating."

An average turkey dinner with stuffing, casseroles and that huge piece of pie will set you back about 8,000 calories. Since it takes about 3,500 calories to gain a pound, one holiday dinner easily could translate into a weight gain of 2 pounds.

And strings of holiday parties — with endless hors d'oeuvres trays — mean holiday overeating does not stop with just one dinner.

"What do we all do when we get together and socialize?" Brich asked. "We can't talk without food in our mouth."

Connie Mobley, registered dietitian and assistant professor of nutrition at Incarnate Word College's nutrition department, said: "People look at holidays as a chance to throw caution to the wind. They forget what their personal guidelines are."

Holiday spirits, the alcoholic kind, add more temptations and hundreds of calories. Gift boxes of brownies, candies and cheeses do much to swell both the holiday spirit and the waistline.

Even if you fear weight gain, do not become a holiday Scrooge. "There's no need to forego holiday events," Mobley said, "just make choices."

Some weight-saving tips from dietitians:

— 'Tis the season to cut down on extras. Passing up just two spoons of gravy will save you 100 calories.

— Do not munch while you cook. Each sample means added calories.

— Arrive at parties late so you will not be tempted by pre-dinner appetizers.

— If you are confronted by hors d'oeuvres, crunch vegetables instead of heavier appetizers.

— Drink fruit juice instead of egg nog. Cut down on alcohol intake.

— Exercise more — take short walks or climb stairs.

— If you do plan to eat a heavy meal, eat light early in the day.

"The people that do best are the ones that go into the holidays with a plan," Mobley said.

Mobley also recommended hosts serve lighter fare at parties and gift-givers give low calorie foods such as fruit baskets instead of candy or cookies.

But, Mobley admitted, "Sometimes people do deserve to treat themselves."

So, if you wind up packing a few extra pounds come 1991, do not fret too much. After all, what are New Year's resolutions for?
